Mrs. Charles Tuckey and the family goose about to become part of Thanksgiving dinner.

Cass Cityans set to prepare traditional Thanksgiving feasts for family, friends

Traditional Thanksgiving with family at home or on the road? Cass Cityans will celebrate the holiday in a number of ways, most traditional.

Turkey will more than likely be the favorite meal when families sit down for the noon-time feast, along with stuffing, sweet potatoes, and pumpkin pie with whipped cream.

Traditionally, it's a time for renewing and strengthening family ties, a chance to see how much the children and grandchildren have grown and to watch the television offerings of college and professional football games. In countless households, it happens every year.

The Clare Carpenters, 6226 Bay City-Forestville Rd. plan to have family in for Thanksgiving, but may not have the customary turkey.

"We sometimes vary the main course," Mrs. Carpenter said last week. "Often we have turkey but sometimes we have ham and sweet potatoes. One thing we definitely have is the pumpkin pie. It's traditional with us."

The Carpenters have three grown children and one grandchild who will share the day with them.

"It just seems right to have the dinner at home," Mrs. Carpenter added. "We have never eaten our Thanksgiving dinner in a restaurant."

She said the day usually involves quite a celebration involving family coming home.

She said the afternoon is usually consumed by the men watching televised football in the living room.

The Fay McCombs of 4292 Maple will be away this year, traveling to Mrs. McComb's brother's residence where the traditional dinner of roast turkey and all the trimmings will be waiting for them. So will luscious portions of pumpkin pie and whipped cream.

"In all, we have about 20 to 25 family members to gether each year," Mrs. McComb said. "Sometimes we have it at our house, but this year, we'll be away."

Do the men of the family like to help wash the dishes after the hearty meal?

"They sure don't," Mrs. McComb said. "So we shove them off into a corner to watch their football games out of our way so we can get the clean-up done."

The McCombs have two grown children and five grandchildren, the newest born Nov. 14. He'll miss this celebration but plans to be on hand for succeeding years.

Some families go it alone. Traditionally the Herman Umptenbach family stays home and enjoys the traditional turkey dinner. Their nine children constitute a family gathering in and of itself.

The Umfentbachs recently moved to Cass City from Detroit and are undecided about this year's activity.

Daughter Janet says her family really doesn't need to import more relatives...she has plenty of brothers and sisters to go around.

The Bruce Kritzmanns of Decker will be traveling this year to their son's home in Indiana where a traditional dinner will await them and the other members of the large family. In all, some 24 persons will gather for the day.

Mrs. Kritzman recalled that Thanksgiving has always been a special day for her.

"I remember when I was a girl we were very poor," she said, "but our mother always celebrated each day. At Thanksgiving, we always had a large dinner, usually turkey. We were a large family then, but mother always made it special for each of us."

She recalled after her marriage the traditional dinner was usually held at her home until later years when they began traveling for the big day.

She said after the big meal some of the men like to view football on television, but most of the family members enjoy a spirited game of cards after the leftovers have been put away and the dishes washed.

Mrs. Tuckey explained after the morning's hunt, the men of the family return to the house and devour the

"We don't object to some of the men watching television, but the rest of us like cards better," she said. "Besides, it gives us all a chance to hold an old-fashioned gab session."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tuckey of 4681 Schwegler Rd. plan to spend the day with the families of his three brothers. Mrs. Tuckey said the men usually go hunting in the morning while the women prepare the traditional turkey and pumpkin pie dinner.

"This year, we're also having a goose my brother-in-law and my son raised during the year," Mrs. Tuckey said. "I don't know if we'll like it or not, but we're going to have him."

Asked if her son had any qualms about killing a bird he raised to maturity, Mrs. Tuckey said there was no problem along those lines.

"As long as you don't name them, you're OK," she chuckled.

Mrs. Tuckey explained after the morning's hunt, the men of the family return to the house and devour the feast, followed by an afternoon of football. In all, about 15 persons will attend this annual family event.

Traditional Thanksgiving religious services will be held at St. Pancratius Catholic Church Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Harold Prong of Novest Church of Christ will be the speaker.

Choirs from Salem and Trinity United Methodist Churches will participate in the service. Offerings will be donated to Big Brothers of Tuscola county.

"If It Fitz . . ." The important things

BY JIM FITZGERALD

As it must to all men, the time has come for me to say nuts to Nixon's tapes. Who cares? My son catches fleas barehanded and I can tell you who who won the academy award for best supporting actress in 1940.

What I mean is, let's talk about the really important things. When I told some friends about son Ed catching the fleas, I was surprised that they were surprised. Fact is, they called me a liar.

"Nobody can catch fleas with their bare hands," said one pigheaded skeptic who is so dumb he probably still thinks all aspirins are alike. Ed catches fleas every night. I often watch him do it, applauding all the way. He simply places our fat cat in his lap and runs his fingers through its hair very, very lightly. The gentle touch is what does it. He looks like a blind man reading braille on thin ice.

"I just part the hair until I spot a flea. Then I track it," Ed explained. "A flea always heads for the darkest hair, so I try to head him off. I make a passageway and wait in ambush. Then I just snap him between my thumb and middle finger as he goes by."

Don't tell me he can't do it. I've seen the flea corpses on the tip of his talented middle finger. You might question whether my eyesight is up to it. But you would be fly-specking. I know a dying flea when I see it writhe in agony and hear it call for a priest.

(In view of my past criticism of hunters, some readers may question my brutal attitude toward the hunting of fleas. It is true that I disapprove of killing strictly for sport, as in Michigan's put-and-take pheasant slaughter. But Ed saves the fleas until there is enough for a sandwich and then feeds it to the cat. He is not a killer, he is a recycler.)

Now, about that other important thing: Ed and I and daughter Chris were watching the late movie, "The Treasure of Sierra Madre," made in 1948. The tremendous performance given by Humphrey Bogart prompted Ed to guess: "I'll bet he won the academy award that year."

"No, but he was nominated," I said. "He lost out to Laurence Olivier in 'Hamlet.' But Walter Huston won for best supporting actor in 'Sierra Madre.' Bogart finally won a couple of years later for 'African Queen.'"

The kids couldn't believe I was that brilliant. So they dragged an old movie book out of the bookcase and checked. I was 100 per cent right, of course. They then began quizzing me, using the book as a reference. Going back as far as 1935, they couldn't ask me a question about a movie that I couldn't answer. I even told them that F. Scott Fitzgerald worked on the screenplay for "Gone With the Wind." The book didn't know that. I was fantastic.

"Wake your mother up," I said. "She has got to see this incredible performance by her husband."

Ed finally admitted he would declare me king of the movie buffs if I could name the actress who won the academy award for best supporting actress in 1940. "Jane Darwell in 'The Grapes of Wrath,'" I answered. "She played Henry's mother. She is dead today and Henry is waxing kitchen floors."

Fleas and movie trivia are typical of the important things that concern the people in my house. Some people would call it nonsense. Some people would rather be President and play "who's got the tapes" in the White House.

Former resident Earle Jones, dies at 91

Services for Earle W. Jones Sr., 91, a former Cass City merchant, were held Tuesday at the Reigle Funeral Home, Flint. He died Saturday in Hurley Hospital.

Mr. Jones was born on a farm near Otisville in Forest township in 1882. He operated a grocery store in Cass City for 14 years, moving to Flint in 1923, where he became sales manager and then general manager of the Freissel Bread Co. until 1925. In that year, he became sales manager at Freeman's Dairy Co. of Flint. In 1927, he became the "Jones" in Jones, Burton and Wills Insurance Co. in which he was active until past the age of 90.

He held a number of civic posts in Flint and was associated with the Flint Masonic Lodge 23. He served on the Albion College Board of Trustees for 40 years. Mr. Jones survived his first wife of 50 years, Christina, and married Mrs. Miriam Ryle of Flint at age 89. He is survived by his widow; a son, Earle Jr. of Lewiston; two daughters, Mrs. Wayne T. Whipple and Mrs. Alden L. McAra, both of Flint; a stepson, Dr. William C. Ryle, and stepdaughter, Mrs. Robert Croxson, both of Flint, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Burial was in Sunset Hills cemetery.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Pete Waldmeir, columnist for the Detroit News, has been a better writer these last few weeks than he ever was before.

He's better because he's taken some intelligent stands about schools and teachers and the energy shortage. Intelligent stands... that translates to positions that I agree with. Naturally.

Waldmeir says that teachers don't have it so bad these days. He says that he isn't sold on the thesis that we have an energy crisis at all.

He says that he will run his car whenever he wants, wherever he wants as long as rationing is not with us. He says that the thermostat in his home won't be lowered one single degree.

Waldmeir is not cooperating because he feels the public is being suckered by the energy crisis. He thinks it's a red herring to take the public's mind off Watergate and the heat off President Nixon.

What he implies, but I can't recall him saying, is that he mistrusts big business, too. I'm with him there.

The truth about the whole sordid mess we find ourselves in may be years unfolding, if it ever does.

Big business says that it's because of our increased use of energy that the shortage is upon us. Yet the report is that much of the oil that we could be using to avoid the shortage is going overseas.

According to the Detroit Free Press twice as much oil is being sold by five American oil companies overseas as is sold in the United States.

And then we have shortages in paper, plastics, nuts and bolts, meat, leather, cloth... you name it.

What's the reason? I believe it's an especially forged club to beat the people quiet while the aims and ambitions of guys out for bigger profits for big business are satisfied.

That's a harsh statement. But the more I read, the more I observe, the more I feel that the shortages are a device used to hobble the guys who really give a damn about what happens to the country. The Ralph Naders of our society.

When I was younger, I tended to believe. Believe that despite the occasional rotten apple, most of the fruit was good.

Now I see the average guy as little more than a puppet in an international show and I always try to see who is pulling the strings.

It's amusing when one politician says that a huge tax on gasoline will be hurting the poor man and not touching the rich man. That's true. It's the alternative that is the macabre riddle.

That alternative is gas rationing. It's the only fair way to dish out gas, say its advocates.

It sounds good in theory. But, then, so does Communism. In practice it's the same old story.

If rationing comes don't think for an instant the rich man will suffer. The guy with money, with clout will be taken care of. He'll have gas.

The poor guy will get a massive dose of hot air. Maybe he shouldn't complain. After all, hot air is gas, too, isn't it?

Deputies investigate rash of minor traffic accidents

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies investigated a rash of minor area accidents last week, none serious.

Wednesday, Nov. 14, deputies investigated a two-car mishap at the intersection of Rossman and Clither Roads. Cars driven by Vernon Johnson, 58, Deford and William Dawson, 30, Kingston, collided at the unmarked intersection.

Johnson told officers he was traveling west approaching the intersection and did not see the approaching Dawson vehicle.

Dawson said he, too, could not see Johnson's auto coming into the intersection. He was traveling north.

Neither driver was seriously injured in the mishap which occurred at 11:18 a.m. No tickets were issued.

Friday, a car driven by Frederick Klinkman, 19, of 3635 N. Cemetery Rd., went out of control while traveling south on Colwood Road north of LaJoie Road and released in a ditch.

Klinkman told officers the car slid on ice which had formed on the road. He escaped serious injury in the mishap which took place at 4:20 a.m.

Also Friday, a car driven by Michael Mallory, 26, of Gilford Road, Deford, collided with a car driven by David Reed, 18, of 3734 N. Cemetery Rd., on Cemetery Road just south of River Road.

Mallory told Tuscola deputies he was attempting to pass the Reed vehicle and did not see that the Reed auto had his left turn signal flashing.

Reed told deputies he had his turn signal operating and was going to make a left turn when he was struck by the Mallory auto. Both were traveling north at the time of the accident which took place at 12:30 p.m.

No ticket was issued and neither driver was injured seriously.

In another Friday mishap, a car driven by Earl G. Voss, 24, of Clifford, struck and killed a deer while traveling north on Cemetery Road just north of Shabbona Road.

He told officers the deer ran out of the east ditch and ran in front of his auto. He said he was traveling at about 50 miles per hour when the accident occurred.

He and a passenger, Ronald Voss, 28, of 1860 Crawford Rd., Deford, were not injured. The mishap took place at 7:50 p.m.

Thursday, a car driven by Wayne Cummings, 18, of 5059 McAlpine Rd., Gagetown, went out of control and struck a utility pole while traveling north on Cemetery Road at the Merchant Road intersection.

Cummings told Tuscola deputies he tried to avoid striking a deer which had run into the path of his car and went off the west side of the road.

Cummings escaped serious injury in the accident which took place at 2:00 a.m.

Saturday, a car driven by Paul Smith, 27, of Wheeler Rd., Snover, went out of control and landed at the side of East Dayton Road about a half mile north of Bevens Road.

According to police, Smith, who was headed south, attempted to negotiate a curve and skidded off the right shoulder of the road. He then crossed back to the left side. The car also struck a road sign.

Police said skid marks measuring 339 feet were left at the scene.

Smith escaped serious injury in the mishap which occurred at 10:35 p.m.

Also Saturday, a car driven by James R. Kritzman, 26, of 6944 Cemetery Rd., struck and killed a deer while traveling north on Cemetery Road a half mile north of Bay City-Forestville Road.

Kritzman told officers he could not avoid a collision. The accident took place at 11:15 p.m.

UBLY INJURY

An Ubyly man suffered facial lacerations and a fractured jaw Friday night when the car he was driving struck a culvert on Atwater Road about one mile west of Ubyly.

Eugene Osantowski, 23, was taken to Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, and then transferred to Bay City General Hospital where his condition is listed as "satisfactory."

Officers said Osantowski lost control of the auto and ran off the road. Huron Sheriff Richard V. Stokan investigated the accident, which occurred at 7:30 p.m.

Michael F. McIlhargie, 28, Owendale, suffered cuts and bruises Saturday afternoon when the car he was driving rolled over on M-53, about five miles southwest of Bad Axe. He was treated and released from Huron Memorial Hospital.

He told officers his car went off the road and he lost control of the vehicle when he attempted to bring it back on the highway. The car struck a guard rail and rolled over into a ditch.

AGENT'S CORNER Fun on a winter's day

Allene Mills - Extension Agent

If you're looking for a fun-thing to do with the children on those cold days of winter when school is out, here's an idea. The following "experiment" can fill some of those empty hours with a useful way of explaining to youngsters how "agriculture works." Make butter and buttermilk.

The objective is to make butter using a simple churn, a jar.

The materials needed are a box of crackers, crushed ice and container for ice, and cups for buttermilk. Also, half-and-half milk (enough for each child to have a half cupful), plastic knives, salt, small glass jars (two or three children can even share a jar) with tight-fitting tops and thermometer.

Let the milk stand until it reaches room temperature (about 70 degrees F.) Then, pour milk into a jar (churn), put the top on securely, and shake it vigorously until clumps of butter appear. Butter should form after about 5 minutes of shaking. Let the children take turns shaking the jar. Pour off the buttermilk and set the churn in a container of ice to harden the butter by chilling it.

You may wish to add salt to both butter and buttermilk. Children can sample the buttermilk while waiting for the butter to chill. Or, you may wish to chill the buttermilk, too. After the butter hardens, let the children spread it on crackers and taste it. Have the children write their butter-making story.

Your neighbor says

We're saving energy

In the wake of the energy crisis, persons are striving to make every ounce of fuel oil, gasoline and natural gas go as far as it will in the face of dwindling supplies and skyrocketing prices.

At the Harold Ballagh home, located at 8977 N. Van Dyke, the thermostat has come down. According to daughter Betty, who student teaches at Cass City High School, during the day, the house stands at 68 degrees, while at night, she says, the furnace is turned off.

"Sometimes it gets a little cold so we pile on the blankets to stay warm," she said.

As for herself, she said she now drives between 55 and 60 miles per hour, as opposed to the 65-70 mph she used to travel.

"Of course that depends if I'm in a hurry or not," she added somewhat reluctantly.

Ms. Ballagh is a native of the Cass City area and graduated from Cass City High School.

Tuscola Bean Day set for Dec. 1 at Akron-Fairgrove

By James O. Olson
Extension Field Crops Agent

Tuscola Bean Day will be held Dec. 1, at the Akron-Fairgrove High School. The program will begin at 10:00 a.m. The county's elevators will sponsor the free noon meal again this year. The program will continue until 3:00 p.m.

The program will include topics on both production and marketing. Also, two important business items will be part of the program.

In addition to the Annual Meeting of the Tuscola County Bean Growers Association, Wayne Elliot, president, said there will be two elections. The first election will be for three new members to the County Growers Association's Board of Directors. The other election will be for two nominees to the Michigan Bean Commission. The Governor will appoint one of the nominees to represent Tuscola county's growers.

The program will feature specialist from Michigan State University and the area information on what you can afford to pay for land, how long the current prices will last, and marketing outlooks for navy beans.

I've recently wondered if giving the same treatment to couples who decide to split the electric blanket might not slow down the ever-increasing number of separations.

A couple in Detroit recently invited a number of close friends to a reception following their divorce proceedings in court. They called it an "amicable separation" and wanted to share their joy at having gotten rid of each other.

Why not carry it one step further and report the ceremony in the society section of the newspaper? Imagine, if you will, the following account:

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schwartz became Mr. Harry Schwartz and Ms. Helen Goldstine Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Judge Norman Bitter, presided at the light ceremony.

The divorcee (Ms. Goldstine) wore a one-piece green dress with knee-length hem, accented by a pillbox hat and matching handbag. Her attendants included attorney Harold Getrich and his secretary Bunny Sweetzmaile.

The divorcee (Mr. Schwartz) was attended by his attorney, Brutus T. Thornapple.

Custody of their three children, all dressed in matching outfits, was awarded to Ms. Goldstine. The two girls and one boy smiled.

Ring un-bearer was Melvin Meek, bailiff, who took the wedding bands and summarily deposited them in a trust account for the children.

Separate receptions were held for the un-couple following court proceedings. Ms. Goldstine was feted by some 500 close friends at Delmonico's of Caro, where pressed duck was served. She smiled as she counted her property settlement.

A reception for Mr. Schwartz was held at Jack's Bar and Grill with a dozen close acquaintances getting smashed to the gills.

After separate trips to Fire Island and Greenwich Village, the un-couple will be in the Netherlands.

at home and overseas will be presented.

In addition to other marketing information, the latest information management tools and production practices will be covered. This meeting has been the largest grower meeting in the state in the past with about 200 growers attending.

1973 crop year to be "respectable"

While 1973 will not go down in history as a bumper year for area farmers, increased prices have made it an average, respectable year, according to William Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Director.

Production for 1973 crops was down in most categories over 1972 totals, but rapidly increasing prices helped county farmers realize average to good returns on investments, Bortel said.

"This year will probably go down in history as an average year," Bortel said, "with nothing real spectacular about it. What made it successful was the large price jumps over last year."

Major Tuscola county crops were down, due largely to unsettled weather conditions. While rainfall came out close to average in the record books, the fact that it came in spurts, followed by drought periods, cut into production.

Specifically, Bortel said corn production will probably end up some 15 bushels per acre less than last year. Beans will total in the neighborhood of 100 lbs. to the acre below 1972 and wheat will remain about the same, if not showing a slight drop.

Another major county crop, sugar beets, should end up giving growers an average return, Bortel said. No figures are yet available on 1973 beet production, but a decrease can be expected, due to two floods and two periods of drought which took its toll in not only beets, but beans as well.

Root rot remained a common complaint among bean growers and contributed to drops in production.

Sugar beets this year contain a higher sugar content, Bortel said, primarily because of dry conditions in August and early September.

"It won't be a bumper crop by any means," he said. Bortel described the year as "funny" weather-wise. Until June 20, he said, farmers were in reasonably good shape. Then a deluge of rain followed by a dry period made many farmers replant some fields.

Another series of heavy rains and another, longer drought again hampered crops. In the record books, however, it will go down as an average to wet year. He indicated about one inch more rain fell during the 1973 growing season compared with that in 1972.

Dry conditions in late September and October speeded late planted corn and soybeans toward maturity and pushed the growth of early planted winter wheat. Bortel said more winter wheat has been planted this year by area farmers than last year, but did not have figures to support the claim.

According to the Michigan Crop Reporting Service, about 87 per cent of the soybean acreage and 67 per cent of the grain corn acreage was harvested by Nov. 4, on a statewide basis.

1974 predictions continue to be cautiously optimistic, Bortel said. He said the jump in the price of fertilizer by $20 per ton, along with impending fuel shortages is placing a damper on the outlook.

"Time will tell the outlook on crops such as sugar beets," Bortel said. "Presently the outlook is somewhat optimistic but the fuel question is making farmers take a second look at the situation."

This year's fuel crisis at sugar processing plants in Caro and Sebawing placed the 1973 crop in jeopardy before finally being resolved.

Generally, Bortel said, the feeling among farmers is good with regard to this year and next year, primarily due to pricing.

"For the first time in a lot of years, farmers are able to keep their heads above water," Bortel commented. "They'd like to keep it going and don't want to see wholesale drops in commodity prices if they can help it."

BETTER HEALTH

New insights needed in alcoholism

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

I just read in an article in the American Medical News -- an article that should interest every American who is distressed over the terrible effects of chronic alcoholism, which ruins the life of many a man and woman, and their families.

Our sad experience years ago with prohibition showed how difficult the disease is to control with laws. Dr. Morris Chafetz, director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism says: "It is time we stopped blaming sick people for their own illness and our inability to provide appropriate treatment." He points out that alcoholism was officially recognized as a disease by the American Medical Association in 1956, yet more than half of our hospitals still will not admit patients whose primary diagnosis is alcoholism.

Much has been written about the widespread use of heroin and marijuana, but Dr. Chafetz agrees with what I have often said, that alcoholism is our greatest drug problem, and we have not made strenuous enough efforts to find ways of giving relief to these often terribly ill people.

I am glad to see that some efforts are now being made. For example, Major General Frank Clay, deputy assistant secretary of defense, reveals that the military is beginning to see results after their six-month attack on the tradition of the GI as "not only a hard fighter, but a hard drinker."

Many doctors today do not care to make an effort to treat an alcoholic patient, and have little idea of how to go about it. One problem in treatment is that an alcoholic is likely to want to hide from everyone, especially his doctor, the fact that he is drinking excessively. Also, the doctor may not want to confront him with his suspicions that the man is an alcoholic.

A while ago, Dr. Frank A. Seixas, wrote a fine article entitled "Treating Alcoholics: A Practical Program for Family Physicians" (Medical Times, July, 1971). It was filled with information and good suggestions on how an alcoholic can be helped.

He says, for example, that the person who is more likely to develop into an alcoholic is the one who can "drink his friends under the table" and can go for a number of years drinking large amounts of alcohol without marked effect.

Eventually, the person does begin to show changes in his behavior, such as irritability and irresponsibility, and in time, blackouts -- periods when he seems to be functioning normally, but which he cannot remember.

Dr. Seixas says that this is not "passing out" or being hazy or foggy after a number of drinks. During a blackout, a businessman may make business deals or sales, or perform other very complex activities, with absolutely no memory of having done so. Obviously, this can be dangerous.

By this time, the alcoholic will have "withdrawal symptoms" when he does not have alcohol in his body. These begin with anxiety and shaking eight to 12 hours after the last drink, and by 48 hours he may be having seizures and hallucinations. These may eventually become what we call DT's (delirium tremens), during which the person will have profound terror, confusion, anxiety, heart symptoms, and fever, along with the hallucinations.

I can see in my mind's eye the patients in the big city and county hospital in San Francisco where I worked as an intern -- men who came in with the DT's, and who would keep the ward in an uproar with their shouts and screams.

For a few minutes the patient might talk to me sensibly, and then suddenly he might make a leap and grab the ears of a nurse, or he might yell, "Look, look Doc: these fellows are piling burning brush on me -- for God's sake, help me!"

The alcoholic avoids these symptoms by taking another drink, and drinking becomes a necessity of life to avoid withdrawal symptoms. Families of alcoholics know to their sorrow what havoc the disease can wreak. Also, unless the alcoholic is stopped from drinking, he is likely to shorten his life by 12-15 years.

But as Dr. Seixas says, "Treating the alcoholic is like a recipe for rabbit stew: the first step is to catch the rabbit."

I am glad to read that efforts are being made to understand and to treat this terrible disease.

Fire damages Winter home

Fire did an estimated $6,000 damage to the partially constructed home of Marvin Winter on M-53 north of Cass City late Sunday night. The home, which was destroyed by fire last summer and had been partially rebuilt, sustained extensive smoke damage throughout.

According to Elkland Township Fire Chief Dick Root, the Gageton and Uby Fire Departments were called in to assist battling the blaze which worked its way along the chimney to the roof.

Firemen fought the fire for about two hours before finally bringing it under control.

Winter said he had started a fire in the fireplace to dry out fresh plaster in the house. He said after he returned to his house trailer parked next to the house, he heard a crackling sound, looked out and saw smoke.

The fire began around 11:30 p.m. No one was injured.

Caro woman injured in hunting mishap

A Caro woman became Tuscola county's first deer hunting accident victim Thursday morning when she was shot in the chest near her home on Ross Road.

Delores J. Wisenbach, 34, was shot with a slug from a 12-gauge shotgun. She was taken to Caro Community Hospital where she was treated and hospitalized.

The shooting, which was investigated by Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies, occurred at 7:50 a.m.

Banquet held

The second annual father-son banquet of the Good Shepherd Lutheran church was held Nov. 10 with about 60 persons attending.

Allen Witherspoon was master of ceremonies and helped with distribution of prizes to various winners. The banquet theme centered around St. Patrick's Day because the banquet was rescheduled from that day because of a snow-storm. Highlight of the program was the presentation of slides by John Graham of Caro of a trip he took to Germany. A buffet style meal was served by the Ladies Aid.

Move to bring back death penalty for murder

Electric chair, gas chamber, firing squad, hanging... Rep. Kirby Holmes, a Republican from Utica, says he hasn't figured out the method yet. But he wants execution for anyone convicted of murder "one" in Michigan.

Holmes, a conservative freshman legislator, started a petition drive aimed at putting the capital punishment question on the November 1974 general election ballot. That will take about 300,000 signatures, he says.

Holmes, who calls first-degree murder the "thinking man's murder", says it's invalid to point to statistics showing the death penalty is not a deterrent to murder. Those who are actually deterred by capital punishment threat just are not known, he contends.

On the other side, which will get a workout when and if Mr. Holmes and backers come up with the required signatures, is a group called the Michigan Committee Against Capital Punishment.

Chairing the group are two Lansing men who were instrumental in having capital punishment banned under Michigan's 1963 state constitution, attorneys Tom Down and Eugene Wanger. Wanger actually wrote the provision in the Michigan document.

Michigan is the first jurisdiction in the English-speaking world to ban the death penalty.

The last man to be executed by the state was Stephen Simmons, who stopped off at the Black Horse Tavern in the Detroit area one night, then went home and killed his wife.

Another man executed in-but not by-the state, was Anthony Chebatoris, put to death on the gallows at Milan for killing a truck driver. The execution was undertaken by federal officials.

The first man to sign a Holmes petition was conservative Michigan Congressman Robert Huber, a former state senator from Troy. It is too early to evaluate how successful this campaign will be.

A BOOK ABOUT JERRY FORD

Who'd be interested in a book about Gerald Ford?

Not many folks, until President Nixon tapped him for the vice president's seat.

So Michael Doyle of Michigan State University, an assistant director of alumni relations, figures himself lucky, indeed.

Doyle had the manuscript ready to go, complete with an introduction by the Grand Rapids Congressman, when the Nixon announcement was made. The book had been ready for some time--without any takers.

Called "Gerald Ford, Selected Speeches," the book is a compilation of Ford's views on political, foreign and domestic issues. It will be distributed in paperback soon--if it's not already available at the corner bookstore.

GUNS VS. UNITED FUND

Give the United Way? The Sportsman's Alliance of Michigan--SAM for short--said: don't do it. The group declared a moratorium on United Fund giving because of a national YWCA resolution supporting restrictive federal gun legislation.

Many reacted negatively to SAM.

Detroit News outdoors editor James A.O. Crowe, who says he'll put his track record up against anyone's in opposition to restrictive gun controls and confiscation of guns, contends the SAM resolution will do more harm than good to the group's cause.

And church officials at least in Central Michigan formally advised they support the right of every private organization to take a public stand on any social issue, and oppose all attempts to withhold support from any United Way agency due to "differences over the public stand of one member agency."

The "Y" nationally does not receive any UF contributions--while many other worthwhile organizations, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, for example, do.

It could be that SAM's pettiness can shoot down much more than the YWCA. And it might even injure itself, one of the inherent dangers when the uninitiated handle firearms. When it comes to situations in society, SAM should learn not to shoot with a shotgun so as to endanger everyone in the area, but with a rifle so there is a better chance of hitting the mark.

Winter's onslaught brings car starting problems for Michigan motorists

An estimated 50,000 Michigan motorists will be unable to start their cars the first time temperatures drop to five degrees above zero unless they take steps now to winterize their cars, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Robert Smith, Auto Club's Emergency Road Service manager, said weak batteries will be the chief cause for these "can't start" calls, adding that:

"Any motorist who begins the winter with a weak battery has two strikes against him before he turns the ignition switch."

Smith said poorly tuned engines, defective cooling and exhaust systems and worn tires and brakes are other common problems that drivers will face during the winter months.

To help motorists eliminate most of their winter driving headaches now, Auto Club has devised the following 10-point checklist for getting cars in peak cold weather condition:

1. Make sure your car battery is strong enough to meet the demands of winter.
- As the temperature drops, a battery's job becomes progressively harder. On a zero-degree morning, the average battery can deliver only 61 per cent of the power it has at 80 degrees. The engine it must start, however, offers almost 2 1/2 times more resistance.

A battery should be free from cracks and corrosion and must be able to carry a full charge.

2. Get an engine tune-up. A properly tuned engine is important for good battery performance. Dirty or worn spark plugs add strain on a battery since they need more electricity than new plugs. If points are worn, they cannot deliver peak power to plugs.

Tests also have shown that motorists can achieve considerable gas savings by having car engines well tuned.

3. Inspect the cooling system. This includes making sure your car has the proper amount of antifreeze to prevent freeze-ups. Replacing antifreeze annually helps prevent rust and corrosion in the radiator. Hoses, radiator and pressure cap should also be checked. The thermostat should be examined since if it is the wrong type for winter operation, motor damage and heater problems could result.

4. Check the exhaust system. A rusty or leaking muffler can be a carbon monoxide hazard.

5. Get an alternator or generator and voltage regulator check to prevent mid-winter electrical problems.

6. Have your car's automatic choke cleaned and adjusted for winter driving.
7. Check windshield equipment.

Worn and poorly working wiper blades cut winter visibility and should be replaced. Water in the windshield washer reserve bottle should have a winter solvent added to prevent freezing.

8. Change to a lightweight oil.
- A multi-weight 10W-30 is recommended since this thin oil eases the cranking resistance of the motor's moving parts on a cold morning.

9. Install snow tires where conditions demand.
10. Have a general safety check made, including inspection of brakes, headlights, tires and heating and defrosting units.

Auto Club also points out that air conditioners not equipped with a climate-control unit should be operated for at least five minutes a week in the winter-time. This permits lubrication and prevents vital parts from drying out.

Motorists also should remember to keep the gas tank as full as possible during cold weather to avoid water condensation in the gas tank.

On especially cold nights, a car should be parked in a garage or shelter. If an enclosure is not available, the vehicle should be parked with its rear to prevailing winds and its grille against a building.

Before starting a car, shut off headlights, radio, heater and other electricity-using accessories in order to minimize the drain on battery power.

"If motorists would take the various precautions we have outlined, the vast majority of wintertime vehicle starting problems would be eliminated," Smith said.

"Motorists who can't get their cars going on cold mornings usually have only themselves to blame," he added. "On the same day their cars won't budge, many others the same make and age are on the road because owners took the

Letter to the Editor

Proctor calls for clinic completion

Dear John,

The current layoff of hospital personnel is a crisis that should be of great concern to your readers. The patient load at the hospital has been below the breakeven point for much of 1973.

The citizens committee has been working for nearly a year to correct the problems. The new clinic building across from the hospital is only a part of the total effort. The office space for the needed physicians is critical to the healthy operations of our hospital. It is expected that Dr. Lee, an internal medicine and cardiac specialist from New York will be here within the next few weeks to begin practice.

A healthy hospital offers jobs, income, and health care. It is my hope that all will do their part and help make it happen.

Sincerely,
Tom Proctor,

 Of course you did.

It was a nice day Saturday... but not that nice. Four guys played golf at Gagetown. Three of them regained their senses and quit after four holes. The fourth, Lyle Guenther, Unionville, played the entire nine. No wonder he's one of the Thumb's better golfers.
 I watched from the clubhouse.

Small world department: Jim Ketchum wrote last week of the death of his uncle, Lawrence Ketchum, an expert locksmith who lived at Copemish, Mich.
 One of Lawrence's neighbors is the Ballards who learned of the death by reading it in the Chronicle.

At this moment there is no definite source of oil for the intermediate school building. Yet, I don't believe that the school will be forced to close.
 This is a prediction based on absolutely no facts at all. Call it man's intuition.

Cass City is down to one gas station that's open Sunday. Last Sunday it was Cass City Gulf. Naturally, the station was busy, busy, busy.
 You'd better not have car trouble on Sunday. After watching for awhile it's easy to see that there is no time for anything but gas pumping under today's conditions.
 Better decide to have car trouble only during the week.

If the government bans Sunday driving that problem will be solved. If the Sunday ban runs from 12 midnight Saturday to 12 midnight Sunday can't you see the big parade heading south every Monday morning at 12:01?

BUCK LUCK

Clem Koepf, Cass City, shot an eight-point buck at 7:00 a.m. Thursday near Argyle. He had been hunting about one hour.
 Chet Sieradzki, 18, Deford, bagged an eight-point buck Thursday, opening day, at 8:45 a.m. north of Cass City. It was his first buck and it weighed in at about 140 lbs.
 Chuck Stover, 14, Cass City, shot an eight-point buck while hunting west of Cass City at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, opening day. It was his first deer.
 Steven Zagorski, Caseville, shot a four-point buck at 7:15 a.m. Thursday, while hunting south of Deford.
 Joe Marchand, 19, Drayton Plains, bagged an eight-point buck while hunting in Greenleaf township Thursday morning. The deer, his first, was shot at 7:30 a.m. and weighed about 200 lbs.

ECHOES OF HISTORY

From all over the world people come to visit her at Plymouth Harbor. They speak in many tongues, but their tone of amazement is always the same. How did the Pilgrims do it? How did over 100 men, women and children exist in those cramped quarters and that 67-day voyage across the vast and treacherous Atlantic?
 A replica of Mayflower I, this small craft required a feat of seamanship even in these modern times, when she was sailed across the seas to Plymouth. But she is also sturdy and her decks echo with history.
 How did the Pilgrims do it? They had an overwhelming goal, great courage and most important of all, tremendous faith. They lived to offer thanksgiving—but as human and frail and frightened as any of us.
 A strong faith can be found in your church today. Consider it, won't you?

CATHY KERBYSON goes in for this shot while being guarded by Owen-Gage's Nancy Wissner. Owen-Gage went on to win the game 46-29 taking its second victory of the season over the Hawks.

Owen-Gage whips Cass City for second time

Owen-Gage made it two straight over the Cass City Girls' basketball team Wednesday night, handing them a 46-29 loss. Owen-Gage had previously beaten the girls Nov. 1, 47-33.

The girls were simply outplayed by the Owen-Gage girls, according to coach Kelly Maharg.
 For Cass City, Cathy Kerbyson, junior, made 11 points, while Melody Bacon, a senior, made eight points. Nancy Wissner, a junior, made six points and hauled down 15 rebounds in the losing effort.

Freshman Elaine Stoutenburg scored four points. Cass City's defense was below par, due to the illness of top defensive player Kelly Gee.

The JV team scored a 26-17 victory over Owen-Gage, highlighted by Lisa Zimba's nine points and Melame Kelly's five for the Hawks.
 Coach Maharg described play on both sides as slow. She added that the team never recovered from a triple overtime loss to Vassar Oct. 16.

The girls were scheduled to wind up their regular season Tuesday against that same Vassar team.

Keeping Noisy Pipes Quiet

Bothered by water hammer? If pipes slam or shudder when water is suddenly turned off, it may be because they have become lined up with hard water deposits.
 There are anti-hammer, shock-absorbing devices which can be installed on these pipes. Or, relief can be gained by fastening pipes to supports more securely, particularly where a pipe turns a corner.

CASS CITY'S FIRST lucky deer hunter this year was Clem Koepf of 5216 Severance Rd. (right). He bagged his eight-point buck while hunting near Argyle with Floyd Spencer of Deford (left). Koepf shot his deer at 7:00 a.m. Thursday.
