

State board denies Owen-Gage property transfers

The Michigan State Board of Education has turned down three property transfer requests from persons in the Owendale-Gagetown School District.

The action came Wednesday, July 3, and all but ended any realistic hope that the properties, which comprise just under 10 per cent of the district's state equalized valuation, might transfer to the Cass City School District.

While formal notice of the denials was not expected for at least a week, the action was official.

According to Ladd Dombrowski, administrative secretary to the state board, the denials came on 6-0 votes with one abstention.

Dombrowski detailed the board's decision in each case.

In a transfer requested by David Loomis, the board turned down the move 6-0 with two absent. It said Loomis is not a resident of the property and the question is largely moot.

The board turned down James Belk's transfer request 6-0, stating Belk knew the property was in the Owen-Gage district before he bought it. It further determined that Belk would be placed at no educational disadvantage by remaining in Owen-Gage, citing adequate bus transportation.

It also reasoned to allow Belk's property to transfer would set a precedent for further dismembering of the district.

The largest block of property requesting transfer, 9.2 per cent of the district, listed under a request by Vincent Sattelberg of Dickerson Road, was denied 6-0 with one absent and one abstention.

The board, explaining the Sattelberg decision, said transferring such a large block of property would be detrimental to the future of the district.

It said problems in Owen-Gage exist but said transfers of this type were not the answer.

It further said persons represented by these properties could go to Cass City on a tuition basis without undue hardship.

The board also said approving the Sattelberg request would unduly gerrymander both school districts. It also cited the refusal of the joint Huron-Tuscola Intermediate Board last summer to grant the transfers.

Several surrounding properties were lumped together in the Sattelberg request.

One of those in the case, Ben Hobart of Hobart Road, indicated Wednesday, July 3, that some effort would be made to start the transfer machinery over again.

Dombrowski said Monday that, other than re-hashing the issue or taking the case to Circuit Court, the transfers are dead.

"One board member indicated to me that transferring properties was not the way to solve the problems in Owen-Gage," Dombrowski said. "He said the board recognizes problems exist in the district but transfers was not the way to go."

The decision is not expected to bring students back to Owen-Gage who have transferred to Cass City.

Some observers see continued tuitioning of students to Cass City as ultimately fore-ing school tax increases on the Owen-Gage district. With fewer students, fewer state aid dollars flow into the district.

State aid is based directly on the number of students enrolled. Cass City would benefit from those same state aid dollars.

Presently Owen-Gage property owners are taxed at a rate of 24 mills, compared with 21.10 mills paid by Cass City district residents.

School Supt. Glenn Sanford was obviously pleased with the decision adding that he was especially glad to get it settled before the start of school.

"We needed to know quickly," Sanford said. "Now I'll know that I will be sending a bus into that area and I can figure out debt service and I can better project our revenues."

He added, however, that the decision does not really solve any of the district's problems many of which boil down to numbers. He said 13 fewer students will start kindergarten this fall than graduated from high school in the spring.

Additionally, 24 students moved out of the district who were not replaced by new students moving to the district. He added that it is still too early to know how many more students might transfer to Cass City.

"While I see no mass exodus from the district, I sure don't see any mass move to the district either," Sanford said.

The headache of transfers is still not over for the district. Still pending are a large number of property owners at the northern edge of the district joining Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port who have petitioned the state board to transfer to that district.

Some observers speculate this transfer request may be in serious trouble in light of Wednesday's decisions.

Reese man dies in 2-car crash Saturday

Tuscola county's traffic death toll reached 15 Saturday afternoon when a Reese man died in a two-car crash at the intersection of Dixon and Bradford Roads, a half-mile east of Reese.

Dead is James E. Singer, 31. Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said a car driven by Joe Robert Koopman, 19, of Saginaw, was headed east and failed to yield the right of way, striking the southbound Singer auto broadside.

Deputies noted the intersection was clear of obstruction at the time of the mishap. Singer was pronounced dead at the scene. Koopman was taken to Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital where he was listed as "fair".

The accident occurred at 3:53 p.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Several other minor accidents were reported by local police and sheriff's deputies.

Tuesday, July 2, cars driven by Owen F. Finkbeiner, 62, of Owendale and Ronald Kaplan, 23, of Caro, collided on M-81 just east of Fenner Road.

Sheriff's deputies said the Finkbeiner vehicle was eastbound and attempted to make a left turn during a heavy rainstorm in front of the oncoming Kaplan vehicle.

No ticket was issued and each driver sought his own medical treatment. The accident occurred at 11:45 a.m.

Wednesday, July 3, cars driven by Cynthia Sue Langmaid, 16, of Hill Street and Wilfred Turner, 71, of 3189 Decker Rd., Decker, collided at the intersection of Main and Seeger Streets in Cass City.

Cass City Police who investigated reported the Langmaid vehicle was traveling south on Seeger through the intersection when the Turner vehicle, traveling north, made a left turn in front of her.

Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued. The mishap took place at 2:00 p.m.

Two accidents were reported Friday. At 1:00 a.m., a car driven by Gary Lee Lindahl, 21, of 5876 Main St., Deford, went out of control and landed in a ditch on Decker Road a quarter-mile west of Cemetery Road.

Sheriff's deputies reported Lindahl was traveling west on Decker Road, left the roadway and drove into a ditch on the north side of the road. Lindahl reportedly told investigating officers he fell

Administration, 2 school board members clash over hirings

Supt. Donald Crouse and two members of the Cass City School Board were in sharp disagreement Monday night over procedures to be followed in hiring of athletic coaches.

Sparking the issue was the approval of a contract for Ron Nurnberger, 29, as head basketball coach at the school to replace the departed Fred Hurlburt.

Nurnberger was one of four teachers offered contracts by Supt. Donald Crouse. Trustees Lynn Albee and J.D. Tuckey were willing to ratify contracts for three academic teachers but wanted to delay approval of the coach until a discussion was held in a meeting closed to the press and the public.

Supt. Crouse objected on the basis that if he couldn't offer a contract to a prospective teacher without fear of having it rejected the administration was placed in a "very poor position."

Five members of the board backed Crouse. Their thoughts were articulated by Bob Hirn who said that the board almost had to back the administration. When the time comes that the board feels that the selections are poor, he said, then it's time for the board to look for a new administration.

Albee said that he didn't want to get into conflict with the superintendent but doggedly claimed that hiring a coach is different than hiring a regular teacher.

In the closed session following the meeting, Crouse promised to tell why selection of Nurnberger was made.

For the record, he says, that four candidates were interviewed, taken from numerous applications, and the "best man for the job" selected by the committee which included Crouse, Athletic Director Bob Stickle and High School Principal Russell Richards.

Only one man from the current high school staff applied for the job and was one of the four interviewed. Albee and Tuckey said that they felt that promotions should be made internally when at all possible.

NEW COACH

The new coach will be taking his first shot at the head of a basketball program. He graduated from Northern Michigan University in 1969 and went directly to Pinckney High School, a Class B school of some 3,000 students.

While Junior Varsity coach at Pinckney, Nurnberger's won-lost record was 3-15; 7-11; 14-3; 19-1 and 11-9.

The new coach is married and has 3 children. Trustee Dean Hoag said that he hoped the new coach was "hard nosed" and wanted short haircuts.

Besides the coach, the board okayed contracts for Pamela Beardslee to replace Mrs. Julie Hurlburt in Junior High Science; Richard Roth (pronounced Rowth), Junior High industrial arts to replace Merrill Harvitt, and Sandra Sperry, high school science, an addition to the staff.

ELECT OFFICERS

Monday's meeting was the first following the school election and the board reorganized. Re-elected president was Arthur Severance. Vice-president, a new office this year, is Dean Hoag. Bob Hirn was named secretary to replace Elwyn Helwig and Mrs. Geraldine Priesner was re-elected treasurer.

SCHOOL PROBLEM

Supt. Crouse outlined a problem with cars driving behind the school. Every Monday there are beer cans strewn in the yard east of the building, he said, and two of the newly planted trees were run down.

The board okayed a chain across the drive on the south road near the area where the cafeteria room is located. The main parking lot will not be blocked.

UNEMPLOYMENT PAY

The board voted to pay new unemployment benefits to teachers, as required this year for the first time, under a reimbursable plan where the school pays actual costs of the program. The school had the option, Crouse explained, to come under the rate of 2.7 standard for business if it desired. He said that experts advised paying the actual costs.

OTHER BUSINESS

The board approved a proposed new subdivision for Tom Herron as now is required by law. Gas stoves will not be installed in the intermediate home economics rooms because of cost problems. Gas stoves are available at the high school.

The board adopted new state guidelines for free lunches for poverty families in the school cafeteria. Finally, two Cass City banks and a Flint bank were named depository agents for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

Protest outside firms

Insurance bid letting questioned

Spirited bidding for the Cass City School's insurance business revived a problem that many previous boards of education have wrestled with for many years.

Basically, it revolves around the question of whether or not firms outside the taxpaying district should be allowed to bid on products and services.

Three local insurance agents were present to protest the awarding of insurance business to Farm Bureau. The three, Ed Doerr, Dick Hampshire and Bob Copeland, said that they weren't granted enough time to compile necessary information to make a low bid and that the information was available to Farm Bureau because they have been the school's agent for three years. Doerr said that he felt as long as there is adequate competition, the business should be kept within the district the same way it is done in Caro, Ubyly and Bad Axe.

The agents cited the school's policy of buying school vehicles from local dealers on a cost-plus basis as one case where the school does this.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that the reason the vehicles are purchased on a non-bid basis is the service that is required after the sale. He said that other than this he felt it was unfair to all the taxpayers not to buy from the lowest bidder regardless of where they were located.

He said that the local

Penny pinch possible here, experts say

First it was beef, then gasoline, then paper. Now the latest shortage is pennies.

While there's never enough money to go around, pennies in particular are becoming more and more scarce. And if present trends hold true, Cass City won't be spared either.

Area businesses are already reporting runs on pennies.

Mary Rabideau of the Ben Franklin Store said a heavy demand for pennies developed four or five weeks ago, mostly from young and middle-aged customers.

"I went to the bank this morning and asked the cashier for four dollars' worth of pennies and she said, you mean four rolls, and I said no, I mean four dollars worth-eight rolls," Mrs. Rabideau said.

Those eight rolls, purchased Saturday were expected to be gone by the following Monday morning.

The biggest demand for pennies comes from younger customers, she explained, while older persons seem more willing to dig down for the correct change. Most candy sold at the store costs at least five cents or more and generally, customers have to have change.

"Not long ago I had a customer who gave me two dollar bills for something costing a dollar and three cents," Mrs. Rabideau recalled. "I asked him if he didn't have three cents in change and he said no, he didn't."

Mrs. Rabideau said bank cashiers told her presently the supply of pennies coming in is adequate, but the demand is rising. Hoarding has been part of the cause for the penny shortage, treasury officials indicate.

Persons believe the price of copper will rise beyond the value of the coin, making it possible for them to turn a profit. One area collector recently advertised to buy the old-style wheat-back penny at double its face value.

Area supermarkets are also struggling to keep up with the demand. Don Erla of Erla's Food Center said the store is able to meet the demand with its penny allotment from the bank and coins retrieved from gun machines.

Erla said cashiers are being told to ask customers for correct change if it is possible.

"Let's say we have an order for $4.03, we'll usually ask the customer if he has the three cents," Erla said. "That way we're gaining three pennies instead of giving out the coins."

He said banks have established allotments of pennies for the store because of limitations placed on them. The problem has not created an acute shortage—yet.

"We're definitely giving out more pennies per day than we take in," Erla said. "In the morning, I'll put in $4 worth of pennies in the till and I'll have to refill them about one o'clock in the afternoon. Sometimes it'll last until three or four."

He said as long as the cashiers ask for change, the store can keep up with demand. The store tries to keep a week's supply of pennies on hand, Erla added.

Harry Lenda, manager of the IGA Foodliner, said his store has not yet experienced a shortage of pennies.

At Cass City State Bank, cashier Art Randall said while the bank has not yet had to ration pennies to businesses, things could change if the situation gets much worse.

"So far we've been able to meet the demand but for how much longer, I don't know," Randall said.

He said one day recently the bank went down to only four dollars' worth of pennies

THERE'S NO shortage of pennies here as village employees Debbie LeValley and Karen Osentoski count coins from parking meter collections. These pennies will be turned over to Pinney State Bank.

"If It Fitz..."

Sports vs. books

BY JIM FITZGERALD

While Jim Fitzgerald is on vacation, we are repeating some of his all-time favorite columns by popular request of his mother and Aunt Madeline.

After exhaustive study, 2 psychologists have reported that sports do not build character. Being a football star does not make Johnny a better person.

20,000 high school coaches just slit their jockstraps. But I am laughing. I am remembering a basketball coach who was also a history teacher. He couldn't understand how I could be 6 foot tall and not want to play basketball. Every time he graded my history assignment, he subtracted 10 per cent because I was a sissy and 15 per cent because St. Stephen High was in last place in the St. Clair County League and it was my fault.

He was one of those coaches who insisted Lincoln would never have been elected president if he hadn't been a little leaguer. World War 2 would be won on the West Point football field, he said, and France fell to Germany because French kids never learned how to play shortstop. If that coach is still alive today, he probably thinks the world's greatest sissies are Dr. Bruce Ogilvie and Dr. Thomas Tutko, psychology professors at San Jose State College in California. For 8 years they tested 15,000 athletes, worked with 27 professional teams and hundreds of high school and college teams. And they concluded there is nothing to support the traditional idea that sports build character.

"Indeed," they said, "there is evidence that athletic competition limits growth in some areas. . . athletic competition has no more beneficial effects than intense endeavor in any other field."

So there, coach. 30 years later, my judgment is vindicated by experts. I never could understand how running around in public in my underwear would make me editor of the New York Times.

It's not that I don't like sports. As a boy, I went to all the games and crawled around under the bleachers, looking for dropped money. That's how I became a fan. I still attend more games today than most normal men. I take my son along to pick up the money although I get half if I see it first.

The other day my mother came visiting and got her first look at the recreation room recently installed in my basement. Dear old mom remembers my hyper-relaxed boyhood better than anyone. She remembers when I delivered newspapers on foot and my dad looked out the window and swore he had to line me up with some trees to see whether I was moving.

"You have finally achieved your boyhood ambition," mother said. "You have your own pool table and your own bar with running water and cold beer. I am so proud of you."

I explained to her that it was, shucks, really nothing. And I asked her if she had been worried, those many years ago, about a son who never went out for school sports.

"You were always sitting around the house reading," she remembered, "while the other boys were out playing ball. I asked you once if you thought you'd grow up to be a great man and you said you'd rather grow up to be a great reader."

Hmmm. I wonder if books build character? I don't remember any teacher ever saying so. I never won a letter for my sweater for reading. There were never any pretty cheerleaders chanting: "Go man, read that sentence, understand that paragraph, Rah rah."

"I'll bet you're glad I built my character with books instead of sports," I told mother.

"You bet," she said. "All you ever read were comic books."

Onward and upward, with character.

Coming Auction

Saturday, July 13 - Mr. and Mrs. Jim King will sell personal property at the residence located three blocks north of the Cass City stoplight, at the corner of Seeger St. and Kennebec Dr. Lorn Hillaker - auctioneer.

A nickel goes a long way today—you have to go a long way to find something it will buy.

THIS LONELY lifeguard's chair stands vigil over the former Cass City Village swimming pool, which was filled with dirt Monday. The site will eventually be hard-surfaced and used as a basketball court.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

Deep down I am an optimist and I suspect that so is most everyone else. Does that surprise you?

Oh, I'm cynical enough about the relatively unimportant things.

Since day one I've been suspicious of the gas "shortage" and the energy crisis. Nothing that has happened to make me change my outlook since I wrote this last December. "Despite every thing I've heard the nagging thought persists that if the price were allowed to jump wherever the oil cartels would like to see it, the shortage would be very short lived."

When it comes to Watergate, my surface cynicism compels me to think the worst. Certainly the president is involved, I think, regardless of whether it leads to impeachment or not. Regardless of whether he is found guilty or innocent.

I'm cynical about our new Congressman Bob Traxler when he votes for cost of living increases for policemen, firemen and correctional officers who die in line of duty. Votes $294 million for prevention and treatment of alcoholism. Votes to extend coverage for veterans' educational benefits from 8 to 10 years. Votes cost of living increases to disabled veterans. Votes to create a national system of health insurance.

I'm cynical when he votes this way, and also votes against an increase in public debt and votes in favor of a series of appropriations bills which cut the president's budget by over $1 billion.

I'm also cynical enough not to hold this record against our Congressman. It's the political thing to do in this election year and I suspect any of our reps in Washington would do about the same. It's too early for me to tell if Congressman Traxler is good, bad or indifferent for the Eighth District.

Right now there must be plenty of natural born optimists saying to themselves that if he's not cynical, I'd hate to see someone who is.

But, my friends, this is surface cynicism. When it comes to the really important issues I'm not cynical at all.

Deep down I feel that everything is going to work out okay with me and my family. I've got faith that my kids won't become dope addicts. Won't end up mangled and broken in a car accident.

That none of us will die the slow, lingering death caused by a terminal disease. I trust that, despite its ailments, the nation and the economy will survive and our standard of living will be as good as it always has been. Intellectually I know that these are real threats. That nations have been engulfed by inflation. That life savings have been lost as money became worth less than the paper it was printed on.

I know that every minute of every day someone dies from a disease that medical science can do nothing to cure. I know it but I refuse to believe that it will strike me or mine. Like I said, I'm an incurable optimist. And glad of it.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

A leading candidate in any younger-than-he-looks derby has to be Art Freeman of Gagetown. You'd guess that this 90-year-old man is in no more than his 70's and after you talk a bit with him you're more convinced than ever that he's not 90. But he is.

Clinton House is showing the effect of his first weight losing campaign since I've known him (he doesn't call it a diet). Anyway, he's just a shadow of his former rotund self. I don't know if Clint feels the battle of the bulge is over or not. . . but as a veteran dieter I can tell him it isn't. For me, losing weight is not all that hard. Keeping it off is almost impossible.

When B.A. Calka's brother, Bernard, takes on his job he's much like his brother. He works at it. Bernard Calka of Mount Clemens is assistant fire chief in Sterling Heights and vice-president of the Michigan Firemen's Association.

The association, with Calka ramrodding the bill, was successful in passing a law recently that requires all new mobile homes in Michigan to be equipped with a smoke detection system and a fire extinguisher.

Any fireman or newsman can recite you chapter and verse about the dangers of fatalities in mobile home fires. The new regulations should help.

Regular readers of this nonsense will recall that I have placed Edith Little at the top, the very top, of the myriad civic ticket pushers in the area.

That's for women. For men, Bill Kritzman is challenging for the crown.

Bill just hands you a pair for whatever it is the community is pushing with one hand and collects with the other.

You notice I said is challenging for the crown. Our vote still goes to Dick Wallace as the best of the best.

But both Bill and Dick can sell you a ticket and it doesn't even hurt.

All of this is a sneaky way of leading into a plug for the Chamber's Ox Roast slated Thursday evening at Wildwood Farms.

It's the Chamber's money raising event. Tickets entitle you to dinner, refreshments and a barrel of fun and are $6 each. Kritzman has a few left to sell.

We can't help but speculate how the Robert Alexanders are doing in the south in all this heat. They braved the temperatures to see their son, Rob, pitch in the minors.

Rob recently has been as hot as the weather. His last pitching effort was his best of the year, his dad reports. Supposedly he was to have pitched again early this week as the family rooted in the stands.

I've followed Rob's career since his Little League days and hope to be able to watch him one day as he toes the rubber in the majors.

He's got the arm to do it, the pros say.

3-year-old drowns Friday in Cat Lake

A three-year-old boy drowned late Friday in Cat Lake, three miles northeast of Mayville.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies identified the victim as Lawrence E. Bateman III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Bateman of Belleville, who were vacationing at the lake.

Sheriff's deputies said the boy was discovered missing about 5:30 p.m. His parents and neighbors organized a search party and hunted for half an hour before calling the sheriff's department.

Skindivers from the department recovered the boy's body shortly after they arrived at the scene.

The drowning was the second in the county for the year and the week. Wednesday, 10-year-old Debbie Ann Miller of Reese drowned at Anderson Park on Washburn Road near Vassar.

Sheriff's deputies reported no one saw the victim enter the water. She had been missing about an hour before her body was recovered. Deputies arrived as the girl was being given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The grandson of a former Cass City resident drowned July 4 in a gravel pit near Richmond.

Michael Mudge, 24, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Mudge and grandson of Mrs. Nellie Mudge, formerly of Cass City.

His body was not recovered until Saturday. Funeral services were held in Detroit Tuesday.

Your neighbor says

No to winter DST

Governor William Milliken has urged the State Legislature to return Michigan to standard time in the fall, discontinuing year-round daylight saving time.

He said the move has failed to save substantial energy, the original intent of the plan.

One person who generally agrees is Jim Jezewski of 4190 Sherman St.

"In my business it really doesn't make much difference," Jezewski says, "but generally I like daylight time in the summer. In the winter, though, I'd just as soon see it go back to standard time."

Jezewski agrees that the plan didn't save any energy.

"If it's dark in the morning when you get up, you'll use the lights you would have used at night," he says.

Jezewski, who works in material control at Wallbro Corp., is a native Cass Cityan.

He is assistant chief of the Elkland Township Fire Department, having served with the department 10 years.

He and his wife are the parents of one son, Jason, age 2 1/2.

AGENT'S CORNER

Basement moisture

Ann Ross - Extension Agent

When heavy rains leave your basement wet, try to dry it up before mildew sets in. Mold and mildew are little organisms that can cause a lot of damage in a warm, damp, poorly lit basement that isn't ventilated well. So act quickly.

Proper ventilation is a key to fighting mildew. Pull all furniture away from the walls. Then prop it up to insure circulation around all sides. You may want to run fans all night.

You can use a dehumidifier to remove excess moisture from the air. But if you do, be sure all windows and doors leading outside or upstairs are kept closed during the day. Otherwise, more moisture will condense when the warm, outside air hits the cool basement.

Get rid of musty odors by scrubbing floors and walls with a mixture of chlorine bleach and water. Use between one-half to one cup of bleach to each gallon of water. Rinse walls and floor thoroughly and wipe dry immediately. A fungicide spray is effective for those hard-to-reach places. Just follow the directions.

Mildew won't wait for you to make the first move. So clear up that basement moisture before it gets a chance to move in.

Baseball umpires are usually satisfactory to all except the players and the spectators.

He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Buraside.

He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Sandra, at home; six sons, Jerry of North Branch, Dale, George, Jimmy and Ronald, all of Lam, and Gary at home; his mother, Mrs. Anna Woidan of Cass City; two brothers, Andrew of Lapeer and Henry

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Italian problem solving

By Jim Ketchum

The Italians have a unique way of handling their perpetual problems. Years ago, when Benito Mussolini took over the government, he paid off the national debt by literally burning the mortgage.

The fact that he hadn't paid off the bill didn't bother him. They deal with the hundreds of thousands of cats that wander the streets of Rome at will not by exterminating them, but by spending funds from their nearly empty treasury for flea collars.

They reason if the animals must live, let them live in peace. Even with the succession of governments, Italians manage to deal with this as just one more minor problem.

Now, however, the Italians have outdone even themselves.

A report has reached my desk that the Italian Post Office got so far behind in mail deliveries that it had 40 tons of mail, including checks and registered letters, sold and ground into pulp for re-cycling.

It seems the postal authorities just didn't know what else to do with it. One thing you have to admit, it's one of the most efficient ways of dealing with the problem. No fuss, no muss. Just ship it out and grind it up. Besides, it's so old that most of the letters are pretty useless by now anyway.

The plan is thorough. How could anyone trace any of it when it ceases to exist? The fact that a few widows and pensioners failed to receive their monthly allotments didn't seem to bother authorities.

You must remember, they reason, the lira is practically worthless anyway, so who would miss one or two checks?

Chances are all of this will lead to outcries from government leaders that an investigation should be held. And chances are, one will be started.

But in the labyrinth that is Italian politics and government, chances also are that nothing will be done and the investigation will solve nothing. Members may not even be able to attend committee sessions if meeting notices are sent by mail.

Strange, but it sounds a lot like our own government. How many times has Congress started looking into a problem only to conclude, not with a bang or a whimper but with a dejected sigh of relief that no one is bothering anyone about it anymore.

Another comparison can be drawn between the two nations. Both are in perpetual governmental turmoil. The only difference is that the Italians are more demonstrative and tend to take more drastic measures, knowing already that our way of doing things just doesn't work in Italy.

And, while grinding up 40 tons of old mail in this country might start a revolution, in Italy, it is greeted by another sigh, a shake of the head and the statement, "Well, that is government for you."

So it is. By the way, where is that package I sent for last week? You don't suppose I'm writing this column on it, do you? 'Chow.

Pigeon man

'fair' after

tractor mishap

A Pigeon man was listed in fair condition Tuesday at Hills and Dales General Hospital, recovering from injuries sustained in a tractor accident Friday afternoon on Daus Road a quarter-mile east of Schwegler Road.

William F. Bock, 77, was reportedly working in a field with a tractor-drawn disc when the machine slid into a ditch.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies said Bock drove down the ditch trying to find a place to get the tractor out and fell from the machine and the disc ran over him before the tractor stalled.

Bock sustained multiple injuries and was taken to Hills and Dales Hospital.

Deputies said Bock was discovered by Dennis Stine of Standish, who was driving past.

Owen-Gage school board to try forming citizens' committee in building drive

The Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education took initial steps toward mounting a building campaign during its regular meeting held Monday night in Owendale.

The board approved a resolution to attempt to form a citizens' committee "for the purpose of investigating improvements of physical facilities" in the district.

Translated, the board will seek community input in its attempt to come up with a building proposal voters will approve.

The resolution, proposed by recently-elected board member Ronald Reinhardt, starts the machinery which may lead to a building proposal to construct a new high school building.

A public meeting was tentatively set for July 22 in Gagetown where backers of the resolution hope a citizens group can be formed.

Reinhardt said hashing out all sides of a building program with citizens of the district would help insure passage and said the group would in effect, tell the architect what the district wanted rather than follow the dictates of a builder.

Some members expressed dissatisfaction with Wiggins and Tinknell, presently under contract with the board from the bond issue which failed last December. Supt. Glenn Sanford told the board if it drops the firm, it must pay expenses incurred to date.

The contract states that the district has three chances to approve the present plan. If it still failed after a third vote, then the district would owe the firm $2,500.

Where to build a new high school came up for discussion. The district still holds an option on land located between Owendale and Gagetown. Board member Jack Brinkman said this site would not find favor with voters and that the building should be constructed in Owendale.

The problem here involves sewage disposal. The board has already learned that state health officials would not approve a lagoon system for the building, but might approve a spray-type system.

Owendale has no sanitary sewer system. Reinhardt said if the school committed itself to build in the village, this might speed up the process of getting federal funds to assist Owendale's sewer construction program.

Sanford strongly urged Reinhardt to involve an architect with the citizens group, especially in the area of sewage disposal, during its planning stages.

Ken Wissner, one of a dozen citizens who attended the meeting, urged the board to present the facts without the animosities of the last election.

"Let everybody get the facts and then let them go without running it down their throats," Wissner said.

He said voters would not approve a plan if they were coerced by any one group. Sanford remained pessimistic after the meeting that a citizens committee could effectively be formed and come up with an acceptable plan.

REORGANIZATION

Police said the culprits also drove over the boxes with their car.

No suspects were apprehended.

Cass City Police reported an attempted breaking and entering early Monday morning at the Pamela Nicholas residence at 4468 Woodland St.

Mrs. Nicholas reportedly told police she awoke shortly after 4:00 a.m. and heard a noise in her living room. She saw two persons in the room and yelled, frightening them away.

Police said nothing was taken, adding entry was gained through a door left unlocked at the rear of the house. No suspects were apprehended.

lative representative, Jack Brinkman.

Regular meetings were set for the second Monday of the month to be held at Owendale with special meetings tentatively set for the fourth Monday of the month at a site to be announced by the board.

Regular meetings will begin at 8:00 p.m.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board approved six per cent pay raises for all non-certified employees other than bus drivers, who were given $50 raises for the year.

The board approved bringing these employees under contract.

Board members also approved by 4-3, purchase of two air conditioners for the superintendent's offices. One of the dissenters, Mrs. Mary Downing, said the board should have investigated more thoroughly which units used less energy.

Cost of the air conditioners will be $220 each. Approval was also given to spend $717 on a 150,000 BTU furnace for the superintendent's house.

The board approved an attendance policy. Under the policy, when a student is absent from school 15 days in a semester without an excuse, no credit will be awarded for any courses carried that semester.

The policy applies to absences from certain classes as well.

Allowances are made for sickness, hunting, farm work or other activities by using a pre-excused absence which parents must apply for and fill out, along with a letter from the parent.

High school principal DeLoss-Inmann said last year nearly 25 per cent of the students were absent for a total of 10 days in a semester with another 10 to 15 per cent absent 15 days or more.

He said one student was absent nearly a month and still managed to pass examinations.

The board also voted not to charge students for bus trips to away games and approved a $5 charge per room for any profit-making organization using school buildings.

Letters of resignation from fifth-grade teacher Rebecca Staffer and home Ec teacher Janice Hall were read.

The board approved a resolution supporting the vote on the Huron County Intermediate Vocational center scheduled for Sept. 10.

Members adjourned for an executive session to discuss teacher contract negotiations.

State Police arrest

Deford man Thursday

State Police from the Caro Post arrested a Deford man July 4 and charged him with receiving and concealing stolen property.

Vern Allen Durocher was arrested by police after receiving a tip that he was concealing a citizens band radio reported stolen June 13 from William Hollosy of 4125 West St.

Police said the radio was stolen from Hollosy's car while it was parked in Yale. Officers said following receipt of the tip, they obtained a search warrant and discovered the radio in Durocher's home.

State police were called to investigate a series of mailbox destructions in the Deford area July 4.

Mailboxes owned by Glenn May of Bevens Road, Roland Hartsell of Bevens Road, William Hartsell of Burman Road, Robert Salowitz of Bevens Road, Valerie Yax of Burman Road and Gerald Wolfrum of Burman Road were reportedly destroyed by what appeared to be an M-80 rifle.

Tahquamenon

Falls callstourists

Tourists in Michigan's Upper Peninsula should be sure to have the state's best-known waterfall high on their list of must-see attractions, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

In fact, Tahquamenon Falls is the highest waterfall east of the Mississippi River except Niagara. It's located near Newberry, about 65 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie.

As if one weren't enough, nature provided two sets of Tahquamenon Falls—the Upper and Lower—about four miles apart on the Tahquamenon River. The most spectacular, the Upper, is 40 feet high and 200 feet across at the crest.

The Lower Falls, considered by some more beautiful than the Upper, is divided by an island and is a series of rapids and cascades.

Both are within Tahquamenon Falls State Park's 18,906 acres, one of the most popular Upper Peninsula state parks.

"The Tahquamenon River runs through heavily wooded, partially swampy wilderness country which retains much of its natural beauty," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager. "Decaying vegetation of the vast Tahquamenon swamp gives the water its unique golden cast."

The Upper and Lower Falls, the "rushing Tahquamenon," are the setting of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's epic poem, Hiawatha, legendary warrior-hero of the Chippewas.

Other than hiking, there are three ways to reach the Upper Falls. Private automobile and a short walk is one. The other two utilize privately operated riverboats.

One combination is called the Tom Sawyer Riverboat and Paul Bunyan Timber Train. It starts from Slater's Landing, 10 miles north of Hulbert off M-28, by riverboat and continues through the wilderness to the Falls by open air cars pulled by a huge tractor. From July 1 through Labor Day, there are two trips daily, at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. After Labor Day through Oct. 10 there is one trip daily, at 10:30 a.m.

The other is the Toonerville Trolley and boat trip. Starting at Soo Junction, on M-28 east of Newberry, visitors ride a narrow-gauge railroad six miles through thick forest and then board a riverboat for the remainder of the trip. Two trips daily are scheduled Monday through Friday during July and August, at 10 a.m. and 12 noon. On Saturday and Sunday during the same months there is one trip, at 10:30 a.m. From Sept. 1 through Oct. 5, one trip daily leaves at 10:30 a.m.

Either trip goes through wilderness country. Only from a boat do you get a real close-up of the trackless bush country—spots you couldn't reach except for three or four days of hard hiking. Both trips have excellent commentaries.

BETTER HEALTH
What is shortness of breath?

There is a great deal of talk in the public-health press about shortness of breath. Many are unduly frightened by what they think is shortness of breath, but really is not. What is often confused with true shortness of breath is in fact only a sudden sense of need to take a deep breath, followed by a feeling that the breath was not satisfactory, not, as it were, nourishing as a proper deep breath should be.

The result is a series of forced deep breaths that may still seem to be somehow unsatisfactory. These deep, sighing respirations may even bring on a sense of faintness, but this kind of breathing is not to be confused with what we doctors mean by shortness of breath. Anyone who has been caught in a tense or threatening situation — alone in the night perhaps, startled by the footsteps of an intruder — can remember the hardly sensible shallow breathing of fear, at length followed by a deep and exaggerated inhalation. Something like this, without the footsteps of an intruder, but all the same triggered by some inner anxiety, produces an unnoticed period of the shallow breathing of fear, followed at length by a deep, hungry "sighing" inspiration, which seems to run off without being a really satisfactory breath.

Simple rapid breathing, as when you are upset or find yourself in a hot, humid room, is sometimes also confused with abnormal shortness of breath, but panting in these circumstances is quite normal.

Real shortness of breath is present when you are aware of labored, uncomfortable, gasping respirations, as if you had just run two blocks to catch a bus, when you haven't.

Such breathing is normal enough if you have run for a bus, especially if you are out of condition or if you have undertaken abrupt heavy exertion that you are not accustomed to.

This true shortness of breath under normal circumstances disappears after a few minutes' rest. If it does not, something may be wrong that ought to be looked into by a doctor.

If you are truly short of breath on little or no exertion, there is very likely something wrong and you should see your doctor for a thorough examination.

Sometimes the cause is related to inefficiency of the heartbeat with congestion in the circulation. Sometimes, it may be related to the capacity of the lung tissue to be well ventilated and to pass oxygen into the blood. Sometimes anemia, with a drop in the blood count, will cause shortness of breath.

True shortness of breath may occur abruptly but more often it develops gradually and one often slows down without being wholly aware of it to accommodate to it. Only when you think back over weeks or months do you realize that you are more "winded" by less exertion than you used to be.

Heavy Smokers (you qualify if you smoke a pack or more each day) are particularly subject to shortness of breath because most heavy smokers have some degree of chronic bronchitis. This is evidenced by frequent coughing with production of sputum and a recurrent necessity to clear the throat. Smokers who give up their little white pacifiers usually find that their bronchitis clears up.

The investigation of shortness of breath should never be put off when it occurs with a pain in the chest, an insistent cough, blood-spitting, wheezing or a sudden gain or loss of weight.

Burns farm features large egg production

Poultry producers and others interested in egg and poultry production can view a successful 70,000-layer operation during the 1974 State Farm Management Tour, in Tuscola county, Aug. 13. This outstanding poultry operation is looked upon as leaders of the poultry industry in the State of Michigan.

Four stops include the five-man father and sons Burns poultry farm near Millington, three cash crop operations—two dairy-farms—a swine farm and horse breeding business.

Four farms are slated for morning viewing, with farm family interviews at 10:30 at each site. The remainder will be visited in the afternoon.

with interviews at 2:00 p.m. A noon luncheon at the Caro fairgrounds will feature a top agricultural speaker.

Harry Burns and sons Alfred, Norman, Lloyd and Lyle grade and market their own eggs. The operation includes a 5x50 foot egg cooler with inside floor level dock and 40-case-per-hour washer and grader with electronic blood spot detector.

The Burnses start about 10,000 pullet chicks every eight weeks. They raise about 700 acres of corn, which is dried and stored on the farm (storage capacity: 80,000 bushels).

They grind and mix about 80 tons of feed per week, starting with a vitamin package. They haul feed ingredients with their own trucks and have storage capacity on the farm for 400 tons of bulk ingredients.

The hen's cages are cleaned three times each year: before and right after corn planting and after the corn is picked. The Burnses have a corn variety test plot where they are yield checking thirty-five corn hybrids. This is a County Corn Variety Yield Test Plot with twelve rows of each variety.

Oral polio clinics set for Thumb

Polio immunization clinics will be held July 15-16 at the Thumb District Health Department, 2266 W. Caro Rd., Caro, from 9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

Any child two months or older who has not had a series of three oral polio inoculations, is encouraged to be seen.

Parents should review the child's personal immunization record and contact their physician or Health Department regarding this need.

It is essential that the parent bring this record to the clinic for review.

A minimum of three oral polio inoculations is recommended by the local health department, and vaccination of individuals over school age is generally not recommended. Vaccination is only administered to well children. It should not be administered to anyone with acute illness or if there is presence of vomiting or diarrhea.

There has been a reported case of paralytic polio in Michigan this summer and local health department officials are concerned about protection levels in the community.

In six to eight weeks, the Thumb District Health Department will schedule further clinics to complete the second phase of immunization. If further immunization is indicated, an appointment will be scheduled for the child. If there is any doubt about the child's immunization, parents should consult their physicians or health department, preferably during specified clinic days. The Health Department's phone number is 673-1178.

Trip to Philippines dream come true for Mrs. Hewitt

"It was like a dream come true. I really couldn't believe it was true."

That's how Mrs. Ervive Hewitt of 4534 Downing St. described her initial reaction to going home. For her, however, home is more than just a short trip. It's 10,000 miles or more away.

Home is the Philippine Islands.

The dream came true for Amor Hewitt, her husband, Ervive, their four children and Mrs. Hewitt's mother, Mrs. Carmen Alcantara in May, following a year of planning and months of arranging schedules.

The work was more than worth it for the family, and brought them to the lush, mountainous homeland Mrs.

Hewitt left in 1956 when she came to the United States. The former Filipino beauty queen and lab inspector at General Cable Corp. beamed with excitement as she and her husband explained their month-long adventure in the South Pacific.

The journey itself began May 13, on a flight from Windsor to Toronto. Boarding a 747, the group, minus Mrs. Hewitt's mother, who had gone ahead earlier, flew on to Vancouver, B.C., Tokyo, Hong Kong and then to Manila.

"When we stepped off the plane, I said you're home honey," Hewitt recalled with a smile. "I know for her it seemed like a dream come true."

It was truly a dream come true. There to greet them were between 75 and 100 members of her family.

From that day and for the next 31 days, the family enjoyed the unabashed warmth and hospitality of the Philippines.

Staying with many of Mrs. Hewitt's relatives, the family group toured much of the countryside including the Taal Volcano site, Pagsanjan Falls, where they took a three-hour canoe trip, and a trip to Paete, a woodcarving manufacturing center.

"It's really something to watch," Hewitt explained, describing woodcarving. "You can walk into one of those shops and they'll carve a bust of you in four hours or less."

Hewitt said the people of the Philippines are highly intelligent and skilled with their hands. He said rice terraces, planted into the sides of fertile hills, are practically perfect.

"They'll have a number of different people in the field planting rice plants and when they get done, the rows are so straight you could shoot a rifle down them," Hewitt said.

TROPICAL CLIMATE

Hewitt said the land in the islands is some of the most fertile in the world, producing nearly all the country's vegetables and fruits, which are on sale daily in open air markets.

He said the temperature hit 96 degrees one day during the trip and that their tour encountered part of the monsoon season.

"It'll rain hour after hour so hard you can't see across the street," Hewitt said. "Water will come up two or three feet deep in the streets. Then the sky will clear and before long the water runs off and life goes back to normal."

He said a recent cold snap brought the temperature down to near-record low of 59 degrees. No furnaces or car heaters exist in the country.

Hewitt maintained buildings showed less deterioration for their age than comparable buildings here because they do not contend with the icy blasts of winter. While the climate is extremely humid, structures seem to withstand the elements with fewer problems.

The family utilized jeeps for touring the country and public transportation for touring Manila, capital of the nation.

In Manila, the family met several government leaders including I.R. Castro, assistant secretary for national defense, the chief Philippine ambassador and U.S. Ambassador William Sullivan.

CHANGES

Mrs. Hewitt said she saw many marked changes in her native land over the past 17 years—most of them for the good. When she left in 1956, the country, one of the newest democracies, was still reeling under the aftermath of World War II and Japanese occupation.

Today, the destruction has been cleared away and many new homes have been built, she said. Existing buildings have been modernized and more public transportation has been constructed.

"The moral standard is very high even though most teenagers are quite up to date in their dress and their fads," Mrs. Hewitt said.

One big change in her country is the present dictatorship of President Ferdinand Marcos, who seized power when the American-inspired democratic government teetered at the brink of collapse from guerrilla warfare by Communists and corruption from within.

Hewitt explained Marcos' rule is absolute. Marshall law exists between midnight and 4:00 a.m. Anyone out without a police escort is subject to arrest and execution by firing squad.

Hewitt said after these hours, justice is still dispensed without hesitation. Executions are carried out against the dope pushers, rapists and most criminals. Crimes against the people are not tolerated, Hewitt said.

He said there is little political opposition in the country at the surface and elections are supposed to take place in the fall, but nothing definite is set.

WARM REACTION

One thing that hasn't changed is the warmth of the Philippine people, Mrs. Hewitt said. They both agree that Americans are genuinely liked and trusted.

"They are the warmest, most loving people I've ever seen," Hewitt said. "We were treated like visiting VIP's all the way."

Mrs. Hewitt, who was chosen queen of the Philippine May festival in 1948, said this warmth comes from close family relations. Many families never move out of walking distance from each other.

"They are an aggressive, hard working people," Hewitt said. "Yet they are kind. They go out of their way to make you feel at home."

This warmth, however, still does not extend totally to the Japanese who occupied their land during the war and slaughtered seven out of every 10 males. Today Japanese tourists are warned not to stray into interior sections of the country.

When the dream trip for the Hewitts ended June 14, no one in the family wanted to come home.

"I shot up 32 rolls of movie film and 24 still film cartridges," Hewitt said.

Will the family ever return? Right now, the answer is an emphatic yes. Hewitt indicated he plans to retire in his wife's homeland someday, hopefully.

Until then, they will have pictures and a houseful of wood carvings to help them remember. They left most of their clothing behind in order to bring back ornate hand-carved statues, bowls and sculptures.

Each member of the family was allowed 44 pounds of baggage on the return trip and each used his allotment. Anything over is charged at $7.50 per pound.

Until they return, they can remember their dream come true and plan another dream.

THE HEWITT family poses with some of the souvenirs and gifts they brought home from their month-long stay in the Philippines. Looking over the collection are (from the left) Ed John, Ervive Hewitt, Mrs. Amor Hewitt, Carmen Alcantara (Mrs. Hewitt's mother), Carol, Teresa and Kathy Hewitt.

KEEPING IN STEP

You don't have to be "square" to go to church. The image of dour individuals with "holier-than-thou" attitudes is as old fashioned today as people dancing the minuet.

Take the Adamses, for example. They aren't youngsters, to be sure, but they are very much in step with the times, and their home is a haven for teenagers. Mr. Adams is a lawyer, who works with kids who have been in trouble. Mrs. Adams is on the local school committee and also helps the Girl Scouts.

The Adamses like to walk to church each Sunday and to discuss the sermon on the way home. Their minister is "with it" too—he strives to counsel his parishioners on the dilemmas that confront Christians today.

The Adamses, their minister, their church—all a part of today.

Are you?

Penny pinch may be near

in reserve before a new shipment arrived the following morning. Randall indicated the crunch has come about in the last two months for a variety of reasons.

"Who knows why it's happened?" Randall said. "I'm sure there are pennies being stashed away in a dish or a can or a piggy bank in nearly every house in town. If everybody decided to turn them in all at once, we'd have more pennies than we'd know what to do with."

Randall said the bank usually gives out about $100 in pennies per week, although this will vary. Demand from businesses for more pennies is definitely increasing, he said.

"Right now we have enough pennies to meet our local demand," he said. "But if someone from Caro came in asking for $15 or $20 in pennies, we probably wouldn't have them."

William Ruhl of Pinney State Bank said presently the bank is having no problem acquiring or giving out pennies. He said last month the bank felt a slight pinch in the penny supply but nothing serious.

The bank handles village accounts including pennies gathered from parking meters.

Deputy village clerk Karen Osentoski explained parking meter money is usually collected every three to four weeks. Most of the change gathered is in pennies, which she said goes to Pinney State Bank.

She said the village is collecting about the same number of pennies it has in the past.

Board quizzed on insurance agents gave no service when the business was placed with them for some 10 years before it went to Farm Bureau.

There appears to be little chance that the procedure will be changed at this time, although there appears to be some uncertainty among members about the present policy.

Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn asked Crouse to investigate what happens at other schools and report to the board. In the past Mrs. Prieskorn has favored an all bid or no bid approach to school bidding, including vehicles.

After hearing the agents protest the length of time allowed for bidding, the board voted a one-year contract to Farm Bureau, the low bidder, instead of the usual three-year contract.

In the motion it was stipulated that next year's bidding invitation will be issued at least 60 days before the final bidding date.

SCHOOL ROAD

Two sealed bids were opened for draining and resurfacing work for the service road north of the intermediate school.

Low bidder for the work was Whitfield-Hartwick with a total bid of $13,921.60. Included will be grading and resurfacing 750 feet of street starting from Seeger Street and continuing past the elementary school.

Supt. Crouse said that an added expense could be rebuilding a retaining wall that is located on the north side of the road.

Trustees speculated that the wall has been in place for 30 years or more.

Work on the road is expected to be completed by the time school opens in the fall.

One other special expenditure was okayed by the board. Sewing machines in the high school and intermediate school will be replaced.

The high school machines are a year old and will be replaced for about $155. The 20 machines in the intermediate school are older and will cost $1,264 to replace with new machines.

He was not seriously injured.

At 8:15 a.m., cars driven by Sandra Lee Doyen, 17, of 5187 Severance Rd., and Nancy Marie St. Clair, 25, of Carsonville, collided on Seeger Street just north of Main.

Cass City Police reported Ms. Doyen backed from a parking place on the west side of Seeger Street into the stopped St. Clair vehicle.

Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued.

Saturday, a car driven by David Ralph Schember, 26, of East Cass City Road, struck and killed a deer on Decker-ville Road a half-mile west of Cemetery Road.

Schember told sheriff's deputies the deer jumped out of the ditch from the north side of the road into the path of his car. He was not seriously injured.

The mishap took place at 8:00 a.m.

IMPLEMENTATION SCHEDULE — TUSCOLA COUNTY

The entire County will be served by one sanitary landfill which will be located near the center of the County. (Site area being checked, Indianfields and Juniata Townships). There will be at least 160 acres in the landfill. The site will be purchased by the County in 1974, after on-site soil borings have been approved by the Sanitary Engineering Section, Solid Waste Management Division, Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The County Board of Commissioners will, through their Committee structure, arrange for and approve an engineering design and a plan of operation for the landfill. The above mentioned section and division of the DNR will assist in the development of, and approve the design of operation plan for the landfill. The engineering design and plan of operation should be completed by July 1, 1975. Site improvements, as called for in the engineering design, will be made in 1975. The use of existing non conforming waste disposal sites in the County will be discontinued when the sanitary landfill goes into operation.

The County will use revenue sharing or general fund moneys or both to purchase land, to provide an engineering design and to carry out site improvements. Municipalities, Townships, Companies, State Agencies and individuals who use the landfill will be charged a disposal fee. The disposal fee will include: Operation costs, contractor's profit, County reimbursement for land purchase and site improvements.

The County costs for the land purchase and site improvements will be amortized over a fifteen year period. The costs will be a net figure based upon the estimated return that can be realized from the sale of the land after the site has served its purpose as a landfill.

The collection of solid waste materials from their point of generation and the transportation to the sanitary landfill will be the responsibility of the individual townships, cities and villages.

Their efforts will be co-ordinated by the County through a Committee of the County Board of Commissioners or through a department designated by the Board of Commissioners. This co-ordinating arm of the County Board of Commissioners will also be responsible for making contractual arrangements with a private contractor to operate the site. The contractor will be required to purchase his own equipment and operate in the manner prescribed by the State. The disposal fee for disposal at the landfill will be established by the County and made a part of the contract with the landfill operator.

Motion by Ducker, supported by Woodcock we adjourn until July 9, 1974 at 9:30 a.m. Motion carried.

New $450,000 campaign to promote state picks up steam

Michigan is trying to sell itself to residents and non-residents alike as a great place to vacation this summer. You've probably seen some of the full-page ads touting the state's wonders.

But there's a smaller scale ad campaign being conducted in some less widely read publications, like Business Week and the midwest edition of The Wall Street Journal.

Michigan is trying to drum up more industry.

"We've had some bad publicity in several areas—about high wages, workmen's compensation practices and rates and the lack of financial incentives for business," says one Commerce Department spokesman.

"We're seeing somewhat of an end to that now, but there has been an imagery problem."

In an attempt to end that problem, the department is spending part of a $450,000 legislative allocation to promote the state as a good bet for business locations.

"You can get cheaper labor than Michigan's... but you'll make up the difference in aspirin," declares one of the ads.

The copy goes on like this: "Let's say you pick a state where you can hire workers cheaper. It's not hard to do. And you move your business there to save some money."

"You locate your plant site, hire some local guys and open. Your business depends on labor skilled enough to bend a pipe into a perfect figure eight. Your first day, you find out you haven't got a guy in the shop who's capable of a perfect figure one."

"Feel that throbbing around your temples? Take a couple aspirin."

OPTOMETRISTS IN ARMS

Stinging comments come from the Michigan Optometric Association in the wake of a report from the governor's Office of Health and Medical Affairs. The report, dealing with vision and eye care services in Michigan, recommended, among other things, that establishment of a school of optometry by the state be deferred.

"This recommendation is absolutely wrong and totally disregards the future vision care needs of the citizens of Michigan," declares a position paper from Association representatives.

"Neither state-supported student contracts, nor reciprocity, offer a significant solution to the future Michigan optometric manpower crisis."

The Association lauds a recommendation that programs for post-graduate training in optometry be established at state universities.

But, it contends, "it would be extremely difficult to establish post-graduate training in optometry at any location other than an optometry school... In reality, an optometric post-graduate training center must follow the establishment of an optometry school, not precede it."

Optometry, the position paper says, "has very little alternative but to view (actions in preparing the recommendations) as a deliberate stall and an attempt to weaken or eliminate the profession of optometry."

TOLL-FREE TO LANSING???

Want to call your legislator, but shrink from the prospect of a higher telephone bill at your house?

Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, thinks constituents should be able to phone their senators and representatives in Lansing without having to foot the tab on their home phone bills.

So he's introduced legislation that would provide toll-free phone numbers to state officials and departments in Lansing.

"Citizens, who are rightfully cynical and mistrustful about their elected and appointed state officials, can talk with them directly without putting a strain on their pocketbooks," if the system is approved, Bullard says. This way, "both citizens and officials will benefit by the opinions and information exchanged in such calls."

Bullard suggests also that people who are having problems and need to deal with the services of state departments can "help cut through 'red tape' themselves" with a toll-free phone system.

Huron county mortgage figures told Mortgages recorded in Huron county through the first five months of 1974 total $6,312,257, of which $6,005,005 was loaned by various lending institutions and $307,252 by individuals. The figures are on record in the office of the Huron County Register of Deeds.

Biggest single month for mortgages came in March, when $2,006,787 was loaned. Next largest was May, with $1,466,452 loaned. Other months of 1974 showed January with $1,087,282, February with $855,667 and April with $896,066.

Through May, 1974, three of the 24 institutions which loaned mortgage money to Huron county residents, accounted for more than half of the mortgage loans. Biggest mortgage lender was Community Bank, which accounted for $1,364,884, or slightly more than 22 per cent of the total loaned by various institutions. Next was Federal Land Bank, with $1,142,200, and third was Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Sebewaing with $793,417. First National of Bad Axe was fourth, as it loaned $501,457, and Farm Home Administration followed with $353,026. Bay Port State Bank came next in the county with $307,686.

The $307,252 for mortgages by individuals in Huron county placed that category next in line.

Cynar enters appeals race

The race for a newly-created seat on the Michigan Court of Appeals became a four-way battle last week when Macomb County Circuit Court Judge Walter P. Cynar announced he would seek election to the post.

Cynar, a judge for the past eight years and an attorney for the past quarter-century, said he is seeking the judgeship to bring to the appeals court a concern for the victims of crime.

"What is essential is that we give each defendant a fair trial," Cynar said in his announcement. "Sometimes there is such a concern at the higher court level for technicalities that we forget the effects on the communities seeking good law enforcement."

The son of Polish immigrants, Cynar was born in Hamtramck. He was graduated from Western Michigan University in 1943 with a bachelor's degree and served three years in the U.S. Navy.

He graduated from the University of Detroit Law School in 1949, transferring from Georgetown University.

Cynar resides in Warren with his wife and a daughter and a son. Three sons are in college.

Other candidates in the race include Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge James P. Churchill, State Senate Gen-

Paul Miller graduates from Wayne

Paul D. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of 3470 Cemetery Rd., graduated from Wayne State University June 25.

He received a bachelor's degree in social science and is presently working in Alaska. He plans to continue his education and will pursue a law degree.

He is a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School.

By Richard Jones

A cocktail party is where a man goes to have the good time his wife tells him about the next day.

worry is like a rocking chair. It'll give you something to do, but it won't get you anywhere.

Feeling young gets to be such a habit that it's hard to part with.

This is the time of year we start to yearn for something green to come up -- like money.

Driving instructor to student at end of lesson: "We still have a few minutes left. Shall I show you how to fill out accident forms?"

It's no accident that folks prefer the good deals on appliances at Richard's TV & Appliance, 6623 E. Main, Cass City, phone 872-2930.

CHAMPS OF THE Little League for 1974 are the Tigers. The undefeated team clinched an undisputed regular season title with a 6-1 decision over the Yankees, last year's champs.

Standing: Fred Powell, Ken Martin, Don Mackowiak, Doug McArthur, and Steve Richards.

THE YANKS WERE runners-up in the Little League this season. They were to have one more opportunity to beat the champion Tigers in the opening round of the play-offs Tuesday night when the two favored teams met.

Methodists edge into loop lead

The Methodists edged into a slight lead in the Cass City Church Softball League as two previously undefeated teams, the Catholics and Lutherans, were upset by teams which previously had shown little in loop competition.

Monday, July 1, was a key night in the race. It was upset evening as two undefeated teams were beaten in close, well-played games.

In the early game Church of Christ topped the Catholics, 4-2. Key man in the victory was Don Englehart. Englehart has always had the stuff to be a top pitcher at the Church League level, except for periodic control problems. Against the Catholics he had his control and the Catholics could do little against him.

Jim Warju slapped two hits for the winners to help Englehart. The Catholics had the tying run at the plate in the last inning but Englehart bore down to get out of the inning and preserve the victory. John Maharg took the loss.

LUTHERANS-DEFORD

Deford put the Methodists on the top of the league all by themselves with a 9-8 decision over the Lutherans in the nightcap.

Key blow for the winners was a home run blast by John Taylor over the right field fence. Alvin McKee took the win and Al Romig was charged with the defeat.

METHODISTS-SHABBONA

The Methodists remained undefeated Friday with an easy 8-3 decision over Shabbona. Jerry Toner slapped three hits in four tries including a home run for the winners to help Handy Kozan to the win. Keith O'Dell took the loss. Phil Badler collected two hits for Shabbona.

In the nightcap, Missionary was awarded a forfeit win over Snover-Laing.

BAPTISTS-MISSIONARY

The Baptists showed balanced power while chalking up a win over Missionary, 13-4. Randy Brown, Wayne Brooks and Bob Mitchell slapped two hits each while Gary Mellendorf pitched the win. Jim Tuckey took the loss.

Methodists-Snover-Laing

In the nightcap it was no contest as the Methodist rolled, 11-1, over winless Snover-Laing. Handy Kozan with relief help from Eldon Stoutenburg, got the win and Leland Hirsch took the loss. Ed Stoutenburg hit a homer for the winners.

PREVIOUS ACTION

In the previous week's play the Baptists measured Snover-Laing June 25, 22-2, behind home runs by Randy Brown and Dave Brooks.

In the late game Shabbona shut out Church of Christ behind the top hurling of Keith O'Dell who allowed just 2 hits.

Wednesday, June 26, the Methodists rolled to a close win over up and down Deford, 8-6. Doug O'Dell and Ed Stoutenburg collected two hits for the winners, as did Bernard Babich and Alvin McKee for Deford.

In the early game June 27, the Lutherans slugged their way past Missionary, 18-6. Pitcher Al Romig helped his own cause with three hits while John Hacker, Russ Bieffer and Dave Romig slapped a pair each.

In the late game the Catholics topped Deford in a slugfest match, 15-12. Paul Bliss rapped a home run for the winners while Louis Tibbits hit a pair for the circuit for Deford.

Girl's loop race still tight

The title race in Cass City Girl's Little League softball remained tight last week with the first-place Braves gaining a half-game on the second-place Cubs who lost their only contest to the Tigers Monday, July 1.

Besides the Tigers taming the Cubs 18-2, the only other contest in the holiday-abbreviated schedule saw the Reds down the Lions 21-13.

The Tigers pounded out four runs in the first inning, three in the second and seven in the third, icing the cake with four more in the fourth inning.

Meanwhile, Tiger pitching held the Cubs to only two runs which scored in the third inning.

Hitting heroine for the bengals was Paula Butler who went four-for-four including two doubles, a single and a triple. The Tigers pounded out 22 hits and committed only three errors.

For the Cubs, Bobbie Ryland and Kris Proctor both went two-for-two in the contest. The team connected for 12 safeties but committed eight errors.

Action Tuesday, July 2, saw the Reds down the Lions 21-13. The Reds got off to an early start with six runs in the first innings and five more in the second, capping their scoring with five more runs in the fifth.

Meanwhile, the Lions were held to three runs in the first, fourth and fifth innings and four runs in the third.

The Lions managed only two hits, while the Reds connected for 10 hits. Each side committed five errors.

Women split two softball tilts last week

Cass City's Women's Softball team split two decisions last week, defeating Sandusky Dairy Queen 6-3 Monday, July 1, while taking a 16-1 drubbing at the hands of Peck July 3.

Against Dairy Queen, Cass City pounded out 10 hits and broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning with four runs. A combination of three Cass City base hits and two DQ errors accounted for the scoring.

Winning pitcher Char Fahrner held DQ in check, giving up single runs in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Nothing went right for the girls Wednesday as Peck started Cass City's demise early with five runs in the first inning, five more in the second, two in the third and four more in the fourth.

Teguta Pettit took the win for Peck, striking out nine Cass Cityans. She got help from seven Cass City errors. The team's record now stands at 2-5.

IT TAKES a sharp eye to pick up one of these if you're a trap shooter like Dick McCollum. It's the runner-up trophy in Class A trap shooting that he copped at the Michigan State Trap Shooting grounds last week end at Mason.

McCollum missed the state championship by only two birds, missing them in the sixth round of shooting for the title, in the 200 bird event. He uses a Winchester .12 gauge and competed against top shooters in the state. He now goes on to the world tournament scheduled for the end of August in Vandalia, Ohio.
