(And anyone else he can get to help)

It was closer Saturday than it has been for any previous basketball game . . . fans came closer to filling the gym for Harbor Beach-Cass City than any previous game. Closer, but still no cigar. I'd guess that 500 more could have been crowded in before the capacity of the gym was reached. Given the gate attraction of Saturday's game and the crowd it attracted, it's hard to visualize a game that would bring a turn-away crowd.

I was thinking about it and then I reviewed the Chronicle from one year ago and changed my mind. What I almost did was take off my car's snow tires.

It was just a year ago on St. Pat's Day that the season's worst snowstorm hit just after the Thumb enjoyed an unseasonable warm spell.

What's more, over the years March has been the month where the worst storms have closed schools and blocked roads. I recall all of this for the benefit of gas starved Florida readers who haven't had much to crow about this winter.

I should be finding out this week end if my memory is as sharp as I would like to think it is. With three other vagabonds I'll be in North Carolina to play golf and just play.

Now for the memory bit. I attended Wake Forest College in North Carolina as a World War II GI in training. I remember that country as red clay land and heavy salt water air . . . not really that pleasant.

Maybe it will be different when I swank it a little at the tourist trap called Myrtle Beach.

The way things have been lately don't be surprised, don't be at all surprised, if a green streaker comes blazing down Main street on St. Patrick's day.

Folks with long memories will remember Mary Lou Spencer, a merit scholar and brain at Cass City High School. Mary Lou lives in the Detroit ghetto area and always had a penchant for tilting windmills. Her dad, Lynn, tells us that she has won her latest crusade . . . she's been hired as a DSR bus driver.

She had been refused the job because of sex and filed suit in court. Last week the city capitulated and Mary Lou went to work.

It's a moral victory . . . no doubt about that. I hope that Mary Lou gets a day shift. Driving bus in Detroit at night is my idea of nothing at all. But it's just possible that if they try to cushion the job for this young revolter, she might demand the midnight shift.

And, unfortunately, get it, too.

Industry--and that means jobs--requires a reliable supply of electricity.

Industry must grow to provide jobs in Southeastern Michigan. And industrial expansion depends upon a reliable supply of electricity. We must maintain our system and build new plants and electric lines to meet all electrical needs. But our costs are rising fast. That's one of the reasons we have to ask for price increases. You can't take electricity for granted anymore, but we'll continue to do our best to provide reliable electric service now and in the future.

"If It Fitz . . ." Women shouldn't squawk

BY JIM FITZGERALD

A girl named Sandie Waun wants my opinion of Women's Lib. She wrote me: "I am a senior at Sandusky High School, presently enrolled in a journalism class. I am doing an article on Women's Lib. I would appreciate it if you would give me your opinion, pro or con."

Dear Sandie:

I don't know if it has anything to do with Women's Lib, but I certainly do like women who ask for my opinion. In fact, that's how my wife won me. She was a new secretary in our newspaper office and I was Clark Kent with no "S" on my underwear. The same day I met her, she asked me if I thought it would rain that evening and I was so overwhelmed I asked her to marry me.

My problem was that I was raised in a matriarchate (ask your teacher). I had 4 sisters, led by Terrible Jean, no brothers, 1 mother and a father who traveled a lot. The only time any of those women sought my opinion was when Terrible Jean asked me if I had enough. She was usually sitting on my back, pounding my head and my opinion was always yes, I had.

So you see, Sandie, I've had a tough time adjusting to this Women's Lib thing. I was drafted into World War II before I learned women didn't swing the big stick everywhere. The biggest surprise was learning Hitler wasn't a woman.

And the biggest puzzle was how come, if men ruled the world, I got drafted into the lousy army and Terrible Jean didn't? This still puzzles me. Also, what about good manners? My mother taught me to open doors for women and to never say dirty words in front of them. These are habits I cannot shake. When a woman drops something, I automatically get on my knees and start looking for it. This was OK when I was 15. But lately, some of the women have been forced to show their gratitude by helping me to my feet and assisting me to the nearest rest home.

Another thing, Sandie, is I would rather admire a pretty woman than anything else. And this isn't a sexist, ogling thing. I don't want to assault them or even pinch. I just appreciate looking at them, the same way I'd admire a rainbow or a 3-cushion bank of the 8-ball into the side pocket.

Then there is the money thing. In the usual family, the man goes out and makes it so the women can spend it. No lie, housework and child-rearing are not simple tasks. Housewives earn their keep. But it is Old Dad who must produce or get fired. It's a difference in pressure. If your mother forgets to dust on Monday, it's no big deal, she can do it another time. But if Dad doesn't make his quota on Monday, he may be jobless on Tuesday and the father of a hungry family by Friday. It's a responsibility that can weigh on a person a lot heavier than dirty diapers.

Women's Lib is absolutely right when it says Terrible Jean and I should get the same pay if we do the same work. We should have the same chance to get a job and her credit card should be worth as much as mine. But other than that, Sandie, I don't see where you women have much to squawk about.

Men court you and support you and protect you and help you put on your coat. And all we marvelous fellows ask in return is that you don't wear curlers downtown.

It may be a man's world, Sandie, but most of us are exceedingly magnanimous about it (ask your teacher - unless she's a woman).
— Onward and Upward.

PHENOMENAL

Bad habits defy the law of gravity - they're so much easier to pick up than to drop.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

It had to happen. A streaker buzzed the bars in Cass City last week. Racing through the back door of Jack's Bar, out the front and in through the front door of the Cass Tavern and out the side door in one quick swoop.

According to reports it was a youth about 18 to 20 years old. What else? It was the kids who came up with "mooning", stripping down and placing bare butts into car windows as they zoomed through traffic.

Or go back another generation and remember the panty raids at all the colleges. Or still another, and remember the live gold fish swallowing contests?

They even had a pseudo streaker trying to drum up interest at a school basketball pep rally recently. (He had shorts on.)

They probably should have come up with the real thing. For interest in basketball in this community by the students evidently needs a shot in the arm.

For the plain truth is that darn few of the 2,000-odd students at Cass City Schools bother to attend the games.

Interest at pep rallies is at a low ebb and reflects the general apathy of the student body.

It's a contrast from 20 years ago when the Friday night basketball game was a social event that the community and the students enjoyed together.

And that's the key to the change. Twenty years ago basketball had very little competition for its center stage position.

No television. No girls' basketball or volleyball, no gymnastics, no wrestling, no golf.

Twenty years ago basketball was the only game in town.

It's not now and it never will be again. There's a little nostalgia here about the days when the results of the Friday night game were the important thing for the majority of the kids and the community.

The adults still come out. Interest waxes and wanes with the won-lost record of the squads.

Give Cass City a champion and Cass City will undoubtedly respond with a gym loaded with fans.

The vast majority will not be students.

Most students attend because they have an interest in boys on the team or play the game themselves at one level of competition or another.

But since fewer boys play on a basketball team than any other sport except golf there are fewer students involved.

It's sad, but that's the way it is. Don't look for it to get any better.

Troop leaders are Anne Harmer and Patty Rayl, who expressed appreciation to parents for assistance during the year.

Among adults helping were: Mrs. Thomas Hycho, Mrs. George Wilson, Mrs. Richard Ziehm and Mrs. Harry Kehoe.

Move under way to revise rape law

"We must get rid of the practice of putting the victim on trial." So says Jan Bender, an Ann Arbor psychologist who also serves as coordinator of the Michigan Women's Task Force on Rape.

"The comment is perhaps what you'd expect to hear from a woman trying to change Michigan's rape laws. But she is far from alone in that assessment of the current law.

Take, for instance, this comment: "Our criminal justice system treats the woman worse than the criminal." That, from Philip G. Tannian, Police Commissioner of Detroit. (Tannian reports a 40 per cent increase in the number of rapes in 1973, compared to 1972.)

Tannian also is interested in a change in the law.

Ms. Bender's committee, meanwhile, has been working for months with the House Judiciary Committee in an effort to write a new rape proposal that will cover the women's objections as well as those of the lawmakers.

One particular area of difference appears to be sentencing. The sentence for rape conviction now is life imprisonment. The women want that changed because they say "life" is a "deterrent to conviction."

They recommend imprisonment for not less than five nor more than 20 years for conviction of sexual assault in the first degree, which they would define as "sexual penetration resulting in serious injury to the victim."

Some lawmakers, however, oppose the mandatory minimum idea, saying it does not take into account "individual potential for rehabilitation."

"Most criminologists say that's a point that occurs fairly early in incarceration where a person might be ready to be returned to society," explains Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor. "Almost universally, it would be before five years."

The women say they're willing to compromise on that point, and several others. They do intend to push for some substantive change in the law this year.

ETHICS BOARD NAMED

A "Star-studded cast" has been appointed by Gov. Milliken to that new state board of ethics.

The board will attempt to handle "complaints" and "conduct probes of alleged violations of a code of ethics covering Michigan's 55,000 state employees and gubernatorial appointees.

Chairman of the seven-member board is Paul Goebel of Grand Rapids, a retired businessman and former mayor of Michigan's "furniture" city.

Other members are: former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Theodore Souris of Grosse Pointe; Mrs. Margaret Forch, Dearborn, former president of the Michigan League of Women Voters; Detroit lawyer William T. Gossett; former Congressman Paul H. Todd Jr., Kalamazoo; Lawrence Carino, Birmingham, vice-president and general manager of WJKB-TV, Detroit; and Henry G. Marsh, former mayor of Saginaw.

Services

Thursday for Mrs. Douglas

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Mrs. Marian Douglas, 70, who succumbed Sunday, March 10, in West Jersey Hospital, Camden, N.J.

The Rev. Elizabeth Isaacs, pastor, will officiate at the one o'clock services in Trinity United Methodist Church.

A former Cass City resident, Mrs. Douglas was born April 25, 1903, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John May.

She married Earl Douglas May 20, 1921, in Mason, Mi. The couple moved to Cass City in 1927 and operated the Douglas Funeral Home for over 30 years. Mr. Douglas died Oct. 8, 1960.

Mrs. Douglas worked in the Detroit area prior to moving to Haddonfield, New Jersey, in 1968, where she was the resident director of the Nurses Residence of Jefferson University. She retired in 1973.

Mrs. Douglas was a charter member of the Cass City Zonta Club, a member of Trinity United Methodist church and was a life member and past matron of Echo Chapter No. 337, Order of the Eastern Star, Cass City.

Survivors include two sons, John, of Haddonfield and Robert, of Homer, Mi.; one sister, eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A memorial service was to have been held Wednesday evening at Little's Funeral Home under the auspices of Echo Chapter OES.

Burial will be in Elkland cemetery.

Streaking

By Jim Ketchum

It looks like the good old days of doing something just for the hell of it are returning to college campuses and, to a lesser extent, society as a whole.

Gone are the days when students marched for things like peace, civil rights and more time off from class. Now, in their place, comes something called streaking.

Unless you've been living in a cave without access to the outside world, streaking is the newest phenomenon sweeping campuses all over the nation. Simply put, streaking amounts to taking off all your clothes and running from one point to another while your compatriots cheer you on.

A few practitioners of this new sport have been hauled in by the men in blue, but when 200 or 300 of these fun-seekers have at it all at once, it's obvious the jails wouldn't begin to hold them.

Besides, how could these arrested produce any identification?

While streaking is still a relatively new exercise in lunacy by the "now" generation and an exercise in frustration for oldsters, before long it will go down in history along with other memorable fads.

If you're past 25, you probably remember either seeing or reading about supposedly normal individuals swallowing live goldfish, one at a time.

I never could understand how anyone had the heart (or stomach) to look one of those shiny little critters in the eye, say "cheers" and let him slip between the tonsils and into oblivion.

Then there was the telephone booth fad. Seeing how many normal human bodies could be crammed into one of A.T. & T.'s finest without coming away forever deformed or without a double hernia became an all-consuming passion.

It seems like 28 was the record for this one. If anyone had tried to shut the door with that many persons inside, the explosive power would surely have put the atom bomb to shame.

A slight modification of this involved the venerable Volkswagen. It didn't count unless the car had a hard top on it. Seems as though the same 28 idiots that shoved their way into the phone booth also set the record for this one, too.

I remember in our senior year in high school, we sort of reversed things and set the record for the largest number of Volkswagens ever assembled in the lobby of Williamson High School - one.

After everyone stopped laughing over this April Fool's joke, we were summarily ordered to remove it from the premises under penalty of great harm to our status as students.

Another fad in which there was no redeeming social value was pushing a bed down a street. This one must have developed when someone, moving from one house to another, got tired of waiting for the van and took matters into his own hands.

A few college students spied this unfortunate man and the fad was on.

By the time I reached college, most of my compatriots were too busy moralizing about the status of the world, the "awakening of the student's consciousness", that nobody had any time to do anything but march, carry signs and look terribly forlorn and forsaken.

It was not a happy time to be wandering the campus of a major university - I speak from experience. The closest thing to a fad during my college tenure was having the girls sunbathe without their tops on warm spring days.

But even then, nobody really paid that much attention. They were all too busy being the conscience of the world that their professors told them they must be.

Today, either all the wrongs have been righted or no one gives a damn anymore. Now the kids just take their clothes off and run free.

While it's illegal and doesn't really contribute that much to a better world, maybe it makes as much sense to them as marching and chanting for illusive peace did a few years back.

Who knows?

poll on Nixon popularity launched

John R. Donaghy of Sandusky remains a staunch supporter of President Richard Nixon.

So staunch that he writes that he isn't satisfied with the Harris and Gallup poles... he believes that readers of country weeklies don't want the president to resign.

He feels that the country is "inviting trouble" by placing Mr. Ford in the White House in place of Mr. Nixon.

He invites readers to indicate how they feel by voting and sending the results to him at Sandusky.

He promises to release the results of the poll.

The question: Do you want our President to resign?

Yes.... No....

HIGH COST

The fellow who feels he has nothing to live for soon finds he can't live for nothing.

More Women

Michigan State University ranks first in the percentage of women undergraduate students, according to a survey of Big Ten universities.

The survey showed that MSU had 15,624 women undergraduates or 46.69 percent of its enrollment.

The number of women in the freshman class at MSU has outnumbered men by a slight margin for the past three years.

With 41,649 total students, MSU is the largest university in Michigan.

To err is human, perhaps, but that won't change the score.

Your neighbor says Streaking is funny

Streaking -- that's the word on everybody's lips these days. Rumors fly as reports of streakers -- persons running nude in public -- continue to mount.

What does Mrs. Ray Dearing of rural Cass City think of all this?

"I think it's pretty funny," she says. "I could see how it might start with a few people sitting around talking about what it might take to do it. One thing could lead to another and before you know it, someone would be out doing it."

Mrs. Dearing said she'd much rather see college kids streaking than rioting. She said it's a passing craze and will probably die away as quickly as it appeared.

"Besides, you see one streaker, you've seen them all."

Mrs. Dearing is a native of this area and recently moved back to Cass City with her husband from Mayville. He is a carpenter and plays guitar in a local band.

Stretch your hamburger dollar

"Those hamburgers are great! What did you do to them?" This is what you'll hear when you add some hidden ingredients to your hamburger. Not only will it cut cost, but the hamburgers may be more moist, more tender and have a more interesting flavor.

For one pound of ground beef, add one and a half tablespoons chopped onion, one teaspoon of salt and a little pepper. Moisten the mixture with an egg, one fourth cup of water and one third cup instant nonfat dry milk powder. The result? About six or seven light, good-sized patties that are tasty and just as nutritious as the all-beef kind. They won't shrink as much in cooking either. And the dry milk and egg have added important nutrients.

This hamburger extender lets you feed six or seven people with just one pound of ground beef. Usually, you'd just satisfy four or five.

And this recipe is also a good one for cooking on an outdoor grill. More of the moisture stays in the patty, and the combination of flavors makes a super meal.

BETTER HEALTH

Good news about hepatitis

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Only a very small number of people who contract infectious hepatitis are going to die of it, but each year more than 50,000 Americans get sick enough with it to seek medical help.

The yellow tint of the normally white portion of the eyeball, as well as the skin; the nausea, loss of appetite and general sense of debilitation can cause weeks of illness.

It is often particularly disturbing to those who contract this unpleasant inflammation of the liver cells, because at first it is often difficult to know whether you are really sick or just goofing off.

This is because when you are up and around in the early phases of the disease you feel awful and yet, after an hour or two of lying down, you may think it was all a false alarm.

because you seem to have recovered. So you get up and abruptly you are sick again.

I have seen so many self-doubting Thomases who tell me such a story over the phone, who privately suspect themselves of being neurotic, that it is almost a tip-off to what is really happening. A quick clue to the piling of bile pigments in the blood, which causes the yellow discoloration (jaundice) of the eyes and the skin, can be found in the urine, even if it is not particularly dark in color, as it often is in infectious hepatitis.

A sample of urine is shaken vigorously in a test tube. Foam quickly forms that is white in normal urine but is frankly yellow in the presence of jaundice. The test is appropriately enough called the "shake test."

Of course, additional blood tests are customarily done to measure the seriousness of the inflammation and to follow its course.

We know that infectious hepatitis is caused by a virus that can be transmitted from one person to another, and that sometimes it comes as a complication of injections with poorly sterilized needles. Drug addicts are the chief offenders here. Much too often it follows a blood transfusion from a donor who was an unsuspected carrier of the virus.

But it is only very recently that researchers at the Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, a branch of the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md., have announced the results of more than 10 years of trying to isolate the virus.

Special electron-microscope techniques have now made possible the first identification of the virus believed to be the culprit that causes infectious hepatitis.

This is important because, until you isolate and grow the specific virus of a disease, you cannot begin the development of a vaccine to give immunity to potential victims and protect them against it. With this critical step now accomplished, the way may well be cleared for the achievement of the long sought-after goal — an effective vaccine.

It may also well mean that more can now be learned about the so-called "aggressive" forms of hepatitis, which can cause severe chronic illness and in some forms is rapidly fatal.

The Face of The Times

Wendy is the outdoor type . . . doesn't mind the wind in her face . . . hair blowing in the breeze . . . loves to ski and go mountain climbing. She's the picture of slightly-disheveled beauty. But bring her indoors—the first thing Wendy reaches for is a comb.

Disorder cannot mar beauty when there is a natural or reasonable cause. But the disorder that comes from irresponsibility or violence casts its ugliness over everything it touches.

Doesn't this mean a growing appreciation of the Church's vital role in our society? The dishevelment we see on the face of the times didn't happen with a passing gust of wind. We need—our world needs—the religious foundation on which a stable society must stand.

Banks receive 4-H citation

The Mayville State Bank and the State Savings Bank of Unionville have been awarded the 4-H Silver Clover Citation from the Michigan 4-H Foundation. This citation represents generous support of Michigan 4-H Youth Programs via the Michigan 4-H Foundation.

Serving 214,000 young people, the Michigan 4-H Foundation assists in formulating and financing special programs which strengthen the size and effectiveness of the total 4-H program, reports Bernie Jardot, Extension 4-H youth agent.

Locally, says Jardot, over 3600 young people have several opportunities to benefit from the foundation sponsorship of program enrichment, leader training, program development, and international activities.

Corruption wins no more than honesty in the long run, but leads in most of the short races.

Our Five AM Board of Directors Meeting

MICHIGAN BEAN DEALS WITH A NEW KIND OF GROWER

Twenty years ago the family farm was run by the head of the household. He made all the decisions. Today with the advent of new technology, more sophisticated marketing procedures and greater educational opportunities, the family farm operates like a corporation. All members are involved in the important decisions. The sons have probably received technical degrees in agronomy, thus expanding the base of knowledge on which decisions are made. Since all members participate in sharing the profits, likewise they share in deciding when, how much, and where to sell their commodities. Should they hedge, store or contract, and in what ratio? They may not sit in a fancy conference room, but today's kitchen corporation manages a half-million dollar investment that keeps food on your table.

Police report five area traffic accidents

Five minor traffic accidents were reported to area police last week, two occurring Friday in Cass City.

At 1:10 p.m. Friday, a car driven by William McKinley Patch, 77, of 4150 Seeger St., collided with a parked car belonging to Virginia Farmer of 5988 River Rd. at the intersection of Church and Weaver Streets.

Cass City Police reported Patch was backing out of a parking space and backed across Church Street, striking the Farmer auto. Patch told police his foot slipped from the brake pedal to the gas pedal.

Incumbents

returned to office Monday

Some 111 persons cast ballots Monday in Cass City village elections that saw all incumbents returned to office and one race involving a write-in candidate.

Official certified totals show Village President Lambert Althaver polling 102 votes; trustees Gary Jones, 104; William Bliss Jr., 99; Dr. D.E. Rawson, 105, and Nat Tuttle, 102.

Assessor Dan Erla polled 53 votes.

In the race for clerk, write-in candidate Marjorie Dickinson polled 26 votes against incumbent Celia House's 71. For treasurer, Ms. Dickinson polled 23 votes against Ms. House's 76.

GAGETOWN RESULTS

In unofficial returns from Gagetown village elections, Fred Sullivan led four candidates in polling for village council. Sullivan received 44 votes, with Dennis Koch and Richard Burdon each receiving 43 votes. Tom Riehl polled 29 votes.

Madeline Sontag led non-candidate Marjorie Rice in balloting for clerk and treasurer by a 38-22 count.

Village president Lawrence Cummings ran unopposed for re-election and polled 53 votes.

No ticket was issued and police reported no injuries.

At 3:40 p.m., cars driven by Craig James Downing, 17, of 4707 State St., Gagetown, and Kathleen Bridget Holcomb, 61, of 4113 West St., collided at the intersection of Church and West Streets.

Cass City Police said the Downing auto was traveling west on Church Street and attempted to make a left turn onto West. The Holcomb vehicle was traveling north on West and, according to police, stopped, then started up, striking the Downing vehicle.

Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued.

Also Friday, a car driven by Michael William King, 21, of Marlette went out of control and landed in a ditch while traveling west on Bevens Road just east of Burmon Road.

State Police from the Caro post who investigated said King reported something darted in front of the car. He said he hit the brakes, lost control of the car which ran off the south edge of the road and flipped.

King sought his own medical treatment. The accident took place at 7:30 p.m. Later Friday, a car driven by Rebecca Ruth Freeman, 17, of 1417 N. Kingston Rd., Deford, went out of control on Deckerville Road a quarter-mile east of M-81 and landed in a ditch.

Tuscola county sheriff's deputies who investigated said Ms. Freeman was eastbound on Deckerville Rd. when her car went out of control on icy pavement and slid into a ditch on the north side of the road.

She was not injured in the mishap which took place at 9:45 p.m.

An Owendale man escaped serious injury Monday morning when the car he was driving collided with a car driven by Loren E. Collison, 46, of Pigeon.

Huron County Sheriff's deputies said Frederick W. Kausch, 34, failed to yield the right of way at the intersection of Bay Port and Canboro Roads, four miles west of Sebawaing.

Collison suffered minor injuries.

Deputies said the Kausch vehicle pulled out in front of the Collison auto, which went off the highway and struck a utility pole.

The mishap took place at 11:00 a.m.

Red Hawks down MLS 76-74 for finals slot Friday

AH, VICTORY! Nothing could be finer than a regional win in the last seconds of a heartstopping contest and Tuesday night's 76-74 win over Michigan Lutheran Seminary was no exception. Here, delirious players and cheerleaders show how it is.

SCOTT HARTEL finds himself in heavy traffic as he goes in for the shot Tuesday night against a determined Michigan Lutheran Seminary team. Guarding Hartel is No. 44, Gary Fahnenstiel who scored 35 points.

Wow! The pros couldn't have done it better.

With just three seconds on the clock, the Cass City Red Hawks moved the ball from beneath their own basket to just past center court from where Chuck Bliss fired as the final whistle sounded. The ball banked against the backboard and rebounded into the hoop for the two points that moved Cass City into the regional finals with a 76-74 decision over a good Michigan Lutheran Seminary team.

The shot climaxed a see-saw battle between the two schools that left the fans for both schools limp after it was over.

Prior to the game winning shot by Bliss, the Cardinals had used a full court press to tie the game after Cass City appeared to have it safely tucked away with an 11-point lead and less than four minutes left on the clock.

But the press and a young sharpshooter named Gary Fahnenstiel changed all of that. Fahnenstiel burned the nets from all angles and hit the open man after the press caused several Hawk turnovers and suddenly Hawk fans looked up and the score was tied.

With 1:28 on the clock it was 74-74 and Seminary turned to a control ball offense. They kept the ball until the clock ran down to eight seconds when Fahnenstiel launched one of his patented high arch shots for the basket. The ball spun almost lazily for the basket, hit the rim, bounced and was rebounded by Cass City. The Hawks called time out and set up the play that made a hero of Bliss and regional finalists of Cass City.

In the early going both teams seemingly had opportunities to put the game away. The Cardinals fast broke their way to an eight-point lead midway in the first quarter.

They moved from a 6-6 tie to a 16-8 advantage before Cass City called time to regroup.

The Hawks made defensive adjustments and started closing the gap. By the end of the first quarter it was 19-15 and with less than a minute gone in the second period the Hawks had tied the score at 19-19.

Cass City moved into a 29-24 advantage midway in the second quarter only to see Seminary come back.

Chuck Bliss let it be known that this was going to be his night at this point. He went into the game for Ken Lowe who came off a sick bed to play Tuesday and seconds later he scored his first basket.

He scored several others before the period ended to move the Hawks ahead, 39-31, with 2:01 left in the first half. At the half Cass City was ahead 53-47.

The Hawks managed to keep ahead of Seminary playing most of the second and third quarters without Nick Gibas who was in early foul trouble.

When he left the game early in the third period after picking up his fourth foul Cass City was ahead by 10.

Midway through the third quarter the Cardinals rallied behind Fahnenstiel to move back into contention.

He started hitting from all over the court and when double teamed, hit the open man with devastating accuracy.

With 1:17 left the Cass City margin was just four points. That was as low as it was to get until the final moments when the Cardinals rallied to set the stage for the stirring ending already described.

While Bliss made the big shot at the end of the game there was glory for all. Scott Hartel led all Hawk scorers with 24 points. Dave Hillaker pitched in 16 and played his best game of the year on the boards. Jerry Toner whipped in 9 field goals from his favorite spot outside the key and played a fine floor game. Gibas rebounded and played a strong defensive game until the fouls caught up with him.

For the Cardinals it was all Fahnenstiel. He scored 13 field goals and 9 of 9 charity tosses for 35 points... about his average for the year.

His shooting ability drew out the defense and his passes set up his teammates for easy baskets all night. He appeared to be all everyone said he was.

The victory moved the Hawks into the finals Friday at 7:30 p.m. They will play the winner of the Flint Bendle-USA game. Flint will be the decided favorite in the game to be played Wednesday night.

The box score:

Energy crunch may aid local landowners

The energy crisis may be a blessing in disguise for area landowners who have watched their assessments climb steadily the last few years through skyrocketing values.

That's the opinion of Elkland Township Supervisor Ed Karr. Karr said land sales in the Cass City area have slowed almost to a halt due to the fuel crunch. Persons from Detroit who formerly gobbled up land at inflated prices are now backing away from buying, fearful of not being able to buy gasoline as well as the area employment situation.

Karr said a drop in demand by outsiders will aid full-time residents because it will tend to stabilize valuations over a number of years and alleviate situations similar to this year's 23 per cent average increase in assessments.

Karr said before the energy crunch hit, city investors were buying any kind of land they could in hopes of building either a cottage or full-time residence and commuting to work.

Now, scarce gasoline supplies, along with an unsettled economy, have brought a slowdown in such investments.

"The whole situation in this country today is making people hesitate," Karr said. "If employment were to stabilize and gasoline got more plentiful, I think you'd see things pick up again."

Karr said a shortage of housing still exists in the Cass City area and this, coupled with outside buying pressure, made things worse. The present respite should help ease this situation, he said.

"Before, people would pay any amount of money for a house just to have one," Karr said. "A situation like that tends to punish the person who doesn't want to sell because it drives his taxes up. High assessments and high land values don't mean much if you can't sell."

Karr indicated fewer farms are being broken up and sold for building sites. Farmers are holding onto land, now that commodity prices have shot up, Karr said. He cited instances of land renting for as much as $103 per acre as a sign that farming now means as much or more than selling. "It's estimated that it will take an additional 30 tons of grain each year just to keep up with the present population," he said. "This is bound to make farming more appealing."

Local real estate firms report large drops in farmland sales in the past year and report receiving calls regarding availability of gasoline before even venturing out to look at property.

One advantage, a real estate salesman said, is that Cass City is accessible on a tank of gas from Detroit.

Another large factor, he said, is the economy. Persons who would normally be employed in the automobile industry in Saginaw and Bay City and who might have chosen to live here before the energy crisis, now are having second thoughts.

Real estate firms agree land is not as available as it was a year ago. Some has been withdrawn from the market and returned to farming, while other, more marginal land, is simply being held.

Farm homes are being sold but undeveloped land, when available, is not moving as fast.

Another factor contributing to the slowdown in area land sales is the new land use act which calls for strict licensing and restriction on sales of 10 parcels or more.

This has tended to impede sellers as much or more than buyers, most firms agree.

Persons building new homes are finding problems securing fuel to heat them. In some areas, mortgages on new homes are not being granted unless the owner can guarantee he can obtain heating fuel.

Most fuel distributors are still not taking on new customers and electricity is the only open source of heat.

Another area real estate salesman said his sales on five and 10-acre parcels for building sites has dropped 80 per cent from a year ago. He said a sale of five acres Sunday was his first of that type since October.

"Back in September I took deposits from two Detroit factory workers on two 10-acre parcels," he said. "In October, I had to return the deposits because they were afraid of the gas shortage. Most of the calls I get from the Detroit area are from people who think we don't have any gasoline up here."

He cited fuel, layoffs, inflation and general state of the economy for the drop-off in popularity of building sites. Presently, five-acre parcels are ranging in the neighborhood of $5,000 and up.

"Ten-acre parcels I sold back in 1968 for $3,200 are going for $7,500 today," he said.

He added that former buyers who might have been interested in additional parcels have also dropped out of the market because of a fear of being stranded.

Farms, on the other hand, are more popular than ever. He said complete farms are hard to find and are selling rapidly. Marginal farmland is renting for as much as $55 per acre, he said. One local farmer reportedly made $15,000 in rentals alone, he added.

Most real estate firms believe demand for the smaller parcels will pick up with the advent of warmer weather and an easing of restrictions on gasoline sales.

Says thanks for care in hospital

Dear Editor,

After spending eight days in Hills and Dales Hospital, I would like to say a few things. I think this town is extremely lucky to have Dr. Lee practice here. He is very thorough and direct. I'd recommend him to anyone looking for a good doctor.

Everyone treated me very well. Thanks to each nurse and nurses aid.

Even the lady from house-keeping visited while she hung the drapes.

The dieticians - exceptional - Mrs. Seeley taught me what I now can and cannot eat. The lab technicians so "painlessly?" taking their samples.

In my opinion we now have top notch medical facilities and service. Thank you all again.

This is what JIM SPARLING'S campaign is all about PEOPLE

From the outset of his Congressional campaign, Jim Sparling has sought people involvement. This he has accomplished. He further stated that openness, candor and honesty were needed to restore confidence and trust in the elective system. He has publicly released his personal financial statement; he has released his tax returns; he has publicized his campaign funding for all to see; and he has resigned from his post when it wasn't required. He has been a man of his word.

PEOPLE... from all walks of life... have contributed their time, their abilities and their financial help in his behalf.

"It's time that the people had a "common guy" approach and voice in Congress. I ask for the opportunity to prove my capabilities as your Congressman." -- Jim Sparling

Observers view 8th race as key test

Voters from Michigan's Eighth Congressional District will not only be nominating candidates to fill Congressman James Harvey's vacant House seat when they trudge to the polls in Tuesday's primary election.

They will also be passing judgement on the national political scene and observers from both major parties will be watching how voting patterns in the traditionally Republican stronghold develop.

All candidates seeking their party nomination agree this is no ordinary election and national issues will play a large factor in the outcome of the vote. Many see it as another referendum on President Nixon and the Watergate affair--referendums which so far have gone decidedly against Republicans in Michigan and Ohio.

The top candidates who survive Tuesday's balloting will slug it out April 16 for Harvey's seat. Under the law, whoever wins the seat will have to stand for election again in November with the other 43 members of the House of Representatives.

In recent history, Tuscola county has maintained its rock-ribbed Republican allegiance through good and bad times. Some observers see a strong GOP showing, citing high farm prices.

for the seat vacated when Harvey resigned to take a federal judgeship Feb. 1.

Acknowledged front-runner is James Sparling, 45, former administrative aide to Harvey. Most observers give him the inside track, citing his political connections in Washington and a power base from which to launch an all-out campaign for the seat.

Sparling served as Harvey's assistant for 13 years and has pledged to "carry on" the former congressman's program. While his name is not yet a household word in the district, observers feel he is more recognizable than either of his opponents, State Senator Robert Richardson or Workman Compensation Appeal Board Chairman Michael Gillman.

Sparling has stated flatly in his campaign that the district will send a Republican to Congress and that he expects to be the man. He cites the long history of Republican victories in the district and says national issues such as Watergate will not have much of an effect on the outcome of the election.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

There is no shortage of Republican candidates vying

ROBERT RICHARDSON

Richardson has served in the State Senate since first being elected in 1964 and has served as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Richardson, 47, a Saginaw resident, served as administrative assistant to the late Congressman Alvin M. Bentley, assistant U.S. attorney for Eastern Michigan and Saginaw county prosecuting attorney.

He is expected to draw heavily from certain areas of the district and is an acknowledged vote-getter.

Richardson, along with Sparling, has made financial disclosures and admits credibility in elected officials will be one of the issues facing them. Another is political apathy among voters who, they feel, are fed up with politics altogether.

MICHAEL GILLMAN

Gillman, 34, was the first non-lawyer ever appointed to the Workman Compensation Appeal Board, and some feel he may be able to use this fact to his advantage, citing corruption among members of the law profession.

He has served on the board two and a half years and has been involved in Republican state and local affairs for 14 years. He served on the last Bay County Board of Supervisors and was re-elected twice to the Board of Commissioners.

Gillman points to his credentials as head of a major labor agency in an industrial state in the campaign and also to the fact that as a local administrator, he has close contact with voters.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

Front-running Democratic hopeful in the race is State Rep. J. Robert Traxler, 42, of Bay City. He will oppose Robert E. Davis and John M. Grillo, both of Bay City.

Traxler is expected to capture the nomination because he is more widely known than his two rivals and also because he has been a popular politician in Lansing for a number of years.

Traxler has said he considers this special election unique and believes Democrats have their first opportunity to take over in recent memory.

He has said he is running against the Nixon administration and does not care who his opponent is.

ROBERT TRAXLER

Traxler has been a member of the State House of Representatives since 1962, and has served as House Majority Leader and Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Davis, 38, operates the Tuscola Motel near Bay City and ran as the American Independent Party's candidate for the House of Representatives. He recently resigned from the AIP in order to run as a Democrat.

Grillo, 30, is the manager of an electronics store in Bay City and entered the race without widespread political backing or exposure.

Arrest Gagetown man on DUIL

Cass City Police arrested a Gagetown man Friday and charged him with driving while under the influence of liquor.

Bud Melvin McGuire, 32, was arrested after allegedly being chased by police at speeds upwards of 80 miles an hour west of Cass City on M-81.

According to police, McGuire's car was seen leaving a parking spot at the Cass Tavern at 3:20 p.m. Friday and headed west on Main Street. Police said they followed the car and noticed it crossed the centerline of the road.

About a half-mile west of town, police said, the McGuire auto speeded up to 75, passed several cars and then allegedly was clocked at 80 before passing four more cars and finally stopping at the corner of M-81 and Cedar Run Road.

Cass City police then arrested McGuire and transported him to the Tuscola county jail.

VANDALISM

Vandals smashed a windshield on an antique truck belonging to Wallace Kappen of 3192 E. Cass City Rd., Saturday, causing about $50 damage.

Kappen told Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies the truck, a 1930 Chevrolet, was parked next to a tool shed on his property when he discovered someone had thrown a rock through the windshield. Kappen told officers the incident took place sometime between Tuesday, March 5, and Saturday.

Red Hawks down stubborn Harbor Beach for title, 66-54

YOU CAN'T SEE him but he came down with the rebound. Hidden by Ronald Wruble (43) is Dave Hillaker. Wruble was a dominant force for the Pirates and kept his team in the game until the closing seconds.

Before a near capacity crowd Saturday at Cass City High School gym the Cass City Red Hawks did what had to be done to successfully defend their District Class C basketball crown.

The Hawks defeated a tough Harbor Beach team, 66-54, in a tense battle that wasn't decided till the final minutes of the fourth quarter.

It was a beautiful turnaround for the Hawks, who two weeks previously reached a season's low in an uninspired loss to Vassar.

But there was no resemblance between that team and the team that rolled to three straight victories in the tournament to win the district crown.

For make no mistake . . . Cass City defeated a tough team Saturday when Harbor Beach bowed.

Led by tall, talented Ronald Wruble, the Beachers kept the pressure on Cass City the entire 32 minutes.

Despite the closeness of the game, Cass City never trailed in the second half.

The Hawks opened the game with a spurge that quickly produced six points before the Pirates found the range.

Stung by the Hawk flurry, the Beachers came back strong and tied the game at eight-all. Pacing the Pirates was Wruble, who controlled the boards and whipped in six of the eight points.

But the Hawks had an offensive weapon of their own. It was Sophomore Ken Lowe, who played another outstanding game for Cass City.

Lowe, who has come into his own in the last three weeks of the season, was obviously an unknown quantity for Harbor Beach.

In the two regular season games, Lowe wasn't a factor to be reckoned with and the defense concentrated on Scott Hartel and the middle.

As a result Lowe was open on the side and he made the most of it.

By the final whistle he had picked up 16 points and did yeoman's duty on defense helping to stymie Wruble, whom the Hawks double teamed all night after the opening minutes.

But it was a team victory for Cass City. Jerry Toner and Dave Hillaker consistently found the open man. Nick Gibas, who many felt was the key to the Hawks' chances, played a fine game and avoided serious foul trouble.

He was especially effective on defense.

Both teams had trouble finding the basket in the first half. After Harbor Beach came back to tie the score in the first quarter, the team hit another cold spell while Cass City scored just enough to move into a 14-9 lead.

In the low scoring second period the Pirates chopped that margin to a meager two points and at the intermission the Hawks were in front 23-21.

Both clubs hit better in the third period as the teams traded baskets with Cass City maintaining a slight edge.

The four point margin at the end of three quarters remained through most of the final period. With 3½ minutes to go, the Pirates went into a full court press.

It caused one turnover and let Harbor Beach close to within a couple of points, but a moment later the Hawks beat the press for a cheap basket to up the margin again.

With four minutes left Cass City went into a control ball offense and played nearly flawlessly . . . coming up with the cheap basket or a foul nearly every time they gained possession.

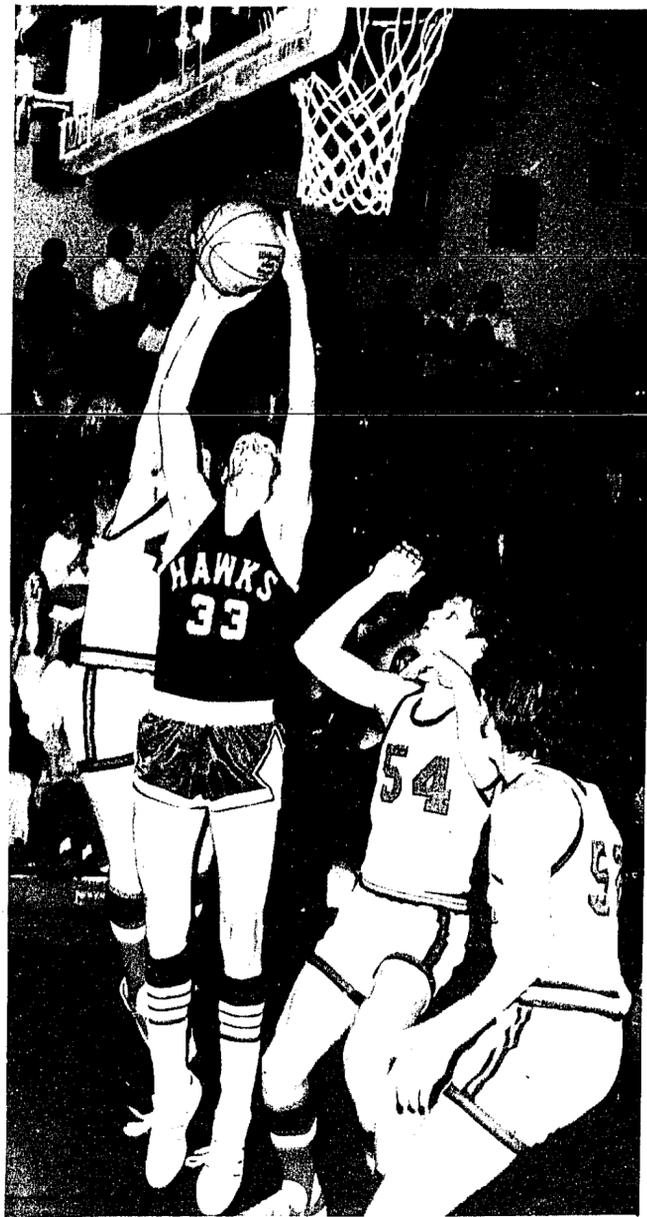

Cass City made 18 of 21 fouls for the night, and 12 of these were recorded in the final period.

The Hawks' scoring was well divided. Besides Lowe's 16, Gibas netted 15, Hartel, 14, Toner, 12, and Hillaker, 9. For Harbor Beach, Wruble netted 17. Other scorers for the Pirates were: Poppeck, 8; Wood, 7; Woycehoski, 10; Muehlfeld, 2; Messing, 4; Clark, 6.

Harbor Beach 9 12 15 18

WHEN JERRY TONER goes one on one against a basketball player he usually wins. He got this shot off despite a tough defense by David Muehlfeld of Harbor Beach.

PLAYING OUTSTANDING ball through the tournament was Ken Lowe, a sophomore. He goes up here for an easy two against Sandusky last Wednesday.

Hawks take sweet win over Sandusky, 84-75

Cass City High School rolled into the finals of the district Class C tournament Wednesday with a satisfying victory over the Sandusky Redskins 84-75, at the Cass City school gym.

The Hawks raced into an early 13-point lead and were never behind although the Redskins refused to fold under pressure and kept the heat on all the way to the final whistle.

It was Jerry Toner, Ken Lowe and Scott Hartel who provided the initial scoring punch as Cass City raced in front. The margin was a healthy 10 points at the end of the first quarter and zoomed to 16 points in the early moments of the second quarter.

But, Randy Mitchell, Sandusky's diminutive guard with the eagle eye for the basket, together with Reg Bulgrien, sparked a Redskin drive that closed the gap in a hurry.

With a little more than three minutes left, Sandusky had moved back to within two points and suddenly it was anybody's ball game.

Hartel, who scored most of his 21 points in the first half, took control for Cass City at this point and sparked a drive that quickly widened the lead again.

By halftime the Hawks were in front 40-32.

In the third period with Dave Hillaker hitting short poppers from the side of the key along the baseline, the Hawks threatened to put the game away for keeps. But each time the margin widened, Mitchell was there with a long bomb from the sides or a pass to the pivot good for a Sandusky marker.

At the end of the third quarter Cass City was in front 61-48.

Midway in the final canto the Hawks lost Nick Gibas, Hartel and Hillaker via fouls and the Redskins started closing in.

Local fans couldn't sit back in their chairs until about the final two minutes when Mitchell left to a standing ovation with five fouls.

After that there was no doubt that the Hawks were going to coast to victory.

Cass City exhibited the best scoring balance of the year with all five starters in double figures headed by Hartel, 21 and Toner, 19.
