At Elkland polls

4 combine 87 years of election experience

What do Janet Bishop, Elwyn Helwig, Mildred McConkey and Neva Zinnecker have in common? A lot of elections, that's what. All four have a combined 87 consecutive years of handling election results in Elkland township and all of them agree they wouldn't miss an election for the world. Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Zinnecker top the list with at least 25 years of service each. "I can't remember for sure just when it was I started," Mrs. Zinnecker recalled dryly. "Of course, when you're as old as I am, you don't always remember," she laughed.

Mrs. Bishop makes the regular election scene in spite of all obstacles—even a trip to Florida. "My husband wanted to leave this week," she said Tuesday, "but I told him no, I had to work the election. He wasn't very happy, but that's what I had to do."

Mrs. McConkey said she sn't sure when she started either, but it's been at least 20 years. As for Mrs. Zinnecker, she says her first presidential contest was probably 1944. "It was sometime when Roosevelt was running, but I can't say for sure. He was running so often."

Helwig has been working elections the past 17 years and he's as enthusiastic about it today as he was the first time. "It's like a homecoming here," he said. "You see so many people you don't normally get to see the rest of the year. Usually I'm the only man working these things, so we have fun kidding each other back and forth." The day begins for these and other Elkland election workers promptly at 6:30 a.m. when the machines are opened and readied for voting. Usually workers cast their ballots first in order to make sure everything is working properly. Preparations must be completed by 7 a.m., official opening time. During the day, it's the job of workers to make sure each voter gets in the right precinct and knows how to operate the machines. "When a voter wants help, a worker from both major parties has to give the instruction," Helwig said. "At no time can we influence a voter or tell him who to vote for." Veteran election workers appreciate busy elections. None enjoys sitting around during a light turnout. Most would prefer to be doing something all day. All agree it makes the time pass faster. When the polls close, the hard part really begins. "We close the machines and open the absentee ballots," Helwig said. "Generally it can be handled within two hours." From there, the results are turned over to the township clerk Ferris Ware and from there, they go to Caro for tallying at the courthouse. All of the workers agree the advent of voting machines has been a blessing. "An election like this one, for instance, would take us until three o'clock tomorrow morning to count on paper ballots," Helwig said.

For Helwig and Mrs. Zinnecker, one of their most memorable elections was the 1964 Presidential contest pitting Lyndon Johnson against Barry Goldwater. The township used paper ballots in those days and both recall it was an all-night affair. "We were down at the Cultural Center back then," Mrs. Zinnecker recalled. "It got so bad that we'd go outside for breaths of air to keep us going. By the time we got done, we all had bags under our eyes." Helwig agreed. "I remember I just went home, changed my clothes, shaved and went straight to work," he said. "That was really something."

Another memorable contest was last spring's special election between J. Bob Traxler (D-Bay City) and Republican James Sparling. The vote came less than a week after then-President Richard Nixon visited Cass City and the Thumb, stumping for Sparling. "It was really something to see all these TV people around here," Mrs. Zinnecker said. "Up till then, nobody much ever came except state elections inspectors. That was really something."

WHY WORK ELECTIONS? Asking one of these four veteran election workers why they spend an entire day and night at the polls is like asking a mountain climber why he climbs mountains. "It just gets in your blood," Mrs. Zinnecker says. "I like to meet people. It's really enjoyable." The rest agreed. All said they really don't recall how they got involved originally with election work. Most were either asked or thought they'd give it a try just once. Now it's become a habit with them. Chances are, it's a habit that's not about to be broken.

Democrats flex political muscles at Tuscola polls Tuesday

A total of 14,646 Tuscola county voters went to the polls Tuesday to help preserve the state's governorship for William Milliken and seats for incumbent state legislators. County voters also helped re-elect Democrats Richard Austin as secretary of state and Frank Kelley attorney general. A total of 65.9 per cent of the county's 22,228 eligible voters braved rain and cold Tuesday to cast ballots. This compares with a 75 per cent voter turnout in the last off-year election four years ago.

See complete unofficial returns page 9

If there were any surprises in Tuesday's vote, it was the small margin by which Republican James Sparling carried the county against incumbent Democrat J. Bob Traxler in the Eighth Congressional District race, a rematch of last April's special election. According to unofficial returns, Sparling polled 7,052 votes against Traxler's 6,320. Sparling lost 13 of the county's 38 precincts and carried many others by only slim margins.

In Sanilac county, Sparling polled 6,420 votes against Traxler's 4,183. In Huron county, Sparling bested Traxler 6,088 to 4,945. District-wide, Traxler won re-election by a 49,042 to 32,396 margin. Support for Austin and Kelley among county voters surprised some observers. Austin defeated Republican challenger N. Lorraine Beebe 7,671 votes to 6,091. Kelley polled 7,999 Tuscola county votes against challenger Myron Wahls' 5,974.

In Sanilac county, Wahls bested Kelley 5,934 to 5,614, but the attorney general won over his opponent in Huron county by a 5,681 to 4,741 margin. In Tuscola county, voters re-elected State Rep. Loren S. Armbruster by a 8,737 to 5,098 margin over Democrat Allen J. Bailey. County voters also gave a 7,853 to 5,627 margin to incumbent State Senator Alvin J. DeGrow, Pigeon, over his Democratic challenger, Harold L. Richards of Harbor Beach. DeGrow bested Richards in Huron county by 2,400 votes and won in Sanilac county by better than 3,000 votes.

In the 77th Representative Local rail users set meeting Nov. 14

A group of local citizens will attempt to form a Railroad Users Association at a meeting scheduled Thursday, Nov. 14, at 7 p.m. at Cass City High School. According to Cliff Croft, a prime mover in local attempts to save service on Grand Trunk's rail line serving Cass City, the meeting is designed to organize a group to fight plans to abandon service on the rail line running from Imlay City to Pigeon. Croft indicated a speaker from the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce would address the group. Cadillac recently formed its own users association to retain rail service in that area. The move comes on the heels of an announcement by Grand Trunk two weeks ago that it plans to abandon the Cass City line. Officials said last year the line lost $147,000. Local community leaders agree abandoning the line would have a devastating effect on Cass City and surrounding farming area. The meeting is designed to organize citizens from Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

District, Republican incumbent Quincy Hoffman led Democratic challenger Keith Rothfuss in both Huron and Sanilac counties. Huron county totals showed Hoffman with a 6,249-4,268 edge over Rothfuss. In Sanilac county, Hoffman led Rothfuss by a 7,768-3,859 margin.

In Elkland township, voters bucked the slight Democratic breakthrough and tended to vote a solid Republican ticket. A voter turnout of 66.2 per cent in the township gave majorities to Milliken, DeGrow, Ms. Beebe, Wahls, Sparling and Armbruster.

In the township, Sparling bested Traxler by better than 2-1 while Armbruster and DeGrow swamped their Democratic challengers. Few examples of ticket splitting could be seen in Tuesday's Elkland results.

JUDGESHIPS

Tuscola county voters gave majorities to Thomas M. Kavanagh and John W. Fitzgerald in the race for two seats on the Michigan Supreme Court. Kavanagh polled 6,879 votes and Fitzgerald took 4,998.

In the Appeal's Court race, S. Jerome Bronson polled 5,603 votes and Donald R. Freeman 5,347 in Tuesday's balloting.

In the race for two new seats on the Appeals Court, Michael F. Cavanagh polled 5,768 votes and Michael J. Kelly polled 5,037 as the county's two top vote getters in that race. Fortieth Circuit Court Judge Norman Baguley, running unopposed, polled 8,472 county votes.

LOCAL CONTESTS

While contests in Elkland township were pretty much cut and dried affairs before the polls opened, Kingston township voters had horse-races in three contests.

Democrat Victoria E. Wolak defeated Republican challenger Maria (Mary Ann) Megge by a 216-188 margin in the race for township clerk. In the treasurer's contest, Republican Louis F. Wenzlaff defeated Democrat Rita R. Kapala 236-165.

Kingston township voters elected Democrat John J. Burns as a township trustee, defeating Republican Frank Nemeth by a 231-170 margin. Township supervisor Robert Gilmore polled 207 votes in his unopposed bid for election.

Meanwhile, in Elkland township, Supervisor Edwin Karr received 764 votes, clerk Ferris Ware polled 777, treasurer Art Randall garnered 769 votes, trustee Fay McComb received 758 votes and constable Fred Martin received 756 votes. All were unopposed Republicans.

The story was the same in Novesta, Elmwood and Ellington townships, with incumbents running unopposed. In Ellington, voters approved a one mill levy for fire protection spread from 1975-79 by a 192-90 margin.

COUNTY COMMISSION

The Tuscola County Commission will have its first woman member in history next year after voters elected Ms. Margaret Wenta to the Fifth District seat over challenger John Fox.

Ms. Wenta becomes the second Democrat to be elected to the board, joining Seventh District Commissioner Kenneth Kennedy of Millington.

Ms. Wenta defeated Fox by a 1,088 to 886 margin. She succeeds the retiring Floyd Ducker.

County voters nix 3 proposals

Tuscola county voters said no to a prohibition on use of state motor fuel tax funds, the repeal of the state sales tax on food and prescription drugs and the $1.1 billion mass transportation bonding proposal in balloting Tuesday.

Voters gave their okay to a fourth proposal which would pay Vietnam veterans a $600 service bonus.

With all precincts reporting, unofficial returns show county voters defeating Proposal A (prohibiting the use of motor fuel tax funds for highway patrol and major mass transit funding) by a 5,497-6,278 margin.

County voters approved the Vietnam Veteran's Bonus by a whopping 8,723-4,506 margin.

Voters said no to repeal of the sales tax 7,463-5,970. Proposal D, the mass transit proposition, went down to defeat by better than 2-1. Voters said no by an 8,771-4,047 margin.

Elkland township followed the county lead by turning thumbs down on proposals A, C and D, and saying yes to the bonus.

On Proposal A, Elkland voters said no by a 431-398 margin. On Proposal B, they approved 550-311.

On Proposal C, Elkland voters said no 564-319 and turned down Proposal D by a 552-283 tally.

In Evergreen township, Sanilac county, Larry Puterbaugh defeated incumbent Supervisor Laurence Hyatt by a 131-115 margin. Hyatt entered the race late as a sticker candidate.

Both men had tied in the primary in August. Evergreen township also turned down a three mill levy for four years for road repair and construction. Unofficial returns show 120 yes votes and 171 no votes.

In Sanilac county, voters approved a millage freeze at 15.25 mills. As a result, millage will be divided as follows: county, five mills; townships, one mill; intermediate school districts, .25 mill; and school districts, nine mills.

No one knows for sure if the football helmets being used in area high schools are safe or unsafe.

That's the consensus of a Chronicle survey taken of coaches and athletic directors at Cass City, Owen-Gage, Kingston and Ubyly High Schools in the wake of a head injury that sent a Unionville-Sebewaing High School player to Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital Oct. 25.

The player, Gary Loeffler, was still listed in "critical" condition this week by officials at the hospital. Doctors treating Loeffler indicated they removed a blood clot from his brain and determined it occurred from an injury in the game.

The injury raised questions about how much protection football helmets currently used by high schools provide. Some answers are available generally, but specifics are hard to come by. Research already done by a Wayne State University professor in the Department of Neurosurgery has led to voluntary standards for helmets.

Prof. Voight R. Hodgson, director of the Gurdjian-Lisner Biomechanics Laboratory at Wayne's School of Medicine, has worked the last four years with research money provided by national athletic organizations and major helmet manufacturers.

Hodgson has come up with a set of impact safety standards, built testing equipment and last summer, completed an evaluation of helmets on the market. "During the first round of tests, 46 per cent of the helmets failed to meet the standards and were returned to the manufacturers," Hodgson said. "Some models were resubmitted as many as three times before certification."

Hodgson's helmet standards have met approval by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and the National High School Federation.

Both have recommended that schools buy only approved helmets beginning in 1975 and that players wear only approved helmets beginning in 1978.

Hodgson's research was financed by a $160,000 grant from the National Operating Committee on Standards for Athletic Equipment.

His research has determined so far that safer helmets mean harder helmets. "Yet, the harder the helmet, the greater the danger to knees and elbows which come in contact with it. Now the committee which funded the original study wants to explore the possibility of covering the hard helmet shell with a soft outer covering."

"I assume there may be a great deal of unsafe equipment out in the field," Hodgson told the Chronicle, "although I'd hesitate to say just how much."

Hodgson said failures in testing came primarily in material and design. One recommendation of the study was that manufacturers provide a larger basic shell for the most common head sizes, 7 1/4 and 7 3/4.

He said a larger shell could provide for more protective equipment inside.

Hodgson explained test standards were established on the human tolerance to concussion. He said a meter, rigged inside the head of a plastic model measured the tolerance in technical terms.

The model was equipped with a test helmet and subjected to a concussion similar to that on a football. Concluded on page 10.

DR. VOIGHT HODGSON, who developed the first set of football helmet safety standards, presses the release trigger and a helmeted model head begins plummeting in a demonstration of the impact response test. Hodgson says some models of football helmets had to be resubmitted as many as three times before passing the test.

"If It Fitz . . ." How does Welby do it?

BY JIM FITZGERALD

In Michigan, the lawyers are fighting the doctors over money. If you'd like to help hold their coats, go to the end of the line which already stretches from Detroit to St. Ignace.

To hear the doctors tell it, the trouble started when Michigan got no-fault auto insurance. It is no longer necessary for courts to decide which driver ran the red light and which family will lose how much income because of contagious whiplash. This left a lot of bumpshop lawyers with nothing to do. So they started suing doctors for malpractice.

Apparently Perry Mason has had considerable success proving Dr. Welby amputated the foot when the patient really needed a triple A shoe. Juries have been awarding whopping damages and the price of malpractice insurance has doctors sobbing all over their stock portfolios.

500 doctors (which equals 20,000 examination rooms, the doctor will be in a minute) formed the Physicians Crisis Committee. They have asked the state Supreme Court to limit the contingency fees that lawyers can charge clients in malpractice suits.

The limit would mean, for instance, that a lawyer could make only $31,000 instead of $75,000 on a $150,000 case. And this includes overtime (for a lawyer, overtime is the time spent preparing a case and the time spent in court. Regular time is the time spent entertaining ambulance drivers and teaching clients how to swallow surgical sponges).

Naturally, the lawyers are not taking this medical harassment with their briefs down. Sheldon Miller, vice-president of the Michigan Trial Lawyers' Assoc. said: "The doctors who have been committing malpractice are blaming lawyers for suing them. If the doctors want to set our fees, we would like the same right to set theirs."

Yeah, Maybe Perry Mason could discover how Marcus Welby does it. And then the lawyers could ask the Supreme Court to require all doctors to use the Welby system.

Welby and his assistant get along on just 1 patient a week. They don't even have a drugstore in their lobby. Yet they enjoy a fine lifestyle, with a nice home, plush offices, well-fed secretary and a motorcycle for chasing patients up mountains to give them free shots.

Near my home there is a clinic containing about a dozen doctors. They just enlarged their parking lot to the size of 6 football fields. Their lobby looks like Dollar Day in Macy's basement. If you show up on time for a Tuesday appointment you might see your doctor by Thursday afternoon if it happens to be his week to work. No patient can leave without buying medicine from the clinic's friendly pharmacists who have the only key to the exit.

This place is so busy they sometimes don't have time to answer the phone. My wife let it ring for 20 minutes one day, just to see how mad she could get (in case of emergency, write a letter).

What I want to know is how come these doctors must schedule 50 patients each an hour to make a living while Welby gets along handsomely on 50 a year (and a lot of them are reruns).

Go get 'em, lawyers. Go get 'em, doctors.

It's a battle any fair-minded consumer has to enjoy. Until the first of the month, anyway. That's when we'll be billed $70 an hour for the professional services that rubbed off on us while we were holding their coats.

And there'll be an extra charge to cover contingencies and consultants.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

No more tricks or treats. It's time to tell the freaks, the cheapies, the kooks that they won.

It's time to abolish Halloween. It's better to cave in than have one more innocent kid killed.

Who can cope with monsters like the one who put cyanide in a candy bar and dished it out to a 10-year-old child?

I can barely understand why Halloween pranks like soaping windows or tipping over trash barrels can get adults up tight. Even a few eggs in the street doesn't seem all that bad except that maybe there are families that need them to eat instead of to waste.

You have a right to resent kids coming to the door for candy if you like. It's the thought here that it's fun to give to the little ones who come marching to the porch full of false bravado and secret apprehensions. They are welcome, welcome.

Certainly we all draw the line on wanton destruction. Creating traffic hazards with rocks or machines in the road or vandalizing buildings by splashing paint over them deserves to be punished.

That's not trick or treats. It isn't the ghosts or the goblins coming to your door that are responsible either.

It's the older kids who get carried away. Thoughtlessly burn old buildings and destroy property. Pull "tricks" that could cause serious injury or worse.

These aren't tricks, of course. They are acts of irresponsible young adults who use Halloween as an excuse to revolt against authority.

It's the act of a person who somewhere got off society's beaten path. A slightly sick mind?

If so, the sickness of these law breakers is nothing compared to the sick minds that give out treats that are rigged for death or serious injury to the innocent who places them carefully in the cherished loot bag.

That's about as twisted as a person can be. A product of a sick society?

I don't believe it for an instant. It may be harder to break your neighbor out of the shell in which today's world places him but basically folks are compassionate and friendly. Really care.

But we can't weed out the sick and put them where they belong. The warped minds that kill kids for kicks just can't be uncovered until it's too late.

There's no way to stop them from killing in advance. We have to stop the kids from giving them the opportunity.

Like I said at the beginning. It's time to throw in the sponge. Time for parents to keep the kids at home.

It's the only way we can combat those monsters without masks who sit inside brightly lit homes like a monstrous spider waiting for another victim.

It's time, but it won't happen. It won't happen until a few more innocents pay the ultimate price.

It's a lot to pay for a few 5 cent candy bars.

To divide $217,597

Board set to split funding

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners was scheduled to meet Wednesday to finalize the distribution of $217,597 in Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds, following a long special session held Friday in Caro.

Requests came from 13 local units of government, including townships, school districts and county agencies. If nothing changes, the largest slice of the pie will again go to the road commission.

Twelve other agencies made requests totaling $162,058. The road commission told the board Friday it would take the balance of available funding, or $55,539.

The road commission received the bulk of an earlier grant of over $185,000.

Notably missing from the list of applicants were the village of Cass City, Elkland township and the Cass City School District. Last week, village council indicated it would not submit a request since it could not guarantee employment beyond the end of the grant, June 30.

Cass City School Supt. Donald Crouse said he could not recommend applying for a grant because the timing was bad and there just wasn't the need for anyone.

"If the grants are renewed, we might have a chance to get something," he said. "But we felt now that need should dictate creating new positions and not the fact that money was available."

Elkland township officials could not be reached for comment.

Under terms of the grant, local units receiving funds must guarantee that workers hired under the program will be retained when funding expires.

There is no enforcement mechanism in the program however, according to Commissioner Maynard McConkey.

McConkey voiced the prevailing view among commissioners when he said the program is a rush job.

"We really needed more time to assess the situation," he said. "The grants became effective Nov. 1. That's why we met Friday to set them up."

He said CETA funds will be distributed to each applicant through the county, with another $11,699 set aside for county administration.

The intent of the CETA program is to put unemployed or underemployed persons to work with assurances that their jobs will remain after funding expires.

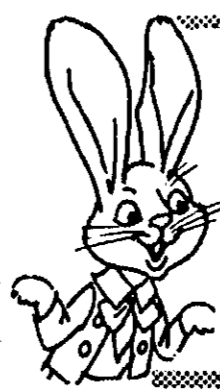

McConkey said this does not take away the freedom to fire a worker if he isn't producing.

McConkey said each agency is limited to $10,000 per employee hired. He said this is probably the last time the county board will have to hassle with CETA funding. Subsequent grants should be channeled through the newly-formed Tri-County Manpower Consortium.

Wednesday's meeting is expected to produce signed agreements between the county and applicants. If approved, 30 persons are expected to be hired by 12 agencies, with the road commission still undecided on how many additional workers it could hire.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

This is an unusual story. Unusual in more ways than one. It's unusual to have a lost purse with over $300 find its way back to Cass City from Reno, Nevada.

But the circumstances surrounding its return are even more bizarre.

Here's the way the owner Mrs. Phyllis Boylan relates the tale.

She lost the purse in Reno, notified the police and was resigned to never seeing the purse and its contents again.

But it was turned into the police and forwarded to the Boylan home in Cass City. . . with all the papers but none of the money. Par for the course? That's what the Boylans figured. They figured that way until a letter from the person who found the purse arrived and asked why not even a thank you for returning it?

Finally correspondence revealed that the purse with the money was turned into the Reno police and the lady had witnesses to prove it.

With this established almost by return mail a check came from the Reno police for the money and a phone call explained that the money had been misplaced in the police department safe.

Yeah.

One thing that's sure in this election year. If William Milliken is re-elected governor of Michigan his lieutenant governor will be much better known than retiring James H. Brickley. James Damman has already received as much or more ink than Brickley did during his entire incumbency. It's probable that he hasn't enjoyed it as much.

If the Republicans have lost the election when you read this don't blame the weather. A rainy day was just what the GOP ordered, one campaigner for the Grand Old Party says.

Honest it has nothing to do with male chauvinism. But the girls are giving me trouble. I've been trying to get an "action shot" of the varsity cheer leaders all season without success. I rushed up to the school to one of the girls' basketball games for a few shots of the team in action a few weeks ago. The results weren't disastrous. . . but they weren't all that satisfactory either.

I planned to give it a try again Tuesday night at the championship game with Frankenmuth.

On the sports page you'll see the results.

Gagetown increases speed limit

The legal speed limit in Gagetown will be increased from 25 to 30 miles per hour, following passage of an ordinance at Village Council Monday night.

In other business, the council was told it must conduct a public sale to dispose of land at the village dump. The sale will take place Dec. 21, and will go to the highest bidder. Council set a minimum bid of $3,500. Evans Products was granted permission by council to install a propane gas tank for its own use, provided the tank meets state regulations.

Set fine arts concert Nov. 14

"Music for a Late Fall Evening" will offer Thumb area residents a unique opportunity to attend a fine-music concert without driving any further than Cass City.

The special evening of music of oboe, harpsichord, lute and soprano will be presented Thursday, Nov. 14, at the Elkland Township Cultural Center, Cass City. The concert begins at 8:00 p.m.

The evening of music is sponsored by the Cass City Arts Council and is part of an out-reach program of the Midland Symphony. Cass City is the only small town included on the week-long itinerary of the "quartet of musicians."

Each participant is eminently qualified. Soprano Charlene Peterson has toured with the Trapp Family Singers and was a member of the Robert Shaw Chorale. She has appeared as soloist with numerous symphony orchestras.

Stanley Charkey studied lute with Joseph Iadone at the Hartt College of Music in Hartford, Conn., and was a member of the New York Pro Musica Antiqua. He has performed extensively in the United States and Europe.

Don Jaeger is presently Music Director and Conductor of the Midland Symphony Orchestra and the Director of the $8.6 million Midland Center for the Arts. He has guest conducted numerous symphony orchestras both at home and abroad. Jaeger is also an oboist of international prominence and has played with numerous professional ensembles. In 1959 he was a prize winner in the Prague Spring International Competition in Czechoslovakia.

Playing the harpsichord will be Byron Hanson, resident conductor of the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra and Wind Ensemble. He is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., where he majored in performance, specifically the baritone horn.

Appointments to the nominating committee were announced. Appointed were Mrs. Richard Shaw, Mrs. Stanley McArthur, Mrs. Ella Cumper and Mrs. Vera Bearss.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Michael and the heiress

By Jim Ketchum

Horatio Alger, eat your heart out. If you thought hard work and perseverance pays off, just take a look at Michael Wilson, 29, of Wales.

The son of a coal miner, Wilson, through hard work and being in the right place at the right time, is about to reap his reward.

Wilson started the world, not to mention the editor of his local newspaper, when he said he would marry Rachel Fitter, a 77-year-old spinster and multimillionaire aunt of Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller.

According to an account in Newsweek, the dynamic duo met in February at the Breaker's Hotel in Palm Beach, where he was working as a waiter and she hired him away as her $100-per-week chauffeur.

A month later, Michael allegedly proposed to her in her Cadillac. It doesn't say here whether it was in the front or the back seat.

Anyhow, she gave him $115 for an engagement ring and the plans were on.

When asked about whether or not her vast fortune influenced his decision to pop the question, Wilson said "I have to admit, the thought did cross my mind a couple of times."

Presumably after thinking it over a few seconds, Wilson resolved his doubts and decided that, yes, he really did love the old girl after all. Unfortunately, Miss Fitter's lawyers didn't think so.

They reportedly offered the Welshman $48,000 to forget the whole thing and go back to spilling gravy and chopped liver in the laps of customers at his eatery.

Wilson, stunned by the offer, said he had to fly to the Channel Islands to think it over. But, he told reporters, the wedding is still on.

For Miss Fitter's part, she admits their love isn't exactly like that of a girl of 16, but she said she'd be satisfied with it.

While the world waited for the next chapter to unfold, both went into seclusion, presumably apart.

If the wedding does come off, they'll probably make quite a couple. She says they both like motoring. Maybe that's because it's about all they can do together anymore.

Besides, she can still afford to buy the gasoline. We're told most of Wilson's former girl friends had more money than he did, which says there's still a way to pan for gold without getting dirty.

"I had more money than him but he was very proud and always spent his own," an ex said last week. Maybe the reason they broke up is that she got tired of dining out at McDonald's all the time. After all, you can get a kick out of just so many quarter-pounders with cheese.

Presumably, that won't be a problem anymore. If the food's no good at the local McDonald's, Wilson can just buy the place and turn it into a vault.

And I'm sure he's already decided on the number of children he wants, especially with a few bankrolls to keep him company. No doubt, the pitterpatter of little $20's, $50's, and $100's, is much more appealing.

Still, the marriage would probably do more for the senior citizen set than Geritol and Lawrence Welk ever could. Who knows? It could start a trend.

All of which reminds me of the 97-year-old man who married the 18-year-old starlet. He died on the honeymoon, but it took the undertaker three weeks to wipe the grin off his face.

Suspect arson in garage fire

Fire of undetermined origin did approximately $2,500 damage to a garage at the Oran Hughes residence at 6619 Houghton St., late Wednesday night, Oct. 30.

Assistant Elkland Township Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said the blaze was discovered around 11:15 p.m. by Hughes' son, Chuck, a member of the fire department, when he returned home.

Jzewski said arson is suspected in the blaze that destroyed a large quantity of carpentry and building material.

Police probe series of area larcenies

Area police were kept busy last week investigating a series of larcenies and breakings and enterings.

Ugly Police reported the Chatterbox Restaurant was entered early Thursday and $193.34 in cash was stolen. Police said there was no sign of forced entry.

The owner, Shirley Hinton, told police she is taking an inventory to determine total loss. Police suspect someone obtained a key to the building.

Ugly Police also reported a series of vandalism last week. Early Thursday, a large picture window was shattered at the Agnes Street site of a new residential home being constructed by vocational education students. Vandals reportedly threw a rock through the window.

Damage was estimated at $250 when a brick was thrown through the windshield of a 1975-model pickup truck parked outside Ugly Motor Sales in Ugly.

Police also reported rocks thrown through windows at the Ford Tractor Sales and Peruski Hardware buildings in Ugly. No damage estimates were available.

A flashlight and five silver dollars were reported stolen from the John Schneider residence on Phillips Road near Kingston Sunday.

State Police from the Caro Post said a back door lock was pried open and a gun cabinet inside the house was also found open.

State Police also investigated apparent thefts of four dogs in Novesta township and rabbits in Gageton.

Saturday, Francis DeLong of 3436 N. Englehardt Rd. told police three hounds ranging in age from five years to six months old, were stolen from his residence. Value of the animals, all pure-bred, was placed at $500.

David Nordquist of 3665 Englehardt Rd., reported his beagle hound was stolen from behind his home late Sunday evening. Value of the 10-year-old animal was set at $75.

Sunday, Charles Wright of 4917 State St., Gageton, reported six rabbits he was raising to sell were stolen sometime before noon. Value on the animals was set at $9.00.

Wednesday, Oct. 30, State Police investigated the destruction of a windshield in a car driven by Dean L. Clark of Edwardsburg on M-46 two miles east of Kingston.

Police said someone threw a pumpkin at the car from a passing vehicle. Clark was not injured but the windshield was shattered.

The incident occurred at 6:10 p.m. between Clothier and White Creek Roads. Police have no suspects.

Thursday, Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies investigated the theft of a hydraulic cylinder from a disc on the Walter Wolak farm on Legg Road near Kingston.

Wolak told police the disc had sat in a nearby field three days prior to discovery of the theft. The cylinder was valued at $150.

Also Thursday, Thomas Seuryneck of 3891 Bay City-Forestville Rd., reported someone stole 15 bales of hay from his farm, placed six bales in the middle of the road and set fire to them.

Culprits stole the remaining nine bales.

Value of the hay was set at $50. Sheriff's deputies investigated.

Saturday, John M. Rinke of 6589 Gage St., Gageton, reported someone spray-painted aluminum siding on his home.

No damage estimate was available. Police believe the incident occurred Halloween night.

Jzewski said the owner of the building is unknown. Firemen responded to the alarm at 7:15 p.m.

Kingston moves for more sewer hook-up

Kingston Village Council will undertake a probe of why some village residents are not hooked onto the municipal sewer system.

The decision came at council's regular Monday night meeting. Trustees instructed Clerk Mildred Parrot to send questionnaires with next month's water bill to persons not hooked into the sanitary sewer.

In other business, council will hold a special meeting Monday night to discuss hiring a crossing guard at M-46 and Ross Street. Councilmen said they needed more information on the duties of a guard and his authority before agreeing to hire someone.

Representatives of council and the Kingston School Board had earlier agreed to hire a guard.
Council approved purchase of a photo copier for the village office, costing $144.50.
The Kingston Fire Department also presented its annual bill of $1,302 for fire protection in the past year.

A dollar in the hand is worth the 100 you expect to borrow.

Bank launches program to spur business

Community Bank is launching a program this week to do its part in giving the "one-two" to the country's financial crisis.

It's a double-barreled program that encourages savings, coupled with paid-in-advance interest that's given out immediately in the form of 1975 model cars or pickups or TV sets. The program is being carried out in cooperation with area car and TV dealers and merchants.

"In that way," said Peter J. Hebert, vice-chairman of the Bank's board of directors and chief operating officer, "we're offering savings plans at highest legal rate, and the depositor can immediately collect his interest by picking out a TV set or car, or a gift certificate redeemable by any area merchants."

The theme is "Why not let us pay for your Christmas gifts this year", and it lists specific car and truck models that are offered for deposits of $10,000 to $30,000, and TV sets for deposits of $1,250 to $2,200, in lieu of interest, Hebert said. TV sets are also available, along with deposits that bear full interest. Gift certificates for depositors are also explained in the brochure. All offers for cars, TVs and gift certificates expire on December 31, 1974.

In addition, a program that involves a free piece of heavy lead crystal, made in France, is being instituted for deposits in existing or new accounts, checking accounts, Christmas Club or the long-range Money Wheel program, Hebert added. Subsequent pieces of crystal will be sold to depositors at cost as additional deposits are made.

REGULAR MEETING OF CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on October 29, 1974, at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present.

A Public Hearing was held on the change of zoning of the plot of land between Nestles Street and the railroad tracks, Church and Main Streets from Light Industrial to General Business for the purpose of a drive-in restaurant. After hearing an objection from Clarence Schneberger that he would not like to see the property rezoned while violations are occurring in other areas in General Business, President Althaver assured Mr. Schneberger that whoever was in violation would be investigated. There being no further objections the hearing was closed.

A motion was made by Trustee Tuttle and supported by Trustee Bliss that Ordinance No. 85, AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING MINIMUM STANDARDS GOVERNING THE DESIGN AND INSTALLATION OF MECHANICAL SYSTEMS, INCLUDING HEATING SYSTEMS, PROCESS PIPING, BOILERS AND PRESSURE VESSELS, APPLIANCES UTILIZING GAS, LIQUID OR SOLID FUEL, CHIMNEYS AND VENTS, MECHANICAL REFRIGERATING SYSTEMS, FIREPLACES, BARBECUES, INCINERATORS, CREMATORIES, FIRE PROTECTION SYSTEMS AND AIR POLLUTION CONTROL SYSTEMS, PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF, AND REPEALING EXISTING INCONSISTENT ORDINANCES FOR THE VILLAGE OF CASS CITY, TUSCOLA COUNTY, STATE OF MICHIGAN be adopted. B. A. Calka, representative of the Cass City Lions Club Community Betterment Program, informed the Council of their desire to install a lion's head drinking fountain either in the downtown area or the park. The Council accepted with appreciation suggesting Mr. Calka and the Park Committee decide on the best place for the drinking fountain.

Hunters face heavy traffic

Motorists traveling to northern Michigan retreats the day before the Nov. 15 statewide firearm deer season opener will find themselves part of the heaviest midweek traffic flow since the July Fourth holiday, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Heavy traffic, with some stop-and-go conditions between 5 and 11 p.m., is expected on all major arteries leading into northern Michigan on Thursday (Nov. 14) as the bulk of the 600,000 hunters head north to set up camps and prepare blinds.

"The biggest problem is expected on northbound I-75 between Bridgeport and Bay City, where construction delays have left seven freeway overpass areas with only two lanes open," states Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

"Motorists will have only limited benefit from the added third freeway lane through Saginaw and Bay counties," Ratke points out. "Problems with the delivery of the large steel beams needed for overpass construction has delayed finishing a third lane in these areas until next spring."

In addition, a six-mile portion of I-75 between the extremities of the I-675 Freeway, which services Saginaw, also remains two lanes. This stretch will not be widened until a new high-level I-75 bridge is built across the Saginaw River to replace the existing drawbridge.

"Southeast Michigan hunters wishing to avoid this area should use I-94 or I-96 and connect with US-27 as an alternate route," Ratke points out. "Completion of a seven-mile stretch of US-127 now enables motorists to bypass Lansing and connect with US-27."

Mackinac Bridge officials expect approximately 22,000 hunter-vehicles to cross the span in both directions before the season ends, which is about the same as last year.

Hunters are reminded that while the regular deer season runs from Nov. 15 through the 30th, the antlerless deer season in Lower Michigan concludes Nov. 21 in all but three club areas in the Alpena area, where it ends Nov. 30. There is no antlerless deer hunting in the Upper Peninsula.

Correct way

LOWER LEFT corner of the rear plate is the legal place to stick 1975 license tabs which go on sale Nov. 15. Automobile Club of Michigan reminds. The red and white tabs, one to each passenger car owner, may be ordered by mail from the Department of State or purchased at any of 51 Auto Club offices or Department of State branches. The issuance of tabs instead of new license plates is expected to save the state's economy more than $1 million.

Lots of deer for hunters in County, Thumb

Deer hunting prospects in Tuscola county and the Thumb area look good again this year with a herd as good or better than last year's, according to Carlton R. (Bud) Jarvis, Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologist from Caro.

Jarvis said the Tuscola,

Deford, and Minden City game areas all should provide nimrods with success this year. With a good portion of the corn harvest gone, prospects for hunters bagging a white tail look promising.

Jarvis said deer are definitely plentiful. He said in October, 40 were killed on Tuscola county highways alone.

Another recurring problem is poaching, Jarvis said.

"This is probably our worst problem and the greatest drain on the deer herd," he explained. "Just today we arrested another poacher found hunting deer with a rifle."

He said the county is losing well over 1,000 deer a year to unknown causes. Many are suspected to die at the hands of poachers.

Jarvis said the condition of the deer this year is ideal, fat and in good shape.

He said the Caro DNR station will be open the first week end of the season from 8-5 every day. Successful hunters will be awarded a patch signifying their 1974 kill.

The check stations are also established to gather information about the deer-its condition and where it was killed.

Jarvis said a station will also be established in Argyle Sunday, Nov. 24, to check deer. Checks will also be made in the field during the season.

CHILDREN'S CRUSADE

The Reverend Bruce White will be appearing at the Cass City Assembly of God, 6455 Sixth St., at 11:00 a.m. Nov. 10 and at 6:30 each evening Nov. 11 - 15. Traveling with the art evangelist will be original cartoon creations of Rev. White's that he uses in his Children's Crusade programs.

Using such props as black lighting, music and tapes to reach children, he quickly illustrates his parables with bright chalk drawings. He believes that making kids laugh and showing them the happiness in Christ, is a way of teaching good morals without compromise.

Pranksters keep police busy

Halloween night kept local police and fire departments busy, with numerous incidents of vandalism and fires reported. In Cass City, Police Chief Gene Wilson said minor damage included spray painting village signs, four fire hydrants opened and almost constant egg-throwing. Wilson said a window was broken at Dr. H. Theron Donahue's clinic on Hill Street and a door on a storage shed at the M&R Grocery was damaged. Vandals also reportedly drove over stop signs at the intersections of Rose and Seeger and Leach and Main Streets. Elkland township's fire department assisted the Owendale Fire Department in fighting a blaze that destroyed an abandoned barn at the Charlie Ashmore residence on Elkton Road, eight and a half miles north of Cass City. Fire Chief Dick Root placed damage around $200 and said he suspects the fire was set by vandals. No one was injured.

Kingston School Board okays budget

The Kingston Board of Education approved a 1974-75 operating budget Thursday night calling for total expenditures of $807,921 and expected revenues of $823,600. Expenditures reflect a 13 per cent rise from last year's budget while revenues are expected to rise by 11 per cent, according to Superintendent Robert Cameron. Cameron said local tax collections are expected to account for $244,410 in revenue, based on a 90 per cent collection rate. State aid will account for another $495,490 in revenue, with $28,600 coming from delinquent tax collections and $30,000 in state transportation aid. Revenue will average $921 per child, Cameron said. Largest expenditures are expected in elementary and secondary instruction. Elementary instruction is expected to cost $201,038, and secondary education is expected to cost $300,973. Transportation costs are expected to run $82,600, with another $82,250 going for plant operation. Administration costs were set at $35,075 with special education costing another $24,465. Fixed charges were set at $35,620 with maintenance set at $27,800. Cameron said Kingston presently levies 22 mills for operation with another 4.92 for debt retirement. He said part of the reason for higher costs at Kingston include several new teachers added to the payroll, along with increased transportation expenses. "Almost everything we look at costs more due to inflation," Cameron said. "Fuel costs and vehicle costs have especially hit hard." Cameron said the Kingston district's present enrollment is 894 students, down by five from last year's total. Pontiac Motor Division as a tool and die maker. He is survived by his widow, Roseline; two sons, Dwayne and Eric, and two daughters, Dawn and Denise, all at home; two brothers, Richard of Pontiac and Lonnie of Lapeer; two sisters, Mrs. Jerry Espinoza of La Pointe, Calif., and Mrs. William Meredith of South Bend, Ind.; his parents, Delbert Eskelson of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Robert Ferrer of Oxford, and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Nelson of Atlanta, Mich.

Funeral services were held Saturday from Dayton Center Church at Silverwood with Rev. Richard Whittenburg, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Kingston cemetery.

Eskelson's death brings to 21 the number of persons killed on county highways since the first of the year.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Four persons escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when their vehicles collided on M-81 at Kirk Road in Juniata township.

Cars driven by Betty Lou Powell, 43, of 5850 Bay City-Forestville Rd., and John Cherniawski, 52, of Riley Road, Caro, collided at the intersection when the Cherniawski vehicle attempted to make a left turn and was struck by the Powell vehicle.

Both were traveling west on M-81. Sheriff's deputies reported Ms. Powell stated she did not see a turn signal operating on the Cherniawski auto, while Cherniawski claimed it was operating. Officers checked the auto and determined the signal functioned.

Ms. Powell was ticketed for a violation of the basic speed law and Cherniawski was cited for failure to complete an address change on his license.

The mishap occurred at 12:15 p.m. Neither driver was injured.

CAR-DEER ACCIDENTS

Two car-deer accidents were reported, neither serious. Thursday, a car driven by Darlene Marie Horetski, 19, of Port Austin, struck a deer while traveling east on M-81 at Greenland Road.

The mishap occurred at 11 p.m. and she escaped injury. Cass City Police investigated. Saturday, a car driven by John William Kappen, 44, of 2495 Keilitz Rd., struck a deer while traveling north on Keilitz Road, a half-mile south of Severance Road.

He told sheriff's deputies the animal ran from the side of the road into the path of the vehicle before he could stop. Kappen was uninjured. The accident occurred at 5:55 p.m.

A Gagetown man escaped injury Saturday when the semi-tractor trailer he was driving was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by a Caseville woman.

Donald N. Gaeth, 29, was uninjured after his truck was struck by a car driven by Karen A. Kelly, 24, of Caseville.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said the semi was headed west on Bay City-Forestville Road near French Road when the Kelly auto ran into its rear section. The car continued into a ditch after striking the truck.

Ms. Kelly was treated for injuries at Bay City Mercy Hospital. A passenger in her car, Joseph Downing, 24, of Akron, was treated and released from Mercy Hospital. The mishap occurred at 2:30 a.m.

Community

Chest drive hits half-way mark

The Elkland-Novesta Community Chest drive has reached the half-way point, according to President Jim Courtney.

With several corporate contributions and private donations, a total of $6,000 has been turned in, Courtney said.

He urged workers to return pledge envelopes to the Cass City State Bank as soon as possible. He said a last-minute mix-up caused envelopes to be sent out without return dates stamped.

Envelopes were to have been returned by last Friday. Goal for this year's drive is $12,500.

JIM COURTNEY, (right) Chairman of the Elkland-Novesta Community Chest, accepts a $1,000 donation from Walbro Corporation. Presenting the check is Lambert Althaver, executive vice-president.

field. If the test meter recorded a measurement below tolerance levels, the helmet was approved. If the meter read higher, it failed.

Although there is no law requiring that manufacturers meet the new standards, Hodgson said that all major manufacturers, producing over 90 per cent of the helmets on the market, support the standards.

All helmets meeting the standards will carry a decal indicating the manufacturer's compliance. So far, 40 helmet models have been approved.

Yet no one knows for sure how many untested or unsafe helmets are being used in area high schools. And, assuming all schools comply with Wayne State's set of voluntary standards, no one will be able to say definitely until the 1978 football season.

In the meantime, old helmets will gradually be phased out, replaced with approved helmets.

While most will be new helmets, not all may be. Old helmets which pass Hodgson's tests can be reconditioned and put back into service.

CASS CITY HIGH SCHOOL

If Cass City High School gets by its final game of the season without serious injury, it's nearly sure that there will be no football injuries traceable to faulty head gear in the seasons ahead.

Right now, no one knows for sure whether the helmets protecting local gridirers are safe or not. School authorities can only say that there have been no accidents causing death or brain damage in the history of the sport here... but concussions are an every-season occurrence.

The school can't say whether or not the helmets are safe because they have never been tested. Authorities at Cass City can't even say how old the helmets in use are.

They can tell when they were purchased only.

That doesn't really tell the true age. Because helmets are expensive ($35 or more each), they are reconditioned rather than discarded and purchased new.

type helmet is used.

According to Athletic Director Robert Stickle, the company that reconditions the school's helmets will have testing equipment. After the season, test helmets will be submitted to the company.

If any of the helmets are found defective, they will of course be discarded.

OWEN-GAGE

Athletic officials at Owen-Gage High School said no serious injuries resulting from poor head gear have occurred in high school football. Coach Arnie Besonen said this year, the school purchased eight new football helmets. The rest have been in service for as many as four years.

Besonen admitted that it is unclear whether or not all Owen-Gage helmets meet Wayne State's standards, since no tests have yet been run on them.

He said in his six years of coaching at Owen-Gage, the only types of head injuries have been minor concussions, which occur every year.

Besonen said all helmets at the school will be up to standard by 1978, if not sooner.

Owen-Gage uses a suspension-type helmet.

"I personally fit helmets and shoulder pads to every player the first day of practice," Besonen said. "We never use a helmet that's cracked. Once that happens, we get rid of it."

Besonen blamed some head injuries on improper blocking techniques as well as sub-standard equipment. "I stress prevention," the coach said. "Good equipment is a whole lot better than an injury."

KINGSTON

All football helmets used at Kingston High School will be tested by their manufacturer before they are reconditioned, according to the school's athletic director and head football coach Dan Skatzka.

Right now, there's no way of telling if the helmets in use are safe or not, he admitted. He said all the school's football helmets will meet standards by 1978.

Kingston players use a padded helmet instead of a suspension-type, according to Skatzka. He said he prefers a padded helmet because he's never had a player seriously injured wearing one.

Skatzka, in his eighth year of coaching, said he's only had "one or two kids knocked out" wearing the helmet in that time.

He said the average life of a padded helmet is five to six years. He added, however, that most of Kingston's helmets are not used every year consecutively. Most are reconditioned after five years, he said, or replaced.

He indicated the school buys either brand new helmets or has its own reconditioned. New helmet prices average $27.50 each.

UBLY

While uncertain whether or not all of Ubyly High School's football helmets meet safety standards, Athletic Director Richard Holdship believes the dozen or so new helmets purchased this year do.

He said the school's 60 helmets will be tested over the next two years, bringing Ubyly into line with Wayne State's safety standards by 1976.

"Before the season we had all our helmets sent out—even our brand new ones, to have them reconditioned and brought up to top shape," Holdship said.

He said half the team's helmets will be tested each year.

Holdship said the school uses a suspension-type helmet with either a bird-cage or double bar face mask.

He said by 1976, all of Ubyly's helmets will carry the approval decal. "This (the helmet) is the most important part of the player's equipment," Holdship said. "We don't want to skimp in this area at all. We get the best we can."

He said most of Ubyly's helmets are three or four years old, with varsity helmets one to two years old.

KINGSTON FOOTBALL coach Dan Skatzka says he prefers a fully padded helmet to a suspension model because he believes full padding adds extra protection and helps reduce concussion injuries.

Hawks rally to whip Marlette in final league game

ED STOUTENBURG is off on another of his touchdown jaunts against Marlette Friday. The senior halfback had the best day of his career, scoring four touchdowns. Making sure that he goes all the way are Greg Decker, number 64, and Dan Erla.

Regardless of what happens in the final game of the season Friday when New Lothrop comes to town in a non-league encounter at Cass City Recreational Park most Hawk fans agree it's been a successful season.

It was a rebuilding year for Coach Roland Pakonen's charges and the young Hawks showed steady improvement all year, capped by last week's victory over Marlette, 28-22.

The coaching staff points with pride to the improvement shown by the sophomores and juniors on the team but Friday it was a senior that showed the way. Diminutive Ed Stoutenburg used the final league game as a showcase for his running talents and his one-man offensive running show was the finest staged for Cass City in several seasons.

All Stoutenburg did was to score all four Hawk touchdowns, gain 170 yards in 26 attempts and intercept a pass and run it back for one of his scores. In addition he handled a punt return and caught a pass good for 20 yards.

All the fireworks for Hawk fans came in the second half. Before the intermission the Hawks were unable to put a drive together and the Redskins forged into a 6-0 lead at halftime.

The Red Raiders capped a sustained march when Pete Diegel rumbled over from 6 yards out.

It was a different story in the second half. The Hawks kicked off to Marlette and stopped the Redskin offense in its track.

Stoutenburg started his scoring spree when he ran six yards to score to cap a Cass City drive. The Hawks went in front for the first time during the game as Jan Grenholm booted the extra point.

It was Stoutenburg again who scored late in the same period, this time from three yards out. Stoutenburg earned the right to score as he made several key carries to keep the sustained march going. Grenholm was again letter perfect with his extra point boot.

The icing was put on the cake in the early moments of the final period. Stoutenburg broke through the center of the Marlette line, shook off a couple of tacklers and rambled 36 yards to score.

But Marlette refused to roll over and play dead. They sustained a drive on the ground and Diegel scored from the three. When Diegel made the two point conversion with about three minutes left in the game to make the score 20-14 there was still an outside chance for his team to win.

But Stoutenburg ended it when he picked off a desperation heave with about 17 seconds left in the game and ran untouched to score.

It didn't matter that Marlette took the ball and scored in the dying seconds on a 70-yard pass from Jan Campbell to Del Ruchgy. . . all that did was make the final score a little closer.

Ron Sieradzki came up with 10 solo tackles and four assists to show the way on defense. Nearly as effective were Guy Howard with eight individual tackles and four assists and Mark Phillips with eight solos and two assists.

Linemen are "Red Hawks"

Their teammates have elected Sophomore Ron O'Dell and Senior Steve Frederick as "Red Hawks" of the week following the team's victory over Marlette.

Red Hawks are selected by the squad and an unwritten rule is that no player is recognized twice during the season.

The pair honored this week both work in the "pits", the offensive and defensive lines. Frederick is a defensive tackle who has acquitted himself well all year, often against larger opponents. Friday he was credited with four solo tackles and helped keep the Red Raider running game in check.

O'Dell is another of the team's sophomores who have shown steady improvement and make Coach Roland Pakonen's eye gleam when he talks about him and the other underclassmen due back next season.

Big and rugged, his blocking has played an important part in the team's improved running game.

5 face burglary charges

Three Cass City men were bound over to Sanilac County Circuit Court from District Court this week on charges of burglary, with two more demanding examination.

State Police said they arrested Charles W. Hewlett, 21, Gerald J. Kosal, 25, Thomas F. White, 24, and John Frankowski, 20, all of Cass City, and Timothy Heckroth, 18, of Flint, in connection with a series of breaking and entering cases in the Cass City area.

Hewlett, White and Kosal were bound over to Circuit Court, while Frankowski and Heckroth demanded examination before Judge Eugene E. Deegan Thursday. Both were released on personal recognizance.

In another District Court case, Edward E. Phetteplace, 19, of Decker, pleaded guilty to driving on a suspended license, speeding and driving with a defective exhaust system.

He was sentenced to five days in jail and paid $71 in fines and costs.

IT WAS A learning year for the Cass City Junior Varsity football team. Twenty-three of the 31-player squad were freshmen. Coach Don Schelke looks for a good season next year as the many freshmen grow and mature. The record was 0-7.

Cold shooting Cass City bows to Eagles in title tilt

Frankenmuth wrestled the Thumb B Conference basketball crown from Cass City's girls Tuesday night to even an earlier defeat by the Hawks and all but assured them of the loop championship. The score was 55-43.

The Eagles used an offensive tactic that had powered Cass City to victory after victory to score their win. The fast break.

Time after time the taller Frankenmuth forward wall took the ball after a Cass City shot and whipped the ball down court for lay-ups for the speedy Frankenmuth forwards.

The fast break and a very cold shooting night were too much for Cass City to overcome.

The evening started bright enough for Cass City fans. Shooting well and playing heady defense Cass City shot into an early lead and seemed to have the game well in hand.

Midway in the second period the Cass City girls were in front 21-15 and then someone put a lid over the basket.

Cass City scored its last field goal in the first half with four minutes left in the second quarter. They were not to score from the field again until there were 2 minutes and 10 seconds left in the third period. And that was the ball game.

Frankenmuth forged in front for the first time just before the half, 22-21 and pulled steadily away until the game was out of reach.

At the end of the third period the visitors were in front 37-26.

Coach Kally Maharg's charges put on a tight defense in the final period and forced numerous turnovers but couldn't cash in as shots continued to roll around the rim and out again.

Elaine Stoutenburg, a stalwart of the team all season was again a tower of strength for Cass City. She scored 18 points and played aggressive CASS CITY'S sharpshooter and leading scorer is Elaine Stoutenburg. She led the Hawks against Frankenmuth with 18 points despite below par shooting night.

DRIVING FOR THE basket is Kathy Kerbyson. The shot missed, one of many that failed during a cold shooting spell for Cass City.

FIGHTING FOR THE rebound is Marci Miller. The taller Frankenmuth girls were tough on the backboards and helped the Eagles to victory.

MARCI MILLER was fouled on this shot and converted one of two free throws for Cass City.

State-level feud stalls Sanilac Petroglyph project

The Sanilac Petroglyphs in Greenleaf township will have to endure another winter of weathering, thanks to an old dispute between the Department of Natural Resources and the Michigan Secretary of State's office.

Plans were set to construct a shelter over the ancient rock carvings located just west of Germania Road near the lost lumbering town of Holbrook this year, in time for winter.

A bureaucratic snafu between the DNR and the Michigan Historical Commission of the secretary of state's office has now put off construction until spring, according to State Rep. Quincy Hoffman (R-Applegate).

"I'm thoroughly disgusted with the politics involved in this project," Hoffman told the Chronicle Thursday. "We've worked long and hard to get this project under way and it seems to me the historical commission keeps dragging its feet."

Hoffman has spearheaded attempts to have a shelter constructed over the Petroglyphs and last summer, thought he had succeeded. Since then, however, work has stalled on the project.

The dispute began two years ago when officials in the historical commission asserted they should handle planning and execution of the shelter project, not the DNR. Previously, the DNR had been deeded 240 acres at the site, with plans to acquire 400 more acres to develop a park.

The latest hang-up involved the hiring of a minority consultant, Hoffman said.

Hoffman said this came directly from the historical commission after plans had been all but completed. He charged the commission with playing politics with the Petroglyph project.

"If they had their way, the historical commission would plan the whole thing while the DNR would act more or less as caretakers," Hoffman said. "Of course it didn't work and telling them we told you so doesn't really help either."

Hoffman said the DNR should be in complete charge of planning and construction at the site, while the historical commission should handle research of the area's history.

DNR plans call for constructing a shelter with special low intensity lighting at the Petroglyphs at a cost of $50,000, according to John Roethele, DNR environmental specialist with the Parks Division.

Another $100,000 has been appropriated to develop parking, an entrance road and to acquire the remaining 400 acres in the section.

Roethele said the political controversy swirling between the DNR and the historical commission is serious and involves work at DNR park sites all over the state.

In the case of the Petroglyphs, Roethele said, the DNR was ready to begin construction of an unheated shelter late this summer. "We were set, but the history commission said they needed more excavations and wouldn't let us dig," he explained. "We're still waiting for a report on this, but barring anything unforeseen, we should start construction in the spring."

Martha M. Bigelow, chairperson of the historical commission, disagreed sharply.

"It's just simply not true that we've been dragging our feet," she said. "The DNR has not made any engineering plans available to us yet for a shelter. When they do, we'll be happy to cooperate with them."

Ms. Bigelow said the historical commission has been given the responsibility by the legislature and the attorney general to oversee construction of the shelter at the Petroglyphs.

"We've taken every step possible and we're as interested as anyone in seeing a shelter constructed out there," she said.

Ms. Bigelow claimed the Petroglyph project is top priority and blamed DNR interference in historical commission affairs as the reason for the delay.

"I can't see why there should be any conflict over a shelter at the park or anything else," she said. "All it takes is for the DNR to quit trying to take over things it has no business doing. The attorney general ruled that preserving the historical integrity of an area is our responsibility, not the DNR's. All we want to do is see that everything is done historically correct at the site. That's all we're here for."

She did concede that funding for the shelter has been channeled through the DNR, but added plans still must come across the commission's desk before a shelter can go up.

"That structure is our responsibility, not the DNR's," Ms. Bigelow said.

Roethele said the remaining 400 acres at the site will be purchased on a willing seller-willing buyer basis. No land will be condemned, he said. In spite of present plans, Roethele said there's no guarantee that the historical commission won't try to throw any more roadblocks in the DNR's path at the Petroglyphs.

"What it's going to take eventually is action by the legislature defining exactly what the DNR and the historical commission's duties are," he said. "I think the DNR should administer projects like this one and leave the interpretation and research to the historical commission. Right now, it's extremely difficult to operate."

PETROGLYPH PARK PLAN

In addition to a shelter over the Petroglyphs themselves, a rebuilt Indian village, picnic areas, parking and eventually campgrounds are being planned.

Many observers have feared continual delays in constructing a shelter could further damage the porous rock carvings. Only a cyclone fence under lock and key keep intruders out presently.

Experts agree continued freezing and thawing will hasten destruction of the ancient carvings, believed to be over 500 years old.

The carvings were protected from the elements for centuries by virgin cork pine forests that thrived in the area. The great fire of 1881, however, completely destroyed this protective cover, exposing the rock directly to the elements for the first time.

The carvings are believed to have held religious significance for early Indian tribes, who, it is theorized, journeyed up the Cass River to the site periodically to conduct ceremonies.

Artifacts found at the site lead many experts to believe no permanent Indian settlement existed at the Petroglyphs themselves.

Kiss studded tires goodbye, state says

Kiss goodbye to your studded snow tires.

After April 1, 1975, studded tires will be illegal on all Michigan roads. That's because the super-hard tungsten carbide studs tear up highways faster than conventional tires, according to authorities at the Michigan Department of State Highways.

The last season for the conventional metal studs begins Dec. 1 and ends next April.

From then on, the only traction devices permitted will be those complying with rules established by the department under a 1973 state law regulating the use of studded tires.

The new rules permit devices which do no more than 25 per cent as much damage to highways as the tungsten carbide studs.

Jim Miklovic of the Tuscola County Road Commission said it's impossible to determine exactly how much damage studded tires have done to county roads, but said the studs definitely do wear out pavement faster.

"A real good example is I-75 near Flint," he said. "You can see a track worn in both the driving and passing lanes. These grooves trap water and actually make things worse."

Miklovic said studs really don't help traction that much anyway.

"The only real advantage to studded tires is on glare ice," he said. "On wet or dry pavement, tests have shown it actually takes longer to stop with studded tires than without."

He says that's because the studs actually put less rubber on the road and create a situation similar to driving tacks into the sole of a shoe.

"The skidding potential is really greater with studded tires," he said.

Miklovic said tests have also shown that people who use studded tires tend to drive faster, thinking they have a greater margin of safety.

He said substitute devices made of hard rubber are being tested now and should be ready for drivers in the winter of 1975-76.

Most tire dealers sell snow tires without studs and add them for customers at purchase time. Studs can be removed from the tire without damage, dealers say.

4-H ACTIVITIES

4-H 'Challenge'

coming

By Bernard Jardot

Away to mountains for climbing; away to caves for spelunking; away to forests for orienteering and wilderness survival training. Away through "Challenge" -- a new program just added to the 4-H roster.

Taking a leaf from the highly successful "Outward Bound" program, Challenge uses adventure and wilderness activities for youth and adult leaders to explore their mental, physical and emotional potentials.

Francie Hinkley, state 4-H Extension specialist, says "Our success with pilot projects in Allegan, Clinton and Marquette counties encourages us to offer Challenge as a statewide program." The Clinton county program involves 40 new 4-H members organized into five clubs.

"As in all 4-H programs, success depends on volunteer leaders. All the more so, as Challenge seeks to reach a new audience -- the urban and rural kids who have never had a chance to be self-reliant in a new situation," continues Ms. Hinkley.

Interested leaders, aged 16 and up, are invited to participate in a leader training workshop at Kellunen Center, Tuslin, Mich., Dec. 6 and 7. This will be the first in a series of training experiences. Highlights of this workshop will be advanced first-aid and cold-weather camping techniques.

Formation of clubs will be encouraged to begin around the middle of April.

Cooperating in Challenge is the Michigan State University Department of Park and Recreation Resources. Paul Risk, who has taught a student survival course at MSU for a number of years and Ms. Hinkley, who directed a survival program at Brigham Young University for three years, will be among the state-wide resource persons.

Individuals interested in participating as leaders or as program assistants should contact the local county extension office for additional information.

OUT-OF-DATE?

Happiness and contentment... the sight of a cheerful baby easily brings these beautiful thoughts to our minds.

Yet in the bustle of life today we often find ourselves wondering how to achieve joy and serenity.

The Church has the answer. Its teachings stress truth, compassion, morality... principles that never go out-of-date.

A person nurtured in a Christian atmosphere attains the tranquility so necessary in this world of change and turmoil.

Start this week.

New wheat strain looks good
AROUND THE FARM

A new variety of seed wheat has been developed and tested extremely promising for Tuscola wheat producers. The variety is called 'Tecumseh'.
Tecumseh is the most recent soft white wheat variety to be released from Michigan State University. It is the first high yielding soft winter wheat variety adapted to Michigan conditions which has short plant height and high test weight.
The short stem height (34 inches) gives this new variety excellent lodging resistance.
It is also the first Michigan soft white wheat variety which has superior winter survival characteristics and resistance to spindle streak mosaic virus.

BETTER HEALTH New hope for migraine

A bright young Mexican man was referred to me because of an unusually severe migraine. Such cases always interest me, especially when the patient is a man, because (except in rare cases) all migraine does to a man is to give him occasional 20-minute spells of fuzzy vision. Hence, whenever I see a patient with very severe spells of head pain, I look for migraine plus another disease, often a mild, unrecognized epilepsy.

The lad's head pains usually came when he was in school, and then they might last for an hour or a day. Typical of migraine was the throbbing character of the pain, the often unilateral nature of the headache, the nausea, the inability to eat during a headache or to get relief from Aspirin, and the sensitivity to light.

Interesting was his two-day long aura (warning symptom) of amorosness. Many women have told me that they were amorous the evening before a migraine showed up. As I chatted with him, I learned that he had some symptoms of epilepsy. He had had some falling and convulsive spells, of which later he might have no memory. At times he suffered from the violent temper that some non-convulsive epileptics have. As I expected, his electroencephalograms (records of the tiny electric currents in the brain) were stormy, as they are in epilepsy.

As so often happens in these cases, the lad inherited migraine from his brilliant mother, and he probably got his epilepsy from his hot-tempered father and his paternal grandfather.

The boy was studied by several physicians, who treated him for migraine without getting any results. When I gave him an anti-convulsant drug, which usually is very helpful in cases of epilepsy, the lad promptly lost his head pains and soon felt like a new man. Significant was the fact that, when eight months later he tried to go without his medicine, he promptly got back the old head pains.

A number of able men have been convinced that migraine is closely related to epilepsy, but I am satisfied that it is not; so commonly when I see a person with a devastating migraine, I find that one parent is migrainous and the other is epileptic, or a bit psychotic or alcoholic. Apparently one nervous illness can reinforce the other one.

Some men come in from the world outside. These people bring with them one or more viruses to which the explorers are not immune.

For years after World War II, there was a big research laboratory for the study of colds in Salisbury, England, in which much valuable research was done. There they found that if they put a volunteer in wet clothes in a drafty, cold place, he did not necessarily catch a cold.

I have read that savage tribes often get into fights because, when they do have a meeting after having been isolated for months, they are likely to get an epidemic of colds due to a new virus brought to them by their visitors. When their witch doctors tell them that the other tribe with their witch doctors willed the colds on them, they naturally become very resentful, and after that, every time they have a chance, they murder a man from the other tribe.

A while ago I read a letter from Dr. E.W. Gerner, of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, who pointed out that the great Benjamin Franklin, back in 1773, noted "that the causes of colds are totally independent of wet, and even cold." Franklin cited a paper on "A Melancholy Account of the Distresses of Some Seamen," in which it was pointed out that some sailors live day and night in wet clothes, yet catch no colds.

One marvels again at the great powers of observation of the great Benjamin Franklin.

ONE DOES NOT CATCH COLD --- ONE CATCHES AN INFECTION

It has long been known that polar explorers can suffer from cold without ever "catching a cold." But they may all catch cold the day

AGENT'S CORNER

Train yourself to eat breakfast

Ann Ross - Extension Agent

Have you wondered how to get yourself to eat breakfast after years of little or no eating in the morning?

It may take a bit of personally-directed psychology to retrain an old stomach.

Tell yourself that the research shows that eating one-quarter to one-third of your daily nutrients for breakfast is a proven way to be more efficient in the morning.

Are you hard to convince? Start in with the new routine gradually. Like, try a breakfast glass of orange juice for a few days. Then add a slice of whole wheat toast for another few days. Just tease yourself along.

Then, if you're an adult, add a hot cup of coffee, tea or cocoa, and maybe a bit of jam or peanut butter spread on your toast. If you've already been drinking two or three cups of coffee, cut down to one and add a glass of milk. Your body needs lots of fluids, you know, and lots of nutrients.

Then when you're cruising along with this much to eat, (by this time you're probably even sitting down while you munch) try adding a hard-boiled egg. It will cook while you're brushing your teeth and getting dressed. Or try an enriched no-cook cereal.

Once you start your breakfast breakthrough, keep it up! You'll be surprised at how much better you could feel
