MRS. JANICE RANDS, village census-taker, calls at the Phil Olsow home Monday as the special headcount of Cass Cityans began. The census is expected to be completed by the end of the week. Other enumerators are Mrs. Ann Craig, Mrs. Judy Ware and Mrs. Linda Leeson.

Council gives nod to record budget

Cass City Village Council gave its final approval to the 1977 general fund budget, turned thumbs down on participation in the "Silent Observer" program and approved spending another $1,000 to refurbish council chambers during its regular meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

Trustees gave their blessing to a general fund budget calling for expenses and revenues totaling $344,250—about eight per cent over what the village spent in 1976 and roughly 16 per cent over the approved 1976 budget.

Once again, the largest single source of revenue is the real property tax, budgeted at $139,750. Personal property taxes, CETA money and federal revenue sharing, along with state shared revenues and a number of fees and reimbursements account for the balance.

The police department should make the heaviest drain on the general fund, with a total of $92,400 in expenditures okayed. The largest single portion of the police budget will go for salaries and wages, $55,000.

Another $82,400 is earmarked for village operations including administrative wages and salaries, insurance and bonds, unemployment insurance, council salaries and a host of housekeeping items.

Parks operations were budgeted at $23,600, with another $21,400 set aside for running the swimming pool. The lion's share of pool operation, $10,500, is earmarked for salaries for summer help.

Major street work approved in the budget includes rebuilding Pine Street from Seeger to West and Leach Street from Pine to the south alley at a total cost of $21,700.

On local streets, $18,600 has been set aside for grade, curb and gutter on Woodland from Third to Garfield and Garfield from Woodland to Ale. Seacoating was also approved for Virginia, Huron, Hunt, Maple, Sherman and Water Tower Road.

Also included is $5,000 to repaint the water tower.

SILENT OBSERVER

Council rejected participation in the recently organized "Silent Observer" program in Tuscola county.

Under the program, being organized by the Caro Chamber of Commerce, witnesses would be paid rewards through a secret code number if their evidence led to a conviction.

Village President Lambert Althaver said he opposed the concept because it could turn into a "vigilante kind of thing" and because he sees financial support across the county as questionable.

"Why should money from Vassar go to Cass City to pay a silent observer for instance," he said.

Trustee Nat Tuttle said he was unalterably opposed.

"It's a pretty damning thing on the citizens of today when this type of thing happens (paying for information)," he said. "I'm against it."

Trustee James Ware asked if offering money would help some reluctant witnesses overcome their fear.

"That's a hell of a note!" Tuttle responded.

Ware questioned the legality of paying for information and said innocent persons could be damaged if they were being turned in to police just so someone could collect a reward.

During an initial vote on a resolution not to participate, trustees tied at 2-2. Trustee Gary Jones said council shouldn't discourage individuals from participating if they wanted.

Trustees reconsidered the motion and passed it 4-0 with

Investigation continues

Thirteen persons charged in county drug arrests

Thirteen persons have been charged with a wide range of drug violations in a sweep of Tuscola county by the Sheriff's Department and agents of the Thumb Intelligence Unit.

According to Sheriff's Lt. Paul Megge, the series of arrests began shortly after midnight Saturday when officers raided the Cornerstone Bar in Unionville.

Five persons arrested at the bar were identified as Larry Francis Humpert, 22, Akron, William Charles Magiera, 19, Caro, George S. Buniak, Caro, Timothy Robert Hartman, 25, Bay City, and Richard Donald Darling, 22, Kingston.

Humpert, Magiera and Buniak were charged with delivery of PCP. Humpert and Magiera were released on $3,000 bond each while Buniak, who was charged with two counts of PCP delivery, was released on $5,000 bond.

All face pre-preliminary exams Feb. 28 in Tuscola County District Court.

Hartman and Darling were each charged with possession of marijuana, a misdemeanor. Each was released on $200 bond and both face preliminary examination in District Court March 7.

Around 2:30 a.m. Saturday, officers arrested Gary Bernard Stratton, 24, Kingston, Gordon Jack Houghteling, 22, Vassar, and James Herbert Corlis, 20, Kingston, at Stratton's home in Kingston, Megge said.

Stratton was charged with one count of delivery of marijuana and was released on $1,000 bond. He faces pre-preliminary examination Feb. 28.

Houghteling and Corlis were charged with possession of marijuana and were released on $200 bond. Each faces March 7 court appearance.

Five more arrests were reported Tuesday. They included Ralph James McAlpine, 21, Joseph Alfred Payne, Becky Cox, 27, Tracy Don Kelly and David Richard Popp, 23, Caro.

McAlpine and Payne were each charged with single counts of sale of PCP and each was placed on $3,000 bond while awaiting Feb. 28 court appearances. McAlpine was reportedly still lodged in the Tuscola County Jail at press time.

Kelly faces three drug counts including delivery of PCP, LSD, and marijuana. His total bond was set at $6,000 and he was reported still lodged in the county jail at press time.

Popp was charged with two counts of delivery of PCP and was free on a total $5,000 bond while awaiting a Feb. 28 court appearance.

Ms. Cox was released on $500 bond while awaiting a March 15 court date on charges of distributing marijuana.

Megge said Tuesday police are continuing their investigation. He said more arrests may be made.

BREAK-INS

Four house break-ins were reported by Sheriff's deputies and Caro State Police during the past week in the Kingston area. The thefts began Saturday when Thomas Clement of Cemetery Rd., Kingston, reported a breaking and entering at his home.

Water lines still freezing

It's still the freezin' season. Supt. Lou LaPonsie told Cass City Village Council members Tuesday night that so far this year, 33 frozen water lines have been thawed by village workmen.

He said having residents run their water day and night has increased consumption by 100,000 gallons per day, over the same period last year. The added chemical cost per day is about $21, he said, or $1,400 for the year.

LaPonsie said frost was blamed for a water main break in the northwest section of the village Thursday night. Before the break could be repaired, an estimated 100,000 gallons of water were lost.

He said the break occurred when frost heaved the ground and pulled a house lead away from the main.

Residents are still asked to keep water running for at least another month.

LaPonsie said water bills are being adjusted based on usage either in the preceding quarter or a year ago. He said if the increases are great, actual bills are being adjusted downward.

LaPonsie said the village has applied for $1,000 under a recent request that the county be declared a disaster area. No action has been taken at the federal level. The money would go to defray costs of thawing frozen water pipes.

Thieves reportedly took a television set, a violin, power saw, a double barrel .16 gauge shotgun and a power drill. Officers valued the stolen property collectively at about $500.

At least one thief came close to being caught in the act Monday night.

According to Caro State Police, the incident occurred when Betty J. Skinner of S. Phillips Rd., Kingston, returned to the home of her brother-in-law, Wayne Dee Boyl of Phillips Rd., around 8:20 p.m.

She told police she found a rear door open and when she entered, she heard someone say, "we better get out of here."

She told officers she saw a sliding glass window move and a light from a flashlight bobbing across the yard.

Before they fled, the culprits took a CB radio, a movie camera and two children's banks and coins. The stolen property was valued collectively at about $275. No suspects have been apprehended.

Two break-ins were reported Sunday. Mrs. Esther Mike of 3307 Froede Rd., Kingston, told Sheriff's deputies she discovered the door to a mobile home owned by Hazel Bea Bajorek of rural Caro had been entered.

Investigation revealed nothing missing. The owner resides in Florida and used the mobile home in the summer, officers said.

Also Sunday, Paul King of Denhoff Rd., Kingston, told Sheriff's deputies thieves had entered his home and stolen a 30-30 rifle, a bow and six arrows, a power sander and two hunting knives valued collectively at $420.

Officers said the thieves forced a front door. Police believe the four break-ins are related, based on their similarity and location.

Things were considerably quieter on the Cass City scene. Police Chief Gene Wilson reported only one incident, the theft of a battery from a truck owned by Schneeberger Appliance Co.

The battery was stolen as the truck was parked behind the store located on Main Street. Wilson said an unknown quantity of gasoline was also taken. Value of the battery was set at $30.

The theft is believed to have occurred late Monday night.

BILL JUHASZ (center) became Cass City's first Eagle Scout in five years Thursday night during ceremonies held at the Cultural Center. Also shown are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Juhasz of Cass City. Scoutmaster Jim Baker officiated at the program. About 40 persons attended.

Village census under way

Four census enumerators began counting noses in Cass City this week in a special population count ordered in September by Cass City Village Council.

Trustees are hoping the census will result in as much as $10,000 more in annual village revenue. Presently, federal aid payments are based on an estimated population of 2,365, while state payments are calculated on the official 1970 census figure of 1,974.

If the village can show the increase actually took place, as much as $10,000 in extra revenue could be headed Cass City's way.

The census takers got their marching orders Monday following nearly a four-month delay as the application waded its way through state channels.

The village has been split into four sections for the head count. The census takers are Mrs. Ann Craig, working the northeast section, Mrs. Linda Leeson in the northwest portion, Mrs. Janice Rands in the southwest section and Mrs. Judy Ware in the southeast portion.

The survey is scheduled to be completed this week. Return calls will be made at homes where no response is received.

It is unknown how soon the final tabulation will be available. Cost of the survey is projected at $1,420.

THE FUTURE of ambulance service in Cass City is still unsettled, even though new, tougher state regulations are now on the books. The law mandates the type of vehicles to be used and their equipment. Roger Little, present ambulance operator, says local government, preferably Elkland township, will have to get involved. Here, Little and assistant Ron Pawloski, pose beside the present ambulance.

Elkland township wrestles with ambulance service future

It's been nearly a year since Elkland township authorities began wrestling with the possibility of operating an ambulance service in the Cass City area and a decision isn't any closer today than it's ever been.

The township started considering jumping into the ambulance business last year in the wake of state legislation mandating stringent standards for equipment and attendants. That legislation is scheduled to take effect April 1.

According to Supervisor Edwin Karr, there's no rush on the township's part to get involved.

"We're all for private enterprise handling this thing," Karr says. "We'd just as soon stay out of it but we'd rather do something than see the area without any ambulance service."

The present Cass City ambulance is owned and operated by Roger Little, owner of Little's Funeral Home.

In the past, Little has said he cannot afford to continue operating under the new state ambulance code.

Cost of the outfitted ambulance is estimated at about $20,000. If the township took over the service, housing and manpower would also be needed.

Karr says it would take at least 20 trained Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) volunteers to make the service work. He said even though the operators would be volunteers, they would probably receive some sort of token reimbursement for their time similar to what firemen receive.

Another problem is housing. Township authorities have all but ruled out adding another stall at the fire hall to store the ambulance.

Karr says there's a possibility housing could be provided at the hospital where the ambulance could also be dispatched.

There could be federal help in purchasing the ambulance, Karr says, but that's not known definitely. He said application forms for ambulance grant money were filled out last year but before they could be turned in, the township was told funds had dried up.

SERVICE AREA

Once the vehicle is purchased, there's the cost of operation. Karr believes the township can generate enough revenue to finance the service with the help of revenue sharing, tax money from increased valuations and contributions from other area townships.

He said the service would probably cover more area than the fire department. Karr suggested the ambulance's coverage area could extend as far east as M-19, as far south as M-46, as far north as Sebawaing Road and as far west as Colwood Road.

Once the service was established, there'd be the book-keeping and billing and the workers would have to be classified as township employees, Karr says.

"We're definitely all for private enterprise taking this thing over," he says. "If we can find a private operator who wants to take it on, he's more than welcome to it. We won't try to compete against him or tell him he can't come in."

The closest existing ambulance is Collon Funeral Home in Caro. Karr says if no one else stepped in to take over the operation, owner J. Benson Collon indicated he might be able to station an ambulance in Cass City. But that's far from certain.

The next closest services are in Unionville, Elkton, Ubyla and Marlette.

Roger Little, Cass City ambulance owner and operator, says the new law will eventually put him out of the ambulance business. Under a grandfather clause, Little can continue to operate his vehicle until it wears out.

Then it must be replaced with a newer, more expensive ambulance costing from $16,000 to $20,000. Little believes ambulance service belongs with local government just as police and fire protection does.

"The township board has taken on the responsibility to at least be fully informed about the situation," Little says. "What people need to recognize is that ambulance service is a branch of medical services, and that it's needed."

He says government regulations have all but forced

Larry and Pat Neff
Song Evangelists

Rev. Russell J. Stanley
Pastor

LARRY and PAT NEFF, of Owosso, Mich., are commissioned song evangelists on the Eastern Michigan District.

Singing the gospel of Jesus Christ is the center of their lives. Mrs. Neff has spent years in study of the piano and organ. The Neffs specialize in their duet work and at times use the bass viol. In many of their campaigns they work with choirs. Some of their songs are of their own writing, and they have produced stereo records.

Their desire in singing is to communicate the gospel of Jesus Christ.

The pastor, Rev. Russell J. Stanley will bring the messages during this week-end Revival. You, your family and friends are invited to worship with us.

In a way this week's salute to the leaders of local Boy Scouts comes a year late.

That's because Clyde Wells is no longer connected with the Cubs.

We'd certainly be remiss if we didn't point out to you Clyde's work with the Cubs. He spent 15 years at the job. Always presented a strong, varied, interesting program with the youngsters.

He's bowed out to Fred Leeson but there are many, many families who know and appreciate his job.

Time fleets by department.

Dr. H. T. Donahue tells this one on himself. He was shopping up town when John Maharg came strolling in.

They visited a minute and then Dr. Donahue said, "Don't you have a brother coaching at Laker High?"

I'm the brother, said John, succinctly.

Residents on the west side of North Seeger observed a doe deer which invaded the back yards of the Steve Frank, Paul Craig and Wayne Rabideau homes.

That's unusual. But with the natural skepticism of the reporter, I asked myself, how did they know it was a doe? By the last of February don't all deer have no horns?

I wasn't sure so I called one of my resident experts on hunting, Dick McCollum. According to Dick, it's possible that a buck would have horns this late in the season, but not probable.

So it could have been a buck loping through town last week, not a doe. I'm going to assume it was. A big buck always causes more excitement than a little doe.

Except to another deer.

This is irony. During the week I often jot down ideas for this column of trivia. This week one of my notes read, "How soon we forget".

I swear it's true. I can't for the life of me remember what this item was all about.

I've had this happen before and then had the item come flooding back to me after the paper is published.

If that happens this time I'll print it next week no matter how late that may make it.

I read somewhere that you can rent medical appliances at our local drug stores. I needed one this week so I asked about it.

It seemed strange the way Mike Weaver laughed when I asked to rent a cane because of a leg injury.

The mystery was cleared when someone picked up the cane for me. The entire appliance cost $5.49.

The worst part of this deal is that Weaver gave me the cane "for rent" and, I'm sure, thinking the worst about this cheapie at the corner of Oak and Main.

Anyway I paid for the cane, my leg is better and I'm open to all offers for one very slightly used cane at a bargain price.

MEMBERS OF Den 5, Cass City Cub Scouts, watch as Mrs. Mary Damm sets type for this week's edition of the Chronicle. The group toured the paper Tuesday, getting a firsthand look at how a newspaper is put together. Also accompanying the scouts were Den Mother Norma Wallace and Mrs. Doris Jones.

"If It Fitz..." The robot bank

By Jim Fitzgerald

Because of mechanical breakdowns, we needed money. But it was Lincoln's birthday, and all the banks were closed.

The radio and TV commercials keep bragging about how Detroit banks are the friendliest places since brother's. Smirking tellers and giggling loan officers keep saying their greatest joy is helping people get money.

But every time I go to the bank it is closed in honor of Saturday, or because it is the Monday nearest the month in which the shooting stopped on Iwo Jima. What kind of a way is that to help people get money?

It has been called to my attention that drive-in banks are open longer hours than walk-in banks. This doesn't interest me, as I am usually walking. I know it is possible to walk into drive-in banks, but I never feel right about it. I feel foolish, as though I am asking to wash my hands at a car wash.

Anyway, after listening to my gripes about Lincoln's birthday, my wife told me to take a plastic card and stick it in a slot on the outside of our bank. Money would come out automatically, she said.

Really, I wanted to believe her. But this was not my week for having faith in robots.

Two cars had broken down on me within 48 hours. The generator on a tow truck had burned out while trying to jump life into my battery. The reason I needed cash to get through the week end was because mechanical failure had cost me $55 for taxi fare and wrecker service.

There is no way a closed bank building is going to give me money simply for the asking," I said. "It might work for other people, but not for me. If I stick a card in that building, it will drop a cornice on my head."

My wife insisted there was nothing to fear. After inserting my magnetic card, all I had to do was punch four buttons to register my own personal code number in the computer. Then I should push some more buttons which would tell the computer how much money I wanted withdrawn from my checking account. A small door would open and inside it would be an envelope containing the cash required to take her out to dinner for the fourth night in a row. Amazing.

After asking to see my identification, my wife told me my own personal code number. She whispered it into my ear after we stuck our heads into the oven which still smells new after five years.

"You must commit this number to memory," she said. "The bank computer sent it to us on a small piece of tissue paper with instructions to memorize and eat. Now the number is not written down anywhere. It is only in my head, your head, and the computer."

"Every man has his breaking point," I said. "In case of extreme torture, does the bank supply tiny vials of poison which can be secreted in body orifices?"

Assured of top security, I proceeded to follow my instructions. I walked across the street and stuck my magnetic card into the National Bank of Detroit's slot. After roping off the area and checking nearby rooftops for telescopes, I punched the proper numbers. There was a whirring sound and a printed message jiggled into view, like four lemons in Las Vegas. It said:

"Temporarily Out of Order. Please Wait."

Wait? How long is temporarily? That lousy machine had my magnetic card and my personal code, and I had nothing. Not a cent. What would my wife say? I began to sob.

Finally a small door opened in the slot machine. A ghostly voice began to talk to me. I peeked through the door. There was a live man in there.

"The envelope containing your money became wrinkled and jammed the machine," the man said. "I will return your magnetic card and you should begin your transaction all over again."

"It is marvelous to hear a human voice again," I said, "but how do I know you can be trusted? I know you are not a banker, or you wouldn't be inside a bank on Lincoln's birthday. Besides, you are not giggling. Who are you?"

There was no answer. The tiny door snapped shut and the slot spit back my magnetic card. The machine waited, silently. The next move was mine.

I went home. There was no way I could punch out my transaction again. I had forgotten my stupid code number.

Onward and Upward, automatically.

I'm about due to explode a great myth about reporting.

Traditionally, most everyone knows, reporters are supposed to be great spellers. It's one of the tools of the trade. Just like a hammer is to a carpenter. Indispensable.

The truth is that spelling is essential if you happen to be a copy editor or a proof reader. It helps a reporter, sure. And it's certainly a real plus on a small paper like the Chronicle. Especially when the publisher is such a lousy speller himself.

No, it's not sour grapes. I'm not maintaining my position about spelling and reporting because spelling is one of those mysteries of life to me. What triggered all this is a story in the Detroit News Sunday.

A great big feature story on page three was all about Pat Yaroch, 44, (Mrs. Bario) who hails from Kinde.

Pat put in a summer's internship at the Chronicle when a Junior at Michigan State.

She was a good writer. (Not the greatest summer student among the many that interned here, but she ranked near the top.

That was for her writing. For her spelling? The less said the better.

Pat's outstanding attribute was her personality. She fit in well most anyplace.

She had a zest for the business and a steady succession of good jobs in the industry.

She worked at the Wyandotte Tribune, where I received my training before coming to town.

She graduated from there to the Detroit Free Press and later to the Detroit News.

She went overseas for awhile, met an Italian count, married and divorced him, and returned to take a job with the staff of the late Sen. Phil Hart.

Just last week she was appointed to a $35,000-a-year post as media liaison head in the Carter administration.

Back when she worked at the Chronicle the National Organization of Women (NOW) wasn't even thought about. But if it were you'd have to think that Pat would have been a charter member.

If ever there was a woman career orientated it was Pat. And I guess that's what she really had going for her.

She liked the news business, wanted to be in it. A career to her was first priority. It appears like it still is.

From personal experience as a non-speller I know that she still can't spell.

But when you've got enough going for you no one really cares.

If you do everything else really well someone else will see that the details are cared for.

Announce 'Dollar' winners

Bonnie Laming of Decker walked off with the top prize of $100 in George Washington dollars, spendable at participating stores, in the first annual George Washington birthday sale promotion sponsored by the retail division of Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

The prize money was divided among 21 persons and most winners reflected the major shopping area for Cass City, coming from Decker, Cass City, Gagetown, Ubyly, Owendale and Unionville.

Second prize of $50 was won by Mrs. Lena Patch of Cass City. Four prizes of $25 went to Joyce Park, Gagetown, S. Edzik Sr., Cass City, L. Durham, Gagetown, and Jackie Simpson, Ubyly.

Winners of $10 were: Josephine Bartnik, Marie Roch, Mark Neiman, Marilyn Seitermann and Robert Taylor, all of Cass City; Brian Prich, and Olive Nicholas, both of Owendale; Barb Langmaid, Caro; Sandra Sjustak, Kingston; Charlotte Mellendorf, Cass City; Hugh Mitchell, Cass City; June Neiman, Cass City; Clara Gaffney, Cass City; Mary Wood, Unionville, and Audrey Stanley, Cass City.

Purchase tabs now

When is the best time to get your 1977 Michigan license plate tab if you don't have one? The time is now, says Secretary of State Richard H. Austin.

Persons have until March 1 to obtain tabs by mail for passenger cars and motorcycles, Austin said. After March 1, all tabs will be sold through field offices of the Secretary of State.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

A resolution allowing sale of liquor by the glass after 2:00 p.m. Sundays was passed by a 5-2 vote Tuesday by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners. Voting no were Ed Golding of Cass City and Floyd Ducker of Mayville.

Cass City will be one of 26 communities in Michigan to be visited by Artrain, a four-car train of outstanding art that will tour selected communities. Upwards of 5,000 persons daily are expected to visit the display when it is in Cass City July 20-23, Mrs. Holly Althaver told members of Cass City Rotary Tuesday noon.

A special drawing was held Tuesday afternoon to decide the Republican candidate for Gagetown village trustee after Monday's primary election showed a 35-vote tie between Harry King and Tom Reehl. King drew the slip marked elected and will have his name put on the ballot.

Even though meat and food prices continue to rise, a random telephone survey of area housewives indicates their eating habits aren't changing much yet.

The Elkland Township Fire Department feels that the building now housing Jim's Fruit Market would be adequate for a new fire hall, but would prefer a larger, new building, according to Fire Chief Nelson Willy.

Miss Hall dies Feb. 19

Miss Carrie Hall, 66, a lifelong Cass City area resident, died Saturday, Feb. 19, at Provincial House.

She was born Sept. 17, 1910, in Novesta township, daughter of the late Charles and Kate Hall.

Survivors include her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Whitfield of Cass City and a number of nieces and nephews. One brother and three sisters preceded her in death. The funeral was held Tuesday at Little's Funeral Home with Rev. Harry Capps, pastor of First Presbyterian church of Cass City, officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Study program under way

A Family and Community Study Program, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and funded under Title V, has 32 participants involved in a study-travel experience in the Thumb.

The group has met weekly since Jan. 5, according to Extension Home Economist Ann Ross, who is the project director. They have heard speakers and been involved in group process to assess needs of Thumb area families-communities.

One speaker, Dr. Rupert Cutler, has since been appointed to a high position in the United States Department of Agriculture.

One participating couple, while completing their surveys on their personal trip to Hawaii, discovered similar family and community concerns in several states and in England. They brought an English guest to a recent workshop. She gave an international flavor to the study.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Taking the bull by the tail

By Jim Ketchum

If it weren't for the likes of Edwin Newman, newspaper publishers would be plagued with more non-thinking writers than they already have.

Newman, keeper of the language for NBC news, has done more to make English an interesting, challenging and at times amusing language than any number of high school language teachers you can name.

The veteran reporter stands ever ready to fend off the slings and arrows of outrageous alliteration, monstrous metaphor and silly simile. He's also helped a lot of us in this business look twice at the copy we turn in.

His book "Strictly Speaking" has helped raise the consciousness toward language and made my job a little tougher in the process.

In spite of this crusader mounted on his Webster's Dictionary seated behind his trusty typewriter, murderers of the King's English are still roaming freely. Some of them even manage to land careers in radio and television.

Topping the list of my most hated words is "outage". What the Sam Hill is an outage anyway?

Power companies throw this word around when the lights go out, the refrigerator stops and the furnace ceases to furnish heat. They say it is an outage.

What they mean is a power failure has occurred. While I have grated under the term "outage", I have yet to hear a return of electricity called an "inage". Our latest power "irage" is costing us lots of money in the form of higher bills.

Then there is "Quantify". Why can't you simply say "measure"? If I quantify the number of mistakes in this week's paper, I'm measuring or adding them.

Notice I'm not adding them up. If I could add them up, I could also add them down. Maybe even sideways if I worked at it. I haven't tried adding anything diagonally.

Of course how could a discussion of this sort go by without rehashing "irregardless". The word irregardless means absolutely nothing. It's the combination of a double negative.

Regardless by itself is a good, strong word. Tacking an "ir" in front kills it, irregardless of what anybody else tells you.

Not long ago, the federal government sent a batch of money it couldn't spend fast enough to every unit of government. Someone called it a "counter-cyclical" grant.

I'm not certain even President Carter can tell you just what counter-cyclical means. Of what cycle do they speak? And why are they countering it? The only countering I understand is the surface on which my wife prepares dinner.

Then there's something in the world of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act called "non-positive terminations", used to describe persons who drop out of a program, quit or are fired. Why can't you simply say someone quit, dropped out or got fired?

It's as W.C. Fields so accurately and eloquently put it, "There comes a time in the affairs of men when we must take the bull by the tail and face the situation."

Eye $4 million from CETA for Thumb

Nearly $4 million in Title VI Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds should be on its way to Michigan's Thumb area soon. The announcement was made by Thumb Area Consortium Director Frank Lenard at the consortium's administrative board meeting Thursday in Cass City.

Lenard said the present $1,298,845 Title VI public service employment grant will be doubled or possibly tripled. He said the funds could start flowing in as soon as next month, but said April is a more likely date.

Tripling the current allocation would bring the total Title VI allocation for fiscal year 1977 to about $3.9 million for Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties.

Lenard said there are strings attached to the money. The funds must be spent on designated projects which can be completed within 12 months of their beginning.

The projects could include such items as sidewalk construction, public building repairs, park construction or conservation. The funds will be designated to provide labor only. Local units of government benefitting from the projects will have to provide materials, he said.

The state's Department of Labor added a set of its own strings in the form of eligibility standards for workers. Lenard said the state has set minimum income levels and mandated that an applicant either be on ADC, out of work at least 15 weeks and receiving unemployment benefits, out of work at least 15 weeks and ineligible for benefits or an unemployed person who has exhausted his benefits.

The state says all applicants must meet the standards while federal regulations say only 50 per cent must meet the standards. The rest must meet a more lenient set of regulations.

A phone call to authorities in Lansing resulted in yet another regulation-waivers will be granted on an individual basis, Lenard said.

Under the rules, qualifying annual income levels range from $2,310 for a single person to $8,870 for a family of six or more.

Chairman Maynard McConey said he'd be willing to give the regulations a try before attempting to have them changed.

Huron county member Calvin Reibling, Elkton, said he liked the idea of hiring CETA workers for specific projects, saying too many CETA workers are hired and wind up with nothing to do.

"The townships have been the worst culprits of any," he said. "If that's what's going to happen, it would be better if we turned over 90 per cent of this CETA money to Social Services and give it to them."

The board also discussed the possibility of forming a non-profit corporation to handle contracts for projects. Under the law, bids on projects must be made by non-profit corporations such as the Human Development Commission.

No decision was made. The board okayed the signing of non-financial agreements with Michigan Employment Security Commission offices in Caro, Bad Axe and Sandusky for Title VI referrals. The agreements are needed by March 7.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, Sanilac CETA Coordinator Leonard

Hool said CETA workers in his county laid off due to lack of funding are drawing only federal supplemental unemployment benefits.

Hool had earlier feared the layoffs would result in both federal and state unemployment benefits being paid out. A total of 25 persons lost their jobs in the cutback, with another 25 being absorbed by the county or local units of government.

The Consortium's fiscal report ending Jan. 31 was reviewed. It showed a total of $27,520 spent so far this fiscal year under Title I with 215 persons enrolled at the end of last month. Another $895,547 remains to be spent.

Under Title II, $838,066 has been spent so far in the fiscal year, with another $457,483 remaining. A total of 193 persons were employed under Title II programs at the end of January.

No activity was reported in Title VI. The board authorized Lenard to attend the Human Development Commission's annual meeting March 7, at Caro and two manpower leadership conferences in Ann Arbor and Lansing, March 12 and April 30.

Budget gets okay

trustee William Bliss abstaining.

COUNCIL CHAMBERS

Trustees okayed spending another $1,000 on renovating council chambers. At their last meeting, council approved spending $2,500 for a new desk, windows and chairs for the room.

Althaver reported final costs will be about $300 above that figure, but should be made up in other parts of the budget. So far, the cost has reached $1,659, with another $1,350 expected to be spent purchasing chairs.

The additional $1,000 will go toward paneling and a dropped ceiling in the council room and main entrance to the Municipal Building.

Council okayed the allocation on a 4-1 vote with Trustee Nat Tuttle objecting. He said painting the room would be enough for this year and that added renovation should be put off for another year.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, Jim McCoy, Cable TV owner, appeared before council to request permission to raise his monthly rates from $6 to $7. McCoy said Federal Communications Commission rules mandate that council give its blessing to the increase before it takes effect.

McCoy said his business has sustained losses of $102,000 in the past two years, with about half the loss in depreciation.

The increase would take effect April 1 if approved. A decision is expected at the next meeting.

Council heard the annual audit report from representatives of Yeo and Yeo, accountants. They gave the village a clean financial bill of health.

Jim Sygo, planner from the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region, gave a slide presentation on plans to improve water quality in the 14-county region of which Tuscola county is a member.

Sygo asked council for their involvement and support in the project.

Council approved a request for a dance permit at the Colonial Inn which would allow dancing by couples only.

Trustees also rehearsed the perennial problem of unshoveled sidewalks in the village. An unenforced ordinance allows the village to plow the walks and bill the property owners.

The question was referred to the street committee.

The man who borrows trouble never has optimism to lend.

THESE PROVINCIAL HOUSE residents aren't off their rockers. They spent most of Saturday in their rockers, helping raise money for the American Heart Association. A total of 22 residents rocked their way to a little over $700 for the association. About 110 Girl Scouts and Brownies collected pledges for the rockers.

private ambulance operators out of business.

Ernie Zinger, owner of Zinger Funeral Home in Ubyly, who also operates an ambulance, says he has serious doubts whether or not he can continue the service.

"It's always been a losing proposition," Zinger says.

He's critical of what he sees as a lack of concern by the public and government officials over ambulance service.

"The sense of values is all out of proportion," he says. "There's nowhere you can live where you don't have fire protection. Yet when it comes to ambulance service, it's a different story."

Zinger, who went on his first ambulance call in 1934, says he attempted to organize a county-wide ambulance service through the county commission which would have met Civil Defense criteria but claims he found a lack of interest.

He's concerned that when he drops out of the ambulance business, the next closest one will be 10 miles away. He also believes the service should be operated either by a fire department or in conjunction with a local unit of government.

Couple sues Lanphar's

A Camden, Mich., couple filed suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court this week against Lanphar's Inc., of Caro, in connection with an office accident that took place in April, 1975.

Elmer Miller and his wife, Marcelene, are seeking $20,000 damages following an accident in which Miller allegedly tripped and fell over an exposed telephone cord in Lanphar's Caro office. Miller charges the accident resulted in shoulder and head injuries, degenerative disc disease, arthritis, and unspecified pain and suffering.

Miller seeks $10,000 for himself while his wife also seeks $10,000, charging the accident deprived her of her husband's companionship.

The case will be heard before Judge Martin Clement.

Your Neighbor says

Yes to hand gun law

The seemingly endless battle over gun control is a sure bet to rage again in this session of congress as those for and against the restriction on hand gun sales seek legislation.

Mrs. Ernest Teichman of Cass City says she has no quarrel with weapons used by hunters. But she is concerned about hand guns.

"Keeping a gun in the house for an intruder is wrong," she says. "That's when you have accidents."

Mrs. Teichman says she'd like to see some form of hand gun control.

"I think you'd have to have a law of some kind eventually," she says. "They're too easily purchased."

Mrs. Teichman says as long as guns used for hunting are kept under lock and key and out of reach of children, that's all right. What concerns her is the relative ease with which many so-called "Saturday Night Specials", cheap, often dangerous handguns, are purchased.

Mrs. Teichman is a native of Royal Oak and came to Cass City in 1970 with her husband, an insurance agent. He and his wife have three children.

HOW COME?

Fifth In A Series

Television and news-journalists are making the public aware of Generics for prescriptions. Check these 5 questions and answers.

Q. What's a generic drug?

It's a drug or medication that is produced by more than one manufacturer, such as penicillin or aspirin. Most often these generic drugs of identical chemical composition are distributed under a multitude of different brand names.

Q. What does this law mean to you?

If there is a cost difference between "brand name" drugs, the law permits your pharmacist to select and dispense the "lower cost, quality brand" (unless your physician insists on a particular brand). Savings from this service by your pharmacist are passed on to you.

Q. Does this mean you will NOT get the medicine your doctor prescribes?

No. The law still requires the pharmacist to dispense only a quality medication as prescribed. You get the prescription your doctor specifies.

Q. Will all prescriptions be cheaper?

Not always. Many prescription drugs are only made by one manufacturer, and the pharmacist has no control over the manufacturer's price.

Q. Do 'brand' drugs and generic drugs look alike?

Not necessarily. In certain instances a difference in appearance may be noted. Your pharmacist will counsel you accordingly. The best pharmacy care is based on communications, confidence and complete information about your medication therapy.

Tom and Jan are ready to help you with any questions. Make Old Wood Drug your pharmacy. You'll be glad you did.

Ubyly FFA to mark week

Members of the Ubyly FFA Chapter joined with over 500,000 other FFA members in the United States in celebrating National FFA Week which started Feb. 19. Throughout the week, the state's 170 chapters are planning activities to support the theme, "Agriculture's New Generation."

According to President Tom Rutkowski, the Ubyly FFA Chapter will set up a display in the Community Bank of Ubyly, distribute posters around Ubyly, and have the members of the chapter participate in Superstar competition during FFA Week.

National FFA Week always includes George Washington's birthday in observance of his leadership in promoting scientific farming practices. Washington is considered the patron saint of the FFA and has come to symbolize the FFA treasurer.

Organized in 1928, the FFA promotes leadership, cooperation and citizenship among high school vocational agriculture students. The FFA Foundation awards program provides chapter, state and national recognition for supervised programs of agricultural production, marketing, processing and service.

BB - BS sets drive

The week of Feb. 20-26 has been declared as National Big Brothers-Big Sisters Week, according to local county director Rich Firebaugh. The 1977 Big Brothers-Big Sisters Week will be observed in more than 200 communities in the United States to stimulate recruitment of Big Brother and Big Sister volunteers.

"The program offers a unique service to boys and girls by providing them with the friendship of an adult volunteer and the aid of a trained staff worker," Firebaugh explained.

Boys and girls in the Big Brother-Big Sister program are as young as seven and as old as fifteen. They come in all shapes and sizes and are usually from "one-parent" settings, Firebaugh said.

The need for Big Brother and Sister volunteers is great, he said, and so are the rewards for being involved.

Firebaugh hopes to have 15 new volunteers apply during Big Brother-Big Sister Week. For more information, call 673-6996, or drop by the office located at 230 North State St., Caro.

Pryor completes training

Marine Private James A. Pryor Jr., son of Mrs. Truman Maynard of Route 1, Owendale, has completed the infantry combat training course at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

PVT. JAMES A. PRYOR JR.

During the six-week course, he received classroom instruction and participated in field exercises involving infantry tactics; the construction and camouflage of fighting positions; and the use of mines, demolitions and intracompany communications equipment. His specialized training centered on the operation, employment and maintenance of antitank rockets, recoilless rifles and flame-throwers.

A 1976 graduate of Owen-Gage High School, he joined the Marine Corps in August, 1976.

Wojtowicz rites held Tuesday

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Stanley Wojtowicz, 87, Cass City, who died Saturday, Feb. 19, at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Saginaw.

He was born Feb. 27, 1889, in Poland and came to the U.S. from Austria in 1907.

He married Miss Anna Zielna in 1911 in Chicago. The couple came to Novesta township in 1931 from Chicago. She died Feb. 13, 1955.

He attended St. Michael's Catholic church of Wilmot. He also served in the U.S. Army during World War I in France. He was also a member of the Tri-County Post of the American Legion Post No. 507 of Cass City.

A rosary and prayer service were conducted Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. from Little's Funeral Home.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at St. Michael's Catholic church, Wilmot, with Rev. Fr. Richard Kubiak officiating.

Burial was in Wilmot cemetery.

ASK DR. ELIZABETH

By Dr. J. Elizabeth Morgan, M.D.

S.T.S. (or, sexually transmitted disease) is the "polite" name for it these days, but politeness aside, V.D. is getting so common you'd almost say it was popular.

It's not a nice thing to have -- and if you're a guy and always figured you'd know if you caught it, think again.

Dear Dr. Morgan: Is it possible for a man to have gonorrhea without knowing it -- and then transmitting it?

A. Yes. Up to 10 per cent of men treated for gonorrhea have no symptoms.

Dear Dr. Morgan: I've heard that a high roughage diet will prevent a disease called diverticulosis. How does this work and what sort of diet is needed?

A. Fifty per cent of people at age 50 have diverticulosis. In this disease, muscle in the large intestine weakens, letting lining of the intestine bulge out. Bleeding and infection may result. The theory of using diet to prevent diverticulosis is this:

The American diet is low in roughage, and this causes vigorous, but ineffective, intestinal contractions, weakening the muscle, allowing diverticuli to form. Thus, a high roughage diet would decrease these abnormal contractions and prevent diverticuli.

This theory makes sense but hasn't been proved. I would recommend plenty of roughage in your diet anyway. The high roughage foods -- whole wheat bread and cereals, fresh fruit and vegetables, are better for you than junk foods.

Dear Dr. Morgan: I've heard of a tranquilizer, diazepam, that is virtually 100 per cent safe. True or false? I want to stop smoking and think a tranquilizer will help.

A. No drug is 100 per cent safe -- including diazepam. This drug is a benzodiazepine tranquilizer. These and the barbiturates are the most commonly prescribed tranquilizers, but there are many others. Benzodiazepines are used for epilepsy, muscle spasm and as sedatives, and could have these side effects:

(1) You will be drowsy. Driving is not safe after taking any sedative.

(2) You may suffer fatigue, unsteadiness walking and, less commonly, constipation, skin rashes, double vision.

(3) Cramps, sweating, vomiting may occur if the drug is stopped suddenly after being taken in high doses or for a long time.

If anxiety makes you smoke, a week or two of a sedative can help you stop -- temporarily. But you are going to be anxious when you stop the sedative -- and will probably start smoking again.

Dear Dr. Morgan: What causes a detached retina? How do you know if you have one?

A. Causes of detached or separated retina include trauma to the eye, scars from infection or surgery, and diabetes (here, hemorrhages in the eye separate the retina layers).

Normal vision depends on the retina which is made of "rod and cone" nerve cells at the back of the eye. In detached retina, layers of the retina separate from one another. A small separation causes flashing lights or floating bodies, or a curtain or shadow effect in front of the eye. Blindness results if the layers separate completely. A doctor can diagnose a separated retina by looking at your eye with an ophthalmoscope. This shines light through the pupil and lights up the retina at the back.

Small separations may be welded together with a laser or electric current. Wider ones may need surgery. After treatment, vision recovers in up to 75 per cent of cases.

W. Gilbirds dies Feb. 15

William Gilbirds, 83, Decker, died Tuesday, Feb. 15, at Hills and Dales General Hospital following a brief illness.

He was born May 22, 1893, in Austin township, Sanilac county, son of the late Samuel and Katherine Gilbirds.

He married Miss Hilda Hunt, July 27, 1923, in Sandusky. They moved to Evergreen township from Austin township in 1948.

Survivors include his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Willard (Shirley) Kroetsch of Ubyly; two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Kilbourn of Port Huron and Mrs. Susan Ross of Pontiac; four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter. One son, one daughter, three brothers and four sisters preceded him in death.

The funeral was held Friday at Little's Funeral Home with Rev. John Tadginhorst, pastor of the Shabbona United Methodist church, officiating. Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Zonta meets Feb. 15

The Zonta Club held their monthly dinner meeting at Wildwood Farms, Tuesday, Feb. 15. Two guests were present.

The Zonta Club donated twenty books to the Rawson Memorial Library. These books were on creative activities for children.

Toby Weaver, Celia House and Florence Karr were appointed to be on the nominating committee for new officers for the year beginning in April. Installation will be at the April meeting.

Plans were made for a bingo night to be held sometime in April. Donna Werne and Toby Weaver are chairmen.

An invitation was accepted by Zilah Meeker, District 15 Governor, to be the speaker for the May meeting.

Slides were shown on "Thumb Area Historic Overview" by Genevieve Richards. Landmarks and history of Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron counties were highlighted. Paul Soini wrote the script. The next meeting will be held March 15.

Gen-Tel adds circuits

Additional long distance circuits between Cass City and Saginaw were recently completed and put into service, according to C. R. Kowalski, Northeastern Division Manager, General Telephone Co.

Kowalski stated all calls placed by Cass City telephones to locations outside the Cass City local calling area are routed through Saginaw. Projected increases in long distance calling volume require the installation of the additional circuits.

The $22,400 project will provide twelve long distance circuits and associated switching equipment. Each circuit is capable of handling one long distance call.

Road revenues rise

Cass City's share of state Motor Vehicle Highway Fund rose by just over $100 in the final quarter of 1976 compared with the same three month period in 1975, according to figures released last week by the Department of State Highways and Transportation.

Cass City's share stood at $9,393, compared with $9,292 for the same period a year ago.

The increase was attributed to higher state fuel tax revenues which climbed 6.3 per cent during the quarter compared with the same three months of 1975.

Other area villages reported increases. Gagetown received $3,302 for the final quarter of 1976, compared with $3,127 a year ago. Kingston's share of the revenue stood at $2,301, compared with $2,248 for the final quarter of 1975. Ubyly received $4,027, compared with $3,984 a year ago.

County road commissions in the Thumb also recorded increases in state revenue. Tuscola county received $391,576 for the final quarter of 1976, compared with $384,284 for the same period in 1975.

Sanilac county's share of the fund stood at $370,540, compared with $364,672 a year ago.

Huron county's share stood at $345,543, compared with $337,427 a year ago.

The fund, made up of revenue from fuel and weight taxes, is distributed to counties and municipalities through a complex formula based on population and number of miles of highway.

The funds are used for construction and maintenance of highways, roads and streets.

THE FUTURE — IN THEIR HANDS

The Future Farmers of America are working for a better, brighter tomorrow, through the development of agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship...today. And they're making progress every step of the way. We firmly support the FFA Chapters of our area and applaud all their achievements.

"Learning to do...doing to learn...learning to live...living to serve." Their motto is as strong as the young people who stand behind it. Young men and women who will one day take their place as leaders in our growing community. Let's salute them...the future of agriculture is in good hands.

award

Thursday night Newell Harris, a partner in Harris-Hampshire Insurance, will be honored as the man of the year by an insurance firm he represents.

To win Harris reached 100 per cent of the sales goals of the Saginaw regional office which covers 41 counties in Michigan.

NEWELL HARRIS

Harris was selected from over 200 agents for the honor. The counties are divided into five regions and the man of the year is selected from among the five regional top performers.

The award to Harris will be the highlight of the annual banquet for agents and managers at Frankenmuth.

Letters to the Editor

Armbruster
was wrong

Lynda McIntosh
6824 Houghton Street
Cass City, Michigan

Dear Editor,
I am writing in regards to the letter you received last week from Loren Armbruster in which he stated that he attended the entire hearing of the ICC concerning Grand Trunk abandonment and that only four people testified. I can not understand why a person of his character and standing would imply such a false statement when indeed he only attended a portion of the first day and there were over 20 people that testified. I know for a fact that Mr. Armbruster needs the little people like myself and the shippers along the Grand Trunk as much as we need him. Representatives like Mr. Armbruster is our only link to Lansing where all the major decisions concerning this matter will be made. We have written to Mr. Armbruster many times and thought he was behind us, which I am sure he is, but what made him make the statement which he did, I'm sure I don't know.

Coming Auction

Saturday, March 5 - Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cichoracki will sell farm machinery at the place located one mile west and two and a half miles south of North Branch. Ira, David and Martin Osentoski, auctioneers.

Thursday, March 31, Floyd Ziehm and sons will hold a dairy and farm machinery auction, located seven miles north and 6 1/2 miles west of Cass City, corner of McAlpine and Parker Roads. Boyd Tait, auctioneer.

I am also writing to Mr. Armbruster regarding this matter and I hope for my sake as well as the rest of the people in this State that he comes up with a good answer to reinstate my trust in our fellow representatives.

Sincerely yours,
Lynda McIntosh

Armbruster
statement questioned

2-19-77

Dear Editor:

We wish to make a correction to Rep. Loren Armbruster's letter, which appeared in the Chronicle on February 16, 1977.

Congressman Traxler did not appear at the hearing, due to Congress being in session, but his testimony was accepted and placed on record. His representative attended all five days of the hearing. The Congressman had attended previous meetings in Caro and Lansing. His representative attended the meeting in Sandusky.

Rep. Armbruster did not sit through the entire hearing as stated in his letter. He attended only part of Monday. Evidently he was not aware that shippers and receivers testified on Tuesday, Wednesday, and part of Thursday. The balance of the 4 1/2 days hearing was taken up by the testimonies of the State Highway people and more railroad people. Therefore, his statement that "only Railroad Officials testified at the hearing" was true just on Monday. I am enclosing a list of the people who testified at the hearing, and a copy of my letter to Rep. Armbruster.

Very truly yours,
Clifford A. Croft
Pres. of Croft-Clara
Lbr. Co.

CRC
project
gets okay

The way has been cleared for the Michigan Department of Mental Health to proceed with an improvement project at the Caro Regional Center in Tuscola county. The proposal has been granted a certificate of need by the State Health Department.

Under terms of the approved plan, the facility will have its steam distribution system replaced and a power plant stack reinforced. Both are deteriorated.

The project will cost an estimated $943,000 and its completion is scheduled for the spring of 1979.

Preliminary approval of the plan came from the East Central Michigan Comprehensive Health Planning Council and the state administrators of the federal Hill-Burton program. Final approval was granted by the Division of Health Facility Planning and Construction of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Deb Broecker at home on foreign farms

DEB BROECKER poses with a sample of printed cloth she brought back from Germany after her eight month stay as part of an FFA project. She'll soon leave for South America.

After spending eight months in southern Germany, you'd think Debbie Broecker would want to spend some time at home. You'd think so, but you'd be wrong.

The 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Broecker of Hadley Road, Decker, arrived home Jan. 31 and is already planning a four to six-month trip to South America.

Not that she travels just to have someplace to go. Both her excursions are under the auspices of Future Farmers of America (FFA) and each is designed to help understand what farming is like in other nations.

Miss Broecker left just a week after her graduation last spring from Cass City High School and for the next eight months divided her time on two Bavarian dairy farms where she discovered most methods are about 20 years behind American farming technology.

"The first farm I stayed at had about 100 acres of land," Miss Broecker said. "That's a big farm for Germany. Land is almost impossible to buy because it's handed down from generation to generation in the same family."

She said Bavaria is the farming district of the country, with industry located in the northern part of the country.

She said most farms have about 10 milk cows with maybe 20 or so cattle altogether.

"They do a lot more hand work than we do here," she said. "On a lot of farms, for instance, they still rake hay by hand. There are no balers, so the hay is taken by hand and stored in barns."

Miss Broecker was the first student ever from Cass City High School to participate in FFA's foreign travel program. She got involved with it after meeting two exchange students and talking with the head of the International Department for FFA.

She was more than just a tourist, once on German soil. She worked.

"The good weather is so short that you have to make the most of it," she recalled. "You can get a few good days and then maybe it'll rain for a week."

When a good day does come, especially in haying season, things start early. Miss Broecker said 5:00 a.m. found her in the barn, helping with milking chores, followed by a day in the fields.

She admitted when her day was over, she wasn't anxious to do much else.

Once her first three months was past, she took a two-week break before moving on to her next farm, this one about 175 acres near the Alps.

"It was one of the biggest farms in the country," she said. "They milked 65 cows and shipped out lots of milk." She stayed with her second "family" from September through the end of January. She said life wasn't as busy on this farm since the harvest season was past.

She spent Christmas in Germany, one of the few times she wasn't home for the holidays. "It was nice, but I did miss my family," she said.

Now that she's observed farming German style, she plans to spend four months in Colombia, South America, visiting various schools and studying agricultural methods.

When Miss Broecker returns home to stay, she'll be compiling a presentation, including color slides, which she'll show to FFA chapters in Thumb area schools.

As far as she's concerned, the trip has meant a lot to her personally.

"I've grown up some," she says. "It's been a big change for me and I've enjoyed it. It's helped me see how people farm in other countries."

She plans on attending college some day, studying some phase of agriculture.

Commissioners hear rail report

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners disposed of several items in a routine session Tuesday at the courthouse in Caro. The board heard a report from Al Barnes of Michigan Thumb Producers Railroad who outlined his firm's plans in the Thumb. The company is seeking to acquire Grand Trunk Railroad trackage north of Cass City as well as other lines in the Thumb.

Acquisition of the Grand Trunk line is contingent on Interstate Commerce Commission approval of the company's request to abandon the line. A decision is expected by mid-year.

County Dog Warden Mike Franko presented his annual report in which he asked commissioners to consider a county-wide dog ordinance. Presently, Franko and his assistant are deputized and operate under township dog control ordinances.

Commission Chairman Maynard McConkey said the board will study the idea but added the present arrangement appears to be working.

In other business, the board awarded a bid of $5,025 each for five full-size police cars to Jerry Gould Chrysler-Plymouth of Caro. The cars will be used by the Sheriff's department.

Bids ranged from Gould's low bid to a high of $5,881. While bids on intermediate cars were taken, none was purchased. Sheriff Hugh Marr told the board the deputies prefer driving larger, heavier cars because they hold the road better than intermediate-size cars.

He also claimed the full-size cars use less fuel than their smaller counterparts.

The board plans to meet Thursday with the Thumb District Health Department and four persons interested in handling solid waste disposal for the county. Commissioners attending the meeting will be McConkey, Kenneth Kennedy and J. Benson Collon.

In other business, the board named Mrs. Patricia Gilchrist of Vassar to a position on the County Mental Health Board. The post had been vacated through a resignation.

Weather, an earthquake and international politics have all helped make that cup of coffee you drink a lot more expensive than it used to be.

At least that's what coffee experts say, according to Sheila Morley, extension specialist in consumer marketing information at Michigan State University.

Starting with a killing frost in Brazil in July, 1975, in which an estimated 60 per cent of the coffee crop was lost, it's been a case of dwindling supply and higher prices, Ms. Morley says.

The civil war and damaging weather in Angola in August, 1975, resulted in a crop 25 to 30 per cent smaller than in 1974.

Three months later, in November, 1975, severe rains flooded coffee plantations in Colombia, America's second largest supplier of green coffee beans. Crop losses were estimated at 10 to 20 per cent of the expected crop.

A devastating earthquake in Guatemala the following February caused widespread destruction of transportation facilities and drastically cut coffee shipments.

"These countries, and other coffee producers, rely heavily on coffee exports for national income," Ms. Morley says. "The belief is growing that many coffee-growing countries have held back shipments of beans in anticipation of rising prices and that the shortage is not as acute as it first seemed to be."

Alma band slates Ubyly concert

Alma College's Kiltie Band, under the direction of Dr. Jack W. Bowman, associate professor of instrumental music, will present a concert at Ubyly High School at 8:00 p.m., Saturday, March 5.

The 80-member concert band, currently on tour, will present selections and a dozen coeds in authentic kilts of MacPherson tartan will perform traditional Scottish dances including the Highland Fling, the Sword Dance, Shean Trews and Reel O'Tulloch.

The musicians in the Kiltie Band are students majoring in virtually all academic areas at Alma.

Dr. Bowman, in addition to directing the Alma band, is conductor of the Alma Symphony and director of music at First Presbyterian church of Alma.

The Kiltie Band's 10-day tour will include performances in Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

The public is invited to attend the performance at the Ubyly High School gym.

Tickets are on sale at the Ubyly High School office or Hanson's party store with reduced rates for senior citizens and students. Seats will be reserved for senior citizens until concert time.

coffee beans were scarce. Today, they're available at a price. "Present prices are probably an over-reaction," she says.

Don Taylor of the Michigan Food Dealer's Association thinks very little coffee is being sold at or above actual costs. He maintains most grocery buyers were aware in advance of the crop situation and bought heavily last winter and spring at lower prices.

Someone (besides the customer) is taking a loss, he says.

Ms. Morley says prices on a two-pound can of coffee should be at $5.69 instead of the current $5.09, and that three-pound cans should be selling for nearly $8.00 instead of the $7.39.

She says in July, 1975, green coffee beans were selling for about 60 cents a pound. By October, 1976, the price had risen to $1.65 a pound and in December stood at $2.27 a pound.

"A coffee boycott will not change the total amount of coffee available," Ms. Morley says. "It will spread out available supplies and make them last longer until damaged trees can be brought back into production."

She says the coffee industry is not opposed to a boycott or rationing pattern out of hope that it will slow coffee use, slow demand and slow further price increases as roasters compete for available supplies.

"Many retailers think the boycott is really more of a movement to lower-cost brands or a reduction in total amounts consumed than total rejection," she says.

According to MSU statistics, coffee is still the number one beverage in the U.S. but consumption is declining. It has dropped 32 per cent since 1962, experts say.

Still, coffee is America's largest selling drink. We gulp down almost 400 million cups of coffee every day.

Hold World Day of Prayer at Cass City

Plans were announced this week for the International World Wide Day of Prayer. The date is March 4 and time is 2 p.m., with the meeting to be held at Salem United Methodist church.

Women from all the churches in the community are invited to attend. The theme of the 1977 service is "Love in Action."

The first World Day of Prayer was held 90 years ago and had its origin in the United States. Today the service is regarded as the most important ecumenical and international observance of the year.

This year's worship service has been prepared by the women in the German Democratic Republic and will be observed by Protestant, Roman Catholic and Orthodox women in 2,000 local communities in every state across the nation.

Offerings from these services are used to help support many church-related projects.

Learn lifesaving

Medical Explorers seek to help

By Jim Ketchum

"Has everyone read their assignment—chapters four, six and seven?" instructor Larry Kolb asks as 17 high-school age youths open a manual on first aid.

"Let's start with the section on shock," he continues.

Sound like a typical high school class? It isn't. It's a weekly meeting of Medical Explorer Post 2595 at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The students are there because they want to be, according to advisor Mrs. Delbert Potrykus of Deford. They want to learn everything they can about lifesaving and first aid. That's why they joined.

They meet at the hospital, which sponsors the post, a branch of Boy Scouts of America. The group assembles around a long table where they study lifesaving techniques and then practice them on a dummy called "resusc-Annie", furnished by the hospital.

The post began two years ago, but languished for about a year without an adult advisor. Mrs. Potrykus took over the reins as advisor recently and since then, interest has revived.

"The main interest of these kids is either in science or medicine," she explained as the instruction session continued. "This is geared to their age group and gives them something they can't get in school."

The important difference is the students in Exploring are there because they want to be, she says.

"These kids want involvement," she says. "Their ultimate goal is to get their accreditation as an emergency post so they can offer help in case of a disaster."

The youths will study several lifesaving and first aid techniques such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, treatment of simple injuries and what to do until help arrives.

The students are scheduled to complete a seven-week first aid training course before going back to their twice a month meetings. Currently, they meet each Thursday.

There are also movies and guest speakers, but the students enjoy doing more than just watching. According to Charles Reynolds, Cass City area Scouting representative, interest among students picks up sharply when the ordinary round of lectures is replaced with students practicing what they've learned.

WHAT IS EXPLORING?

Exploring is a program of the Boy Scouts of America designed for young men and women of high school age. The emphasis is on the students running their own program and not having it run for them by someone else.

Persons who have completed the eighth grade and are 14 or anyone from 15 through 21 are eligible to join.

Explorers are not Scouts and shouldn't be called "Explorer Scouts." Exploring is one of three scouting programs. The other two are Cub Scouting and Scouting.

There's an annual registration fee of $3.50 which includes a subscription to a club magazine. The local posts also charge $1 per month in dues.

In the scouts Thumb District, comprising Tuscola and Huron counties, there are 200 Explorers in 12 career-related posts. Two posts are in Cass City, the medical post and a general interest and first aid post.

A search and rescue post operates in Owendale.

"I got involved because I'm interested in a medical career and I thought this was a good way to get started in it," Kelli Reynolds, post president, said.

Del Potrykus Jr., post treasurer, also wants a medical career and is looking for an early start. He also wants to take a 12-hour instructor's course so he can act as a teacher later on for other explorers.

But Gordon Frederick, an assistant advisor to Explorer post 2594 of Cass City, summed it up best.

"Exploring will grow if you get rid of the dope in the schools and have kids want to be kids," he said. "Make it a challenge for them, not something they can accomplish by doing nothing. Make them work for it."

MEDICAL EXPLORERS Kelli Reynolds and Del Potrykus Jr. practice mouth-to-mouth resuscitation techniques during a session at Hills and Dales General Hospital. Looking on is instructor Larry Kolb.

THESE MEDICAL Explorer post members gather for another session at Hills and Dales General Hospital. The post currently has 17 members.

Arraign three persons in Tuscola Circuit Court

Three persons were arraigned in Tuscola County Circuit Court before Judge Norman Baguley during motion day Tuesday.

Michael Buschbacher, 17, Unionville, stood mute on counts of breaking and entering at the Manasse Jewelry Store in Caro and concealing stolen property.

Innocent pleas were entered in his behalf and pretrial examinations were set for April 4. Bond in each case was continued at $5,000.

Donald Rogers, 17, Caro, entered a guilty plea to a reduced charge of attempting to pass bad checks (uttering and publishing). The plea was accepted and sentencing was set for April 4.

Bond was continued at $3,000.

David Daniel Losey, 19, Mayville, entered a guilty plea to attempting to conceal stolen property when he was arraigned. The plea was accepted and sentencing was set for April 4.

Bond was continued at $1,500.

Clair James Huntley, 19, Flint, was sentenced to 24 months' probation and costs of $245 after he pleaded guilty to the attempted theft of a camper cover.

No fine or jail sentence was imposed.

Today's troubles stem from the unpleasant, unperformed tasks we pushed aside yesterday.

DEAN SEVERANCE missed on this jump shot against Caro Friday but it made no difference. The game was beyond hope for Hawks fans as the Tigers took the key Thumb B conference clash.

IT WAS THAT kind of night. Mike Richards missed on this drive to the bucket in the loss to Caro.

Two wrestlers in State meet

Cass City qualified two wrestlers for the State Class C wrestling finals slated at Middleville High School Friday and Saturday. It marked the first appearance for Hawk grapplers in the finals.

Walt Laming, a junior, (24-2 for the season) qualified at 126 pounds and senior Randy Rabideau (23-3-1 for the season) will also compete.

The two boys and Tom Dorland earned their way into the regional competition by winning at the district level.

In the district, Laming pinned Dave Acker of St. Louis. In the regionals he lost to Bob Galbrith of Pontiac Catholic Central, 7-3, and then rallied to take third by defeating Dean Smith of Burton Bendle, 5-4, pinning Dennis Stampe of Yale and decisioning Don Weisenberger of New Lothrop, 5-1.

Rabideau finished fourth in the regional. He advanced easily through the district by defeating Martin North of Merrill and pinning Mark Clark of Burton Bendle in 30 seconds.

In the Regionals he defeated Scott Strickler of Pontiac Catholic; lost to Rick Sweatland of St. Charles, 9-3; decisioned Lonny Keith of New Lothrop, 4-3, and lost in the finals to Mike Johnson of Goodrich, 2-1.

Senior Tom Dorland wrestles in the 155-pound class. He was undefeated in the regular season and finished the year 22-2-1.

In district action he pinned Dale Phillips of Marlette. In the regionals he pinned Ron Webb of Burton Bendle in the first round. He lost to Eric Schrader of Goodrich and Ron Buchmeir of New Lothrop. Buchmeir is the defending state champion.

There were 17 competitors in each weight class and four advance to the State finals.

Crucial clash

Girls face 'Muth

First place will be at stake Thursday night as Cass City High School's volleyball squad faces Frankenmuth in a home contest. Both squads have identical 11-1 records following action Monday night.

The Hawks managed a split with Vassar, taking the first match in two straight games, 15-6 and 15-10, while losing the second match in three games. Vassar notched 15-7 and 18-16 wins, sandwiched around the Hawks 15-8 victory.

In the first contest, outstanding performers included setter Chris Krueger, spiker Beth Erla, server Cheri Martin and receiver Mel Kelley. The Hawks posted an 83 per cent overall team serving percentage.

Cass City ran into some of its toughest competition in a long while in the second match, losing a heartbreaking final game by just two points.

In the match, outstanding performers were setter Mel Kelley, receiver and spiker Beth Erla and server Lisa Zimba.

Overall team serving percentage was 79 per cent.

CARO MATCH

The Hawks had only minor problems handling Caro Thursday, Feb. 17, as they defeated the Tigers in two straight matches.

Cass City took the first match with 15-10 and 15-5 scores. Outstanding setter Mel Kelley broke the season record with 43 setting points, beating the old school record of 23.

Lisa Zimba was outstanding spiker with Cheri Martin taking serving honors. Deb McFarland and Lisa Zimba were top receivers. The Hawks put together an overall team serving percentage of 81 per cent.

The second match proved even easier than the first, as Cass City dispatched Caro 15-3 and 15-6. Again Mel Kelley was the Hawks' outstanding setter, receiver and top blocker, with Beth Erla as top spiker and Deb McFarland as outstanding server.

HEAD START

The man at the top wouldn't be where he is today if he hadn't been where he was yesterday.

Hawks edge Ubyly, lose to Caro

Everything rides on title clash with Eagles

Nineteen games of a 20-game regular season have been played and for Cass City High School what has gone before was merely prelude.

The entire season is wrapped up in Friday's final game with Frankenmuth. Cass City has never had a full house since its gym was built but veteran observers are expecting one Friday.

For drama it rivals any final game of recent years. The last time Cass City was involved in a championship game on the final week end was at Sandusky in 1973. The Hawks lost that one.

And if the Hawks are to take home their first title in 18 years they will have to play much better basketball than they did Tuesday night when they were forced to go all out to defeat Ubyly, 62-59.

The Eagles showed that they were ready with a 78-72 decision over Garber on the same night.

The Hawks went behind in the first quarter as the Bearcats spurred to an early lead. Before the Hawks could get untracked the score was 14-5 in favor of the visitors.

Cass City started to find the range and rapidly closed the gap.

Paul Battel showed the way. He collected 18 of his game-high 25 points in the first half to keep Ubyly from starting a huge upset.

Paced by Battel, Cass City moved to within three points, 20-17, at the end of the first eight minutes. At the half the visitors were ahead by a point, 34-33.

It was nip and tuck through much of the last half. Cass City was in front 50-46 at the end of three quarters but the Bearcats kept challenging.

It was not until the dying moments of the final period that the Hawks had the game safely tucked away.

Cass City played without the services of Clarke Haire, regular guard, who suffered from the flu.

Perhaps part of the poor showing can be traced to looking ahead to the championship game with Frankenmuth.

Besides Battel, Mike Richards with 13 points and Jeff Hartel with 12 were in double figures.

Four of the five Ubyly players were in double figures led by Gary Kaufman with 18 and Mark McCoy with 14 points.

JV'S WIN

The Junior Varsity also won but wasn't overly impressive in doing so. The score was 56-38.

The scoring: Ubyly - Mark McCoy, 14; Gary Kaufman, 18; Wayne Zurek, 10; Mike O'Parka, 7; Larry Pionk, 10.

Cass City - Hartel, 6-0-12; Clare Trischler, 2-0-4; Mike Richards, 6-1-13; Chuck Hendrick, 1-0-2; Rick Richards, 2-1-3-5; Paul Battel, 10-5-8-25; Jesse Groth, 0-1-2-1.

CARO GAME

Caro came to play and Cass City just showed up Friday night and the snarling Tigers ruined the Hawks' chances of clinching at least a share of the Thumb B Conference title.

Caro, still undefeated on their home floor avenged an earlier defeat at Cass City with a 66-51 decision.

It was, according to Caro Coach Don Kanicki, the best game the Tigers have played this season. It was one of Cass City's poorer efforts.

The Hawks were playing in front of the largest regular season crowd to play in the Thumb B Conference in perhaps a dozen seasons. But the crowd shouldn't have mattered. There were as many Hawk fans in the stands as there were Caro fans.

Cass City's community support was probably greater than Caro's, but the Tigers had more students in their cheering section.

It was close for the first quarter. With Clarke Haire hitting eight of his nine points in the game the two teams exchanged the lead several times and the host team ended on top at the end of the period, 18-17.

Foul trouble with Jeff Hartel and Haire hurt the team's performance and so did some stone cold shooting.

Hartel was out part of the second quarter. Haire picked up his fourth foul moments after the third quarter started and was back in the game for less than three minutes during the last half. Hartel also played only briefly before fouling out.

It's highly doubtful if the two junior guards could have changed the outcome Friday.

Cass City shot a miserable 30 per cent from the floor, hitting 19 of 63. Caro hit 24 of 63 for 38 per cent. The Hawks were equally inept from the free throw line hitting 13 of 24 for 54 per cent while Caro hit 18 of 30.

Cass City lost the game in the middle quarters. The Hawks netted just 11 points in the second period to fall behind, 39-28, at intermission and things went from bad to worse for Hawk followers in the third period. Cass City scored just eight points while the Tigers were netting 14.

With the big lead it was mop up time in the final quarter and Caro played control ball to run out the clock.

The loss means that there will be no ties in the Thumb B Conference this season. The loser of Friday's Cass City-Frankenmuth game will probably tie with Caro for second. The winner will be the league champions.

JV'S WIN BIG

After several lackluster performances in a row, Cass City's Junior Varsity snapped out of it with a convincing win over the Tiger seconds, 69-35.

USA - Cass City to attract fans

See big crowds at district tourney

A promoter would be very happy with the way the draw for the District 84 Class C tournament went Monday in the office of Athletic Director Robert Stickle.

That's because USA and Cass City, the one, two seeded teams in the tournament, can't meet until the final night. If form is followed and both win their opening two games it's a virtual cinch that a sell-out crowd will see the finals Saturday night.

Both USA and Cass City have strong fan support. USA asked for 1,000 tickets for their first game against Bad Axe, Monday, Feb. 28.

Just how many fans can be handled safely in the Hawk gym is really unknown. It's listed at 2,500. But unless the Frankenmuth game fills the gym this upcoming Friday, a capacity crowd will never have been experienced.

Stickle said that he plans to sell just 2,000 tickets in advance for the finals. Then we'll be able to see how many more can be allowed in at game time without bending safety rules, he explained.

It's a moot point whether Cass City would have liked to meet USA first or last. In other words would it have been better to meet the potent Patriots before they played a couple of games in the Cass City gym or after they have met two foes on the Hawks' floor. Of course in tournament play anything is possible and it could be that both clubs will have been upset by Saturday.

Anyway the schedule lineup looks like this.

Monday, Feb. 28, USA vs Bad Axe.

Tuesday, March 1, Ubyly vs Cass City.

Wednesday, March 2, Harbor Beach vs Bad Axe-USA winner.

Thursday, March 3 - Lakers vs Cass City-Ubyly winner.

Saturday, championship game between Wednesday and Thursday winners. All games start at 8 p.m. The winner takes on the winner of the district at Marlette, in the regionals at Davison.

Farm Bureau elects Laurie

Officials at State Farm Bureau announced this week that Jack Laurie of Cass City has been named vice-president of the State organization in an election held this week.

Laurie has been a director-at-large since 1966. He also has served on the three-man executive committee since 1970.

Laurie holds a BA degree in agricultural economics from Michigan State University received in 1962.

He has served in many of the local offices of Tuscola County Farm Bureau and was county membership chairman.

Midland gymnasts defeat Cass City

Midland High School gymnasts were too much for Cass City as the Hawks fell 74.25 to 57.92 in a meet at Midland Feb. 12.

For Cass City, Colleen Trischler and Libby Hartel placed third and fourth in vaulting respectively. Ami Ivarsson placed fourth on the uneven parallel bars while Susie Asher placed third on the balance beam, fourth in floor exercise and tied for fourth in tumbling.

Nancy Tonti placed third in tumbling.

It's been a long season for the Hawks who have yet to post a win in league competition. The squad was scheduled to meet Freeland in a home meet Wednesday and host Davison Saturday.

The squad faces Kearsley Wednesday, March 2, on the road, closing out their season against the team which handed the Hawks their first loss of the campaign Jan. 12.
