

Uncover second mammoth near Ubyly

Some 50 bones of pre-historic Jefferson Mammoth have been unearthed on the Leo Walsh farm on Cumber Road southeast of Ubyly in Austin township. The discovery was made around mid-October while Walsh was digging with a backhoe at a location just east of the farmhouse, intending to create a pond from a small ditch flowing through a field, he instead uncovered an object that appeared to be a large jawbone, including a few teeth. Walsh's son Rod, 18, a 1973 graduate of Ubyly High School, now working on the farm, took the bones to his former high school biology teacher for closer examination. The teacher, Mrs. Burr Evelevh, immediately contacted Don Weston, archaeologist who supervised the excavation of Jefferson Mammoth bones on the Dolan Sweeney farm in southern Huron county.

Weston, now living in Deckerville, identified the bones found on Walsh's farm as those of the gigantic mammoth. The jawbone recovered is considered by Weston to be one of the best ever found.

Last week, Weston, assisted by Bad Axe excavator Dave Baker, dug up several bones from the same location, bringing to 50 the number found to date.

Included are 29 ribs, the jawbone, a shoulder blade, six toes and two vertebrae. Weston said Monday the find strengthens his theory regarding the habits of the ancient animal. He is enthusiastic about additional bones of this animal still believed buried at the site on the Walsh farm.

Weston explained he is attempting to have the bones removed to Michigan State University where they would be properly cataloged, filed and photographed. Additionally, he is concerned that prolonged exposure to the air will badly crack and warp the remains.

"When we picked up some of these bones, the water just ran out of them," Weston said. "One bone, in fact, lost two pounds after we allowed it to dry a couple of days. So preservation is extremely important."

Weston said this was the first Jefferson Mammoth found in Sanilac county and produced some specimens surpassing those of the Sweeney mammoth first discovered in 1972.

He theorized the animal, as in the case of the mammoth on the Sweeney farm, broke through the ice of an ancient pond and drowned. Large amounts of pond sediment, shells and marl deposits were found with the bones from the Walsh farm.

Weston said about 10 per cent of the animal's skeleton has been found so far. He is still hopeful the tusks can be located when excavation resumes, probably not before next July.

Storage facilities for such a find are at a premium, according to Weston. Many dinosaur remains found in the Midwest have been left in the ground because they are easier to preserve.

A Port Huron museum has also requested the bones.

Weston said mammoth bones are turning up with increasing regularity in the area and said each find adds valuable information about the geological age in which they roamed the primitive Thumb area.

The Jefferson Mammoth lived between 8,000 and 12,000 years ago and stood from 12 to 14 feet high.

Weston said the bones should stay in the approximate area in which they were found. In this way, he added, something of the area's history could be preserved and maintained.

The area of this find has also yielded other geological discoveries. A few years ago, bones from a mastodon were found about two miles south of the Walsh discovery.

Walsh's younger son, Gordon, 9, was Weston's constant companion during the excavation operation. He has studied the specimens first hand and can identify many of them on sight. Until suitable storage facilities can be found, the bones are kept damp in order to prevent warping or cracking.

BONES OF A second Jefferson Mammoth were discovered recently on the Leo Walsh farm on Cumber Road in Austin township, southeast of Ubyly. Shown with some 50 of the remains are Gordon Walsh, 9, archaeologist Don Weston of Deckerville and Walsh, who discovered the bones while digging a pond on his farm.

Traffic toll reaches 27 as two die in separate mishaps

Two persons were killed in separate Tuscola county traffic accidents last week, bringing to 27 the number of persons to die on county highways in 1973.

Thursday, Ms. Grace Calahan, 29, of Vassar, died in a one-car mishap on Frankennuth Road, about one mile southwest of Vassar. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Another passenger in the car, Glenn Powers, 39, also of Vassar, was hospitalized in Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital. Ms. Calahan was originally identified as Grace Powers, but Tuscola county sheriff's deputies later determined a marriage license found with the couple proved to be void; according to a source in the sheriff's department.

Deputies said the driver of the car has not yet been determined. They said whoever was driving failed to negotiate a curve while traveling east on Frankennuth Road and ran off the north side of the pavement.

They said the car rolled over and came to rest 235 feet beyond the curve. Ms. Calahan was thrown from the auto. Her body was found 10 feet from the car. No skid marks were found on the pavement.

Vassar police assisted Tuscola deputies in their investigation. The mishap occurred at 10:55 p.m.

Sunday, Guillermo Flores, 25, of Reese, died when his car ran off Bradford Road and struck two culverts.

Tuscola deputies said Flores was headed north on Bradford Road when he ran off the east side of the pavement, striking the culverts. The vehicle traveled 300 feet before coming to rest.

Flores was dead on arrival at Caro Community Hospital. The mishap took place at 7:35 a.m.

CASS CITY ACCIDENT

No injuries resulted in a two-car accident Thursday afternoon involving a rural Cass City woman and an Owendale resident. Cars driven by Lois Kitchen, 52, of 4300 Green Rd., and Lawrence Rockefeller, 31, of Owendale, collided at the intersection of Church and West Streets.

Cass City police who investigated said the Kitchen vehicle was traveling west on Church Street and the Rockefeller auto was going south on West. Police said Rockefeller failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection, colliding with the Kitchen auto.

Rockefeller was ticketed for failure to stop for a stop sign. The accident occurred at 2:40 p.m.

Also Thursday, Cass City police ticketed a pair of drivers for drag racing on Main Street between Seeger and West. Police Chief Gene Wilson observed the two, Kenneth White and Andrew Parker, both of Cass City, traveling west between 40 and 50 miles per hour in a posted 25 mile-per-hour zone.

The incident occurred at 6:55 p.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Two other area accidents were reported to police last week. Friday, a car driven by Clarence Vannorman, 50, of Saginaw collided with a car driven by Patricia Adams, 16, of 4091 Crane Rd.

Tuscola county sheriff's deputies said the Adams' vehicle was headed west on M-81 and had stopped at the Crane Road intersection to make a left turn. She was struck from behind by the Vannorman auto. Ms. Adams was treated for injuries at Hills and Dales Hospital and released.

Vannorman told police he saw no tail-lights or turn signal operating on the Adams auto at the time of the mishap. A check of the auto by deputies showed the lights operable.

No ticket was issued. The accident occurred at 5:40 p.m. Saturday, a Lexington man struck and killed a deer while traveling east on M-81 just west of Greenland Road.

William Rickermann, 34, told Tuscola deputies the deer ran from the south side of the road into his vehicle. He was not injured in the mishap which occurred at 9:00 p.m.

Owen-Gage bond issue goes down to defeat, 414-292

Voters in the Owendale-Gagetown School District turned down a proposed $2.66 million bond issue to construct a new junior-senior high school building Monday by a four-to-three margin.

A total of 711 votes was cast in the special election, with 414 no against 292 yes and five spoiled ballots. Superintendent Glen Sanford assessed the results and indicated the board of education will discuss the results of the vote and possible alternatives at its regularly scheduled meeting next Monday.

The building would have housed grades seven through 12 and been located about midway between Owendale and Gagetown.

"What happens next is anybody's guess," Sanford said Tuesday. "We do not have a next step ready and more than likely we'll sit on it for a while and try to take the public's pulse before proceeding."

He indicated the board will attempt to make serious recommendations no later than its January meeting. He added the hope that another proposal of some sort would be ready for voters before the present school year expires.

Sanford said he has not had time to analyze the vote, but added he is disappointed with the turnout. He had expected at least 900 voters to cast ballots. Total number of voters in the district is about 1,200.

Commenting on the vote results, Sanford said again the board knows what Owen-Gage voters don't want.

"What they do want is beyond me right now," he said. "But now that's our job—to find out what they want."

He discussed the possible alternatives facing the district as a result of Monday's election. He indicated the district could continue as it presently operates, it could seek to merge as a whole with another district or it could dissolve.

"I'm still convinced we can survive," Sanford added.

The future operation of Cass City's sanitary landfill came under discussion Thursday when representatives of the Department of Natural Resources, the Thumb District Health Department and township supervisors from Ellington, Elkland and Novesta met at the Municipal Building.

The consensus reached appeared to place emphasis on the continued use of the present landfill site rather than become a part of the proposed county-wide landfill presently under study. However, all agreed that joining the county disposal system could not be ruled out at some future date.

Present for the meeting were Supervisor Fred Bardwell and Trustee Bill Thomlinson of Ellington township, Supervisors Gail Parrott of Novesta, Edwin Karr of Elkland and Supt. Lou LaPonsie and Trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson, representing Cass City. Also present was County Commissioner Maynard McConkey.

They discussed the future of the landfill with Edward Kimbrue, sanitarian of the Thumb District Health Dept., William Walden, DNR geologist, and Rod Mosier, DNR environmental sanitarian.

Kimbrue prefaced the meeting by saying Cass City's landfill site looks good and the only problem with it seems to be in the area of operating procedures. He said criteria for landfills has grown tighter in recent years due to a greater emphasis on geological aspects.

He said the Cass City site has heavier soils than in many parts of the county and probably the best for the three townships served by it. He added that, while any landfill site can operate if it meets state criteria, Cass City's is presently the only one which comes close.

"Most townships we have contacted in the county have given a commitment to go with a county-wide plan," Kimbrue said. "They have done so even though no county plan is yet a reality. We are looking at a target date of next fall to begin operating a one-site facility."

He added that, apparently, the three townships involved in the Cass City site plan to stay committed to it.

Kimbrue reviewed the planning that went into the final decision for the county to go with a one-site instead of a three-site plan as originally proposed, and said one site will bring a disposal of $1.43 per ton of refuse instead of the $5 per ton with three sites.

Cass City's landfill license is currently up for renewal and Supt. LaPonsie pressed the DNR officials for criteria needed to renew.

Mosier explained two major problems which stand in the way of renewal. One problem involves a lack of adequate compaction and trenching at the site. He said a ramping effect on the trench would solve the problem and make more efficient use of the acreage available.

A second problem involves the burning of materials other than trees, brush and stumps. State law forbids burning of such items as tires, wooden pallets and other wood material. These have to be buried along with other trash.

When pressed, Mosier said the lack of ramping would keep the facility from being relicensed.

Dr. Rawson interjected that the village has attempted to meet criteria and said village council had not been advised of any changes that had to be made.

"We are trying to do the best job we can," Rawson said. "and we think we are being as clean about it as we can. We are willing to comply with state requests, but if we're going to keep being pressured into doing things to keep our license, then we should consider going to the county."

He added there was no use in trying to maintain a landfill if the village were going to be "heckled" with new regulations constantly.

"We need to know exactly where we stand," he said.

Mosier replied that there was no harassment involved, that the landfill site is a good one and that requirements would be made known.

"It makes no difference to us whether you keep the landfill or go with the county," Mosier said. "It's up to you."

Dr. Rawson replied that the village is interested in studying the county-wide proposal but as long as the present facility is usable, the village would like to continue it.

Walden replied this was perfectly acceptable if this is what the village wanted. Commr. McConkey said the county is not excited about getting into the landfill business and saw nothing wrong with the Cass City landfill continuing to function.

The DNR officials said a new license could either be had now under the stipulation that required changes be made or it could wait until the changes are made.

Dr. Rawson suggested that this might be a veiled threat and said the village did not want harassment used in the matter.

Stipulations specifically spelled out would change trenching techniques, would keep brush, trees and stumps from other material and would involve more soil borings into areas not yet used at the site.

The three townships expressed a willingness to continue the present usage arrangement. Supervisor Gail Parrott of Novesta township said without it, Novesta could not operate its own landfill.

Supervisor Bardwell expressed concern over the problem of keeping the old Ellington landfill closed to dumping. He told DNR officials two fences surrounding the former site have been torn down since it was closed in 1967, one woven wire and one barbed wire enclosure.

He said the problem is easing, but occasionally, junk is still found at the site.

Mosier suggested tighter policing of the area. He said a bill currently in the legislature would allow prosecution of anyone whose junk was found in an unauthorized or closed landfill.

Bardwell also questioned why the push to close township dumps has come so quickly.

Kimbrue replied that previously, although the law said non-complying landfills were to be closed, there was no alternative to other townships. Now, he added, there will be an alternative in the form of the one-site, county-wide landfill.

"What good would closing 27 landfill sites in Tuscola county have done with no alternative?" Kimbrue said. "If I had enforced the law, I would have created more of a hassle than existed before."

The present Cass City site comprises 40 acres, five of which is currently in use. LaPonsie said this would be adequate for the foreseeable future. He added that the village is aware that a portion of the site is not usable near Cemetery Road.

Mosier said the last complaint he received regarding the landfill was in 1970 from a Cass City real estate broker who asked what it might take to close the site.

Dr. Rawson reminded the group it took 10 years to find the present site and it has been operated "as well as we can operate it."

Mosier said a rule of thumb regarding landfill operation states that usage rates generally run at one acre per year per 10,000 persons. This does not include industrial concerns.

McConkey brought up recycling as an answer to the refuse problem. Kimbrue said a one-site, county-wide landfill lends itself to recycling more readily than three or more sites, economically.

Police report 3 area auto thefts

Three separate auto thefts were reported to Cass City Police and Tuscola county Sheriff's deputies Sunday. As of Tuesday, two of the vehicles had been found, one in Wyandotte.

Barb Geister, 6466 Seventh St., reported to Cass City Police that her car, which had been parked in front of her home, was stolen sometime between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 4:40 a.m. Sunday.

She told police the car was not locked but the keys were not in the vehicle. She said she happened to glance out a window before dawn and discovered the theft.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said Tuesday Ms. Geister's car was recovered in Wyandotte Monday. Police have no suspects at this time and the investigation continues.

Tuscola county sheriff's deputies received two auto theft reports early Sunday morning. At 2:30 a.m., deputies investigated the theft of a car belonging to William L. Götter, 3673 Ross Rd., Kingston.

Götter told officers he parked the car in front of his residence with the keys in it and left around 8:00 p.m. Saturday. When he returned at 2:30 a.m., the car was gone.

Subsequent investigation turned up the missing vehicle in a ditch nearby. The vehicle had not been damaged.

At 4:10 a.m., Larry Forbush, 1289 S. Cemetery Rd., Deford, reported his car stolen from his residence. He told deputies he left his residence around 6:00 p.m. Saturday and when he returned at 3:30 a.m. Sunday, the auto was missing.

Officers searched along Cemetery Road from Forbush's residence to Cass City, but failed to recover the auto. Forbush said he had no idea who might have taken the car because he only recently moved to the area.

The keys were not in the auto at the time of the theft.

Sheriff's officers are investigating the possibility of a connection in the three thefts and suspect perhaps youths are involved.

THEATRE VANDALISM

Cass City Police report three juveniles were apprehended Saturday in connection with vandalism at the Cass Theatre. Police apprehended the youths and turned them over to their parents.

The boys were accused of shooting BB's inside the theatre, causing considerable property damage. Theatre manager Dick Hendrick declined to elaborate and said final costs have not yet been determined. The incident occurred Friday night.

MAILBOX DESTRUCTION

Thursday, George Eilisen, of East Deckerville Road, reported all mailboxes in his immediate area were torn down and a road sign had been removed and thrown in a nearby creek.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The crisis has been averted. . . at least temporarily. Supt. Donald Crouse reports that 8,000 gallons of number four fuel oil has been delivered to the Intermediate School. That's enough for about a month.

Sorry kids, no extended Christmas vacation.

Fred Leeson reports he ran a test on highway speeds a week or so ago. He set the speedometer at 50 and settled back at that speed on his way to work in Saginaw.

The result: every car on the road passed him and he never passed a single vehicle.

Most of the rest of us can confirm Fred's experiences.

Another month and it will be like it always existed. But there have been moments in the shakedown of the new traffic signal at Rose and Seeger Streets.

It started when the light first arrived. It was broken. After it was repaired and erected, Chief Gene Wilson reported that he stopped an average of six motorists a day for failing to heed the signal.

Those violations are diminishing rapidly, says Wilson. It's a rare day now when a motorist does like one local lady did recently. She drove through the red light, realized the mistake, stopped after driving through the intersection and then started travelling again.

Despite these incidents, the new light appears to be valuable traffic control when the buses are coming and going and is well accepted by the community.

Hello again. The Chronicle returns to full size this week. . . and hopefully every week from now on.

We expect to be able to continue with our traditional format but we can't guarantee it. We've been able to publish full size by going to two printers for paper. . . an expensive proposition.

We hope to be able to return to one supplier early next year as the paper situation eases a little.

Regardless, one way or another, one size or another, we'll have a paper every week.

General Telephone was plenty naive when it thought that it could keep secret the way to dial five numbers locally instead of the suggested seven numbers.

I say naive for a couple of reasons. One, you can't keep a secret in a small town. Two, any bunch of kids smart enough to circumvent pay phones by jiggling the hook to complete local calls without using a coin can be expected to find out about a simple number switch almost before the announcement is completed.

But G-T could have the last laugh. G-T's Jim Courtney says the number now being used in place of 2 is used for party lines. It won't be long before dialing this number won't work either, he reports.

It's astonishing, says the awed Jim who moved to town from the city, just how fast that new number got around town. As a communications expert you'd think that genial Jim would know that there is one communication wave length that heats the phone all hollow for speed and is alive and kicking in every small town.

400 additional lines

Gen-Tel adds new equipment

Additional Central Office equipment has been added to the Cass City Central Office, according to J. E. Courtney, Customer Service Manager for General Telephone Company.

Courtney stated that the addition consisted of 400 lines and 200 regular terminals as well as 100 rotary terminals. This $67,121 equipment addition was necessary to meet the increased growth in the Cass City exchange as well as to meeting the present customer demands for more private lines and additional telephone services.

Courtney explained that one piece of line equipment is necessary for each line in use, either a private line, 2 party, 4 party, or suburban line. Line equipment is the piece of equipment which gives a dial tone when the telephone receiver is lifted.

The second type of equipment added was 200 terminals. Terminal equipment is that apparatus which makes the final connection between the calling and called party. The connection is required for each telephone number.

The third type of equipment added was 100 rotary terminals. Additional rotary terminals are used with business rotary service. This service is for customers who have more than one telephone number. If the first line is busy the call automatically goes to the second line and so on.

These Central office additions are part of General Telephone's continuing service improvement program to insure the best possible service to our customers in the Cass City exchange, Courtney said.

He told Tuscola deputies Tuesday night, Nov. 27, his mailbox had been stolen and two gates on fences along Decker Road had been opened. Additionally, someone had driven through his wheatfield.

Investigation turned up a mailbox belonging to a resident of Shabbona Road. The box was returned. No other mailboxes or signs have been recovered. The investigation continues.

GAGE TOWN INCIDENT

Deputies investigated a report that someone had poured sugar into the gasoline tanks of two vehicles belonging to James Gray, 4856 State St., Gagetown.

Mrs. Gray told officers she noticed the car running poorly Sunday morning as she was taking her children to church and when she returned home, her husband checked the gas tank, finding sugar residue on the cap.

Another vehicle was also hit by the culprits. Other vehicles in the area were not found damaged.

Police have no suspects in the case.

ASSAULT

Also Sunday, deputies investigated a reported assault of a rural Cass City man who had stepped out onto his porch to check a car which had pulled into his driveway.

Wesley Clyne, 40, of 5315 Hurdis Corner Rd., told deputies he was struck as he stepped from the doorway onto the porch. Reportedly the suspect then fled. No reason was given for the assault.

Deputies have closed the case pending further developments.

Seek summary lawsuit judgement

A motion for a summary judgement in a lawsuit involving Peoples State Bank of Caro and persons from East Tawas was filed Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court before Judge Norman Baguley.

Baguley continued a ruling on the judgement for two weeks. The suit involves a $27,750 claim against Roger and Judith McIntosh and Donald and Ellawase Fray, all of East Tawas.

The bank charges the four borrowed $35,000 on a promissory note in June of 1969 at its Caro office and failed to meet the obligation of the note. They charge only $7,500 has been repaid.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

If Monday had been a day in April instead of December we'd all be turning to the golf clubs, the yard rake, the baseball glove, the fishing rod. But since that glorious day Monday comes in December you know it's not for real. You don't believe. Winter is upon us.

Instead of rejoicing about the day that in the spring is a harbinger of the summer to come, now a day like that brings an uneasy feeling that it's simply a trap to lure us while winter lurks furtively in the wings storing up its raging fury to make us pay for a day that shouldn't be. Not in December.

I've got no confidence in 60 degree weather now.

I get that same feeling when I hear Mr. Nixon say that gas rationing will come only as a last resort. That feeling grows when he says that if we tighten our belts and turn down our thermostats we can lick this thing together.

For me, and for millions of Americans, it is fall, not spring, when the president promises us, promises us, promises us.

In fact when I think of gas rationing, at all I get an uneasy feeling that it's all a rip off. A method for the politicians to get off the hook.

There aren't many who will commit political hari-kari by allowing the price to rocket with a special tax.

That system could work, could solve the shortage. The only way to really conserve gas is to make it more expensive to use.

The more it costs, the more careful everyone will be using it.

$1.00 per gallon of gas isn't very pleasant. But it's more pleasant than the thought of trying to regulate the sale of gas across this country. The problems are staggering. The results predictable. Black markets, unfair distribution. Under the table purchases. A horrible mess.

Like most of you, I don't feel that I know just what this crisis is all about. How big it is. How real.

Despite everything I've heard the nagging thought persists that if the price were allowed to jump wherever the oil cartels would like to see it, the shortage would be very short lived.

For tomorrow there is no doubt that we need to utilize other forms of energy.

For today if the price were boosted enough so that it would be more profitable to sell the oil at home than abroad we'd be home free.

All these other alternatives are like a 60 degree day in December. . . wonder to live with but one we know we'll pay for before winter is over.

Women's Council

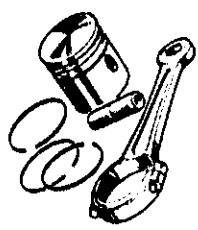

meets Dec. 3

The St. Pancratius Women's Council met Monday, Dec. 3. Following the meeting, the annual Christmas party with exchange of gifts was held.

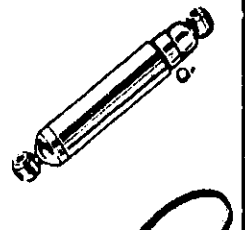

Nina Davis showed slides of her recent trip to Italy.

The drawing for a quilt and pillowcase was also held. Margaret Bliss won the quilt and Karen Osentoski, the pillowcases.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Get off that phone!

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Ma Bell says use the phone for fun and games. But Ann Landers says husbands should phone if they are going to be late for dinner.

You can't have both. Which is why grown husbands sob a lot, and pound nails into bachelors.

You've seen those TV commercials for Bell. Mrs. Beautiful is reminiscing about an old friend who moved to Yugoslavia 42 years ago. Mr. Beautiful says why not call her up and wish her Happy Tuesday. Then comes the miracle of direct dialing as performed only on TV where there are no wrong numbers and the person you call is always home, sitting by the phone, wondering why you haven't phoned in 42 years.

When it comes to phones, I am an admitted male chauvinist hog. Women talk on the phone for hours, saying nothing. Men use the phone only as a business tool, or to set up a poker game. The average phone conversation between males lasts 15 seconds. The average length of a female-to-female call can't be computed because they haven't hung up yet.

I do not know why it is that women enjoy long talks on the phone, and men hate them. Wives will tell you they must phone each other because their husbands never talk to them. Wives are always saying nonsense like that. The last time I tried to talk to my wife, she shushed me because she heard a phone-ringing. It was next door, but she answered it anyway. I don't know who was calling because she hasn't returned home yet.

Oh yes, I exaggerate a bit. But what about Ma Bell? Is there a more gigantic exaggeration than to come on TV and even hint that a husband would encourage his wife to make whimsical phone calls? Incredible. This would be the same as encouraging a glutton to eat, or an alcoholic to drink. No husband is that dumb. Whatever happened to truth in advertising?

You are wondering what turned me on so hard. I will tell you. At the last minute the other afternoon, I discovered pressing duties would keep me at my desk beyond the dinner hour. Ann Landers says a prime fracter of marriages is the man who never phones to say he'll be late. So I dialed. Busy signal.

You know the rest. 45 minutes later I was still dialing for naught. Oh my. There is nothing more exasperating than wanting to tell your wife you are going to kill her but not being able to because she WON'T GET OFF THE LOUSY PHONE!

After an hour of busy signals, I crumpled on the floor, racked with sobs, cursing both my wife and that stupid Ann Landers. A fellow employee asked me what was wrong. I punched him in the mouth. He is a bachelor.

When I got home, my wife was just hanging up. She asked me why I was late for dinner. I started to cry again.

Onward and upward.

Dena McDonald

Dear Santa,
What color is your bedroom. I have tried to be good. I want a horse, stuffed kite and dog. I will leave you cookies and milk.

Love, Dena McDonald
Owendale, Mich.

Dear Santa, I am 7 years old and in the second grade. I have been fairly good once in a while I get naughty. I would like a doll, Baby Alive, and a rabbit that says what's up Doc if you have any. If you have any puppet dolls I would like one, a doll bed, Snoopy tooth brush, sewing machine without a needle, a Barbie doll camping truck, some games. Thank you.

Paul and Andrea Damm

Dear Santa,
We are not always good little boys, but we try to be! We are not asking for anything for ourself this year, Jesus has given us a new mommie and daddy and a warm home with lots of love, and we thank Him. We would like you to give all the poor little boys a gift, and if you could stop at Rev. Gelatts house and give him a kiss for us, it would make us real happy! Thank you.

Paul and Andrea Damm

Dear Santa:
I am 2 yrs. old. I have been a good boy most of the time. Please bring me a tractor and a toy record player. My mom says to bring me some clothes too. And Santa don't forget my sister Pam. She's only 1 yr. old. Would you please bring her a doll? I love you.

Thank you Santa

Timmy Stoll

Dear Santa,
I have been a good boy. I really want a new sled, and a pair of Roller Skates. I'd like an Alarm Clock too.

Thank you, Santa.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

I get letters

By Jim Ketchum

I received a letter in the mail, addressed to me from William F. Buckley Jr., editor of that paragon of conservatism, the National Review, which lends itself as a forum for some of the best political theories the 19th century ever produced.

I knew it was meant for my reading because it began, "Dear Intelligent American" and carried a photo of Mr. Buckley, characteristically gesturing with a cigar in his hand and, no doubt taking pride in his lack of liberal sideburns.

The letter asked me if I would be so kind as to return an enclosed card to try his political journal at X number of weeks for X number of dollars. He got the hard sell out of the way and then switched to soft sell.

He told me, strictly as a friend, that he really didn't want to peddle his periodical in that kind of manner but "experts" in the business (bubble-headed liberals, no doubt) said that this was the way to sell.

He went on to say he really didn't believe this was so. He said Americans are sick of so-called bargains and wanted the truth about their world. Mr. Buckley sighs, however, that he at long last must "try my hand at the quintessential no-sell letter," adding that he will knock off the business about how much I'd like his magazine.

He concludes by saying if I don't like the magazine, by all means, don't renew.

"I wouldn't, except for professional reasons, read anything that didn't interest me," concludes Mr. Buckley.

At first, this took me some what aback. Why should Mr. Buckley write to me, a reporter toiling in the midst of smalltown America? The obvious answer was to sell magazines.

But the august Mr. Buckley writing to me? Fantastic. And to think he knew me—Intelligent American—out of sight!

I grabbed for a pen and nearly began to check the appropriate box on the card when I caught a note on the far right side that ended my enthusiasm.

It was a note from none other than John Wayne, making the pitch for the magazine. "If you know of a magazine in America today with more guts, you tell me about it."

The thought of John Wayne sitting on a horse, his feet propped up on the saddle, devouring a copy of National Review as the sun glints off his twin Smith and Wesson revolvers.

ers, his chaps flapping in the breeze, destroyed the entire pitch.

The note adds that the Duke tells his friends to read the periodical because it is the kind an honest man should read. This message is conveyed, no doubt at the threat of great bodily harm or the loss of one eye.

Instead of singing to his horse, the Duke probably reads salient portions of the magazine to his trusty steed, emphasizing the up-to-the-minute Buckley philosophy which asks, "Are We Losing Russia to the Communists?" "Bailing in Oil-New Strides in Capital Punishment" or "Are We Forgetting Our War of 1812 veterans?"

Personally, to answer Mr. Wayne's question, I do know a magazine with more guts than National Review.

It's called Mad; it runs no advertising and has one of the largest circulations in the country. There's a magazine I'll be happy to endorse.

Former Cass City

resident dies in

Pontiac accident

Funeral services for Roy McCalin, 73, of Pontiac, a former Cass City resident and nephew of Charles McCalin and the late Mrs. Lucy Seeger, were held Friday at Pontiac, Mich. burial was at Troy.

Mr. McCalin was killed Nov. 23 in a two-car accident at the intersection of Uplake and Auburn Rd. The driver of the other car, who was also killed, ran a red light.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes; one sister, Mrs. Esther Franklin, and two brothers, Ray and Carl McCalin.

Son of the late Fred and Ina Hartwick McCalin, he was born March 2, 1900.

Mrs. Theda Seeger attended the funeral.

ELKLAND TOWNSHIP NOTICE

To all property owners and renters within Elkland Township

- As you no doubt heard our Michigan legislature passed, and Governor Milliken signed into law the so called "circuit breaker" property tax relief, known as Act 20. With this law all property owners and renters are eligible for tax relief. Those who pay state income tax will be given credit for that portion of tax for which they qualify.
- Disabled veterans will have their forms completed by county V.A. administrator. Those who receive blind exemptions can get help from local assessors.
- Those who qualify for senior citizen eligibility get additional exemptions. To qualify for this you must be 65 years of age or have a spouse 65 years of age or older or be a widow or widower of a spouse who was 65 years of age or older at time of death.
- To assist senior citizens in preparing their forms the township office (fire hall) will be open on Dec. 10 and Dec. 17 from 10 in the morning to 4 in the afternoon. We have the forms for you; if you want help you must bring with you, your tax bill, your social security number and a total of your income for 1973.
- If you file a state income tax statement you will have to see your tax consultant as we are not qualified to do this work.
- By filing this form and sending it in during December you should receive your check in time to pay 1973 property tax.
- Farmers who live and farm their land can use total tax bill on that description in their computation; others who own and live on their farm can use only that portion which is one acre and their home. See supervisor for a break-down on this property.
- Renters may use 17% of total rent paid as a tax base and those who rent space in a trailer park may use the 3 dollars per month (36 dollars a year) as a tax base.

Remember: Senior Citizens Dec. 10 and Dec. 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Fire Hall. Others who have questions may also come in.

Mrs. Olsow, 68, dies Tuesday in Cass City

Mrs. Ruth Olsow, 68, died Tuesday, Nov. 27, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Olsow was born in Argyle, Nov. 22, 1905, the daughter of the late Philip and Theresa Herdell Kritzman. She married Andrew J. Olsow in Argyle, Nov. 18, 1924. They came to Cass City from Freiburg, Mich., in 1929, where she lived until her death.

She is survived by her husband, Andrew; one daughter, Mrs. Norman (Josephine) Gray of Cass City; two sons, Andrew Jr. of Gagetown and Philip of Cass City; two grandchildren, Philip Gray of Cass City and Cathy Olsow of Gagetown, and three sisters, Mrs. William Eckenswiler of Port Huron, Mrs. William Ernest of Saginaw and Mrs. Charles Hamilton of Mayville. One brother preceded her in death.

Mrs. Olsow had been a member of St. Pancratius Catholic Church of Cass City since 1939. She was also a member of the St. Pancratius Altar Society.

Wake services were held Friday from Little's Funeral Home.

Mass was said by Rev. Fr. Leo Gengler Saturday from St. Pancratius Catholic Church. Interment was in Freiburg cemetery, Austin township.

The man who is smart enough to ask his friends for advice very seldom needs it.

Your neighbor says My shopping's done

It's that time of year again -- time to start the annual Christmas shopping trips through as many stores as it takes to find just the right gift for each person on your list.

For some, it's the season of procrastination, with frantic trips to the store on Christmas Eve.

For others, like Dave Ackerman of 4677 Kennebec Dr., Christmas shopping is nearly complete.

"We like to do our shopping over the Thanksgiving holiday," Ackerman says. "We usually find a better selection of items and occasionally you can get a pretty good bargain."

Ackerman, who has taught history at Cass City High School the last 33 years, agrees that merchants may be pushing the season a little too much too soon, but it does allow for un-crowded shopping. "I don't particularly like the large crowds later in the season," he says.

The Ackermans have four children and six grandchildren.

Hold services Friday for Mrs. Bresky

Mrs. Helen Bresky, 83, died at Provincial House in Cass City Tuesday, Nov. 27, where she had been a patient the past three weeks.

Mrs. Bresky was born July 1, 1890, in Port Austin, the daughter of the late Joseph and Ann Lesoski.

She married Joseph Bresky in Detroit, Nov. 15, 1912, where they made their home following their marriage. They came to Cass City in 1947, from Port Austin, where she lived until her death.

Mr. Bresky died January 1, 1957.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Angeline Shay of Walpole Lake; five sons, Anthony of St. Clair Shores, Bruno of Cass City, William of Port Hope, Edward of Filion and John of West Branch; 14 grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

One daughter, one brother and five sisters preceded her in death.

Wake services were held Thursday evening at Little's Funeral Home.

Mass was said by Rev. Fr. Donald Christensen from St. Pateratus Catholic Church Friday.

Interment was in St. Michael's cemetery, Port Austin.

Huron County to hold free clinic in Gagetown

The Huron County Special Education office will sponsor a walk-in clinic Dec. 7, in the basement of the Gagetown Methodist Church from 1:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The clinic will provide specialists in a number of problem areas, including physical, speech, hearing, visual, social or emotional problems.

Specialists will be present to meet individually with families to discuss sources of help, including financial assistance needed to help their child. All contacts made at the clinic will be confidential and individual.

No appointment need be made and there will be no cost. Any child or adult needing help need not necessarily be brought to the clinic, according to Alice Fierke of the Huron Special Services office in Bad Axe.

Those wishing help but who are unable to come to the clinic may telephone the Huron County Special Services office in Bad Axe at 269-7192.

A similar clinic will also be held the same day in the Pigeon First United Methodist Church from 9:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Pvt. Bean completes army basic training

Army Private Kenneth H. Bean, son of Mrs. Dorothy P. Damoth, 6729 Third St., completed eight weeks of basic training at the U. S. Army Training Center, Armor, Ft. Knox, Ky.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

BETTER HEALTH

Painless weight loss de-bunked

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

It is always distressing to the rest of the medical profession when one of their members turns up as a widely publicized evangelist with a surefire, new treatment for some common medical problem that conventional doctors seem unable to deal with.

It is particularly distressing when the new treatment flies in the face of accepted practice, as it usually does. It is even worse when the public takes up a new treatment with enthusiasm.

A case in point is the question of painless weight loss, which every year or so is heralded in a best-selling book that says in effect that you can eat all you want and grow thin.

The most recent "miraculous diet" book by Dr. Robert Atkins of New York, is said to have sold over 600,000 copies within six months of publication. The title of the book, "Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution," surely numbs the sensibilities of a profession given to understatement, but I suspect Dr. Atkins' sensibilities are somewhat numbed as well, now that his book is a runaway best seller.

It calls to mind 19th-century, patent-medicine advertisements with such permissive titles as "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Favorite Prescription for Weak Women."

Even so, hundreds of thousands of people are reading this book and presumably following his instructions, which are essentially to eat practically no carbohydrates (sugar, flour, etc.) and lots of fat (butter, cream, drippings, etc.).

This diet is designed to "acidify" the system with "ketone bodies," which pile up in the blood as a result of the incomplete metabolism of fats.

The situation is surely precarious, if not ultimately dangerous, for many people. Ketosis can cause nausea, vomiting and sluggishness. If there is underlying kidney disease, it can produce kidney failure.

Specialists have risen up to condemn his diet, but Dr. Atkins insists that he has records of 10,000 overweight patients, which attest to its effectiveness and its failure to result in the disasters predicted by his critics. He has not, however, published his material in a medical journal for professional scrutiny.

The emphasis on fat in Dr. Atkins' diet also raises the question of the danger of pushing up the blood levels of cholesterol and triglycerides which, much evidence suggests, play a significant part in precipitating heart attacks.

Dr. Atkins asserts that many people on his diet actually find that their blood fats diminish.

His critics are skeptical but, at least for the present moment, it is Dr. Atkins who is being listened to by the general public.

There is a precedent for a doctor who places himself in the role of the innovator pleading his case over the heads of his timorous (by inference), jealous, or less well-informed colleagues. Much of the public wants to believe that the establishment has ulterior motives, and so the public cheers for the underdog who fights the fight for them, especially, of course, if he seems to be "telling" them what they want to hear.

Perhaps you know the story of the great German doctor, Semmelweis, who was ridiculed in the 19th century because he insisted that childbed fever was caused by the habit of the attending obstetricians of his day to deliver babies without bothering to wash their hands.

In time, he was proved to be correct in his assertion, but he was so bedeviled by his skeptical colleagues that he went insane and never recovered. He remains to this day the symbol of the unappreciated prophet, hounded to madness by his peers.

The story continues to provide what latter-day sociologists call a "roll model" for every crank who launches himself as a medical evangelist.

But fads will surely continue to come and go. Before the Atkins revolution we had the drinking man's diet, the Mayo Clinic diet (no relation, incidentally, to the famous clinic of that name in Rochester, Minn.), the grapefruit diet, the banana and milk diet, the hard-boiled egg diet, the meat and cottage cheese diet, the Stillman diet and heaven knows how many more. So take heart -- this "revolution" too will soon pass.

Mrs. Greenwood, 36, dies Sunday in Pigeon

Mrs. Sally Ann Greenwood, 36, died at Scheurer Hospital, Pigeon, Sunday, Dec. 2, after a long illness.

Mrs. Greenwood was born in Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 23, 1937, daughter of the late William Griffith and Mrs. Donna Stevens Wernette. She came to Cass City in 1946.

She married Richard Greenwood in Cass City Sept. 24, 1955. Following their marriage, they made their home in Cass City where she lived until her death.

Mrs. Greenwood was a member of the Cass City Church of Christ.

She is survived by her husband, Richard; one daughter, Nancy, and one son, James, both at home; three sisters, Mrs. Jerry Elmqvist of California, Mrs. John Georgekakis of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Gary Silvernail of Saginaw; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wernette of Cass City, and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. R.E. Stevens of Cass City. One brother preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held from Little's Funeral Home Tuesday with Andrew Eubank of the Cass City Church of Christ officiating.

Interment was in Elkland cemetery.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

The board of directors of the Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library made its pitch for an estimated $36,000 for a new building Tuesday night, Nov. 26, at the Municipal Building.

Hope dimmed Tuesday night for early action regarding street lights on Kennebec Drive. The earliest lights can now be installed is mid-1966.

The final meeting of the traditionally organized Board of Supervisors for Tuscola county was held Tuesday at the Court House and the board made its swan song a lengthy one.

Postmaster Grant Glaspie announced holiday postal hours this week. The post office windows will be open Saturday, Dec. 14 and 21, until 5:00 p.m.

The Hawks opened their basketball season with a 51-46 win over Vassar at Vassar Tuesday night.

TEN YEARS AGO

The first step that could end in a march to a new fire department building and equipment for Elkland Township Fire Department was taken Monday night in a meeting at the Cass

City Municipal Building.

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce is plugging for a ban on the burning of trash in alleys.

An opinion of the Michigan Municipal League has thrown a monkey wrench into plans of the Cass City Village Council for curb and gutter of Third Street next year.

An exploding oil tank thwarted efforts of Cass City firemen to put out an estimated $20,000 fire Sunday which leveled a Deford home and left a family of six without shelter, food or clothing. Destroyed in the inferno were the entire belongings of the Lyle Roach family.

A skeleton found Monday near Vassar has been tentatively identified by the Tuscola county sheriff's office as that of a 74-year-old Kingston man missing since 1959.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Some 70 persons attended the kickoff dinner of the Elkland Township Community Chest held Monday evening at the high school auditorium.

The board of directors of the Tuscola County Dairy Herd Improvement Association will meet in the court house at 1:30

Christmas vacation at the Cass City Public Schools begins Thursday, Dec. 22, ending Tuesday, Jan. 3.

The beginning of a permanent and complete scheme for decorating Cass City streets during the holiday season has been instituted.

The sale of bonds for purchasing a curtain for the stage of the auditorium and gymnasium equipment for the new addition to the Gagetown Public Schools has reached $434.75 when a meeting of the bond committee was held Wednesday night.

Dr. P.A. Schenck has been elected president of the Cass City Community Club. He was elected by the board of directors Thursday night.

Two area students MSU graduates

Two area students were among 1,636 students awarded degrees from Michigan State University in commencement exercises held Dec. 1 in the MSU auditorium.

BRENDA S. WAGNER

Brenda S. Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wagner of 6901 Cass City Rd., received a bachelor of arts degree in accounting. She is a 1969 graduate of Cass City High School and plans to enter an accounting career.

Glen A. Walls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Walls of 5706 E. Sanilac Rd., Kingston, received a bachelor of science degree in geography. He plans to enter the U.S. Air Force in January.

He and his wife, the former Cheryl LaBrie of Escanaba, currently reside in Lansing. Walls is a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School.

Diplomas were awarded by MSU President Clifton R. Wharton Jr. Commencement speaker was Barbara Ward, noted international economist, who was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Extension group plans Christmas tea Dec. 12

Tuscola County Extension Study Group Christmas Tea will be Wednesday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m. The theme is "There's Music in the Air." After inspecting Christmas Exhibits, the evening will be devoted to music.

An entertainment will be provided by The New Sound Singers, who will also lead the group in a half-hour sing-along. Later a gift exchange will be made in the form of the Musical Chairs Game.

Gifts are to be homemade. Refreshments will follow. Husband and guest are invited.

Cattle breeding seminar set Friday

A cattle breeding seminar for both dairy and beef producers in east central Michigan will be held at Frankfort, Friday, Dec. 7, at the American Legion Hall on Flint Street. This seminar is open to anyone who is interested and includes a special section for women.

The program begins at 10:00 a.m. with registration, coffee, milk and donuts for everyone. Several nationally known authorities will discuss the latest research on heat detection and breeding efficiency which are primary ingredients for success in artificial insemination.

The section for women will include a presentation on "People Pleasing Problems" and a chance to visit Bronners' Christmas Shop.

This is a combined effort of the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University and the Michigan Animal Breeders Cooperative at East Lansing.

A group luncheon will be served and a nominal registration fee will be charged to help defray the cost.

Chamber of Commerce acts to cut Yule lighting

Cass City will be darker this Christmas season in an effort to conserve electrical energy. Christmas decorations which annually adorn Main Street will not glow as many hours this year and sidewalk trees will not be lighted.

The Chamber of Commerce was to have met Tuesday night to formalize policy regarding lighting, according to President Dorothy Stahlbaum.

She indicated the chamber would probably formalize the following actions:

Street decorations will be lighted between the hours of six and nine o'clock every night downtown stores are open. Lights will be on Friday and Saturday and beginning Dec. 10, each night through Dec. 24.

Sidewalk trees will in all likelihood not be lighted this year. This comes because of the energy crisis and also because of widespread vandalism to the lights.

The Santa House, located in the parking lot at the corner of Seeger and Church Streets, will operate, lighted probably between six and nine o'clock.

POWER SITUATION

The actual amount of electrical energy used by Cass City's Christmas lights could not be determined exactly by officials at Detroit Edison Co. However, according to a public relations spokesman in Detroit, it is estimated that three to three and a half per cent increase in power usage is experienced by the company on a system-wide basis at Christmas.

The company added that this is a smaller increase than five years ago and attributed this drop to more efficient types of lighting and a greater use of artificial Christmas trees which take fewer and smaller lights.

As far as the individual homeowner is concerned, Edison has not yet adopted a policy of discouraging home Christmas lighting, but it is urging homeowners to act "with discretion" when decorating for the holidays.

The Edison spokesman added that the company expects some directives from the Michigan Public Service Commission regarding home decorative lighting.

As of November, Edison produced about 70 per cent of its electrical energy through burning coal, with 20 per cent coming from fuel oil and 10 per cent from natural gas.

According to George Anderson of the Edison office in Caro, the company does not plan to launch a major campaign to discourage Christmas lighting. It will, however, refrain from using decorative lighting at its offices as a means of setting an example.

"Quite frankly, we don't know yet just where we're headed in this area," Anderson said. "We have no precedents to go by, so we'll just have to wait and see."

Anderson said the possibility of an electrical energy shortage or a brownout in the Cass City area "is probably nil."

He added that this year, the company has experienced a marked upsurge in the number of inquiries and requests for electric heating of homes in Tuscola county. He did not have figures to support this claim.

CASS CITYANS RESPOND

Cass Cityans responded to calls to conserve by indicating planned cutbacks in annual residential Christmas lighting. Mrs. John Little, 4401 Brook-er, said while she would like to put up her annual display, all indications point toward leaving the decorations in their boxes this year.

"We had planned to decorate the trees in front of the house and around the windows like we always did," Mrs. Little said. "Right now we don't plan to put them up."

She said their home has been decorated for at least 10 years with lights and looked forward to it. Now she said she is debating whether to put lights on the inside Christmas tree or not.

"I really don't know what to do," she added. "I may break down and put just a few inside for the grandchildren. It just seems to me there are other ways of cutting back on electricity than by eliminating Christmas lights."

The William Eberline home at 6378 Garfield will also be darker this Christmas season. Eberline indicated that he doesn't think he will put out his annual display of between 300 and 400 lights.

"After the president's speech Nov. 25, I don't suppose it would be right to put them up," Eberline said. "But I sure would like to."

He said normally he places lights on two trees in front of the house and runs lights around two porches, windows and doors.

"I'll cut back this year," he said. "I might put a few up but probably not much more. I'll do just enough to let my grandkids know it's Christmas."

The Kermit Hartwicks of 6823 E. Main St., have also discarded plans to do any outdoor lighting at their home. According to Mrs. Hartwick, they had planned to light a tree in the front yard and perhaps display some lights around windows.

"Now they will settle for a Christmas tree in the house."

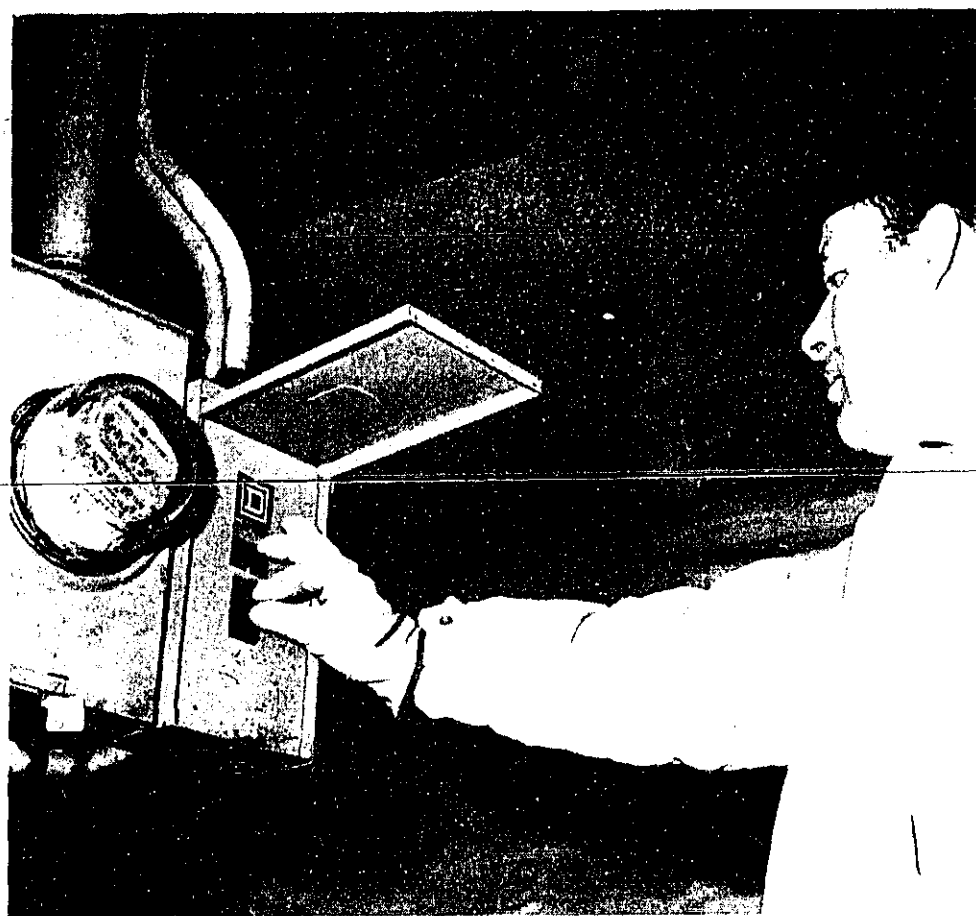

"I guess we really don't have much choice in the matter, do we," she said.

STATE POSITION

The head of Governor William Milliken's special task force on energy has advised homeowners to use outdoor lighting in moderation this year to save power.

Don Myers said while it would not be wise to light up an entire yard, homeowners could feel reasonably safe in using outdoor lighting moderately.

Myers indicated lighting on the state capitol would be cut this year. Those lights will be turned off at 9:00 p.m. instead of the traditional midnight hour.

VILLAGE SUPT. LOU LAPONSIE checks out the main switch that will keep Cass City Christmas lights from glowing as much this year as they did in 1972. Lights are expected to be on about three hours per night starting Dec. 15.

AGENT'S CORNER

Energy cost and television

Aliene Mills - Extension Agent

last week. Most changes can be handled by telephone and a personal visit is usually not required.

"Immediately following the Dec. 14 cut off date, entries for the new directory are 'locked up' and sent to the General Telephone Directory Company at Des Plaines, Ill., to be assembled, printed, bound and returned in a relatively short period of time," Courtney said.

Courtney pointed out that the directory company, which prints millions of books each year, operates on a deadline basis like a newspaper.

"Because of those printing deadlines, we cannot honor changes requested after the cut off date," he said.

The distribution date for the new directory will be announced later.

Each day many Thumb area residents turn on the television to be entertained or watch educational programs. Have you thought about the television in terms of energy cost?

Color television sets are great, but consume more energy than the same type black and white model. The solid state sets, both color and black and white, consume less energy than filament (tube) sets. Larger screens consume more energy than smaller screens.

Sets that have the instant turn-on feature are consuming electricity 24 hours a day. This feature costs more for the initial purchase and more to operate and maintain. If you have a television set with the instant turn-on feature, unplug set when not in use.

Every day looks black to the man who is trying to figure a way to get out of the red.

If you are shopping for a new television set, consider the above features. Also, turn off the set if no one is watching television or when you leave the house.

Today's optimist is a fellow who expects a rebate on the high cost of living.

Telephone book press deadline set

Corrections and additions to General Telephone's directory for Cassville, Cass City, Elktion, and Kingston must be made at the company's business office before Friday, Dec. 14. J. E. Courtney, customer service manager for the company, said

Cass City's share of state road money told

Cass City's share of third quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections totaled $7,784 compared with $6,455 for the third quarter of 1972, according to figures released by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation Friday.

This is a part of $105,601,575 in net receipts of the highway fund during July, August and September of 1973. Of this amount, the state receives $46,949,255, counties $37,717,972 and municipalities $20,934,347.

For other area municipalities, Gagetown received $2,729, compared with $2,206 for the third quarter of 1972; Kingston's share will total $1,937 compared with $1,625 last year and Ubyl will receive $3,449, as opposed to $2,862 last year.

Tuscola county's share of third quarter receipts will total $340,915, compared with $292,931 for the third quarter of 1972.

All state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees go to the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund.

The money is distributed at three levels of government after deduction of collection costs, the state Waterways Commission's share (1.25 per cent) and proceeds from the one-half cent of the gasoline tax earmarked for the new General Transportation Fund for public transportation.

The highway department receives 44.5 per cent for state highways, the 83 counties receive 35.7 per cent for county roads and the 530 incorporated cities and villages receive 19.8 per cent for municipal streets.

Baptist Society elects officers

Thirteen women attended the monthly meeting of the Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Stanley McArthur.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Rosella Kretzschmer and Mrs. Richard Shaw presided at the business meeting.

Members voted to purchase a chair cart for the church.

During the business meeting, officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. Kretzschmer will be the new president. Others elected were Mrs. Clyde Wells, vice-president, and Mrs. Myrtle McColl, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. S. McArthur will be reporter.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Lloyd Streeter and Mrs. McArthur.

Barbie has a boy friend—her first! There'll be many more. But someday Barbie will have a boy friend—her last! And there'll be an engagement, and a wedding, and a wonderful life together with their children...

If he's THE RIGHT ONE!

Barbie's present boy friend is being brought up the way Barbie is—in fact, they met at Sunday School! Their families worship regularly... they seek the same moral and spiritual aims.

But, what about THE RIGHT ONE? Is this fiance-to-be receiving the same sound preparation for tomorrow? Are his parents building the future on the firm foundation of religious faith? Will he be right for Barbie?

The church bells that ring every Sunday are not wedding bells. But they sound the destiny of our sons and daughters... and of their families yet unborn.

State licensing procedures under review by legislature

Licenses are needed by people who offer many goods and service to the public. The idea is that the state should protect the consumer in this way to be sure that the seller meets minimum requirements of competence.

There are many licensing bodies. They cover funeral directors, doctors, dentists, druggists, contractors, accountants, beauty operators and dozens of other fields.

The question is: Does the public get the protection intended? The answer is: Perhaps, but the public often gets considered second.

The first consideration is too often for the people being licensed. When a bunch of optometrists, for example, (the same is true with other groups) sit down to draw up rules about who should practice optometry, why be surprised when the licensing rules work first to the benefit of optometrists, second to that of the public.

It is refreshing to see a series of bills in the legislature which would increase the size of many of these boards and require that the new person be a member of the general public. They are sponsored by Dan Angel, R-Marshall, J. Douglas Trezise, R-Owosso, James F. Damman, R-Troy, and others. If the bills become law, and if Gov. William Milliken appoints strong, knowledgeable members of the public to the licensing bodies, it seems certain that the interests of the general public will get more consideration.

The best government would result if all licensing groups had a majority of general public representatives with a minority from the group being controlled.

It will be hard to bring that situation to reality. The state constitution includes a provision that such boards must have a majority from the group involved. This was dropped in an amendment and included in the final document without proper consideration.

Gagetown council grants SDM license

Gagetown Village Council Monday night approved an SDM license transfer from Edric Rapson to William Downing who plans to sell beer and wine in his new store. The store will be located in the Masonic Lodge building in the area formerly occupied by Rapson's Store.

Downing is currently renovating the interior of the structure while the lodge is remodeling the exterior.

In other action, council voted to accept a new state election law which provides for four-year terms for council members. The same law is presently under consideration by Cass City trustees. Gagetown elections for council will be held every two years.

In other council action, $1,020 was transferred from the General Fund to local street funds which will go toward payment of resurfacing Elizabeth, Paul and Quinn Streets. Council also transferred $5,600 from the general fund to the water fund for hydrant rent.

Council also decided not to fill the council post left by the death of Mrs. Leota Ashmore until the March elections. Deadline for filing for council posts is Jan. 1.

Richard Burdon, a councilman, was named deputy clerk and treasurer of the village.

Council also approved a request by the Junior Women's Club to convert the tennis court in the village park into an ice skating rink for the winter.

Cass City cartoonist Jerry Langmaid strives to draw his way to fame and fortune

By Jim Ketchum

What do cartoonist Charles Schulz, creator of "Peanuts", and Cass City High School junior Jerry Langmaid have in common? Both love to draw and make people laugh at and with their work. And both want to comment on the world we live in through strange characters on a piece of art paper.

Schulz has unquestionably succeeded. Jerry has just begun his quest to become a cartoonist, but strongly believes he, too, will eventually make it. "I just like to draw," the quiet, unassuming youth says. "I've enjoyed it since kindergarten, I guess, and I still do."

Jerry works at a makeshift drawing table in his room, turning out single panel drawings and a comic strip called "Wood Rovers", based solely on his observations of life in the outdoors, particularly in a stand of trees near his house on Van Dyke Road near the north branch of the Cass River.

The table consists simply of a three-quarter inch board propped between the open top drawer of his desk and the desk top. His bed provides the seating for the budding artist.

In this "studio," Jerry lets his imagination run free, taking incidents from school and life around him and translating them into line drawings that contain a chuckle.

The way Jerry explains it, drawing has been second nature to him as far back as he can remember.

"My mother tells me my teachers saw some kind of artistic talent in kindergarten," Jerry says. "And I guess I just kept practicing. I used to do sketches until a couple of years ago when I switched to cartoons."

Jerry describes the process of creating a cartoon as just "thinking things up" and then drawing his thoughts.

"Right now it's mostly stuff I like to do," Jerry explains. Jerry has already ventured into the dog-eat-dog world of professional cartooning and found it largely unreceptive to a beginner. He has approached syndicates who handle most cartoonists, along with other publications.

"My first mistake was going right to the top," Jerry recalls. "I read somewhere where this syndicate was taking new cartoons and cartoonists so I sent some stuff in. What I didn't know was that they were taking only the top professionals." This setback hasn't dampened Jerry's enthusiasm to eventually become one of those top syndicated cartoonists. He wants someday to do either a humorous comic strip or work with a greeting card company in its art department.

Jerry explains he enjoys taking characteristics of real persons and placing them in the person of a racoon, duck, bird or little green man from outer space looking for parts for his 1968 UFO.

"I never hurt anyone with my drawings," Jerry says. "I just take a few of their characteristics and disguise them in the cartoon figures."

Jerry studies the comic page of the newspaper diligently, watching the techniques of established artists and discovering what is funny and what isn't, always looking for a new angle or a new way of doing something better.

He maintains comic strip characters evolve as most living things do. For instance, he says, compare today's version of Charlie Brown and the "Peanuts" gang with the 1955 or 1960 version. You'll find numerous changes.

"I think it's because the daily practice of drawing the strips makes the cartoonist better," Jerry maintains. "You can see guys like Schulz becoming more confident in what they're doing."

Jerry's favorite comic strips are the humorous ones. Strips such as "B.C.," "Peanuts," "Tumbleweeds," and "Punky Winkerbean" are among his favorites. Also rated highly is

"The Born Loser".

He dislikes the drama strips, opting instead for humor.

Cartooning, according to Jerry, takes training. You must keep track to the strange or uniquely funny situations of life. He admits to executing some of these ideas during a dull portion of a class at school.

"After I went into cartooning, I tried doing sketches again and I found I just couldn't do them as well as before," Jerry says. "It was just because I was out of practice. And with cartooning itself, I do strips and single-panel drawings. But if I do one too long, it's hard to switch back to the other."

Jerry prefers drawing comic strips to single panel cartoons, but does both to keep sharp. The one-panel drawing is more difficult to do, according to Jerry, because your whole message must be communicated in one drawing, leaving no room for development of an idea.

He also studies political cartooning, which he says, is something different again. The political cartoonist must be on top of the political scene in order to be successful.

Politics presently isn't as interesting to Jerry as drawing comic strips. Someday, he would like to live in the upper peninsula and send his work in to a syndicate by mail. This would give him time to study and to live the kind of life he enjoys, away from the hectic pace of a large studio.

Animation is another end of cartooning that interests the budding Cass City artist. He says someday he might like to try animated cartooning, but admits this is a long way down the road.

For now, it's continued practice. Jerry maintains anyone can learn to draw and cartoon by simply practicing, discounting his own natural talents. "It isn't hard, really," Jerry says.

Maybe there is still hope for a newspaper reporter who can't even draw a straight line with a ruler.

Jury finds Vassar man guilty in theft

A Tuscola County Circuit Court jury returned a verdict of guilty Monday in the larceny trial of Gordon Houghtelling of Vassar. Houghtelling was found guilty of stealing six copper cables with fittings from the Vassar Electrolysis Products Co. May 18.

He was found guilty of a misdemeanor, since the value of the items taken was under $100. An earlier count of breaking and entering of the building was dismissed.

Judge Norman Baguley will sentence Houghtelling Dec. 17. The offense took place May 18.

In other Circuit Court action Monday, Anthony Bilicki, 18, of Caro, was arraigned on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for Dec. 17 and bond of $300 was continued.

Bilicki is charged with breaking and entering a house in Wells township and stealing a BB gun. The offense occurred Aug. 10.

Gary C. Stein, 22, of Murphy Lake, was arraigned on charges of carrying a concealed weapon. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Jan. 2, and bond was continued at $1,000.

Stein is charged with carrying a .22 caliber revolver without a license in Watertown township Oct. 15.

Sentence was suspended in a resisting arrest case involving Courtney Bedell of Vassar. Bedell had been found guilty of resisting arrest July 23, 1972 in Vassar.

Charges of assaulting a Tuscola county sheriff's deputy were subsequently dropped.

Judge Baguley had delayed sentencing Bedell because Bedell had sought professional help.

Seat belts save lives, cut injuries

What is the leading cause of death among young people?

If you say cancer, food poisoning, snakebite or Vietnam, forget it.

But score one for your side if you answered the automobile, for traffic accidents are the biggest killer of people between the ages of 1 and 34.

The Department of Transportation estimates 58,000 people will die before the stroke of midnight on New Year's Eve, making 1972 the grimmest year in history.

Sadly, nine out of ten motorists have the cure for this epidemic at their fingertips. If 80 percent of us used the lap and shoulder belts in our automobiles, as many as 15,000 people might not be killed each year.

But safety experts have yet to figure out why so many of us risk disfigurement, dismemberment or death rather than buckle up. The National Safety Council reports fewer than 40 percent use lap belts and less than five percent their shoulder straps.

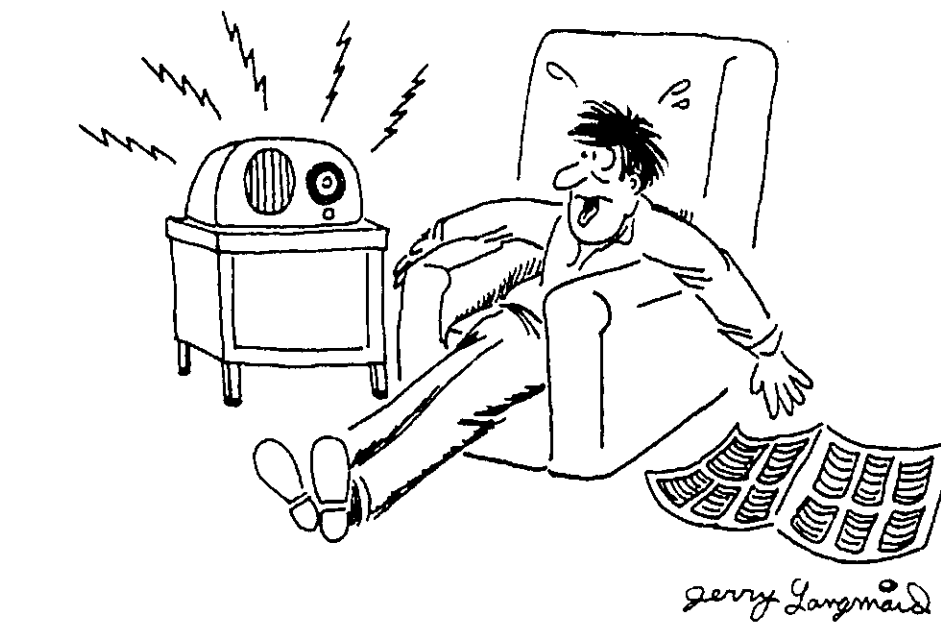

That's why several states are considering laws to require motorists to buckle up. They would have us use the belts in our cars or face the penalty of the law — just as people who speed, run through red lights, or drive while drunk.

And no doubt about it, such laws are effective. In Victoria, Australia, traffic deaths dropped 24 percent and belt use climbed to 75 percent in urban areas during the first nine months the law was on the books.

Mandatory use laws seem to be the alternative to another federally-sponsored safety gimmick — the inflatable air bag. While these show some promise, they have not been proved effective or reliable. And the White House Office of Science and Technology says they'll add $300 to the price of a new car.

Better buckle up now.

CASS CITY CARTOONIST Jerry Langmaid works to turn out another of his cartoon creations. Jerry has been drawing since he began school.

"This has been a test... if this had been an actual emergency..."

Christmas will be noisier, happier at Lloyd Damm household thanks to two special sons

By Jim Ketchum

Christmas will be a little noisier, a little more hectic and a lot happier this year for the Lloyd Damm family of East Elmwood Road. Someone new is living with them who has added to the joy brought by their first someone a little over a year ago.

The Damm family have adopted two boys, both two years old. Not so unusual, you say? Consider this.

Both boys are black. "We both wanted children," Mrs. Damm explained, as she sat on the couch of their bright living room with her sons, Paul and Andrae, who contentedly played with a series of magazines. "We didn't care who they were or what they were. We just wanted children to love."

Mrs. Damm explained that she and her husband found they could not have children of their own and began to investigate adoption. Shortly before, she explained, she prayed and turned her life over to God, asking for direction.

"I did that in September of 1971. Paul was born in November and we brought him home in February," she said.

SAW ARTICLE

The Damm family saw an article in the Detroit News titled, "A Child is Waiting", detailing facts regarding adoption with the Lutheran Social Services of Michigan in Detroit. Contacts were made with administrators and checks were run on the Damm family. When they qualified and went to pick up Paul, she said it seemed unreal.

"After we got back, I remember asking my husband, 'Did we really go to Detroit and get our very own baby?'" Mrs. Damm said.

Paul was less than six months old when he came to live with the Damm family in their old rambling brick home in the country west of Cass City. Both continued to rely strongly on their religious convictions and prayed for guidance. Then, early this year, the move to bring Andrae into their family began.

Mrs. Damm said Andrae, who is almost the same age as Paul, was being cared for in a home where he was placed with four mongoloid children. At the age of 18 months, little Andrae could not coordinate his movements and appeared to have a nervous disorder.

The Damm family later found all he needed was to be in an active environment where he could learn by doing.

"When we brought him home June 13, he had never seen a sucker or never played outdoors," Mrs. Damm said. "You could put his shoe next to him and motion for him to pick it up. He wouldn't even try. Now he's a changed kid."

Both boys are active, bright and bursting with energy every waking minute. They enjoy listening to music and looking at picture books, along with rough housing with each other, squealing with delight.

The Damm family are natives of the area. She came from Greenleaf township and he was born in Caseville. He has worked at Chevrolet casting in Saginaw for the last eight years.

Both strongly believe in God and believe it to be His will that the two children they adopted are black.

"It really makes no difference to us," Mrs. Damm said. "We wanted children more than anything. Now we have them to love. That is what life is about—love."

GOOD PLACE

Both believe strongly that Cass City is a good place to raise their sons. They believe prejudice does not exist here to the extent it does in larger communities, and are convinced they did the right thing.

"Everyone we have come in contact with has accepted it," Damm said. "I don't see any real problems. They'll have love at home and I'm sure they will adjust well."

Mrs. Damm said when they are old enough, she would like to enroll them in pre-school classes. She would also like to see her sons enroll in "a Christian college" after high school.

"Some people tell us we shouldn't be looking that far down the road. But we do because we love them so," Mrs. Damm said, hugging Andrae.

The couple admits their lives have changed drastically since their two sons have come to live with them. Week ends are not as free far travel as they once were and toys now find their way into boxes on the living room floor. But they like it that way.

"Before, it was our wants that came first," she said. "And after we'd spend our money on something, we just weren't happy. The whole secret is giving up things and give of yourself."

Both admit they are not wealthy and rely on faith to see them over rough times.

FUTURE ADOPTION?

Mrs. Damm said she and her husband have not closed the door to another child in the future, if they believe this is meant to be. If they do adopt again, it will be through LSSM in Detroit.

"There is a great need for homes, especially for black and multi-racial babies," Mrs. Damm explained. "A lot of people will give up adoption if they can't get a white child, and white children are not as available as black children. It really doesn't matter to us."

She said parenthood has come naturally for them, and that discipline is not hard to dish out when the need arises. But above it all is the strong love which they have for Paul and Andrae.

Mrs. Damm recalled last summer's trip to Detroit to pick up Andrae and the shock she felt for an instant when she learned the infant was black.

"I picked him up and held him in my arms and that was it," she said. "We fell in love with him. As his foster mother gave him to me she cried and I cried too."

The Damm family celebrated their 13th wedding anniversary Monday and Mrs. Damm laughed about the particular number.

"I was always told 13 was an unlucky number, but this year it's been real lucky for us," she said.

Christmas will be especially meaningful for the Damm family this year, now that Paul has a brother. The couple love their two black sons as much as any parents.

"More people could do what we've done," Mrs. Damm said. "It just takes giving a little bit. You get so much more back and God just gives you that much more."

Homeowners' brick wall an economical investment

Brick walls may not only be an attractive choice for your home, they could save you a pocketful of money.

Because the walls represent only a small part (five to 10 per cent) of the cost of your home, the choice of fireproof brick or brick veneer over another siding material increases monthly mortgage payments by just a few dollars, according to the Brick Institute of America.

Five years later, however, the brick homeowner will find himself merely washing his brick walls with a few pennies worth of water, while his neighbor spends $750 to $1,000 having his home repainted.

These and other considerations are discussed in the new full color BIA booklet, "Home Buyers Guide to Brick." For a copy of the 16-page booklet, send 25 cents in coin to the Brick Institute of America, 1750 Old Meadow Road, McLean, Virginia 22101.

Wide variety of sinks calls for pre-planning

When you select your kitchen sink you will be confronted with a variety of colors, sizes and number of bowls and materials from which to choose.

Because of its relative low cost, porcelain enamel on steel has long been the most widely used. The heavier, stain-resistant porcelain enamel on cast iron sink has generally been found only in more expensive kitchens.

Stainless steel sinks, which are easier to install because they are lighter and have a self-rim, are quite popular these days (even though there have been reports that they are noisy, scratch easily and show finger marks).

Make it a point - get even with those who've helped you.

The leaps of impulse guide more than the bounds of reason.

KEN LOWE TRIES short shot that misses. It was the first varsity game of the sophomore cager's career. Lack of experience hurt the Hawks in the season's opener against Sandusky.

Hawks top Kinde in Tuesday tune-up

Cass City hosts Lakers Friday in title testing game after upset loss

The Cass City Red Hawks tuned up for an important game Friday against the Lakers by easily whipping Kinde, 77-26, Tuesday at Kinde.

It was the first time that the Hawks have played a Class D school in recent years. In recent years, Kinde has been a cage powerhouse, but this season the talent at the Huron county school appears thin.

Anyway it was a game for only the first few minutes. The last time Kinde was in shouting distance of Cass City was in the first quarter when the score was tied, 6-6.

After that Cass City took control by dominating the backboards and proving to have more speed than the host team.

The game marked the return to action of Dave Hillaker and the lanky forward showed why he is working on his third letter for Cass City.

Another addition to the Hawk starting line-up was Dave Eberline. The Junior forward started and played well. Although he scored just six points, his passing helped Scott Hartel have a good night defensively with 21 points.

Jerry Toner and Hillaker each netted 16 to help the cause.

Coach Fred Hurlburt substituted early in the second quarter and everyone on the squad saw action over the outclassed Kinde five.

It was an all winning night for the Hawks as they rolled past the Kinde JV's, 79-71, as Coach Skip Pranger also cleared his bench to hold the score in check.

SANDUSKY GAME

It was a disheartening defeat Friday for the highly regarded Cass City Red Hawks in the season opener as Sandusky jumped into the Thumb B Conference title race with a 68-62 decision over the host Hawks.

While the crowd was disappointed with the loss it's much too early to write off Cass City's chances for a league crown.

The game was actually closer than the final score indicated as just three points separated the teams with a minute and a half left to play.

But the Redskins deserved to win. They came to play while Cass City appeared convinced that it would be no struggle at all.

While Cass City was expected to have a veteran team, for the opener it was inexperience that cost the victory.

Two sophomores who never played a game of varsity or junior varsity basketball were in the starting line-up. Chuck Bliss and Ken Lowe were making their varsity debut for Cass City.

Another rookie that played about half the game was Craig Helwig. Helwig, like the two sophomores, had no previous experience.

The result was 20 turnovers and that spelled the difference. Coach Fred Hurlburt says that he expects his rookies to show improvement as the season progresses.

The Hawks' chances were hurt by fouls to Nick Gibas. Gibas started slowly in the first quarter and then ran into foul trouble in the second period. As a result he played little more than half the game.

When he fouled out for good as the Hawks were staging a comeback in the last quarter, it spelled the end to Cass City's chances to get out of the starting blocks fast with a win this season.

The Hawks started slowly and were held in the game by Jerry Toner who furnished the bulk of the scoring in the first two quarters.

The Redskins moved into a first quarter lead before Cass City started finding the hoop. The visitors were in front 18-15 before a second period rally helped the Hawks into the lead.

Cass City posted an 18-12 advantage in the second quarter to walk off with a 33-30 lead at intermission.

With Gibas on the bench for most of the period Sandusky blitzed the Hawks in the third quarter to post a 21-12 advantage and a three-quarter lead, of 51-45. When the teams traded points in the last quarter, each chalking up 17, the defending league co-champions were off and running in the Thumb B again.

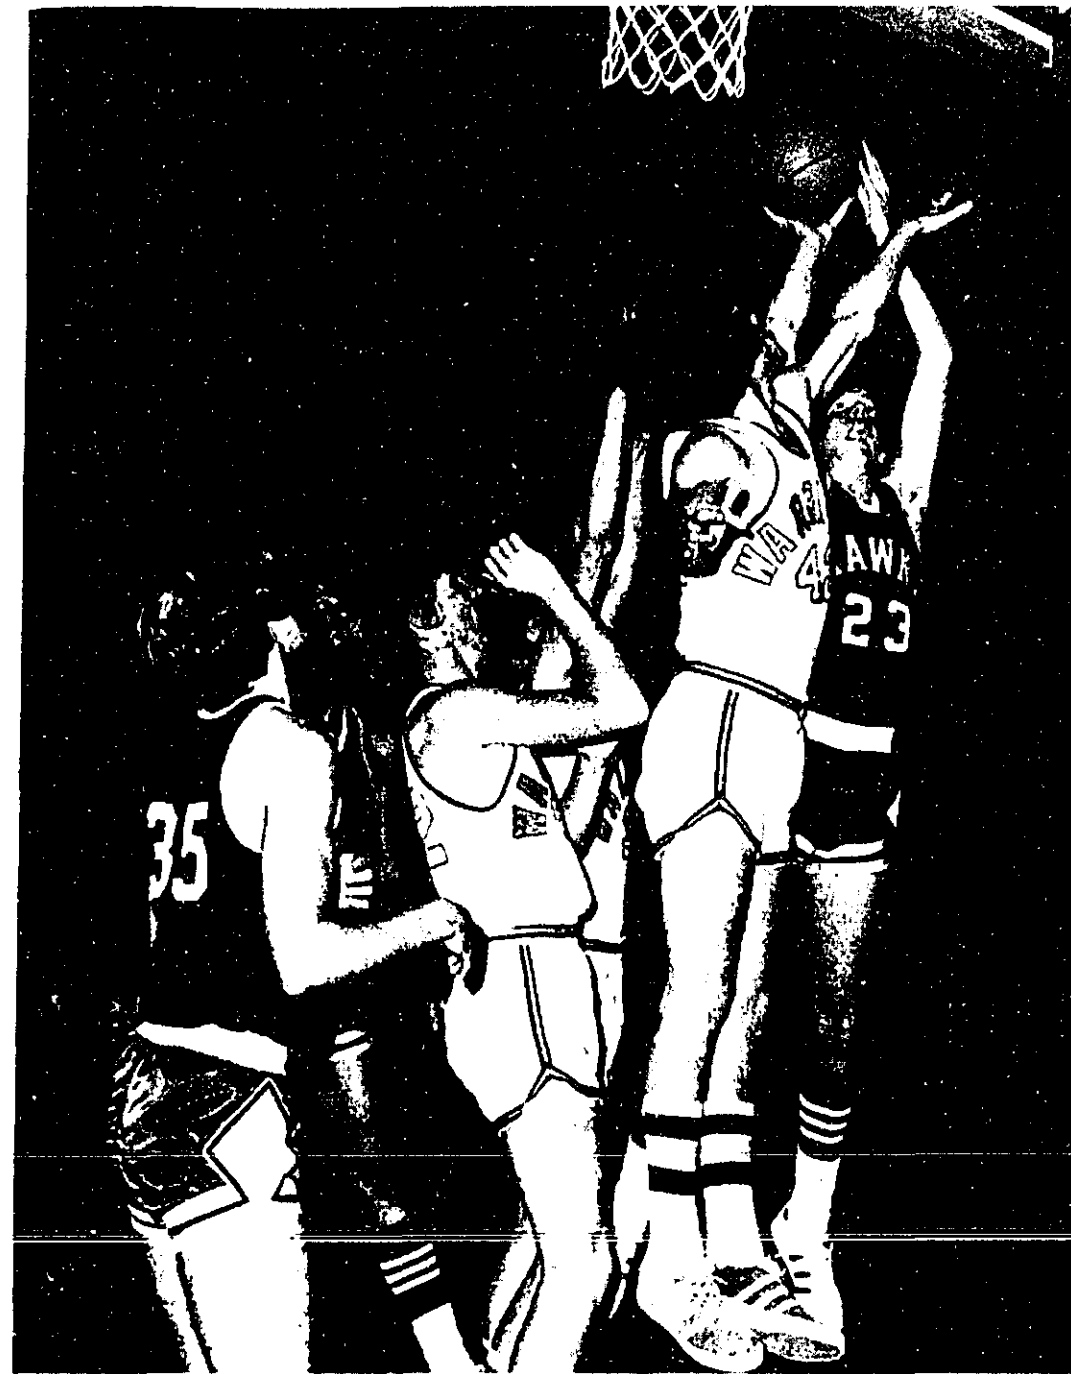

JV GAME

The junior varsity result was almost a duplicate of the varsity game. The Hawks moved in front in the first half only to fade in the last quarter to a Sandusky charge. The final score was 61-57.

HELPING MAKE THE offense click Tuesday night against Kinde was Dave Hillaker. This shot was one of several close-in attempts he canned in an easy non-league victory.

Girls end tourney play with 48-21 loss

Cass City High School's Girls Basketball team ended district tournament play Wednesday, Nov. 28, with a 48-21 loss at the hands of Ubly.

The girls lost in the second round of play after having drawn a bye in the first round. Cathy Kerbyson led Cass City scoring with eight points. Melody Bacon chipped in with seven points and Elaine Stoutenburg made four.

The girls are eliminated from any further competition.

Hawks to host 6-team "C" district tourney

Cass City, the defending district Class C champions, will again host a district tournament, Athletic Director Robert Stickle announced Tuesday.

Six teams have been assigned here. They include: Bad Axe, Cass City, Deckerville, Harbor Beach, Sandusky and Ubly.

The line-up is considerably different from the one that Cass City swept through last spring. Sandusky, Harbor Beach and Deckerville played elsewhere last year. North Branch and Unionville-Sebewaing were dropped from the Cass City tournament in 1974.

As the season is just getting underway, establishing a tournament favorite is impossible. However, Harbor Beach, big and experienced, would probably take over the favorite's role if the two teams took the floor this week.

Wine Glass Guide

How large should a wine glass be? One size wine glass is enough, say experts. The Wine Growers of California have indicated their preference for an all-purpose, tulip-shaped glass that holds about nine ounces. It's appropriate for any type of wine, say the experts.

Wine may be served in any glass, even a tumbler — but somehow it seems to taste much better in a stemmed glass. This is more than the beauty of that glass on your table; it's also because a stem keeps your hand from warming the wine.

In search for wine glasses, first of all look for a large size — so that the glass may be poured only about half-full. A slight "tulip" shape, with the top of the glass a little narrower than the widest part of the bowl, helps to hold the wine's aroma and bouquet in the empty space above the wine.

The next thing to look for is absolute clarity — no colored glass, and preferably no etched pattern. This is to let you enjoy the clarity and color of the wine itself, another part of its full enjoyment.

For a free chart showing sizes and shapes of traditional wine glasses, and information on types of wine and their good food partners, send a postcard to Wine, Box 88, San Francisco, Calif. 94103.
