

Elkland electors give Cultural Center to village

Cass City's village government received an unexpected present Saturday as Elkland township electors voted to turn over ownership of the Cultural Center to the village.

The decision came at the township's annual meeting held at the fire hall, but observers close to the situation believe there's a good chance the village council will turn down the gift.

Elkland electors decided to dump the building because of increasing expenses and the fact that few township functions are staged there. Last year, the township contributed $866 as its share of expenses on the 90-year-old structure.

Township Supervisor Edwin Karr said another $500 has been budgeted this year for expenses at the center.

The building has been owned by the township, with expenses split 50-50 with the village.

John Zinnecker, who cast the only vote against giving up the structure, said the building is needed because the meeting room at the fire hall isn't always available for such activities as scout meetings. He favored keeping the structure in township hands while tightening up on maintenance.

"It's a filthy, dirty place," Zinnecker said, adding user fees should be increased to cover clean-up.

Karr said following the meeting he wouldn't be surprised if the village council declined taking over the Cultural Center because of the expense involved.

BUDGET

Electors approved the 1977-78 township budget calling for general fund revenues and expenses of $97,455, an increase of $8,340 over last year's budget and $18,333 over actual 1976-77 revenues. The figure is $44,372 over what the township actually spent last year.

The largest increases in the new budget come in road construction and maintenance. A total of $40,985 is earmarked for road construction, with another $12,000 for maintenance.

Last year, a total of $17,299 was spent on road construction and $10,672 on road maintenance.

Karr said the board is considering rebuilding two miles of township road—the one-mile long Spence Road north of M-81 and one mile of Richie Road north from Bay City-Forestville Road to the Huron county line.

No final decision has been made.

Rebuilding does not mean blacktopping, Karr said. When a road is rebuilt, a new base is built, the road is widened to 66 feet and sand and gravel are laid. Karr said it's unlikely the township will be doing any blacktopping in the near future due to the cost.

Other major expenditures include $4,500 in supervisor and assessor salaries, along with $3,000 each for clerk and treasurer, a $3,000 contribution to the library.

The township will receive $33,000 in state shared revenues and $31,700 in local property tax money. Another $13,000 is expected in federal revenue sharing.

Cemetery revenues and expenditures are earmarked at $36,310, compared with just over $17,000 last year. Karr said the increase includes training a replacement for retiring sexton Charles Bigelow at $8,000 a year and major repairs to the sexton's house which the township owns.

Part of the cost will be picked up with $9,700 in anti-recessional federal revenue sharing funds.

The fire department's budget was set at $20,050, up $2,000 from last year's budget.

The township's 1977 State Equalized Valuation totals $23,949,900, compared with $19,748,700 in 1976.

DEMMING VAULT

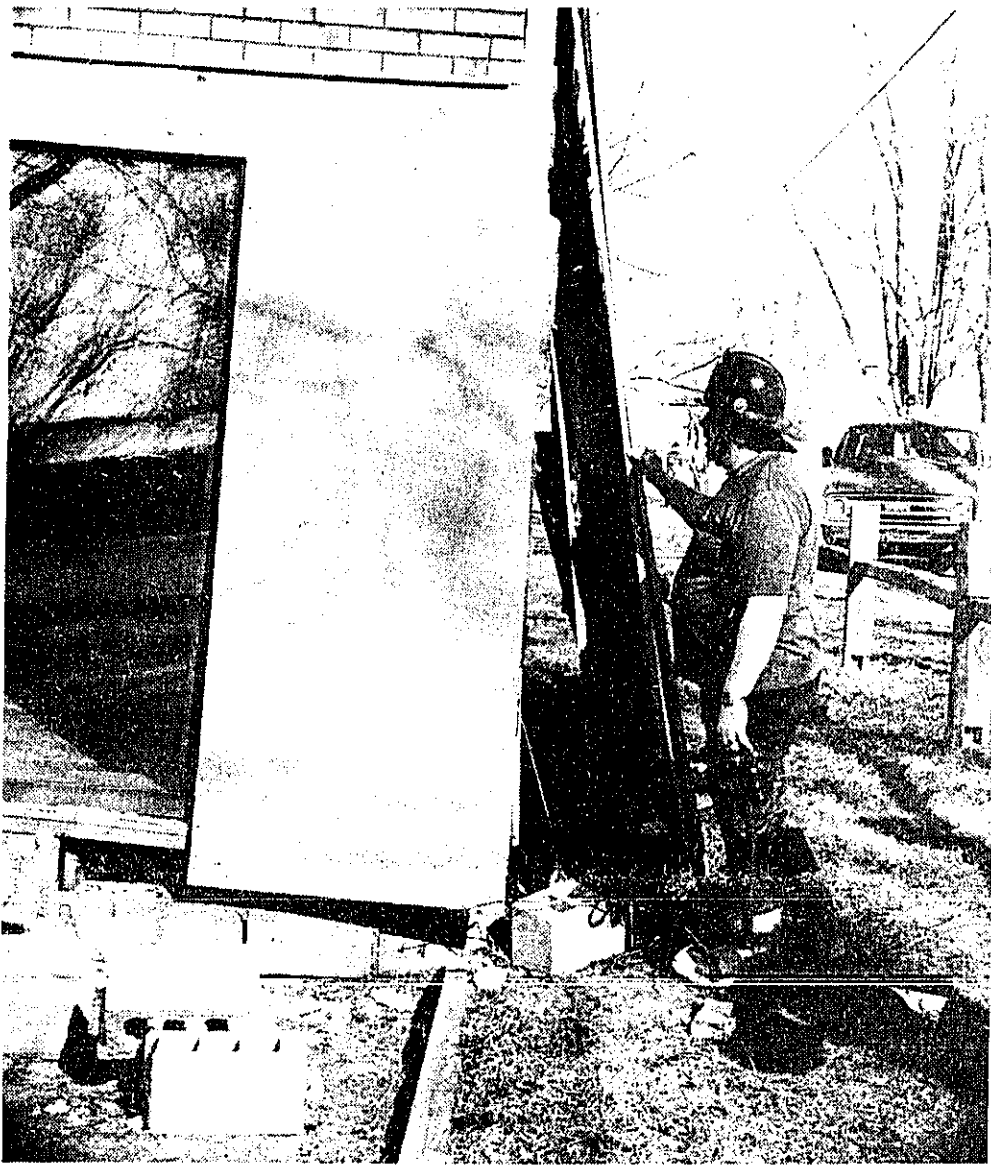

In other business, it was revealed that plans to demolish the crumbling Demming vault at Elkland cemetery are moving ahead. Karr said family members have agreed to contribute $4,000 toward having the vault torn down and the bodies removed.

He said the township has received permits from state authorities to remove the bodies, but that nothing will be done until the township receives the $4,000.

John Zinnecker, who has long urged action on the structure, requested the board contact the family and move as quickly as possible to have the vault torn down.

LOSS WAS set at $30,000 Monday afternoon when fire destroyed the home of Mrs. Mary Vatter at Shabbona in Saniiac county. Firemen from Lamotte and Elkland townships fought the blaze. No one was injured.

Explosion rocks Deford house

Vatter family homeless in wake of Shabbona fire

A fire started by hot cooking grease destroyed the home of Mrs. Mary Vatter on Decker Road in Shabbona, late Monday afternoon.

According to Lamotte Township Fire Chief Dennis Beadle, the blaze broke out around 4:30 p.m. when hot cooking grease ignited in the kitchen.

Beadle said a daughter of Mrs. Vatter ran to a neighbor's house for help but by the time they returned, the fire had swept through the two-story frame structure. The house was engulfed in flames when Lamotte firemen arrived at the scene.

Elkland township firemen were called to assist.

Beadle placed a loss of $30,000 on the house and garage. He said the family lost all their possessions.

Firemen remained at the scene until 7:55 p.m.

High east-southeast winds and a driving rain hampered firemen's efforts to battle the blaze.

No one was injured. Mrs. Vatter and her four children are reportedly staying with friends.

A relief effort on behalf of the family began Tuesday. Donations of linens and household items were being sought. Persons who wish to contribute may call 872-2017, 872-2276, 872-2588 or 872-3850.

This is the second time Mrs. Vatter and her family have suffered through a fire. Another home they occupied burned in Shabbona 19 years ago.

Elkland township firemen were called to the scene around 3:30 p.m. after the explosion, touched off by an apparent leak in an LP gas line, virtually destroyed the home.

Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said Roller had been remodeling the home and had installed a gas line under the house Saturday, along with a few appliances.

He returned Sunday to hook up a cooking range in the kitchen and when he attempted to light it, the house exploded.

Jezewski said accumulated gas from a leak under the home apparently ignited. Miraculously, Roller, his wife, their 1½-year-old child and Roller's parents escaped without serious injury. The house has been ruled a total loss, with an estimate of $6,000 placed on the damage.

Roller told firemen the force of the explosion threw him across the room. No other nearby buildings were reported damaged.

Jezewski said there was no fire in the home when Elkland firefighters arrived at the scene.

He said the house was literally blown from its foundation.

GRASS FIRE

The fire was one of two runs made by the department Sunday. At 1:30 p.m., firemen were called to the scene of a grass fire on Bay City-Forestville Rd., 8½ miles northeast of Cass City.

Jezewski said the fire burned about a half-acre of land owned by Dr. June MacRae of Gageton.

He said witnesses told him they saw a car stop along the roadway and watched one of the occupants throw something into grass along the shoulder.

A short time later, the fire broke out, he said. The flames were out by the time firemen arrived at the scene.

He said continuing as township supervisor and assessor while holding the county assessing job would be a conflict of interest.

Karr was first elected supervisor in 1972, replacing Maynard McConkey who was elected to the County Commission that same year. Karr was re-elected in 1974 and 1976.

He said continuing as township supervisor and assessor while holding the county assessing job would be a conflict of interest.

Karr emphasized the move isn't definite because he hasn't been accepted for the job yet.

Budgets, roads highlight area township meetings

Area townships held their annual meetings Saturday to approve new budgets and discuss problems of local residents. A complete run-down follows:

ELMWOOD TOWNSHIP

Elmwood township electors approved a new budget calling for revenues of $46,150, along with salary increases for assessor, clerk, treasurer, trustees and board of review members.

Clerk Joanne Sattelberg reported the assessor's annual salary was hiked from $2,000 to $2,500, with both clerk and treasurer receiving $800 increases, bringing their salaries to $2,000 per year.

Trustee salaries were hiked from $20 to $30 per meeting and board of review members will now receive $35 per day instead of $20.

The board approved three road projects for the year. They include grading and graveling of Elmwood Road from Cedar Road to Dodge Road, Jacob Road from Cass City Road to Elmwood Road and Hutchinson Road from Jacob to McGregory Road.

Total cost for the three projects was set at $24,900. Supervisor Roy Messer announced the township dump will be closed July 1.

The board was given permission to dispose of the township hall building in Gageton after construction of a new building is completed in conjunction with Gageton village authorities.

Mrs. Sattelberg said the township has agreed to re-submit application for federal funding of the project. An answer is expected by June, she said.

Three electors attended.

NOVESTA TOWNSHIP

Eight electors attended the Novesta township meeting where a $58,420 general fund budget was approved.

Salary increases of $300 were authorized for Clerk Henry Rock and Treasurer Jean Clarke. Both will now earn $1,500 annually.

Annual salary of $3,000 was approved for the supervisor's position if the appointee is a certified assessor and $2,000 if he is not.

Supervisor Gail Parrott has announced his resignation effective May 1. A replacement will be named by the township board.

Increases of $10 per meeting were authorized for trustees and members of the zoning board of appeals and the zoning commission, according to Treasurer Jean Clarke.

Electors okayed the purchase of more land for the township cemetery if possible.

ELLINGTON TOWNSHIP

Four township residents attended the Ellington township meeting where a proposed budget of $89,500 was approved. No salaries were increased. Most of the budget will go for road and bridge maintenance, Clerk Hazel Tomlinson said.

The board discussed possible surfacing of Tomlinson Road with County Road Commission Engineer Robert Wellington. Another meeting is slated.

GRANT TOWNSHIP

A general fund budget of $36,000 was approved by the 16 persons attending the Grant township meeting. About $25,000 will be spent on roads, according to Clerk Donald Reid.

Discussion on raising lot purchase fees at the township cemetery was held. A decision is expected after the cemetery committee makes its recommendation to the township board.

Current price for a lot with six burial plots is $50, Reid said.

Discussion was also held on whether or not Supervisor Bobby Davidson should be paid an additional salary for assessing. Davidson is currently working under a temporary certification and is taking courses toward certification.

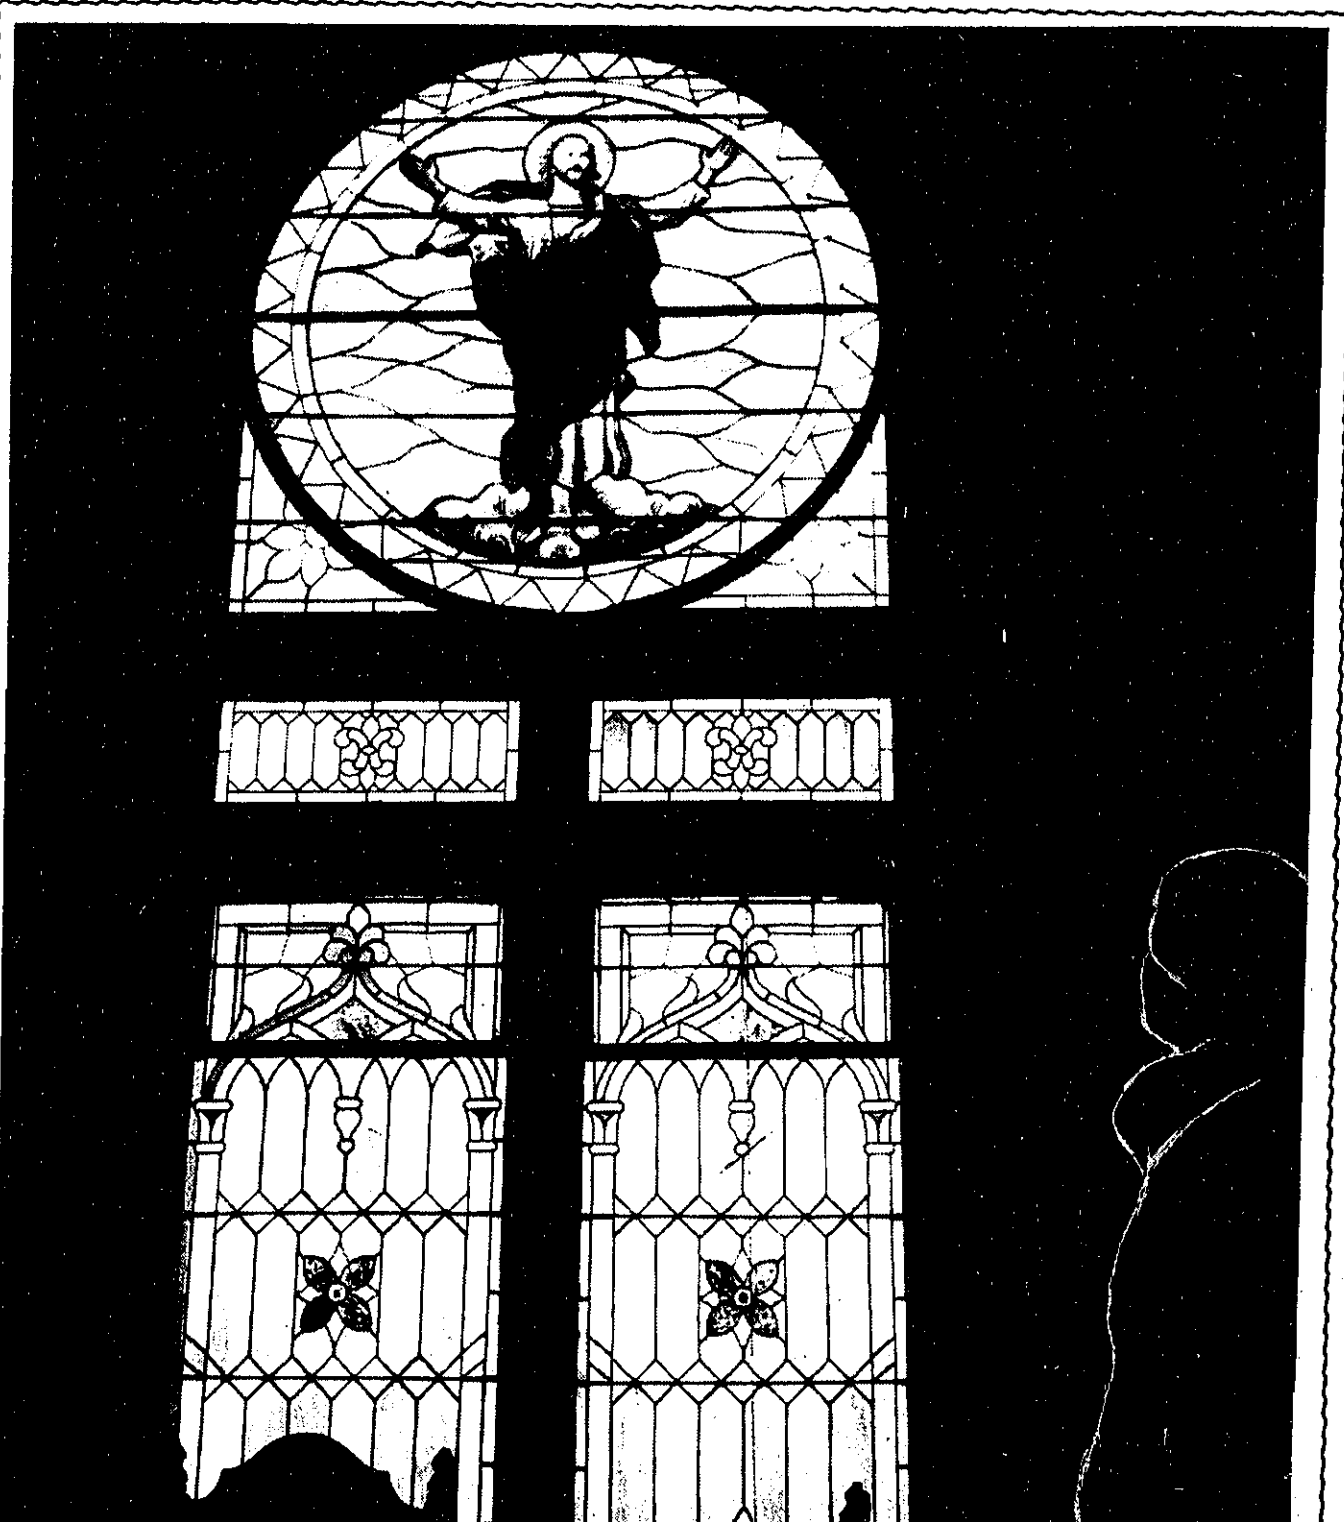

In other business, electors passed a resolution supporting the Grant township board in its tax dispute with the Owen-Gage School District.

EVERGREEN TOWNSHIP

Nineteen persons turned out for the Evergreen township meeting where a $39,000 budget was approved.

Donations of $200 each were approved for Cass City Recreational Park and Rawson Memorial Library.

Electors discussed road work for the coming year. Please turn to page 5

What's the most popular sport for youth, 5 to 17 years old? Baseball.

That's the conclusion of the joint legislative study on youth sports programs.

Another is that more girls are into tackle football than previously expected . . . the figure is 2.4 per cent.

If all this doesn't turn you on, how about this? Each of the 89 school districts that participated in the survey (including Cass City) received a stack of computer printouts about two inches thick and I'd guess at least 11 by 17 inches in size.

The cost to you, me and the rest of the taxpayers has to run into the thousands.

"If It Fitz. . ." They aren't parenthesized

By Jim Fitzgerald

Steady readers of this column (Mother and Aunt Madeline) probably think my mother and my aunt live together inside two parentheses.

I have written about them countless times during the past 25 years. I always say the same thing: "Steady readers of this column (Mother and Aunt Madeline) . . ."

It is not true that my mother and my aunt are permanently parenthesized. They do not even live together. They do live in the same town, but at opposite ends. This is a good idea, because Mother and Aunt Madeline often do not agree with each other, which means they argue a lot.

(However, they will agree that I should not have written what I just wrote. They will deny that they argue, even a little. And they will wonder what all these other words are doing inside their parentheses with them).

Mother is the oldest sister. She was born in 1900 but she has not always been as old as this century. For her, 1939 lasted until after World War II. Madeline is a couple of years younger.

There is a third and youngest sister, Florence. She lives in a different town so she will not have to listen to Mother and Aunt Madeline argue.

Florence never gets inside the parentheses with Madeline and Mother for good reason. Florence's late husband, Sam, was a good newspaperman and he got me my first job in the business. Sam said I might be a decent columnist if only I didn't write about my family. It seems the least I can do in his memory is leave his widow outside the parentheses.

My mother is also a widow. Her name is Gertrude and she was married to Edmund. Everyone called them Eddie and Gert, but they always called each other Edmund and Gertrude. He was a witty man and she had to laugh at him, even when she didn't want to. I know she misses him very much.

Aunt Madeline is a retired career woman. She never married but I refuse to call her an old maid or a spinster. Those terms are somehow disparaging and unequal. There is something glamorous about being a bachelor. There is something lonely about being an old maid.

There is nothing lonely about Madeline. All of her life, she has made friends and kept them. Most of her life she sold life insurance and gave away balloons.

My parents had five children and Madeline sold my father insurance on each child while the kid was still in the delivery room, barely unwombed. When my sisters and I grew up, Madeline sold us insurance on our children who now number 22.

Whenever a parent paid an insurance premium, Madeline gave the children some balloons with the name of her company printed on them. Through the years, she must have distributed a million balloons to her relatives. She never blew up one. Gasping fathers and red-faced kids furnished all that air.

I always thought it would be funny if I died of a heart attack while inflating one of those balloons. My widow would claim my insurance from Madeline's company and, for cause of death, she could say: "Your lousy balloons."

You may wonder why I am letting Mother and Aunt Madeline outside the parentheses today. My kids would be quick to tell you why. Whenever I write a column about my mother or aunts or sisters, one of my kids will read it and say:

"There is going to be a gathering of the Fitzgerald clan very soon. Dad always writes about his family just before a family party. That is so everyone will be talking about what he wrote."

I have rotten kids. It is a coincidence that tomorrow the Fitz clan and many others will gather to celebrate the 75th birthday of Aunt Madeline.

It will be a warm time with much laughing and some tears when Madeline thanks a bountiful God for giving her sisters who gave her nieces and nephews to gladden her for these many years.

At this point, in honor of the occasion, my mother will stifle the urge to charge Madeline 52 years' rent for the use of her children.

And, if I know what is good for me, before the party ends I will embrace my steady readers in parenthetic arms and I will tell them that I was only kidding and that I know they never argue.

And I will kiss them and also thank a bountiful God for (Mother and Aunt Madeline).

FROM THE
Editor's Corner

 It's Monday and I'm trying to recover from Sunday. That's because I spent Sunday afternoon and evening at home.
 Sitting around doing nothing drives me up a wall. It's a flaw in my character.
 At times like Sunday I envy the guy that can piddle around his basement workshop perfectly happy.
 Or the person that can get kicks out of a coin collection, a stamp collection or looking at ancient furniture.
 Everything that really interests me (other than reading) requires other people.
 It takes at least two to play cards, ping-pong, checkers . . . most any game.
 So on days like Sunday I usually plant myself in an easy chair and watch the tube while the time drags by.
 Most of these days I finally do what I did Sunday. I jumped in the car and buzzed down to the park to see what was going on.
 If the weather is nice I can always work off excess energy by going out in the back yard and swinging away with a golf club.
 It never helps my game but it does pass the time.
 It must be apparent by now that I have not yet solved the problem of what to do in retirement.
 It's a puzzle to me what all the GM workers who are opting for early retirement will do when they quit at 50 or so . . . and there are plenty of them, according to corporation spokesmen.
 Imagine hanging around the house for 20 years. My wife would kill me . . . if I didn't do her in first.
 I suppose if my job really was a chore, boring and uninteresting, I'd think differently about calling it quits at the first opportunity.
 I know that I could never stick it out on an assembly line regardless of what was offered.
 Like most jobs there are parts of publishing a newspaper that I really just hate to do.
 But one of the blessings of being boss is that after you become established you turn some of them over to other persons.
 That may not answer the question of what to do on a dull Sunday but it certainly helps during the rest of the week.
 It helps to know, too, that I'm not apt to have to retire unless I want to.
 Right now I have no idea when that will be.

Pesticide exams begin

By Don Kebler

Nearly 50 farmers and commercial people took their respective pesticide certification exams recently at the Civil Defense Center. In total, over 100 Tuscola county applicators have taken their exams. This constitutes less than five per cent of the county's commercial farm operators, vegetable and fruit producers. Over 125 study manuals have been purchased since Dec. 4, 1976.

The next county examination will be July 6, and two exam sessions will be held. The 9:30 a.m. session has exam number for your application of 7905. The 1:30 p.m. session has exam number 7906.

If you could not attend the last session, and have your exam authorization card from the Michigan Department of Agriculture, you can take the examination July 6 by presenting your card.

Comments. The PBB fire retardant feed contamination was discovered in 1973 and this is 1977. In four years time, two generations of beef or dairy beef steers will have been marketed for consumption. PBB has not been found to be transmitted by heredity or genetics, so you can figure out the chances of PBB in these offspring.

The dairy or beef cow mothers having PBB in their blood and tissue, if slaughtered, can be contaminated. The probability of the cow beef being sold should be nil because all dairy cows have been quarantined because of a blood and/or a milk test by regulation.

The same situation holds true for swine or any other livestock and the chances of PBB in swine is less because the time between farrowing and slaughter is at least five months. Even if a PBB carrier sow's female offspring farrowed feeder pigs, the time difference from the grandmother to the finish of the second generation would be more than one and one-half years. So in four years time it's possible to be consuming pork from offspring of at least the second generations of sows from a 1973 sow.

If you think Michigan is the only state that has PCP-treated lumber in their dairy and livestock buildings and equipment, guess again. Also, if you think by buying meat produced out of state you'll not possibly ingest PCP, you are wrong.

Memories recalled as Cass City couple mark 65th anniversary

By Jim Ketchum

In an age when Americans chalk up nearly as many divorces as marriages each year, Jim and Myrtle Pethers have beaten the odds. And they're happy about it. Monday, the couple celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary in the cozy mobile home they've lived in on Elizabeth Street for the past two decades. Family members called with a cake and good wishes. It was a day for remembering. Most of the memories were good ones for Pethers, 88, and his wife, 84. He walks with a cane and her eyesight is poor. But both have a keen sense of humor and sharp memories of a world completely different from today. "We were married April 4, 1912, in Detroit," Pethers recalled, seated in a kitchen chair, his cane across his lap.

"There was four feet of snow on the ground the day we were married," he said. "We had to go to the minister's house and it was all we could do to get there. "We had a real big wedding --there were six of us there," he laughed. They had both gone to Detroit to seek work. Pethers was a native of Wisconsin who came to the Thumb with his parents when they settled on a farm west of Bad Axe. Mrs. Pethers, whose maiden name was Philp, was born in Bingham township in Huron county and lived on a farm with her family east of Bad Axe.

They met on shopping trips and social engagements in Bad Axe and their relationship flourished. "We went to work in Detroit back then because times were hard," he recalled. "You just couldn't get work around here."

He worked in a machine shop when the future Mrs. Pethers arrived, also looking for work. It wasn't long before they decided to tie the knot. A few years into their marriage, World War I broke out, sending every able-bodied man either into the service or to work. "At that time, we both worked in a plant and made radiators for France," Mrs. Pethers said. "He worked at a soldering vat where they dipped the radiators and then they'd send them along where four of us would hand-solder the ends. "It was so hot that you'd have to buy a new pair of gloves each week because the ones you had would be used up," she said. After the war, Pethers held a variety of jobs in and out of machine shops. He spent nine years working at a creamery and several years in the real estate business. He said he and another man worked at a real estate firm and were doing fairly well until the Depression came along and killed their business. Around the same time, the couple, who never had any children, decided they'd had enough of Detroit and moved back to Cass City, settling on a farm three miles west of town along M-81. They lived there until 1952, when they retired and proceeded to "bum around" for several years, traveling throughout the United States. "We managed to wear out a travel trailer in the process," he laughed. They lived for a time in Florida, but have resided permanently at their Elizabeth Street address the past 21 years.

changed in the past 65 years. They aren't as ready to work and struggle to make their own way as they were in the early days of this century. "This younger generation wouldn't go out and do what we did to make a living," he said. "I always had a job, even during the depression. When I knew I was going to lose my job, I started looking ahead of time so I always had work."

Mrs. Pethers agreed. "We did everything," she said. "And we never took a dime we didn't earn. We never went on welfare or any kind of 'fare'." People have changed and so has the world they live in, he says. "Back when we were married, automobiles were just coming in," Pethers observed. "Most big machinery was run by steam power, not by gasoline or electricity."

The couple also watched Detroit spread its tentacles farther each year, growing into a giant in industry and commerce. Pethers recalled one of his many jobs involved working on sewer line installation in what was then considered outskirts of the city.

"They asked me if I could operate a back-hoe," he said. "I told them I wasn't sure I could because I never did before. But the boss said there's one in the woods not far and when you get some time, go out and practice. "So when I got caught up, I went and practiced. I knocked over lots of trees learning," he chuckled.

The couple celebrated their anniversary quietly Monday with a special cake brought in by relatives for the occasion. Both agree they're as happy today as they were 65 years ago. "I guess we did all right," he said.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

Don't take me out to the ball game

By Jim Ketchum

It was a short baseball season, wasn't it. When Detroit Tiger rookie sensation Mark "The Bird" Fidrych made hamburger of his right knee, about the only good thing anybody could say was "wait till next year". When the word came out that The Bird would not only miss the opening game but two months of the season, 10,000 box seat ticket holders thought about beating down the doors at tired old Tiger Stadium demanding refunds. Fidrych was and is the entire pitching staff and without him, the Tigers should be headed for another basement finish unless a miracle takes place and the chartered planes carrying every other American League team crash at once. Then the Bengals might finish fourth, if they work at it. Somehow, the news really doesn't phase me the same way it might have five or 10 years ago. The excitement just isn't there. Maybe it's because they've played like such second-string sandlotters for so long that I've finally lost interest altogether. When you have outfielders who can't field, hitters who can't hit and pitchers who throw instead of pitch, it doesn't take long for the fans to catch on. This team isn't going to win. When I was a kid, they used to play the same way, but it didn't matter because it would get better. It said so in one of the 10 Commandments. Hidden between the not killing, stealing or coveting was something about baseball teams eventually learning how to win. Finally, the club and I both matured at the same time and for a couple of seasons, it was beautiful. In 1972, the adrenalin started pumping again as the boys at Michigan and Trumbull actually won the American League East Division crown. True, they blew the pennant in the last playoff game against Oakland that year, but it really didn't matter. They'd be back next year. There was just one problem. We both kept on maturing and suddenly, over half the team had either retired or been traded for two broken bats and a helmet to be named later. Then along came the rookies. Oh, brother, did we get rookies. Rookies who had to be shown which end of the bat to pick up and what to do when a fly ball came at them. It was pathetic. I kept listening, listening and listening, waiting for them to get better. They didn't. A little of the old excitement was starting to come back when Fidrych turned his leg into a corkscrew. Quite honestly, I half expected it. I suppose I'll still keep listening. But I'll be able to miss a few innings now and then, knowing they can carry on and lose without me being on hand for each agonizing moment. You can wait till next year if you like. Personally, I'm tired of waiting.

State sets Vassar rail meet

Proposals for state financial assistance that could result in major changes in existing rail operations in Tuscola, Bay and Saginaw counties will be discussed at a public information meeting in Vassar Monday, April 18, the Department of State Highways and Transportation said this week. Department representatives will conduct the meeting in the Vassar city hall council chambers, 287 E. Huron St. beginning at 1 p.m. Purpose of the meeting is to provide opportunity for public discussion of proposals for operation of three system lines: Vassar to Millington, Vassar to Colling and Vassar to Munger. A proposal has been received from the Tuscola and Saginaw Bay Railway Co. to replace the existing operation. The applicant will have an opportunity to explain its proposal. Comments from the public also are invited. Additional written material related to the proposal will be accepted within five days following the meeting. These may be submitted to Jack E. Morgan, manager, Public Involvement Section, State Highways Building, P.O. Box 30050, Lansing 48909.

Nursing Workshop slated

A workshop entitled "Decision-making and Changes in Nursing Education, Licensing and Delivery" will be held April 29 and 30 at Colony House near Cass City. The workshop is co-sponsored by the Huron District Nurses Association and the University of Michigan. Several topics relating to the nursing profession will be discussed. For more information, call (313) 763-3105.

Townships hold meetings

A $60,000 general fund budget was approved by 15 Greenleaf township electors. The largest item in the budget will be road construction and maintenance. Included are funds for payment of Germania Road construction and for work on Robinson Road in cooperation with Evergreen township. Approval for graveling several township roads was given, along with the spraying of brush along roadsides. A $100 contribution to Cass City's recreational program and $170 for the library were approved, Clerk Clare Brown said.

Bowles granted leave

Tuscola County District Court Magistrate John Bowles has been given a year's leave of absence effective last week.

District Judge Richard Kern said Tuesday the decision was made in order to give Bowles more time to recover from a stroke he suffered Dec. 6 which left him unable to speak.

Kern said a replacement will be sought to fill in for Bowles.

One task done today is worth a dozen planned for tomorrow.

Do you find yourself in the situation of having to cook for yourself or maybe for someone else, and having little or no experience?

Well, you're not alone. There are a number of people, especially men, so the Co-operative Extension Service of Michigan State University and the Thumb Area Commission on Aging are jointly sponsoring a cooking class called "Cooking for One."

The class will be taught by Aliene Mills, Extension Home Economist from Caro. She will be covering such areas as how to select food at the store, what food is good for you and what is not, how to get more for the dollars you spend, what equipment do you need and how to use it, storing and safety of foods, and basic food preparation hints, plus answering questions and concerns.

Call the office of the Commission on Aging in Caro for your registration at 673-4175. There will be three sessions, April 19, April 26, and May 3, all Tuesdays, from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m., at the Caro Historical Center, Senior Citizens' meal site.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

W.E. Walpole, president of Walbro Corp., and Ron Crandell, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Crandell of Cass City, were named Citizen of the Year and Junior Citizen of the Year respectively at ceremonies held Tuesday night before a crowd of some 200 persons gathered at Cass City High School. The event was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Annual township meetings were held Saturday. Elkland township announced plans to substantially boost rates for fire service to near-by townships.

Donald Miller Jr., 23, started work Monday as Cass City's fourth police officer. The 6'3", 230-pound officer is an ex-Marine sergeant and served four years in the corps, spending time in Vietnam.

Mable Brian, 80, was honored for her long work career in the Cass City area during Tuesday night's Chamber of Commerce banquet at Cass City High School.

Mable Brian, 80, was honored for her long work career in the Cass City area during Tuesday night's Chamber of Commerce banquet at Cass City High School.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Alex Henry, grocery merchant in Cass City for 16 years, has sold his business to Arlan E. Hartwick.

Novesta township furnished the most thrills in Monday's election when two slip candidates were elected. Walter Kelley with 183 votes defeated John H. Pringle, who received 118, for the office of supervisor. Robert Phillips was successful over Ado Worms for township clerk by a 184 to 113 margin.

Michigan, in the eyes of the Japs and Germans, is a logical air-attack objective because of the tanks, guns, ammunition and planes our factories are producing, in the opinion of E.C. Swanson, chairman of the Tuscola County Council of Defense.

Elkland township officers elected Monday were supervisor, J.C. Hutchinson; clerk, Charles E. Patterson; treasurer, Alex Henry; highway commissioner, William Helwig; justice of the peace, John C. Corkins; member of the board of review, Calvin J. Striffler; constables, Ray Fleener, Edward Golding, Edward Buchrly and Harold Greenleaf.

Sometimes a man's state of mind may be overtaxed, but that does not necessarily mean that the tax is too high.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

George Clara was named the president of the Cass City Rotary Club for the new year at the regular meeting of the organization at the New Gordon Hotel Tuesday noon.

Robert Fritz and Joan Holmberg won the first and second place in the annual United Nations contest for high school students, according to Dave Ackerman, history teacher at the school. The contest was judged by Ackerman, Harold Oatley and Rev. Melvin R. Vender. Under the direction of Bernard Ross, toastmaster for the evening, at the regular weekly meeting of the Gavel Club held at the Home Restaurant, a mock primary election indicated that Senator Estes Kefauver and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were the most popular Democratic and Republican candidates for the respective President.

PX 20: Great Corn For Your Best Land

Here's an early hybrid that often outyields later varieties. PX 20 is a great early single cross that has been a frequent winner in N.C.G.A. yield competition. It's a fast-drying hybrid for clean, big harvests. Does well under irrigated and non-irrigated conditions. Plant a lot of PX 20. And ask me about other high-yielding NK hybrids for silage or grain.

Your Neighbor says

Easter means forgiveness

Easter, one of the holiest of Christian observances, probably holds a unique meaning for each of us. What does Easter mean to you?

For Mrs. Peg Neitzel of 6327 Houghton St., Cass City, it's a very special time of year.

"It means the cross and sacrifice and forgiveness," Mrs. Neitzel says. "It doesn't mean the Easter Bunny."

Mrs. Neitzel says Easter is the one season you remember your friends and relatives more than at any other time, a time to send a card or a note and a time to think a little more about what life means.

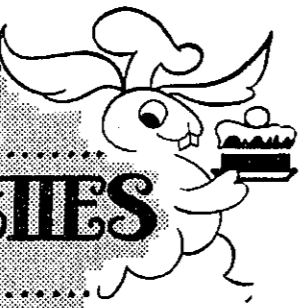

She remembers Easter as a child in Detroit as a time when families seemed to draw closer together and a time when people worshipped more together.

She says Easter means much more than simply a time to buy a new outfit. Mrs. Neitzel was born and raised in Detroit and has lived in Cass City for nearly 32 years. Her husband is Cass City's own Fritz Neitzel, freelance photographer.

ASK DR. ELIZABETH

Dealing with stomach ulcers

By Dr. J. Elizabeth Morgan, M.D.

Dear Dr. Morgan: Tax deadlines make my stomach ulcer flare up. I treat this myself. What antacids should I avoid?

A. Antacids relieve ulcer pain and may hasten healing. Four kinds are effective: 1) Sodium bicarbonate -- rapid-acting. Not widely recommended for ulcers, since pain relief is brief. Also, blood sodium rises, which is bad for people with kidney or heart trouble.

2) Calcium carbonate. Disadvantages -- calcium increases stomach acid secretion, and it is acid that causes the ulcer. Over months, blood calcium rises and may cause kidney stones.

3) Magnesium hydroxide and trisilicate. This causes diarrhea. It's safe except for people with kidney disease, where magnesium may cause trouble breathing.

4) Aluminum hydroxide. It's safe, although, over months, can lower body phosphate and impair nerve and muscle function.

Most commercial antacids are a mixture of these. For severe pain, take antacids hourly. If pain worsens or symptoms persist past April 15, see your doctor. Pain from gallstones and stomach cancers may briefly improve with antacids.

Dear Dr. Morgan: Our son, with a learning disability, is diagnosed as autistic. Friends say megavitamins help autistic children. Our doctor won't recommend them. Isn't he unreasonable and outdated?

A. No. In 1968 Dr. Linus Pauling suggested that the B vitamin nicotinic acid helped schizophrenia. The American Academy of Pediatrics has researched megavitamins for autistic children. They can find no proof that megavitamins help learning disabilities, schizophrenia, or autism.

Certain illnesses in children can require vitamin supplements: e.g., vitamins A, D, E and K for children with intestinal malabsorption; or B6, folic acid, and D for children taking medicines for tuberculosis or seizures. Unnecessary vitamins can be dangerous. Nicotinic acid can cause skin, liver and joint damage.

Your love is most important to your child -- plus reliable professional guidance, when needed. I see no reason not to trust your family doctor.

Dear Dr. Morgan: I have dandruff. What causes it? How can I get rid of it?

A. Dandruff is dead skin shed from your scalp. Your body sheds about a tablespoon of skin daily. Shed skin will stay in the hair if you don't brush and wash it out. Some people shed skin faster than others. Scalp infection or irritation makes skin thicken and increases the dandruff.

1) Brush hair regularly, 50 to 100 strokes, but not enough to make the scalp hurt. This brushes out some dandruff and loosens the rest.

2) Shampoo with a mild soap, daily at first. This washes away loosened dandruff.

3) Avoid any soap, hair creams, ointments, etc., that irritate your scalp.

4) Don't scratch to "see if you have dandruff." You're just scratching off loose skin.

5) If you don't improve soon, or think you have a scalp infection, see your doctor.

ECMPDR, officials hash water management

Twenty-three area elected and appointed officials met Thursday at the Elkland Township Hall to study the Water Quality Management program for east central Michigan as presented by the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region.

The meeting focused on the recently released draft Water Management Program reports which will eventually comprise the final Water Quality Management Plan of the 14-county region. The two draft reports are Environmental Inventory and Socio-Economic Inventory and Projections.

Thursday's meeting was an attempt to let officials and interested citizens ask questions about the plan and what it will mean in the Thumb.

There were few concrete answers during the afternoon session. It's too early to estimate how much it will cost to maintain or improve the quality of rivers and lakes because many sources of pollution haven't yet been identified, Jim Sygo, ECMPDR Chief Water Quality Management Program Planner, said.

"What we want out of all this is a plan we can implement," Sygo said. "It would be senseless to implement a grandiose program the region can't afford."

The goal, Sygo said, is to develop plans to improve or maintain the quality of water in the planning region's 14-county area, with an eye to having fishable and swimmable water by 1983.

He said once the problem is defined and solutions drawn up, it will cost local units of government something. Right now, it's impossible to set a price tag.

Sygo said ECMPDR's task is to develop a plan with alternatives and the financial, legal and institutional information needed to implement that plan or its alternatives.

Other water quality meetings are slated throughout eastern Michigan.

Five Thumb area men were selected to serve on ECMPDR's Program Management Committee. They are Tuscola County Commissioner Chairman Maynard McConkey, Huron County Commissioner Ronald J. Knoblock, Art Priebe of the Huron County Planning Commission and Fred Black of the Wisner Township Planning Commission.

The committee will be the policy committee responsible for reviewing the work of all Water Management Program committees as well as the ECMPDR staff before any recommendations concerning the region-wide water management plan are made to the full ECMPDR commission.

It was also revealed that a Cass River Water Sampling Program would be established. Officials said the water samples will be used to determine if there are any effects attributed to agricultural runoff within the Cass River Drainage Basin.

ELECTED OFFICIALS from the tri-county area gathered Thursday in Cass City to discuss water quality plans with East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region personnel. Shown at the left in the background is Maynard McConkey, Cass City, who was named to a special advisory committee for ECMPDR.

GENERAL TELEPHONE will hold an open house at its Cass City building Thursday, April 14. Tours will be provided for selected students in addition to public viewing times. A variety of telephones and equipment will be on display. Shown extending an invitation are Bob Ridenour, Floyd Baird and Bob Stevens.

Gen-Tel to hold open house

General Telephone customers in the Cass City exchange are invited to an open house at their local telephone switching office located at 4463 South Seeger St., according to C. R. Kowalski, Division Manager for the company.

The Cass City office will be open to the public April 14, from 3:00 p.m. until 8:00 p.m.

Tours of the office, displays of various new and old telephones, types of telephone cable, telephone trucks, and various other interesting and educational telephone equipment will be made available for inspection.

"We are opening our office to the public in order to give our customers an opportunity to view the office and the various specialized equipment necessary to provide telephone service to the community," Kowalski said. "We would also like to meet each and every one of our customers in order to get to know them better."

"We would also like to meet each and every one of our customers in order to get to know them better."

Four stand mute at drug arraignments Monday

Another four persons were arraigned Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court on drug charges lodged following their arrests in Unionville and Kingston in late February.

Francis Humpert, 22, Akron, and Ralph James McAlpine, 24, William Charles Magiera, 19, and Tracy Don Kelly, 19, all of Caro, stood mute during their arraignments on charges of delivering the drug PCP.

Innocent pleas were entered in their behalf and pre-trial examinations were set for May 2. All appeared before Judge Norman Baguley in an unusually busy court docket.

Bonds for Humpert and McAlpine were continued at $3,000, while a $5,000 bond was continued for Magiera.

Kelly was also arraigned on two other warrants involving delivery of marijuana and the drug LSD. He stood mute on both counts and innocent pleas were entered.

Bonds totaling $15,000 were continued.

Two persons were arraigned in connection with the theft of electronics equipment from a home in Dayton township Feb. 26.

David Charles Wolfrum, 19, Deford, stood mute on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building and an innocent plea was entered in his behalf. Pre-trial examination was set for April 18 and his $2,000 bail was continued.

Bruce Allen Monger, 23,

Gregory Carl Peterson, 19, Caseville, stood mute during his arraignment on a charge of delivery of LSD. An innocent plea was entered and pre-trial examination was set for May 16. Bond was continued at $1,000.

Peterson was arrested in connection with an incident in Unionville Nov. 12.

Randy Earl Dibble, 25, Caro, stood mute at his arraignment on charges of delivery of marijuana. An innocent plea was entered and pre-trial examination was set May 16. Bond was continued at $2,500.

Dibble was arrested in connection with an incident in Caro Aug. 18.

SENTENCES

Five persons were sentenced. Richard Allen Wilcox, 31, Bad Axe, was ordered to serve from 32 months to four years in Jackson Prison following a guilty plea to a larceny charge.

Wilcox will receive credit for 69 days served. Judge Baguley recommended Wilcox receive vocational training as part of the sentence.

He was arrested in late December in Juniata township.

Donald Lee Rogers, 17, Caro, was sentenced to fines, costs and probation following his guilty plea to an uttering and publishing (bad check) charge.

Rogers was placed on three years' probation and ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $400, plus $200 in court-appointed attorney fees.

In addition, he was ordered to serve four months in the Tuscola County Jail with credit for 81 days already served. Rogers was arrested Jan. 14, in Caro.

David Daniel Clark, 21, Flint, was sentenced to serve two years' probation and ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $400 after pleading guilty to carrying a dangerous weapon.

Clark was also given a four-day jail sentence with credit for four days already served. He was arrested in connection with an incident in Juniata township in April, 1976.

Raymond Eugene Staten, 37, Mayville, was sentenced following a guilty plea to a probation violation to serve 60 days in the county jail with credit for 32 days already served.

Staten was originally placed on probation following a conviction of selling mortgaged property under $100. The violation involves conviction of a third misdemeanor during the probation period.

A reluctant witness was given a 30-day jail sentence after she failed to appear in a case involving Frank A. Mitchell, 20, Flint.

Elizabeth Fuller of Silverwood was found in contempt of court for failing to appear. She was given 23 days credit for time served.

Hawk girls set sights on league softball title

The chase for the Thumb B conference girls' softball title swings into high gear next week and if experience means anything, the Cass City Red Hawks should be in the thick of the league's first real race in several years.

Coming off a year when they finished third in the league behind Marlette and Vassar and third in the state, losing out in the state finals to Kalamazoo Christian, the Hawks have their sights set on the title.

Coach Kally Maharg has 11 of her 18-girl squad returning this year, including the all-important pitching and catching positions. She sees the Hawks strong throughout the infield with the only real questions at two outfield positions.

"This year, she sees no one team dominating the league the way Frankenmuth did when the Hawks began playing five years ago. Marlette, champion with a 6-0 league record, are, of course, the team to beat.

"They have good catching and pitching," she said, "but if we can hit them, they're in trouble."

She also sees improved Bad

Axe and Caro squads and looks for a "respectable" performance from Sandusky during its first year in the league.

"It sounds like a real race this year," she says. "There should be a lot of excitement."

A look at the probable starters shows experience and depth at nearly every position. Once again, Mary Fleming will take to the mound for her fourth and final year as the Hawks' number one pitcher.

Last year, she was named to the all Blue-Water Area team and if past performance is an indication, look for another good season. She'll get relief help from Elaine Stoutenburg and Brenda Goslin.

Cheri Martin will once again be the team's number one catcher with back-up help from Lora Langmaid and Diana Smith.

Liz Vargo owns first base after three years in girls' softball. She'll be spelled by Pat Goslin.

At second base, Paula Butler, a junior and Deb McFarland, a senior, are candidates as starters, with Sarah Wilson again stationed at the hot corner, third base.

When she's not relieving on the mound, look for Elaine Stoutenburg at shortstop. Her list of credentials includes receiving honorable mention

Nab 3 in Vassar assault

Three persons were arrested this week on armed robbery, conspiracy and rape charges in connection with a forced entry to a Vassar area home Saturday afternoon.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies identified the suspects as Gregory Marlowe Tyson, 25, Saginaw, Jewell Swinton, 25, Vassar, and Augusta Carol Bables, 29, Vassar.

Swinton and Ms. Bables are charged with aiding and abetting in an armed robbery, while Swinton also faces a breaking and entering charge. They were placed on $10,000 bond each.

Tyson is charged with rape, armed robbery and conspiracy to break and enter. He was placed on a $20,000 bond.

The trio faces preliminary examination in District Court April 19.

Sheriff's detectives who investigated said the incident began when the trio knocked at the door of a home about a mile and a half south of Vassar, asking to use the phone.

Once inside, the men pulled machetes and threatened a woman and her four children ranging in age from three to eight. Police alleged the woman was criminally assaulted. Names of the victims were not released.

Officers from Vassar Police Department, the Saginaw County Sheriff's Department and Buena Vista township police assisted in the investigation which led to the arrest of the trio by Monday morning.

Gilbert Gonzales, Bad Axe, an employee of Huron County Mental Health Services, told police two large magnetic signs were stolen from a county van as it sat parked in Cass City Thursday.

The signs were valued from $40 to $50.

Athletes prep for spring sports

Wide open race seen on eve of baseball season

When Rick Richards moved into town he added just enough strength to the team to make it a championship basketball squad.

Now the husky blond Richards is on the baseball team and he may add just enough strength to the diamond squad to bring the Hawks another championship.

Richards is a pitcher, and a good one, with a live fast ball and curve. He's around the late, too.

That's just one of the bright spots for new head coach Don Schelke.

While there aren't that many lettermen back, Schelke has a strong JV squad to fill out the vacancies left by graduation.

When you speak of holes to fill, start with Ken Lowe. He was the Hawks top hitter, best fielder and a strong pitcher for Cass City. An all-conference performer for two years.

The left side of the infield also has to be replaced. It included Tom Smentek at third and Dave Romig at shortstop when Lowe was on the mound.

Also gone is pitcher-center fielder Mike Gruber. Despite the loss of two fine hurlers, pitching could be a Hawk strength this season. Besides Richards, junior Jeff Hartel is available and sophomore Clare Trischler has shown promise. Bob Pena has a strong arm but has always had a control problem. Mike Richards was a JV starter last season.

Hartel promises to be a fixture behind the plate when not pitching. He and two other juniors are lettermen who were regulars last season.

The pair are Randy Rabideau, first base, and Clarke Haire, second base. It's likely that Haire will move to shortstop this season.

Seemingly with the inside track at third is Dean Severance. Severance has good hands and could make the loss of Smentek less noticeable.

Tony Doerr, who played first on the JV squad is a sophomore. He hits the long ball and will see plenty of action this year. Besides pitching, Trischler is an accomplished player who will challenge for a starting position wherever he is placed.

Mike Pine is a back-up catcher. The rest of the squad saw action last year on the JV squad and it will be Schelke's task to round out the club from a host of better-than-average players.

If the young team develops as fast as fans hope, the Hawks could be a threat to win it all.

Cass City has been a threat for the league title most every year for the last 10 years and was the one sport in which the school always ranked as one of the teams to beat.

The baseball team was tough when all other Hawk squads suffered losing seasons.

There doesn't appear to be an outstanding favorite in the Thumb B this year and the winner of the wide open race could well be the team that develops fastest this spring.

Cass City was to have opened the season Tuesday when Mayville was due at Cass City Recreational Park.

All conference games for both JV and varsity start at 4:30. All conference games and all early season non-league JV games are played on the same date. The dates the varsity are at home the JV is on the road.

Double headers are played on each date.

Coach Dale McIntosh has two weeks and two meets before plunging into the Thumb B Conference track season and the chances are that he will need all this time and more to prepare his charges for conference competition.

The Hawks lost several stellar performers by graduation last season and McIntosh must look to his underclassmen to fill the voids in the ranks.

Finding strength in the hurdles will be one of the problems facing Cass City. Gone from last year's squad are Dallas Englehart and Ron Posluszny. Posluszny was strong in the 220 and Englehart a leading point winner in the broad jump and relays.

Cass City's best 2-miler at the end of last season was Steve Schneeberger. Also gone are Bruce Schweikart, Tim Muz and Guy Howard.

There are thinclads left to take up the slack in the distance events. Gary Warju is back. Flanking him are a couple of freshmen who may turn out to be the best Cass City has had in several years. They are Steve Richards and Mark Guinther.

The Hawks appear to be weak in the hurdles where younger thinclads will need to develop if Cass City becomes a factor in the Conference race.

There are bright spots. John Isaacs is a premier performer in the 440. He'll help in the relays and whatever other events the coach chooses to place him.

The Hawks should be strong in the high jump and the pole vault. Clarke Haire, the school's record holder in the high jump, is back and should be as good as there is in the conference in the event.

Clare Trischler gives the squad more depth than it has had in years. Don't be surprised if he hits the 6-foot mark as the season progresses.

The pole vault is another strong area. Steve Ballard and Haire will both win points for the team in the event.

Finding a competent broad jumper, shot putter and discus thrower are problems to be solved.

Mike Lowe and Steve Bean are expected to anchor the dash teams. Right now Bean is nursing a sore back and his future this spring is uncertain.

It promises to be an interesting year. It appears that the Hawks may finish about where they did last season ... in the middle of the pack.

Franknmuth and Vassar still appear to be strong with the rest of the teams chasing them in hopes of an upset.

Franknmuth edged Vassar for the Thumb B title last year.

Report put-take pheasant program satisfies hunters

Calling last year's put-take pheasant hunting program "the best season to date," the Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologists have begun gearing up for this fall's special hunt.

"The 1976 hunting season was unsurpassed in terms of good participation, satisfied hunters and relatively few complaints," says Vic Janson, DNR pheasant specialist. "The birds performed well and the harvest brought a high return of birds released."

He adds that the sale of around 30,000 permits at $10 each indicates an increasing interest in the program. Last year's sale of permits was nearly double the previous year's 15,800 total.

While revenue only met a little over half the $540,000 operating expenses for 12 months, DNR officials believe that the program will become increasingly self-sufficient in the years ahead.

Janson attributes the increased sales, in part, to more publicity, better quality birds and hunting, more outlets for hunters to buy permits and an increased release program. Also, he adds, the program is "highly regarded on an international basis as a model for other put-take programs."

Janson says biologists from Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Washington, Alberta (Canada), and even from Lebanon, have come to inspect and discuss the Michigan program. Officials from Alberta intend to pattern their planned program after Michigan's.

"Michigan's program is large-scale compared to those of neighboring states and some of their hunters have said they regard ours as much better," says Janson.

The DNR plans to again release 120,000 pen-bred birds in 1977. The length of the season will remain unchanged, but Janson says there will be a change from a noon opening the entire season.

"We do plan to change from a noon opening the entire season to a morning hunt early in the season and an afternoon hunt later in the season," Janson says. "This will provide hunters a better opportunity to fit hunting into their leisure-time schedule and should result in 'cooler' hunting during the warm periods in August and September.

"We also plan to try for a more even distribution of pheasants in the hunter's bag. In 1976, according to DNR surveys, 38 per cent of the put-take hunters failed to bag a pheasant; 10 per cent shot one bird; 18 per cent shot two or three; 12 per cent shot four or five; 10 per cent shot six to nine, and 12 per cent took ten or more.

"This year we hope to initiate a permit with ten seals attached, one to be placed on each pheasant killed," notes Janson. "When all the seals have been used, the permit becomes invalid unless the person purchases another allotment of seals. We believe this system will result in better hunting for the majority of participants by distributing the harvest among more permittees."

Janson cites an ever-increasing need to continue the program.

"Pheasant habitat for wild birds is expected to deteriorate gradually and in future years hunters will need a place to hunt even more than at the present time," the specialist says.

"World food problems are on the rise and there continues to be a nationwide push for increased production of grains and other agricultural crops. This will mean still more intensive agricultural practices which can be expected to work against wild pheasants and their habitat."

Going strong at 160, Puff still is a favorite at Curtis Clelands

Sometimes, leading a dog's life isn't all that great. But in Puff's case, it's been long, easy and mostly happy.

Puff, a mixture of setter, beagle and a few other breeds, will mark his 23rd birthday sometime this spring. He's spent his entire life at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cleland on Germania Road, 9 1/2 miles northeast of Cass City.

Twenty-three years might not seem like much until you consider that one year for a dog is roughly equivalent to seven human years. That makes Puff about 160 human years old.

The affable pooch moves a little slowly these days. He lost his hearing about 10 years ago and went totally blind this spring. His eyesight was poor for about five years prior.

And he's lost the ball of hair on the end of his tail that led to the Clelands' naming him Puff.

But outside of the infirmities of age, the dog is healthy. "He's a part of the family," Mrs. Cleland said as she watched Puff gingerly lie down on the carpeted living room floor and begin licking himself.

According to the Clelands, Puff's mother, a part setter, wandered onto their land in Greenleaf township and was immediately adopted by their three children.

The following spring Puff was born. The Clelands say he's helped them raise three children and 19 foster children over nearly a quarter century.

Harry Crandell (Cass City veterinarian) takes care of him," Mrs. Cleland says. "They're old friends. He gives him his vitamins and shots. They go back a long way."

The Clelands say Puff has led a pretty easy life and has managed to avoid accidents and injuries that normally take a heavy toll on dogs.

"He was never much of a hunter," Cleland recalled. "He was just a little gun shy. We went out once and he got a couple of pheasants. But he never liked to be around a gun."

They agree Puff has managed to take life in his stride. He's managed to outlive every other dog the Clelands ever owned.

"We had a big red dog several years ago and he and Puff never got along too well," Mrs. Cleland remembered. "We went on a trip once and boarded him. He jumped a nine-foot fence and never came back."

But Puff just kept rolling along. He's always enjoyed people, especially children. These days, he spends a lot of his time curled on the couch beside Mrs. Cleland.

Since he cannot see or hear about his only communication with his owners is a gentle pat on the head or a friendly scratch of a hard-to-reach itch.

Mrs. Miller hosts UM women

Mrs. Alan Miller was the hostess Monday evening for the monthly meeting of women of Salem UM church. Seventeen were present.

During the business meeting, a contribution to be paid over a four year period to the Methodist Home at Chelsea was voted. Members voted to sponsor a child through the New World Vision program. Plans were made for the mother-daughter banquet to be held May 2 and for the prayer seminar.

For the program, Mrs. Eldred Kelley spoke on "Listening to God".

There was a sale of plants and used books.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Donald Loomis.

His walk is slow, not as much from stiffness as from the fact he can't see. He often bumps into chairs, tables or the unfamiliar leg of a visitor. We don't move the furniture around too much or he'll get lost, Mrs. Cleland says.

Since he's been deaf, he seldom barks, unless he senses another dog nearby with his surprisingly keen nose.

The Clelands take him out for short walks several times a day. This past winter was rough on him, Cleland said, because the cold seemed to penetrate even more than usual.

"I remember the first nice day this spring when he found a patch of grass in the yard, he rolled and rolled in it because it felt so good," he said.

Puff eats either canned or dry dog food. Other than an occasional vitamin, his diet is no different from that of the Clelands' four other dogs. They maintain feeding him a good dog food instead of a lot of table scraps has probably helped him achieve a long life.

In fact, Dr. Crandell says to his knowledge, Puff is the oldest dog in the Cass City area. There were two others who made it past 25 years but both are now gone.

Crandell says most dogs live to be about 10 years old or so. Seldom will a pooch make it to 20.

How long can he last? Who knows, Crandell says.

"Everything has its own natural life span," he says. "With care, it's hard to say how long he'll last."

Puff generally sleeps in Cleland's furniture repair workshop and often keeps his master company as Cleland refinishes or rebuilds a table, chair, sofa or other piece of antique furniture.

"Puff's a fixture around here," Cleland said smiling. "I guess he's got us pretty well trained."

As for Puff himself, he's oblivious about any notoriety over his age. All he's concerned with is a regular meal, someone to scratch an errant flea and making sure no one has moved the furniture.

Protest condition of Germania Road

Between 40 and 50 persons gathered Friday night at the Greenleaf Township Hall to complain to State Rep. Quincy Hoffman (R-Applegate) about the condition of Germania Road.

Township residents living along the road said the road is in poor condition and that they can't get the Sanilac County Road Commission to do anything about it.

Road crews tore up the old roadbed last year and began rebuilding the road between Bay City-Forestville and Cass City Roads. Since then, residents say, little or nothing has been done to improve it.

Hoffman said after the meeting he would talk with road commission officials but admitted there was little he could do to get things moving since it was a problem between the township and the road commission.

Hoffman said the township has put up $5,000 in construction money for the road.

He said township residents are complaining about what they call "evasion" on the road commission's part.

Road Commission engineer-manager Fred Elwood said Tuesday no one from the township has contacted him to complain about the road. He said construction on Germania Road is presently concentrated in Lamotte township but said the Greenleaf section will be graded this year.

He said the road through Greenleaf township is passable and said a finish grade should be complete this summer.

Elwood was noncommittal about when the road might be blacktopped. He also said the township has not yet paid for its share of the road work.

Yet County Commissioner Lloyd Severance (R-Decker) whose district includes Greenleaf township, said the township has paid its construction bill for the road.

Severance claimed he made copies of the cancelled township check for the work and presented it to road commission officials recently.

Severance said the road isn't scheduled for blacktopping this year, but that it is a "top priority" road.

He said construction on Germania Road north of Cass City Road presents problems since much of it runs through low, swampy land which regularly floods each spring.

A lot of ingredients go into a profitable corn crop.

We've got the blue ribbon recipe.

You know better than anyone that a good corn crop doesn't just happen. Your profit depends on good seed selection, effective fertilization, and timing. Our business is making sure you have the best of these vital ingredients. That's why professional growers like yourself are depending on our profit and performance program.

Ortho Unipel Fertilizers are ideally suited for top production in Michigan, where soils are cold, and something special is needed.

All Ortho Unipels contain fast acting nitrate nitrogen, the fast acting nitrogen, that doesn't have to wait for warm soils to become available. They also contain slower releasing nitrogen for the longer pull. This is the double action not found in other products.

Ortho Unipel Fertilizers that will fit your needs are 10-20-20, 16-16-16, 13-34-10, and 20-10-10. They all are proven high-yield corn producers for Michigan.

Report few traffic mishaps

The number of area traffic accidents during the past week took a nosedive as only four involving area residents were reported to police.

Thomas Edwin Marker, 19, Unionville, was shaken up Friday in a two-car accident on Hurds Corner Road, six miles west of Cass City.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported the Marker vehicle was following another car driven by Marie Jean McCreedy, 23, Unionville, when the McCreedy auto slowed for a group of animals crossing the road and was struck from behind.

Marker sought his own treatment. Ms. McCreedy was unhurt. The accident took place at 6:40 a.m.

Two drivers were uninjured in an accident Friday night on East Dayton Road, a mile east of Caro.

Caro State Police said a car driven by Susan Kay Lalko, 18, of 3244 River St., Kingston, attempted to pass another car driven by Marion Margie Graham, 39, Caro, when the Graham auto attempted a left turn.

Ms. Graham was cited for failure to signal a turn. The accident took place at 6:20 p.m.
