Area township tax revenue to jump 10-23 per cent for 1975

While area townships will be contributing from 10-23 per cent more to the county in taxes next year, individual property owners won't necessarily find their tax bills that much higher.

That's the word, according to the completed tax allocation report prepared by the Equalization Department and presented to County Commissioners Tuesday.

The new year's property tax for the county totals $8,242,522.43, compared with the current year's total of $7,223,985.63, a 14 per cent jump.

Elkland township will be asked to come up with an extra 13 per cent over last year, or $547,216.05. This compares with $483,557.27 last year.

The story is about the same in other neighboring townships as well. Kingston township will bear more of the increase, a 23 per cent jump. The township's tax bill will total $214,896.82, compared with $174,692.89 this year.

Ellington township also shows a 20 per cent jump, or $129,939.95, compared with $107,116.13 this year.

Elmwood township can expect about a 10 per cent jump in taxes, from $228,703.67 this year to $251,911.34 next year.

Novesta township, who bore a 23 per cent jump last year, got by with a 19 per cent boost for the new year. Their tax bill totals $124,480.82, compared with $121,031.17.

Valuations, on which taxes are based, also showed significant increases.

While total taxes collected will rise, individual taxpayers may not necessarily find their bills raised by the same figure.

Equalization director Mac B. O'Dell explained total

Schneeberger's garden? Peanuts!

Someone told Russ Schneeberger you couldn't grow peanuts in Michigan. He proceeded to raise a half-bushel in the garden next to his Schwegler Road residence just to prove someone wrong.

Schneeberger, with the help of his four-year-old son, Rusty, put their green thumbs together to raise probably the first and only peanut crop in the Cass City area this year.

"Somebody told me one time that you couldn't grow peanuts in Michigan," Schneeberger recalled, holding the results in his hand. "I didn't believe it, so we sent away through a seed catalog to try it."

Father and son planted their peanut seed around Memorial Day and let nature go to work. Last week, they dug up the results—a half-bushel's worth.

Schneeberger said peanuts are poisonous until they've been boiled in salt water and roasted. After that, he said, you can munch to your heart's content.

"We worked from morning till dark in the garden," Rusty said proudly, as he demonstrated his peanut-digging technique with a pitchfork in the black dirt of the garden.

The Schneebergers' success with growing the munchy goobers has already whetted their plans for next year.

"I learned a lot about raising them this year," he said. "Hilling them is the secret. Also, you've got to get them in just as soon as you can."

Schneeberger credited rich soil and an exceptionally good growing season for the success of his peanut venture.

Peanuts weren't all father and son raised this year. Rusty's sunflowers reached enormous proportions, with blossoms measuring from 48-58 inches around and stalks as big as tree trunks.

Their green thumbs also extended to sweet potatoes, grapes, gourds, tomatoes and white potatoes.

Schneeberger recalled that one mistake in planting turned out to be a blessing in disguise. Through a slight mix-up, the two managed to plant tomatoes on top of a row of potatoes. "The way it turned out, those were the best potatoes because they got shade."

Both father and son are already planning what to plant next year and where to plant it. And, chances are, they'll repeat their success.

Police chase nabs Elkton man

A high speed chase early Sunday morning, at speeds exceeding 100 miles an hour, resulted in the capture of a 28-year-old Elkton man who refused to stop for a routine traffic violation in Ubyly.

Daniel R. Baranski was charged with reckless driving after police from eight departments in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties, including Cass City, assisted Huron County Sheriff Richard V. Stokan in the capture around 3:00 a.m.

Sheriff Stokan told the Chronicle Tuesday the chase began in Ubyly when Police Chief Wilfred Reimann attempted to stop Baranski on a reckless driving charge.

Stokan said Baranski eluded Reimann near the Cumber and Bay City-Forestville Road intersection. He said Baranski then headed west on Bay City-Forestville Road where he was in constant pursuit.

Sheriff Stokan said he clocked Baranski at better than 100 miles an hour at one point.

At M-53, Stokan said, Baranski turned north to Huron Line Road and headed west to Moore Road.

At Moore Road, the Baranski auto turned north and ran a road block established by the sheriff's department at Tuscola county's 1975 proposed budget will top the $2 million mark for the first time in history, according to a tentative budget submitted to the County Board of Commissioners Tuesday during their regular meeting in Caro.

The board was scheduled to consider a proposed budget calling for income and expenditures totaling $2,042,279, for the calendar year 1975. This compares with an estimated 1974 total of $1,892,389, and represents an eight per cent increase over last year.

Commissioner Charles Woodcock, who served on the finance committee, said the budget does not include any wage increases. He said the proposals are based on the first three quarters of 1974 plus the last quarter of 1973.

Commissioners agreed much work still remains before the budget is finalized.

Woodcock emphasized that income figures for 1975 are based on an estimated 93 per cent tax collection, along with a state equalized valuation of $246,890,940 at a tax rate of 4.2 mills for county operation and one mill for bridge construction.

Woodcock said the finance committee pared $285,953 from departmental requests, which originally totaled $2,328,232.

Largest tentative increases are shown in the Thumb District Health Department and in social welfare.

The health department received its complete request for $75,000, compared with $60,000 last year, a 25 per cent increase.

The Tuscola Medical Care Facility stands to gain some $15,000, jumping from $122,088 to $138,088.

Another $12,000 increase in funding for the Department of Mental Health is also written into the proposed budget. If adopted, Mental Health would receive $32,000 compared with a projected $20,000 this year.

Another hefty increase is slated for the county share of retirement payments up to $49,000 from a projected $38,000 this year.

One department not slated for an appreciable increase is the Sheriff's Department. The finance committee approved $323,180 for the department, down from a requested $380,314.88 and down even more from a projected $397,800 expenditure this year.

Woodcock said Sheriff Hugh Marr had requested extra funding for more officers and additional equipment, particularly in the area of rehabilitation. Woodcock added that this just wasn't in the cards this year.

The commissioners themselves are budgeted at $64,000, compared with $54,113 for 1974, or about a 20 per cent increase.

Another large item is the special fund for county bridges, this year budgeted at $246,890, compared with a projected 1974 total of $218,600.

PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE

Once again, a large increase in the prosecuting attorney's budget was turned down by the finance committee. For 1975, Prosecutor George Holmes' office would receive $43,569, compared with $41,610 last year.

Holmes' office had requested $69,601 for 1975. Commissioner Woodcock said the request was turned down because the board considers the prosecutor's office a full-time job currently.

Holmes maintains he is only employed part-time. Woodcock said Comprehensive Employment Training Act funds would supply Holmes with a full-time assistant prosecutor.

Observers agree this issue is far from settled and could touch off more fireworks before a final version of the budget is approved.

"He (Holmes) is full-time now," Woodcock said. "You didn't see anything on the ballot that said he was running for a part-time office, did you?"

Other budget items include $61,237 for the County Clerk's office, compared with a projected $58,737 for 1974.

Modest increases are also expected in the county's share of employee social security payments, the animal shelter and the drain commission.

Decreases are shown in child care, dropping from a projected $55,000 in 1974 to $50,000 next year. Drains at large also show a considerable drop, from $98,382, to $80,178.

Increases in income are projected in all departments except the Sheriff's department, the probation and the county clerk's office.

Commissioners were scheduled to begin studying the budget Tuesday and were not expected to finalize figures until later in the week.

Three injured in Monday night accident

A Kingston man and woman were listed in fair condition Tuesday in Hills and Dales General Hospital after the truck in which they were riding went out of control and landed in a ditch on Bond Road just east of Phillips Road in Kingston township.

Harold Spencer, 16, of 3472 Pine St., Kingston, and his passenger, Deborah Ann Marquardt, 16, of White Creek Road, Kingston, were injured around 9:30 Monday night.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said Spencer was driving west on Bond Road when he lost control, crossed the road and hit a ditch.

They said the truck traveled some 250 feet before striking a driveway culvert, flipping over and landing right side up about 50 feet from the driveway.

A third passenger, Karen Brandibur, 15, of 3758 Shaw Rd., Kingston, was taken to Marlette Community Hospital. She was listed in satisfactory condition Tuesday.

CAR-DEER ACCIDENTS

Three car-deer accidents were reported last week. Thursday, a car driven by Michael James Walker, 19, of 148 Grant St., Caro, struck a deer while traveling west on Stevens Road just west of Phillips Road.

Sheriff's deputies said three deer apparently ran from the south side of the road into the path of Walker's car. Walker was not injured. The mishap took place at 10:00 a.m.

Saturday, a car driven by Clifford James Jordan, 33, of Deckerville, struck a deer while traveling east on Deckerville Road just west of Murray Road.

Sheriff's deputies reported a deer ran across the road in front of an oncoming vehicle and into the path of Jordan's car. He was not injured. The accident took place at 8:35 p.m.

Also Saturday, a car driven by Alan Lewis King, 18, of Clothier Road, Deford, struck a deer while he was traveling west on Stevens Road a quarter-mile east of Cemetery Road.

He told sheriff's deputies the animal ran from the south side of the road into the path of his vehicle before he had time to avoid a collision.

King was not injured. The accident occurred at 7:15 a.m.

FATALITIES

A 30-year-old Sebawaing woman became Tuscola county's 19th traffic fatality of 1974 early Wednesday morning when the car in which she was a passenger ran off M-25 near Coalmine Corners west of Unionville and rolled over.

Ursula Taylor was reportedly pinned in the wreckage, according to State Police from the Caro Post who investigated.

They reported the driver, Rick Kirgis, 23, of Grand Rapids, was taken to Caro Community Hospital with minor injuries.

The accident occurred near the Bay Park Drive intersection in Akron township, and occurred at 2:50 a.m.

Police are continuing to investigate.

Tuscola county recorded its 18th traffic fatality of 1974 Saturday morning when Brian Floyd Rase, 11, of Bay City was killed when the tractor on which he was a passenger rolled over on Oakley Road, about a half-mile west of Akron.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Caro Community Hospital.

Brian W. Pelton, 13, of Akron, driver of the tractor, was treated for cuts at Bay City Mercy Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said both boys were seated on the tractor, which was headed east at 10:35 a.m. They said the tractor overturned in a ditch, pinning the victim.

How to be entertaining

BY JIM FITZGERALD

"When he decided to give an international party in honor of his nation's birthday, the Shah of Iran dispatched agents across the world to buy a multi-million dollar collection of antiques to insure the comfort of his guests."

That's a quote from the society page of the Detroit Free Press. The article told how to entertain successfully. It was full of tips from "leading party-givers."

The Shah's party reminded me of my 40th birthday party. My wife dispatched an agent (me) to a local undertaker to borrow 6 folding chairs for the comfort of our guests.

Another tip: "Belgian-born actress Mireille Wilkinson often entertains her guests with an invitation to meet the family pets, followed by a game of croquet on the front lawn of her Grosse Pointe home."

That's not such hot stuff. I gave a party starring a frog. It had escaped from my son's jar and I chased it all over the house, trying to capture it with a saucepan. My plan was to slam the pan over the frog, thus jailing it to the floor. After dozens of abortive slams, a busted coffee table and a chipped sink, I finally pinned the frog to the carpet.

The next problem was to free the frog outside. Several guests said it should be killed, preferably flushed to death, but I insisted upon the humanitarian way. While loudly singing "Born Free," I slid the pan along the floor toward the door. Unfortunately, there were tri-level complications. It wasn't easy to keep that frog in captivity while going upstairs. The pan had to be handled with great dexterity. But I made it to the front lawn. The frog lived to croak again.

Our guests, considerably impressed, offered suitable toasts and crowned me with a pith helmet hastily converted from a lampshade. You didn't read about it on the Society Page, but that's how to entertain, man.

Another Free Press tip: "Mireille Wilkinson depends on complete advance planning to free her once the party gets underway. Her dinners are cooked well in advance and frozen until they are needed."

Big deal. My wife cooks once a year, on Thanksgiving. She wraps the left-overs in foil and stacks them in the freezer. This not only feeds guests, it also feeds the family. Of course, she also gets catering aid from Sara Lee, Swanson and Colonel Sanders. This wise planning gives her enough free time to mingle with the guests, monitor table manners, and run the world.

The Free Press recommends "dinners for groups that can be divided by eight for intimate seating."

We once had a party divisible by eight and the seating certainly was intimate — 8 people on every folding chair. We sat around and counted off. Every 8th person was required to sit on the bottom. These people were indelibly marked by the success of this party. The name of the undertaker was imprinted in reverse on their buttocks.

According to the Free Press, when Henry Ford II entertains, "his favorite guests call him Hank and he delights in leading the orchestra through 'When the Saints Come Marching In.'"

Me and Hank. That is also my favorite party song. I delight in playing a 33 rpm record of it at 45 rpm. If there are any saints around my house, I always say, they had better run, not march.

My favorite guests call me Stupid.

Kingston officially opens village hall

Kingston village officials formally marked the completion of their new village hall Friday and Saturday with an open house both days.

The 50 by 112-foot building, begun in October of 1971, has been literally a community project, according to village councilman Arlo Ruggles.

The shell for the combination village hall and fire department was constructed by William O'Dell of Cass City. From there, volunteer labor nights and week ends did the rest, he said.

To date, the village has spent a total of $34,000 on the structure, Ruggles said, with no outstanding debt.

"This includes carpeting, paneling, the works," Ruggles said proudly. "We have a hard time convincing people that there's only $34,000 in this."

Office areas include desks for the village clerk and treasurer, with storage space.

Another office in the building is rented out to Koylton township.

The building features a large meeting room across the hall, which includes a sink and cabinet space.

To the rear of the building sits the fire department garage which houses two pumpers, a water tanker and a jeep. This includes a new 1974 fire truck which the village purchased recently. Cost of the new truck is pegged at $38,000.

The office and meeting room areas are heated by natural gas, while the fire and maintenance departments are heated with oil.

Ruggles explained that a sinking fund for the project was begun in 1958. That's why it could be built without putting the village in debt, he said.

Ruggles said the same system was applied to village streets which recently received a much-needed blacktopping. He said total cost for this project reached $104,000. "The nice part is that they're paid for," Ruggles said.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The question I ask immediately when the president asks us to bite the bullet is, will the bite be equal for everyone?

And cynically I say, no, it won't be. When it's all over, I suspect, the same persons who bear the brunt now will do so again.

The very rich and the very poor will not pay. The poor, because they can't. The rich because they won't.

In the woods around the golf course at Gagetown there has been a flock of pheasants that were sighted at various times and heard more often than that.

The crowing roosters had all the hunters at the course making big plans for the opening of the season.

But alas! the best laid plans of mice and men.....with the season drawing near no one has seen or heard that flock for at least two weeks.

Sometimes it makes you glad not to be a hunter.

I just finished filling out a three-page form for the DNR telling about my boiler and the paper I burn in the barrel in the back. By the time I finish this yearly I'm about as hot as the barrels I burn the trash in.

What makes me seethe is not the time it takes, but the uselessness of the procedure. This is the third year that I've struggled with this nonsense and the horrible waste of money it represents.

If you see any of the town's firemen going around with a pleased grin these days it's probably because of the benefit show held Saturday night.

Mainly because of the efforts of the department's members the new burn center at Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital will be $1,000 richer.

That's the estimated profit from the show. Chief Dick Root says about 1,500 attended.

Holly Althaver is well-known here for her struggles to promote art for the community. Now her fame is spreading. It was through Holly, my spies tell me, that Sandusky was alerted to Artrain. Holly told about the train on a talk show over Sandusky radio and as a result Sandusky will be the last town and the last stop for the exhibit which is going out of production.

My spies also say that if you liked what you saw at Artrain here, visit the one at Sandusky which opens Dec. 9 .....it's an all new show.

Don't think for a minute because Artrain is through that Mrs. Althaver is finished. Far from it.

As the head of the Art Council in Cass City she's busy, busy, busy. The next feature will be a musical show Nov. 14 which will feature top artists in "Music for a Late Fall Evening".

It's an outreach program from the Midland Symphony and one of a caliber rarely seen here.

I'm not through talking about Holly yet.

Next week the Art Council will have a dancer in residency at the school.

You'll find the details elsewhere. What I want to tell you is what I told Holly. The visiting artist will work only with the girls.....nothing for the boys. There will be evening programs open to everyone.

I mentioned this discrimination, and Holly said that there just wasn't enough time to work with the boys, too.

Besides, she sparked, isn't it about time the girls were catching up just a little?

What could she have meant by that?

Sometimes I yearn for the good old days when the length of a haircut was always a sure fire column. Talking about hair length was 100 per cent dyed-in-the-wool sure to draw top reader interest.

Back then (about 1 1/2 years ago) you may not have been able to find too many willing to voice an opinion about Mr. Nixon, but, by gum, there were no middle-of-the-roads when it came to measuring haircuts.

Whatever you can say about haircuts you can also say about skirt lengths, slacks at school (especially tight ones) and any other slightly off-beat dress habits. But that's gone now. It would take a really far out costume to get more than a passing glance these days. No one cares that much. That doesn't leave the exhibitionist much to play with. There was a brief day when streaking replaced shoulder-length hair as the way to flit briefly into notoriety. But now that doesn't get more than a casual paragraph and perhaps a night in the pokey. No one cares that much.

The latest dodge is to wear nothing at all. That's big in California... but our coastal neighbors have always been front runners for the kooky set. They had topless waitresses out there several years before they came to Detroit.

But then, Detroit, the murder capital of the world, has its own claim to fame. The nude ones will tell you that there's nothing wrong with showing the body and list the places where it's done.

They have a point. But they miss the point, too. In a society where nude bathing and boy and girl communal toilets are the custom there's nothing wrong with it.

But sex is a state of mind and in this country men are turned on by bare breasts and we are not ready for nude exposure between the sexes. Not yet.

Still, no one really cares that much. The way it's going I'd guess that before long traditional standards here will not only be altered but obliterated.

This week, for instance, over national television a woman's breasts were shown. That was a break through.

Television talk shows are more bawdy, TV movie sex scenes more explicit, radio disc jockeys more free. Papers explore subjects and talk more about sex than ever before.

There's more cussing, more changing (lowering?) of the standards daily.

Sure you can make a case for some of it. Like when the breasts of the lady were shown. It was to show how to look for cancer of the breast... certainly a worthwhile endeavor.

But there's a sneaking suspicion that behind the "cause" was a cold decision by the network to cause a little comment, get a little talk going, boost ratings a trifle.

There's a sneaking hunch here that the same end could have been reached with a different approach.

The electronic media is controlled by the Federal Communications Commission and in theory can make stations conform.

In truth, they can only demand what the majority of the viewers want. So don't look for the trend to suddenly reverse. It won't. No one cares that much.

REP. LOREN ARMBRUSTER (R-Caro), congratulates Kingston Village Clerk Mildred Parrott during open house festivities at the new village hall Friday afternoon.

Board hears late bids

Better late than never. That was the philosophy adopted by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners at their regular meeting held Tuesday at the courthouse in Caro.

Bids were scheduled to be opened at 2 p.m. on over $100,000 worth of renovations on the courthouse. But, when 2 p.m. rolled around, no bids were in.

They arrived an hour late. A snafu in communications was blamed and the board quickly passed a resolution accepting the late bids. Low bidder was Hanson-

Snyder Construction Co. of Saginaw, with a combined bid of $120,800, or $14,270 over architect Hyde and Wolters' original estimate made in April.

Bids ranged to a high of $182,100 by John Green Construction of Saginaw.

Work to be done includes major renovations of the plumbing, electrical, ventilating and heating systems in the 40-year-old structure.

The bids were referred to the architect. Recommendations were scheduled to be returned to the board during the special session Wednesday.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

The Gottcha
queen strikes!

By Jim Ketchum

You remember Weird Penny, gotcha queen who forever makes life miserable for me? Well, she has replied. I found this in my mailbox one afternoon and, after removing it, I ducked just before the box exploded.

The following is her unwarranted attack upon yours truly:

Dear Mr. Knapsack:

Alright, alright. I give in. I will write your column for you, but for one week only. No amount of begging or groveling could induce me to lower myself to this level again. I do admit that you are an awfully busy little mite but anything that will please you and provoke you to turn your adorations elsewhere is worth the time and effort.

By the way, I have a bone to pick with you. It was not at all nice of you to tell me in front of our pastor, spouses, and friends and in the church, no less, that it would do your little heart good to see me fall down the stairs. Yes, I agree it'd be something to see, my delicate body all crushed and broken lying at the foot of the steps, my glasses shattered and you wailing aloud your grief. But really, did you have to chortle and caper around at the thought like a newly recruited cherub for Cupid's Armed Archers? I was really quite embarrassed and forced to make apologies all the way around.

And speaking of embarrassment, only recently have I overcome recurrent nightmares that forced me to relieve that evening in your living room.

Now, don't misunderstand, as you are so prone to do. I do realize that you were merely attempting to pump up your male ego by proving you could open that bottle. But after you'd struggled and strained and nearly hurt yourself in the process, it was pathetic to watch you shuffle off to the kitchen for the assistance of some pliers. Poor baby.

Well, it's only to be expected. After all, it is a fact of nature that the male ego is inherently fragile and it's not your fault that you were endowed with a double dose. You know, I'll bet that's why you have such a resentment for independent women or, if you insist upon using your term, "women's libbers". Ugh, vulgarity!

Such a defensive attitude you have toward women! Really, Mr. Knapsack, somewhere in your long and painful endeavors to become the man you hope to be, you should come to trust and comprehend the feminine psyche. I understand that one may become a bit weary of finding his prize barb dulled time after time by a woman even when the disarming process is not intentional. But trying to soothe a prizefighter who is bobbing and weaving around is very difficult without defending one's self in the process. Sooner or later the challenger knows the inevitable crushing blow will come, and the only satisfaction he will find is the sweet relief of knowing it is all over when he hears the familiar "Gottcha."

Yours most sincerely,

Weird Penny

This type of slander is only too common, coming from Penny. But, being the kind, considerate and gentle fellow I am, I will resist the temptation to reply in kind.

The advantage, of course, is that it is MY column. Top that, Penny.

Revenge has a way of dealing from the bottom of the deck.

Changes in Florida living don't upset veteran traveler Earl Harris

By Jim Ketchum

Florida isn't quite the same place it was back in 1940, when Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harris of Cass City made their first trip to the sunshine state. In those days, two-thirds of the trip was by gravel roads and it took a week to get there.

Once you arrived, generally you found unheated cottages with damp bedding. But now, according to Harris, that's all changed.

The Harrises began making plans for their 34th winter trip to Florida this week. The couple owns a mobile home near Tarpon Springs, where they've spent every one of the last five winters.

And they love it. "Thirty-four years have changed things," the 73-year-old retired insurance man said as he leaned back in a comfortable chair at his Main Street home. As the furnace clicked on to drive out the October chill, Harris recalled his first trip.

"That was back in 1940," he said. "I drove a new Packard down, and I pulled a trailer. In those days, there wasn't one-third of the way paved. Once you got off the main track, the roads were just gravel. We went through North Carolina on the way, I remember."

Harris said sheer wanderlust got him started on those annual trips to the sunny south.

"I really had no idea I would ever end up living there," Harris said. "When we went those first years, we drove all over the state. I'll bet we were on every road in Florida."

Those initial years saw the Harrises spend from two to five weeks every winter in Florida. Finally, they decided on Tarpon Springs.

"I enjoy fishing," Harris said. "That's one of the reasons we settled there. There's plenty to do, the climate's warm and we know a lot of people in the area."

Harris recalled in those earlier travels how he remedied damp cabin bedding. "Back then, cabins didn't have any heat in them," he said. "When they were left closed, they'd get damp and at night, pretty cold. So I bought an electric blanket and as soon as we got our cabin, I'd plug it in and throw it on the bed. By the time we got ready for bed, the linen would be nice and warm."

That's all changed now, Harris said. Modern motels and high rise hotels have replaced individual cabins in Florida. The building boom, which, according to Harris, got underway in the early 1960's, has left its mark.

SUBDIVISIONS

Harris said numerous subdivisions have sprouted up all over Florida. One development, located near his trailer court home, contains 2,500 houses and is larger than Cass City.

"Houses go up in a week," Harris said. "They build them on slabs and by the end of a week, the painters leave and the owners are waiting at the front door with a suitcase."

In their Tarpon Springs trailer park, Harris said 700 trailers stand occupied. Only two empty lots remain and neither is for sale, he added. "People are flocking there," he said. "Traffic is heavy. It seems like there's a shopping center every five miles or so."

In spite of this, Harris said he still enjoys Florida living during the winter. In fact, chances are he wouldn't want to live anywhere else for those six months.

ENJOYS FISHING

Even though fishing isn't quite as good as it was 34 years ago, Harris says it's still excellent. He prefers fishing speckled trout and grouper off Tarpon Springs. "It's an excellent location if you enjoy fishing as much as I do," Harris said.

One thing that hasn't changed drastically in over three decades of winters in Florida are prices, Harris said. Aside from real estate, which has doubled in price in five years, other prices are either comparable or slightly less, he said.

"We can eat out for less down there," he said. "Part of this is because labor is cheaper than it is here. Restaurant help practically have to live off their tips."

Why did the Harrises decide to spend winters in Florida? The climate had a lot to do with it, along with the fact that a colony of migrant Cass Cityans has sprung up in the Tarpon Springs area.

"Down here, we're all in the same boat," Harris said. "We don't have little kids running around. We're here mostly to have a good time. Everybody's retired so it's easy to find somebody to go someplace with. Actually, we see more of our neighbors down there than we do when we're all up here."

Harris said he and many other Cass Cityans who winter in Tarpon Springs have chosen mobile homes over houses. Generally, they find mobile homes have less upkeep.

"I wouldn't consider a house down here," Harris said. "With a mobile home, everything is complete. It's set off the ground so the air circulates underneath. There isn't even any dust on the furniture when we come back after six months."

In Harris's view, Florida's development has generally been for the good. While it has brought a lot of people into the state, Harris still enjoys his adopted state. He and his wife usually leave around Oct. 15 and return around May 1.

The Harrises plan to continue spending summers in Michigan, however.

"The summers and falls are ideal here," he observed. "We'll keep going back and forth as long as we can."

MR. AND MRS. Earl Harris are shown planning another winter excursion to Florida. The Harrises have traveled to the sunshine state each winter since 1940.

Buehrly farm designated by state

A farm owned by Lawrence and Ethel Buehrly, Route No. 2, Cass City, has been designated as a Centennial Farm by the Division of Michigan History.

The farm, located in Elkland township, Tuscola county, has been in the possession of the family since 1873. It was originally purchased Oct. 8, 1873 by John Frederick Buerk, grandfather of the present owner, from John Striffler.

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, whose Department administers the Centennial Farm program, said the program was inaugurated in 1948. Since then, more than 3000 Michigan farms have been certified as Centennial Farms.

Certificates are provided by the Division of Michigan History. Large metal markers are provided by the Detroit Edison and Consumers Power Companies.

In last week's edition, Judy Kowal of Cass City was mistakenly identified as Joanne Buhl of Deckerville at the Arts Council Workshop. We regret the error.

AGENT'S CORNER

Hold Pre-School program Oct. 2

Allene Mills - Extension Agent

Pre-school parents, teachers, workers and other pre-school oriented persons met to see the film "What A Child Is", and shared activities that parents or workers can use with pre-schoolers. This took place Oct. 2, at the Cedarcrest Day Care Center at the Caro Nazarene Church located on the corners of Dixon and Purdy Roads.

The film "What A Child Is" raised the question of "What Is Attention Span?" - Is this based on activities planned for the pre-schooler or activities that the pre-school plans? Each child needs love, security, trust and experimentation.

Ann Kuchmel, Pre-school Therapist, shared her program and its availability to pre-schoolers.

Many great ideas were shared during the "swap-shop" session. Nancy Moeller and Larry Blight from Cedarcrest Day Center shared a snack. Equipment needed are marshmallows, toothpicks, water and jell-o. Place the marshmallow onto the toothpick, then dip in water and roll in jell-o. Not only do you have a snack but this is a great way to teach colors. If a person is working with several pre-schoolers in a group situation, Karen Mahan, Caro Pre-School Center, explained the importance of each child having an individualized name tag.

Own color and own shape would teach the child to identify his or her own name. On the opposite side of the name, additional information should include parents name, address, home and work telephone numbers. This name tag then can be worn by the child for identification and needed information.

Finger painting can be fun, especially with instant pudding mixes, said Ruth Davis of the Vassar Pre-School Nursery. Choose your own color and mix in a shaker, then finger paint on a non-breakable platter. If you want, this can be used on paper and allowed to dry. This is a great method to use to teach change in forms, use of hands, and basic nutrition.

Winter days make it difficult to have a sandbox but Beverly Chapin from Jack & Jill of Millington solves this problem by using oatmeal. One large box of oatmeal stored in a peanut butter can with the child's name on the lid can be stored in the toy box. The oatmeal can be poured on the table and use small toys for lots of fun.

Importance of the father's involvement in the pre-schooler's life was stressed by Colleen Stafford, Cass City Pre-School-nursery. Fathers as well as mothers should be sincerely involved in their pre-schoolers' activities.

This program was sponsored by Cooperation Extension Service and Pre-School Facilities in Tuscola county.

Your neighbor says

I'd serve if I could

Have you ever been summoned for jury duty? How would you react if you were?

Mrs. Eugene Hofstedt of 6764 Main St. says she wouldn't mind if she were found eligible.

"This is the duty of citizens," she says. "It's nothing to be taken lightly. I feel if it is, then justice will suffer."

She says she sees situations where extended jury duty would place a hardship on a juror and his or her family. But she also believes placing a mandatory limit on time of service would be detrimental.

Mrs. Hofstedt is legally a Canadian citizen. She said she never was called to serve on a jury in Canada.

She is a native of Vancouver, B.C., and has resided in Cass City with her husband and four children the past three years.

Students view

waterfowl

The sixth grade students at Caro Community Schools increased their knowledge of the Fish Point Wildlife Area near Unionville when they went on a special field trip Sept. 26.

This field trip is part of a 4-H Wildlife Program being introduced in the sixth grade classes, reports Bernard Jar-dot, Extension 4-H Youth Agent. Our major point of interest on this trip was waterfowl.

This special program at Caro has been developed in cooperation between the Cooperative Extension Service and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The specialists involved from the DNR were Bud Jarvis, Tom Bower, and Donald Schafer.

The tour included stops at the Hunter Check Station, a view of the shorecrop program, viewing waterfowl and viewing the Saginaw Bay area. All involved in this special project felt that the young people enjoyed their tour and that they found it both entertaining, as well as informative.

MABEL BRIAN was this year's recipient of Cass City Business and Professional Women's "Woman of the Year" award Wednesday night, Oct. 2. Shown in award ceremonies are (from the left) Verna May MacRae, program chairman; Mardell Ware, chairman of the award committee; Ms. Brian, and club President Martha Putnam.

BPW honors Mabel Brian

Mabel Brian was named "Woman of the Year" by Cass City Business and Professional Women during their regular meeting held Wednesday, Oct. 2, at Veronica's Restaurant.

She was presented with an engraved silver platter by Chapter President Martha Putnam.

Ms. Brian's business career dates back to the early days of the century when she worked at the Frutchey Bank at Deford. She recalled she took the train each day between Cass City and Deford.

She retired earlier this year from the Ben Franklin Store after over 20 years.

Guest at the meeting was Kris Ridenour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ridenour, who spoke on her year as an exchange student in New Zealand.

Two new members were added to the roster. They are Helen Gettel, a teacher at Owen-Gage schools, and Carolyn Benscoter, tri-county coordinator for the Regional Diagnostic Center in Caro.

Other guests at the meeting included Florence Ridenour, Ronda Riessen and Elva Pitcher.

A public hearing on what may prove one of the most wide-reaching acts dealing with farmland use is scheduled for Cass City High School Thursday, Oct. 17, from 7-10 p.m.

Called the "Farmland and Open Space" act, the legislation is designed to give farmers a tax break on their land, provided they do not change its use over a 10-year period.

The public hearing, set for the speech room, is being held to give interested persons an opportunity to comment on proposed administrative rules of the act.

The law, as written, provides for tax credits to owners of farmlands who contract with the state to waive development rights to property for at least 10 years. It also provides for freezing property valuations for taxation purposes for 10 years for owners of open space lands who give up developmental rights.

According to State Sen. Alvin J. DeGrow (R-Pigeon), the legislation is designed to retain shoreland, farm and open areas around urban areas with a high or increasing property taxes.

Under the law, farmland owners would receive an income tax credit for property taxes over seven per cent of the household income, DeGrow said.

It provides for state payment of lost revenue to local units of government.

In order to qualify for the tax break, DeGrow explained, owners of the property would enter into a 10-year agreement with the state, providing for payment of the total tax if the property is removed from the program before the end of the contract.

If the property is withdrawn at the end of the 10-year period or any time after, the owner would repay the last seven years of credit received.

Estimated cost of the program has been established at between $6 and $12 million.

DNR CONTROL

The contract to participate in the program is subject to approval by the Department of Natural Resources, which will administer the act.

Local units of government have the power to approve or disapprove land eligibility not specifically covered in the legislation.

The hearing Thursday deals specifically with proposed administrative rules. These would become effective 15 days after filing with the Secretary of State.

Qualifying lands would include the following:

A farm of 40 acres or more, in one ownership.

A farm of five but less than 40 acres producing a gross annual income per acre from agriculture of $200 or more per year.

A farm designated by the Department of Agriculture as a specialty farm grossing annual income of $2,000 or more.

Parcels of land in one ownership which are not contiguous but constitute an integral part of a farming operation on qualifying land.

Any undeveloped site in a national registry of historic places or designated a historic site under state or federal law.

Certain riverfront property. Undeveloped lands designated as environmental areas under state law.

Any other area approved by the local governing body which would conserve natural or scenic resources.

RESTRICTIONS

Once a landowner enters into an agreement with the state under the bill, termination or relinquishment will be costly, according to Al House of the Department of Agricultural Economics, Michigan State University.

In assessing the bill, House made it clear that pulling land out of the program will be expensive.

Under natural termination at the end of 10 years, House said, the landowner would pay back the credit or tax advantage he had enjoyed during the last seven years of the agreement. There would be no other penalty.

"The amount would become a lien on the property, which would become payable upon development of the land," House explained.

If a landowner wants out before the end of 10 years, he must pay back all the credit and tax advantages with six per cent annually compounded interest. The only exception would be if cancellation were to be deemed in the public interest. Then, no penalty or interest would be required, House said.

House emphasized that application for the tax credit must be made to the local governing body having jurisdiction.

"A township must have a zoning ordinance in effect to qualify," House said. "If not, the township is bypassed and the county board of commissioners has jurisdiction."

He added that this bill applies to agricultural lands and to substantially undeveloped lands not being farmed.

With the bill already approved in both houses of the Michigan Legislature, the Cass City hearings will concentrate on public opinion regarding administrative rules.

Substantial public reaction could force changes in some areas.

TOO SEVERE

While the intent of the act is good, the penalty for withdrawals is too severe, according to Shuford Kirk, Chairman of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners.

"I have rather mixed feelings about this bill," Kirk commented. "I think this version is better than the first one that called for something like a 20 or 25 per cent penalty for getting out. But I still think the penalty of having to give back everything you've received is too severe."

Kirk said he would have liked to see a bill that would allow a landowner to withdraw after a specified length of time without any penalty. The board chairman said the fact that the DNR will administer the act bothers him.

"It's known they (the DNR) haven't followed the people's wishes in the past," he said. "Yes, I'd hesitate to tie up any of my land in the program."

Kirk said he would have preferred the Department of Agriculture to administer the program.

He said he has met few farmers in the county who indicated they would be willing to sign up for the tax break.

"Once you're signed up, you're there permanently," he said. "Over a period of 20 or 30 years, this could get awfully expensive."

Commissioner Maynard McConkey agreed that the bill has weaknesses and doubted a large number of Cass City area farmers would want to take advantage of it.

"When you sell your land, the agreement goes right along with it just like a lien," he said.

McConkey said he did like the aspect of local control, but said the DNR's administering the act did not set well with him.

Thumb tour features picturesque shoreline

The Lake Huron and Saginaw Bay shorelines of Michigan's picturesque Thumb offer tourist attractions ranging from lighthouses to a ghost town, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Although a drive around the 154-mile Thumb coast from Port Huron to Bay City can be made in a day, a week end should be spent if planning to stop and explore," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

Persons wishing to spend more than a day in the Thumb will find motel accommodations adequate in the many small towns, but advance reservations may be advisable, Ratke said. The camper will find the Thumb a paradise, with several state and privately owned parks offering plenty of space on the waterfront.

Just north of Port Huron's Blue Water Bridge is Michigan's first lighthouse, Fort Gratiot, built in 1825. The brick tower is 86 feet high and displays a flashing green light visible for 17 miles.

Turning north on M-25, the motorist will pass through attractive suburbs of Port Huron before reaching Lexington, a town of fewer than 1,000 population. If you're hungry, you might try the Windjammer Restaurant, located on a sandy beach. It offers a sweeping view of Lake Huron from its lounge, main dining room and patio tables.

Eleven miles north is Port Sanilac, an even smaller community. There's another lighthouse here. Built in 1886, the eight-sided structure is sandwiched between private homes on a quiet side street.

On the southern outskirts of the town is the Sanilac County Museum, which occupies a three-story Victorian home built in 1872. The mansion is filled with artifacts from the last half of the 19th century, including paintings and prints, navigational instruments, military equipment, native rock and ore exhibits, antique guns and inventions. The museum is open 1 to 5 p.m. week ends through October.

Next stop is Harbor Beach, a city of more than 2,000 and one-time home and birthplace of Frank Murphy. The home, now a museum, is filled with mementos and memorabilia of Murphy's service as Detroit mayor, Michigan governor (1937-38), U.S. attorney general and U.S. Supreme Court Justice. After summer months, the home is open by appointment.

There also is a lighthouse at Harbor Beach, but visitors can get within only a few hundred yards of it. The lighthouse is located on the end of a breakwater. Built in 1858, it is one of the few lighthouses in Michigan still manned.

Near Huron City is another lighthouse, Port Hope, situated in a Huron County park with several campsites in the area. Built in 1875, it also is manned. Visitors can walk to the base of the light and watch the waves of Lake Huron break on the beach below.

Huron City is a ghost town where the history of Michigan's 1860-80 lumbering era is preserved. Once a major logging community, Huron City was developed in the 1850s by Langdon Hubbard, who owned 28,000 acres of land. Forest fires plus heavy logging ended the area's lumbering business and the town of Huron City.

About 25 years ago, Hubbard's descendants began restoring Huron City and seven buildings have been completed. All except two, a museum and a carriage shed, were built at or near Huron City before 1884.

Although the restorations are open only during the summer, when guided tours are available, motorists can drive along the roads beside the structures or walk along the sidewalks to view them from the outside at other times.

Grindstone City, near the tip of the Thumb, is almost deserted. Until about 1930, Grindstone City was a major producer of grindstones and sharpening stones. But the city faded when carborundum took the place of grindstones. Many grindstones, some six feet in diameter, can still be seen along the shore. Former quarries also are visible.

At Pointe Aux Barques is another lighthouse, built in 1847 and rebuilt in 1908.

Port Austin Reef lighthouse is situated about two miles off the tip of the Thumb, where Lake Huron and Saginaw Bay converge. Port Crescent State Park is located five miles southwest of Port Austin on M-25 and is an excellent stopping spot for camping.

Sleeper State Park, seven miles northeast of Caseville on Saginaw Bay, was named after Albert E. Sleeper, World War I governor. Sleeper, elected in 1916 and 1918, lived in Bad Axe, the Huron County seat. The large brick mansion, where he lived until his death in 1934, is now a funeral parlor.

Caseville is one of several resort communities along Saginaw Bay.

The entire Saginaw Bay area was once the scene of flourishing lumbering industry, with schooners by the scores passing near the shores. The bay got its name from the Sauk Indians who once lived in the area.

Dancer-in-residence

to perform Oct. 14-17

An evening of folk dancing and a dance performance by Cass City students will highlight a four-day stay Oct. 14-17 by Lora Frankel as dancer-in-residence in Cass City.

Mrs. Frankel will spend two days each in the middle and high schools working with physical education classes under the direction of physical education instructor Ms. Brenda Breidinger. She will also conduct four evening sessions for the general public to watch and participate.

The Dancer-in-Residence program is made possible by a grant of the Michigan Council for the Arts and is sponsored locally by the American Association of University Women and the Cass City Arts Council. The purpose of the residency is to introduce dance forms as an art expression and show how dance is integral to other activities such as gymnastics.

Monday and Tuesday evenings Mrs. Frankel will work with gymnastic students in the high school gymnasium. The public is welcome to attend these sessions at 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday evening she will demonstrate various folk dances at 7:30 p.m. in the Cass City High School gymnasium. The public is invited and encouraged to come and learn folk dancing.

Thursday, Mrs. Frankel's eight years of teaching experience on both the college and high school levels will be shared with the community when the finale of the week—a dance performance by some of the high school students she has worked with all week—will be given at the High School beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Frankel comes to Cass City well prepared to teach the beauty of form and movement of the human body. She holds an AB degree in English Literature from Ursinus College in Pennsylvania; a Physical Education major with a Dance Concentration from Wayne State University and an MFA in Dance from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

She has performed with the Wayne State University Dance Workshop and with the dance theatre of Detroit. She has also studied under various professional dancers throughout the country.

Trinity Women

Jennie Hutchinson reported it was time for individuals to renew their membership in Chelsea Home Friends. The money is used for gifts at special times of the year for people living at the Home.

Mrs. Ernestine "Skip" Lauer of Mt. Pleasant spoke to the group. She has taught English Literature at Central Michigan University. The title of her speech was "The Women who Watched Along the Way," concerning the women who knew Jesus or that might have been acquainted with Him.

Immunization rate shows 'alarming decline'—experts

Most youngsters hate shots. But consider the possible consequences of failing to have your child immunized: polio, measles, rubella, mumps, diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus.

October — Immunization Action Month in Michigan—is the time to think about shots and disease.

State officials say nearly one-half the children in Michigan need to update their immunization status against polio, measles or rubella. And others lack full protection against the other mentioned diseases.

Folks behind the immunization drive—health agencies, drug firms and the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.—say that immunization levels among preschool-age children have been decreasing "at an alarming rate" in this country recently.

Just one example: immunization levels for polio dropped to 60.4 per cent last year, from a high of more than 84 per cent ten years earlier.

Michigan ranked highest in the country with its 5,293 reported cases of mumps from the beginning of this year through late July. The state was second highest with 1,139 reported cases of rubella, and fourth highest with 1,881 reported cases of measles during the same time period.

While it's noted that some states might not have as good reporting facilities as Michigan, the figures bring home the need for parents to check their children's immunization status.

Officials offer this reminder too. The state provides vaccines to all local health departments at no charge. The departments in turn administer vaccines to children and offer them to physicians upon request.

paign contributions from lawyers may be calming down these days, thanks to the new Canons of Judicial Ethics recently adopted by the Michigan Supreme Court.

Under those Canons, the high court said lawyers may not be solicited for more than $100 by any judge's campaign committee. But the Canons placed no ceiling on the amount lawyers could contribute to judges.

At least one candidate for a top judicial post figures that's fine as a minimum standard. He, however, plans to neither solicit nor accept campaign money from lawyers.

The candidate is Supreme Court Justice John W. Fitzgerald, who voted for the Canons.

"Though the new Judicial Canons of Ethics permit judges and justices to accept such campaign funds, it is my personal decision that I will not take money from any lawyer to finance my candidacy for the Supreme Court," Fitzgerald says.

"The Canons contain many good provisions," Fitzgerald explains, "but they are a compromise. . . . Any candidate is free to set his own higher standards."

gan's maximum speed at 55 at least until mid-1975.

The lower speed limit, formally imposed last March, helped reduce Michigan's traffic fatalities.

"It would be wrong to claim that the 55 mph reduction is solely responsible" for such reductions, the report says. It cites other factors such as decreases in traffic volume, changes in driving patterns, "public zeal for fuel conservation" and decreased gasoline availability.

"Note, however," the report urges, "that our favorable crash experience has continued in recent months (although to a lesser extent), even though those 'other factors' have largely dissipated."

More in-depth analyses of the relationship of the lower speed limit to fatal highway crashes should be conducted before any decision is made on how to proceed after next year, the report says.

It also recommends consideration of "various social and economic aspects of this issue."

Don't can with cotton batting!

October 2, 1974

Mr. Jim Ketchum
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Mi. 48726

Dear Jim,

This year many persons are in a "state of frustration" because of the lack of canning equipment and will try many methods for food preservation. I would like to strongly encourage persons canning fruits and vegetables to follow recommended methods which have been tested for safety and protection.

This means using the water bath method for acid foods such as fruits, tomatoes and pickles and using the pressure canner for low-acid foods such as vegetables and meats. The only safe sealer would be the new can lid. Other materials such as foil, waxed paper, cotton batting, plastic wraps, paraffin and used lids are not recommended because they are not air tight and will not allow you to follow recommended methods. Do not jeopardize your family's safety.

If you have any questions contact the Cooperative Extension office in Caro or telephone 673-3161.

Sincerely,

Aliene Mills

Charge pair in Cass City auto theft

Cass City Police and Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies apprehended two Argyle men late last week and charged them in connection with the theft of an auto from the Ovary Chevrolet-Olds used car lot last month.

Police arrested Norman Douglas Armstrong, 18, and Clarence James Davee, 20, both of 2810 Pringle Rd.

Police Chief Gene Wilson reported officers made the connection on information from a prisoner in the Tuscola County Jail who reportedly gave police names and addresses.

Wilson reported investigation of a garage at the pair's address uncovered parts allegedly taken from the auto, which was found stripped in a ditch near Argyle Sept. 19.

ATTEMPTED BREAK-IN

Cass City Police investigated an attempted break-in at the office of Dr. James Ballard, located on Weaver Street, Monday.

Police reported a four-by-four foot thermopane window had been partially broken and pry marks were discovered on another window on the south side of the building.

The culprit reportedly pried another window partially open but did not gain entry. Police theorized that, in his frustration, the culprit picked up a rock and threw it at the large glass.

Police have no suspects.

THEFTS

Area police reported five larcenies during the week, one involving a heifer.

State Police from the Caro Post investigated the cattle theft, reported by William King of Clothier Road, DeFord, Friday.

They reported a witness saw two men back a truck near King's barn and load the animal. The witness, James Knowlton, told officers he attempted to chase the truck to get a license number, but failed.

He told officers he followed the truck east to M-53 and then south, but lost the vehicle.

Police have no suspects. The animal was valued at about $75.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies investigated the theft of several items from an open garage at the Donald Vargo residence at 9733 W. Cass City Rd., in Elmwood township Wednesday, Oct. 2.

They reported thieves took an antique oak table, a pot-belly stove, two end tables and a quantity of clothing. Total value was set at $250.

The investigation continues.

A fur coat belonging to Francis Walsh of Sixth Street and valued at $100, was stolen from a coat rack at Cass City High School Friday night.

Police have no suspects.

A transistor radio valued at $80 was reportedly stolen from the home of Francis Conner of Rossmore Road, Kingston early Saturday morning.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported someone broke a glass in a rear door, entered the house and took the radio.

Officers have no suspects. A five-gallon can filled with gasoline was reportedly stolen from the week-end home of Bruno Mazur on Mushroom Road in Kingston township. State Police from the Caro Post valued the missing gasoline at $7.70. They have no suspects.

Gagetown dog problem probed

Gagetown Village Council will investigate reports of loose and barking dogs, it was decided at their regular meeting held Monday night at the village hall.

Clerk Mrs. Elery Sontag said there is a village ordinance that provides for a fine of $100 for owners whose dogs are not licensed or whose pets are found running loose.

In other business, new rules governing maintenance personnel were approved. Under the rules, the maintenance truck will pick up garbage every Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. effective immediately.

Also, the maintenance man must notify the public in advance if village water is to be shut off or if fire hydrants are to be flushed.

Council approved two weeks' vacation for maintenance men to be taken between May 1 and Nov. 1.

The council authorized the purchase of new Christmas decorations. Cost was set at $300, with $100 coming from the Gagetown Women's Study Club.

The village clerk was authorized to order Christmas candy that will be distributed during Santa's visit in December.

Two building permits were approved. One was for Sol Christner to erect a four-foot fence around his property. The other was for William Downing to construct a family room to his home.

Drop charges

Zawilinski

Charges against Richard James Zawilinski of 5283 Schwegler Rd. were dropped in Tuscola County District Court.

Zawilinski had been charged with being drunk in a public place in Cass City.

Prepare now, beat up later

This recipe is ideal for those who like to plan ahead. It's traditional American beef stew prepared in a quantity that allows you to freeze individual servings to heat up at another time, according to the kitchen experts at Corning Glass Works.

The initial preparation takes about 2 1/2 hours and the recipe is planned to serve six. The cook-ahead meal, with some for now and individual servings for later, makes good sense and saves lots of time.

AMERICAN BEEF STEW

2 tablespoons fat
2 lbs. chuck, cut in two-inch pieces
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup water
6 medium carrots, peeled and cut in pieces
1/2 cup frozen chopped onions

Heat fat in a 2 1/2-quart saucepan over medium heat. Brown meat on all sides, about 10 minutes. Add salt, pepper and water; cover and bring to boil on high setting. Reduce heat and simmer for 1 1/2 to 2 hours, or until meat is almost tender. Add vegetables. Cover; bring to boil on high setting; reduce heat and simmer for 25 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Serve.

Freeze remaining servings in individual pans for future use. They can be taken directly from the freezer to the stove, and then used as attractive serving dishes.

TIN CAN STORAGE

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, food may be left in tin cans after opening, by covering the can and refrigerating. Acid food, however, such as fruit and vegetable juices, may acquire a "tinny" taste and should be stored in another type of container.

Set Owen-Gage budget hearing

The annual budget hearing for the Owendale-Gagetown school district is set Monday, Oct. 14, at 8:00 p.m. at Gagetown.

The proposed operating budget for the 1974-75 school year will be discussed.

Driving costs soar a whopping 20 per cent

It now costs Michigan motorists a whopping 20 per cent more to own and operate an automobile than it did a year ago, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"With new car prices continuing to rise and gasoline increasing 13 to 16 cents a gallon in the last 15 months, it should not shock Michiganders that the expenses of driving and maintaining an auto have skyrocketed," states Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

"The cost of driving a full-sized, American-made car is 19.8 cents a mile compared to 16.5 cents per mile in 1973," Ratke points out.

"For the motorist who drives 10,000 miles annually, his operating expenses will be $1,980, a $333 increase over costs for a full-size auto last year," he adds.

An auto driven 20,000 miles will cost its owner $2,681, or about 13.4 cents per mile. The reason for the lower cents-per-mile figure at 20,000 miles is that fixed costs (insurance, depreciation and license fee) remain basically the same as for 10,000 miles.

Data on the expenses of operating a motor vehicle are included in the 1974 edition of the AAA pamphlet, "Your Driving Costs." The 19.8-cent figure is computed on 5.7 cents a mile for variable costs (gas, oil and maintenance) and 14.1 cents a mile for fixed costs.

Auto Club points out that this year's driving costs are computed on driving a 1974, eight-cylinder four-door hard-top Chevrolet Impala with standard features, including automatic transmission, power steering, power disc brakes and radio.

"While persons buying some 1975 cars may find improved fuel economy, resulting in slightly reduced operating costs, this cost reduction will be more than offset by the higher prices of new models," Ratke states.

The recently released booklet also compares operating costs for various size cars in both low-cost (rural) and high-cost (urban) areas.

For example, motorists driving in Michigan's less populated areas will find the costs of owning and operating a full-sized car 16.4 cents a mile, or 3.4 cents per mile less than drivers in such cities as Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and Lansing.

Based on annual mileage of 10,000, it costs approximately 12.1 cents per mile to operate a compact, six-cylinder model car in a low-cost area and 17.9 cents a mile to drive the same vehicle in a high-cost location.

Motorists can figure an additional 20-cents-per-day increase in operating costs for air conditioning.

The booklet also points out that motorists interested in improved fuel economy should consider weight as the greatest fuel penalty, ranging from one to two per cent for every 100 pounds.

"In urban and suburban driving, the fuel economy of a 5,000-pound car is about 50 per cent lower than that of a 2,500-pound vehicle," says Ratke.

Air conditioning and automatic transmission further increase the fuel economy penalties. The average loss in fuel economy from air conditioning is about nine per cent, but it can be as much as 20 per cent with stop-and-go driving in hot weather. An automatic transmission can reduce fuel economy by as much as 15 per cent.

The use of radial tires can improve mileage from three to 10 per cent with steel-belted radials generally producing the better mileage.

A recent Auto Club fuel economy test showed that good driving habits also are essential to fuel economy. Driving at a steady speed of 50 miles per hour on highways instead of 60 or 70 miles per hour can improve fuel use by 15 and 25 per cent, respectively.

BETTER HEALTH

Who is insane?

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

If you want to convince a doctor that you are insane, just tell him that you see people when there is no one else in the room and that you hear voices talking to you when you are alone.

Seeing things (visual hallucinations) and hearing voices (auditory hallucinations) are the accepted hallmarks of dementia praecox, or insanity of the young, now usually called schizophrenia, literally a splitting of the mind.

This all sounds simple enough. Indeed, schizophrenia accounts for nearly a fifth of all admissions to mental hospitals and close to two-thirds of those who are permanently confined there.

But making the diagnosis on such a limited basis has struck many doctors as unduly arbitrary and oversimplified.

Recently, to test his theory that the generally accepted rules for diagnosing schizophrenia were being taken too literally, a research psychiatrist sent three women and five men, who had never been mentally ill, to seek admission at 12 different, reputable psychiatric hospitals.

Except for concealing their true names, the only falsehood these fake patients told was that they heard voices that spoke to them from inside their own heads.

Otherwise, in every encounter with the doctors and staff members, they told their life histories honestly and behaved quite normally. As soon as they said that they heard voices talking to them, they were all promptly admitted to the hospital and most of them were labeled as schizophrenics.

During their hospital stays, they obeyed all the rules of the hospital and behaved as they always did, except that some of them kept notes on their experiences. Amusingly enough, this last was frequently interpreted as abnormal behavior.

In no case did any of the hospital staff members suspect the ruse. Some of their fellow patients, however, apparently saw through the fakers without any difficulty and even asked them how it had happened that they had been institutionalized.

All of the "patients," after a period of several weeks, were discharged, but they were described on their records as "schizophrenics in remission," that is to say, permanently diagnosed as mad, with the cautious reservation that they were temporarily better.

After this experiment was brought to a successful conclusion, this same psychiatrist told another research and teaching institution what had happened and announced to them that in the next three months, one or more fake patients would seek admission to their hospital and to be on guard.

All told, 41 patients, among the 193 who applied for admission in that hospital in the next three months, were confidently suspected of being fakers by at least one member of the staff. Actually, no deceptions at all had tried for admission.

All of which goes to show what many of us have suspected, that the sane can readily be judged insane even by our best experts, and that the reverse is true as well, which leaves us to ponder the old saying I first heard from my grandmother:

"Everyone in the world is queer except thee and me, and sometimes I think even there is a little queer."

Linda Ann Ashmore of Owendale in Elmwood township was ticketed for excessive speed, 65 mph in an allowed 55 mile (radar). She paid fine and costs of $30.

Richard James Zawilinski of Cass City in the village of Cass City was ticketed for speeding 45 mph in an allowed 35 mile zone. He paid fine and costs of $20.

Ronald Russell Kuenzli of Cass City in Elmwood township was ticketed for speeding 73 mph in a former 55 mile zone (radar). He paid fine and costs of $30.

With the many problems we face as a nation, it is refreshing to see our young people ready and willing to help bring about solutions to these pressing concerns. Enthusiasm and optimism has always been an admirable quality of American youth. Their vigor inspires all of us to do a better job in coping with our problems.

Youthful exuberance, combined with the guidance and experience of adults, provides an unbeatable combination. The results of that cooperation are evident in the 4-H

Paul Wheeler receives dairy award

Paul A. Wheeler, a student in the "Dairyman" program at Michigan State University, has been selected as the first recipient of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association's Dairyman Scholarship. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wheeler of 3262 Deckerville Rd., Swover.

Wheeler has an excellent agriculture studies record, both in high school and his first year at MSU. In high school, he was active in the FFA, Varsity Club and the football team. At MSU, he has participated in the Ag. Tech. "Dairyman Committee" and the MSU Dairy Club. He and his brother farm 470 acres and have 74 head of dairy cows.

DHIA scholarships are available to all members of the DHIA testing association and their immediate families.

program here in Tuscola county.

We salute the combined efforts of 4-H'ers and their leaders "to make the best better" on the occasion of 1974 National 4-H Week, Oct. 6-12.

The theme of the annual observance is "We Can Make It Happen." Those five words emphasize the commitment and cooperation of nearly 5.3 million youths and 560,000 volunteer leaders working together to solve common problems. With their enthusiasm and energy, in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and Washington, D.C. 4-H'ers from all economic, ethnic and social backgrounds are helping clean-up and protect the environment and natural resources. The youths work to conserve energy, assist in agricultural production, and help improve health and nutrition habits of the community.

In the process, the 4-H'ers develop good citizenship and leadership traits and acquire skills that will help them in later life. Youthful enthusiasm and energy, combined with adult guidance and support and working together in a common purpose - that's the 4-H story in 1974. And we support the efforts of 4-H'ers, their parents, their leaders and alumni "to make the best better."

And we would encourage our young readers, who have plenty of enthusiasm and our adult readers who may wish to volunteer their time and talents to get involved in 4-H and help "make it happen."

Information on 4-H programs and activities in the area can be obtained from the county extension service office, Civil Defense Center, Caro.

3 injured in Monday accident

Cass City Police reported Raymond was headed west on Garfield. He told officers he did not think about the warning signs that were up at the railroad tracks where repairs to the crossing were being made.

His vehicle hit the first set of tracks, jumped in the air, came down and hit the second set of tracks.

He and his passenger, Ann Marie Henderson, 28, of 6270 Downingtown Rd., Decker, were treated for injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The accident occurred at 3:50 p.m.

Tax allocations set

increases come from a combination of increased millages plus increased valuations based on market value.

In Elkland township, he said most increases came in assessed valuations, although he added debt retirement in the school district actually dropped.

Not all tax bills will be up 13 per cent in Elkland township, O'Dell said. "Some may go higher because of individual increased assessments."

"Some parcels that had been extremely low for unknown reasons were brought up higher to bring them in line," O'Dell explained.

O'Dell said it is almost impossible to determine how every individual tax bill will be affected by the increase, but said many can expect slight rises.

O'Dell explained the 23 per cent rise in total tax revenue in Kingston township came through reassessment of both residential and agricultural land last year.

Elkland township valuation was set at $17,699,350, compared with $15,043,800 last year. Ellington township's valuation rose to $4,034,250, compared with $3,302,000 last year.

Elmwood township's valuation crept up slightly to $7,582,900, compared with $7,418,900 last year.

Kingston township's valuation jumped a whopping $700,000, from $5,106,800 to $5,806,800. In another large valuation hike, Novesta rose from $3,898,400 last year to $4,696,700 for the new year, an increase of $798,300.

Around 80 per cent of the $92,036.62 earmarked for county government coming from Elkland township will go for operation of county departments. The remainder will go for county special bridge millage which totals $17,699.35.

Elkland township will receive $29,203.92 from regular fixed township allocations and $17,699.35 in special voted fire protection allocations and another $17,699.35 in special voted road allocations.

The Tuscola Intermediate School District will receive $17,018.20 from the township for special education, up from $14,512.50 a year ago. Operating expenses will total $2,552.73, up from the current $2,176.88.

Elkland taxpayers will get one break. They will kick in around $3,000 less to the county drain fund next year. Totals show $12,911.54 coming from the drain spread and another $6,628.65 coming from the general drain fund. This compares with $14,829.04 for the drain spread last year and $7,491.15 from the general drain fund.

The board voted to accept the allocation schedule. Commissioners were expected to continue budget deliberations Wednesday during a special session.

Tough defense helps Hawks roll to win over Caro, 15-0

ED STOUTENBURG outran Randy Holik of the Tigers to break away on a 45-yard touchdown jaunt Friday. It was the longest run of the season.

Unbeaten girls eye loop title after win over Caro

Cass City's Girl's Basketball team took a 45-22 victory over Caro at Caro Tuesday night. They extended their league record to 3-0 for the young season and maintained their first-place standing.

Elaine Stoutenburg paced the winners with 15 points, with Lisa Zimba contributing nine points and Elvia Pozzi with eight.

Coach Kally Maharg called play "sloppy" in the contest on both sides. Caro turned over the ball 29 times, while Cass City made 17 turnovers. Three Caro players fouling out aided the Cass City cause in the fourth quarter, Coach Maharg said.

The JV squad took a 35-12 victory.

THERE'S 400 pounds of deer atop this car, direct from the hunt of Wyoming. Don Millwood (left) of Flint and Mike Zimba of Deford bagged these two beauties opening day of the season, Oct. 1. Millwood's prize had six points, while Zimba's sported eight points.

Name 'Red Hawks' of week

The Cass City football squad named Ron Sieradzki and Guy Howard "Red Hawks" of the week for fine performances in last Friday's victory over Caro.

To the large crowd attending the game, Sieradzki's performance reminded grid fans of the tackling of his all-state older brother, Chester.

Ron was credited with nine solo tackles and one assist against the Tigers. But the statistics don't tell the story. His bone crunching tackles caused four Tiger fumbles, Coach Roland Pakonen said.

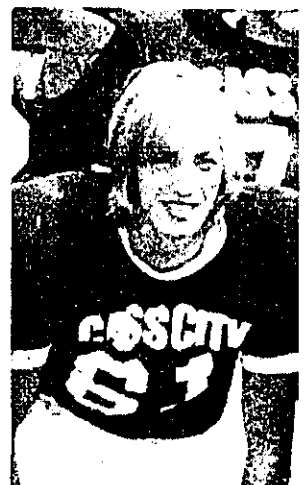

The Junior defensive ace has been improving with every game and is one of the vital cogs in the defense that has not allowed a touchdown for eight quarters.

Guy Howard is another Junior on the team. The fact that he is must make Coach Pakonen's day just a little brighter.

For Howard, in his first year on the varsity, has proven to be one tough football player. He excels on defense from his linebacker slot and is improving weekly on offense.

Against Caro he again led the team in solo tackles with 12 and he also had two assists. On offense he helped the Hawks' ground game and is proving to be one of the squad's better blockers.

It's hard to lose a football game when the defense just won't let the opposition score and as a result Cass City rolled into the victory lane for the second straight week with a satisfying upset victory over the Caro Tigers, 15-0.

It was the second straight game in which Cass City kept its goal line unsullied and as a result the resurging Hawks continued their mastery over their neighbors from the west.

It's likely that the Hawks will need all of their new found defensive prowess and a bang-up performance from the offense if they are to challenge at Bad Axe this Friday.

The Hatchets have one of the league's strongest elevens and only a defeat by league leading Vassar last Friday mars their record.

Coach Roland Pakonen said that Bad Axe is a physical team that grinds down the opposition.

The Hawk mentor could scarcely hide a grin of delight when talking about the progress his team has made in recent games.

We still make oceans of mistakes, he said, but the boys are learning to play over them and we are improving week by week as some of the younger players take hold.

But veteran followers of Cass City's grid wars are a little wary about counting the victory over Caro as an indication of the future performance of the team.

For nearly any year, regardless of the talents of the two clubs, the Caro-Cass City game is close. Last year, only Cass City was able to win from the powerhouse Tiger team.

No one claims, of course, that this year's Caro eleven is anything like last year's.

Still, the victory was a fitting climax to the Homecoming festivities of the day. The Hawks turned a break into one touchdown and then used a break-away run by Ed Stoutenburg for another tally.

It was the defense that set up the first Cass City score. Jerry Toner lofted a beautiful punt to drive the Tigers inside their own five.

Two plays later Mark Phillips blasted the Caro runner and Russ Schweikart recovered on the four. Moments later Stoutenburg blasted over from the two for the first marker. The extra point was blocked.

The next Cass City score came on one of the finest offensive thrusts of the season for Cass City.

Stoutenburg broke through the line and cut towards the sidelines. With just the defensive halfback left to beat, the stocky back turned on the afterburners and simply outran him as he jaunted 45 yards for the second marker. The extra point kick was wide.

Cass City moved into scoring position once more in the second half. When the drive stalled around the 12, Jan Grenholm picked up his second field goal of the season as he split the uprights with a 31-yard boot.

It was a game of turnovers and Caro had more than Cass City. Despite a beautiful football night, fumbles were the rule rather than the exception. The Hawks nabbed six Caro bobbles. Greg Decker had two and Schweikart, Kirt Kendall, Rod Hutchinson and Ken Lowe each grabbed

Her former coach at Cass City, Ms. Brenda Breidinger, said the team practices three hours a day and will face such big 10 schools as Michigan and Michigan State.

She commented that it is unusual for a freshman to make a varsity volleyball squad.

one. The Hawks bobbled five times, losing four and lost the ball twice with intercepted passes. Guy Howard had 12 solo tackles to show the way, but Pakonen said that it was essentially a team victory.
