

Commissioners raise revolving drain fund to $100,000

Tuscola County Drain Commissioner Leslie Lounsbury found himself in the enviable position Tuesday of having the Board of Commissioners suggest he take more money to run his department.

Lounsbury, who has been under fire from the board for depleting the county's revolving drain fund, originally suggested that the fund be set at $95,000. The board passed a resolution at its Tuesday meeting bringing the fund up to $100,000.

Controversy has been swirling around the fund in recent weeks. The fund is set up to pay for preliminary survey and engineering work on county drain projects. Once the job of construction or rebuilding is let, this increases the value of property serviced and the increase comes back to the county in the form of tax revenues.

The problem in Tuscola county is that more drain applications and preliminary work has been done than has been let out in jobs, causing a depletion of the fund. In April, the commissioners took $25,000 from the fund, thinking $65,000 would handle projected preliminary work. Now, $92,000, they find, is not enough.

This backlog of drain work brought about the latest set of problems.

Board Chairman Shuford Kirk explained to Lounsbury that he was not assessing fault to anyone for the situation, but asked just how much more money would the board have to keep adding to the fund.

"I don't want to see this same problem before the board six months from now," Kirk said. "I want it settled now."

Darwin McCloud, who works for an engineering firm, assisted Lounsbury in explaining the drain commissioner's position. McCloud is a former drain commissioner from St. Clair county.

He said the solution to the problem was a simple one. The rights-of-way for drains must be gotten and jobs must be let as quickly as possible. Once the job is let, he explained, money will begin to flow into the fund.

"The secret is getting these jobs let," McCloud said.

"We know that," Kirk replied. "The problem is how do we get things going faster?"

Lounsbury said that about $40,000 will be coming back into the revolving drain fund when tax statements are sent out this fall. This represents monies in increased valuations from drain work involving jobs which have been either let or completed.

"Yes," Kirk said, "but that money won't be all in until April 15. In the meantime, we have to do something."

Kirk told McCloud, whose firm has billed the county for about $20,000 in work completed, that currently there is $65,000 in the fund. "Is this a sufficient amount," he asked McCloud.

"You're close to being in the ballpark," he replied.

"You realize that, with this figure, you can't be paid," Kirk said.

McCloud replied that in such cases, his firm charges an interest rate of eight per cent until the money is paid.

Kirk said the county would not put itself in that position if it did not have to do so.

Lounsbury told the board that his department had been working as fast as possible to get preliminary work done and drain jobs let.

"That hasn't been good enough," Kirk said. "Just how much do you need to get these jobs done?"

"I feel I could have got by with $90,000 in the fund," Lounsbury said.

"No Les, you can't," Kirk replied. "You've already exceeded $90,000. That figure won't do it. In two or three months we'll be in the same position again."

He told the drain commissioner it was up to him to submit a realistic request for the revolving drain fund to bring it up to standards.

Lounsbury then told the commissioners $95,000 would be sufficient, although he qualified that figure, calling it a minimum. This did not satisfy the commissioners, who demanded an exact figure. He replied that an exact figure was impossible to give because he could not foresee how many more drain applications would come in during the near future.

Kirk said he was trying to justify the $95,000 figure and asked Lounsbury if drain applications might continue to come in at the present speed.

Lounsbury said he could not say exactly, but that there had been a definite slow-down in recent weeks.

Kirk then asked him if there was anything the board could do to speed up the process of getting drains on the tax rolls, such as hiring more personnel for the drain commissioner's office.

Lounsbury indicated that there was no room in his office for more personnel and could not justify the training it would take for what he saw as a limited duration employment. "We as a board will do anything it takes to get these drains in," Kirk said. "If there's anything we can do, Les, let us know."

Currently Lounsbury's office employs one full-time employee along with a part-time man, Ed Goodchild, who makes drain inspections prior to final inspection, which must be done by a registered engineer. Commissioner J. Benson Collon asked how many hours Goodchild presently works.

Lounsbury indicated that he works about 37½ hours per week, nearly full-time.

Commissioner Maynard McConkey asked Lounsbury if he ever held up work on drains to match his funding. He replied that, thus far, it had not been done.

Kirk said that sitting on projects was not an answer, that when a farmer wants a drain, "he wants it yesterday, not three years from now."

Kirk said he thought a reasonable dollar figure could be found which would keep the revolving drain fund in business and pressed Lounsbury for an estimate. Finally, Kirk suggested a figure of $100,000.

With some reluctance, Lounsbury said this figure would keep the fund in business, to the best of his knowledge. This was then placed in the form of a resolution and approved.

The extra $35,000 will come from the county's contingency fund which, for all practical purposes, wipes out that fund. Currently, there is about $73,000 in the contingency fund. Along with other items on the fund, the $35,000 figure depletes it to within $2,000.

Horse show, tractor pull highlight Round-Up

Cass City Recreational Park was where the action was last week end for the third annual Western Round-Up, sponsored by the Cass City Service Clubs. The carnival, which began Thursday, thrilled children and adults alike and provided a number of rides, games of chance and other attractions, along with loads of ice cream and sloppy joes supplied by the hospital auxiliary.

Occasional showers Friday failed to dampen the spirit of those attending the four day affair. A heavy thunderstorm Saturday evening forced postponement of the tractor pull event until Sunday, when clearing skies greeted spectators and participants alike.

Friday, Greg Erla, 4581 West St., and Jackie Bedwell of Detroit each won a bicycle at the drawing held at 5 p.m.

Saturday featured a parade at noon through Main Street and out to the park. Fire engines, tractors and horses highlighted the parade, along with a float provided by the Pre-school Cooperative Children's Nursery.

Five area fire departments competed against each other in the Water Ball Tournay later in the afternoon. Richville's firefighters won the top prize, followed by Caro and Reese entries.

Village seeks aid role in proposed new swimming pool at high school

In an exchange of views at its regularly scheduled session Tuesday evening, the Cass City Village Council reached a consensus that it would support a summer recreation program involving lifeguards and water safety instructors at the proposed indoor pool.

Opinion further evolved that the village could not commit itself to any maintenance expenses.

Village President Lambert Althaver said that, as soon as the school board receives plans from the architects for the proposed pool which would be constructed at the high school, a joint meeting of the board and council would be held to formally establish policy regarding the village's role in operating the facility.

Althaver reviewed the results of the recent pool survey in which voters responding indicated that they did not favor the project by a 53 to 47 per cent margin. A total of 1,980 voters returned questionnaires.

He indicated that some of the comments on the questionnaires asked what the village's position would be regarding the pool. He said some wanted to know about municipal funding. How much the village would pay to defray summer operating costs was also asked.

Others expressed fears that the school would close down the facility in the summer. Questions regarding whether or not the village would keep it open solely in the summer were raised from the survey.

Althaver said a consensus from council would be beneficial when the joint meeting took place.

Trustee Dr. D. E. Rawson raised the point that an indoor pool might not have as great an appeal in the summer, due to a lack of fresh air and a build-up of humidity in the enclosure. Trustee James Ware responded that in construction plans, provisions for opening the enclosure to allow fresh air were being included.

Other questions raised in the survey involved criticisms that only students would use the pool during the day and thus be limited to the high school physical education program exclusively.

Althaver said the school will ask for building and operational mileage, while the village could be in the position of providing summer instructional personnel and lifeguards. He said he saw justification in this approach, while he said he saw some objection to having the village rent the facility for the summer.

The program could be run as it was in the past, he said, by having the village provide lifeguards and instructors.

Trustee Ware said the village should not assume full responsibility for the pool during the summer. He said he did support the idea of using the pool in connection with the summer recreation program.

It was pointed out that any hope of federal funding for an outdoor pool as originally planned, is all but gone and that if the indoor proposal fails, construction of an outdoor facility was an option. Charges for use, however, would have to be raised to support it.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, Trustee Ware told council that the Chamber of Commerce plans to sponsor an ox roast July 25, with the village park the beneficiary of money raised. He said a goal might be established for the money and suggested either a new wading pool for children or renovating the present facility.

No dollar figure for such a project was available.

Althaver suggested the funds could be put toward a goal of park development until the matter could be studied further.

In other action, council discussed the procedure for filling the vacancy on council, created by the resignation of Trustee Bernard Ross. Ross resigned June 14, citing health reasons.

It was agreed that contacts would be made in the next few weeks and would be discussed further at the next meeting.

Council passed a resolution accepting a bid of $375 or the 1970 Plymouth automobile formerly used as a police car.

The bid came from Bob Ski, Cass City. Ski has reportedly committed himself to this price for the auto which has been out of active service for some time.

Supt. Lou LaBonte reported that the new water line on North Seeger Street has been finished and that all properties on the east side of the line have tapped in New taps are copper, replacing galvanized lines.

He also indicated that curb and gutter work is complete on Houghton Street and on Maple Street. No firm date has yet been established for final black topping of these streets.

Trustee Rawson reported that the summer recreation program is underway and that planning is proceeding with the expansion of the park facility under the recreation bond program from the state. The plan involves construction of a meeting building with toilet facilities. Little league diamonds are already in use. These were an original feature of the plan which were later deleted.

Arrest Cass City juvenile in Elkton

A 16-year-old Cass City girl was released to the custody of her father Wednesday evening after she was apprehended in Elkton for investigation of reckless driving. In the course of the incident, she struck at least two officers and later broke a window in the Huron County Jail in an attempt to escape.

It was discovered upon investigation that the girl was carrying identification of an older sister.

Juvenile Officer Alex McKenzie released the girl to her father and indicated a petition will be filed with Tuscola juvenile authorities for follow up action in the case.

Juvenile offenders are normally referred to probate or juvenile court authorities in their home counties.

Nearly $15 worth of fishing equipment was stolen from the home of Basil Randall, Rossman Road, Kingston, last Friday.

According to Sheriff's reports, Randall and his wife went away for the week end, leaving one of his sons at home. The son used the equipment once during the day and replaced it. Around 5 p.m., he went to get the equipment a second time and discovered it missing.

Among the items taken were three rods and reels and a tackle box.

No suspects are in custody at this time.

A large roll of pipe wire fence worth about $100 was stolen from the Kingston Elevator early Monday morning. Deputies reportedly located the wire in the possession of a citizen who said he found it laying along a road near Kingston.

Police continue the investigation.

Two 100 pound nuclear tanks, valued at $8, were taken from a cottage in Cassville belonging to Albert Anthies of rural Cass City.

The theft was discovered May 26 when Anthies opened the cottage, located on Port Austin Road. The thief exchanged the full tanks for empty ones, according to Mrs. Anthies.

Former Cass Cityan recalls days as pharmacist in 1907

BY JIM KETCHUM

It was the year of the first pure food and drug act. Theodore Roosevelt was well into his second term as President of the United States and rapidly building a powerful Navy.

In Cass City, the streets were unpaved, more residents owned horses than cars, and the lights went out every night at 11 o'clock. It was 1907.

In that year, an 18-year-old lad began work as a pharmacist's assistant in the original Wood Drug Store and made $4 per week. His boss, the druggist, made only three times as much.

Last week, Wilmont Moore, now 84, returned to Cass City and recalled those bygone days when dispensing medicine was much less a fine art than it is today. Moore has lived in San Jose, Calif., since 1927, and came back to visit some of the old sights and relive a few memories of his youth.

"In 1907, I hired in at the drug store owned by L. I. Wood and Amos Bond," he recalled. "It was located two doors east of Auten's Bank. I worked from 8:15 a.m. until 9 o'clock at night. At that, I made $4 per week. Now you might not think that was much money, but let me tell you, the pharmacist only made $12 a week."

In those days, Moore recalled, drug stores dispensed alcoholic beverages, some disguised as medicine. He said they sold large bottles of liquor, grain alcohol and other spirits.

"I remember the pharmacist telling me a rule to follow when I sold these items," Moore recalled. "I must always ask if the purchase was for medicinal purposes. And no man ever failed to answer in the affirmative."

Moore said in those days, grain alcohol sold for 50 cents per pint. Once, he remembered, a man came in and asked Moore to mix a concoction of half grain alcohol and half water. He said the man told him he needed the mixture in order to keep warm on his way home. Another medicinal purpose.

Moore said he filled many prescriptions in the original Wood Drug Store, since in those days, strict laws governing the preparation of medicines did not exist.

"I recall once having filled a prescription incorrectly," Moore said, "because I mistook a number four on the prescription for a number three. So, very conscientiously, I went to the doctor and told him of my mistake. He said not to worry, it didn't make any difference anyway."

Most prescriptions in those days contained mostly quinine and many were not as potent as today.

He recalled one of the early Cass City physicians, a Dr. Damming, who owned Pleasant Home Hospital in the village.

"He was a real character," Moore said. "I remember that he used to bring some of his patients in by the arm and yell at me for a prescription, 'You know what he needs,' he'd say. So I'd go ahead and fix something."

He said that when Moore's wife gave birth to their first child, the old doctor, when asked how much his fee would be, thought a moment and then said a fee of $5 would be sufficient.

WILMONT MOORE, one-time boy-pharmacist in Cass City, looks over a collection of reminiscences about life in the village many years ago.

Mrs. Clare A. Scheurer

Marcia Ann Knechtel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. John Knechtel, Elkton, became the bride of Clare Adam Scheurer Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Scheurer, Pigeon, Saturday, June 23, at the Elkton United Methodist Church.

Rev. O. William Cooper officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

A John Knechtel, father of the bride, gave the bride away.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza, featuring the bodice and upper sleeves of embroidered, embossed floral lace appliques, a wedding ring collar and sheer lantern sleeves. The softly gathered skirt and chapel train were sprinkled with embroidered flowers and hem trimmed with a border of scalloped lace.

A matching Camelot headpiece of floral appliques and crystals secured her fingertip veil of bridal illusion.

The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Nancy Knechtel, sister of the bride. She wore a gown of Nile chiffon featuring a ring collar and cuffs edged with a ruffle. The bodice was enhanced with Venice lace and delicate leaf trim secured the Empire waistline. From the waistline fell a softly gathered skirt with a flounce hemline.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jayne Krohn, Cass City, and Mrs. Michael Waldner, Stamford, Conn. Each wore gowns matching those of the maid of honor.

They carried colonial bouquets of yellow sweetheart roses and white daisies.

Best man was John Beach, Pigeon. Other attendants were Henry Clabuesch, Pigeon and Thomas Knechtel, Elkton.

Usher was Gregory Knechtel, Elkton.

Organist was Mrs. R. Jake Roberts. Mrs. Alan Heydenburg served as pianist.

Mother of the bride wore a floor length gown of floral chiffon and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a floor length pale yellow gown of slubbed silk and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 150 guests was held at the Sherwood Forest Country Club, Gagetown.

The bride is a graduate of Central Michigan University and holds a B.A. degree in elementary education. She is employed as a teacher.

The bridegroom holds a B.S. in biology from the University of Michigan and is now at the medical school of Wayne State University.

The couple plan a one-week trip to Montreal, Canada.

"If It Fitz . . ."How to lose 20 pounds

BY JIM FITZGERALD

* My family has declared me the most obnoxious puncher in captivity. They reached their decision midway through the candlelight ceremony in which I punched another hole in my belt.

What I mean is, in the last 2 months I have lost 20 pounds but no humility.

All you fatties are wondering how I did it. It was easy. All you need is steel willpower, a flair for dramatics, and gall enough to kiss your wonderful self 150 times a day.

Forget the tricky diets and the wonder pills. Just cut the size of your meals about 50 percent. Eat absolutely nothing between meals, not even giant Hershey bars with almonds (the still, my beating heart).

When the agony of hunger hits you, don't keep it a secret. Let the world know how you are suffering. Scream and sob and writhe on the floor. The other day I fainted face-first into my skinny son's ice cream. Another day, when my wife filled the house with the smell of baking bread, I banged my head against the oven until I was overcome by blessed unconsciousness.

(Incidental intelligence: during the oven flagellation I accidentally broke the oven timer, thereby discovering that my family functions by the buzzing of that timer, something like a Pavlov reflex. They set it to remind themselves to do all sorts of important things, such as wash their hair, eat a biscuit, feed the cats, make a phone call, and touch their toes. Once I spied a daughter talking into the oven and I was going to call the men in white coats. But she was simply timing an oration for speech class. During the week the timer was busted, it was pure chaos at our house. People stumbled around with dazed looks, wondering what they were supposed to be doing, and the cats moved into the neighbor's garbage can.)

But let's see, where was I? Oh yes, coming to the most important part of how to lose weight. After you have quit eating, and suffered loudly, your pants will get too big and your necktie will appear from beneath your chins. The scales will tell you what a splendid thing you have accomplished with your marvelous willpower. Now you tell the world. I mean, brag about it.

For instance, I invite strangers in off the street to bear awed witness while I plunge an icepick into my belt. If the high school band can't make it, I play Sousa records and hire my daughter to turn cartwheels and lead cheers ("Let's hear it for Slim Jim").

I dazzle guests with a startling exhibition in which I prove there is now room in a pair of my old pants for me and the living room couch.

When I visit relatives for the first time in months, I am visibly enraged if they do not immediately express admiration for my lithe figure and the magnificent willpower that made it possible. I tell them how I did it, just as I am telling you, even if I have to chase them around the block.

I am not hurt when people call me an obnoxious bore. I realize they are simply jealous. And if they are truly tired of hearing how I lost weight, I will change the subject. I'll tell them how I quit smoking.

Misery loves company. You may quote that, and perhaps embroider it on your bib.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Peters

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Peters honored them Sunday, June 24, when they celebrated the Peters' 15th anniversary.

The surprise event took place at the Peters' home on W. Sanilac Rd., Vassar, with around 50 attending.

The former Fern Karr Profit and Emerson Peters were married June 28, 1958, in the Methodist church parsonage, Cass City.

Their children are: Mrs. Richard (Pat) Easton of Cass City, Jim Profit, Phil Profit and Mrs. Judy Little, all of Pontiac, Muriel Peters of Lake Orion, Mrs. Charlotte Sullivan and Miss Marjorie Peters of Pontiac.

Guests were present from Decker, Deford, Vassar, Kingston, Pontiac, Orionville, and Cass City.

D. Koepfgen services held

Funeral services were held Friday for Donald Koepfgen, 49, of rural Cass City, who died following a farm accident Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Koepfgen was born in Cass City, July 20, 1923, and lived in the area all his life. He was the son of Lyle Koepfgen and the late Mrs. Ersel Koepfgen.

He married Nelle Welch in Grayling, Nov. 4, 1950. Following their marriage, they made their home on Koepfgen Road where he lived until his death.

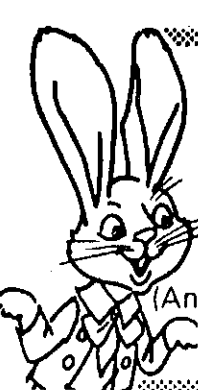

Mr. Koepfgen was a member of the Tyler Lodge F&AM No. 317 of Cass City and a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Cass City.

He is survived by his widow, Nelle; four daughters, Janet, Susan, Linda and Nancy; one son Donald Jr., all at home; his father, Lyle and one sister, Mrs. Gerald Kercher of Quaker Hill, Conn.

One sister and his mother preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Friday from Little's Funeral Home, with the Rev. Melvin R. Vender, pastor Emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Douglas Wilson, pastor, officiating.

Interment was in Elkland cemetery.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

A couple of "free" tosses at a ball throwing game booth at the Western Round-Up proved kind of expensive for Janie Speirs who is part-timer at the Chronicle while waiting for career opportunities to open.

Her limited budget suffered a large dent when after those free practice shots she decided to go for real at 50 cents a turn to win a coveted stuffed bear.

After all she did it in practice, why not for real?

Well many tries later Janie concluded that pitching balls for bears just wasn't her bag and she left the game a sadder but wiser girl. She did win a pillow with a handle that fell off shortly after she left the midway area.

Bike riders have something in common with soldiers, sailors, policemen. The riders "uniform" of the road makes them all appear the same. Especially those with the big red warning flags on the bikes.

That was proved to me Saturday when Roger Karr, a Cass City native, who lives in Midland was in town. He spotted two bike riders in town that he said he passed just out of Midland.

A coincidence like this should make a little human interest feature, for sure. It should except the riders proved to be Skip Washen and Charley Hummel of East Lansing who were touring the Thumb and had never been to Midland.

It's things like this that give birth to those totally erroneous stories that plague news media large and small.

I worked Saturday at the dunkers' stand at the Western Round-Up. But this year I fooled them. I handled the balls with Ron Geiger. I quickly said yes when asked and refused to change my mind when it later was suggested that I again occupy that precarious perch over that barrel of water.

Barn destroyed by lightning

A barn fire, started by a bolt of lightning Saturday night, destroyed over $7,000 worth of farm machinery and approximately 100 tons of hay.

The barn belonged to Mrs. Ben Burnison, 3563 W. Decker-ville Rd., Snover.

According to Mrs. Burnison, the fire broke out between 8:00 and 8:15 p.m. in the structure she was renting to Ivan Kreger, 3386 Wheeler Rd., Snover.

Mrs. Kreger said that among the machinery lost in the fire was a new hay baler and several other farm implements. She said along with the hay lost, three snowmobiles belonging to Mrs. Burnison's son, Raymond of Reese, were also destroyed. A fourth snow machine was pulled from the burning barn.

The barn was deemed a total loss. Argyle firemen responded to the alarm.

Tom Sutter, Gary Cummings and I played golf at the new Bay Valley course near Bay City Thursday just to see what it was like. In case you didn't know, Sutter is a Cass City baker and Cummings is a former Gaytowne gone bad and moved to Hampton township near Bay City.

I can report that the club is swank and loaded with water and hazards. I believe they call it a par 72.

But I have my own system for rating the course. I rate par for that golf course as losing about three balls to the hazards in an 18-hole round.

By that measurement I was four over par last Thursday.

One other note about that golf round in Bay City. Sutter is a week-end hacker like most of us.

Ever so often he can bang the ball and he did it on a 212-yard par three located on the far side of a small lake.

The ball landed two feet from the pin. Sutter approached the green and looked (and acted) like Jack Nicklaus coming to the 18th after he's salted away another major tournament.

In fact he waved just like Jack when other golfers applauded the fine shot.

Or at least that's the way it looked to me.

But maybe I was just jealous.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

Shanty Creek Lodge will host the summer meeting of the Michigan Press Association in July.

Summer meetings of newspapermen have lots in common with all summer meetings. Fun and games. And enough business to make it tax deductible.

Shanty Creek has all the trappings—the 18-hole championship golf course, large heated pool, bar, restaurant and spacious rooms.

The Haire family almost stayed there once before. Almost.

It was back in the days when the family was young and the finances tender. Darn tender.

We had one thing in common with Shanty Creek. It was young, too. The tractors and earth movers were everywhere gouging out huge holes later to be turned into sand traps, tees and greens.

It's a winding road back to the lodge from the little traveled road near Bellaire and we chugged bravely along until we arrived at the then new and splendid lodge.

Before embarking for the lobby a five-minute debate in the car resulted in a timid vote to give it a try.

A moment later a young man came charging down the steps to welcome us and escort us to the desk.

Holy cow! If we could have voted again right then we'd have been long gone.

Treatment like this is for the idle rich. Not a common ordinary family on a brief vacation.

But that young man did do one thing for us. Before we signed for the two days maybe it would be wise to see just what the cost would be.

I don't know just how much it was now. I only know that for us it seemed like the national debt. Perhaps something like $35 to $40 per night.

Even today that's not exactly chicken feed. . . but then each night would buy groceries for a week or more.

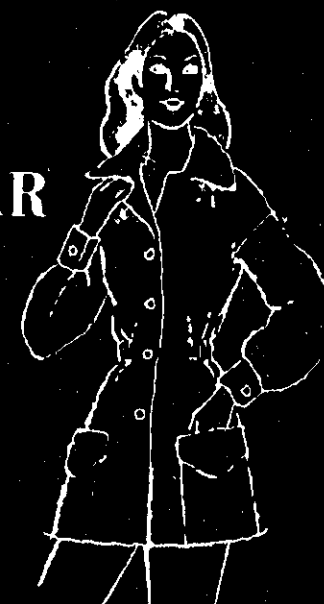

Meanwhile the staff had pulled our luggage from the car and placed it in the lobby waiting for room assignment.

We didn't register and retreated to regroup and figure a way to retrieve the luggage without suffering a stroke from embarrassment.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Whatever happened to ...

By Jim Ketchum

Things are being replaced all around us continuously, and I doubt if we ever realize the fact until time jolts us into awareness. Things come, are used and then are replaced. The process can involve sudden change, but more often involves evolution, that slow undoing, rearranging and eventual disappearance of every sort of thing imaginable.

Take the automobile as a for-instance. Whatever happened to wind-up auto clocks? At least they ran if you remembered to wind them. And, on some more sophisticated models, they wound by merely turning the steering wheel.

Most have been replaced by those damnable electric things that run about as long as it takes to drive from the dealer to your home and then quit, forever staring at you with the wrong time.

Or, whatever happened to intelligent gauges on the instrument panel that made sense? Why were they eliminated in favor of those idiot lights that never come on until it's too late anyway? Are drivers so stupid that they cannot read a simple gauge to see whether or not the engine is boiling over or the battery is dead? Is it the same situation as the clocks, where drivers are not smart enough to wind them?

Why do drivers need a stupid light flashing and buzzing to remind them to fasten their seatbelts? If I don't have the brains to fasten it, then I deserve whatever befalls me. I also don't need a seat belt that won't let my car start without being fastened. I can just see what would happen five years later when the wiring goes bad, stranding me out in the plains of Tuscola with no hope of survival save building a raft and floating down a drainage ditch to the nearest farm house to enlist aid.

Whatever happened to radio antennas? Why were they replaced with cat's whiskers in the windshield that work fine until you get near an underpass or within 100 feet of an electric line or a building? Radio antennas served many useful purposes beside supplying the radio with news, sports and your favorite DJ. They made the best dryer for swimming trunks ever invented.

You could tie them on the antenna after a swim, drive five miles and they would be bone dry. Additionally, most manuals for travel on interstate turnpikes advise motorists in trouble to tie a white handkerchief on the radio antenna. I can just see someone chipping a hole through their windshield, trying to tie a handkerchief on their cat whisker and wondering why J. P. McCarthy won't come in anymore.

Whatever happened to those ropes that used to be on the back of the front seat of your car? Those did more than just provide a place to put your hands when getting in or out of the back seat. And how about those braided ropes that hung from either side just behind the front doors? Those added class to the family chariot and made you forget about little things like payments for awhile.

Those back seat ropes served as the best place in the world to hang a wet towel on the way back from the beach. It was also a good place to put your coat or to just pretend any one of a number of things if you were a little boy.

Whatever happened to split windshields and those windshield wipers that came up the wrong way to meet at the divider? It was the best place in the car to mount a compass, thermometer or rear-view mirror. Besides, if a stone struck the windshield, it usually did it damaged only one side, thereby costing less to replace.

Whatever happened to those blonde knobs on the gearshift, radio, lighter and other switches? Combined with those wood-grained instrument panels, it gave a car an immeasurable amount of class.

Whatever happened to flat sideglass? At least you could clean it with a squeegee without leaving funny troughs of dirty water on the glass that make it look as though you just drove out of a pond.

Whatever happened to white sidewall tires that were really white? I mean the ones that were white from the rim of the wheel clear out to the tread. What passes for a white sidewall tire today is nothing more than a white pencil line drawn by somebody in Akron making three times as much money as most of us make. So what if it took half a day to scrub the old ones at least you had something to show for your work when it was done.

I'd like to know whatever happened to a V-8 engine that would give, on occasion, 20 miles per gallon of gasoline. I think I bought the last one, because sometimes I do reach that magical mark. The cars my father owned 25 years ago got better mileage and a more complete combustion of fuel than the current gas-hogs Detroit is trying to sell us.

Most new cars will pass anything on the road except a gas station, and it's getting to a point where the gas station is passing up customers, for lack of fuel.

I do know what happened to running boards. We melted them all down and shot them at the Japanese during World War II.

Running boards were nifty. Yes, I do remember a car or two with them and even a truck comes to mind. You could stand on them and pretend to be a fireman, Superman or anything else as long as the car was parked. They made entering an auto a graceful movement, not one in which you fall in and pray you don't land on the steering wheel or the floor shift lever.

I realize that these are things of the past, only to be found now in museums, photographs and the dark recesses of the mind. I know Detroit will never bring them back. It is too bad, however, that something can't evolve that our children will remember with fondness about our present vehicles. Maybe it has and we just can't see it.

Let's give it some time and see what happens.

Moore recalls days as pharmacist

"He was a good man," Moore said. "He died poor."

Moore, who was born six miles south of Cass City, remembered that the drug store also sold many other items such as school books, wallpaper, cigars and candy, as well as prescription and patent medicines.

"Our store was the only source of wallpaper in Cass City," Moore said. We, along with Fritz's drug store, were the only source of school books for the village.

There were no cigarettes in those days, and so cigars were the fad. Moore said one man came in each morning around 6:30 a.m. and bought his daily supply. He would take six each morning, all for 25 cents. Those were considered top quality smokes.

No laws protected purchasers of patent medicines in 1907. A label could claim the substance inside would cure such ailments as consumption, for example, when it really didn't. "The whole east side of the store was lined with row after row of bottles of this stuff," Moore said. "No law required it to be labeled correctly, and much of it was not. Most of these bottles contained a good percentage of alcohol."

"I had a grandfather who would touch no whisky at all. He was a complete teetotaler. Yet he'd come in and buy a bottle of Duffy's Malt for medicinal purposes which was mostly whisky and pay a dollar a pint for it."

Misuse of narcotics was common at the turn of the century as it is now, according to Moore. "There were no limits on the sale or usage of narcotics," he said. "For example, we had one man who came in regularly for supplies of morphine. We had opium users, cocaine users and all the rest. These people were not freaks. They were common people who had come under improper doctoring."

He related that an old doctor in the area had become an opium addict and, each time he came into the store, he would purchase an amount of the drug and say it was for a patient. "But we all knew better," Moore said. Economically, times were good at the store in those days, according to Moore. He said on Saturday nights, the store would have to remain open until midnight to accommodate all the customers. From 11 o'clock until closing, the store had to be lit with gasoline lamps.

"Every night at 11 o'clock, the power plant would shut down and everyone went home," he said. "Street lights went out, everything was dead. Also, the electricity didn't come on until early evening, so we had very few hours each night with electricity."

He remembered walking home one night from the store trying to make it before the street lights went dead. He was too late, however, and the entire village went pitch black.

AGENT'S CORNER

Label changes for Hot dogs

Allene Mills - Extension Agent

New, more descriptive labeling—designed to tell consumers at a glance exactly what they're paying for when buying frankfurters, bologna and knockwurst—was announced June 1, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Although meat processors have until Sept. 7, to change over to the new requirements, consumers may begin seeing the new labels on their grocery shelves sooner.

The change gives consumers a choice of three types of frankfurters and other cooked sausages:

(1) Those made only from skeletal meat, which can include up to 15 percent poultry meat, and the normal ingredients—such as water, sweeteners and curing substances—needed for processing. These products will be labeled with their traditional generic names, such as "frankfurters", "bologna" or "knockwurst". If all the meat is from one particular species, the product will have to be labeled to show that—for example, "beef frankfurter".

(2) Those made of the above ingredients plus meat by-products—sometimes called variety meats—such as hearts, tongues, tripe, etc., and poultry products. This type of product will have to be distinctly labeled as, for example, "frankfurters with byproducts" or "franks with variety meats". The term "with byproducts" or "with variety meats" will have to be printed so that it can be easily noticed—by being next to and in the same color and background as the generic name. The ingredient statement must specifically name each byproduct, as is now required.

(3) Those made with either of the above formulas, plus up to 3.5 percent non-meat binders such as nonfat dry milk, cereal or dried whole milk, or 2 percent isolated soy protein. These products also will have to be clearly labeled—with names such as "franks with byproducts, nonfat dry milk added". And their extra ingredients will have to be named in the ingredient statement on the label.

Name district

4-H winners

Several outstanding Tuscola county 4-H'ers were selected as District 4-H winners in the State 4-H youth programs. These 4-H members will have to complete State award records to be considered for State awards, says Bernard Jardt, Tuscola County 4-H Youth Agent.

The selected district winners were: Angela Barry, All-achievement; Donald Boyne, All-achievement; Merry Black, sheep; Sharon Clarke, home management; Cindy Keinath, dairy; Cynthia Robinson, food-nutrition; and Karl Wildner, commodity marketing.

The 4-H youth program is made possible by the volunteer help of the many adult and teen leaders working with our youth on their projects and other activities.

BETTER HEALTH

Double dosage sometimes needed

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Once I learned a very important lesson in the use of drugs. Because people have different responses to drugs, not everyone will get the desired effect of a drug with the dosage "in the book," when a drug has no effect with the usual dose, it is sometimes necessary to increase, and even double the amount. I can remember when I learned this trick; my hot-tempered German-speaking professor once became annoyed with me, his assistant, when I gave an insomniac patient of his the usual dose of the sleep-maker and it had no effect. When my chief learned of the problem he shouted at me, "Double ze dose!"

Naturally, I am not saying what many laymen mistakenly believe, that is one pill is good, two ought to be twice as good. The important point is that one should increase the dose when the standard amount does not give the desired effect.

Years ago, in San Francisco, I had a good illustration of this principle. One night at dinner I watched a prominent lawyer friend of mine drink four martinis, one after the other, without showing any effect of the alcohol. When I asked him why he took the four martinis, he said, "I don't feel anything until the fourth." Yet I know of other highly sensitive persons who, with one sip, will feel the effects of a martini. I would expect these very different persons to react just as differently to, say, a sleeping pill or a pain-killer as they do to alcohol.

Recently, a woman of 45 came into my office. She was much distressed by the typical menopausal symptoms such as flushes, sweats and depression, which followed a hysterectomy, in which her ovaries were removed. She said that several of the doctors whom she had consulted had given her ovarian hormone, but it had had no effect at all.

It occurred to me that she might be one of those persons who are resistant to drugs, so I asked her how many martinis she could drink with her husband, and she said, "three." So I told her to start increasing the doses of ovarian hormone slowly until her breasts got sore, and then to stop. Soon she reported that they got sore with six pills, so I had her drop back, and on four pills a day, she was a new woman, perfectly happy and well.

Just now I was delighted when an old patient of mine, whom I had turned over to a physician friend, reported that when her severe abdominal pain did not stop with the usual dose of pain-relieving medicine, the doctor immediately "doubled ze dose," and she was comfortable.

This pleased me, because for many years, doctors have not seemed to realize that people have many different reactions to drugs, and that it doesn't make sense to prescribe one dose for everyone, expecting to get the same result. Some people are very sensitive to drugs, as I have said. Some don't react at all to a big dose, and others react to a usually harmless drug with nausea and vomiting or even a skin rash.

NEW NERVE DEAFNESS TREATMENT DISAPPOINTING

Every so often in this column I make note of an article that I have read on a new treatment for some disease for which we doctors have previously had no treatment. Oftentimes, I have to say, "This gives me hope, but the treatment must be tested further," or "The drug is still being tested and will not be on the market for a year or two."

Recently I commented on what was described as a hopeful treatment by Dr. E. C. Hughes of Pasadena and R. H. Arthur of Arcadia, Calif., for helping people with nerve deafness to improve their hearing, with the use of electrical stimulation of certain nerve cells with a radio current.

Now I hear from the very eminent A. T. Lieberman, M.D., that Mansfield Smith, M.D., of the American Council of Otolaryngology, has received many questions from nerve-deaf persons who desperately want help, and wonder if the electrical stimulation treatment works.

As Dr. Smith says, "The black box (that is used for the electrical stimulation)" described by Dr. Puharich and Lawrence in 1969 for the treatment of individuals with sensorineural hearing loss "has created quite a stir," but the doctor doubts if the evidence in its favor is as yet sufficient. He concludes that studies have shown that "there was no apparent difference using the apparatus with the machine connected or disconnected. There is thus no evidence that there is any improvement of hearing as a result of utilizing the apparatus developed by Puharich and Lawrence or as subsequently used by...Dr. Hughes... and Dr. Arthur."

All those many people who are interested will have to wait a while to see if more good results can be obtained, perhaps with a modification of the treatment.

Dr. Alvarez tells you what he can do to help when a patient is suffering from common nervousness, and also what the patient himself can do. For your copy of "Triumph Over Nervousness" send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

My old lady's church circle got in a batch of new Bibles, and she brought one home. This one is really new, cause it was thumbed through it the other night and I was surprised to see that the words is new, but the meaning is old.

For instant, it don't start out, "In the beginning was Government benefits." The Good Book don't claim anywhere in these new words that Moses come down off the mountain with the "Catalog of Government Services," and there is no hint in any of the Lord's teachings about how to have heaven on earth by using the tax-and-spend system. I got the same old message about us owing God a living, not the Government owing us one.

Clem Webster's old lady must of took a new Bible home to, cause he said at the country store Saturday night that he had been reading in it, and that he could git along pretty good without all the "thees" and "thous," but he still like the part best about "casting your pearls amongst the swine." Clem's point that I agreed with was that he was glad to see one project that got by without a Government grant. He said if they had been any federal money behind the new Bible, they might of come up with a whole new religion, one that would start off borrowing money to build a church.

Talking about debt, Ed Doolittle said in Bible days the kings would snip a piece off of coins, then melt the pieces down to fill his pockets. Nowadays, declared Ed, the Government jest inflates the dollar and gits the same benefits. Ed said he bought a few bonds some years back, and with the way inflation is going, the figgers it's eating up the interest and the Government is jest using his money free. What inflation is, allowed Ed, is nothing but Government breaking a promise to pay.

Actual, agreed Clem, Alaska has the right idea. Clem said he had saw by the papers where a move has started in Alaska to ask Congress for "independent sovereignty," which means they want to git out of these United States they jest recent got in. What the Alaska nation would do, reported Clem, is return to the gold standard. If they was to manage a stable dollar up there, said Clem, the rest of the 49 would be hollering to join Alaska.

General speaking, Mister Editor, it's hard to figger a country like us. We can out-perdue the Russians, then we git outfiggered and lose $400 million on that wheat sale. We know how to make red and white striped toothpaste come out of the same tube, and we can mix peanut butter and jelly right in the same jar, but we can't git more than 30 per cent out to vote.

Like the preacher said, if the heat don't git you, the humidity will.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Pleas of area men heard Monday in Circuit Court

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hunter spent the week end with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnson at Royal Oak. They all attended the wedding and reception of the ladies' nephew, Pat Laughlin, and Candy Parson's at Fraser.

Mr. and Mrs. Delos Wood of Toledo, Ohio, spent the week end here with their mothers, Mrs. Bert Wood and Mrs. C. P. Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sontag spent the week end in Saginaw with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Weber. Miss Terri Sontag remained to spend this week with her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Powell of Cass City visited Sunday evening at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Elery Sontag and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shope and family.

Miss Debbie Shope entertained several girl friends at a birthday pajama party overnight last Thursday, in honor of her tenth birthday. Games were played and prizes awarded. Ice cream and cake were served.

Miss Jean Shope was guest of honor at a birthday party Sunday afternoon to celebrate her eighth birthday. Ten guests were present. Games were played and prizes given. Ice cream and cake were served.

A Wisner man was sentenced to from one and one-half to five years in Jackson prison Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court. John A. Sproull was sentenced by Circuit Court Judge James P. Churchill after having been found guilty of a charge of taking indecent liberties with a child. The offense occurred Oct. 9. He will receive credit for 237 days already served. In addition to his prison term, Sproull was ordered to undergo psychiatric counseling. In other cases, Raymond Spencer, Cass City, was sentenced to an additional six months' probation after pleading guilty to violation of existing probation regulations. Specifically, Spencer was charged with failing to meet monthly installment payments of $25 to the court toward the payment of a fine. Spencer was originally convicted on a breaking and entering charge at a house on Deckerville Road in January of 1971. Clarence Freyaldenhover Jr., Decker, was arraigned before Judge Churchill on a charge of larceny from a public building. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered and accepted by the court.

Specifically, Freyaldenhover is charged with the May 21 theft of a wallet containing $40 belonging to Eugene Salas, Cass City. The larceny allegedly took place at the High School locker room.

The court ordered Freyaldenhover's bond continued at $500. James Kile, Cass City, was arraigned on an amended charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place. He pleaded guilty to the charge and Judge Churchill ordered a presentencing investigation. Sentencing was set for July 24. His bail was continued.

The second group of 11 student nurses, currently receiving their clinical experience at Hills and Dales General Hospital, will complete this phase of their training in two weeks.

The students are enrolled in the program sponsored by St. Clair Community College.

The student nurses train four days a week in the hospital and the fifth day is spent in the classroom in Bad Axe under the direction of three instructors. They are Marilyn MacAlpine, RN, Rose Gliniecki, RN, and Lynn Law, RN.

When the students complete their training in late September, they will write their state board examinations before becoming licensed practical nurses. Currently, there are 28 students in the class.

Any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) . . . the same shall be a law. (Article I, Section 7 of the Constitution)

They were conscientious and astute men—those architects of the Constitution. They wanted to be sure the President could never halt the processes of democratic government by delaying legislation. And the phrase "Sundays excepted" shows that our Founding Fathers also respected Sunday as the day of the Lord. To them, it seemed natural to safeguard their freedom and profess their faith all in one sentence. The document they produced has weathered two hundred years—their faith almost two thousand. Both their Constitution and their creed—the Christian faith—are just as vibrant and important today. Make Sundays an exception to your daily routine—Go to Church!

A.A. board says thanks for article

June 20, 1973

Mr. Jim Ketchum
Chronicle Weekly Newspaper
Cass City, MI. 48726

Dear Mr. Ketchum,

We have read your article, "Local Alcoholics Anonymous Chapter Reaches Out to Help" of April 5, 1973, with a great deal of interest and gratitude. You certainly did a fine and sympathetic job for A.A. All of us are most appreciative of your understanding and care in writing this very fine article.

From the very beginning of our Fellowship we have had splendid understanding and co-operation from the communications media. Many people sober in A.A. today first learned of the Fellowship, and the possibility of recovery in it, from reading an article in a newspaper or magazine. Therefore, it is a matter of particular gratitude with us to see this fine work still going on.

All of us send to you not only our thanks but our warm greetings as well.

Sincerely yours,

General Service Board

God bless Jim Ketchum for writing that beautiful description of Chautauqua in his column.

It is good to know there are such places around yet. I enjoyed it immensely.

Pet peeve

Ignored children

Clerks who ignore children in stores is a pet peeve of Mrs. Jeanie Deering, 6457 Houghton St.

"They have just as much right to be in there and buy things as adults do," she says. "I've been in stores where a clerk will ask if she can help me and I'll say, 'No, these children were ahead of me.'"

Mrs. Deering says that, when the children grow up, they will remember the stores in which they were ignored and will spend their money accordingly. Mrs. Deering, who plays on the Cass City Women's Softball team, has lived in Cass City for the past 10 years. She and her husband, Roger, have seven children.

Got a pet peeve? Sound off. Call the Chronicle and tell us. Dial 872-2010.

EDWARD J. HAHN REAL ESTATE

We are now

Erla's win 8 (count 'em) 8 games in week

Erla's softball teams have been playing more games than the Detroit Tigers in recent days and playing them with a whole of a lot more success.

You could say that it resembled the recent Tiger-Yankee series in reverse. Erla's played eight games and won them all.

Four of the games were in the week-end tournament at Saginaw for classes C and D teams. Erla's started with a victory over ITT Friday, a 4-1 decision behind Don McGill who whiffed 10 and allowed four hits. Charlie and Don McGill, and Wally Hempton each collected two hits.

The victory moved the club into Saturday competition against Pappy's Pizza when McGill again pitched a fine game shutting out the Pizza players, 4-0. McGill was touched for seven hits but was super tough in the clutch. He was helped by Rollie Nickolas who slammed two for three including a home run.

In the later game of the day Erla's faced Heck's Bar and Heck's faced Al Bosch and that was all, brother. Bosch pitched a three-hitter, struck out 11, and the Foodmen won 4-1. Erla's only slapped out four hits but made them count.

The win coasted Erla's into the finals while Heck's won another game to qualify for the finals in the double elimination. Sadly for the Saginaw nine, Bosch returned to the mound and the losers learned little from the previous day's seven-inning stint.

This time Bosch shut them out on three hits and struck out 14. The score was 6-0. Actually it wasn't much of a game after the second inning as Erla's pounded out five runs on five hits in the first two frames... and five runs for Bosch is as safe as a United States Savings Bond.

For his mound efforts Bosch was named the tournament's most valuable player.

LEAGUE PLAY

The games weren't quite as easy in the Thumb Traveling League, but the results were the same. Erla's won them all.

The opening victory Wednesday, June 20, was a tight game against Reese Muller's at Frankenmuth.

Bosch chucked another shut-out, winning 2-0, while whiffing 12.

Wally Hempton with two hits, including a triple, led the way. Akron was the next victim in a game played at Unionville, 5-3. Thursday, Don McGill allowed just five hits, but three of them came in the fourth inning and included a home run by Lassiter.

Erla's showed class by coming from behind to win. Hempton contributed a key triple in a three-run fourth. The winning run scored in the fifth when Charlie McGill singled to chase home Jim LaRoche who singled.

Mayville was the week's last victim. Erla's scored a 9-5 decision as McGill was backed with a lousy 14-hit Foodmen attack.

Erla's record is now 14-1. The team plays in a tournament at Mayville this week end. The first game is Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Fire forces family to flee

Fire shortly before 12:30 a.m. Monday, forced five members of a Kingston township family to flee from the upstairs of their burning house.

According to Tuscola county sheriff's officers, the two-story wood frame house on Lamton Road was owned by Gary Somerville, Decker. They said the house was "burned out".

The family was apparently trapped upstairs by the fire.

A six-year-old son, John, jumped first from the second story of the burning house. His mother, Katherine, who jumped next, injured her leg in the leap.

Mrs. Somerville ran across the road and awakened a neighbor, James Middaugh, who brought a ladder so the other three members of the family could get out of the house. They were Joe, 3, Julie, 4, and the father, who stayed upstairs with the two smaller children while Mrs. Somerville ran for help, according to the officers.

Mrs. Somerville was taken to the Marlette Community Hospital for treatment of her leg injury.

THE PIKE WERE hitting Thursday on the North Branch of the Cass River, east of Cass City. Anglers Fred Harbec and Dave Doerr display their prize catches about an hour after the feat. Harbec landed a 34-inch, 12 lb. walleye and a 29-inch, 6 lb. pike. Companion Doerr landed a 24-inch, 5 lb. pike. Harbec said they struck daredevils. All three fish were caught within a 20 minute period.

2 bike riders killed Saturday

Tuscola county's traffic death toll reached 13 Saturday evening, when two motorcycle riders were killed shortly before 7:30 p.m. near Millington.

They were identified as Robert A. Gamble, 21, Flint and Ronald Rogers, 24, Owosso. They were killed when their motorcycle collided with a truck being driven by Mark Ewald, 21, of Dickerson Road, Unionville.

According to sheriff's officers, the accident happened on Millington Road, two miles east of Millington. They said the motorcycle made a U-turn in front of the truck.

They said it was not possible to determine who was driving the motorcycle. The two men were thrown about 130 feet from the point of impact. They were pronounced dead at the scene.

A Gagetown woman escaped serious injury Friday when she lost control of her car and slid into a ditch on Bay City-Forestville Road near McElowny Road.

Officers said Sheila Ward, 6655 Gage St., was driving east when she saw a vehicle coming south on McElowny Road. She told officers she thought the car was not going to stop, so she hit her brakes and slid into the ditch.

Tracks indicated the other driver pulled to the edge of the pavement and then stopped. The driver, Christian Schlarich, 6354 McElowny Road, was ticketed.

The accident occurred around 5:30 p.m.

Roger Dibble, Caro, sustained injuries later that same day when the car he was driving struck a tree on Bevins Road near Phillips Road.

According to deputies' reports, Dibble was traveling east on Bevins Road when he saw a deer run out in front of him. He swerved to avoid the deer, lost control of the car and struck the tree.

He was taken to Caro Community Hospital where he was treated for injuries sustained in the accident which took place around 10:50 p.m.

Saturday, a car driven by Alexander Robles, 6394 River Rd., struck a bridge while traveling west on Bay City-Forestville Road.

Deputies said Robles swerved off the opposite side of the road and struck a bridge abutment west of Gagetown. He told officers he does not know how it happened.

He was taken to Caro Community Hospital for treatment of injuries. The accident occurred around 6 a.m.

Also on Saturday, a car driven by Betty Lynn Laurie, 5440 N. Dodge Rd., collided with a car driven by Guadalupe Martinez, 3212 Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown.

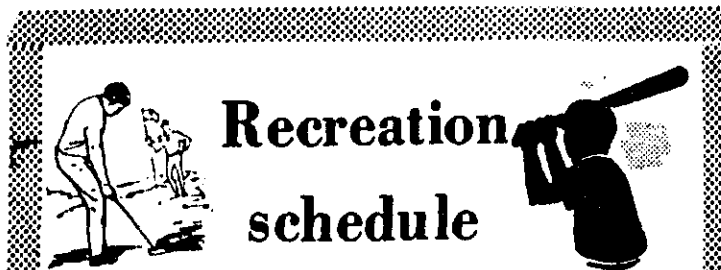

The report of the accident said Martinez turned too sharply into an alley from State Street in Gagetown, striking the Laurie auto.

No ticket was issued.

Sandusky girls roll over Cass City

It appears that a couple of Sandusky county women's softball teams, Peck and Sandusky, are the class of the Thumb League. Last Wednesday the Cass City entry played one of them, Sandusky, and the results was a 30-1 pasting.

The game was called after five innings and observers said it was the worst game for the Cass City team this season.

The girls turned it all around in the next game the following night at Sandusky. They whipped Marlette, 9-7. Harriet Richards hammered three hits while Kally Pine and Charlene Farmer banged out a couple of safeties each.

Cass City was to have played at Sandusky at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday. The team has a 4-2 record.

NO CHANCE

Men who lack self-confidence become discouraged and lose sight of their goal in life.

3-way tie in Church league

The Cass City Church League is moving well into its season's schedule and in games played through Friday there were still three teams undefeated.

One of them, the Methodists, is the defending league champions so being in front is nothing new... but the Baptists and the Cass City Missionaries haven't been used to the rarified air of first place in recent years.

Sparking the Baptists has been Craig Helwig, a fireballing right hand chucker who is in double figures in the strike out column in every game.

His least effective start this season was recorded Tuesday, June 19, in an 11-6 decision over the Lutherans. Moose Willy took the loss.

Helwig still struck out 11 and was helped by Dean Hoag with three for four and Elwyn Helwig with four for four, including a home run. Craig Helwig and Henry Cookin also blasted homers and Al Romig hit a homer among his three hits for the Lutherans.

The Methodists stayed undefeated with a 14-4 rout of Deford. Eldon Stoutenburg topped George Sangster on the mound. The Methodists received hitting support from Mike Murphy, three hits, and Don Galbraith and Jerry Toner, two hits each.

Thursday the Catholics came up with a new pitcher and the team's first win of the season. Paul Bliss hurled his team to an 11-6 decision over Shabbona. Dan Caister took the loss. John Smentek and Jim Mastie slammed two hits each for the Catholics.

Thursday, June 21, Craig Helwig pitched a one-hitter as the Baptists overpowered Owen Gage, 19-2. Helwig whiffed 14. Dean Hoag with three for four and Elwyn Helwig with four for five led the winners.

Friday the Lutherans chalked up their first win of the season with a 16-5 decision over Deford. Ken Martin outduelled John Curtis on the mound. Ken Martin and Dale Iseler collected two hits for the Lutherans while J. Martin and Jim Wentworth hit a pair of safeties for the losers.

In the late game Friday Shover-Laing also recorded its first victory of the season, keeping Lamotte Missionary from the win circle, 17-9. Gene Dorman was the winning pitcher.
