

Caro murder suspect recaptured Tuesday

Timothy Kreger, 25, Caro, was back in the custody of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department Tuesday afternoon after staging a daring daylight escape from the county jail that morning.

Kreger, who faces charges of first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of Dan Anger, 30, Caro, was captured on an island in the Cass River south of Caro.

According to Sheriff Hugh Marr, Kreger was first reported missing at 7:45 a.m. during a routine check. He said an earlier check at 7:30 had turned up nothing out of the ordinary.

Marr explained that a disturbance occurred in the cell, and that this was during the regular clean-up time at the jail when much of it is relatively open. Kreger chose this moment to make his run for freedom.

Marr said Kreger ran from the jail to a brother-in-law's home a few blocks away and demanded a change of clothing. He was wearing a white prisoner's uniform at the time of his escape. The brother-in-law gave him a shirt and pair of trousers and after he changed into them, Kreger fled from the house, reportedly in his stocking feet.

From there, Kreger wound a circuitous path south of Caro and along the Cass River near the sugar plant. Within minutes of his escape, according to Marr, a manhunt team had been mobilized comprised of police officers from neighboring towns and villages, including Police Chief Gene Wilson of Cass City.

State Police were called in, using helicopter patrol and a police dog used by Trooper Bill Lawrence of the West Branch post.

The search continued until the dog tracked Kreger to the island where he surrendered to authorities shortly after 11:00 a.m.

Marr indicated that Kreger made no connections with anyone after his escape, other than his brother-in-law.

Kreger stands accused of the June 8 slaying of Anger, who was shot and killed while in his car on Hunt Road, about seven miles south of Caro. Monday, Kreger stood mute on a charge of first degree murder. A plea of not guilty was entered for him and accepted by the court.

Pre-trial examination was set for July 23.

Anger was convicted of conspiracy in the theft of a $15,000 farm tractor from Gettels Implement, Inc., Pigeon in March, 1972. He had posted bail for Kreger on an arson charge shortly before he was killed.

Marr indicated that a full investigation into the jailbreak would be conducted.

$750,000 indoor swimming pool bond issue set for August 13 vote

The Cass City School Board forged ahead with plans to present the indoor pool issue before Cass City School District voters, working at a series of special meetings and the regular monthly board meeting Monday evening.

The proposal will be presented in a special election Aug. 13 and voters will be asked to approve a $750,000 bond issue and a one-mill levy for operation of the unit.

Supt. Don Crouse said that the levy necessary to pay the bond issue would be 1.9 mills when first authorized and would probably decrease in the years ahead as a reserve is established and the inevitable increases in valuation occur. The levy would last 25 years.

Operation of the unit is pegged at one mill, bringing the total pool package to 2.9 mills. If approved it is likely that the pool would operate for only a half year or less next year and that only a half of the one mill levy would face taxpayers the first year.

After listening to presentations the board selected Warren Holmes as architect and officially confirmed the choice at the meeting Monday.

The fee for the services will be 7 per cent of the total cost and if the bond issue is not approved preliminary work cost is estimated at about $1,000.

With these details arranged the board turned its attention to other aspects of the pool proposition. A meeting with the village council was deemed necessary and the full board and the council will meet next Tuesday at the high school to go over plans for the campaign presentation.

It was a night for financial decisions. The board approved a recommendation by Supt. Donald Crouse to increase charges for school use. The custodian fee will be up 16 cents per hour to $5.00 per hour. The high school kitchen fee increases 10 cents per hour to $4.50 and the Campbell, Deford and Evergreen kitchen fee is up 10 cents per hour to $4.00.

The increases reflect increased costs for school employees whose contracts call for boosts.

Cass City has one of the lower charges in the area for school use by private parties, operating on the break-even theory when setting rates.

President Arthur Severance appointed Elwyn Helwig, Bob Hira and Lynn Albee to a bid committee for fuel oil, gasoline, milk and meat.

In contrast to previous years, current shortages may cut the bids received, the board was told.

REQUEST LAND

The Calvin Macrae appeared before the board and asked the board to sell them 40 feet of frontage on Seeger Street included in the property that the district is purchasing from Dr. H. T. Donahue.

Macrae offered $50 per front foot for the land adjacent to his lot that is 25 feet deep.

Supt. Crouse advised against the sale and pointed out that it would be impossible to do anything in any case until the option is exercised on the property next year.

It appears unlikely that any land will be for sale now or in the future. However, the board did okay the free use of the land by Macrae, including the erection of a building on skids, until such time as the school would require it.

Several routine matters were completed. Election inspectors for the Aug. 13 election were named. The two banks in Cass City and the Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank of Flint were named as depository agents for 1973-74 fiscal year and board members were given subscriptions to the American School Board Journal.

REORGANIZE BOARD

As required after every election board officers were named. All incumbents were re-elected. President is Arthur Severance. Elwyn Helwig is secretary and Geraldine Prieskorn, treasurer.

FIRE EARLY Sunday morning destroyed the home of Lauren Charon, 5883 Argyle Road. The two-alarm blaze destroyed house and contents and broke out around 3:45 a.m. No one was injured.

WHILE CASS CITYANS were trying to beat the heat last week, little Carol (left) and Janet Kubacki found one sure method was to wear as little as possible. That's just what they did Monday, as their mother, Mary Ann Kubacki, stopped by the Chronicle office.

Sunday fire destroys Lauren Charon home

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Lauren Charon home early Sunday morning.

The two-alarm blaze began around 3:45 a.m. and quickly spread through the entire stone and wood house, located at 5883 Argyle Road, Decker. According to Elkland Township Fire Chief Dick Root, the family had been away from the house since 11 a.m. the previous day and no one was at home at the time of the fire. No one was injured.

Firefighters did manage to save two large semi-trucks parked in an adjoining garage. Loss was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $20,000-$25,000.

According to Root, the entire house was engulfed in flames by the time the department arrived on the scene.

The department extinguished two other area blazes last week. A Cass City man suffered minor burns early Thursday morning when fire destroyed the davenport on which he was sleeping.

Donald Jackson of Koenig Road, sustained burns to his legs around 7 a.m. According to fire officials, Jackson apparently was smoking at the time and fell asleep on the davenport. He was treated for his burns at the scene.

The house sustained heavy smoke damage as a result of the blaze. No dollar loss figure was available.

Saturday, a garage belonging to Fred Jans, 6646 E. Main, sustained fire damage to the roof. Chief Root said the blaze probably started from flying cinders from a trash burner nearby. The wooden-shingled roof was damaged on the south side. A $300 loss figure was placed on the fire which broke out around 4 p.m.

Sunday afternoon, the department received a report that a dump was on fire. A check of area dumps turned up no fires.

Revenue sharing for Cass City told

Barring any last-minute hitches, the village of Cass City will be the recipient of over $42,000 in state revenue sharing monies, under the provisions of a bill which has just passed both houses of the Michigan Legislature.

Under the revenue sharing bill, which will distribute some $262.8 million to counties, cities, villages and townships across the state, Cass City will receive $42,613.66, up 8.5 per cent over last year's allocation of $39,262.86. This figures out to $21.59 per capita, compared with $19.89 per capita in the last fiscal year.

The recently-passed measure provides that no local unit of government will receive less than $17 per capita and up to a minimum of $20.50 per capita for units levying up to three mills.

The money to be distributed to local units of government is derived from sales, income and intangibles taxes and from the state general fund.

Wilson views changes in Cass City police force

By Jim Ketchum

Law enforcement has undergone a good many changes since Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson first donned a uniform for the Tuscola County Sheriff's department in 1962. The training of officers has advanced, tools of enforcement have become more sophisticated, and while the nature of the criminal and the types of crime committed have not really changed very much, his average age has dropped.

On the Cass City force, some of the greatest changes are readily apparent.

"When I started with the Sheriff's office in 1962, Cass City had only one full-time officer," Wilson, a Cass City native, recalled at his office last week. "There was one relief man, a part-time night man and a little extra part-time help. And that was it."

Now the village has four full-time officers and two patrol cars making regular runs.

"When we had just one car, it was pretty easy to figure out where it was," he said. "Now with two, you never quite know just where one of them might be."

Wilson said his four-man department can do an adequate job of protecting citizens, although there are peak times when another man could be used. He said any police department in the nation can say the same thing.

Along with an increase in manpower has come better equipment. A new radio system is expected to be installed soon, providing quicker communications with officers. Additionally, an officer walking a beat will carry a two-way radio, insuring him of almost constant communication with the dispatcher.

In the past 11 years, Wilson said, the calibre of the average American police officer has risen to meet the needs of more complex law enforcement.

College educations are more and more becoming the rule instead of the exception.

"I have an application in my desk from a Michigan State University graduate who wants a job in this department," Wilson related. "This was unheard of 10 or 11 years ago. Now most junior colleges have two-year associates degrees in law enforcement, along with four-year colleges."

Part of this trend, Wilson said, stems from the federal government pumping more funding into the law enforcement area of education. Another factor involved has been public reaction toward the police and their demand for more competent, qualified officers.

Additionally, pay and benefits have risen dramatically in the last decade. This, Wilson said, has resulted partly from policemen organizing into unions and fraternal organizations, and partly from the desire of departments to hire better men.

"In just the last year, conditions have improved here," Wilson said. "If an officer works a holiday, he gets an extra day's pay. He also gets overtime now, which hasn't always been the case."

While working alone in Cass City is not considered unsafe by Wilson, occasionally both police cars, each manned by one officer, will answer a single call if the possibility of some physical force is apparent. Formerly, when the department used only one patrol car, officers would patrol in two-man teams.

"By splitting them up, we feel we give the village better protection and spread ourselves out a little more," Wilson said.

As the department has grown over the years, so has the paperwork. Today, Wilson's file of recorded complaints received by the Cass City Police department contains more reports than the sheriff's department used to receive in an entire year. Each complaint received is followed by a typewritten report describing the incident in detail with the action taken by the officer.

As Cass City grows along with its police department, the kinds of problems faced by each continues to change.

For example, according to Wilson, larcenies went up from 99 in 1971 to 139 in 1972, auto thefts went up by six in the same time period and five drug complaints were received by the department compared to four in 1971.

On the positive side, vandalism went down by 26, from 123 to 97, burglary complaints were down by five from 24 to 19, and bad check reports were down from 22 to 9.

Wilson said there are more juvenile lawbreakers today than a decade ago. These incidents usually involve a wide variety of minor complaints.

"Usually, it involves a kid trying to see just how much he can get away with," he said.

"When I started in police work, most of the problems were with the 18-20 year-old bracket; mostly men just back from the service. Now most of the problem comes from the 15-16 year-old age range."

He said the home environment is probably a large factor in whether or not a juvenile gets into trouble in the beginning.

Wilson said he sees any drug problems leveling off to an extent, due to the adverse publicity drug use has received in the media.

Overall, he said, crime is on the decrease in the metropolitan areas, while it is on the increase in the suburban and rural localities. Part of this is due, he said, to the fact that in many rural areas, law enforcement is spread too thin to do the job.

Essentially the problems faced by the Cass City Police Department are not much different than a decade ago. Wilson said that the department receives more complaints for loud autos and noisy dogs than in years past.

"This comes as part of a growing community," Wilson said. "As you get more people, you naturally aren't going to have the quiet community you had 20 or 30 years ago."

Wilson said the problems Cass City faces in law enforcement are different than those faced by Detroit, Flint or Saginaw. The racial problem is non-existent, he said, along with organized crime. Within the department, the problems of tension between factions does not exist.

One problem Wilson does face in common with chiefs of police in large cities is time.

"I used to think that when I got a fourth man that I'd have more time to catch up on my office work," he said. "Now it seems as though I have even less time to spend at my desk. From that standpoint, I could use another man. But then, every department can say the same thing."

Wilson said that respect for his department among the citizens of Cass City rates high, better than in most larger cities, he added.

"I feel as though we are a respected department," he said. "For example, I feel that I can meet someone on the street that I might have arrested six months or a year earlier and talk with that person without being too uncomfortable about it."

This respect factor has not declined, he said, but has remained relatively stable.

Trends for the future are difficult to forecast, he said, but he does see a continued battle with the rising larceny statistics, along with the general type of noise and animal calls.

Wilson said he likes Cass City and would not consider a job on a force such as Detroit or Flint.

GENE WILSON, Chief of Police for Cass City, finds paperwork an ever-increasing part of his job. Wilson has headed the department since 1970.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

If you see the Chronicle's Jim Ketchum looking slightly bewildered and maybe just a mite suspicious these days, consider:

The last time our Jim bet on anything was the first time that President Nixon ran for election. He bet a quarter.

So the other day as he tracked down Dick Root for a story the two darted into a restaurant to get out of the rain and for coffee.

Many of the businessmen do. To pay the tab they play a little game. Someone writes down a number from 1-1000 and everybody guesses until someone hits the number written and pays for the coffee.

Jim was first... and last. The odds were 1,000 to 1 against guessing right (or wrong) the first time. But Ketchum was equal to it. The first guess, the first number was the loser for him. He paid $2.00.

He still can't understand it. And I've told him and told him that these are really nice guys and wouldn't for the world stick him with a frame-up.

But how would you feel?

*****

As promised we eased Big Sky in Montana last week. That's Chet Huntley's combine with the multi-million resort complex investment program... ski slopes, condominiums, golf courses, the works.

From an eyeball look things aren't going as quickly as planned. There are several buildings. Many curiosity seekers like the Haires... but this development has a long way to go.

Surprisingly, the natives are restless about the whole thing. They want their privacy and aren't that interested in the promised easy buck that the development heralds.

Big Sky is tied up with a lawsuit now and it may be years before the development equals the advance billing.

Mrs. Theron Middaugh of 3655 Phillips Road tells us about an especially good specimen of a snake skin she found. It once housed a garter snake, she says, and measured about 30 inches and was so perfectly shed that the eye holes and the position of the mouth were clearly visible.

I mention this to illustrate that all ladies aren't uptight about snakes, rats and mice while conceding that snakes and snake skins don't turn me on much at all.

In fact, if they leave me alone I'll do the same with them.

*****

It's the long hot summer I guess. Anyway, for the first time in several months there were no interested observers at the school board meeting.

No reps from the Citizens for Improved Education, no disgruntled parents, just a couple of persons with business to conduct.

It's ironic, too. There was some meaty discussion at Monday's meeting. More so than at most of the sessions held the second Monday of every month.

BETTER HALF

Many so-called self-made men just married the right women and she did the rest.

TIP TO MOTORISTS

School children look up to you, motorists—so it's up to you to look out for them.

These higher gasoline prices and more expensive registration fees for cars aren't unusual, if one looks outside the United States where fewer roads and narrower streets

Michigan Mirror

Better air, dwindling fuel point toward big auto doom

It may be a few years before it happens, but all the signs point to the extinction in the future of America's traditional big engine, two ton plus automobile.

The evolution is being brought about by two converging forces: the desire for a better environment with better air and the dwindling supply of fuel reserves in the country. Big engines burn more gas anyway, and with the demands of extra equipment to protect the environment coming on strong, they burn even more gas per mile.

The problem of gasoline consumption is marked enough without talk of higher gas prices. So when some people urge an increase in the federal gas tax, the thought is really to further cut back more on the use of gas, more than to raise money.

Now another proposal has been put forth in the Michigan House: tax cars more heavily the heavier they are and the more powerful their engine is.

Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, introduced a bill which would set a flat $20 fee for a passenger car weighing not more than 2,000 pounds and with a horsepower of no more than 100. He would charge an additional three cents per pound for each pound over 2,000 and 50 cents per horsepower for each horsepower in excess of 100.

Thus, a 4,000 pound car with 250 horsepower would cost its owner $155 for license plates.

The bill most surely won't get far this year. But it is the type of forward looking bill that in a few years might make its way into the law books.

compare with our highway systems.

The result has been the development in those countries of much lighter cars with smaller, higher performance engines that operate much more efficiently.

One of the short range solutions proposed for the United States has been the lowering of speed limits. But even here the big cars still cannot compete in economy to small ones.

*****

If gas rationing becomes a reality, the smaller cars will have an obvious advantage, since any restrictions of so many gallons per driver over a given time period would mean more miles in a small car than in a big one.

Should this development come, it could have drastic effects in Michigan unless the automakers are prepared to deal with the changes.

TAXES SKY HIGH

On the subject of gasoline, those who don't believe Michiganders pay a low gas tax, even with the two cent increase voted last year, need only to look to other countries.

Michiganders pay a total gas tax of 13 cents per gallon, with nine cents going to the state and

"If It Fitz . . ."

Hunting a burial ground

BY JIM FITZGERALD

My closest relatives should clip this column and save it for future reference. I want a classy funeral. Men with shovels need not apply.

I want a fare-thee-well similar to the one recently accorded the late Capt. Joseph Serzan of Daytona Beach, Florida. For 40 years he was captain of a 48-foot luxury yacht owned by Mrs. Flagler Matthews, granddaughter of a railroad tycoon. Serzan lived on the boat and often said he wanted to be buried at sea.

Well, Mrs. Matthews didn't slip Serzan's body into a burlap sack and throw it over the side. No way. She got a priest and mourners and set sail into the Atlantic. After a proper ceremony, the yacht seacocks were opened and the boat sank to the bottom, with Capt. Serzan's body aboard. I guess the pallbearers swam home.

That yacht was worth $60,000 which is slightly more than charged by your friendly neighborhood Digger O'Dell for a semi-deep mourning coffin with taped organ music and sing-along cards included.

What I mean, that's class. And that's the type of thing I want -- to be buried in a spot that has meant something to me during my lifetime, not in some spooky cemetery I ordinarily wouldn't be caught dead in. I certainly have a way with words, don't I?

The question is, where? My first thought was Curley Peloso's pool room on Water St. in Port Huron. That's where I learned a valuable lesson. I learned that my choking point can be determined by money. I could always make the 9-ball for a 50-cent bet if I had $1 in my pocket. But I was penniless I always choked and missed the shot. This meant I had to run out the door and across the 7th Street Bridge to school where I put myself in the protective custody of a nun, thus thwarting the brute who was clawing at my heels, threatening to kill me if I didn't pay him 50 cents. Moral to live by: Don't bet more than you have. You can't always find a nun when you need one.

But I just read they are going to tear down that poolroom and build a riverside park. I never met a pigeon I trusted, so I don't want to be buried in a park.

My next thought is just a few blocks away, the Alibi Bar. This is where I spent my last, blessed days of bachelorhood -- about 10 years worth. It was here that countless veterans gathered to forget the horrors of World War 2. Most of us over-succeeded, also forgetting where we lived and what our names were. But my attachment for the Alibi is not as nostalgic as it is proprietary. I have enough money sunk in the place to provide care for my grave forever, which may be longer than perpetual care, or whichever comes first.

However, such a delicate subject demands consultation with the potential survivors. So I asked my family what they thought. And they immediately decided upon a black leather chair upon which I always sit, and no one else is allowed to sit. It is in front of the TV, next to the bookcase, and 2 small luges from the kitchen.

It was agreed that, after a cheap cremation in the backyard incinerator, my ashes should be sifted down between the cushions of my chair.

"Whenever I sit in it," my wife explained, "it will be a pleasure to think of you down there."

So be it. The pallbearers will be allowed to keep all the coins they find. Onward and Upward.

Set Thumb barley tour for July 19

A tour of area barley fields sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service will be held Thursday, July 19, according to County Extension Director William L. Bortel.

The tour gets under way at 11:00 a.m. at the Paul and John Leipprandt farm, located six miles north of Pigeon on Sturn Road and two miles east on Limerick Road. This farm features the Coho variety of the grain.

Next stop on the tour is the Leo and Al Scaryneck farm at 1:30 p.m. Located two and one-half miles west of Gagetown to Hurds Corner Road, then south one mile to Hobart Road, this farm currently raises 50 acres of Coho barley. At 2:00 p.m., the tour stops at the Fred Matt farm. This farm is located five and one-half miles west of Gagetown to Colwood Road, then south two miles to Hoppe Road. The barley field, 20 acres of Larker variety, is located approximately one-eighth mile west on Hoppe Road.

At 3:00 p.m., the tour visits the Clarence and Bernard McLaren farm, located five and one-half miles west of Akron to Bradleyville Road, then north one mile on Bradleyville Road. Larker and Coho varieties are planted side by side here.

Winding up the day will be a twilight evening meeting held at the John Harrington farm, located three and one-half miles east and one and one-quarter miles south of Reese on Bradleyville Road, formerly the E.C. Korthals farmstead, Michigan State University barley and oat test plots will be viewed.

All barley growers are encouraged to attend this tour and evening meeting. The Rickel Malting Co., Fleischmann's Malting Co., and the Cooperative Extension Service each have representatives on the tour.

New strains and varieties of barley and oats will be seen at the twilight meeting. The Barley Marketing Committee will also highlight their activities following the twilight tour.

Parents cause stuttering children

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Mothers sometimes write me much concerned because one of their sons has started to stutter. He is self-conscious with anyone who he fears will be critical about him. For instance, one mother told me that her boy stutters with her, but not with her husband; apparently because the boy knows that she is much more distressed about his stuttering than his father is. His father doesn't mind.

Curiously, in an article by psychiatrist Dr. Joyce Brothers, I read that a study made of American Indian tribes in Idaho and South Dakota showed that they have no stutterers; they haven't even a word for stuttering in their language. This may be because Indian children are not criticized much by their parents.

Dr. Brothers says that stutterers generally start to have the trouble around the age of three, although some start only after they are several years older. If one wants to help a stuttering child, says Dr. Brothers, he must do what he can to create for him a calm environment that won't produce in him anxiety, tension, and particularly the feeling of disapproval.

It is well-known that when a stutterer talks to his dog, he does not stutter. I have heard of children who had been stuttering, but when their parents were much more affectionate with them, or showed no disgust, the child got well.

HOW PEOPLE CAN FOOL THEMSELVES

Often times as a physician, I have seen patients who were very adept at fooling themselves, perhaps about certain unpleasant and distressing facts regarding their body. To show what I mean, years ago I saw in my office an able woman of 35 or so, unmarried, very nervous, and evidently a distressed loner who lived with a relative.

After checking the woman over and finding no sign of what we doctors call organic disease (meaning something that we can demonstrate), I noted that on her upper lip she had a growth of dark hair that made her look as if she had a moustache, and it seemed to me as if it could be the cause of at least some of her troubles.

So I asked her, as tactfully as I could, "Why don't you get rid of that little moustache of yours?" It must be very distressing to you, and you could easily shave it off, or take it off with a depilatory cream, or bleach it so it would be less noticeable." I was so surprised when she said, "What are you talking about? I haven't any moustache." When I made her look in a mirror she acted as if that was the first time she had ever seen the abnormal hairiness. Finally, she realized that in an effort to avoid the distress of having a moustache, she had compelled herself not to see it.

Soon I was able to convince her to take the moustache off, and from that day onward she was a different and much happier and more social woman. She also showed that she was a gifted person, when she wrote a play which remained on the stage for more than a year. I have had several patients with a facial defect who acted for a while as if they had never noticed it, and yet were much happier when they had the defect corrected. Oftentimes, also, these patients have been able to fool themselves into thinking that they "weren't eating a thing," and were still gaining weight.

I remember passing the luncheon table of a woman who had come to me for a reduction diet, and had sworn to me that she scarcely ate anything all day and couldn't understand how she kept gaining weight. I passed the woman in the dining room of the hotel where I was going to have lunch, and there in front of her on the table was an enormous collection of rich food guaranteed to put several pounds on her.

The fact that the woman had traveled many hundreds of miles to the Mayo Clinic to learn how to reduce her weight showed that she knew she was overweight, and in my office she sounded absolutely convinced that she was one of the exceptional people who eat very little food and yet put on weight—but seeing her at luncheon showed me that she had a great capacity for self-deception.

Should varicose veins be removed early just because they are ugly or should the woman wait until they give her trouble? Dr. Alvarez gives you his views on this subject in his booklet "Varicose Veins." For your copy send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Moving miseries

By Jim Ketchum

Don't ever move if you can help it. Stay put. When you unpack the dishes, the silver and the pictures, throw the packing boxes away immediately. Burn them in the front yard if need be. Nail the furniture to the floor so neither husband nor wife can even consider the thought of packing it into a truck and striking out for parts unknown.

I speak from experience. We bought a house in Cass City not long ago and now the process—the slow, protracted process—of moving all that damn junk of ours across town is once more upon us.

We have more stuff than six people ought to have and it seems we are collecting more all the time. I never know how it accumulates. Each time it goes in a box again, I vow that this will be the last time, that I will rot from starvation before I'll ever do it again. Then I pick up another chunk of newspaper and wrap the next plate so it won't crack when it gets moved.

Why me? Why someone who hates to move anyway the way I do should be condemned to the life of the nomad is beyond me. Once things are placed in their proper position, I want them left there. Moving just to have another place to live is for the birds.

This came home to me literally last Wednesday when we brought more of our ever-increasing mass of things back to Cass City after a visit down home. One thing I vow on a stack of newspapers I'll never do again is haul a trailer behind an automobile.

We tried it and we didn't like it.

It all began Tuesday after I left the office and came home to this monstrosity of a 12-foot trailer hitched behind our 1966 Plymouth Valiant. The car was as long as the trailer. I was duly informed that it made more sense to use the little car because all the electrical hook-ups for the trailer were on it and not on my larger Chevrolet.

I gave in to my better half and off we went, jolting down the highways and byways of Michigan at the fantastic speed of 45 miles per hour. Have you ever felt like a tortoise trying to run a race in dry sand? This was yours truly.

I must admit that the car did well; much better than my nervous system or one large oil company represented by a certain crooner on the tube. Our fuel supply was getting low, caused by having to haul 1800 pounds of dead weight over hill and dale.

We summarily pulled into one of those aforementioned filling stations, lights blazing away and vehicles parked all over the lot. Squeezing in between one of these cars, we grandly pulled up to the pump and waited. And waited. And waited some more, until I had the presence of mind to look at the fuel pumps and realize that each and every one read at zero. The joint was closed.

Now I not only had the problem of low fuel but also the problem of just how the hell I was going to maneuver this caravan out of there. A quick inspection of the lot confirmed my worst fears. Nowhere did we have so much as enough space to turn around. The only way out was the way we came in.

About this time, a state police trooper pulled in, ready to do his duty. I could just see it—husband and wife in jail for attempting to break into a gas station. He asked what the problem was. I replied that the problem was obvious. How was I going to get out of this closed gas station?

"Back out," replied the policeman.

I felt like saying something to the effect that no one likes a smart-aleck policeman, but I just bit my lip instead. "Okay," I managed to mutter, along with a few blue oaths under my breath.

I got my education in backing up a trailer instantly. Somehow, I got out of there without so much as a nick or dent. My real morale booster, though, came just as I started the feat when my wife called to the departing policeman, "Please don't go." Just what I needed, I thought. Faith of the spouse.

Anyway, I did get the thing backed up and in the street once more. The next problem was getting back on the freeway. The entrance ramp proved to be behind us. We had driven past it. So we had to find a place to turn around, which after some hunting we did and eventually did find our way to the southbound lane again.

The fun was not quite over yet. The next day we loaded the trailer with our articles, including an automatic washer. Back home at 45 miles per hour again

AROUND THE FARM
Bean research program underway

By Don Kebler

Last week we started off with a bang when Axel Anderson, our plant pathologist, approached us bean growing area agents. He is organizing and developing a bean monitoring research program. This is entirely different than the Bean Booster Program I previously announced several weeks ago.

This bean monitoring program involves bi-weekly checks of random selected bean fields. I'll be selecting these fields, along with a Michigan Department of Agriculture field agent. During each inspection visit, we will be recording data by fields on abnormalities, diseases, insects and degrees of each.

This research is designed along the same principles that were used three years ago when we monitored for corn blight. In these plots, we will grow air pollution indicator plants and we'll have at least one field with some white mold control research involved.

If the weather turns off warm and the soil dries out too fast, you will be seeing bean root rot quite commonly. Right now, nearly every bean field has at least one area of dry beans infected with this disease.

When you notice the bean plants wilting and turning yellow, dig up a few plants at random. If the taproot is red to dark brown or rotted, this is root rot. If these symptoms exist and the taproots are white with many tap roots, let me know so I can examine the beans at your field.

If you have dry bean root rot there is no known chemical control yet. Rotations, good soil drainage, aeration and warm weather reduce the disease probability. Affected beans can be helped by cultivating and throwing the soil to the plants to cover the stalk more. This covered stalk then is able to make new feeder roots.

Many home ground problems calls were answered this week. Many maple trees are showing the effects of anthracnose on the leaves. Let's hope the weather turns off warmer and drier as a spray control program is practically impossible on the bigger trees.

I visited two residences where over a dozen trees and shrubs were dying. Every tree was either a last year or this year's transplant. What did I find wrong? These trees were either planted too deep, suffocating from too much water in the low area where planted, or were not sufficiently pruned back when transplanted. I would venture to say that more trees and shrubs succumb when planted for one or all of these three reasons than for any other reason.

While making these home ground visits, I couldn't help but notice the large weed populations in the lawns. Here a simple inexpensive herbicide program could really make a difference in lawn beautification.

Plans are complete for the annual Barley Tour on July 19. Complete information will be coming out later via newspaper and radio.

Baptist missionary society meets

Twelve were present July 2 when the Baptist Missionary Society met with Miss Catherine MacGillivray. Vice-president Mrs. Rosella Kretschmer presided over the business meeting.

Prayer time for missionaries was led by Mrs. Vera Beasess and devotions were given by Mrs. Clyde Wells on the subject, "How to pray for our missionaries."

During the business meeting members voted a $25 contribution to Rev. Clair Saliers to be used for home mission work. Plans are being made for a special meeting in August. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fay McComb.

Deford man hospitalized

Eight area traffic accidents reported

Eight auto accidents involving area residents were reported last week to Cass City Police and the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Tuesday, a truck driven by James Kreska of Saginaw collided with a parked automobile belonging to Kenneth Elisinger of Huron St. According to Cass City Police, Kreska was traveling east on Main Street and attempted to turn south onto West Street when his truck clipped the back bumper and damaged the trunk lid of the Elisinger auto.

No one was injured in the mishap.

Tuesday, July 3, a car driven by Florence Smith, Deford, collided with a car driven by Burton Berridge, Cass City. According to police, Ms. Smith was parked on Church Street at the Erla parking lot and backed into the Berridge auto which had stopped to drop off a passenger.

Neither driver was injured.

Later that same day, David Launa of Englehart Road, Deford, sustained injuries when he lost control of his motorcycle while traveling north on Cemetery Road near Severance Road.

According to Tuscola county deputies, Launa said he saw a car pulling out of a driveway and swerved to miss the vehicle, losing control of the motorcycle. He was treated for his injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The mishap occurred at 8:05 a.m.

Wednesday, a steering malfunction forced a car driven by Charles Kappen, 3192 E. Cass City Rd., into a ditch on Cedar Run Road near Milligan Road.

Deputies said Kappen was traveling south when the steering mechanism froze, sending the car into the ditch. The vehicle traveled some 450 feet before coming to a stop. Kappen was not seriously injured.

Thursday, a car driven by Kenneth Krueger of Deford, collided with an auto driven by Mary Burns, 3391 Pine, Kingston.

Deputies said Ms. Burns stopped behind Krueger while both waited for traffic to clear at the intersection of Walnut Street and Kingston Street. Krueger then backed into the Burns auto. Neither driver was injured.

Saturday, a car driven by Ronald Lemanski of Kingston crossed the centerline of M-46 while traveling east and hit a guard rail before plunging into a deep ditch along the north side of the road. Lemanski was not seriously injured.

Sunday, a car driven by Harold Deering, 97 S. Crawford Rd., Deford, struck and killed a deer while traveling south on Englehart Road near Kelly Road. Deering was not injured.

Three Caro area teenagers were taken to Caro Community Hospital with severe cuts after their car blew a rear tire and sho into a tree six miles south of Caro.

Injured were Neal D. Daniels, 16, Larry Putman, 16, and Harvey Reader, 15. The crash occurred at 4 p.m. Thursday on Car Lake Road south of M-46.

A Deford man was hospitalized with injuries sustained in an accident Friday afternoon around 12:30 p.m.

Chester Sieradzki was driving home from work when his truck was struck by a car at the intersection of Fairgrove and Colling Roads. He was traveling east on Fairgrove Road when the other auto struck him broadside.

He was pinned in the truck and sustained leg injuries. He was taken to Caro Community Hospital and later transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw.

Keep up the competitive spirit: when competition steps out, monopoly moves in.

Plan European bike trip for teens

Marjorie Spear of Kingston is one of 32 teens who will be leaving for a three week bicycle trip in Europe beginning July 30. The trip, sponsored by the Thumb Youth for Christ, begins with a flight to Frankfurt, W. Germany, followed by a bus trip to Valencia, France, and side trips through parts of Switzerland.

Then the group will ride their bikes through France past such attractions as the Arc de Triomphe, Theatre Antique, Popes Palace and gardens, Port d'Avignon, Les Arenes, and many other sites along the way and in Paris.

This is the first overseas trip of its kind ever sponsored by the organization.

Giants on rise in Little League

Watching Little League players develop is one of the finest aspects of play in the Cass City Little League this year.

In Cass City boys start on a team, many times when nine years old, and remain with the team until they outgrow the program.

Young teams often lose regularly and then dominate in later years as the boys mature.

A team on the rise this year after failing to win a game last year in 40 starts was the Giants managed by Ken Nye.

This year the club ended at 5-5. A year's experience helped Eric Stoutenburg as he headed the mound staff. Mark Hutchinson, Dean Stover, Dave Nye and Tony Coleman also saw mound action.

Mark Hutchinson led the team in hitting. All of these boys except Hutchinson will be with the team next year.

Only members of the team who have completed their Little League careers are Hutchinson, Paul Kerbyson, Paul Guernsey and Frank Venema.

Owen-Gage OK's jr. high transfer

At its regularly scheduled Monday night meeting, the Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education voted to authorize the transfer of junior high students to the Owendale school and transfer elementary children to Gagetown for the next school year.

The elementary students will attend classes in the St. Agatha Church building.

In other business, officers were elected for the 1973-74 school year. They are: Eldon Dietzel, president; Kenneth Voelker, vice-president; Fred Cooley, secretary; Mary Downing, treasurer; Ronald Good, assistant secretary; Richard Ziehm, assistant treasurer; George Wilson, legislative representative. All were re-elected except Ms. Downing, who is new.

A meeting with the architect to discuss the progress of the building program will be held Monday, July 16.

A resolution was adopted in support of the Huron Intermediate School District's millage election for the construction of a vocational skills center. The vote is set for Aug. 28.

A letter of resignation from Cheryl Holmes, Home Economics teacher, was accepted.

The board voted to hold its regular meetings on the second Monday of each month at 8 p.m. in Owendale unless otherwise notified.

Hospital Auxiliary women make hard work pay off

Who provides the $7,000 necessary to purchase ten electrically operated beds for Hills and Dales General Hospital? Who came up with $1,500 toward the purchase of a clinic? Who provides the womanpower and time to establish and operate a thriving gift shop in the hospital?

The credit goes to the Women's Auxiliary of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

From March 1, 1972 through March 1, 1973, the 102 member auxiliary raised some $7,000 for the hospital, according to figures compiled by the East Central District of the Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries. These figures compare with Huron Memorial's Auxiliary in Bad Axe which comprises 110 members and donated $2,000 to their hospital and Caro Community's Auxilary which comprises 502 members and turned over $970 to the hospital.

How do they do it? "We've got a lot of hard-working girls in the auxiliary," says Mrs. Donald Wernette, president of the auxiliary. There's no special secret involved in it, she says.

One of the auxiliary's most successful moneymaking projects to date is the gift shop, located on the first floor of the hospital. Its manager, Caroline Martin, and her assistant, Shirley Doerr, began the venture Oct. 1, of last year and the success of the shop has surprised even these volunteers.

Mrs. Martin explained that the idea for a gift shop had been kicked around for a number of years, but could not be implemented due to a lack of space at the hospital. Then, with the completion of the new wing of the facility, space became available in the old records room. At that point the auxiliary, sent to work.

"We attended workshops on operating gift shops prior to starting this one," Mrs. Martin explained. "and we were told that it is impossible to turn any money over to the hospital for the first two years. It takes that long to become established. Well, we think we can start turning money over to the hospital in a year or a year and a half."

Mrs. Martin said she hopes to turn over $500 to the facility by the end of the year. She explained that, over the time since the shop began, they have learned many things in its operation, not the least of which is what to buy and in what volume.

"We bought what we thought would take us through the Christmas season last year and by December 15, our shelves began to look awfully bare," Mrs. Martin related. "At first, we couldn't understand why we had to buy our seasonal items so far ahead of time, but now we do."

Mrs. Martin called the shop's reception in the community wonderful, saying that it is not in competition with other stores in that it specializes in merchandise not usually found elsewhere. Additionally, the shop remains open late to accommodate those working emergency hours at the hospital.

"Someone on the staff will come in and say they want a certain item and ask us to gift-wrap it," Mrs. Martin said. "and we'll have it ready for them when they get off their shift. It's a convenience for them."

Buying patterns vary widely at the shop. Business picks up, Mrs. Martin said, when the Chronicle comes in on Wednesday. Fridays are usually busy, along with holiday seasons and other special dates such as Mother's Day and Easter.

The shop does carry some items for patients as a convenience as well. Toothpaste, after shave lotion, powders and lotions all are in great demand. Another rapidly-selling item is hospital shampoo which requires no water. But the one item in almost constant demand is crossword puzzles.

"We went all over buying books of crossword puzzles trying to find a firm we could send to which would supply us with them," Mrs. Martin explained. "It's surprising just how hard an item like this is to find."

She said the auxiliary hopes to be able to pay back the $1,500 it took to get the shop under motion. The original funding for the project came from the Auxiliary treasury.

In the operation of the gift shop, Mrs. Martin explained, there come some bonuses. For example, she explained that all labor at the shop is donated and that those who work there invariably buy something at one time or another.

"At times, we're some of our best customers," she said.

But the gift shop is just one part of the auxiliary's success story. The auxiliary also supplies television sets to patients' rooms, from which additional money is raised. Over 200 volunteer hours went into operating this function last year.

Another event held to raise funds is the annual bridge marathon which brings in upwards of $700 annually. In it, seven couples play rounds of bridge at $4.00 a game, or one dollar per person.

The auxiliary also operates cigarette and candy vending machines at the hospital.

Another project is baby pictures. The auxiliary takes a percentage of the profits from a photography studio which specializes in taking pictures of new-born infants at the hospital.

Not all the auxiliary's time is involved in raising money alone. Last April it provided volunteers to operate the Red Cross Blood Bank program held at the Elkland Township Fire Hall.

At that time, 138 persons donated blood—38 over the projected goal. Auxiliary volunteers spent some 140 total hours of work on the project—one of the most successful blood drives ever held here.

Figures show that during last year, a total of 2080 volunteer hours were spent by auxiliary members on projects. That figures out to over 20 hours per member.

How does the Hills and Dales Auxiliary succeed where others show less-than-desired results?

"We work at everything we do," says treasurer Mrs. Clark Boylan. "If what we're doing doesn't work, we go to something else."

No magical formulas to pull money out of the air. No gimmicks. Just an honest desire to serve the hospital and the community and to help make Cass City a better place to live.

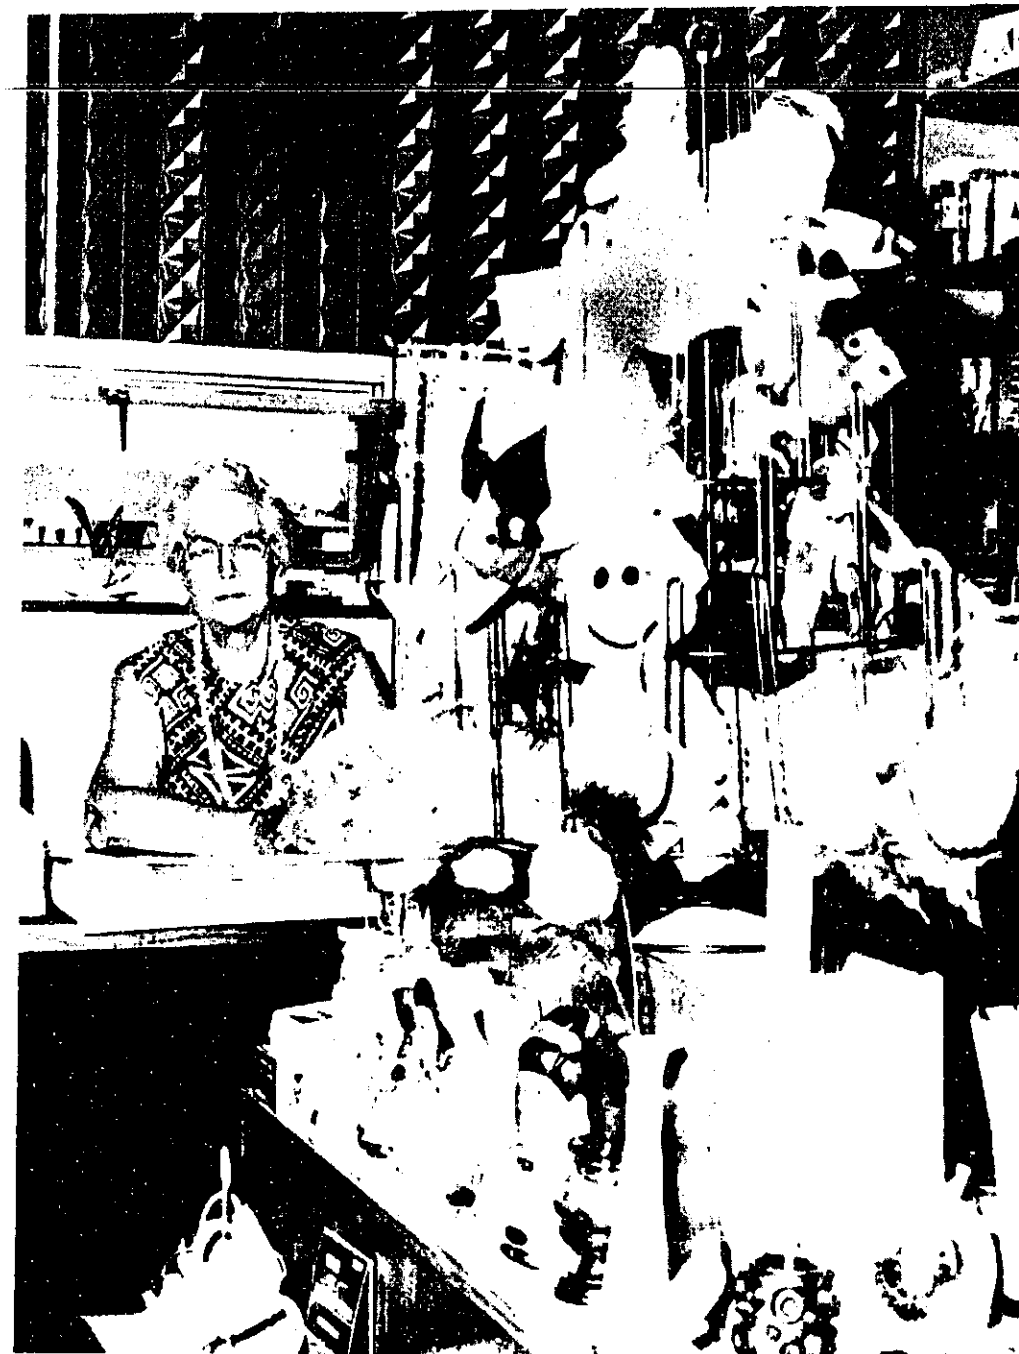

MEMBERS OF THE Hills and Dales Hospital Auxiliary gathered Wednesday, June 27, at Wildwood Farms for a luncheon honoring past presidents of the auxiliary.

At 'Three for All' event

Severance featured at Pigeon art festival

Charles Louis Severance, spinner of yarns and teller of tall tales, will be spending the evening of Friday, July 20, at "Three for All", a festival of arts, crafts and lively music sponsored by the First United Methodist Church, Pigeon.

Severance, the 65 year old author of "Tales of the Thumb," will be presenting a program of children's folk lore along with his daughter's family, the Dale Smiths of Cass City. The "Singing Smiths" will share their talent in song, in pantomime some of their grandfather's stories, and in a bit of amateur magic.

Severance's stories all involve children experiencing adventures in a Thumb area setting of the early 1900's. The yarns hint of authentic lore involving great snowstorms, runaway trains, whales that get into Lake Huron or horses that get into silos, all set against a backdrop of places well known to residents of Huron, Sanilac, St. Clair and Tuscola counties.

The Akron businessman says "all of these stories are just figments of the imagination. I don't know how I do it. When I get around kids I start talking and pretty soon I have a story going."

"Three for All" has added the dimension of performance to its art festival, which will run the week of July 15 to 21, at the First United Methodist Church, East Michigan Avenue, Pigeon. Some form of entertainment will be presented each evening during the festival.

Artists at work during the afternoon sessions will give visitors to the show a better understanding of the techniques and processes used in the creation of a finished work.

Refreshments will be offered by various women's organizations from the Pigeon area. The show will be open daily from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. with the entertainment beginning at 7:30. Free-will donations will be accepted.

Area artists wishing to display their work are asked to bring it to the fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church Friday, July 13, between the hours of 2 to 5 and 7 to 9:30 p.m. or to call Mrs. Dennis Collins, Mrs. Alton MacKenzie, Mrs. Robert O'Donnell or Mrs. Gladys Spence, all of Pigeon.

REVENUE SHARING

comes from sales taxes, which next year will provide $128 million of the revenue being shared. Income taxes will provide $93 million of the overall fund.

Under the distribution formula approved for the new fiscal year which started July 1, cities will receive $154.6 million; townships, $59 million; and counties, $49.2 million.

Figures for other Thumb communities were also released. They show:

Caro will receive $86,009.97, or 23.29 per capita; compared with $79,067.13, or 21.41 per capita last year, an 8.8 per cent increase.

Gagetown will receive $9,155.52, or $22.44 per capita; compared with $8,425.20, or $20.65 per capita last year, an 8.7 per cent jump.

DeKerville will receive $18,676.62, or $22.86 per capita; compared with $17,181.51, or $21.03 per capita last year, an 8.7 per cent increase.

Kingston will receive $10,968.96, or $23.64 per capita; compared with $10,078.08, or a $21.72 per capita last year, an 8.8 per cent jump.

The county allocation which is based on a per capita distribution of one-half of the income tax collections to be distributed and 30 cents per capita from the General Fund is estimated to be 15.3 per cent greater in the 1973-74 fiscal year than in the 1972-73 fiscal year for every county.

Tuscola county will receive $270,446.12 in state revenue sharing funds, compared with $234,609.62 last year.

A Decker man will be sentenced Aug. 6, after admitting at his pre-trial examination that he did attempt to steal $40 from a Cass City High School student.

Charles Freyaldenhov Jr. had previously stood mute at his arraignment on charges of taking $40 from a wallet belonging to Eugene Salas in the locker room of the high school. The incident occurred May 21.

Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge James Churchill ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Freyaldenhov.

Winifred Cross, Deford, was sentenced to one year's probation and $100 in fines and $100 in costs after having been found guilty of attempting to obtain the drug eskatrol by using a forged prescription. The incident took place in October of 1972.

Ms. Cross allegedly tried to pass the forged prescription at a Caro drug store.

Claude Bell, Deford, was arraigned on a charge of violation of probation. He entered a plea of guilty which was accepted by the court. He was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail and to continued probation.

Bell was originally convicted of resisting arrest in February of 1972. He pleaded guilty to violating probation by driving with a suspended license.

Arraignment for Lionel Gotwalt Jr., Mayville, was continued for two weeks in order to allow time for Gotwalt to seek a lawyer. He is charged with the May 4 larceny of two wheels from an auto in Caro.

Arraignment was set for July 23 in the cases of Roger Stevens, Vassar, and Terrie Lynn Mannarino, Caro.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Well, sir, all of us out here survived the Fourth and I'm glad to see that you did. A heap of folks didn't. The fellers brought the world situation up to date Saturday night at the country store, as usual, and they all reported where their gardens was coming in nice, or their neighbor's was, which amounted to the same good summer eating.

Ed Doolittle had a clipping left over from last Saturday night when the fellers took up the American way of celebrating by sacrificing ourselves on the highways. This piece he saw was about where a lot of cities now is putting in computered traffic light systems that count the cars, find out the traffic speed and figure out how to change the lights so everybody can keep going as fast as possible.

Ed said instead of fast lights we ought to be building them speed-breaker humps in the road about every mile. And Ed said he wasn't to sure about the value of these big roads where you got four lanes fer traffic, one lane fer the ambulance and one fer the wreckers to pick up the pieces.

Furthermore, when me and the old lady got to church Sunday, the preacher had cars on his mind. He was talking about the younger generation and I dozed off in spots, but I recall he said kids today don't have any more devilment in em than ever other generation, but now they all got cars so they can spread their mischief over more territory. The preacher said a wonder of this age is that a 17 year old boy can drive a car through the church circle drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Doyen entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of the 18th birthday of their son Dale and the second birthday of their granddaughter, Crista Hurd. Guests were Mrs. Pearl Parlo of Akron, Mrs. Elsie Jackson of Flint and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hurd Jr. and Crista.

Mrs. Lue Little of Union Lake was a lunch guest Monday at the Frank Little home. Jerry and Patricia returned home with their mother.

The world finds a vacancy for the man who has made good.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

way on two wheels, and with one arm flopped out the window, but he can't get a lawnmower across the yard without cutting up the garden hose.

Turning to other matters, Clem Webster told the fellers the Republicans have give the Democrats plenty of run-on issues in recent months, and he's wondering what the Democrats will make of Breshnev's visit. Clem said the top Russian and Nixon seem to hit it right off, and he, for one, is going to worry until he finds out what we've sold and give the Russians this time. The Russian idea of a deal is all take and no give, but Clem said we have a hard time learning that. The Democrats had a pretty good issue to run on in that wheat deal, Clem allowed, but all the stealing and lying the Republicans have been caught at lately make that $400 million mistake a minor matter.

Speaking of stealing, Mister Editor, I am disagreed with the judge that jest made them soldiers that stole from Army clubs in Vietnam give everything back to the Government and take jobs without pay. I'd rather be pore and free than rich behind bars. But you can't tigger money. I recall Tommy Manville once said he spent $1 million getting rid of 12 wives, but he had no regrets cause getting rid of six was worth the price, so he got a bargain.

Every time you find a fault in a friend match it with one of your own and you'll decide all your friends are perfect.

Here it comes . . .

Proposed bill would erase court records of juvenile offenders

Court records of juveniles could be cleared away if the young person involved keeps out of trouble for five years after a conviction and if a bill in legislature becomes law.

Sponsored by Robert Richardson (R-Saginaw) and Daniel S. Cooper (D-Southfield), the bill passed the Senate without negative vote. It moved to the House Judiciary Committee where indications are it will become law.

The idea is that a young person who gets in trouble should not have to carry the stigma of the incident his entire life if he shows he can get along in society. The five year period seems ample time for him to demonstrate that he deserves to have the record expunged and be free from the problems which can result from a court record even though it is years old.

Similar legislation has been passed for older people, and Sen. Richardson argues firmly that juveniles are even more entitled to a second chance. If the bill passes the House, they will have it.

REPAIR REFORM

A bi-partisan effort to insure honesty and competence on the part of automobile repairmen in Michigan has been launched in the Legislature.

Almost identical legislation is being pushed in the House and Senate respectively by Rep. Earl Nelson, D-Lansing, and Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo.

The bills hope to serve two purposes. One is to guarantee good, honest work on automobiles. The second is to build more confidence in auto repairmen among the general public.

Automobiles and engines have become so complicated that only a very tiny percentage of the population has understanding and equipment needed to repair their own.

This means that most people are at the complete mercy of the mechanic.

This lack of understanding breeds suspicion, even where there is no grounds for it, for there are many honest repairmen.

These goals could be accomplished if laws are adopted:

-license all auto mechanics and repair shops in the state.
-require a written cost estimate for all repair work before the car owner signs the mechanics lien.

-prohibit charging a higher price than the written estimate without express permission of the car owner.

-require the mechanic to return replaced parts at the request of the customer.
-require car owners to receive all documents they sign when they sign them.

It would also be harder for the legitimate repairman to operate, and the dishonest ones would become more evasive.

Those who perform minor work such as oil changes, lubrication and the changing of tires would be exempt from the licensing.

Auto repair shops would pay a $250 license fee, mechanics would pay $100 a year for their license and apprentices would pay $50. Revenue from the fees would pay the cost of administering the program, which would be run by the department of state.

Nelson says there is no doubt many repair shops and mechanics are doing an honest and competent job of serving the public. But he says the legislation is needed to protect consumers from those who are not.

"We cannot sit back and wait until auto repair shops voluntarily begin the practices outlined in these bills," he says. "We had hoped the industry would police itself, but obviously this hasn't happened."

The bills are complicated and far reaching enough that it's doubtful any action will come before this fall.

If and when it comes, it will affect every person who drives a car in Michigan.

It might not mean cheaper repairs for a car, but it would mean the happier owner would be more sure the work done on it was both necessary and competently done. That isn't too bad in itself.

UP ART

The envy of outdoor lovers, the Avery family live in the upper peninsula where they love their life and the country.

This appreciation has been turned into two books with father Hoyt Avery and sons, Ron and Tom as well as Hoyt's father, Norton, all putting together some outstanding color pictures of scenic places and things in Michigan's northern peninsula.

The newer title is "Copper Country-God's Country," a presentation of 58 color illustrations with descriptive material. Another title, "Slow Me Down, Lord!" presents similar scenes and ideas.

Both are published in the upper peninsula, the first such high quality books printed there. Both are available in hardbound and paperback. And the Averages are planning more books soon.

No suspects were found and the investigation continues.

Probe Deckerville shooting Award degree to Matthew Wasserman

Sanilac County Deputy Sheriffs continued their investigation of a reported shooting incident near Deckerville early Thursday morning in which one man was slightly injured.

Deputies said Larry Davis, Deckerville, suffered a wound in the hand which reportedly resulted from a gunshot at the Davis home on Shabbona Road shortly after midnight.

No one else was reported injured.

Police said at least two guns were involved, a shotgun and a .22 caliber rifle, and several shots were fired.

The argument apparently involved the custody of children and occurred between Davis and a male friend of his estranged wife, police indicated.

MATTHEW WASSERMAN JR.

Deputies thwart mailbox vandals

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies apparently cut short the malicious destruction of a pair of Mount Clemens men bent on destroying a series of rural mailboxes Sunday.

Deputies arrested Keith Flynn, 19, and William Regnews, 18, after receiving a report from a resident of Hurds Corner Road that his mailbox had been destroyed.

On the way to the scene, deputies stopped to investigate a stalled pickup which turned out to be that used by the two subjects. Further investigation showed that four other mailboxes had been destroyed and the two reportedly admitted taking part in the destruction.

A witness identified the pair as having destroyed one of the four mailboxes by smashing it with a rock.

The pair was charged with malicious destruction over $100. Friday, Cass City Police reported that a purse containing four dollars in change and other papers had been stolen from a car parked behind Jack's Bar.

According to the report, Shirley McIntosh of Cass City had parked her car around 9 p.m. and when she returned about an hour and a quarter later, the purse was gone.

The auto was not locked.

Early the next morning, Chief Gene Wilson found the purse lying under a truck parked in an alley near the scene. All of the contents of the purse were recovered except the money.

No suspects have been apprehended in the case.

Thursday, Mrs. Sara Ward of English Road, Kingston, reported to sheriff's deputies that several items had been stolen from her yard. Among the items taken were a lawn mower, an electric fan and a vacuum cleaner. Total value of the goods was placed at approximately $150.

No suspects were found and the investigation continues.

Girls' sports: space crunch hampers proposed program

A fight for the use of facilities at Cass City Schools looms this year as a burgeoning girls' athletic program collides with the established program for boys.

It was one of three issues that the board wrestled with in the curriculum area. The others were the establishment of a library and honor student policies.

The use of facilities by the girls promises to be hard to solve. Athletic Director Robert Stickle outlined the problem for the board Monday night at the board's regular session.

He said that the two girls' physical education teachers were asking for a year-round program that would include gymnastics, volleyball, basketball and softball.

According to the request there would be interscholastic and intramural competition in each. The gymnastic program would include all students, kindergarten through high school. Softball, volleyball and basketball would be offered in the intermediate school and high school and there would be scheduled competition in each with other schools.

Both teachers, Miss Kally Pine and Miss Brenda Breidinger, indicated that they do not want to be cheer leading coaches this year.

A major stumbling block to the ambitious program is the lack of available space. The two gyms in Cass City are already in use nearly full time after the football season, said Stickle. This is especially true during the hours immediately following school which all coaches and players desire.

It is near certain that the entire program will not be authorized. It is also highly probable that coaches of girls' sports will be required to be cheer leader coaches as well, the conversation at the meeting indicates.

On the other hand it is also near certain that the girls' participation in sporting events will be increased over previous years.

The varsity and junior varsity football and basketball teams will probably continue to be given high priority in the battle for facility use.

The reason for this is that these two sports help pay the freight for all of the sports at the school. Wrestling, baseball, track, girls' sports do not break even at Cass City.

The board asked Stickle to come up with definite recommendations for a school sports program for board study and approval.

Meanwhile, two new school policies previously discussed were adopted.

In the future the library books will be selected from an approved list furnished by an accredited review board. Books not on this list can be added only on the approval of the librarian with the approval of principals in the buildings concerned. A reserve book shelf will be maintained for books deemed not suitable for the entire student body.

The new policy was sparked by the recent controversy over the addition of "Acapulco Gold" to the school library.

The other new policy involves the selection of valedictorian and salutatorian at the school. To be eligible a student must have attended Cass City Schools for four semesters of which two are as a Senior in high school. Students not qualified under this policy will receive mention as honor students, it was pointed out.

A suggestion to remove the valedictorian and salutatorian and replace them with an honors list was rejected.

The board also accepted the resignation of Vern Palmer who will enter industry and Mrs. Diane Rosinski who said she was unsure if she would be available all of next year.

Area Cub Scouts to hold olympics in Cass City

Cass City will host Cub Scouts from throughout Huron and Tuscola counties, their adult leaders and families, at the Second Annual Thumb District Cub Scout Summer Activity on Saturday, Aug. 18. Activities modeled after olympic events will begin at 10:00 a.m. at the Cass City Community Park.

Each is designed to make a "winner" of each Cub Scout in attendance. Each Scout will receive an attractive olympics patch for his participation.

There is a current total of 20 Cub Scout Packs in the two-county Thumb District. All are expected to be represented. All have been asked to supply materials, supplies or manpower to assist in conducting the events.

Ken Gaimforth, member of the Pack Committee for Pack 3588, Unionville, is Chairman for the event and has announced that there will also be a Webelos (10 year old Cub Scouts) overnight campout in conjunction with the olympics the night of Aug. 17 and again the night of Aug. 18 to provide the boys an opportunity to do some camping with their fathers or legal guardians who must accompany the Webelos Scout. The campout will take place at the Owendale Scout Camp, Howard Hallock Jr., Scoutmaster of Scout Troop 524, Owendale, is in charge of the Camp and anticipates having his Scouts camp with the Webelos and their fathers to give them a first hand look at a model campsite.

Tigers open play-off with easy win

The Tigers smothered the Orioles under a barrage of base hits 22-2 in the first game of the Little League playoffs held Monday night.

Ken Martin was the winning pitcher, while Scott Murphy took the loss for the Orioles. Martin struck out six of the nine men he faced in his three innings of work on the mound. Reliever Rusty Hoag came in and pitched the last three innings.

Martin also led the hitting attack with four-for-five, including two doubles, a triple and a single.

Langmaid went three-for-five, including a triple, double and single. S. Richards smacked a home run and a double as the Tigers poured it on.

The Orioles managed only four hits, among them one each by D. Martin, T. Alexander and G. Kelly.

The Tigers move into the championship game Friday night, playing the winners of the semi-final game scheduled for Thursday night.

THE ANGELS WERE the winners of the minor league title this year, sporting a 5-1 record. While the emphasis of the league is on teaching fundamentals and allowing as many boys as possible to play, they take pride in winning.

Team members are: first row: Danny Opansenko, Fred Zawilinski, Lari Tonti, Tim Lefler, Mark Stover, Brian Schember, Mark Sowden, Paul McIntosh.

Baptists only undefeated team in close church league race

were not reported.

The slugging match of the season highlighted a game Thursday as the Catholics defeated the Missionary nine, 20-8. Jim Mastie and John Maharg hit two for three for the winners.

Another slugging match was held in the nightcap as Shabbona rapped out a 17-12 decision for Lamotte. Dan Caister pitched the win and Leland Hirsch was charged with the defeat. Lowell Smith cracked a circuit clout.

Friday the Methodists shut out Church of Christ, 8-0, behind Stoutenburg. Don Englehart was the loser. Phil Nicholas and Jerry Toner each collected two for three.

In the 9 p.m. game Al Romig and Willy teamed again to post a win for the Lutherans. Owen-Gage bowled, 10-6. VanDellen, Jim Belk, John Hacker and Romig each collected two hits for the winners.

The league-leading Baptists were forced to come from behind Saturday to keep their record unblemished. They edged Shabbona, 5-4.

Shabbona was sailing along with a three-run lead in the fifth when Dave Brooks hit a grand slam homer to win it for Craig Helwig as Dale Smith took the loss. Elwyn Helwig took the mound and pitched to one man to preserve the victory. He also collected two hits in two tries.

Erla's leading league

Erla's are firmly perched at the top of their division in the Thumb Traveling League and baring a sudden collapse should walk off with the regular season title this summer.

The Foodmen's title chances were boosted considerably in games this week as the Cass City nine defeated their closest rivals Thursday at Schewang. Reese Mullers bowled, 3-0. Erla's league record is now 11-1 while Reese is 9-2.

With nine games left to play, the title is far from wrapped up but Erla's must rate as heavy favorites.

Don McGill hurled Erla's to the important win. He limited Reese to three hits to outduel Ackerman for the victory. Ackerman allowed six hits.

Charlie McGill and Elwyn Helwig led the way for Erla's with two hits each. The Foodmen were helped in a two-run fourth inning by errors by Reese, Charlie McGill, Rolie Nicholas, and Larry Jamison all reached base on errors and a single by Don McGill put the game out of reach for the losers.

Close games are the rule in the Thumb league. Monday Erla's edged Schewang Log Cabin, 2-1, at Cass City.

Erla's scored a run in the fourth on a base hit by Don Galbraith, an error and a hit by Charlie McGill. They added a run in the seventh on singles by Walt Hempton, Rolie Nicholas and Bob Holcomb.

It was the winning run as Schewang rallied to score a run on an error and a couple of infield outs in their half of the seventh.

Holcomb led the Cass City attack with two of Erla's six hits.

With several rained out games on the agenda, Erla's face a busy schedule in the next few weeks as they must play nine games and be ready for the post season play-offs that are slated to start during the first week in August.

The play-off is a double elimination round robin event that includes all league teams.

Expanded arts and crafts program teaches students pottery, sculpture

Things are changing in the summer recreation program's arts and crafts section, thanks to the inventiveness of organizer Jim Maharg and assistant Romayne Bassett.

This year, students are becoming more involved with the arts, particularly in clay modeling.

ROB ALBREE tries his hand at the potter's wheel during an arts and crafts session at the Intermediate school. Assistant director Romayne Bassett gives young Rob an assist as other students look on.

With the help of two electrically operated potter's wheels furnished by the Intermediate school and a third belonging to Maharg, the students are learning the fine points of making bowls, vases and other pieces of clay sculpture.

"This is the first year they've ever had clay and potter's wheels to use," Maharg said.

The students seem to love the activity and become deeply engrossed in their particular projects, usually winding up covered with a mixture of clay and water up to their elbows.

Maharg explained that the clay sculptures are first molded, then allowed to dry before they are taken to the high school for baking. After this process, the sculptures are then painted and returned to the ovens for another baking and final glazing before they are completed.

Arts and crafts are not limited to work with clay, however. Activities in block printing, silk screening, copper tooling, enameling, wire sculpture and macrame are also offered.

Another innovation planned for the program is a session in amateur film making. This will be done by the students using old films and putting them together.

Maharg, who is a junior at Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, is an art major. Ms. Bassett will be taking night courses in the fall in art.

Currently, about 30 students turn out for the sessions, held each weekday morning from 9 a.m. to noon at the Intermediate School. Maharg said he hopes that eventually as many as 100 students may become involved.

He added that students wishing to join may do so at any time. All they need do is register for the summer recreation program. The program will continue through August 10.

Maharg and Clark Erla picked up two hits for the winners.

Monday, July 2, the Lutherans continued their strong comeback after a slow start with a 10-9 win over the Catholics.

Al Romig, with relief help from Nelson Willy, pitched the win and John Maharg took the loss.

Ken Martin was 2 for 2 and Jim VanDellen, 2 for 3 for the winners, while Kevin Coryell played a strong defensive game.

In the nightcap, Shabbona pounded out an 18-5 decision over Deford. Dale Smith got the win and Jerry Curtis was charged with the loss. Roy Sefton and Bill Bader were two for two in the five-inning game.

Deford took another pasting Tuesday, July 3, as the Baptists rolled on, 18-4. Craig Helwig was the winner and Alvin McKee took the loss.

Elwyn Helwig hit two home runs and Dave Brooks also hit for the circuit.

In the nightcap Owen-Gage defeated Snover-Laing. Details
