Five stolen vehicles in county recovered by police agencies

Five vehicles were stolen in Tuscola county last week, one of them belonging to a Cass City man. All were later recovered. Another car was stolen Sunday.

The first incident was Wednesday, Oct. 12, when Joanne Lier of 1584 Maplewood Drive, Caro, reported to Caro state police at 3:30 p.m. that a pickup truck had been left in a ditch by her house and that the driver had stolen her son Larry's 1971 Buick.

The pickup truck belonged to Wayne K. McNeil of 6125 Hadley Road, Cass City. McNeil had left the truck, with the keys in it, at the west end of Wilsie Road, a half-mile west of Koeppgen Road.

McNeil told the Chronicle he returned from lunch about 1:45 p.m. He was operating a bulldozer in the woods off of Wilsie Road, and didn't discover the truck missing until he came out of the woods about 5:30.

Saginaw man dies in crash

Randy Paquette, 22, of Saginaw, was killed early Wednesday morning in an accident on M-15.

He was the eighth traffic fatality in Tuscola county this year.

State police in Caro said he was headed northwest on M-15, just south of M-46, when he apparently lost control of his car.

The vehicle went off the road and flipped over into a ditch full of water, with the car landing on its top. Troopers found Paquette lying face down in the water at 2:05 a.m.

He was dead at the scene, but was officially pronounced dead at the Caro Community Hospital. His body was then taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw for an autopsy.

State police won't know until it is performed whether Paquette died from drowning or from other injuries.

He reported it missing to Cass City police and didn't discover it had been found until about 10:30 that night when he contacted the sheriff's department. The pickup had a slightly bent frame and punctured radiator when it was found.

The car of Larry Lier was found Friday by Frederick, Md., police. The occupants, Mehrl and Gloria Stull, both 19 of Frederick, were arrested and charged with grand theft.

According to information given to the state police by Frederick police, Stull told them he had bought the car from a Charles Caudill for $1,800 and that he had asked them to check the license plates as he thought it might be stolen.

Caudill was wanted by police in Maryland at the time on another grand theft auto charge.

Tuscola County Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn was contacted by state police regarding issuance of warrants in the case, but wanted more information from police in Maryland before making a decision.

As of Monday, Stull was reported still in jail in Maryland.

Warrants to be sought in IGA store break-in Warrants are to be sought charging two Sandusky men, arrested in Huron county after a break-in there, with the Sept. 28 break-in of the Cass City IGA Foodliner.

Burglars chopped a hole through the roof of the food store that night, broke open a safe, and escaped with $498.

Bad Axe police and troopers from the state police post there arrested Theron D. Kritzman, 27, and Thomas J. Earls, 21, Oct. 11 after a break-in that night at Mortimer & Sons Lumber Co. in Bad Axe.

land, with the search for Caudill still underway.

OTHER THEFTS

The second incident, involving the theft of three vehicles, was on Thursday.

It started with the theft of a pickup truck in Caro owned by First Automotive, Inc.

At 4:07 a.m., Jerome Thienes of 6241 Pine Street, Mayville, called the sheriff's department to tell them he had been awakened by the sound of his station wagon being started and backed out of his driveway.

After taking the complaint from Thienes, two deputies in a patrol car headed south on Schott Road. Near Brown Road, south of Mayville, they spotted two cars side-by-side, with the stolen pickup just to the north. One of the cars was Thienes' station wagon.

The two cars started to move so the deputies set out after the station wagon at speeds up to 90 mph. At Washburn Road, 5½ miles away, the thief lost control, hit an embankment, and ran into some brush.

Despite back-up units from several area police departments being called to the scene, plus a tracking dog and handler from the Richfield Township Police Department in Genesee county, which arrived only an hour after the incident started, the man got away.

Inside the station wagon were found a handgun, later found to have been stolen a week earlier in Flint, and a shotgun.

The other car at Schott and Brown Roads when deputies first arrived was stolen from Larry Hopp of 6706 Schott Road, Mayville. He reported it missing to Caro state police.

It was found Saturday by Flint township police.

The stolen pickup truck, according to state police, ran short of gas in Mayville, after which the culprits took the other two vehicles.

Robert Raymond of 811 Monroe Street, Caro, reported to state police there Sunday morning his 1973 red Dodge Dart had been stolen.

He said he lost his keys while at a party Saturday night on Elmwood Road, near Kirk Road. He got a ride home and when he returned in the morning with a spare set of keys, the car, valued at $1,200, was missing.

OTHER ITEMS

Cass City High School has had two bomb scares recently. The first was in the afternoon of Oct. 7, during which all students went to the gym while the building was searched.

The second bomb scare came at 2:05 p.m. Friday. The call was traced to the Charmont bowling lanes.

Police Chief Gene Wilson went there, where he found the pay telephone line still open to the high school and two 15-year-old boys in the bar drinking water.

The boys were returned to the school, where one later admitted making the call that day.

Tuesday, Chief Wilson said he will be filing a petition with the juvenile court concerning the two boys.

Chester Gaszeczynski of 5923 N. Cemetery Road reported to Cass City police Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 11, that a two-wheel snowmobile trailer was stolen from his yard the previous day. Value was $250.

Larry McCollum of 692 W. Burnside Street, Caro, reported to sheriff's deputies Sunday evening that his barn on Hurds Corner Road, south of Little Road, had been entered.

Taken were an auto battery, chain fall, space heater, 12 cans of motor oil, logging chain, roll of tar paper, half-roll of roofing paper, hydraulic trailer jack, a box of used bolts, and 10 gallons of gasoline. Total value of the stolen items was $267.

It was reported to the sheriff's department Monday morning that three windows were broken sometime during the week end at Kingston High School.

Broken were the windows on each side of the entrance-way and one outside window. The exact monetary loss wasn't immediately available but presumably was more than $100.

Robert Wynn of 7943 Bay City-Forestville Road, Cass City, told village police early Sunday that a beer bottle was thrown through the driver's side window of his car while parked at Ale and Main.

Conservation Service (ASCS), district conservationist of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, county extension director, and county director of the U.S. Farmers Home Administration.

In Tuscola county, according to ASCS Executive Director Virgil Bouck, the disaster application was submitted to Lansing Sept. 27, just after the very heavy rains that flooded primarily the southern end of the county.

The loss then for dry beans was estimated at 20 per cent on 67,500 acres of the 75,000 acres that were planted for a total of $2,598,844.

Five hundred acres of the county's 2,150 acres of potatoes had a 35 per cent loss, for a total of $246,382.

The loss has increased dramatically since then. Bouck said the emergency board will meet next week to revise its estimate, in case state or federal officials want an up-to-date figure.

Since there is no set amount that damage must exceed, it may not be necessary to submit a revised figure.

In Huron county, the loss has been estimated at more than $9 million, as of last week.

According to Doris E. Western, head of the ASCS in Huron, the estimate is based on 60 per cent loss to 66,000 acres of the county's 88,000 acres of dry beans, for a total of $8.8 million. The loss to oats is figured at $99,000 and $392,000 to hay.

In Sanilac county, according to ASCS Executive Director Lorraine Hyde, the loss as of about three weeks ago was put at $3,225,750, based on a loss of 75 per cent on 37,500 acres of the county's 50,000 acres of dry beans.

Should the disaster status be approved for the three counties, based on former disaster programs, farmers who qualify will be able to get loans from the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) at 3 per cent interest for up to $250,000, 5 per cent interest for more than that. Borrowers will have seven years to repay.

Although the rules could be changed, according to FHA County Supervisor Karen Smith in Bad Axe, one eligibility requirement under the previous disaster program was that farmers couldn't get an FHA loan if they could get credit elsewhere.

In addition, they had to have a loss in yield of at least 20 per cent, had to stay in farming, and had to have collateral.

She stressed that it will be still some time before it is known if the disaster status will be granted. Her office has already received calls from people wanting disaster loans.

If all goes well, the FHA could start taking loan applications in the three counties by the end of November.

It is the requirement for collateral that will leave some farmers out in the cold regarding the disaster loans.

"I think it will help a lot of farmers," said Bouck of the Tuscola ASCS. "A lot of average farmers are hurting for cash flow."

With little if any revenue coming in this fall, he explained, many farmers will be hurting for funds for such purposes as paying taxes and buying supplies for next season.

But for farmers already heavily in debt and with buildings and equipment pledged to pay off present loans, he and others such as Mrs. Smith conceded the disaster loan program won't be of help.

In addition -- or even if the disaster loan program isn't approved for the Thumb counties -- farmers do stand a chance of receiving prevented wheat planting payments if they can't get all of that crop planted, which appears likely, and there is also a corn disaster program.

A requirement of the prevented wheat planting program is that the farmers are unable to use the land not planted this fall for other purposes.

DISASTER AREA -- Conditions such as this have led to applications being made to have Tuscola, Huron, and Sanilac counties declared agricultural disaster areas. This bean field was photographed along Sebewaing Road, east of Owendale.

New county budget over $3 million

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday approved a tentative 1978 county budget calling for expenditures of $3.2 million, about $525,000 more than the county will spend this year.

Commissioner Kenneth L. Kennedy of Millington, chairman of the finance committee that prepared it said, "In the seven years I've been on the board, this is the closest budget that's ever been done. There are no frills."

A public hearing on the budget will be conducted at 2 p.m. during the board's Nov. 8 meeting, not Oct. 25 as previously reported.

The tight financial situation the county is in was stressed before the board voted unanimously to approve the tentative budget.

Board Chairman Maynard McConkey of Cass City pointed out that federal revenue sharing and anti-recession funds are "keeping our heads out of water."

With the millage levy for county government at 4.2 mills, one of the lowest levies in the state, he said, any new county programs will have to be paid for "by voice of the people," that is, a public vote on a millage increase.

The budget includes $170,

428 in federal revenue sharing funds plus about $120,000 in anti-recession money.

Total revenue from the county treasurer's office, which includes property tax revenue plus the federal funds, is pegged at $2,433,991.

With other county revenue, the total for 1978 is estimated at $2,802,303, plus a balance left over at the end of this year of $427,960, for an overall total of $3,230,263.

It is expected that all of that will be spent, leaving the county with a zero balance at the end of 1978.

One big increase in the budget is in the contingency fund, put at $188,000, as compared to $80,000 this year.

Kennedy said it is expected that all of it will be spent. The contract with sheriff's department employees expired June 30, so it is expected much of it will go for salary increases.

Other expenses that will have to come out of contingency include a supplement to the federal funds being received for the new animal shelter, some budget categories that were probably underfunded, and unforeseen expenses.

The biggest single category and biggest budget increase is for the sheriff's department. It is expected the department will spend $465,297 this year; $565,344 in 1978. Part of the increase will be for added personnel. The figures do not include the marine safety, snowmobile, and drivers license divisions.

The prosecutor's budget of $66,169 this year will increase to $95,350 next year because of added personnel.

Insurance and bonds, reflecting inflation, will increase from $75,000 this year to $110,000 next year. Social Security obligations will increase from $98,000 up to $120,004.

Budget requests from county departments totaled $3.4 million. The finance committee trimmed the requests down to a little over $3.2 million.

The board met in the afternoon with representatives of the Saginaw accounting firm of Yeo & Yeo to discuss the possibility of the firm overseeing the paperwork requirements for the $200,000 the county is receiving in federal public works funds to build a new animal shelter.

No action was taken. The board accepted the bid of Thomas Roofing of Cass City for $3,200, the lower of two bids, for repairing the roofs of the department of social services and health department buildings.

THE THIRD MAJOR EXPANSION to the Cass City business community was revealed this week when Clarence "Bud" Schneeberger announced the ground breaking of an 11,000-square-foot addition to the company store. The artist's drawing shows the addition and the present store with the slanted roof portion representing the new addition. In this store there will now be a total of 27,000 square feet of floor space and a doubled service area.

Historical Society

Barnes speaks at initial meeting

The Cass City Historical Society conducted its first regular meeting Monday night at the Cultural Center with a program that devoted partially to Indian Dave.

There was one person in the audience who had a personal remembrance of the man who was supposed to be the last Indian in the Thumb area. Leverett Barnes of Sherman Street.

Barnes, 81, said when he was a youngster, he and some friends visited the birch wigwam on the farm next to his father's where Indian Dave stayed each spring and fall while hunting.

After the meeting, he explained that his family lived on a farm six miles east, 2 1/2 miles north, and then a half-mile east of Cass City. The north branch of the Cass River flowed through the property. The Barnes moved there in 1902; he recalled seeing Indian Dave for the next four or five years.

Indian Dave died in 1910. Barnes thought he was in his 90s when he died and apparently remained active until the last couple of years before he died.

More information about Indian Dave was contained in an article by Edith Little in the first edition of the historical society's newsletter, which was distributed at the meeting.

A canoe paddle used by him was brought to the meeting by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cleland

Sunday afternoon, a potluck dinner was held at the home of Theo Hendrick. The Ivan Tracys and their guests, Mrs. Daisy Kerbyson of Pentwater, Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Don Finkbeiner and children, Jeff, Susan, Jon, Jim and Clark, and Debbie Bills, Tim Finkbeiner, Mr. and Mrs. Lester O'Dell and sons, Brian and Rodney, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas O'Dell attended, in addition to Mr. Hendrick's house guests, the David O'Dells. They came to attend the O'Dell-Luana wedding.

Melvin R. Vender was feted on his 87th birthday, Saturday, Oct. 15, at a dinner party given by Mrs. Velma Snoddon at Bad Axe. Attending were also Mrs. M.R. Vender, David Vender, a nephew from Hastings, and his wife and son Cory, and Mrs. Esther Taylor from Birmingham.

Around 70 teens attended the "Fifth Quarter" party at the Baptist church Friday night. Pastor Tim Teall presented a humorous skit and refreshments were served. The group also viewed the film, "Stranger in my Forest."

The Philathea class of the Baptist church will meet at the Jim Perry home Saturday evening for a party beginning at 7:30. Members are to bring a Bible, flashlight, paper and pen and a full tank of gas. Potluck refreshments will be served afterward.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Buerkle, Jr.

Deborah Lynne Smith and Raymond Thomas Buerkle Jr. were married in a double-ring candlelight ceremony Aug. 20 at the Shabbona RLDS church by Elder Dean Smith at 4:00 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Smith of Decker and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Buerkle Sr. of Snover.

Prelude music was played by Wendy Doerr at the piano. "With a Steadfast Faith", "Wedding Prayer", "Walk Hand In Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by the Dorman sisters, accompanied by Judy Doerr at the piano. The ceremony included the lighting of the unity candle by the bride and groom.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father and was given in marriage by her parents. The groom was given in marriage by his parents.

The bride designed and made her dress of satin with a lace panel down the front with long fitted matching lace sleeves ending with a point at the wrist trimmed with pearls. The neck was trimmed with lace ruffle and pearls. The bottom of the dress was trimmed with a scalloped edging. Her detachable chapel train of satin was trimmed in matched scalloped edging. The bride also designed her headpiece of satin, lace and pearls to match the dress. Her long veil was trimmed with cluster grape design edging. She carried a cascade of white carnations and white roses with baby's breath and ivy. The bride wore a necklace with a diamond inset, a gift of the groom and pearl earrings.

The maid of honor, Sally Smith, and miniature maid of honor, Julie Smith, both of Decker, are sisters of the bride. They wore dresses made by the bride of polyester blue and white flowered material trimmed with a daisy edging on the sleeves.

Bridesmaids were Marjorie of Wyandotte, Kathy and Mary Ann Buerkle of Snover, sisters of the groom. They wore dresses made by the groom's mother in colors of peach, yellow, and mint green. They all carried parasols, handmade by the bride, in matching colors of the dresses and trimmed in a daisy edging. They wore a carnation with ribbon in their hair and carried baskets of carnations tipped in the color of their dresses, and baby's breath.

The groom was dressed in an all white tuxedo, wearing a white carnation with a red sweetheart rose.

The best man was Ray Burleson of Cass City. Ring bearer was Donnie Smith of Decker, brother of the bride.

Miniature best man was Tommy Buerkle of Snover, brother of the groom. Groomsman were Randy Smith of Decker, brother of the bride, and Don Wheeler and Mike Kreger, both of Snover. They also wore white tuxedos with shirts to match the color of the dresses. Their white carnations were tipped to match. Ushers were Rodney Smith of Decker, cousin of the bride, and Paul Wheeler of Snover. The bride's mother chose a mint green print polyester floor-length gown with long bell sleeves of matching sheer material. Her corsage was white carnations and baby's breath. The groom's mother chose a floor-length gown of blue polyester knit with short cap sleeves. Her corsage was white carnations tipped in blue with baby's breath. The fathers wore tuxedos of black slacks and white jackets with shirts and carnation to match the mothers' dresses.

Grandparents attending were bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlap of Decker, and the groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ann Snelson of Snover.

A dinner reception was held for 350 guests at the St. Joseph Hall, Argyle, at 7:00 p.m. Punch was served by Theresa and Sherrie Smith, cousins of the bride. The four-tier white wedding cake, trimmed with yellow roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was made by Violet Vining of Decker. It was cut by Lillian Dunlap, Caro, great-aunt of the bride, and Phyllis Czaplak of Plymouth, aunt of the bride. It was served by Jackie Smith, Decker, sister-in-law of the bride, and Wendy Doerr, Uby.

Guests attended from Snover, Decker, Sandusky, Cass City, Caro, Gagetown, Uby, Marlette, Auburn, Coleman, Plymouth, Flint, St. Clair, Royal Oak, Westland, Richmond, Merrill, Lincoln Park, Kalkaska, Staten Island, New York, and Bonita, Calif.

The couple took a week's honeymoon in the Upper Peninsula. They went to Mackinac Island, Soo Locks, Porcupine mountains and other points of interest.

The groom is employed on a dairy farm and the bride is a bookkeeper at the Sanilac Career Center.

They are making their home on Wheeler Rd., Snover.

"If It Fitz..." Peace should be taught

By Jim Fitzgerald

There was a day in 1967 when I interviewed a man named Jesse Edwards. He was newsworthy because he was the father of the first Lapeer county boy to be killed in the Vietnam war. Jesse Edwards was still limping from a wound he had received in World War II, 24 years before his son died.

The last line of my column about that father and his son was: "We never learn..."

State Rep. Jackie Vaughn III thinks there should be a law which would help us to learn peace in school. Imagine that.

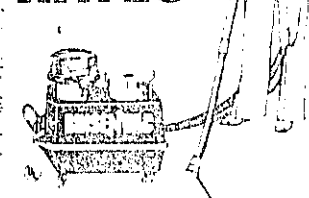

Everyone knows that history teachers teach about the Battle of Bull Run and the bombing of rice paddies. The average curriculum does not include a course in peace mongering.

Last August, Rep. Vaughn introduced House Bill No. 5280. You never heard of it. All the publicity goes to bills that would promote pot smoking, or allow dog racing. No one wants to hear about a pipe-dream bill that would require that children be taught kindness.

Vaughn's bill would amend the current school code to include this paragraph:

"Time shall be devoted in the public schools within this state to teaching the pupils kindness and justice to, and humane treatment of, human beings and the teaching of peace as opposed to war. This teaching may be through readings, stories, narratives of daily incidents, or illustrations taken from personal experiences."

A copy of this bill reached my desk courtesy of Don Gardner, former Capitol reporter who is now a lobbyist in Lansing. Attached was a note saying:

"It just occurs to me that here, for the first time in my 40 years around the Capitol, someone has the guts to say it's time we taught the kids about peace instead of war."

For instance, it would be nice if my grandchildren learned less about Gen. MacArthur and more about Jack and Judy Cumbee.

You may have missed the story of the Cumbees the other day. Certainly you never learned about them in school. People like the Cumbees are seldom the subject of sociology lectures given to 11th graders. That's the trouble.

Jack and Judy Cumbee live in Lake Orion. He is a philosophy teacher and she does part-time work for peace causes. They were in a Detroit courtroom, explaining why they refuse to pay their federal income tax.

They don't want their money used to build bombs.

finance CIA sneaks, arm dictators or any other such bloody crud.

"We fund this but we don't believe this," Judy Cumbee told U.S. Court Tax Judge William Fay. "$1.90 from every man, woman and child in this country goes to our military. It's insanity. We've got to turn around and not pursue insanity."

Judge Fay was sympathetic, but the Cumbees were wasting their breath, of course.

The law is the law, the judge said. "I know there are a lot of things in our system we disagree with, but change has to come in other ways."

Sure. The most likely way to achieve permanent peace is to kill all the people so they will no longer be able to fight each other. This method is slightly wasteful of human resources, but it doesn't violate federal tax laws.

Eventually, the Cumbees will probably pay. But it is splendid that they are willing to fight the inevitable and to insist there must be a way for people to stop hurting each other. The rest of us could learn from their example.

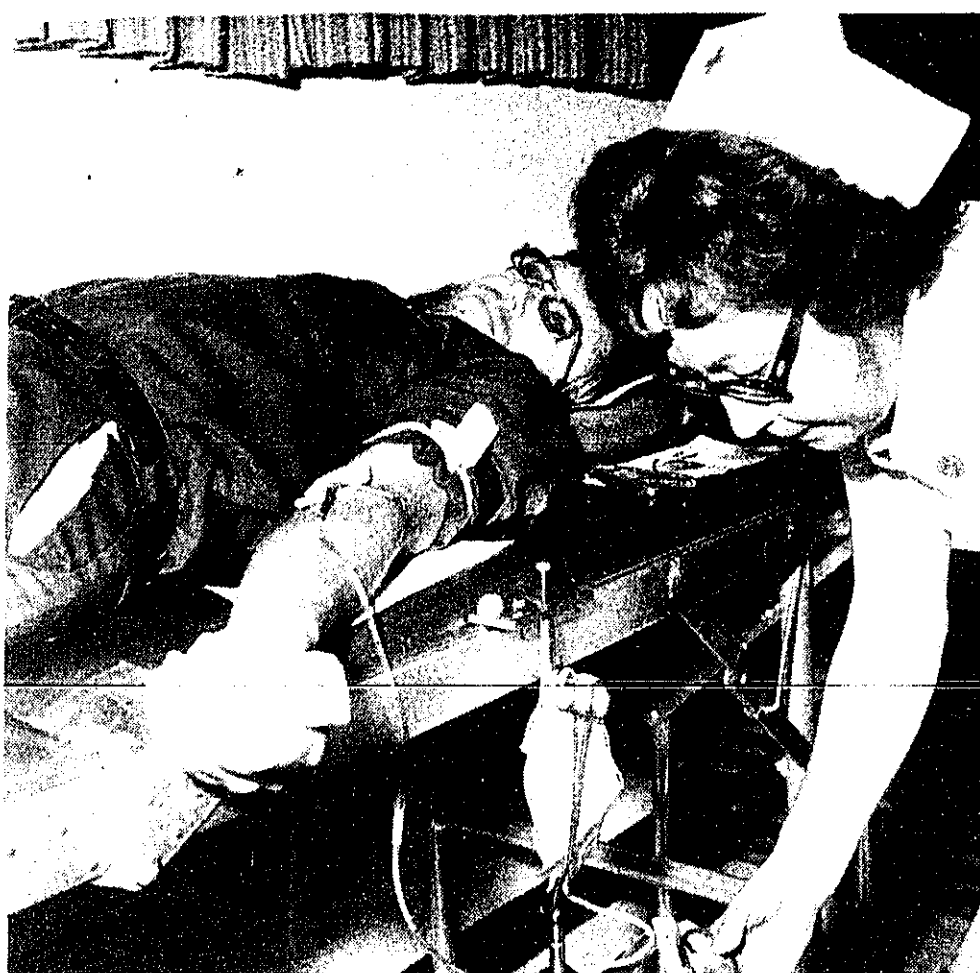

Rep. Vaughn says such learning might be accomplished in school, if only there were a law. I wish him great luck with House Bill No. 5280, which disappeared into committee two months ago.

But Vaughn is proposing to teach "peace as opposed to war." The VFW would probably call that a communist plot aimed at weakening our national defense.

And what's that stuff about kindness and humane treatment? Sounds religious. We must be careful, lest Madalyn O'Hair accuses the Legislature of praying for peace in the classroom.

If Jackie Vaughn's bill ever makes it out of committee, it probably will be so thoroughly amended that its major thrust for peace will be a provision forbidding students to manufacture nuclear weapons during class hours.

I still think we never learn. But I hope I'm as wrong as I am cynical.

GALLON DONOR -- Gene Schroeder of Severance Road gave his eighth pint -- one gallon -- of blood Wednesday, Oct. 12, during the blood drive in the St. Pancratius Catholic Church hall, sponsored by the Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary. The Red Cross nurse is Catherine Olsen, R.N., of Flint.

Cass City blood drive nets over 115 pints Wednesday

A total of 115 pints and five partial pints were collected at the blood drive Wednesday.

Oct. 12, sponsored by the Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary.

The total compares to only 69 pints collected in March at the last auxiliary-sponsored drive.

Those donating their eighth pint (one gallon) or more that were known to the blood drive workers were Michelle Zdrojewski, James Ware, Gerald Kerbyson (9 pints), Mary Kerbyson, Mary Ann Porritt, Eldon Stoutenburg (11), Gene Schroeder (9), Linda Leiterman, Jerold Little (10), Veron Gingrich, Grace Nemeth (11), Loren Gettel (16), Dave Luana, Sandra Sperry, Judy Polk (9), Gordon Okerstrom, and Jim Jezewski (10).

The blood drive, coordinated by the Flint Regional Red Cross Blood Center, was held in the St. Pancratius Catholic church hall.

Wheel-a-thon raises over $4,400

More than $4,400 in pledges and cash were raised in the wheel-a-thon conducted Saturday and Sunday by 75 teenagers and several adults at the Deford Community church.

The money raised will be used to help pay transportation expenses for Missionary church missionaries in Nigeria.

From 10 a.m. Saturday until 10 a.m. Sunday, despite a strong wind, cold rain at times, and temperatures dipping into the 30s, the wheel-a-thon participants pushed an automobile tire around the church parking lot, with pledges made for each mile. The pushers wheeled the tire 2,726 times around the one-eighth mile track for a total distance of 340.75 miles. Top pusher among the boys was Mike Flowers of Deford, who rolled the tire 13½ miles. Tops among the girls was Sheila Dunsford of Silverwood who pushed it 9½ miles. The annual event was a project of the church's youth department.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

They aren't naming any candy bars after Curt Flood. If you have followed baseball for any number of years you must remember Flood.

He was a guy genuinely concerned about his fellow man. Or at the very least, his fellow baseball players.

Concerned enough so that he challenged baseball's sacrosanct reserve clause that bound a player to a team for life. Challenged it in court all the way to the supreme court and lost. Challenged it even though he was a super star for the St. Louis Cardinals and earning super star money at the time.

Now he's working as a public relations man in industry.

Flood's case came surging back in memory, spurred by an article about him.

Flood feels that he was instrumental in helping ball players get a bigger share of the money from the owners "who made millions."

That's about as naive as challenging the owners in court. For the truth is that the owners today are still making millions and the players are still in the relative position that they always were.

Salaries are up, sure. So is everything else. Including ticket prices. Regardless of whatever new laws are enacted there is no way that the people with the bucks invested are going to lose.

Sure, selected players will wind up with contracts that seem to point to a better day for the players. They get the ink, the money and the journeymen get just about what the owners decide to pay them.

You have to have a great deal of admiration for a guy like Flood. You can challenge his "smarts" for doing it but you can't knock the man's determined integrity.

It's sad that a guy like Flood can't stay connected with the game.

I can't say that he's been blacklisted in the majors but if you expect to see him back in the game you're as naive as he was.

The guys that you will see are the Reggie Jacksons and the Billy Martins.

You'll see them because they are good for business. The Jacksons and the Martins of the world generate interest that's reflected at the turnstiles.

As long as they pull you to the TV screen or to the ball park they'll be connected with the game.

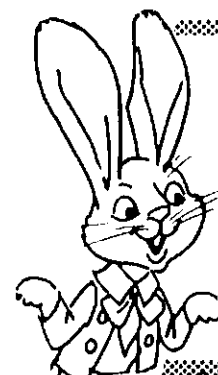

Asking for a couple of million doesn't rock the owners' boat. These guys are out to help themselves. The owners can understand that.

After all, most of them are hard headed businessmen.

What they don't understand is a guy who wants change not for himself but because he feels change is just.

They don't understand the Floods of the world and they are not about to hire them.

Besides, it's bad for business.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Northern Michigan University is a fine school with a fine campus. But it is a long way from Cass City.

But not so far that you can't get home if you want to. Beth Erla, freshman there, can vouch for that.

Two weeks ago she came trekking back to spend the week end. Last week end she made the trip again. This time she returned as the reigning home-coming queen to crown the 1977 queen.

In case you don't care to look it up, Marquette is 500 miles from Cass City.

The reason that construction has come to a standstill at the building site for the new Cass City State Bank is that the industry that furnishes the reinforced concrete deck called for in the specifications has been on strike, President Fred Auten explained, when we asked him about the lack of activity on the corner of Main and West Streets.

Just to set the record straight:

The ladies did him in, says Dick Wallace. He shares the high individual game at the Charmont with Harlan Dickinson with a 268, not the high series.

The high series at the Charmont was set by Dan Allen, 681, while L. Holcomb has the high ladies' single game, 258.

The all-time high series for the men was posted at Cass City Lanes by Alden Asher. It was 741.

We'll never quit using gas until the tanks run dry.

It's an hour ride by bus from the airport to downtown Chicago. With nothing better to do while making this trip last Thursday I took a count of 20 cars on the crowded expressway.

What I counted was the number of persons in each car. Seventeen of them were headed downtown with no passengers. One car had four persons and the final two vehicles, one passenger each.

Returning to the airport I shared a cab with four other guys and a loquacious cab driver. He regaled us with stories and anecdotes about his passengers including two women who stuck him up and another woman who turned out to be a man.

I learned he was a man when he started changing clothes in the cab. Alarmed, I told "her" to stop, he said, when "she" answered, relax, I just want to take off this dress and put on my suit before going home.

Incidentally, the way independent cabbies who lease their cabs survive is by bribing the cab dispatchers and the doormen at the big hotels. No bribes, no rides, he says.

Speaking of rip offs, how about this? At McCormick Place where the printing show was held I went to the restaurant there for lunch.

What I had was a Ruben sandwich, a bowl of Swiss noodle soup and a cup of black coffee.

What it cost, including tip, was $6.99.

I should have packed my lunch.

Quick now what holiday comes Monday, Oct. 24? If you had to look it up join the crowd. A strictly off-the-cuff poll of a half dozen persons on the main stem revealed that no one knows that Oct. 24 is now Veterans' Day.

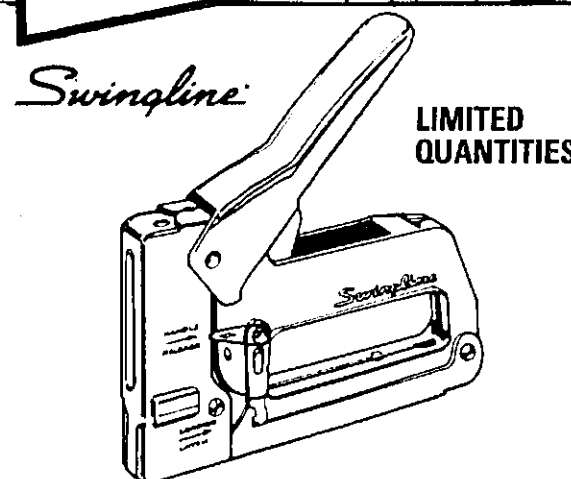

I looked it up after a note appeared on my desk telling me that the post office will be closed.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK -- As part of their study unit during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 9-15, first graders at Campbell Elementary School visited the Elkland Township Fire Hall and got rides on the fire trucks. Standing on the ends of the truck are teachers Denise Gibbs (left) and Polly Pakonen. The classes of Bonnie Bruner and Betty Kirn visited earlier. Driving the trucks and explaining the work of the department were firemen Cliff Kibbey and Paul Harmer.

A good many men of letters spend a fortune trying to get some of them back.

Cass City meetings set

Outline farmers' roll in water pollution control

The role farmers may play in water pollution control is outlined in the latest report released by the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region (ECMPDR).

The report is one of several released by the agency as part of its preparation of a federally-mandated water quality management plan for the 14 counties in the east central district.

It and the other reports, dealing primarily with future water needs and projected waste loads from municipal and industrial sewage treatment plants, will be the subject of a discussion meeting Wednesday, Oct. 26, in Cass City.

Two sessions will be held, at 3:45 and 7:30 p.m., in the home economics room at Cass City High School.

Farming comes under the category of non-point sources of pollution. In simple terms, pollution that doesn't come from a pipe.

Agricultural pollution then is divided into two categories, from cultivation of land and animal production. The pollutants get into bodies of water by run-off of soil, fertilizers, and pesticides from farm fields and animal wastes from pastures and concentrated feed lots.

Other sources of non-point pollution include forestry, mining, construction, and runoff from home waste disposal sites, landfills, and other waste disposal areas.

In order to limit pollution from farms, the preliminary report outlines various alternatives:

--Approve legislation to allow Soil Conservation Districts to require conservation plans for individual farms in designated high priority areas.

--Repeal the exemption for plowing and tilling from provisions of the Michigan Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act (ACT 347). Farmers could then sign agreements with Soil Conservation Districts providing for erosion control measures on their farms, in lieu of having to obtain Act 347 permits.

--A coordinated incentives program. County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees could establish priorities for allocation of Agricultural Conservation Program cost sharing funds in line with the goals of the region water quality plan so that "ACP" expenditures are directed toward those practices and those geographic areas where the greatest water quality benefits can be realized.

--Coordinate the activities of the Cooperative Extension Service, county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committees, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, and Soil Conservation Districts to encourage adoption of best management practices for farms through technical assistance and education.

--Broaden coverage and enforcement of state Department of Natural Resources and Michigan Department of Agriculture programs for pesticide, fertilizer, and feedlot control.

--Create discharge standards for waters leaving individual farms, in other words, require farmers to obtain permits requiring them to treat run-off leaving the farm so that a specified percentage of nutrients, chemicals, sediments, and oxygen demanding substances are removed.

The report recognizes the disadvantages to this approach, including the high cost to farmers, political resistance to implementing such a system, and the difficulty in administering it.

--Create special districts to construct treatment facilities in agricultural watersheds.

Based on suggestions made at the Cass City meeting and others conducted by the ECMPDR in the 14-county region, one of the alternatives, or a combination of alternatives, will be selected to be included in the final water quality management report to be implemented in the future.

A draft of the final plan is scheduled for completion by Dec. 30.

Another report to be discussed next week includes a review of the impact of increasing use of irrigation on future water needs in the district.

Within the 14 counties, one billion gallons of water was used for irrigating cropland in 1974, with the average per acre being 224,000 gallons.

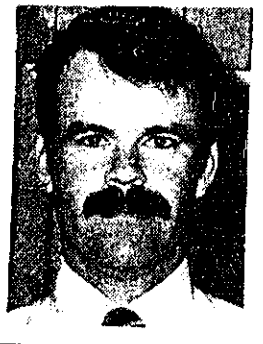

The report points out, "If a dramatic increase in irrigated cropland occurs during a dry or drought year (unless the water is taken from Saginaw Bay or Lake Huron), a number of problems may result.

"In many areas of the region, high mineralized water may intrude into shallower wells due to the large draw of water for irrigation. In addition... problems may also occur for surface water users. The large amounts of water required for irrigation especially during drought years may severely reduce the flow of a small stream being used as a surface water supply."

PEDALING AROUND

Goodbye to the Beetle

By Mike Eliasohn

May it rest in peace, that little rounded hump of metal with the engine in the back. Volkswagen of America recently announced that with the exception of the convertible, it will no longer be importing its Beetle into the United States.

The VW Rabbit made the bug outmoded and revaluation of the German mark and U.S. emission standards made it too expensive -- $3,700 for the last ones sold here. At one time, they could be driven off the showroom floor for less than $2,000.

The first car I ever owned, purchased used when I was a junior in college, was a '65 Beetle, light green in color with 40 horsepower in the back. (My 1970 Gremlin is the second car I've owned.)

Driving it was a thrill. Back then, the speed limit was 70 mph. But when starting out on a journey, the only way you could get it going that fast was if you had a long downhill at the start. Once up to 70, the only way then to keep it there was to keep the accelerator pedal flat on the floor.

Since my legs are somewhat short (as is the rest of me), to make that task easier, I made a wood block with a strap to slip over the accelerator pedal when I was out on the highway.

But if 70 mph was something in a VW, 80 was REALLY SOMETHING. That could only be done on a steep downgrade. As the car started getting light at those speeds, prayer was advisable (as was a pilot's license).

Maybe that's the way to cope with the 55 mph speed limit. If Detroit wouldn't build cars that could go over 60, everyone could have the satisfaction of going "all out" on the highway with their foot flat on the floor.

The Beetles were at their best in winter. It was in January of 1967 when I finished my fall semester final exams at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, and headed for home in Lansing. There was about three inches of snow on the ground then and it was still snowing.

It turned out that was one of the worst snowfalls this century, with two feet of snow falling before it was over. The usual 1 1/2-hour trip took 2 1/2 hours and I got a sore neck from craning to see through the small hole the wipers kept clear on my windshield, but I made it. I was only home about 15 minutes when I got a call from my parents. They only got about one block from their office, about 1 1/2 miles away, when their conventional car got stuck. Back in the car and through the snow, but the VW came through a second time.

I might add that I owned snow tires but hadn't put them on yet. Mileage was also nice. A friend and I drove my car out west the previous summer, a distance of about 4,000 miles. It averaged about 32 miles per gallon.

Another nice feature was that its air-cooled engine didn't need any antifreeze.

Granted my car had its faults. I spun off the road twice in it, once on icy pavement and the other time when I hit a big puddle. Fortunately neither the car or I was damaged. It was partly my fault, but the car being tail heavy didn't help. And I spent a lot more for repairs than I ever spent on my Gremlin. I bought it when it had about 17,000 miles on it and sold it with about 32,000. In that time, I needed a new clutch, front end bearings, generator, and speedometer cable. (The latter broke at the perfect time -- when I was on my way to a VW dealer.)

The reason I sold it was because I was going in the Army. The car was green, but by the Army's standards, it was the wrong shade.

Streets. In addition to the window, also damaged was the outside rear view mirror, and the citizens band radio power microphone, the latter damaged from beer getting inside it. Total damage was estimated at $90.

Cass City police early Sunday arrested Dean Alexander, 17, of 6244 Cedar Drive, Cass City, on a charge of driving without a license.

He was taken to the county jail, where he later that day posted $100 bond and was released, pending arraignment in circuit court. It was the third time he had been cited on the charge.

Emma Westerby of 3434 Pine Street, Kingston, told state police in Caro Monday afternoon that the battery had been stolen from her car. Value was $40.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fuester celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They were honored with a family dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Fuester have four children, ten grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Robert Profit, Cass City, was named president of the Rural Letter Carriers' Association of Sanilac-Tuscola counties, at a meeting held recently in Marlette.

Cass City cross country harriers won third, fourth, and fifth places in a meet held at the Cass City Municipal Park.

According to the Michigan Department of Conservation, the Thumb area is expected to produce the largest pheasant kill in Michigan. Estimates are based on game studies computed by rural mail carriers' observations and reports.

Cass City kept alive its hope for at least a share of the Thumb B Conference crown by defeating Vassar at the Cass City Recreation Park.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

In a group of men who left Tuscola county for the Army physical tests at Detroit, 35 were successful in passing the examinations. They will leave for Fort Custer for induction.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Cones will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. They will be honored at a dinner in the home of their daughter, Mrs. John Zinnecker. Mr. and Mrs. Cones have conducted the Deford General Store for the past 12 years.

The Office of Price Administration reported that the Tuscola county dealers of fuel oil and kerosene will be required to register with the local ration board.

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors elected Walter Kelly, Novesta supervisor, as a member of the County Department of Social Welfare. He succeeds Carl Keinath in that position.

Farmers who own trucks and truckers who are primarily engaged in hauling farm products from farms or supplies to farms can obtain assistance from the special Sanilac County Farm Transportation Committee in filling out applications for certificates of war necessity.

Cass City girl joins

Air Force

Suzanne Regnerus, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Regnerus of 3671 Englehart Rd., Cass City, has entered the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Staff Sgt. Dan Atkinson, Air Force recruiter in Caro, she will start four years' active duty March 23, undergoing six-week basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The Air Force has guaranteed that Miss Regnerus, a June graduate of Cass City High School, will then receive Morse systems operator specialist training and upon completion be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

HEALTH TIPS

Carbon monoxide a silent killer

By Frank Chappell, American Medical Association

A silent killer may be loose in your house.

The criminal is carbon monoxide (CO) a colorless, odorless, tasteless gas produced every time a carbon-containing material burns.

The American Medical Association points out that CO combines with blood 200 times more easily than oxygen. If you breathe air containing a normal amount of oxygen and a moderate amount of carbon monoxide, your blood will be starved for oxygen. When blood cannot supply oxygen to your brain, permanent brain damage or death may result.

Dangerous quantities of CO accumulate when a cool, slow fire burns in limited air space. Since you can't see, smell or taste it, the gas is hard to detect except by your symptoms -- drowsiness, headache, tightness across the forehead, confusion, nausea and muscular weakness.

CO poisoning may confuse you so that you cannot reach fresh air to relieve the symptoms and prevent serious injury.

To prevent a carbon monoxide attack in your home -- Have all heating systems checked annually for operating efficiency. Make sure that vents, pipes, flues and chimneys are tight.

Make certain your heating plant is not starved for air. Be sure that all heating devices designed for venting are properly vented to the outside.

Provide additional fresh air for charcoal grills and hibachis used indoors. Better still, don't use these charcoal cookers indoors.

Never tamper with ducts or vents of a heating device to get more heat out of it. Be sure that heating devices have been tested by a reputable firm. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations for installation and use.

When changing types of fuel, ask a qualified serviceman to adjust all appliances involved.

Don't close your fireplace damper until you are certain the fire is entirely burned out. Be sure your garage is sealed from the house. Never run the car in a closed garage.

Seminar on marriage set

A pre-marriage seminar for young Catholic couples planning on marriage before February will be given Sunday, Nov. 6, by Catholic Family Service of the Thumb area. Young couples who are interested can call the agency at 269-7931 in Bad Axe for further information or to register before Nov. 1.

The agency endeavors through the seminars to discuss the challenge of married life with the hope of avoiding some of the pitfalls and finding more of the rewards that married life offers.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters

Walkers and donors are still needed for Saturday's Big Brothers-Big Sisters walk-a-thon starting at the Cass City Recreation Park. Walk-a-thon will also be held in Caro and Vassar. Registration will start at 9 a.m. with the walks starting at 10.

Walkers will walk 10 miles, receiving pledges for each mile walked. The goal is to raise $18,000, which is more than half of the annual budget for Tuscola County BB-BB.

Pledge sheets are available at many businesses and most school offices in the county.

For more information, call Alan Kloo in Cass City at 872-3860 or the BB-BB office in Caro at 673-6996.

sports, bike riding, farming and, most of all, fishing.

There is a 12-year-old boy in Caro who likes to play baseball and football. Since he is very quiet, his Big Brother would be able to help him express his feelings more openly and develop his social skills.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters in Tuscola county is located at 230 N. State Street, Caro, telephone 673-6996; in Huron county at 121 N. Heisterman Street, Bad Axe, telephone 269-7264; in Sanilac county at P.O. Box 1, Sandusky, telephone 648-4433.

Lioness Club meets

The Lioness Club met Oct. 10 for its monthly dinner meeting at Veronica's Restaurant.

Plans were discussed and all new projects have been set up for the year.

The Christmas party meeting will be held at the home of Edith Little Dec. 12.

Everlyn Vincent from the Caro Craft Shop put on the program. Macrame was introduced to the members and a necklace was worked on during the evening.

Your Neighbor says

I don't care for 'Soap'

All of the new television shows have made their debut, and a couple have already been cancelled.

Of the new shows, there is one that Shari VanAllen especially dislikes -- the "for mature audiences" program "Soap."

"I've seen it a couple of times," she said. "I think it's kind of dumb. It doesn't make any sense."

The 16-year-old junior at Cass City High School didn't have any favorites among the new shows.

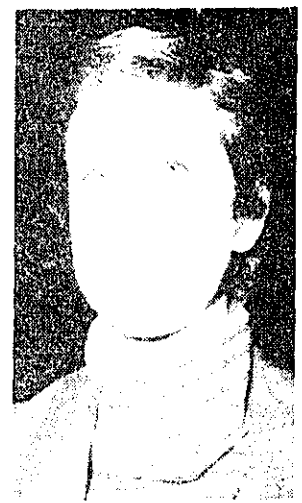

Her favorite old show is "Grizzly Adams." "I make sure I'm home every week (on Wednesday nights) to watch it," she said.

Among other shows Shari likes are "Barney Miller," "Three's Company," and "Eight is Enough."

In general, she prefers to watch comedies and movies -- especially love stories and Elvis Presley movies. She doesn't like police shows.

Shari is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug VanAllen of Severance Road.

Kazmier
Szarapski
dies Oct. 11

Kazmier Szarapski of Cass City died Tuesday, Oct. 11, at Provincial House after a long illness.

He was born March 4, 1895, in Poland, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Szarapski, coming to the United States in 1913.

Mr. Szarapski married Stephanie Pucytawski Nov. 10, 1923, in Detroit. Following their marriage, they made their home in Detroit, moving to Gagetown in 1930 and Cass City in 1943. Mr. and Mrs. Szarapski celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1973.

He was a member of St. Pancratius Catholic church of Cass City.

He is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Jean Checkeroski of Sterling Heights; four sons, Edward Szarapski of Sterling Heights, Chester Szarapski of MI, Clemens; Stanley Szarapski and Richard Szarapski, both of Cass City, and 12 grandchildren. Three brothers and three sisters preceded him in death.

A rosary was recited Thursday evening at Little's Funeral Home.

Funeral mass was conducted Friday at St. Pancratius Catholic church of Cass City with Father Joseph Morales officiating.

Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Valuations in Huron county show big jump

Proposed 1978 Huron county equalization figures show an average property valuation increase of 34 per cent, according to figures compiled by county Equalization Director George Danks.

He stresses that the figures are preliminary and subject to change and that he will meet with any township supervisor to discuss the proposed valuation.

For Brookfield township, an increase of 40 per cent in the state equalized valuation is being projected. The 1977 board of review valuation was $15,466,500. The proposed increase in state equalized valuation (SEV) is $6,157,000, for a total of $21,623,500.

For Grant township, the 1977 board of review figure was $6,561,800. The proposed increase, $2,941,100 or 45 per cent, would bring the new SEV to $9,502,900.

For all of Huron county, according to Danks, the SEV compiled last year was $350.48 million after a number of units received factors. The new figure is about $103 million higher, an increase of about 29 per cent.

The equalization director explained he presented the state with the starting figures to force local officials to justify any reductions and eliminate the possibility of overall changes in property valuation.

In the past, he said, such blanket changes have led to his being required to appear before the State Tax Tribunal to justify the changes.

Paper drive
nets 30 tons

Nearly 30 tons of newspapers were collected this past summer by the Human Development Commission (HDC).

Newspapers were picked up once a week in Cass City, Bad Axe, Vassar, and Sandusky by youth employed under the federally-funded Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth.

Any proceeds will be used by the HDC for its home winterization program.

The agency, which has its office in Caro, plans to start a similar recycling program in the future.

The collected newspapers were sold to a firm which converted them into cellulose home insulation.

SERVICE

Wickes Agriculture

Break down corn stalks faster.

Liquid nitrogen custom application.

Custom application of liquid nitrogen with the Wickes' Super Go-Boy is the fast and easy way to encourage corn stalk decomposition.

The Go-Boy's special 40-foot spray boom applies the liquid in a third of the time it normally takes. And, after spraying, just plow it under. Nitrogen solution will assist soil organisms in breaking down crop residues. This will make your nitrogen more readily available early in the season when it's needed most by growing crops.

Application with the Super Go-Boy also reduces soil compacting because there are fewer passes over the field, and it ends bothersome handling of materials.

See your Wickes Elevator manager about custom application of Big Acre liquid nitrogen and the new Super Go-Boy. It's part of the growing services from your local Wickes Elevator and Wickes Agriculture.

Owen-Gage teachers okay bargaining unit

Owendale-Gagetown teachers voted 21-3 last Thursday to be represented by the Tri-County Bargaining Association in contract negotiations with the school board.

They join teachers in the Cass City, Unionville-Sebewaing, Deckerville and North Huron districts in being represented by the Michigan Education Association affiliate in contract bargaining.

As of Monday, Owen-Gage Education Association President Manuel P. Thies didn't know when a TCBA negotiating team would be appointed and start negotiations with the school board.

Teachers in the district have been working without a contract since the old one expired Aug. 30.

Thies also said there have been no new developments since the Oct. 10 board meeting when it was revealed the district only had enough funds for one more payroll, which was last Friday, but that teachers are still working.

Angeline Wing dies Thursday in Saginaw

Mrs. Angeline Wing of Millington died Thursday, Oct. 13, at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw after an illness of six months.

She was born Nov. 30, 1927, in Ford, Ky., the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Lynch and the late Levi Lynch. Miss Lynch came to the 'Thumb area in 1942.

She married Steve Baker in 1946 in Flint. He died Sept. 3, 1957. In 1959, she married Albert Bradshaw in Port Austin. In the fall of 1967, Mrs. Bradshaw married Percy Wing, who died in March 1977.

Mrs. Wing is survived by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lynch of Millington, two sons, Steven Baker of Davisburg, and Robert Bradshaw, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Thomas (Helen) Brewer and Roxanne Bradshaw, both of Millington, two brothers, George Lynch of Cass City and Wheeler Lynch of Decker; one half brother, Albert Lynch of Dayton, Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. Lyle (Rhodie) Diller of Indian River, Mich., and Mrs. Kenneth (Susan) Error of Owendale; and one half sister, Mrs. Ralph (Alamay) Lakes of Miamisburg, Ohio. Two sons, three sisters and one brother preceded her in death.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wing were conducted Sunday afternoon from Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Eldred Kelley, pastor of the Salem United Methodist church of Cass City, officiating.

Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Echo Chapter installs officers

Echo Chapter No. 337 installation of officers was held Oct. 15 at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, Cass City.

The welcome was given by the retiring matron, Mrs. Mable Wright, and she introduced the installing officers: Matron, Mrs. Marilyn Craig of Caro; Marshall, Mrs. Sadie Randall of Kingston; Chaplain, Mrs. Madelyn Abke of Unionville, and organist, Mrs. Betty Murphy of Cass City.

The officers for 1977-78

THE WINNING FLOAT in the 1977 Cass City High School homecoming parade was created by the seniors.

THERE WAS PLENTY of competition in the annual punt, pass and kick competition sponsored by Ford and Auten Motors this fall. Six boys qualified for the regionals at Bad Axe. They were, from left, back row: Stewart Batts, 12-year-olds; Barry Lapp, 13-year-olds; John Meininger, 11-year-olds.

Front row: David Rabideau, 9-year-olds; Dan Ware, 8-year-olds; Tim Brown, 10-year-olds.

North Central D title on line in Owen-Gage - A-F battle Friday

It's the battle of the unbeaten Friday night in Owendale as the Bulldogs play host to Akron-Fairgrove in the game that will decide who wears the North Central D League crown, barring any upsets the following week.

Both teams, the only ones still undefeated in league play, have one league game left after they clash Friday night.

"Friday's game," according to Owen-Gage coach Arnie Besonen, "will be a matchup of perhaps the two best Class D teams to ever come out of the Thumb. Both teams are matched equally except that Akron-Fairgrove has the size."

This past Friday, the Bulldogs spoiled Kingston's homecoming with a 19-6 victory.

In the first quarter, Tom Howard scored for Owen-Gage.

Gage on a four-yard run. His kick failed to go through the uprights.

In the second quarter, Roger Ziehm scored on a three-yard run. Howard's attempt to kick the extra point again failed.

The Cardinals got their only score of the game in the second stanza on a 31-yard run by Dennis Morell. An attempt to run the ball for a two-point conversion failed, making the halftime score 12-6.

The final score of the game came in the third quarter on a two-yard run by Brad Erickson. Howard finally got the range as he kicked the ball through the uprights.

On the ground, the game was almost a standoff, as Owen-Gage rushed for 212 yards on 37 carries. The Cardinals gained 206 yards on 49 carries.

Top rushers for Owen-Gage were Ziehm who made 78 yards on eight carries, and Erickson, 14 for 56 yards.

Glen Smith led the Cardinals with 86 yards gained in 26 carries. Dennis Morell followed, carrying the ball 12 times for 58 yards.

The difference offensively came in the air, with Ziehm connecting on two of seven pass attempts (both to Dick Glidden) for 57 yards gained. The all-conference quarterback threw one interception.

Kingston made seven pass attempts, with no completions, and one interception.

Owen-Gage made eight first downs; Kingston, seven. The home team had one fumble; the visitors, none.

Mark McDonald led the Bulldog defense with 11 tackles, followed by Howard and Erickson, both with nine.

Bob Hunter had 10 tackles for the Cardinals; Glen Smith made seven.

Owen-Gage was penalized six times for a total of 65 yards; the home team, once for five yards.

Bulldogs close in on cage title

Owen-Gage was the victor at North Huron Tuesday night by a score of 50-41.

It was the Owen-Gage girls' basketball team alone on top of the North Central D League last week as it won two games, while the only other undefeated squad until then, North Huron, dropped one to Akron-Fairgrove.

Tuesday night, Oct. 11, the Bulldogs downed Kingston at Kingston, 53-28.

Caseville lost at Owendale Thursday night, 59-38.

Mary Lenhard led the Bulldogs against Kingston, shooting 60 per cent from the floor and scoring a total of 21 points. She had 14 rebounds, second to Laurie Andrakowicz, who grabbed 18. Second high scorer was Dawn Erickson with 10 points.

Owen-Gage had 50 rebounds to 15 for Kingston.

Top scorer for the Cardinals was Debbie Legg with 13 points.

The Owen-Gage reserve squad also won, 39-23.

In Thursday's 59-38 downing of Caseville, Carol Goslin was top scorer for Owen-Gage with 28 points. Mary Lenhard was next with 14 points and nine rebounds. Laurie Andrakowicz had nine rebounds.

The Bulldogs had 30 rebounds; Caseville, 26. Top scorer for the visitors was Karen Leach with 18 points.

In the reserve game, Owen-Gage came out on top, 33-15.

This week, the Bulldogs played Tuesday night at North Huron in a game that could decide the league championship. Thursday night they play at Port Austin and Tuesday, Oct. 25, play host to Peck.

Pheasant count up here

The ringneck pheasant hunting season starts Thursday, with fewer pheasants available than last year, according to the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Although the overall count in southern Michigan is down 23 per cent from a year ago, one exception is in Tuscola, Sanilac, and Huron counties. Although the numbers are up in the three Thumb counties, the gains are from a light population a year ago, so overall, hunting prospects aren't that good.

On a scale of relative pheasant population from highest to lowest, the eastern portion of Tuscola county, western third of Huron county, and southwestern portion of Sanilac county rank "medium." The rest of the area in the three counties ranks either "lowest" or in-between that and "medium."

Pheasant counts for the DNR are made in August by rural mail carriers. The average count this year in lower Michigan was 2.7 broods per 10 carrier days, as compared to 3.5 last year.

Based on that, the DNR is estimating 500,000 ringnecks will be harvested this season, as compared to 680,000 a year ago. This year's estimate, however, is up considerably from the 400,000 or less harvested between 1967 and 1972. Last winter's severe temperatures are blamed for the decrease this year.

The pheasant hunting season ends Nov. 10. Bag limits are two male birds daily.

LEGAL NOTICE

In accordance with the provisions of Act No. 300 of the Public Acts of 1949, as amended, The Board of Tuscola County Road Commissioners did, at a regular meeting of said Board held on September 15, 1977 determine that a bridge on Elmwood Road over the North Branch of the Cass River located in Section 34, Elkhart Township be posted for a weight limit not to exceed eight (8) tons gross. This limit to be effective immediately upon posting of the necessary signs.

WALLY LAMING ran for his longest gain of the night on this play. Chasing him on the play are Rick Christner (32) and Dave Damm.

BEHIND THE ABLE blocking of Steve Ballard (11) Clarke Haire scammed for 18 yards on this play. The Hawks lost in overtime, 22-21.

Harriers in loop meet here

The first cross country Thumb B Conference meet ever to be held in Cass City is slated Monday at Cass City Recreational Park.

Heavy favorites will be Marlette which has the strongest team in the league. Cass City finished with a 5-8 mark and showed steady improvement.

The Hawks won on a forfeit from Sandusky before losing to the Lakers, 20-35. In the Laker loss the Hawks had seven runners break 19 minutes for the three miles for the first time.

Steve Richards showed the way with 17:21 good for third place. Scott Fisher was fifth with a time of 17:54. Other Hawks breaking 19 minutes were: Bob Clark, 18:12; John Tuckey, 18:35; Chuck Clark, 18:46; Mark Mozen, 18:49; Craig Kelley, 18:52. Under 20 minutes were Todd Comment (19:14), Bill Mitchell (19:15) and Dave Mocan (19:46).

Mozen was named runner of the week for his excellent finish in Marlette's meet of champions. He placed second for Cass City.

Hawks face Caro Friday

Overtime loss to Lakers ruins title chances for Red Hawks

Plagued by the same errors that have afflicted the team all season the Cass City Red Hawks dropped from title contention in the Thumb B Conference last Friday.

The Hawks lost to the Lakers, 22-21, in overtime in a game that could have been won.

The Hawks will simply be playing out the season now against other conference teams that have losing records.

The traditional Caro game this Friday has none of the luster that many of the Tiger-Hawk contests have had in years past. Caro has won only one game in its worst season in many years.

Despite the record Cass City will rate as no more than an even bet to win against the Tigers at Caro.

Cass City won everything but the game against the Lakers. The turning point came in the third quarter when Cass City had moved for a first down on the Laker five-yard line.

On the first play, Cass City was detected holding and a glorious opportunity to put the game away went fleeing by the boards.

Cass City rolled to a big 14-point lead in the first half and then watched the visitors rally to dominate the game.

Starting at midfield the Hawks rolled on the ground to the nine-yard line. From there Jeff Hartel tossed a pass into the right corner of the end zone where Scott Richards jumped high to pull it in with two defenders all around him.

Paul Harmer converted the first of three successful extra point kicks and Cass City was in front, 7-0.

The Hawks continued to roll through the Lakers late in the first quarter and in the early moments of the second period. Sparked by runs by Clarke Haire, Cass City pushed for a first down on the three from where Haire rammed over for the marker.

That ended Cass City's scoring in the regular session. The Lakers got on the board on a bad snap from center over the head of punter Shane French which was grounded for a safety.

In the second half the Lakers started dominating the Hawks picking up yardage almost at will through the right side of the Hawk line.

Tom Oesch netted the first marker on a 40-yard scamper around Cass City's left end. A run for the extra point failed.

The Lakers tied the score with less than 2 minutes left in the game. It was power football all the way.

The Laker front wall blew out the Hawk defensive line and moved on the ground eating up yardage in big chunks. Oesch rammed over from the two. With the score tied 14-14 the Hawk forward wall broke through and blocked the attempt for extra point to send the game into overtime.

Cass City took the ball first in overtime and scored as Haire dived over from the one. Harmer's kick made it a seven-point lead.

But the Lakers were not to be denied. They rolled over the Hawks on the ground as they did all of the last quarter. The visitors scored in three plays.

On the crucial extra point Rick Christner took the ball over Cass City's left side and scored the winning two points without being touched.

Haire led Cass City's attack with 155 yards in 24 attempts. The statistics:

1st downs	9	10
Rushing yds.	195	189
Passes att.-comp.	13-7	5-3

Vassar dominates golf competition

Cass City's golf team ended its season with the Thumb B Conference meet at Frankenmuth and the regionals at Bad Axe.

The Hawks finished fifth in the tournament and the placing resulted in a sixth place in the overall league standings.

As expected, Vassar dominated the league meet.

Jim Gohsman was the medalist, winning a playoff with teammates Mark Bates and Linda Drillick, of Marlette. Gohsman shot a par, Bates a bogey and Drillick a double bogey in the one-hole sudden death play-off.

The team scores: Vassar, 164; Bad Axe, 170; Frankenmuth, 179; Marlette, 183; Cass City, 184; Lakers, 185; Sandusky, 190; Caro, 202.

In the regionals, Rick Sump of Bad Axe was the medalist with a 77.

Cass City just missed qualifying for State competition, finishing fourth. The placings: Bad Axe, 368; Capac, 390; Marlette, 394; Cass City, 396.

Senior Mike Richards of Cass City shot a fine 85 to finish second among the 54 golfers competing.

Other Cass City golfers posted these scores: Jim Molnar, senior, 91, fourth best of the day; Tim Johnson, 106, and Scott Krueger, 114.

ALL CONFERENCE

The league's all-conference team was also named. Vassar placed four players, Jim Carlisle, Jim Gohsman, Mark Bates and Terry Franko. Others selected were: Eric Sump, Bad Axe, and Ross Voska, Frankenmuth.

Donald Hendricks burn wood to cut fuel bill

Winter might be on the way, bringing with it visions of ever increasing heating fuel bills, but the Donald Hendrick family isn't worried.

Despite record cold temperatures last year, Mr. and Mrs. Hendrick only spent about $100 for fuel oil last winter. The year before they spent $80.

Their "secret" is firewood, which they burn in a stove and heater.

The couple and their five children admittedly have an advantage over families who might want to try using the fuel. The Hendricks have a woodlot on the rear of their 40 acres on Green Road, west of Cass City.

Although their farm home may be as much as 100 years old, the only source of heat when they bought the place five years ago was an oil furnace in the basement.

The furnace was too small to heat the 11-room house adequately, they found, so they went looking for something additional.

The six-burner wood stove was purchased from a woman in Frankenmuth, who was using it in an auxiliary kitchen. It apparently was made in 1935, based on the instruction card that came with it.

The wood heater, age unknown, was purchased from a Caro area farmer, who was using it to heat a milking parlor.

The kitchen stove doesn't keep much more than the kitchen warm. If it gets too hot, Mrs. Hendrick explained, the top of the unit could warp.

Mrs. Hendrick doesn't do much cooking on the stove, preferring to use her modern electric range alongside.

The wood burner is best for providing long, slow heat, such as for simmering chili and canning. It's also good for popping popcorn and neighbors like to bring over their chestnuts for roasting.

She did try baking a loaf of bread in it once, but the results were less than satisfactory. Mrs. Hendrick has concluded there is a technique required for cooking on a wood burning stove, but "I haven't figured it out that good yet."

Son Harold, 6, tried some cooking of his own with the stove about three years ago. He put an unopened can of tuna fish in the oven. It exploded, blowing the oven door open, and scattering tuna fish all over, including the ceiling.

The stove isn't used in warmer months as it would make the kitchen too hot.

As it's made of cast iron, the stove is very heavy, possibly 1,500 pounds, Hendrick guessed. When the middle section was brought into the kitchen, "four of us had our hands full," he said.

The wood-burning cast iron heater sits in the parlor next to the kitchen. It and the stove provide enough heat so that the Hendricks usually only need to use their furnace in January and February.

There are no ducts from either, so that the only heat upstairs is that which drifts up the stairs and through the floor grates.

The Hendricks set their thermostat at 65 degrees, so the oil furnace doesn't start up unless the inside temperature drops below that.

On a cold winter day, Mrs. Hendrick explained, the furnace doesn't come on until about 2 or 3 a.m. when the fire dies down.

And if one of their older children comes in around 11 or 12 at night and throws a log or two in the heater, there is enough heat all night so that the furnace doesn't come on at all.

If unattended late at night, the fire in the heater will die down but keep burning. The stove fire burns out and has to be restarted.

The firewood is a clean burning fuel, according to Hendrick. "I don't think it's worse than fuel oil. As long as it's vented right, you get very little smoke."

He figures that he saved

$700 in heating fuel oil bills last year.

However, since he cuts his own wood, assisted by son Donald II, 15, he really doesn't know whether he would save any money if he had to buy the wood.

And since when he needs wood, he can go out and cut some (though preferably he uses some already cut and dried), he doesn't know how much wood he burns during the winter.

He said one big piece of wood and some smaller logs or branches are enough to keep the heater burning all night.

Hendrick farms the family's 40 acres and raises hogs. Mrs. Hendrick works at Walbro Corp. In addition to Harold and Donald II, their other children, all living at home, are Cheryl, 19, Sharon, 17, and Marica, 9.

Despite the advantages of burning wood, the Hendricks have their stove and heater up for sale.

It's not that they're going "modern." If they can sell both units, they plan to buy a larger wood-burning heater for their parlor, with an automatic thermostat and a fan to better dissipate the heat.

HEATER - This is the Hendricks' wood burning heater in the parlor, with wood stacked alongside. The two units can also burn coal, although the Hendricks don't use it.

LIGHTING UP -- With an assist from daughter Marica, Donald Hendrick puts some wood into the family's wood-burning cast iron stove. Their conventional electric range is to the left.

Women's Clubs

Marlette hosts convention

The 55th annual convention of the East Central District, Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, was held Oct. 6, in the Juhl Hope Lutheran church in Marlette.

Elected officers were: president, Mrs. William Cullen, Flushing; first vice-president, Mrs. Howard Jaynes, Vassar; secretary, Mrs. Lynn Holden, Ithaca; and treasurer, Mrs. Sydney Dunkerley, Saginaw. A total of 152 women from nine counties attended the convention, including six Sanilac county clubs.

Hostess clubs and their presidents are Altrusa Marlette Club - Mrs. Joseph Burecki; Marlette Philomatheon Club - Mrs. Len Sullivan; Marlette Research Club - Mrs. Alex Heussner; Snover Literary Club - Mrs. Winston Dorman; Brown City

Woman's Club - Mrs. Ronald Shadley; Deckerville Woman's Club - Mrs. Emerson Rose.

The luncheon and banquet were arranged by the Snover Literary Club. Hostesses were Mrs. Everett Russell and Mrs. Russell Adam. Presiding at the luncheon was Mrs. George Snyder, East Central District, junior director.

Mrs. Wayne Finkbeiner, president of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, addressed the afternoon session. Workshops were ways and means, social problems, home life, and public affairs.

A reception was held at 5:30 p.m. to honor past presidents in Sanilac county, MSFWC and ECD Officers.

State Rep. Quincy Hoffman spoke at the evening banquet.

Honored for being organized 50 years were the Gage-town Woman's Club, Snover Literary Club, and Otter Lake Literary Club; organized 75 years, the Akron Woman's Club.

While many people think of women's clubs as being primarily social, according to Mrs. W.L. Price of the Snover club, they are actually made up of groups organized for varied aims and purposes, such as literary, educational, industrial, state and community improvement associations. They serve on international, national, state, and local levels in the areas of conservation, education, fine arts, home life, Girls Town, and public affairs.

Letters to the Editor

Seeks more applause for band

Dear John,

I am writing concerning Friday night's homecoming performances by the Laker and Cass City Bands. I was greatly pleased by the warm reception given the Laker Band for their fine pre-game performance.

What disturbs me is that the audience did not award the Marching Red Hawks - their own, home town band, the same courtesy. I realize that the Lakers were in uniform. The fact that our new uniforms were not here is not the fault of the band. Clothes do not make the BAND! The 104 students who make up the Marching Red Hawks work just as hard, if not harder, due to the increased numbers. I feel the crowd was greatly remiss in not providing these people their only reward - acknowledging applause. Thank you for your consideration.

Proctor lauds local hospital

Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan 48726

Dear Editor:

I've had the nicest experience this past week which will surely surprise many of your readers.

For months I've postponed a visit to the hospital with good reason. But last Wednesday, I began the preparation. Now you know no one is supposed to enjoy the anticipation of surgery. I am no exception. But I was greeted by the staff at Hills & Dales with more than courtesy. We have so many wonderful people at our hospital. From admissions, lab, X-ray, nursing assistants, anesthetist, surgical staff, recovery and three shifts of fine nurses, I was in good hands.

I've had experience in hospitals. No where could you find better care than in our Hills & Dales. I feel sorry for those whose special needs can not be met locally. The fine and even loving care given by everyone at our hospital helped make my recovery fast and strong.

I'm thankful for the fantastic skill of our new surgeon, Dr. H. Jeung! His compassion and total commitment makes him a most welcome addition to our fine staff.

I could have had my surgery out of town, but I've recovered faster with the great skill and care at Hills & Dales. We've just got a great asset in Cass City. Our hospital deserves our support in every way. I've been there and I know. I'm a pleased patient of Hills & Dales. My thanks to every person involved in providing our town with this great care.

Zontians recall 20 years in Cass City at luncheon

Forty-five Zontians and friends attended the Zonta 20th anniversary luncheon Saturday at Wildwood Farms.

Luncheon was followed by a social hour to mark the milestone of the club.

Helen Baker, charter member and chairman, acted as master of ceremonies. There were six charter members attending.

Audrea Francis of the Saginaw club, past international president, who helped organize the Cass City club, gave an inspiring message.

Area director Gloria Reed gave her message of "What Now" after a successful 20 years of service.

District 15 Governor Zillah Meeker told of new goals and membership.

Charter member Esther McCullough gave a report on the club's 20 years of accomplishments and reminisced about its problems.

When the Cass City club was organized, it was called a trial club as no clubs were organized then in communities under 25,000 population. At that time, Cass City's population was around 1,600.

Shirley Buschlen is current president of the club and introduced the speakers for the program.

There are cheaper tractors

October 15, 1977

Dear Mr. Haire,

I would like to comment on Mike Eliasohn's column in the Cass City Chronicle, Oct. 13. I am in total agreement with him concerning the need for an annual Expo in Michigan. What with the agricultural and machinery needs, such a show is most worthwhile.

It is necessary, however, I feel to dispel a couple of incorrect illusions in his article. The first is that Steigers cost $100,000 plus. Only one, the Tiger, carries a full list price in excess of the above mentioned figure. Had he asked he would have found that the other six Steigers on exhibit actually ranged in price from about $35,000 to $64,000.

To say that the tractor would probably take an acre to turn around on shows Mr. Eliasohn's lack of agricultural knowledge, which he freely admits in the article. Another question or a little research would show an actual turning radius of 17.5 feet to the center of the drawbar. However, because of the horsepower size of this machine the implement width actually determines the turning radius and this could add an element of credence to his remark.

It is appreciated by my company and myself that you chose to mention Steiger and to insert a picture of the Tiger in your paper but let's be accurate and tell a more representative story about the exhibitors and their products and by this promote the 1977 and any future Michigan Expo.

Yours truly,

Keith Wills

Commissioners endorse Brown road package

A "Transportation Accountability Package" being offered by State Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, has been endorsed as "the most sensible approach to transportation funding" by the Tuscola County Road Commission.

"The Brown package recognizes the desperate need of local township roads for a continued assured source of revenue, as well as the need for greater funding," said road commission chairman Harvey Eno.

He noted that Brown's plan calls for an increased percentage of the Motor Vehicle Highway Funds to flow to township local roads, boosting the local share statewide.

For the first time, the distribution would specify that four per cent of the counties' share would be allocated to the local township road system, which is desperately in need of increased funding.

The Tuscola County Road Commission would get about $613,000 of new money annually from rebates of state gas and weight taxes under the Brown package. "Compared to the $1.8 million received from that source for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1977, our revenue would increase almost one-third," said Eno.

"That amount won't attend to all the needs that have been identified, but it will certainly help," said Eno.

"We are most heartened by the Brown package's realism on the separation of highway and transit funding. We think it therefore stands a better chance of passage than the Milliken-Ryan legislation, which would co-mingle highway and transit funds and force highway users to support costly transit systems," he said.

Under the Brown legislation, $74.9 million of new transit funding would be provided by 25 per cent of the existing sales tax derived from new and used car dealers, parts and accessory dealers, and gasoline stations.

The Brown package, like the Milliken-Ryan proposal, calls for a two-cent per gallon increase in gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and motor vehicle weight tax increases. The Brown proposal weight tax increase would average 25 per cent. The Milliken-Ryan proposal weight tax increase would average 31 per cent.

But the Brown package reserves all of the new taxes on users for state, county and city highway, road and street purposes. The gas and diesel tax would yield $95.4 million of new money and the weight tax increase would yield about $41.3 million of new money, for a total of $136.7 million of new funds for roads statewide.

COMING DOWN -- Demolition of the old Owendale High School got underway Friday. This was the scene Saturday as workmen were using hand tools to demolish the roof and walls without damaging the adjoining structures, which will remain intact.

Smoke detectors — The life they save may be your own

For about the same price as a blender, toaster or food grinder, you can install a smoke alarm that could save your house and family.

A smoke detector may have saved the life of a young woman living in a mobile home on Kelly Road last Dec. 31. A Christmas present still in the box and sitting on a table, it went off when a wood stove overheated.

The woman was awakened, she called the Elkland Township Fire Department, and firemen were able to extinguish the fire with only $500 damage resulting.

"A residence catches fire every 45 seconds in the U.S., adding up to 1,900 per day and more than 700,000 annually, claiming an estimated 6,500 lives, one-quarter of whom are under 14," according to Dr. Richard G. Pfister, Michigan State University extension safety engineer.

Of those who die from household fires, some succumb to burns, but three times as many die from smoke inhalation — breathing deadly toxic gases released into the air when common household furnishings burn.

"Most home fires, rather than starting with a burst of flame, start by smoldering, producing a lot of smoke. Detectors, properly placed in the home, should give occupants plenty of time to escape once the alarm is sounded," Pfister said.

Smoke detectors are easily installed, self-contained units that operate on batteries or can be plugged into existing electrical systems. The two types listed by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission are the ion-chamber detector (battery or electric power) and the photoelectric detector (electric power only).

The ion-chamber detector uses a radioactive source to produce electrically charged molecules (ions) in the air. This sets up an electric current within the detector chamber. When smoke enters it, current flow is reduced and the alarm is triggered. Concern about radiation hazard from the detector does not appear to be justified.

Photoelectric smoke detectors have an "electric eye" which responds to extremely small quantities of smoke. When smoke bounces light into the eye, current flow is reduced and the alarm is triggered.

The unit contains a bulb which will have to be periodically replaced; and those ionization units that operate on a battery will likely have to be replaced each year.

Be sure the product has the Underwriters' Laboratory or Factory Mutual labels. Read the guarantee carefully and understand under what conditions the manufacturer will honor it.

One smoke detector installed outside the bedroom area on the ceiling or wall may provide basic protection for the average home.

If the dwelling is a two-story structure with bedrooms on both floors, two units are recommended — one outside each bedroom area.

A mix of photoelectric and ionization units provides some advantages. The ionization units generally respond quickest to fires without much smoke, while photoelectric units respond quickest to smoldering fires.

An additional unit may be installed at the head of the basement stairs if the homeowner wants more protection.

More information about smoke detectors and where to locate them in the home may be obtained from county extension offices. Ask for AFIS publication 360, "Smoke Activated Fire Alarms."

Two area residents escaped serious injury when their cars ran into trains.

Julius Mays, 66, of Caro, was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital after his car struck a train Friday night.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was southbound on Garner Road, south of Gilford Road in Gilford township, when his car ran into about the middle of a Chesapeake & Ohio train, which was headed southwest.

The car glanced off and came to rest alongside the tracks.

Gretchen M. Spaetzel, 18, of Ubyly, according to Huron county deputies, ran into a C&O train at 9:10 a.m. Saturday while westbound on Wadsworth Road, about three miles south of Bad Axe.

She told officers she saw the train but was unable to stop in time, turned to the right, and skidded sideways into the train, which pushed the car into a ditch.

She was treated for bruises and abrasions and released from Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Paul A. Pattee, 73, of 3943 W. Argyle Road, Snover, was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital, where he was taken after an accident Sunday night.

Caro state police said he was eastbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, east of Koepfgen Road, and went onto the north shoulder of the road, then struck the westbound car of Jeffrey E. Guigar, 17, of Rt. 2 Frieberg Road, Ubyly.

Pattee was ticketed by troopers on a charge of driving left of center.

Timothy M. Loeffler, 21, of Gagetown, suffered bruises and abrasions Saturday afternoon when the tractor-trailer he was driving jackknifed and landed in a ditch on Sebe-waig Road, about three miles west of Owendale.

Huron county deputies said Loeffler slowed for a vehicle ahead. The truck then went out of control on the wet pavement and skidded 100 feet into the ditch.

No injuries were reported Wednesday morning, Oct. 12, when a Cass City school bus collided with a car.

Village police said Agnes L. Erla, 37, of 6779 Pine Street, started to turn left from Rose Street onto southbound Seeger Street.

She had to stop suddenly when a car ran a red light and her car was struck in the rear by the bus, which was about half-full of passengers. Driver of the bus was Fred L. Fulcher, 60, of 8750 Van Dyke Road. The accident happened at 8:25 a.m.

Two out-of-state drivers met for an unfortunate reason in Cass City.

According to village police, Flavia A. Murch, 64, of West Branch, Iowa, was backing out of a parking place at the Big D Restaurant at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13, and backed into a parked car. Owner of the other vehicle was Arnold Elmer of Watsonville, Calif.

Deputies Saturday afternoon reported that Tyrone J. Allen, 19, of Morgan City, La., was westbound on Decker-ville Road at Orr Road when he stopped. The car behind him, driven by Ruth A. Shaw, 24, of 5264 Innis Road, Decker, stopped. Allen then started backing up and backed into the Shaw auto.

Caro state police reported Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 12, that Sandra A. Pattison, 25, of Reese, northbound on Sheridan Road, north of Pebble Creek Drive, started turning into a private drive when her car was struck in the left side.

Driver of the other vehicle, who was passing the Pattison car, was Harold C. McLaughlin, 60, of Harrison Road, Kingston.

Scott A. Fisher, 16, of Rt. 1 Daus Road, Cass City, was cited by Cass City police Sunday morning on a charge of making an improper right turn (from wrong lane).

They said he was westbound on Main Street at Weaver Street when he attempted to turn right from the left lane and turned into the path of a car which was in the right westbound lane.

The other driver, Hattie A. Zapawa, 54, of Sterling Heights, swerved to miss the collision and went off the road, with her car striking a sign post.

A collision was reported at 3:40 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 12. Village police said Elisa R. Lyons, 39, of Stevens Road, Kingston, southbound on Weaver Street, pulled into the path of Vincent C. Sattelberg, 48, of Unionville, who was westbound on Main Street.

crops in the spring. As for corn, it's too early to tell yet what effect all the rain has had. Both the corn and wheat programs are handled by the county ASCS offices.

The big disaster, of course, has been with dry beans.

Bob Wischmeyer, Wickes Agriculture manager in Cass City, estimated Tuesday that only about 40 per cent of area bean acreage has been harvested so far. James Turner, manager of the Blount Agriculture elevator in Gagetown, guessed about half the crop has been harvested so far.

Both said about 20 per cent of the beans coming in at present are bad.

Although a field might look bad, Wischmeyer explained, farmers really don't know the condition of their crop until they harvest it.

He guessed that maybe 5-10 per cent of the fields never will get harvested.

Corn is now coming in to both elevators. The Cass City elevator got their first corn in Monday; in Gagetown, last Wednesday (Oct. 12). One problem that hasn't materialized yet because of the slow harvest was the expected shortage of storage space.

Offsetting part of the huge loss in bean yields for farmers will be the big jump in prices, reflecting the reduced yields in Michigan and in Canada, which is also suffering from rain problems.

Bouck, who also farms near Pigeon, said the price for top quality beans is up to $20, about twice what it was a month ago.

That won't help all farmers though, he explained. Many farmers sold their beans on contract and now won't have enough on their own to fulfill their contracts. That means they will have to buy some and it will cost them more to do that than the price specified in their contracts.

End near for studded snow tires

Michigan's studded snow tire era should click to an end this winter, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Michigan's studded snow tire era should click to an end this winter, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

The firm that produced Perma-T Grippers discontinued them in 1976, and when the existing stud supply is exhausted, no more will be available.

Michigan motorists whose vehicles already are equipped with the approved tires and studs may use them on Michigan roads north of a line from Mason to Arenac counties from Oct. 1 to May 1. Below that line, they are permitted from Nov. 15 to April 1.

Michigan motorists traveling state roads with illegal studs or with legal studs outside the set time periods are subject to a fine of up to $100 and/or a jail sentence of up to 90 days, the Auto Club warns.

It is the practice of Michigan State Police to extend to out-of-state motorists traveling Michigan roads the same privileges for studded tires permitted in their home states, Auto Club notes.

Studs are illegal at any time in Wisconsin, Ontario, Hawaii, Illinois, Louisiana, Minnesota, Mississippi and Texas. (Minnesota permits out-of-state motorists with studded tires to drive on its roads for 30 days.)

Thirty states and the District of Columbia allow studs, with varying time restrictions. Twelve states have no restrictions.

Some say it's meaningless

Owen-Gage transfer vote Saturday

OWEN-GAGE DISTRICT -- Areas marked by diagonal lines are the territories that are the subject of Saturday's election concerning detachment of property to other school districts. The two areas within the dotted lines are to be considered for transfer to other districts by the State Board of Education after the final Supreme Court ruling on other transfers.

Saturday's election in the Owendale-Gagetown school district, depending on whom one talks to, is either very important or meaningless.

The ballot question is whether certain property should be transferred from Owen-Gage to either the Cass City or Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port (Lakers) School District.

In fact, of the five territories named in the ballot proposal, four have already been transferred to either Cass City or Lakers. Conceivably, they could be transferred back to Owen-Gage based on the final outcome of various court cases.

The five territories, if included as part of the Owen-Gage district, constitute almost one-fourth of its area and $9 million in state equalized valuation, based on the SEV used for December, 1976 tax bills, according to Supt. Ronald G. Erickson. Total valuation of the district, including the five, is $34 million.

Polls in the Brookfield township hall in Owendale will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

The ballot question reads: "Shall the transfer of the following territories, the total of which exceeds 10 per cent of the taxable valuation, from the Owendale-Gagetown Area Schools to the Cass City Public Schools and Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port Public Schools be approved?"

Voting in favor of the Owen-Gage School Board's position that the parcels should remain in the district requires a "no" vote.

The board approved putting the question on the ballot on the advice of its attorney, James F. Schouman, after the state appeals court rejected the board's appeal of the transfer by the State Board of Education of the Goslin parcel to the Cass City district.

The appeals court decision -- that the board did not have legal standing to appeal -- was upheld by the Michigan Supreme Court Sept. 21.

Schouman in behalf of the board has now filed a request with the supreme court for a rehearing. A court decision on the rehearing request isn't expected for about two months.

The reason for the election, according to Supt. Ron Erickson, is twofold:

First, state law says that when more than 10 per cent of a school district is to be transferred to another district, electors in the district from which the detachment is to be made must approve the transfer.

The legal question concerning the various property transfer cases in Owen-Gage is whether each transfer petition must constitute more than 10 per cent of the district to require the vote -- as those seeking the transfers claim -- or whether a vote is required when the individual territories to be transferred, when added together, constitute more than 10 per cent. The latter is the position of the Owen-Gage board and its attorney.

The vote Saturday will have no immediate significance. The second reason for its being held is that the results could be presented as evidence by Schouman in future court battles to show the feelings of the residents of the district.

"This vote might not count," Erickson said, "but it's stating that the people of this district want this school."

The five territories named on the ballot are:

1) The Elenbaum parcel -- in Grant and Brookfield townships (Huron county), constituted 8.4 per cent of Owen-Gage district. Is now part of Lakers district; Owen-Gage appeal is now in Ingham County Circuit Court.

2) Goslin parcel -- Mostly in Elmwood township, partly in Columbia township (Tuscola county), constituted 9.3 per cent of Owen-Gage. Since appeals court ruling in August, is part of Cass City district; Owen-Gage seeking rehearing from supreme court.

3) Belk parcel -- In Grant township, constituted 2.8 per cent of Owen-Gage. Is now part of Cass City; appeal of Owen-Gage in Ingham circuit court.

4) Voelker parcel -- In Brookfield township, constituted less than 1 per cent of Owen-Gage. Now part of Lakers; Owen-Gage appeal in Ingham circuit court.

5) Parker parcel -- In Grant township, less than 1 per cent of Owen-Gage, of which it is still a part. Lakers School Board petitioned to have the parcel annexed to its district.

which the state board of education ultimately approved, despite the two property owners involved wanting to stay in Owen-Gage. The annexation is still in Ingham circuit court.

The results of Saturday's election may be a foregone conclusion, assuming most of the dissidents live in the territories being annexed to the other districts.

With all but the Parker parcel now in either the Cass City or Lakers districts -- unless reversed some time in the future by the courts -- the residents of those territories won't be voting Saturday.

One of the attorneys for most of those seeking to join other districts, Robert Kleeb of Howell, said he has advised his clients not to vote. "We told them not to vote," he said. "They're not entitled."

He and his partner, James Barley, have contended the election is meaningless as the Supreme Court has now denied the attempt by Owen-Gage to halt the transfer of the Goslin parcel to the Cass City district.

They also contend the high court decision clears the way for the transfer of other parcels, in cases currently lodged in Ingham County Circuit Court.

Kleeb called the election, "A useless purpose and a waste of public funds."

Cost of the election, according to Supt. Erickson, is about $500.

Shooting guilty plea rejected; 3 sentenced on drug charges

Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley Monday rejected a guilty plea from Nora Mae Cole to a reduced charge of felonious assault.

Mrs. Cole, 45, of Caro, is charged with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the June 18 shooting of her ex-son-in-law, Basim Ahmad Hmeidani, at her home on Mertz Road. The victim was hospitalized for a time but later recovered.

Mrs. Cole said at her court appearance Monday that the shooting was in self defense.

If that were true, the judge said, there were no grounds for accepting her guilty plea to felonious assault. He therefore rejected her plea, which was made in a plea bargain agreement with the prosecution. She will now be tried on the original charge.

In cases Oct. 11 before Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements:

Three Caro men, each charged with delivery of phencyclidine, were sentenced.

In a plea bargain with the prosecution, each pleaded guilty to the charge Aug. 25. In exchange for the plea, Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn asked the court to dismiss other charges against them and that they not be sentenced to prison. All three had been arrested by officers of the now-defunct Thumb Intelligence Group.

George S. Buniack, 21, of Rt. 3 Hurds Corner Road, was placed on two years' probation. He was sentenced to one day in the county jail, with credit given for one day served. Drug counseling was ordered. He was fined $150 and assessed $250 court costs.

William C. Magiera, 20, of 17 N. Hooper Street, was placed on three years' probation. He was sentenced to 180 days in the county jail and credited with one day served. He was fined $150 and assessed $250 court costs.

David R. Popp, 23, of 2222 Village Drive, was placed on three years' probation and sentenced to 180 days in the county jail, with credit given for four days served. He was fined $150 and assessed $250 court costs.

John A. Bulla, 23, of 6777 Kelly Road, Cass City, was sentenced to serve 1-15 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson on a charge of breaking and entering an occupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny. He was credited with four days served in the county jail.

He was found guilty of the charge by a jury Sept. 1.

The charge was in connection with a break-in Oct. 9, 1976 at a cabin on Crawford Road, just south of Elmwood Road. The cabin owner was Fred H. Millis of Ortonville.

Patrick A. Lintner, 18, of 5611 Fairgrove Road, Fairgrove, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in a building. The plea was accepted with sentencing set Nov. 14.

The charge was in connection with a break-in at Akron-Fairgrove High School Aug. 24, in which office supplies, a propane tank, oil can, and two knit caps were taken.

A guilty plea to the charge of conspiracy to commit larceny under $100 was accepted from David F. Rutherford, 17, of 6329 S. Pinkerton Road, Vassar. Sentencing was scheduled Nov. 14.

He is charged in connection with the taking of a radio in Fremont township belonging to the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad April 1.

Michael J. Urban, 17, of 200 W. Gamble Street, Caro, was placed on two years' probation for attempted larceny in a building.

He was sentenced to serve 60 days in the county jail, which may be suspended, fined $150 and assessed $250 court costs.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 12, in connection with the theft of a cassette player and amplifier from a girl at the Caro swimming pool July 18.

In other cases Monday before Judge Baguley:

Charges of attempted larceny from a motor vehicle against John D. Sika, 19, of 140 Third Street, Caro, were dismissed.

Sika pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 20, 1976, after which sentencing was delayed one year. As Sika complied with all the dictates of the sentencing delay, including that he not break any laws and maintain steady employment, the county probation department recommended to the judge that the charge be dismissed.

The charge was in connection with the theft of two wheels and tires in Caro in June of last year.

Michael L. Linder, 19, of Waterman Road, Vassar, whose sentencing was also delayed a year, was placed on three years' probation for attempted receiving and concealing stolen property over $100. He was sentenced to six months in the county jail and credited with two days served. He was fined $200 and ordered to pay restitution.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Oct. 18, 1976, in connection with the possession of some stolen money in February of that year.

Sentencing of Larry R. Procknow, 29, of Flint, on a charge of larceny in a building was delayed one year. Court costs of $200 were added to the original court order.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 19, in connection with the taking of five blouses from the Tog Shoppe in Vassar Dec. 18, 1976.

Charles J. Taylor, 18, of 1641 Boy Scout Road, Caro, was placed on three years' probation for breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny.

He was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail, credited with one day served, after graduation from high school. He was fined $200, assessed $200 court costs, and ordered to pay $449 restitution after graduation.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 13 in connection with a break-in Nov. 6, 1976, at the Ku Ku restaurant in Caro.

James H. Bedell II, 33, of Mark of Vassar Trailer Park, Millington, was sentenced to serve 4-8 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan for being a third felony offender.

He was found guilty by a jury Sept. 28 of impaired driving and two charges of felonious assault.

The felonious assault charges were in connection with two men being chased by a car in a Vassar parking lot Dec. 10, 1976. The impaired driving arrest took place in Millington the same day.

On the latter charge, he was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail.

The third felony offender conviction related to two convictions against the defendant, plus those on Sept. 28.

BEING PIGGISH -- Lloyd Newsome's sow would rather eat, which she is doing here, than pose for a picture. Her 16 offspring, though a few might be camera shy, were more cooperative for the photographer. The Hampshire Duroc crossbreed gave birth to the 16 piglets on Sunday, Oct. 9. Three nights later, the sow of son Lloyd Jr., 16, gave birth to 13 piglets. Usually, according to the Newsomes, who live on Green Road, a sow only gives birth to 8-10 piglets.

New plant erodes 3rd quarter Walbro earnings

Walbro Corporation reported that consolidated net sales for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1977, were $7,018,283, compared with $5,434,842 for the same period in 1976 -- an increase of $1,583,441 or 29 per cent.

Consolidated net earnings for the third quarter amounted to $284,072, compared with $372,896 in the like quarter a year ago -- a decrease of 24 per cent. Per share earnings for the quarter were $.37 on 767,120 shares outstanding, compared with $.49 per share on 766,820 shares outstanding on Sept. 30, 1976.

The sales growth was attributed to increased orders for diaphragm carburetors, electric fuel pumps, and magnesium die castings.

Earnings were lower, President Althaver said, for three reasons. One, because of non-recurring expenses involved in the establishment and start-up of a new offshore subsidiary in Nogales, Sonora, Mexico. Two, because of non-recurring expenses involved in the acquisition and development of a new plastics proprietary product which is now being manufactured by Walbro's injection molding subsidiary, and is to be marketed in late 1977. Three, because the income produced by the consolidation of Walbro Far East, Inc., in the 1976 third quarter was non-recurring.

For the nine months, net sales were $20,898,224-up 31 per cent over comparable 1976 figures. Net earnings were $1,119,915, compared to $988,016 in the January through September period a year ago--an increase of 13 per cent. This amounted to $1.46 a share, compared with $1.29 a share for the same nine months in 1976.
