

HORACE BULEN receives his trophy as Citizen of the Year from Mrs. Lucile Bauer. Later he expressed his thanks for the award and his reception during his 38 years as a member of the community.

Bulen, Glaspie receive community accolades Tuesday as Citizens of Year

H. M. Bulen was named citizen of the year in Cass City Tuesday and Kim Glaspie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Glaspie, was named junior citizen of the year in the highlight event at the annual Cass City Chamber of Commerce banquet held at the Cass City High School cafeteria.

Bulen was the 11th man to be selected for the tribute and all 10 of the former citizens of the year were present to pay homage to "Beanie" and his long record of public service.

Bulen came to Cass City in 1936 to run the Chevrolet dealership here and headed the successful business until he sold it last year to Aime Ouvry.

He was a founding father of the Chamber and involved in every community project that came along during his career here.

He is a past president of the Cass City Rotary Club. He was on the board of the United Fund and a member of the board of Michigan Children's Aid Society.

It was typical of Bulen that while a member of Rotary his pet project was adopting and seeing that refugee children be given aid under the Foster Parent program. He worked at it constantly and with success.

Probably his greatest public service came in two areas. One was his work as a member of the Cass City School Board. As member and later president of the organization Bulen handled touchy problems with tact and diplomacy that helped keep tempers in check and the school program moving ahead.

As district chairman of the Boy Scouts, Horace was prime mover of the Scouting movement in Cass City and in the Thumb. He received scouting's highest civilian award, the Silver Beaver, for his efforts. Bulen's achievements were outlined by W. E. Walpole, citizen of the year for 1972.

JUNIOR CITIZEN

Cass City's Junior Citizen needs little introduction to observers of the high school sports or community events.

Kim was a member of the basketball and golf teams this year. He was a member of the athletic council and Student Council president. He was class president during his Sophomore year.

He was elected to the National Honor Society and ranked 10th in his class of 148.

The Junior Citizen is selected on the basis of scholarship and school and community leadership. Besides Glaspie, the four finalists in the competition were Jeanne Alexander, Cheryl Kozan and Curt Strickland.

The featured speaker of the evening was Frohman Johnson, from the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

He stressed work and cooperation for success in community and Chamber projects.

President Roger Little was the toastmaster for the evening.

He recounted the activities of the year and presented the gavel to Mrs. Dorothy Stahlbaum, president for 1973-74.

Mrs. Stahlbaum pledged to carry on programs started and to work hard with other members of the board.

She announced the five new members of the board: Jim Courtney, Elwyn Helwig, Aime Ouvry, J. D. Tuckey and Dave Ware.

Prior to the program the capacity crowd was entertained by the Barberettes, a barber-shop quartet featuring Glenda Wilson, Ann Reed, Ruth Hoffman and Kathy Sullivan.

'Acapulco Gold': pastors, parents claim school library book is pornographic

LAMBERT ALTHAVER presents the Junior Citizen of the Year award to Kim Glaspie.

Two Baptist pastors and several other residents of the Cass City School District complained to the school board Monday night about a book in the school library, labeling it obscene and pornographic.

The two, the Rev. Lloyd Streeter of Cass City, and the Rev. James Siebenicher of Navesta, demanded that the book be removed from the library shelves and asked who selected the library books and on what basis.

The book, "Acapulco Gold", by Edwin Corley has a sex, love scene in it and, the pastors claimed, glorified the smoking of marijuana.

It was brought to the attention of the pastors by the mother of a 14-year-old daughter who brought the book home to read.

The pastors had the backing of Dean Hoag and Elwyn Helwig who both said they had "skimmed" the book before the Monday meeting.

The book is a recent addition to the library and, judging by the borrowing record on the jacket, had been a popular one with students.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that books are selected by the librarian from an approved list presented by the book company from which the books are purchased.

Trustee Robert Hirn suggested that the pastors should have first gone to the librarian to find out details about the book before coming to the board.

Trustee Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn said that when an attempt is made to establish censorship of books it's hard to draw the line on where to stop. It's dangerous ground, she feels.

While Hoag was ready to accept the word of the pastors about the book's quality, other members of the board were not willing to commit themselves until after they had read the book.

A decision will be made at the next board meeting. Meanwhile, the book will not be available to students.

SEEKS HELP

For many years now, William Zimba, Decker, has been seeking aid in the education of one of his children who is deaf.

Two years ago he came before the board asking that a school be established for her in Tuscola county. There is still none for children his child's age.

However, in the two years since he last appeared before the school board Zimba has changed his request. He is now happy with the school for the deaf in Flint.

Because a new State law guarantees all children an equal education, he wants the county to hire a bus to transport his daughter home and back to Flint each week end.

Supt. Crouse explained that this matter was up to the Tuscola County Intermediate District. Zimba replied that it was every district's responsibility to educate all children equally.

He asked that the Cass City board put pressure on the county board for the transportation. He said that there are probably three or four other students from the county that could use the bus service.

Board President Arthur Sevance promised that the board would do what it could to see if transportation could be arranged.

ROUTINE BUSINESS

The remainder of the agenda was strictly routine.

The summer speech program will again be offered in conjunction with the Intermediate District. Total cost to the school is estimated at $200. The classes last four weeks and five classes a day were offered last year.

A representative of the Citizens for Improved Education reported that the book fair grossed $1,896.13 of which 20 per cent was given to the CIE. Monday half of the 20 per cent was presented to the principals of the three elementary schools on a prorated basis.

Four new sewing machines at a total cost of $732 were added to the eight machines now operating in the high school home economics room.

Jayne deOliveira, exchange student from Brazil, was granted permission to participate in June graduation exercises. He will actually graduate at the end of December.

Mrs. Barbara Tuckey's application for an extension of a year's leave of absence was denied by the board on the recommendation of the superintendent.

Crouse said that she was one of the best teachers in the system while here and would be given top consideration if she re-applied for a job.

But because of union contract trouble, he deemed it unwise to set a precedent for a second one-year leave of absence.

Wayne Dillon told the board of proposed shared time programs for the 1973-74 school year and announced names of committee members for shared time programs.

Name Cass City's 2 top scholars

Valedictorian and salutatorian honors for the class of 1973 of the Cass City High School were announced this week.

Leading his class of 149, with a perfect grade point average of 4.000 is Michael Klinkman, son of Keith Klinkman and Mrs. Edward G. Golding Jr., of 6316 Church Street, Cass City.

Mike has been active in debate and forensics, school plays, on the annual staff, in senior band, and National Honor Society.

He also participated in intramural basketball, and was on the golf and J-V baseball teams. In addition, he is a deacon in the First Presbyterian Church of Cass City.

Mike will attend the University of Michigan next fall and study psychology and political science. His career plans are undecided, but he is leaning toward law, psychology or politics.

Salutatorian at the June 5 Commencement will be Jeanne Alexander, daughter of Robert and Marilyn Alexander, 4426 Woodland Ave., Cass City. While earning a grade point average of 3.975, she has found time for a host of other activities including senior band, pep band, solo and ensemble, tri-county honor band, debate, forensics, school plays, and has been an officer in several school clubs.

Also, a National Honor Society member, her outside activities have included community and church activities. Concluded on page 3.

Annual fish supper packs in big crowds at Gagetown

An annual event for nearly 25 years has been the spring fish supper at Gagetown and this year was no exception. And the tradition shows no sign of lagging interest.

The supper, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher's Club of the Owen-Gage school district, was sold out a day before the event. This represented 800 tickets which will allow the club to show a profit somewhere in the neighborhood of the $900 it earned last year.

Money raised by the supper will go to the school district for whatever the greatest need happens to be.

One of the organizers of this year's supper, Tom Laurie, said interest is greater than ever.

"Last year we fed a thousand people here and that was just too much work," he said, taking a break from the hectic all-day preparations.

He said help is never hard to come by. This year, over 50 people were involved in preparation, serving and clean-up. "We make the teachers wash the dishes," Laurie joked. In addition to the help with serving, nearly 160 pumpkin pies were donated. The club estimates it cooked nearly 600 pounds of fish.

Students from the schools serve the supper, held in the Gagetown Gym.

To encourage sales, if that is really necessary, a contest is held between each grade in the school. The class selling the most tickets wins a cash prize.

Laurie said the Parent-Teacher's Club began the dinners about 25 years ago as an idea for a money-making project. The response was so overwhelming that the club decided to make it an annual event.

Laurie explained that on the day of the supper, the people who prepare it take the day off work and donate the time to the project. Laurie, himself, gave up $50 in wages last Friday to participate.

"We get a lot of the same people helping out year after year," he said. "We all have a lot of fun."

Laurie said the project can not grow much bigger, due to the limitations of space. Tables are set up in the gym and are soon filled with people who enjoy fish.

Chances are next year at this time, on a Friday afternoon, a walk past the Gagetown gym will probably turn up the smell of fish, deep-frying in the kitchen, along with a lot of hungry people waiting for 5:00 p.m. and serving time.

New owners take over at 2 local businesses

Two Cass City businesses changed ownership this week according to announcements issued by principals in the transactions.

The new owners at Quaker Maid Dairy Store need little introduction to Cass City area persons. They are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guinther.

He is a native of Cass City. He purchased the business Sunday from Don Stilson, also of Cass City.

Before taking ownership of the dairy-restaurant, Guinther worked as plant superintendent at Beaden Screen Co. in Crosswell for a year and a half. Prior to this he held a similar position at Anrod Screen Cylinder Co. for 11 years.

He is a member of the Cass City Lions Club.

Future plans for the dairy will include an expansion of the dinner menu, Guinther explained.

The second business sale this week was the Western Auto Store. It was sold by Everett Phillips to Howard Gross of Chesaning.

Gross worked at Farmer Peet's Packing Co. and attended Michigan State University before purchasing the business.

He is married and has two children. He said that his immediate plans call for restocking the store. New merchandise is expected to arrive sometime next week.

Seek 7½-mill operating tax renewal Monday

Voters in the Cass City School district will be asked Monday to approve a 7½-mill levy for three years for operation of Cass City Schools.

The levy is a renewal of taxes now in effect for school operation.

The new tax replaces a 2½-mill single levy passed on a yearly basis and a five-mill levy passed previously.

Voting will be at the high school and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Any resident of the school district, 18 or older, that is registered is eligible to vote Monday. It is not necessary to be a taxpayer to cast a ballot.

If authorized the total tax bill for school operation will be 16.5 mills based on the State equalized valuation.

The school's share of the county's 15-mills of taxes is frozen at 9 mills.

woman, a male Indian teenager, and another young man whose nationality cannot be immediately determined because of all the hair hanging in his face. He is my wild-card character. At any time during the series he can get a haircut and reveal himself to be a Jew or an Arab or a Viet Cong or even a conservative Republican, whatever seems politically expedient at the time.

These 3 reporters work for a wise, kindly, older (but still sexy!) editor who has ink in his veins. This was discovered during World War 2 and he was thrown out of a Red Cross blood bank on his ear.

This wise editor knows everything but he does not force his will upon young Indian, Negro and Wild Card. He lets them make their own decisions and go their own way, as long as they report back to him 1 minute before each commercial.

"It's the only way," the wise editor explains. "These youngsters must have their freedom to do their thing. And besides, this way they do all the work." I will play the part of the wise old editor.

A typical plot might concern this young girl who comes into the newspaper office to buy a year's subscription. But it costs $5 and she has only $3.

This is a young person with a problem! Indian, Negro and Wild Card leap to her assistance. They really do leap, right over the subscription counter, knocking their wise, kindly editor flat on his ink-stained pants.

Besides being $2 short, the subscriptionless girl also has some minor problems. She's pregnant and unwed. She's on heroin and has VD. She ran away from home 4 years ago and her millionaire parents have not yet noticed she is gone. They have been too busy selling Establishment taffy at the PTA Fair.

And there's a busted string on her guitar.

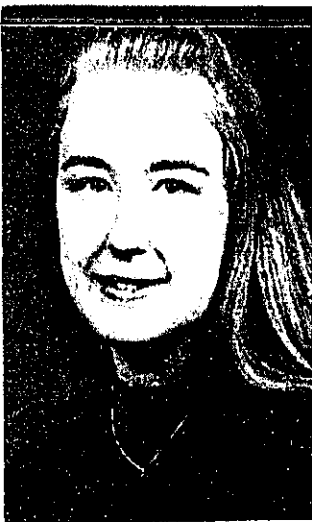

It would spoil things if I told you how Indian and Negro and Wild Card solve this girl's problems. But you can be sure they get the job done before the wise old editor is back on his ink-stained feet. For details, watch your TV listings.

However, to keep you eager, I will let you in on the ending. Most of the doctor-lawyer shows end with the heroes running down a street. But no one ever knows why they are running. On my show, you'll know. Indian and Negro and Wild Card are running after a Red Cross bloodmobile which, by mistake, has accepted some of the editor's blood.

JEANNE ALEXANDER

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

He's a junior type executive now, just approaching middle age. An educated, articulate family man concerned about the affairs of the day and the problems facing the community where he makes his living. His worst enemy wouldn't describe him as a right wing radical. If you want to place a tag on him, mark it liberal establishment.

His great concern today is the recently adopted drug program at the school.

That's a cop out, he says flatly. It's a theory that just doesn't make it with the kids. It promotes "loseritis." And that's just what drug freaks are, he claims, losers.

Kids on drugs are looking for sympathy, for attention. They'll turn themselves in to the school voluntarily. But without an intention of trying to kick the habit, I know.

Shielding the student from the parent is the worst possible approach, he says flatly.

If we are to make a dent in this thing we've got to get it back to the family unit. The parents have to re-evaluate the way they are bringing up their kids.

We've got to stop handing it to them on a silver platter. . . get back to the work ethic for our children.

Make them appreciate the basics. Good food, shelter, clothing.

All that the school is doing with this drug policy is making it easier to continue.

They are keeping the parents from knowing what is going on until it's too late. And by condoning a secrecy policy are giving tacit approval for other children in the family to shield the user, too. Telling them that it's really all right not to tell dad the score about their sister or brother.

It's the same policy that the school in the community I came from had and it didn't work there either. One of the users was actually an adviser to the program.

Something should be done to point out the dangers of this type of program to the people. You can't have a committee sit down and devise rules that sound fine in theory, but just don't work in actual practice.

All of this sounds ultra conservative like it came from the type of guy that doesn't approve any new trends. Be-rates today's hair styles, dress styles, life styles. It isn't.

He has no children at Cass City Schools today. Still you listen and listen carefully when he talks.

He's been capable in the past of holding down some very responsible jobs. His work today places him in a middle management position.

How does all of this qualify him as an expert on today's drug problems? It doesn't.

What does is that he is still picking up the pieces now a couple of years after his 15½-year-old daughter died from an overdose of drugs.

$10,000 Walbro

gift sparks

doctor drive

Fred Auten reported Tuesday night at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet that the drive for donations to pay first year and clinic expenses for physicians in the community is now underway.

He said that the drive was kicked off by $10,000 from Walbro Corporation. The Cass City Gavel Club has pledged $2,500 to the project, too, he said.

We'll be out knocking on doors to raise the estimated $70,000 we'll need to see us through the first year.

Electors to name 2 school

board members

Residents of the Cass City School district have about three weeks left before the May 14 deadline for filing petitions for two open school board posts.

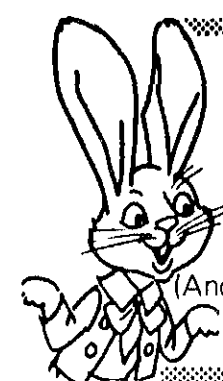

This year two persons will be named to the school board.

The terms of Don Koepfgen and Dean Hoag are expiring. Koepfgen has definitely decided not to seek re-election. He has served the district for 11 years and was a member of the board when the new high school building was erected.

He also was a principal figure in negotiation with Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Donahue for additional land for the school, now under option.

Hoag is expected to run for re-election. He was appointed to fill a vacancy and then was re-elected at the next election.

Petitions for candidates are available at the superintendent's office at the high school. The signatures of 25 qualified electors of the district are necessary to secure a place on the ballot.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

We haven't been told the names yet, but the word is that two or more students from Cass City High School will participate in the Teen Ranch, Kingston, Walk-a-thon.

The walk is slated for April 28 and the walkers take off from the school at 9 a.m. Every walker has a sponsor at $1 per mile. That makes a minimum of $20 per sponsor.

There will be prizes and refreshments (if any of the walkers are in condition for them) and the money goes for developing another Teen Ranch.

Just thought you'd like to know department: "Changing Times" magazine says the average housewife is worth $235.40 a week because her seven-day work week averages 99.6 hours.

Before you ask: no way will you get me to comment about that.

Ubly Lions President Ed Tyll and Ticket Chairman Elmer Brahmer were in to tell me that accusing the ushers at the Lions show of discourtesy was a bad rap.

They point out that any persons not able to get in or return for another show could get their money back by just asking.

At various shows they refunded ticket money ranging from $32 to $98 for this reason.

We'd like to hear from the guy who said we weren't courteous or anyone else dissatisfied with the treatment at the capacity performances, they said.

Today's Army wants to join you and Army recruiting personnel walk that extra mile to prove it.

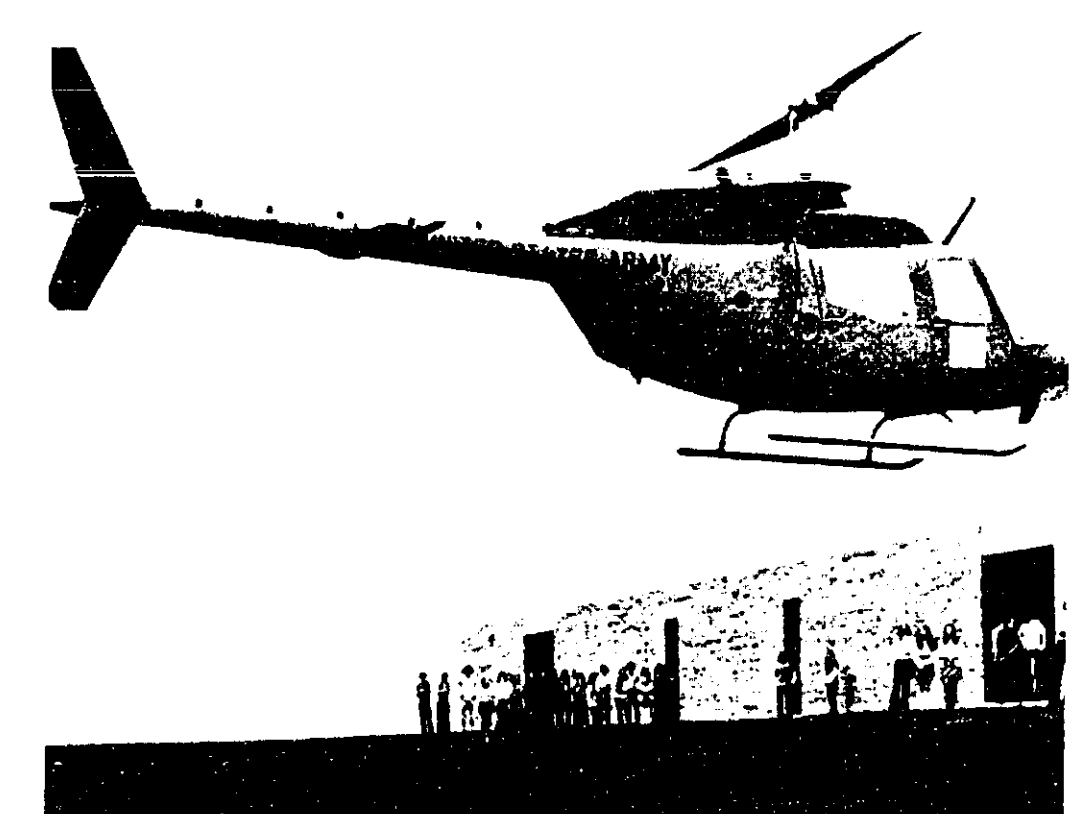

Monday the Army helicopter landed in the Cass City High School parking lot. Landed before photographers could get in range. So they obligingly took off and landed again for pictures. Then as they settled down again Wayne Dillon, vocational education teacher, came racing out and at his request started up again to land in the back instead of the front of the school. I felt like asking if they'd take me for a ride, but chickened out at the last moment.

Every year lately Cass City Floridians send us a photo of one of their cohorts in the land of sunshine and oranges. Last season it was Grant Ball.

This year Albert Gallagher bears the yoke. This picture shows how Albert hitched a ride to breakfast all winter while soaking up sun.

In one way, to be selected for the Chronicle treatment for the winter is an honor. None of the folks who flee south would send us something about someone that everyone didn't like. As this year's correspondent (the name is withheld to protect the guilty) penned, Albert is really a great fellow.

AFTER REPRESENTATIVES from the Army, national guard and Reserve Officers Training Corps landed Monday in the school yard they made a pitch to some 50 students about the advantages of service life and their special branch of it. The officers spoke to two separate groups; most of the students had indicated an interest in joining one of the services. The program was arranged by Wayne Dillon, career education teacher.

Chard Holstein

tops in State

A Registered Holstein cow owned by Don G. Chard, Snover, has entered the select circle of national and state leaders on Dairy Herd Improvement Registry test.

Holstein-Friesian Association of America reports that De-Chard Laurie Posch Lassie has completed the fourth highest official national milk record made by a Junior four-year-old milked twice daily in the 365-day division of the DHIR program. Her official 359-day production totalled 31,670 lbs. of milk and 1,119 lbs. of butterfat.

This record also breaks a previous all-time state milk record for Holsteins in this same age group, milking frequency and division.

De-Chard Laurie Posch Lassie was bred in the herd of her present owner. She was sired by Lockway Johanna Posch Lucifer.

Be optimistic, but don't expect everybody to be logical.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Spring and kites

By Jim Ketchum

Spring and kites go together as naturally as ham and eggs, pie and ice cream or aches and pains. I always believed that there was something special about the spring winds that made it the time of the year to fly kites.

Somewhat, it was a sacrifice to fly them at any other time but spring. I don't know if the custom is still followed, for it has been more years than I care to think about since I have assembled one of those balsa wood and tissue-paper contraptions, tied a ball of string to it and sent it aloft.

I remember when I was very young, my father would come home from town to the 171 acre farm on which we lived at that time with a tightly rolled box-kite under his arm and a ball of string tucked into his bluejean jacket pocket.

Then we would wait for an early April day, usually a Sunday, when everything would be just right.

After the morning chores were done, my dad and I would take the kite out onto the back porch where we would assemble it. As if by some mystical power, he would take the thin pieces of wood and paper and, before my eyes, create a box kite that measured a little over a foot square and stood maybe three feet or so in height.

Then he would tie the string in just the right place so as not to tear the paper when it went up and still give us the climb factor we were after.

When the kite was assembled, we would hike down the farm lane maybe a quarter of a mile or so, to an open field that might be pasture land that summer, with no trees that might entangle our string or impede the progress of the venture.

He would always let me try to launch the kite myself. He was a great believer in learning by doing. Most generally, my efforts amounted to very little, for when you are only five or six, muscles do not have the proper strength, coordination and endurance necessary to fly a kite.

After I would try and fail, Dad would come over, and still allowing me to hold the string in my hands, instruct me in the aerodynamics of kite flying. Finally, I would ask him to just get it up for me and I would try to keep it going.

That was the masterpiece. I would stand back and watch him take those powerful strides, raise his arms above his head and send the kite aloft in a majestic ascent. Up, up and up, higher and higher it soared until it appeared nothing more than a speck against the brilliant blue sky.

I don't know how he did it, but he could manage to find an air-stream up there and, once the kite had been locked into it, we could sit down on a hillside and merely hold the string. The kite remained suspended in mid-air as we lay in the April sun, "black-snakin'". He'd call it.

He would hand the string to me from time to time, and I remember how the force of the kite would make the line cut into my very young and tender hands. I would marvel at how he could take the pressure on his fingers. His hands were very muscular and toughened by long years of hard work outside. Somehow, the string never seemed to bother him.

As the kite sailed above the pettiness, jealousy, hatred and depravity of the earth below, my dad and I would talk about subjects very important to a six-year-old-thing like how Bugs Bunny could get all that furniture down into his burrow or about that awful Mr. Bluster on Howdy Doody or about a new calf we had and how we should feed it.

Dad had all the answers and gave them, never in a condescending way. It was a real education to be around him every minute for as long as I knew him. I think he really enjoyed listening to his upstairs son who, at age six, possessed some very definite notions.

One of those notions was that I would be just like him. I would have my farm and do everything just like he did, for he had done it all so well. It only seemed a question of time before he would be President of the United States or something akin to it. At that point in life, his mortality was not a factor in my considerations.

We would lie there, seemingly for hours, as I remember it. The kite would just hang there, watching us watch it.

I don't know whatever became of the kite or the string or really of those notions inside the head of that six-year-old boy.

We lost Dad about a year ago. This spring, I have resolved to fly another box kite. But somehow, it won't be quite the same.

Lions Club meets

The Lions Club of Cass City has pledged $320 to the Teen Ranch Walk-a-thon, scheduled for April 28. The pledge was announced at a meeting of the club held Monday evening.

In addition, Cass City Lions also donated $1000 to the local sight conservation club and $300 to the leader dog program. Deputy District Governor William Waghorn from Lapeer spoke before the gathering and showed slides of a skiing trip to Switzerland.

Kelly replies to house boarding

April 13, 1973

Gerald M. Polk
4271 Woodland Avenue
Cass City, MI. 48726

Dear Mr. Polk:

We wish to acknowledge with thanks the copy of your letter dated April 8, 1973, addressed to the Cass City Chronicle and a copy of the Chronicle's article published April 4, 1973, which refers to the property on Woodland Avenue on which this office has been forced to process a foreclosure action.

While we can sympathize with your reaction to the board-up of the aforementioned residence, we wish to assure you that this action was not taken with the intention of giving any offense to you or your neighbors. This office has never regarded Woodland Subdivision or any part of Cass City as a "high risk" area. After considerable experience in providing protective custody for vacant properties, we have learned to our chagrin that "low risk" areas are becoming increasingly rare. This office presently services mortgages in an aggregate amount exceeding $110,000,000.00 in a wide area in eastern Michigan, and we can assure you that Flint and Saginaw have no monopoly on vandalism. We feel certain that your local police authorities would confirm that this problem is not unknown to them. In fact, one of your close neighbors recently complained bitterly to your writer about the vandalism which he has been forced to endure within the last thirty days.

This office orders plywood window coverings for all vacant dwellings because we have been unable to discover any other material which will provide adequate protection against rocks, snowballs, baseballs and the persistent efforts of the off-spring of overly-permissive parents.

Coming Auctions

Saturday, May 5 - Marshalls John Deere Implement Store, will hold a liquidation sale at 6709 Main St., Cass City. Boyd Tail, auctioneer.

Saturday, May 12 - Steve Ziemba Sr. will hold a farm machinery sale four miles east and six and 1/2 miles south of Cass City on M-53. Harold Copeland, auctioneer.

sive parents. We feel that this type of protection is necessary to protect both the property and the aforementioned children who often engage in very hazardous activities if they succeed in gaining entrance to a vacant dwelling.

It is our belief that the dwelling on Woodland will not remain in its present boarded up condition for any extended period of time. This office is vigorously pursuing the completion of its processing on this property, and we anticipate that the title to the property, and custody thereof, will be transferred to the F.H.A. within the next thirty days. After this transfer is completed, the F.H.A. will be in a position to undertake whatever rehabilitation is necessary and to thereafter place this property on the market for sale to a qualified purchaser. When F.H.A. assumes responsibility for this property, they may see fit to replace the plywood coverings with a "protective plastic of some sort" and if they do, we wish them lots of luck. We feel sure they will need it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Mortgage and Investment Company

Letters to the Editor

Reader blames Cass City for boards

April 12, 1973

Mr. John Haire,

Having been a resident of Cass City for over 4 years I had to write you about your April 4-73 regarding H.U.D. Residents object to home boarding. There are a few things that people of Cass City should know the reason for this letter. (1) I lived in Cass City for 4 years, (2) I have a HUD home, 235, in Detroit, (3) I could have got a house in Cass City Woodland subdivision, (4) HUD said Cass City is a high risk area, and it is not HUD or Kelly Morg. Co. The failure is with Cass City. As for boarding up the house it is a HUD and a government rule. It has to be done. As for Cass City's failure, I can tell you a few reasons why I say this. (1) The city did not look into everything when the homes were built, as for me I know Detroit had a lot of trouble but most of the trouble in Detroit at HUD is over. I had to go to a 10 week program set up by HUD to aid home owners. As for the high risk area it is true because Cass City has no type of city government to aid new families coming into Cass City.

Mrs. Anna Delinski said it all: she is fighting to keep her house. I know I lived in Cass City. I understand what she is going through. The people in Cass City should all hang their heads in shame for having the town they have, and not helping Mrs. Anna Delinski. If Cass City don't wake up and get programs going to aid people in town, trying to get more people and families in I would say in 20 years Cass City would be a town of only a few for each family coming into Cass City 5 leave, why?

I think that people of Cass City should have a meeting with Kelly Morg. Co. and HUD and try to get some programs set up. I feel sorry for Cass City. It is a very nice town but for how long. It needs programs for all the people in town, not just for a few.

Echo chapter lists donations

Thirty-three were present April 11 when Echo chapter OES met at the Masonic temple. Worthy Matron Mrs. George Jettie presided and opened the meeting with an Easter prayer. During the business meeting, a demit was issued to one member upon request, and one member who had held a demit was readmitted to membership in Echo chapter. Mrs. Donna Holm, Sunshine chairman, reported two sympathy cards sent during the month, and for the ways and means committee, reported net proceeds from a dinner served in March of $211.79.

The chapter will again give a student scholarship of $100 for next year; $10 was voted to the ESTRL fund, and contributions were voted, including $25 to the Thumb Association and $25 to grand chapter toward the purchase of ice making machines and other needed equipment at the Masonic home in Alma.

Members okayed a bakeless bake sale project.

Upcoming events to be attended by Echo chapter members include a Friends Night meeting April 24 at Vassar; a vesper service May 6 at Port Hope; a meeting May 15 at Sebewaing when various Echo chapter officers will participate; a dinner and reception May 18 at Capac honoring OES grand chaplain, Mrs. Doris Sloutenburg, and an anniversary celebration at Ubyly May 17. A committee headed by Mrs. Alex Greenleaf will visit the Tuscola county Medical Care Facility patients April 19.

Mrs. Leo Tracy made an appeal for blood donors. Five members were examined by Worthy Patron Keith Murphy for their proficiency certificates.

Past Worthy matrons and patrons of Echo chapter will be honored at the May meeting.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Herb Ludlow and her committee served dessert refreshments in the dining room.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I got to thinking recent about a feller I knowed a long time back that allus put a dollar and a dime in the collection plate at church. He said the dime was for the Lord and the dollar was to pay the dime's way. Mister Editor, I'm thinking he was right about the transportation cost then, and they been gifting higher ever since.

You could make a good case for what the feller said by looking at the mail. The postage rates is gifting higher and higher, and the mail slower and slower. I saw this piece in the papers the other day where this feller said a letter sent first class may cost 20 cent in 10 year, and I was of a mind that by that time it will be cheaper and quicker to visit. But we still git more service for our postage money than we do for anything else the Government has a hand in.

Actual, the Postal Service is working fewer people longer, but the volume of mail keeps growing faster than they can gear up to handle it. What I'm talking about is the holes in the pipeline that supposed to pump all our public money, and a heap of our private money, from one place to another. Government services allus reminds me of the story of the hunter and his dog. As a reward for faithful service, the feller would give the dog a piece of his own tail. He kept doing this till the dog eat himself up. And ever time the dog took a bite he would lick his chops for more.

The fellers was talking about the leaks in the pipe from the giver to the glitter during the session at the country store Saturday night. It was general agreed that the tail has been wagging the dog for a long time in this Government service business, and paying mighty dear for the privilege. Clem Webster said he heard a feller say the United States was now in the Jackass Age, and the taxpayer is the head jackass of all.

Ed Doolittle said it's a sight in this world how much the taxpayers will suffer for all the free services they enjoy. And Republican Ed went on to allow he was glad to see the Nixon Administration working to cut down on some of them 1,054 ways to git free Government money he saw listed in a book called "Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance." But Ed said we can't expect much improvement when we got a congress that keep feeding the spending fire. Ed had saw where House members has voted themselves 30 free trips home ever two-year instead of 26, and they has raised their stationery allowance from $3.50 to $4.25 a year. If they don't spend that much, they can draw what's left in cash.

Spending is a mighty contagious disease, Mister Editor, and it's as hard to git our tax money through that leaky pipe to Washington and back as it is to git that dime to the Lord.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

BETTER HEALTH

Guide for father-to-be

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

There are dozens of books for expectant mothers on the market now, but today there came to my desk a fine book entitled "What Every Husband Should Know About Having a Baby." Every husband who would like to know how to help his wife throughout her pregnancy, labor and delivery, should read this book.

The author, Jeannette L. Sasmor, is a registered nurse, and is well qualified to instruct a man in all the details that he will want to know about during his wife's pregnancy. She has had much experience in obstetrical nursing and public health.

I read that today, more and more husbands are wanting to have some part in the experience their wife is going through. They want to be better husbands and better fathers and some want to be present when the baby is born.

This is a change, because for many years, as Mrs. Sasmor says, "The man approaching fatherhood has been completely ignored, while attention is heaped upon his pregnant spouse as though pregnancy were her own, unshared accomplishment. This attitude totally underestimates the contributions that the husband can and should make to the bearing of their child."

Mrs. Sasmor encourages the man not to look at his wife's labor and the delivery of their child as a fearful experience which he should avoid, but as an experience which he and his wife can prepare themselves for beforehand, so as to meet with "control and dignity." She encourages husbands to explore the possible advantages of making what she calls prepared childbirth a family experience. One of the things that the expectant father can do to help his wife during her pregnancy is to help her perform certain exercises that will make her have an easier time of the delivery of her baby. There are pictures and descriptions of the exercises, with advice as to how the husband can assist his wife, with counting, telling her when to breathe, and making sure she is relaxing the proper muscles.

In one chapter, Mrs. Sasmor says it is natural for the expectant father to feel a bit depressed and anxious when he learns that his wife is pregnant, along with the excitement and happiness of the news. She explains that the anxiety is nature's way of causing the man to take action to prepare for the coming of a new member into the family.

One of the things that Mrs. Sasmor thinks was wrong with the way doctors and women approached childbearing in the past is that the woman was treated like a sick person when she gave birth to her baby in a hospital. Also, having babies was considered strictly woman's work, but this is changing now; now families want to be treated as families.

Unfortunately, it is not always easy to find an obstetrician who is willing to include the husband in the experience, and so Mrs. Sasmor has given the addresses of two organizations which can give the husband and wife the name of such an obstetrician. One is the American Society for Psychoprophylaxis in Obstetrics, Inc., 7 West 96th St., New York, N.Y. 10025. The other is The American Society of Childbirth Education, Inc., 230 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10025.

Much practical advice and many good suggestions are to be found in the book. One happy husband said, "When you are with your wife at the moment of your child's birth, the exchange of love is indescribable." I would expect this book to bring to the husband and wife great comfort and happiness, as they share the wife's family-centered type of pregnancy and childbirth.

"What Every Husband Should Know About Having a Baby" is published by Nelson-Hall Company, 325 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill. 60606, and costs $6.95.

Special service honors birthday for Mrs. Boulton

Sunday, April 8, about 35 relatives of Mrs. Mary Bullock Boulton gathered at the Grace Baptist Church in Detroit to celebrate her 88th birthday. She was the honored guest at the evening service.

Her son, John Bullock, pastor of the United Methodist Church in New Baltimore, Mich., was guest speaker.

Mary Beth Bullock sang "All That Thrills My Soul is Jesus" and she dedicated the hymn to Grandma Boulton.

At the close of the service, Omar Bullock of Mio was baptized by his brother, Pastor John Bullock.

Guests were served refreshments in the fellowship hall of the church. The birthday cake was created by Anita Carlson, great-granddaughter of Mrs. Boulton.

Mrs. Boulton wore a red dress, gift of her daughter, Thelma Bullock Sterling of Monroe Falls, Ohio. Her corsage of white orchids came from Mrs. Clarence Bullock of Mayville.

Mrs. Boulton is a resident of the Northland Geriatric Center at 21630 Hessel, Detroit, Mich. 48219.

Set dates for kindergarten enrollment

The annual pre-kindergarten registration and visitation will be held at Campbell Elementary School April 30 and May 1 at 7:00 p.m. in the elementary gym. Rural parents and the child to be enrolled are asked to register Monday night and town parents and the child to be enrolled are asked to register Tuesday night.

A program has been planned for both the parent and the child. The children will be visiting the kindergarten rooms at this time instead of during the day when other kindergarten classes would have to be dismissed.

Deford parents and their children are to register and visit their school Monday, April 30, from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. Evergreen parents should register only from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. April 30. The Evergreen children will visit on another day.

Parents are to bring birth certificates and immunization records for their child to these meetings. Children who are eligible for enrollment must be five years old on or before Dec. 1, 1973.

The state also requires a pre-school vision test. A free vision and hearing clinic day for all pre-schoolers will be scheduled at each school to meet this requirement. Deford children will be screened May 17 and Campbell Elementary children will be screened May 14 and 15 from 8:30 to 4:00 p.m. Parents who do not attend the clinic days will have to make appointments with their own doctor.

Parents who cannot come on the above dates should call the school for an appointment. It is important that all children register early, so accordingly, fall plans can be made.

BIRDS AND BLOSSOMS

A bird carols its heart out. Pale pink blossoms proclaim the newness of life returning to dormant branches. Spring sunshine gleams on the white pillars of the church. Everywhere is joy and gladness as earth prepares to celebrate the Easter season.

Yet somewhere hearts are heavy. Pain blots out springtime ecstasies. Bird songs torment minds grayed with grief. What message can the Holy Day bring them?

In the darkest hour of the first Good Friday, Jesus, deserted by His followers, rejected by those He came to save, tortured and suffering, said, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

Follow His example this Eastertide. Whatever the situation, however bleak the outlook—commend your spirit, your very self to God. Your load will be lightened, your being restored.

Your church is an open door which calls you to the joyous realization of God's love as an unassailable source of strength in your life.

Art award for James Maharg

James Maharg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Maharg of Cass City, has received the most promising artist award from Aquinas College, Grand Rapids.

The award was judged by the art department, board of trustees and a group of visiting artists from Cranbrook Institute, Birmingham, Mich.

Maharg, competing against 450 young student artists, received the award for six ceramic pieces made especially for an exhibit held April 8-15. He was presented with a check for $50 for his achievement.

Is every member of your family so involved in activities that you never really get a chance to discuss family plans and problems? Why not return to the days of the town meeting. Call the meeting a family council.

Just as in the town meeting, this conference is meant to give everyone a chance to voice his opinion. From there, plans can be made or solutions worked out.

There are several guidelines to insure success. First, make it a regular happening -- weekly or monthly. Don't skip a meeting just because there's no major problem. The family council can make plans, share ideas, give support to another family member who is working on a difficult school or work project.

The second rule is to set up a "listening" atmosphere. That may mean stating rules about each person talking at a time, each person having a turn and so forth. Someone recently remarked that maybe there is a reason why we have two ears and only one mouth -- to listen twice as much as we talk!

Finally, make sure the time set is reasonably convenient for every family member -- perhaps right after the evening meal.

Thumb area EOC still hopeful of verdict

The chairman of the Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission said he was encouraged by the ruling of a Federal District Court that the shutdown of the Office of Economic Opportunity was illegal.

LeeRoy Clark, a UAW representative from Millington, cautioned however, that the federal court ruling will probably be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

"While we are encouraged by the ruling," Clark said, "this does not necessarily mean our local problems are solved. We expect the administration to contest this ruling, especially since it has direct bearing on a host of other actions now being carried out by the administration."

The local EOC depends for most of its funding from sources other than the federal government. Only one dollar out of every eight that the commission operates with comes from Washington.

Clark said if the ruling is upheld, it could mean another $101,000 for the Thumb in fiscal 1974.

He explained that there were other practical problems facing the EOC.

"Our local elected officials were led to believe that our local programs were funded, since a two-year extension had been signed into law. After much of the preliminary work had been done, the President's budget message indicated that continuation of these programs would be a matter of responsibility for local areas."

He said that after the local money had been allocated, there was not enough left to go around. He indicated many key personnel had left the commission and the end result has been an entanglement of bureaucracy.

Clark said the local EOC has been streamlined and plans to operate with little or no support from OEO. He added that the commission expects no local revenue sharing funds either.

Clark said the Thumb Area EOC was adopting a cautious attitude toward the prospects of continued OEO participation in its efforts and was continuing to plan to operate its programs without OEO help if this was to be the case.

Thieves hit several targets last week

Preliminary examination date was set for May 4 in the case of a 19-year-old Cass City man who is charged with stealing athletic equipment from the High School locker room.

Frederick Harbec, 2567 Cemetery Rd., was arrested Wednesday, April 11, on charges of having stolen three baseball shirts, two football shirts and two basketballs from the locker room. Total value of the items taken amounted to $80.

Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson said in a written report on the investigation that on the day prior to Harbec's arrest, he questioned an accomplice who admitted stealing one baseball shirt and one football shirt during school hours. He told Wilson he had acted alone.

The next day, Wilson questioned another known acquaintance who implicated Harbec in the thefts of athletic equipment.

Police alleged Harbec had a key to a side door of the locker room and used it to enter the facility and remove the stolen items.

District Judge Richard Kern continued bond for Harbec at $2,500.

Thieves struck over the week end at Moores Gasoline Station in Kingston, according to a report filed with Tuscola County Sheriff's Office.

Deputies said that between $25 and $30 in small change was taken from the cash drawer. Included in this money were five new dollar coins.

Police said entry was gained through a door at the back of the building. A number of sets of footprints were found at the scene.

No other clues were found and authorities have no suspects at this time. The investigation continues.

In another incident, Cheryl Nicol, 7314 Deckerville Rd., Deford, was robbed of her billfold Thursday in Caro. She told police she left it on the front seat of her car for a short time and when she returned, it was gone.

The billfold contained between $65 and $70, along with her driver's license, social security card and credit cards.

Officers have no clues at this time.

Some days you can't see the forest for the trees -- or the motorcycles for the parts.

At least that's what Roger Gnagay, manager of Cass City Cycle Sales might say, after he made a costly discovery at his store last Tuesday.

Last week, thieves broke into the shop and stole a quantity of small parts valued at about $200. Items included wrenches, cables, oil, a calculator and cash from a drawer.

All of this was bad enough, not to mention the headaches of waiting to see when and if the insurance company will come through as promised in the fine print.

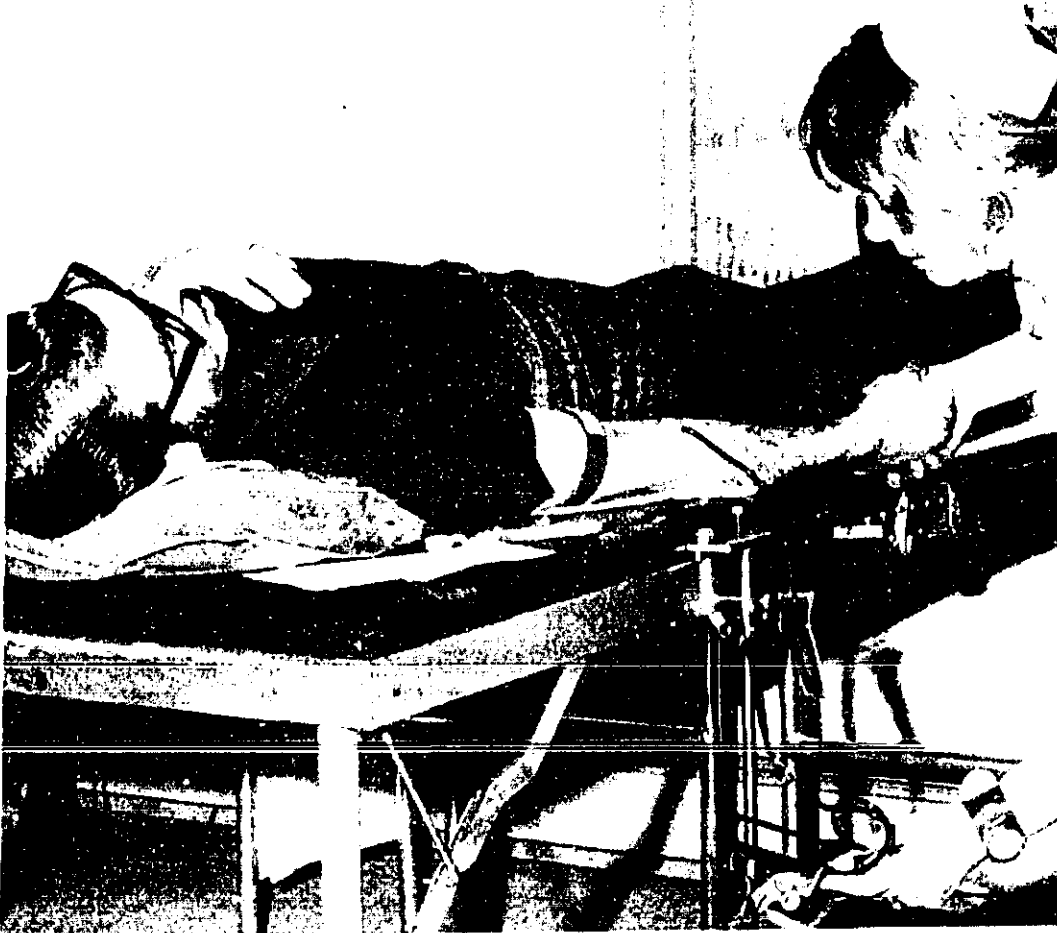

Then came Tuesday and Gnagay's costliest headache reared its ugly head. In his inventory of over 50 cycles, he failed to notice that one of them was missing. The bike, a Husqvarna 400 MX valued at $850, was gone, probably stolen at the same time as the rest of the merchandise.

The thieves apparently calculated that police and the owner might miss a dozen or more cycles, but not just one.

The plan worked. For a couple of days.

ROGER LITTLE reported Tuesday that one of his most pleasant tasks of the year was turning the president's gavel over to Mrs. Dorothy Stahlbaum. Mrs. Stahlbaum pledged a year of continued work for the community.

RICHARD GAFFNEY, 6567 Elizabeth St., became the first person to donate blood Tuesday in the bloodbank drive held at the fire hall. In all, 138 people donated blood--38 over the established goal. A number of Cass City High School seniors assisted Red Cross officials in the effort which was deemed very successful.

Help line training sessions open to all

The Help Line training seminar being offered to the general public continues each Wednesday evening from now through May 23. Classes are held at the Caro High School through the courtesy of Community Services Director Joseph Klobucher. Currently classes have been shifted from the cafeteria to Room 904 and begin at 7:00 p.m. each Wednesday.

The seminar began with sessions March 21 and 28 on principles of behavior. April 4 human emotions, normal and abnormal were explained. The April 11 session covered drug and alcohol abuse. Loneliness, depression and suicide were to be explored in the April 18 class with John Ecken, M.C.S.W. and Woodrow McIlarg, A.C.S.W. The last April class, on the 25th, covers adolescent problems--dating, parent and peer relationships, problem pregnancies, etc. Diane Nofs, B.A., Pam Klingery, B.A. and Beverly Coleman, Ph.D., are in charge. May 2 and 9 sessions on interviewing and listening techniques feature Floyd Echols, A.C.S.W. The background of record keeping, scheduling, using the reference file will be covered on May 16 with Bea Deming and Lillian Pike.

The classes end May 23 with the Tuscola County Players helping Floyd Echols and Marge Clos with mock phone calls of problem situations.

Classes are open to anyone, whether or not they wish to be a Help Line volunteer, at no charge.

Coach sees Hawk thinclads as loop title contenders

Cass City's track team should be at least as strong as it was last season when the Hawks finished third in the Thumb B Conference and Coach Paul Clabuesch is predicting that his thinclads will be in the race for the title this year.

The reason for the optimism is that the Hawks will be fielding a veteran squad with most of last year's point winners back again this spring.

Missing will be Craig Guernsey, lost via graduation. His specialties included the long jump, half mile and mile relay.

Two other point-winning athletes decided not to compete in track this spring. They are Drew Guernsey and Don Karr. Karr was one of the Hawks' top dash men in 1972. Guernsey won points in the long jump and low hurdles.

Even without these men there is still plenty of talent around. Especially in the track events.

The weakness of the squad will probably show in the field events where Cass City has been hurting for many years.

The Hawks figure to really sparkle in the distance events. Curt Strickland, senior, is a mile and Conference champ and record holder at 4:37.

Finishing one-two in the two-mile last year were Steve Selby, senior, Conference champ, and Tim Stickle, senior, second. Both have won three letters.

Dale Vollmar, senior, is the 400 man and coaches are hoping he returns to the form that won him the Conference championship in 1971.

Other letter winners last year were: Steve Izydorek, mile and pole vault; Ed Stoutenburg, low hurdles and short relays; Randy Wright, half mile; Dan Mellendorf, pole vault and dashes.

Chester Sieradzki is expected to pick up points in the hurdles and several Freshmen have showed promise. They include: Blaise Posluszny, 220 and 440; Skip Speirs, 880 and 440; Randy Newsome, dashes and shot put; Dan Sherman, dashes; Dallas Englehart, dashes and long jump.

THE CASS CITY CHRONICLE

Pitching key for Hawks in baseball title defense

Defending Thumb B Conference champion, Cass City will defend its baseball title this spring with a veteran team and is expected to be in the thick of the conference race this year. The season opens Thursday when the Lakers play at Cass City recreational park.

Most of the Hawk blue chippers are back for another season and if Cass City can find the pitching team should be every bit as good as last year's undefeated in the league squad.

But pitching is a very big if for Cass City. Gone from the 1972 champs is Fred Harbec. Harbec was the anchor man of the mound squad.

His smoking fast ball set up the entire staff and it was pitching and defense that led Cass City to the title.

However, there are some mound aces left. Jerry Toner, who was outstanding in relief as a Freshman, is a year older and a veteran as a Sophomore. Coach Fred Hurlburt is looking for big things from him.

Another team veteran, Scott Hartel, is expected to see lots of mound duty this year.

Hartel, a Junior, has already won two letters and is a veteran pitcher in the Babe Ruth League although he's had no experience in high school competition.

Freshman Chuck Bliss is a third moundsman that is getting a close look from Hurlburt. He's a Freshman and if he could make the grade it would help solve the school's pitching problems for the next four years.

Another hole that will be hard to fill is the one left by Henry Cooklin, the vacuum sweeper second sacker for the Hawks last season. He anchored the solid defense in the infield.

Hurlburt says that Pete Frederick and Al Romig are fighting for the position with Frederick having the inside track in early practices.

Other than this, the infield is the same that won it all last year. Hartel is at third base. Gene Salas, the sticky fingered, heavy hitting shortstop, is ready again at shortstop, while Don Galbraith, the southpaw, long ball hitting first baseman, will handle the initial sack.

Behind the plate Kip Hopper will be earning his fourth letter for Cass City. He's agile and strokes the ball well. Last season he came up with key hits in important championship games. When Toner's not on the mound, he'll probably switch positions with Hartel at third base.

In the outfield Dan Mellendorf will probably be in left. It will be his first varsity year. Scott Guinther is a letter winner who will probably be in center. The other outfield position is up for grabs and David Doerr, Chester Sieradzki and John Hacker will fight it out.

Gone from last year's outfield is Gene Hopper, who graduated, and Paul Bliss who did not come out for the team this year. The schedule:

April 19	Lakers, at home
24	at Caro
26	Bad Axe, home
May 3	Frankenmuth, home
8	at Sandusky
10	Marlette, home
15	at Vassar

Honor 4 area Ferris pupils for scholarship

Ferris State College at Big Rapids has honored four area students for scholastic excellence during the winter quarter by naming them to the Academic Honors List. Dr. James V. Farrell, vice-president for academic affairs, has announced.

They are: Paul D. Freiburger of Cass City, James P. Vatter of Snover, and Mara L. Albrecht and Frederick C. Cooley of Owendale.

To be named to the Academic Honors List, a student must earn at least a 3.25 average on a 4.0 basis and carry a full academic load, defined as 14 quarter hours of credit.

"The freedom of any society varies proportionately with the volume of its laughter." —Zero Mostel

Second row: Tim Stickle, John Ballard, Dave Luana, Curt Strickland, Kip Hopper, Dave Brooks and Randy Newsome.

Third row: Manager John Guc, Ed Newsome, Steve Selby, Chester Sieradzki, Dan Mellendorf, Bruce Schweikart, Dale Vollmar.
