

Three Cass City school board candidates air views

Cass City School District electors will choose one member to the Board of Education from a field of three candidates in Monday's school election. The contest is expected to draw only a light to moderate turnout, since no tax or bonding issues face voters.

Supt. Donald Crouse said a turnout of about 600 is expected.

Candidates for the board post made their views known prior to the election:

ELWYN HELWIG

Elwyn Helwig, 42, 6765 Pine St., has served longer than any other current board member, completing his 12th year. He is a native of Cass City and is a co-owner of Croft-Clara Lumber Co.

Helwig said he is seeking re-election because of his continued interest in the school, due in large part because he has three children in the system, one who graduated this year.

Basically, he said, he has no axe to grind and is generally satisfied with school operations as they stand.

He said he strongly favors the hiring of a special reading teacher who would work at all three elementary schools.

Helwig considers the present curriculum adequate and said accomplishments in recent years have helped make the school system one of the most desirable in the area. He added he is especially interested in the outcome of the upcoming annexation vote in the Owendale-Gagetown School district.

DAVE LOOMIS

Dave Loomis, 35, operates a 400-acre farm west of Cass City in partnership with his brother, Donald. He is a native of the area and is a graduate of Cass City High School. He attended Michigan State University.

Loomis and his wife, Joyce, have four children, two of them enrolled in elementary school.

Loomis said he is a candidate for the board of education because of his interest in the schools.

"As a citizen of this community and a parent, the education of children is important to me," he said. "I also feel a responsibility to serve my community in this capacity." Loomis said he is not aware of any changes that should be made in school curriculum.

"However, I would like to see more respect for school property and teachers (by) the students," he added. "If I am elected, I will do my best throughout the term to work for a continuance of good, sound educational programs for the good of all children and the community."

J.D. TUCKEY

J.D. Tuckey, a lifelong resident of the Cass City area, is president and co-owner of Tuckey Block Co. in Cass City and Caro. He spent three years in the Army and was employed at Walbro Corp. for 10 1/2 years and was chief engineer in the carburetor division for eight years.

J.D. TUCKEY

Tuckey is president of Parish Council at St. Pancratius church and maintenance officer of Elkland Township Fire Dept.

Tuckey said he is running for the board of education because "I have four children now attending school and am very interested that our tax dollar is spent wisely."

He said he would like to see more training in the trades such as carpentry and electrical.

Tuckey said he wants to see some changes in guidance counseling.

"I feel the guidance system should be improved so that the students are fully aware of what colleges offer in their field," he said.

SOME 75 Owen-Gage district voters gathered Tuesday night at Gagetown to hear Supt. Glenn Sanford and state school officials explain the upcoming annexation election next week. Voters will decide whether or not to annex their district to Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port.

Mayville senior dies in Friday crash

Graduation ceremonies at Mayville High School were more solemn than usual this year as seniors mourned the loss of one of their classmates who became Tuscola county's 11th traffic fatality of 1974 Friday night.

Scott Richard Smith, 18, died when the car he was driving flipped over twice at the intersection of Cat Lake and Blackmore Roads north of Mayville.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Caro Community

Hospital. Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said Smith was traveling south on Cat Lake Road and attempted to make a right turn onto Blackmore Road at a high rate of speed.

Deputies reported Smith lost control of the car and hit a ditch bank causing the car to flip twice, pinning the driver who was still in his safety belt, under the vehicle.

Three other passengers in the auto escaped with only minor injuries. The youths, all from Mayville, were treated at Caro Community Hospital.

TRUCK FLIPS

A Charlotte truck driver escaped with only minor injuries after his rig, loaded with $300,000 in electronic equipment, ran off M-53 in Evergreen township and rolled over in a ditch early Friday morning. Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies said Samuel E. Palmer, 51, was only slightly injured in the crash, which occurred at 7:20 a.m. Deputies said the truck was traveling south on M-53 when it left the road a half mile north of Downing Road, rolled and landed in a ditch on the west side of the highway. Police said the truck was owned by Mandrel Industries, Houston, Tex., and was being used in the area for geological research for an oil company. Concluded on page 17.

Owen-Gage voters face crucial split decision

Voters will decide the future of the Owendale-Gagetown School District when they go to the polls in Monday's annual school election.

A heavy voter turnout is expected in the referendum which seeks to annex the district to the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port School District. That district has already indicated it would allow all properties south of the Tuscola-Huron county line to annex to the Cass City district.

The vote comes as the third major decision by electors in just over a year and persons on either side of the issue predict chances of passage are not great.

Since April 30, 1973, voters have turned down annexation to the Unionville-Sebewaing district and rejected a $2.66 million bond issue to construct a new high school building.

Those advocating annexation cite advantages in curriculum and maintain more can be had for the education dollar in a larger district. Supporters of Owen-Gage cite the fact that a more personal type of education is available and say curriculum changes can be made. They add that a new building less ambitious than the defeated structure can be built and maintained.

In addition to deciding annexation, voters will also be asked to renew four mills and add two and one-half mills for operation, assuming the district still exists next fall.

Electors will also choose two Board of Education members who will serve on the Owen-Gage board if annexation is defeated.

Incumbents Kenneth Voelker and Richard Ziehm will face strong challenges from Ronald Reinhardt and Jack Brinkman. Reinhardt and Brinkman are basing their campaigns on retaining the district. As board members, Voelker and Ziehm supported annexation.

The four candidates vying for the two board posts gave their views on education in a series of recent interviews:

RONALD REINHARDT

Ronald Reinhardt, 31, owns and operates an 80-acre farm just south of Owendale. He taught five years in the Caseville Public School and has taught in Bad Axe Public Schools the last three years. He is the father of three children and is married to the former Judi Error of Owendale.

Reinhardt said he is running because he wants to maintain Owen-Gage as a separate district.

"I believe a successful school system is one that meets the individual needs of its children," Reinhardt said. "Owen-Gage has served the children of this district extremely well in the past and I can see no reason why it cannot continue to do so in the future."

Opposed to annexation, Reinhardt places emphasis on the cost of educating children in the existing system.

"Cost can only be determined by how much we are willing to spend on our children's education," he said. "I firmly believe that if we are to obtain the maximum educational opportunities for our children it will require the support and cooperation of all the concerned residents of our district."

If annexation fails to receive voter approval, Reinhardt advocates presenting another building proposal as soon as possible.

"I would hope that the Board of Education would present to the district a building project that would meet the needs of our district and yet find favor among our taxpayers," he said. "I would also like to see the Board of Education look into the possibility of developing a community education program. Such a program would let the residents of our district get more use out of our educational facilities, be it an educational or recreational experience."

Reinhardt is opposed to allowing property owners to transfer out of the district to neighboring districts.

"It is my opinion that whenever there is even the remotest possibility of any such action affecting the educational opportunities of the majority of children in a district, that such decisions should be made solely by the voters of that district," he said.

RICHARD ZIEHM

Richard Ziehm, a lifelong area resident, is a graduate of Sebewaing High School and Michigan State University. He is a Korean War Veteran and presently owns and operates a dairy farm southwest of Gagetown.

He is active on the DHIA State Board and the local board, and is active in Farm Bureau. Concluded on page 17.

Absentee ballots available

Absentee ballots for Owendale-Gagetown School District voters are available for the June 10 annual election, school officials announced this week.

Applications for absentee ballots are available in the school office in Owendale until Friday, June 7. Persons absent from the district election day, who are physically unable to attend polling, persons 65 and over, election inspectors in another precinct and persons giving religious reasons may request absentee ballots, officials said.

Automation squeeze hits local man

By Jim Ketchum

Automation started stealing jobs in America when the industrial revolution began in the 1700's, but in the past 20 years, more jobs than ever have been taken over by machines.

For most of that 20 years, Cliff Sowden, 45, never really gave automation much thought until the end of last year when it stole his job too.

Sowden, a Cass City native now living in Yale, worked for over 20 years as a printer for a number of daily newspapers in Michigan. His last job, at the Flint Journal, held the promise of good wages, fringe benefits and, one day, a pension.

Now it's only a memory. Sowden lost his printer's job two days before Christmas as a result of the Journal's switch from hot type production to cold type. He was one of 97 workers at the Journal who will eventually lose their jobs in the switch.

Sowden's career began before he finished high school with the North Branch Gazette, where he took an apprenticeship as a printer.

"It wasn't something I'd planned on all my life," he recalled as he operated a "utter in the back shop of the Chronicle, where he is filling in part-time. "It was just an opportunity and I took it. At the time, it meant good security and steady work."

Sowden worked two and one-half years until graduation from High School. Then he worked at the Huron Daily Tribune in Bad Axe for 10 years before spending 14 years in Yale.

"Then, in 1971, I got the urge to go big time and in February, I went to work at the Flint Journal," he said.

At that time, 150 printers were employed at the Journal which still used hot type methods of printing. Sowden recalled that the union, the International Typographical Union, practically did the hiring.

"You had to prove you could do 350 inches a day," he said. "Once you did that, you were in and were given a situation."

Things went well in Flint for about a year. Then rumors began floating around that the Journal would switch to cold type (photocomposition) methods of production.

Sowden knew what this meant — more work could be turned out using fewer men. With practically no experience in cold type, Sowden feared the worst.

Neither the union nor management knew how many men would be left when the switch was complete. By April, 1973, hot type had been replaced with cold and Sowden, 12th man from the bottom on the seniority list, could see the handwriting on the wall.

"They laid me off two days before Christmas," he said. "Then they hired me back until the second of February, and that was it."

Sowden said presently 90 printers are left at the Journal and when the next contract comes up, management has already told union officials they can guarantee jobs for 53 workers.

Since February, Sowden has drawn unemployment compensation along with $45 per month sub pay from a fund set up by union and management at the Journal.

His wife took a job driving a school bus to provide additional income for the family which includes three daughters, 19, 16 and 14.

NOT BITTER

In spite of the experience which finds the veteran printer drawing unemployment for the first time in his life, Sowden is not bitter.

"It was a profession over 400 years old and I just happened to get in on the last 20 years of it," he said philosophically. "No, I'm not bitter about the thing. It doesn't do any good to be bitter about it."

He explained that when he was laid off at the Journal, he received one week's severance pay, plus built-up vacation, sick leave and retirement. This settlement amounted to about $1,200.

Sowden has 10 more weeks of unemployment left to draw. In the meantime, he has filled in at the Chronicle on a day-to-day basis in the job printing shop.

What does the future hold? Right now, Sowden isn't too sure.

"I just missed a job in Romeo by one day," he said. "I had a job just about sewed up in another place when that one fell through, too. So I'm just not sure."

He said he would like to stay in the printing business, preferably working with hot type if possible. He explained that if he went through the long process of retraining for cold type work, it would be just like starting over again with 20 years down the drain.

"I remember at the time the union felt there was no way the newspapers could scrap millions of dollars worth of rotary presses," he said. "Then they found a process to make a relief plate that could be used with a rotary press that would do the job."

Yet, as he views the printing business today, he sees automation taking over more jobs that men like himself used to perform.

Both Newspapers, for instance, use a new computer that takes want-ads, places them in alphabetical order, classifies them and automatically bills them out. Meanwhile, Sowden still searches for a job and hopes for the best.

"I almost went to work at a gas station in Yale, just to have something to do," he said. "The pay wouldn't have been the greatest, but at least it would have been helping out."

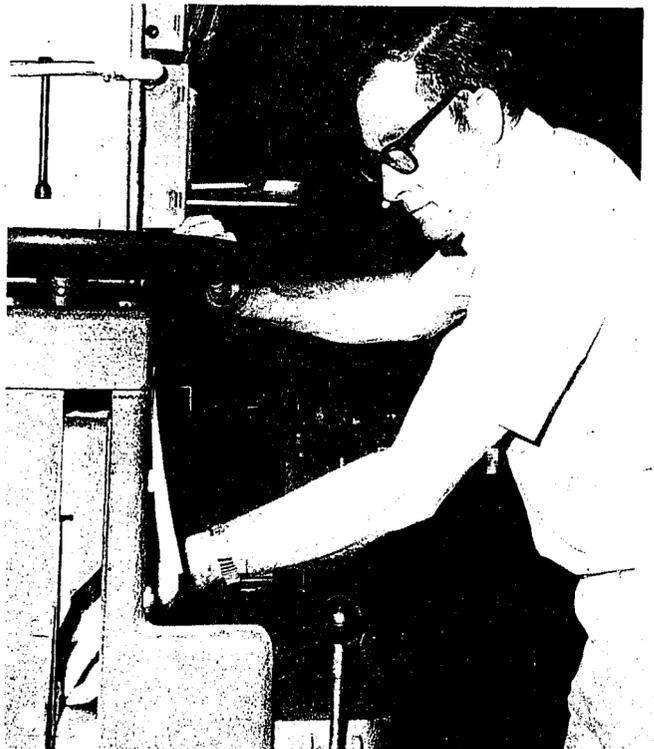

At 45, Sowden remains hopeful, but realizes that he is in an age bracket where second jobs are hard to find and second careers nearly impossible to start.

"It's not like the old days when the big newspapers always hired more help than they needed," Sowden said. "They would rather have someone standing around not doing anything than to come up short on labor at the rush."

He says he feels much more fortunate than the printers in one Indiana paper. After the switch to cold type was made, the company tore up the union contract and instituted wholesale layoffs of nearly the entire back shop.

He's happy with the settlement at Flint, but would be happier if he could get another job in his trade of over 20 years.

Chances of that happening, however, grow steadily dimmer with more papers making the conversion and automation stealing more jobs. "That's part of life though," Cliff Sowden said philosophically. "That's the way it is."

VETERAN PRINTER Cliff Sowden faces an uncertain future since automation claimed his job at the Flint Journal. Sowden was laid off after 20 years in the printing business when the Journal switched from hot type to cold type production methods.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall R. Wright

Laurelei Ann Reed became the bride of Randall Roland Wright in a wedding ceremony held Saturday, April 27, at Deford Community Church. Rev. Dale A. Sherry officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed of Cass City. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright of Cass City.

The bride wore a daron polyester organza gown with scalloped detachable chapel train trimmed with 3-D cotton Venice lace at the neckline, bodice and sleeves.

A chapel-length illusion veil held by a camelot Venice lace headpiece accented the gown. She carried a bouquet of daisies, sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was April Reed, cousin of the bride. She wore a three-D daron polyester rose print gown, maize on white in a raised waistline silhouette. Ruffles encircled the neckline and hem. A maize velvet waistband with back bow and streamers highlighted the gown.

She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies with yellow ribbons and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Vickie Reed, cousin of the bride, Anne Tracy, and Deb Francis, cousins of the groom.

They chose gowns matching the maid of honor and carried yellow daisies with yellow ribbons and baby's breath.

Flower girl was Denise Francis, who wore a gown matching the maid of honor. She carried a white basket with yellow daisies, baby's breath, trimmed with a yellow ribbon.

Best man was Jay Tuckey. Groomsmen included John Hacker, Mike Rutkowski, friends of the groom, Scott and Steve Reed, brothers of the bride.

Ringbearer was Chris Leshkivick, nephew of the groom. The bride's mother chose a blue polyester jersey gown with a raised waistband, flared floor-length skirt and braided trim at the waist and neck. Her flowers were white daisies.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink gown and chose white daisies as her flowers. A reception for 250 persons was held at Deford Elementary School following the ceremony.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Cass City High School.

The bridegroom is a 1973 graduate of Cass City High School and is employed at Cole Carbide.

After a wedding trip planned for the last week of June, the couple will reside in Cass City.

This is national girl-watching week. The editorial department of the Chronicle is doing its part.

Name it and Jim McCoy has probably taken a stab at it one time or another. His latest of course is Cable TV which is now debuting in Cass City and Tuscola county.

I wouldn't attempt to tell all of the things that Jim has done but here are a few that I know about.

He's been a farm implement dealer, a newspaper advertising salesman for two newspapers, a radio advertising salesman, a part owner of WKYO in Caro, a part owner of a Cable TV outfit in mid-Michigan and a real estate salesman. McCoy has headquartered in Kinde, Bad Axe, Caro and Mt. Pleasant. While he has changed jobs as often as the weather, his affection for the Thumb has remained unwavering.

McCoy and his wife are both natives of Cass City and are quick to say that for them the rural life of the Thumb is where it's at.

It may well be that Cass City will survive its critical labor-management year without major trouble. Walbro recently okayed a pact without a strike. Wednesday afternoon employees at General Cable, the village's largest employer, were to have met to vote on a tentative agreement reached by the Union bargaining committee.

Employees are now working on an extension of the present contract. The extension expires Friday.

Okay you collectors of memorabilia, this is for you. Mrs. Florence Manning of Box 10, Reston, Manitoba, Can., writes that she has a tiny urn shaped china ornament. On the side is painted a picture with printing under it that says "High and Public School Building, Cass City, Michigan". On the bottom is 1891.

The information was contained in a letter to Supt. Donald Crouse at Cass City High School.

Regular readers of this trivia will recall that I reported a few weeks ago that when horse manure was advertised in the liners there wasn't a stampede of garden freaks lining up to get it.

Fred Auten says he read it here and went out and got a load. One load is enough, says Fred, who points out that there is still plenty left.

You'd better believe that it could become a downright ticklish scene before it's over. It will be if Cass City's baseball team wins the regional title this Saturday.

If that happens the team moves into State final competition the following Saturday, June 15.

And June 15 is the date that Julie Kile and baseball coach Fred Hurlburt plan to be married.

And don't take for a minute suggest that Skip Pranger, the JV coach, lack over. How can you run a wedding without the best man. . . a role that Pranger has promised to fill.

IN GAS-SAVING ECONOMY CARS, THE DODGE BOYS ARE RIGHT ON TARGET.

DART SWINGER AUTOMATIC GOT 23.6 MILES PER GALLON

IN THE USAC "MILES-PER-GALLON SHOWDOWN."

Dodge CHRYSLER AUTHORIZED DEALERS

Our Darts feature USAC-proven economy.

Our popular little six-cylinder Dart Swinger (with an automatic transmission, no less) got 23.6 mpg, and that was better gas mileage than that of both the Chevy Nova and Ford Maverick Sixes equipped with standard transmissions.

Our economy-minded Dodge 318 V8 got 19.6 mpg in the same USAC test. As a matter of fact, that Dart Sport with the 318 V8 got better gas mileage than the Nova Six in all three phases of the "Showdown." Now, that's economy.

The USAC "Miles-Per-Gallon Showdown" was a three-phase test using nonprofessional drivers. Mileage figures appearing in this ad are from the light city traffic phase of that test which covered a distance of 108 miles at an average speed of 25 mph. For complete results and more surprising facts, see your nearby Dodge Dealer.

Ex-residents earn degrees

Kenneth Bothell, a former resident, this month received his Master of Science degree in Studio Art from Eastern Texas State University.

His graduate exhibit consisted of hand-blown glass and ceramic objects. He will spend the summer on a Texas ranch after visiting his parents in Phoenix. Then he will go to Richmond, Va., for further study.

Richard Bothell this month received his Bachelor of Arts degree in mathematics from the University of Arizona. He plans to teach mathematics this fall.

Both are graduates of Lapeer High School. Their parents are Vernon and Elinor Bothell, formerly of Cass City.

Hills and Dales General Hospital

Mrs. Ira Gerstenberger of Sandusky; Ezra Mosher, Mrs. Elizabeth Anthes, Mrs. Gerald Finkbeiner of Gagetown.

Those who contribute the least to public enterprise are usually the most critical.

Home economy is one more thing that's much talked about, but very seldom practiced.

Mrs. Robert M. Donahue

Miriam L. Zehnder and Robert M. Donahue were married Friday, May 24, in Zion Lutheran Church, Bay City. Parents of the newlyweds are the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Herman F. Zehnder, Bay City, and Dr. and Mrs. Harold T. Donahue, Cass City. The Rev. Zehnder officiated.

The bride wore a gown of sata peau and rosepoint lace, styled with a controlled skirt with a deep flounce at the hemline extending into a chapel train. The lace bodice featured a wedding ring neckline and long fitted sleeves. A matching lace-edged veil completed her attire, and she carried a cascade of orchids, stephanotis and white roses.

The bridesmaids were Carol Fredrickson, Micheline Suchyta, Mrs. Barbara Hebert and Lori McGivern, all of Bay City.

The best man was Alan Zawilinski of Cass City. Groomsmen were Thomas Phillips of Detroit and Jeffrey Davis of Essexville. John and Richard Donahue, brothers of the groom were ushers.

A reception was held at Zehnders of Frankenmuth.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

Maybe John Bifoss was right.

Bifoss, for you Johnny-come-latelys was a coach here in non-winning years who was fired by the school board.

Bifoss was on the coaching staff when athletes that broke the rules were summarily kicked off the athletic team for the year. No suspensions, no second chances.

After he left, the rules were modified and offenders are now brought before an athletic council and the results invariably have been suspension for a couple of games or less.

So the athletes know that the penalties for smoking, drinking, cussing, etc. won't be that much. As a result Cass City teams have staged some sorry exhibitions over the last several years.

The theory behind the present policy is that it doesn't do any good to kick a boy off completely for rules infractions. Giving a second chance should enable the sports program to do what it was originally designed for. . . help the student to become a better citizen.

All of which makes sense in theory. . . but comes up short in practice.

The slap-on-the-wrist penalty slides off the boys involved like water off a duck's back. On the field Cass City has acquired an unenviable reputation for poor sportsmanship and back-alley language and conduct.

That's a harsh observation and for me, personally, a sad one.

Nothing turns me on more than seeing some of the school's athletes with a considerable amount of talent perform. Nothing turns me off more than having them spoil it with conduct that has no place in the game.

Building a better citizen and the "second chance" theory is a powerful argument. No question. But what's good for the individual may be harmful to the peer group.

What about the hundreds of other kids in the program? There are hundreds, you know, when you count all the various teams in all the grades and high school.

When the star of the team can survive with conduct that hurts the entire school, what about the underclassmen coming up?

There isn't much of a standard for them to meet, is there? Not much incentive to become better citizens. Not really any pride in belonging to the team.

Let's not make the mistake in thinking that more stringent rules will build better teams over the long haul.

Chances are that putting up with the talented non-conformists will result in more school trophies than ever will be achieved by kicking them off.

The sad fact is that an athlete in high school who drinks, smokes and carouses can still be a much more potent force than one who obeys all the rules and is blessed with little talent.

That still leaves the question: how important is winning?

The answer may determine whether the school policy is retained or changed.

"If It Fitz . . ." Priest wears wrong garments

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It is splendid that President Nixon has his own private priests to part the red sea of acrimony which is floating the desks in the Oval Office.

The Rev. John McLaughlin, a Jesuit priest, is also a full-time presidential aide with an office in the White House. This has not been a good season for presidential aides, what with indictments and jail terms and forced resignations. It was clever of Nixon to bring a man of God to restore some dignity and credibility to the presidential team. Father McLaughlin is obviously doing a good job, even if he was a 3rd choice behind Norman Vincent Peale and Danny Thomas.

But I think Father McLaughlin is making a mistake by never wearing his Roman collar when he appears on TV in a Nixon commercial. He dresses the same as every other sincere spokesman, with a striped tie and conservative suit. He might as well be giving one of those aspirin lectures.

If I were writing the McLaughlin scenario, I would dress him something like St. Francis of Assisi. The long, horsehair cassock with rope belt would underscore the absence of vicuna coats in the Nixon administration. The long staff would be fine for shepherding newsmen and keeping Dan Rather from testing the authenticity of the halo. And the pigeons of peace, one on each shoulder, would speak for themselves. It need be, they could speak for themselves all over the newsmen.

Can't you just see it now on the White House lawn? Wow. Dressed like that, Father McLaughlin could sell a used car while Nixon was still fiddling with the odometer.

I'm all for Father McLaughlin and his political parish. I have to be. Remember a few years ago when many clergymen were participating in civil rights and anti-war demonstrations? A complaint often heard was that they should stay in their pulpits and preach the Gospel, rather than picket the Pentagon and help Martin Luther King to overcome. But I disagreed. The ministers should minister to the people who really need it. I always said, They should go into the streets and help the oppressed and protest injustice and march against an immoral war. To me, this was more important than showing up at 10 a.m. every Sunday to read a few verses and tell everyone coffee will be served in the fellowship hall following services.

So I can't back down now. Obviously, President Nixon feels he is the victim of a terrible injustice. Just as obviously, Father McLaughlin agrees with him. So no one should insist he act like a regular Jesuit and get a job teaching theology and coaching basketball at St. Alfonso High School.

Father McLaughlin feels he is needed in the White House to help the American people to understand swearing is wrong for little kids but healthy for Presidents. And obstructing justice is a crime for your Uncle Harry but a patriotic duty for statesmen with law degrees.

So be it. I might be tempted to join the cynics in wondering when Father McLaughlin hears confessions. But that would be wrong.

CHANGING TIMES

In the good old days folks hid their change in the coffee pot. Today, the price being what it is, they hide the coffee.

Cass City draws Eldred Kelley home as new pastor of Salem UM church

By Jim Ketchum

A Cass City native who's been away 12 years is coming home soon as pastor of Salem United Methodist Church and to Rev. Eldred Kelley, it's a challenge he can't wait to tackle.

"I'm really excited about coming back to Cass City," Rev. Kelley said one morning last week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kelley of South Koepfgen Road. "I see it as a real enjoyment and a great opportunity for us."

Rev. Kelley will begin his pastorate at Salem June 16, succeeding Rev. Ira Ward who left to assume new pastoral duties at Armada. He sees coming home to pastor a church as an asset because he knows the town and the whys behind people's actions in the area.

Rev. Kelley is a 1962 graduate of Cass City High School and has served as associate pastor at Ames United Methodist Church in Saginaw the past three years. He graduated from Spring Arbor College near Jackson and received his degree in divinity from Asbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

He and his wife, Luanne, have two children, Douglas, 6, and Mike, 5.

He explained he intended to start out in the education field, with his sights set on an eventual principalship. He was working on his masters when life changed.

"We were having family devotions one evening," the 29-year-old pastor explained reflectively, "and when we finished, I couldn't get up. Then I felt myself being called into the ministry."

Within a week, he told his principal he was abandoning his educational career and started preparing himself for the ministry. He has found the experience enjoyable and satisfying.

Rev. Kelley said he enjoys preaching and counseling especially, and is anxious to work with some of the people he knew as a child, including his kindergarten teacher, lifelong friends and several cousins.

Rev. Kelley will step into a congregation of about 150 members from a church whose membership rolls currently stand at about 1,200. He said most of the Saginaw congregation are associated with General Motors in some way and are more immediately affected by a layoff than most workers in this area.

He said the average age of his Salem congregation is probably older than Saginaw, adding that he looks forward to dealing with the people in Cass City.

"I look at this as an exciting new era in the church with a lot of positive notions being advanced," he said. "We're finding more and more it's what's in the heart that makes a Christian."

He said the church is now presenting itself as a positive force in society and this tends to attract more younger people. The fact that young persons are grappling with moral issues of life sooner than their parents and grandparents did adds to the church's opportunity to act positively.

Rev. Kelley indicated he is looking forward to close personal contact with his new congregation.

"This is easier to accomplish than in a larger church," he said. "Although I'm not sure when the point is reached, there is a point when a church shouldn't get any larger."

He indicated he doesn't plan to introduce many changes right away at Salem. He wants to get to know the church's governing board and share their goals and experiences first.

"No one likes to have someone from the outside come in and tell you you're all wrong," Rev. Kelley said. "I want to find out the direction in which they want to go and help the best way I can." He can hardly wait.

REV. ELDRED KELLEY, new pastor of Salem United Methodist Church, works with his son, Mike, 5, to untangle a knot in a toy. Rev. Kelley will assume his pastoral duties at the church Sunday, June 16.

Police nab juvenile on larceny charges

Cass City Police apprehended a 16-year-old juvenile and charged him with larceny from Old Wood Drug Wednesday.

Police withheld the name of the juvenile because of his age. They said he was an employee of the drug store and was charged with taking sunglasses, $30 worth of film and food items.

The missing items were discovered when store owner Tom Proctor found irregularities in purchase records which were improperly dated. Proctor indicated to police he would prosecute in probate court.

Police also arrested Terry Robert Hile, 1009 Turner Dr., Caro, early Sunday morning on charges of driving under the influence of liquor. Patrolman Donald Miller reported Hile was traveling west on Main Street when he allegedly weaved from lane to lane and off the shoulder of the road.

Miller apprehended Hile two miles west of the village, where he was arrested. The incident occurred at 2:30 a.m.

BICYCLE INCIDENT

Two unidentified men in a blue pickup truck reportedly attempted to run a bicyclist off South Cemetery Road Friday afternoon, according to Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies.

The bicycle was ridden by Robert Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Clarke of 3475 Cemetery Rd.

The youth told deputies he was riding his bicycle south on Cemetery Road when two persons in a pickup pulled alongside and threw a cigarette butt at him.

He also said one of the men inside the pickup opened the passenger door and prevented him from riding by the vehicle. Mrs. Clarke said her son was nearly forced off the road during the incident.

No suspects were apprehended. The incident occurred following school Friday.

LARCENIES

Three larcenies were reported to sheriff's deputies and State Police Saturday. William Browning of Drayton Plains reported a riding lawn mower and radiator from a truck were stolen from land he owns near Kingston sometime between May 18 and Saturday.

Deputies said the subjects entered the property on foot, cut the radiator from the truck, took the mower and left by foot. No suspects were apprehended.

Glen Warner, 5245 Barron Rd., Wilmet, told sheriff's deputies he discovered 15 mailboxes thrown into a ditch while searching for his own mailbox which had been stolen early Saturday morning.

Warner said he discovered the mailboxes in a ditch just west of Wilmet. Deputies said the mailboxes were taken from residents on Riley and Bevans Roads and from Wilmet.

Further investigation turned up six more missing boxes, with 10 more still not located.

No suspects were apprehended.

Frank P. Hrance of Warren reported to State Police at the Caro Post a house trailer he owns on Clothier Road near Denhoff Road in Koylton township was broken into sometime before Friday.

Police said a .16 gauge shotgun was taken from the trailer, valued at $50. A padlock was also stolen from a shed on the property. Nothing inside the shed was reported missing.

Classes hold reunions Saturday

The Cass City High School Classes of 1928 and 1929 held their 46th and 45th class reunion Saturday evening, June 1, with a dinner at Wildwood Farms.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Down with prayer?

By Jim Ketchum

Religion took another one on the chin last week, thanks to three high school students and the American Civil Liberties Union of Virginia.

It seems that prayer has suddenly become either offensive or obsolete at graduation ceremonies and should now be excised.

It all started when three high school seniors in Charlottesville, Va., protested against having a prayer said at their graduation exercises scheduled this week.

They cited traditional separation of church and state and insisted that, if they had to be put through the ordeal of doing anything before taking off their robes and dashing for college, unemployment lines or both, just a moment of "silent meditation" would do nicely, thank you.

As far as anyone leading the meditation or something as ghastly, the answer was no.

And, if they couldn't have their way, they'd kick and scream and go tell the ACLU on those nasty board of education members and their principal.

Well, the principal said, sorry, but the pastor stayed on the program.

And, following a short public temper tantrum, the three indeed did go tattle on them to the giant ACLU.

Religion in the schools formally hit the dust 12 years ago, by commandment of the Supreme Court. Yet, many systems have held onto the archaic practice of actually praying at graduation exercises, not to mention bacalaureate services.

No one hollered too much until now. Now suddenly, prayer has worn out its welcome and must go.

Outside of the White House on Sunday mornings, there aren't many government places where you can say a prayer without getting arrested anymore. I remember a joke a few years ago about two boys expelled from school because the teacher caught them praying in the back of the room.

What the ACLU does with this latest protest against prayer is anybody's guess. They indicated they might take it to a Circuit Court judge who they hoped would issue an injunction forbidding praying at graduation.

Call me archaic, but if there's any time anyone is in need of a little prayer, it's at graduation time. Faced with shortages and scarcities of everything you can name, who wants to go into that jungle without a little divine guidance?

Before all you ACLU'ers threaten to pelt the front window of the Chronicle with rocks, I realize not everybody buys God's existence. No one is holding a gun to their head demanding they pray along with the crowd.

Let them meditate, compose great poetry or pick dandruff off their robes. But why deny those who want it a chance to pray?

And if indeed prayer is that offensive, let those who don't like it raise their hands for

Old Settlers' Reunion set

The 64th annual Old Settlers' Reunion will be held Saturday, June 15, in the Deford School. It was announced this week. A potluck dinner is scheduled to begin in the gymnasium at noon. Persons attending are asked to bring a poem, reading, song or instrumental number if they wish. Officers of the organization planning the reunion are: president, Mrs. Helen Little; vice-president, Mrs. Martha Knoblet Putnam; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Glenn McCleary.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City's second and final attempt to secure additional operating funds to maintain the present educational program at the school will be made in conjunction with the regular school election Monday at Cass City High School. The Chronicle has been forced to bow to the continuing pressure of higher costs and is making the first adjustment in subscription prices in nearly five years. Starting with this issue, the price per copy of the paper will be 15 cents.

A massive sale of food coupons was reported Tuesday by Ron Rogers, Director of the Tuscola County Department of Social Services.

Owendale-Gagetown School District voters will decide whether or not to renew three mills for three years to continue programs and make some minor improvements in Monday's election.

A near capacity crowd of parents, relatives and friends is expected to hear Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, president of Eastern Michigan University, speak Thursday night at Cass City High School at graduation exercises for the class of 1969.

TEN YEARS AGO

More than 70 of Cass City's teachers and their wives or husbands attended a dinner honoring retiring Supt. Willis Campbell Thursday night, May 28, at Frankenmuth's Bavarian Inn.

John Marshall who served as a trustee on the Elkland Township Board for nearly 10 years, resigned last week due to demands of business at his implement store.

Delegates to Tuscola county party conventions this fall have until June 23 to file their petitions, according to a new ruling passed recently by both houses governing convention candidates.

President Lee Rabideau reported this week that a government inspector had completed his examination of the new water main and water tower installation in the village. He described the work as perfect, Rabideau said.

Village Clerk Bill Bridges this week issued a reminder to all property owners with vacant lots that it is their responsibility to keep them clean.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A testimonial dinner honoring Ben H. McComb, who retired as county superintendent of schools Jan. 1, will be held in the Caro High School auditorium June 13.

Favored by ideal weather, many hundreds gathered at Elkland cemetery for the Memorial Day program Monday afternoon.

Additional donors are needed for the civilian blood clinic to be held at Caro State Hospital, Friday, June 10, according to Mrs. R.R. Howlett, the local Red Cross general chairman for the event.

Approximately 100 men attended the annual banquet of the Merchant's Bowling League which was held at the Blue Water Inn at Caseville Wednesday night.

A meeting at which steps will be taken to complete the organization of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce will be held at the school auditorium Wednesday, June 8.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Stanley Asher, manager of Cass City Oil and Gas Co., was host at a banquet at the Parrot Restaurant Thursday evening, June 8, at which members of the Cass City High School Baseball team were guests.

Postmaster Arthur Little has received notice from the second assistant postmaster general that the contract for carrying the mail from Caro to Owendale by way of Cass City and Gagetown has been awarded to Kenneth Wagner.

Commencement week at Gagetown High School will be opened by baccalaureate exercises which will be held in the high school auditorium Sunday, June 11, at 8:00 p.m.

Baseball honors went to Reese and first honors in track events to Caro in the annual track and field meet of the Tuscola County High School Athletic Association held at Caro Friday.

The Cass City Independents were victorious over Bad Axe in a game played here on June 4, staging a rally in the ninth inning. Final score was 6-5.

AROUND THE FARM
Alfalfa weevil off to early start
 By William Bortel

The alfalfa weevil is off to an early start this spring. Larva numbers could build up fast and cause serious damage to first cutting alfalfa. Alfalfa producers should keep a close eye on the situation in the fields and if 1/3 of the alfalfa tips are damaged, a decision must be made - harvest or spray. Be sure to watch materials used and safe days prior to harvest. If harvested before spraying, growers must watch fields for two weeks since it takes very few weevils to seriously hurt new growth.

CEREAL LEAF BEETLE

Cereal leaf beetle may be a problem in oats. Spraying is justified if an average of three or more eggs and/or larva can be found per stem in small plants that have not started to head, or about one larva per flag leaf on plants that have headed.

If you plan to spray with an insecticide, spray when the eggs are found and the small larva are first seen. A delayed spraying with only large larva will not be effective and you will only be wasting your time and money.

Sevin is used to kill eggs, adults and larva where malathion is not effective for egg kill. Sevin is the recommended insecticide for plants before boot stage while malathion must be used on grains after boot stage.

4-H ACTIVITIES

4-H Exploration Days set

By Bernard Jardot

Nearly 5,000 Michigan 4-H'ers will have opportunities to learn about and explore everything from TV production to learning more about international foods at Michigan State University June 20-22 as part of the State 4-H Youth Exploration Days.

The annual three-day event, designed to "Widen the Horizons" of local 4-H Clubs, provides training, new ideas and skills to Michigan 4-H members and leaders.

According to Tuscola County Extension 4-H Youth Agent, Bernie Jardot, there will be some 139 different "action-learning" options offered in the general categories of arts, natural resources, animal projects, communications, foods-nutrition, crafts, the family, science projects, personal appearance, photography and leadership to list just a few areas.

"We hope that several of our 4-H members and local adult leaders will take advantage of this unique event to help local clubs with training just not available in local clubs, he said.

In addition to the action-learning options, several special leader seminars, leisure learning sessions and recreational activities will be offered. Also, the public is invited to attend "action day," to be held on the final day, Saturday, June 22, in MSU's Spartan Stadium Concourse. Action exhibits, demonstrations, workshops and live performances will depict several of the 139 options.

Reach and Teach winners told

Area 14 Extension Homemakers Council sponsors a Reach and Teach Award for the local Extension Study Groups.

What this means is that the Study Group members can receive educational information and training sponsored by Family Living Education of the Cooperative Extension Service. These educational opportunities include county and state activities.

Recipient of these opportunities then shares this information with others in her community and receives points. Points are totaled for the club then averaged per member per club. The highest average Extension Study Group in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties are selected and receive a certificate, then the club with the highest points receives an engraved plaque.

This year the McKinley Homemakers in Huron, Friendly Neighbors in Sanilac and Watrousville in Tuscola were the county winners with the latter receiving the Area 14 plaque, which hangs in the Cooperative Extension Office.

The kids are out of school now for summer vacation and many mothers out of patience.

Summer Rec schedule told

Cass City's Summer Recreation Program gets underway Monday, June 10, and will not be structured as rigidly this year as in past years. Arts and crafts classes will be held Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to noon at the Intermediate School.

Activities will include pottery, painting, enameling, weaving with looms, rug weaving and pastels.

Park equipment may be checked out at the old pool building Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and Saturdays from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Special activities will be announced during the summer.

Arts Council to show documentary

An entertaining film documentary showing one summer of the Free Street Theater will highlight the second public meeting Tuesday, June 11, of the Cass City Arts Council (CCAC).

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held in the Cass City High School and will mark the official beginning of the CCAC with signing of the corporation charter and election of the first board of directors.

"A Season For Celebration" is 57 minutes long and will be shown after the business portion of the meeting.

Everyone interested in supporting arts in the Cass City community is urged to attend the meeting and watch the movie. Memberships will be available.

Sanilac clinic sets June dates

Regular immunization clinics will be held in the Sanilac County Health Department office at 115 N. Elk St., Sandusky Friday, June 14 and Thursday, June 20.

The hours for both days are 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 4:00 p.m.

If possible, parents whose last name begins with A - M should attend on the first day, and parents whose last name

State Farm Tour set for Tuscola County

Tuscola county will be honored with the State Farm Management Tour this year. The large activity will be held Aug. 13 at eight topnotch farm businesses. The farms will have open tours during the day with everyone meeting at the Caro Fairgrounds at noon for a steak sandwich and an agricultural speaker.

Scheduled on the tour are eight top-notch farm businesses with family interviews at each farm and plenty of parking—visit any farm at any time during the day.

Farms included on the tour are:

Harry Burns & Sons (Poultry) - Harry Burns and sons Alfred, Norman, Lloyd and Lyle. Started in 1921, incorporated 1965. 70,000 layers. Grade and market own eggs; 50'x50' egg cooler with inside floor-level dock; 40 case per hour washer and grader with electronic blood spot detector. Start 10,000 pullet chicks every eight weeks. Raise 700 acres corn-dried and stored on farm. Storage for 80,000 bushels corn. Grind and mix about 80 tons of feed each week, starting with vitamin package. Storage for 400 tons bulk ingredients. Clean cage houses three times a year—before corn planting, right after corn planting, after corn is picked. (MSU Specialists—Archibald Johnson and Howard Zindell).

Wallace Koepfendorfer (Swine) - Father and son operation on 650 acres (560 owned, 90 rented). Building capacity to finish 3500 feeder pigs per year, but will have 2500 market hogs this year. Recent expansion includes new sealed storage for high-moisture corn, new hog finishing house. All feeder pigs purchased through Farm Bureau MACMA. Pigs started begins with N - Z should attend on the second day.

Protection against measles, rubella, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and polio will be offered. Tuberculin tests will also be offered.

Children three months of age and over are invited to attend.

A parent or guardian must accompany the child. Parents are urged to bring a record of previous immunization.

on dry corn up to about 100 lbs., then switched to high-moisture corn from sealed storage. Some pigs sold on yield and grade. Crops: 90 acres sugar beets; 100 acres pickles; 150 acres navy beans; 200 acres corn; 20 acres oats; 90 acres wheat. Farm received Telford award in 1973 for high hog income per $100 of feed fed, based on three year performance. (MSU specialists - Ralph Hepp and Lee Warschewsky).

Zwerk Farms (Cash Crops) - 2,600 acres family operation. Arnold Zwerk and sons Mike and Larry. Crops: 1,400 acres corn; 700 acres dry edible beans; 250 acres wheat; 50 acres soybeans. Trial corn plots. 130,000 bushel storage capacity on farm. Large capacity crop dryer. Innovative machinery concepts. (MSU Specialist - Stephen Harsh).

Arnold Krummner & Son (Cash Crops, Certified Seeds) - 415 acres. Arnold and son Arnold Jr. Crops: 75 acres sugar beets; 340 acres wheat; 75 acres oats; 180 acres dry edible beans. Partnership began 1967. Outstanding certified seed grower and processor in the county which produces 50 percent of Michigan's certified seed. Seed cleaning and processing for Michigan Crop Improvement Association Seed and others. Remodeled home with business center and special furnishings will be open. (MSU Specialists - Myron Kelsey, Larry Copeland).

Ernie Richardson (Horses) - Ernie and wife Maxine have handled horses for 30 years, at present location for past eight years. Breeding stock, four Arabian stallions. Herd ranges from 20 to 30. Has half interest in mares at Saginaw, Marlette, Port Huron. Outside arena, tack shop, barn with 20 stalls. Strictly breeding; no boarding or lessons. Operate on 80 acres; 15 acres wheat, 15 acres oats, rest mostly pasture and barns. Poultry enterprise is also operated. (MSU Specialist - Richard Dunn).

Paul Findlay (Cash Crops) - Paul Findlay and son Michael developing eventual partnership. Son shares in land and machinery purchases. Custom-built storage for 50,000 bushels. Modern handling and drying equipment. Modern planting and harvesting equipment. Unique approach to farm growth and business management. Operate on 1426 acres (98 per cent tilled every 50'); 400 acres navy beans, 365 acres corn, 180 acres sugar beets, 170 acres wheat, 100 acres barley. Remodeled home with business center and special features will be open. (MSU Specialists - Don Kebler and Leonard R. Kyle).

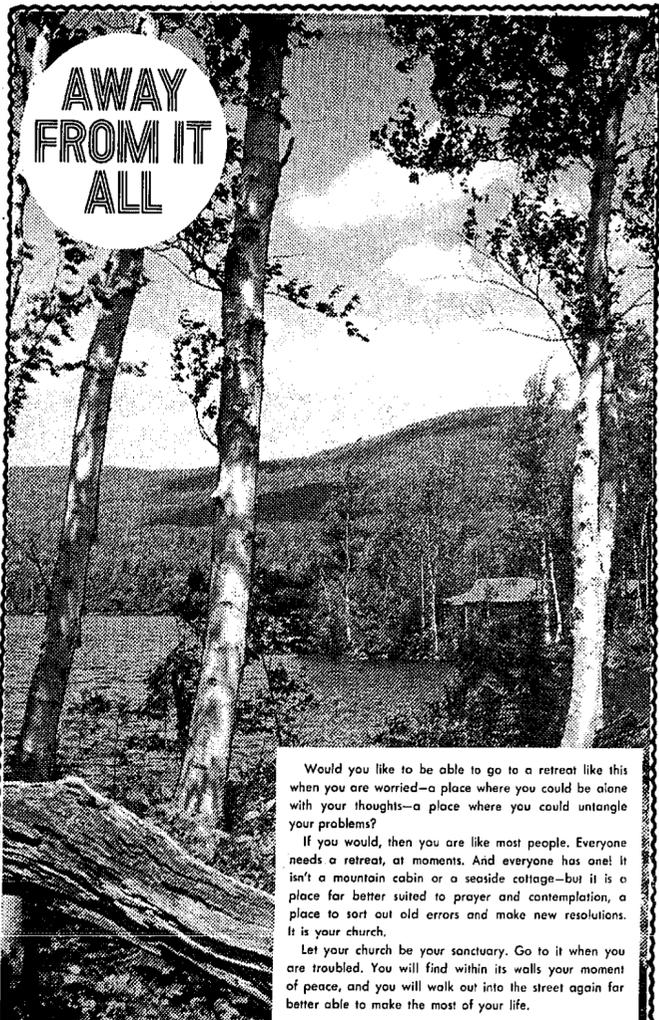

Graham Bros. (Dairy) - Partnership, Joe and John Graham Jr., 500 acres. 140 milk cows average 13,000 lbs. milk, 521 lbs. fat. Milk in 13-stall rotary herringbone parlor, the only one of its kind in use in Michigan. Two prep. stalls precede platform. Milk time about 135 minutes. Daily ration is about 25 lbs. haylage, 25 lbs. corn silage, 12 lbs. high-moisture corn concentrate mixture. Grow 250 acres alfalfa for haylage and baled hay for heifers; 250 acres corn (125 silage, 125 high moisture). Corn silage and haylage stored in bunker silos, high-moisture corn in sealed storage. Magnetic feeder containing high-moisture corn and protein supplement accessible to cows producing over 50 lbs. milk daily. Since December, Graham Bros. have utilized 1000 lb. Holstein bull equipped with chinball marker and Pen-O-Block to supplement heat detection and Direct AI program. Smaller heat detector bull (500 lb.) will be housed with heifers to promote heifer AI program. (MSU Specialists - Roger Mellenberger and Bill Bickert).

Donald DeLong (Dairy) - Five-way father and son partnership on 240 acres with another 500 acres rented. Don works off farm, sons Francis, Dwane, Dick and Bob handle 300 head - 150 cows, 50 bred heifers, 100 smaller ones. Milking parlor is a double-weight herringbone with eight milking units. New building constructed about a year ago, basically follows Pennsylvania Plan. Wide barn with four separate groups, divided down center with feed alley and drive up the middle. Uses Mix-all wagon with scales for feeding and cement stack for silage storage. Currently feeding corn silage and baled hay with ear corn. No cash crops—all feed raised is fed to cattle. New calf barn attached to parlor; houses new calves up to six weeks. Parents are 4-H leaders; all the sons have been 4-H participants. (MSU Specialist - William Bivens).

AWAY FROM IT ALL

Would you like to be able to go to a retreat like this when you are worried—a place where you could be alone with your thoughts—a place where you could untangle your problems?

If you would, then you are like most people. Everyone needs a retreat, at moments. And everyone has one! It isn't a mountain cabin or a seaside cottage—but it is a place far better suited to prayer and contemplation, a place to sort out old errors and make new resolutions. It is your church.

Let your church be your sanctuary. Go to it when you are troubled. You will find within its walls your moment of peace, and you will walk out into the street again far better able to make the most of your life.

Your neighbor says I'm on time

Are you on time for appointments? Who hasn't been late for a meeting, work or the theatre?

Peter J. Rienstra of 4543 Oak St. says he always made it a point to be on time for appointments during his years in insurance and is still punctual in his retirement.

"I always tried to be on time-right on the button," Rienstra says. "I learned that one time years ago. I was 15 minutes late for an appointment on a policy and the man told me I'd better be more punctual from now on. And I was."

Rienstra said he gets irritated with persons who are late for appointments with him.

"You could be doing something else around the house instead of just standing around waiting," he says.

Rienstra came to Michigan in 1932 from Minnesota by way of his native Iowa. He has three sons and six grandchildren.

BETTER HEALTH

Shots for hay fever?

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Red, itchy eyes, a running nose and explosive sneezes, not helped by the reussuring "gesundheits" of sympathetic friends, take the fun out of springtime and late summer for millions of Americans who are sensitive to the pollen of flowering trees, grasses, summer bouquets and, on the dot of August 15, the penetrating pollen of ragweed.

The collective title of "hay fever," or the classic "rose fever," is commonly applied as an umbrella term to include the wide range of allergic reactions that plague the sensitive as the seasons change.

And just as regularly as the seasons come upon us, the question is raised by the sufferers: "Shouldn't I have some shots to desensitize me? Can't I get definitive treatment?"

The answer is a qualified, "Yes, but... only for some," and it must be understood that relief, when it is achieved, is usually not complete, and the cost in time and money is considerable.

More practical and often more effective for those who cannot remove themselves geographically from the offending pollen producers is the regular use of one or another variety of antihistamines, taken as pills by mouth, or the use of nasal sprays containing adrenal cortical hormone.

Antihistamines block the action of histamine, the substance in the body that is responsible for the allergic reaction, while adrenal cortical hormone makes susceptible tissue unresponsive to the action of histamine.

Those who do not obtain relief by such measures, though they usually work, may have to undergo desensitizing injections. But the relief to be obtained by the desensitizing shots is rarely more than partial, and is considered by most experts in the field to be a treatment of last resort.

Desensitizing injections for allergic rhinitis (medical lingo for a dripping nose and an irresistible compulsion to sneeze) were first introduced in 1911, but controlled studies of their real effectiveness were not undertaken until the early 1960's.

Since then, using well matched groups of comparable subjects, half received injections of specific pollen extracts, while the other half received shots containing no allergenic extract. Such studies have shown a definite difference in the two groups: those who were desensitized did have fewer or less severe seasonal symptoms than the patients who received the control injections.

That is not to say that they had no symptoms at all. And they had to undertake weekly injections usually beginning in the early winter months and continuing more or less indefinitely to maintain the favorable effect.

This is costly in time and money, and there is always in such courses of treatment the risk of shock-like systemic reactions, which may be severe.

No controlled studies have yet been reported that compare weekly desensitizing injections with the use of antihistamine tablets or anti-inflammatory cortico-steroid intranasal sprays. However, it is the opinion of most practitioners and many allergy specialists that on balance, because of the modest relief of symptoms to be obtained with shots, such treatment should be reserved only for those in whom oral antihistamines, or intranasal cortico-steroid sprays, have failed.

Your doctor can tell you which is best for you - if you have to have something to cut out those sometimes exasperating gesundheits.

Firemen extinguish two blazes

Elkland Township Firemen responded to two alarms Saturday, each resulting in minimal damage.

At 2:45 p.m., firemen were called to put out a fire at the Cass City Sanitary Landfill. Fire officials said the blaze was reportedly set by three juveniles, according to a witness at the scene.

The blaze was brought under control in about an hour.

At 11:30 p.m., firemen extinguished a blaze confined to an electric clothes dryer at the Alger Krebsberger residence at 6592 Third St.

According to Jim Jeczewski of the fire department, the fire may have started from lint clogging a trap. He said the dryer and some clothing inside were lost, along with smoke damage. Total loss was set at $750.

No one was injured. Firemen were at the scene for less than one hour.

Belinda Bishop named Miss Battle Creek

Belinda Lee Bishop, 17, was crowned Miss Battle Creek of 1974 in ceremonies held Saturday, May 25.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bishop of Cass City. Her parents are Jim Bishop of Marshall and Joyce Bishop of Battle Creek.

Miss Bishop will represent the city in the Miss Michigan Pageant to be held in Muskegon in June, 1975.

She plans to enter Albion College this fall as a pre-medical student. After attending Albion, she wants to go to either the University of Michigan or the Indiana University Medical School.

Miss Bishop was crowned before about 1,500 persons at the W.K. Kellogg Auditorium by Kathy McCarthy, Miss Battle Creek of 1973.

She was awarded a $500 scholarship sponsored by Coles Clothes of Battle Creek, and a $500 scholarship to the Patricia Stevens School of Modeling in Detroit.

She is taking extra courses at Kellogg Community College and says she concentrates on her studies because she wants good grades.

3 Cass Cityans complete Gen-Tel course

Three local General Telephone employees recently completed a course in telephone pre-wiring, according to C.R. Kowalski, Imlay City division manager.

Bob Ridenour, installation and maintenance supervisor, 6654 Seed St., Bruce Thompson, construction foreman, 4245 Maple St., and Wayne Whittaker, lineman, 4968 Van Dyke Rd., all of Cass City, participated in the pre-wire course which teaches students to wire houses, apartments, and other dwellings for telephone service before construction is completed.

The big question—to split or not to split?

(Editor's note: This is the last in a series of articles by the Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education detailing the upcoming vote to annex the district to Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port June 10. Any comments on these articles should be directed to Glenn Sanford, Superintendent, Owen-Gage Schools.

Annex and split the district or continue to be autonomous is the big decision facing electors in the Owendale-Gagetown school district. On June 10, district residents will go to the polls to decide the fate of the school district. Those favoring the annexation to the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port school district and the property transfers that will follow, point to increased and improved curricular offerings in the larger districts. These citizens feel that increased potential of program offerings of a part of neighboring schools could not be possible within the financial framework and student numbers within which Owen-Gage must operate.

Proponents of the school district as an independent unit tend to rally to the point that students from Owen-Gage historically have done well in college and life with the basic educational opportunity available to them as students in the Owen-Gage system. They point out that district electors have always approved operational millage requests that the board of education has made, with one exception.

Those favoring alignment with neighboring districts are ever alert to mention that operational expenses for Owen-Gage exceeds that of 2 of the 3 surrounding districts. In addition, the costs of providing adequate building for secondary students in Owen-Gage would cost from 3 to 5 times as much as any foreseeable building need in the other districts. The cost of a new secondary building at Owen-Gage ranging from 7 to 15 mills depending on the size and scope as well as the financial arrangements used to pay off such a debt obligation.

Some of those favoring independence indicate that they are willing to pay the difference in operational millage to maintain their own school district, at the same level as neighboring districts. They also feel that cost for building needs can be reduced to a more palatable level.

So the whole issue boils down to: Do the financial and curricular advantages found by annexation and splitting, outweigh the values generally considered to be found in smaller school districts? If, in the mind of the individual voter they do, he should vote "yes".

On the other hand, if those financial advantages are not significant to an individual voter (taxpayer) he should vote "no" on the annexation issue. If he votes "no", he must realize that the district will operate next school year and will need his affirmative vote on the issue of operational millage.

The issue of renewing 4

mills and an additional 2 1/2 mills for operational expenses is an absolute necessity if the school is to maintain normal functions for the next year. No one needs to be reminded of increased costs of all goods and services that must be purchased by the individual as well as by the school. If the school is to operate voters must approve the operational millage requested by the Board of Education.

Owen-Gage voters hear officials explain annexation

In a public meeting at the Gageton gym that generally changed no one's mind Tuesday night, voters in the Owendale-Gageton School District listened to school officials from the local and state level explain the upcoming annexation vote Monday.

Owen-Gage Supt. Glenn Sanford reviewed the history of proposals and defeats in the district since it was formed in 1957 and two representatives from the State Dept. of Education answered voter questions regarding millage and what would happen if annexation to Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port School District were approved.

Sanford reviewed present operating and debt millages of Owen-Gage and surrounding districts which showed only Unionville-Sebewaing with a higher total millage.

"Operationally, if we split, the majority of property owners would have a smaller millage to pay," Sanford said. He explained that present Owen-Gage indebtedness would still have to be paid, but that property owners would not incur existing debts of their new school districts.

Additional debt incurred at a later date by their new district would go on their tax rolls, however, he said.

He indicated other districts would not have a building need if Owen-Gage secondary students were added to their systems.

On the other side, Sanford explained if annexation fails, building needs will still exist.

Additionally, property transfers are still pending at the state level, he said, adding to the uncertainty.

"You have a very serious decision to make," Sanford said. "If you annex to Lakers, you can't un-annex later on."

Raymond Godmer, one of the two state education representatives present, would not comment on the future of the transfers should annexation fail. He said testimony the day of the decision would determine what would happen.

Conceivably, if the decision went against the petitioners, he said, the whole process could be started again.

Godmer said a decision should be rendered in the properties requesting transfer to Cass City in July or August.

"Each case is decided on its own merits and I wouldn't venture a guess how this one would go," he told the audience.

Godmer emphasized Sept. 1 as an important date because if transfers are approved after that date, the losing district can claim operational property tax millage for that school year.

Dr. Lloyd Fales, director of school district organization for the state, generally favored the annexation, citing economic reasons and the low number of students coming into Owen-Gage.

Some of those opposed to annexation challenged Fales. School Board candidate Jack Brinkman wondered if Owen-Gage residents have been throwing their money away if Fales was correct.

Fales said no one has thrown money away and quoted figures to justify his point that Owen-Gage is losing the numbers game relative to student population.

He said that out of 531 K-12 districts in the state, Owen-Gage ranks 480 in size, 436 in total valuation, 135 in valuation per child and 263 in geographic size.

By comparison, he said Lakers ranks 303 in size, 191 in total valuation, 76 in valuation per child and 36 in geographic size.

"You just don't have enough kids to justify building a $2 million building," Fales said.

Supporters of retaining the district challenged Fales by citing the more personal attention that can be offered in a small district such as Owen-Gage. He agreed, but emphasized the quality of attention.

Sanford indicated 17 fewer kindergarten students have registered so far for fall classes which he said is a continuing trend. This makes the system more expensive to operate, since state aid is based largely on enrollment. Generally, those who favor keeping the district came away unconvinced regarding annexation. Brinkman and Ron Reinhardt, board candidates running on platforms favoring keeping the school, emphasized the need for local control of elementary and secondary operations.

Reinhardt received applause when he strongly advocated working to keep the district and eventually constructing a building. He said curriculum presently meets the needs of students and can continue to do so.

Board incumbents Ken Voelker and Richard Ziehm, who favor the split vote, defended their actions on the grounds of doing the best for all the students in the district by annexing. They were applauded by their supporters. Following the meeting, three 1974 Owen-Gage graduates indicated they were satisfied with their education and want to see the district retained.

"I feel I'm as educated as a student from Lakers or Cass City is," Robin McCallum said. "I don't feel any less intelligent than they are. I'd really hate to see the district go."

Letters to the Editor

Owen-Gage students support dissolution

Dear Editor:

We as students are writing this letter in regards to the Owen-Gage school district. As some of you well know, the school is on the ballot June 10 to stay or annex to neighboring districts. Since you have heard someones views to stay with the district, we will point out some very important reasons why we favor the split.

Sure, it's nice to have your own school, but we are not just talking about having a school or no school. The school board, superintendent, and families in this district are talking about their children's education, a far more important matter than just having a school.

Take a good look at our curriculum, or class offerings, and then look at that offered to those at our neighboring schools. There's a big difference that can't go along unnoticed. Sure we've got our straight A students and so has everyone else.

If you saw the last honor roll listing you would have noticed that only three freshmen made the honor roll. WHY? Maybe if some of these students were offered a wider range of subjects, they could find something which they could excel in.

Of course curriculum isn't the only reason. The building and its facilities are also in extremely rough shape. Take a good look at our neighboring schools and see for yourself what really needs to be done. A big improvement is needed badly.

Improvement costs money, which in turn will raise taxes which are extremely high already. Farmers are more than willing to pay for an education, but why should they have to pay five to 10 times more than the average taxpayer and receive a second rate education, even if the building was just improved?

Kindergarten enrollment has dropped from the average of 50 students in the past five years to 30 students for next fall! Along with this trend are those already tuitioned out to neighboring districts and the probability of more next year. With this continual decrease of students, how will we be able to maintain what we do have at the present? For with this loss, we also lose $936 per child in state aid, another important factor.

It is impossible for our small school system to ever match the curriculum or class offerings given at our neighboring schools. As things stand now, it already takes 3.5 mills more to run our school than Lakers and 4 mills more to run ours than Cass City. Student-teacher ratios are evened out at our neighboring schools at around 25-1.

Those concerned are only trying for a better education, curriculum, school building, facilities, and LOWER tax rates. This is why you people who VOTE have to find out what really is going on and how important this is to each and every individual. Please take both sides of this issue into consideration.

"For what appears to be an ending is in truth... a new beginning."
Students of Owen-Gage for CHANGE

More courses widen pupil's chances for job

To the Editor:

Being born in a lower middle-class neighborhood in Detroit, I would like to give my opinion on the June 10 election.

To this day, I feel the high school curriculum offered to me was excellent. I had the opportunity to take shorthand (Owendale has not had shorthand in three years), typing, retailing, co-op and office machines (Dictaphone, adding machines, Stenotype, etc.).

I took three buses to attend high school. Why? Because it offered the curriculum I wanted and needed. I could have gone to a public school in my area, but I realized that when it came to jobs after high school completion, I would not have the background to qualify for a good secretarial position.

A child who doesn't have the leadership at home, or parents who take an active interest in him in school, should have that right to be in a school that can give him a good education. Not everyone graduating in a small town will stay on, but will seek jobs in the cities, finding the competition greater because the schools there offer more classes.

Not everyone is a college-bound student and needs the opportunity to take vocational courses.

Many writers in your column are satisfied with Owendale the way it was three to five years ago. The school they were happy with is not the same school today. The courses are just not available to the students.

"Where it's there to be used, there will be a child that will take advantage of it." Give that child the chance—vote YES with the school board's decision on June 10. I know, I've been there, and thank God, I had the chance.

VILLAGE OF CASS CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on May 28, 1974, at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present.

Bids were opened from R. G. Brady Construction and Andrew Barnes Construction Co. on the North Seeger Street sewer project. A motion was made by Trustee Bliss and supported by Trustee Jones that the bid submitted by Andrew Barnes Construction Co. of $14,151.00 for the sewer project on North Seeger Street be accepted. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Hampshire and supported by Trustee Tuttle that a license under Ordinance No. 43 be issued to Larry Mis of 937 Allen St., Caro, Mi., and that Ordinance No. 43 be reviewed as soon as possible by the Village Attorney in regards to its definition and scope. Motion carried.

Mrs. Kowalski and Mr. Adams of W. Church Street were present to complain about the water run off from the Hillside apartments. They inquired if the Village could do anything about the problem. President Althover assured them that the matter would be looked into although it was noted that the builder has complied with all Village Ordinances.

Marjorie Hollosy of 4125 West St., Cass City, (not in Village limits) presented to the Council a petition asking for the reinstatement of William McKinley to Village Patrolman. After some discussion, Mrs. Hollosy was informed that Mr. McKinley's retirement has been accepted and was final.

Jim Courtney and Roger Little, Chamber of Commerce representatives, were present to review Council's approval of the planting of trees in the sidewalks of Main Street.

The Chamber of Commerce also went on record as opposing the elimination of on-street parking on Main Street and the signing of a "when and if" agreement unless refusal to do so would jeopardize the M-81 widening project.

Members of the Masonic Lodge were present to inform the Council of the dedication of an aluminum monument plaque in memory of Lewis Cass. They requested a location in the park so that the monument could be enjoyed by the public. Council agreed and final decision concerning the location was delegated to the Park Committee.

Representing the Cass City Development Corporation, Lynn Albee and Bill Kritzman were present requesting permission to put in sewer facilities from the present interceptor sewer to their property line. They were informed of the engineering specifications and urged to consider annexation again. It was indicated that construction as long as no connection was made could not be stopped by the Village.

The minutes of the regular April meeting were read and corrected to read. "It was noted that a petition had been received for curb and gutter on Third Street east of Woodland and Elclare Streets."

The financial report for the month of April was reviewed.

A motion was made by Trustee Ware and supported by Trustee Tuttle that the Public Safety Committee be given the authority to fill the vacancy of police officer at a salary less than the current low of $8,712.00 per year. Motion carried. Yeas - 4; Nays - 1; Abstaining - 1.

A motion was made by Trustee Bliss and supported by Trustee Jones that we advertise for bids on the 1971 Chevrolet police car. Bids to be opened June 25, 1974, at 7:00 p.m. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Hampshire and supported by Trustee Rawson that the Federal Revenue Sharing monies for the 5th entitlement period amounting to $55,666.00 be applied to Public Safety. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Bliss and supported by Trustee Jones that the M-81 maintenance contract resolution as follows be adopted:

"Be it resolved that the Municipal Maintenance Contract between the Michigan State Highway Commission and the Village of Cass City for the period July 1, 1974, to June 30, 1975, is hereby accepted and Lou LaPonsie is designated as Maintenance Superintendent on sections of State Trunk Line Highways as shown on the Municipal Route Section Map and Budget Sheets."

Motion carried. It was also noted that a petition for curb and gutter installation was received from the residents of Houghton Street between Woodland and Elclare Streets.

A letter was read from the Secret Service commending Chief Gene Wilson and the local police on the fine job they did during the President's visit.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that the bills as examined be approved for payment. Motion carried.

It was also noted that the Water Works Department had worked without an accident in 1973.

A request for a variance in parking lot construction from Hills and Dales Medical Center was referred back to the Planning Commission for proper review by the Commission and the Board of Appeals.

A letter from Michigan State Highway Department concerning updating all signs on M-81 was read and referred to the Village Superintendent.

The Detroit Edison rate increase request was noted. Continued on the agenda were Shawassee Flats drainage proposal; NPDES license; re-adoption of BOCA code; and office expansion.

There being no further business a motion was made by Trustee Ware and supported by Trustee Tuttle that the meeting be adjourned. Motion carried.

June 3, 1974

To whom it may concern— Sunday morning, May 26, about 9 o'clock, I walked to town to get the Free Press at Fort's.

I came out the back door and was enjoying the sunshine. Several cars were parked in the alley by the Telephone Co. One was parked by a pole on south side of alley. The driver (I think it was a lady) hit the pole.

She stepped on the gas and shot back across the alley at a high rate of speed, hit her bumper directly into the back of the theatre.

Pieces of cement flew. She stepped on gas again, spun her wheels - more dirt flew and smoke was going way above the top of her car. Then she went on down the alley again at a tremendous rate of speed.

I hope she got home safely. Her car must have had damage to it.

She probably will recognize herself when she reads this. What she probably doesn't know is that I was only a breath away from being killed between the building and her car.

I was too stunned to get the license number and too thankful to be alive. Once again God was looking after me and I have not forgotten to thank Him for it.

Questions And Answers About

CABLE TELEVISION

WHAT IS CABLE T.V.?

Cable TV, also called Community Antenna Television, is simply a giant antenna (ours is southwest of Cass City, south of the Walbro plant. The tower has especially designed antenna arrays tuned to each channel to be carried. The signals picked up are fed into an amplifier which strengthens weak signals and eliminates much interference. They then move along a shielded coaxial cable strung on utility poles to the subscribers homes, and a wire goes direct to the back of the set.

WHO CAN BE HOOKED TO THE CABLE?

People living in the Village Limits of Cass City, and those in Huntsville and Walnut Trailer Parks can be hooked up in just a few days.

WHAT CHANNELS WILL I GET?

All local channels are now on, including 5, 12, 25 and 19. In addition, Detroit channels 50, 9 and 56 are included. Also, Cable Channel 3, our local origination channel brings you local events, weather information and a weather forecast direct from the National Weather Bureau. Sound on this channel is provided by Radio Station WKYO 24 hours a day. Channel 3 is beamed on microwave direct from Caro.

DO I NEED AN ANTENNA OR A ROTOR?

No. With Cable TV the problems and expense of rooftop antennas are eliminated.

WHAT ABOUT UHF CHANNELS?

All UHF channels are converted at our tower site, so they appear on your television set on channels 2 thru 13.

HOW MUCH DOES INSTALLATION COST?

As an introductory offer, installation of the first set is FREE. Additional outlets may be ordered during this initial period at just $5 each. Rates for special installations involving wall plates, underground lines or multiple outlets furnished on request.

HOW MUCH IS THE MONTHLY SERVICE CHARGE?

Service for one outlet is just $6 monthly. . . additional outlets in the same household are 50 cents a month. For example, a typical home with a set in the living room, bedroom and den would be installed for $10, and monthly service would be $7.

DO I HAVE TO SIGN A CONTRACT?

No. You are a customer only as long as you are satisfied.

HOW SOON CAN I BE HOOKED UP?

If you live on the south side of town, we should be able to make the hook-up in a few days. The north side will be ready shortly after.

WHAT ABOUT F.M.?

Stereo F.M. reception will be greatly improved with Cable, and is treated as an extra outlet.

Owen-Gage candidates give views

Ziehm, who is running for re-election to the board, said he is a candidate because of his interests in the school. "I am interested and concerned with the education of my children as well as the children of our district," Ziehm said.

Ziehm said holding the split vote could result in more for education dollars.

"Having held a building vote in December which was defeated, I felt we could more economically and educationally answer the problems by holding the split vote," Ziehm said.

Ziehm sees another building issue in the future if the split vote fails.

"A split vote was defeated five years ago by this school district," he said. "Therefore, I feel that a progressive board would bring up a building vote or a merger vote with USA."

On the question of allowing property transfers out of Owen-Gage, Ziehm said, "The answer will depend on the economics of the state aid laws and I have not researched these enough yet."

JACK BRINKMAN

Jack D. Brinkman, 42, is an Elmwood township farmer and is also employed at a Fave Steel in Owendale. He and his wife have two children, one a sophomore at Owen-Gage and the other a 973 graduate of the school. He is a member of the Moravian Church in Unionville and has lived in the Owen-Gage district the past 8 years.

Brinkman said he is a candidate for the Board of Education because "I have always supported the Owen-Gage School District."

"I believe in the value of the education offered here and am willing not only to meet the costs of keeping our schools, but desire the opportunity to work for our school," Brinkman strongly opposes annexation of the district.

"I do not favor annexation. I believe the majority of the children in the Owen-Gage district can best be served by the Owen-Gage district," he said.

Brinkman elaborated on the course the district should take if annexation fails.

"If annexation fails, I favor organizing citizen committees," he said. "These committees could then look into the possibility of a building program, which I believe should be pursued as soon as possible. I would also like the school to try to regain its former accreditation."

Brinkman opposes property transfers.

"I definitely do not favor the property transfers," he said. "For it is my feeling that a school district should be operated by the majority of the people and not by a few who are dissatisfied."

KENNETH VOELKER

Kenneth R. Voelker, 40, is a lifelong resident of the area, graduating from Owendale High School in 1952. He owns and operates a 100-cow dairy farm north and west of Owendale.

He served two years in the U.S. Navy, is married and has three children.

Voelker said he is running for re-election because of his interest in the district.

"I have found my past four years on the board most rewarding and gratifying serving my community in this capacity," Voelker said. He cited three years of study and travel under a fellowship from the Kellogg Foundation as giving him insights and opportunities to view education not only in the state but other countries of the world as well.

"I found this training most beneficial to me while serving on the school board," he said. "I have a lot of confidence and take great pride in the youth of today and therefore find giving of my time and interest for their benefit very worthwhile."

Voelker favors annexation and was one of six school board members who supported putting the question on the ballot.

He said whatever happens if annexation fails will have to be decided by the entire school board after examining all facets of the problem thoroughly.

Voelker said he agrees with the board's public statement not favoring property transfers out of the district.

"Serving on a school board is a cooperative effort," he said. "No one person can or does carry out its functions single-handedly."

JOYCE VICKERS, new coordinator for Big Sisters of Tuscola county, is welcomed by Big Brothers Director Dave Parsch.

Big Sisters names Tuscola coordinator

Big Brothers of Tuscola County now provides Big Sisters as well, thanks to the appointment of Joyce Vickers as Big Sister coordinator. Mrs. Vickers has already begun work matching available women to girls between the ages of seven and 15.

She will work in the Caro Big Brothers office with David L. Parsch, executive director.

Mrs. Vickers, a native of Cleveland, Ohio, explained that the concept behind Big Sisters is to bring together a woman and a girl to help the girl develop a better attitude about herself.

The program is designed to work with girls from one-parent families. Mrs. Vickers said the home situation of the girls will vary. Some may have working mothers, others may come from families too large to allow enough time for each child. Still others may have no mother.

She said referrals to the program come from parents, social agencies, schools, churches and courts.

She said a Big Sister can come from any walk of life. They are asked to see a Little Sister at least once a week, to remain in the program for a minimum of one year and should have available transportation.

It is the responsibility of the professional staff to match a woman and girl, she explained. Common interests and personality characteristics are taken into consideration.

Activities involving big and little sisters can include going on hikes, sharing a treat, or just talking about anything. The emphasis in all activities is placed on the one-to-one friendship that is developed between the woman and girl.

Prior to her work with Big Sisters, she was employed as a teacher and school counselor in the Cleveland area for seven years.

The Big Brothers-Big Sisters office is located at 230 N. State St., Caro.

Arraign Millington man Monday

A Millington man was arraigned Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court on charges of felonious assault of his former wife.

Kenneth Ray Gamet, 27, stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial motions were set for Friday, June 21, by Judge Norman Baguley and bail was continued at $1,000.

Gamet is charged with the May 10 assault of his ex-wife, Bobie, in which he allegedly used a .20 gauge shotgun. The warrant charges him with assault without intent to commit murder or to inflict great bodily harm.

The incident occurred in Vassar township.

Two sentences were handed down Monday. Anthony Bilicki, 18, Caro, was sentenced to serve from two to four years in Jackson Prison after being found guilty of probation violations. He was sentenced on charges resulting from Florida arrests in April for possession of marijuana, siphoning gasoline and committing simple larceny.

Bilicki will receive credit for 60 days already served in jail.

Dean Emery, 18, Vassar, was sentenced to continued probation, costs and jail in connection with probation violation.

He was charged with failure to report to his probation officer, failure to obtain work, failure to report change of address and failure to report leaving the state to his probation officer.

Emery was ordered to serve another 12 months' probation, while paying costs of $200 and serving 90 days in jail with credit for 36 days already served.

Accident claims

The truck received extensive damage in the accident and some of the computer equipment inside was believed damaged as well.

The driver refused medical treatment, deputies said. They added he had been drinking.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A rural Caro man struck and killed a deer while traveling southwest on M-81 just south of Cass City Road Thursday.

Donald Smale, 28, of Jacob Road, told Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies the deer ran into the right side of his auto.

Smale was not injured in the accident which occurred at 9:35 p.m.

SCHOOL REUNION

The Evergreen Township School Reunion was held Saturday, June 1, at the Evergreen School, Shabbona. A cooperative dinner was served to the group at 12:15 after Elder Dean Smith offered the blessing. After dinner the meeting was called to order by Ernest Hyatt, president. "America" was sung with Mrs. Maude Holcomb leading. The flag pledge was repeated in unison with Mrs. Lillie Bruce as leader. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read by Marie Meredith.

Election of officers was held. Those elected were Ernest Hyatt, president; Marguerite Ross, vice-president; Marie Meredith, secretary and treasurer; program, Mrs. Lillie Bruce.

There were 17 present for the first time at the reunion. Former teachers present were Jason Kitchin, Lillie Bruce, Elmer Donaghy, Maude Holcomb, Elmer Russell, Roy Russell, Helen Ramsey, Marguerite Ross, Avis Young, and Helen Hamilton.

A gift was presented to the old school district with the most present, which was Shabbona. Also gifts were presented to the person who came the greatest distance, Mrs. Myrtle McCool of Kalkaska, and shortest distance, John D. Jones.

The youngest person present who had attended Evergreen School was Susie Smith who will be a first grader next year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smith. Door prize was awarded to Vern Severance of Saginaw.

Mrs. Dean Smith, Mrs. Robert Sawdon and Mrs. Floyd McIntosh sang four numbers.

Mrs. Marguerite Ross presented several readings to the group, as did John D. Jones. Mrs. Holcomb then led us in community singing.

Jason Kitchin read the history he wrote 21 years ago about our present school.

Persons attended from Kalkaska, Deford, Kingston, North Branch, Port Sanilac, St. Clair, Cass City, Sandusky, Marlette, Caro, Palms, Deckerville, Akron, Saginaw, Ann Arbor, Port Huron, Dearborn, Decker, Snover and Shabbona.

Summer reading program set

The summer program at Rawson Memorial Library will begin next week, according to librarian Barb Hutchinson. The theme of this year's program is "circus fun". Story hour will be Wednesdays at 1:00 p.m.

starting June 12. All children three years through fourth grade are invited to attend.

The reading club will also begin next week. Materials and information may be picked up at the library.

Women's Council holds meet

St. Pancratius Women's Council met June 3 for a potluck dinner and installation of new officers.

The officers for 1974-1975 are: president, Sally Wood; vice-president, Celia House; secretary, Barbara Malone, and treasurer, Jo Ann Izdorek.

The council voted to sponsor a combination flea market and bake sale in October.
