13 townships exceed value recommendations

Tuscola County Commissioners approved a set of equalized valuations for the county during a special Tuesday meeting in Caro, but not before they learned 13 township supervisors actually raised valuations higher than recommended by the Equalization Department.

Among them were Elkland. Ellington, Kingston and Novesta townships,

The board approved a total equalized value of $371,220,-045, a 29 per cent increase over the $286,734,420 approved last year. Chairman Maynard McConkey emphasized that the approval was tentative, largely due to a

A corrected version of the report is expected to be approved at the next meeting. Area townships all recorded hefty increases. Elkland township's $23,969,900 SEV shows a 21 per cent jump over the 1976 figures.

Ellington township took a whopping 50 per cent increase in equalized valuations, soaring to $8,270,560, compared with just $5,417,400 a year

In Elmwood township, equalized valuation was set at $13,646,600, up nearly 58 per cent over the $8,704,700 ap-

Kingston township equalized values rose about 20 per cent to $8,952,487, compared with $7,041,970 in 1976.

In Novesta township, equalized valuations rose a total of 42 per cent to $8,574,100, compared with $6,029,400 in 1976. The major bone of contention before the board Tuesday was a plea by Cmmr. Kenneth Kennedy (D-Millington) to have a factor removed from the Millington township tax

Kennedy complained that Millington authorities had studied all five classifications of land--agriculture, residential, industrial, commercial and timber cutover--while most other townships had only studied agricultural and residential property. By law, all five classes must be studied each year. Kennedy produced a list of

In Elkland township, for instance, the figures show the recommended increase in these two classes was $2,973,-318, while an actual increase of $3,161,500 was applied.

Kennedy said this showed Millington was being penalized for studying all five classes instead of only studying two and guessing at the other three.

The list shows Ellington township raised $2,742,500, or $362,220 more than the recommendations in agricultural and residential land. The board agreed and removed the factor. It also passed a resolution giving townships which went over recommended increases a credit on the 1978 tax roll.

at 4:45 p.m. Just 15 minutes later, another contingent of Elkland firemen were called to extinguish a blaze that broke out under the hood of a 1973 auto owned by Ivan Tracy of Cedar Run Rd., Cass City, and located on Main Street.

Jezewski said the fire was confined to electrical wiring under the hood. Damage was estimated at $200.

Elkland township firemen fought another series of grass fires during the past week as two blazes were reported Thursday and one Sunday.

A ditch bank fire started by a neighbor burned about two acres belonging to Robert Hines of Moore Rd., Cass City, Thursday afternoon. The fire came within 15 feet of a large barn before it was extinguished. The fire was reported at 1:10 p.m.

About two hours later, another grass fire was reported about a mile south, near the intersection of Bach and Moore Roads in Huron county. Fire Chief Jim Jezewski said an acre of land was burned over but that the flames were under control when firemen arrived. Firemen were called to the scene of yet another grass fire around 3:15 p.m. Sunday on Phillips Road, 51/2 miles

Thieves net narcotics in Coach Light break-in Twenty Cents.

Cass City Police continued this week to investigate the theft of $150 in drugs, taken in a break-in early Friday morning from Coach Light Pharmacy on Main Street.

According to Police Chief Gene Wilson's report, the theft was discovered when the store was opened Friday morning. Quantities of the drugs Demerol, dexamyl, seconal, valium and dilantin were found missing from a locked cabinet in the pharm-

According to the report, entry was made through a pair of rear freight doors. It's believed the culprits cut a hole into the wood surrounding a dead bolt which allowed them to break through the center post.

Once the hole was large enough for a hand, a steel bar used to secure the doors was Once inside, the thieves made their way directly to a locked drug cabinet where they forced the door with a

Wilson said nothing else in the store, including cash, watches and other drugs, was touched. His report indicated the store's burglar alarm system either didn't go off or m'ade so little noise that no one heard it.

Apartment dwellers above the store told police they heard a noise in the vicinity between 11:45 p.m. and 12:15 a.m. but did not consider it

Authorities found only one palm print at the scene which is not believed tied to the thieves.

Wilson said routine patrols by officer Philip Klaus at 3:30 a.m. and 4:50 a.m. revealed nothing unusual.

rested at press time. The break-in was one of two reported in Cass City during the past week. The recreation equipment building, commonly called the old pool building at the village park, was broken into late last week.

Wilson said two juveniles questioned in connection with the incident admitted taking some equipment from the building but denied any knowledge of the break-in itself. No suspects have been ar-

ARREST

Cass City Police arrested Ricky Alan Grant, 22, Ada, Ohio, on charges of being drunk and disorderly following an incident at the Colonial Inn in the early hours of Sunday morning.

According to a police report, Grant was arrested by officer Philip Klaus after Klaus heard a large amount of noise coming from inside the building.

A door was reportedly damaged during what witnesses described as a fight. Grant was taken to the Tuscola County Jail. The incident took place shortly before 3:00 a.m.

CB LARCENIES

Two citizens' band radio thefts were reported to area police during the past week. Kenneth Wilsion of 5965 Kingsbury St., Kingston, told Caro State Police his CB unit was taken from his car parked in his driveway sometime Saturday.

Police found no evidence of forced entry and no suspects have been arrested. The unit was valued at $200.

Ricky George Reinelt, Kingston, also reported his CB unit was stolen from his pickup truck while it was parked at the Kingswood Inn Kingston Saturday

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated said the truck was locked when the theft took place. Value of the unit was set at

OTHER INCIDENTS

Neil Robert Babcock, of Deckerville Rd., Cass City,

told State Police from the Caro Post someone had broken into his car parked at the Crestwood Lounge near Caro and took a tape player and two tires and wheels from his vehicle.

Police reported a vent window was forced. No suspects have been arrested.

Allen Witherspoon of 4615 Oak St., Cass City, reported the theft of a 10-speed bicycle from his front yard Saturday. The bike was valued at $80, Cass City Police said.

Frank Spencer, owner of Frank's Service Station at 4546 Leach St., reported the theft of 30 feet of air hose taken sometime Thursday night. The hose, used to ring a customer service bell, was valued at $7.50. Robert Clark of 3973 Van Dyke Rd., Cass City, was treated for injuries suffered in a dog bite Wednesday, April 13. Clark was bitten as he walked near Cass City Intermediate School by a dog owned by Paul Kerbyson of Seeger St.

Under the law, the dog must be confined for 15 days as a precaution against rabies. Two juveniles were taken into custody Thursday morning after they allegedly attempted to steal two radios from wrecked vehicles at a salvage yard owned by Elmer Skipinski of Ubly. According to a Huron. County Sheriff's report, Skipinski discovered the youths in the act of taking the radios and fired three warning shots in the air with a shotgun.

The boys were apprehended around 11:30 a.m. Ubly Police assisted. The radios were recovered along Huron Line

POLICE CHIEF Gene Wilson studies damage caused when drug thieves broke into Coach Light Pharmacy sometime between late Thursday night and Friday morning. The culprits knew what they wanted, Wilson said, and took only narcotic drugs. The break-in is still under investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Dell of Cass City. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hendrick of Decker.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of Ivory Chiffonette trimmed with cluny lace and an attached Watteau train. The gown featured an Empire line bodice, wedding-band collar and Camelot sleeves. The skirt had an A-line silhouette outlined with cluny lace that encircled the complete hemline of the chapel train.

To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a Camelot headpiece with a three-tier finger-tip veil of English illusion, totally outlined with matching cluny lace.

She carried a bouquet of ivory and peach silk roses with white and shrimp silk carnations.

Lola Osentoski served as matron of honor. Renee Kritzman and Kristine O'Dell were bridesmaids. Their coral gowns were topped with long sleeve jackets with hoods edged with malibu feathers. They carried arm bouquets of silk roses.

Best man was Mike Sherman and groomsmen were Dennis Powell and Wally Stanczak, the groom's cousin. Ushers were Bob O'Dell, brother of the bride and Chuck Hendrick, brother of the bridegroom.

Joe Merchant sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Song" and accompanied himself on the guitar. The bride's mother wore an emerald green gown with jacket and silver accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a long light aqua gown with silver accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

A dinner reception for 100 guests was held at the Charmont in Cass City following the ceremony.

After a honeymoon in Florida the couple will reside on Pringle Road Decker.

"If It Fitz..." The bawl game

By Jim Fitzgerald

"Something for Joey" provided a grand opportunity for me to exercise my rights. I cried for two hours and never even tried to hide the tears, no matter who was looking.

It was a TV show about a little boy who had cancer. It took several years and a lot of pain before the kid finally died, leaving behind a sobbing family of perfect people who had done everything possible to make Joey's short life happy.

You might say it was dumb to cry at such an obvious use of tragedy to sell IBM products. OK. I don't care if you call my tears stupid. Just don't call them feminine.

That's discrimination. "It is unfair that men are made to feel ashamed if they cry." So decreed the American Psychological Association in convention in Washington a few years ago.

experienced a perfect example of this several years ago when I was trapped in the same room with the TV throw-up show, "This Is Your Life." The surprised subject was fat Junior Samples from "Hee Haw."

Junior cried huge tears for 30 straight minutes, even during the commercials. The host brought out some clown who'd sold him a bag of feed in 1930 and Junior collapsed, a lachrymose lump, completely overcome by nostalgia.

My wife and daughter fell into each other's arms laughing. "Look at that big boob," they said.

If Junior had been a woman, they would have matched her sob for sob.

Why is that, doctor? One of the convening psychologists explained it simply: "I can't help feeling, in situations where I want to cry, that a woman - as well as a man — would question Men, he said, are forced to put their masculinity on the line again and again. And it isn't fair. If both sexes are to have equal opportunities and equal rewards, the right to cry must be included. The world would be a better place.

Sheriff reports rise in monthly complaint load

An increase in the number of complaints handled by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department was reported in March over February, according to Sheriff Hugh Marr's monthly report to the Board of Commissioners released this week. The department handled a total of 748 complaints in March, an increase of 200 over February. The rise was reflected in Elkland township where 59 complaints were reported, a jump of 13 from February. Vassar township led the county with 117 com-

County farmers get early spring planting start

Tuscola county farmers are off to one of their earliest starts in recent memory as planting schedules are running from two to three weeks ahead of schedule, County Extension Director Bill Bortel said this week.

"The work has progressed as well as ever," Bortel said Monday. "Compared to some years, we can safely say the work is well under way."

The weather has been consistently warm and dry through much of the month, he said, and it's allowed farmers to get on their land and start spring plowing and planting.

The only year in which farmers got on the ground any earlier was 1956, according to Don Kebler, extension agent. In that year, sugar beets were being planted the third week in March, he said. While temperatures have been consistently above normal and rainfall amounts light, it's not an entirely one-sided blessing.

"We never got the chance to build up our water reserves from last winter," Bortel said. "The reserves we have now are low and we are faced with a potentially critical situation if no rainfall mater-wet months. "The time to worry about it is next July and August," he said.

Generally, Bortel farmers are planting less wheat, corn and dry beans and increasing barley, oats and soy bean production, although he said the acreage shifts will probably be relatively small.

Last year, farmers began working the soil and planting in mid to late April, only to have May turn cold and damp. It could happen again this year, he said, but that's a chance you take in farming.

Bortel said Tuesday the county's sugar beet crop is about 50 per cent planted with more acreage being completed each day. Normally Tuscola farmers plant about 20,000 acres of sugar beets

He said between 75 and 80 per cent of the barley crop is in and about 40 per cent of the oat crop has been planted. Only about 10 per cent of the county's corn acreage has been planted through early this week, Bortel said.

In spite of the fact that it's still April, Bortel says he wouldn't hesitate planting right now. "I'd plant 24 hours a day if necessary to get the job done," he said.

I had a crush on a girl in my class named Terry Lovejoy. Terry was a curly-haired, brown-eyed sweetie. I loved every dimple in those cute, cream-colored cheeks. I used to like hanging around with Terry when the first love of my first-grade life, Cynthia Crabtree, wasn't around. Cynthia was nice, but Terry was the come-hither

Coming hither to Terry was easy for me. It was easy for a lot of the first-grade boys who hadn't caught on to the fact that you weren't supposed to like girls. Terry was interesting because her mother was a teacher. Not that I was fond of teachers. Teachers were something that sort of appeared out of the vapor in September and disappeared under a rock the following

But I liked Terry and I guess that had some effect on my outlook toward her mother. If Terry was okay, her mother must be, too. Besides, she had children.

Anyway, I liked Terry and I guess she liked me a little because she would always let me push her on the swings at the playground. Looking forward to recess made addition and clay modeling pretty dull. On the day in question,

Terry and I made our way to our favorite swings near the big slides and the monkey bars. She liked monkey bars, too. I'm not sure why, Somehow, the conversation turned to the proper name for people with dark skin. I didn't come from a racist family so I'm not sure where I picked up the idea that the correct word was 'nigger'.

Anyway, I said it and Terry stopped swinging. She insisted that the word was 'negro'. No, I said, I didn't think so. I was sure it was 'nigger'.

No, she said. I was wrong. It was 'negro'. After all, her mother told her that's what it was and her mother had to be right because she was a teacher. And in those days, you didn't question a teacher unless you liked looking at the inside of a broom closet or the principal's office.

Still, I insisted she was Persuasively, pressed my argument. She said she'd check and report back at the next recess. She did and it turned out I was wrong. It was 'negro' By then, Cynthia had shown up so I really wasn't interested any more. But the lesson stuck. I don't think I ever said the word again.

I don't know whatever became of Terry or Cynthia for that matter. Or even Ellen Kay Tyler. But that's another

I do know what became of 'nigger'. We consigned it to the ash heap of racism. At least most of us did.

It makes me a little sick to hear it or even see it. If it doesn't make you just as sick, try looking up Terry Lovejoy. If you find her, let her give you the straight story.

Michigan's lawmakers are the third best paid in the country, according to a study by the Council of State Governments. In a two-year period they earn $46,500, falling behind only New York ($47,000) and California ($60,569). But the study shows Michigan legislators get an additional maximum $8,850 in expense money over two years, while California lawmakers get nothing.

Run your own numbers racket for fun and profit

Within the next month the state will begin to do legally what many have done only on the sly for many years - run a numbers racket.

The state's legal version will be the newest state lottery game.

Michigan Lottery Commissioner Gus Harrison says there's no intent to maim the illegal numbers racket by offering a legal one instead. But, he said, "If we provide some competition for the illegal game, that will be a side benefit."

Drawings in the state's numbers lottery will be daily and prizes can range up to $3,000. A player will win that if he or she wagers $6 - the maximum - then wins a "straight match," which returns a prize of 500-to-1. A straight match is when the drawn exactly matches the three-digit number chosen by the player.

This also will be the first time the state lottery will use on-the-spot mini-computers, attached to a central computer, to file players' numbers

KINCHELOE TO CLOSE FOR SURE

The U.S. Navy has given what it called its final "no" to state officials who have been trying to keep Kincheloe Air Force Base open over the Navy's wishes.

Gov. William Milliken, who has suspected the base would close for some time, nonetheless urged President Carter to review and reverse the Navy's decision to close the base this summer. Milliken says the closing will be disastrous not only to the Upper Peninsula's economy, but also to the fiscal health of the

What home canned goods are on your pantry shelves? Any home-canned low acid vegetables, meat, fish, or poultry which have not been canned properly in a pressure canner are a potential cause of botulism.

Botulism, a serious foodborne poisoning, was wide spread in Michigan recently. It was caused by improperly home-canned hot peppers. Michigan law forbids use of home-canned foods in restaurants because not all home canners use safe methods for canning.

The botulism bacteria spores produce a toxin which

Energy future clouds new car surge year has been one of the best in recent years in Cass City, according to a survey of new car dealers. But all that could change if a proposed surtax on large cars becomes law, local dealers agree.

It's been a good year, they say, primarily because of the continuing popularity of fullsize cars. Consumers will still buy big cars because they want the ride, according to Ron Geiger of Auten Motor "People are buying the biggest car they can get,' Geiger says. "And the family with one car won't buy a little car. They want a big one. The family with two cars-one will still be a big car."

Geiger said at the beginning of the model year, he ran from three to four weeks behind in orders. Now, with talk of higher fuel costs and the possibility of an added tax of $400 or more on big cars, he says there's been a slight shift toward smaller models.

Lee Rabideau, president of Rabideau Motors, Inc.,

This has been an exceptionally good year," Rabideau says. "We've probably sold more four-wheel-drive vehicles than we have in years. The demand is unbelieveable,'

He says part of the reason is that the four-wheel drive is considered an "adult toy" as well as a vehicle that could be used for something such as snow plowing.

Rabideau says the full-size car market as he sees it has slipped about 10 per cent from what it was a year ago. Most of the action among Chrysler Corporation customers has been with the smaller Aspen and Volare models, he says.

But the big battle over size is still to come, he says, because a large share of the public wants a big car.

"Some people I know bought a new car this year because they knew they wouldn't be able to buy the same thing next year," he said.

The reason the big car (125-inch wheel-base) is going the way of the dinosaur is simple, he says-government regulation.

"By 1985, your entire line has to average 27½ miles a gallon by law," Rabideau says, "This means if you sell a car that only gets 18 miles a gallon, you've got to offset it with one that gets maybe 35 miles a gallon. And if you've barely recovered from the

"I think the tax on large cars would be ridiculous," he says. "It's discrimination and it's probably unconstitutional. Why should I have to pay a tax because I drive a 98 Olds and you don't because you drive a Cutlass? It doesn't make any sense."

He says there's a good chance car customers simply won't pay it.

Besides strong sales of full and intermediate-size cars, Ouvry says, demand for pickups and vans is also strong. "We can't get enough of

A large enough van market has evolved to spawn the growth of another industry-van conversion shops. Ouvry says five years ago, there were perhaps a half-dozen such shops in Michigan, Now they're spread throughout the state and take upwards of 50 per cent of the vans GM produces for customizing. Besides changes in size, you'll also be looking at changes in engines, transmissions and differential gear ratios as government fuel requirements become more strict, Rabideau says.

This is a turning point in the industry," he says. "Right now, the mid-size car has about 42 per cent of the market and soon it will take about half of it. It'll have to because you won't have your full-size car any more."

Computer set for area use

A computer system that in minutes can locate the Federal assistance available for eastern Michigan counties, townships, and communities is now operational, according to Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Director.

The Tuscola County Extension office is now available as a contact point for anyone wishing to utilize the system. Each Cooperative Office will be in contact with a central terminal at Flint that will serve the entire eastern portion of the state.

The system is called "The Federal Assistance Program Retrieval System" (FAPRS) and can scan a data bank of more than 600 Federal domestic programs and print out a list of those which are applicable to a community.

No knowledge of computers is required to use the system. The applicant needs only to identify his community and the need for which help is sought. Thereafter the computer will locate the information and print out the available programs. Nominal charges will be made to the applicant to cover actual

The service is available nationwide through existing compatible computer terminals operated by USDA, other federal and state agencies, members of Congress, and organizations such as multi-county Planning and Development Regions.

Programs listed on the computer printout are keyed to code numbers listed in the catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance. By using the catalog in conjunction with the printout, an individual may identify programs of specific interest and learn how to apply for assistance.

Local representatives of the Extension Service will provide copies of the specific program sheets identified by the computer. Additional arrangements and assistance in follow-up in respect to filing application forms for the Federal assistance are currently underway.

Gary wants to quit drinking. But it's hard. His father no longer allows "Spike" Johnson, Alcoholism Program director for Tuscola and Lapeer counties, to come to the house. The boy must find a way to Johnson's office at 630 N. State St. in Caro.

"We get in my car, go for a ride and talk," Johnson says. 'I let him off a mile from his house and he walks the rest of the way.''

Johnson says there are probably a lot more Garys in Tuscola county and the state, largely because alcohol is so easy to get.

When the drinking age was lowered to 18, he says, it opened the door for pre-teen drinking on a large scale. It's just one of the problems facing Johnson and his 10-member staff each day in

Since the Alcohol Program got off the ground four years ago, it's estimated over 500 county alcoholics either sought help on their own or were ordered by one of the county courts to seek it.

Of that 500, Johnson figures 30 per cent have managed to either extend their periods of sobriety or quit drinking altogether. That may not sound like much, but the way Johnson sees it, that's progress.

'We've just barely scratched the surface," he said, taking a break from the paper-shuffling that goes along with his job and that steals what he sees as precious time from his first job-getting alcoholics to admit they have a problem.

Johnson speaks from authority. He candidly admits he,

Even though it's been nearlast drink, he maintains he's just one drink away from oblivion. It's a struggle that never ends. "Alcohol is a much bigger problem today than it was even four or five years ago,' Johnson says. "And a lot of it is due to the drinking age. It's making it available for the younger kids. I know of a kid who's five who's addicted."

He's pushing to have the drinking age raised back to 21. But that alone won't work, he says.

"The average age of our clients is somewhere between 18 and 35," he says. "Our oldest is in his 80's."

WHAT'S NEEDED

Johnson says the fight to contact and help county alcoholics is a losing battle, with more being sent in from District and Circuit Court as well as those who simply walk in seeking help.

"We need to do a hell of a job on education," he says. "If you can reach people early enough, you can break the pattern that makes them

"The job is really getting too big. I'm a simple man and it discourages me to see these programs get bogged down in useless statistics and paper shuffling by people who are trying to justify their jobs at the state level."

He claims state officials aren't listening to alcoholism program directors such as

His program operates on a total budget of $106,485 for both counties, with $63,222 funneled into alcoholism alone. The remainder goes to a recently organized drug program.

The alcohol program is funded with federal, state and county funds. The federal share amounts to about 30 per cent, with Lapeer and Tuscola counties picking up a combined total of 20 per cent. The remainder is state mon-

"Our clients need caring ly 18 years since he took his and immediate help," Johnson says. "They need people who care in their heart.'

State officials are pressing an education program designed to outline what alcoholism is and how to spot it. This is fine, according to Johnson, but he's afraid education is being pressed at the expense of treatment pro-

STATE IS 'PUSHER'

What bothers Johnson more than anything is the fact that the state is operating an alcohol program on one hand and yet licenses and sells alcohol itself. They control all aspects of it, he says.

He claims 70 per cent of the alcohol sold in Michigan is consumed by 30 per cent of the population.

'It's reached epidemic proportions but the state isn't dealing with it," he says. "The majority of people still don't feel alcoholism is a physical problem. They believe it's a moral failing."

MRS. DONNA FINKBEINER demonstrates her technique for making wall hangings, using a special stitching tool. This piece of burlap is destined to become an American eagle.

AAA backs 55 mph limit with points

Automobile Club of Michigan enthusiastically sup-x ports the 55 miles per hour speed limit and endorses Secretary of State Richard Austin's campaign to end "point-free" speeding violations that encourage drivers to break the law.

To bolster the campaign to put points back into speeding violations, Auto Club has supplied bright yellow "Drive 55 and Bring 'Em Back Alive!" bumper stickers to its 56 Michigan offices for free distribution to all motorists who ask.

Larger bumper stickers bearing the Kiwanis seal are being distributed by the Kiwanis Clubs of Michigan as a joint project with Auto Club.

Michigan's traffic death toll dropped 15 per cent in 1974-the first year of the 55 mph restriction--and the lower speed limit figured significantly in the decline.

"The 55 mph speed limit is the most productive traffic safety step taken in modern times and should be enforced," said Auto Club General Manager James G. Mof-

"Assessing points for violation of the speed law from 55 to 70 mph will save more lives and gasoline at no cost to the state or law-abiding motorists," Moffat said.

He added that it also will put Michigan into conformity with 24 other states, including Ohio, which now have such laws

In addition to the "Drive 55" bumper stickers, Auto Club also distributes bumper stickers with "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" translated into 13 foreign languages.

Gagetown woman

A piece of burlap and a few strands of yarn don't sound much like a new art form until you put them together just the right way.

Mrs. Donna Finkbeiner of rural Gagetown knows the right way and has turned burlap and yarn into a series of brightly colored wall hang-

It's almost like painting with yarn--anything you can see can be turned into a wall hanging. All it takes is the material, time and patience. Mrs. Finkbeiner has all

"I started doing them last July," she said as she demonstrated the technique using something called a speed fufting tool.

"I was visiting relatives near Detroit and we visited a craft shop in Dearborn where I saw a few of these hangings on display," she said. "I liked them and thought I'd give it a

She says there are only two outlets in Michigan that handle the burlap patterns and 100 per cent polyester yarn needed to make the hangings.

said and is just moving into Michigan.

"I've always enjoyed doing crafts," she said. "I've done ceramics, copper jewelry, woodcrafts, hooked rugs and knitted.

Once she started doing wall hangings, however, she couldn't stop. Since last summer, she's turned out 17 different designs ranging from sailing ships and old cars to floral and butterfly patterns. Her latest project is an American Eagle in a bicentennial motif. Mrs. Finkbeiner starts by stretching a piece of burlap across a frame and stapling it in place. Then she threads the yarn through her tufting tool, pushes it through the burlap and simply works the handle up and down.

By following a pattern and knowing how many stitches per inch to use, all that yarn, burlap and pumping turns into a colorful wall hanging.

The time it takes depends on what you're doing, she says. Normally, she can turn out a hanging in about a week, working somewhere in the neighborhood of four hours a

"It's fun, but it can drive you batty if you aren't careful," she says.

There's more to it than just following a pre-set pattern, she says. "You can vary the color of yarn you use and the stitch to create your own look," she says.

Mrs. Finkbeiner, a Detroit native who moved 212 miles north of Gagetown five years established following a meetago, isn't the only one who gets in on the act. Her husband, Gerald, and her nati, Ohio. 14-year-old daughter also enjoy helping with the hangings.

'After all, a man invented it so I don't see why a man can't do it, too," her husband She said the hobby came handy this past winter when roads were blocked with snow and time passed slowly after the plant where she was employed in Owendale shut

After her husband's job ended when DeFoe Shipbuilding Co. in Bay City closed its doors, they both found the hobby kept them busy. Actually, the wall hangings this country-rug hooking. It began in the 17th and 18th century in New England when women would gather leftover strips of cloth during the winter and weave them into

Years later, something called a punch needle was invented which allowed for more intricate designs. This eventually evolved into the tufting tool Mrs. Finkbeiner uses.

Her work has been on display in area store windows. She says she'd eventually like to sell some of her work, partly because of the investment and partly because of the favorable comments she's received.

Meanwhile, there's an eagle waiting to be tufted.

Fulcher to record in December

It will probably be June, 1978, before Tom Fulcher's voice finds its way into the recording business.

Fulcher said this week he's currently scheduled to cut a test 45 rpm record featuring one of his original songs next December. The date was ing last week with record company officials in Cincin-

Fulcher, a Cass City resident, said it will be another six months after that before the record finds its way to selected radio stations throughout the country.

Attention Farmers

Check with us for your farming needs. Be it livestock feeds, fertilizers, chemicals, twine, alfalfa and clover seeds. If interested in contracting next year's grains, check with us for better prices. We also buy and pick up grains and ear corn you have stored on the farm. We are very competitive as we deal in large volume and low margins. You will never know unless you check with us. Get everyone's price first and then check with us. We have qualified people to help you with your needs.

Our Motto is:

"WE AIM TO PLEASE OUR MANY CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS."

Ouch! It's pothole time

Potholes are more than an irritant, say state highway officials, who predict that this year's bill to fix the chuckholes on Michigan roads will reach a record $3 million. Credit that to the record cold winter, they say. Besides the $3 million, it will take a few more million dollars to fix the damage to county roads and city streets. "It's literally money down a hole, but it has to be spent," says Tom Wiseman, chief maintenance engineer for the State Department of Highways and Transportation.

Heralded as the worst in a century, the winter that's past was one of the best for potholes. They occur when water trapped under the road surface freezes and expands, lifting up the surface. Then with spring, the water contracts, leaving a bubble that cars quickly push in to form the potholes.

The Cass City Red Hawks got off to a roaring start in girls' softball action this past week by racking up four big wins without a defeat as they rolled over Marlette and Sandusky in consecutive double-headers.

The Hawks took two close contests from Marlette 8-7 and 10-9 at Cass City Tuesday.

The second game heroics went to Elaine Stoutenburg who cracked a lead-off home run in the top of the sixth and final inning, breaking a 9-9 tie and giving Cass City the sweep. Overall, she picked up

Her homer made up for a shaky two-inning stint on the mound when she allowed seven runs on three hits and issued three walks. She was relieved by Mary Fleming who picked up the win in the first contest.

The Hawks opened with five runs in the first inning of the second game and scored four more in the third. Miss Fleming walked four and struck out four during her four innings of mound work. Loser for Marlette was Lou Burton who walked five and gave up 10 Hawk hits. She was also tagged with the loss in the first game when she struck out six, walked two and gave up eight

In that first contest, the Hawks built up a 4-0 lead before Marlette came back with a pair of runs in the fourth and fifth innings. Cass City came back with four runs in the fifth inning and then held off Marlette in the top of the sixth inning to preserve the win. Elaine Stoutenburg cracked a double and a triple in three turns at bat while Miss Fleming connected for two singles.

The Hawks committed four errors in the first game while Marlette chipped in with three miscues.

SANDUSKY GAME

double and single in six turns at bat, while Patti Goslin added two more hits. Winning pitcher Mary Fleming walked one and struck out eight while giving up eight hits. Losing hurler Janelle Zook gave up 13 walks and struck out just one Hawk batter while giving up eight In the second contest, the Hawks picked up where they left off, blasting Sandusky 23-6, thanks in part to 12 Sandusky errors, Starting Hawk pitcher Brenda Goslin lasted just one inning after walking five of the first six batters. Mary Fleming came on to strike out three, while walking just one and giving up a single hit.

Meanwhile, the Hawks pounded out 10 hits. Leading hitters included Nancy Tonti, Dianna Smith and Elaine Stoutenburg who each picked up a pair of hits. The Hawks committed five errors in the second contest.

Game 2

SANDUSKY GAMES

Sloppy defense and sloppy base running cost the Cass City Red Hawks a chance for a sweep of the opening Thumb B League double beader

Thursday at Sandusky. The Hawks dropped the first game, 9-7, in a seesaw affair that saw the lead change hands every inning. In the top of the fifth Cass City rallied for two runs to take a one-run lead. But in the bottom of the inning a couple of errors and a bases loaded hit by Redskin John Maher helped Sandusky to four runs and a three-run lead going into the final frame.

The Hawks battled back. They scored one run and had the tying run on first when a throw nipped the lead runner at the plate to kill the rally and end the game.

Rick Richards was touched for six hits while walking four and he took the loss. Maher got the win. Cass City cracked out 10 hits to net the seven

The nightcap was a different story. Sophomore Clare Trischler showed the poise of a veteran as he hurled Cass City to an 8-3 decision in five innings. Although touched for a couple of solid blows early in the game he kept coming back with strikes to hold the Redskins in check.

Tom Essenmacher, the first of a parade of Sandusky hurlers, was charged with the loss. Trischler allowed five

Meanwhile the Hawk bats were connecting early and often. In the abbreviated game Cass City banged out 8 hits. Coupled with walks and errors it was more than enough for the win.

In the double header, Randy Rabideau showed the way with 5 hits in 8 tries. Others with more than one hit were Dean Severance, 3 for 6; Jeff Hartel, 3 for 7: Tony Doerr, 2 hits.

Collecting a single safety were Gary Warju, Clarke Haire, Rick Richards and Trischler.

The Hawks are at home Friday with a non-league contest against Essexville Garber and take to the road Tuesday for a game against
