

Boys organize

Does anyone know anything about "Indian Dave"? If so, members of the Cass City Historical Society would like to know.

The group, which held its organizational meeting Monday night at the Cass City Cultural Center, also expressed interest in some day taking over the building.

The nine persons present approved a constitution and bylaws and elected five trustees. Elected for three-year terms were Jack Esau and Carolyn Benscoter; for two-year terms, Joyce Vargo and George Bushong (who was absent); and for a one-year term, Dave Ackerman.

The constitution provides for the trustees to elect officers. The trustees met later and elected Esau as president; Miss Benscoter, secretary, and Mrs. Vargo, treasurer.

In the future, trustees will be elected at the annual meeting, held each June. Trustees will elect officers every other year at their first meeting after the annual meeting.

Trustees, after the initial varying terms, will be elected for three year terms.

Meetings will be held on the third Monday of each even month, except for December.

Dues will be $3 annually for individuals and $5 per couple. Persons 65 and older can pay half that. Dues for institutions are $10 per year. Dues of contributing and sustaining members are $25 annually.

Esau said there presently are 30 individual members and five institutional ones. More members are being sought.

Purpose of the historical society, according to the new constitution, "is to bring together those people interested in local history and to promote knowledge and appreciation of history of the Cass City community and to procure such articles as may be deemed worth of preservation."

Papers will be filed to have the Cass City Historical Society incorporated.

As for the Cultural Center, those present approved a resolution to express in writing to the present owners, Elkland township and the village of Cass City, their interest in some day acquiring the building or use of it.

Then there's Indian Dave. If enough persons who know something about him come forth, with information, he is to be the program topic for the October meeting.

Indian Dave, considered the Thumb area's last true Indian, wandered the region selling carvings, ax handles, and other items. He died in 1909.

Test lag is problem

Michigan PBB law may hit farmers in pocketbook

Michigan's new PBB law is going to cost dairy farmers money, say some local dairy men.

The law, signed by Gov. William G. Milliken Aug. 2, lowers the allowable amount of PBB in animals to 20 parts per billion. It goes into effect Oct. 2.

The law affects all dairy men, not just those who had PBB problems -- and in the Cass City area, there never were any problems with the chemical.

There are two provisions affecting dairy farmers.

One, which apparently won't cause any problems, requires testing of a sample from all dairy farm bulk tanks within the first four months the law is in effect. Tanks must then be tested once a year until the act expires in 1982.

Dairymen contacted by the Chronicle pointed out that currently, a sample is taken from the tank each time their milk is picked up. The PBB testing will merely require taking of an additional sample.

What will cause problems is the requirement that all cattle born before Jan. 1, 1976 which have lactated must be tested by biopsy before leaving the farm to be sold for slaughter.

If the animal shows more than 20 parts per billion of PBB, the state is required to destroy and bury the animal and reimburse its owner at the fair market cull value.

The sampling must be done by a veterinarian. If a vet isn't available within three days, the Michigan Department of Agriculture must provide a trained technician to do the job. The farmer must hold the animal until results of the fat sample testing are back from the MDA lab. If results are satisfactory, he must sell the animal within 60 days.

The state will pay the veterinarian for doing the biopsy and having the test run.

The waiting for the test results is what will cost the farmers money. Cass City veterinarian Dr. Edward C. Scollon said he has been told the MDA will try to get test results back within seven days.

Leslie Severance of Decker, president of the Deford Michigan Milk Producers Association local, explained that a dairy animal normally brings $250-300 when sold for slaughter.

But wait a week or longer as the condition of the animal deteriorates and it loses weight, and the cow may be worth only $50. Wait much longer, and the animal may be dead.

Should a cow cut a test on a Sunday, Severance now can sell her at the Tuesday livestock sale. But while holding the animal until it can be tested and the test results are returned, disease can set in.

Fred Hicks of Deford gave another example, that of a cow getting a piece of metal in its heart, something that has no effect on the quality of the animal for meat. But wait two weeks and at best, the animal will lose 100-150 pounds; at worst, it will be dead.

The state will pay $10 per animal to the farmer to defray the cost of keeping it until it can be sold. But in terms of the potential loss, Hicks said, "The $10 won't mean a thing. We're going to lose a lot of money."

Severance also pointed out the inconvenience factor of having to keep an animal around for a while that the farmer wants to get rid of immediately.

The law will also be a hardship for veterinarians. "It's really going to be a lot of work for veterinarians," said Dr. Scollon.

He did feel there are enough vets in the Thumb area who handle large animals to do the

More court battles loom

Owen-Gage dissidents win appeal decision

By Mike Eliasohn

Dissidents in the Owendale-Gagetown School District seeking to transfer their property to other school districts apparently have won a major victory in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

However, the attorney for the Owen-Gage School Board feels the decision is only a temporary setback. The board will decide what action it will take regarding an appeal at a previously-scheduled meeting Tuesday.

In addition to disagreeing about the meaning of the appeals court ruling, attorneys for the two sides also disagree about whether the affected property owners, if the transfer is made, will have to continue paying the debt levy for the Owen-Gage high school addition.

The higher court, in a decision dated Monday, reversed the July 26, 1976 ruling of Ingham County Circuit Judge James T. Kallman that voided the state board of education approval of the property transfer. The judge ruled that according to state law, no more than 10 per cent of a school district can be transferred to another district without a vote of the people.

The appeals court ruling concerns the so-called "Goslin parcel," property belonging to Keith Goslin and 41 others in Elmwood township. The property owners involved, who want to be transferred into the Cass City school district, had their request turned down by the Owen-Gage board and then by the boards of the Tuscola and Huron Intermediate School districts.

They appealed to the state board of education, which on May 19, 1976, approved the property transfers. On an appeal by the school board, Judge Kallman ruled otherwise, so the property owners then appealed to the appeals court.

The higher court did not overturn Kallman on the 10 per cent rule but did so on a technicality, that the school board "had no standing or right to appeal (to Judge Kallman) on the issue presented."

The appeals court judges further stated in their ruling that "whether the residents of the Owendale-Gagetown School District are entitled to vote on the proposed transfer is an issue to be raised by the residents themselves. The school district lacks standing to assert such a claim."

The attorney for those seeking the transfer, James Barley of Howell, said individual residents of the district would have had to appeal the state board ruling okaying the transfer within 60 days of when it was made.

Since that date is long past, he said the appeals court ruling shuts off the possibility of a new appeal being made of the state board ruling. Therefore, the transfer to the Cass City district takes effect 20 days after the appeal court order was issued -- barring an appeal by the school board to the state Supreme Court and a stay of the transfer being issued by that court.

The appeals court ruling, Barley said, clears the way for approval of three other pending property transfer requests, two to the Lakers School District and one to Cass City.

Those three cases are currently lodged in the Ingham County Circuit Court. The attorney explained it will now take a motion to dismiss the appeal of the school board in those cases in order for those transfers to take place.

The attorney for the Owen-Gage board, James F. Schouman of Dearborn, in a separate telephone conversation with the Chronicle, disagreed with Barley on several points.

Schouman said the board basically has three approaches it can take:

1) It can appeal to the state Supreme Court, which could rule only on the issue raised by the appeals court--whether the school board can appeal the state board of education ruling--or it can also rule on the major issue at the same time. That would be whether more than 10 per cent of a school district can be transferred out without a vote of the residents of the school district.

Should the high court uphold the district on the right to appeal issue, it could remand the case back to the appeals court to decide the 10 per cent issue.

2) The board can go back to the Ingham County judge and file a "motion for leave to amend". If granted, that would mean that individual citizens could add their names to the appeal originally filed by the school board.

If Kallman says "yes," presumably the dissidents would then go back to the appeals court to ask it to overturn the circuit judge's action. If his approval allowing individual citizens to intervene is upheld, then the issue to be decided would be the 10 per cent rule.

On the other hand, if Kallman does not approve the Owen-Gage board's "motion to amend", then it could appeal that decision to the appeals court.

3) Probably in conjunction with no. 1 or no. 2 above, the district could ask the Huron and Tuscola county clerks to schedule an election to allow Owen-Gage residents to vote on the proposed transfer.

Schouman quoted from a portion of the appeals court ruling, that "given our decision, we need not decide the propriety of the circuit court ruling (on the 10 per cent rule)."

Another portion referred to such property transfers not being valid without "an affirmative vote of the taxpayers in the district voting thereon."

Schouman is to be at the board meeting Tuesday night in Owendale, at which time the members will decide which alternative to take for an appeal.

The attorney talked via telephone Tuesday afternoon to Supt. Ronald G. Erickson and some board members, who met in the superintendent's office.

Previously scheduled agenda items for the special meeting include, making a decision on where the varsity basketball team will play its games this winter, making a decision on rental or purchase of a portable classroom unit to house home economics, and opening bids for repair of portions of the Gagetown Elementary School roof. There may also be a bid opening for demolition of the 1913 portion of the Owen-Gage High School.

Payment of millage levied to pay off bonds for financing of the soon-to-begin construction of the high school addition would then go back to the

Shooting fracas forces King to quit

Former Gagetown village police officer Claude Harry King says he was pressured to resign in June, that he did not do so voluntarily.

The council accepted his resignation at a special meeting June 13.

His resignation stemmed from an incident June 3, in which King and two witnesses say the officer fired a shot into the air to force a fleeing subject to halt.

The subject told Caro state police that King fired at him.

The incident started, according to King, around noon on June 3, when he received a complaint that a 19-year-old man was beating up a 14-year-old girl.

"When I got there, the fight had broken up and the man was gone," King said. "I asked the father of the girl if he wanted to file a complaint and he said he did."

At about 5 p.m., the officer learned the location of the suspect, elsewhere in the village. He then returned to the girl's father, asked him if he still wanted to sign a complaint. The father said he did and then he and his son-in-law accompanied King to the location.

The subject was hiding in a chicken coop. King asked him to come out, he did, and according to the officer, was then grabbed by the father, who demanded, "Why did you beat up my daughter?"

The 19-year-old pulled away and began to run. King pulled out his revolver and fired one shot into the air, but the youth did not halt.

According to Tuscola County Prosecuting Attorney Patrick R. Joslyn, the 19-year-old then reported the incident to state police at Caro. He told them he had been beaten by the father and son-in-law and shot at by King.

An investigation was conducted by the state police, who presented their findings to Joslyn.

The week following the incident, state police confiscated the two revolvers that King had on loan from them. The state police routinely loans weapons to small police departments that cannot afford to purchase their own.

Lt. Ward F. Johnson, the Caro post commander, said weapons are confiscated any time there is a supposed violation of the law involving their use. The fact the weapons belonged to the state police was incidental.

Joslyn said that based on the findings of the state police, he decided not to issue a warrant against King, partially because he didn't want to take action against the 72-year-old officer, but also, "I didn't feel they had that strong a case." The incident was "a question of who you want to believe."

At a meeting June 13 with Lt. Johnson and Gagetown Village President William Downing, Joslyn said he "hinted" it might be best if King resign.

Such action, he indicated, might forestall the 19-year-old filing a civil suit against King and the village.

Another factor was that the village had no formal inquiry procedure for investigating the incident, such as a larger police department would have to investigate alleged improper procedures by an officer.

Joslyn was critical of the procedures used by King in the incident, that if he (King) wanted to investigate the original complaint of the girl being beaten, he should have done so without taking the father and son-in-law with him when he went to question the youth.

The prosecutor said the officer told state police he did not attempt to arrest the subject when he went to talk to him, because he didn't know for sure if a law had been violated.

Mrs. George Pettinger

LaVonne Lynne Walker and George Emerson Pettinger were married Aug. 6, at the First Baptist Church of Cass City. Pastor David H. William and Rev. Milton Gelatt performed the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Walker of Minden City and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pettinger of Ubyly are the couple's parents.

Music was provided by Mrs. Jack Ross, organist, and singing was by Mrs. Richard Enos and daughters, Lori and Melanie.

The bride chose a gown with fitted lace bodice and a round neckline, styled with long fitted lace sleeves and a chapel length skirt with net overlays of satin. She wore a lace headpiece with fingertip length veil. She carried a white basket of pink roses and blue and white carnations.

Kristin Pettinger, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a dress made of blue lining with printed overlay with a cape. The dress was styled with a high tie neck, fitted waist line and an A-line skirt with ruffle. She also wore a white picture hat with blue ribbons. She carried the same flowers as the bride.

Bridesmaids were Deborah Soule and Lisa Brown, friends of the bride, and junior bridesmaid was Sue Pettinger, sister of the bridegroom. Their attire was the same as that of the maid of honor.

Patrick Peters, friend of the bridegroom, was best man and groomsmen were Ronald Pettinger, cousin of the bridegroom, and Wayne Pettinger, brother of the bridegroom. Junior groomsmen was Robert Walker, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a pink brocade fitted gown with a boat neckline and cape sleeves. She carried white carnations. The groom's mother wore a long blue knit gown with a round neckline and matching jacket. Her flowers were blue and white carnations.

The church was decorated with pink roses, white carnations and purple orchids with stephanotis on a Bible. A reception was held in the church parlor.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Ubyly High School and is presently working as a nurses aide. The groom is a 1975 graduate of Ubyly High School and is a farmer.

Bruce Kritzman, 74, succumbed Saturday, Aug. 13, at his home on Van Dyke Rd. in Evergreen township.

Born Dec. 28, 1902, in Argyle township, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kritzman.

He married Miss Mary Dunlap in Pontiac, April 10, 1926, where the couple made their home until moving to Evergreen township in 1934.

He attended the Shabbona R.L.D.S. Church.

Besides his widow, survivors are: one daughter, Mrs. Keith (Betty Anne) Murphy of Cass City, and two sons, Irvin Kritzman of Millersburg, Ind., and Peter Kritzman of Cass City. Also surviving are two brothers, Hazen Kritzman of Decker and Merle Kritzman of Phoenix, Ariz.; one sister, Mrs. Marion Fuller of Phoenix, Ariz.; 15 grandchildren, and one great-grandson.

Mr. Kritzman was taken from Little's Funeral Home to the Shabbona R.L.D.S. Church Tuesday to lie in state for the funeral services at 1:00 p.m. Elder Ron Warren and Elder Dean Smith officiated.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

"If It Fitz..."

Memories, gin, vitamins

By Jim Fitzgerald

Upon the occasion of my most recent birthday, my son Nerd presented me with a bottle of vitamin pills and a bottle of gin. "For your health and happiness," he explained. The kid is only half bad.

The most touching birthday gift came from my baby sister, Linda. It was my old address screwed into a jagged hunk of wood. The wood was rescued from the pile of rubble that used to be my boyhood home at 1020 Pine Grove Ave. in Port Huron. Lately I have done much sobbing, because 1020 is being replaced by a parking lot. Along with the sobbing came some vivid reminiscences about what pains in the butt my four sisters were to their only brother. Linda thought if I had the 1020 address to hang on my apartment wall, maybe I would shut my big mouth. Probably not.

From my biggest and oldest sister, Terrible Jean, there was a mere birthday card. She included a note saying I had finally written something with which she agreed - my explanation of Billy Carter's popularity. I said Billy draws crowds to carnivals because he is such a tremendous comfort to all otherwise respectable families that must put up with an idiot brother. If it can happen to the president of the United States, it can happen to anybody. "It happened to our family," Terrible Jean said.

Several readers have questioned the truth of my contention that Terrible Jean has always abused me terribly. If the above paragraph is not evidence enough, hear this: The birthday card she sent me was one she received herself four years ago. She pasted a strip of paper over the message written to her, so she would have room to call me an idiot. "Excuse the patch job," she wrote in a postscript, "but you are not worth 40 cents." I swear to God I do not make these things up.

The most frequent complaint I hear about the Renaissance Center is that there's no place to park. I spent several days investigating this problem, on the scene, and I have a solution. Across the street from the center there is a large parking lot that is usually empty. Several signs say only lawyers can park there. Just a few steps down the street is the University of Detroit Law School. The quickest way to find a parking place at the Renaissance Center is to enroll at U-D and earn a law degree to be validated at the lawyers' parking lot.

At Whiting Auditorium in Flint, you can get a lopsided pain in the neck. In the several balconies that line both sides of the theater, the seats face straight ahead. If you sit in a normal posture, the only thing you can see is the people in the balcony on the other side, staring back at you. To see the stage, you must turn your head permanently in that direction. "Now I know how it feels to watch half a tennis match," the man beside me said.

I shouldn't complain about Disney World, says Art McCafferty of Ypsilanti. He claims he was at an amusement park "so bad the spook house consisted of a blindfolded walk through their Portajohn."

"Chorus Line" is not the most exciting musical I've seen in Detroit in the last few years. "Selma" is. That's Tommy Butler's spirited salute to Martin Luther King Jr. The music and the foot stomping and the message are all marvelous. "Selma" would make a great TV special, if TV producers only had that much sense.

My wife and I caught "Selma" at the Music Hall toward the end of its run. Pat noted that ours were the only white faces in the audience. After the show we went to the Soup Kitchen for jazz, and Pat noted we were the only people there with gray hair. "Everywhere you take me," she said, "we are usually the oldest people or the whitest people in the place. Why is that?" I told her it's because I have spring in my heart and watermelon in my soul.

My recent column on the Bible brought me more and more quotations from that good book. Probably the most succinct was Proverbs 18-7: "A fool's mouth is his destruction, and his lips are the snarl of his soul." At least it doesn't say anything about my typewriter.

Mercer Ellington and the Duke's orchestra gave a fine concert at the Pontchartrain. After the show, Ellington joined the crowd downstairs around Ernie Swan's piano. When Ernie congratulated Ellington on his concert, Ellington replied: "Coming from you, Ernie, that is a real compliment." I don't report this exchange of praise to make Ernie feel good. I do it to prove to my wife that part of my job is sitting around piano bars.

Hills and Dales awards grants

Recipients of the 1977 $1,000 nursing scholarships awarded by Hills and Dales General Hospital have been selected.

They are: Christine Strace, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Strace of Decker. A 1976 graduate of Cass City High School, she attended St. Clair Community College in Port Huron this past year. She will be entering the nursing program there this fall.

Kristy Elizabeth Vermeersch, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vermeersch of Unionville. A June graduate of Unionville-Sebewaing High School, she will be attending Bronson Methodist Hospital Nursing School in Kalamazoo.

Laura Smith, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Smith of Cass City. A June graduate of Cass City High School, she will be attending Huntington College in Huntington, Ind.

Gretchen Nan Ewald, 18, daughter of Mrs. Alice Hadden of Unionville. She is receiving a scholarship for the second year and will be continuing her studies at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. She is a 1976 graduate of Unionville-Sebewaing High School.

The nursing scholarship fund was established to provide financial assistance to qualified area high school graduates who want to enroll in a nursing program leading to a registered nursing license and/or degree.

Application is made through the hospital director of nurses. Applicants were selected by a nursing scholarship committee of the hospital board of trustees. Head of the committee was Doris Fritz. There were eight applicants for the four scholarships awarded this year.

The $1,000 per year scholarships are renewable. Upon graduation - after 2-4 years, depending on the nursing program entered - the recipients must work at least one year at Hills and Dales.

Of the four scholarships awarded this year, one was awarded through a fund established by Dr. and Mrs. Harold T. Donahue.

Highway commission to take paving bids

The State Highway Commission will take bids in Lansing Aug. 24 for repaving of three miles of Cemetery Road between Milligan and Bay City-Forestville Roads.

Included in the bidding will be repaving of Hurds Corner Road from M-81 north for 5.4 miles to Bay City-Forestville Road. Included will be work on the gravel shoulders. Total cost of the two projects is estimated at $300,000.

The work, being partially financed by the Tuscola County Road Commission, is to be completed this November.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Let's hear it for the ladies. The other night Deford was scheduled to play the Lutherans in a church league game. When game time rolled around the Lutherans were three players short.

They solved the problem by drafting Cheri Martin, Liz Vargo and Paula Butler to fill out the line-up. Alas, the Lutherans were defeated 3-2, even though Miss Vargo did lash out a base hit for her team.

In years past the Chronicle was sort of an unofficial lost and found station. Today, outside of a set of keys once in a great while, we no longer perform this service. It died a natural death, I guess.

I was reminded of all this when a lady called to see if anyone had turned in a billfold that she lost.

These are a group of talented performers, said Mrs. Holly Althaver, when she visited the office to promote the visit of the Port Austin Community Players in Cass City.

The Players will present Godspell at the Cass City High School Cafeteria Saturday, Aug. 20, at 8 p.m.

The visit here is one of several in the Thumb by the group. Sponsoring the appearance is the Cass City Arts Council.

It didn't take Cass City's new girls' basketball coach long to swing into action. He's already called all the girls on his list and started practice.

The girls are practicing daily from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the high school.

Lloyd Schinnerer emphasized that the practice is for all high school students and any girls not already notified are welcome to attend the pre-school sessions.

Let's talk about stamps one more time. Regular readers will recall I saw the one-cent stamp last week and I remember the three-cent stamp for first class letters.

Now my brother-in-law, who is a whiz at trivia, tells me that there was a two-cent stamp used at the same time the three-cent stamp was in vogue.

It was used for special limited mailings. Can you remember it?

Alex Greenleaf says that he's visited many places over the years but one of them hasn't been the Chronicle. Always did want to take a tour of the Chronicle but never got around to it, Alex says.

We told Alex he was welcome and so are you if you'd like to see how the paper is published.

Cass City

Where everything you buy is guaranteed

It's been years now since any of us in the Cass City School District have been caught in the middle of a financial crunch.

The last time it happened was in 1969-70. And then it really affected us for just 11 weeks when selected grades went on half-day classes on a rotating basis for about six weeks.

That was the year when a community drive was needed to make it possible to play sports.

After our financial pinch the members of the board then were wary. Every proposal was considered with an eye to the cost and the condition of the budget first.

How can we pay for it?, was the question that came first, not last.

Since 1970 it's been more or less clear sailing financially for the district. But a string of prosperous years inevitably tends to make you forget, doesn't it?

Now the question of cost no longer appears paramount in the discussions of school curriculum and programs.

What scares me is the time we run out of money. It's bad, bad, bad to have to go to the voters when a refusal at the polls means a drastic cutback in services.

Inevitably there are scars when that happens. No matter where the cuts are made, someone is very unhappy.

Unhappy electors aren't about to vote extra school funds, no matter how great the need.

What's really sad is that for the kids affected there is no tomorrow.

If sports, band, music and extracurricular activities go down the drain for a semester or a year, the students can't make it up. That's gone for good.

If the school goes on half days the students are missing something. Something important, I think.

High school days should be fun days as well as learning days.

Celebrity status

By Mike Eliasohn

I've always thought it would be nice to be a celebrity.

It's not that I dislike my job. It's just the idea of being able to make a living by working 2½ hours a week as a celebrity contestant on a television game show appeals to me.

That plus an occasional appearance on Johnny Carson and the other TV talk shows and I would be "in clover."

I realize there would be problems. I don't play golf or tennis, so I would never get invited to a celebrity golf or tennis tournament.

Most of my exercise these days, it seems, comes from climbing the stairs to my apartment, but I haven't heard of any celebrity stair climbing tournaments.

Actually, maybe I could go to the celebrity golf or tennis tournaments. I could stand around with a glass in my hand all day. If someone asked me in the morning, "How was your game?" I could reply, "Oh, I haven't played yet."

If the same question was asked in the afternoon, I could reply, "Terrible. I'd rather not talk about it."

All this comes to mind because of a report in Money magazine that Billy Carter of Plains, Ga., will make $500,000 this year from personal appearances and endorsements.

If you're curious, that's 2½ times what his brother makes who works in Washington, D.C. Of course, the latter also gets a $150,000 annual expense allowance, but he has a big house to maintain and lots of guests to entertain.

Actually, Billy was doing okay in the peanut business before he became a celebrity. I have no doubt, though, he's making a lot more money by swizzling beer in public and acting like a "good ole boy."

Billy probably always was a good ole boy, but now he gets paid for being one, which is even "gooder" than before.

Somewhat, I get the feeling that he and everybody else down in Plains are laughing at all the Yankees for laughing at Billy who is, to use a cliche, laughing all the way to the bank.

To quote Billy from the Money magazine interview, "If people are crazy enough to pay money to hear me speak, I'm crazy enough to do it."

Billy brings to mind another problem in my gaining celebrity status. I don't drink beer or other alcoholic beverages -- not that I'm a puritan, you understand. It's just personal preference.

I also don't have a nylon jacket with an STP patch on it -- another Carter prerequisite.

I have a solution to my gaining celebrity status, however.

If Billy can come north and make money by having the Yankees laugh at him, I'll go south.

"He don't drink no beer and don't have an STP jacket. Boy, those Yankees sure are weird," they'll say.

I'll be a smash. I just hope they don't pay me for my celebrity appearances with Confederate money.

PBB law costly to farmers two saving graces for farmers. The law does provide for dealing quickly with injured animals and other emergencies. Details haven't been publicized yet.

Secondly, categories of farms or animals can be exempted from testing by resolution approved by the legislature if one-half per cent or less of cattle in the category being exempted are found to have been contaminated.

Thus, geographic areas, such as a county, or even individual farms could be exempted.

However, to qualify for the exemption, there apparently will have to be a satisfactory biopsy test result history.

BANNER PRESENTATION—Kim Witherspoon, 17, of Cass City (fourth from right) presented this Youth Exchange Program banner while in England, June 25-Aug. 5, as a participant in the Lions Club Youth Exchange Program. Accepting the banner was Alison Dean, president of the Ellesmere Port Leo (young Lions) Club. Looking on are other members of the Leo Club plus (front row, at left) Guido Alis, president of the Lion Club there, and Bruce Butterfield (third from right), the Lions Club district chairman. Kim stayed with Alison's family in Eastham, a suburb of Ellesmere Port, 10 miles from Liverpool. Kim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Witherspoon of 4615 Oak Street.

Better health care aim of regional plan

Improved health care for all citizens is the goal of the health systems plan for the 14 counties in east central Michigan.

However, if the plan is carried out, medical costs won't stay the same or be reduced. At best, the rate of increase will be slowed.

The health systems plan, prepared by the East Central Michigan Health Systems Agency, Inc. (HSA), was the subject of the public hearing last Thursday at Hills and Dales General Hospital. It was the last of four hearings held in different parts of the 14-county region covered by the HSA.

The hearing attracted about 20 persons, but about half of those were HSA staff members.

Although no public comments were made following an explanation of the plan, HSA Executive Director Edwin E. Hurysz said that comments collected from health care personnel and "consumers" -- those serving on HSA committees -- were considered in preparing the plan.

Preparation of the plan and creation of the HSA was mandated by a federal law passed by Congress in 1974.

The aim of the law, according to a pamphlet passed out at the hearing, is to enable consumers to contribute "to decisions that help produce a more rational, responsive, effective and equitable health care system."

"Good planning, for example, can help change the emphasis in health care from crisis intervention for the cure of sick patients to a well thought out program of prevention and health maintenance."

The HSA director of planning and data, Daniel J. Colter, explained the goals contained in the plan are divided into two categories, dealing with health status and health systems.

Health status includes such goals as:

- Reducing deaths due to heart disease.
- Detect and eliminate untreated hypertension (high blood pressure).
- Reduce the infant death rate and lower the amount of child abuse.
- Reduce the potential increase in the cancer death rate.

Health systems includes such goals as:

- Insuring that emergency medical (ambulance) services are available to all citizens.

Other goals include:

- Nutrition counseling.
- Educating the public on what health facilities are available.
- Referring drunk drivers to the substance abuse treatment system.
- Improve the distribution of doctors and dentists so that adequate medical and dental care is available to all citizens.
- Improve cooperation between hospitals and other health care institutions in order to avoid unnecessary duplication of facilities and equipment.

Colter stressed that financial resources to carry out the plan are limited, and that was taken into consideration in its preparation.

He added that ideally the goal of the plan should be to reduce the cost of health care, but realistically, only the rate of increase may be reduced.

The 14-county plan is scheduled to be submitted to the state Office of Health and Medical Affairs and to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in December. Provided it is approved at the state and federal levels, it will go into effect in April, 1978.

The plan is for a five-year period, to be updated annually.

Hurysz said there are several ways in which the HSA will have clout to carry out the plan.

The agency will review grant applications. For instance, should a hospital apply for federal funds to finance additional beds and, according to the plan, there are already enough hospital beds to serve the area, the HSA can recommend the grant application be denied.

Should a hospital in this instance try to raise funds privately to add the beds because it can't get the government grant, Hurysz explained, the state can apply reimbursement through its issuing reimbursements to the hospital for Medicaid, Medicare, and Blue Cross.

The executive director said he also hoped that the HSA can work with the state legislature and local governmental units, as well as with hospitals, to carry out the plan. He stressed that in order to carry out all of the goals, "A lot of decisions will have to be made at the local level whether they want these things."

He emphasized that many of the goals are educational in nature, such as teaching persons to make use of health care facilities that are available, alternative methods of receiving care, and how to care for themselves.

Much of the emphasis in the plan is on preventative medicine, with the aim of reducing the number of persons needing treatment for sickness or injury.

The health plan was prepared by the HSA staff of 10 administrators and planners and four secretaries. The federal government provides 95 per cent of its $285,000 annual budget, with the rest coming from the state and local governmental units and private organizations.

The federal law that created the HSA provides for continued funding -- subject to Congress annually appropriating the money -- so that it can carry out its regional plan.

Ex-officer pressured to resign

"The only basis there was to talk to the suspect," the prosecutor said, "was for further investigation and you don't pursue an investigation by pulling a gun and firing a warning shot."

Based on Joslyn's suggestion that it might be best for King to resign, Downing said he suggested that to King. He stressed that it was only a suggestion, that the final decision was left to the veteran officer.

Downing talked to King the same day as the meeting with Joslyn and Johnson, on June 13. A special village council meeting was held that night, at which King submitted his resignation in writing.

King, who said he has no desire to get his part-time job back, explained he took the father and son-in-law with him to find the 19-year-old, because "I wanted to make sure the father wanted to sign a complaint."

He hoped that if the three could discuss the situation, further action by the law might not be necessary.

His warning shot was fired not only to stop the young man, but also the father and son-in-law, who were chasing after him.

"I wanted to stop all three of them and talk this thing over," he said. "I feel I did the right thing and that I did my duty."

Although no longer a policeman, King remains active, running his coffee shop in Gagetown.

He served as a deputy with the Genesee County Sheriff's Department from 1953 to 1958, then moved to Cass City where he worked at a meat packing plant.

After his retirement from there, in 1964, he moved to Gagetown where he served as village officer from then until 1970. He was persuaded to again assume the position in February, 1976.

Since his resignation, the village has hired Larry Wilding of Port Huron as police officer. He works 30 hours per week.

Gagetown will be getting a second officer, working full-time, to be paid with federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds.

Sheriff makes 56 arrests in July

The Tuscola County Sheriff's department in July issued 172 traffic citations and made 56 arrests, according to the monthly report of Sheriff Hugh Marr.

Of the arrests, the most common were for traffic violations, 18; obstructing justice, 10; and drunkenness, 7. Traffic tickets issued included 93 for speeding, 15 for improper parking, and 13 relating to operator's licenses.

Of 743 calls received during the month, 214 concerned traffic; disorderly conduct, 102; larceny, 91; domestic problems, 43; and assaults, 35.

The county jail received 144 inmates, of which 10 were women, and released 145.

Cass City police made seven arrests in July, two for traffic and one each for obstructing justice, family offense, damage to property, liquor violation, and violation of the controlled substance act.

Michigan State Police at Caro made 37 arrests, including 15 for traffic violations, nine for drunkenness, five for liquor violations, and three for burglaries.

There were 32 property damage and 29 personal injury accidents in Tuscola county in July. There were no fatalities.

By township, complaints and accidents respectively were: Elkland, 61 and 0; Ellington, 12 and 0; Elmwood, 14 and 1; Kingston, 20 and 4; and Novesta, 19 and 3.

C. D'Hooghe dies Aug. 10

Charles D'Hooghe of Deford died suddenly, Wednesday, Aug. 10, at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

He was born April 7, 1890, in Connors Creek, Wayne County, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Felix and Eudolia Dene-weth D'Hooghe.

D'Hooghe was united in marriage to Mathilda Deubel January 28, 1914, in Detroit, coming to this area in 1936 from Detroit. Mrs. D'Hooghe died March 10, 1971.

He is survived by one son, Charles D'Hooghe Jr. of Detroit and one daughter, Mary D'Hooghe of Deford; and one sister, Mrs. Leona Victorio of Roseville. One son, Alphonse, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Verkest, preceded him in death.

A rosary was recited Friday evening at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City.

Funeral mass was conducted Saturday morning at St. Michael's Catholic Church in Wilmot with Father Joseph Morales officiating.

Interment was in St. Michael's Cemetery, Wilmot.

Some self-righteous folks even give aspirin a headache.

Your Neighbor says

Yes to death penalty

State Rep. Kirby Holmes of Utica was in Cass City last week, seeking petition signatures to put the issue of capital punishment on the ballot.

If the issue does go on the ballot and is then approved by voters, the penalty in Michigan for first degree (premeditated) murder will be death.

George Cook supports the restoration of the death penalty, but only -- like the Holmes proposal -- for first degree murder "if they have the right party (guilty person)."

As for whether he believes capital punishment will serve as a deterrent to others, he replied, "I couldn't say for sure. It's hard to say."

Even if not a deterrent, he does feel that the death penalty would provide a suitable punishment "for the guilty one."

Cook is retired and lives with his wife, Lexia, in Cass City.

HEALTH TIPS

Helping fat children to lose weight

By Frank Chappell, American Medical Association

That plump, healthy, happy youngster may grow up into a fat, unhealthy, unhappy older child, and later into a fat adult who is prey to all of the physical ailments that are a part of obesity.

Faulty eating habits started in early childhood often are the cause of overweight adults in later life, says the American Medical Association.

All too many mothers, with the best of intentions, nag their children into eating more than they want to eat.

The healthy, fat baby who remains chubby as he grows into preschool and first grade years becomes less attractive as an individual. And the habit of eating more calories than necessary is likely to remain the rest of his life.

The parent who thinks the child should lose weight should seek expert help on how he should lose it. If it fits your doctor's counsel, here are some tips to help your youngster lose weight.

--Weigh once a week and keep track of the weight. Use the same scale and wear approximately the same clothing.

--It isn't necessary to cut out all desserts and snacks, as long as their calorie count is included in the daily total. Fresh fruits are good for snacks.

--Keep a supply of raw carrots, radishes, celery sticks and pickles for more snacking. Tomato juice or clear bouillon can serve for drinks.

--Cut out rich salad dressings; instead use vinegar and lemon juice.

--Trim fat from meat, take it easy on the butter, substitute skim milk for whole milk. But be sure to serve plenty of fruits and vegetables.

The most important factor in helping the obese child to reduce poundage is to handle it naturally.

Don't make a point of telling the child he is on a reducing diet. Just serve the meals naturally and as a matter of course. Avoid nagging the child about his weight and his diet. It will only make him more rebellious and more inclined to snack on the sly.

Church sets homecoming

Rev. Horace Murry, formerly of Deford, will be guest speaker at the annual homecoming service at Deford United Methodist Church Sunday, Aug. 21, at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Murry is a ministerial product of the Deford United Methodist Church, with his call to the ministry in 1953. He along with his wife Lena, attended Vernard College in Iowa and then Garet Seminary in Evanston, Ill. One of their first churches served was the Pinnebog charge. They have also served the churches at Pontiac Aldersgate, Sterling Heights, Ortonville, Owosso Central, and are now appointed to the West Outer Drive United Methodist Church, Detroit.

The Murrys have two children, Mrs. Geraldine Tibbitts of Cass City and Roy Murry of Holt.

Others participating in this homecoming service will be Rev. and Mrs. Eldred Kelley of the Cass City Salem United Methodist Church. Rev. Kelley also entered the ministry while a member of the Deford Methodist church.

The public is cordially invited to the pot-luck dinner at 6:00 p.m. and the evening service which will begin at 7:30 p.m. Further information is available through the pastor of the church, Rev. Joel W. Hurley of Kingston.

The unexpected seldom happens to those who expect it.

It is along the line of least resistance we find most wrecks.

National beef program loses

The July referendum to establish a national beef research and information program failed due to lack of the required two-thirds majority needed for passage.

The vote was 130,464 cattlemen and dairy farmers in favor and 100,582 opposed. In Michigan, the vote was 945 in favor, 776 opposed.

The beef research and information program would have been financed by assessments of up to .3 per cent on the value of all cattle sold. The levy would have amounted to 30 cents for each $100 in an animal's value.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Karen O'Dell and Debbie Francis returned from a six week stay in a Dominican Republic village. They went there as part of a Teen Mission group to help build a dormitory for a Bible Institute.

In a closed door session barred to the public and press, the Cass City School Board named Roland Pakonen as the head football coach for the coming year and Dave Lovejoy as new principal at Deford. In the regular session six other teachers contracts were approved. The teachers hired are: Nancy Auvil, Loretta Broniak, Bethel Sunderland, Karen Siders, Marilyn Maurer and Marion Binder.

Voters will go to the polls to decide the fate of a $113,000 bond proposition for a new swimming pool in Cass City on Tuesday. If approved, this amount will be matched with state and federal funds to finance the estimated cost of $224,000 to build a new bath house, pool and deck area.

The Cass City School Board okayed the school hot lunch program Monday and has given up on making the program self-sufficient. The charges for school lunches were left the same, 40 cents for elementary students and 45 cents for intermediate and high school students, and Supt. Donald Crouse thinks this will put the program even deeper in the red. Last year the program had a deficit of $2,700.

After 74 years of religious communication the Sunshine Methodist church will be closed forever. The building will go up for bids this week. Cecil Barriger, a member for 45 years will be sad to see the church close. A decreasing membership makes keeping the church open hard. Also sad to see the church close is Mrs. Arthur (Joann) Brown, who has been a member for 16 years and lives just up the hill from the church.

TEN YEARS AGO

A $25 award was given to Mrs. Ron Miller of Elkton for her suggestion of Cass City Intermediate School as the new name for the present high school building. The Boards of Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron Intermediate School districts voted again to study the chances for a community college to serve the area. The same 12-man committee and 75-member study group that served prior to the first vote, will serve again.

Pfc. Arthur Bean, serving with the Marines in Viet Nam, arrived here Friday to spend a 30-day leave and will return to Viet Nam.

Louis Salas, Cass City service station dealer, has been awarded a graduation certificate upon completion of a series of six advanced management clinics held by Standard Oil Division of American Oil Company for improving service to motorists.

Alvin Carl Benkelman of Elk Creek, Va., formerly of Cass City, was presented the University of Michigan Sesquicentennial Award at the annual Asphalt Institute meeting at the University Wednesday, Aug. 9. The award was presented for outstanding work in his field of civil engineering.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Russell Kullberg, a second grade teacher, has asked to be released from his contract to accept a position teaching general science in the Whittier school in Flint.

A substantial increase in gross sales was announced at the annual stockholder's meeting of the Farm Produce, according to manager Frank Reid.

Free chest X-rays to all fairgoers are being offered at this year's Tuscola County Fair. Howard Slaughter, Ray Sylvester and Nick Van Petten have arranged to have the Saginaw Valley Mobile X-Ray Unit available.

Clarence Merchant led a group discussion on the topic "How Can Michigan Balance Its State Budget?" at the regular meeting of the Elkland Farm Bureau held at the home of John Marshall.

After attending the Homecoming and dedication of the scoreboard in his honor, Larry MacPhail wrote M.B. Auten a letter praising Cass

City and its people. The sign was donated by the Rotary and Gavel Clubs, Cass City State Bank and the school and was dedicated at the 3rd annual Cass City Homecoming in the Cass City Recreational Park.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Forty-one Tuscola men passed the test for Army entrance. Passing in Class 1-A from Cass City are Charles Damoth, William Moore, Gaylord Wright and Frank White. Deford men are William Steinman and Norman Crawford. Enlisting into the Army recently are Gene Corbins and Gordon Hartwick from Cass City.

Gov. Murry D. Van Wagoner has notified Secretary Carl Mantey that he is planning to attend the Tuscola County Fair on the last day of the exposition.

Ted Blondell of Gagetown was brought to Morris Hospital with a compound fracture of the left leg suffered when the team he was driving became frightened and ran away.

Last week it was a victory potato from J.D. Turner's garden and this week it's a victory carrot from the victory garden of Omar Glaspie. In Novesta township Mrs. William Zinnecker's poultry is victory minded. She was about to break open an egg when she noticed a letter "V" on one end, embossed or engraved or whatever method a hen has of marking her product.

Charles B. Eckfeld, acting chairman of the Tuscola County Agricultural Conservation Committee, has been notified that becoming effective immediately and continuing through the month of August that the Commodity Credit Corporation is offering for sale to the farmers of Tuscola County wheat for feeding purposes only at 87 cents per bushel, plus a small handling charge.

Welfare group meets tonight in Caro

The Thumb Area Welfare Rights Organization (TAWRO) representing Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and LaPeere counties will meet tonight (Thursday, Aug. 18) at 7:30. The meeting will be in the basement of the sheriff's department in Caro.

Anyone receiving assistance from the department of social services such as ADC, ADC-U, or low-income persons who feel they have been treated unfairly by the DSS, have questions concerning their grants, food stamp costs or medical assistance are invited to attend. Other interested persons are welcome.

Recipients should feel free to attend as TAWRO is backed by the State Welfare Rights Organization and is designed to assure the programs handled by the department of social services are carried out according to state and federal mandated guidelines and manuals.

Anyone having questions can contact chairperson Mary Schacher at 843-5314 in Mayville.

Square dance scheduled in Bad Axe

The Bad Axe Swinging Hatchets square dance club will hold its monthly square dance Friday, Aug. 19, at Bad Axe Junior High School on the corner of Scott and Woodworth streets from 8-11 p.m. Dale and Mickey Smith from Jackson, will call the square dance. Dale is a full time traveling national square dance caller.

Round dancing will be cued by Manley and Mildred Fay from Bad Axe.

Refreshments will be served. All western square dancers are cordially invited to attend.

The regular September dance is scheduled for Friday evening, Sept. 9, at the same time and location. Johnny Preston from Utica, is the scheduled square dance caller, with the Fays cueing the round dances again.

Anyone interested in learning square dancing can contact Manley or Mildred Fay before Sept. 10 at Bad Axe after 6 p.m. The telephone number is 269-9398. They will be having basic beginning lessons.

AROUND THE FARM

Farm bill almost law

By William Bortel

House and Senate conferees recently compromised with each other and the administration to produce a final draft of the 1977 Agricultural and Consumer Protection bill. The President's signature is virtually assured when Congress passes the compromise version after their August recess. The record wheat harvest induced the federal government to increase federal aid to wheat farmers.

The 1977 target price in the compromise bill is set at $2.90 per bushel for wheat, up 25 cents from the current price of $2.65 per bushel. The higher target price means that farmers who have wheat allotments will receive deficiency payments. The number of bushels eligible for payments is the farm's established yield per acre times the farmer's allotted acres. The payment per bushel is the difference between the target price and the higher of the loan rate or average market price.

Since the loan rate will be higher than the 1977 crop year's average market price, the payment per bushel will be the difference between the target price and the loan rate (approximately 65 cents per bushel).

The loan rate in the compromise bill remains unchanged at $2.25 per bushel. Therefore, the average loan rate for Michigan counties remains $2.19 with Tuscola County at $2.22 per bushel. Sanilac county is also at $2.22. The average market price offered by Thumb grain merchants to farmers during the week ending Aug. 5 was $1.82 per bushel, down from $1.91 per bushel in mid-July. The differential between the average county loan rate and the current market price is 40 cents per bushel. This looks like the best alternative for a farmer today—to store his wheat for a year and let the government take it over at the loan rate. Storing 1977 wheat under a government price support loan is more attractive now than it was in mid-July.

A guy who's dead broke seldom has much life left in him.

Many people consider the past at the expense of the future.

McNaughton family meets

The fourth annual McNaughton reunion was held Sunday, Aug. 7, at the Cass City Park.

There were 57 members of the family present. The oldest member was Hazel Stoutenburg and youngest was Joshua McNaughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McNaughton of Cass City.

The family had a potluck dinner and a ball game. Officers for the coming year remain the same and are: Eldon Stoutenburg, president; Jack Burns, vice-president; Marjorie Caister, secretary, and Judy Britt, treasurer.

The next reunion will be held the second Sunday in August at the Cass City Park.

Bay Shore has annual mission day

The Bay Shore Auxiliary held its annual Missionary Day at the Bay Shore Tabernacle in Sebawaing Aug. 5. There were 137 persons registered, with 25 churches represented.

President Marilyn Elenbaum welcomed those present, followed by a special number from the Sebawaing Church.

The president commented on all the things that were accomplished this year at Bay Shore and thanked those who worked to make it possible. A gold cross necklace was presented to Wilma Elenbaum in appreciation of her dedication and continuous work at Bay Shore this summer.

An offering of $134.50 was taken by Kilmanagh Church, to be used by the auxiliary.

Tom Wood introduced the speaker for the day, Pat Rothrock, who was a missionary in Lubumbashi, Zaire, for 17 years and is now serving on the board of Global Missions.

Also present was Lena Eschtruth, who asked for prayers for the people of Zaire, even though in April her husband, Dr. Glen Eschtruth, was slain in that country.

The offering from the afternoon and evening of $600 was given to Missions.

Salem Church of Cass City served punch and cookies at 3 p.m.

Officers for the coming year of the Bay Shore Auxiliary are: President - Mrs. George Ackerman, St. Paul Church of Elkton; vice-president - Mrs. Lloyd Elenbaum of Kilmanagh Church, and secretary-treasurer - Mrs. William Diachenko of Salem Church in Pigeon.

Mrs. Orvin Yordy of First Church in Pigeon and Mrs. Merrill Elenbaum of Kilmanagh will serve as co-work chairmen.

Persons willing to help at Bay Shore can contact Mrs. Yordy or Mrs. William Diachenko, Bay Port.

Publisher appalls Ms. Lane

August 15

I was appalled at your vocal attack in August 11, Rabbit Tracks at Mrs. Burnette, referring to the school board meeting and her perseverance of cleanliness at the Intermediate school. You neglected to comment on your own conduct Mr. Haire, in your out of order verbal attack, it was asinine. You seem to form opinions without facts.

The board has been elected by the people to represent and be responsible to meet the needs of our students. In the poor choice of words you chose the term "vocal acrobatics" used by Mrs. Burnette. I've attended many school board meetings with very little verbal feedback from the board, it's very refreshing to hear Mr. Scollon and Mrs. Burnette speak freely on issues that are very important to all students.

You also gave inattention to several notable facts:

1. The condition of cleanliness at the Intermediate school has been an issue for at least two years. Parent complaints and committee groups have been ineffective in bringing about little change.

2. The length of time and proper channels Mrs. Burnette explored before publicly bringing this matter before the board.

3. Questioning experience in an interesting issue, how many board members in the history of Cass City attended board meetings before seeking a seat on the Board of Education?

The conversation on new needs always comes back to the word "cost" yet the taxpayers had no voice on the new salary increases for the administration.

The votes for Mrs. Burnette two short months ago indicate many people in this community do not question her ability to be an effective board member.

It's very gratifying to hear parents, teachers and board members speaking out on matters that are important to the students attending our schools. The abuse and put down that was received in the past should no longer be tolerated by the press or administration.

Sanilac board ends drug unit participation

The Sanilac County Board of Commissioners Wednesday, Aug. 10, made official what had been expected. It voted to end participation in the Thumb Intelligence Unit.

Its participation will end Sept. 30. Funding to continue the undercover drug investigation unit would have cost the county $20,000 for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, the last year there would have been partial federal funding. After that, it would have cost an estimated $52,000 annually for continued participation.

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners previously voted to end its financial participation, in anticipation that the Sanilac and Huron county boards were going to do so.

The Sanilac board appointed Commissioner Lloyd Severance of Decker chairman of its finance committee, to serve on a committee with representatives of the other two counties to decide what to do with the equipment used by the intelligence unit.

In other action, the board appointed five members to serve on the county planning commission, including Phillip Brack of 6823 Cass City Road. The five will serve until Sept. 1, 1980.

Wentworth reunion held

The 20th annual Wentworth reunion was held at the Cass City Park Aug. 14 with 79 members present from Tawas, Harrison, Oxford, Detroit, Novi, Lansing, Dallas, Texas; San Ramon, Calif.; Milford, Dryden, Mariette, Flint, Standish, Almont and Grand Rapids.

A potluck dinner was followed by a business meeting. Officers were elected as follows: president Rod Wentworth; vice-president, Wilfred Wentworth; secretary-treasurer Norma Ripley.

It was voted to meet the second Sunday in Aug. 1978 at the Cass City Park.

Letters to the Editor

Dr. Paul Chappel refutes charges

Dear John,

Regarding the article on August 5, 1977 in the Chronicle about the civil suit filed against me, I'd like to state to the public that the plaintiff in the case who allegedly has paralysis of the lower jaw and cheek from anesthesia in preparation for the extraction of a wisdom tooth, never had a wisdom tooth extracted in my office and never was suppose to have one extracted.

The article implied paralysis of lower jaw, cheek and tongue from extraction of a lower wisdom tooth. As stated above, the patient never had a wisdom tooth extracted and in my mind does not have paralysis of lower jaw and cheek as she alleges.

Sincerely,
Paul Chappel

Burnette stand applauded

August 12, 1977

Dear Readers,

I attended the school board meeting on August 8, and I want to applaud Mrs. David Burnette for her concern for our schools.

The conditions at the Intermediate School have been discussed for approximately 2 years, now it's time for action instead of looking the other way when problems arise.

I agree with Mrs. David Burnette's stand on the Intermediate School.

Sincerely,
Marjorie Dickinson

I have attended School Board meetings now for several years. It was refreshing to finally hear someone speak up on a relevant issue. There is an old saying that goes "The squeaky wheel gets the grease." I say "Hooray" for Mrs. Burnette!

Firm sues egg farm

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert L. Kapala, doing business as Eggs by JNR, are defendants in a suit filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Their business is located on Mushroom Road, Deford. Plaintiff is Borden, Inc.

The suit claims that the firm's Dairy and Services Division, Michigan region, located in Madison Heights, sold the couple "goods, wares, and merchandise, and rendered service upon open account" from Nov. 13, 1976 to June 4, 1977 and that it is owed $17,148.60 plus $171.48 in interest.

The suit seeks that amount plus costs and attorney fees. The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements.

ARTIST AND HIS WORK -- Greg Mark examines two of his signs. The one at left depicts no smoking in a painting room. The other one denotes not walking barefoot in the sculpture room. Behind the crossbar is a plaster cast of a footprint.

A local artist and his work: Showing Sunday for Greg Mark

"If you don't have a viewer, there's no art." Cass Cityans will have a chance Sunday to view a local artist's art, that of Greg Mark.

The Western Michigan University student says the show will give him a chance "to show what I'm doing," adding the comment that art isn't art if no one can look at it.

The showing will be Sunday from noon-8 p.m. in the Cass City Cultural Center. Sponsored by the Cass City Arts Council, it will be the first show they have promoted featuring a local artist.

Mark, 21, can't remember a time he didn't want to be an artist.

A 1974 graduate of Cass City High School, this fall he will be starting his senior year at WMU. He is majoring in graphic design and minoring in art history.

What's graphic art? Mark explains it includes everything from product advertising, and package design to printmaking and photography.

But say "art" and most people think of painting and sculpture.

"One thing that gets me," Mark said, gesturing toward one end of his workbench, "is they put graphic art over here," then gesturing toward the other end, "and fine arts over here. What I'm doing is putting them together."

"People in fine arts -- painting, sculpture, etc. -- tend to have a negative viewpoint about graphic designers and because of that, graphic designers tend to have the same viewpoint about themselves."

An example of putting fine arts and graphic arts together are signs made for an art class project that don't look like signs.

The assignment was to make safety signs for the art department. The problem with most signs, Mark explains, such as for "no smoking," is that after people continually see them, they become oblivious to the signs being there.

Mark came up with "signs" illustrating no bare feet in the painting room, no smoking in the painting room, and don't use drawing boards as cutting boards.

His "no bare feet" sign, for instance, consists of a background of the words "common sense" continually etched in metal. The center part is a plaster cast of a footprint (his own) with a metal bar across it.

The "no smoking" sign has an overgrown cigarette on top of a burned canvas; the "no cutting" sign, an enlarged cutting knife blade stuck in a piece of fiberboard.

"Graphic design is based on communication with the public," Mark explains. His signs serve that purpose, as well as being "pieces of art."

He admits, though, that with about 15 hours of labor invested in each sign, they would be impractical from the commercial standpoint. "Something a designer always has to be aware of is the cost factor. You've got to limit yourself in how far you can go."

After graduation, Mark hopes to get a job with a graphic design firm, where, after being given an assignment, the artist is free to express his own ideas -- with two constraints. The constraints would be from an art director who oversees the work and the customer who ultimately has to buy it.

An example of an assignment with such a firm might be designing a signing system for a store. On a larger scale, about 15 people from the Cranbrook Academy of Art spent a year at the Pontiac Silverdome designing the signs for the domed stadium, Mark said.

Another alternative for the Cass Cityan after graduation may be working as an art gallery director. He's been getting experience at Western at its "Gallery II," working with artists in setting up showing of their works and handling public relations.

Mark has been accepted into the Bachelor of Fine Arts program degree for his final year at the Kalamazoo university. He hopes some day to get a Masters in Fine Arts degree at Cranbrook, after first getting some job experience.

Mark's job experience this summer hasn't been too artistic. He's working as an inspector at the Saginaw Steering Gear plant on the 4 p.m.-12:30 a.m. shift.

That only leaves him about two hours a day to work on various projects in the basement of the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Mark, on Wilsie Road.

During the school year, in addition to three hours in art classes each day, he usually spends four hours working in his apartment on projects.

The result of his labors -- signs, drawings, pottery, photographs, wall sculptures and graphic designs -- will be on display Sunday. There will be about 40 pieces at the Cultural Center. Refreshments will be served.

It will not be a "for sale" show. At this point, Mark keeps most of his works for purposes of building a portfolio to use when he starts job hunting.

As of last Friday, Greg still had one project to finish for the show. He had a cardboard box of metal corkscrew shavings from a machine shop and some sheets of plexiglass. The plexiglass was to be made into boxes and the metal shavings were to go into the boxes.

When finished, the piece will display compression. Beyond that, he said, it was too complicated to explain.

Whatever it is, it likely will display the artist's twin goals of being "a piece of art in itself that can communicate something to the public."

Jewelry theft from Deford couple under investigation

The sheriff's department is investigating the theft of several hundred dollars worth of watches and jewelry from a Deford couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel G. Powell of Rt. 1 Deckerville Road reported to the sheriff's department on Wednesday, Aug. 10, that a jewelry box was taken from their home. It was discovered missing on Aug. 6.

The box contained seven sets of earrings, worth $90; five rings worth a total of $1,026; four watches, worth a total of $280; a necklace, $18, and a cross on a chain, $5.

Donald Jensen, owner of Jensen Equipment Co., south of Millington on M-15, reported to Caro state police Monday morning that a tractor was stolen from his dealership.

Parked outside, the stolen tractor was a Kubota 17 horsepower diesel with four-wheel-drive. It was valued at $4,290.

Cass City police have learned who kicked in the glass front door of Old Wood Drug the night of July 10.

The person involved was a 15-year-old boy from California, who was at that time living with a family in Decker.

He has since returned to California. Seeking legal action against the juvenile would now be very difficult.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said, because he is out of state, therefore, no further action will be pursued.

He did say the owner of the drug store, Tom Pictor, or his insurance company, could possibly seek restitution. The door was valued at more than $100.

A son in the family with whom the youth was staying told the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department that the juvenile broke the door. The department then gave the information to Cass City police.

Cass City police early Saturday evening arrested Phillip A. Kuck, 19, of 4767 Cedar Run Road, on a charge of driving with license suspended. He was stopped on Leach Street.

He was taken to the Tuscola County Jail, where he was later released after posting $100 bond. Arraignment date in district court was scheduled Aug. 29.

Cass City police were called Monday night to a Main Street apartment, on a report that a husband was beating his pregnant wife.

The wife, who left last week to live with her parents, had returned to get some clothes for herself and her 1½-year-old child.

She and a witness said the man knocked his wife to the ground outside the apartment and held her down. He told police she had slapped him and they had then tussled over some keys.

Police advised the woman to be examined at the hospital. Chief Wilson said it will be up to the wife whether she wants to press charges against her husband.

Caro girl treated after accident

Ronda L. Schenk, 16, of 2093 Underwood Road, Caro, was treated at Caro Community Hospital Friday following an accident on Hurds Corner Road, south of Bay City-Forestville Road.

Sheriff's deputies reported she was a passenger in a car driven by Judy A. Teague of the same address, which went out of control while southbound. The car went off the road into a ditch, struck a utility pole, and came to a halt in a field.

The driver and a second passenger were unhurt. The accident took place at 12:30 a.m.

Douglas J. MacEachin, 22, of 1959 Murphy Street, Uby, sought his own treatment for possible injuries after an accident at 4 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Deputies said he was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, east of Graf Road, when he lost control of his car. He was thrown from the vehicle after it went off the road into a ditch.

James J. Vanostenbridge, 24, of Detroit, was cited by Caro state police Saturday evening on a charge of violation of the basic speed law -- too fast for conditions.

They said he slid off a curve on Bond Road in Kingston township. His vehicle went into a ditch, flipped over, and landed on its wheels.

On Wednesday, Aug. 10, at 5:55 p.m., according to Cass City police, Beth L. Tracy, 17, of Cedar Run Road, backed into a parked car. They said she was parked behind the Colonial Inn on Main Street and backed into a car parked along the alley. Owner of the parked car was Christine Hurst of Deckerville Road, Deford.

In a similar accident Friday night, Cass City police said Nancy L. Walsh, 24, of 4153 Maple Street, backed into a parked car while backing from a driveway on West Street, north of Houghton Street.

No damage was reported to the parked car, the owner of which was not identified.

Appeals court okays transfer tion and gymnasium was another issue on which the attorneys for the two sides disagreed. Bonds for the $1.675 million project have been sold, to be paid back during the next 29 years.

Barley said after the property is transferred out of the Owen-Gage property owners won't have to pay. "That is my opinion, there is no question about that," he said. "They will not be charged with the bonding millage."

Schouman feels the opposite. Based on bonding attorney opinions and Supreme Court and Municipal Finance Commission rulings, he said, because the property owners involved were part of the Owen-Gage district when the bonds were sold, they will have to continue paying even if transferred out of the district. "I think it's very clear they do (still have to pay)," he commented.

Whether the affected property owners will or won't have to pay the building levy is the issue in a so-called corresponding case, which is also in Ingham County Circuit Court.

The various cases are in that court because the state board of education action approving the transfer took place in Ingham County (in Lansing).

TRYING IT ON -- Danielle Toner, 11, tries on a kimono with assistance from Hanako Hagimoto. The visitor brought the garment from Japan as a gift to the Daniel Toner family.

Toners host Japanese visitor

The Daniel Toner family of 417 Doerr Road have been hosts since July 22 to Hanako Hagimoto, 13, of Japan.

Hanako is a participant in the Labo - 4-H youth exchange between Japan and the United States.

The Labo International Exchange Foundation is a non-profit organization founded in Japan in 1973. Its main purpose is to foster friendship and cultural exchange by sponsoring home-stay programs in several countries, including the U.S., Canada, and Korea.

In Michigan, the exchange is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service. A total of 73 Japanese youth are presently in the state. They will return home Aug. 23.

In addition to the Toners, the Ronald Colling family of Millington and the Henry Airgood family of Caro are each hosting a Labo exchange participant.

The Toners have taken Hanako to Greenfield Village and will be taking her to Mackinac Island. She also attended the Tuscola County Fair.

The visitor lives in Osaka, a city of 3 million, about 200 miles southeast of Tokyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Toner have two children, Todd, 15, and Danielle, 11. Two years ago, the family hosted another Japanese under the Labo Program.

As part of the current exchange, 41 Michigan 4-H'ers are presently in Japan, including one from Tuscola county, Marsha Wilson of Fairgrove.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Trenbeath, missionaries at Southwest Indian School near Phoenix, Ariz., will speak at the Deford United Methodist Church, Deford, Wednesday, Aug. 24, at 7:30 p.m., with a potluck supper at 6 p.m.

The Trenbeaths serve with World Gospel Mission, an interdenominational sending agency with 335 missionaries and homeland staff laboring in 18 areas of the world. International headquarters is in Marion, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Trenbeath are graduates of Chicago Evangelistic Institute (now Vernard College), University Park, Iowa. Mr. Trenbeath received the Bachelor of Arts degree at Greenville College, Ill. where Mrs. Trenbeath also studied.

From 1953 to 1960, the Trenbeaths served in Kenya, Africa, where Mr. Trenbeath was active in the field of education. Mrs. Trenbeath taught in the intermediate school and served as secretary-bookkeeper.

After furlough in 1961, the Trenbeaths were assigned to work among Spanish-speaking people on the Texas-Mexico border. Mr. Trenbeath taught and served as principal of Taylor Institute, McAllen, Texas, and later taught at Inter-American Bible Institute, La Feria. Mrs. Trenbeath was in charge of the school kitchen and supervised the girls' work. Both ministered on Sundays in rural areas across the Rio Grande.

In July 1971, the Trenbeaths were transferred to WGM's Southwest Indian School, near Phoenix. Mr. Trenbeath taught high school classes for several years. More recently, he was acting director of the field in the absence of the director, and taught seventh and eighth grades. Mrs. Trenbeath was office manager and treasurer of the field. Both were teachers in Sunday school classes.

Southwest Indian School is a boarding school offering elementary and secondary grades. The current enrollment is 170. SIS has ministered to 34 tribes since its beginning in 1952. Students receive a Christ-centered education for the purpose of building strong Americans—physically, mentally, and spiritually.

Everyone is welcome.

Krieger pleads innocent of assaulting officer

Neal J. Krieger, 21, of 2575 Block Road, Reese, stood mute to a charge of assaulting a police officer at his arraignment Monday before Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements.

A plea of innocent was entered and a pretrial hearing scheduled Sept. 26. Personal recognizance bond was continued.

The charge stems from an assault on Reese police officer Stephen Mossner in Reese on July 9 when he was attempting to make an arrest.

Bonnie Drews, 18, of 319 W. Sherman Street, Caro, was sentenced by Judge Clements on a charge of larceny over $100.

She was placed on one year probation and ordered to serve 60 days in the county jail, with credit for 30 days served. She was fined $100 and assessed $150 court costs.

The charge was in connection with the theft of two shotguns from Gary Zellar of Caro on Nov. 23, 1976.

Representative in crusade

Holmes seeks death penalty

State Rep. Kirby Holmes was in Cass City Wednesday, Aug. 10, in his statewide "Crusade Against Crime."

Holmes is traveling throughout the state in his 27-foot motor home to enlist support for his petition drive to restore the death penalty in Michigan and to encourage people to urge their representatives to vote for anti-crime bills already in the legislature.

Accompanying the Utica Republican were his wife Mary and children, Chip, 18, Kerry, 15, Charlie, 9, and Tracy, 8. Their goal is to travel to 300 towns and cities in Michigan this summer.

If enough electors sign Holmes' petitions, the following proposed constitutional amendment would go on the ballot in 1978: "The legislature shall enact laws providing for the penalty of death for those convicted of first degree murder." The state constitution at present prohibits enactment of the death penalty for any crime.

In addition to the petition drive, Holmes is also advocating passage of various anti-crime measures in the legislature. They include tightening parole requirements, a $400 million bond issue to build new prisons, anti-obscenity and anti-shoplifting bills, and mandatory minimum sentences for some crimes.

Others are denial of bail for certain persons, limited wiretapping authority for law enforcement agencies, increased penalties for substance abuse and crimes

Womack and Phillips previously received citations from the sheriff's department for the efforts to save Zellar.

CPR is a combination of heart massage and mouth-to-mouth breathing.

The life-saving technique was used Sept. 6, 1976, to save State Rep. Loren Armbruster, who suffered a heart attack while at the Michigan Bean Festival at Fairgrove.

The three Red Cross volunteers who used CPR to save Armbruster will receive an award at this year's Bean festival, on Sept. 5.

The award from the Red Cross for their rescue efforts will be presented to Carl Johnson of Caro, Gerald Kirk of Fairgrove, and James Compo of the sheriff's department.

Financing of farm storage facilities and drying equipment ment by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) through the local county ASCS office, is still available to eligible producers, according to Vernon L. Kretschmer, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The recent announcement by Secretary Bergland authorizing loans for building "wet" storage structures for high-moisture grain or grain silage has made the program more attractive, particularly to dairymen and livestock feeders.

Under this program, eligible producers can borrow up to 85 percent of the cost of buying and installing needed storage facilities and drying equipment, not to exceed $50,000.

The interest rate, Kretschmer said, is currently 7 percent per annum and will remain at that level throughout the loan period. The loan must be paid in four equal annual installments over a period of five years.

With the market price of most farm crops declining, adequate on-farm storage provides the producer with the option of storing for sale at a later date when market prices may be more favorable.

In the meantime, eligible crops can be used as collateral for CCC loans to obtain operating capital. However, crops such as high-moisture corn or grain silage would not be eligible for a crop loan.

Kretschmer noted that loans may be used to buy dryers, bins, augers, legs, silos (except trench-type silos), and other components of a storage and drying system.

Producers interested in a facility or drying equipment loan should contact their local county ASCS office before the purchase of any storage or drying equipment.

court Friday by District Judge Richard F. Kern.

Arraignment in circuit court on a charge of attempted larceny will be Aug. 22. Bond was continued.

The charge is in connection with an attempted break-in at Heidi's Restaurant, at M-24 and M-46, south of Caro, on July 19.

Kretschmer noted that loans may be used to buy dryers, bins, augers, legs, silos (except trench-type silos), and other components of a storage and drying system.

Producers interested in a facility or drying equipment loan should contact their local county ASCS office before the purchase of any storage or drying equipment.

Lightning strikes 2 houses

Elkland Township volunteer firemen made three calls during the past week, two to houses which were struck by lightning.

At neither house struck by lightning was there any fire or reported damage.

At about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 10, they were called to the home of John Ryba Jr. on Milligan Road, off Greenland Road.

At about 10 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 16, they went to the home of David Stafford on M-81, west of Cedar Run Road.

An estimated $1,000 damage occurred about 8:20 Friday morning at the home of Francis and Mary Withey, on Cemetery Road, south of Cass City.

Cause of the fire was an overheated pan left on the stove by Mrs. Withey, who apparently thought she had turned the burner off but didn't.

Mrs. Withey operates a beauty salon in the rear of the building. The fire required a customer and beauticians to flee outside until the fire was out.

The loss was due to burned kitchen cabinets and smoke damage.

CANDIDATE—Addressing the Cass City chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons last Thursday was state Sen. Patrick H. McCollough. The Dearborn Democrat is running for governor.

Candidate speaks to Cass City retiree club

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Patrick H. McCollough discussed his legislative efforts in a talk Thursday, Aug. 11, before members of the Cass City chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

McCollough, 35, has represented Dearborn in the state senate for seven years.

He was invited to address the 61 members present at the group's monthly luncheon meeting at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church by Donna Wernette. In addition to being an AARP member, she is also Democratic vice-chairman for the 8th Congressional district.

The senator began by reminding his audience that his roots are in the Thumb, his great-grandfather having settled on the banks of the Cass River in the 1840's. He still has relatives and a cottage in the Thumb.

As chairman of the Senate finance committee, McCollough said a priority this fall will be property tax reform. One change he suggested was removal of all property taxes for senior citizens making $7,000 or less annually. That would only cost the state $8 million to reimburse the schools for lost property tax revenue. (After the speech, he said he wasn't sure if the correct figure was $8 million or $80 million, but was "pretty sure" it was the lower amount.)

Owendale holds '52 class reunion

The 25th reunion of the graduating class of 1952 of Owendale High School gathered Saturday evening, Aug. 13, at Wildwood Farms on M-53.

Present of the 21 classmates were nine members: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bock, Bay City; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cantania (Theresa Enderle) of Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Ziehm (Jeannine Faust), Mr. and Mrs. Elwood McDonald (Jeannette Faust), Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gaeth, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howard Jr., all of Owendale; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Holland, Pigeon; Mr. and Mrs. James Montney of Capac, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strucinski of Lapeer.

Notes from classmates who could not attend were read from Marie (Van De Putte) Reid of St. Clair Shores and Lillian (Leitman) Retzler of Detroit.

Letters were also read from former teachers Eli Holes of Bay City and John Anderson of Levittown, Pa.

Guest speaker was Dr. John Dadds of King of Prussia, Penn., former math, science and football coach at Owendale. His wife was also present.

A moment of silent prayer was given in memory to Kenneth Voelker of Owendale, classmate who was killed in an auto accident in July. A white rose, the class flower was placed in the center of the table in his memory.

Duane Holland, master of ceremonies presented the following humorous prizes: Ed Howard for the expected grandfather to be - a bottle of fake pills; to Gordon Bock, a trophy stating "World's Greatest Romeo" for having the youngest child (3 yrs. of age). The person with the most rings on, Bonnie Gaeth, was given fake ring polish. Clarence Gaeth and Jeannine Ziehm tied for most children, each with five, based on total amount of their ages, 96 vs. 89. Mrs. Ziehm was presented with "wash your hands before eating" sign to put over the table.

Theresa Cantania came the greatest distance so was given a straw to siphon gas for her return trip home. Dadds had the task of picking the person who most looked like his senior picture. He chose Gordon Bock who was presented with a tiny mirror to admire himself.

This year's reunion committee consisted of Edward Howard, Duane Holland and Jeannette McDonald. Volunteers for the 30th reunion committee were Gordon Bock, Jeannine Ziehm, Clarence Gaeth, Ed Howard, and Jeannette McDonald.

Set week-end fastpitch tourney in Cass City

One thing that tournament director Jim Turner didn't lack when he and the Charmont softball team in the Vassar league announced a proposed tournament in Cass City was teams ready, willing and able to play.

Turner announced this week that 30 teams were ready to ante up the $80 it takes to play Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Cass City Recreational Park. Turner entered the first 12 to apply.

The tourney is billed as Class D fastball and the action starts at 6:30 p.m. Friday. That's when Cass River Lumber of Vassar meets Sugar Beet Products of Saginaw.

The 12 teams are divided into two divisions and each team will play each other. By noon Sunday there will be a championship and a runner-up in each division.

The champs of one division play the runners-up of the other division at 1 p.m. Sunday. At 2:30 p.m. the two losers meet.

At 4 p.m. the winners of the play-offs meet for the championship.

Cass City will be represented by a team composed of players from Cass City Area Churches, which opens play at 8:15 against Garber Buick of Saginaw.

There will be two games running at once, using both diamonds.

Entries in division one include: Cass River Lumber, Vassar; Draper's Chevrolet, Saginaw; Sugar Beet Products, Saginaw; Arnold's Flowers, Bay City; Wohlfeil's Hardware, Saginaw; and Heck's Bar, Saginaw.

Division two teams are: Thompson Auto Glass, Caro; Gaertner's Roaring 20's, Saginaw; Dick's Marathon, Bay City; Cass City Area Churches; Garber Buick, Saginaw; and Dorothy's Bar, Bay City.

The tournament is sponsored by Charmont, Cass City.

Osentoski rolls to victory

Osentoski Realty rolled to the Class B championship of the Sixth Annual Port Austin Gallup Park Classic Slo-Pitch Softball Tournament last week end.

Osentoski won it the hard way. Coming from behind in the Sunday finals to defeat the Harbor Beach Merchants, 12-9.

Osentoski went in front 3-1 early only to have the Merchants come charging back to go in front, 9-4, after five innings.

Osentoski rallied for eight big markers in the sixth on 10 hits to salt away the championship.

In the title tilt, Don Galbraith rammed a home run, 2 doubles and a single. Ken Lowe rapped a triple and 2 singles. Also collecting two hits were Wally Hempton, J.D. Alexander, John Smentek and Al Wallace.

Les Nicholas was the winning pitcher.

To get to the championship game, Osentoski rolled over St. Michael's Ushers Club Friday night in the opening round, 11-3, and edged Cubitt Realty of Bad Axe, 15-12.

12-gauge must use steel shot

Waterfowl hunters who use shotguns bored larger or smaller than 12-gauge are exempt from mandatory use of steel shot this fall, according to a final rulemaking by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The steel loads will be mandatory for 12-gauge in areas designated for non-toxic shot.

Steel shot is the only approved non-toxic shot and it has been manufactured in 12-gauge only. Therefore, the service has decided that in the waterfowl hunting season beginning in the fall of 1977, shells other than 12-gauge loaded with lead or other metals can be used to hunt waterfowl in steel shot zones.

Approximately 85 per cent of all waterfowl hunters use the 12-gauge shotgun. The service points out that this exemption for gauges that have not been manufactured in steel shot will be reviewed again prior to the 1978 hunting season. It has proposed that in the fall of 1979 no further exceptions be made based on gauge.

Swimmers lose

Cass City lost to Frankenmuth, 279-143, in a Thumb Swim Association meet Sunday afternoon at Frankenmuth.

The final association meet of the summer will be Sunday at the Cass City Recreational Park pool, starting at 1 p.m. Competing will be teams from Cass City, Frankenmuth, Marlette, and Caro.

There will be a hot dog roast for all competitors following the meet.

Cass City winners from the meet at Frankenmuth were: 25 M. Free Style, Blair

Hawk golf meet set

Coach Dave Lovejoy announced this week that there will be a meeting and practice session for all high school students interested in playing on the Cass City High School Golf team.

The session has been set for Monday, Aug. 22, at 8 a.m. at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

The board gave its okay to granting of Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act status to farmland owned by Alvin Orner and Al Merchant.

Approval must still be granted by various other agencies, including the State Office of Land Use. Final approval grants potential property tax benefits to the landowner, as long as the land is used for agriculture.

IT TAKES A BOY to bring home the big ones. Joey Viney, 11, of 4956 Little Road, bagged this 36-inch Northern Pike fishing Sunday in the Cass near River Road. The trophy weighed about 9 pounds and was taken on a six-inch minnow.

Showdown time in church loop

Special pheasant season opens

With the pheasant hunting season having started on Monday, the state Department of Natural Resources predicts "put and take" hunters will have a better chance of bagging a bird this season.

"We'll be releasing birds at least three times each week, thus making a hunter's chances of encountering a pheasant more likely than in past years," says Vic Janson of the DNR Wildlife Division.

Another change this season involves the use of seals, eight of which will be sold with each $10 put-and-take permit. Each time a hunter bags a pheasant he must attach a seal to one of its legs. When he uses all of his eight seals, he can either call it a season or buy another permit with eight more seals. A hunter may buy as many permits as he wants.

"The express purpose of the seal program is to distribute pheasants more evenly among hunters," Janson says. "Even though a hunter living near one of the put-and-take areas may obtain better information about release dates and so forth, he will be restricted to eight pheasants per permit. This means that his hunting may be over early in the season, making more birds available for other hunters later on."

Also designed to give more hunters-especially those on afternoon and midnight shifts-a shot at the put-and-take birds are this season's new 8 a.m. - 2 p.m. shooting hours. The cooler morning hours will remain in effect until Sept. 30, then change to noon - 7 p.m. for the rest of the season, to end Dec. 31.

Besides their put-and-take permit, hunters will need a valid small game license and the new $1 public access stamp, whose revenue will finance leasing of private land for public hunting. Hunters can purchase license, permit and stamp at the same time from many southern Michigan license agents and most DNR field offices.

Fifteen Lower Peninsula state hunting areas opened to put-and-take Monday, including the DeFord State Game Area. Five other areas will be added Sept. 15. Complete details are published in the 1977-78 DNR Hunting Guide, available from license agents.

Hawk band to practice

The 1977 Marching Red Hawks will begin preparation for the fall season on Monday, Aug. 22, at 7 p.m.

Band members should be at the high school band room ready to march.

New this year will be the uniforms, the drum major, Rob Clarke, and the size -- more than 100 marchers.

In addition, the Red Hawk Marching 100 is one of 50 bands selected to participate in the annual University of Michigan "band day" this fall.

IT WILL GET WORSE before it gets better. Coach Roland Pakonen greeted candidates for the high school football teams Monday for the first day of practice. The pre-season training is traditionally the hardest part of the season as the stress is on conditioning. It will be tough for the players this week and worse next week. This week the boys practice once a day. Next week there will be two sessions daily.
