Tax rate to drop

Owen-Gage gears for new property tax battle

The Owen-Gage School Board geared for yet another legal fight Monday night after it was learned Grant township officials are holding a portion of the district's debt retirement monies in escrow.

Superintendent Ronald Erickson told board members gathered for their regular monthly session in Owendale he learned of the township's action only last Friday.

Grant township authorities passed a resolution in December authorizing the withholding of 5.79 mills slated for debt retirement on the proposed new Owen-Gage High School building.

Erickson said the matter will be brought before Ingham County Circuit Court Judge James T. Kallman April 1, when attorneys for the Laker School District seek to intervene in the Goslin transfer case now lodged in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Erickson said at that hearing, Owen-Gage attorney James Schouman will also seek to intervene, charging Grant township has violated the law.

The superintendent said flatly the township action is illegal.

"They are setting themselves up in a very difficult position," Erickson said.

Grant Township Clerk Don Reid told the Chronicle Tuesday the withholding action involves only property owners seeking transfer to other districts. Reid said about 10 parcels are involved.

He said the township took the action because several property owners had refused to pay the added assessment for the new school for which bonds have not yet been sold. All other Owen-Gage property in the township has been fully taxed and those monies have been sent to county authorities for distribution to the district, Reid said.

"Even those who didn't pay it will be hit with delinquent taxes," he said.

Reid said the township board acted in the wake of a series of lawsuits regarding the continuing bond sale controversy. He said tax notices were not sent out until the second week in January due to the legal hassle.

Reid questioned the propriety of collecting the added assessment.

"How can they collect the money without selling the bonds," he asked. "Where is this money supposed to go?"

Erickson said to his knowledge, Grant is the only township withholding the added assessment.

MILLAGE DROP

Owen-Gage taxpayers will be asked to pay three mills less than its current rate for operation at the annual election in June.

The board authorized renewal of 6.25 mills of the present 9.25 operational millage which expires this year.

Actually, the district will still come out ahead financially despite the millage reduction since land values in both Huron and Tuscola counties are skyrocketing.

Approval in June would put the district's operational millage at 23.5 mills. Erickson explained school districts not receiving state aid are allowed to reduce millage as valuations rise.

He said the school's present 7.28 debt retirement millage should drop at least two mills by the end of the year. He said an exact figure isn't available due to the current dispute over land values in Huron county between commissioners and state authorities.

CURRICULUM CHANGES

The board heard a number of suggestions for curriculum changes from counselor John Rinke.

Rinke wants to stress vocational education and proposed a career awareness class (one semester) for seventh graders, exploratory classes in art, speech, shop and home ec for eighth graders, a singles survival course for sophomores through seniors and a vocational cosmetology class for juniors and seniors. The courses would be electives.

Rinke also requested a sixth grade pre-orientation program. Under the plan, Please turn to page 18

Cass City School Board sets election date, hears report

It was a routine night at the Cass City Board of Education meeting Monday as trustees breezed through the open meeting in less than an hour and then reconvened in a session closed to the press and the public.

The closed session was used to evaluate the work of the teachers who have not yet attained tenure.

Trustees did make official a millage election April 25 where electors will be asked to approve a renewal of a 3½-mill levy for three years.

Principal Jackie Freiburger reported on an in-service program at the school. It included teaching body movements to teachers in the grades and reading instruction for teachers in the Intermediate and high schools.

It also included a reading conference at Midland and a conference at Washington, D.C., for Mrs. Freiburger. Total cost of the program as written is $2,000 and comes from a state grant under "Title I."

At Washington, Mrs. Freiburger learned of another program using taxpayers' money on the Federal level. It is for an "Arts grant" and the school will ask for $9,000.

SUPPORT CANDIDATE

The board went on record as backing Robert Hirn for a post on the Tuscola Intermediate Board of Education. Trustees will circulate petitions. Fifty valid signatures are needed.

Deadline for petitions for regular board candidates will be April 11.

This year the terms of Lynn Albee and Dean Hoag are expiring.

The board also authorized the addition of a Junior High play to the master contract. When negotiated it means that next year the Junior High will present one or more plays. The request was made by Cheryl LaBeau, a teacher. Finally, trustees looked over a code of ethics developed by the Michigan Association of School Boards. It is a group of general statements about activities of the board.

A decision on adoption will be reached next month after the board reads the booklet. Because of a new state law, a census will be required in the district. It will probably be conducted by phone and is due in May.

Lose 150,000 gallons

Vandals drain village water supplies Sunday

Cass City's water supply dropped to dangerously low levels late Sunday night as vandals opened 18 fire hydrants throughout the village. Before it was all over, village officials estimate over 150,000 gallons of water were drained from the system.

Village Supt. Lou LaPonsie said Tuesday no one has been apprehended in connection with the incident. He said Cass City Patrolman Donald Miller began noticing flowing hydrants after 10 p.m.

"By the time we got them all closed, the tower was down to only about four feet of water in it," LaPonsie said. "Normally we carry about 35 feet of water."

To compound problems, a water main reportedly burst at about the same time at the intersection of Woodland and Third Streets. As a result, only 50,000 of the village's normal 200,000 gallon water supply was left in the tower.

LaPonsie said it may seem like a childish prank, but if a fire had broken out at that moment, there probably wouldn't have been enough water to fight it.

"Someone could have gotten hurt seriously or been killed," he said. "Something like this endangers the whole community."

"We'd like anyone who sees anyone opening a fire hydrant to call the police immediately," he continued. "This is a very serious thing."

LaPonsie said either juveniles or young adults are suspected. None was apprehended. He said it's unlikely any arrests can be made since no one apparently saw the vandals at work.

Among Tuscola students

15 per cent lack required shots

While most school children in the Thumb area are immunized against childhood diseases, as much as 15 per cent of the student population in Tuscola county lacks vaccinations required by state law. According to Mrs. Evelyn Schaffer, public health nurse with the Thumb District Health Department, about 85 per cent of the total Tuscola county student population is immunized.

Yet students without vaccinations manage to find their way into classrooms, in violation of state law.

"The schools don't put on the pressure necessary to make sure all their students are immunized," Mrs. Schaffer says.

She explained students can slip through when their parents claim religious objections to the shots or if they tell school authorities they are in the process of having their child immunized.

"We get a report in December or January from each district indicating how many students don't have their shots," she said. "Then we send out a notice about our clinics where free shots are available."

In Tuscola county, parents can have their child immunized at no cost. Clinics are held each Thursday from 9:00 a.m.-3:30 p.m. at health department offices located at 2266 W. Caro Rd., Caro.

Authorities prefer appointments but walk-ins are also taken, Mrs. Schaffer says.

She doubts many of those children without shots lack them due to religious beliefs of their parents. More likely, the reason is simple apathy.

"Parents either don't care or don't understand the health risk involved," she said.

Two years ago, the department battled an epidemic of mumps in Lapeer county, which along with Tuscola county is part of the Thumb District Health Department.

At that time, special clinics were set up in the areas most heavily affected by the outbreak. Please turn to page 18

Anonymous 'Santa' leaves loads of toys

Mrs. Hazel Moore of 4364 S. Seeger St., must have thought Santa Claus had arrived when she looked out her window Sunday morning.

According to Cass City Police, what she found was several boxes of used toys which someone had deposited on her front lawn the previous evening.

Officer Christopher Taylor said apparently someone intended to donate the toys to a worthy cause but delivered them to the wrong house. Mrs. Moore told Taylor she had no idea where they came from or who might want them.

Among the assortment were dolls, games, puzzles, stuffed animals and an assortment of other workable toys.

Taylor said the value of the toys, if purchased new, would probably run in the neighborhood of $500.

He said the toys, which filled the box of a three-quarter-ton pickup, will be kept by the police department until the end of the week. If they aren't claimed by then, they'll be given to charity.

"That's what I like about this job," Taylor said as he looked over the cache of toys. "You never know what you're going to come up with next."

No PCP poisonings reported in county

No reports of PCP contamination have been received in any Tuscola county dairy herd, County Agriculture Agent Don Kebler said Tuesday morning.

Kebler said it's too soon to tell just how extensive the latest animal contamination threat is or if it will eventually crop up in county cattle.

He said some calls have been received following the quarantine of seven Michigan dairy herds last Friday after the chemicals Penta and dioxin were found in the animals.

Penta is a wood preservative used widely by farmers to treat barns and posts. Dioxin is a highly toxic poison that causes animals to develop illnesses similar to those caused by the fire retardant PBB which claimed scores of cattle in Michigan.

Kebler said a variety of wood preservatives have been used on farms for many years and that no known cases of poisoning caused by the chemicals have been previously reported.

He said a great deal of research will have to be done before anything definite can be learned about PCP poisoning. Until then, he cautioned county dairy farmers not to panic.

A spokesman for Michigan State University said this week since no tolerance guidelines for PCP or dioxin exist, farmers should avoid all contact with the chemicals by their cattle.

He recommended:

1. No cattle feed should come in contact with Penta-treated wood. Any silage within one foot of a stall or surface treated with Penta should be discarded.

2. Farm animals should have no direct contact with Penta-treated wood, such as licking, chewing or rubbing against it.

3. Animals housed in stalls or barns treated with Penta should have access to more ventilation than normal.

Authorities fear PCP poisoning, unlike PBB, could spread nationwide and decimate herds across the country.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

One of the game officials at Davison was grouching about the press at the basketball game last Friday. Would you believe, he said, that with two schools participating there are 13 "home town" newspapers?

One of these was the Pigeon Progress. Now the Progress doesn't cover Cass City any more than the Chronicle covers Pigeon.

But the publisher is home town never-the-less. He's Asel Collins, who was reared in Cass City, graduated from Cass City High School and worked in a Cass City store before he became hooked in the paper business.

Now you can't be any more home town than that, can you?

Here's an item I was going to bring to your attention several weeks ago. It's about the census. Regular readers will recall that I commented that a college student at our home wasn't counted when the census taker came by.

Mrs. David Ware, one of four census takers, said that was the way it was supposed to be. When it's for the government you can expect some weird things.

A college student voting at home is not counted. But a foreign exchange student here for just the year is an official member of the community.

Don't ask me why . . . that's just the way it is.

Printing of the tickets for the upcoming Midland Symphony Orchestra concert Sunday was paid for by B. A. Calka.

The back of the tickets reads, "Compliments of B. A. Calka", and has caused some confusion.

Tickets mailed were sent in hopes that they would be purchased by persons receiving them.

The committee in charge asks that those who cannot buy return them for sale at the door.

Louis Salas swears that the word "gry" isn't in the dictionary. But it is. We have one in the office that proves it. Gry was the catch word, you'll remember, in naming three words that end in gry.

Art Atwell says that he never saw a ruler that measures in 1/12 of an inch (that's what gry means) so he made one.

I haven't seen it yet but it's a top priority item the minute I get back from a brief vacation Sunday.

CASS CITY barber Bill Johnston took advantage of record-breaking warm temperatures in Cass City Friday to set out some early, early tomato plants in front of his shop on Main Street. Friday's high in the mid-70's broke long standing records.

Tickets still available for Midland Symphony

The Cass City Arts Council and the Caro Arts Society are looking for a last minute surge in ticket sales to push Sunday's concert featuring the Midland Symphony Orchestra over the top.

Ticket sales have been satisfactory, they say, but many more are needed if the show is going to be the financial and artistic success that the sponsors are working for.

It costs an estimated $4,000 to stage a show of this type and that means that some 1,500 tickets need to be sold to break even.

A full house would guarantee two things for Thumb art patrons. The first is that the show would make money and the second is that it would demonstrate to the sponsors that high caliber performances will pay their way here. Folks in the know say that watching Don Th. Jaeger, conductor, perform is worth the price of admission.

He is a Fulbright scholar and studied at the Amsterdam Conservatory and the Mozarteum in Salzburg.

The 40-year-old Midland symphony will present light classical music under his direction.

Persons attending will have an opportunity to meet Jaeger and the orchestra in a social hour following the performance.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Those teasing days of false spring came early this year. It usually doesn't nudge that 70 degree mark until sometime in early April.

The balmy days came early and triggered my springtime resolutions a month early. It happens every year when the first warm days make Michigan glorious after a hard winter. Most folks make their resolutions at the New Year. I make them now.

What I resolve to do every spring is to get in more of the essentials than I did the year before. More golf, more fishing, more swimming, more travel . . . more, more, more of everything I've been missing all winter.

Now these kind of resolutions shouldn't be all that tough to stick to. It's not like dieting, or quitting smoking or cutting the grass.

There's some excuse for breaking those vows. It should be easy to be resolute when all you resolve to do is what you like to do anyway.

Realistically, I can tell you right now it will never happen. It's like sitting down to a big meal when the hunger pangs are gnawing. Everything looks good and there's no limit to what you want. A lot of everything.

But after the first helpings things just don't look the same anymore.

Right now it's hard to imagine that standing in the middle of a trout stream on a glorious spring day could get to be old hat.

It's strange but I look forward to those days on the trout stream more than I do the days on the golf course . . . and I spend four times as many leisure hours on the links as I do on trout streams.

There's a couple of reasons for that. One is that it's easy to play a round of golf after work in the evening.

The second is that many of the guys that used to take off no longer are available like they used to be.

It's too bad, too. Because there's nothing that relieves the tensions of day to day living like a day in glorious northern Michigan when you forget everything while soaking in the tranquility that comes when the fast food joints and the bustle of people, people, people, seem far, far off.

After a day on a stream you are at peace with the world. It's a great feeling.

I'm going to do more of it this year. I vow.

"If It Fitz. . ." Flap, flap can't scare me

By Jim Fitzgerald

Dear Cousin Al:
Your last letter was pretty sarcastic. You said if I couldn't get mugged in Detroit, the least I could do was get shot by a Mafia hireling. You said you watch TV, so you know big-city newsmen are always fighting with crooks.

Al, I know you wrote that letter after watching that new TV show, "The Andros Targets." I know you were trying to be funny when you asked if I had Jimmy Hoffa hidden in my roltop desk. I know you think those TV shows are a lot of baloney and that writing for a big newspaper is no more dangerous than clerking in a Kmart.

I'll admit I haven't yet used information received from a reliable source to blackmail a congressional subcommittee into reopening an investigation into the CIA's involvement in the disappearance of Judge Crater. In fact, I am still searching for a wino to be my reliable source.

But that doesn't mean there is no adventure in my new job. Al, it doesn't mean I never risk my skin to get a column written before the presses roll. You should have seen me the other day.

I was seated at my typewriter in the Free Press Building. I face the window. Suddenly a burly guy in dirty clothes brushed by me and opened the window wide. This was a freezing day in February, Al. I was instantly buffeted by a terrible wind which chilled my bones and flapped the paper in my typewriter, flap, flap, flap.

All around me reporters abandoned their desks and fled to a safe corner of the room to cower out of the wind. But I stayed at my desk and watched investigatively as the burly man climbed out onto the windowsill, three floors above the street, two inches from certain death. The noise of traffic came in on the buffeting wind.

"What is going on here?" I asked the burly man.

"I am washing the window," he said, snapping his leather harness to hooks on each side of the window. Obviously, he had been expected.

It was apparent that the burly man expected me to desert my typewriter and join the corner cowerers. I could sense his surprise when I remained at my post.

The wind was buffeting my hair in every direction and at times I could not see through my forelock. The paper in my typewriter kept going flap, flap, flap, ne'er ceasing, constantly resisting the pressure of the typewriter keys.

But I kept right on typing, Al. You would have been proud to see me. I was working on an important column about the thickness of the carpet in Sen. Joe Mack's office. My deadline was near. There was no way I was going to quit.

The burly man had to close the window while he washed it. Fortunately for me, he had a slow, deliberate squeegee. This gave me blessed respite from the buffeting wind. I was able to regain my composure and prepare myself for the renewed onslaught when he raised the window again to re-enter the room.

The buffeting was worse than ever, and the flap, flap, flap was louder. But I continued typing and, as the burly man closed the window again, he looked my way. In his eyes I saw grudging respect.

"I will not be buffeted," I said.

"You are pretty brave for being so unburely," he said.

It was a splendid moment. Al, Right then I knew I had been right to move to a big-city newspaper, despite the dangers. And don't think my only risk is being buffeted. There is also the risk of being squeezed to death between the doors of a Free Press elevator.

Three elevators stop at our floor. Their arrival is signaled by lights which seldom work, so you never know which doors are going to open. The doors remain open for only one second.

You can see the danger, Al, and the gamble. If you have guessed right, and are waiting in front of the right elevator, one second is enough time to jump inside. But if you have guessed wrong, you must run several feet to reach the open doors.

Sometimes you make it, and sometimes you get horribly squeezed. Cowards use the stairs. No one has ever seen me on the stairway. Adventure is my life.

So, Al, don't write me any more sarcastic letters about the dangers of newspapering in the big city. All the heroes are not on TV.

Oops! Police nab wrong girl

At least one of the 13 persons arrested on a variety of drug charges in Tuscola county late in February was innocent.

Charges against Becky Cox, 27, Caro, were dropped after it was discovered she was the wrong suspect.

Prosecuting attorney Patrick Joslyn called her arrest a case of "mistaken identity."

"You really can't call it a false arrest because she was arrested pursuant to a legally constituted warrant," he said.

Joslyn said the error took place when officers of the Thumb Intelligence Unit misidentified her. He said often officers make contact with suspects either on a first-name or nickname basis only and must use what he described as "secondary sources" to make positive identifications.

In this case, that system didn't work, he said.

Joslyn said he has apologized to Miss Cox over the incident. It is unknown whether or not she plans to file suit against the county.

Joslyn said last week more warrants have been authorized and additional drug arrests are expected.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

It's saccharin, sweetheart

By Jim Ketchum

After next July, you'll have more luck buying marijuana than trying to buy saccharin. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration banned the artificial sweetener last week after a few laboratory rats came down with cancer after being fed saccharin.

The same day, another government department, Health Education and Welfare, said marijuana use is more than just a fad. It's becoming a part of the nation's life style.

Marijuana, HEW told Congress, is as much a part of society as alcohol and tobacco.

The saccharin tests are another example of government producing a hazard when it can't find one. Reportedly, a human would have to have consumed 800 cans of his favorite soft drink daily from the day he was born until the day he died in order to ingest as much saccharin as those rats.

I'm not certain they've tried marijuana on rats. Maybe it's because they can't pull the little rascals off the ceiling as fast as they get high.

Marijuana may still be illegal but it'll be easier to buy than saccharin. All this brings an interesting picture to mind.

The scene is somewhere in a dingy, dark warehouse on Chicago's south side. Seated around a table beneath a single light bulb are the leaders of the Syndicate.

"Okay, it's agreed. We move in on the saccharin trade," the Boss says.

"But what about all the pot we've got moving," says the Enforcer.

"Forget it," the Boss replies. "You can buy pot from any two-bit punk. Saccharin is where it's at."

"Can't you just see all those strung-out diabetics begging for a fix in their coffee or on their cereal? We'll have them where we want them."

"And think about those dieters. Every lardo in the country needs a fix, too. This organization will control the supply, distribution and sale."

"What about heroin, cocaine, morphine?" another syndicate member asks.

"Forget it. Too risky. Believe me, saccharin is what we want. Besides, if we get caught, what can they do to us? Just get us before a fat judge and an overweight prosecutor and we're home free."

With the rackets moving into the saccharin trade, marijuana growers in Mexico and poppy farmers in Turkey will trade in their seeds and hemp for a piece of the "Sweet and Low" action.

Local drug enforcement officers will have to trade in their test kits for new ones that light up when they come in contact with an artificial sweetener. Saliva tests will replace breath tests.

Instead of taking a drag on a marijuana cigarette after school, students will sneak into an alley and pop a bottle of diet cola.

Government agencies work in strange ways (mark that down for future reference). It bans saccharin because a couple of rats got cancer, but still allows cigarettes to be sold unhindered. It even subsidizes tobacco growers.

Please pass me the saccharin.

Cancer Bowl Down times, locations told

The fourth annual Tuscola County Cancer Bowl Down, sponsored by the Tuscola County Unit, American Cancer Society, in cooperation with the bowling proprietors of Tuscola county, will be held March 20 - April 2.

The dates were announced by this year's tournament directors, Arlene and Holly Wirth.

The mother-daughter duo will be assisted by volunteers at the following bowling establishments: Harmony Hill Recreation, Caro, Hill-Top Recreation, Vassar, Richville Recreation, Karp's Bowling Bar, Reese, Triangle Lanes, Mayville, Country Lanes, Akron, The Charming Lanes, Cass City, Unionville Recreation and Cass City Lanes.

This year's event sports a prize fund of $600 in cash plus 21 trophies and plaques.

Before entering their league play, bowlers, using their current league average will be asked to donate $1 to the Cancer Bowl Down fund and the scores they roll that night should be recorded on the entry form and returned to the proprietor so they can be entered in the county-wide competition.

Bowlers may compete as many times as they bowl in leagues. Twenty-one games will be necessary to establish an average.

The handicap will be 70 per cent, for the men, and 80 per cent, for the women, of the difference between their current average and 200.

Men and women will compete in separate divisions and the prize list offers $150 each for first place, $100 for second and $50 for third.

Also each bowling establishment's high handicap scoring man and woman entered in the tourney will receive a trophy.

The proprietor's award will be presented to the house with the greatest per cent of participation.

In the last three tournaments bowlers of this county have raised almost $6000 for the fight against cancer.

The goal this year is $2500. If every bowler donated $1 the first week's return would be over $3000.

Area bowling fans are also invited to help. Donations to the 'Cancer Bowl Down' can be mailed to Mrs. Betty Kochalka, Tuscola County Cancer Unit Secretary, 6205 State Rd., Vassar 48768.

Lower PBB levels urged

The Michigan Agriculture Commission has reversed itself to endorse lowering legal levels of PBB in Michigan food. The commission's decision came after Gov. William Milliken asked it to reconsider. Legislation before the state House would reduce the amount of PBB permissible in Michigan food from 300 to 20 parts per billion.

No gas shortage seen for area

Cass City area residents can look forward to an adequate supply of natural gas for the remainder of the winter, according to officials at Southeastern Michigan Gas Co.

The company said this week that in spite of tight supplies nationwide, Southeastern should be able to meet the needs of its customers without any problem.

Company vice-president James Shaw says his company cannot foresee any problems with supplies until spring. Southeastern serves 55,000 customers from Mt. Clemens north to Cass City. Over 44,000 of those are residential customers.

Shaw says Southeastern's future doesn't look as bleak as that of some firms.

"In the future, some of the industries will be finding other sources of fuel," he says. "Many have already converted to coal. At least for the near future we expect to be able to serve all our customers with natural gas."

He said the firm is currently spending over a third of a million dollars each year looking for new sources of gas.

Since 1973, Southeastern has been working with limited supplies of gas. Last year, for instance, its supplier furnished only 11.9 million cubic feet of gas, compared with 15.6 million cubic feet in 1972.

The company is trying to make up for the loss with local gas being taken from fields in the Akron area. A new pipeline running from Akron to Cass City was completed last fall with an eye to alleviating some of the shortage.

Still, the company has taken on no new customers since 1974 and has no plans to add to its list of customers this year.

"There doesn't appear to be anything on the horizon that would show improvement in the supply situation in the near future," a company spokesman said.

He said the company's ability to buy gas during the summer months and withdraw it from storage at peak demand periods has helped get it through these periods without service interruptions.

In Cass City, General Cable Corporation lost its natural gas service because it has a delivery contract which allows the gas to be shut off in case of a shortage.

Until more gas can be found, the company is urging customers to dial thermostats back to 65 degrees in the day and 55 at night.

Erard in ship rescue

Navy Construction Mechanic Gerald J. Erard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Erard of 2427 Van Dyke Road, Decker, assisted in the rescue of 14 people in the West Indies.

He is serving at the U.S. Naval Facility on Grand Turk Island in the West Indies. Feb. 1, he and fellow Navy-men rescued the passengers and crew from the chartered salvage vessel Reina Del Mar. The 100-foot Reina Del Mar had struck a reef on the northwestern end of Grand Turk during a storm and the people aboard were stranded.

The Naval Facility personnel launched two small boats through high surf, and brought the 14 people safely ashore. They also salvaged valuable testing equipment used for recovery of underwater treasure.

He joined the Navy in November, 1975.

ASK DR. ELIZABETH

By Dr. J. Elizabeth Morgan, M.D.

Cigarettes are bad for you -- it says so on the package -- but you kept on smoking because you like the taste, plus the cool sophisticated image of the long, thin filters. Now you're trying a more rugged, backwoods style and think chewing tobacco fits this. But is it safer, too? Read on for pros and cons.

Dear Dr. Morgan: A friend at work tells me that chewing tobacco really is safer than cigarettes. Should I switch?

A. Yes, to fresh air. Neither smoking nor chewing tobacco is good for you. The "health" advantage of chewing tobacco is that it is not burned, and does not damage your lungs with harmful gases the way cigarette smoke does. So, emphysema and lung cancer shouldn't develop.

You still risk cancer of the lip, tongue, mouth and throat with carcinogens in chewing tobacco... plus stained teeth, poor gums and increased saliva.

When chewing tobacco is common, so is spitting -- and spitte has been shown to spread such germs as tuberculosis around streets and public places.

If you're interested in public health as well as your own, I'm afraid there is no "safe" tobacco yet. Scientists are working on it.

Dear Dr. Morgan: Are malformed babies common? I'm expecting my first child, and desperately want it to be normal.

A. Up to seven per cent of children have some malformation discovered during their first year. Many malformations -- hip dislocations, cleft lip and palate, pyloric stenosis (a blockage of the stomach) -- are corrected successfully with surgery.

You can make your pregnancy as safe as possible for the baby, and you:

1. Have regular check-ups during pregnancy. Infection, anemia, or low protein can make you and the baby ill.

2. Be sure your doctor knows every medicine you take. Many drugs -- tetracycline antibiotics, hormones, iodine drugs -- can damage a baby.

3. Have you had German measles? If not, avoid children with any infection or rash that might be measles. This infection causes cataracts and heart malformations, so contact your doctor if you've even possibly been exposed.

Don't fret -- you're 93 per cent sure of a normal baby. If there is a problem, LOTS can be done to help.

Dear Dr. Morgan: Would you tell me why doctors refuse to inform patients? I've just had stomach X-rays and wasn't told the possibility of getting cancer from X-rays!

A. Most doctors are eager to discuss the significant risks of any procedure. Stomach X-rays expose you to about three rads of radiation. This low dose does not cause cancer, though three rads a day for years might. So, he isn't misleading you.

I've never heard of a doctor refusing to discuss risks, but here's what to do if you feel you aren't being told enough: Ask your doctor to discuss risks of medicines, tests, etc. Write down your questions in advance, and his answers, if you tend to be forgetful. Tell him if you don't understand -- doctors often explain things in "medical" terms. You can always consult a new doctor if you aren't content.

Dear Dr. Morgan: Is there a way to prevent cataracts? I've heard that vitamins or diets will help.

A. There is, alas, no food or drug that prevents cataracts, a disease of the lens inside the eye. A clear lens is needed for normal vision. A cataract clouds the lens, causing blurred vision or even blindness, though some cataracts cause almost no problem with vision and stay that way for years.

Diabetes, X-ray damage to the eye and steroid drugs can cause cataracts. The commonest cause is "senile" cataracts. Here the lens clouds with age, for reasons unknown.

For severe cataracts, surgery is done to remove the clouded lens. Yeast, vitamins and other fads are claimed to cure cataracts. As far as we know, they have no effect whatsoever. The cataract worsens -- or improves -- by itself, regardless.

If you have eye trouble, your doctor is more help than a pill bottle.

WSC seeks to disband

Twelve women attended the Study Club meeting held March 8 at the home of Mrs. Esther McCullough. For the program, Miss Carolyn Bensinger showed slides of the Thumb area.

In the business meeting, members took action to disband the club at the end of the club year. Organization of the club was in 1907.

Bensinger completes A.F. course

An official at Chanute AFB, Ill., has announced the graduation of Airman Kirk R. Bensinger from the U.S. Air Force's aircraft maintenance specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

Airman Bensinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton F. Bensinger of 1969 Main St., Uby, is now trained to maintain, repair and service aircraft currently in use by the Air Force, and will serve at Griffiss AFB, N.Y. Completion of the course enables the airman to receive academic credits through the Community College of the Air Force. The airman graduated in 1972 from Uby Community High School and attended Ferris State College, Big Rapids, where he received his associate's degree in 1975. His wife, Betty, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorn McIntosh of 2811 Pringle Road, Snover.

Your Neighbor says

Unemployment is my question

President Carter recently spent two hours on a Saturday afternoon fielding questions from citizens in an informal talk show staged from the White House. Most of those who tried to call didn't get through.

If you could have asked the President a question, what would it have been?

Mrs. Connie McNaughton of Cass City said she would have asked about unemployment.

"I'd have asked him why the unemployment rate hasn't dropped and what he planned to do about it," Mrs. McNaughton said.

"He said before he was elected that President Ford hadn't done enough to get unemployment down," she said. "Now that he's in there, I think he realizes it isn't an easy thing to handle."

She said she likes the idea of a phone-in session with the President of the United States because it helps keep him in touch with the American people.

"I think it's a good way to find out what the average American feels," she said. "After all, we're mostly average Americans, not law-makers."

Mrs. McNaughton was born and raised in Cass City. She and her husband David, an employee of Walbro Corp., have four children.

plans and Capp specifications. We install sub-flooring, interior partitions and exterior doors and windows -- so you wind up with a home that's enclosed and ready for you to finish.

WHAT YOU DO.

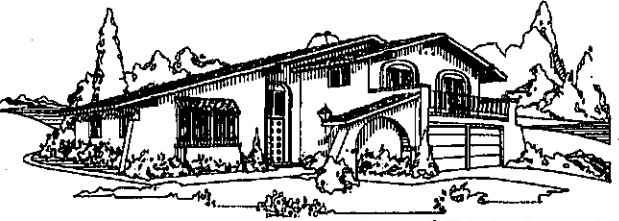

What's it like to finish a house yourself? Things like plumbing and wiring aren't all that tough with the help of Capp instruction manuals. But even if you need outside help, you'll still save money by being your own general contractor and eliminating the middleman. Remember, the more you do, the more you can save. And when you're finished, you have a home that's worth a lot more than you paid for it.

Ramblers from $18,830 to $57,900* and up.

THE MORNING STAR

GAGETOWN WOMAN'S STUDY CLUB

The Gagetown Woman's Study Club met Monday evening at the Gagetown Methodist church, hosted by Mrs. Elma Miklovich and Mrs. James Barr. Twelve members answered roll call on "An American Artist".

Discussed was a donation towards the 1977 Owen-Gage Girls' State representative and an invitation to participate in the Owendale Woman's Club annual carnival in April. Also discussed was how to best proceed in selecting the club's yearly sponsored scholarship recipient.

Guest was Dean Roller of Unionville, a teacher at Owen-Gage, who gave a demonstration on the art of loom weaving and clay pottery and displayed some of his projects.

Next meeting will be April 4, with Mrs. Millie Mosack as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Koch of Sebawaing called on the Harold Kochs Sunday afternoon.

Larry and Sandra Ziehm resumed their studies at Northern Michigan University Monday following spring break last week.

Mrs. Stella Pisarek entertained her sewing club, Wednesday afternoon.

GIRL SCOUTS

Mrs. Quick hosts Hobby Club

Thirteen attended a meeting Monday of the Hobby Club at the home of Mrs. Basil Quick. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Quick for the 7:00 p.m. dessert were Miss Betty Jo Agar and Mrs. M.B. Auten.

Plans were made to give an Easter party for the Girl Scout troop which the club sponsors.

For the program, Mrs. Esther McCullough showed pictures taken in Yugoslavia and in Washington, D.C.

FIVE YEARS AGO

The boards of education of the Owen-Gage and Unionville-Sebewaing school districts were directed by the citizens committee to devise a specific proposal for construction of a building if a merger of the districts is authorized. The decision came at a Tuesday night meeting at the Gagetown School after about three hours of discussion when about 90 citizens met with school representatives.

Voters overwhelmingly disapproved of beer in the park in an advisory vote Monday by a 273-83 margin.

Tuscola County Board of Commissioners were surprised Tuesday when they received a letter from Probate Judge Bates Wills seeking $21,000 in back pay.

New Rotary Club officers for the 1972-73 year were announced Tuesday. They include president, Clinton House; vice-president, Rodney Krueger; secretary, Newell Harris; and treasurer, Bob Buttery.

The village council approved the change-over from incandescent to mercury vapor street lighting in a special meeting Tuesday morning at the New Gordon Hotel.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Cass City Board of Education cast a long eye at power bleachers for the new high school gym in its regular session Monday, but backed away when it was learned that power would up the cost about 35 per cent.

Plans moved rapidly ahead for an addition to the Cass City Recreational park after prompt work by the committee in charge and the Cass City Village Council.

Interscholastic skiing at Cass City High School found scant favor among administrators when it was discussed Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Board of Education.

One of Cass City's longest established businesses changed hands this week when Mrs. Lucille Sommers sold Sommers' Bakery to Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Merchant of Cass City.

Lloyd Severance, Decker, was re-elected president of the Michigan Milk Producers' Deford local at a meeting Saturday. Also re-elected were vice-president Hessel Venema and secretary-treasurer Maynard Stine.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Cass City School Band's long struggle for new uniforms was climaxed with success when an announcement was made by school authorities early this week of the purchase of 66 uniforms for the talented group at a cost of $51.85 each. Total cost is $3,422.10.

Highly-favored Cass City lost a heartbreaking 58-56 decision to a red-hot Vassar quintet Saturday night in the final round of the state district high school basketball

Trees available

Trees can serve a wide variety of purposes. They may be planted for Christmas trees, timber production, windbreaks, wildlife cover and erosion control.

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is taking orders for trees and shrubs for 1977 spring planting. Red pine, Scotch pine, Austrian pine, white spruce, Colorado blue spruce seedlings and black walnut whips are still available. Autumn olive, a wildlife shrub, is also available. Orders may be placed immediately as the trees will be arriving in April.

The district has tree planters that will be available for rent. They also have a list of commercial planters for persons interested in planting several thousand trees. Stop in the TSCD office at 852 S. Hooper Street in Caro or phone tree orders by calling 673-8174. Someone will help determine the amount and species needed.

Norlocks' grandson survives

Youth defeats deadly Reye's Syndrome

About this time last month, a retired Cass City couple weren't sure whether or not their bright, athletic 13-year-old grandson would be alive to see the coming of spring.

But by some miracle, Richard Morrissey, a junior high student at Plymouth, battled deadly Reye's Syndrome and beat the odds.

Richard is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Norlock of 6265 Pine St., Cass City. For four days in mid-February, the youth's life hung in the balance as a team of specially-trained physicians at Children's Hospital in Detroit struggled to save his life.

Reye's Syndrome (pronounced 'rise') is one of the deadliest diseases known to man and strikes the young. No known case has ever been recorded in a person over age 20. The cause is unknown.

Early symptoms of the non-contagious disease include vomiting, dilated pupils, fast and heavy breathing, muscle seizures, and a possible change in behavior, according to Dr. Edgardo Arcinue, staff physician at Children's Hospital.

Dr. Arcinue says there is a 50 per cent mortality rate if the disease is not treated within three days after symptoms first appear.

In Richard's case, the story began after he had been confined to his home with what was assumed to be the flu. Although he had lost a few pounds from nausea and lack of appetite, he seemed to be improving.

Then, on Feb. 15, the vomiting became severe, his pupils became widely dilated and staring, his breathing rapid and shallow and he completely lost his power of speech.

Before this happened, the youth had called his mother, who was at work, to tell her he wasn't feeling well. But she had already left on her hour's long drive home.

When she arrived, she found her son wrapped in a contorted ball, unable to speak.

Rushed to a nearby hospital, his condition was initially diagnosed as either an overdose or an emotional problem. He was transferred to Children's Hospital in Detroit where, after blood tests and six agonizing hours of waiting, the diagnosis was made.

A complete life support system must be available to the victim almost at once, because the first 48 hours are the critical ones and survival seems to depend on treatment during these hours.

Richard spent four days in the hospital's intensive care unit and another three days in the hospital before going home. Once the disease is under control, recovery is fairly rapid.

Little is known about the disease. What is known is that in 1974, the last year for which accurate statistics are available, 400 cases were reported and 200 children died. Most were between the ages of seven and 12.

Another aspect is equally puzzling. A large portion of the cases are from the Great Lakes Region. Forty-six of the 1974 total of 400 cases were from Michigan alone—including 14 of the fatalities.

Reye's Syndrome is listed as one of the top 10 killers of children in the U.S., behind cancer and auto accidents.

Richard's mother, Mrs. Paula Morrissey, says she wants to alert parents to be aware of it.

"What looks like an emotional problem could be a symptom of Reye's," she says. "People should go to their family doctor or an emergency room and say 'Check for Reye's. I want to know if my child has it.'"

Richard is home now and appears headed for a full recovery. He is still on medication and has a slight speech impediment. But doctors believe within six months, he should show no after-effects of the illness that caused him to lose 26 of his normal 97 pounds in one week.

"The gates of heaven were open," his grandmother, Mrs. Norlock, said. "The doctors told his mother she'd have to thank the Lord for this recovery."

Publicity, Dr. Arcinue says, has helped make the public and doctors aware of the disease. The early diagnosis of Reye's can increase the chances of recovery, he says. But present treatment amounts to no more than a "poke in the dark", the doctor says.

VOLUNTEER 4-H LEADERS from Tuscola county journeyed to Michigan State University March 5 and 6 to be welcomed, educated, entertained and honored. They were attending the 21st Annual 4-H Leadermete at MSU's Kellogg Center for Continuing Education in East Lansing.

The aim of Leadermete is to teach volunteer leaders about new programs available in 4-H, to help them improve themselves as leaders and to honor their successful efforts.

Four enter pleas before Kern

Four persons pleaded guilty to separate charges of driving with an open alcoholic beverage container in their vehicle when they appeared before Judge Richard Kern in Tuscola County District Court this week.

John Alvin Delisle, Kingston, and Howard Cosway and Charles R. Nicol, both of Deford, paid $10 fines and $25 in costs.

A fourth man, Andrew Ozorowicz, Kingston, also pleaded guilty to an open container violation and paid a $35 fine and $65 in costs.

In other District Court action this week, Frank Preba, Cass City, entered a guilty plea to a charge of impaired driving. He paid a $65 fine and $135 in costs.

John Joseph Kieltyka, Decker, entered a guilty plea to being a disorderly person by intoxication. He paid a $35 fine and $65 in costs.

Folks with reasons for their actions seldom need excuses.

HDC holds annual meeting

More than 150 guests and Human Service representatives attended the annual meeting of the Human Development Commission (HDC) at the Dom Polski Hall, Caro, March 7.

The annual meeting theme "Keeping in Step," was designed to allow all Thumb area agencies responsible for the delivery of services an opportunity to share their programs, plans and ideas with others in their field.

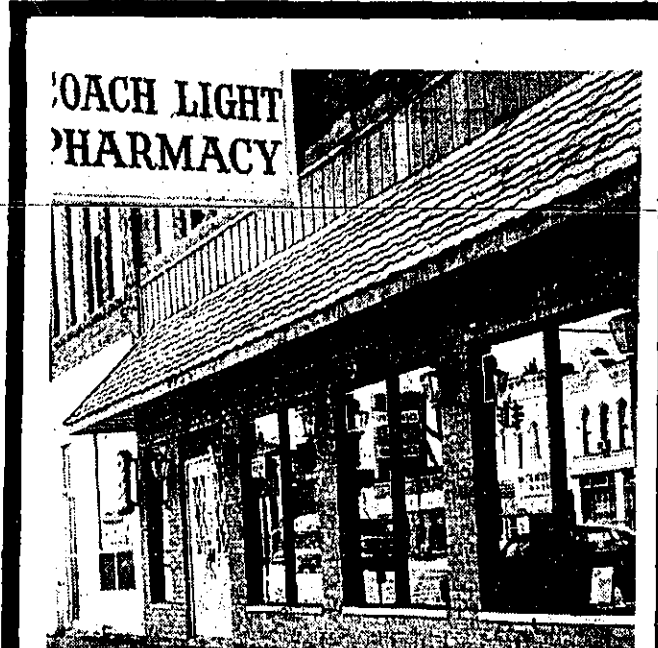

Special guests included Senator Alvin DeGrow, Pigeon; Representative Loren Armbruster, Caro; Representative Larry Burkhalter, Lapeer; Lucille Brumfield, Community Services Administration, Chicago; James Cossingham, Michigan Community Action Agency Association, Calhoun county; Henry Alting, Executive Secretary, Michigan Community Action Agency Association, Lansing; County Commissioners from Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola, and Lapeer counties; U.S. Representative Bob Traxler, Bay City; Don Hare, Traxler's District Manager, and Inez Brown, aide to Senator Donald Reagle.

The guests took part in a noon luncheon and program which followed the morning meeting to elect the officers of the HDC Board of Directors. 1977 Board Officers include Chairman, Lee Roy Clark, Millington; Vice-Chairman, Ross Nicholson, Bad Axe; Secretary, Commissioner Sam Work, Sanilac county; and Treasurer, Ruth Harris, Marlette.

Packets containing resource materials submitted by the various service agencies attending were distributed to all guests. The information provided basic information on the types of service and methods of service delivery by each agency to Thumb residents.

Keynote speaker for the event was Dolf Droge, Assistant Director, ACTION Inc., Washington, D.C. Droge's theme focused on the development of local volunteer help to cut the cost of service delivery in the areas of crime, social service, and human improvement programs.

Sheriff's department reports decline in calls

Tuscola County Sheriff's Department showed a decline in the number of calls received in February, compared with the previous month, according to Sheriff Hugh Marr's report to the Board of Commissioners.

For the month, the department handled 548 complaints, of which 46 came from Elkland township. This compares with 640 complaints in January, when 59 complaints originated in the township.

Vassar township reported the highest number of complaints in February with 92. A breakdown of calls received by the department shows officers handled 173 traffic complaints and investigated 52 larcenies, 43 burglaries, 20 domestic and vandalism complaints and 18 assaults.

The driver's license bureau issued 84 original driver's licenses in February and processed 628 renewals. A total of 53 duplicate licenses were issued.

The bureau gave 594 operators license tests and 114 chauffeurs' tests, as well as processing 27 voter registrations.

Patrol units travelled 27,162 miles in February and consumed 2,567 gallons of gasoline. The county jail received 91 inmates for the month and released 92.

CB's, speakers targets for Cass City thieves

Auto electronics equipment was the target of thieves in Cass City this past week, as citizens' hand radio equipment and stereo tapes were reported stolen.

Dana Truemmer of 6510 Main St. told Cass City Police a CB radio, a spotlight, a box of ammunition and 24 stereo tapes were taken from his car as it sat parked behind his apartment near Main and Seeger Streets, Tuesday, March 8.

Police said the culprits forced a door on the left side of the auto. The theft was discovered early Wednesday morning, March 9.

No suspects have been arrested.

Lou Ann Keyser of 4417 Woodland St. told police two stereo speakers were stolen from her car as it sat parked in an alley behind her home Tuesday, March 8.

Cass City Police said the door to the auto was unlocked when the theft took place. Dennis Hendrick, Caro, reported a CB antenna was taken from his auto while it was parked near Cass City Lanes on Weaver Street Sunday night.

The antenna was valued at about $30. No arrests have been made.

Erla's Food Center also reported another shoplifting incident, this one Saturday. Police questioned a Cass City woman in connection with the theft in which she allegedly took bottles of shampoo and a pair of men's shorts. She allegedly tried to leave the store with the items in her purse.

A warrant for her arrest had not been issued at press time.

Chuck O'Dell, Cass City, told police a chain saw was stolen from a garage at his home on Krapf Road Wednesday, March 9. The saw was valued at $245. No suspects have been arrested.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies investigated a break-in at a home on Bay City-Forestville Road north of Cass City in which a table lamp was taken.

Frederick Pinney, Cass City banker who is acting as executor for the estate of the owner, told police he discovered the break-in Tuesday, March 8, when he and an appraiser arrived at the property.

He said he had not been in the house since sometime before Christmas.

The lamp was valued at $50.

Slate Hunt extradition hearing April 22 in Caro

A hearing has been set for April 22 in Tuscola County Circuit Court in a case involving a Florida man who is fighting extradition to his home state.

Ernie Lee Hunt, 20, filed a statement contesting his extradition during Monday's Circuit Court motion day before Judge Martin Clements.

Hunt is charged with burglary and grand larceny and is wanted by Pasco county, Fla., authorities.

Extradition papers were signed by both Michigan Governor William Milliken and Florida Gov. Ruben Askew. The hitch is the papers are for Earl Lee Hunt.

Until the hearing, Hunt is free on $3,000 bond.

The case was one of several which came before Judge

Clements Monday.

Three sentences were handed down. Keith Allan Pelton, 17, Akron, was ordered to serve 24 months' probation and pay fines and costs totaling $300 along with restitution of $396.

Pelton was arrested April 2, 1976, in connection with a theft at Van's Supermarket in Caro.

Ronald LeRoy Pomerville, 29, Au Gres, was sentenced to serve six months in the Tuscola County Jail after pleading guilty to driving under the influence of liquor (DUIL) second offense.

Pomerville was originally charged with a third DUIL offense. He was arrested Jan. 6, in Caro.

Lewis C. Gouine, 55, Vassar, was sentenced to a year's probation after pleading guilty to a charge of non-sufficient funds for payment of a check under $50.

No fines and costs were assessed, but Gouine was ordered to pay restitution of $365 and serve 60 days in the county jail.

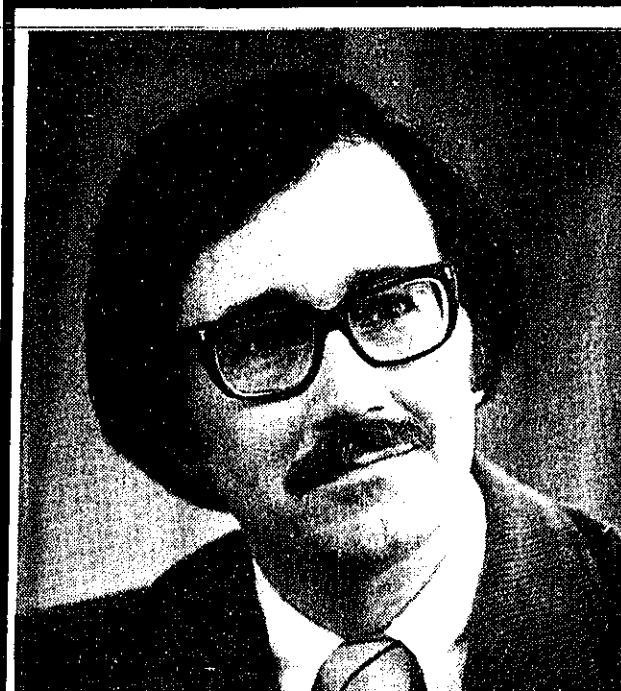

He was arrested July 24, in Fostoria.

Michall Locke, 22, Cass City, entered an innocent plea when he was arraigned on charges of marijuana delivery. Pre-trial examination was set for March 28 and bond was continued at $1,000.

Locke was arrested Jan. 12, in Novesta township.

Sherryl Gae Partridge, 31, Caro, entered a guilty plea to a charge of nonsufficient funds to cover a check under $50 during her pre-trial examination Monday.

Sentence was set for April 11. She was arrested Dec. 21, 1975, and originally charged with uttering and publishing.

Jeweler McConkey recalls half-century on Main Street

Retired Cass City watch repairman Keith McConkey says he has no regrets after doing business along Main Street for nearly 50 years. You might say he's loved every minute of it.

McConkey, 68, officially "retired" from the jewelry business he began in 1946 last January. But retirement isn't exactly the word for it. You might say he's just slowed down a little.

"I reached that point when I decided the time had come," McConkey said with a contented smile as he relaxed in the comfortable parlor of his spacious home at the corner of Leach and Houghton Streets.

"I have no regrets about it," he said. "I've built a beautiful clientele and I've loved it."

Since the first of the year, McConkey has worked around nine hours a week or so in his shop. The rest of the time has been spent reading, doing a little traveling and adjusting to a more relaxed schedule.

He still owns his business but has relinquished the reins of day-to-day operation to Miss Cindy Kanaby.

Having a business of his own was a dream McConkey harbored for several years before he actually made the move. But his years of doing business along Main Street go beyond the quarter century he's spent repairing clocks and watches.

"I graduated from Cass City High School in 1928," McConkey recalled. "I started working on Main Street Sept. 1, 1928."

It wasn't long before he took a job with A&P and eventually worked his way to manager of the local grocery store.

"I spent 20 years as a manager for A&P but it hit me one day that I'd worked for someone else long enough. I'd always wanted a business of my own and I knew the town had no jeweler."

Before he left A&P, he began studying the art of watchmaking and repairing and on Oct. 1, 1946, he and his wife opened their own store at 6529 Main St.

The McConkeys stayed there until 1951, when they moved into their present location. Ironically, the building McConkey currently owns was the former A&P store he managed.

"I never in my wildest imagination dreamed that one day I'd own the store building where I was manager," he said.

McConkey has spent all but two years of his life in the Cass City area. He was born in Montana nine years after his parents went west to homestead.

The family returned to Michigan in 1911 due to the illness of one of McConkey's brothers and settled in the Cass City-Gagetown area where they had relatives.

CHANGES

Cass City's Main Street has undergone considerable change during the nearly half-century McConkey spent there. Probably the most noticeable changes have come in new store fronts and paved alleys, he said.

But the biggest change came with industry, McConkey said emphatically.

"Things were rough in Cass City 15 or 20 years ago," he said. "We had eight vacant store buildings along Main Street and some of us were afraid we weren't going to make it."

But the coming of Walbro Corp. and General Cable Corp. changed all that, he said.

"Thanks to organizations like the Development Corporation and the Chamber of Commerce, we pulled ourselves up by our bootstraps and made a go of it," he said.

McConkey was one of the founders of the Chamber and served twice as its president. He also spent 25 years as a Boy Scout leader in Cass City and earned a Silver Beaver award for his service.

But one of McConkey's favorite projects was the Huron-Tuscola Migrant Mission. The mission was a group of area persons who helped provide needed services for migrant workers.

The group provided Spanish-speaking ministers and helped families meet their needs.

"They were beautiful people," McConkey said with a twinkle in his eye. "All they wanted was a livelihood and a roof over their heads."

Cable earnings down for 1976

Net earnings of General Cable Corporation for 1976 were $16,825,000, or $1.18 per share, a decline of 22 per cent from 1975 earnings of $21,600,000, or $1.52 per share, and sales for 1976 were $349,213,000, a 7 per cent increase from the 1975 sales of $326,632,000. Robert P. Jensen, president and chief executive officer, reported this week.

In the fourth quarter of 1976, Jensen said, General Cable earned $5,228,000, or $0.37 per share, compared with the fourth quarter of 1975 when earnings were $4,157,000, or $0.29 per share. He reported that sales were $106,084,000 in the fourth quarter of 1976 compared with $68,791,000 during the prior year period.

Despite the decline in the company's earnings, reflecting the continued impact of the recession during 1976, Jensen stated that the company's financial position was improved and that "shareholders' equity reached a record high of over $200 million. LIFO inventories have been reduced resulting in a benefit to net earnings of $3.1 million, as compared to a similar LIFO benefit of $3.2 million in 1975."

The company has acquired approximately 95 per cent of the outstanding shares of common stock of the Sprague Electric Company as a result of its cash tender offer and subsequent unsolicited direct purchases. Accordingly, operating results for 1976 include the results of Sprague for the month of December, and the year end balance sheet will reflect the consolidation of the two companies.

Jensen noted that for the full year 1976, Sprague Electric recorded sales of approximately $200 million and net earnings of $6.8 million.

General Cable is one of the nation's largest independent wire and cable producers serving the communications, electric utility, transportation, construction and extractive industries.

Solon pushes 'right to die' bill

A state legislator wants to give people a voice in what may be the most important decision of their lives - whether to die naturally or be kept alive by artificial devices.

State Rep. David Hollister of Lansing admits that it may take three to four years for the idea to catch on and win legislative approval. But he wants to introduce a right-to-die bill this year, then wait and see what happens.

California already has such a law. It allows people to sign a document asking that their lives not be artificially prolonged if they are ever terminally ill. Signers must re-sign the document every five years and can change their minds at any step along the way, up to the last moment.

The law is a year old in California and similar measures have been proposed in Florida, Virginia, West Virginia, Idaho and Maryland.

But in Michigan, before a bill is even in the hopper, right-to-life groups are criticizing the idea. Others are saying that legislation is no way to deal with such critical life-and-death questions.

For Hollister, it looks like a long laborious struggle ahead.

Collection spans 300 years

Smith recalls history through old guns

By Jim Ketchum

Jay Smith figures he owns a sizeable chunk of history. Some of it may be violent, but nearly all of it holds an interest for him.

Smith is an avid gun collector and viewing his assortment ment of 75 pistols and rifles is a lot like taking a walk through the past.

"I guess the satisfaction comes in knowing you own a piece of history," the congenial Smith said with a smile as he looked over part of his collection.

"You can look at these guns and imagine where they've been and who's owned them," he said. "It's really fascinating when you think about it." Some of his guns hold especially colorful history. The oldest is something called a coach gun, used in England during the 17th century.

"They called it a coach gun because it was used against the highwaymen who robbed coaches as they travelled between towns," Smith said.

The weapon wasn't built for accuracy as much as it was for simply spraying shot. He said the user would pour in some gunpowder and then fill it with "stones, nuts, bolts or whatever kind of shot he could get hold of", and fire.

"They figured the blast would at least hit something," he said.

Another unusual weapon in Smith's collection is a French air rifle. The weapon fired a .36 calibre ball using compressed air. Since it was virtually noiseless, it was a favorite of French marksmen during the Napoleonic era.

"They liked to use them in the mountains because they could shoot without a heavy blast," he said. "They were outlawed in 1802."

The marksman would pump the round ball on the underside full of air, load his steel shot through a hole in the side of the weapon, cock the trigger and shoot. The weapon was quiet and deadly accurate.

"Lewis and Clark used this type of rifle on their expedition," Smith said.

Another prized weapon in Smith's collection is a nine-shot Colonel LeMat revolver. The pistol was used widely in the Confederacy during the Civil War by such notables as J.E.B. Stuart and General Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard.

"This is a unique type of gun and very rare," he said. "There were only about 3,000 made. Mine is number 974."

Not only is the nine-shot cylinder unique but so is a .60 calibre shotgun chamber located just beneath the barrel.

SIDELINE TURNS TO HOBBY

Smith said he drifted into gun collecting almost without realizing it.

"My dad never owned guns other than what he used for hunting," Smith recalled. "I worked as a tool and die maker in Detroit for 20 years, and as a sideline, I'd repair guns for some of the police officers."

"After that, I just sort of got into it. I'd buy, sell, trade and it just went from there."

At one time, Smith owned as many as 200 rifles and pistols, but recently he sold part of his collection. Most of his valuable guns are kept in a vault at a local bank.

Smith is particularly proud of one part of his collection. It's a working model cannon which he made in 1956 out of scrap metal.

"I worked nights at that time and I needed something to do, so I put this together," he said.

The cannon weighs 135 pounds.

Smith says all the weapons in his arsenal will fire. The problem comes in finding ammunition for many of the older models. About the only place to obtain shot is at a gun show. But those aren't hard to find.

"You go to any gun show in the Detroit area on a week end and you'll be standing shoulder to shoulder," he said.

Smith says with some exceptions, most guns weren't very accurate by today's standards. Quality took a giant leap forward in 1856 with the Henry rifle by Winchester.

"There were some pretty accurate guns before that though," he said. "Those old Kentucky squirrel guns were deadly accurate."

GUNFIGHTERS

As Smith's collection has grown over the years, so has his knowledge of the west's famous gunfighters. He says most of them were psychopathic killers to a degree.

"You take someone like Billy the Kid for instance," he said. "He was a psychopath."

Others such as Doc Holiday and Wyatt Earp, who professed to be lawmen at various points in their lives, loved killing for the sake of it deep inside, Smith believes.

Smith has examples of pistols used by these and other notables such as the infamous Jesse James.

He sees parallels between the early gunfighters and today's killers. Both had easy access to handguns and could use them at will.

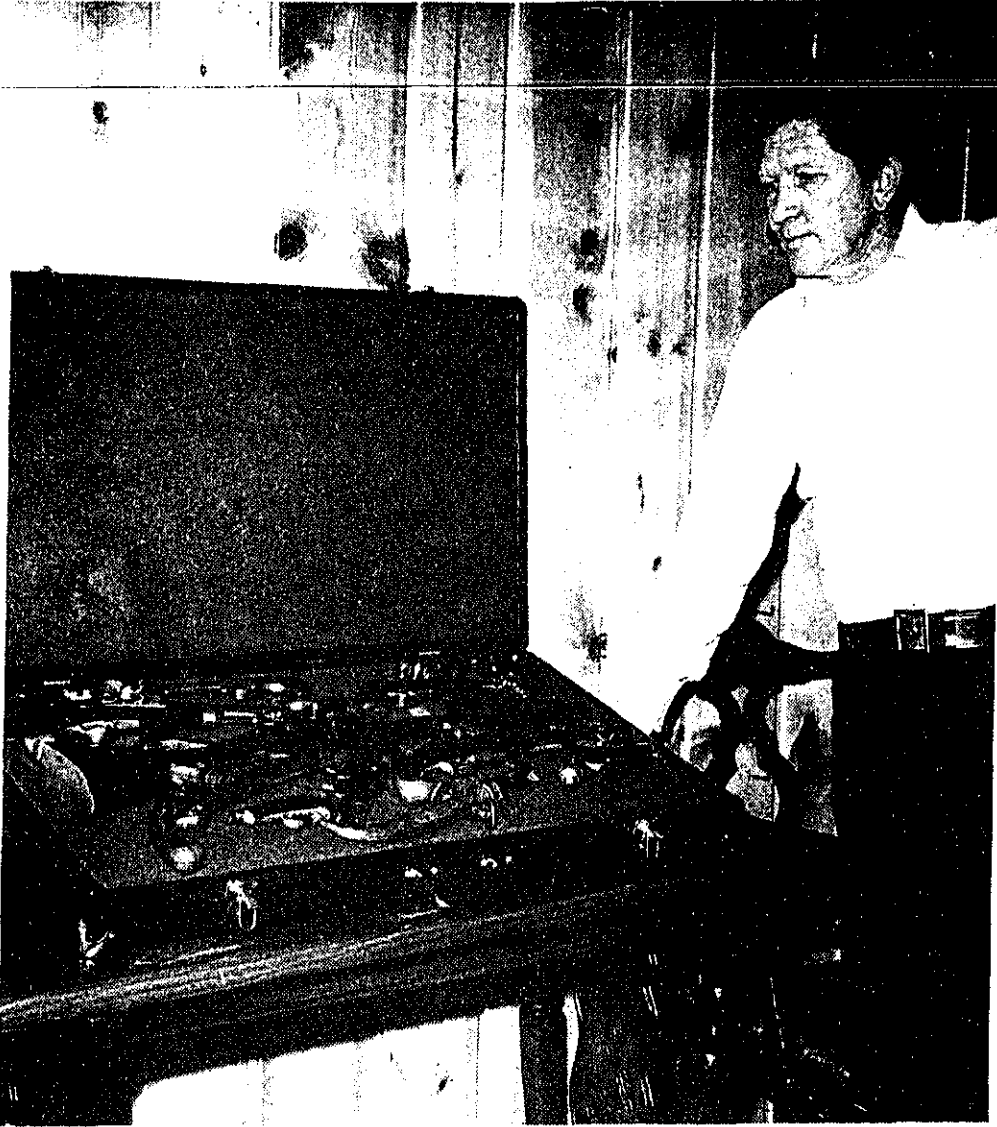

"The way I see it, I don't think you should take the guns away from the people," he says. "What should be done is tighten your handgun registration."

"Anyone wanting to buy a handgun should be given a mental test by a psychiatrist to find out what their attitudes are. This should all be done before the person is allowed to buy a gun."

For his own use, Smith prefers a .45 calibre pistol with an adaptor which allows the use of .22 calibre ammunition.

Smith says he plans to sell his collection at a private auction in Detroit Sunday, March 20. After 25 years in collecting, he said he plans to liquidate his collection.

JAY SMITH displays a portion of his antique gun collection. Smith's weapons cover over 300 years of history.

JAY SMITH displays a unique French air rifle which used compressed air to fire a projectile and a carriage gun used in the 1600's.

Two injured in 3-car crash

A Cass City man was injured and another driver shaken up early Thursday morning in a three-car accident at the intersection of M-24 and M-46, six miles south of Caro.

Tuscola County Sheriff's officers said Frank Harold Schott, 49, of 4242 Woodland St., was injured when his car, traveling south on M-24, slowed for the intersection and then entered it.

The vehicle was struck by an eastbound auto driven by Patrick Martin McNulty, 35, of Midland. Both vehicles then struck a third auto headed north and driven by William Logan Young, 68, of Columbiaville. Young, who was stopped waiting for traffic to clear, was unhurt.

Schott was taken to Caro Community Hospital for treatment of his injuries. He was cited by officers for failure to stop at a signed intersection. McNulty was shaken up and sought his own medical treatment.

The accident took place at 7:25 a.m.

In another injury accident last week, Roger Bearinger, 20, and Richard Lee Woodruff, both of Caro, were treated at Marlette Community Hospital following an accident on Kingston Road about two miles north of Kingston, Friday.

Caro State Police identified the driver as Patricia Louise Jaynes, 22, Vassar. They said her auto was southbound when it left the pavement at about 55 miles an hour, hit soft dirt on the shoulder and ran into a three-foot deep water-filled ditch.

The driver was unhurt. The accident took place at 9:15 p.m.

Three car-deer accidents were reported during the past week in which drivers were unhurt.

Bonnie Jean Periso, 22, of Broadway Rd., Cass City, struck a deer Wednesday, March 9, while traveling west on Shabbona Road, 10 1/2 miles southwest of Cass City.

The deer ran from the south side of the road into the side of her vehicle, sheriff's deputies reported. The accident took place at 8:20 p.m.

Also March 9, a car driven by William Lee Vanderpoel, 18, of White Creek Rd., Kingston, struck a deer on Kingston Road, about two miles south of Deford.

Sheriff's officers said the animal ran from the east side of the road into the path of the auto. The accident took place at 7:15 p.m.

Bruce Robert Sherman, 49, of 6991 Severance Rd., Cass City, escaped injury when his car struck a deer on Stevens Road, six miles northwest of Kingston.

Sheriff's deputies said the animal ran into the path of Sherman's auto. The accident took place at 3:35 a.m.

44 cast ballots in Kingston

Only 44 voters turned out Monday to cast ballots in Kingston's village election, Clerk Mrs. Mildred Parrott reported.

There was no contest as three incumbents sought reelection to three seats on the village council. All terms are two years.

Unofficial results show Robert L. Miller with 38 votes, Jane Ann Lalko with 37 votes and Marlene Powell, a write-in candidate, with 14 votes.

Two ballots were spoiled, Mrs. Parrott said.

seventh graders would pair off with a sixth grader to get an idea of what junior high school is like.

No formal action was taken by the board.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board okayed spending up to $1,600 for a new portable landing pit for pole vaulters as mandated by the Michigan High School Athletic Association. The request was made by athletic director James Barr.

Erickson announced it will not be necessary to pink slip any probationary teachers this year. He said student enrollment figures are beginning to rise and the teachers will be needed.

A discussion of probationary teachers will be held at a special board meeting slated Monday, March 28, at 8:00 p.m. at Gagetown.

The board named Robin Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sullivan of Gagetown, student of the month. Miss Sullivan carries a 4.0 grade point average and is active in band.

Board compensation was set at $17 per meeting for trustees, $21 for board secretary Ronald Reinhart and $25 for treasurer Jack Brinkman. Last year, the board donated their salaries to the library. This year, trustees are reportedly considering a contribution to the band.

It was announced that the annual election will be held June 13. Petitions for trustee nominations must be turned in by 4:00 p.m. Monday, April 11.

Terms of trustees Joe Warack and Mrs. Leona LaFave expire this year.

The board agreed to extend the dance, calisthenics and gymnastics program at the Gagetown School through the end of the year.

The board approved conducting a census of the school district as required by state law. Erickson said the survey will probably involve census takers calling in person at each home in the district.

Deputy files suit

A lawsuit seeking a total of $120,000 in damages was filed this week in Tuscola County Circuit Court by Sheriff's Deputy Leland Ward Teschendorf and his wife, Christine, in connection with a traffic accident last January.

Teschendorf was injured Jan. 24 when a car driven by Lawrence Allen Loomis (no address given) struck his patrol car near the intersection of M-46 and Chambers Road south of Caro.

As a result, Teschendorf's complaint alleges, the officer suffered impairment of speech, the ability to eat and to use proper dental hygiene. The officer reportedly sustained facial and knee injuries.

The suit asks $100,000 in damages for the officer and another $20,000 for Teschendorf's wife, on grounds of lost companionship and disruption of her normal lifestyle.

The case will be heard before Judge Martin E. Clements.

Stockbridge takes squeaker 61-59

Hawks drop heartbreaker as last-minute rally fizzles

THIS SHOT by Mike Richards missed but the Junior Hawk forward netted 10 points anyway. Number 42 is Rick Richards who finished his career for the Hawks. In the far right is Todd Lee of Stockbridge. Number 55 is Chuck Minix, while Jeff Hartel watches from the near right.

The Cass City Red Hawks basketball team did its thing against Stockbridge, coming from behind to tie the score in the last quarter after trailing for most of the game. But unlike the results against Frankenmuth, Ubly, Lakers, USA and Brown City, this time the rally fizzled and the Panthers took a heartbreaker, 61-59, in the regional finals at Davison High School. The Panthers now have won four regionals in the last eight years. Saturday it was their taller front line that made the difference.

Singers slate concert

A nationally known group, "The Re'Generation", is slated to present a concert at Cass City High School April 15, sponsored by the Cass City Area Ministerial Association. The group has travelled over a half million miles and performed before 4 million persons in live performances.

The group has presented 3,500 performances in seven years and has a radio show currently being aired by an estimated 500 stations. In addition they have recorded 21 albums and guested on numerous television shows.

The group is directed by Derric Johnson and presents a unique experience of sight and sound.

The company of musicians comes from all across the nation including New York, Oregon, Florida and Minnesota.

Battel sat out the better part of a quarter with fouls and Chuck Hendrick fouled out of the game.

Countering Stockbridge's superior front line strength was Cass City's firepower from the guard position.

The Hawks showed the pressure of tournament play in the first half as they hit just four of their first 20 shots for a meager 20 per cent.

Clarke Haire, who paced the Hawks all night, kept the Panthers from running away and hiding in the first two quarters and helped keep the game close in the first period. He pumped in two buckets from the top of the key and added a foul shot as Stockbridge went in front after eight minutes, 12-11.

In the second period it looked as if the eventual winners were going to blow Cass City out of the game.

The rugged Panther front line scored 18 points with Dan Stanley netting seven of his 11 points and Minix adding six of his 14. Basore netted five.

At the half Stockbridge had run up a 33-25 lead and that looked big to most Hawk fans. But not as big as the 11-point margin looked a few moments earlier.

In the second half, the Hawks started finding Battel in the center and he responded with half of his points in Cass City's third period rally. Haire kept up the pace he established in the first period by adding six points and after three quarters Cass City was within shooting distance of the Panthers, 47-43.

With three minutes gone in the final period the Hawks spurred to tie the score. Haire scored six points in less than 45 seconds and the score was tied at 51-51.

The first came on a rebound after he drove the lane. The second on a steal and a hook shot over the Panthers' Stanley.

The spurt was climaxed as the Hawk press caused a turnover with Jeff Hartel getting the ball. While sitting on the floor, he dished it off to Haire, who beat the defense for an easy two-pointer.

But Coach Phil Hora called time out and when the team took the floor again Basore connected on a 12-foot jumper and Cass City never tied the score again.

The lead see-sawed between two and four points and Cass City had a chance to put the pressure on but a missed foul shot nullified it.

With a four-point lead and about 20 seconds left the Panthers let Mike Richards come down and score unmolested as the clock ran out.

Haire led the Hawks with 25 points. Battel netted 16 and Mike Richards added 10.

Basore, a junior forward, was the leader for the winners with 22 points.

It was the final game for Rick Richards and Chuck Hendrick. Both players could look back at the season with satisfaction.

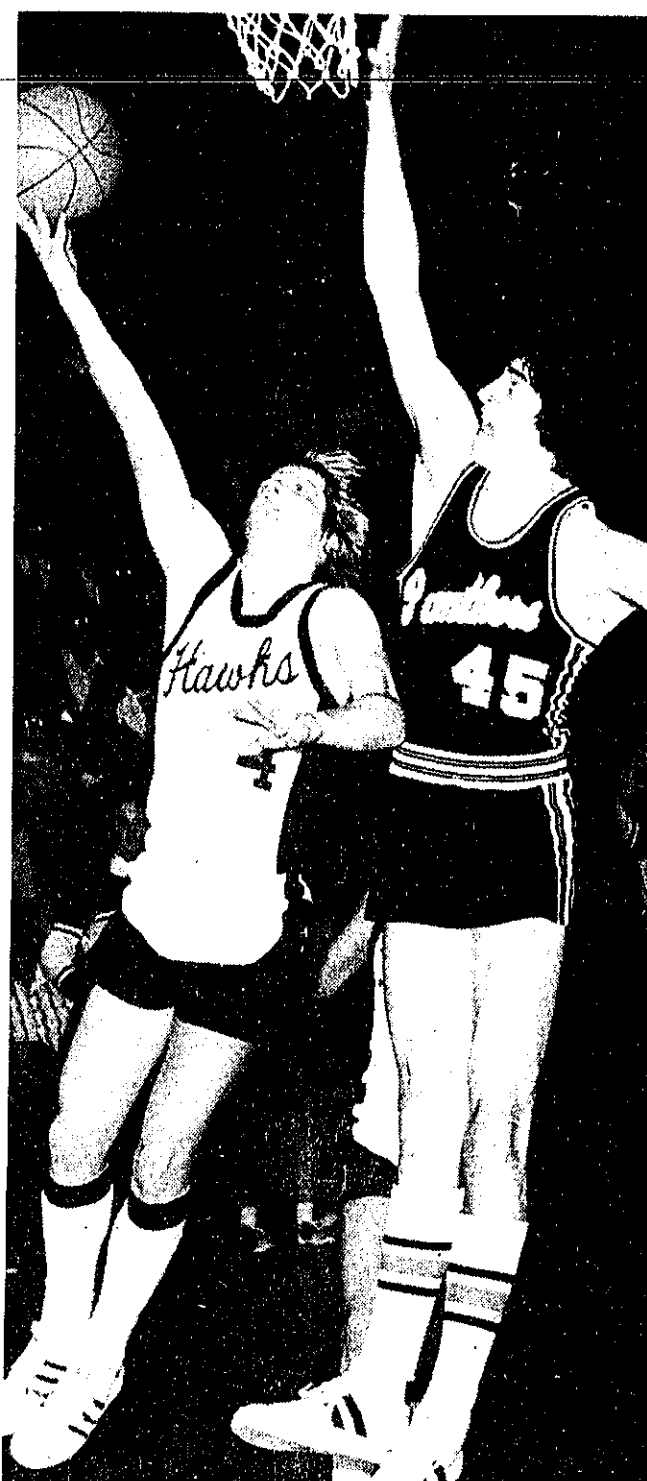

Both contributed heavily in key games that resulted in the Thumb B League championship and the battle to the regional finals.

The remainder of the team has next season to look forward to. The problem ahead for 1977-78 will be to find rebounders to take the place of the two graduating players.

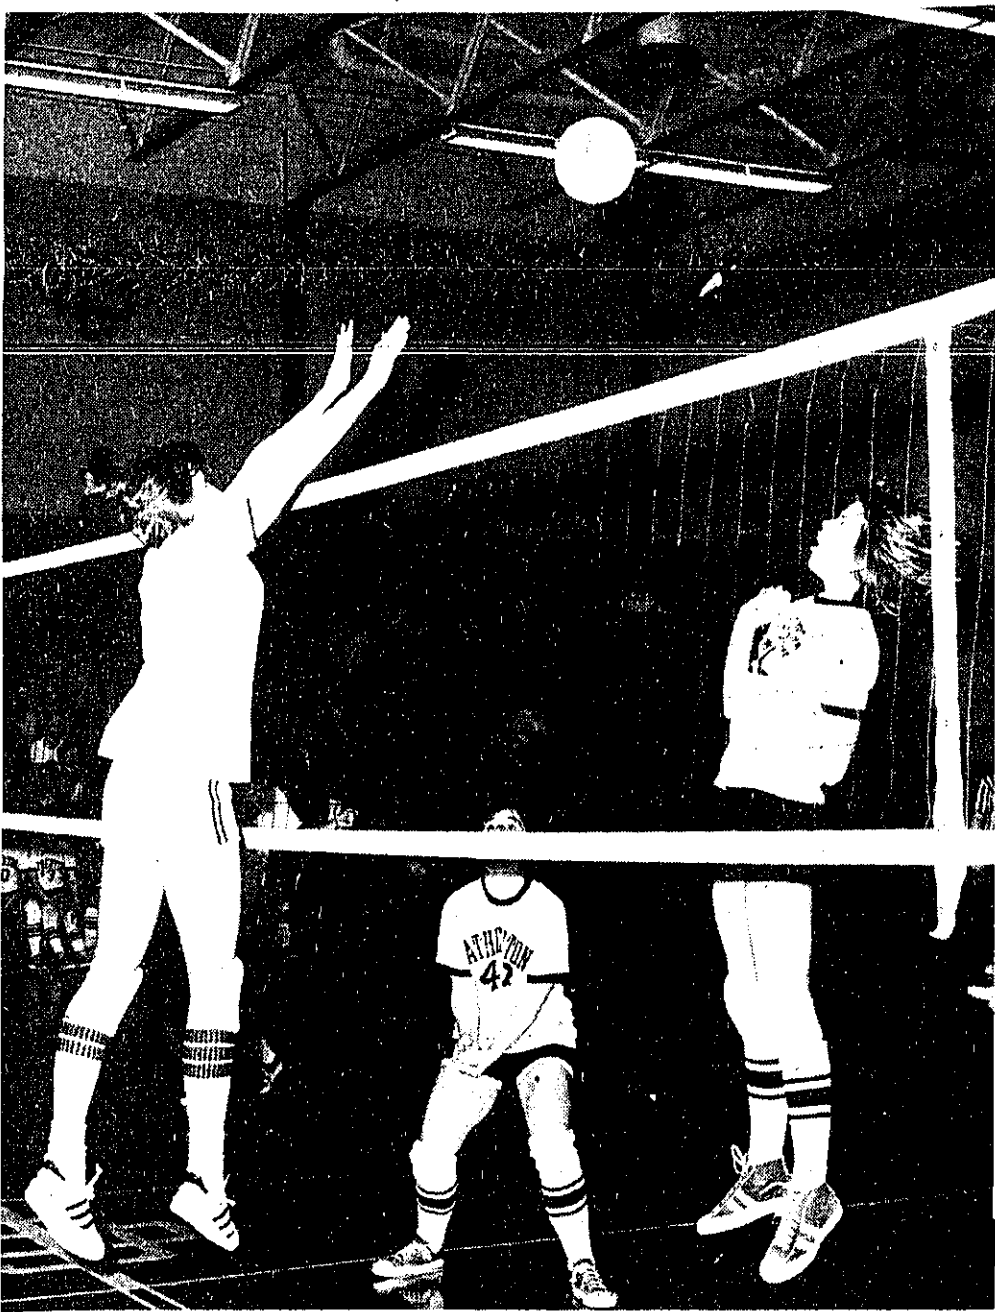

The boys were feted at a dinner in Davison following the final game when 100 appreciative fans and players crowded in to applaud the players for their fine season.

Scoring: Cass City-Rick Richards 2 2-2 6; Chuck Hendrick 1 0-0 2; Mike Richards 3 4-4 10; Paul Battel 6 4-8 16; Haire 10 5-10 25. Totals 22 15-24 59.

Stockbridge-Dan Stanley 35-5 11; Greg Basore 9 4-11 22; Chuck Minix 7 0-0 14; Todd Lee 0 3-4 3; Doug Pena 3 1-3 7; Bill Rickman 1 2-2 4. Totals 23 15-25 61.

CLARKE HAIRE hooks one in over the outstretched hand of Keith Prater of Stockbridge for two of his 25 points.

Cass City Volleyball Coach Brenda Breidinger couldn't talk above a whisper Monday, but she didn't care.

She lost her voice cheering Saturday as her squad captured the Region XXII volleyball crown at Cass City High School. The Hawks took the trophy in the final game of the final match and the contest wasn't really decided until the final minutes.

Atherton came on strong in the first game, downing the district champion Hawks 15-10. Cass City couldn't establish any momentum and Atherton remained in command throughout.

The Hawks got back on track in the second game, playing with the form that carried them to the district title, defeating Atherton 15-7.

The final game was a see-saw affair with neither squad jumping out to a lead until Cass City pulled away with less than two minutes remaining.

Setter Anita Brown and spiker Beth Erla were in top form in the final contest, with Diana Smith keeping the Hawks in the game with her serving.

Before taking Atherton, Cass City downed Lakers with little problem, 15-2 and 15-1. Outstanding setter was Mel Kelley, with Deb McFarland taking serving honors while Beth Erla held down the spiking position.

Cass City weathered a mild scare from a determined Bad Axe squad in semi-final play, taking two consecutive victories, 15-9 and 13-11. Diana Smith topped all Hawk servers during the match.

With district and regional trophies in their possession, the Hawks are now looking for a sweep at the state tournament slated next Saturday at Spring Arbor.
