

Commissioners take stand against doe hunting in county

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners voted Tuesday to spend $300 for the printing of no doe hunting signs to be distributed free of charge throughout the county. In addition, the commissioners went on record reasserting their position of opposition to doe hunting within the county.

The request for action came from seventh district Commissioner Kenneth Kennedy, who came out strongly in opposition to antlerless deer hunting. He said the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has doubled the number of doe permits for Tuscola county, bringing the total issued this year to 600. Last year, 300 such permits were issued to hunters on a lottery system.

Kennedy warned of an impending invasion of hunters, citing the high price of domesticated beef and the ultimate destruction that could be caused to farmland and to the deer herd.

"They've (the hunters) wiped out the deer herd in the upper peninsula," Kennedy said, "and that's just what will happen here if we let it. I think it's time to take a stand and not let it happen."

Kennedy said the only answer to the problem is for farmers to post their land and he urged the appropriation of $300 for the printing of signs. He further urged that the signs specifically state that doe hunting is not allowed on such posted land and that the legend "Tuscola County Board of Commissioners" also be carried on such signs.

"We have to show them that we'll run our own county up here and that we'll not stand for these meat hunters coming up here and destroying the herd," he said.

Kennedy said that in the upper peninsula, a group of 300 persons are planning to organize at the north end of the Mackinac Bridge with hunters carrying shotguns in the group in an attempt to halt the antlerless hunters before they start.

"This is the only language these guys understand," Kennedy said. "All they understand is guns."

It was pointed out that no antlerless deer hunting will be allowed this year from Bay City northward. Some 29,000 antlerless deer permits will be issued for the southern part of the lower peninsula, with 600 for Tuscola county.

Kennedy's resolution to appropriate money for signs and reaffirming its support of an antlerless deer hunting ban in the county was passed by a 4-0 vote with Commissioner Floyd Ducker abstaining. Commissioner Richard Deming was absent.

This is not the first time the commissioners have locked horns with the DNR over doe hunting in Tuscola county. Last year, the board passed an ordinance prohibiting the hunting of does in the county. Violators would be subject to arrest.

That resolution was vetoed by Gov. William Milliken. The board then passed it over Milliken's veto.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley subsequently ruled the ordinance in violation of the state constitution. The ordinance still stands, unenforced.

One arrest was made under the law but was not carried through because the prosecuting attorney would not handle the case.

According to the resolution passed Tuesday, the no doe hunting signs would be made available free of charge to landowners and could be obtained in Caro, Cass City, Vassar, Millington and Mayville.

Questions were raised by some commissioners regarding the propriety of spending tax dollars for something that not all taxpayers would support.

Kennedy replied that he received 700 complaints last year which he has on file, complaints made by voters in his district against the hunting of antlerless deer.

"We simply cannot sit idly by and watch this happen again," Kennedy said. "Personally, I'll fight this thing if it takes all summer."

Commissioner Maynard McConkey added that such a move by the board is the only recourse the county has in dealing with antlerless deer hunting.

In other business, the commissioners heard from James F. Hyde of Hyde and Wolter consulting engineers in Saginaw concerning plans to renovate the heating system in the court house and to air condition the building.

Hyde told the commissioners that before any work could begin, an extensive survey of the existing system would have to be made. He placed a price tag on such a survey of from $1,000 to $1,500.

Part of the problem at the court house surrounds overheating of the building in the winter. This results from drawing in cold, outdoor air which activates the system to produce heat. At times, some parts of the court house become excessively heated.

Hyde indicated that this survey would have to be concluded before any work in upgrading the system could be done.

He said it would probably be most feasible to air condition the entire building and that could be done by any one of a number of systems. He added that electrical wiring could also present a problem if it proved inadequate for individual room-size air conditioning units.

Hyde said he would return for the next board meeting with a more exact cost estimate on the survey.

Cass City pair killed in car-motorcycle crash near Owendale Saturday night

Two Cass City residents were killed late Saturday night when the motorcycle they were riding collided head-on with an auto driven by a Port Austin man.

Dead are James W. Crane Jr. and his wife, Deborah, of Huntsville Trailer Park.

The accident occurred at 10:18 p.m. Saturday on Sebawaing Road, just east of Farver Road, approximately three miles east of Owendale. Both were pronounced dead at the scene.

Driver of the auto, Robert Miller, 27, of Port Austin, sustained multiple injuries and was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital where he remains in fair condition. A passenger in the auto, Joseph Lapka, 21, of Caseville, was treated for injuries at the hospital and released.

According to the investigation conducted by the Huron County Sheriff's Department, Miller was traveling east on Sebawaing Road and pulled out to pass three other autos. Before he could return to his lane, he struck the westbound motorcycle, driven by Crane. Mrs. Crane was seated behind her husband on the motorcycle.

After the crash, Mrs. Crane's body was thrown 50 feet from the point of impact. The car continued to travel, dragging Crane and the motorcycle. Crane's body was found 90 feet from the scene of the crash. Miller's auto came to rest in a ditch some 171 feet from the scene.

A witness whose car was one of the three Miller was attempting to pass, told officers he was towing a boat and observed the motorcycle coming in the west-bound lane. He said the machine had its headlight on at the time.

He further stated that he also saw Miller coming from behind. He said he heard no horn or any squeal of brakes prior to the accident.

After the accident, he said he saw Miller slumped across the front seat of the car behind the wheel. Lapka was also found slumped on the front seat on the passenger's side.

Another passenger in the witness's car stated he, too, heard no horn or squeal of brakes prior to the crash.

Other witnesses interviewed at the scene tended to confirm this story.

Lapka was interviewed by police after the accident and said that he and Miller had been fishing near Caseville and had driven to Sebawaing and then to Unionville prior to heading east on Sebawaing Road. He further stated that, after leaving Unionville, he fell asleep and did not remember anything else prior to the accident.

Lapka told officers they had stopped at a bar in Sebawaing and Unionville.

Officers said it was not possible to determine the exact speed of the two vehicles at the time of impact. Witnesses said only that the Miller auto was traveling at a high rate of speed.

Officers said that at the time of the crash, the road was clear and dry with good visibility.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Crane were taken to Scheurer Hospital, Pigeon.

Crane was born in Cass City, Feb. 18, 1947, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Crane Sr. of Cass City. He was employed at Saginaw Steering Gear and was a Marine Sergeant in Vietnam. He attended the First Presbyterian Church of Cass City and graduated from Cass City High School in 1966.

Mrs. Crane was born in Ludington, Oct. 13, 1949, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chapman. She came to Cass City with her parents as a child. She attended the First Presbyterian Church in Cass City and was a graduate of Cass City High School.

Mr. Crane is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Crane Sr., of Cass City; one sister, Mrs. Robert Fischer of Cass City, and his grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Hartwick of Cass City.

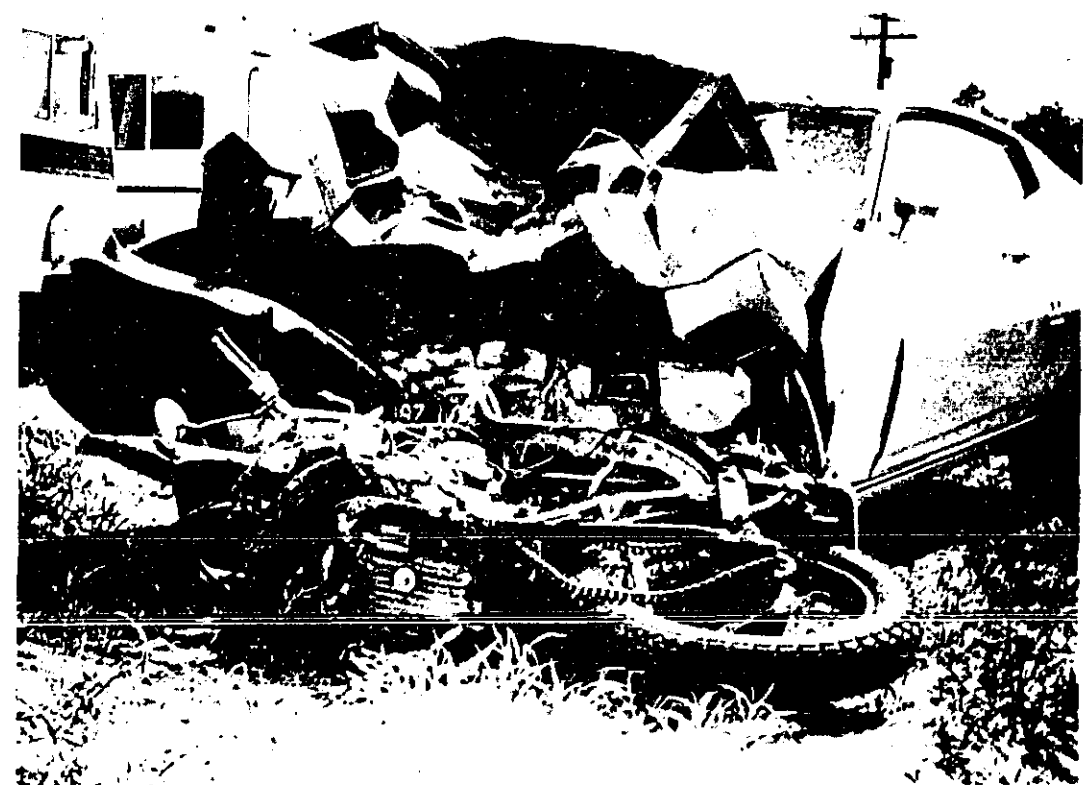

Mrs. Crane is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chapman of Cass City; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Gaunther of Cass City and Marlene Sue Chapman, at home; and her grandmother, Mrs. Celia Johnson of Ludington.

They are survived by one daughter, Jamie Lynn, at home.

Joint funeral services were conducted Wednesday from Little's Funeral Home, Rev. Ira Wood, pastor of Salem United Methodist Church, officiated.

Interment was in Elkland township.

Dundee: How one community built a swimming pool

The most noticeable feature of the village of Dundee, pop. 2,470, is the gazebo and cannon which sit in a triangular-shaped piece of land in the heart of the village. It sets the mood of the town, one of friendly persons with smiling faces attempting to help the stranger in every way possible.

The park sets Dundee apart from most other villages its size and acts to retain a bit of Americana which fades so rapidly from today's scene.

On either side of the triangle lies Dundee's small but thriving business district. Restaurant, hardware stores, clothing merchants, a pharmacy and the newspaper office look out upon this scene each day as customers dart back and forth across bustling streets.

It is from this community that much of the support came for the approval of the bond issue which eventually built the enclosed swimming pool at Dundee High School in 1966.

When they speak of the struggle to build the facility, a struggle which is now rapidly fading into history, preserved for the most part in the files of the Dundee Reporter, they remember that it was not easy, nor all that decisive.

The original proposition was placed on the ballot along with construction of a new high school. Voters approved the school building proposition but turned down the pool by a 506-417 margin on May 4, 1959.

The issue simmered for a number of years until 1966, when the board placed the construction of an additional wing to the building. The pool was placed on the ballot again, this time through a referendum

Editor's Note - Dundee, located in southeastern Michigan, voted in 1966 to build a swimming pool at its high school. The Chronicle sent staffer Jim Ketchum to Dundee to take a look at the village and the swimming pool, five years after its completion. Dundee was selected because its district is comparable in size to Cass City's. Here is the first of two reports.

drive sponsored by the local JC chapter. On October 3, the pool received approval by a 362-306 margin. It cost $250,000 to build.

It opened July 3, 1968.

Most observers in the village agree now that the pool was a necessity and only rarely is the comment heard that it was a foolish decision. Favorable comments run about 100-1 as opposed to negative feedback, according to school Supt. W. W. Lewis.

But what of the community itself?

Dundee classifies itself as primarily a rural community with some industry. Its most important business, economically, is the Dundee Cement Co., which provides employment for 250 persons. Other business activity includes the Dundee Metal Casting Co., and the Uniloy division of Hoover Ball Bearing Co. of Ann Arbor.

Dundee conducts business on an 18.5 mill annual tax levy. The school system runs on a state equalized valuation of $18,000 per student, compared with $12,724 for students in the Cass City district. These figures cover the 1971-72 operating year and have changed somewhat since that time.

Most of the residents of Dundee work elsewhere. They commute as far as Ann Arbor, Tecumseh, Monroe, Detroit, Saline and Toledo, and hold down jobs in blue-collar areas in widely-varied segments of industry.

There are a small number of full-time farmers in the area which comprises the Dundee school district. The majority of farmers work the land only on a part-time basis and hold down other jobs.

Farmland is productive in the Dundee area.

Women of the village who work outside the home also travel considerable distances. Some work at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor in clerical jobs or in the hospital. Others travel to school positions in Saline and Monroe, while still others hold jobs in the industrial segment of the community.

Dundee is just now beginning a major street improvement program which will include curb and gutter work as well as repaving of streets. Water and sewer lines already exist which make possible new housing construction in the village.

Two new apartment complexes of 94 units each will be in existence in the near future. One is already completed. Another seven-unit apartment building is currently occupied on Seventh Street.

Another going concern in Dundee is the Karner elevator, operated by Richard Karner, a former president of the Dundee Board of Education and an outspoken exponent of the swimming pool. He boosted the project from the time of its defeat in 1959 until its construction and advocates a similar facility for every high school.

Dundee boasts a municipal park along the banks of the River Raisin, made possible through the donation of the site and dam in the river by the Wolverine Lubricating and Manufacturing Co., in 1970. The plant had originally been a part of the Ford Motor Company which purchased it in 1936 and ran it until selling it to Wolverine in 1954.

Dundee had opted for the trustee form of government with an elected Village President. He is Howard E. Williams, who has served in that post since 1968.

With all the statistics aside, a stranger is made to feel at ease in Dundee. Its close proximity to Toledo, Monroe and Detroit have not sapped a basic wholesomeness from these people. Directions can be had for the asking, along with the admonishment to return if you have any more trouble.

Along with this innate helpfulness comes an openness to discuss past battles, such as the pool fight, without the reluctance to hide any skeletons in any closets or to reopen old wounds and wave the bloody shirt.

Those who opposed the idea of the pool at the time now generally admit that it is an asset to the community.

Elwyn Seeger, owner of the Coffee Cup restaurant, admitted he did not support the pool in 1966, but now that it exists, he is for it. He stresses, however, that basic education is still important and should not be given a second seat to issues such as the pool.

Seeger, whose restaurant is located on M-50 almost directly across from the gazebo, maintains that there is still room for improvements in the school, improvement not to be solved by swimming pools.

"These kids who come out of there and tear things up and one thing and another don't have any education," he says. "There's where the problem lies. But as far as the pool goes, I've been all for it as far as that goes."

Seeger's restaurant typifies the friendliness of the town; genuine and unassuming. Waitresses refill empty water glasses for customers without being asked. Orders are taken promptly and served with a smile and a kind word. No gum-chewing, bored, uncaring help can be seen inside the eatery.

Over at the municipal building, Charlotte Sharp readily fills the stranger in on the important statistics and features of Dundee. She says that, while the village does have a large supermarket operated by a chain franchise out of Toledo, a lot of major shopping is done out of Dundee.

She explains the eye-catching sign in front of an attractive house reading "Block of the Month" was placed there by a group called the Women's Civic Association, a group dedicated to the betterment and beautification of the village. The organization also picks out

Betty and Aunt Clara

BY JIM FITZGERALD

There they went, 2 chunks of my childhood, both in the same week. Betty Grable and Aunt Clara Embury. In the wake of their wakes, I am not pleased with myself. I did not drip a tear. Not cry at the death of Betty Grable? How could that be? I loved her.

About 1941, I saw her in "Down Argentina Way" 14 times by actual count. It was a contest between me and a kid named Tom Studer. He insisted he loved her more than I did. The only way a guy could prove his love was by how many times he'd pay a dime to see her movies. I would tell Studer I was going to stay home and study algebra that night. Then I'd run to the Pine Grove Theatre and watch Betty make Alice Faye look like an old bag again. And someone would whack me on the back of the head and there was Studer sitting behind me. This was not just after a pinup, ala the soldiers who made Betty Grable a latrine legend during World War 2. I was no soldier when I fell in love. I was a 15-year-old kid just beginning to wrestle with life's problems; just beginning to make the important decisions which would determine the pattern I would follow the rest of my years.

Such decisions as: breasts or legs? Jane Russell or Betty Grable?

As constant readers (Mother and Aunt Madeline) well know, I was a legman out of me when I was 15 and I have never since wandered from my chosen path. Show me a pretty girl and I'll show you a girl I'd rather walk behind than toward.

Ask me today what has been mankind's greatest advancement, the moonshot or the Salk vaccine, and I'll have to tell you the mini skirt. The world's greatest perversion is Shirley Jones in elephant pants.

But most of you are probably wondering about Aunt Clara Embury. She was no movie star. In fact, I'm certain she and Betty Grable never had 1 thing in common until they died the same week.

Mrs. Embury wasn't really my aunt. She was simply a neighbor, in the 1930s, who had no children of her own so she adopted the Fitz kids as honorary brats. She called me "Jimmie Dugan" but I can't remember why. No one else ever called me that.

Mrs. Embury's husband was blind. I suppose my sisters and I brought some welcome cheer into their gloomy little home, but I never looked at it that way then. I was there for Aunt Clara's rhubarb and pecan rolls and whatever else I could gnom onto. I used to force my younger sister to beg the blindman for candy - "or I'll throw you in front of a truck." I was a real sweetheart.

I was 40 years old before Aunt Clara stopped mailing me $2 on my birthday. I guess she finally decided I was never going to write her a thank-you note. Once I wrote a column about how I'd owed her a letter for 30 years. I meant it as sort of an apology but I don't even know if she read it.

When I heard about Aunt Clara's death, I phoned my mother and said I thought I should drive over for the funeral. "You wouldn't visit her the last 15 years she was alive, so it seems silly to come look at her when she's dead," my mother said.

Mother's sayings like that to sons who don't grow up all the way. I feel worse about Aunt Clara than I do about Betty Grable. You can say that for me. And you haven't said much.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

The laborers in the vineyards of the Chronicle were talking about what would happen if they won that million dollars in the state lottery.

Staffer Jim Ketchum would quit, go to Florida and try for the great American novel. My wife wouldn't quit working . . . just quit working at the Chronicle.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hicks

Miss Carol Miracle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Miracle of Deford, became the bride of Frederick Lee Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hicks, also of Deford, in an afternoon ceremony at the Deford United Methodist Church, Saturday, June 23. The Rev. Kenneth Tausley, uncle of the groom, and The Rev. Robert Bryce, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a full length gown of sheer nylon organza lined with acetate taffeta. Delicate re-embroidered daisy lace and baby blue satin ribbon accented the bodice, midriff fitted waist, collar, cuffs, sleeves, back and train. The skirt was A-line with deeply flounced wide flare hem and full chapel-length train. Her headpiece was a Camelot-style cap covered with embroidered lace and trimmed with baby blue ribbon. She carried a colonial style bouquet of white roses, mums, tinted blue daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Pam Kilbourn, friend of the bride. She wore an Empire-style gown of sheer white dotted swiss with pink flocked roses and lined with acetate taffeta. Matching blue floppy brimmed hats with waist length ribbon accented her attire. She carried a basket of white mums, pink and blue tinted daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Martha Thornton, friend of the bride, and Darlene Miracle, sister of the bride. Each carried flowers and wore dresses identical to the maid of honor.

Best man was John Luana, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Dale Churchill and Lee Kilbourn, also friends of the groom. Timmy Miracle, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Seating the guests were Jim Kilbourn and Dave Little, friends of the couple.

The mother of the bride wore a light blue sheer lace dress lined with acetate taffeta and accented at the waist with a satin blue bow.

The groom's mother wore a light blue and white dress and jacket ensemble of polyester knit. The mothers wore a corsage of white mums and pink roses.

Gerald Hicks, father of the groom, and Ada Kilbourn, friend of the bride, sang a duet, "Each for the Other."

A reception for 250 guests was held at the Deford Community School.

The couple are residing at 259 Crawford Rd., Deford.

REGULAR VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on June 26, 1973, at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present.

The minutes of the regular May meeting and a special June meeting were approved.

A motion was made by Trustee Hampshire and supported by Trustee Jones that Council accept the offer of $375.00 on the Plymouth police car. Motion carried.

It was brought to Council's attention that the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring an OS Roast on July 25, 1973, and they are going to donate the profits to the Summer Recreation program.

After considerable discussion Council established a policy of continued support for the summer swimming program as previously operated. Council agreed to pay labor costs on any swimming instruction and recreation program operated by them during the summer months in the proposed high school swimming facility. The costs to be covered by the Village would be those above and beyond normal maintenance costs.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that the bills as examined be approved. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that the meeting be adjourned. Motion carried.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

A few weeks ago a side of a house in Cass City caved in. And no wonder. Judging by items found inside that caved wall it was an old, old house.

James Gray, builder, reports that an 1880 edition of the Detroit News was found inside.

In addition two coins . . . one an 1866 nickel and the other a 3-cent piece came to light.

That's right. Three cents. I always thought one of those to be as phony as a $3 bill.

There will be no freight car shortage during the wheat harvest, my spies report. But there is a growing concern about cars for the corn harvest.

Despite long advance orders by local elevator management the guys in charge have their fingers crossed when they talk about the harvest ahead.

Les Profit, manager at Klein's Fertilizers, said only the wet, wet spring kept fertilizer plants reasonably ahead of the demand this spring. Lack of freight cars brought shipments to a standstill at one time this spring for every plant in the Thumb.

Rob Alexander was in town Monday for a brief vacation from the minor league baseball wars.

To keep in shape he tossed a few pitches to his dad at the Cass City Recreational Park.

After watching for a few moments I couldn't decide whether Rob was faster now than a year ago or not.

One thing that's positive. He's too fast for his dad. He couldn't hold him.

Give Rob an "A" for effort. Not many guys would even try to catch someone who throws as hard as Rob.

For sure, I know one who wouldn't.

Idle thoughts recorded at Cass City Recreational Park this week. Why doesn't the softball league that Erla's play in have home and home games? Playing away from local fans has to take something from the fun of the game for both the players and the fans.

Why can't we keep more lights in the "lighted" field. A guess would be that 20 per cent of the lights are gone and on some towers half have blown out.

The baseball diamonds leave much to be desired. The Babe Ruth diamond is in much sadder shape than any of the fields in neighboring towns that I happened to see this year.

And those mosquitoes . . . even though the park was sprayed for the Western Round-Up they are back now stronger than ever.

A relatively small amount of taxpayer money could correct these things and make the park more pleasant for all those warm summer evenings.

One valued reader has protested the proposed swimming pool in Cass City.

He wanted to run an unsigned liner stating his views of the issue. As a matter of policy the Chronicle welcomes ads and locally written, personal opinion letters to the editor on this issue but must insist that the name be printed with the letter.

That goes, of course, whether you favor or disapprove of a pool for the community.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

You can't go home again

By Jim Ketchum

Thomas Wolfe was the fellow who said you can't go home again. In fact, he wrote a book about it some years back. I get the feeling at times that he was aiming his message directly at me.

Over the years I've tried on more than one occasion to go home again and each time I fail miserably, vowing I'll never do it again. Then the opportunity crops up and I'm off on another Quixotic venture back into the past.

Lately, though, it seems it doesn't take as long for the home you knew to change before your very eyes. Am I getting old or is this just the natural order of things.

We went home last week end, back to Williamston, population 2200. I lived almost 13 years in that little town just outside Lansing. In all that time, not too much changed, or so it seemed. Oh, a new house would go up on previously unoccupied lots or maybe a store would paint its front a different shade of paint which always managed to peel within two years' time.

But basically the town stayed pretty much as it always had.

Then I moved away and, suddenly I hardly recognize the place anymore. For example, the hill we used to run down with our sleds has been chewed, bulldozed and hauled away, replaced by lots which will eventually be home for 99 mobile homes.

Gone is the almost vertical drop which once or twice I dared try after the snow had been compacted into ice. My rickety red sled would whoosh down the hill, curving at the bottom with the hope of tipping into a bank of snow.

Now it's been replaced with Grant drive and Cedar drive and a few other drives straight out of the subdivision planner's handbook for catchy names.

All this mess has transpired since I moved away last fall.

Another change involves the plant where I held my first money-making job of any note. I hated the place with a passion because they paid me $1.60 an hour for 10 hours each day of being in the same room with seven plastic-bottle producing machines. Each machine heated plastic to 700 degrees and then formed the plastic into bottles for soap, toilet cleaners and the like. To this day, I can't look a bottle of Sno-Bowl squarely in the face without breaking out into a sweat.

No one bothered to ventilate this place and by the end of the day, you could fry eggs on the roof and on most of the employees as well.

Anyway, this plant is now expanding to probably twice the size it was during my brief tenure in the firm's employ. In a way, that is sad, too, because now I can only hate a part of the plant and not the whole thing. For all I know, it could be completely air-conditioned by now and the envy of the industry.

But I remember it as a good old sweat shop and to see it changed ages me a little, for now I must speak of it as one of those "when I was your age" events.

Even my old back yard is changing all the time. I used to keep it mowed when I lived there. Now my mother hires a kid to come in who doesn't begin to do the job I did. I think.

Along the river bank, I can no longer see the open field on the other side, as I always could when I lived there, because the brush and trees have grown too tall and now obscure vision. It doesn't look like the same place back there anymore, and the frightening thing is that it happened just this year. It isn't fair.

The pine trees my father and I planted just 12 years ago now tower above us, some 20 feet or more into the air. It wasn't so long ago that I worried about cutting them down with the lawn mower. Now it would take a chain saw.

I guess I'm not alone. My wife had the same reaction when she went back to Canonsburg, Pennsylvania after a 13-year absence. It was an emotionally-unsettling experience until we could find some sort of perspective in it.

What can you do about it? Not much. Yet, maybe hardening of the arteries has already set in and I am starting to refuse to accept change. I am not sure. I want my hill back.

Profit from other's experience - correct your own faults.

House to represent Kreger in arson case

Cass City attorney Clinton House will represent Timothy Kreger, Caro, in Tuscola County Circuit Court Aug. 15 when he faces trial on two counts involving arson and an attempt to defraud an insurance company.

Kreger, who also faces a charge of murdering Dan Anger, 30, Caro, is accused of setting fire to a house in Dayton township March 31.

It was on this charge that Anger posted bail for Kreger. Anger was shot to death June 8.

Kreger appeared before Circuit Judge James Churchill. Six arraignments and two sentences were also handed down Monday in other court action.

James Bearinger, Caro, was arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering in the 4-H building of the fairgrounds with intent to commit larceny. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Aug. 6.

The break-in occurred June 21.

Franklin B. Holcomb, Cass City, was arraigned on a charge of assault of a police officer in Cass City on June 16. He entered a plea of guilty which was accepted by the court. Sentencing was set for Aug. 20. Bond was continued at $100.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Churchill.

According to the trial record, Cass City Patrolman Donald Miller had stopped Holcomb on a charge of squealing the tires of his car on the pavement in the village. It was after the issuance of the citation that Holcomb allegedly assaulted Miller.

Roger Stevens, Vassar, was arraigned on a probation violation charge before Judge Churchill. He entered a plea of guilty which was accepted by the court.

Stevens was charged with failing to meet payments on a fine involving a conviction on a charge of writing checks with insufficient funds. Stevens was released on personal recognizance and the case was continued to Aug. 6.

Lional Gotwalt, Caro, was arraigned on a charge of larceny from an auto in Caro. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered on his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Aug. 20.

Specifically, Gotwalt is charged with stealing two wheels from an auto in Caro May 4.

Michael McTaggart, Millington, was arraigned on a third count involving a bad check charge. He entered a plea of guilty and it was accepted by the court.

Specifically, McTaggart is charged with attempting to obtain $110 by false pretenses. Involved in the same case is a count of forging a check from Detroit Bank and Trust for $128.68 and a charge of cashing the same check.

Sentencing was set for Sept. 4. The offense took place Feb. 2.

The arraignment of Rick Freeman, Akron, on a charge of probation violation was continued until Aug. 6.

Two sentences were handed down Monday.

Rev. Wayne Whitten, Gagetown, was sentenced to two years' probation and fined $100 along with $100 in costs following conviction of attempting to pass a check with insufficient funds.

In addition, Whitten will be required to spend 30 days in the Tuscola County Jail now and 30 days at the end of two years unless he seeks counseling.

Specifically, Whitten is charged with writing a check on the Cass City State Bank for $250 with the Peoples State Bank of Caro as payee. The offense occurred Dec. 27, 1972.

Additionally, Whitten will be required to make restitution of the $250.

James Kile, Cass City, was sentenced to a fine of $50 and costs of $50 after being found guilty on a charge of assault. He will be required to pay the fine within two weeks or spend one week in the Tuscola County Jail.

Terry Lee Wissner was found guilty of larceny under $100 in the village of Gagetown. He paid a $100 fine, $25 in costs and was ordered to serve three days in jail.

Lee J. Ganke, Sebawaing, was also found guilty of larceny under $100 in the village of Gagetown. He paid a $100 fine, $25 in costs and was ordered to serve three days in jail.

Allen Dandron, Kingston, was found guilty of reckless driving. He paid a $75 fine and $25 in costs.

Thieves strike three area service stations

Thieves struck at three area gasoline stations over the week end, making off with little loot however, according to Sheriff Hugh Marr.

Friday, Stanley Moore, owner of Moore's Service Station in Kingston, told investigating deputies from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department that sometime in the early hours of the morning, his station had been broken into and burglarized.

He said his wife had seen a car stop in front of the Methodist Church in Kingston and two subjects got out of the vehicle. They made their way along a row of houses on the east side of Church Street toward the station, she told officers.

At this point, she said, she telephoned the sheriff's department.

Deputies said the culprits broke into the station by knocking out the lower left-hand corner of a window on the east door, reached in and unlocked the night lock.

Once inside, they took money from the till of the cash register and tools from the back repair room. Deputies indicated the thieves apparently knew their way around the station and that the theft occurred within a short time period.

Among the items taken were one tool box filled with assorted tools, one set of one-half inch drive socket wrenches, three ratchet handles, four tires, and about $30 in coins.

No value was fixed on the other items taken.

Deputies did manage to lift two sets of footprints at the station apparently left by the subjects. The case remains THERE'S SOMETHING about a sidewalk sale that brings out the bargain lust in shoppers. During the event in Cass City Friday and Saturday shoppers crowded the streets to shop and participate in the fun.

LINDA LEESON was doing double duty during sidewalk sales last week end. She was selling on the sidewalk and also keeping a watchful eye on the store's tomato plant. That plant is growing through a crack in the sidewalk and persons who have seen it seem evenly divided. About half feel it will bear tomatoes and half say "no chance".

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Did you see where they have invented a machine to keep you

Alert on the job? It's called a "attention level analyzer" and it's got alarms that go off if you doze off and even if your mind wonders off of what you're doing. It's supposed to be perfect good for long distance pilots and truck drivers, but the tellers decided at the country store

Saturday night that this con-traption is good for everybody from politicians to congregations.

Bug Hookum reported to the tellers where he had saw by the papers that the attention level analyzer works by measuring your brain waves. If the wave pattern changes while you're hooked to the machine, the alarms go off to get you back on the right track. Bug said the piece didn't say, but he reckoned the machine don't care what you're thinking as long as you keep thinking it.

There's a heap of places that gadget will come in handy. Bug allowed, and he would like to start by setting one up at his church on Sunday morning.
Actual, Bug said, we would need two at the church, one for the preacher and the other for the congregation. If they got past the first hymn alone his old lady started thinking whether she cut off the stove under the pot roast it would be a blessing. Bug said. Furthermore, if the preacher got halfway through his text without throwing in some pun on the collection Bug said he'd be surprised.

Bug said it wouldn't do to hook politicians up to the attention level analyzer cause the bells would drive everybody crazy. Probable, Bug said, the machine would blow all its fuses when them Congressmen started talking saving and thinking spending. Fact is, declared Bug, you seldom find a politician that can think and talk at the same time anyhow.

Clem Webster said it would be interesting to see what would happen if you set the attention analyzer on freeze and turned it loose in Congress. If we could catch them Congressmen while they got this latest price freeze on their minds, we might get them thinking about freezing Government to Clem said. If we could just get a freeze on flagpoles, Clem allowed, that would help. Clem had saw where the Department of Housing and Urban Development got a new 45 foot flagpole. Right away, the next door Department of Transportation put up a pair of 75 foot poles. If it come right back with two 80 foot poles for a total flagpole bill of $29,500. And Clem had saw where a lounge for House members recent put in new carpet at $22,000, new drapes that cost $21,000 and $45,000 worth of fancy light fixtures.

Master Editor, I don't see much future in Government for the attention analyzer unless we can get it programmed to think slow and to keep the taxpayers awake long enough to get out to the polls.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Ninety attended the second annual reunion of the Mark families held Sunday at the recreation park here.

The group included Edward Mark of Cass City and three of his four sisters, Mrs. Mary Buehrly of Uby, Mrs. Martha Darling of Snover and Mrs. Alma Seeger of Cass City. Another sister, Mrs. Lena Schwegler of Cass City, is recovering from a fractured hip and was not present.

Four generations of Mr. Mark's, Mrs. Schwegler's and Mrs. Darling's families were present.

In addition to those from the Thumb area, relatives attended from St. Clair, Marysville, Port Huron, Livonia, Highland, Flint and Flushing.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Cutbacks in regular postal service, made mandatory by the austerity program in Congress will hit Cass City Saturday. There will be no regular Saturday morning window service, but the lobby will remain open.

Cass City merchants reported one of the most favorable sidewalk sales in the history of the event here last week. Most merchants said results exceeded expectations.

Five victims of an accident near Owendale which took the life of a 14-year-old New Baltimore girl are recovering from injuries in four different hospitals. A fifth victim has been discharged.

Tuscola county absentee voters will be participating in the Aug. 6 primary, according to the county clerk's office.

Fire at the Sherwood Forest Country Club, Gagetown, caused an estimated $500 damage Tuesday night.

TEN YEARS AGO

Two major improvements for Cass City High School, a new roof and a new boiler, have been contracted by the Cass City School Board at a total cost of approximately $25,000.

Superintendent Willis Campbell announced this week that a full staff of teachers for Cass City Schools has been hired.

The National Farmer's Organization is continuing its drive to organize farmers in the area. Recently a new Tuscola county chapter was formed in Deford.

Rev. Melvin R. Vender was honored by the members of the congregation of the Cass City Presbyterian Church recently when they named him "Pastor Emeritus" of the church.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuscola County Republicans will have three choices for sheriff, three for coroner and two for prosecuting attorney at the primary elections Sept. 14.

President Truman on Tuesday ordered registration for the new draft to begin Aug. 30, for men 18 through 25. The registration will continue through Sept. 18.

A price support loan program for the 1948 wheat crop will be available to Tuscola county farmers this year after harvest, according to the County AAA chairman, Charles B. Eckford. The loan rate is $2.07 per bushel on the basis of U.S. No. 1 wheat.

For the second year, 4-H club members of Sanilac county will spend three days at Sleeper State Park near Caseville.

General MacArthur asked that CARE packages be sent to aid defeated Japan.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

There is a deficit in the swimming pool fund of more than a thousand dollars, according to a report Frederick Pinney presented to the Rotary Club Tuesday.

Applications for insuring the wheat crop to be planted for harvest in 1939 are now in the hands of the various crop insurance representatives and the signing of same is already under way.

Leslie C. Purdy of Gagetown was the successful bidder for the $16,500 in school bonds issued by the Gagetown school district, officially known as School District No. 3. Mr. Purdy bid the bonds in at par with an interest rate of three per cent.

The Works Progress Administration allocated $3,479 in Federal funds for the improvement of the streets of Peck. "Love Finds Andy Hardy", starring Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland and Lewis Stone was playing at the Cass Theatre.

Homemakers set MSU meeting

MARGARET ANN ROSS - Extension Agent

About 75 Extension Homemakers from Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties are registering and making plans to attend the National Extension Homemakers Conference to be held at Michigan State University August 13-16.

For many of the Extension women, the conference will be the first national annual meeting they will have ever attended; in fact, many money-raising projects have been generating interest in the event which will draw Extension homemakers from all over the United States.

Two "firsts" will be a part of this conference, according to Thumb Extension Home Economist Ann Ross, this is the first time that a "People-To-People" project will invite homemakers into the homes of Michigan Extension families for the weekend prior to the conference. This idea developed in the Thumb and will come to fruition when a bus carrying homemakers from Vermont will arrive in Sandusky on August 10th. Mrs. Pat Hasen, Port Hope, has enthusiastically described the People-To-People project to her family because they will be hosting guests. Her little girl now keeps asking, "Mama, when are the people coming?"

The other "first" will be a Young Family Day to take place on August 13th all day - at Michigan State University. Programs for family members of all ages will highlight this day and all family members are invited to this innovative program.

Over 2,500 homemakers are expected to attend the conference which will highlight Michigan, Michigan products, Extension homemaker projects, reports, classes, and the annual business meeting.

Killing time is just another form of success-suicide.

Methodists hold

VBS outings

Children and youth of Trinity United Methodist church enjoyed a Vacation Bible School outing, Tuesday, July 17.

Thirty-nine students and friends from the elementary and junior high departments went to Caro for a roller skating party. They were accompanied by youth director Calvin Long and teachers, Mrs. Helen Root, Mrs. Beatrice Baker, Mrs. Shirley Wagg, Mrs. Pat Childs and Mrs. Marjorie Dickinson.

At the same time 17 preschoolers and kindergartners, with their teachers, Mrs. Harry Crandell, Mrs. Vera Nicol, Mrs. Opal Schneeberger, Mrs. Linda Marshall and Mrs. Pam Ross, visited the fire department headquarters and were treated to a ride by Fritz Neitzel. After the ride they enjoyed ice cream at the village park.

BUDGET TALK

Watch your future plans - the bigger the summer vacation the harder the fall.

BETTER HEALTH

Loneliness can cause illness

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Recently I saw a woman who said she had been a bookkeeper until she was 60, when she was retired by her company. Then she began to suffer from discomforts in her stomach and bowel and some insomnia. An examination from head to foot showed no sign of what we doctors call an organic disease.

I became satisfied that the poor woman's trouble was due to her utter loneliness and lack of anything interesting to do. Most of the time she just sat idly in her lonely room. She hadn't made any effort to retain the few friendships she had with the women who worked alongside of her in the business office.

I begged my patient to try to help her church, a hospital, the YWCA, or the USO, which is a sort of club for soldiers and other service people; but unfortunately, she could not seem to make herself follow my advice.

Sometimes I see a man who admits that he is suffering from loneliness. Once, perhaps, he had a wife, but now she is dead or divorced. He had children, but he made so little effort to hold their affection and love that they went to far-away places, and he has rarely telephoned or written to them.

As a result, he lives such a lonely life that it is hurting him. I strongly suspect that it is such a man's great loneliness and unhappiness that have made him feel ill. Unfortunately, a person who is sick with loneliness often receives an unnecessary operation for gallstones or diverticulosis, or a special diet for a supposed low blood sugar, because with his mental distress came abdominal symptoms or feelings of fatigue, lassitude, or even nausea or diarrhea.

Many too-busy doctors find it easier to give the patient an operation or a fancy diagnosis like hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) than to try to help the person to be less lonely.

I have just re-read a fine article by my old friend, Dr. Francis J. Brackland, chief of the great Institute for Living in Connecticut. The doctor says that a man may be in a crowd, and still be very lonely. Some of the world's most eminent men have been very lonely; even a great man can be lonely. Once the great Dr. William Mayo told me that he felt very lonely because in his great clinic it was inadvisable for him to be chummy with any one of the many doctors in the group. He did not want to be accused of favoritism.

The great composer of beautiful music, Tchaikowski, chose to live almost alone in a house a little way from a village. His loneliness is expressed in his music. Many a creative man is lonely - lonely because so many of his peers are envious of him, and hence are unfriendly or hostile. His loneliness may be heightened by the fact that he senses that in many ways he is different, and hence unable to mix happily and comfortably with the crowd about him. At a party he may sit by himself - just an onlooker.

Curiously, some men will choose loneliness for a while. When Admiral Byrd was in the Antarctic, he left his group and lived for some time alone. Later, he said, "The only two things that matter to a man are the affection and understanding of his family."

Some old people, if they do not make an effort to be interesting talkers, soon are very lonely. They would not need to be lonely if they had kept up affectionate contacts with their family and their friends, or if they had kept doing kind and generous things for their fellow men. One way of avoiding loneliness is to spend one's life helping other people.

Many lonely people are drifters who have no interesting work to do; they may avoid the company of others because they feel insecure, inferior, or guilty of some misdoing, and they feel that nobody would want to be with them. They may seek refuge in alcoholism.

Many a person who is now lonely and unhappy could help himself by helping someone who much needs it. I once practically cured a well-to-do, unmarried, unoccupied, and bored woman who for years had been going from one psychiatrist to another.

I got her to take over the care of a family in which the one wage earner, a frail girl, was breaking under the strain. The wealthy woman got so interested in the job of rehabilitating this family that she stopped thinking so much about herself, and soon she went back into a useful life.

It is said that thousands of wealthy but lonely men and women do not know the pleasure they could get from using some of their money to give education and opportunity to gifted youngsters in their city who haven't the means to support themselves while studying perhaps for an advanced degree.

As I have said, the best way to fight loneliness is to become involved in helping other people.

John Oxenham long ago wrote so wisely,

Art thou lonely, O my brother?
Share thy little with another.
Stretch a hand to one un-tended,
And thy loneliness is ended.

Some of the different forms of depression are post-partum depression, agitated mania, endogenous, and reactive depression and depression due to epilepsy. Dr. Alvarez gives you valuable information about all these forms of this common disease in his booklet "Depression." Services held Sunday for Edith Gage

Mrs. Edith Gage, 71, died Friday, July 20, at the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital following a short illness.

Mrs. Gage was born in Five Lakes, March 23, 1902, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tedford.

Award Sgt. Gettel

Air Force rating

Technical Sergeant Ronald A. Gettel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gettel of Owendale, has been awarded the Air Training Command (ATC) Master Instructor rating at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Sergeant Gettel was accorded the honor in recognition of outstanding service as a technical instructor in refrigeration and air conditioning at Sheppard.

The sergeant's unit supports the ATC mission of training airmen and officers in the diverse skills required by the nation's aerospace forces.

He is a 1959 graduate of Owendale High School. His wife, Karen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erick Pierson of 1135 N. 29th St., Corvallis, Ore.

THE UNEXPECTED

What if you looked out your window and saw an elephant standing in your back yard? Would you think you'd been transported to Africa—or that the zoo had lost a boarder?

Situations just as bizarre and unexpected can happen anywhere, anytime, to anyone. When they happen to you, are you able to cope with them?

Merely attending church isn't going to solve all your problems. But it will help build a base that teaches you how to take the unexpected in stride. And life, when you get down to it, is in itself unexpected.

Start going to church next Sunday.

Delta offers freshman-sophomore courses in Caro

Caro Community School's Community Services Director Joe Klobucher has announced that the Caro school system has been chosen as a satellite campus for persons wishing to take freshmen and sophomore classes in conjunction with Delta College in Saginaw.

Klobucher said that the selection of Caro as the site for the class offerings was based on a coupon questionnaire sent out by his office in June. All of the Delta offerings will carry transferrable credits, and some community services classes will be incorporated into the program.

Among the classes to be offered this fall are applied psychology, principles of public speaking, beginning shorthand, real estate principles, introduction to business, elementary Spanish, principles of biology, freshman composition, American government and politics, algebra I & II, and basic ceramics.

Klobucher explained that the selection of Caro as a satellite campus means that in the future Caro could become a regular part of the Delta College service area. However, such action would require a vote of the people. If approved, then considerable savings could result to students at Caro in the form of lower tuition.

He also said that with Delta College classes being offered in Caro more students from the northern Thumb and Caro area will be able to attend college since transportation costs will be greatly reduced.

Klobucher said that until Caro becomes a regular part of the college's service area tuition costs will remain at $24 per credit hour. He added that the class offerings will be taught by local people with Masters Degrees. The class schedules will be the same as those followed by students on the Saginaw campus.

Among the classes being offered by the community services office in conjunction with the program are: a stop smoking clinic, a values workshop, and weaving. Each of these classes carries community services credit, and will start Sept. 24. The credits earned in these classes are non-transferrable.

Klobucher emphasized that registration for all the classes will be held in the Caro High School cafeteria on August 30, from 7-9 p.m. He noted that class counseling is also available by appointment. Those interested in obtaining such counseling should call his office at 673-3166.

Eskilsen family meets at Caro

The annual Eskilsen family reunion was held Sunday at Beth park, Caro Fairgrounds. Sixty-seven were present from Bay City, Saginaw, Jackson, Haslett, Ann Arbor, Flint, Vassar, Caro and Cass City.

Mrs. Alice Eskilsen Fairer of Tallahassee, Fla., came from the greatest distance. Eldest member of the family present was Mrs. Florence Otto and youngest present was one-month-old Matthew Paquette. Officers elected for the coming year are: president, Chris Eskilsen of Vassar; vice president, Wilbur Norrington of Caro; and secretary-treasurer, Miss Joanne Eskilsen of Cass City.

The 1973 reunion is planned for the 4th Sunday in July at the same location.

Those from Cass City who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eskilsen and grandson, Matthew Weppert, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gunther, Theron Eskilsen, son Steve and daughter Joanne.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ferguson of Argyle were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hoagg.

AROUND THE FARM Soil compaction adds to farming woes

By Don Kebler

It will be some time before we'll forget the wet summer, fall, winter and early spring we had in 1972-73. There are many fields where the crops are showing the effects of this high moisture period.

We are seeing stunted crops and spotty, irregular areas where the same crops vary in size, color and growth, randomized all in one field. Inspection of the crops in these fields are showing corn with tap roots curled and growing sideways and shallow feeder roots, stunted dog-rooted sugar beets, and hardly a bean plant not infected with root rot and shallow rooted.

These symptoms are indicative of early wet, compacted and even glazed soil which becomes harder still as soil dries in occurs. Even much of our late fall plowed ground is showing crops with these symptoms.

Why has this occurred? A high rate of 1972 summer and fall rainfall, snow in December which melted in January, massive rainfall during January and February, a snow in March which soon melted. On precipitation alone, our soils were super-saturated. On top of this, we never had a soil freeze to speak of to fracture the soil even to plow depth. This water alone helped to cause soil settling and compaction. A normal heavy winter soil freeze could have shattered this compacted area to at least three and a half to four feet deep.

As if these natural factors working against our soils were not enough to hurt, mechanical equipment compounded the compaction problem. There were very few fields fall-plowed dry enough to prevent plowsole glazing and packing. Here again, shallow soil freezing prevented plowed soil break-up. Whether the soil was fall plowed or not, spring work further glazed, packed the soil below the fitted layer. All the fitting tools used early this spring caused further glazing and packing too.

Examination of many fields showed every roadway and harvesting equipment travel area of last fall's harvest on wet soils. I even saw a field showing the roadway used to haul sugar beets from the field four years ago.

All of the sugar beet and bean fields, and some of the short growing cornfield soils have wet compacted soils within two to three inches of the top. Lack of soil water is not the problem here. Compaction, too much water, not enough soil oxygen has prevented deep root penetration fast enough to keep ahead of soil drying in the upper soil surface where most of the roots lay.

To add sidedress fertilizer is not the answer. Some minute plant stimulation may occur. Foliar feeding could do the same but several applications may be needed and still not pay.

The problem is soil compaction, by natural and mechanical processes.

McConkey guest of MSU officials

Maynard McConkey of Tuscola county was among some 200 Michigan county commissioners who visited Michigan State University June 21 as guest of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service.

Accompanied by William L. Bortel, Tuscola County extension director, they conferred with MSU extension officials who presented an overview of statewide extension programs planned for 1973-74.

The commissioners also met with participants attending two major, annual extension events -- J-H Exploration Days and College Week for Women -- which attracted more than 4,800 women and young people to the MSU campus during the week. Another feature of this year's County Commissioners Day was a tour of 10 MSU research installations, including waste management projects at the swine research center and poultry science department; the dairy, beef and endocrine research units; the School of Packaging and the College of Human Medicine.

St. Peter Lutheran of Unionville prepares for centennial celebration

BY JIM KETCHUM

ST. PETER LUTHERAN CHURCH, Unionville, celebrates its 100th anniversary with special services Sunday. Congregation was organized in 1873 by German settlers in the Unionville area.

INSIDE ST. PETER Lutheran Church, much renovation work has taken place over the years, including paneling, a suspended ceiling and a new organ.

You only celebrate a centennial once, so it pays to do things right. That's how the congregation of St. Peter Lutheran Church of rural Unionville look at it and the end result will be ready for all to see Sunday, July 29.

The church, located at Columbia Corners, which ceased to exist as a town many years ago, marks its first century of service on that date with two special services, along with a sermon from Rev. Robert L. Wietelmann, president of the Michigan District of the American Lutheran Church. Additionally, former pastors will speak at the services.

A large dinner, planned and produced by the women of the church, is also on the schedule. Eric Huemoerder, whose father, John, served as pastor of the church from 1928 through 1962, is in charge of organizing the festivities and has sent out around 150 postal cards to former members and friends of the church, inviting them to attend on the special day.

Offerings that Sunday will go toward mission work and to Luther Manor in Saginaw.

The current pastor is Gary R. Groth, who assumed his duties at St. Peter in August of 1972. Originally from Milwaukee, Wis., and later Cincinnati, Ohio, he found a much different way of life ministering in a small, rural church. St. Peter is his first call since his graduation from Capital University.

"In a way, I don't think I've really gotten as deeply involved in this style of life as I want to be," Rev. Groth said. "It's quite a change and takes a while to adjust."

He said when he took the call from the church, some officials led him to believe he was inheriting a financially-shaky congregation. He found, however, that nothing could be further from the truth.

Before Groth arrived, the congregation had completely remodeled the sanctuary of the building, installing paneling and a suspended ceiling, along with a sound system and carpeting down the main aisle.

Extensive remodeling was also done on the parsonage next door, including paint, carpeting aluminum windows and modernizing the kitchen.

The secret to this kind of success lies in the fact that nearly every member of the congregation gave time and money toward these improvements. When a job needed to be done, it was done, often without waiting for a committee to decide as to the necessity of the work.

"When something needs to be done, they do it here," Groth said.

Since he became pastor at St. Peter, the church has purchased an electronic organ costing $5,500. The organ was dedicated at a special service held last Sunday evening.

In addition, remodeling was completed on the sacristy and balcony, along with a fresh coat of paint and general clean-up of the basement. All labor on this last project came from volunteer help, as did a large percentage of the rest of the improvements.

Rev. Groth finds the St. Peter congregation one of the most active and involved church groups he has known and does not hesitate to say so.

"They are willing to help the church and each other," he said.

Most of the 160 members of St. Peter Lutheran are engaged in some aspect of farming, requiring long hours, sometimes into the night during harvest season which is fast approaching.

The rest work in industry. Some hold down factory jobs and still farm.

Yet, in spite of all these demands on their time, members of the congregation still participate actively in the life of the church.

Fred Disemplier, a member at St. Peter since 1928, recalled the winter that a group of the men decided the parsonage needed a basement, around 1950.

"We dug the basement in the winter because that was the only time we had," he remembered. "We were all farmers and so that was our only free time. So we went ahead and started digging. Well, water began seeping in more and more and, by the time we got ready to pour, mud was more than ankle deep."

He said they had no choice but to go ahead and pour cement anyway. The job turned out perfectly, thanks to the addition of drainage tile around the house. Disemplier recalled that, during the excavation process, a small charge of dynamite was needed under the house to break loose a portion of earth.

"We told Pastor John (Huemoerder) what we were going to do and told him he'd better get out of the house," he said, "but he didn't want to leave. So we went ahead and did our blasting. When the charge went off, he decided he'd better go, so he did, until we got done."

The church was organized as the "German Evangelical Lutheran St. Peter Congregation" in 1873, and was a member of the old Buffalo Synod which eventually merged with the group in Lutheranism that became the American Lutheran Church.

In its early years, the church ran a German school, teaching youngsters in the language of their fathers. Services were also held in German until pressure of anti-German feeling forced the elimination of the language and a switch to English. The German school, which was run by the pastor of the congregation, was closed in 1917.

It was not until 1921 that the first English-speaking class was confirmed in the church.

Another custom which hung on for many years was segregated seating. Men of the church would sit on one side of the aisle and the women and children on the other. Men would take communion first, followed by their wives. It was not until about 30 years ago that this custom gave way to families sitting together.

Most members of long standing remember Rev. John Huemoerder, who served 34 years as pastor of St. Peter, retiring in 1962. A plaque in the entryway commemorates his life and many years of service. According to church records, Rev. Huemoerder never asked for a raise in pay and missed only one Sunday a year for vacation.

What does the future hold for St. Peter Lutheran as it enters its second century? Rev. Groth sees continued vitality of members and disputes the notion that small, rural congregations are on their way out.

"There's lots of life and strength here," he said, "and I see this as a church that will keep right on growing and serving."

REV. GARY R. GROTH of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Unionville, looks forward to continued growth for rural congregations such as his at St. Peter. Church celebrates its 100th anniversary Sunday.

Fritz appointed to Wisconsin post

Gerald F. Fritz, formerly of Cass City and an instructor of communications at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point since 1970, has been appointed executive secretary to Chancellor Lee S. Dreyfus.

He assumed his new duties July 1.

Fritz will be in charge of operations of the chancellor's office and serve as a staff assistant to Dreyfus in addition to retaining teaching responsibilities.

The 41-year-old Fritz is a specialist in radio-television-film within the communication department and served as producer and writer for ABC-TV in Chicago before coming to the University of Wisconsin.

GERALD F. FRITZ

His ties with the chancellor extend from the mid-60's when Fritz was a graduate student under Dreyfus at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Besides the UW-Madison, where he received a master's degree, Fritz has attended Michigan State and Western Michigan University.

Fritz was raised in Cass City where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Fritz, continue to reside. He graduated from Cass City High School and served in the Navy from 1950-54. He has been a program director of a radio station in Sturgis and a writer and announcer for a television station in Kalamazoo.

Although his work involved brushing shoulders with numerous VIPs from all walks of life, including the late President Lyndon Johnson, he recalls that a highlight of his career in broadcasting, which spanned 10 years, was to be among the newsmen who covered the 1968 Democratic national convention in Chicago.

Fritz has maintained his involvement in broadcasting by serving as faculty advisor to student staff operating station WWSP-FM on the Stevens Point campus. In addition, he has been the university's representative on the Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 7. In the community, he has assisted in the on-going United Fund program.

Fritz is married and has four children.

Dundee: How they built a pool

THIS FORMER manufacturing plant for the Ford Motor Company is now part of Dundee's downtown park. Plant was donated to the village in 1970 by the Wolverine Lubricating and Manufacturing Co. of Detroit, which purchased the site from Ford in 1954.

houses for honors as "House of the Month".

Most of the homes in Dundee are older and have well-developed shade trees on both sides of many streets. The houses are neat and well-maintained for the most part with no litter collecting in curbs or behind garages. These homes might range in price from $15,000 to $30,000. More expensive homes can be had, but this type seems to predominate.

In the municipal building, an article on the village by the Toledo Blade is proudly displayed. The full-page spread is mounted on heavy paper and covered with plastic, all attached to a wooden plaque.

When Dundee consolidated its school districts into one in 1947, the new district covered 84 square miles and accounts for 2,032 students enrolled from kindergarten through grade 12. This also brings in 7,000 additional persons, along with the 2,470 population of the village itself. Cass City's 1972-73 enrollment was 2,017 students.

Cass City's school district encompasses 175 square miles and includes land in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

Dundee gives the impression to the stranger as a village dedicated to its school system and willing to pay the cost of improving it. James Dolezal, who farms 250 acres south of town and who sells insurance for the Farm Bureau, says any town has to keep moving just to stay even, with particular reference to schools and the pool. "If you sit still, you're going behind," he states emphatically. "There's no getting around it. You can't live like your father and grandfather did; it just doesn't work."

A stop at a local service station adds another dimension to the friendliness of the village. The attendant readily talks about cameras, seeing mine on the seat of the car. In spite of a steady rain he wears no raincoat or hat, and talks about photography and asks questions about the camera in the car. He smiles broadly as he speaks of the money involved in taking pictures, his shirt getting wetter by the minute.

What does all of this say for Dundee, Michigan? It adds up to a rural community with progressive, outgoing personalities comprising its residents who seem ready to do what they consider the right thing for their betterment and the betterment of their children.

It adds up to a community much like Cass City in size and in the kind of people who live there. People who want what's best and are not afraid to tackle tough issues, thrash them out and then close ranks once the decision has been made.

Richard Karner summed it up best. "A month after we opened the pool, I'll bet I saw 75 per cent of the people in it were ones who voted against the bond issue. You tell me what that means."

DUNDEE PRODUCTS CO. on the east side of town, one of four industries located in the village.

DUNDEE HIGH SCHOOL, which houses a swimming pool, provides a place for recreation as well as education in water safety for residents of the area.

ready for the discerning eye of expert judges.

Four big days of harness racing will be kicked off with the Calf Stakes at 5:30 p.m. in front of the grandstands. Brahman bulls, bucking horses, frisky calves and tough steers will do battle with cowboys of the Diamond S Rodeo of Bradenton, Fla., in a thrilling show to begin at 8:30 p.m. Trick riding and other fun-filled acts will be featured.

TUESDAY

Reduced rates on the midway are the feature of the day for Kid's Day, Tuesday. A grandstand show at 1 p.m. will feature special fun and games with $100 worth of prizes to be awarded to contestants in the afternoon activities.

The second big night of harness racing gets under way at 8 p.m. Many area horsemen and their thoroughbreds will compete against others from across the state.

WEDNESDAY

Horseman's Day on Wednesday honors the contribution horsemen have made to the county fair over the years. Three horse showing events will be on the docket, including a pony pull at 1 p.m., the Tuscola County Sheriff's posse in precision drill at 7:45 p.m. and harness racing at 8 p.m. will round out the day.

THURSDAY

Senior citizens, this is your day! All admissions for oldsters drop to zero all day Thursday until 6 p.m. All gates and an afternoon grandstand show will be free to all of the social security set.

Thursday is also Farmer's Day at the fair where they may enjoy harness racing at 2 p.m. Farmers of the future will show what they have at 1:30 p.m. in the livestock auction tent at the 50th annual 4-H and FFA Livestock Sale. The state tractor pulling contest will begin at 7 p.m.

Tuscola county's ambassador of the bean industry will be crowned at 8 p.m. by the 1972 Bean Queen. The 1973 Queen will represent the county at the Michigan Bean Festival on Labor Day week end in Fairgrove.

FRIDAY

Friday will feature the Michigan State Tractor Pulling Championship in front of the grandstands when dozens of the state's top tractors and drivers battle it out at 1 p.m.

Those with lots of traffic frustrations will get a chance to vent them at the demolition derby to be held Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. The popular event, back for another year, features many local favorites in the car-splitting crashes and smashes.

SATURDAY

Two horse pulling events will kick off the action on the final day of the fair. Performances are set for 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Motorcycle racers will start fighting it out on the track at speed trials at 6 p.m. followed by the intense competition of the races at 7:30 p.m. The races are a stirring climax to a week of excitement and competition.

THERE'S MORE

Exhibit halls will be open each day of the fair, along with animal pavilions, the midway and the food.

For extra fun, a Flea Market scheduled for Friday and Saturday, with countless treasures available for the buying, will tantalize both the pro and amateur antique buff.

So don't miss any of the fun. Come to the Tuscola County Fair, July 30 - August 4.

If you have a problem to solve, remember that hard work is the best solvent of all.

THE PAYOFF

Drive to live-it's the number of times that you arrive home safely that really counts.

Huron County Sheriff Richard V. Stokan, who headed a team of 11 officers in the investigation, said Monday he would seek a negligent homicide warrant for Miller in connection with the two deaths. He emphasized, however, that a final decision on the request would have to be made by Prosecutor Peter Burns Capping.

In another accident Saturday, David Zawilinski, 15, Cass City, suffered cuts and bruises at 4:30 p.m. when a car driven by his brother, Karl, 19, also of Cass City, was struck from behind by another car on the Bay City-Forestville Road at Lapak Road near the west limits of Gagetown.

Cathy Lee Ellenbaum, 17, Pigeon, the driver of the other car, and her only passenger, Linda Downing, 17, Gagetown, escaped injury.

Scott Gauthier, 17, Cass City, another passenger in the Zawilinski auto, also escaped injury.

State Police from Bad Axe said both cars were headed west and that Zawilinski stopped to turn left at which time the Ellenbaum auto skidded 60 feet into the rear of his car.

Zawilinski (Karl) told police he did not have his turn signal on.

His brother elected to seek his own medical treatment and was not hospitalized.

Move underway in legislature to revise antiquated statutes

Michigan's law books are a patchwork affair. They have been pasted together and amended a year at a time since statehood was achieved.

The result is that numerous laws become outdated or no longer necessary, but they remain on the books because no one notices they are there or worries about removing them.

That is the reason for efforts like those of House Judiciary Chairman J. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, to write a revised criminal code.

Now comes some up to date evidence of that antiquity of some of our laws from State Rep. William R. Bryant Jr., R-Grosse Pointe.

Bryant put together the study and says he found "a hodgepodge of laws enacted over scores of years with no attention paid to systematic review and updating."

"If we want people to respect our laws, and we do, and to obey them, those laws must be rational and acceptable to a great majority of people," he says. "Without this, our system of laws cannot survive."

SPECIAL VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A special meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on July 17, 1973, at 7:00 p.m. in the Board Room of the Cass City High School. All Trustees were present.

It was moved by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Jones that Nathaniel Tuttle be appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Bernard Ross until the next annual Village election. Motion carried.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned to an informal discussion session with the Cass City School Board concerning the upcoming vote on a high school swimming pool bond issue.

L. E. Althaver
Village President

For instance, Bryant found a law providing a prison term for anyone who "willfully blasphemes" or "profanely curses or damns." At another point he found a 90 day jail sentence for anyone convicted of using "indecent, immoral, obscene, vulgar or insulting language in the presence or hearing of any woman or child."

That's sort of a double standard in reverse, since it appears okay to swear in front of men.

Another old time law conceivably could be used to ban the sale of cigarettes in the state.

It forbids the sale or giving away to anyone "any cigarette containing any ingredient deleterious to health." And yet, every pack of cigarettes sold in Michigan carries a warning that the Surgeon General has found cigarette smoking dangerous to health.

Movie posters and television ads involving violence appear to be banned by a statute which forbids any "representation of murder, assassination, stabbing, fighting or of any personal violence, or of the commission of any crime."

There are still laws on the books, put there in 1952, requiring all communists to register, keeping communists or the Communist Party off the ballot and precluding communists from any public job, even though all those have been struck down by the Supreme Court.

Hot air balloons are banned by a law making illegal the possession or use of any "balloon which requires fire underneath to propel it."

Another law makes it a crime to advertise liquor using any reference to or the picture of "any deceased ex-president of the United States."

It is illegal for a man to seduce a woman, unless she is married, but it is legal for a woman to seduce a man.

It is illegal, but only in the upper peninsula, to drive a sleigh faster than a walk "without having bells on at least one of the animals" pulling the sleigh.

Some of these examples are ludicrous and most are humorous, but Bryant thinks the situation is also serious.

"It is not in the interest of freedom that laws exist which reasonable and moral men cannot help but violate in a daily routine which most of us would view as productive and untainted by any action adversely affecting society," he says. "Respect for law demands rational and limited laws which are widely known, understood and accepted and which are vigorously, fairly and impartially enforced."

ALLEN APPOINTED

There is often cynicism in Lansing whenever a former legislator is appointed to a state agency position.

There have been enough instances in the past when lawmakers with rather undistinguished records grabbed on to rather lucrative jobs.

For that reason, it is worth noting the recent appointment of former Rep. Richard Allen of Ithaca as director of the Michigan Tourist Council is an exception to that rule. Allen was very highly regarded by both Republicans and Democrats during his tenure in the House and is a very capable individual.

The 39-year-old veterinarian was the prime sponsor of a section of the 1972 transportation act which allocated $3 million annually for facilities, paths, lanes and trails for bicycles, horseback riding, hiking and other forms of non-motorized transportation.

When we left the House as a victim of reapportionment many people think it was a loss to state government. His return, they believe, is a gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Willerton

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Willerton of Argyle recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at their home.

Present for the occasion were their children, Deloris Willerton of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. J. Keith Willerton of Florida; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Willerton of Argyle; Mr. and Mrs. Dave (Margaret) Wegner of Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin (Mary) Hollingsworth of Hemlock. Also attending were 14 grandchildren. One grandson, Bruce Willerton, stationed in Mississippi, was unable to attend.

Others present were Mrs. Willerton's brothers, Leslie Hind of London, Ontario, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hind of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Your neighbor says

Start school later

Cass City schools have begun their sessions before Labor Day the past two years. Currently the board of education is deciding on a starting date for this year. Some dissatisfaction has been voiced concerning the early start.

Mrs. Jerry King, 6420 Pringle Rd., says school should start after Labor Day.

"When it starts before, it conflicts with the holiday," she says. "Lots of people like to do things that week end and it really interferes. The kids just nicely get started and then they have a three-day vacation."

Mrs. King, who is the mother of two children, one a first-grader, Kimberly, thinks the whole vacation schedule could be readjusted. She says last year's spring vacation of one week should have come at a holiday such as Easter.

Mrs. King, whose husband works at Saginaw Steering Gear, has lived in the area all her life.

Mrs. Jerry King and daughter, Kimberly

Now's the time to fix leaky basements

Want to end that leaky basement problem permanently? Many Michigan homeowners find the summer months the best time to get to the root of the problem, but before you do, the Michigan Consumers Council advises that you contact several waterproofing companies first, since claims and guarantees are as varied as the methods used.

Homeowners generally have two methods to choose from in waterproofing their basements. One method consists of injecting a mineral substance into the soil around the house, while the other involves excavation around the outside of the house or inside the basement to find the leak.

Companies using the injection method claim that when the substance comes in contact with water it expands to form a seal around the leaky spot in the basement wall, making it impermeable to moisture.

While the major attraction of this method is that it does not require extensive digging, there is some speculation as to its effectiveness, since the operator cannot see the leak he is supposedly plugging.

Exterior or interior digging to expose the foundation allows the contractor to see the leaks, which he can then plug with a waterproof substance.

Guarantees issued by water-proofing companies also vary in length and effective date. Some guarantees ask consumers to wait 90 days after installation before complaining about the job, while others go into effect immediately after installation. Length of protection can vary from one to five years.

Besides checking claims and methods, the Council advises prospective buyers to ask for references from other buyers or ask to see complete work. Reputable firms are always willing to supply prospective buyers with names of satisfied customers.

Asking for bids and full disclosure of all work to be done and any additional charges that may be incurred is a must in any home improvement transaction, the Council advises, and of course, get it in writing.

Consumers are also advised to withhold final payment until the job is completed to satisfaction.

To check on the reliability of home improvement firms, contact your local Chamber of Commerce, the Better Business Bureau in Grand Rapids and Detroit, or the Michigan Consumers Council, 525 Hollister Building, Lansing, MI. 48933. Complaints may be registered with the Consumers Council or the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office, Law Building, Lansing, MI. 48913.

Cass City gals move into 2nd with big wins

The Cass City women's softball team registered crucial victories to move into second place in the Thumb league during the week.

Cass City topped Snover Stamping, 12-8, when Elaine Stoutenburg and Charlene Fahrner paced a strong attack with home runs.

The team followed this victory with a 7-5 decision over Carsonville to set the stage for the game of the year against Sandusky.

With second place at stake, the ladies played their finest game of the year to win, 17-16.

Cass City was behind by six runs going into the sixth inning. A seven-run seventh inning moved them from way behind to a run ahead.

When the Sandusky girls went three up and three down, Cass City had its coveted victory.

The only blemish in an otherwise perfect week came last Wednesday when Peck, the league leaders, powered its way easily past Cass City, 14-4, in five innings. Highlight for the locals was a home run by Betty Ballagh.

The next home game for Cass City was to have been Wednesday against Deckerville at 9 p.m. It is the final game of the season.

Erla's on top as Thumb loop nears season's end

Erla's played before the home folks Monday night and treated the crowd to an exciting well played ball game that wasn't decided to the final innings when the Foodmen exploded for four runs and a 9-5 victory over Unionville State Bank.

The victory was one of three for Erla's during the week and kept them narrowly ahead of Reese Mueller's in their division of the Thumb Travelling League.

Both Erla's and Reese have lost two games, but Erla's have two more victories. The Cass City nine has four games left during the regular season.

Victims in addition to Unionville this week were Akron which bowed, 3-2, and Mayville, 13-1.

Erla's started as if they were going to run Unionville right out of the park in the first inning. Hits by John Langhorn, Gene McGill and a walk to Walt Hempton was followed by a key base hit by Rollic Nickolas and the Foodmen were off and winging, 3-0.

A couple of base hits made it 4-0 in the second but then Unionville started clawing back and it was easy to see why the team was one of the two teams to beat Erla's this year.

Three solid hits fueled a two-run rally in the second. An error and a hit netted another marker in the third.

Erla's countered with a run in the fifth on errors and then the Bankers put together three more hits in the fifth, scored twice and the game was all tied to set the stage for the last inning Erla rally.

Tony Jamison led the attack with three hits while Hempton and Langhorn each collected two hits for Erla's.

The Akron victory was featured by the steady five-hit pitching by Don McGill. The Foodmen scored in the second on hits by Gene and Charlie McGill, added another in the fourth on hits by Tony Jamison and a single by Don McGill. The winning run came on back to back doubles in the fifth. Walt Hempton cracked one and trotted home as Charlie McGill drove in his second run of the game with his two-bagger.

Rollic Nickolas and Charlie McGill each picked up two hits in the 10-hit Erla attack. The first victory of the week was a slaughter for the Foodmen. They scored early and often in a game called after five innings.

Every man in the line-up picked up at least one hit. Hempton, Charlie McGill and Nickolas slammed three hits each.

Pitching wraps up Church loop title for Baptists

The Baptist just about wrapped up the regular season title in the Cass City Church League Thursday with an 11-6 decision over the second place Methodists in a game played before the largest crowd of the season.

In addition, on the basis of these games, the Baptists will be heavy favorites to add the play-off toga to the regular season title.

That's because the Baptists have the pitching to go with a well balanced attack. Craig Helwig is on the verge of becoming an established softball chucker. Already he is almost as good as there is in the Church League.

Correction

In last week's Chronicle, it was reported that Charles T. Lauria, 4135 Cemetery Road, was arrested on a charge of eluding a police officer. Additionally, it was reported that he was spotted driving recklessly. He was not.

He was seen driving the motorcycle at a high rate of speed. He pleaded guilty in district court to charges of eluding an officer.

Appoint bean agent for Tri- county region

A Bean Agent has been hired by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University to work in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties. This position was funded a few months ago to focus on the Thumb's 275,000 acres of beans.

Jim Olson is married and plans to reside in the Caro community. They have two children, Stacy, 9, and David, 3.

Dry beans are the number one cash crop in the Thumb; however, bean growers are losing interest with deteriorating yields. Jim Olson will be devoting his attention to the total problems of agricultural practices, varieties and marketing to maintain competitive yields for the Thumb.

Olson's office will be located at the Extension Office in Caro through the support of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners.

Owen-Gage board studies building

The Owendale-Gagetown school district is proceeding with plans for a new school building for grades seven through 12, costing approximately $1.9 million, according to preliminary plans presented to the Owen-Gage Board of Education at a special Wednesday evening meeting.

Leslie Tincknell of Wigen, Tincknell and Associates, Saginaw architects, presented the drawings which detail the construction of the 72,000 square-foot facility.

The board discussed the drawings and possible alternative construction approaches.

Owen-Gage Supt. Glenn Sanford said the facility, which would house 350 students in the beginning, would have ten general classrooms plus special rooms for shop classes, home-making, art, physics, a library and other specialized rooms.

Sanford also indicated that the board has had some discussion on the possibility of constructing a swimming pool to go along with the proposed school building. He said, however, that any pool construction would probably have to be contained in a separate millage issue, leaving voters the option of approving the school with or without the pool.

Sanford also indicated that the preliminary cost figures do not include equipment or sewage disposal costs. It also does not include the cost of site development.

He indicated that work is still continuing on determination of a suitable site for the building: either in Owendale, Gagetown or somewhere in between.

The sewage problem remains a determining factor. Sanford said he hoped a final decision on a building could be made by the board by mid-August and that the issue could be presented to the voters by October.

Should a facility be approved at that time, he added, it is hoped that the building would be ready for use in September of 1975.

Plans for building a new school have been under consideration since the proposed merger of the district with the Unionville-Sebewaing district was defeated by voters April 30.

Voters recently approved an increase of two and one-quarter mills for operating expenses in the district, to eight and one-quarter mills.

The only pitcher that is generally conceded to be better is his dad, Elwyn, who also pitches for the league leaders.

The two pitchers combined to lead the Baptists past the Methodists. Craig opened and pitched well but showed his inexperience when he ran into streaks of wildness. Elwyn relieved and took command the rest of the way. Henry Cooklin and Elwyn Helwig hit circuit clouts for the winners. Eldon Stoutenburg was charged with the loss.

Owen-Gage and the Catholics which started slowly continued to rebound with victories in the week's games.

Owen-Gage's first win was Tuesday, July 17, when they rapped out an 11-6 decision over Deford. Dennis Koch hurled the win and Jerry Curtis took the loss.

In the nightcap the Baptists overwhelmed winless Lamotte, 21-2, in five innings. Craig Helwig pitched a strong game to get the win. Leland Hirsch took the loss. Every Baptist picked up two hits or more.

Thursday the Church of Christ edged the Lutherans in a slugfest match, 12-10. Don Englehart received the decision over Al Romig. Englehart helped his own cause with three hits in four tries while Jim Compo and Ken Martin rapped two for four in a losing Lutheran effort.

Owen-Gage won its second of the week as Lamotte bowed for the seventh straight time Friday.

In the nightcap the Catholics moved into third place with an 18-4 pasting of Snover-Laing. John Maharg pitched the win. Dave Bliss and John Maharg hit three for four. Maharg's blows included a pair of homers. Jim Hospich was two for four for the losers.

Saturday Deford outlasted Cass City Missionary, 14-11. Louis Tibbits won over Roger Root. Tibbits whiffed six Missionary hitters and also collected two hits.

FABULOUS FRIDAY for three local fishermen on the south branch of the Cass River. That's all you can say about it when you consider that this trio brought home these four Northern Pike after about two hours of fishing. What's more the boys say that they caught and released three or four others in the 20-inch plus class.

That big one caught by Mike "Pete" Frederick (center) checks in at 36 inches and the smaller fish are in the 25-inch class.
