KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

The great gargle rip-off

By Jim Ketchum

Pitch out those bottles of Listerine and suffer those cold symptoms in silence. It never did you any good to gargle with that vile stuff anyway.

That's what the Federal Trade Commission said last week. And who are we to dispute the word of the FTC? After all, didn't they warn us that cyclamates caused cancer in rats? And who needs a bunch of cancerous rats running loose?

Didn't they tell us those little liver pills actually had nothing to do with the liver? And didn't they, in their infinite wisdom, tell us it really would conserve electricity to turn off those lights, contrary to what your friendly power company led you to believe all those years?

Now they've zeroed in on venerable Listerine. Last week they ruled that the gargle really didn't do anything to help relieve cold symptoms or sore throats.

While Listerine "may kill millions of germs on contact", it leaves millions more alive. Besides, the FTC said, that has nothing to do with fighting a cold in the first place.

To atone for these past sins, the company must run corrective advertising saying it indeed is so. All those nice old ladies and cute little kids who kept telling us that Listerine was really helping in the war against colds apparently weren't telling the truth.

This FTC decision leaves this correspondent perplexed. All my life I've been told if you really want to kill whatever was going on inside of you, take a swig of Listerine.

I remember when I was a child, my mother would march me into the bathroom, open the ominous bottle and pour out a dose whenever I caught a cold. I learned to gargle in a hurry. It made being sick worse than it might have been.

But it made mother happy to know all those nasty germs were dying like flies and that before long, her pride and joy would be well again.

In its long history, Listerine has also served some other purposes as well. My uncle, who served in the British Army during the First World War, told me once that when whiskey was scarce in the trenches at the front, the boys in the outfit would pass around the old Listerine bottle and take a snort.

He said it never mixed too well with anything like cognac, but it apparently got the troops through until something better to guzzle came along.

I don't know if that outfit won a lot of battles or not, but you can be sure they had the most germ-free digestive systems in all of France. I always thought you had to be pretty desperate to resort to Listerine for a kick. War, indeed, must be hell.

When I reached adulthood, I forsook Listerine for something tasting better. Still, I always felt just a little guilty that I did. I wondered if I was still killing as many of those nasty germs with what I used as with the hard stuff.

Last week's decision lifts the burden from my shoulders that I've carried to these many years. I feel as though I've been paroled by the governor.

Now, for the next two years, subject to appeal, the Listerine people will have to confess their product doesn't help colds. And now, I can visit my mother with a cold and not be marched off to the bathroom anymore.

Thank you, FTC.

OUT OF BALANCE

Any nation's interference with nature's plans nearly always brings a disastrous reaction.

Area churches preparing annual Yule programs

Cass City area churches finalized plans this week for their Christmas programs and special services. Sunday school students will be featured at many churches presenting skits, recitations and special music. Here is a rundown of activity.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

ASSEMBLY OF GOD
The Cass City Assembly of God will present its Christmas program Sunday beginning at 7 p.m.

Soil survey valuable

Tuscola county's newly revised Soil Survey will answer far more than agriculture soil use questions. Nearly 40 Tuscola county officials witnessed this during a special seminar recently.

Supervisors, representatives of the health, highway, DNR, ASC, Drain and Equalization departments heard presentations from MSU Soils professors; Cyril Jacot, SCS director; Mac O'Dell, Equalization director, and Don Kebler, Extension agent in Agriculture.

Supervisors learned to use the soil survey information as another tool for determining more equitable property evaluations.

Health Dept. officials will use the survey information for septic tank drain field, sanitary land fill, communal sewage disposal and related system recommendations.

Drainage plus all highway related determinations on or in the ground will be made with the aid of this survey.

The Department of Natural Resources will find the information most useful in determining best sites for recreation, wild life site improvement, plantings, ponds and for soil and water pollution controls.

Basically the county officials learned the contents of the revised soil survey materials. This survey material contains aerial photographs with soil type and limitations of each soil for construction sites, drainage, construction materials, recreation, urban and agricultural uses.

Packets of specific land areas are available to the public free at the Extension and the county Soil Conservation District Offices. Complete county survey booklets are available for $25.00 at the Extension Office. All county public libraries have a complete set of this survey. This survey was made possible by the sponsorship of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners.

Report 16 qualify in rock-a-thon

Authorities in charge of the rock-a-thon for Shabbona, Elmer and Decker churches said that because of the rules of the contest 16 qualified as "24-hour rockers". Although four of the youth group rocked the 24 hours, the contest rules allowed five-minute rest periods each hour.

Some of the rockers gave up the five-minute periods each hour and used them all at once.

Consequently, these persons were considered to have rocked for 24 hours, too, authorities explained.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Judy Bingham for your winning,
"Why I like to shop in Cass City", contest.

I like to shop in Cass City because there are no traffic tieups or parking problems. The buildings themselves have character and are roomy. The whole town has a clean, relaxed atmosphere.

The salespeople are patient, friendly and helpful. The prices are reasonable and the selections are outstanding.

Sincerely,
Judy Bingham

Louise Wright says, 'eye the world around you'

Nine years ago, Mrs. John Wright of North Greenland Road thought she'd give decorative painting a try. She knew she had some talent but until then hadn't really seen what she could do.

Today she's turning out a wide variety of hand-painted jewelry, that seems to keep bringing customers back for more.

Mrs. Wright, a Cass City native, creates a world of color and expression on the smallest porcelain plaques and can create a winter scene, complete with covered bridge, in no more than an inch of space.

"This is my first attempt at doing jewelry," Mrs. Wright said, taking a break from her day-long labor at the family dining room. Her son, Michael, 4, had gotten in the act by painting a set of Christmas ornaments for the family tree in the living room.

"I was really nervous about taking orders for it at first," she said. "But I've gotten used to it and I think I'm getting better with practice."

Mrs. Wright specializes in custom-painted jewelry including pendants, pins, necklaces and earrings. The beauty of her work is that no two pieces are ever alike.

"Even a set of earrings are different because you can only do one at a time," she said.

She said she began her studies about nine years ago and takes classes regularly from Caro's Gladys Gallo-way. Her training has paid off with several works in their home including a hand-painted lamp, plates and ornamental pottery.

As her classwork progressed, she tried doing jewelry and decided she liked the results, although it wasn't easy at first.

"I remember I used to grind the brush into whatever I was doing if I didn't like it," she said. "I think developing patience was one of the hardest things to learn."

Once she mastered that, she said, it got easier.

"I tried not to be as critical of myself and I think that helped a lot, too," she said. "My husband is my worst critic now. This has sort of grown on him, too."

DEVELOP EYE

Mrs. Wright said in order to successfully paint a flower or a scene into jewelry, an artist must develop an eye for the world around him. You can't paint something if you don't know how it's put together.

"Take a flower for instance," she said. "When I first began, I was doing a forget-me-not and after I finished, someone told me I hadn't given it enough petals. You have to look closely and study a flower to see how the lines move and how it's formed."

She said she prefers doing flowers to scenery or animals, although it generally takes longer to do a floral pattern. With the help of a small kiln in her home, she can complete a piece in less than an hour.

Mrs. Wright explained that she usually paints in backgrounds first and then "wipes out" the area in which the floral pattern will eventually go. She then adds the flower and "fires" the piece in the kiln.

Using this technique, she saves an extra firing of the piece and can complete it sooner.

She paints mostly from her imagination, creating lifelike works that have gained in popularity through word of mouth.

"Once I start a piece, I like to stay with it until it's done," Mrs. Wright explained. "Although sometimes it helps to leave something for awhile if you think it's going badly. When you come back, it doesn't look nearly as rough."

So far, she said orders have been good. She said part of the reason is that with the economy the way it is today, people are looking for something personal and lasting.

"I'd like to think some of what I do might last for another generation," she said.

The most popular items during this Christmas season have been crosses for pendants and earrings. She also produces small pins for children's outfits which she said go over well as birthday presents.

What's in the future for the 26-year-old artist and mother of three children? She'd like to continue her craft, selling some pieces and perhaps develop a small year-round business.

"I'd like to reach a point where I could give lessons some day," she said. "I've enjoyed it so much and I'd really like to teach it."

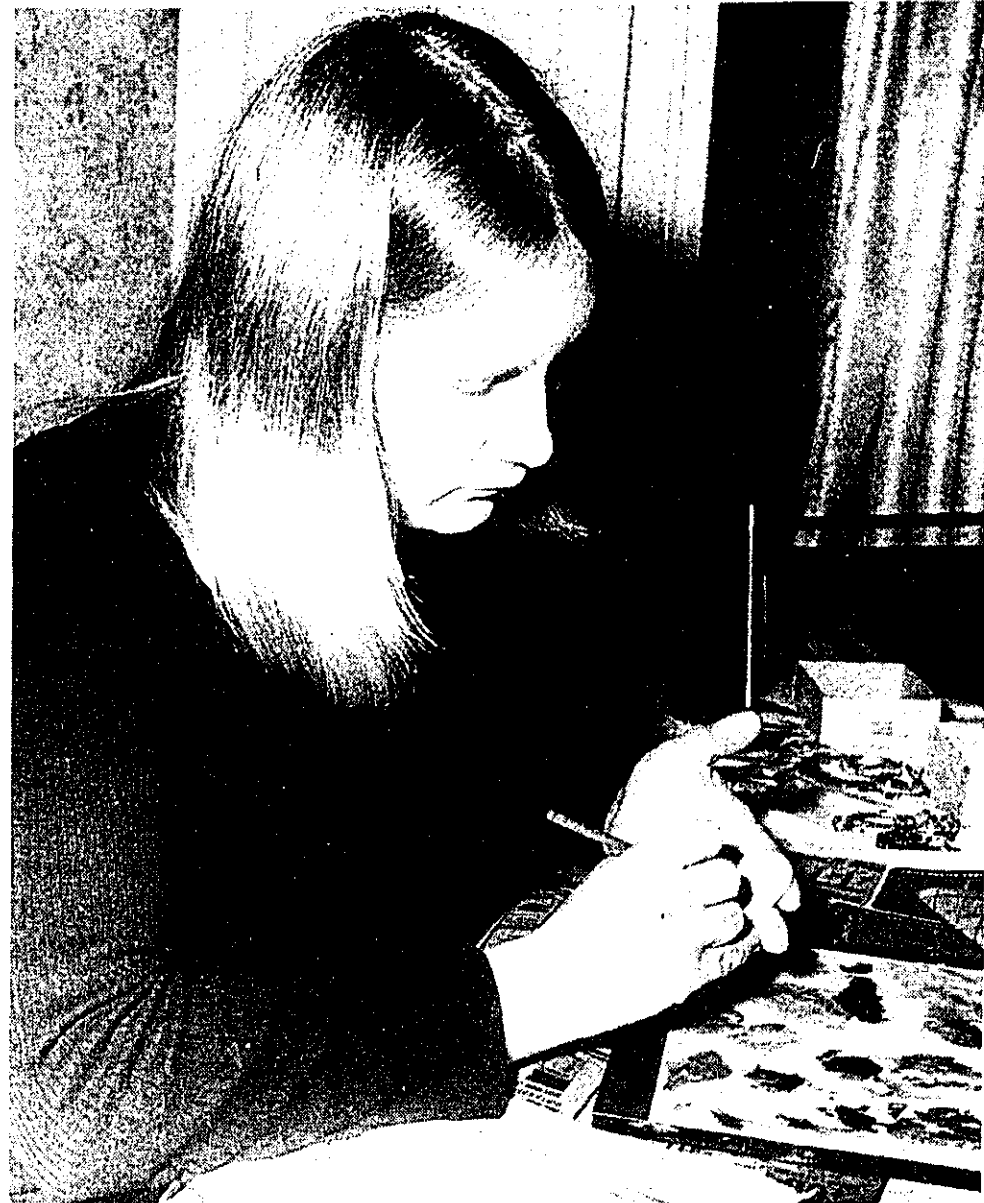

She's already got two eager pupils—her two sons, Michael, 4, and Paul 7.

"Paul is big on painting race cars now," Mrs. Wright laughed. "Michael really enjoys it. It keeps him occupied and lets me get some work done too."

Even though she does not consider herself an artist per se, her talents do extend to decorative plates and pottery as well.

"I just enjoy the feeling of accomplishment I get out of it," Mrs. Wright said, summing up her talents. "I really enjoy it."

MRS. LOUISE WRIGHT shows how she turns small, white pieces of porcelain into works of art. Mrs. Wright custom-makes a wide variety of jewelry and hopes someday to teach others.

CASS CITY BROWNIE Troop 856 received stars for one year's membership during ceremonies held Monday at the Cultural Center. The girls also presented a skit for parents.

First row: Carolyn Westerby, Colleen Whittaker, Carla Hunter, Jamie Burnette, Lori Hanby and Libby Dickinson. Second row: Ruth Ann Baker, Debbie Anson, Paula Herron, Kim Pettinger, Kim Hightower, Tracy Copeland and Dawn Harris.

Martin pleads innocent of horoscope book theft

Maybe the stars were against Michael N. Martin, 18, of Caro. Martin was arraigned Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court before Judge Norman Baguley on a charge of the larceny of a "horoscope book" from the Caro Kroger Store Nov. 4.

Martin stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Jan. 13, and bond was continued.

In other court action, Clifford Lee York, 28, Caro, was arraigned on a negligent homicide charge. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Jan. 13, and bond was continued.

York is charged in the Oct. 30 accident that took the life of Delbert D. Eskelson of Kingston that occurred at Bevens and Hurds Corner Road.

Michael A. Lasiewicki, 18, Caro, was arraigned on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for Jan. 13, and bond was continued.

Lasiewicki is charged with the theft of two television sets and two firearms from an Almer township home Oct. 28.

Richard Reeves, 41, Clio, was arraigned on a charge of rape. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for Jan. 27.

Reeves was arrested Aug. 18, in Akron township.

Charles Kibbe, 31, Vassar, was arraigned on charges of attempting to defraud by using false pretenses. He entered a plea of guilty which was accepted by the court.

Judge Baguley ordered a pre-sentence investigation and set sentencing for Jan. 27.

Kibbe is charged with acquiring $2,000 under false pretenses. He was arrested in Reese Feb. 19.

Kibbe is also charged with attempting to defraud the Vassar Branch of the Frank-enmuth State Bank of $178.21 last Oct. 1. He pleaded guilty to this charge which was accepted by the court. Sentencing on this charge was set for Jan. 27 and $500 bond was continued.

Ernest McIntosh, 31, Pontiac, entered a plea of guilty to attempted possession of amphetamines during a pre-trial examination Monday.

The plea was accepted by the court and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Sentencing was set for Jan. 27 and bond of $2,500 was continued.

Douglas Fairbanks, 19, Cass City, was found guilty of probation violation by Judge Baguley. Fairbanks will be sentenced Tuesday.

He was charged with failure to report regularly to his probation officer, and failure to pay restitution.

Earl Scott Jr., 26, Caro, was scheduled for a one-day trial on an assault charge. Scott was arrested Oct. 19. No date for the trial was set.

Provincial House reports gains

Provincial House, Inc., has reported net income of $76,413 or eight cents a share in the first quarter ended Oct. 31, compared with earnings of $101,253 or 11 cents a share in the year ago first period. This year's first quarter results included five cents from operations and three cents from investment tax credit.

The diversified health care corporation has reversed a loss pattern of the last half of the fiscal year ended July 31, 1974, the company's announcement noted. The improvement reflects a sharp reduction in operations of the construction subsidiary.

Meanwhile, the company reported a 65 per cent increase in revenues from its health care centers. President Patrick J. Callihan said, "Our new Lansing surgical and hospital became profitable in the third month of the first quarter and should be a steady contributor from now on. We are approaching capacity operations in our chain of 14 health care centers. Meanwhile, we absorbed opening expenses for two more day care centers at the start of the school year, giving us 10 day care centers in all."

"As previously stated, we now plan no further openings in the health care area in the remainder of the current fiscal year. We will be expanding our previously developed Health Maintenance Organization for protection of the individual."

Gagetown students give program Dec. 11

A Christmas program and Open House was held at the Gagetown Elementary School Wednesday, Dec. 11, by the lower elementary school children of the Owendale-Gagetown Area Schools.

The evening began with special Christmas songs by all the children. The first graders presented the poem

"The Night Before Christmas".

The toothless first graders sang "All I Want for Christmas is My Two Front Teeth". "A Christmas Gift" was recited by the second graders. They also sang and presented "Silent Night".

The third graders sang "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas" and gave a skit called "The Mixed Up Christmas Toys".

The group concluded the evening with the singing of Christmas Carols and a tour through the decorated classrooms.

The event was termed a success with 90 per cent of the students and their families present.

AROUND THE FARM

Fire extinguisher vital on farm

By William Bortel

Fire extinguishers on every farm power unit are extremely important to the farmer today. High costs of farm machinery and slow delivery makes a machinery fire loss more critical than ever before.

A pressurized, dry chemical, B.C. type fire extinguisher (for fuel and electrical type fires) is recommended for all farm power units. The size should be two and one-half to five pounds of pressurized dry chemical. An additional five-pound dry chemical extinguisher should be placed near the fueling point.

These extinguishers will run between $10 and $20. To be sure the extinguisher is reliable and meets minimum safety requirements, check the metallic label for approval by Underwriters' Laboratories Inc. (UL) or Factory Mutual (FM) testing laboratories.

The extinguisher should be fastened near the operator's station on the farm power unit. You may have to use additional straps to secure the extinguisher to the machinery; make sure that you can break it out quickly when needed.

The major causes of fire on farm machinery are trash buildups near exhaust pipes, electrical fires and leaks or damaged fuel lines.

When you fight a fire in a home or farm building, make sure you have an emergency exit. Remember--when using an extinguisher, you have only a few short bursts of dry chemical; less than 30 seconds worth. Direct the extinguisher agent at the base of the flame until the fire is out, then double check for hot ashes.

One of the best fire extinguishers for most farm buildings is a year-round water outlet connected to a hose. Water is an electrical conductor, and can't be used to fight an electrical fire unless you have thrown the main switch and the electrical current is dead.

A knapsack slide water pump should be available to fight grass or roof fires. Carbon dioxide extinguishers are also effective, but they are more expensive and require more maintenance. They can be effective in flashback fires--cooling hot materials such as a motor block that might flashback and reignite after a put out.

BETTER HEALTH

Women's lib brings new look at doctors

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ and DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

It used to be that ordinary doctors were inclined to be obstetricians. Their patients loved them and every time they sent one of these patients to the hospital, she went home gaily with the happy result of her labor. Gynecologists shared in this general glow of affection. We used to say that obstetrics - and gynecology was the happy specialty.

But not any more. The Women's Liberation movement has changed all that. It seems that the happy glow was all a mirage. Gynecologists and obstetricians are unbearably paternalistic, sexist, elitist, chauvinistic (whatever that may mean in such a context), will not communicate, will not put up with rooming-in, natural childbirth and breast-feeding, take an old-fashioned, pious attitude toward premarital sex, do not begin to understand lesbian relationships, insist on prescribing without explaining and, in general, outrage their patients and demean them beyond bearing.

Now these are criticisms that have been leveled at doctors in general, and I have no doubt in many cases there is some justice in such complaints. It is an incontrovertible fact that there are lots of doctors, like lots of people, who just do not communicate well with anyone. And if you do not communicate well, or at least listen well, and you are a doctor, you are going to have a lot of dissatisfied patients or ex-patients.

All of which has very little to do with being what we seem to be required to call "sexist". The difference between men and women, the venerable French insistence on the desirability of which having been duly acknowledged, in the relationship between men - doctors - and their women patients has most certainly been taken for granted in ways which many women find uncongenial, if not demeaning.

It is a poorly kept secret that doctors' shoptalk is replete with cliches that label mothers as "complaining", young women as "cute chicks" or "demanding and bitchy". Some of us are a little too inclined to first-name our women patients in a condescending father-child manner and slur over explanations as if they were beyond the understanding of fragile minds.

The more serious objectives of the militant feminists are less readily put into focus. These have to do with displacing the doctor by women counselors who will perform breast and "internal" examinations, Pap smears, pregnancy tests, tests for gonorrhea and instruct women in "know your body" courses.

Nurse midwives, medical technicians and self-taught "paraprofessionals" are judged by the feminists to be more sympathetic, more informative and more attuned to women's special problems. It is felt that they lend a kind of communal dignity to such encounters which doctors have failed to provide and women sorely need.

Huron ASC committee men chosen

Thirty-eight Huron County ASC Community Committee Delegates convened Dec. 12, at the TVO Hall, Ubyly, for the County ASC Convention.

Delegates were elected by farmers in the county by mail election. Over 1300 ballots were cast to elect three regular and two alternate committeemen from each of the fourteen ASC Communities of the county.

The three regular members serve as delegates to the County ASC Convention to elect the county committee whose terms are expiring. Howard Finkel, Port Hope was elected chairman of the County Committee. Raymond Lutz, Sebawaing, was elected vice-chairman and Ray Er-rer, Bad Axe, was elected a new member of the Committee.

Dan A. Franzel, Ubyly, who has served as chairman of the County Committee since 1960, was not eligible for re-election. County Committeemen who have served three consecutive terms since 1965 are not eligible for re-election, according to Federal Law enacted in 1965.

Franzel will continue as president of the Michigan Association of Farmer elected ASC Committeemen, a position he has held since 1967.

Former resident is college nursing grad

Mrs. James Reifsnnyder (Marie Gurdon), of Henderson, Nev., and formerly of Cass City, will receive an associate degree in Nursing Friday from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Mrs. James Reifsnnyder

She is a 1956 graduate of Cass City High School, and is the daughter of Mrs. Virginia Kuhl of Cass City.

She plans to continue working for a degree in Psychiatric Nursing at the University.

Truemmer completes Unit I course

Lyle Truemmer, assembly foreman, Walbro Corporation, Cass City, completed the Unit I course Friday in Wittenberg University's Management Development Program.

The series of five-day on-campus courses are designed to strengthen the management competency and provide new insights into the management functions of supervisory personnel in industry.

The courses concentrate in four areas-behavioral studies and motivation, communications and leadership, management functions and methods, and economics and personnel relations.

employer. As a public police officer, if you see a crime being committed, you can pursue. And most important, you're dealing with the public every day.

In many ways, being a public officer is more demanding than a private security guard's job because in dealing with people, you have to be flexible and know a little about psychology. "You need an understanding of people and their problems," he said. "For instance, as a public policeman, we get involved with traffic control, drugs, drinking—all the moral issues of today. And you have to be ready to contend with them."

It was a tiny park in a small town. But I thought the tree was the biggest Christmas tree in the whole world!

A scent of evergreen and snowflakes mingling still comes back to me, and I remember looking far to the top where a huge star sparkled against a black velvet sky. I wondered if God were looking down, admiring our star.

Yes, God was there—in the heart of old Mr. Cunningham, his banker's dignity stuffed in a red flannel suit, and in the blue fingers of Miss Lucy, coaxing carols from a wheezy organ. He was there in baskets of food brought by the Ladies Aid Society and in neatly stitched quilts made for the orphans by the Women of the Church.

Today, more than ever, people need to learn the love of God from the warmth of their fellow-man. Your church teaches faith through works. Go to your church and know the joy that comes from helping others.

Much of McCampbell's work involves traffic control. He said in his first six months on duty in Gagetown, he has made 675 traffic stops and issued 110 citations.

In the beginning, he said he wrote citations for about one traffic stop in every three or four. That ratio has been reduced now to about one in ten.

"When I first started, I would write between seven and ten tickets in a two hour period for 50 or over violations," McCampbell recalled. "Now I can go three or four days without writing a citation."

FLEXIBILITY

McCampbell believes laws must have some flexibility. That's why he tries to understand a situation, particularly a traffic stop, before taking action.

"If I stop someone and they're genuinely contrite about what they've done—if it was a genuine mistake, I'll let him go with a warning," McCampbell said. "If I have to stop him a second time, he'll get a ticket."

He said many times, a person exceeding the speed limit does so simply because he isn't thinking about his driving. These obvious mistakes don't bother McCampbell as much as flagrant violations of the law.

"I think the people enjoy my being on duty," he said. "I think control was lacking to an extent before I started. And I've enjoyed the work. I think more people know me than I know."

He said being an "outsider" has made a difference in doing his job.

"I feel as though I can do my job without any apprehension about stopping a good friend," he said. "I can work without any interference with my judgement."

McCampbell said he particularly appreciates the esprit de corps among his fellow officers from surrounding communities, including Cass City and the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

"I've had occasions when I've called for assistance and within five minutes, I've had three cars on the scene," he said. "This is a great thing to watch and to be associated with."

Don't let winter put a freeze on your milk production.

This year don't let your dairy cows get into that usual cold weather production slump. Add Mol-Mix Liquid Feed Supplements to your feeding program.

Mol-Mix is the quality Liquid Feed Supplement that stays in suspension and won't freeze or become too thick even in the coldest temperatures. It is the supplement that helps you keep production up while holding costs in line. Plus you get savings in time and effort.

This winter convert to our liquid concept. You'll be glad you did.

Who put lid on basket? Dismal shooting Hawks lose to Lakers Cass City fell from the top of the Thumb B Conference lead last Friday as they were decisively beaten by a good Laker basketball team, 75-63, in a game that was nearly as close as the final score indicates.

continue to shoot this Friday as they did last Friday it could be the start of a long, long season for the team. But it's not likely that they will. Seldom has a team missed as many close-in shots as Cass City did in the first and second quarters against the Lakers. The shot chart tells the tale. Cass City hit just 28 per cent for the night while the Lakers were burning the hoops with 49 per cent, including a red hot 54 per cent in the first half.

normally it's going to be a little hard to predict who will win Friday's match with Caro. The Tigers were bested by Bad Axe last week, 77-66, but extended the Lakers to the limit before bowing. Cass City topped Bad Axe, but was putty in the hands of the Lakers. This year in the Thumb B most anything can, and probably will, happen. If they play like they did last Friday, it's hard to see any team besting the Lakers. The game was over almost before it began. Dan Wisner, lanky forward, hit four straight field goals in the opening period and Tom Matteson helped to control the boards at both ends of the court.

With Cass City blowing close-in shots galore, Matteson was there to pick off the rebounds. At the end of the first period the score was 22-10.

Things didn't improve much for Cass City fans in the second quarter as the green and white continued to hit and Cass City continued to miss.

The second period was almost a duplicate of the first and at the intermission, Cass City was trailing by a huge 46-20 margin.

In the early moments of the third quarter the Lakers continued to surge ahead and by the time Coach Dave Johnson had pulled his regulars midway in the period the lead had stretched to 32 points.

From that point on, both coaches turned to their benches and everyone eligible on both teams shared in the action. Cass City's bench proved superior as the margin steadily dwindled until the final difference was a respectable 12 points.

According to the shot chart, Cass City had fewer violations and turnovers in the loss to Lakers than the team did the previous week in a winning effort against Sandusky. In Coach Ron Nurnberger's rating system the club was minus four last week and minus 23 the week before.

An interesting statistic was the rebounding totals. For persons at the game it is hard to believe, but Cass City snared 52 rebounds while the Lakers were credited with 43.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Cass City Junior Varsity won its first game of the year in the preliminary, 60-58. In contrast to earlier games when the young Hawks led early and faded in the stretch, the JV's overcame an 11-point halftime deficit to win in the final moments of the game.

Rev. Vender entertains at library story hour

Forty-two children were present at the Christmas story hour at Rawson Memorial Library Saturday. Rev. Melvin Vender entertained the older children with the story, "Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh" or "The Child of the King". Other stories were told by Michelle Zdrojewski and Doris Jones.

Part of the material used was from a "Christmas Celebration" packet sent out by the White Pine Library System. A limited number of these packets are available for persons needing such material.

New books are arriving almost daily at the library. Recent arrivals are "Helter Skelter: the True Story of the Manson Murders" by Vincent Bugliosi, "Jes-samy Court" by Anne Maybury, "Doctor Frigo" by Eric Ambler, "Any Village" by Faith Baldwin, "Goodbye to Yesterday" by Arlene Hale, "Royal Summons" by Elizabeth Cadell, "The Adventure of Being a Wife" by Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, "Time Out for Happiness" by Frank B. Gilbreth Jr., and "Shoulder the Sky" by D. E. Stevenson.

Other new titles are "The Practical Handbook of Concrete and Masonry", "Handy Man's Plumbing and Heating Guide", "How to Enjoy Your Weeds", "String Things You Can Create", "Puppy Owner's Handbook" and "How to Keep Your Pet Healthy."

Dear Santa: Youngsters tell Yule time desires

Dear Santa Claus
My name is Tina Zeplin. I'm 5 years old and have been a good girl this year. I would like a coloring book, Snoopy tooth brush, Snoopy pencil sharpener, radio, doll, doll house and clothes, Easy Bake oven, and a stuffed duck.

I have a sister, Evelyn, and she is 7 years old. She would like a doll, stuffed duck, Easy Bake oven, coloring book, cards, games, comb and brush set and coat.

We have a baby sister Tammy. She is 5 months old. She would like a little doll and some toys that are soft and make noise.

We will leave you some milk and cookies.

We Love You
Tina, Evelyn, and Tammy Zeplin

Dear Santa,
My name is Jennifer. For Christmas bring me a light bright, record player and a "Nancy Nonsense". I have been a good girl.

Love,
Jenny

Dear Santa,
My name is Jeffery VanAllen. I am almost 3 years old. My little brother Michael is 1 year old.

For Christmas I want a dumptruck, a loader, a belt, and a pair of long john's like daddy's.

Michael wants a tricycle, a toy telephone, some little cars, and a pull toy. We've been trying to be good boys all year.

Dear Santa,
I want "Baby alive" and a Barbie doll and a good book too. And some good toys. Thank you, Goodby. Now see you in Cass City.

From
Juanita Bradley
Age 7

Dear Santa,
I would like some Rig-A-Jigs, a Rub-a-dub dolly and a Snoopy pencil sharpener. Also some doll clothes.

Merry Christmas Santa

Love ya Santa,
Jeffery & Michael

P.S. We'll leave you milk and cookies and some sugar cubes for your reindeer.

Dear Santa,
Hope you are feeling fine. I am writing to tell you what we want for Christmas.

My name is Danny and I want a bulldozer and one John Deere digger. My brother, Chuck, wants a fire truck and a bailer. My sister, Heather,

Love,
Danny, Chuck and Heather Merchant

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY

Dear Santa,
My name is Suzanne Generous and my Mommy says I have been a very good girl in the last year.

For Christmas please bring me a Baby Alive, Inchworm, a Dolly Swing, and Toss-Across. Also please bring me some new clothes. Thank you for all the nice things you brought for me last year.

I would like a dolly, a rocking chair, some squeeze toys, and some pretty new clothes.

Merry Christmas Santa.

P.S. Will leave you some milk and Rice Krispie squares for you and the reindeer

Take a Break
By Richard Jones

The guy whose troubles are all behind him is probably a school bus driver.

People seem to get nostalgic about a lot of things they weren't crazy about the first time around.

A road map tells a motorist everything he wants to know except how to fold it up again.

Christmas is the season when shoppers wonder which is going to give out first -- their money or their feet.

Your money will last longer at Richard's TV, Appliance and Furniture, Cass City, phone 872-2930. See us for good buys on beautiful, lasting furniture.

Jack Dickinson dies Dec. 10

Jack Dickinson, 51, Cass City, died at Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday, Dec. 10, following a long illness.

He was born in Bad Axe April 11, 1923, son of Mrs. Nancy DeLong Dickinson of Cass City and the late John Dickinson.

He came to Cass City in 1950 from Bad Axe. He was a farmer. He was also a member of Salem United Methodist Church.

He is survived by his mother; one niece, Mrs. Dick Fisher, one nephew, Richard Dickinson, and five great-nieces and nephews. His father and one brother preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Thursday from Little's Funeral Home with Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of Salem United Methodist Church, officiating.

Interment was in Novesta cemetery.

Success builds the name — and the name brings more success.
