

Hawks in spoiler role at Vassar in finale of disappointing football season

THIS RED RAIDER is Paul Chapin who was a one-man gang for Marlette Friday. He slipped behind the Hawk secondary on this play to snag his second of three touchdown passes. Marlette won, 22-20.

Cass City girls drop pair of games

Cass City's girls' basketball team dropped a pair of games during the week losing an overtime game to Caro and bowing to Millington.

The Caro final score was 49-43. The two clubs were tied at the end of regulation time, 41-41.

For Cass City Elaine Stoutenburg netted 11 points and Cathy Kerbyson added 12 points. Melody Bacon made 9 points.

In the Caro JV contest, Cass City scored an easy 23-7 decision. Melanie Kelly scored 10 points and Chris Krueger netted nine points.

Melody Bacon scored 9 points in the loss to Millington.

The Cass City JV's also bowed, 18-13.

JV's in first loss of year

Cass City's Junior Varsity lost a heartbreaker Thursday night to the Redskins of Sandusky. Sandusky scored the only touchdown of the game with just 22 seconds remaining on the clock.

Cass City had two opportunities to score in the first half but couldn't quite get the ball in for a touchdown. Both teams hit well and it was an exciting ballgame.

Thursday, Cass City travels to Marlette for the final game of the year.

Fresh from a disappointing loss in a disappointing season, the Cass City Red Hawks prepare for the final game of the season when they meet the Vassar Vulcans in a game that means nothing to the Hawks and everything to the Vulcans.

When the Hawks take the field at Vassar they will have only the role of spoiler to play. Vassar will be gunning for a share of the Thumb B Conference championship.

The Hawks, with two wins and four defeats in league competition, lost the fourth one last Friday to Marlette after everyone at the game thought the victory was locked up.

Cass City led by a huge 20-0 midway into the second quarter and then lost 22-20.

The loss pointed up a weakness in the Hawk defense that has been exploited all year. . . . pass defense. Marlette scored all of its touchdowns through the air. Lakers, Bad Axe and Frankenmuth also used the airways to ruin Cass City this season.

Like it has in two other games this season, things started beautifully for Cass City again Friday.

Before the fans had settled in their seats, Ed Stoutenburg broke away and dashed 80 yards for a touchdown. Scott Hartel added the extra point and the Hawks were off and running, 7-0.

Later in the period, the Hawks moved steadily down the field on the ground and when the Red Raider secondary started edging in, Jerry Toner stepped back and Kevin Coryell took his toss over the center and scampered in for the second touchdown. Hartel converted and it was 14-0.

Hawk fans had visions of a walk-away in the second quarter as Stoutenburg capped a sustained drive when he dove over from the two. Hartel's conversion attempt was wide.

A freak play with about six seconds left in the half ignited the Red Raiders and set the stage for the upset.

A long desperation pass by Marlette that appeared to be going nowhere until it was tipped by a Hawk defender resulted in a Marlette touchdown.

The ball went into the air and into the waiting arms of Paul Chapin, who galloped the last 15 yards to paydirt. Chapin also rammed over on the extra points try and the score was 20-8.

From that point on it was all Marlette. In the third period Chapin took another toss that covered 15 yards in the corner of the end zone. He was all alone when he caught it. The vital extra point was good.

Back in the game, the Raiders started chewing up huge chunks of real estate with the running game and set the stage for a seven-yard toss to Chapin for the winning marker.

30-year career highlights recalled by former resident

Max Johnson, who grew up in Deford and grew to love sports during his years at Cass City High School, is completing 30 years of teaching physical education at Kalamazoo Central High School and shows no indication of retiring.

Johnson, who has been a successful coach, respected official and instructor in the field of physical education, regards development of young people the most important phase of his involvement in athletics.

It is estimated that he has taught more than 30,000 young persons physical education in his teaching tenure.

"Young people aren't any different today than they were when I came here," Johnson points out. "They want direction not by being preached to or yelled at, but by simply being leveled with. You can't be a phony and expect to communicate to youngsters."

He touts physical education highly calling it a fundamental phase of education and a positive experience from mental and social aspect as well as physical.

Johnson's love for sports started at Cass City High

In the drive a pass play ate up vital yardage after the Red Raiders were set back 15 yards by a penalty.

Chapin had six catches for 92 yards, ran for 59 yards and intercepted a pass on defense.

Stoutenburg was the workhorse of the Hawk offense with 31 carries for 184 yards. Toner completed six passes for 89 yards, but had three interceptions. Corvelli was the top receiver with 49 yards.

School and continued through Western Michigan University and into teaching and coaching.

Ironically, the sport in which he knew his greatest coaching success, basketball, was one in which Johnson never participated. He displays humility when talking about this fact, saying a coach is only as good as his material.

After graduating from Western, Johnson taught three grades at old Alamo Avenue School in Kalamazoo for a year, coached for two years at Otter Lake and then at Columbiaville. He served two years as a coach at Hartford and Jackson before coming to Kalamazoo Central in the autumn of 1943.

Johnson's varsity coaching at Kalamazoo Central was spectacular. He guided his team to a share of the Southwestern Michigan Conference championship and into the Class A state tournament championship game against Saginaw Arthur Hill.

"My coaching rival in that game was my old high school coach, Bill Kelly," he reflected. Kelly later went on to Central Michigan University as head football coach and retired several years ago.

Johnson's teams posted a composite 56-25 record in basketball until he gave up the reins in 1948 and his varsity baseball teams were beaten just three times.

He's been an active official since 1941, combining coaching and officiating work for nearly a decade.

"My biggest thrill would have to be working the state Class A tournament finals when Spencer Haywood and Ralph Simpson led Detroit Pershing past Flint Central," Johnson says. "But I've enjoyed them all."

He gave up working basketball two seasons ago, but remains active at both the high school and collegiate level in football.

Johnson gives no immediate thoughts to retirement and looks back over his years in athletics and delights in recalling his former students and varsity stars.

"They were all-Americans, every one of them, as far as I am concerned," he said. "I think the world of them all."

TWENTY-FOUR PAGES

DAMAGE WAS LIGHT as Elkland township firemen worked to quell a blaze at the home of Ronald Voss, 1860 Crawford Rd., Monday morning. The fire was believed to have started in the stovepipe of an oil space heater and spread to the chimney. No one was injured. The fire was reported around 9:15 a.m.

After 110-mph chase

Warrant issued for Deford man's arrest

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Franklin Blake Holcomb, 2284 McArthur Road, Deford, on a charge of reckless driving and eluding the police following a 110-mile-an-hour chase in Cass City early Saturday morning.

Cass City police report that Holcomb was observed driving on Main Street making loud noises with his muffler.

When approached he took off down Main and through the village park from the Ale Street entrance and out the Rose Street entrance.

He turned north on Cemetery Road, without observing any of the stop signs along the way. The police report said that he ran the stop street at the corner of Cemetery Road and Bay City-Forestville Road at 110 miles per hour.

At the Huron county line curve, five miles north of Cass City, he sideswiped a car driven by Donald J. Klebba.

At this point the police lost him and gave up pursuit.

The chase started at about 2:30 a.m. Village police are also investigating an act of vandalism that occurred in the alley north of Main between Oak and Leach Streets.

Donald Mason Spencer, Deford, reported that someone cracked the windshield of his car when it was parked in the alley.

The offense was reported at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Linda Hull reported that unknown thieves stole a purse containing valuable papers and about $60 Thursday afternoon.

The purse was taken from her car parked in front of Bassett Manufacturing Co. on Garfield Street.

Mrs. Hull said she was interviewing for a job when the theft occurred.

Argyle supervisor dies in Friday crash

Argyle Township Supervisor Donald E. Krause, 44, Snover, died Friday when the pickup truck he was driving went out of control and landed in a ditch three miles north of Sandusky.

A spokesman at the Sanilac County Sheriff's office said Monday the accident is still under investigation. Krause was found dead in the wreckage.

Deputies said Krause was traveling north on North Sandusky Road when the truck left the road on the right side, rolled over and landed in the ditch. A passing motorist discovered the wreckage and notified authorities at 7:40 a.m.

Krause was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Donald MacNeil, police said. Deputies said it appeared that the accident had occurred some time during the night and went undetected until after daylight.

Krause's death brought Sanilac county's traffic death toll to 26, setting an all-time record in the county for a single year.

Krause was born May 8, 1929, in Warren. He had resided in the Snover area all his life.

He was a member and twice past-master of Decker Lodge No. 479 F&M. He was a member of Sanilac Lodge No. 145 RAM, the Lexington Commandery No. 27, Elv Khurafah Shrine of Saginaw, Sanilac Shrine Club and a past patron of Decker chapter No. 438 OES.

He married the former Frances Berden, July 25, 1947, in Sandusky.

He is survived by his widow, Frances; six daughters, Mrs. Robert Woodward of Snover, Mrs. Donald Concluded on page 19

Jacobys keep Deford post office in family

By Jim Ketchum

Mr. and Mrs. George Jacoby believe in keeping their work all in the family. It's been that way the last 27 years and will continue that way a while longer.

Jacoby recently retired as postmaster of the Deford Post Office after serving 27 years, three months in that capacity. He was succeeded in that job by his wife, Lillian. It's not often that a husband and wife team can work well in the same job, but the Jacobys have proven it can be done.

The Jacobys talked about their unique situation as they sat in the rear of the Deford Post Office, one which is reminiscent of Americana at its most authentic.

"They asked me when I was sworn in why I wanted the job," Mrs. Jacoby said. "I told them I felt I was qualified."

Her training came through her husband. She worked as a clerk for Jacoby during his more than a quarter century as postmaster and knew almost all there was to know over the years.

"They asked me if I wanted them to send out someone to train me," she chuckled. "I told them I've got a good man right here who can help me out."

Operating post offices runs in Jacoby's family. His father served as postmaster in Caro from 1934-43, offering a training ground of sorts for the future Deford postmaster. The actual job, however, came by a more indirect route.

"I was walking down the street in Caro one day in the early part of 1946, when a prominent politician of the day stopped me and asked me if I wanted the postmastership in Deford," Jacoby recalled. "I asked him if I could let it go a week and I'd call him. Well, I thought it over and decided to give it a try. I knew I could always resign."

The Jacobys were living in Flint at the time. He worked as a security guard at AC Sparkplug and, after notifying the company he was quitting, took his wife and two sons and moved them to Deford.

Jacoby owned the building which now houses the post office at the time. He moved in, made the upstairs liveable, and set to work establishing a post office and grocery store. The store was housed in what is now the west half of the building and ran from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except Sunday.

"We put in some long hours in those days," he recalled. "Of course I only had to keep the post office open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., but it was still a lot of work."

"We probably have twice as many patrons now in those areas as we had when we began here," Jacoby said.

Presently, one rural carrier services an 87-mile route consisting of 378 families. Mrs. Jacoby said this large growth has come mostly from city dwellers fed up with the congestion and turmoil of big city life.

"They can come up here and buy five acres of land for as much as they paid for a standard size lot," she concluded on page 19

GEORGE JACOBY, (left), retired Deford postmaster, gives a pointer to the new postmaster, his wife, Lillian. Jacoby retired July 1 after serving over 27 years as postmaster.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

My first small plane flight other than a buzz around the immediate countryside was recorded last Saturday.

It was in a four-seater with Pat Rabideau at the controls. Except for 15 minutes looking for an airport that had been turned into a parking lot at Lorain, Ohio, it was an uneventful trip.

It was a serene day in the air and for seeing the country you can't beat these one engine planes flying at about 2,000 feet.

My only other small plane experience was a dozen years ago when I was piloted by Warren Wood on a day not nearly as serene as Saturday.

That time I lost my glasses and my dinner while flying from Cass City to Caro and back.

I went to my first auction in several years Saturday. Inflation really is here, isn't it?

Especially for those garage sale items. An old cup sold for $7 and nearly anything auctioned sold for a couple of bucks or more.

I mean the kind of things that in my ignorance I toss into the trash daily.

Good stuff sold well at this household auction, too. The prices may just have surprised Lorn Hillaker, auctioneer. I asked about a desk for the office and he said that it should go for around $65.

I was set to bid up to $70 for this desk. It didn't take long. The bidding started at $100 and the desk sold for $135.

They call it the Thumb B Conference. At one time it was. Now it's not. Because of changes in enrollment classifications only two schools in the league, Caro and Frankenmuth, qualify for a "B" rating.

Cass City has been a "C" school again for several years now. This year the Hawks are joined by the Lakers and Vassar which dropped from "B" to "C" after the census was taken in the fall.

All this really means is that Cass City may have the opportunity to play the two schools in basketball or baseball tournament play.

It doesn't change anything during the regular season.

"If It Fitz . . ." Spiro spins into series

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The Spiro Agnew Show, seen on TV Oct. 15, will soon become a weekly series. Famous crooks from all over the nation will be given 30 minutes each, minus commercials, to explain how they were framed.

The series will be sponsored by the American Bar Association as part of its pension program. This is because 99% of all famous crooks are lawyers. And all these crooked lawyers are broke because they must pay other lawyers to defend them. They can't defend themselves because they are too busy stealing and lurking. There are only so many dark hours in a day, you know.

Anyway, the bar association will pay the crooked lawyers to tell their alibis on TV. This will give the needy lawyers some lurking-around money and the association can charge the costs to its pension fund.

The TV series will not be discriminatory. If any famous crooks turn out to be non-lawyers, they will still be welcome on the program. However, they will not be paid out of pension funds. This wouldn't be legal, as the pension is funneled strictly by lawyers for lawyers. So, to keep things on the up and up, the non-lawyer crooks will be paid with stolen money.

The idea of turning the Agnew show into a series was formulated by an ad hoc committee appointed by the bar association to rescue Jeb Magruder from Judge Sirica. The judge ruled that Magruder, and other lawyers guilty of Watergate, could not give lectures on their way to jail. The lecture agents are drooling to put the crooked lawyers on the road. They could get $2,000 to $3,000 per speech for telling women's clubs how to pack 4,000 hundred-dollar bills into a shopping bag without wrinkling them.

But Judge Sirica heartlessly outlawed this source of income for the needy lawyers. The bar committee had to turn elsewhere. There were several ideas considered, all related to TV.

Magruder might appear on Monday Night Football to demonstrate that a bug and 2 small Cubans could be planted in Howard Cosell's left nostril without forward knowing it.

Or John Mitchell might go on The FBI to explain to Eftem Zimbalist Jr. why he should carry a plunger instead of a gun.

But then came the Spiro Agnew show, and the lawyers had their definitive answer (looked "definitive" up in the dictionary, under tapes, and it said: "You'll have to wait for the Supreme Court decision.")

Agnew will appear on each show, as host. There'll be a different guest each week — famous men such as Mitchell, Stans, Colson, Liddy, Hunt, Krogh and Magruder. The only requirements are their names must be household words and they must have been indicted or convicted or have copped a plea. As stated previously, the guest crook need not be a lawyer. But anyway, with all those other qualifications, a guy should be able to pick up a law degree on his way to the TV studio.

Each guest crook will follow the Agnew format: "I didn't steal a cent and besides, I needed the money."

Be sure to tune in. It should be Gang Busters.

Ms. Murphy pushes for equality in athletics

By Jim Ketchum

She's as attractive a woman as any male chauvinist pig would want to meet. In her early 20's, she's married and has her own career in the field of education.

She's also a Ms. Brenda Breidinger Murphy of Cass City High School takes that title for very serious reasons. Based on a great deal on her own experience. Those reasons involve equality of opportunity for everyone, without regard to race or sex.

And, in spite of the razzing she takes from some of her "fellow" teachers who brand her a "women's libber", she intends to continue to work for equality of opportunity on the athletic fields and courts of Cass City High School.

Ms. Murphy has always been interested in athletic competition and wants to see women take their rightful place in sports. She described her feelings last week as she sat in an empty classroom during her free period, dressed in a body stocking and slacks, with her long brown hair cascading down her back.

"In my high school days in Berkley, Michigan," she explained, "I was very interested in competing in team sports, but they just didn't exist. The boys had their sports, but outside of 40 minutes in phys. ed. classes twice a week, there was no other opportunity to compete."

After her graduation in 1967, she attended Central Michigan University where she graduated with a BS degree in education and a major in physical education. She came directly to Cass City from Mt. Pleasant and began the move for more girls' athletic teams.

"I was surprised at the initial response of the school board to the idea of girls' varsity teams," she said. "It was very good. Girls have made tremendous gains in the past two years. We now have a full program in basketball, softball and volleyball and we're getting fine turnouts for the games."

Ms. Murphy explained that in her first year at Cass City, she worked through the Girls' Athletic Association and discovered what she described as more than a minor interest by girls in varsity team sports.

"The girls wanted real competition," she said. "They wanted to do more than just have phys. ed. classes."

She met together with a former classmate who was coaching at Vassar and decided to form a league for girls' team sports. Now, six schools are involved in the league. Last year, they held an invitational gymnastics meet at Cass City and plan to do the same again this

One notable exception in the program to date is football. Ms. Murphy explained this is not caused from a lack of interest. The problems lie with a lack of specialized equipment and adequate trained coaching.

"Coaching, as far as women are concerned, has had to be learned on their own," she said. "In men's programs, courses on coaching specific sports are offered. Universities are just now starting to offer women the same opportunities."

She said it is up to colleges and universities to be willing to open the doors to women in all fields, including athletics. She said there has always been a real bias against women trying to break into new areas because of some kind of threat against male domination.

"Girls are taught from the very beginning that if they win in athletic competition, they won't have a boyfriend," Ms. Murphy said. "Society has placed girls in a role of needing to be protected and that's not necessarily true. I want to be myself and I don't need protecting."

She said the move by women into athletic areas is growing in acceptance all over the country and looks for even greater gains. The social stigma is starting to be removed, although much prejudice still remains, she said. "I believe that in life, jobs have to be done and that everyone should have the chance to compete and do those jobs," she said. "I'm not a women's libber per se, but I do believe in equal rights."

Ms. Murphy detailed recent incidents in her life which have brought the need for reform literally home. She married during the summer and was refused a driver's license bearing her name Breidinger as a middle name. She learned that, for an appearance in probate court and a $25 fee, she could carry the name. She refused.

She also found she could not carry credit cards in her name now because of her married status. This has convinced her to drop her married name in business and educational circles and go back to her maiden name.

"I've been a person on my own for three years and now that I'm married, I cease to exist," she said. "I've proven myself and that I don't need someone to take care of me. Quite frankly, I think the whole thing is an insult."

She agreed that society has been down on blacks and women for centuries and while some progress has been made, more is needed.

Where does her husband stand on all this? She said he supports her efforts and agrees that people should live as homogeneously as possible.

Brenda Breidinger Murphy agreed that women have come a long way, baby but they've still got a long way to go.

$14.1 million expansion set by Gen Tel

A relatively minor portion of a $14.1 million expansion in 1974 will be spent in the area serviced by the Cass City and Kingston exchanges, according to information released Thursday by A. T. Jones, eastern division manager for the company.

There are 22 exchanges in the Thumb district and $6.9 million will be spent on these, Jones said. The counties include Genesee, Huron, Lapeer, Macomb, Oakland, St. Clair, Sanilac and Tuscola.

In Cass City a total of $93,700 is earmarked. The lion's share of the money will be for 400 lines and 200 terminals to provide for growth and additional one and two-party services and for exchange business service growth. That is expected to cost $56,600.

An additional long distance circuit to Saginaw is also planned and will cost $34,000. Central office dial equipment will cost $3,100. A modest $18,800 will be spent on the Kingston exchange to complete a project begun in prior years.

Baguley dismisses Stoner case Monday

Judge Norman Baguley dismissed all charges against Walter Stoner of Millington Tuesday when he appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court on a charge of soliciting an 11-year-old Millington child.

Judge Baguley dismissed the jury selected to try the case because he said that there was not enough evidence against Stoner to hear the case.

It was one of five criminal matters in circuit court this week.

Four arraignments were heard before Judge James Churchill Monday.

James Donald Gray, 31, charged with arson for allegedly burning a home he owned in Cass City stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered for him.

Michael W. Smith, 23, stood mute on a charge of destruction of property with a value of over $100.

He allegedly broke up a room full of furniture in an isolation room of the Thumb Treatment Assistance Center. The furniture is owned by Dr. Fulvio Ferrari. Michael Bastian Jr. stood mute when charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny and of larceny from a building.

The building is owned by Lyle Brockway. A pre-trial will be held Nov. 13. Bond was continued.

Franklin B. Holcomb, DeFord, charged with resisting arrest, was freed Monday when all charges against him were dropped on a motion by the prosecuting attorney.

Police continue enforcement program

Special Michigan week-end traffic patrols in five counties due to end Oct. 31 will be extended two months in the counties of Tuscola, Lenawee and Monroe, according to Capt. John Amthor, State Police traffic division commander.

The five-month program began May 25. Counties where the program is ending on schedule are Cass and Hillsdale.

Amthor said sufficient funds remain in the original $401,000 federal aid project to permit the extension in the three counties and pay for overtime enforcement patrols.

Tuscola, Lenawee and Monroe were selected for the additional time on the basis of less favorable rural fatal accident experience among the counties involved.

State Police and local law enforcement officers operate the patrols from Friday afternoon through Sunday midnight. Emphasis is on fatal accident reduction and stricter enforcement of drunk driving laws.

From May 25 through Oct. 7, the program shared credit for 26 fewer deaths in the five counties compared with the four-year average for the same period, or a numerical comparison of 57 deaths this year against the average of 83.

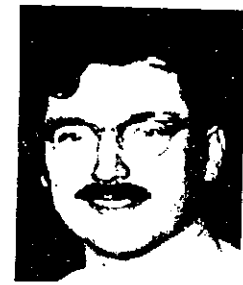

Michigan's initial venture into this federally-assisted special enforcement last year was a five-month program in the six counties of Berrien, Cass, Eaton, Hillsdale, St. Clair and Tuscola. The program achieved reductions of almost six per cent in fatal accidents and of nearly 25 per cent in fatalities compared again with the previous four year average.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

2 shots of Geritol

By Jim Ketchum

The American man began taking it on the chin long before anyone dreamed up burning a bra in the name of Women's Liberation. It started before the beginning of recorded history, no doubt, and continues to this day, now more than ever.

From the time boys grow into men, they are bombarded with the fact that the vast majority of their peers are little more than helpless boobs, who only whisper how the time had flown and how I had rusted past my childhood.

Take a look at practically any television commercial and you'll get the message rapidly. Women, we are told, need twice the iron men need, for example. We see, through the use of ingenious graphs, obviously dreamed up by some lady pill pusher, that just one dose of Geritol or Ironized Yeast or Sal Hepatica will give them all those extra things they need that man can do quite nicely without.

Women, it seems, use up twice as much of everything as a man, including money. A quick look at the checkbook shows that most husbands make all the deposits and most wives make all the withdrawals.

Women need twice the staying power of any deodorant, because of their womanhood. They, consequently, have their own products from vitamins to toothpaste to laxatives.

Yes, even laxatives. Why can't they settle for the castor oil just like we men do? Nothing special for us men in this department. You just get what they give you and like it.

Even children, we are told, need more of all those good things, just like our women, than do we men.

I remember well the day I quit requiring twice as much iron as my father required. Rust had begun forming around my joints and I knew my childhood was over.

As I creaked to the table that morning, my mother broke down and cried, realizing her son no longer took the iron he did the day before to do all those Winning isn't everything, it's just that losing has no future.

Wood to speak at Baptist church

The Reverend John R. Wood will be the speaker at the First Baptist Church Sunday, Nov. 4. He will preach at 11:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Wood moved to Cass City recently, where he resides at 4644 Oak Street. He is the newly-appointed State Representative for the Michigan Association of Regular Baptist Churches. The Cass City First Baptist Church is affiliated with the GARBC, a fundamentalist, strongly Biblical fellowship of churches.

Mr. Wood received his ministerial training at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago. He has been a pastor for 21 years. Recently, Mr. Wood concluded a successful 10 year pastorate at Bellefontaine, Ohio. He now conducts a State-wide ministry, preaching in two or three different churches each week.

The Rev. Mr. Wood is married to the former Anna Jean Mitchell, a 1943 graduate of Cass City High School. They have one son, Ronald, who lives in Bellefontaine.

Helen Stevens dies in hospital

Mrs. Helen Stevens, 66, succumbed at Ford Hospital in Detroit Sunday, Oct. 28.

Mrs. Stevens was born in Iowa, July 4, 1907, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Heiden.

She was married to Albin Stevens in Detroit in 1935. He died Jan. 23, 1973.

Mrs. Stevens was a Registered Nurse and while in Detroit was Superintendent of Nurses at East Side General.

They came to Cass City in 1946 where she owned and operated the Stevens Nursing Home for 22 years. She retired four years ago from the Nursing Home.

She was a member of the International Zonta Club of Cass City and a member of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Cass City.

She is survived by one brother, Cecil Heiden of Grosse Pointe; two sisters, Mrs. Melvin Sandick of Portland, Oregon; and Mrs. Robert Root of Riverton, Iowa, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Private funeral services were held at Little's Funeral Home Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. Rev. James VanDellen, pastor of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, officiated.

Interment was in Elkland cemetery.

Coffee break or breakdown?

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Now there is a new sacrifice for those of you who have stopped eating eggs, steaks and rich desserts, given up cigarettes and go jogging every morning — all in order to avoid a heart attack. Now, if you insist, you can give up your coffee-breaks as well.

This is not to say that drinking coffee invariably causes a heart attack, but rather that a new study has appeared in which heavy coffee drinkers seem to have heart attacks more often than those who are not heavy coffee drinkers, very much like those who eat too much fat, smoke too much and take too little exercise.

It is not made clear in this study whether the caffeine in coffee is the culprit because, although tea contains as much caffeine as coffee, tea drinkers do not seem to run the same risk.

There are other questions as well.

For example, the famous Framingham study, which followed the medical histories of 2000 residents of that Massachusetts town for well over 10 years, could establish no relationship between coffee drinking and heart attacks.

DO YOU HAVE A DRINKING PROBLEM? ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS & AL-ANON Every Friday evening, 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cass City.

All of which should remind us that nobody really knows the cellular causes of hardening of the arteries and of the heart attacks and strokes that come about as a result of reduction in the blood supply to the heart and brain.

Quite understandably, when the cause of a disease is not known, that search for the cause will go on in the environment as well as in the laboratory and at the bedside of the sick. And often there seem to be close correlations between certain diseases and how we live, what we eat, what we breathe and what we drink.

It is well known, for example, that when the sewer lines contaminate those that supply drinking water, many people will get typhoid fever and may get other diseases as well. Public health studies of the relationship between drinking water and the spread of disease show very clearly that drinking contaminated water can cause typhoid fever, and when the water is cleaned up, the disease disappears.

In the South in the early 20's, when pellagra plagued the poor who lived on a diet lacking in essential vitamins, the disease was wiped out when the relationship between diet and pellagra was tracked down. It is very tempting, in the light of a correlation between the incidence of heart disease and such habits as eating a high-fat diet, smoking or not exercising enough, and now, drinking too much coffee, to jump to the conclusion that the relationship is causal rather than casual.

But there are pitfalls in jumping to such conclusions. For instance, much has been made of the fact that the Japanese who leave their native environment to live in a country where they eat lots of fat, have more heart trouble than those who stay at home on a lean diet. But the difference may be, and it is hard to deny it, that in their new environment the carbon-monoxide-rich smog they are subjected to may be the culprit rather than what they eat.

Along the same lines, there was an interesting study in England recently that showed that the incidence of lung cancer fell significantly in a group of doctors who stopped smoking. At the same time, the incidence of heart disease in that same group rose significantly. If smoking is really one of the causes of heart disease, one would have expected giving up cigarettes to result in a drop, not a rise, in heart attacks.

This can be very confusing, but of course nobody recommends overeating, over-smoking or swilling coffee in order to prolong life. On the other hand, giving up the pleasures of life, if over done, can perhaps only make life seem longer. This is especially so if the correlations on which depriving yourself depends are sometimes as pointless as that between the sale of ice-cream cones and the occurrence of weddings, both of which soar in June, at least in temperate climates.

Hold rites for Anthony Klakulak

Anthony Klakulak, 69, died suddenly Wednesday, Oct. 24, in Elkland township following a bicycle accident on Bay City Forestville Road near Cass City.

He was born in Poland May 29, 1904, the son of the late Joseph and Rose Lewandowski Klakulak.

He married Anna Ogonowski in Detroit, Aug. 29, 1925. They came from Detroit to Huron county in 1940, where he lived until his death.

He is survived by his wife, Anna; three daughters, Mrs. Joseph (Rita) Edwortowski of St. Clair Shores, Mrs. Anthony (Christine) Novak of Warren and Mrs. Michael (Judy) Mausolf of Marlette; three sons, Leonard of Toledo, Joseph of Sterling Heights and John of Mt. Clemens; two sisters, Mrs. Stanley Kulowski and Mrs. Marie Lee, both of Detroit; two brothers, Louis and Stanley, both of Detroit, and 16 grandchildren.

One son preceded him in death.

Wake services were held at Little's Funeral Home Friday evening.

Funeral services were conducted from St. Pancratius Church Saturday, with Rev. Fr. Leo Gengler, pastor, officiating.

Interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery in Detroit.

Demand for beans strong

By James Olson Extension Field Crops Agent

Should I sell my beans? This is a question that growers have been asking themselves daily. With record high prices, it is only natural to be concerned that demand might weaken, resulting in lower prices. In fact many of us have a hard time believing that the current $31.00 per hundred is anything but a fluke. Surely the demand will weaken and the price will go down. As hard as it is to believe current prices, indications are that they are realistic. Unless there is a drastic change in the economy, likely prices will remain near current levels or go higher.

Let's take a look at the current situation. Production in Michigan is off nearly 1.6 million bags or 21 per cent. The Canadian crop was down nearly 17 per cent. These two areas produce over 90 per cent of the navy beans in North America. To limited extent, both small white beans and great northern beans can be substituted for navies.

Small white production is up only 21,000 bags (7 per cent increase) over last year, and the great northern crop could be off more than 130,000 bags. The harvest of great northern beans has been hampered by rains and snow. Total dry bean production in the U.S. is estimated to be off 10 per cent, and most of the reduction is in white beans. The colored bean production is near the level of last year.

Carryover stocks of last year's crop is not reported for navy beans, but indications are that it was the smallest in history. Both California and New York report carryover stocks of all classes of beans were nearly half of normal.

Since carryover and production of navies is down, this adds up to a short supply. With reduced carryover of colored beans and production near levels of last year, the adequacy of the colored bean supply will depend on demand.

What about demand? It appears to be very strong at the moment. Reports indicate that growers have sold over 40 per cent of this year's crop and maybe as much as 60 per cent of the crop. The navy bean market has consistently used only 30 per cent of the crop in the October to December period. This per cent usage remains nearly the same regardless of the size of the crop.

Usually when grower sells faster than the market uses the crop, prices go down. They have not gone down, and this can mean only one thing. Demand has to be unusually strong.

Indications are that processors are buying ahead to lock in their supply of this short crop. Especially at these high prices, elevator would not be speculating. Checks with local shippers indicate that they are selling beans as fast as they are buying them.

Likely much of the strength in the market is coming from overseas buyers. The devaluation of the dollar has made our commodities more attractive in foreign markets. Also, many foreign countries have strong economies with rising family incomes. These overseas families are in a better position to buy high protein foods like our beans.

Michigan bean industry exported 23 per cent of the crop last year. Exports were up 83 per cent over the previous year. The overseas demand appears to be as strong as last year. There appears to be strong competition between domestic and foreign buyers for the available crop.

It does not appear that we have hit the top of the market yet. In the few days between the time that this column is written and printed, the price could have risen another dollar or two. Then, where is the top? Well, I do not know.

Historically the best marketing strategy has been to sell 30 per cent of the crop the first quarter of the marketing year. Then sell 25 per cent of your crop the next two quarters and the remainder the last quarter.

In 1972, if growers had sold on this formula, they would have averaged 85 cents a hundred more, or received an additional million dollars for their crop in the Upper Thumb Area alone.

The outlook for the next few weeks is good. Further ahead should also be good, but depends heavily on World and National economic conditions. Demand is strong and current prices are realistic under current economic conditions.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE-THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1973

Armbruster explains delays

Appoint commander for county police post

Sgt. Ward F. Johnson, 46, a lieutenant designate, has been appointed commander of the new State Police Post in Caro.

Johnson, who is presently stationed in St. Clair, will be promoted Nov. 4, prior to his move to Caro. The Caro post will be known as Post No. 39.

The new commander is scheduled to visit Caro Sunday, Nov. 4, to look at possible locations for the post headquarters and to study the needs for equipment, radio communications and telephones. He will be accompanied by Major George Halverson, commanding officer of the uniformed division, Capt. John Cosgrove, district commander of Bay City, and Capt. Robert Buchanan, commander of operations and communications in Lansing.

Johnson is a 22-year veteran of the State Police. He enlisted in 1951 and was assigned to the Flint Post until 1953, when he was transferred to Sandusky where he served until 1956. That year, he moved to Bridgeport and remained there until 1965, when he was promoted to corporal and assigned to Calumet.

In 1966, Johnson was transferred to St. Clair and he won his promotion to sergeant in 1971.

He was born July 14, 1927, at Iron Mountain where he graduated from high school in 1945. Following graduation, he served 36 months in the U.S. Navy and spent 24 months overseas.

He and his wife, Bonnie, have three daughters and one son.

The post had originally been scheduled to open around Nov. 1, but several factors have held up that opening until sometime in January, 1974, according to State Rep. Loren Armbruster (R-Caro).

He explained three factors holding up the operation of the post involved the selection of a commander, the lack of a specific site for the post and budgetary considerations.

There was some delay in choosing a commander, but I believe the proper choice has been made," Armbruster said. "I understand Sgt. Johnson is a very capable man and I'm sure he'll do a fine job as post commander."

Armbruster said a site has not been decided upon officially as yet. He said the police have contacted the owners of the former County Road Commission building on Millwood Street in Caro and said the building seems to fit police needs as a temporary site.

"I understand they like the office equipment available and the fact that the building has an antenna," Armbruster said. "They also like the fact that they can park their patrol cars inside to give them a quicker start during the winter months."

He explained that it is customary when a new post is established for the State Police to rent quarters in the beginning. Once the post is beyond the establishment stage, it can then begin looking toward building its own facility.

A new building requires another budget, he said, and locating in an existing building takes some of the pressure off the department to build.

A third reason for the delay in establishing the Caro post involves budgetary considerations.

The post was established on a budget of $225,000. Armbruster explained that since these funds were approved by the Michigan Legislature, Gov. Milliken has asked all 19 departments of state government to trim their budgets by two per cent. This includes the state police.

In the case of the Caro post, this amounts to about $4,500, and has had a net effect of delaying the beginning of operations.

Armbruster said he is hopeful that the post will be in full operation in January. It will increase the number of operating state police posts to 64.

Initially, the post will be staffed by 15 troopers, including the commander, three sergeants, one detective and 10 patrol troopers. The post will mean the addition of one extra police car on county highways 24 hours a day.

Funeral services were held Monday from the Hacker Funeral Home, Sandusky, with Rev. Glenn Dimmitt, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Sandusky, officiating. Elder, Dean Smith of Shabbona RLDS Church assisted.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery. Masonic rites under the auspices of Decker Lodge No. 479 F&AM were held Sunday at the funeral home.

Jacobys still run

Deford P.O.

said. "Even though the land is not the best, it's good enough for building."

Jacoby described his retirement as making him feel "free as a bird", and said he is enjoying the leisure life.

"I've kind of been made official dishwasher in the family," he laughed. "I do a little housework and run some errands. But mostly I just take life easy."

He said he plans to do some fishing next spring with a new rod and reel outfit he received at a retirement party held for him Oct. 11. When Mrs. Jacoby retires in about six years or so, he said, he would like to spend his winters in warmer climates, perhaps in Florida.

For the time being, he plans to be within reasonable distance of the post office, checking in to see how his successor as postmaster is handling her duties.

"It isn't postmistress, you know," she pointed out. "It used to be, but not any more. I guess it has something to do with equality of the sexes or something."

Jacoby looked around and reflected on the years spent in Deford.

"When we first came here, I wondered if I was making the right decision or not," he said. "Now I'm sure it was the right one. This is a much better area to raise children than in Flint."

While there aren't any more Jacobys waiting in the wings to take over the post office in Deford, the present occupants are happy with their life in the rural community.

"It's been a good place to raise kids," Mrs. Jacoby said. "It's been a good place to live."

Find elderly man dead after fall from bicycle

Anthony Klakulak, 69, of Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown, was found dead in a roadside ditch Wednesday, Oct. 24 by Tuscola County Sheriff's Department deputies.

The stricken man had evidently been dead in the ditch for five or six hours after falling from his bicycle, sheriff's deputies who investigated said.

The sheriff's department was notified by Roger Little who was called to the scene with his ambulance.

Death was attributed to natural causes. Investigation revealed that Klakulak had been in ill health for three days prior to his death.

Several other complaints were investigated by the department during the week. Ed Leboda of rural Cass City reported Tuesday, Oct. 23, that thieves had stolen a fuse box and electrical wiring. He said that the value was about $50. There are no clues.

Gerald Howard of Cass City said that someone stole an oil tank at his home. The hard working thieves earned their ill gotten gains.

Howard estimated the value at $20 and the persons who stole the tank were forced to cut off the legs, anchored in cement, with a hack saw.

Mrs. Lillian Jacoby, DeFord postmaster, reported Thursday that 10 patrons of the DeFord rural route have postal boxes that have been destroyed.

Friday Rev. Richard Kubiak reported that an unknown thief entered the St. Michael's Catholic Church at Wilmot and stole a $40 fan.

Police investigate crash near school

Several minor accidents were reported in the Cass City area during the week.

The Cass City police investigated a property damage crash Friday on Cemetery Road in front of the Cass City High School.

A car driven by Leslie Alan Karr, 16, of Cass City was hit in the rear by a vehicle driven by Edward Paul Neal II, 16, of Cass City. Neal, who was traveling north on Seeger Street, reported that his brakes failed and he was unable to avoid the Karr car which was waiting to turn left towards the school.

Orra Spaid looks forward to retirement

Orra Spaid, an employee in the shipping and receiving department of Walbro Corp. for the last eight years, retired Friday to the farm he worked for 25 years prior to going to work for the Cass City-based firm.

He won't be doing much farming, however. Saturday, he and his wife will hold an auction sale and retire to the dream life of northern Michigan summers and Florida winters.

Before he began farming in 1943, Spaid worked for General Motors in Detroit.

In his eight years with Walbro, he's seen numerous changes and much growth. Since he began working for the firm, the company has expanded its autopulse division into its own building, began operations in Caro and Bay Ave. and purchased the Nestle's plant in Cass City.

"Things have really grown since I've been here," he said, following his retirement party.

Spaid recalled an incident during his years with Walbro that, at the time, made him wonder if he would be around to retire.

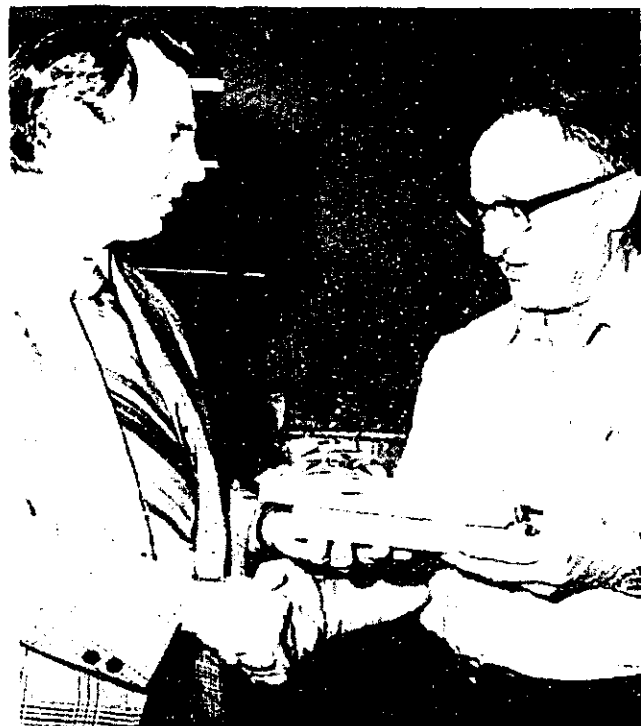

"I drove a truck a lot for the company," he recalled. "One time they asked me to take a truck load of fuel pump covers over to the Autopulse plant. They had them boxed in cartons and all loaded up waiting."

He explained that when he arrived, the truck engine was still cold and stalled just as he was pulling in. The truck rolled backwards as he tried to restart the engine and spilled a large portion of the load.

"I hopped out to start cleaning things up just as Mr. (Howard) Bacon (plant manager) came out the door," Spaid said. "He said, 'What a mess', and then went on his way."

Spaid said he plans to make a cabin located about 30 miles east of Mio his summer home while he spends winters in Tarpon Springs, Fla., located near a number of other Cass City residents who also make the annual trek to the sunshine state.

ORRA SPAID, who retired Friday from Walbro Corp. is presented a going-away present by Howard Bacon, vice-president in charge of manufacturing for the company.

Name Beatrice Berry citizen of year

The long service career and community involvement of Beatrice Berry, Caro, was recognized Saturday when she was named citizen of the year by the Caro Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Berry has been a longtime registrar of the Tuscola County Probate Court. She will retire next year.

She has also been active for many years in the Business and Professional Women's Club of Caro and treasurer of the Caro United Presbyterian Church. The award was made at the annual dinner dance by James Sutherland, Caro Community Schools superintendent, who won the award last year.

The dance was held at Sherwood Forest Country Club in Gagetown.

Dems urge sales tax repeal

In official action the Democratic State Central Committee, meeting Saturday in Muskegon, approved a proposal put forth by the education and finance subcommittee of the Policy Committee to repeal the 4 per cent sales tax on food and prescription drugs.

The resolution urges the Michigan legislature to act in its current session to repeal the sales tax on food and drugs thereby saving enough money to give each family in Michigan additional income worth two weeks' free groceries.

The friends that promises bring will not last long when excuses replace fulfillment.

Farm Bureau seeks tax rollback plan in Lansing

More than half a century ago, the Michigan Farm Bureau set about fighting what it considered unfair taxation of those in agriculture.

The group's first battle, shortly after its founding in 1919, was against a road tax on farms. By 1925, that tax was replaced with the gasoline tax.

Today, the Farm Bureau still battles taxes. Its most recent goal, listed in its annual priority book for the past several years, has been agricultural assessment of farmlands.

"Farmers are the victims of an insidious 'real estate roulette,'" says one priority statement. It contends that many farmers can't pay the taxes on their lands and are, therefore, forced to sell out to land developers.

Gov. William Milliken's recent proposal for a tax break for farmers seems to follow the Farm Bureau theory, at least in concept.

Milliken's proposal, unveiled just before lawmakers returned to Lansing for the fall session, offers farmers a state-paid rebate on their property taxes. The rebate would be granted if the farmer's property tax per acre were more than 8 per cent of his income. If a farmer agreed to keep his land in agricultural or horticultural use for at least 10 years, he'd be eligible for the rebate, up to a maximum of $2,000 a year.

The Farm Bureau had sought a "roll-back tax." Under that system, a farmer would agree to keep his land in agricultural or horticultural use for a certain period of time.

In return for that, he would pay taxes on the actual agricultural assessment of the land—not on the potential assessment if the land were developed commercially.

If the farmer sold his land, he would be liable for the roll-back tax. In effect, he'd pay the difference between the agricultural assessment and the other assessment, for "x" number of years.

A bill along those lines passed the House earlier this year and now awaits action in Senate committee.

Which way the legislature will go, with the governor's proposal or that in Senate committee, is anyone's guess.

The main concern in some quarters, however, is that it will not be the case of rolling back taxes, but of rolling up the taxes on the land.

Backers of either proposal will argue that the concept not only gives farmers a tax break, but it helps insure that farmlands won't disappear from the Michigan landscape.

WOMAN IN PRISON

A social worker in Benton Harbor is the first woman counselor in one of Michigan's medium security prisons.

Leitish Dunbar began work earlier this month at the Michigan Training Unit in Ionia, an institution for men under 24.

"We believe that adding the 'woman's touch' to an all male institution housing environment is a step toward normalizing the closed prison society," says Perry Johnson, director of the Corrections Department. "Our previous experience has been that behavior actually improves when women are present in institutions."

G.P.s DISAPPEARING

Need a doctor? Michigan has almost 12,000 of them these days, according to the Michigan Health Council.

But of the 11,942, only 1,577 of them are general practitioners. The Council says that number has dropped from 2,134 in the past six years—26 in the last year alone.

While the number of general practitioners has dropped, the total of doctors went up from 10,900 in the six years, the Council says.

SCUTTLE WHAT?

That special shuttle bus for state employees, put on a Lansing to Detroit run in mid-September, seems to be at a standstill.

One or two people rode it to start. Then a couple more joined the rider list, with up to six passengers, during the recent count, but the buses don't prove the system worth while. The state still has no idea if it will make a go of it.

Gov. William Milliken's shuttle bus, which would take state employees to work, is still in the planning stages. He told a recent news conference that he "put a pin in the shuttle."

On board there is more than a travel agency. There is an adventure in art, an eye-opening education, and a study of what and how man's creativity has been at work.

In the studio car, artists from the Artrain staff and local artists will be at work to demonstrate in a variety of areas, including ceramics, printing, jewelry making, weaving. Visitors are invited to ask questions and to view first hand the creative process.

Artrain set for return to Thumb

The now famous Michigan Artrain, which came to Cass City in July of 1972 for one of its early showings, will make its second appearance in the northern Thumb next week when it will stop at Bad Axe for a five-day exhibit. Nov. 8-12.

When the train made its first excursion into the district, the sponsoring Cass City group extended an invitation to residents of Bad Axe and of Huron county.

Now, the favor is being returned. The Huron County Committee for Artrain, Inc., a group of volunteer citizens organized to sponsor the train, has extended an invitation to Cass Cityans and all residents of Tuscola county to visit the train when it comes to Bad Axe.

The train is the same one which appeared in Cass City. However, there is an all new collection of art in the gallery car, on loan from the Detroit Institute of Art and other major museums.

Some changes have been made in the audio visual programs in addition to remodeling of the studio car where Artrain artists and others from the local community demonstrate their talents.

The Huron group, headed by K. William Pletscher, Bad Axe superintendent of schools, has been getting some valuable assistance from Mrs. Holly Althaver, who served as Artrain chairman at Cass City. Mrs. Althaver has been assisted by Huron County women and has attended at least one community meeting in Bad Axe.

When Artrain comes to Bad Axe, it will be a train of art, education, and entertainment. It will be a train that will bring to the Thumb a new dimension to the art world.

During the train stay in Bad Axe, the city will become a "City of Art". There will be exhibits of paintings in store windows and at the library. There will be a one-man art show, a program for the performing arts, a quilting bee at the library, and 16 Huron county artists and crafts men will stage a workshop at the Boy Scout rooms to demonstrate their talents.

Counting its Michigan and Western tours, Artrain has already attracted a half million visitors. Bad Axe will be the 77th community on the list of stops.

School students will be touring the train from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on three school days. The train will be open for the public from 7 to 9 p.m. on three weekdays and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the week end of Nov. 10-11.

Bernie Sullivan wins insurance quality award

Bernie Sullivan, Bad Axe, was honored today by the Samnaw and The National Association of Life Underwriters for his 10th qualification of the National Quality Award. The award was presented to Sullivan by Samnaw Association President, E. J. W. W. W.

Sullivan, a resident of Bad Axe, has been in the insurance business 19 years, and has specialized in life insurance, special risk, and pension planning. He is the first professional life insurance man in Huron county to receive this award for 10 consecutive years. Adv.

Paul H. James succumbs Oct. 23

Paul Henry James, 69, died at Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday, Oct. 23, where he had been a patient for two weeks.

Mr. James was born in Dequitor, Illinois, July 9, 1904, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William R. James.

He was united in marriage to Miss Hilda Voden in Lincoln Park, April 10, 1926. They came to this community 32 years ago from Van Wert, Ohio.

He is survived by his wife, Hilda; two daughters, Mrs.

Richard (Lorraine) Creason of Belleville and Mrs. Janice Irish of Plymouth; one son, Dennis James of North Branch; three brothers, William James of Decatur, Alabama, John James of Detroit and Ludwig James of Dearborn, and six grandchildren.

He was cremated at the Flint Memorial Park Crematorium Thursday, Oct. 25.

Everything seems to be wrong for the fellow who is headed in the wrong direction.

Your neighbor says

Tax jump isn't fair

Property taxes continue to rise in every part of the country at a steady rate, with no relief in sight. Taxpayers in Novesta township will be especially hard hit next year, when their annual property tax bill jumps some 23 per cent, compared with 10 per cent in Elkland township.

Mrs. Harold Hunt, 6259 Delour Rd., Deford, doesn't think it's right.

"We don't have the activities out in Novesta that people in Cass City have," she said. "I don't really feel we get our full money's worth."

Mrs. Hunt said she doesn't feel she has a say in how much her taxes will be and says it really doesn't matter anyway.

"If they want higher taxes, they'll get them regardless," she said. She added that in spite of high taxes, Novesta residents still must come to Cass City for recreation, something she feels Novesta tax dollars should buy. The Hunts have lived in Novesta township for 10 years on a 40-acre farm. Prior to that, they lived in Cass City.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

With reams of ballots waiting for voters and important local questions to be solved, a new vote record may be set Tuesday in Tuscola county.

A two-month campaign by Gerald Priesskorn to secure street lights on Kennebec Drive paid off Tuesday night as the Cass City Village Council voted five to one to install two or three shaded lights along the street between Huron and North Seeger Streets.

Agreement has been reached with county employees and elected officials for hefty pay raises beginning next year, officials of the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors announced this week.

A new trench at the Cass City Sanitary Landfill dump will cost the village some $1,500, it was learned following the opening of sealed bids Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

TEN YEARS AGO

If curb and gutter creates a hardship on individual property owners the limited income family will have an opportunity to defer payment, if a plan under study by the Cass City Village Council is approved.

Collections are lagging in the annual Elkland-Novesta Community Chest drive, chairman Willis Campbell said this week.

Natural gas was approved in area townships in special elections that created little interest when compared to the vote in the village.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A new International Harvester implement store will open this week in the new building constructed immediately east of the Chronicle office.

William Profit of Cass City was re-elected Friday as a member of the Tuscola County Road Commission for a three year term by the Board of Supervisors.

Seven county officers will receive salary increases for the coming year by vote of the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors.

Be brave, Ronnie! It will hurt a little, but it's worth it. No matter how old we are, life requires courage. And we show our greatest courage when we are terribly afraid but fight on through the fear.

Moral courage is sometimes much harder than the physical kind, but whenever we stand up for what our God-given conscience tells us is right, regardless of sneering opposition, we win a shining victory . . . and we keep our self-respect.

It is never too late to start living courageously. If you are facing a life situation that is draining your courage, why not pray about it in church tomorrow? The Christian Gospels assure us, without a shadow of a doubt, that strength will be given us whenever we need it and as much as we need. Remember that life is not a lonely battle. God is always with you.

AROUND THE FARM Conquer weed problems By Don Keblor

Visitations on dairy farms have shown me that alfalfa stands and production problems are increasing where weed grass problems occur.

Atrazine is a good herbicide for quackgrass. However, Atrazine is not an effective herbicide to achieve longer than one year perennial grass control if used at rates lower than four pound active ingredient per acre. At rates lower than this all you should expect is an annual control of most of the grasses in a corn field.

Dairy operators using less than four pound active ingredient Atrazine per acre rates are not achieving longer than a one year kill or control on their grass problems.

In following this herbicide program, they are not controlling grasses longer than one year. Many are delaying making new replacement alfalfa seedings in the hope they'll kill out the grass prior to planting alfalfa.

To kill quackgrass we recommend the use of four pounds of active ingredient Atrazine per acre either as two-split or one full application where corn is grown. The following year only corn or sorghum must be grown. If foxtail, annual broad-leaves, Fall Panicum, witchgrass or other annual grasses are problems, pre-emerge 1½ pounds of Bladex plus 2 quarts of Lasso per acre. The year following this, small grains, alfalfa, sugarbeets and beans can be grown on this field.

If Atrazine has been continuously used on the same field three years or longer, then follow the Bladex-Lasso recommendation for two more years. Then it's safe generally to grow alfalfa, beans, small grains, etc.

Once you have the grass problem under control and an alfalfa crop planted, don't stop your herbicide program. Help keep the weed problem down in the alfalfa by using pre-plant applications of Eptam or post-emergence herbicides. On established stands MCPA or Simazin each fall will control yellow rocket and broad leaved annuals.

Ever since last spring's Lawn, Tree and Shrub Culture Seminar at Vassar many requests have come in regarding technical assistance.

Shrubbery, tree pruning and tree surgery questions have been quite pertinent this year. Autumn, after the leaves have fallen, is the time to prune, shape and repair trees. You can prune during the winter, but the later one prunes toward spring the more chance there is for spring sap flow to cause bleeding.

Shrubbery is generally pruned and shaped after blossoming time so the new growth can put on buds. Later pruning will remove next year's flower buds. Generally older center wood of shrubs is removed or cut back to allow new wood to develop.

Some shrubs can be cut back as much as two-thirds their height without damage if the root system is sound. Wound peeling compound can be a mixture of white lead and linseed oil. Also, a good oil base paint will suffice if no petroleum distillates are solvent.

Five from area enrolled in nursing classes

Five area persons are currently enrolled in the third Practical Nursing class to be offered in Bad Axe by St. Clair County Community College.

Those participating in the program include: Mrs. Delena Buttram, Delord; Mrs. Mary Rockefeller, Gagetown; Mrs. Nancy Watson, Snover; and Jean Briolat and Patricia Pepinski, both of Ubly.

The program began in mid-October and will continue for 52 weeks. The objectives of the program are to prepare selected men and women as graduate Practical Nurses who can function effectively in the care of patients, under the supervision and direction of registered professional nurses and licensed physicians.

Students are selected on the basis of scores on achievement tests. Classes and hospital experience are planned to teach the students the theory and skills of basic nursing care.

Former resident dies from fall

Joseph H. Miljure, 87, died early Wednesday when he fell from a second story window at a Pigeon nursing home.

Miljure, a former Cass City resident, was found dead around 7:00 a.m. lying on a driveway, by Dale Rapson, proprietor of the home for the aged, located on Brown Road near Pigeon.

Deputy Medical Examiner Elmer Bussema said Miljure died of a fractured neck following the 16-foot fall.

Rapson ruled out the possibility that Miljure committed suicide by jumping from the window, as the elderly man frequently stood or sat by the open window in the past.

It could not be determined exactly why the window was open and without a screen. Bussema did indicate extensive remodeling work had been going on at the facility which might explain why the window was without a screen.

Huron County Sheriff's deputies who investigated the accident said Rapson told them he heard a noise around 3:15 a.m., but was not sure what it was and disregarded it at that time. Miljure was born May 9, 1886, in Grindstone City. He married Elizabeth Bewick in Detroit Dec. 23, 1910.

She died Feb. 28, 1971. He is survived by two sons, Donald of Cass City and Douglas of Detroit.

three daughters, Mrs. Dolly Miller and Mrs. Dorothy Sheldon, both of Royal Oak, and Mrs. Genevieve Newbig of Novi; three sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Shachett and Mrs. Genevieve Reed, both of Florida, and Mrs. Minnie Meyers of Washington state. Funeral services were held Friday, Oct. 26, at Huron Memorial Chapel, Elkon, with Rev. E.D.K. Isaacs of Trinity United Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment was in Rose-land cemetery, Berkley.

AGENT'S CORNER

Relax at mealtime

Margaret Ross - Extension Agent

The family meal deserves a time all its own. It shouldn't be like the other hectic parts of your day. It's a break where you and your family can have a chance to share good food and good company.

Family meals should be special from start to finish. That doesn't necessarily mean fancy food, though a surprise is always welcome.

But it means that problems are set aside temporarily. Though work has been confusing, car pools have gone a hundred miles, and the basement's piled high with dirty clothes, the people at this table deserve each other's attention and smiles.

Some families have actual rules that govern table talk - no scolding, fussing, fault-finding. That's because these sometimes automatic habits can ruin appetites and moods.

The family meal is a good time to encourage everyone to join in the conversation. Unless you make a special effort to think about this, one member of the family can chronically dominate the conversation. And though small talk comes easy, it might be a good time to talk about opinions and dreams, instead.

So when the dinner bell rings, make it a signal to turn off your worries and become part of the good company that's coming to dinner. And add a little bit of love - the kind that shows.

Install officers for Echo OES

Installation of officers to serve Echo chapter OES for the coming year took place in a special meeting Wednesday evening, Oct. 24.

Ninety-two members of the Order and friends attended, from Saginaw, Mayville, Kingston, Decker, Sebawaing, Bad Axe, Elkton, Unionville, Vassar, Port Austin, Gagetown, Caro, Fairgrove and Cass City. Mrs. Avis Youngs was in charge of guest registration.

The meeting was opened by retiring worthy matron, Mrs. Marie Jetta.

Installing officers were Mrs. Reva M. Little, a past worthy matron of Echo chapter, assisted by Mrs. Carolyn Terril of Sebawaing, a past grand marshal, as organist, and Mrs. Esther Gunther as guest soloist. Mrs. Betty Greenleaf, worthy matron, and Keith Murphy, worthy patron.

Others installed, including appointive officers, not previously listed were: chaplain, Mrs. Ruth Ann Whittaker; marshal, Mrs. Marie Jetta; organist, Mrs. Betty Murphy; Star points, Mrs. Mildred McConkey, Mrs. Doris Evans, Mrs. Donna Holm, Mrs. Gladys Albee and Mrs. Frances Golding. Others were Mrs. Helen Lorentzen, warder, and George Jetta, sentinel. Mrs. Dorothy Tracy will serve as substitute officer.

Mrs. Jetta's past matron's jewel and a gift to Keith Murphy, who served as worthy patron the past year, were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holm.

The table in the dining room, from which refreshments were served by Mrs. Ruth Ann Whittaker and her committee, was decorated in blue and yellow.

Services held for Robert Spencer

Robert C. Spencer, 87, Uby, died Friday in Sanilac County Medical Facility, Sandusky, after a long illness.

Mr. Spencer was born in Wacomb county, Jan. 18, 1886, son of the late Horace and Alma Holmes Spencer. He came to this area as a child. The Spencers celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1965.

He married Mary Britton

Jan. 5, 1915, in Greenleaf township.

He attended the Fraser Presbyterian Church.

He was a retired farmer.

Mr. Spencer was a member of the Tyler Lodge F&AM No. 317 of Cass City; Knights Templar of Bad Axe and Lebanon chapter No. 125 RAM Lodge, Bad Axe.
