

Deaths in pool

Three-year-old Ronald Jacob Stolz drowned Saturday evening in a swimming pool at the Paul Kanupp home on Hanes Road, Vassar.

It was Tuscola county's third drowning in less than a month.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Stolz of Millington.

State police of the Caro post reported the youngster was among visitors to the Kanupp home. When he was discovered missing, a search began. His body was found at the bottom of the pool by Tina Kanupp, 13, daughter of the owner. It had been in the water about five minutes.

The above-ground pool was four feet deep and about 16 feet in diameter. The youngster had to climb a ladder to get into it.

When troopers arrived, two men were attempting mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on the boy. The troopers aided in the revival efforts while waiting for the ambulance to arrive.

The officers continued their revival efforts in the ambulance, which took the boy to Dr. Fred A. Emling, D.O., in Vassar. After checking the boy, he told the troopers there was no use continuing the revival efforts.

The ambulance then went to Caro Community Hospital, where Dr. Earl H. Branding, D.O., officially pronounced the boy dead.

Whew! It was 108

How hot was it? How about 108 degrees? That was the temperature recorded Friday at the Cass City wastewater treatment plant.

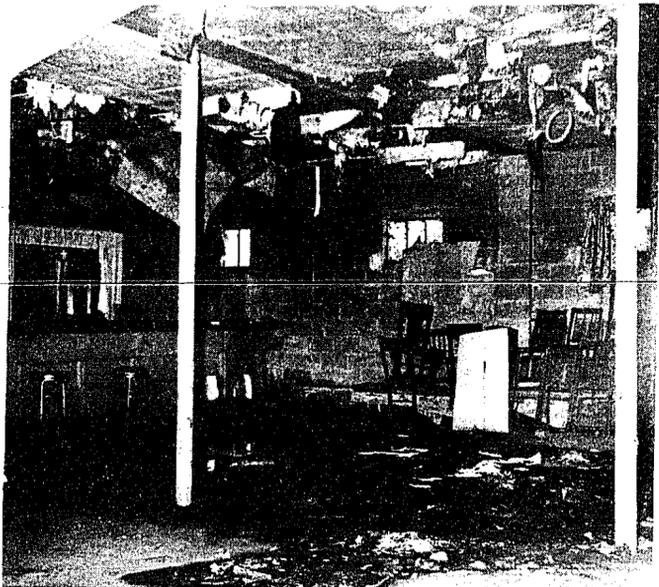

Plant supervisor Nelson Willy said that is the hottest he can remember it being since temperatures were first recorded there in 1961.

Since last Wednesday, July 13, the lowest high temperature recorded has been 96 degrees, on Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday. The temperature last Thursday was 100; Monday, 98, and Tuesday, 99.

The lowest temperature recorded during that time was 54 degrees Wednesday, July 13. Tuesday, the low for the day was only 70 degrees.

The one bit of welcome relief came in the form of rain Monday night and early Tuesday. Willy said 1.82 inches were measured at 7 a.m. Tuesday for the previous 24 hours.

He added that he talked to some farmers in the area, one of whom recorded 3 1/2 inches of rainfall northwest of the city. Another said he got 3 inches and a third, 2 1/2 inches. Until this week, the wastewater plant had recorded only .31 inch in July. The total now is 2.73 inches.

INSIDE -- After two years of non-maintenance, the inside of the American Legion hall on W. Main Street looks like this. Insulation hangs from the ceiling and there is water in spots on the floor, the result of holes in the roof.

Dwindling membership poses threat to Legion

Members of American Legion Tri-County Post 507 in Cass City are faced with deciding what to do with their hall, a covered basement, on W. Main Street. It appears the property will be sold.

They are also faced with the question of whether they can keep their organization, which only has about 20 members, in existence.

The legion was forced to make a decision about its building, which hasn't been used since 1975, because the Cass City Village Council on June 28 voted to write to the organization that it either repair the structure or tear it down. The action followed the recommendation of the village planning commission.

The legion's executive committee met Tuesday, July 12, and decided to appoint a committee to decide the building's fate.

"As far as I know, we're going to sell it," said senior vice-commander Gary Stine, a committee member.

Three persons are interested in purchasing the property, he added, though they may not be interested in using the building.

The Cass City post was organized in 1946. The hall was built apparently toward the end of the 1940s, though no one seems to remember exactly when it was built. Until then, meetings were held in the Elkland township hall, now the cultural center.

According to Stine, the intention when it was built was to someday build an above-ground structure, but somehow, the money never was there so it remained a covered basement.

Legionnaire Dorus "Dutch" Klinkman said the decision to close the building in 1975 was due to finances.

The cost of keeping the building open, such as for heating fuel, stayed the same or was increasing, but the number of members was declining.

"You could put so much money into it and not even break even," he explained. "The way the (financial) trend looks, department stores are going broke, so what can you expect from a handful of men?"

Since the hall was closed, most legion meetings have been held at Klinkman's N. Cemetery Road home.

According to Commander

Casmir Bartnik, Post 507 once had as many as 100-110 members.

The biggest reason for the decline in membership, he and others agree, has been death -- and lack of new members to replace those who died.

The membership, he said, consisted of World War I and II veterans. He couldn't recall if there were any Korean War veterans.

The Vietnam war presented an opportunity to gain new members. The organization had some prospects, "but they never came in."

"We're always working on (getting) new members," Bartnik continued. "Sometimes it ain't as easy as we'd like it to be. We're trying to keep going."

The commander declined to express his own opinion about the future of the hall, stating "I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings."

Klinkman also would like to see the organization continue "as long as we can," he said, but there haven't even been enough members participating the last few years to conduct a military funeral.

Vern McConnell, a legion member for 58 years, starting with the Caro post, is also a member of the committee deciding the disposition of the building.

Like Stine, he said it appears the building will be sold, although the formal decision hasn't been made. "We aren't doing anything. It probably should go."

In contrast to the legion, the auxiliary, though membership has declined, is still going strong.

New president Reva Little said there are 38 members, in contrast to more than 100 at one time.

The organization still holds monthly meetings. They were held in the legion hall until it was closed; the group now meets in the Cultural Center. As mentioned, that is where it and the legion met prior to the building of the covered basement.

Mrs. Little was also the auxiliary's first president, when it was organized in March, 1947. Her husband, the late Arthur Little, was the first commander of Post 507, organized the previous year.

At one time, the post and auxiliary had numerous activities together, such as card parties and fund raisers, according to Mrs. Little. However, as the post membership and activities declined, so did the joint activities. There haven't been any now in a "long time."

The one exception has been the Memorial Day parade, in which the legion and auxiliary have continued participation.

The members of the auxiliary, according to its president, are interested in seeing the organization continue. It can do so even if the Post 507 itself folds.

If Tri-County Post 507 does go under, it won't be the first American Legion post in Cass City to do so.

The Adams-Seeger Post was organized after World War I, said Mrs. Little, whose husband was the commander when they were married in 1926. The post, which apparently never had a building of its own, folded about 1930.

Ex-county man drowns in river

A former Tuscola county man, Donald H. Roblin, 26, of Freeland, drowned Sunday in the Tittabawassee River, while swimming not far from his home.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Roblin of Caro and the grandson of Mrs. Cora Klinkman of Cass City.

Divers from the Saginaw County Sheriff's Department recovered his body after it had been in the water about one hour.

Federal funds disappear, reappear

The federal government giveth, the federal government taketh away -- and giveth again.

Cass City and various area government officials saw thousands of federal dollars disappear Monday, only to reappear Tuesday.

What was at stake was federal public works funds. As announced in mid-June, Cass City was to receive $459,000. Of that, the village was to spend $338,880 on various street improvements. The Cass City schools were to spend its $120,120 share for construction of the Campbell Elementary addition, instead of using the millage that was approved by voters for the purpose.

Gagetown was to receive $150,000, to be used for construction of a joint village and Elmwood township hall and fire station.

Other county recipients were Tuscola county government, $344,000; Caro, $1,074,000; and Vassar, $265,000.

Monday, the various government officials learned that with the exception of Tuscola county, their appropriations were being decreased by about 43 per cent.

What had happened? According to William Gilmartin, federal grants coordinator for U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler, the federal Economic Development Administration officials goofed. The EDA was charged with allocating the $4 billion in public works funds appropriated by Congress.

The allocation formula was based on the unemployment rate and number of unemployed for each area for the period March, 1976, through February, 1977.

However, when the EDA officials plugged the formula and list of applicants into their computer, they forgot to include townships anywhere in the U.S.

They then reran everything through the computer and the second time around, Indianfields township received $842,000.

The money for that and the other townships had to come from somewhere, so it came from the governmental units that had already been notified they were receiving funds.

Gilmartin said that Traxler met with EDA officials Tuesday morning and convinced them "to see the light." That is, the Congressman convinced them it would be unfair to "take back" money from units that had already made plans based on what they were originally to receive.

The EDA officials gave assurances to Traxler that one of the Tuscola governmental units will receive less than what they were originally granted. Official verification of that should come next week.

The "extra" money will come from a contingency fund set up in case of any mistakes and leftover funds from governments that for one reason or another, decide they no longer want or need the federal money they were allocated.

The decision of the EDA officials means that Cass City will get the full $459,000, instead of $262,000 if the cut had gone through. Gagetown will get $150,000 instead of $85,000 and Vassar, $265,000 instead of $155,000.

Michigan Planning and Development Region, said he has extended the deadline several times for the three Thumb counties to apply for the continued TIU funding.

However, the 14-county region likely will have only about $500,000 in federal LEAA funds for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, about $200,000 less than it has had in the past.

Although already established programs are receiving first priority, he said, if the three counties don't apply very soon, "they will undoubtedly lose their opportunity" to get the third-year grant.

However, even if the three county boards do decide to continue funding their portion, it could be too late to receive the federal matching funds of $90,000.

Huron County Assistant Prosecutor Douglas Lee told that county's board of commissioners when it was considering the funding question, "We may not be able to stop drug-related crimes (with the TIU), but there's a good possibility we'll be able to put a dent in them."

At issue is that to continue the unit, each county must appropriate almost $20,000 for the period October, 1977 through June, 1978. If they do, the federal Law Enforcement Assistant Administration (LEAA), through the state Office of Criminal Justice Programs, is to kick in $90,000.

The kicker is that the period ending June 30 will be the third and final year for the federal funding.

If the three counties are to get the $90,000, their boards must commit themselves to continuing the intelligence unit after that at their own expense.

The most often mentioned figure is $50,000 per year per county, starting July 1, 1978.

County commissioners may decide the cost is worse than the problem -- that of sale and use of illegal drugs in the counties.

Joslyn did point out, though, that the cost once the counties assume full responsibility could be less than $50,000 each, possibly by using other federal funds to pay some salaries.

The Huron county board, which met July 12, discussed the TIU funding but then turned the matter over to a committee for further study.

Joel O'Conner, chairman of the Sanilac county board, said the matter there has only been discussed informally. He added, "I don't think we're going to go for it. It's getting too expensive."

Similarly, Maynard McConkey, chairman of the Tuscola county board, said no final decision has been reached and that he and his fellow commissioners are partly waiting to see what the other two counties do. The matter will likely be discussed at the board's session Tuesday.

However, even if the three county boards do decide to continue funding their portion, it could be too late to receive the federal matching funds of $90,000.

Three persons were injured early Friday in an accident on M-81 near Cass River Drive in Almer township.

Reported in good condition Tuesday afternoon in Caro Community Hospital was Cindy S. Karr, 19, of N. Cemetery Road.

Sheriff's deputies reported she was eastbound on M-81 when her car was struck head-on by a westbound vehicle driven by William J. Slight, 35, of Murray Road, Caro.

Slight was treated and released at the Caro Hospital. He was ticketed by deputies on a charge of careless driving.

A passenger in the Karr auto, Cheryl L. Karr, was released from the hospital, Saturday.

An accident Wednesday, July 13, left a semi-truck jackknifed on the M-46 bridge over the Cass River in Juniata township.

Deputies reported Harold S. Barnett, 49, of Louisville, Ky., was westbound and trying to pass a car driven by Susanne M. Gillespie, 27, of Mayville. As he was attempting to do so, the woman pulled out to pass a car in front of her while on the bridge.

Barnett swerved to miss the Gillespie vehicle. His truck knocked down 54 feet of guardrail on the south side of the bridge and came to a halt with the trailer and tractor jackknifed on the bridge.

The truck driver was reported by deputies to have been taken to Caro Community Hospital, however, the hospital had no record of his being treated there.

Dean C. Alexander, 17, of 2645 Cedar Drive, Huntsville Mobile Home Park, was released from Hills and Dales Hospital Saturday after his motorcycle struck a dog Tuesday, July 12.

Cass City police reported he was northbound on Doerr Road at 9:12 p.m., just north of Garfield Street, when the dog ran in front of his cycle.

The dog, which was killed, was owned by Ernest Pena of 4285 Doerr Road.

Alexander was ticketed by police for not having an operator's license.

An accident occurred late Saturday morning at the service station at the corner of Please turn to page 5.

DETERMINATION

Tenacity of purpose in this life is characteristic of all successful men who have accomplished great things.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Craig spent from Thursday until Monday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker at Big Rapids and with Miss Josephine VanGilder, near that area.

Mrs. Martha Clement, from the County Medical Care Facility, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McArthur. Sunday they were dinner guests of Mrs. Leo Ware.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Auten spent the week end at Boyne City with her mother, Mrs. Lester Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Esau and Anne had a Saturday evening dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kercher of Linwood, Gerald Kercher of New London, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Kercher of Sacramento, Calif., and Bill Kercher of Jacksonville, Fla. Also guests were Miss C. MacGillvray. Mrs. Esther Benkelman, Mrs. Esther McCullough and Miss Muriel Addison. While in Cass City the Kerchers, except Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kercher, were house guests of Miss Catherine MacGillvray.

The Hi-Lo Investment Co. held their monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Phyllis Wenk and Mrs. Carol Toivier at Hart, Mich. They spent Saturday and Sunday at Hart.

The meeting was conducted by president Ralph Fuester. Plans for the yearly dinner were made to be held at Claire, Mich. Those attending from the Cass City area were Mrs. Lucille Wotton, secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Surine, treasurer, and the Ralph Fuester family of Caro. Basil Wotton and the Leo Tracys were absent. Mr. Wotton is chairman of the Board and Leo Tracy, president of the board, and Mrs. Tracy, vice-president of company.

Mr. and Mrs. James Batts and Stewart returned Monday night from a 2 week vacation. They went to Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, upper Michigan and they visited friends in Boyne City before returning home.

Family reunion attracts 79

Seventy-nine persons attended the 17th annual McComb family reunion held Sunday at the Cass City Recreational Park.

Relatives came from Illinois, Indiana, the Detroit area, Millford, Bay City, Rhodes, Saginaw, Midland, Lansing, Farwell, Marine City, Pigeon, Mayville, Caro, and the Cass City area.

At the business meeting, officers for the coming year were elected as follows: president—Harold McComb of Detroit; Gerald McComb of Marine City as vice-president, and Mrs. Theron Esckilson of Cass City as secretary-treasurer.

The 1978 reunion will be July 16 in the same location. Those coming the greatest distance to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Thummel of Galesburg, Ill. The youngest present were their twin daughters, Kara and Kristine who are 3 years old and are the granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Asel Collins of Pigeon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton and sons, Ronald, Donald and Jeffery, of Blue Rapids, Kansas, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Thornton of Cass City, and other relatives in Michigan for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McComb of Detroit visited her sister, Mrs. Glenn McClorey, Saturday evening.

Mrs. John West went Sunday to Royal Oak to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Navin.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gallagher and Mrs. Esther McCullough were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Rohlf at Caseville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gelbaugh of Kalamazoo spent from Friday evening until Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holm.

The annual Missionary convention was held Tuesday at Flint Central Church of the Nazarene and the annual Eastern district church assembly was scheduled Wednesday and Thursday. Rev. and Mrs. Russell Stanley attended and representing the Cass City Church of the Nazarene as delegates were Mrs. Russell Schneeberger and Mrs. Harold Cummings.

Mrs. Helen Little and her guest, Ms. Cressy Koch, had as dinner guests Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Turner of Lapeer and Mrs. William Noble of Lake Orion. Other callers were Mr. and Mrs. William Lowe and son Greg of Bay City.

Mrs. Alex Schmidt-Fellner of Riverside, Conn., came Friday and is the guest of the Frederick Autens and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Carlson

The Lapeer American Legion Hall was the scene for the marriage of Judy Doerr and Don Carlson Sunday, May 29.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Doerr of Mayville and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Carlson Sr. of Duluth, Minn. Mr. Douglas Taylor, a World Wide Church of God pastor, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The groom's sister, Bonnie, sang "Color My World" and "We've Only Just Begun", accompanied by Bob Dunham on the organ.

The hall was decorated with two large bouquets of peonies and candelabra.

The bride's wedding gown was made of sheer white chiffon, flowing from the waist into a chapel train; the bodice decorated in rows of lace. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and lily of the valley, centered with an orchid.

Maid of honor was Susan Doerr, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Laurie Carlson, sister of the groom, and Dawn and Anita Hartwick, cousins of the bride. Colleen Hutchinson, cousin of the groom, was flower girl.

Best man was Steve Carlson, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Randy, David and Jim Carlson, brothers of the groom. His nephew, Mike, was ring-bearer. Tom and Jim Doerr, the bride's brothers, were ushers.

Immediately following the 2:30 p.m. ceremony, a reception was held at the hall. Punch and wedding cake were served. The wedding

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Cowan and children of Troy were guest speakers at the Cass City Assembly of God church and were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Elsie Thompson and Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Stine took their sons, Scott and Randy, to Farmington Hills Sunday where they stayed to spend the week as guests of Dale Petzold.

Also at the camp this week are Pastor and Mrs. Harold Prong, their son and his wife, the Roger Prongs of Wauson, Ohio, Peggy McConnell, as camp nurse, and Mrs. Charles McConnell and children and Miss Barbara Pratt of Deford.

Maid of honor was Miss Jeanne Neal, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were the Misses Marsha Borchardt, Wanda Dietlein, Sandy LeTourneau, JoAnn Meredith and Renee LeTourneau, sister of the groom.

They wore gowns of dotted swiss styled with scoop necklines, short bishop sleeves and full ruffle at the bottom. Matching ribbon encircled their waists and tied at the back ending in a streamer. The maid of honor was dressed in seafoam green and bridesmaids were in yellow, pink, blue, mint green and peach. They wore matching flowers in their hair and carried matching parasols, made by the bride's maternal grandmother. The flower girl wore seafoam green and matching sunbonnet. She carried a basket of daisies and rose petals.

Best man was Mark Connelly, friend of the groom. Groomsman were Dan O'Hare, Eric Strain, Ken Stuart, Bruce Bischof and Jim Neal II, brother of the bride. Jimmy Dennis, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. Ushers were Jim Leonard III and Rich Aschak.

The bridal attendants came down the aisle to "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face", sung by Jim Leonard II, accompanied by Doug Webster, both of Bay City. Mr. Leonard also sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with white bows. Daisies, carnations, roses and baby's breath decorated the candelabra.

The bride's mother chose a floor length gown of baby blue with an embroidered yoke and tied in a bow at the back. She wore a white orchid.

The groom's mother chose a medium blue floor length gown with matching jacket. She also wore a white orchid. Attending the guest book was Miss Dana Laurie of Cass

Mr. and Mrs. Michael LeTourneau

Miss Janet A. Neal and Michael LeTourneau were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, June 25, at Christ United Methodist church in Bay City. Rev. David Stout officiated for the children of Mr. and Mrs. James Neal and Mr. and Mrs. Leo LeTourneau, both of Bay City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of polyester sheer. Highlights of the gown were a high lace-edged neckline, lace ruffle cuffed full bishop sleeves and bodice with lace and pearls. Pearls also adorned the length of the sleeves. The full sweep chapel train fell from a lace-edged hemline. She wore a lace covered picture hat and carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies.

"If It Fitz..." Mail favors Cousin Al

By Jim Fitzgerald

Cousin Al has not answered my last letter. But a lot of you readers answered it. If Al is still reading this column, I know he will be touched to learn so many of you think he is a smart fellow.

I still think Al is full of horsebleep, but there you are. My own daughter, Ferd, said I was too harsh on Al. And she further noted that I could become a real pain in the butt if some worthy Detroit citizen doesn't hurry up and mug me. In view of all this support for Cousin Al, even from my own progeny, it might be fair to give his side a hearing. There is no space to reprint all the pro-Al letters received, so I have picked a couple at random. (It has been my experience that random is a good place to go to pick things, as you can get there from anywhere.)

Before beginning the masochism, a brief reprise may be helpful to readers who haven't been paying attention. In my last letter to Cousin Al, I accused him of falling "for all that anti-Detroit crap which is handed out with the hors d'oeuvres at suburban cocktail parties."

Al had been haranguing me with terror tales about a fight on Belle Isle and about the acquittals in the Cobo Hall rape case. He insisted that his bloody stories, buttressed by newspaper clippings, prove Detroit is a jungle and I should move out before the cannibals eat me for lunch.

"There is no safety and no justice for the white man in Detroit," said Al, who hasn't been in downtown Detroit since Hank Greenberg was traded to Pittsburgh.

I answered Al by calling him stupid and by asking why he didn't condemn the entire white population of his county for the lawbreaking done by a few white thugs.

I haven't heard from Al since. But there was this letter from Charles King, a Grosse Pointe Farms lawyer:

"...In view of the fact that I lived in Lafayette-Elmwood Park for more than a decade, and have many friends and acquaintances in the area, I know that you have conned yourself into believing that you are living in a region of pastoral innocence. And as for the city at large, it is a fact that there is one chance in 35 that one's death will be by homicide.

"There is no way around it...you are the rube, the country bumpkin, and I truly hope that you will not be rudely awakened as we were five years ago."

And less politely, there was this unsigned letter:

"I have been told that an Irishman is just a nigger turned inside out, and you sure talk like a dirty, drunk, shanty Irishman. We are beaten, robbed, clubbed and shot right out here on Grand River. Have you been out to see this filthy part of your great Detroit?"

"Come see, and then tell us we love to give our beautiful brick home away for $5,000 because we are so safe our doors are kicked in, our windows shot out and everything is in ruins. No arrests are made because the crooks are black and deprived — driving a silver 1977 Cadillac and wearing the best clothes while they steal from us."

Geez. With readers like that, I don't really need Cousin Al. But all was not bleak. There was also a letter from Lawrence Doss, president of New Detroit Inc., the organization formed to save Detroit after the 1967 riot.

Ordinarily I don't publish complimentary letters. (Ordinarily I don't receive any.) But the Doss letter is of special interest because New Detroit recently took a public punch at the Detroit News and Free Press. It accused the newspapers of hinting that black juries will not convict black defendants of crimes committed against white victims.

Cousin Al made the same charge against black juries, prompting me to write the column saying he is full of horsebleep. And that column prompted Lawrence Doss to write me:

"We at New Detroit were most heartened by your recent column....It is inaccurate and unfair to conclude that the acquittals in the Cobo Hall case resulted from racism on the part of the jury....As you pointed out, allegations about weaknesses in the judicial system do not extend as often to the treatment of white defendants and criminals, as to their black counterparts."

So. Not everyone thinks Cousin Al is a smart fellow. However, if this is a contest, I must admit my mail indicates Al's side is winning.

But I wonder how many of Al's supporters realize he is as Irish as I am. They should have seen him before he was turned inside out.

BIG DECISION

Honesty may be the best policy, but some people find that cold facts aren't always the easiest things in life to face.

Sheriff issues 125 tickets in June

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department issued 125 traffic citations and made 57 arrests in June, according to the department's monthly report.

The most common traffic citations issued were for speeding, 71, followed by stop sign violations, 14.

The most common arrests were for traffic violations, 17, followed by obstruction of justice, 13, and liquor law violations, 5.

The Cass City Police Department reported five arrests during the month, two for traffic violations, two for damage to property, and one for drunkenness.

The Michigan State Police post at Caro recorded 26 arrests, of which 11 were for traffic violations and six for drunkenness.

Of calls received by the sheriff's department in June, 198 involved traffic, followed by disorderly conduct, 75, vandalism, 73, domestic problems, 54, larcenies, 51, burglaries, 29, prowlers, 23, and suspicious vehicles, 22.

By township, complaints and accidents respectively, included Columbia, 16 and 2, Elkland, 57 and 6, Ellington, 6 and 3, Elmwood, 10 and 1, Kingston, 14 and 1, and Novesta, 14 and 3.

As of June 30, five persons were killed in traffic accidents in the county this year. None were killed in June.

Licenses renewed

Hills and Dales Hospital in Cass City has been granted a renewal of its annual license by the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Caro Community Hospital also received its license renewal.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

It's time for one man's view of the topics of the day as seen from the vantage points of the coffee table and the golf course.

These are the questions that have been swirling around the community despite the weather.

QUESTION: I see where the school board just might vote itself a gigantic raise within the next month or so. What about that?

ANSWER: They haven't done it yet. And I don't know if they should or shouldn't. That's fence straddling, you say?

Perhaps. There's no question that if the board were paid on a time basis they should get more money.

But... they knew about the money when they ran for office. Membership on the board has always been a public service and should remain that way. It would look particularly bad if Cass City voted a raise while Owen-Gage trustees were turning back the salary they received.

QUESTION: Okay, you've dodged that one pretty well. How about this one? What do you think about 3 policemen working in the village of Gagetown?

ANSWER: That's crazy. You know of course that one of the Federal programs has made it possible for Gagetown to add two policemen to the present one-man force without paying out a cent in LOCAL taxes. Notice I said local. We all pay for these senseless programs in the long run.

You can't fault the village council for taking the added men. It doesn't take a genius to figure out that if the money isn't spent in Gagetown it will go down the drain somewhere else.

The fault is in the program. I'm sure that if Gagetown had a choice these new men would be working on the park or the street or somewhere where the need is genuine.

Next time your taxes jump think about the men at Gagetown and multiply it by thousands of communities.

QUESTION: Back to the schools. How about another band man?

ANSWER: I'm for it. But then I go along with most anything that widens educational opportunities. (I tried my best to promote a community college here 10 years or so ago.)

If I were the superintendent I'd probably take the course that Donald Crouse has. Find out if the taxpayers want it bad enough to pay for it. Put it on the ballot.

Incidentally, what I am dead set against is devising a

Mrs. Roger Luedeman

Diana Jean Buchanan and Roger Allen Luedeman were united in marriage at the Caro United Methodist church at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 16. Reverend Clive Dickens officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Buchanan of 3444 West Gilford Road, Caro, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Luedeman of Mount Clemens.

The bride wore a gown of candlelight lutesong, outlined in candlelight Venetian scalloped lace with an attached train and garden hat. The gown was designed by the bride and her mother and was handmade by her mother.

Candlelight lace outlined an apron effect on the front of the dress with identical lace along the sleeves and around the Queen Anne neckline and hat brim. She carried a cascade style bouquet of baby orchids and white and beige silk flowers accented with ivory and wheat spears.

Friend of the bride, Mrs. Eileen Bostwick of Mason, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Donna Fasset of Cass City, Barbara Krueger of East Lansing, Deborah Landis of Pontiac, all friends of the bride; Teri Luedeman of Mount Clemens, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Rhonda Buehler of Pigeon, a friend of the bride. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Tuckey and Miss Ann Miller of Cass City, both cousins of the bride. Flowergirls were Miss Melissa Buchanan of Rapid City, niece of the bride, and Miss Christina Russo of Oscoda, niece of the groom.

Best man was James Apley of Bad Axe, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Daniel Buchanan of Caro, brother of the bride; James Kipper of Bad Axe, friend of the groom; Donald Messing of Lansing, friend of the groom; Donald M. Buchanan of Rapid City, brother of the bride, and Robert Bayer of Verona, friend of the groom. Ringbearers were Brian Buchanan of Caro, nephew of the bride, and Steven Russo of Oscoda, nephew of the groom.

Reading the marriage statement for the couple was Carl Mantey of Fairgrove, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore an A-line beige sleeveless evening dress with a sheer print chiffon poncho. She wore gold accessories. The mother of the groom wore an ivory two-piece dinner dress.

A dinner reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Caro with about 350 guests in attendance. Guests included grandfather of the groom, Henry C. Luedeman of Iowa. The bride's grandparents were also in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. M.D. Buchanan of Uby. Other guests were from Oscoda, Dearborn, Battle Creek, Alden, Rapid City, Lansing, Port Huron, Flint, Davison, Algonac, Bad Axe and Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Luedeman are on a honeymoon in Niagara Falls and will reside in East Lansing.

Incidental intelligentsia. In Belgium youth must be 18 or older to drive. But they need to be only 14 to drink. Judging by the 11 visiting Cass City, Belgians do like to drink and most of them smoke. It should be noted that all the visitors are 18 or older.

Belgians will give you a queer look when you offer them French Fries. Not because they don't like the potatoes but because of the name.

You can't buy a French Fry in France, they claim, but they are common in Belgium. They should be called Belgium Fries, say the visiting students.

Not only adults have the weather on their minds. It was uppermost with the kids, too, judging by these remarks that Mike Eliasohn picked up during sidewalk sales.

One contestant submerged past his shoulders in the apple bobbing competition Friday. He was not trying for the apple, said a youthful competitor, he's just trying to cool off.

Saturday was cooler than Friday. One youngster, surveying the eggs splattered over the pavement after the egg tossing competition commented if this were yesterday, they'd be frying on the street.

The Gerald Prieskorns were in Chicago to see the heralded King Tut display. The crowds were fantastic. The first day they arrived at 9:30 a.m. only to find that all the tickets were sold.

The next day they arrived much earlier and after a wait of nearly two hours they bought tickets that got them in about six hours later.

It wasn't quite as bad as it sounds. After the tickets were purchased customers were told about when to return to see the exhibit and didn't have to wait in line.

For Gerald Prieskorn it wasn't even that bad. I didn't wait in line at all, he claimed. That must have left you know who to do the chores.

Hurrah for male chauvinism.

Loss minor when cedar rails burn

Elkland township volunteer firemen extinguished a fire Friday afternoon in a stack of cedar fence rails piled against a garage at the home of Robert Rabideau, 6455 Seventh Street.

The fire spread to the outside of the garage but firemen extinguished it with only minor damage occurring. None of the contents in the garage were damaged.

Cause of the 3 p.m. fire was undetermined. No official damage estimate was given.

Wednesday evening, July 13, firemen hosted members of the various departments belonging to the Huron County Firemen's Association for the organization's bi-monthly meeting.

Approximately 50 firemen were present at the Elkland fire hall. The Elkland unit is a member of the Huron county organization due to its closeness to that county.

Various training films were viewed and the visiting firemen were treated to a supper of sausage and sauerkraut.

Bean queen contestants wanted

Bean growers in Huron and Sanilac counties are seeking contestants for their respective bean queen contests. The winner in each contest will be eligible to compete in the Michigan Bean Queen contest at Fairgrove this fall.

Contestants must be single, age 17-25, and the daughter of a bean grower in Huron county. In Sanilac county, "she should be acquainted with the growing of beans." The competition in Huron county is sponsored by elevators and the Huron County Bean Commission. Candidates can be sponsored by a farm or civic organization. The queen will be selected at a dinner meeting Thursday, Aug. 4, and crowned Tuesday, Aug. 9, during ceremonies at the Huron County Fair. She will be eligible to compete in the "queen of queens" contest at the fair on Aug. 11 as well as for the state bean queen title. Candidates should send their name, address and phone number to: Doris E. Western, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, 46 Westland Drive, Bad Axe.

The Sanilac county competition is sponsored by the Sanilac County Bean Growers. The winner, who will be crowned during the 4-H fair, will receive $50. Applications, which should be completed by Aug. 1, are obtainable from any Bean Growers board of directors member, the county Farm Bureau office, or the Cooperative Extension Service office in Sandusky.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Farmers are faced with a gloomy situation in portions of Tuscola county following a hail storm that flattened and destroyed acres of crops.

Becker's Zoo will open soon and animal lovers may share the menagerie of wild beasts. Regular season and play-off champions in the Cass City Little League are the Yankees.

Ten boys and two girls took a 900 mile canoe trip into Canada as a reward for active participation in the local chapter of the Future Farmers Association (FFA).

The Tuscola County Normal Class of 1922 met at the home of Mary Warren at Caro, to celebrate their 50th anniversary reunion. Of the 17 graduates, nine were present and three are deceased.

TEN YEARS AGO

An early Sunday morning fire at the corner of Leach and Houghton Streets caused extensive damage to a two-story home owned by E.A. Wanner of Bay City. The Wanner apartment home was occupied by Harvey Asher, Mrs. Bertha Asher and Donna and Mary Lou Houghton.

According to Mrs. Robert Keating, president of the Cass City Library Board, the Seeger and Pine corner lot of Mrs. Peter Decker has been purchased as a future site for a new library building.

Superintendent of Owendale-Gagetown Schools Allen Fennel has announced the appointment of Keith Moore as high school principal.

The Ellington Church of the Nazarene will hold a dedication service Sunday, for the new platform furniture which is in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Ira May and Charles Vogel. Mrs. John Koepf Sr. celebrated her 64th birthday with a backyard barbecue put on by her family.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

An estimated 30 persons attended the annual school election held in Cass City and re-elected Frederick Pinney and Mrs. Edward Baker to three-year terms as trustees on the school board.

Janice Kamrad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kamrad, severely injured herself when she fell while climbing into a hay mow to see some newborn kittens.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hartwick believe they have set a record in the length of time they have been sending children to school. They started packing lunches and getting their first child, Arlan, ready for classes in 1915 - 37 years ago.

Sam Vyse caught an eight pound, nine ounces Brown trout in Houghton Creek. The fish measured 28 inches long.

Louis Bartz was admitted into the membership of the Cass City Rotary Club at their meeting held at the New Gordon Hotel.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Announcement was made that Ali B. Jarman, who has served Novesta Church of Christ in the capacity of pastor for almost six years, has accepted a call from the Church of Christ at Manton, Michigan.

Housewives may secure an additional supply of canning sugar if they desire it. This second allotment is limited to a pound of sugar for every four quarts of fruit. The allotment can be used for canning purposes only.

Walter Kloc of Deford received his silver bombardier wings and commission as Second Lieutenant in the Army Air Force.

Mrs. William Simmons was hostess when she entertained members of the Art Club. Francis Stewart has bought the milk route from Edgar Kelley. Kelley went to Detroit for his final examination for the Army.

Bean - beet day set for Aug. 2

Growers from throughout Michigan are expected at Michigan State University's annual Bean and Beet Day at the Saginaw Valley Research Farm, Aug. 2.

Tours of the 119-acre tract will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. and repeated at 6:30 p.m., each lasting about two hours. Depending on available time, six of eight experimental plots will be seen during the session with MSU researchers on hand to explain trends in each current study.

Tour stops being planned include: 1) effects of tillage and soil aeration stress on beans; 2) breeding sugar beets for Michigan and the Great Lakes area; 3) comparative emergence of colored beans and navy beans through compacted soil; 4) comparison of branching and nonbranching navy bean types; 5) effect of two years of alfalfa growth on soil structure and bean growth; 6) growing navy beans with no spring tillage; 7) a cropping systems study with beans and sugar beets, and 8) testing and selecting beans for resistance to blight.

Intent of the tour is to show the latest MSU developments in soil management, crop rotation, plant breeding, and disease control.

The research farm is west of Saginaw at the intersection of Swan Creek and Thomas Roads, 2 1/2 miles south of M-46 and one mile east of M-52.

There will be a special program at 1:30 p.m. dedicating the farm to the memory of deceased MSU crop and soil scientists Fred Davis and Leyton Nelson. These two men played important roles in research and extension programs related to the bean and beet industry and the acquiring of the Saginaw Valley research facility.

Tax book available

A publication explaining the rights and obligations of people who are delinquent in paying their federal taxes is available free of charge from the Internal Revenue Service.

IRS Publication 586, "The Collection Process (Income Tax Accounts)," also covers IRS procedures for collecting unpaid taxes. Published in both English and Spanish, the booklet may be obtained by calling, visiting or writing IRS offices. Taxpayers interested in the Spanish version should ask for Publication 586S.

Other topics discussed in the booklet include liability for unpaid taxes, notices to taxpayers, payment procedures, enforced collection procedures, levies, seizures and sales, federal tax liens, claim procedures, and the rights of a taxpayer during the collection process.

Eight on honors list

Eight area students have been named to the dean's list for the spring quarter at Ferris State College in Big Rapids.

Named from Cass City were Steven W. Batts, Paula D. Decker, Kurt J. Freiburger, Karen S. Krug, Sue C. Kulinski, and Beth A. Shagene.

Named from Gagetown were Gregory J. Downing and Victoria L. Downing.

Paula Decker, Kurt Freiburger and Gregory Downing received their diplomas from Ferris in May.

To be named to the honors list, a student must earn at least a 3.25 grade point average (B+) and carry at least 14 hours of credit.

PEDALING AROUND

Super Reporter

By Mike Eliasohn

I read in one of the Detroit dailies that a Superman movie is currently being filmed in New York.

As in the comic books and on television, when not flying around in his tights and cape to rescue people, Superman will again be mild-mannered reporter Clark Kent.

I can't help but think having the attributes of a Superman would come in handy as a reporter.

For instance, when the fire siren goes off in the middle of the night, instead of running down to the fire station to find out what's happening, I could use my long-range X-ray vision to look at the fire without even getting out of bed. If I saw someone had left their pan of bacon on the stove cook too long, I could go back to sleep.

On the other hand, if I was hard up for news and saw that it was a big fire, I could fly to the scene and with one big puff, blow out the flames. Imagine the headlines: "Superman Blows Out Big Fire."

Of course, I would have to pick up Jimmy Olson on the way so he could get a photograph of my exploit.

And if photographers from competing papers showed up, I would use my X-ray vision to spoil their film. That way, my paper would have an exclusive.

In covering meetings, if the participants choose to go into closed session, I could use my super-hearing to hear what's going on behind closed doors.

Later, I could confront Councilman X with, "Is it true you called the mayor an idiot in the closed session?" Another headline story: "Councilman Denies Calling Mayor Idiot." (Of course, I would know the truth.)

Being able to fly would be a great time saver in getting to assignments. The only problem might be that the Internal Revenue Service might not allow me to deduct 15 cents per mile as a business expense if I flew.

And then there's super strength. Another headline story: "Superman Pulls Apart Wrecked Auto to Rescue Crash Victims."

Or, "Superman Pulls Fallen Beam Off of Pinned Construction Worker."

Of course, I could get competition in the super-strength department if one of the competing papers decided to hire the "Six Million Dollar Man" as a reporter.

But even if I did have all the powers of Superman, it likely wouldn't help my typing, er, typing.

And I probably still couldn't get Lois Lane to go out with me.

5 exchange pupils eye new "homes"

The first of five Cass City High School students who will be spending the next year overseas as part of the Rotary Club Youth Exchange Program left Saturday, July 9, for the Philippines.

Don Koepgen, 16, left from Tri-City Airport, bound for Chicago, San Francisco and then Manila. From there, he flew to Bacolod City, population 119,000, which is located on another island.

He will be staying there until June and thought he would be attending a Catholic school.

A big influence in his choosing the Philippines, he said, was from meeting Dr. Efron Dizon, MD, of Cass City, who is from that country.

Don is the son of Mrs. Kenneth Maharg of 5206 Koepgen Rd.

Of the five participants in the exchange program this year, he is the only senior. The rest are juniors and will return to Cass City for their final year in high school.

Two students are going to Australia. Dave Heins, 16, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heins Jr. of 6814 Houghton

St., will be living in Newcastle, about 50 miles north of Sydney.

Jeff Prieskorn, 16, will be living in Cairns, on the northeast coast of Australia by the Great Barrier Reef. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Prieskorn of 4645 Kennebec Dr.

"I want to see what a different climate is like," said Jeff, in explaining why he chose Australia. He is hoping to be able to go scuba diving and surfing and play golf while he is there.

Dave said he wanted to learn more about Australia after meeting some exchange students from there.

Kurt Proctor, 15, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Proctor of 4794 N. Seeger St., is going to Auckland, New Zealand.

The first home he will be staying in is Auckland will be that of the parents of a former exchange student to Cass City. The student, Paul Prangle, now 22 and married, was here in 1972.

The three boys going "down under" will all leave from Tri-City Airport Aug. 20. They will go to Chicago to Los Angeles and then to their final destination. When Jeff arrives in Australia Aug. 22, it will be his 17th birthday.

Paul Guernsey, 16, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Guernsey of 6331 Dale St., will be spending a year in Nykoping, Sweden, about 100 miles south of Stockholm on the Baltic Sea.

He will leave Aug. 11 from Detroit Metropolitan Airport, headed for Toronto, and from there to Stockholm.

The first stop there for him and other exchange students from the United States will be a three-week language school.

The Guernsey family, according to his mother, had a Swedish student as a house guest in their home a couple of years ago, and that was one influence in his choosing to go there.

Under the Rotary Club program, the parents and-or individual pays for the transportation and routine expenses. Once in the foreign country, the host family provides the room and board, aided financially by the local Rotary Club.

scheduled to be cut back. Of its $344,000, $200,000 is to go for a new county animal shelter and the remainder to the county road commission to start reconstruction of part of Vassar Road into a class A all-weather road.

That leaves Caro and Indianfields township, where everything has now been worked out satisfactorily.

Caro originally got $1,032,000, of which the Caro schools were to use $900,000 to build a new community swimming pool behind the high school. The village was to use the remaining $174,000 for renovation of a former auto dealership into a new village hall.

With the cut, the two would have only got $603,000. Indianfields, however, which was originally getting nothing, is now getting $842,000.

The township originally wanted that money to build a new library. When the first go-around of public works money - $2 billion - was announced last December, Indianfields got nothing then, so residents there approved a millage to pay for the structure. Officials of the schools, township and village met Monday afternoon. There, according to Community Schools Director Gary Gutman, township officials agreed to keep only $200,000. That will be used for the library, in addition to the millage.

The rest will be turned over by the township to the schools to build the pool.

The village will now get $182,000 for the village hall. That leaves $421,000 plus the $642,000 from Indianfields to construct the pool.

All of the public works projects must be started within 90 days after the EDA announces the official acceptance of the grant applications from the various governmental units.

Report injuries in car mishaps

Leach and Church Streets. Cass City police reported that Eva B. Bair, 78, of 6376 Sixth Street, Cass City, was in the outside lane by the service pumps. An attendant told her to back up and go into the inside lane. As she was doing so, she backed into a car driven by Larry F. Parker, 17, of 2875 Lampton Road, Decker, which was exiting the station.

Another accident involving backing took place Sunday.

Cass City police reported Enoch Osentoski Jr., 45, of 874 McMillan Road, was backing onto Park Drive and backed into a car headed toward the village swimming pool. Driver of the other vehicle was Shirley A. Lynch, of 6694 Garfield Street.

James P. Martin II, 40, of Rt. 3 Freede Road, Caro, was ticketed Saturday afternoon by sheriff's deputies on a charge of failure to yield right of way. Deputies said he was westbound on Bevans Road and collided with a southbound auto on Kingston Road driven by Nick Prutchick, 56, of Flint.

The latter's wife, Ersela I. Prutchick, 53, was treated at Hills and Dales Hospital.

Deputies reported Saturday afternoon that Robert D. Pearce, 53, of 6354 Third Street, backed into a parked car. The incident took place in the parking lot of the M & R Grocery, 4119 S. Seeger Street.

ASCS now processing claims

County ASCS offices are now processing claims on 1977 crop losses. The payments made at this time are to farmers who suffered losses in their wheat crop due to natural disasters.

Vernon L. Kretzschmer, chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, reported that over 2,000 claims have been filed to date.

Most of the claims were filed in counties in the central part of the state where drought affected the wheat crop and is now also affecting the corn crop.

Many other farmers suffered substantial losses, but do not qualify for payments because of the extent they overplanted their farm allotments. The law only provides for payments for losses suffered below the normal production of each farmer's allotments.

In 1976 over 2,700 claims were filed with over 1,800 qualifying for payments. Payments for 1976 crop losses exceeded $1.2 million.

Disaster payments are based on one-third of the farm program target price of the crop involved. For corn the disaster payment rate is 57 cents a bushel and for wheat it is 82 cents a bushel. These 1977 rates are about 10 per cent higher than the 1976 rates.

Applications should be filed at county ASCS offices as soon as crop losses are apparent. Kretzschmer stated the affected acreage should not be used for other purposes until the disaster condition and production or potential production have been determined by ASCS personnel.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF OWENDALE-GAGETOWN AREA SCHOOL DISTRICT HURON AND TUSCOLA COUNTIES, MICHIGAN

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that an election will be held in Owendale-Gagetown Area School District, Huron and Tuscola Counties, Michigan, on Saturday, the 30th day of July, 1977, from 7:00 o'clock a.m. to 8:00 p.m., EDST, to vote upon the following proposition:

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Owendale-Gagetown Area Schools, Huron and Tuscola Counties, Michigan, be increased by 6.25 mills ($6.25 on each $1,000.00 of state equalized valuation) for a period of 2 years, 1977 to 1978, inclusive, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being 3 mills less than the 9.25 mills which expired with the 1976 tax levy)?

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that the voting place for said election will be as follows:

BROOKFIELD TOWNSHIP HALL

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that there will be allowed to vote upon said propositions all registered persons having the qualifications of electors in said school district.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that the applications for regular absent voter ballots may be accepted up to 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, July 23, 1977, which is the Saturday preceding the day of election.

The law also provides for persons who miss the 2:00 p.m. deadline on July 23, 1977, but nevertheless wish to vote in absentia. They may do this for the statutory reasons listed by applying and voting in person in the Superintendent's office in Owendale.

The following statements have been received from the County Treasurers as to previously voted increases in the total tax rate limitation affecting taxable property in the school district, to-wit:

Bursitis by any name is painful

By Frank Chappell, American Medical Association

Sometimes it's "Housemaid's knee", or "police-man's heel" or "tennis elbow". By any other name it's still bursitis, and it is one of mankind's more painful and disabling ailments. Bursitis, says the American Medical Association, means inflammation of a lubricating sac about a joint. The sac, called a bursa, is similar to a collapsed balloon with some fluid inside. It is located at various places in the body where joints or tissues touch and rub, and without cushioning there would be friction. Bursitis can hit at many points in the body, but most often occurs in the shoulder, knee or elbow. In most cases bursitis follows unaccustomed strain or overuse of an extremity. By taking a little time to work up to your physical condition, and especially by working up the muscles that you plan to use in any repetitious motion outside your normal activity (strengthening your wrist and arm before starting to paint the house, for instance) you can probably keep clear of this common and painful ailment.

SSI recipients should report any changes

People should promptly report changes in circumstances that could affect their Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments and should not wait to hear from Social Security, according to Helen M. Bivens, social security field representative in Saginaw.

The SSI program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. Eligibility and monthly payment amounts can be affected by changes in income, resources, living arrangements, marital status, and other circumstances.

"To get the right SSI checks to the right people on time," Ms. Bivens said, "the Social Security Administration periodically contacts people getting payments to review their eligibility and monthly payment amounts."

"But we may not be in touch with people as often as their circumstances change," she said. "So they should report changes to us as promptly as possible." Failure to report changes—or delay in reporting—can mean penalty reductions in payments.

"People can get information about reporting changes by calling or writing any Social Security office," Ms. Bivens said.

The Supplemental Security Income program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Saginaw social security office is in the Federal Building. The phone number is 771-1010.

Your Neighbor says

No to forced retirement

Should retirement be mandatory?

Congress is currently dealing with the question in the form of proposed legislation, which though still allowing it, would raise the allowable mandatory retirement age for private employers from 65 to 70. For federal government employees, now required to retire at 70, the age limit would be removed.

Ernest Hyatt, 80, of 3696 Leslie Road, Decker, says, "I think people should work as long as they want to."

Some persons argue that forcing persons to retire at a certain age frees jobs for younger people wanting employment. Hyatt doesn't necessarily disagree, but still feels that those already employed should be able to work as long as they wish.

He added that "some younger ones might not want to work anyway."

He also pointed out that "the way prices are going" some persons need to keep working as long as possible. Hyatt retired as a full-time farmer in 1961, when his son took over the family farm, but kept working part-time there until 1972.

He and his wife, Thelma, have two children, six grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

OWEN-GAGE SCHOOLS

We would like to thank you for the trust you have shown in electing us to your school board.

As parents we are acutely aware of the benefits of a good education. We shall strive to give your children the best possible education your generosity will allow.

In the past we have had different ideas how this could best be accomplished. By the democratic processes the courts have resolved these issues.

We believe dissent is not disloyalty, but a very valuable tool to bring all sides of an issue before the people.

Our millage election on July 30, 1977 is for a 6.25 MILLAGE RENEWAL. That is 3 MILLS LESS than the 9.25 Mills that expired this year. We want our children to have the best education and do not want to cut curriculum or lay off teachers. Please help us July 30, 1977. VOTE YES. It is critical to maintain good education.

Thank You

Farmers face possible anti-erosion regulations

Farmers may some day be required to take measures to prevent soil and various pollutants from their land from washing into nearby waterways.

However, any such regulations will be "within reason" and "without putting an excess burden on producers," according to Dale Raven, regional planner for the water quality division of the 14-county East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region (ECMPDR).

Control of agricultural pollution will be only one of the measures undertaken in the federally-mandated plan now being prepared by the regional planners in an effort to clean up the waters in the 14 counties, including Saginaw Bay.

At this point, the planning has attracted little attention, as attested to by the fact that only nine persons showed up for either of two workshop sessions Wednesday, July 13, in the Elkland township fire hall.

The afternoon and evening sessions were intended for representatives of governmental units and agencies and special interest groups from throughout the Thumb, a potential of approximately 200 people.

Water quality division chief planner Jim Sygo said he expects interest will increase once the planning process gets to recommending specific means of controlling pollution, such as for agricultural runoff, septic tanks, municipal sewage disposal, and urban and rural storm-water collection.

He and Raven, the division regional planner, were the two ECMPDR representatives present.

Cass City was represented by Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie.

Preparation of the water management plan is mandated by a federal law passed in 1972. "Uncle Sam" is paying $1.04 million for preparation of the plan in the 14 counties.

The planning process is currently in the information gathering stage, such as pollution levels in the region's rivers and Saginaw Bay and government agencies having some control in the clean-up process.

Next will come an inventory of where treatment facilities are and where new ones should be and an inventory of sources of non-point pollution. The completed plan is scheduled for completion by the end of this year, after which will come public hearings before being submitted to the ECMPDR board, the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR), and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The completed plan, in addition to defining methods of cleaning up the rivers and bay in the region must also spell out ways of financing the clean-up.

There are two basic sources of pollution, point and non-point. Point source pollution comes from a pipe, such as the effluent from a sewage treatment plant. One source of non-point source pollution is runoff from agricultural lands.

Wisner Township Planning Commission chairman Fred Black, a farmer, expressed concern at the evening session about a suggestion in a preliminary report that one means of controlling agricultural runoff would be to require farmers to plant a grass strip alongside ditches.

Although the idea is good, he said at the evening workshop session, for a variety of reasons, it isn't practical for farmers.

He also said there would be problems, such as spreading of weeds, if farmers simply left a strip alongside ditches unplowed.

Black also raised a question about the effect of irrigation, which an increasing number of farmers are starting to use.

Raven responded that if farmers draw their water from Saginaw Bay or from ponds that collect water during the spring, when river levels are high, there will be no problem. However, if farmers draw water during the summer months directly from rivers that have little or no flow due to low water levels, some of them could go dry.

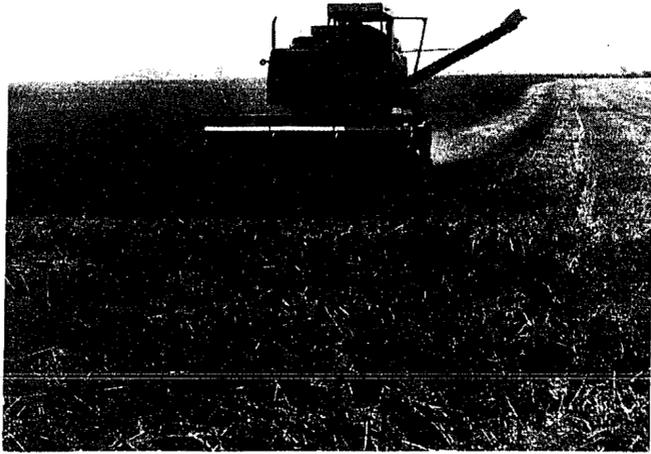

There was also discussion Wednesday evening about a recently released ECMPDR report that rated the water quality of rivers in the region. The Cass River was rated "medium."

In fact, the water quality index (WQI) ratings were based on samples taken by the DNR between 1968 and 1975 at one or two points along the rivers rated. The Cass River rating came from samples taken at the Dixie Highway bridge on the east side of Saginaw.

Edward L. Kimbrue, health department chief sanitarian for Tuscola county, argued that such a rating is misleading due to the limited sample. LaPonsie questioned how spending about $3 1/2 million to improve the Cass City wastewater treatment plant could be justified.

Raven responded that the DNR has taken samples along most of the Cass River and that such data, not that used in determining the WQI, would be used in compiling the final report, upon which the clean-up measures will be based.

The WQI report shows the Cass River, which flows into the Saginaw River, contributes 2.74 per cent of the chloride in Saginaw Bay; phosphorus, 7.42 per cent; ammonia, 5.56 per cent; nitrates, 10.69 per cent; silicon, 6.86 per cent; iron, 12.98 per cent, and coliform, 2.44 per cent.

HARVEST TIME -- Larry Merchant of 5599 Schwegler Road was one of many area farmers out harvesting wheat recently. This field was off of N. Cemetery Road, north of Milligan Road. Wickes Elevator manager Bob Wischmeyer reports that yields are running from 25-60 bushels per acre, with an average of around 40, about 10 less than normal. That's better than expected, which has "surprised a lot of people," he said. Prices, however, are "discouraging," well below the break-even point for the crop.

Warrant sought for indecent exposure

Warrants are being sought by the sheriff's department to charge a woman with trespassing and indecent exposure in connection with an incident about 5:30 a.m. Saturday on Greenland Road in Elkland township.

A mother reported to deputies that her son and some other youths, ages 12-16, were camping overnight by a pond on her property.

The woman, 22, and a man were swimming in the pond. The woman then came out of the pond, only half-dressed, and began talking to the children. She was using profane language, the mother said.

She ordered the two to leave but they refused.

The mother called the sheriff's department. When deputies arrived, the woman had left. The man was still there and again refused to leave.

The woman then returned and started insulting the officers. She was arrested but broke loose when deputies tried to get her in the patrol car.

A warrant was to be sought charging her with trespassing and indecent exposure. As of Tuesday afternoon, no warrants had been issued, according to the prosecutor's office.

Arrested on a charge of trespassing was Clyde Leiterman, 29, of Greenland Road. He was booked in the county jail. He was later released on $100 bond, with arraignment in district court scheduled Aug. 1.

Barbara Hetler of Deford reported to state police in Caro at noon Sunday that the Kingston Tavern, 5966 State Street, Kingston, was broken into some time after 3 a.m. Sunday.

The glass in the front and rear doors was broken, she reported. Missing was $15 to $20 from the cash register and two bottles of liquor.

Two incidents were reported to the Cass City police involving damage to cars parked in the lot at the Charmont restaurant and bowling lanes.

Ron Spaulding Jr. of 3551 E. Caro Road reported Sunday that when his car was parked at the Charmont July 12, someone put gravel in the engine. Resulting damage was estimated at $300.

Mrs. James Burleson of 6662 Seed Street told officers Saturday her son Ray had a car parked there the previous evening. Someone broke off the radio antenna and put a small dent in the roof.

Almon A. Adams of 4546 Oak St. told Cass City police Friday evening that someone took his 10-speed bicycle, which had been parked behind Schneeburgers on Main Street since 10 a.m. The yellow West Point had black forks and was valued at $30.

Early Saturday morning, when Cass City Patrolman Matthew Kinsinger was parked in his patrol car on Sherman Street, off of Main Street, he observed two youths on foot.

One walked over to a garage at 6856 E. Main Street, belonging to Francis Elliott, and kicked in a window. He then fled on foot. Value of the window was $5.

Marvin D. Welch, 38, of 240 E. Grant Street, Caro, was arrested Sunday night by Cass City Patrolman Donald Miller on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. The officer stopped Welch's car on M-81, about two miles west of Cass City.

Welch was booked at the county jail on the driving under the influence charge and on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

He later posted a total of $150 bond for the two charges and was released, pending arraignment in district court July 25.

County group appoints new caseworker

The board of directors of Tuscola County Big Brothers-Big Sisters has announced the immediate appointment of Meredith Mills as caseworker.

Her part-time duties will include interviewing and screening applicants, processing, matching and supervising children and adult volunteers, and organizing group activities.

Mrs. Mills comes to the area as a former teacher with a B.A. degree in speech and communication arts. A native of Lansing, she has been active in people-related volunteer groups of all ages. She and her husband, Mike, reside in Saginaw with their two daughters.

Mrs. Mills is replacing Carol Kennedy who has moved out of state.

Sieradzki gets top GI honor

Army PFC Michael A. Sieradzki has been named "soldier of the month" from Company A of the 709th Military Police Battalion in Frankfurt, Germany.

MICHAEL SIERADZKI

He was selected for the honor over four other candidates after being questioned June 28 by a four-member board on military courtesy, current events, his military occupational specialty, and Army regulations.

In August or September, he will compete with other members of the 709th for "soldier of the quarter" honors.

While in Germany, Sieradzki completed his high school education and recently received his diploma from Cass City High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Sieradzki of 350 N. Crawford Rd., Deford, Sieradzki entered the Army in April, 1976.

Laurie objects to low market

A "depression market" is the price farmers are paying for their response to concerns about world hunger, according to Jack Laurie, Cass City dairy and grain farmer who serves as vice-president of the 63,000 family-member Michigan Farm Bureau.

"In the last two years, the American farmer has responded to concerns about world hunger and to assurances by government for a greater access to world markets," said Laurie. "And now, because of his concern, this same farmer is left with a depression market."

Producers of wheat, corn and other commodities throughout the United States are the victims of over-production, both here and abroad, resulting in severely depressed farm prices. Laurie called the current farm price situation a "serious problem," but warned that government programs are not the answer.

"It is not surprising that some farmers, in this unbearable economic situation, ask for government target prices and loan rates. But we have only to review the history of such programs," he warned. "They perpetuate rather than solve the problem of low market prices. In the long range, this route is disastrous for agriculture."

for government, however, in the areas of encouraging foreign market expansion and research and development of other feasible uses of grain, such as "gasohol" for fuel.

"In the long run," he said, "farmers themselves can influence their incomes by building stronger cooperatives and utilizing them more fully."

The farm organization has actively lobbied for a comprehensive national marketing and bargaining law to provide producers with organized strength in negotiating prices for their commodities. In action last week, the Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors requested that the American Farm Bureau Federation establish a Farm Bureau owned and operated cooperative export market facility.

Prior to Idi Amin

Former resident remembers Uganda

Thanks to Idi Amin, president for life of Uganda, the east African nation is often in the news these days.

One who follows that news with more than passing interest is Keith O'Dell, who worked as a teacher there from 1962-64, before Amin came to power.

The Caro resident works with his father, Bill O'Dell, in the building business, O'Dell Steel Buildings, in Cass City.

Although he has some reservations about the usefulness of his work there -- training students for jobs that didn't exist -- he calls his experiences there "excellent."

"As far as I'm concerned it was a real nice country and real nice people."

O'Dell graduated from Cass City High School in 1956 and from Central Michigan University four years later. He received his master's degree in mathematics from there in 1962.

He also worked at CMU as a graduate assistant and first heard about the African teaching program at a staff meeting. O'Dell went on to the University of Nebraska for additional graduate work but later applied, was accepted, and arrived in Uganda in October, 1962.

He was employed as a teacher by the U.S. Agency for International Development. Columbia University in New York coordinated the east African teachers program for the agency.

O'Dell spent his two years at the government-run Teso College, five miles from the regional center of Soroti. He guessed that Soroti was about the size of Bad Axe, but other than government businesses and stores, was primarily occupied by Indians (from India).

Most of the native Ugandans lived outside the town.

About 90 per cent of the commerce when he was there was run by Indians, who held British passports.

Several years ago, O'Dell said, Amin forced the Indian merchants to leave, unless they would become Ugandan citizens. "On the surface, that might sound okay, but in my day there, the African wasn't (skilled as) a merchant."

Uganda, a protectorate of Great Britain, gained its independence five days after the Cass City native arrived.

As might be expected, the education system there was patterned after the British system.

Most children there had at least some schooling, even if the classroom consisted of the ground under a shade tree.

Of those that did get to the equivalent of the eighth grade, O'Dell guessed that maybe only 10 per cent passed the strict examinations to go to schools such as the one where he taught.

Although called a college, Teso College was actually the equivalent of a high school, for boys only, from all over the country. The boys lived at the school.

Almost all of the boys there were black. There were a few Asians, but most went to an Asian school in Soroti.

The teachers were either English or American.

O'Dell taught various math courses, Scriptures, and coached softball, basketball, and track. He was also charged with starting the higher school, somewhat equivalent to the first two years of college.

In the same way that strict examinations narrowed the number of students entering college, even fewer would enter the upper school, and from there, only a few would enter the university.

Enrollment at Teso College doubled the time he was there, from 300 to 600, plus 40 in the higher school.

In contrast to the nearby trade and agricultural schools -- also run by the Ugandan government -- students at Teso College studied such subjects as math, history, science and English. (There are numerous native languages in Uganda; English is the official language.)

It was the role of the school to teach, in essence, the future government leaders and managers that bothered O'Dell somewhat.

"My concern was, here we were educating these people but there was really no opportunity for industry or job opportunities."

American investment in Uganda, thus creating jobs, was unlikely because of the instability of the area, partly due to Russian and Communist Chinese influence in the area and unpredictability of African governments.

Russian speakers were a routine occurrence at the school (as was the showing of American propaganda films). O'Dell also recalls reading "beautifully illustrated" English language magazines printed in China.

Education created another problem, O'Dell said, in creating restlessness and an inferiority complex among the Ugandans which Russian and Chinese propaganda could take advantage of, partly by promising jobs.

In fact, the last correspondence he had with any of his former students was some years ago. The student wrote to him from central Russia, where he was learning to pilot a jet fighter plane. O'Dell was unable to figure out the return address, so never was able to write back.

Ugandans weren't ready to govern themselves when they gained independence, O'Dell feels, but independence was rushed upon them because of the American influence that, "Independence was good for our country and therefore a good thing for your country."

Independence for Uganda and other African countries was bound to encounter two problems, he explained.

First, the national boundaries created by the European rulers had no relation to tribal boundaries.

UGANDA -- Keith O'Dell points on the map to the place where he stayed in Uganda for two years. The zebra-hide covered drum and the clay sculpture of an Angoli tribesman are both souvenirs he brought back from that east African country.

When Amin overthrew the first prime minister of Uganda, Milton Obote, the ultimate losers were many of the members of Obote's tribe -- different than Amin's -- many of whom were killed.

Secondly, the former school teacher continued, under the tribal system, the chief is the absolute ruler. A two-party system is "completely alien" to the African mind.

Amin has gone beyond being an "absolute" ruler, however.

O'Dell met the week end before last in Toronto with an Englishman with whom he taught in Uganda. The man, who spent six years there, told him many of the boys he knew had been killed.

Mayors and local government officials have also been killed under Amin's rule.

At the national university in Kampala, he said, Amin was reported to have had 500 students killed and the remaining 1,000 beaten. Doctors who treated the wounded were shot.

If Amin destroyed the university, O'Dell doubts there is probably much of a secondary education system left either, although he doesn't know for sure.

And that, he feels, is one of the tragic aspects of Amin's behavior. Education did have the positive effect of helping Uganda's citizens overcome tribal animosities. There were students from numerous tribes at Teso College, but they all got along. There are at least 21 tribes in Uganda.

The future of Uganda and other troubled African nations can only be bright, O'Dell sincerely feels, "if they become nations under God."

Other than the ethical conflicts, O'Dell, as mentioned, described his experience in Uganda as "excellent."

What he probably liked the least was the heat -- other than the rainy season from mid-February through mid-April -- it was "96 degree weather day in and day out" without benefit of air conditioning or electric fans.

O'Dell considered staying in Uganda for a third year, but instead returned to Central Michigan, where he taught for a year. He then taught at John Wesley College in Owaso for six years, became its acting business manager, taught at Reese High School, then sold farm machinery before entering business with his father.

He was single when he was in Uganda. Now married, he and his wife, Patricia, have two daughters, Bonnie, 9, and Diane, 7.

School breakfast program delayed

If mandatory school breakfast programs are to become a reality, they apparently won't be for two years and for area school districts they may not become a reality at all.

Legislation requiring school districts to start serving breakfasts originally was to have gone into effect with the start of school this fall.

However, according to State Rep. Loren S. Armbruster, the legislature never approved funding to start the program this year.

And now the house has approved a bill to delay the start of the breakfast program until fall, 1979. The senate hasn't acted on it yet, however.

Under the proposed legislation, the state will pay the entire cost of the program, except for that portion paid by students for the breakfasts. Like with the lunch program, students from low-income families would pay a reduced amount of nothing for the breakfasts.

Even if the breakfast program does become law, all of the area school districts may be exempt.

The legislation required all school districts to serve breakfast if at least 20 per cent of their students qualified for the present free or reduced lunch program. Under that criteria, Owen-Gage and Ubyly were exempt.

Furthermore, a rule being implemented under the original law exempted fourth class school districts where at least 25 per cent of the students were bused five or more miles to school, which presumably would have exempted Cass

City and Kingston. Armbruster said he opposed the original breakfast bill and the revision containing the two-year extension.

One reason for his opposition was the difficulties it would cause in districts where a large number of students were bused, in either having to start all bus runs earlier in order to accommodate those wanting to eat breakfast at school or scheduling two separate runs.

If the legislation were changed to allow each school board to decide if it wants the breakfast program, the legislator said he would support it.

In contrast to breakfast, lunch programs are mandatory now and for them, the U.S. Department of Agriculture recently announced an increase in the amount paid to schools for the reduced and free lunch programs for needy students.

The increased payments, reflecting the increase in the consumer price index, is to help defray meal preparation costs. The average payment will be increased from 50 to 53 cents for reduced-price lunches and from 60 to 63 cents for free lunches.

Owen-Gage board to meet

The Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education has scheduled a special meeting Monday starting at 8 p.m. in the Owendale cafeteria.

One of the agenda items will be opening of bids for sale of $245,000 in tax anticipation notes.

IRA's have advantages, limitations

Persons considering setting up individual retirement arrangements (IRA's) for their retirement security should weigh not only the tax advantages but also the limits and restrictions, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

IRA's were established in 1974 to allow employees and self-employed persons not covered by retirement plans at work to save for their retirement years and gain some income tax benefits in the process.

In setting up an IRA, eligible workers can place up to 15 percent of their income in their plan each year, to a maximum of $1,500, and postpone paying income taxes on the money and the interest or other income it earns until they actually withdraw it, at age 59½ or older, or if the individual becomes disabled. At this point, the taxpayer is apt to be in a lower tax bracket than during his or her earning years.

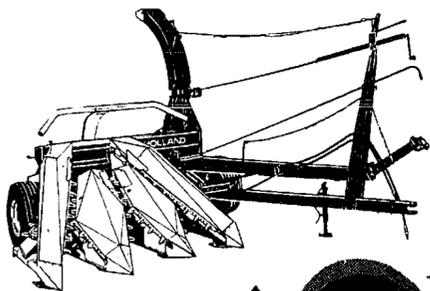

While IRA's offer significant tax benefits, an individual considering setting up a plan should be aware that contributions exceeding the annual maximum are taxed as ordinary income and are subject to a nondeductible 6 percent excise tax each year. Another restriction in an IRA plan relates to withdrawals which are made before the individual reaches 59½ years of age or becomes disabled. These are also included in taxable income, and an additional 10 percent penalty is imposed on the amount withdrawn.

The IRS also pointed out that distribution of funds in an IRA must begin by the time the owner reaches 70½ years of age. The withdrawal rate is up to the taxpayer, but generally must provide for distribution of the money within the person's expected lifetime.

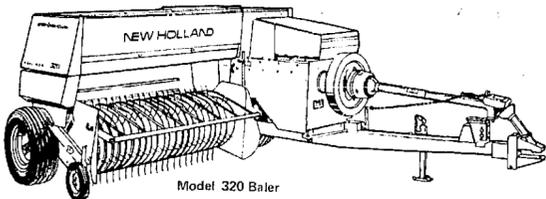

An informative, free booklet, IRS Publication 590, contains full details on IRA's, including the tax treatment and the limitations, and is available from most IRS offices.

Tempers flare as Pot bill boils in House

Legislation to soften penalties for marijuana possession has been debated for hours in the state legislature. But it was, ironically, the defeat of such a bill that led to the first legislative violence over the emotional topic.

Minutes after the state House voted down a measure to end jail terms for possession of an ounce or less of pot, a woman lawmaker walloped the sponsor of the bill twice on the head.

Roseetta Ferguson, D-Detroit, says she didn't realize what she was doing, except that sponsor Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, had called her a liar, and she didn't like that.

"I saw red, white and blue," she said afterwards.

Although Bullard was unhurt by the sudden attack, it stunned him and his colleagues on the House floor. Moments before the incident he was ready to call on the House to reconsider its vote, but he was later persuaded to hold back on the bill until the House returns in September from its summer break.

That will be time enough for tempers to cool, House leaders say.

Although violence on legislative floors is rare, it is not unknown. Several years ago, one lawmaker's jaw was broken in a tiff and another was klunked with an ashtray.

And although such incidents are usually criticized as childish and barbaric, they're understandable if you consider how the law-making process works. Dozens of men and women work very closely together for hours each day, often waging furious verbal battles over what they consider a matter of principle, or morals, or patriotism, or the public interest, or whatever.

Inevitably, one lawmaker is bound to take a step too many, say one sentence too much, and another is ticked off - occasionally to the point of venting that fury with a curse, or a swing.

In the Bullard-Ferguson case, it apparently was a misunderstanding. Mrs. Ferguson said something during debate which Bullard understood to be a lie. That's because Mrs. Ferguson hadn't made herself as clear as she might have been, although she didn't realize her mistake until later.

The Bullard marijuana bill - which looked for a time like it would wring a victory out of the House - will likely draw the same emotional testimonies when it comes up again in the fall. But maybe next time, reminded by the events of the past, lawmakers will keep their feelings at rein.

1975 PROMISE PEETERS OUT

It took them until literally the eleventh hour, but lawmakers were able to stymie a promised state income tax reduction that could have saved $18 a year for a family of four with a $15,000 income.

The vote was close, with those who favored the reduction accusing its opponents of breaking their promise to the people. Finally, just 77 minutes before the reduction was to occur, the Senate had to use the vote of one member called from a bar and another who left a showing of "Star Wars." And even then, there was not a vote to spare.

The promise to roll the tax back from 4.6 per cent to 4.4 per cent was made in 1975 when it was boosted to 4.6 per cent from 3.9 per cent. That increase was needed to replace revenue lost when Michiganders voted to end the sales tax on food and drugs.

But tax hikes being generally unpopular politically, supporters of the 1975 increase agreed to include a promised reduction to win the votes of a few reluctant lawmakers.

But this year, that promise no longer held the gleam it did in 1975. Instead, a reduction in the tax promised a drop of about $90 million in state revenues next fiscal year.

So like a worker would fight a cut in salary, the legislative leadership and Gov. William Milliken began battling to block the promised rollback. Ultimately, it took some promises to lawmakers from the leadership and Milliken's people to win the votes they needed.

But the move was successful, the promise was broken, and the state won't have to scrimp on spending next year. Those who favored the reduction continue to grumble, however, that the state's pockets are so full these days that it could have afforded a few alms to the people.

BUDGET BLUES

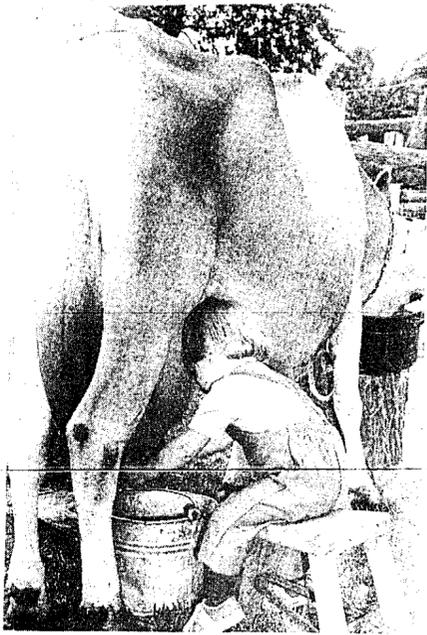

It's the equivalent of final exam week for the Michigan legislature.

After taking it easy for months, lawmakers have begun cramming to approve important legislation - including the state budget for the fiscal year starting in October and a bill to keep the state income tax where it is, instead of reducing it as the legislature promised in 1975.

So instead of meeting for 2-3 hours on Monday through Thursday afternoons per the usual schedule, the House and Senate have been holding extended sessions or meeting on Friday. And they may pull an all nighter to top off the spring term. That's been done before.

The fact is that legislators, like most everyone, would rather be vacationing than working. And the three-day Fourth of July week end is a convenient time to start.

WHEN GARY BEGEMAN, 23-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Begeman, visits his granddad, Roger Guinther at Hurds Corner and Bevans roads, (formerly of Cass City) he makes sure his kitten is fed. The youngster milks the Guinther cow for enough milk to feed the kitten. He starts with one hand and later uses both hands. No one taught him how. He started by himself about 3 weeks ago. (Neitzel photo).

Area pair pay for car damage

Two youths were sentenced Monday by District Judge Richard F. Kern in connection with their damaging of a light bar on the roof of a Cass City police car June 12.

Gary T. Schuette, 19, of Rt. 1, Cass City Rd. and Thomas Marker, 20, of 2567 Dickerson Road, Unionville, each pleaded guilty July 5 to a charge of conspiracy to commit simple larceny in connection with the incident. Each was sentenced by the judge to pay a $35 fine, $65 court costs and restitution of $34.42.

Richard S. McRae, 27, of 8673 Hadley Road, was sentenced Monday by Judge Kern to pay a $65 fine and $135 court costs on a charge of impaired driving.

McRae pleaded guilty to the charge May 23.

PIE FACE -- Darlene Klebba, 11, may have had the messiest face after the pie eating contest, but it was her brother, Jeff, 10, not shown, who ate his pie in the fastest time to win the $5 first prize.

APPLETUNITY -- Steve Ross managed to get a "grip" on an apple in 20 seconds, good enough for second place in the 8 and under apple bobbing category. Brian LaJoie took first in 15 seconds. In the 9 and over category, Bob Kerbyson took first in 1 second.

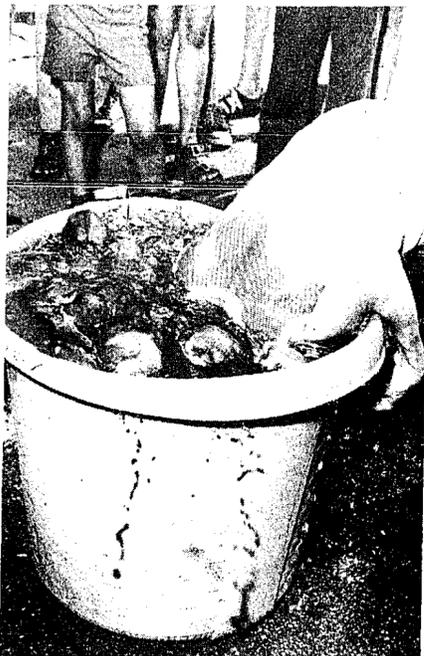

OVER EASY -- At this point in the egg throwing Saturday morning, there was only one egg in the street. But after each successful toss, the competitors had to step back. When it was all over, Kent Wischmeyer and Craig Tonti, both 13, had the only unbroken egg.

WATERMELON -- Eating watermelon was fun, as long as in one's haste, he didn't eat the seeds. Winners in the competition were Jeff Lefler, 7 and under; Blake Pollock, 8-10; and Mike Klebba, 11 and over.

FREEWHEELING--Jeff Ware's skill on a skateboard was good enough for second place in the 11 and under category Friday. Greg Erla had the winning time for skateboarding down the course and back. Kevin Shaw took first among those 12 and older.

DEEP BOBBING -- Maybe all apples don't float or maybe this contestant in Friday morning's apple bobbing was primarily interested in cooling off. After all, the temperature was in the 90s.

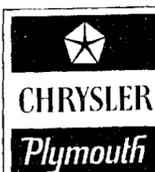

CIRCUS TIME-- Acts such as the Navarros drew the applause of spectators at the two performances Saturday of Colonel Bill's Early American Circus, sponsored by the Cass City Rotary Club.

Accidents
kill 26
in county

Twenty-six persons died in traffic accidents in Tuscola county in 1976, as compared to 10 in 1975.

In Huron county, 16 died last year, four more than the year before. The trend was reversed in Sanilac county last year, when seven persons died, as compared to 12 in 1975.

The statistics are contained in "Michigan Traffic Accident Facts," compiled by the state police.

During the past five years, a total of 121 persons have died in Tuscola county. The per year counts, starting in 1972, were 33, 30, 22, 10, and 26.

In Huron county, the per year totals from 1972 through 1976 were 19, 26, 17, 12, and 16; in Sanilac, 19, 29, 13, 12, and 7.

Of the three Thumb counties, Tuscola has the most motor vehicles, based on vehicle registrations from July, 1975 through June, 1976. There were 24,010 passenger cars, 9,479 trucks (commercial licenses), 7,594 trailers, 1,982 motorcycles, and 588 municipal plates issued during that period.

For Huron and Sanilac counties (the latter in parentheses), the figures were: cars, 18,374 (18,267); commercial, 7,235 (7,031); trailer, 5,905 (5,263); motorcycle, 1,203 (1,633); and municipal, 348 (423).

No decision on retrial

3-day county sex trial ends in hung jury

The three-day trial of Robert E. Davis, charged with intent to commit sexual conduct involving sexual penetration, ended with a hung jury Tuesday.

The trial before Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley started Thursday, July 14. The jury began its deliberations Friday and resumed Tuesday. No deliberations were held Monday.

Davis, 27, of Vassar, was charged in connection with an incident that took place in that community Aug. 26, 1976.

After the deadlock, county Prosecutor Patrick R. Joslyn said he had not yet decided whether to seek to have Davis retried.

Thursday, July 14, a jury found Ronald L. Shegos, 30, of Clio, guilty of a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Judge Baguley set sentencing for Aug. 22. Bond was continued.

Shegos was convicted in connection with carrying a revolver in a car in Vassar township Aug. 9, 1976.

Monday, before Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements, two girls appeared in connection with the taking of a pair of blue jeans from Karen's Town and Country Store in Caro June 2.

Virginia Bell, 17, of 422 E. Deckerville Road, Caro, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of attempted larceny in a building. Her plea was accepted and sentencing was set for Aug. 15. Bond was continued.

Bonnie Drews, 18, of Caro, no street address available, stood mute to a charge of larceny in a building. A plea of innocent was entered and a pre-trial hearing was scheduled Aug. 1. Bond was set at $1,000 cash or surety.

George A. Wilton, 25, of Onaway, stood mute to charges of uttering and publishing and assaulting a police officer. Pleas of innocent were entered on both charges. A pre-trial hearing was scheduled Aug. 1. Bond of $1,000 on each charge was continued.

The uttering and publishing charge was in connection with his writing a check for $125 March 2, 1975, for which he had insufficient funds. The check was made out to Dan Doyle of Fremont township.

The second charge was in connection with an incident June 7 of this year in Millington township, when two state police officers tried to arrest him on a felony warrant regarding the uttering and publishing charge.

Donald L. Rogers of 713 Gilford Road, Caro, was sentenced to serve 3-5 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for attempted breaking and entering. He was credited with 63 days served in the county jail.

He pleaded guilty to the charge July 5 in connection with a May 17 break-in at the Ku Ku Kow dairy and snack bar in Caro.

Wednesday, July 13, Floyd J. Bruce, 42, of Fairgrove, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny by conversion. His plea was accepted by Judge Baguley, who placed the defendant on six months' probation. He was fined $50 and ordered to pay $100 court costs.

The charge was in connection with the failure to return a pontoon boat belonging to Bob Neering of Wisner township, which had drifted away from its dock Aug. 20, 1976.

Tuscola lottery players win
$1.58 million

Tuscola county lottery players have won $1,578,164 in prize money from when the Michigan State Lottery began in 1972 through the end of June.

In Huron county, they have won $1,910,393; in Sanilac county, $736,507.

Total prize money since the lottery began has been $345,242,562, of which Wayne county, which has about a third of the state's population, has won the biggest share, slightly more than $130 million.

The biggest single winner in the history of the lottery was David Shepherd of Onsted, who won $1,893,742 in January in the Presidential Instant Game.

Phosphates
ban seen in effect
by Oct. 1

A virtual ban on phosphates in laundry detergents will likely go into effect Oct. 1. A key legislative committee could not muster enough votes to reject the proposed ban, which under state rules means the ban won approval by default.

Now, it needs the final approval of the Natural Resources Commission which already has tentatively endorsed it.

The ban would bar from sale in Michigan supermarkets any detergents containing more than .5 per cent phosphates - all that technology can remove.

Now, detergents can contain up to 8.7 per cent of the chemical, although many sold in the state are phosphate-free, including liquid detergents.

The detergent industry has promised to challenge the ban in court, however, which could push back its effective date. Opponents warn that launderers will need more phosphate-free detergents or more laundry additives like brighteners and bleaches to get their clothes looking clean.

But supporters say effective detergents are already on the market and that clothes washers will suffer no real hardships. Plus, they say, Michigan lakes will benefit from a reduction in phosphates found in sewage. Phosphates encourage the growth of weeds and algae, which suck up a lake's oxygen and make it difficult for fish to survive.

RESOLUTION PRESENTATION -- State Rep. Loren Armbruster (left) presented this resolution Monday honoring the 100th anniversary of the First Presbyterian church of Cass City to Orion Cardew, the church's clerk of the session (president). The resolution honoring the church was passed by the state House of Representatives and Senate on July 6.

Delay could cost service wives benefit payments

Administrator of veterans affairs Max Cleland warns that a large number of women whose husbands died or suffer total, permanent disability resulting from their military service, will lose their eligibility for certain Veterans Administration benefits if they don't act within 18 months.

The VA education benefits provide up to 45 months of schooling to eligible wives and widows and to children between the ages of 18 and 26.

But the eligibility of a spouse ends Nov. 30, 1978, or 10 years from the date the veteran was found to have a total and permanent service-connected disability -- or 10 years from the date of his death, whichever is later.

Dependents of MIAs and service personnel who were captured, interned or forcibly detained in line of duty for more than 90 days may also qualify for these benefits, the VA administrator said.

Spouses of service personnel declared missing in action, captured or detained in line of duty, are eligible for education benefits until Dec. 24, 1980, or for 10 years from the date the listing was made, whichever is later.

For a spouse intending to take apprenticeship, on-the-job or correspondence training, eligibility is based on the 10-year period or Oct. 24, 1982, whichever is later.

A child's marriage is not a barrier to the education benefits, but the remarriage of a spouse ends his or her eligibility unless that marriage is terminated by death or divorce.

Unless the child of a veteran has been accepted by an approved institution for courses leading to a standard college degree, he or she is required to have VA counseling to assist in the selection of an educational goal and program.

In addition to the types of training listed above, spouses may enroll in secondary and correspondence schools, pursued six months or more, or in schools offering farm cooperative programs.

Monthly allowance rates paid under this program are $292 for full-time students, $219 for three-quarter time students, and $145 for half-time students. Tuition costs only -- limited to $292 -- will be paid to less than half-time students. Enrollees in full-time cooperative courses which alternate classroom study with on-the-job experience will receive $235 a month.

Eligible students may borrow up to $1,500 per academic year to pursue a college degree course or one leading to a professional or vocational objective which requires at least six months to complete. Loans are available only to students unable to obtain student loans of the amount required under provisions of the Higher Education Act of 1965. Full information on the VA dependents' education program can be obtained at the nearest VA office, which can be contacted via the toll-free number listed in the phone book.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Kids need another band man

July 13, 1977

Mr. Haire:

I am a senior at Cass City High School this fall and during the past 3 years many achievements have been made. However most of them have been athletically.

The school and community gave us girls a chance to prove ourselves, and I feel we did. We have had many championship teams the last 2 years.

Now, what about the rest of the school - mainly the band? Why not give them a chance to prove themselves. With only one director and 100 high school students plus many more younger students how can he do an adequate job?

I personally do not know the business aspect behind hiring an additional band director. But I strongly feel that high school is not all sports and giving the band another director would only serve to better the school system, giving a lot of students a chance to prove that band is still alive in Cass City and that it is as important to them as a sport is to an athlete.

Please consider hiring an additional director. There are a lot of talented kids out there wanting to prove themselves. Do we have the right to deny them that freedom?

A concerned student.

Real Estate

80 acres with remodeled 3 bedroom home, large barn, new roofs, silo and other outbuildings, nice shaded yard that's high and dry. This has good land with a corner location. Just give me a call and I will show it to you at your convenience. Can be purchased on land contract.

Secluded 10 acres about 4 miles from town where it is almost impossible to be found. More details at office.

Ideal building site of about 2 acres located on Kelly road, high and dry, very nice for that new home.

East of Cass City: very nice 2 story home with plenty of room for the family man. 2 car garage, about 5 1/2 acres, grapes and nice shade trees. 2 1/2 baths, water softener, blacktop location, ready to move into. Immediate possession. Will sell on land contract.

Cass City: Neat as a pin 3 bedroom home, bath and a half, garage, fireplace, new partial basement, nice back yard. Can't afford it? Perhaps we can figure a way in which you can become the new owner. Owner is working out of town.

River road: About 17 acres of good garden land, large chicken coop, small barn, 3 bedroom house, basement, access to fishing. Owner says to bring in the buyers. The price is right. Call office for an appointment.

Single story home near Cass City, garage, three bedrooms, natural gas heat, very good location. Will show by appointment.

Area preps for summer games

The first annual Thumb Area Summer Games takes place Saturday, with events scheduled in Cass City, Caro, Vassar, and Sebawaing. Rain date is July 30.

There is no age limit for any of the events. In addition to ribbons for first, second, and third place in each event, all competitors will receive a certificate denoting they took part in the summer games. There will be a party afterwards for all participants. Swimming will take place starting at 12:30 p.m. at the Helen Stevens Memorial Pool in Cass City. It is one of the three events for which no advance registration is required.

Horseshoe pitching -- no advance registration required -- starts at 10 a.m. at Sebawaing Park. Competitors must bring their own standard 6-inch shoes and will pitch at least 15 times. The final non pre-registration event is track and field, which starts at 4 p.m. behind the high school in Caro.

The other events Saturday, for which the registration deadline is past, will be softball, baseball, and basketball, all held in Vassar, and freestyle wrestling in Caro. Cass City High School basketball coach Ron Nurnberger has organized a team for the roundball competition.

All-stars split double header

The All-Stars of the Cass City Church League split a double header Friday at Cass City Recreational Park. Team one composed of players from Cass City Methodists, Baptists, Lutherans, Colwood and Lamotte defeated team 2 which included Shabbona Methodists, DeFord, Church of Christ and Missionary. The score was 5-4.

Ed Stoutenburg pitched the win for team one. He helped his cause with a triple and a single. Other players contributing to the attack included Ed Lowe, 2 hits, and single safeties by John Hacker, Jack Hillaker, Dave Smith, Mike Richards, Rick Smith and Dale Smith. For the losers, Bill Bader cracked a double and a single while Alvin McKee did his best to win his own game on the mound with 3 hits. Others with hits were Jim Brown, Roy Sefton and Tim Knoblet.

Team 2 evened the score in the second game with a four-run rally in the top of the last inning that proved decisive.

The rally was highlighted by an inside-the-park home run by Dean Little and a triple by Doug Taylor. Taylor also singled. Other players with hits were Les Severance, two singles; Roy Sefton, a single and a double and Knoblet, a single. Les Severance was the winner and Dave Smith took the loss. He was a big sticker for his team with a triple and single. John Hacker cracked a triple while Jack Hillaker banded two singles and Ed Lowe chipped in with a hit.

CHURCH LEAGUE
It's the year of the Methodists in the Cass City Church League. The Cass City Methodists are leading the league with a gaudy undefeated 9-0 record and their cousins from Shabbona are right behind with an 8-1 mark. Shabbona moved into contention for the crown with three wins in as many starts during the week. The Shabbona nine started by outslugging Missionary, 10-8, July 11. Les Severance posted the win over Roger Root. Five players got two hits or more from Shabbona. Glen Tagenhorst and Phil Bader each cracked a triple and single. Dean Severance chipped in with 2 singles and a double while Dale Auslander was credited with 3 singles. Roy Sefton also had two hits.

Summer cagers end season

Barring a last minute invitation to another summer tournament, Cass City High School varsity candidate summer cage program ended last week.

Coach Ron Nurnberger's charges ended the summer on an up note by winning three games last Saturday and taking the championship at St. Charles. The Hawks defeated Coleman, New Lothrop and St. Charles for the title. The victory came on the heels of Cass City's victory in its own tournament held a week previously.

Cass City rolls to softball title

Cass City rolled to victory in its first four games of a class "D" tournament at Port Huron and then coasted to the championship over 13 other teams entered.

It was a double elimination tournament and Cass City lost the semi-final game but rallied to take the title tilt.

The championship was a turn-around of the semi-finals. In the semis, Teets outduled Cass City, 3-2, in extra innings.

Ken Lowe with three hits, Wally Hempton and Elwyn Helwig, two for four, and Hank Cooklin, a round tripper provided the power for Cass City.

D. Albright hammered three hits for the winners. J. Brown bested Craig Helwig for the win.

The same two teams, now each with one defeat, battled it out Sunday night for the title. Cass City took home the district toga, 6-4, behind a potent hitting attack.

Neither team was able to move ahead by a comfortable margin throughout the game. A single run separated the two teams until the final inning when Cass City added an insurance marker.

Jerry Toner slammed a home run and a single and Lowe added a triple to pace Cass City. Paul Smith rapped a pair of hits to lead Teets. Every other player in the losers' line-up collected one hit.

The rally that decided the game came in the seventh with the score tied. Toner singled and was sacrificed to second by Cooklin. With two out, Lowe's line triple knocked in the go-ahead marker. Hempton singled Lowe home for the two-run lead.

OTHER ACTION
Cass City opened the tournament with a 14-0 victory over Frency's Bar. The game was called after five innings. It marked the return to action of Al Bosch.

The veteran hurled a neat 2-hitter and promises to be a key man as the Merchants head down the tournament trail towards a possible State title. Toner, Helwig and Tom Armstrong had three hits each.

In the second game of the day, Cass City topped Wolverine Bank of Marlette, 4-2. Dale Auslander picked up the win on a three-hitter. Armstrong chipped in with two hits.

Sunday morning Gertiser Motors fell, 7-1. A super pitching performance by Craig Helwig who pitched a no-hitter showed the way. Toner settled the issue early with a grand slam clout. Don Galbraith also picked up two hits.

Lapeer Merchants were the victims in the fourth game, 11-1. Bosch returned to the mound and tossed a 4-hitter. Mike Murphy rapped two hits and Armstrong added three for Cass City.

That set the stage for the championship games with Teets.

Cass City will now enter regional competition next month at a site and time to be determined.

To The Voters Of The OWEN-GAGE School District

Don't believe those people who say that we are asking for an increase in millage. The 6.5 mills is 3 mills less than the 9.5 mills that expired last year.
