Excavation continues

Diggers uncover mammoth jaw

More bones of a giant Jefferson Mammoth that once roamed the pre-historic Thumb area have been found in excavations near Uby. The bones were found on land owned by Dolan Sweeney under the direction of Don Weston, a student of archeology at Michigan State University.

Found Tuesday, Aug. 14, were two sections of the beast's mandible, or lower jaw containing two teeth. The sections each measured about 10 inches long and weigh approximately six pounds each.

According to Weston, who has been working on the project for over a year, the bones at the excavation site have all been found about 20 inches below the surface in the middle of a plowed field.

The animal is believed to have lived about 9,000 years ago, according to the results of three carbon date tests run on bones previously found from the animal. Weston said the Jefferson Mammoth lived in the area from 8,000 to 12,000 years ago, stood from 12 to 14 feet high.

Weston theorizes this particular animal lived after the ice age and probably met his demise when he fell through thin ice on a bog and drowned. He thinks the animal bloated and floated about the pond before new ice pushed him to one side of it, where his bones eventually sank into the soil.

Weston hopes eventually to recover most, if not all of the animal's skeleton. No further evidence to date has been found linking the animal's existence with that of a prehistoric man. Last year, bits of carbon were found in the area, leading some credence to the belief that an early form of man might have lived concurrently with the beast.

The bones, along with other parts of the skeleton which have been found, will eventually be put on display at the Petroglyphs State Park in Sault county. Weston has taken an active part in planning and development of the facility.

Each Sunday he presents a 20-minute lecture and slide presentation at 3 p.m. at the Greenleaf Township Hall. Following the lecture, Weston gives those interested a walking tour through the rock carvings of the park. He said a few persons have also accompanied him to the digging site of the mammoth.

Until recently, exact location of the site was not revealed generally in order to keep out curiosity seekers and prevent damage to the area.

Wheat prices continue to soar as $1.5 million harvest ends

Wheat farmers in Tuscola county have just completed one of their most profitable years yet, contributing to a national crop that will sell for more than $1.5 million, the highest return in history.

Many thought they had a good year when wheat topped the $2.00 mark. At $2.50, they thought prices had reached the limit and so sold. Others said wheat would never get as high as $3.00 a bushel and shook their heads in disbelief when it did.

As of Monday, wheat was selling for $4.88 per bushel, according to figures from Michigan Bean Co. in Cass City. Late last week, on the Chicago Board of Trade, wheat went above the $5 mark, then settled back at about $4.90.

For years, while prices of other products went up, farm prices remained steady. Michigan farmers, for instance, received the following average prices per bushel of wheat in previous years:

1965	$1.40
1966	$1.65
1967	$1.26
1968	$1.09
1969	$1.20
1970	$1.40
1971	$1.35
1972	$1.52
1973	$4.88

Bob Wischniemyer of Michigan Bean Co. said Monday that about half the area wheat crop has been sold and farmers are holding the rest, trying to better already record prices.

He added that farmers seem to be holding most of their oat and barley crop, hoping to more than double prices for these grains.

"These are the highest prices I've seen," he said. Wischniemyer has been in the business 14 years.

He said many farmers he has talked with indicate they plan to plant more wheat next year to take advantage of prices they hope will hold at high levels.

Price quotations on wheat change daily and usually rise the limit of 15 cents per day permissible. One farmer near Unionville figures he lost about $2,000 by selling his wheat at the time he did. He received $2.82 for his wheat.

One reason for the demand for wheat on the Chicago Future's market is, according to experts, that supplies of wheat may be tight before the next year's crop is ready.

Also, export sales are expected. But some sources say foreign customers are shying away from U. S. wheat because of high prices.

The Agriculture Dept. is predicting that export controls may be put on wheat to insure domestic supply.

In some areas, farmers are holding onto their wheat, fearing they will be short-changed if they sell now, as they were after wheat prices skyrocketed last year following sales to the Soviet Union. Many farmers sold their wheat before the prices rose.

There is also an increasing demand for wheat worldwide, partly because standards of living have improved. Far Eastern nations that once depended on rice are now using wheat.

Some 26 million tons of wheat are already contracted for export from this country. Out prices are also higher than ever before.

Normal price that farmers get for oats at harvest time has been about $1.12 per bushel. This year, prices range some 20 to 30 cents higher.

County death toll rises to 18 after Sunday crash

A 32-year-old Lapeer man became Tuscola county's 18th traffic fatality Sunday afternoon when a truck ran over the motorcycle he was riding at the intersection of M-24 and Mayville Road, near the east village limits of Mayville.

Dead is Frank Janowski, driver of the motorcycle. His wife, Judy, 29, suffered cuts and bruises in the accident and was taken to Lapeer General Hospital.

Officers from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department said that a truck, driven by John Cakowski, 46, North Branch, ran over the cycle as it was attempting to make a left turn.

Cakowski, in a statement to officers, said he did not know why he did not try to either ditch the truck or swerve to miss the motorcycle.

The mishap, which is still under investigation, occurred at 3:10 p.m.

GAGETOWN ACCIDENT

A Gagetown man was listed in fair condition Tuesday at Hills and Dales General Hospital following an accident involving his motorcycle and a car in Gagetown Friday evening. Still hospitalized with multiple injuries is Terry Lee Bruno of Gage Street.

According to Tuscola deputies, Bruno failed to stop for a sign at the intersection of State and Gage Streets and slammed into the side of a car driven by Helen Root, 4229 Duerr Rd.

The report said Ms. Root stopped at the intersection of State and Gage. After traffic cleared, she turned west onto State Street. It was at this point that Bruno collided with her car.

Witnesses said the motorcycle had been traveling at a high rate of speed some time before the accident and had been reported only minutes before the crash. The accident occurred at 7:35 p.m.

Bruno was thrown from the motorcycle and landed 26 feet from the point of impact. He was ticketed for reckless driving.

Ms. Root sought private medical attention.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A Caro girl was struck and injured by a Cass City motorist as she rode her bicycle on M-81 just west of Ringle Road Friday evening.

Injured was Brenda Spencer. She was struck by a car driven by Jerry R. Cortimilla, 6343 Pine St.

Officers said Cortimilla was traveling west on M-81 when the girl swerved into the path of his car. He told officers he slammed on his brakes but he could not avoid a collision.

No ticket was issued. The accident occurred at 6:40 p.m. A Pigeon man and his passenger from Deford escaped serious injury early Monday morning when the car in which they were riding was run off Koopten Road a half-mile north of M-81.

Slightly injured were Gerald Hartman, Pigeon, and his passenger, Franklin Holcomb, 2284 McArthur, Deford.

Deputies said Hartman was traveling south on Koopten Road and came to the intersection of Michigan Road.

An unidentified vehicle pulled out in front of the Hartman auto, traveling in the same direction Hartman told officers the best way to avoid a collision, he thought, was to pass. As he did, the vehicle ran him off the road.

His auto struck a railroad crossing sign on the east side of the road.

No suspects were apprehended. The accident occurred at 3:15 a.m.

PART OF THE complete destruction resulting from an explosion at the Brady Gas Co. of Unionville is apparent from the ruins of the modern office building in the background and one of the four trucks that were destroyed.

Explosion, fire rock Unionville gas company

A fire and explosion near Unionville Tuesday morning resulted in extensive property damage to a building and several trucks.

Destroyed were a number of trucks along with a building housing the Brady Gas Co., located at the corner of M-25 and Bay Park Road. The fire broke out about 9:20 a.m. while a Philgas truck was being loaded.

According to Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies, the fire appeared to have started at the loading site and spread rapidly to a bulk truck parked a short distance away.

Fire departments from Akron, Sebawang and Unionville were summoned to fight the roaring inferno.

Vehicles destroyed included two pickup trucks, a tank truck and a large tractor and trailer rig. The building housing the company was totally destroyed.

The blast blew parts of the office building onto highway M-25 about 100 yards away.

Residents ponder pool issue: Where do we go from here?

In the wake of the recent defeat of a proposed indoor swimming pool at the high school, Cass City must now consider what the next step will be in the protracted struggle to provide swimming for village residents.

The issue began in 1972 when voters approved a bond issue of $113,000 to build an outdoor swimming pool to replace the old pool which had been condemned the year before by state health officials. Voters approved the issue by a 214-53 margin.

Matching federal funds were counted on to allow construction to begin late that fall or early the following spring. Those funds were not forthcoming, due to large cutbacks in government grants for projects of this type.

This year, it was decided to place an indoor facility attached to the high school before voters on a school district-wide basis. The $750,000 bond issue and accompanying 1.9 mill tax levy went down to defeat 687-468.

So, after two years, Cass City still has no pool with none in sight.

One proposal discussed in some circles involves the construction of an outdoor facility, using monies from the earlier bond issue and proposing an extra two-mill levy. This would provide essentially what the old pool provided—swimming for approximately three months each summer.

The Chronicle took an unscientific, random survey of voters and found sentiment for this proposal.

Mrs. Gary Christner, 6886 Herron Dr., said she would support such a levy because having a pool in Cass City is something of major importance to the village.

"I have a child who has to learn to swim," she said. "I would support it if we could have a pool."

She said she voted for the defeated bond issue and felt it was a worthwhile measure. She added that she did not know if the village as a whole would support the levy.

YOU MIGHT CALL him King, the Wonder Dog, considering that he's lived 25 years --considerably longer than most dogs. King's adventures in his long life have taken him into the far north and to the southern reaches of the state. When asked how much longer he thought he had, King only snorted.

Cass City pooch still going strong after 25 years

By Jim Ketchum

Leading a dog's life has been a longer-than-usual experience for King. While most pooches are contented with a life of chasing cats, butterflies and an occasional mailman or two in a lifespan of about 10 to 13 years, King has hung around just a little longer.

As closely as his owners, the Oran Hughes family of 6619 Houghton, and veterinarian Dr. Harry Crandell can calculate, King has lived some 25 years.

Hughes obtained the dog when his son Chuck was two years old. King was fully grown at the time and Chuck is now 23. Mrs. Hughes explained that the shorthair pointer came to live with them after her husband obtained him from a man who had traded a smaller dog to another man for him.

Over the years, Dr. Crandell has cared for King and has ministered to any number of wounds which have included two bouts with a porcupine a number of years ago.

"We went on vacation up north one summer," Mrs. Hughes recalled, "and we took King along with us back into the woods with the kids. Well, he got to roaming around and tangled with this porcupine."

"We brought him to a vet and it took two big men to hold him down while they gave him a shot to quiet him. It cost us $35 to get those quills out."

This wasn't the end of the story. King apparently felt he had a score to settle with the prickly foe the following fall when the family went deer hunting.

"We took him back in the same spot and he tangled up with a porcupine again. That time it cost him a week in the hospital to get over it."

King has had some other close calls in his lifetime. Back in 1963, the Hughes family thought they'd seen their big, romping playmate for the last time.

Mrs. Hughes explained that during the time construction crews were laying gas pipe in Cass City, one of the workmen happened to ask her one day if King were a good hunting dog. She told him yes, he was. What she did not explain was the fact that he would hunt only for Hughes and his son.

"That night I heard a noise out back but I thought it was just the neighbors, telling the dog to shut up," she recalled. "The next morning he was gone. My husband told me to keep an eye out for him, that he was somewhere close and would be coming in soon."

He never came back that day or that week or that month.

It was not until April, 1964 that a tired and somewhat tattered King finally made his way back to the Hughes home. "It was a warm day and I had the back door open," Mrs. Hughes remembered, "and I was sitting here in the living room when I heard something that sounded like his paws on the bare floor. I looked up and jumped. There he was."

The Hughes children pounced on King and hugged the dog like he hadn't been loved in a long time. Mrs. Hughes said she thinks whoever took him—that's confirmed as a fact—must have beaten him, because he had lost his habit of jumping up on people who walked in the house.

"They found out he wouldn't hunt for anyone else," she added.

When King came home, he was wearing a dog license purchased for 1964. A check with state records showed the license had been purchased in the southern part of the state. King had made his way about 200 miles back to Cass City.

Mrs. Hughes, who says she never really cared that much for dogs, has lived with King for nearly a quarter of a century. Although he's blind in one eye, he is still playful, energetic and enjoys an occasional romp in the yard with whoever is handy. "Not too many years ago I told my husband I was tired of having the dog sleep in the basement in cold weather," she said, "because he'd come up the stairs and wouldn't be able to get back down and cry, waking us up. So my husband decided to build him a dog house."

The house he built for King measures eight feet by 10 feet and sports a large window, aluminum siding and electric heat in the winter.

"This dog lives better than I do sometimes," Chuck Hughes joked.

Chuck said King has never made the neighbors complain and only once did he break house. He went across the street and got his chain tangled around a porch post and started to bark. The neighbor freed King and took him home.

Since then, no complaints have been received about the dog.

How much longer can King go on? Sometimes it looks as though he'll never die. Dr. Crandell has told the family the dog is too active and too healthy to be put to sleep.

Mrs. Hughes recalled a humorous incident relating to a discussion of King's longevity.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Did you catch Rob Alexander on national television Monday night? Just before the NBC game of the week the network did a show on Danville, a class A minor league team. That's where Robbie plays. A couple of times he appeared at the end of the bench (he wasn't pitching) as the camera swept the players' dugout. If you knew his number (17) you saw him at the end with his back to the camera picking up balls after the game.

Guys like John Hacker help keep community papers going. It was John who week after week turned in the results of the Church League games to the paper.

Keeping track of all these games is a chore and John did it on a volunteer basis. . . no pay.

Anybody who has fooled with things like this knows the hours it takes to do the job. . . especially the way John did it.

Papers everywhere are continually in the debt of the Hackers everywhere. They all know it and appreciate it.

The Haires and two other couples saw "Last Tango in Paris" last week and it was positively putrid and I'm not only talking about the sex scenes. . . although they qualify.

What's particularly galling is that the show received many favorable reviews. . . yet was so poor that we didn't stay nearly to the end.

I type everything I write for the paper except the headlines. That's because my penmanship is so lousy.

I've often had trouble with my notes after they run cold and for anyone else it's a hopeless task.

An example: last week I wrote a head about the school board which said, in part, "school board, parents battle. . .". That's what it said in the paper. What I wrote was "school board, parents hassle. . .".

How can you get battle out of hassle? You'd have to see my writing to understand.

Mrs. Arnold Erla made medical history, Monday, Aug. 13. Mrs. Erla became the mother of Jodi Lee Erla, an eight-pound, 10-ounce baby girl.

Where the history part of this everyday happening comes in is that Jodi Lee was the last baby born at the closed General Hospital Division of Bay Medical Center, Inc., in Bay City.

Cass City's Bobby Riggs just has to be Gerald Whittaker.

If life begins at 40, Whittaker is about qualified to enjoy it.

Despite becoming long in the tooth for active sports, Whittaker, like old man river, just keeps pitching along.

He is a mound stalwart for a Saginaw nine and also pitches for Caro. He's been effective, too. A couple of weeks ago he pitched and won a double header, starting one game and pitching relief in the other.

You don't mind these young-old guys when they work at it. You know: jog, exercise, diet.

Whittaker just rolls along doing his thing without apparent strain or visible extra physical preparation.

PRACTICAL PROOF

Our standard of living is still mighty popular even if the majority of the people have to spend most of their lives in debt to afford it.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee D'Arcy

An informal open air gathering for friends and family was held Tuesday, Aug. 21, in honor of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lee D'Arcy of Marton Road, Kingston. The gathering was held at the Missionary Camp Ground near Brown City.

Lee Wellington D'Arcy and Betty Lorraine Tuckey were married Aug. 21, 1948.

Mrs. D'Arcy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Tuckey of Cass City. The couple has lived in the Kingston area since their marriage and are active members of the Lamotte Missionary Church.

They have four children, David of Eton Rapids, Paul of Los Angeles, Mrs. Kaye Sims of Kingston and Richard, at home.

Guests were invited to call at the campsite between 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

Like most governmental programs the principal hang-up in the subsidized house building program was the way in which it was administered.

Across the country and in Cass City the Housing and Urban Development program resulted in foreclosures and subsequent repossession by HUD of homes.

But it also resulted in new, well kept homes for several local residents. Families who took the big break the program offered low income persons and made a home for themselves.

Looking backwards, I'd say that it could have been an outstanding program, but turned out to be only a relatively successful one.

The principal reason for the results here was the approval of families as purchasers of homes despite poor credit histories, inadequate finances and lack of homeowner qualities.

If the family was solid, lacking only money, the homes inevitably became an asset to the community. Look around, you'll see what I mean.

If they weren't they became a liability. Look around, you'll see what I mean.

Now we have several homes in the area boarded up, standing idle.

It appears as if the same mismanagement that ramrodded the program into disrepute is still alive and well, thank you.

According to the rules and regulations the repossessed homes must be boarded up, must stand idle for six months before any attempt can be made to get them resold into the hands of someone who will make them an asset to the neighborhood.

The boards are coming down now from one of those homes in Cass City, probably much to the relief of homeowners in the area.

The sad fact is that if the red tape could have been unsharped those homes undoubtedly would have been resold long before now.

One thing that the Thumb area has going for it in this vast waste of taxpayer money is that the loss won't be as great as it is in the cities.

The neighborhoods remain constant and when the homes are in reasonable shape there should be a ready market for them.

That's one of the few good by-products of inflation. Homes increase in value just standing there.

The boom in building costs made the original price of the homes built a couple of years ago more compatible.

If the government will let the professional in the field handle the resale to persons with enough funds for a reasonable equity in the homes it may be that a very bad bargain could be made reasonably palatable.

There's no doubt that the homes are needed, needed now, in Cass City.

Funny men in Washington

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Probably the most important step is to get an important job in Washington. The rest follows naturally.

That's my answer to the Woman's Press Club of Indiana. The club invited me to speak at a luncheon meeting in Indianapolis in September. The suggested topic was "The art of being funny."

I won't make the speech, of course. I am still bound by my vow to give no more than I receive. I have been physically unable to sit through an after-dinner speech since 1968 when, at $100 a plate, Ronald Reagan gave me indigestion that hurt worse than having your legs cut off which is what justifiably happened to Reagan in "Kings Row" (hello there, old movie lovers.) So it is only fair that I refuse to verbalize anyone else into the Alka Seltzer bottle.

But that doesn't stop me from telling the Indiana press women how (heh heh) funny. All they have to do is follow the advice given in the opening paragraph. It is feared that the Washington Monument may someday crumble because of earth tremors set off by the tremendous knee-slappers committed daily in the neighborhood.

For instance, what's funnier than a Secretary of the Air Force who doesn't know what nations his planes are bombing?

Or how about the FBI chief keeping top secret papers in his bedroom, in the middle drawer under his shorts?

But the guy who really aches my sides is Senator Lowell Weicker, the wholesomely innocent Republican who keeps saying "DO YOU MEAN TO TELL ME."

Weicker thinks it is a dastardly thing that John Ehrlichman and the White House gunshoes should be concerned with the drinking habits of congressmen.

"Constituents at home have no way of knowing that you can go over here in the gallery of Congress and watch a member totter onto the floor in a condition of at least partial inebriation which would preclude him making any sort of a sober judgment on the issues that confront this country."

Ehrlichman said on TV.

(Translation: Some congressmen come to work drunk.)

Sen. Weicker insisted this was no reason for the White House to bug the olive in a congressman's martini. "I am quite satisfied that our system, our institutions, are perfectly capable of passing decent judgment, fair judgment, hard judgment on political figures, public officials, without the covert operations of men like Mr. Ulasevich," Weicker said. Ulasevich is an ex-cop paid by the Nixon team to peek through transoms.

(Translation: if congressmen appear drunk in public, especially in the capitol building of the United States, the cop on the beat will deal with them, the same as with any Skid Row bum who might stagger into the joint.)

The ramble you just heard came from the Lincoln Memorial where Abe slapped his knee and started a rockslide.

Everyone knows that congressmen police themselves, whatever the crime. And Sen. Jones wouldn't publicly accuse Sen. Smith of being a boozier if Smith passed out in Jones' lap. That's a club rule. Congressmen can accuse each other of all sort of political stupidity and cupidity. But never anything personal. Jones would never suggest that Smith can't legislate effectively because he can't keep from falling off his chair. Because, the next day, Smith might point out that Jones missed 2 committee meetings because he was shackled up with half the stenographic pool.

Does Sen. Weicker mean to tell me he didn't know that?

Washington is full of funny men who are always good for laughs. But the people who pay their salaries still can't keep from crying.

POOL PROBLEM

Stevenson said he could not support it.

"Prices are too high now and people can't afford to have any more taken from their incomes," he said. "It's practically impossible to live now."

He said he did not vote for the indoor pool issue.

Mrs. Willard Dodson said she favors an outdoor pool and wants to see one constructed. "I would vote for an outdoor pool because we need it very much," she said.

Mrs. Ronald Keegan, 6407 Seventh St., agreed that a pool is needed.

"We have to look to the future and think about the kids," she said. "I certainly think it's worth going after."

She said she would support the construction of an outdoor pool as an alternative to the defeated indoor proposition.

Mrs. Clyde Wells, 6632 M St., said she supported all attempts to build a pool in Cass City and would vote for an outdoor pool.

"I had the benefit of a pool and learning to swim and I think the kids should have the same opportunity," she said.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

The fashion report

By Jim Ketchum

I've threatened to write this column for a long time. Now, motivated by a whole series of observations on my very own window on Main Street, I think I've gathered enough data to issue a report on women's fashions for 1973.

One of my more colorful associates at this newspaper has repeatedly accused me of doing nothing more than gawking at the fair maidens as they come twittering by the office. I have explained repeatedly to her and, on occasion to my wife, that this is not so. I have been doing scientific research and collecting valuable data.

Since women's fashions change so rapidly, I believe it is my duty as a journalist to keep up with styles, to observe trends and to report my findings to the readership. Cass girl-watching is an atrocious misunderstanding of my purposes.

So now, colorful associate and readers, here is my report.

Skin is in in 1973. This summer has exposed more of nature's handiwork than a nature hike through Yellowstone National Park. It is difficult, indeed to comment on the clothing when there is so little of it to be had.

One reason for this condition may come from a shortage of cotton. Floods this spring took a heavy toll in farmland, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that the cotton fields took it on the chin too.

Using this as a partial justification, inflation can also be cited as another factor toward the nude look. All costs, including the price of clothing, have shot drastically upward.

How else can you justify $20 for a two-piece bathing suit so small that if the girl breaks out in goose pimples, she'll get arrested for indecent exposure?

Yes, skin is in, and the more the better. There must be some kind of secret competition going on among the young fem fatales to see just how little they can get away with wearing and not end up having supper in a cell.

The clothing surrounding the skin (or at least trying to surround it) makes no attempt, in most cases, to look neat, well-kept or free of wrinkles. Style seems to dictate that the older and more tattered a set of hot-pants looks the more alluring they will be for some unsuspecting male who might be casting an eye in her direction.

Status is determined by the number of strings hanging from each leg of a pair of cut-offs. It helps, too, if the hip pockets are ripped off and especially if they happen to be faded or pinned together where buttons and zippers once existed.

Another plus factor seems to be tightness of fit. The hugger they are on the hips, the better. A popular tad seems to dictate that the poor creature pour herself into the cutoffs at the hips and yet still be thin enough to allow the waistline of the garment to fall away from the body in such a way to make male eyeballs melt in their sockets. This technique works well with the indented naval as opposed to the convex type.

Long, straight hair of most any color, falling majestically down a maiden's bare back goes well with this type of attire. It helps if the halter ties in the back with one small string tied so that a long portion of it flows with the hair.

The bow-wow halter is most popular, so named because when ever the girl bows "wow."

The unclad look extends particularly to the feet. I'll bet this summer I haven't seen one pair of shoes in ten with anything on her feet other than a coating of dirt about four layers thick. This tends to make the girl look as though she'd been hitchhiking from Detroit and hadn't been lucky enough to catch a ride.

Doctors must make a fortune diagnosing cases of athlete's foot, fallen arches and bunions these days. Walking along a city sidewalk where young kids spill ice cream and where old men exasperate must really be a thrill in bare feet. I've never tried it.

Vandals struck a lawn watering system and damaged a sink in the men's rest room at the village park Friday evening.

Cass City Police said a ground control on the watering system was broken sometime between 8:30 p.m. and 9:00 p.m., sending a stream of water some 10 feet high before it could be contained. Patrolman Donald Miller investigated the incident.

As he did, a report of damage at the washroom in the park was turned in. Police found a wash sink pried away from the wall and water was running over the floor of the room.

No suspects have been apprehended.

KINGSTON BREAK-INS

Two breaking and enterings were investigated last week by Tuscola county deputies in Kingston.

Friday, thieves broke into the home of Margorie Billmore, 6496 Denhoff Rd. According to investigating officers, entry was gained by prying open a back door with a crow bar.

The culprits ransacked two bedrooms and had removed a television set from a wall in the living room. Nothing was found missing from the house.

The case remains under investigation.

Thieves struck Saturday at the home of Eber Karger of Englehart Road.

Entry was gained by prying the latch on the back door of the house.

Nothing was found missing, but the culprits did move a television set from a wall and had the cord wrapped, ready for loading. Drawers in the bedroom were ransacked.

Investigation of both incidents continues.

Windows were broken in a truck parked near Koepfgen Road belonging to L. J. Dillon. The truck was parked in a field where it had broken down Saturday, located about a mile north of M-81.

No suspects were apprehended.

BETTER HEALTH

Migraine headache relief available

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Every so often I read a paper by someone who doubts if migraine is associated with a certain type of personality. For instance, I have on my desk the statement by a psychiatrist who feels that migraine is caused by a food allergy, and that while in an allergic state the patient "learns to become perfectionistic simply by the heightened activity produced by the allergic state."

I have heard this argument about allergies causing migraine for years. But I cannot believe it is true, because in cases where I could find specific foods which seemed to be causing the trouble, if the person, usually a woman, would stop taking the foods, she would still have the headaches.

During my 25 years at the Mayo Clinic, I must have seen at least 2,000 women with severe migraine, and often I suspected migraine the minute the woman walked into my office. What causes my suspicion? So often, the woman fitted into a certain pattern; she usually had a trim build and quick movement; she answered questions quickly and intelligently, and she has a keen, wide-awake, hypersensitive and socially attractive nature.

I have often said that migraine is something like a Phi Beta Kappa key which shows that the person has a better-than-average brain. It bothers perhaps one in five of the highly intelligent persons in this country. Many great writers and artists suffer terribly because any extra strain or any event out of the ordinary can give them a headache, perhaps with abdominal distress and vomiting.

Migrainous women, as they grow older, seldom put on weight, and they rarely develop any serious illness. Examinations rarely show anything physically wrong with them, and when, in an occasional woman, one finds a gallstone or a fibroid tumor of the womb, an operation very rarely helps the headaches. The headaches come only from the irritable brain and probably never from any spot below the neck.

One of my favorite questions when I suspect migraine is to ask the woman, "If you have guests coming for dinner at six, when do you set the table?" and commonly the migrainous woman will say, "In the morning, right after breakfast," or "The night before." This is an important clue, because these headache women are usually perfectionists who want everything done just-so and exactly on time. They plan well ahead, and are upset if their self-imposed deadline is not met. They do not like surprises.

Typical of the migrainous temperament is the tendency of the person to become badly fatigued suddenly. These people often are poor travelers and shoppers and sight-seers. After a half-hour in a museum, the woman may be almost too tired to walk out to the front door. These people hate crowds and cross-talk at a party, and usually they hate bright lights and strong smells. They suffer greatly because of their hypersensitiveness.

For 25 years I kept watching for migraine in a person who was mentally dull, and I cannot remember finding such a case. Nor could I find migraine in a person who was overweight -- except in two cases.

A rotund lady had a number of complaints that puzzled me, until I happened to see her hurrying down the hall to my office. I had not thought of migraine, because I didn't expect to see it in a person of her size; but when I asked her if she had ever had migraine, she said, "Yes I have." I asked then, "How did you happen to gain so much weight?" and she said, "My doctor thought I had tuberculosis, and so he stuffed me with food."

I was able to bring her relief, once I knew that Migraine had been causing the collection of symptoms she was having by giving her one of the fine ergotamine-type of drugs that work so well in this disease. The other obese woman I saw with migraine had gained much excess weight because of a special diet given her, every two hours when her doctor thought she had duodenal ulcer.

I think most writers will agree that migraine is practically always inherited and in highly sensitive women it is characterized as a unilateral throbbing headache with perhaps nausea and vomiting in spells, and during a spell, an inability to eat.

In men the disease is usually different. A migrainous man if very sensitive may get only a 20-minute-long spell of fuzzy vision which is called a scotoma. In many cases, the person sees a bright, zigzag, somewhat pulsating line. This phenomenon is harmless and need cause no alarm, it never leads to blindness. Sometimes the person will feel dull and irritable or depressed for some hours after having had the fuzzy vision.

Often a woman's migraine is poorly treated because, when she gets to a physician, she does not think to complain of her occasional headaches. She complains only of the spells of fatigue, or of abdominal distress or pain, or of dizziness or occasional nausea.

The cheering thing that I can tell people with migraine is that generally, they are very healthy except for the distressing symptoms associated with the disease, and also that I have never seen their migraine "turn into anything" more serious.

Often when I see a woman of 50 who is complaining of spells of nausea and vomiting, I will learn that she has migrainous relatives. Also, that in her youth she had sick headaches. They quit coming until she was 45 or so and then returned.

Why? Because of strain over a dying mother or an alcoholic husband or a problem child. This story is diagnostic. Also very helpful in many cases is the fact that aspirin or aspirin-containing drugs do not give relief; and the person cannot eat in a spell.

The drugs that commonly give relief are tablets of caffeine or wigraine. Two tablets should be taken as soon as a spell starts coming. Sometimes the medicine has to be taken by rectum or under the tongue, or injected hypodermically.

For more information about migraine headaches send for the booklet "Migraine or Sick Headaches." To obtain your copy send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Box 957, Dept. CCC, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Old-fashioned day scheduled at Baptist church

"Old-Fashioned Sunday" will be observed at First Baptist church Aug. 26.

Those attending services throughout the day are encouraged to wear old-fashioned costumes. There will be old-fashioned music, a display of antiques and old pictures, and Pastor Lloyd Streeter will bring a message on "The Old-Time Religion."

An ice cream social, with homemade ice cream, will be held after the evening service, with kerosene lanterns lighting the scene.

In the Sunday School hour, Superintendent Dick Shaw emphasized that prizes and recognition will be given to those wearing old-fashioned clothes. In addition, anyone riding a horse to Sunday School will receive an award.

The public is invited to participate.

families meet

Around 30 persons attended the third Shagena-McConnell reunion Sunday, Aug. 19, at the Cass City park.

Potluck dinner was served at 1 p.m. In a brief business meeting, the group voted to make the reunion an annual event and to hold next year's reunion at the same location the third Sunday in August.

The same officers were retained for another year. Carl McConnell of Harrison is president; Mrs. Alice Neitz of Harrison, secretary; Mrs. Mildred Herr of Cass City, treasurer, and Mrs. Stan Gunther of Cass City, in charge of recreation.

Youngest person attending was Timothy McConnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McConnell of Cass City. Mrs. Nina Shagena was the oldest present and the George Carrol family of Thompson, in the Upper Peninsula, traveled the farthest to attend.

AROUND THE FARM
Crop disease control important
By Don Kebler

Six weeks ago I announced the establishment of a bean disease monitoring program. All the other bean producing counties are involved in the program, too.

The purpose of this program is to learn the extent, type and seriousness of bean disease problems. It's a big program but it's only a small part of a total U. S. crop disease and insect monitoring program going on all over the country.

The total purpose is most obvious. People are becoming greatly concerned about food supplies. We must know the scope and extent of crop, disease and insect problems as related to present production and supplying future needs.

We have heard loud and clear that there is a new program the government is moving into which will require greater agricultural production. Our government has finally acknowledged the long-known fact that the sale of agricultural products abroad is bolstering our balance of gold. Without the sale of agricultural products abroad our country would be spending more dollars abroad than earned by our other exports through our reciprocal trade agreements. In lieu of this, we are going to develop greater export markets for sale of our agricultural products. If we can export enough agricultural products, the drain on our gold reserves can be stopped and even reversed, everything being equal.

I guess what my real conclusion on this would be—we are finding out what we have long taken for granted. Our agriculture and related agribusiness is still the backbone of our country's growth and strength. Agriculture made this country. We have a gigantic industrial complex and so do other countries relative to their size and export capacity. The only thing these other countries don't have, and which makes them envious of us, is our tremendous agricultural production.

Lastly, as we move into this accelerated program of exporting larger quantities of agricultural products, we'll need to produce more. If we don't, we'll have to pay higher dollars to keep it home. Either way, we'll see higher food costs and we can't criticize the commercial farmer for this trend.

Cass City's highway fund share up

Cass City's share of state Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections for the second quarter of 1973 are up over $1,500 from the same period last year.

Figures released last week by the State Highway Commission show the village will receive $9,136.00 as compared with $7,541.00 for the second quarter of 1972.

Much of this increase can be attributed to the two-cent-a-gallon increase in the gasoline tax which became effective last Feb. 1. On a state-wide basis, this represents an increase of 23.5 per cent.

Other area communities will also benefit from the higher gasoline tax rate. Gagetown will receive $3,130.00 for the second quarter of this year compared to $2,578.00 for the same time period last year. Kingston will receive $2,305.00 this year compared with $1,285 last year.

Similarly, Uby will receive $4,060.00 in state highway monies compared to $3,343.00 for the same period in 1972.

Tuscola county's share of state highway monies rose over $50,000, from $341,138 last year to $399,405 for the second quarter of 1973.

State Highway Director John P. Woodford said net receipts of the Highway Fund during April, May and June of 1973 amounted to $123,144,453, an increase of $23,444,908 over the same period of 1972.

All state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees go into the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund.

Before distribution is made, collection costs are deducted along with 1.5 per cent of the total for the Waterways Commission, and one-half cent of the gas tax for the new General Transportation fund.

During the second quarter only, one million dollars is set aside for a newly established "critical bridge" fund. The Department of State Highways receives 44.5 per cent of the remainder, the 83 counties receive 35.7 per cent and the 531 incorporated cities and villages 19.8 per cent.

Under this formula, the Highway Department will receive $54,799,281.00 as its share of second quarter collections. The counties will receive $43,902,569 and the cities and villages $24,362,601.

AGENT'S CORNER Food market scene changing

Allene Mills - Extension Agent

This is the first month in 27 years the Plentiful Foods List will not be published.

This was published by the Marketing Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Discontinued service is a result of the recent month's declining surpluses, because of strong foreign demand for U. S. foods.

Food stocks are expected to be light during the foreseeable future. There are ways to look at this picture. One, think positively! It's summer; the local vegetable crops are ready.

You have health, time and wealth compared to the rest of the world. You possess the facts with the ability to read and reason.

Second, act quickly! Do some canning and freezing to supplement your coming food needs. If this is your first venture, contact the Cooperative Extension Office for bulletins on canning and freezing. Success in the home is possible if the home processer will read, understand and follow reliable rules.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I want to remember what the folks that run that Wimbledon tennis game in England said about players that wouldn't play. They said that Wimbledon was bigger than the boycotters. I think they were right, and I think what they said works for all the ball players in this country that get the idea the game can't live without em. I hope the same applies to politicians in both countries, cause both have been having their share of trouble with em lately.

The fellers took this matter up during the session at the country store Saturday night. Josh Clodhopper, that don't talk much unless the subject is the mail and his Social Security check is a day late, surprised everybody by coming out four-square for England-type scandals. Josh was of the mind that American politicians get in hot water over greed and power, but them in England has trouble with the wimmen. It's a man's duty to serve his country, allowed Josh, and he, for one, would rather pull his political hitch in England.

That's when Ed Doolittle got the floor. Ed was a Republican before, during and after it was somepun you could brag about in mixed company, and he called Josh down for poking fun at the troubles we're having. Ed said he had studied politics a long time and when it comes to throwing rocks, jest about everybody lives in a glass house. One party pointing a finger at the other is the pot calling the kittle black, was Ed's words. For instant, he said, he saw a few weeks back where the only difference between Nixon's and Johnson's telephone recording hookups was that Johnson could cut his off.

Clem Webster was agreed with Ed that this country not only has lived, it has grown strong and rich operating on two seats of facts—Democrat and Republican. Clem said both have a record of bending history to suit their campaigns, and it ain't to frequent that one will take the risk of jumping on the other for their idea of the truth.

Furthermore, both parties is equal guilty of handing out federal aid in such habit-forming doses that we got to the place we think we can't get along without it. Back afore Congressmen was convinced their job was to figger new ways to take our money and give some of it back, Clem said they was a law of nature about survival of the fittest. Nowadays, went on Clem, the Government has improved that rule to where everybody survives and nobody's fit for nothing.

Well, Mister Editor, turning to your business I see weddings in your paper has slowed down some, so I reckon the peak marrying season is over. My old lady allus enjoys reading about the weddings, course she likes the funerals to, and she don't never miss the divorce cases.

Personal, I got great respect for marriage. It teaches a feller to keep regular hours, to keep his mouth shut and other good habits he wouldn't need if he stayed single.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Democrats scan horizon for candidate

Democrats are searching the landscape for a candidate to run against and defeat Gov. William G. Milliken next year.

There is no shortage of would-be candidates. Probably every person who makes his way to the legislature or some other reasonably advanced political job entertains secret dreams of holding down the governorship "some day."

But at this moment no one has come along to sweep the Democrats off their feet and lead them in an enthusiastic charge against Milliken next year.

If the current situation continues, the odds are that former State Sen. Sander Levin will take the party nomination again and run against Milliken.

The Democrats have a number of problems.

First of all, there are the lingering effects of 1972, when the party had its worst campaign in years and lost every statewide race. Then there are issues such as crime and bus- ing which have racial overtones that wreak havoc in the traditional coalition of blue collar whites on the one hand and blacks and academic liberals on the other.

Milliken and his middle of the road stance also creates a problem. He has taken much of the steam out of the Democrats with his programs, some of which cleared the Legisla- ture only with strong Demo- cratic backing.

Indeed, Milliken at times has had much more support from Democrats in the Legislature than from Republicans.

Not the least problem is the lack of a charismatic candidate who could congeal the party into a single enthusiastic unit.

Former Detroit Mayor Jer- ome Cavanaugh has been stump- ing the state on his own be- half this year. It is considered he "lost one too many elec- tions" to be considered a ser- ious threat because he was forced to back out of the Sen- ate race last year before he was officially in it.

A lot of other secondary names known in Lansing but not elsewhere have been baited back and forth. None have any sort of organization function- ing well on their behalf; and in this day and age there is no such thing as a genuine draft.

Levin is keeping active since losing in 1970. He still has a number of supporters around the state from 1970 and the time he served as state chair- man to deliver the state for the Democrats in 1968.

The only real threat would come if a candidate were able to spark the interest that Daniel Walker did in Illinois when he defeated the Daley Machine and won the governorship as a Democrat. Walker had money and a public name already estab- lished when he decided to run.

This may seem a bit pre- mature to start talking about 1974 politics, but campaigns are not won in a day. Some one must start moving in the near future if a real challenge is to be made. At this point, the horizon is vacant.

The trip, sponsored by Rotary In- ternational, will take Chris to an all-girl's school where she will study for her junior year.

THE CROSSROADS

Who am I? What is life? Where am I going? Why am I here??? When will I know???

Almost everyone who's ever lived has at one time or another asked himself one or all of these ques- tions. Or others—What shall I do? Where shall I turn? Why did this have to happen to me? Who will help? When???

Sooner or later every man seeks understanding. The seeking can be exhilarating, depending upon where one searches.

Those who turn to God and His Church find unlimited opportunities opening for them, as their concept of life is enriched and enlarged.

If you stand at the crossroads and the world seems a turmoil of conflicting ideas, turn to your church. Its truth never wavers. Its strength and purpose can make your life fuller and happier.

Dear John,

I believe it is unfair to leave your readers with the impression that the school board acted hastily on the issue of an elementary art teacher. It has been brought up at several board meetings with no action taken. Obviously the pressure of the interested parents was needed to reach a decision.

Your neighbor says

Forthright answers must come

Last Wednesday evening, President Nixon spoke to the nation, denying any wrong-doing in the Watergate affair and asking for support. Many have expressed disappointment in the speech, saying it evaded the issues.

One person who agreed that the issues were not dealt with forthrightly is Rev. Harold C. Prong, Pastor of Novesta Church of Christ.

"The president could have said more," Rev. Prong said. "Perhaps he was sincere in what he said, but what he said did not provide solid answers."

He said as a result of Watergate and the response of the president, his faith in government has been shaken.

"People need action and positive answers, not evasion," he said.

Rev. Prong began his ministry at Novesta July 15. He and his wife have three children.

Court sentences Decker man to time already served

A Decker man was sentenced to a jail term he had already served in connection with a probation violation charge in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday.

Larry Erard pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana. He was arrested May 23, and had served 85 days in the Huron county jail on the charge.

Judge James P. Churchill sentenced him to 85 days with credit for time already served.

Erard had been convicted for the May 13, 1970, theft of three tires and rims from a building on Main Street in Cass City belonging to Irvin Thomson. In that case, Erard paid a $200 fine along with $300 in court and attorney costs. He was also sentenced to probation at that time.

Charlene Pierce, Vassar, was arraigned on a charge of uttering and publishing. She stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in her behalf. Bond was set at $200 and pre-trial examination was set for Sept. 4.

Specifically, she is charged with writing a check to cash on the Mayville State Bank without sufficient funds. The offense occurred Feb. 19.

Roger Stevens, Vassar, was arraigned on a probation violation charge of failure to pay fines and costs. He pleaded guilty and was accepted by the court.

Specifically, he failed to pay fines and costs of $50 per month in connection with a case involving the writing of a bad check of $106.10 last Dec. 8. He was found guilty of the charge and ordered to pay a $100 fine and $200 costs.

Lionel Gutwalt Jr., Caro, was arraigned on a charge of simple larceny. He pleaded guilty and was accepted by the court. Sentencing was set for Oct. 1. Bail was continued and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Gutwalt was charged with the May 4 theft of two wheels from an auto in Caro.

Robert J. Pratt, Fostoria, was arraigned on a charge of intending to defraud for less than $100. He entered a plea of guilty which was accepted by the court. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and sentencing was set for Oct. 1.

Pratt was charged with attempting to sell mortgaged property without the consent of the mortgage holder. He allegedly attempted to sell a travel trailer.

Patsy Hernandez, Fargrove, was arraigned on a charge of simple larceny. She entered a plea of nolo contendere which was accepted by the court. She was fined $100 and $200 in costs and placed on six months' probation.

In addition, she was ordered by the court to make restitution. She was charged with the theft of a pair of shoes from a store in Caro March 9.

Trial begins in insurance suit

Jury selections were completed and trial was set to begin Wednesday in a $35,000 law suit filed by a Decker man against Harris Hampshire Insurance Agency.

In his suit, filed in Tuscola

County Circuit Court, Stephen Ziemba Jr., demands payment for damages resulting from a fire April 19, 1970 at a snowmobile sales and service center he owned and operated.

Ziemba charges Harris Hampshire with negligence in not placing proper coverage on the property and with not having adequate coverage on the contents which were destroyed.

The policy was written by Pioneer Insurance Co. and sold by Harris Hampshire. The company would not pay the claim filed by Ziemba, stating that he had not informed the company he was using the property for commercial purposes.

The agency specifically denies any misrepresentation in connection with application or form of insurance on the property and further denies any responsibility in placing coverage on property. It counters by saying this is the responsibility of the purchaser and he, alone, must determine what he wants.

The agency also states in briefs filed prior to trial that Ziemba failed to comply with the Insurance Code of Michigan in that he did not prepare and file proper proof or loss forms.

Trial was scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in Caro.

Coming Auction

STRESSING A POINT in pre-school football practice is Coach Roland Pakonen, left, as he works 28 grid candidates daily at Cass City High School. Pakonen says he expects about 60 boys when school opens after Labor Day as the Hawks prep to defend their Thumb B Conference crown. From left: Chester Sieradzki, Steve Schneeberger and Dale Laming.

WORKING ON CONDITIONING in pre-season practice is Mike "Pete" Frederick. It's the basics this week. Next week contact work starts as the boys will be in pads full time, Coach Roland Pakonen said.

Catholics upset Baptists for Church play-off title

It's a rare year in the Cass City Church League when the regular season champions and the play-off titlists are the same.

And they aren't again this year. The Baptists swept through the regular season undefeated only to fall in the finals of the play-offs to the Catholics who capped a strong finish by winning the play-offs.

The game was played Saturday night and the score was 3-1.

Big blow came in the first inning when Jim Mastie cracked a two-run homer over the center field fence.

John Maharg pitched a strong game for the Catholics. Craig Helwig was touched for the loss, his first of the year. He was relieved by Elwyn Helwig who held the Catholics in check but by then the game and the title were lost.

The play-offs started Monday, Aug. 13. In the first game the Catholics pounded out a win over Church of Christ, 14-7. Maharg wasn't nearly as effective in this game but he didn't have to be to win. John Smetk cracked two hits in three tries for the winners. The Catholics won the game with an eight-run spurge in the bottom of the sixth.

In the nightcap, Owen-Gage rolled over Shabbona, 17-8. Dennis Koch outpitched Les Severance. Ray collected three hits in four tries.

Tuesday the Methodists had little trouble with Missionary, 13-4. Eldon Stoutenburg hurled the win. Mark Tuckey took the loss. Mike Murphy, Phil Nichols and Don Galbraith each rapped two hits for the winners.

The Baptists sent the Lutherans to the sidelines quickly in the nightcap Tuesday. The Baptists showed power as they pounded out a 16-6 decision. Veteran Nelson Willy took the loss. Helwig struck out 11. Elwyn Helwig, Henry Cooklin, Jack Hillaker and Dean Hoag collected two hits each for the winners.

In the second round the Catholics edged by Owen-Gage Thursday, 14-8. Dennis Koch took the loss and Maharg was the winner. Mastie, Maharg and Clark Erla were credited with two hits each.

In the second game Thursday, the Baptists had little trouble with the Methodists, winning 11-3. Craig Helwig hurled the win and Eldon Stoutenburg was the loser. Wayne Brooks, Henry Cooklin and Elwyn Helwig slapped out two hits each in the Baptist win.

The Thursday night action set the stage for the finals Saturday and the crowning of a new loop play-off champion previously described.

Reunion held at White Creek

Some 100 relatives attended the annual Moore-Ertel family reunion held Sunday at the White Creek club house. Visiting and pictures followed the potluck dinner.

Mrs. Fred Ward of Coral was elected president for the coming year. Plans are to hold the 1974 reunion at the same location.

Relatives were present from Everett, Washington; Florida, Iron Mountain, Alma, Rochester, Lansing, Detroit, Bart, Coral, Spring Lake and the local area.

TIP TO MOTORISTS

Never-relaxing vigilance on the part of both parents and drivers proves to be our school-age youngsters best safeguard.

CLARKE HAIRE, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Haire, 4172 S. Seeger, poses with Irv Dieterle, basketball coach at Gaylord St. Mary, at the final in a series of three basketball camps which was held recently on the campus of Northern Michigan University. Designed for boys 10 and older, the camps emphasized individual basketball skills that can be improved upon by individual practice on offensive maneuvers.
