7 injured in 2-car Sanilac crash Sunday

Seven persons were injured and three remain hospitalized following a two car accident late Sunday at the intersection of M-53 and Deckerville Road.

According to State Police from the Sandusky Post, cars driven by Floyd Hayes, 37, of Caro, and Dorothy Martin, 52, of Detroit, collided at the intersection at 8:40 p.m.

Officers said the Hayes vehicle was northbound on M-53 and attempted to make a left turn at Deckerville Road. Police said he turned in front of the southbound Martin auto, striking it broadside.

Hayes was not seriously injured but a daughter, Suzanne, 5, a passenger in the car, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital where she is recovering from facial lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Hayes' wife, Diane, 30, and another daughter, Linda, 10, were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Ms. Martin was listed in air condition Tuesday in Hills and Dales Hospital, along with passenger in her vehicle, Jancy Ava Rowe, 24, of Southfield.

Edward Rowe, 25, a third passenger in the Martin vehicle, was treated for minor injuries and released from hospital.

CASS CITYMAN INJURED

A rural Cass City man was injured at 11:00 p.m. Monday night when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a cement culvert on Hadley Road just north of City-Forestville Road. Charles Thompson, 36, of 61 N. Van Dyke Rd., told state police from the Bad Axe Post he was traveling north on Hadley Road and served to miss a dog. The car ran out of control, striking a cement culvert. Thompson was taken to Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe suffering facial lacerations.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Area police reported several minor accidents last week, none serious. Wednesday, July 31, cars driven by Patricia Lautner, of 6593 Houghton St., and Klyn Elizabeth Blackstock, of Bad Axe, collided on In Street at Downing Street. Cass City Police who investigated said the Lautner car was traveling west on Main Street while the Blackstock vehicle had stopped for traffic on Main. Police reported Ms. Lautner failed to stop in the assured clear distance ahead, striking the Blackstock vehicle in the rear.

No ticket was issued. The mishap took place at 12:50 p.m.

Thursday, a car driven by Alex Lee Kastraba, 22, of 251 Darbee Rd., Caro, struck and killed a deer on Dickerson Road, a half mile east of McGregory Road in Elmwood township.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said Kastraba was traveling east on Dickerson Road when a deer ran out of a corn field into the path of the car.

The driver was not injured. The accident took place at 11:50 p.m.

Two accidents were reported Friday. At 6:00 a.m., cars driven by Edwin W. Whistler Jr., 30, of Clothier Road, Kingston, and John Berling Jr., 53, of Legg Rd., Kingston, collided at the intersection of Clothier and Kingston Roads.

Sheriff's deputies blamed high weeds at the open intersection which blocked the vision of both drivers as they approached. Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued.

At 8:05 a.m., cars driven by Jack Dean Burns, 27, of 4581 N. Seeger St., and Helen Aletha Rayl, 49, of 7884 Deckerville Rd., Deford, collided at the intersection of Seeger and Garfield Streets.

Cass City Police said the Burns vehicle was traveling east on Garfield and the Rayl auto was traveling north on Seeger at the time of the accident.

Police said both autos attempted left turns at the same time, colliding in the intersection. No ticket was issued and neither driver was injured.

Saturday, cars driven by Elizabeth Julia Zajac, 51, of Legg Rd., Kingston, and Stanley Francis Hutchinson, 42, of 5095 Pringle Rd., Decker, collided at the intersection of Cemetery Road and Legg Road.

Sheriff's deputies said both vehicles entered the unmarked intersection at the same time and collided. Officers noted on the report that Ms. Zajac failed to yield the right of way. No ticket was issued. The mishap took place at 3:35 p.m.

Watergate apparently had little effect on Tuscola county voters Tuesday as they cast traditionally strong Republican ballots in the statewide primary election. Republicans topped Democrats by better than two-to-one in most races with incumbents and well-known candidates taking substantial majorities.

With all of Tuscola county's 38 precincts reporting, unofficial returns gave Republicans reason for joy at the local level at a time when nationally, the GOP is fighting an uphill battle to hold onto key offices.

In the only major area race to come before voters, incumbent Republican State Senator Alvin J. DeGrow easily defeated challenger Lloyd F.

Buhl, Deckerville publisher, 2,100 to 801.

DeGrow took substantial pluralities in every precinct, including both Elkland one and two. Elkland voters gave DeGrow their approval by a combined total of 190 votes against Buhl's 56. DeGrow will face Democrat Harold Richards in November. Richards received 65 Elkland votes and 1,417 county-wide.

In Sanilac county, Buhl won narrowly in his home county. Unofficial totals give the Deckerville publisher 2478 votes, DeGrow 2,150 and Democrat Richards 1,214.

In Huron county, DeGrow topped his Republican opponent 2,875 to Buhl's 1,559. Richards totaled 1,068.

Overall, DeGrow polled 9,802 votes against Buhl's 6,820, with 84 per cent of the district's precincts reporting.

In the 77th Representative district, incumbent Quincy Hoffman bested GOP challenger William Nugent 5,683 to 4,151.

In Sanilac county, Hoffman garnered 3,135 votes against Nugent's 1,492.

Democrat Keith Rothfuss polled 1,107 Sanilac county votes.

In Huron county, Hoffman received 1,991 votes against Nugent's 2,406. Nugent lives in Bad Axe and pulled most of his strength there.

Republicans scored big in other county races. Incumber State Rep. Loren S. Armbruster totaled 187 Elkland votes and 2,642 county-wide compared with his Democratic challenger, Allen J. Bailey, who took 59 Elkland township votes and 1,291 county-wide.

Township voters also gave a substantial plurality to James M. Sparling Jr.'s second try at the Eighth Congressional District seat he narrowly lost last April. Sparling received 227 township votes against seven for GOP challenger Anthony G. Sawka.

Incumbent Rep. J. Bob Traxler took 86 votes from Elkland township and 1,586 county-wide. Sparling's county total was 2,683.

In the governor's race, Democrat Sander M. Levin easily disposed of his two challengers for the nomination, former Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and attorney James E. Wells. Levin scored a 2-1 victory over Cavanagh and a 6-1 triumph over Wells.

Governor William Milliken, unopposed for the Republican nomination, garnered 305 Elkland township votes and 3,324 votes county-wide.

COURT OF APPEALS

With only sketchy statewide returns available at press-time, Tuscola County Circuit Judge James P. Churchill was putting up a close battle for the fourth and final runoff slot for a seat on the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Leading the pack was Michael Cavanagh, brother of the former Detroit mayor, Michael Kelley, Walter P. Cynar, followed by Churchill.

In the race for two new seats on the Michigan Court of Appeals, Tuscola County Judge James P. Churchill proved the runaway favorite in the county, capturing 3,515 votes. His closest opponent, Michael F. Cavanagh, could muster only 973 ballots.

Churchill was expected to poll heavily in the county. He is widely known and has served on the Tuscola-Lapeer Circuit since 1965.

COMMISSION RACES

Voters in the fifth commission district (Kingston area), Margaret Wentz captured the Democratic nomination 132-48, defeating Ronald W. Harris. Republican John Fox, running unopposed, took 141 votes.

Township races feature Evergreen tie vote

While most townships had no contests for nominations, there were a couple of notable exceptions.

In Elmwood township, Al Seuryneck captured the Republican nomination for clerk, defeating Thomas W. Laurie by a 107-53 margin. Incumbent Clerk Harlan Hobart did not seek re-election.

Other totals showed Supervisor Roy Messer received 112 votes, Treasurer Royce Russell with 180 votes and Trustee Louis McCreech with 122 votes.

In Kingston township the clerk's race was a three-way affair for the Republicans, with Maria (Mary Ann) Megge besting two challengers, Belna Richter and Pauline Morell. Ms. Megge received 55 votes, Ms. Richter received 22 and Ms. Morell polled 24 votes.

Victoria Wolak received 67 votes in the Democratic primary.

Also in Kingston township, Louis Wenzloff received 89 votes in the Republican treasurer's race, while Rita R. Kapala polled 61 votes for the Democratic nomination. The two will face each other in November.

In the Trustee's race, Frank Nemeth captured 90 GOP votes while John J. Burns polled 64 votes.

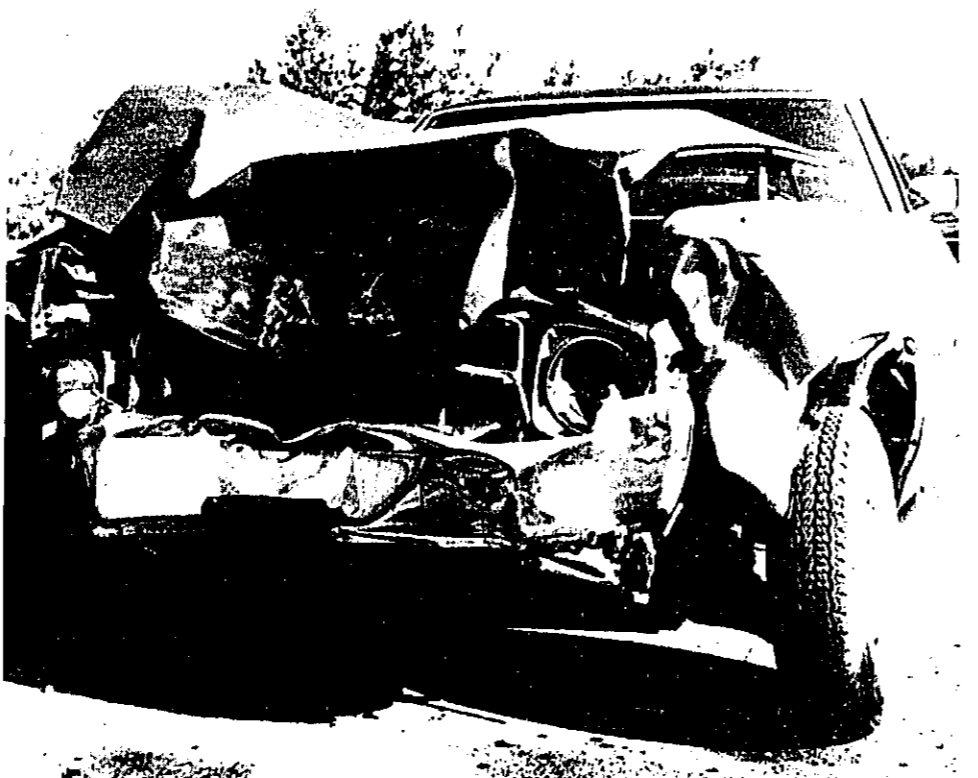

With no opposition for Elkland township offices, totals showed Supervisor Edwin Karr with 229 votes, Clerk Ferris Ware with 226, Treasurer Art Randall with 234, Trustee Fay McComb with 227 and Constable Fred Martin with 218.

TIE VOTE

In Evergreen township, Republicans Laurence Hyatt and Larry Putterbaugh tied with 52 votes each in the nomination for Supervisor. Sanilac county election officials explained early Wednesday that a drawing would be held either Thursday or Friday to determine the winner.

Other Evergreen results showed Wayne Whittaker receiving 103 votes for treasurer, Clerk Otis Dorland with 102 votes and Trustee Lloyd Frederick with 99. These contests were uncontested.

In Greenleaf township, uncontested races showed Supervisor Gerald Bock with 51 votes, Clerk Clare Brown with 51 votes, Treasurer Aletha Fox with 49 and Trustee Ronald Fox with 49.

"If It Fitz . . ." Don't pray too much

BY JIM FITZGERALD

A bunch of sincere people wearing sandwich boards recently spent 3 days on the U.S. Capitol steps, praying for President Nixon. They call themselves the National Prayer and Fast Committee, which naturally reminds me of my old basketball team.

I was brought up to believe God answered all prayers. I didn't begin to have doubts until I went out for 8th grade basketball. The coach was a priest and the first thing he told us was to make the sign of the cross before shooting each free shot.

What about field goals? The coach explained about the 2-handed set shot, which was the only way to make field goals in those days. In the action of the game, a player had to keep both hands ready to shoot at all times. There simply wasn't time to make a decent sign of the cross which (for all you heathens) requires that the cross touch his forehead, chest and both shoulders with his right hand while saying "In the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost, Amen." This was pretty hard to do while dribbling.

However, it was different at the free throw line. A player had plenty of time for prayer before shooting. And the coach would tolerate no sloppiness. A kid had to pause plainly at all 4 stops — forehead, chest, left shoulder and right shoulder — and his lips had to be seen moving. If a kid made a careless circle instead of a cross, with no stops, he risked immediate benching.

The awful thing was, I made the slowest cross on the team, and my words were louder than cheers — but I still missed most of my free shots. God wasn't paying attention. My faith began to leak.

I took my troubles to the coach. He explained God knows best. If my shots weren't going in, it was God's will and I should accept it. And when I prayed for God to put my ball through the hoop, I should always add, just before the Amen, "That is, if it is OK with You, God."

Which made my sign of the cross take even longer. And still the free throws wouldn't go in. God's will was against me. Finally I asked the coach for permission to kneel before shooting but he said no, it wouldn't be fair to the rest of the players for me to hog all of God's attention.

Toward the end of a miserable season, cynicism began to take hold. "Are you sure God really cares whether I make my free shots?" I asked the coach.

He looked both ways before answering. "Don't tell the Bishop, but I'm not even sure God comes to all our games," he admitted. "If I were you, I'd quit asking God to make your free shots. There are more important things than scoring. You should ask Him to at least let you hit the backboard."

From that day on, my life with God was easier. I finally realized it was wrong and foolish to ask for too much. And that is the advice I would give to the National Prayer and Fast Committee.

They shouldn't pray that God will smite the impeachers and enshrine Richard Nixon as our King forever. Rather, they should ask God to at least let Julie Nixon Eisenhower keep her job as an editor at the Ladies Home Journal.

Mrs. Hough to head

Head Start

Mrs. Susan Hough has been named Head Start manager by the Human Development Commission, it was announced Tuesday.

Mrs. Hough assumes responsibility for the administration and operation of the four-county Head Start program immediately, the commission said.

Her background includes directorship of a California pre-school which used music and the arts to encourage development of skills. She has also worked with the blind, physically handicapped and the mentally retarded.

She also assisted in two Head Start programs in California. After moving to Michigan last year, she served as an instructor at Saginaw Valley College. She has a bachelor's and masters degree in music education from the University of California.

1961 heart surgery successful

Perky Kay Kendall

looks to bright future

Among the graduates at Cass City High School last spring was Kay Kendall, a sharp looking girl, five foot, six inches tall and 112 pounds, with other measurements to match.

Nothing so unusual about that. Nor the fact that during her high school career Kay was a member of the girls' track team and also participated in the Girls' Athletic Association, the forerunner of today's girls' sporting program.

Not unusual unless you go back 13 years when Kay was a five-year-old and her parents noticed that for two years she had gained very little weight.

The bad news was revealed by an examination by experts at Henry Ford Hospital. Kay had a hole in her heart. Open heart surgery was required.

Back in December of 1961 open heart surgery wasn't as common as it is today. Little Kay needed 15 pints of blood, much of which came from local donors.

Actually, she remembers little of what happened in this traumatic period of her life. I can recall being on the operation table she said, but none of the days spent in recovery.

The recovery was complete. Now Kay is busy preparing for college ahead. She plans to attend Purdue University where her uncle, Dr. Koert Lessman, is teaching and handling agriculture research.

Perhaps because of this influence, she tentatively plans a career in agriculture. However, in recent months she's been wavering. Maybe, she explained, I'll switch to nursing.

When called about "her story", Kay readily consented.

Maybe it will help someone else who has a similar problem, she said.

KAY KENDALL 13 years after open heart surgery. Wow!

Rabbit tracks

The wheels of the State Highway Department continue to grind slowly. It took a year for the crew to start construction of the walk-way signs at the Seeger-Main corner last week.

Notice I said started. The work began and then stopped. The work is that they were to be back within a week to finish a job. That deadline is past. Would you believe two weeks, three, four. . . .? Of course you would.

Their friends would never believe it. Tom Craig and Andy Barnes shy? Never.

But they did scatter like a covey of quail when I arrived on North Seeger to shoot a picture of the sewer construction there. It must have been that they figured that the camera angle was wrong and that all of their masculine charm wouldn't come shining through.

Idle note: You want to know what frustration is? It's having a one-armed golfer like Phil Retherford outdrive you from the tee and then rack up a birdie on the hole.

More frustration: Attending the Rotary party at the Dick Erla home and having to settle for silly old steak instead of some of that famous Chris Erla kielbasa.

Don Tonti called and is nominating Gary Christner for the good Samaritan award of the week and predicts a landslide vote.

Anyone who saw Gary corralling a loose pig at the Tuscola County Fair last week would vote for Gary, says Don. I really can't relate all the details here, but Tonti is ready, willing and able. Ask him.

There hasn't been such an obvious gate appeal ploy by baseball's management since Denny McLain was called back to the majors for one last crowd pleasing fling. That's what Detroit did when they boosted Ron LeFlore to the big team despite a mediocre batting average and almost no experience at all.

Must be a morale booster to all those kids hitting .300 and with several years' experience in organized baseball.

Speaking of baseball here's a progress report on Robbie Alexander. Rob is one of four starters now and in his last outing lost a three-hitter, 2-0, on an infield boot. He's been pitching better than ever in recent months.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

It ended with a standard obituary notice in the Chronicle last week, but it deserved more.

It deserved more because John West was . . . well, he was John West.

Anyone in this village for a decade or so could tell you about his skills and his service.

For some 50 years he performed quiet feats of magic in a weather beaten, barn-like building heated only by an old-fashioned coal stove.

As one of the literally thousands of farmers, businesses and factories bailed out in crisis situations, I regarded the man in the shop on East Main not as a blacksmith-welder but as an artist with metal.

Back in the days when some of the equipment at the paper was older than I was, machinery breakdowns were a frequent and almost predictable part of the headache of doing business.

John would look at the broken part, say something pessimistic about the chances of fixing it and then agree to give it a try.

When he did, your troubles were over. When that part came back repaired it was as sure as night follows day that it would be as good as new. Often it would be stronger and better than new.

It always seemed to me that West was as casual about money as he was painstakingly thorough about his work.

I'm sure that many machinery parts on the farms around the area are West repaired instead of new simply because John would make a new one or fix the old one cheaper than the factories would sell them on a mass-produced basis.

John had many opportunities to expand and certainly he could have been as busy as he wanted even if he charged twice as much for his services.

But if he did, it may have been that he would have had to yield a little to customer pressure. No one pressured John West.

The quickest way to find that John was "too busy" to ever work for you was to demand service at once. Yet, customers in distress could count on him to bail them out if they just told him their problem. Ask any veteran area farmer. When the combine was down, John felt duty bound to get it working again. . . . he pressured himself, but he wouldn't let you do it.

West's work philosophy was as unique as his ability.

While working, John was a taciturn, seldom smiling performer. He carried a reserve that was hard to penetrate. He came from Canada and never lost that English reserve.

The real John, the one that I suspect his friends knew best, came to light when he was the caller at square dances. You saw him smile then like you never did when you visited at his shop.

He was a good caller. Whatever John did, he did well. He did everything with that special pride of his. . . a pride in doing the job right, no matter the cost in time or money. The essence of John was in his work.

He was one of a handful of men I have encountered not at all impressed by trappings of success or the influence of the power structure.

He had his opinions, his convictions, his ways. You could count on his word.

He left his small mark on the community where he lived.

He would never expect this column to be written after he died.

He wouldn't expect it. . . but he earned it.

In Circuit Court

3 plead innocent

One of the two alleged attackers of a Bay City man was arraigned on armed robbery charges in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday before presiding Judge James P. Churchill.

Norman D. Stevens, 17, of Bay City, stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Aug. 14.

Stevens is accused of robbing Thomas Blissette of Bay City July 13 on a lonely stretch of M-25 near Quail-cassee. He is accused of taking his wallet and his car.

Blissette was shot in the incident, but recovered.

Stevens' brother, Darrell, 19, faces a two-count indictment of armed robbery and attempted murder in the same incident.

Two other arraignments were also heard Monday.

Juan L. Rodriguez, Gilford, was arraigned on charges of carrying a concealed weapon. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Sept. 3, and bond was continued.

The charges grew out of an incident in Fairgrove township July 4.

James Roblin, 23, Caro, was arraigned on charges of delivering heroin. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Bail of $7,500 was reduced to $3,000. Pre-trial examination was set for Sept. 3.

Roblin was arrested in Caro May 31.

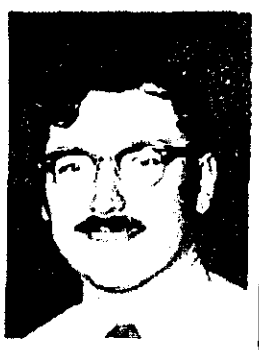

Gerald B. Weiskirch, 23, of Hemlock, was sentenced to two years' probation on charges of assaulting a police officer March 7, in Caro.

Weiskirch was also fined $100 and assessed costs of $100 and was ordered to serve two months in the Tuscola County Jail with credit for 15 days already served.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

The Thing

By Jim Ketchum

Whoever deposited the "thing" on our front lawn the other day apparently got the idea I didn't want it there. For, as rapidly as it appeared, it vanished.

Sometimes I think I imagined it all. But that can't be because my wife knew about it, my neighbors knew about it and the Cass City Police Department knew about it. Unfortunately no one else did.

The whole episode began when I came home from work, prepared for nothing worse than cutting the grass. As I walked toward the house, I saw a yellow contraption sitting directly out front.

Technically, I guess they use it to dig trenches. It works a lot faster and does a better job than humans, but looks uglier than Dirty Sally.

Anyhow, the contraption sat in front of my house for no apparent reason. A quick call to the village hall told me it didn't belong to Cass City but the police would be happy to check.

Arriving at the scene Cass City's newest patrolman, Bob Smith, must have wondered what he'd gotten himself into. Coming from the southern part of the state, I'm sure he's more used to handling more mindboggling cases than this one.

His startled look when he saw the device only enforced my belief. The patrolman gave the digger a thorough going over, took the serial number and checked it through as stolen.

A few minutes later, he informed me that the machine belonged to a pipeline company employed by the gas company and that they were getting ready to install our new gas line.

That was fine, except we didn't order one. I could just picture having my yard dug up with this monstrosity and a gas pipe that I didn't want being shoved into my basement.

The next move was to call the gas company the following day-early, before my lawn looked like the Anzio beachhead. At least I'd find out where the line was going.

Or, so I thought. Now it was the gas company's turn to give me the run-around. A chat with the field representative informed me that he didn't know the gas company was going to lay any line. It probably belongs to the phone company, he assured me.

I shook my head. This reminded me of my days at Michigan State University when I had to give an office in the administration building my social security number because they couldn't ride the elevator up two floors to get it themselves. Furthermore, I had to do it in person.

Anyhow, I informed the field rep. that the police said it belonged to the gas company sub-contractor.

Taken aback, he assured me he'd check into it.

At noon, I returned home to find the machine gone. Another call to the gas company said they still didn't know what was happening.

To this day, I don't know what happened to the machine. I'm wondering if some fiend played a trick on me. If so, he succeeded and now I have another gray hair to keep the other two company.

But just remember. If you come home from work some day and find a strange-looking machine parked in front of your house, don't call me. You might start with Officer Bob Smith, however.

BIG DEMAND

This money-mad world is running a race for a dollar that's worth only half its face value.

Truck mishap kills Unionville man

A rural Unionville man was killed late Wednesday when a farm truck broke loose and crushed him at a Sebawaing grain elevator.

Fred O. DeSimpelare, 72, of Ackerman Road, died when the truck, owned by his son, John, slid from a tilt platform at the elevator, crushing him.

Huron County Sheriff's deputies said the hoist on the truck's dump box was apparently not working, making it necessary to tip the entire truck. Deputies explained that the truck was out of gear with the emergency brake off as the platform was tipped. The truck apparently jumped a retaining ramp, killing DeSimpelare, who was standing behind the vehicle.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Robert Schultz, medical examiner.

DeSimpelare was born June 17, 1902. He is survived by his widow, Elsie; two sons, John and Karl of rural Unionville; one daughter, Caroline; and eight grandchildren.

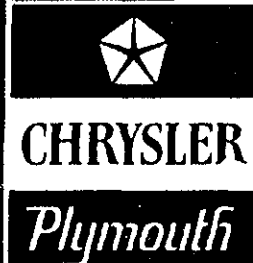

Funeral services were held Saturday from St. Peter Lutheran Church, Columbia Corners, with Rev. Ernst Henkleman officiating.

Burial was in the church cemetery.

Tips for swimmers

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

I have recently been seeing television reports of swimmers who drowned because they did not follow simple safety precaution, such as those prepared by the American Medical Association.

They are: (1) Learn to swim and to relax in the water. (2) Never swim alone. (3) Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold. (4) Do not overestimate your ability and endurance. (5) Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

(6) If a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim a long distance to shore. (7) Never dive into waters of unknown depth. (8) If you have a swimming pool, be sure that it is fenced completely, and keep the gate locked to keep out small children. If a child gets in and drowns, you may be sued.

insane ancestry, he would turn the patient over to a psychiatrist, who might commit him to a mental hospital.

In scores of cases, I found that a man with several epileptic relatives is likely to keep that fact hidden because he is so ashamed of it.

Many women alcoholics have tried to talk me into getting a surgeon to try to stop their spells of nausea, depression and abdominal pain by removing a normal gallbladder. In nearly all of these cases of alcoholism in women, the patient carefully concealed the fact that her "bad spells" followed a bit of heavy drinking.

Usually the husband failed to tell me what was wrong—because he knew if he told on his wife she would be very angry with him, and would punish him in one way or another.

In scores of these cases, I have gotten the diagnosis only by asking questions of the spouse or some other close relative, or by keeping the

YOU'D BETTER TELL YOUR DOCTOR THE TRUTH

As I have said in this column before, in hundreds of cases I am distressed to learn that a patient who tells me that for months he has been going from doctor to doctor without getting either a diagnosis or a cure, lost thousands of dollars because he did not tell anyone the essential facts about his illness.

Why didn't he tell? Often because he was afraid to tell of a nervous disorder that struck him, or a life-long tendency to depression. A woman may fail to tell her doctor about her years of migrainous attacks, and as a result may get a needless abdominal operation, because of the abdominal pain that often accompanies severe migraines.

Commonly, a person whose spells of illness are due to distressing attacks of depression will carefully avoid any mention of his blue spells, or of his suicide attempt, or of the fact that any relatives have all been in mental hospitals.

Why is he so careful to keep those facts hidden? Because he is so afraid that if his doctor were to learn of that

Firemen battle 2 blazes

Elkland township firemen battled two blazes Friday and Saturday resulting in little property damage.

Friday at 3:10 p.m., firemen extinguished a car fire at the intersection of Pine and Brooker Streets. Firemen said damage to the auto, owned by Ervin Thompson of 6274 W. Main St., was confined to the wiring and totaled $50.

No cause for the fire was determined and no one was injured.

Saturday, a blaze started from burning trash scorched about an acre of land six and one-half miles west of Cass City.

Firemen said Vern Palmer of 6772 E. Main St., was apparently burning trash when the fire went out of control and burned wheat stubble on the Dorland Kuntz farm at 3355 Cass City Road.

The alarm was turned in at 6:00 p.m.

Your neighbor says

Canada was the best trip

What's your favorite vacation spot? We all have places that stand out as favorites.

For Mrs. Arthur Brown of rural Cass City, Canada holds a special place.

"My favorite trip was one when we crossed over at Port Huron and traveled north through Ontario," she says. She recalled that part of the trip included a ferry ride to Manitoulin Island, a journey to the Soo Locks and back home over the Mackinaw Bridge.

"Canada is a very friendly place to visit," she says, adding that she and her husband prefer summer travel to winter travel.

Mrs. Brown is a native of Jackson and moved here after her marriage. Her husband is a well-driller. The couple have five children.

AGENT'S CORNER

Canning beans the safe way

Ann Ross - Extension Agent

Green beans in a sealed jar which have been processed by unreliable methods (below 240 degrees F) are a perfect medium for growth of anaerobic bacteria like botulinum because these bacteria grow well without air; and who would suspect this deadly bacteria in a sealed jar?

Ask at your Cooperative Extension Service Office for the latest USDA canning bulletin.

Anita Dean, Food Specialist at Michigan State University says, "Never taste any home-canned low-acid vegetables, poultry or fish processed by any method not involving a pressure canner. Boil suspected foods in liquid to cover for 15 minutes after opening and before tasting. A lesser time will not destroy possible poisons." This goes for any green beans you may have canned the wrong way.

Local teens attend 4-H course

Debbie Smith and Diane Sefton returned recently from Washington, D.C., where they attended a Citizenship Short Course at the National 4-H Center. They were two of the 39 delegates from Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties to participate in the course.

During the summer, more than 6,000 teenage 4-H members from 42 states will attend.

The group was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. William Agar of Shabbona.

The program this year featured small group discussions of contemporary topics. Debbie and Diane attended sessions on Teen Leadership.

The group spent a day on Capitol Hill, touring the White House and visiting the Capitol. They also talked with Rep. J. Bob Traxler's chief assistant, Wayne Jose.

Field trips included visits to historic sites, the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Wolf Trap Farm Park.

The Citizenship Short Course is conducted by the National 4-H Foundation in support of the 4-H program of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Fortunately our mistakes are not noticed or are overlooked.

AROUND THE FARM
County extension offers services
By William Bortel

The Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service welcomes you to the 1974 State Farm Management Tour. We are very proud and honored to work with the many county committees and individuals in hosting this large state event.

The Tuscola County Extension Service is your open door to Michigan State University's total educational program. It was created in 1914 with the passage of the federal Smith-Lever Act. The role of the Extension Service is to provide "Education to meet the needs of the people".

Cooperative refers to the joint financing by federal, state and county governments. Extension means extending the resources of the University beyond its campus borders. The Cooperative Extension Service is an integral part of the University with staff members living in the local communities and closely related to people and their problems.

"Learn to know what the Cooperative Extension Service has to offer you and your community... that's the advice of many Tuscola county families, who, for years, have had valuable help from extension agents and specialists.

You and your family may have questions on topics ranging from commercial farming to lawn care and landscaping, from home decorating to family budgeting, from youth organization to the development of community zoning. The Tuscola County Extension Service stands ready to help you with such problems.

There are five program areas that Cooperative Extension is involved in throughout Tuscola county. Agriculture and Marketing, Family Living, 4-H Youth, and Resource Development.

Each of these areas are coordinated through the county office which has its finger tips on the latest in research and specialist help.

The county office is located in the Civil Defense building in Caro. The staff invites you to stop at the office and make your acquaintance.

It's all part of modern living in today's agriculture to be seen at the 26th annual State Farm Management Tour in Tuscola county Aug. 13.

This is only a segment of the variety of household operations Thumb Area housewives will see on the tour.

Along with learning more about agriculture in Tuscola county, several open houses will depict the rural homemaker's relationship to farm management.

Mrs. Paul Findlay, Akron Road, Caro, will feature micro-wave cooking at her home. An expert will be there to demonstrate its more efficient use to farm visitors.

Mrs. Norman Burns, corner of Irish and Arbela Roads, has converted the garage into a spacious Spanish-style kitchen, which will be open to the public.

Mrs. Arnold Krumnauer, 2350 S. Vassar Road, has added an interesting business center to her house. This has an outside entry that leads directly to the spacious business center. The family also has a most interesting hobby which will be worth seeing.

Beside the staff side of farm life, homemakers will have the opportunity to see the complexity of farm production. Comprised of eight stops, the tour features three cash crop farms, two unique dairy operations, one of the largest poultry farms in the state and a horse farm.

The noon luncheon at the Caro fairgrounds will feature a steak barbecue, salad, baked beans, cake and beverage at a modest price. The meal is being prepared and served by the Tuscola County 4-H Leaders' Council. Parking is being arranged by the county 4-H and FFA Chapters.

Former Michigan State University president, Dr. John A. Hannah, will be the featured speaker. The Christ Ambassadors singers will provide entertainment.

Details of the farm tour stops may be obtained from any county Extension office.

Michigan's centennial farm markers unique in nation

Ever notice "centennial farm" markers as you drive through the Michigan countryside on a Sunday afternoon?

There's a wealth of history—and more than a bit of family pride—behind each of these signs.

The plaques designate those farms that have been in the same family for 100 or more years. And that's no small feat, especially in recent years when developers have gobbled up rural territory, and some farming families have abandoned their businesses in favor of more stable work.

Douglas Ross, director of the Michigan Citizens Lobby, which sponsored the food and drug sales tax referendum, estimates adoption of the amendment could save the average Michigan family up to $70 a year.

Budget officials, meanwhile, figure it will take a 0.5 per cent hike in the present 3.9 per cent income tax to make up for lost revenue if the sales taxes are eliminated.

In recognition of this family stick-to-itiveness, the Michigan Historical Commission grants "centennial farm" status to those who can show unbroken family ownership for a century or more.

The program, which the commission says is unique in the United States, began more than 25 years ago. To date, nearly 3,000 Michigan farms have been certified and awarded plaques, which are paid for with the help of Detroit Edison Co. and Consumers Power Co.

"The value of this program isn't just in publicity," declares Jerry Roe of Lansing, chief of the Historical Commission.

"It brings our heritage to the forefront," he contends. "The marking of anything like these farms lets people understand it's part of history."

NON-HAPPENINGS

Things you won't get to vote for or against this fall:

--Election of 18-year-olds to state offices. A proposal to put that question on the ballot fell far short of the required two-thirds vote in the Michigan Senate and is dead for this year at least.

--Ban public ownership of handguns. Backers of that proposed constitutional amendment failed to collect the required number of petition signatures, coming up with only 200,000 of the needed 265,000 validated names. They blamed a late start in circulating petitions and inadequate funding, and began talking about other ways to implement their plan.

--Capital punishment. Same problem here, with not enough petition signatures collected by backers of the drive.

On the other hand, it's likely Michigan voters will have an opportunity to decide whether the state should eliminate the 4 per cent sales tax on food and the 2 per cent on prescription drugs.

Supporters of that constitutional amendment handed in some 315,000 signatures earlier this month. Their issue will go on the November ballot if at least 265,000 of those signatures are found to be valid.

PUPPIES DON'T SIT ON FENCES

But people sit on fences. And faithful puppies never question.

Our children, trusting the love and wisdom of their parents, respect even our indecision.

But the moral and religious growth of every child is deeply influenced by his parents' commitment of their own lives to God.

We have outlived the day when fathers and mothers sent their children to Sunday School without accepting their own rightful responsibilities and opportunities in the religious community.

Juvenile delinquency is the aftermath of fence-sitting! The Church is for the family. Religious instruction and inspiration are foundations of the home. Lives—growing or mature—gain direction only with commitment.

Demise of Gagetown landmark recalls colorful past

An empty lot at the corner of State and Lincoln Streets in Gagetown is all that remains of what was once a thriving business and social center of the village years ago.

The lot is the site of what was known as the Fischer Building, which served as grocery, millinery and general store from before the turn of the century until the 1950's. In fact, a history of the building is in part, a history of Gagetown as well.

The building, which was torn down this spring, at one time housed a dry goods store, a grocery, meat lockers and a dance hall through its history.

The original building was constructed sometime between 1869 and 1887, according to Mrs. Mabel Hendershot, Chronicle correspondent from Gagetown. At the time of its construction, there were eight other store-buildings in the village, all prospering.

The store was built as a duplex, with a grocery on the north side run by a man named Tiffany and a millinery and dress-making shop on the south side run by Mary William.

A third store at the back was a shoe shop. Years later, William Jolly turned the south side of the duplex into a bakery and restaurant.

As America confidently embarked on the 20th century, the store changed ownership, purchased by Mose Freeman who continued the grocery business.

The great fire which destroyed several buildings in Gagetown in 1925 forced Mose's brother, Joe, to relocate his restaurant business in the south side of his brother's corner store.

More changes were made in the store and eventually Mose changed two doors on the west side into one store with Joe handling dry goods.

Mose Freeman died Aug. 21, 1937, and Joe Freeman continued the business until ill health forced him into retirement in the early 1950's, at which time Edward Fischer took over the store. Freeman died April 21, 1952.

Fischer extensively remodeled the store, adding a walk-in freezer and relocating a door at the corner of State and Lincoln Street. The store took on new life in the village but times and economics eventually forced it to close for the last time over a decade ago.

The building's demise recalled memories for Gagetown residents who remembered the store's heyday.

Mrs. C.P. Hunter, 95, recalled that when she was four years old, her mother took her shopping at the store.

Arthur Freeman, brother of Mose and Joe, recalled that the second floor of the building was the first place in Gagetown used for a dance hall. He said that a young girl of 14 played an organ while her father played the violin to provide dance music.

Later, the young girl became Freeman's wife.

Les Munro, another lifelong resident of Gagetown, remembers going to the store as a boy and commented that during its heyday, the village had three doctors and several other stores.

He said most of them went out of business because of the advent of the automobile which took the shopper to larger towns where more of a variety could be found.

The store was built in the decade following Gagetown's incorporation. Joseph Gage and his brother, James, came into the wilderness in 1860 and homesteaded 120 acres.

They cleared 20 acres and built a home of hewn logs. Their nearest neighbor was seven miles away.

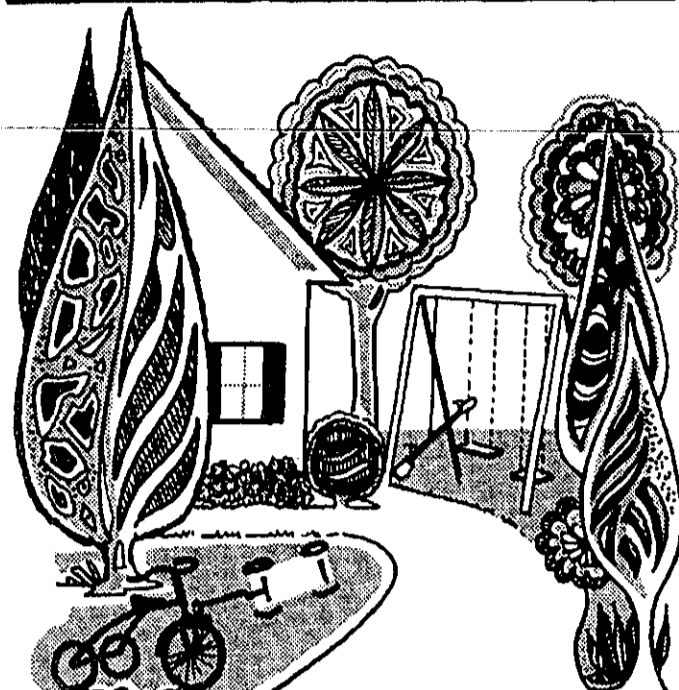

Gage chose the top of a hill, where Gagetown now sits, platted out a grist mill, saw mills and stores. He chose that spot because he reasoned it was in the center of Tuscola county's richest farmland.

THIS IS THE way the Fischer Building in Gagetown looked in 1917 when this photo was taken. At that time, the store featured groceries and general merchandise.

THIS VACANT lot is all that remains of the store. The building was torn down earlier this year following pressure from Gagetown Village Council.

Gagetown okays street work

Gagetown Village Council reaffirmed its intention to resurface as many streets as possible during its regular meeting held Monday night at the village hall.

Council voted to transfer 25 per cent of its major street money to local streets. Village President Lawrence Cummings was instructed to contact construction firms for bids on sealcoating as many streets as possible.

Village clerk Mrs. Ebery Sontag indicated the council plans to have as many streets as possible resurfaced this year.

Additionally catch basins will be placed on some of the streets to help ease water runoff problems.

In other business, council also voted to lease a radar system for the police department on a three-month trial basis.

Save barn from fire

Neighbors aid Geisters again

Who says neighborliness is dead? Just ask the Virgil Geister family of rural Decker.

Efforts by neighbors, along with the Lamotte and Elkland Township Fire Departments, saved the Geister's 60 by 100-foot barn Wednesday, July 31, from being destroyed by fire.

"What can you say?" Mrs. Geister said afterward. "You can't say enough to thank them."

It all began early Wednesday morning when Geister's sons, Gary and Larry, discovered smoke in the barn while they were doing morning chores around 8:30 a.m.

They discovered the fire in the hay mow where over 100 tons of newly-chopped hay had been stored, caused by spontaneous combustion.

The Lamotte Fire Department was called to the Hadley Road farm and area neighbors converged on the scene to help remove the smoldering hay. Among the helpers were Rev. Wayne Rhodes, pastor of the Decker United Methodist Church, and State Police Sgt. George Plummer, whose daughter is married to one of Geister's sons.

"They all sure were wonderful," Mrs. Geister continued. "They all pitched right in to help out. They climbed up in the barn and pulled out big chunks of burning hay. Some places they found big balls of fire just about to explode."

The labor continued throughout the day and didn't end until well after dark Wednesday night.

Without their efforts, police said later, the barn would have been destroyed. Officials estimated about 50 persons assisted in the effort.

"I don't know how the word got out like it did so fast," Mrs. Geister commented. "But it did and they all came to help."

"This isn't the first time the Geisters have found out what true neighborliness is firsthand. In 1954, just after they began farming, fire destroyed their barn.

"It happened on the 25th of May and I remember we said, what are we going to do?" Mrs. Geister recalled. "Well, our neighbors said what do you mean what are you going to do? We're going to rebuild your barn. And by the 25th of June, we were able to put hay in the new barn."

Last year, Geister suffered a heart attack that kept him away from work. During the month of June, their neighbors pitched in and did the Geister farm work.

"We know these people," she said. "We've lived here all our lives-my husband and I were both born here. And we know that they're good people. You read so much about the bad people in this world. Well there are a lot of good ones left around here."

"It wouldn't matter if you'd lived here all your life or if you'd just moved in," she added. "They'd still pitch in and help if you needed it."

She gave both the Lamotte and Elkland Fire Departments high marks in the saving effort.

In addition to saving the barn, neighbors assisted in leading the family's 100-cow dairy herd out of the barn to safety.

With their barn saved, the only problem left for the Geisters is how to thank their neighbors, she indicated.

Chances are, however, that it won't really be necessary. Sgt. Plummer summed it up best.

"Now those are what you call neighbors," he said.

Police probe two larcenies

Marlette girl dies from crash injuries

Two accidents were reported Sunday. At 2:00 p.m., Cass City police reported a truck traveling east on Main Street at Doerr Road lost its left rear wheel which spun loose and struck a westbound car driven by Stanley Floyd Poliard, 64, of Clifford.

The truck was driven by Donald Donahue Jr., 27, of Midland.

Police reported the wheel struck the right front fender of the Poliard auto. He was not injured.

At 6:00 p.m., cars driven by Mark Joseph Walkowski, 17, of 6437 Snover Rd., Decker, and John Henry Tucker, 81, of Warren, collided at the intersection of Cemetery Road and Bevens Road in Kingston township.

State Police from the Caro Post who investigated said the Walkowski vehicle was westbound on Bevens Road when the Tucker vehicle pulled from a stop sign headed south into the path of the car.

Police said Walkowski was traveling between 45 and 50 miles per hour at the time of the accident. Tucker was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Walkowski and a passenger in his car, Lois Burn, 17, of Marlette, were slightly injured. They sought their own medical treatment.

Tucker and his wife, Viola, 81, were not injured.

MARLETTE GIRL DIES

Diane Kay Stanczak, 17, died shortly before 9:00 p.m. Tuesday in Saginaw General Hospital of head, leg and shoulder injuries. Funeral arrangements were incomplete at press time, but are being handled by Marsh Funeral Chapel, Marlette.

A Cass City man remains in critical condition from injuries suffered in the same accident. Daniel Lee McAlpine, 17, was still in the neurological unit of Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital late Tuesday. He is suffering extensive mouth, shoulder, face and brain damage.

Also in the same unit, listed in serious condition, is Marcia Ann Glaza, 36, of Ubyly, a passenger in a pickup truck which collided with McAlpine's auto.

A fourth person, Cynthia Ann Smith, 27, of Ubyly, driver of the pickup, is listed in fair condition at Hills and Dales General Hospital, suffering bruises and abrasions and a fractured nose.

New coach sees little need for major changes

Don't look for extensive changes in the basketball program at Cass City High School when the season opens this winter under new head coach Ron Nurnberger.

The youthful head mentor was in town this week to conduct "get acquainted" practices for three days with cage candidates in the top four grades.

Like Fred Hurlburt before him, Nurnberger regards himself as a defensive coach and stresses a man-for-man as the basis for all defense.

And all the assistant coaches I've met seem to be high quality people, the new coach said. I've talked with Dale McIntosh and I went to school (Northern Michigan) with Jim Mastie. Last year McIntosh handled Freshman basketball and Mastie was the Eighth Grade coach. JV coach Skip Pranger resigned.

The new coach talks freely about his ideas for the team and the players. "It's got to be fun for the players," he said, "and the players must remember that they represent the team first, then their parents, their school district, their high school and last of all, themselves."

I don't anticipate any trouble in this area, Nurnberger added. That's one of the big reasons for these summer workouts...so I can get to know the players and the players can get to know me.

All activities at the under- varsity level will be designed to prepare players for varsity competition.

Younger players that show talent will be elevated to the Junior Varsity or Varsity teams at any high school level.

A young player will be advanced only when there is a spot for him to play regularly.

This not only helps the player promoted, Nurnberger feels, but also leaves an opening for another young player on the team the promoted player left.

At the Junior Varsity and Varsity level the coach believes in the cut system to keep squads down... something that has not been necessary at this level here.

At the lower levels he believes in no cuts... but in interscholastic competition he feels it's necessary to play to win at all levels.

At Pickney, he explained, I ran a successful intramural program for boys without the skills or dedication to play on the various school teams.

Nurnberger played all the sports at Manistee High School and was involved in baseball coaching in addition to JV basketball at Pickney.

He worked his way through college and had no time for sports there. He entered Northern Michigan after saving his money in two years working in a steel plant.

The new coach is married. He and his wife, Joyce, have three children, Karen, 10, Todd, 8, and Krista, 4.

Teams battle for 2nd in Church League

The Lutherans took a game lead in the battle for second place in the Cass City Church League as they bested Snover-Laing while the Catholics were falling to the Baptists.

The race for the league championship is over and the Methodists have the title locked up. Only the Lutherans have an outside chance to tie for the title.

With the regular season drawing to a rapid close plans were completed for the playoffs that start Monday, Aug. 12.

Monday's play-off games pit Shabbona against Missionary and the Catholics against the Baptists. Tuesday the Lutherans face Deford and Church of Christ challenge the Methodists.

The winners play Thursday and the championship game will be played Saturday at 8 p.m.

METHODISTS MISSIONARY

The Methodists didn't show much defense Monday, July 29, but who needs it when you score 29 runs? That's what the league leaders did as they pounded out a 29-11 decision over Missionary. Naturally, everyone in the Methodist line-up connected for one or more hits. Larry Hartwick poked a homer for the losers. Randy Kozan took the win. Roger Root, the loss.

In the nightcap the Baptists continued their strong late season surge with an 8-3 win over Shabbona. Dave Brooks hammered a circuit clout and Randy Brown picked up two hits. Lowell Smith hit for the circuit for Shabbona. Gary Mellendorf was the winning hurler.

SNOVER-LAING LUTHERANS

Paced by a grand slam home run by Tom Woody the Lutherans edged by Snover-Laing, 7-5, Tuesday, July 30. The win kept the Lutherans in second and Snover without a victory this year.

Veteran Nelson Willy pitched the win and Leland Hirsch was the loser. John Hacker helped the Lutherans with two hits while Lee Hicks and Lemmy King connected for a pair of hits each for the losers.

In the nightcap Missionary received some stellar pitching from Roger Root, to register a 5-1 decision. Luis Arroyo was the big sticker for the winners with two hits

SHABBONA-DEFORD

Shabbona picked up a close victory over Deford, 6-5, as Keith O'Dell pitched the victory over Alvin McKee. Bill Bader—slipped—a pair—of safeties for Shabbona while Randy Wright and Jim Kilbourn collected two hits each for the losers.

In the final game of the week, the Catholics bounced back after suffering their fourth loss of the season to roll over Missionary, 24-9. All the Catholic hitters picked up hits.

RON NURNBERGER wants to get to know the players and have the players know him.

Misty is the future of deer rescued by Fuester

Elmer Fuester of rural Decker probably won't hunt deer anymore. Chances are he's bagged his last venison on the hoof. And, chances are, part of the reason he's sworn off hunting is "Misty".

Misty is a golden, white-spotted fawn, who literally came charging into his life about six weeks ago. "I was plowing in a field across from Howard Hill's," Fuester recalled as he and his grandson, Brad, stood outside Misty's pen inside the large, red barn on the family farm. "I happened to look up and I saw the mother deer and this fawn walking along. Then I looked again and saw the mother just take off flying. I thought, what in the world is going on?"

Fuester stood up on his tractor and saw the reason for panic. A hungry German Shepherd had sprung on the deer and had his sites set on the fawn.

"That dog had this fawn down when I hollered at him," Fuester recounted. "The dog ran off and the fawn ran right across the road at me."

Shaken but apparently unharmed physically, the deer approached Fuester, who climbed down from his tractor and picked the frightened animal up, remounted the tractor and drove home.

From then on, it's been strictly a love story between Misty and the Fuester family. "My granddaughter named it Misty," Fuester explained proudly. "When she saw it the first time, she said she was going to call it 'Misty' and she did."

Fuester explained that no trace of Misty's mother has been seen since the day he brought the fawn home and he suspects the animal has long since left the area.

Fuester said he first fed the fawn cow's milk which worked fine in the beginning. Then complications set in, requiring a change in diet and a little home-remedy medicine.

He recalled that a dose of liquid antacid did the trick—straight from the bottle.

He said he now feeds the fawn a special calf feed mixture and supplements it with a sugar-grain food as well. So far, Misty is thriving.

FARM IS HOME

Misty has made the Fuester farm her home and, according to Fuester, probably wouldn't stray too far if she had the chance.

"We had her out one day on a leash taking some pictures up by the house," he said, "when all of a sudden she decided to take off. She ran around behind the corn crib and out by the barn and one of the boys started out after her. I said, no, she'll probably come back. It wasn't too long before she came right up beside me just as nice as could be."

He said nearly a hundred persons have come to see the animal. Children especially enjoy feeding Misty her grain mixture.

"It's just as cute as can be to watch some of these youngsters feed her out of their hands," Fuester smiled. "I'll tickle their hands and they really get a kick out of it."

One shadow in the picture is Misty's future. According to state law, persons are forbidden from keeping wild animals unless they are granted special permission while nursing the animal to health.

Fuester has arranged with township officials to keep Misty for the present, but what to do with her later on still hasn't been decided.

One way or another, something will happen this fall. Fuester and his wife reside in Florida during the winter and he said something would have to be done before then.

"I don't know if she would survive in the wild or not," he said. "She's been around people so much that I just don't know. Of course, being a doe might help her chances of getting shot are a lot less."

Fuester readily admits it will be extremely hard to part with Misty.

"It'll be like giving up one of the family," he said. "But I know we'll have to let her go eventually. I'm thinking about contacting a zoo somewhere to see if they'd take her."

But that's still in the future. For now, the high point of Misty's life each day is the full milk bottle and grain dish.

And the love that goes with it. It's a sure bet that the love goes both ways.

ELMER FUESTER (left) and grandson Brad, get a lot of pleasure out of caring for "Misty", a fawn the elder Fuester rescued from the jaws of a German Shepherd six weeks ago. The Fuesters feed Misty a calf food mixture, grain and sugar. Here, Misty makes short work of her afternoon bottle.

Board hires pro for union talks

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners prepared for their latest skirmish with organized labor last week when they hired a labor consultant to represent them.

The board Thursday hired Charles Minner of Lansing, who was to represent the county at Wednesday's hearing with the Tuscola County Employees Association over an unfair labor practice charge.

Minner's services will cost county taxpayers $7,800 per year. He will be held on a permanent retainer.

Minner will present the county's case to state labor mediators who will issue an opinion following testimony from both sides. The long-simmering dispute dates back to last winter when the county board authorized merit raises for three employees.

The union charged this was a violation of the contract and demanded that all other county employees receive similar raises.

The board defended its action by saying contract language, based on the Yarger report, allowed merit raises.

Should a settlement not be reached Wednesday, the dispute would likely end up in court.

The raises amount to $1.125. In other action at Thursday's meeting, the board okayed the possibility of leasing six acres of county land to the U.S. Army Reserve for construction of a $1 million armory.

An Army representative appeared before the board regarding construction of the armory, explaining that the Army wants a choice of at least two sites in the area.

Recently, Caro village council made an offer of land for armory construction.

The county's land offer involves part of 160 acres it owns adjacent to the Tuscola County Medical Facility. Investigation of zoning, water and sewer is presently underway, according to Second District Commissioner Maynard McConkey.

McConkey said the facility will have a payroll of over $160,000 and should encourage more young men in the county to join the reserves. He said Army representatives indicated they wanted construction to begin as soon as possible. Hopefully, the facility would be in operation in 1975, McConkey said.

The board also named the County Road Commission as recipient of the bulk of a $202,000 supplemental appropriation from federal Emergency Employment Act funds. McConkey indicated the funds will be used to hire personnel for road maintenance and brush removal.
