

Instruction costs to top $1 million in teacher pact

The cost of instruction at Cass City Schools will edge past the $1 million mark for the first time during the 1974-75 school year following agreement on a new contract with the Cass City Teachers' Association.

Although varying factors make it difficult to assess the percentage of the increase granted teachers, Supt. Donald Crouse said that the increases, including three additional teachers, would cost taxpayers an additional $87,000 for the current school year.

Since instructional costs totaled $977,107 in 1973-74, it is apparent that instruction costs will be over $1 million at the end of the current school year.

Instruction costs, of course, include more than teachers' salaries. It includes all items connected directly with teaching. Costs for books and texts, special education, principals' salaries, secretaries' salaries and other similar costs are charged.

Because of different amounts granted for service the raises went from 9 per cent for a first year teacher;

10 per cent for teachers with five years; 11 per cent for 10 years, and back to 9 per cent for teachers with 11 years.

Percentage figures can be deceiving because of increments for service, teachers with many years can receive a lesser percentage increase yet be granted a greater dollar amount.

For instance, a first year teacher jumps from $8,350 to $8,650 an increase of about 3.6 per cent. A teacher at the top of the bachelor of Arts scale is given an increase from $12,100 to $13,100 or about 9.2 per cent. Yet the veteran teacher receives $1,000 more while the novice teacher is paid $350 more than the same position paid in 1973-74.

In addition to increases, the amount paid for hospitalization insurance was upped $9.90 per month to $59.90.

The average increased cost is about 10 per cent and left Cass City's salaries about in the middle range for area schools. A comparison prepared by the superintendent for the school board revealed that among nine schools with new contracts, Cass City ranked fourth.

Salaries ranged from Caro's $13,839 down to USA's $12,900 for teachers with the maximum amount of service increments.

In addition to the increases in regular salaries, the payments under schedule B (see chart) for special extra-curricular jobs were raised about 10 per cent.

Lost in the bargaining were questions of split classes at Evergreen, class sizes, binding arbitration and other "non-economic" issues that are debated each year but not often included in the final agreement. As expected, the contract was made retroactive and pending unfair labor practice charges of the union will be withdrawn.

2 die in Friday crash

Two persons are dead and a third remains in serious condition in a Port Huron Hospital following a grinding two-car crash Friday morning at the intersection of M-53 and M-46, five miles east of Kingston.

Dead are Yvonne Walton, 70, of New Bedford, Mass., driver of one of the vehicles, and her passenger, Helen Maguire, 45, of Greenfield, Mass.

In serious condition in Port Huron Hospital is Mrs. James Wilson, 20, of Decker. Her husband, driver of the second vehicle, was treated for injuries at Marlette Community Hospital and released Saturday.

State Police from the Sandusky Post who investigated said the accident occurred at 8:15 a.m.

They reported the Walton vehicle was eastbound on M-46 and apparently ran through a stop sign at the M-53 intersection, striking the southbound Wilson auto. Both cars were demolished by the force of the impact.

Ms. Walton was pronounced dead at the scene. Ms. Maguire died at 10:20 a.m. at Marlette Community Hospital.

The double fatality brings Sanilac county's traffic death toll to 12 so far this year.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Two persons escaped injury around midnight Monday when their car went out of control and rolled over on Cemetery Road three miles south of Cass City.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported the car, driven by Charles Wallace Kappen, 17, of 3192 E. Cass City Rd., was headed south on Cemetery Road when he apparently swerved to miss a deer. Kappen lost control and went into a ditch, rolling over once.

Kappen, and his passenger, David Rogers, 17, of 6259 Deckerville Rd., Decker, were taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital where they were treated and released. Earlier Monday, a car driven by Dale Wayne McAlpine, 16, of 6943 Cemetery Rd., went out of control and struck mailboxes on Cemetery Road at Voss Road.

Cass City Police who investigated said McAlpine was headed north when the car went out of control. He hit mailboxes on the east side of the road, crossed the centerline and landed in a cornfield on the west side of the road.

McAlpine told police he did not remember what happened. He said he was on his way to school at the time of the mishap, 8:25 a.m.

He was treated for injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

CAR-DEER COLLISIONS

Area police reported three car-deer collisions, two occurring Saturday.

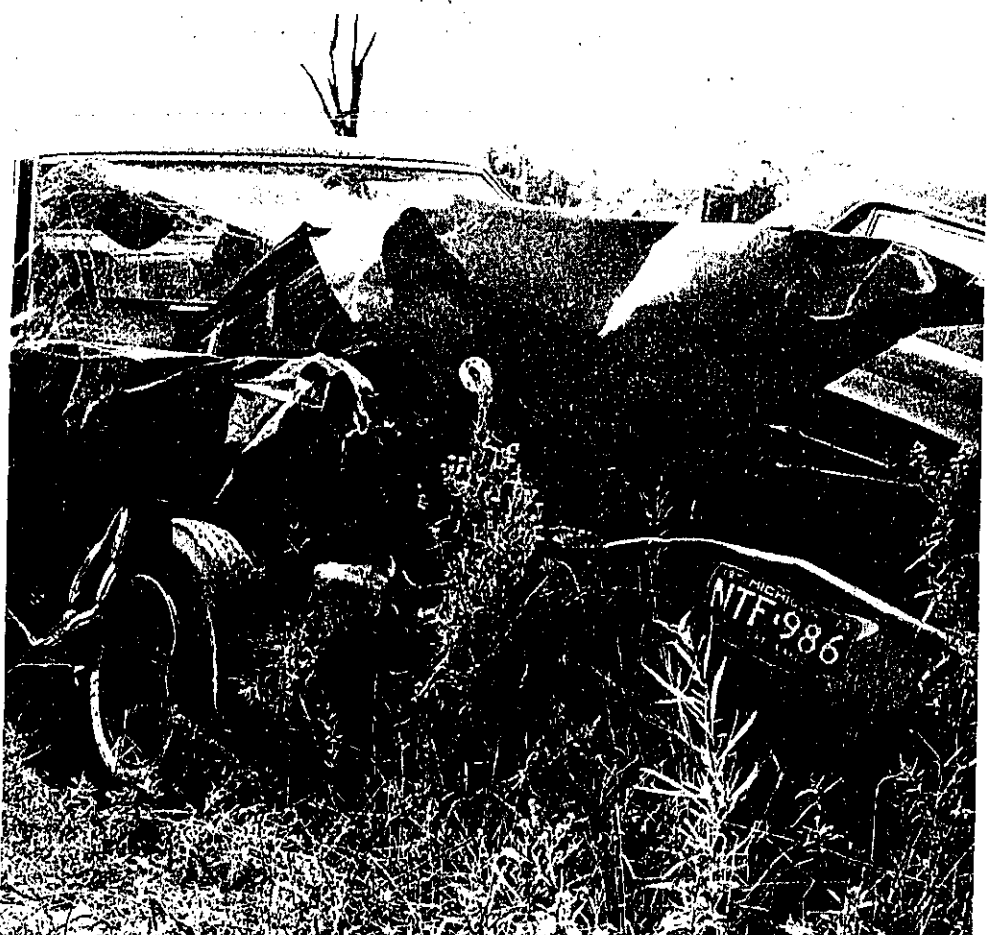

At 3 a.m., a car driven by Raymond Fisher, 37, of Mt. Pleasant, struck a deer on Cedar Run Road at Millington Road. State Police from the Commissioners win reprieve, okay assistant prosecutor

County commissioners breathed a sigh of relief Tuesday after learning they would not have to redistribute $188,579 in emergency employment funds received earlier this year.

And, as a bonus, Tuscola County Prosecutor George Holmes will get a part-time assistant prosecutor.

The apparent switch in plans came after efforts by Frank E. Lenard, economic planner for the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region, who interceded with authorities in Lansing.

Lenard told the board the county road commission could remain distributor of the funds for the current entitlement period which runs through June 30, 1975.

He also told the board an additional $10,000, a supplementary grant, could go toward hiring an assistant for Holmes.

The original dispute arose when state officials told the county its distribution of the money, through the road commission, was inequitable. Most commissioners felt unfairly treated because they had only eight days in which to designate the funds before state authorities would have stepped in.

Board Chairman Shuford Kirk took issue with the contention that the road commission was not a proper agency to handle the money.

"It (giving the funds to the road commission) most certainly is equitable," Kirk said. "That money is going to every township in the county when the road commission hires these people. It's available to every village school district and township."

Commissioners approved an assistant prosecutor with some reluctance. Commissioner Maynard McConkey said the move was "not a good deal."

He said the board did not like deciding the question without study and especially disliked starting a new program so close to the end of the budget year.

"This was a very quick decision," McConkey said. "It did solve the problem of what to do with the $10,000 because it fell within the state's guidelines."

McConkey, along with his colleagues, openly chided state officials for not providing guidelines for the funds when they were originally received. He added that the supplemental grant could still be re-arranged if necessary.

Hiring an assistant prosecutor appears to be a compromise between the board and Holmes, who has publicly called for a full-time assistant to help clear away a backlog of work.

Holmes has also requested the board make his job full-time. This issue is still far from settled and could prove to be a hot potato when the 1975 budget comes up for review in a few weeks.

Under the terms of Tuesday's settlement, the road commission will continue to act as distributors of the Council gives final okay to new peddler ordinance

Cass City's long-awaited village peddler ordinance finally made it on the books following action by trustees at their regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

The ordinance is a shortened version of the proposed statute submitted at council's last meeting and generally outlaws all peddlers, solicitors and canvassers from private property without an invitation.

The new ordinance amounts to a compromise between trustees who wanted a strong law and those who wanted no statute at all. It replaces a 23-year peddler ordinance acknowledged by Village President Lambert Althaver as ineffective.

"Frankly, we have failed to enforce our own law (old ordinance)," Althaver told his colleagues.

The issue arose last spring when Larry Mis of Caro asked council for permission to sell ice cream from a vending truck in the village. Examination of the existing peddler ordinance showed it to be discriminatory, Althaver said.

The old law provided licensing and bonding provisions as well as weekly fees.

The new law contains no licensing clauses and provides for no bond. It simply outlaws peddling.

Village Attorney Clinton House told council the new law would not affect firms with established routes in residential areas. House reasoned that these companies are operating at the invitation of the clients they serve and do not solicit new customers door-to-door.

Presumably, it would not affect non-profit organizations such as school or service clubs from selling door-to-door in residential areas. The ordinance provides for persons "engaged in commercial business for profit."

Trustee Gary Jones indicated he favored the short ordinance because a licensing and investigation procedure would tie up police and the village superintendent needlessly.

Trustee Richard Hampshire agreed, adding that the long ordinance only provided the village with a means of licensing harassment.

"It certainly wouldn't affect those who wouldn't comply," he said.

The ordinance takes effect 20 days from its adoption.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce tried to give council an early Christmas present Tuesday night—its Christmas decorations. Council said in effect, thanks, but no thanks. At least not now.

Chamber President Jim Courtney told council the cost of maintaining and replacing the decorations has become prohibitive and asked council to assume the responsibility.

Courtney said the chamber would be willing to contribute toward the decorations, but could not continue to finance the project as it has in the past.

President Althaver told Courtney village finances are already strained because of added commitments and inflation and would be hard pressed to replace decorations. He indicated that the thrust of decorations is to enhance the downtown retail business district anyway.

Althaver said village crews will put them up again this year and said trustees would consider the request in its 1975 budget planning. In the meantime, he asked Courtney to survey neighboring villages to determine their policies regarding decorations and financing.

He added that he hoped the chamber would still contribute to the project.

Courtney said the chamber will handle the decoration effort again this year but would like to turn them over to the village for 1975.

Althaver promised Courtney more storage space for the decorations.

REZONING REQUEST

Council heard a request from Dick Erla to rezone a piece of property bordering on Nestles and Church Streets from light industrial to general business.

Erla revealed he plans to construct a drive-in restaurant on the site and needs the change before he can exercise an option he holds on the parcel.

The parcel contains 3 1/2 acres of land and borders along the railroad. Erla told trustees the restaurant's entrance will come off Nestles Street with parking to the north.

He said there is enough land in the parcel to meet business zoning requirements.

"I feel this would add something to the community," Erla said.

The request must go through the planning commission which will make a recommendation to council. Althaver said he foresees little difficulty with the plan, since parcels on either side of the property are zoned general business.

Action on the request is expected to take about 30 days.

CHURCH STREET TRAFFIC

Increased police patrols of traffic on Church Street were promised following an appearance by Carlton Teller of 4545 Downing St., at council.

Teller presented trustees with a petition bearing 25 signatures complaining about speeding drivers on the street. Specifically, Teller requested speed limit signs, increased patrols and yield signs at cross streets to slow traffic down.

President Althaver indicated the village could post speed limit signs but said it could not post yield signs. He said such postings would not conform to a master traffic flow plan established for the village by the State Highway Department last year.

He added that yield signs have not proven successful in slowing traffic in the past.

Police Chief Gene Wilson told Teller he would beef up patrols on the street.

"Some day, somebody's going to get killed down there," Teller said. "We just want something done."

Trustee Gary Jones added that citizens who report violations to police can help solve the problem.

OTHER BUSINESS

Council learned that a federal income tax return on the Stevens estate has been filed. Village authorities are hopeful of early processing and construction on the new pool could begin next spring.

Trustee D.E. Rawson told council any idea of borrowing against the estate is all but dead due to inaction by the state attorney-general's office. Council had sought a ruling on the move.

Trustees also learned that a landfill license has been received. The landfill can legally operate one year under the license, which approves five acres for use at the Novesta township site.

Council approved an extension for final village tax collections to Oct. 21. To date, 96 per cent, or $142,100 in taxes, have been collected.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton N. Mellendorf

Constance Ann Gilbert and Milton Norris Mellendorf were united in marriage at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 17, at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Sebawaing.

The Rev. Mr. Elmer E. Scheck performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Euler of Sebawaing and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davidson of Owendale and the late Norris E. Mellendorf.

The altar was banked with white mums and daisies and the pews were adorned with ivory bows and ivy.

Soloist Terry Vanconant of Port Huron, friend of the bride and bridegroom, sang "The Wedding Song," "The Lord's Prayer," "Hawaiian Wedding Song" and "With This Ring." He was accompanied at the organ by Kathy Reige of Sebawaing.

Given in marriage by her grandmother, Mrs. Anna Simon, the bride approached the altar in a gown of candelite organza with a deep flounce of Nottingham lace which also surrounded the cathedral train. The gown was fashioned in princess design with a high ruffled neckline, a deep lace yoke and long fitted lace sleeves. Pearls accented the gown. To complete her attire, the bride wore a matching lace edged fingertip veil secured to a Juliet cap. She carried a colonial bouquet of white, yellow and pink roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath with ivy streamers.

Mrs. Jeff Davidson of Gagetown, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Maxwell of Elkton and Mrs. Bryan Hubbs of East Tawas, both sisters of the bride, and Deb MacAlpine, cousin of the bridegroom. Tara Thomas of Essexville, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in gowns of ice pink crepe with the sashes at the fitted bodice. They had high necklines, lace yokes outlined with pink ruffles and brief puffed sleeves with lace cuffs. The matron of honor and bridesmaids carried baskets of pink carnations, white daisies and baby's breath. The flower girl carried a small nosegay made with white carnations, pink and yellow roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Best man for his brother was Jeff Davidson of Gagetown, assisted by groomsmen Alan Pinkbeiner of Essexville, Gary Geier of Saginaw and David Pobanz of Unionville, all friends of the bridegroom. Ushers were Larry McCree of Cass City, cousin of the bride, and Byron Davidson, brother of the bridegroom from Owendale. Jimmy Lakie of Pigeon, cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer.

The bride's mother wore a light blue crepe sleeveless dress with white ruffles at the neckline and front bodice. A pink orchid accented her dress.

The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of a yellow printed floral pattern. It was sleeveless and had a gathered neckline with stand-up collar, raised waist, and full A-line skirt. Her dress was accented with a green orchid.

The bride's grandmother wore a long yellow dress with chiffon puffed sleeves. The gown had a rounded neckline and lace trimmed the Empire waistline. She wore a corsage of white roses and mint green carnations.

Dinner and reception for 300 guests followed the ceremony at the Unionville American Legion hall.

Out-of-town guests attended from California, Ohio, Bay City, Harbor Beach, Frankenthuth, Saginaw, Cass City, Pigeon, Elkton, East Tawas, Caro, Detroit, Port Huron, and Unionville.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Will it work? No one knows for sure, but Sande Piechotte is going to try and beat the lid shortage while canning. She's going to try canning without using lids. How? By using cotton batting instead. The idea comes from a 1928 White House cookbook and Mrs. Piechotte thinks it will work. The cookbook says it's been tried and fruit has held over two years without spoiling. According to the recipe, cooking the fruit as usual and placing it in crocks or stone butter jars with cotton tied tightly at the top will do it. Cotton is supposed to block out harmful germs. Mrs. Piechotte says she'll try it but her husband has already stated flatly he won't.

Okay you don't feel adventurous. You won't can with cotton. In Canada, I'm informed there are can covers, rubbers, everything you need. I got this information from a long-time acquaintance here in Cass City. I know his name. Correction: I knew his name. Right now I can't tell you. He told me the town where the lids (manufactured in Indiana) were available. I can't remember that either.

The question I keep asking myself is, is it the camera or the girl that makes Lee Rabideau look so uncomfortable in that publicity shot from Chrysler Corporation that's printed elsewhere.

I turned a little green when I read that President Gerald Ford's friends had raised $300,000 for a new swimming pool at the White House. That didn't make me all that envious. What did is that the project is scheduled to start in October and be finished this year. Three months. And it's been at least three years since the pool here shut down.

Tell me, was it because the season is nearly over that the sweet corn we had for dinner this week end tasted better than any of the season? And while you're explaining, tell me how I was able to buy a quart of raspberries at a fruit market Sunday and none were around during the normal berry season. You don't have to explain why they cost $1.50 per quart. . . that I understand.

Okay Kingston funding

The Kingston Board of Education approved participation in a matching-fund program involving $1,800 in federal and local monies at its regularly-scheduled meeting held Monday night. Supt. Robert Cameron said the district will receive $1,800 in a federal grant which will be matched by local money. He said the total will be split evenly between the elementary and high school.

In the elementary program, Cameron said, plans call for adding equipment and improving the science curriculum. In the high school, hard and soft ware will be purchased for the media center, he indicated. In other action, the board approved spending $4,500 for a sprinkler system on the athletic field. The board also heard a report of a high school curriculum study committee. Cameron said the committee involves students, faculty, parents and administration, and aims for improvement in the area of vocational education.

The board heard details of a plan to invite senior citizens to spend a day in school, scheduled sometime in October.

BIG BROTHERS' annual Walk-A-Thon is Saturday and this group is getting in shape. In the front row are (from the left), Diane Teichman, Elaine Stoutenburg, Kathy Kirn, Lori Hampshire and Paul Clabuesch. Behind them are Rev. Eldred Kelley, Ernie Teichman, Ernie Stoutenburg and John Tuckey.

Jim Turner, of the Department of Social Services, holds the gun to start the pack. The walk begins at 9 a.m. from the park and covers 10 miles.

Walkers set to stroll for Big Brothers Saturday

Walkers are preparing for Saturday's Big Brothers' Walk-A-Thon, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. from the Recreation Park. The walk, designed to raise money for Big Brothers of Tuscola county, covers 10 miles and all walkers must be sponsored.

This year, a youth group from Salem United Methodist Church is challenging other church groups in Cass City.

To add to the excitement, Paul Clabuesch, president of Gavel Club, is challenging the other service clubs in the walk.

A group sponsored by the Department of Social Services and headed by Jim Turner, is also challenging other county agencies in the walk. Turner emphasized, however, that the walk is not a race and the goal is strictly raising money for Big Brothers. Refreshments for tired hikers are being supplied by the Cass City Church of God and St. Pancratius Catholic Church.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

In recent years the Cass City Chamber of Commerce has maintained a low profile. Already you are asking. So what?

So that's too bad. Too bad because what the Chamber has done over the last two decades has touched you significantly if you live or work here.

Touched where it counts. In the pocketbook. In the pocketbook? Sure. It was the Chamber of Commerce that took the bull by the horns and appointed the committee that started the ball rolling towards Cass City's industrial development.

From this committee the present development corporation evolved. It was the work of this group spearheaded by old timers Joe Riley, Herb Ludlow and Cliff Croft that persuaded Anrod Screen Cylinder to move here.

From then the story is familiar. Walbro and General Cable and a move to a farm-industrial base from strict dependence on agriculture.

At the time the guys on the firing line received darn little credit for the work. It was a chore moving up and down the main stem trying to raise the final $10,000 to build a building for Walbro.

As always, the excuses flowed freer than the cash.

The money wasn't sure almost until the moment construction started. And, as always, the doubting Thomases were there with the cold water.

Nothing changes much. The same excuses, the same doubts, the same reactions, the same responses were alive and well when the Chamber was seeking money 20 years later for doctors' clinics.

We have the factories, we have the clinics, we have a live, viable community because enough cared to risk a few bucks for a better tomorrow.

What ignited this bit of ancient history was a talk with present members of the Chamber board.

They will be conducting a person-to-person campaign to bring every eligible business or person into Chamber membership.

It would be grand if everyone who is visited could find a way to come up with the money needed for a membership.

Maybe that's not possible for everyone. What is possible is remembering that the person who calls isn't working for himself. Doesn't make a nickel from a membership. Would much rather be doing something else than be promoting our community through the Chamber.

He's doing it for you. For all of us. It's a formula that's worked in the past and will

"If It Fitz . . ."

That wasn't a burp, Mr. Ford

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Would you believe that President Ford, the great pardoner, reminds me of little Michele and an old William Holden movie?

Michele is my 5-year-old granddaughter. We visited her the other day and she insisted upon showing us that she now knows how to ride a 2-wheel bike.

There are no sidewalks around Michele's home, so she had to stage her demonstration in the street, usually forbidden territory. Several adults watched nervously, at first, but Michele soon proved she had indeed graduated out of the training-wheel class.

She went back and forth, back and forth, a little wobbly but increasingly steady as she grinned greatly and her grandmother once again loudly asked the world if this little girl was not indeed the most marvelous child you ever saw.

But slowly it began to dawn on the adults that a large gap was growing between a forth and a back. Michele had extended the last forth over a slight rise in the road. She was out of sight for a minute but we all knew she would soon reappear. But she didn't. And didn't.

Michele's mother, who is not nearly as star-struck as Grandmother, finally went chugging down the road with elbows flying and steam hissing from her ears. You could almost hear the cymbals crash.

It seemed like an hour before mother and daughter returned, with daughter sobbing a bit and mother frowning mightily, perhaps pondering the unalterable fact that she has 2 more children younger than Michele.

The capture had been made as Michele was about to sit down to lunch at a chum's home on the other side of town. Her parents had forbidden her to ride her bike so far but . . . well . . . it seemed like a good idea at the time. She had to show Grandma and Grandpa how she could ride her bike, didn't she?

And I thought about "Stalag 17," the fine World War II movie in which William Holden and buddies continually tried to escape from a German prisoner-of-war camp.

One ingenious plot involved a few prisoners painting the traditional white line down the middle of the road leading out of camp. The German guards watched calmly as they slowly painted their way through the front gate and down the street, innocent and industrious workmen. The prisoners had painted well over the horizon before the guards finally realized they intended to paint their way to New York.

It was a scheme worthy of the most marvelous child you ever saw. Classy.

That's where President Ford fell short. No class.

Ford thought he had firmly established his innocence and good intentions in the eyes of his admiring countrymen. He thought he could pardon Nixon, a suspected felon, as if his alleged crime were burping at dinner, and we would all cheer his good manners. Ford was wrong. He was overcome by the euphoria of the honeymoon and he didn't smell the toast burning. He took our love and abused it; he didn't realize we'd care, tra la la.

President Ford didn't paint slowly enough. He didn't go back and forth long enough. He could learn a lot from Michele.

Corrections

James Allen, 31, of Caro, has requested clarification of an accident report in last week's Chronicle. The report failed to mention that the car driven by David Hall, 26, uncle of Deanna Kay Hall of Reese, failed to yield at the Bradford and Gifford Road intersection.

Allen's car struck the Hall vehicle broadside. Allen had the right of way.

The Chronicle wishes to correct an error in an accident report in the Sept. 12 edition. David Surayne, 17, and Bob Mullin, 17, both of Caro, were witnesses, not passengers in an accident involving Edward M. Mozden, 19, of Deford, Saturday, Sept. 7.

Folk music finds niche in Larry Carpenter's world

By Jim Ketchum

Larry Carpenter of Uby loves folk music. You might even say he's a balladeer in the truest sense of the word. In the past 20 years or so, Carpenter has acquired a repertoire of about 200 folk songs that he plays on his five-string banjo and six or 12-string guitar. He's never performed professionally, but hasn't regretted it.

He's happy working at General Cable Corp. in Cass City and playing the kind of music he likes the way he likes, when he likes. "I play just for my own enjoyment," the tall, bespectacled Carpenter said as he leaned back in his chair and took several puffs on his corncob pipe. "I prefer not to go professional. It would become too much like work if I did and I'd probably get tired of it."

Carpenter said his acquaintance with folk music and the guitar go back to age 14 when his father came home one day with a guitar he'd just bought.

"Dad wanted to play but his fingers were so big that he couldn't play it properly," Carpenter recalled, removing his glasses and thoughtfully rubbing one eye. "He would wind up playing two strings at a time instead of one. So I wound up fooling around with it and eventually I taught myself to play."

He began to groove on folk music in the late 1950's and early 1960's when a group called the Kingston Trio climbed to the top of the charts with a song called "Hang Down Your Head, Tom Dooley."

Carpenter spent time at Ohio State adding to his folk song collection, listening always for the tune more than the words. "That's what I generally listen for first," he said. "If the tune interests me, then I'll go ahead and learn the words. But sometimes, once I've done that, then I'd just as soon drop it and go on to another tune."

DIFFERENCES

Many persons tend to confuse folk songs with country-western music, Carpenter said. But large differences exist, beginning with authorship. Authors to nearly all true folk songs are unknown. "Folk music evolves as it's handed from one person to another," he explained. "It's developed rather than composed. Melodies become altered and as it's passed on, new verses are added and old ones revised."

While country-western music generally deals with love lost, folk music tells a complete story.

"They can be humorous, sad, risqué, or whatever," Carpenter said. "But they all tell a story."

He recalled one folk song that tells the story of a man cutting weeds in a field one day who is bitten by a serpent. His love comes to his aid and attempts to suck the poison from his system. But she, it turns out, has an infected tooth and so both die. "Folk music tends to tell the story of life as it's lived every day," Carpenter said. "You can just imagine the pioneers headed west singing these songs as they went along, or at night to entertain themselves by a campfire."

Country-western music tends to be more packaged and sold while genuine folk music has remained free.

Within folk music itself, large differences exist, Carpenter said. American folk songs are distinctly different from Australian, English, or even Canadian.

American folk music is more simplistic with uncomplicated, repetitious tunes, he said, using few minor chords. English and Israeli folk songs take advantage of minor chords and rambling tunes.

"Part of this comes from the instruments they used," Carpenter explained. "Early Americans had to bring their instruments from the old country or fashion them crudely here. Most of them did not have a lute or a harpsichord and so had to use what they had."

The five-string banjo, for instance, was invented by Scottish immigrants living in the West Virginia-Kentucky area, he said, because they apparently didn't have bagpipes and wanted something that sounded like one.

From there, the instrument's popularity spread with the western movement, lending itself to change and refinement.

FOLK MUSIC COMPOSED TODAY

Carpenter said folk music is still being composed especially in more remote areas of Kentucky.

"It's a wild sound," he said. "It's beautiful and still being evolved."

Carpenter agreed that the influence of the electronic media has hurt the creation of genuine folk music because it blurs regional flavor and makes for a sameness throughout the country.

"We don't have to entertain ourselves anymore," Carpenter commented. "This is how and why folk music evolved. People sat around at night and sang songs. When's the last time you spent an evening with friends just singing songs?"

Carpenter gets as much enjoyment from watching other persons react to his music as he does playing it.

"I enjoy all varieties of folk music and I'm particularly interested in how it affects others," he said. "I like to see people smile when I play."

Generally, though, he said he plays alone, "because there aren't really that many people interested in it, I guess."

Chances are he'll gather an enthusiastic audience when he performs during the Cass City Arts Council's Workshop Saturday at the high school.

Carpenter's favorite instrument is the 12-string guitar, although he plays the six-string guitar and the five-string banjo.

Carpenter was born 30 miles east of Cleveland, Ohio. He attended Ohio State University. He and his wife have two children.

He said both of his daughters, ages two and five, enjoy their father's renditions on the guitar.

"It might even be a good way to put them to bed at night—with a song," he laughed.

If you're 18, your draft board still wants you

If you're 18, or about to be, the Selective Service wants you. Not for the Army, though. All they want is your registration.

Late registrations continue to be a major problem faced by Selective Service boards across the nation, including the Saginaw Area Office, which handles registrations for Tuscola county.

The most noted case of a late registration came last week when President Gerald Ford's son, Steven, revealed he, too, forgot to register.

"Most of the boys don't mean to violate the law," a spokesman, who declined to be quoted directly, said this week. "They just don't know they have to."

This type of live-and-let-live attitude on the part of Selective Service is a marked contrast to the hectic days of the Vietnam War when registration rules were firm and violators prosecuted. To date, no prosecutions for late registration have been carried out in Michigan, Selective Service officials said.

"It would be silly to prosecute them," one registrar said. "Ninety per cent of the ones who come in late said they just forgot they had to register."

Registrations have picked up in the last month, officials said, partly because of school re-openings and young men headed for college. Many who did not turn 18 before high school graduation came in before college classes began.

Since Jan. 1, 4,925 persons registered with the Saginaw office.

In an effort to step up registrations, Selective Service has embarked on an advertising campaign to get the word out. Posters have gone up in post offices, banks, and government buildings reminding 18-year-olds to register.

The Saginaw office has also sent registrars into all high schools, including Cass City

High School.

"We find we're getting cooperation from teachers who remind students they have to register," a registrar said.

Another method of speeding up registrations is through the mail. Selective Service has placed cards in every county post office, the county clerk's office, high schools and Secretary of State's offices in Vassar and Caro.

Officials say while mail registrations have been successful, most 18-year-olds still make the trek to register in person.

In spite of the effort, draft-eligible men still come in to register from one week to a month late. Under the law, a man must register within 60 days of his 18th birthday, 30 days either side.

Still, no legal action to date has been taken against someone filing late. Selective Service reasons it's better to have someone registered eventually than not to register at all.

Officials say despite the end of the Vietnam War and the draft, Selective Service is as busy as ever. Requests still come in concerning a man's rights under the draft law.

Requests for changes in status from the familiar 1-A or 1-H (a holding category) to 1-B or 1-A-0 (conscientious objector status) are still handled regularly.

And the lottery system still goes on, with annual drawings. Men born in 1956 will find out soon where they stand in priority. Their year of prime vulnerability will begin in January, 1976.

With increasing talk in Washington that the draft may have to be restarted sometime in the future, 1976 could be an important year.

If no draft is held that year, these men will be placed in a second priority category and chances of their being drafted will decrease until age 26. After that, chances are excellent that they would never be called.

Officials advise that when a man comes to register in person, he should bring some identification to prove name and age, such as a driver's license, social security card, school I.D. or birth certificate.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Here's to 55

By Jim Ketchum

Prohibition, as anyone who lived through it will tell you, was a farce. The "noble experiment" tried to legislate morality long before Sen. Barry Goldwater reminded us we couldn't.

It failed so badly that it gave birth to major crime syndicates who, once repeal finally arrived, switched to more lucrative trades such as narcotics, vice and gambling.

Now, that same psychology is being applied by our very own State Police director who wants to kill the 55 mph speed limit. Reasons the good Col. George Halverson, since we can't enforce it, let's do away with it.

Besides, you can't be issued any points on your driving record until you go over the old limit. So why even bother?

And, on top of all that, the energy crisis is over, now that gasoline is 60 cents a gallon or better. So who needs to conserve gasoline? Let's rev it up and live it up.

Unfortunately, this kind of reasoning misses the point. It's an argument for doing away with laws in general because people won't behave and keep on violating them. Wasn't there an administration in Washington that lived this philosophy in a perverted sort of way?

You can't realistically apply the Prohibition example to this case. Prohibition was doomed from the beginning because social reformers thought mankind had entered upon a new era. They reasoned that once something was law, it would be obeyed.

The fact that Carrie Nation had destroyed countless quantities of booze with her trusty hatchet didn't seem to bother Prohibition's proponents.

Carrie just attracted everyone's attention to the problem. Once booze was outlawed and bars became Sunday Schools, all would be well.

Unfortunately, Carrie had never met Al Capone, Dutch Schultz, Frank Nitti and company. These fellows obeyed only the laws they wished, and the 18th amendment wasn't one of them.

The 55 mph speed law, however, isn't the same thing. Its basic weakness comes from our esteemed representatives in Lansing who have lead feet. One senator explained the reason for no point assessment between 55 and the old limit.

He said too many of his colleagues always left home late and had to drive fast to make it to sessions on time. By excluding points, these great solons could still speed, get caught and pay the fines without worrying about losing their licenses.

Ipsa facto... the perversion of law. Hence, Col. Halverson says, 55 should go. How about a few teeth in the law? Or rather, points. Chances are, you'd find enforcing the new limit a lot easier. With fewer traffic deaths recorded at lower speeds, isn't this more important than having a legislator late for roll call? I think so.

AROUND THE FARM

Bean varieties

By Don Kebler

While I was hand-pulling and stuffing into bags the different varieties of beans at Glyde Rohlf's, I had a few interesting observations.

Three varieties were mature and dry enough at the first harvesting. One was the Sanilac and the other two were research comparison varieties. Of the five varieties yet to be harvested, two days later I pulled and bagged the Michelite 62. The remaining three need some additional drying out before we pull them. So, of the two known plot varieties, Sanilac matured a little sooner as far as vine drying, but the Michelite 62 beans shattered easier. Lastly, and before a yield check between these two varieties, it appears the Sanilac will out-yield the Michelite 62. I might remark here that one of the immature varieties vine growth has almost an appearance of soybeans.

During the week I had a visitor from a bean processing company located in Pennsylvania. He was visiting the bean counties talking with elevator operators, bean producers and extension agents to determine the bean situation. He pretty much agreed that the processors of bean products were buying just enough beans to maintain a hand-to-mouth type delivery and processing. In other words, they were not committing large orders at the present. This sit and wait procedure is one of the primary reasons why the marketing situation appears to be in a state of mushiness, so to speak. Also, depending on the crop supply, foreign and domestic needs and other determining factors, these large orders may not materialize until later - toward the end of the year. This industrial representative was well-pleased with the fine quality of our beans this year.

I've had a brief opportunity to examine the new county up-dated soil survey sheets to replace the old 1926 soil map. This new soil survey was authorized by your County Board of Commissioners and is far more detailed to multiple soil uses. Individual soil survey sheets contain parts of five or six sections and property owners can obtain the soil survey sheet of their property. Health de-partments, Equalization, State Tax Commission, County Supervisors, utilities, highway engineers, Land de-velopers and many other persons besides farmers will find the survey data a most valuable use.

The roll call of the class of '33 was done by Kenneth Maharg, the class of '34 by Arleon Retherford and the class of '35 by Arthur Batel.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to renewing acquaintances and visiting.

For the time being, a plan of distribution needs to be established before these survey sheets become available. We'll keep you posted.

BETTER HEALTH

Sex clinic successful?

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

Until a few years ago, married couples whose sexual relationship was unsatisfactory either took their lumps and suffered in silence, or were reduced to chewing each other out in a thousand substitute squabbles. Many sought solace elsewhere, as divorce and adultery statistics verify. A few tried, mostly with limited success, to find relief through psychotherapy or in talks with their family doctor or clergyman, neither of whom was necessarily equipped to help.

Then six years ago, everything changed. Dr. William H. Masters and Virginia Johnson published "Human Sexual Inadequacy," an account of their pioneering techniques for treating impotence, frigidity and premature ejaculation, the sexual disorders which in one form or other are said to affect at least half the married couples in the United States today.

The Masters-Johnson direct approach to the details of the physical encounter itself short-circuited considerations of psychology, tenderness, notions of spontaneity and the conventional poetry of married love.

In their therapeutic program, exercises in mutual stimulation are carefully detailed. Pairs of wooden models, not unlike the dolls the medieval Chinese used to pinpoint the region of the body that hurt are coupled to demonstrate appropriate positions of sexual congress.

After a few sessions, when the couple has presumably shed their awkward inhibitions, sexual intercourse is assigned as homework. Special techniques are prescribed to provoke and maintain potency, prolong the encounter, and provide both parties with the promised oceanic experience.

Since Johnson and Masters opened the door to such down-to-earth treatment, clinics have been opened in New York City, Milwaukee, Washington, New Haven, Ann Arbor, Durham, N.C. and in Chevy Chase, Md., not to mention London, Stockholm, Geneva, Hamburg and Amsterdam.

These clinics claim a remarkably high rate of success, and of course innovations have not been slow in appearing. There are combinations of technical instructions coupled with depth analysis and dream interpretation. Predictably, group therapy sessions have been organized, of course, without garments of any kind to impede them.

The most controversial therapeutic device is the surrogate partner, acknowledged even by participants to be technical prostitution, who for a fee, in appropriately seductive surroundings, will help a man out of his sexual hangups.

Well, what about all this? Is it legitimate medical treatment, which it certainly was intended to be at the outset, or will it merge insensibly into hanky panky and become the province of imposters and quacks?

It is still too soon to be sure. It may well be that removing hypocrisy, ignorance and the notion that sex is dirty is all to the good. But there is something at once ludicrous and pathetic about a course in sexual gymnastics as the answer to troubled marriages.

Nevertheless, how-to-do-it sexual manuals have proliferated in the past few years like cookbooks, and have now been legitimized by the aura of the scientific method. Perhaps cookbooks occasionally produce good cooks. It can happen. No doubt the resolution of sexual problems is a strong factor in helping a troubled marriage. But even the couples who are "cured" may still have to learn to get on together during the day.

Anyone wanting to find fault finds plenty of opportunity.

ME-DEEP

Most people speak of what they have earned — not what benefits they have received.

Your neighbor says

Fall is my favorite

Fall is nearly here, bursting with color and charm. It's the favorite season of R.C. Dilman of Kennebec Dr.

"Fall is my favorite," he says. "I'd say it's the color that makes it."

Dilman says he's traveled through New England and the Virginias during fall, but Michigan still ranks at the top with fiery reds and golden yellows.

He says he particularly enjoys traveling through Michigan's Thumb and the upper peninsula during the fall.

Dilman recently returned to Cass City after 50 years. He was born and raised in the area, leaving at age 18. He returns to this area from Ann Arbor.

Ubly grocer dies Sunday at 42

James J. Ternes, 42, an Ubly area grocer, died Sunday at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after suffering a heart attack at his Sheridan township home.

He had been associated with the Ivanhoe Grocery Store since 1954, where he had worked with his uncle, William Ternes, and his father, the late Joseph Ternes. The store has been operated in the area for the past 80 years.

Mr. Ternes was born Dec. 24, 1931, in Bad Axe, and was a lifelong Sheridan township resident.

He was a 1950 graduate of Bad Axe High School and served in the U.S. Army during the Korean War.

He married Charlotte Gatzka, Oct. 14, 1961, in St. Joseph Catholic Church, Bay City.

He was a member of the St. Columbkille's Usher's Club.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, Richard and Paul, and two daughters, Janine and Lisa, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Anna Ternes of Bad Axe, and one sister, Mrs. Gary Brunet of Utica.

A rosary was recited Monday night at Zinger Funeral Home, Ubly, by the St. Columbkille's Usher's Club, and Tuesday night by Rev. George Klimas.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at St. Columbkille's Catholic Church, with Fr. Klimas officiating.

Burial was in the church cemetery, where graveside military rites were conducted.

Lions Auxiliary hears Ms. Woell

Ms. R. Dee Woell, Community Relations Director for the Caro Regional Center, was guest speaker at the Lions Auxiliary monthly dinner meeting held at Veronica's Restaurant, Sept. 16.

She explained changes in care for the retarded, saying the trend is away from institutional life. For example, ample recreation is provided patients, including bowling, bingo and swimming.

Attendants are expected to help keep patients busy and content, Ms. Woell said.

Last year, the Lions Auxiliary provided wrapped and named gifts for a cottage at Christmas, and each auxiliary member has a special friend to remember at the center.

Ms. Woell told the group the emphasis at the center is on patients leading an active life.

The auxiliary will hold a card party Oct. 14, at White Creek Club.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Cass City Lions Club spent a total of $3,750 last year for civic projects, the vast majority of it for the benefit of local projects and people.

Vic Guernsey, one of the sponsors of the campaign to raise $7,500 to restore a complete sports program at the high school, reported this week that $2,410 had been collected.

The spanking new headquarters for the AFL-CIO local 213 went on public display Sunday and the new building in Marlette reflects the rapidly expanding union membership in the Thumb area.

The problem of old, inadequate bridges in Tuscola county was again the topic of conversation as the Board of Supervisors met Tuesday in Caro with members of the County Road Commission.

Magistrate John Bowles said this week that because of the crackdown on violators by law enforcement officials, tickets are pouring into District Court at a record rate.

TEN YEARS AGO

Currently short handed because of the illness of the editor, the Chronicle has employed a Detroit Free Press reporter, Stan Putnam, to assist with reporting Cass City news.

A Chronicle Poll Tuesday shows that the addition of 11,000 new feet of water mains to the Cass City water system has had no ill effects to the supply of water to city residents.

Gagetown property owners Monday will decide whether they want to foot the bill for an improved water system or keep the village seven blocks of wooden mains.

Tuscola County's New Era Democrats lost out in their bid to be seated at the State Convention Saturday in Lansing after it was ruled that their Sept. 14 convention was "illegal" by Democratic Chairman Zolton Ferency.

Rebuffed in his try for the nomination as Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, Allison Green, veteran State legislator from Kingston, will make a bold try for the office of secretary of State.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. Delbert Rawson and Louis Bishop were elected members of the board of directors of the Elkland Township Community Chest at a meeting of members Tuesday evening.

Cass City lost its first football game of the season to Marlette by a score of 20-19 at Marlette Friday night.

Cass City Methodists will celebrate the 80th anniversary of the founding of their church Sunday, Sept. 25, at morning and evening services.

A Cub Scout organizational meeting will be held at the library of the high school Wednesday.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, who addresses Cass City audiences each Christmas holiday season on the subject of peace, says his organization will work actively for the retention of the present arms embargo.

Rev. Wendling H. Hastings was formally installed as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Cass City Tuesday evening.

Moving a farm house by modern methods was exemplified when Amasa Anthes, building mover, transferred a residence from a farm 11 miles east of Cass City to a lot on North Oak Street in two days.

Michigan Mirror

J. McCabe for President?

You'd better believe it

When Gerald R. Ford moved into the White House Oval office, he was the first man ever from Michigan to become President of the United States.

John McCabe wants to be the second.

McCabe, a chunky-greying gentleman from the Jackson area, already has paid for some 22 billboards touting his candidacy. Extending from Toledo to the Upper Peninsula, the signs proclaim the errors of Watergate and the virtues of a free press. "A free press is the first line of defense for a free people," says one billboard near Lansing.

again briefly in 1964. He's a Democrat now, although the earlier forays were as a Republican.

McCabe says he believes a public servant should "have the guts to enforce the law or the guts to demand that the law be abolished."

"ONE-STOP SHOPPING"

"Everything under one roof." "One-stop service center."

Sounds like a discount store, doesn't it? But it's government service that's the topic here.

Gov. William Milliken asked lawmakers to release funds that would speed up implementation of government service centers outside Lansing. "We must accelerate the development of the 'one-stop' concept of providing government services outside of Lansing," Milliken says.

"The public will be better served and consolidation of state services will improve effectiveness by improving communications and efficiency among the agencies."

To understand the problem, one must hark back to a 1970 study which prompted Milliken to say such centers would be justified in Alpena, Benton Harbor, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Marquette, Pontiac, Saginaw and Traverse City.

Since then, new facilities have been acquired in Detroit, and the state is constructing an office building in Grand Rapids.

Now Milliken is asking the Legislature's Joint Capital Outlay Committee to approve funding for site studies for office facilities in four more of those cities: Flint, Jackson, Saginaw and Traverse City.

HOW ABOUT A CABLE CAR?

Clang, clang, clangety-clang, clang.

That's what a San Francisco cable car sounds like as it chugs up and sweeps down that city's roller-coaster hills.

Get ready for cold now

Right now is the time to plan for the cold months ahead. The leaves are already starting to change and Jack Frost will soon be painting frosty pictures.

Do you wonder how you're going to cope with winter heating costs this year. Combined with all the other increases you're threatened with, a rise in heating costs could be the last straw.

Some preventative action, right now, may save you a substantial amount come January. Often home heating costs more than it should because much of the heated air escapes into the great outdoors. And who can afford to heat Mother Nature.

A storm door that doesn't fit tightly, for instance, can cause your furnace to run three to four per cent more often than it would run if the door and storm doors fit snugly. Apply weatherstripping as needed to guarantee a tight fit.

Storm doors and windows can save 10 per cent of your fuel. If you can't afford to install regular storm windows, or rent a home without storm windows, you can make do with sheet plastic installed inside. Place behind curtains and attach to window trim with masking tape. These can be purchased for less than 50 cents per window.

Be sure window frames fit tightly. Caulk all cracks where warm air can escape and cold air rushes in. In a pinch cover cracks with freezer tape—it will stick to the coldest metal window frame—or stuff cracks with newspaper.

So get ready for the cold now and reduce heating bills later.

We have three summer seasons—saving, vacation, broke.

It's not the cable car-type transportation, but high-speed trains and other forms of rapid transit that probably will be the glamor stars in Michigan's public transportation future, says Jim Kellogg, deputy director of the Department of State Highways and Transportation.

And, says Kellogg, it's the familiar intercity buses that will play an important role in determining if these new methods of transportation are successful.

"As Michigan builds expanded transit systems serving high travel demands, we'll depend even more on intercity buses to inter-link with other transportation modes," Kellogg says.

He's looking for ways to encourage expansion of bus service in the state.

VERSATILE WHEELS

Cutting the number of wheels may increase efficiency—and save gasoline. That's the hope of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, which is issuing motorcycles instead of automobiles to 18 conservation officers.

"We expect these motorcycles to increase patrol mileage, offer additional versatility for on and off the road enforcement and act as a deterrent to off-the-road vehicle violations," says George M. Dahl, chief of the DNR law enforcement division.

The Department says the automobiles used now by the officers get about 8 miles per gallon. They expect about eight times that—70 miles per gallon—from the motorcycles.

AARP meets

Sept. 12

The regular meeting of the Cass City AARP was held Thursday, Sept. 12, with 50 members present.

Earl Harris narrated slides of his travels in the south seas.

Members are asked to bring articles for the Caro Medical Center Handicraft Program.

A workshop for all committee chairmen will be held at the American Legion Hall, 1701 W. Genesee St., Lapeer, Oct. 22, at 8 a.m.

The Oct. 10 meeting will be held at the fire hall, with Gertrude Falkenhagen, Gladys Fort and Verna McConnell in charge of arrangements.

Gen-Tel

service center

General Telephone discontinued some of the functions of its Cass City office Friday, Sept. 20, and began handling most customer service transactions by telephone through its Inlay City Service Center. Bob Kowalski, Division Manager for the Company, said this week. The company will continue to accept bill payments at the Seeger Street office as well as at other business locations within the area.

Jim Courtney, Customer Service Manager for the company, will remain active in the area.

Kowalski noted that, while many communities like the idea of having an active physical office for service companies such as General Telephone, use of those local offices has been steadily declining in recent years.

Billing questions, requests for telephone service and most other reasons why customers stop at business offices, can now be more easily and more efficiently handled by telephone, Kowalski said.

Beginning this week, business customers will dial 313-724-0595 for all telephone service questions, except repair service, and residence customers will dial 313-724-0521. Repair service for both residence and business customers can be reached by dialing 313-724-0581. There are no long distance charges associated with these calls.

Set Oct. 2

for Owen-Gage transfer hearing

Oct. 2 is the date set for yet another property transfer hearing from the Owendale-Gagetown School District to the Cass City District.

Tuscola Intermediate School District Supt. William Scott said two parcels are involved. One is a request from William Matt, who owns 160 acres in Section 19 of Elmwood township.

The second transfer, from the Unionville-Schewaga District to the Cass City District, is from Matt's brother, Fred, of Dickerson Road, involving 40 acres in section 24 of Columbia township.

Scott explained the transfer from Owen-Gage will require a hearing before a joint Huron-Tuscola Intermediate Board, while the USA transfer request will be handled solely by the Tuscola Board.

Scott indicated Fred Matt's transfer request is based partly on straightening out district boundary lines. The three districts join in that area.

The hearing will be held at Intermediate offices in Caro. Owen-Gage school officials are still awaiting the outcome of state hearings on a transfer request by property owners in the northern portion of the district, petitioning to transfer to the Laker district.

An earlier request by several property owners at the southern part of the Owen-Gage district to transfer to Cass City was denied at the state level.

Arraign 2 Vassar men Monday

Two Vassar men were arraigned in Tuscola County Circuit Court before presiding Judge Norman Baguley in connection with a larceny from a Vassar house Aug. 23.

Robert J. Searles, 24, and Charles Huizan, 17, both stood mute and pleas of innocent were entered in their behalf.

Edward DuRussell, 54, Caro, was sentenced for driving while under the influence of liquor (third offense) to 16-24 months in Jackson prison, with credit for one day served.

In the sentence, Judge Baguley recommended counseling and therapy for alcoholism for DuRussell.

The offense occurred in April.

plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for Oct. 21, and bail of $5,000 was reduced to $1,000 at the request of defense counsel.

Carlisle is charged with stealing a purse from the laundromat.

Edward DuRussell, 54, Caro, was sentenced for driving while under the influence of liquor (third offense) to 16-24 months in Jackson prison, with credit for one day served.

In the sentence, Judge Baguley recommended counseling and therapy for alcoholism for DuRussell.

Police nab juveniles in candy theft

Cass City Police apprehended four juveniles Monday in connection with the theft of $10.50 worth of candy taken from a concession stand in the park.

The candy, destined to be sold at football games, was discovered missing Monday morning. Investigation showed the candy was left unlocked.

Police reported four juveniles admitted involvement in the theft and a fifth said he knew about it, although he was not involved in the theft.

Police said restitution would be made and probably no charges would be pressed.

An auto reported stolen from a Cass City used car lot three weeks ago was discovered Thursday in a ditch northeast of Argyle in Sanilac county.

Police reported the vehicle had been stripped, and was discovered by Jerry Armstrong of Argyle around 7:30 a.m. Thursday. Reportedly the car had been stripped of tires, transmission, radiator and battery.

Chief Gene Wilson said it was not clear whether or not the auto was covered by insurance. Reportedly the car, stolen from the Ouyry Chevrolet-Olds lot, was being sold for Barbara Subezal of Bad Axe.

Police have no suspects.

Eva Brodger of South Phillips Rd., Kingston, reported to Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies that someone shot her St. Bernard dog sometime Monday afternoon.

She said hunters were on the property at the time. The animal was reportedly slightly injured. No suspects were apprehended.

Two die in Friday crash

Caro Post reported Fisher was traveling south on Cedar Run Road when a deer ran in front of the car.

Fisher said he swerved to avoid striking the animal and lost control of the vehicle, running off the west side of the road.

He was treated for minor injuries at Caro Community Hospital.

At 5:45 a.m., a car driven by Harvey Wedge, 56, of Snover, collided with a deer on Deckerville Road at Dodge Road.

State Police reported Wedge was westbound on Deckerville Road when a deer entered the roadway from the north and struck his auto. Wedge was not injured.

Sunday, extensive damage was reported to a car driven by Robert Edward David, 28, of 3336 Washington St., Kingston, when it struck a deer on M-46 a half-mile west of Cat Lake Road.

State Police reported David was not injured. The mishap took place at 9:05 p.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 18, cars driven by Eva Mae Knoblet, 46, of 5291 E. Kelly Rd., and Douglas Schember, 17, of 2536 Huron Line Rd., Uby, collided at the intersection of Garfield and Seeger Street.

Cass City Police reported the Knoblet vehicle had stopped for the intersection while headed east on Garfield. She told police she started to turn south onto Seeger when her vehicle was struck from behind by the Schember auto.

Schember told police he thought the Knoblet vehicle had completed its turn. He was ticketed for failing to signal or observe same. The mishap took place at 4 p.m.

Richard Lowe, 18, of Cass City, suffered minor injuries Thursday when a motorcycle he was riding collided with a tractor in a gravel pit south of River Road.

Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson said Lowe was riding his cycle up a hill and struck the tractor at the crest. He was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital where he was treated and released.

The accident occurred at noon.

remaining funds. So far, the road commission has hired 11 workers and has plans to hire eight more.

Under provisions of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act, persons hired with these funds must be absorbed into the department permanently.

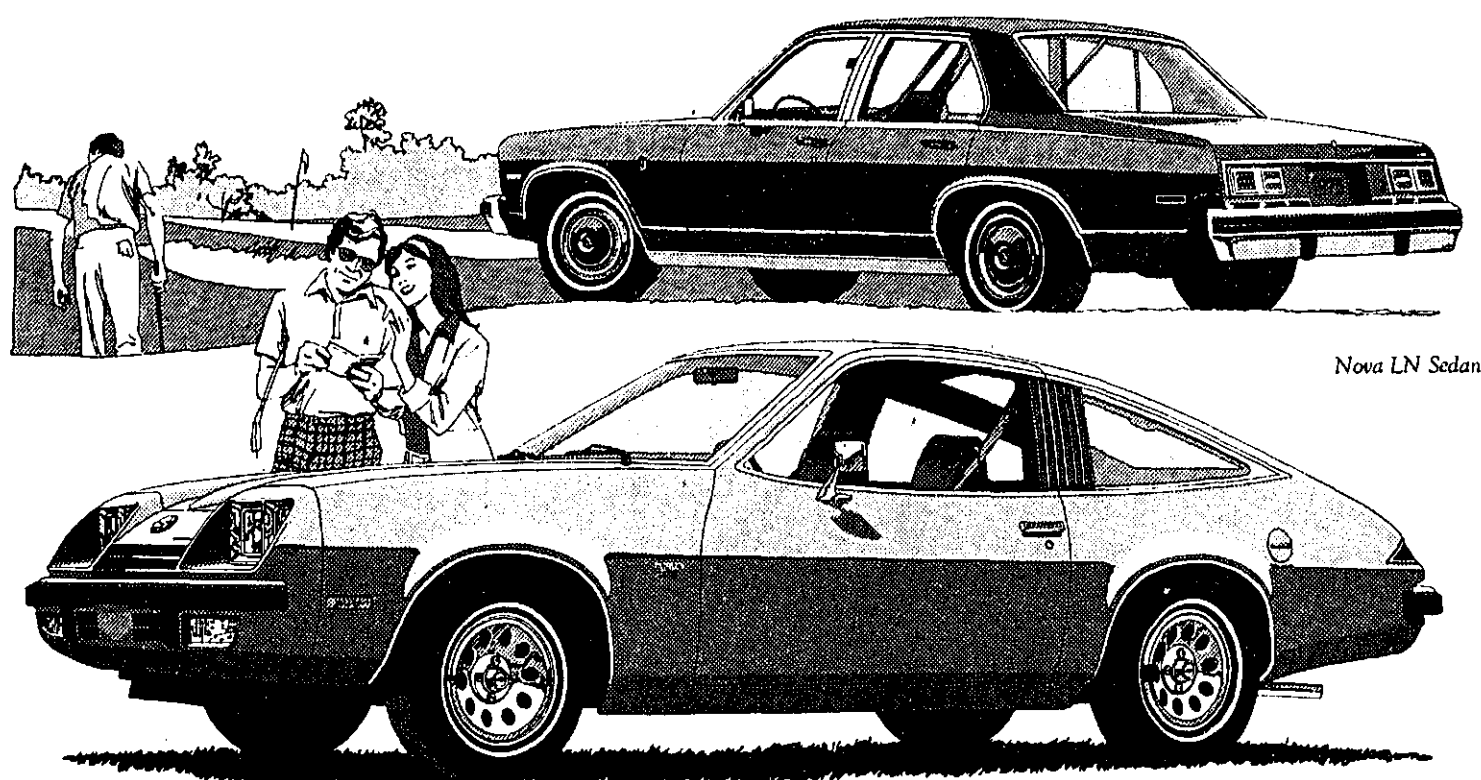

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board discussed placing county employees under the state's unemployment compensation act. Under state law, the board must comply by Jan. 1.

Cost is expected to run 1.25 per cent of the payroll, which totaled $692,000 in 1973.

The board also approved the idea of a three-county manpower consortium and voted to send appropriate notification to state authorities.

CHEVROLET'S NEW EFFICIENCY SYSTEM FOR 1975

It's the key part of a program aimed at helping our new cars run leaner (more economically), run cleaner—and save you money every mile.

The Efficiency System is standard on all 1975 Chevrolets with V8 or 6-cylinder engines. It's a series of significant engineering improvements working together for the very first time.

Components include High Energy Ignition, catalytic converter, Early Fuel Evaporation and steel-belted radial ply tires. In sum, the System is designed to heighten the pleasure and lower the cost of driving a 1975 Chevrolet—to bring you a better running car in many ways, along with improved fuel economy, more miles between recommended maintenance and an engine that stays cleaner internally because of no-lead fuel.

Your Chevrolet dealer will gladly give you the details and answer your questions. See him and the sensible 1975 Chevrolets starting September 27.

MEG BROWN, center, is the State President of the American Association of University Women. She was in Cass City Tuesday to help the Cass City Branch celebrate its 10th anniversary. Chatting with her are, Mrs. Geraldine Priesskorn, left, and Mrs. Marilou Drews.

AAUW reviews first 10 years at banquet

Members of the Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women commemorated 10 years in the community Tuesday night at a banquet held in the library at Cass City High School.

Meg Brown, state president, made a short presentation to members asking, "Where Are We Going?"

Mrs. Helen Baker handled the invocation and Mrs. Geraldine Priesskorn, club president, welcomed the group and the guests.

Mrs. Lucy Auten recalled the first 10 years of work by the group. During its years here the AAUW has assisted in Arttrain and promoted a lecture series.

Art exhibits and programs have been high on its list of achievements. Each year the branch raises money for the Fellowships Fund with a book sale and has raised $1,353.76 for the project.

The women sponsor a Girl Scout troop and helps with the tutoring program in the grade school.

Special professional children's programs at the school have been arranged each spring, one of the many activities concerned with education that members are involved in.

Special study groups are open to all women and last year the Branch was able, for the first time, to bring a renowned author, James Tipton, for a week's lecture to high school classes.

The women have instigated an award for the outstanding

Senior girl athlete-student at Cass City High School.

In addition to school related projects, the women have conducted a voter registration drive, sponsored a Halloween carnival at the Cultural Center, participated in community projects and, of course, provides monthly programs for members and guests.

During its 10 years the club has had six presidents. They include: Marilou Drews, Helen Baker, Corky Parrott, Esther Kinn, Ann McDaniel and Geraldine Priesskorn.

Membership has remained about constant. There were 30 charter members and today membership is around 35. The Branch was chartered Sept. 23, 1964.

Enjoy autumn in canoe

Canoeing down Michigan's first highways—its rivers and streams—offers fall color tourists spectacular views of rugged wilderness scenery unavailable to car travelers, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Canoeists can enjoy Michigan's brilliant autumn leaves in a setting that can seem remote even in the most urbanized areas," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager. He added that most canoe routes can be handled by the first-time canoeist, who usually can obtain free instruction from liveries.

The accompanying Auto Club map pinpoints 75 canoe routes in the Upper and Lower Peninsulas that cover a total of more than 3,340 miles. Listings detail the maximum distance and travel time, the terrain, fishing prospects and locations of canoe liveries for each route.

Since most liveries offer pick-up service, canoeists can follow Auto Club's routes for just a few hours or for their entire lengths. Renting a standard-size, three-seater canoe generally costs $6 to $10 for the first day and $5 to $7 for subsequent days.

"If planning a camping trip, canoeists should remember to keep equipment at a minimum and, especially if inexperienced, put their items in plastic bags," Ratke said. "Standard camping equipment—a ground tent, sleeping bags, utensils and a portable stove—are suitable for canoe trips."

Auto Club recommends that all canoeists have at least one canoe out under their belts before trying an overnight venture.

As result of a State Department of Natural Resources program, most of Michigan's major canoe routes have signs showing camping, picnic and toilet facilities. In addition, liveries usually provide customers with well-marked route maps.

For detailed information on the location of liveries along Auto Club's designated canoe routes, Ratke suggested that fall color tourists contact local chambers of commerce.

"Although most liveries do not require advance deposits for canoes in the fall, persons planning week-end trips should check with liveries two to three days in advance to determine upcoming weather conditions," the Auto Club official said. "If good week-end weather is predicted, canoeists definitely should get their names on a reservation list."

Michigan's fall color season, signaled by the crimson leaves of the sumac, offers tourists outstanding views of more than 85 species of hard and softwood trees.

Cass City plays host to 12 Rotary exchange students

Cass City took on the appearances of a mini-United Nations last week end when it played host to 12 Rotary exchange students involved in the organization's Central States Youth Exchange Program.

The students came as part of a "get acquainted" visit and journeyed from Alma, Oscoda, Caro, Clare, Frankenthum, Gladwin, Harbor Beach and Owosso, as well as Cass City.

According to Rotary Student Exchange officer Tom Proctor, the visit's purpose was two-fold.

"The first purpose was to help the students get acquainted with each other," he explained. "The second was to have the officers of the district involved in the exchange program become better acquainted with it."

Activity began Friday night when they attended the Cass City-Vassar football game.

Both squads utilized Swedish exchange students as kickers.

Saturday, the students participated in an hour-long session on Michigan history conducted by retired Cass City High School instructor Dave Ackerman at his home.

The afternoon was spent at the park in lively games of soccer, tennis and basketball. That night, they attended a party at the Rod Krueger home.

Sunday, the students took part in a special program at Trinity United Methodist Church at which each spoke. They were feted with a dinner at 4 p.m., prepared by Rotary Anns.

Earlier, they attended a breakfast at Cass City Gun Club.

The group also received a visit by Dr. Ernest Britton, Rotary District Governor.

Plans call for the students to participate in a color tour of the upper peninsula in two weeks.

This is the second year for the visits, Proctor said. Last year, district authorities conducted interviews for out-bound students as well as entertaining visitors.

This year, interviews will be conducted later.

Proctor said this year, there are 24 exchange students in Cass City's Rotary district. He indicated that interest is growing among both parents and students in the exchange program.

"We conducted an assembly for freshmen and sophomore high school students on the exchange recently," Proctor said. "There must have been 30 or 40 who stayed afterward to get more information on the program. So I think it's growing. I'm very happy to be a part of it."

He said sponsoring Rotary clubs who send students incur no costs in the program. They do support students as a host club, however.

While these types of visits are not new to Rotary, Proctor said the idea is new to the Cass City area.

Students participating in week-end activities included Elvia Pozzi of Brazil and Jan Grenholm of Sweden, both staying in the Cass City area.

Others included Peter Draborg of Denmark, Gari Faustino of the Philippines, Craig McConaghy of Australia, Adeliana Mattos of Brazil, Heather Ross, Leeanne Horne of Australia, Jano Donezlini, Vasco Guimaraes of Brazil, Ama Luisa Gomez of Mexico and Junko Oono of Japan.

Burn center saves lives

Deaths of several burned children--and the recovery of one badly burned seven-year-old--mark the beginning of the story of the University of Michigan Burn Center and the National Institute for Burn Medicine.

As a resident at University Hospital in the late 1950's, Dr. Irving Feller concluded at least some of the youngsters dying after being burned could have been saved. They should be treated for infection as well as burn wounds, he theorized.

The young Feller finally won permission from the senior surgical staff to direct care of a child burned over 70 per cent of her body. The girl lived.

Then Feller battled for and won approval to set up a small burn unit in the University Hospital general surgery ward.

At that time, in 1960, the unit was the first in the state and one of only four or five in the entire country.

That unit grew into the now nationally known Burn Center, and Feller is its doctor.

Down the street today, however, is a much less well-known place--the National Institute for Burn Medicine (NIBM), organized by Feller in 1968. Its goal is two-fold: help improve burn patient care and prevent burn accidents.

"Each year more than 12,000 people die as a result of burns," says a recent NIBM bulletin. "The great tragedy is that, with adequate care, half of those who die could be saved."

"More than 6,000 people die in hospitals from complications. Half of these are children," the bulletin continues. "Many of these deaths are due to inadequate care."

Seeking to cut those tragic statistics, the NIBM wants to: --Establish a national "center of excellence" for burn patient care.

--Train 750 present surgeons and as many nurses in burn care.

--Establish 160 burn units and 600 burn programs throughout the United States.

--Expand its research and public education efforts. "We know most of the answers to the burn treatment problem and, with adequate funds, we can resolve the problem within the next ten years," Dr. Feller has been quoted as saying.

Therein lies another chapter in the story of the NIBM. It's money that's needed. And, this month--designated as "Burn Prevention-Burn Treatment Month" by the Michigan Legislature--the Institute is trying to raise some $400,000 in public contributions.

The Michigan Jaycees and Michigan members of the International Association of Fire Fighters will be working toward that goal, with the help of a 16-minute film, "A Fighting Chance," narrated by actor George C. Scott. He serves on the Institute Board of Directors.

Anyone who wishes to make a tax-deductible contribution can send a check to the Institute of Burn Medicine, Box 23, Ann Arbor, MI. 48107.

AARON LEFLER, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lefler of rural Cass City, shows how to land the big ones as he hauled in this 32-inch, seven-pound pike from the south branch of the Cass River Sunday. A minnow reportedly did the trick.

Once it was called... Courting

Amy and George are going together.

Don't ask George if he's courting Amy. He wouldn't know what you're talking about. Nobody courts any more. They go together.

And there are significant differences. A couple of kids going together do not necessarily have marriage as their objective. They just may have found that afternoons like this one are more delightful when you're with someone you like.

The vital prerequisite for going together is to have a sense of values, a set of standards, that will help you make and keep this a wholesome relationship. Religious education, the moral and spiritual principles fostered by our churches—these are the keys to meaningful relationships throughout life.

Girl's athletics are important

September 18, 1974

The Cass City Chronicle
6550 Main Street
Cass City, Mich. 48726

Dear Mr. Haire,

As a concerned citizen of the Cass City community I have watched with interest the growth of girls' athletics in the Cass City schools, an accomplishment for which the community and school officials as well as the athletes themselves are to be congratulated. It was with this concern that I read the September 12 Chronicle article entitled, "More coaches due for girls."

It is unfortunate that the main emphasis of the article was placed upon the increased expenditure necessary to hire such personnel instead of the increased educational opportunity thus afforded to area students. It could be noted that the amount of money required to add two coaches to the girls' athletic program will no doubt be an amount significantly less than the average raise taken by the non-teaching personnel this year alone. In addition, the article contains several misleading or incorrect statements in need of clarification.

The report that "volleyball drew about 25 (players) last year" is misleading in that closer to 40 athletes went out for the combined varsity and junior varsity teams last year. The article then stated that "Both sports play a junior varsity schedule." This is also misleading to a public not as yet familiar with the girls' athletic program. In fact, both sports play a full schedule of varsity as well as junior varsity games.

The article further stated that "... the teachers' union (requests) that girls' coaches receive the same amount as coaches of boys' sports." With negotiations between the union and the administration still under way, I question both the validity and the source of such information. To my knowledge, no such statement has been officially issued by either bargaining team.

Furthermore, I find it difficult to believe that any such position would be taken by the teachers' union. I would assume it to be more likely that the teachers' union would request only an equalization of coaches' pay, not an equal dollar amount as the article infers. Such a step would seem proper in order to assure that our coaches are paid in accordance with Michigan law requiring equal pay for equal work. A critical reading of last year's pay scale for coaches shows at least the spirit of the law, if not its letter, to be violated. The concluding statements of the aforementioned article are a case in point.

While your comparison examples of last year's wide differences in coaches' pay are instructive, they are also wholly misleading. The article states that the "... girls' (basketball) coaches received $400 while the boys' coach was paid $925." It should be noted that the word "coaches" is incorrect since there was only one girls' coach. The $400 figure paid to this girls' coach was for the coaching of both the varsity and junior varsity teams, while the $925 paid the boys' coach covered only the varsity coach. In addition to the $925, the junior varsity boys' coach received $600 and the freshman team's coach was paid $25. Therefore, the total amount paid for the coaching of boys' basketball in '73-'74 was $2,050, while the corresponding amount paid for the coaching of girls' basketball was only $400.

A similar illustration can be made with regard to the article's statements on the pay of the baseball and softball coaches. The article makes the mistake of incorrectly reporting the amount paid the boys' baseball coach last season. The article reported $450 when the actual figure was $650. Since coaches' pay is a matter of public record, it should not be misstated by the press.

In the '73-'74 school year, the varsity baseball coach received $650 and the junior varsity baseball coach received $450, a total of $1,100. As the article noted, the softball coach received only $300, but failed to mention that the $300 figure covered the coaching of both varsity and junior varsity squads. (The article mentioned that there is no junior varsity softball schedule but failed to include the fact that there is a junior varsity softball team, requiring an additional amount of coaching time and effort.)

I emphasize that I am well aware of the school administration's effort to provide a fair and equal girls' program, as required by law, however slow they may be in coming. I applaud both the school board's creation of these two junior varsity positions in girls' athletics and The Chronicle's effort to make this information public. I am also pleased by The Chronicle's past concern for girls' athletics. However, with public opinion being an all important consideration in the allocation of public funds, it is imperative that readers receive a complete and accurate reporting of the use of such funds.

Thank you for taking the time to consider this letter and for being sure that an objective viewpoint is taken in future reporting of what is certainly an important issue to the direct participants and, most importantly, the area taxpayers.

Sincerely,

Michael Joseph Murphy

Pakonen switches line-up for Laker tilt Friday

Look for some changes when the Red Hawks take the field Friday at Laker High following last week's disappointing loss to Vassar, 33-0.

Coach Roland Pakonen will make some changes in his offensive line to try and come up with some blocking that was almost non-existent against the tough Vulcans in the first home game of the season.

Moving into the tackle slots are two players who were used only on defense. They are Ron O'Dell, a Sophomore, and Al Kuenzli, a Junior.

Wayne Brooks, a Junior, will be shifted to end from fullback. Russ Schweikart, a Senior, will fill the fullback spot.

The new line-up will be tested by a team that, like Cass City, has yet to win a game. The tilt should go a long way toward answering the question of whether the Hawks are as weak as they appeared against Vassar or whether the Vulcans just have one good football team.

Certainly the visitors were impressive last week. The defensive line, big and mobile, consistently outchased the Hawk forward wall and controlled the game.

Meanwhile the Vassar offensive line was opening huge holes for their backs.

The Vulcans received and started a march down the field, only to see it stopped by a fumble on the 18. But the break was short lived. On the second play from scrimmage Cass City fumbled and Mike Wade recovered in the air and rammed untouched into the end zone.

Jim Baranski, a pile driving runner all evening for Vassar, accounted for the next two Vassar scores.

A break set up the next marker for Vassar. A Cass City pass bounced off the hands of the receiver and was gobbled up by the Vulcan secondary deep in Hawk territory. Baranski scored from two yards out.

When Baranski capped another Vassar drive in the second period with a three-yard run to paydirt, the only question that remained was how high the final score was going to be.

The winners scored again in the third period as Kirk Lee dashed around his own left end, shook off a couple of Hawk tacklers and outran the rest to go 60 yards for a marker.

The final score was chalked up by Tom Wade as he capped a Vassar march with a one-yard dive over the last chalk mark.

Carl Morath kicked three extra points.

Cass City's defense yielded plenty of yardage and points Friday... but in behalf of the defense it should be noted that the Hawk offense wasn't able to control the ball at any point in the game and the defense was on the field much of the time and often was defending in poor field position.

Cass City's defense was led by Guy Howard with 11 solo tackles and two assists while Schweikart was credited with 9 individual tackles and three assists.

ED STOUTENBURG (number 22) whipped around end for short yardage on this play. It was one of the few times that the Hawks were able to make significant gains against the tough Vassar line.

Evergreen preps for zone appeal

The stage is set for a decision in Evergreen township's controversial recreational development case.

A decision could come at a special meeting of the township's Zoning Board of Appeals set for Saturday night at the town hall in Shabbona, beginning at 8 p.m.

Knoblet

returns for

1974 season

Among 31 letter men returning to football action at Albion College this year is junior defensive end Tim Knoblet of Cass City.

A total of 105 players reported for the squad this year, coached by Frank Joranko.

Knoblet's outstanding high school career was capped following the 1971 season when he received the Paul Smarks Trophy for athletic excellence.

The parcel, bordered by Deckerville and Leslie Roads, would be turned into a year-round facility featuring trailer sites, horseback riding, swimming, fishing and a playground for children.

Murray had originally requested a change in zoning on the property from agricultural to commercial. At an informational meeting held Aug. 30, township attorney Dale Cubitt stated Evergreen's zoning ordinance forbade such a change.

He ruled that only a special use permit would apply.

Should the board rule against Murray, Cubitt said Thursday, essentially the issue would be settled. Murray would have the option, however, of taking his case into Sanilac County Circuit Court and challenge either the ruling or the ordinance itself.

He added he has urged the board to decide on the request at the meeting.

Appeals board members include Dean Smith, Ted Morgan and Richard Mika. All interested township residents have been invited to attend.

DOUBLE LUCK came Ken White's way late Thursday night when he hooked these two giant Chinook salmon just off Oscoda. White, of 4237 Doerr Rd., said the salmon on the left weighed in at 28 lbs. and took an hour and a half to land. The other, an 18-pounder, took about 20 minutes. White said he hooked them in 75 feet of water.

DNR offers free map of pheasant areas

Hunters participating in this year's put-take pheasant season are being encouraged to use free area maps supplied by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. "Special orange-colored put-take signs mark the boundaries of the 17 areas," says Vic Janson, DNR southern game bird specialist. "Parking lots have been increased and improved on many of the areas. Maps show most of the parking lot locations.

"We are also asking hunters to use the lots whenever possible and to avoid littering," Janson explains. "Free maps are available on individual areas from the DNR's Wildlife Division in Lansing or from district offices throughout the state.

"If hunters don't recognize their responsibility to be good sportsmen, some of these areas may be lost because of local complaints," Janson continued.

The hunting season for all 17 areas runs from Sept. 18 to Nov. 14, and Dec. 1 to Jan. 5, 1975. Hunting hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. local time. All that is required to hunt on the land is a 1974 small game or sportsman's license. No permit is required this year.

Hunting is allowed seven days per week at all areas except Wetzel State Park and Gregory State Game Area where local regulations prohibit Sunday hunting.

Other areas in the put-take pheasant hunting program are Barry, Dansville, Deford, Flat River, Gratiot-Saginaw, Lapeer, Portland, Rogue River, Sharonville and Three Rivers State Game Areas; Ionia State Recreation Area and Sleepy Hollow State Park.

To hold down the typical week-end rush, two releases are planned for each week on unannounced dates. More uniform hunting pressure and success should result from these two weekly releases.

Further information on the put-take season is available from local DNR conservation officers or district offices.
