

Repair laws meant for big cities, garage owners say

Michigan's auto repair law was designed for the big cities, not for small towns, operators of repair facilities in Cass City agree.

But other than some inconveniences, and the registration fee they must pay, those surveyed don't feel the law has caused any significant problems.

Since March 1, 1976, all facilities that do auto, truck, motorcycle, and recreational trailer repair (trailers are considered motor vehicles) must be registered with the state.

More important from the standpoint of the customer, they must give a written estimate of the cost of repairs when the job will be $20 or more, unless the customer signs a waiver of the estimate. The customer can also request a written estimate for jobs under $20.

The repair shop can exceed the amount quoted on the written estimate by 10 per cent or $10, whichever is less.

According to Charles Todd, consumer representative in the Bureau of Automotive Regulation of the Michigan Department of State, changes in written estimates can be made over the phone. In other words, should a mechanic discover something else wrong that was not covered in the estimate, the vehicle owner over the phone can authorize that the additional work be done.

For the mechanic's own protection, Todd added, he should make a written note when the additional work is authorized.

The consumer representative also said that should a consumer get a written estimate made and then take his vehicle elsewhere, the garage can legitimately charge for the work done in preparing the estimate.

Once the work is done, the law requires the garage to give the customer an invoice listing labor and the parts supplies and give the customer the parts that were replaced. (Presumably the parts can then be given back to be thrown away.)

The law requires repair facilities to post a sign listing the provisions of the law regarding estimates.

Another part of the law goes into effect Jan. 1. It requires all garages to have at least one mechanic certified in each area repair category offered by the facility. There are eight repair categories for automobiles, five for heavy trucks, and one for motorcycles.

BIG CITY LAW?

Everyone contacted by the Chronicle — representing most Cass City repair places — made similar comments, that the auto repair law may be needed in big cities to protect customers, but not in small towns.

"In a small town, if you don't do the proper job at the proper price, you're just not going to be here (for long)," said Lee Rabideau of Rabideau Motors.

"You just don't rip off a customer up here and expect to keep him," commented Aime Ouvry of Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds. "Those laws are made for big cities where people are getting ripped off right and left."

Caro youth dies in crash

A 16-year-old Caro youth was killed Friday when the car he was driving was struck head-on by another vehicle on M-81 in Juniata township.

Killed was Rodney G. LaPratt of 1132 Gun Club Road. He was Tuscola county's ninth traffic fatality this year, as compared to 12 as of the end of October last year.

State police from Caro reported the accident started when Douglas S. Stimer, 20, of Inlay City, passed two vehicles while headed east.

As he was starting to cut back into the eastbound lane, his car collided with the westbound auto driven by LaPratt. The latter auto then crossed the centerline and struck the lead car that Stimer was passing, driven by Dolores D. Pine, 62, of Arcadia, Fla.

Stimer was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw, where he was reported in serious condition Tuesday afternoon in the intensive care unit. Mrs. Pine, who was reported staying at a home on Hoppe Road, Cass City, sought her own treatment.

The accident took place at 6:25 p.m.

30, of Wilcox Road, Deford, was eastbound on E. Sanilac Road in Dayton township in heavy fog when he struck a cow.

A passenger in his car, Sheila R. Reinelt, 20, of Harrison Road, Kingston, sought her own treatment for minor injuries.

Thursday, Oct. 27, at 7:15 a.m., sheriff's deputies said Diana D. Zagorski, 35, of Mushroom Road, Deford, struck a deer while southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Kelly Road.

At 11:30 that morning, according to deputies, Ralph A. Russell, 49, of S. Elkton Road, Owendale, struck a deer while southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Bay City-Forestville Road.

At 6:30 p.m. on the 27th, Cass City police said Roman J. Malkowski, 40, of 6543 Seed Street, was southbound on M-53 at Downington Road when he struck a deer.

At 6 p.m. Monday, Caro state police said John T. Atkinson Jr., 20, of 5099 Innis Road, Decker, was northbound on Hurds Corner Road, just north of Shay Lake Road, when he struck a deer.

BOY STRUCK

William Sarles, 7, of Mayville, was reported in critical condition in the intensive care unit at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw Tuesday afternoon where he was taken after being struck by a vehicle Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 8:35 p.m.

Driver of the vehicle involved was Larry L. Walker, 21, of Cat Lake Road, Mayville.

He told deputies that he was southbound on Fulton Street in Mayville, glanced off the road for a second, and then was unable to stop in time when he saw the child. A witness told officers a similar account, that the youngster ran into the path of Walker's car and that the driver was unable to stop in time.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Marlyneen T. Samuelson, 38, of Dutcher Road, Cass City, was released from Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday morning, where she was taken after an accident at 8:40 p.m. Monday.

Sheriff's deputies said she was headed southwest on M-81 in Ellington township when she lost control of her car while attempting to turn left onto Jacob Road. Her car landed in a ditch.

She was ticketed on a charge of making an improper left turn (too wide).

Cass City police reported a two-car accident Friday at 3:50 p.m. They said Deborah Ann Zawilinski, 16, of 4355 Leach Street, was southbound on Seeger Street, north of Kennebec Drive, when she stopped for traffic.

Her car was then struck in the rear by one driven by Tina M. Kamrad, 17, of 2682 E. Hoppe Road, Gageton.

Caro state police reported Sunday that Thomas Habbas,

Farmers to be encouraged to cut pollution in area water plan

Farmers will be encouraged to voluntarily control pollution coming from their farms.

If they don't, there may be some hurdles placed in their way to make them do so.

And homeowners with septic tanks may be required to obtain permits to make sure they keep their systems in proper operating order.

Those are among the provisions that likely will be contained in the final plan being prepared to outline methods of improving water quality in the 14 counties within the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region (ECMPDR). Included are Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties.

The preliminary draft of the final plan is slated for completion by Jan. 1.

As part of the preparation process, ECMPDR planners hold discussion meetings in various parts of the region to explain preliminary reports as they come out and to hear comments.

One of those meetings was Wednesday, Oct. 26, at Cass City High School. Afternoon and evening sessions were held.

The need for such a plan was explained by Jim Sygo, chief planner of the ECMPDR water quality division.

The various reports so far have documented various pollutants, such as industrial wastes, sewage, and nutrients from farms, flowing into the region's rivers and into Saginaw Bay.

"What are the long lasting effects of those low concentrations of toxic materials that have been identified in the waters and in fish?" he asked, in explaining why he feels controlling the pollution is necessary.

In addition to trying to alleviate such pollution problems, the final plan, if followed, can help communities experiencing rapid growth to forestall pollution problems stemming from that growth, according to another planner, Dale Raven.

Preparation of the regional water quality management plan is being financed by a $1.09 million federal grant.

FARM POLLUTION

There are two basic sources of water pollution from farming, Raven explained, from cultivation of land and from livestock.

Pollutants coming from cropland, which is carried into bodies of water by rain, melting snow and the wind, include soil sediment, nutrients from fertilizers and animal wastes and pesticides.

The ECMPDR planners outlined several alternatives for dealing with the problem, of which it selected two as the most feasible, and which met with general agreement by those at the discussion meetings in Cass City.

First is a coordinated incentives program. Agriculture Conservation Program funds from the U.S. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service could be allocated primarily to those areas with the worst problems. Increased funding is recommended.

Additional incentives could come from other federal farm programs.

The second recommendation is for an intensified voluntary program, under which government agricultural agencies would increase their educational efforts to encourage farmers to undertake what are termed "best management practices."

Should voluntary efforts to control farm pollution not prove adequate, the planners recommend amending the state Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act, which would have to be done by the legislature.

The proposed amendment would require farmers to prepare a soil erosion control plan with their county soil conservation district under which they would agree to manage their land to minimize water quality degradation.

Any farmers who did not do so would be required to obtain an earth change permit from their local enforcement agency for the Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act in order to do any earth changes, such as plowing.

Raven termed the latter requirements, as opposed to voluntary compliance by farmers to control runoff from their farms, as "a lot of inconvenient hoops to go through."

SEPTIC TANKS

"Our biggest problem with septic tanks," planner Sygo said, "is finding a way to control the systems already in operation."

"The problem with most septic systems is they are installed and never looked at again unless the homeowner sees something seeping up under the bathroom floor."

The planners are recommending four alternatives for controlling water pollution problems created by home septic tank systems.

—Establishing quotas for the maximum number of septic tank permits that could be established for a specifically defined area so that a predetermined environmental safety level would not be exceeded. The number would be set by county or district health departments working with local governmental units.

—Owners of septic tank systems would have to get an operational permit for their system from the health department. The systems would be inspected every three or four years by the department in order to obtain a renewal of the permit.

—Education programs would be developed to promote better operation and maintenance of septic systems by owners. The Cooperative Extension Service in each county would probably conduct the program, aided by health departments and local governmental units.

—Present sanitary codes pertain to minimum square footage requirements for absorption fields, based on soil percolation rates. Such codes would be strengthened to cover such things as quality of surface and well water, distance between wells and absorption fields, and requiring a minimum amount of soil over septic systems.

IMPLEMENTATION

Public hearings on the draft of the regional water quality plan will come sometime this spring, with the final plan to be ready in late spring or early summer, according to planner Sygo.

It must then be approved by the ECMPDR board, state Department of Natural Resources, and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The plan will detail ways of cleaning up the waters of the 14 counties plus the means to finance the work.

Along with the actual cleanup work will be the task of seeing that the plan is implemented.

That task, the planners propose, will be done by newly created subregional management boards specifically formed for the purpose.

The boards would be created on a one, two, or three-county basis, with primarily local and county governmental officials, and those from soil conservation districts, serving on them.

Sygo and Raven said they felt the subregion boards would be more responsive to local needs than if the overseer task were performed on the regional level (all 14 counties) or by the state.

The boards would interpret and enforce the plan, provide guidance to implementing agencies, such as local government units, resolve disputes between governmental units or agencies, and serve as a clearinghouse for state and federal funds granted to local units for water pollution control projects.

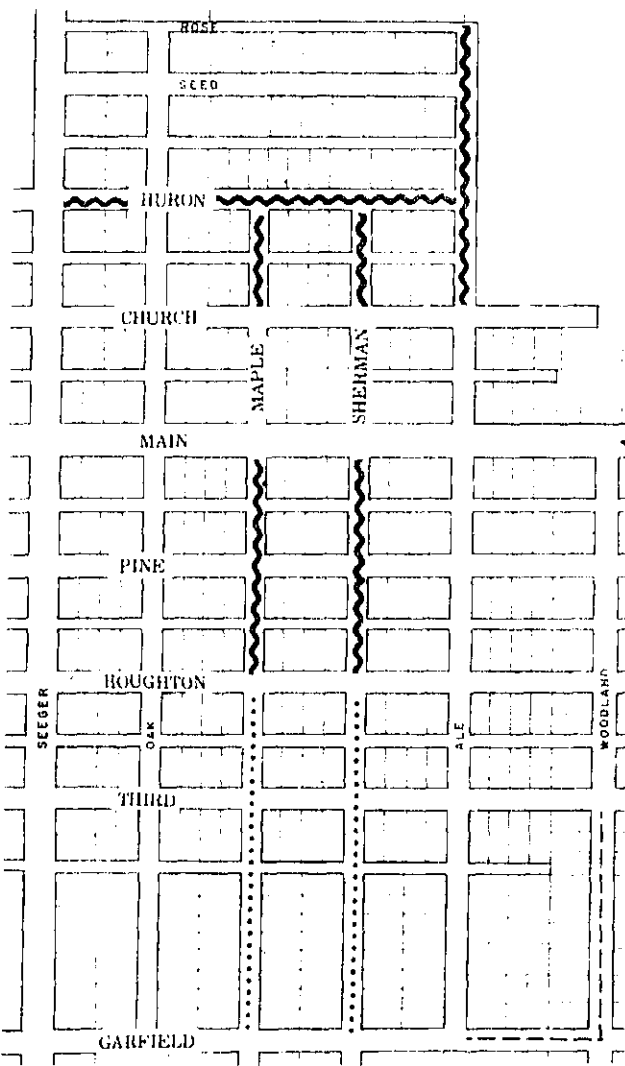

Two die of asphyxiation in Sanilac

An Uby man and Sandusky woman were apparently dead about 12 hours Sunday when their bodies were found in their still idling car. Death has been attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dead are Robert J. Rutkowski, 20, of Uby, and Marilyn Kay Kaufman, 25, of Sandusky.

Their car was discovered by a passing motorist at about 2:50 Sunday afternoon off Freiburger Road, about five miles northwest of Sandusky.

Sanilac county deputies said the medical examiner estimated the pair died between 2 and 4 a.m. Sunday.

STREET REBUILDING -- Wavy lines indicate the streets that will be paved or rebuilt in Cass City, paid for with federal public works funds. Dotted lines indicate streets to be paved or rebuilt in Cass City, paid for with federal public works funds. Dashed lines indicate streets to be paved next year with village street funds.

Council awards bid

Street rebuilding job starts this month

Uncle Sam's gift to Cass City will start to become reality within the next three weeks.

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday night accepted the low bid of Frank Strausberg & Son of Saginaw for the village's street rebuilding program, being financed by $338,000 in federal public works funds.

Strausberg's bid of $417,646 will be reduced to match the funds available. Engineering and inspection fees also have to come out of the federal money. The three bids received were opened Oct. 25.

Specifically, the contract with Strausberg is for $258,000. Of the remaining $80,000 of the federal grant, $13,000 will cover any unanticipated expenses, the rest will pay engineering and inspection fees.

Since the low bid was way over the estimate, that meant the council had to decide what streets won't get redone.

In a switch from what was expected last week, Councilman Jim Ware, chairman of the street committee, said the committee decided the first priority should be paving the remaining gravel streets in the village, all in the northeast corner.

That means the top priority will be paving Huron Street between Seeger and Ale Streets, Ale from Church to Rose Street, and Maple and Sherman Streets for one block between Huron and Church Streets.

The work will include curb and gutters along Ale Street, which borders the village park, installation of a storm sewer to eliminate flooding problems.

The second priority — originally thought to be first priority along with Ale Street — will be the rebuilding of Maple and Sherman Streets from Main Street south. Curb and gutter will be installed and the present rough pavement will be replaced.

The original plan called for Maple and Sherman to be redone all the way from Main Street to Garfield.

Gary Tressel of the village engineers, Hubbell, Roth, and Clark, said there should be enough money available for the first two blocks south of Main Street, that is, from Main to Houghton Street.

Completion of the job on Maple and Sherman, from Houghton for three blocks down to Garfield, will have to be done in future years out of the village's regular street fund.

Tressel said the contractor will get started within the next three weeks and will begin with installation of the Ale Street storm sewer. Depending on the weather, some other work may get done before construction comes to a halt for winter.

The job will be completed next year.

Also to be paved next year, paid for out of the village street fund, will be Garfield Street between Ale and Woodland Streets and Woodland between Garfield and Third Streets. Curb and gutter there were installed this year.

Paved Monday and Tuesday of this week, paid for out of the street fund, were Pine Street between Seeger and West Streets, and a half-block of Leach Street between Pine and the alley. The work, which cost the village about $7,000, was also done by Strausberg, the contractor on the new project.

The contractor Monday and Tuesday also paved the streets in the Hillcrest Subdivision, which was paid for by the developer, Thomas Herron.

POLICE

On the recommendation of the public safety committee, the council approved the hiring of William Moore, 38, of Fairgrove, as a patrolman. He will start immediately.

Moore worked eight years as a deputy with the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, then left to go into private business, and is now unemployed. He worked part-time in Cass City as a patrolman several years ago.

He will move to Cass City with his family within the next year. He will start at the second year pay level of about $11,300 annually.

The four finalists for the position were all interviewed by the committee, headed by Gary Jones.

Each spring, the village usually buys a new police car, rotating the purchase among Cass City's three auto dealerships.

In 1978, it is Rabideau Motors' turn.

The council voted Tuesday to accept the offer of a 1977 Dodge police car that the dealership recently took delivery on, for $4,300. Buying a 1978 model next year would have cost $5,700.

The car won't be delivered until January, however.

Lynn Dillon was matron of honor. She wore a pink Empire style waist sleeveless gown with a flowered jacket. The bridesmaids were Jennifer Kapala of Deford, Beth Mellendorf, sister-in-law of the groom of Caro, Jill Field of Deford, Carol Dillon, sister of the bride, of Cass City, and Linda Dillon, sister-in-law of the bride, of Cass City.

Their attire was identical to the matron of honor, only in blue. Flower girl was Tanya Dillon, niece of the bride, of Cass City. Her attire matched the matron of honor. All the bridal attendants wore matching hats and carried silk bouquets.

Gary Dillon, brother of the bride, of Caro was best man. Groomsmen were Jeff Mellendorf of Caro, brother of the groom, Bob Vatter, Louie Papp, John Dillon, brother of the bride, and Chuck Stover, cousin of the groom, all of Cass City.

"If It Fitz..." Barroom arguments

By Jim Fitzgerald

Recently I wrote about the 10-10 football tie played by Michigan State and Notre Dame in 1968. Now comes Thom Marshall, co-editor of the Pampa (Texas) News, saying I'm wrong, the game was played in 1966.

Well, all I can say to that is this: Who died first, Franklin D. Roosevelt or Ernie Pyle? And was either alive when that plane crashed into the Empire State Building? Stick around. This is going to make sense. The subject today is barroom arguments, and how to enjoy them.

I honestly thought that 10-10 tie was played in 1968. I came up with 1968 through the process of memory association. I remembered that the Detroit Tigers won the World Series in 1968, the year after the Detroit race riot, and I bought a new thermos for the World Series games and it worked fine, but only a month later the Thermos leaked bourbon and soda all over my new topcoat at the MSU-Notre Dame game. See how it works? You can remember when something unimportant happened — such as a football game nobody won — if you associate it in your memory with something important that happened around the same time.

Thus I was able to remember the dates of the Detroit race riot, the Detroit-St. Louis World Series and the MSU-Notre Dame tie simply by associating them with a much more important incident — the time I lost damn near a whole fifth of good bourbon.

Obviously, my system isn't infallible. I suspect Thom Marshall is correct about the MSU-Notre Dame game being played in 1966. His sports editor spotted my apparent error and phoned all the way from Texas to Michigan to confirm it.

The sports editor of the Lansing State Journal, a newspaper located near the site of the MSU-Notre Dame tie, looked in his files and then told the Texas sports editor that the game had indeed been played in 1966.

To humor his sports editor, whose smugness was making it too sticky to walk through the sports department, Marshall then made another Texas-to-Michigan phone call, to me. When I refused to be impressed by the 1966 date, Marshall wrote an editorial about the disagreement and mailed me a clipping.

There is a good reason for my boring you with the details of the laborious, interstate procedure used to shoot me down for a lousy two years. It helps to make my point about barroom arguments.

My newspaper also has a sports editor, an exceedingly learned fellow who still remembers the exact date of the 1962 Rose Bowl game because it was played on the same day he missed lunch. Before I wrote one word about the MSU-Notre Dame tie, I could have asked our sports editor when it was played, thus avoiding all of this subsequent niff-nawing.

But that wouldn't have been any fun, and it wouldn't have been fair. Which is my point.

The details of historical events are most often argued in barrooms. The participants should base their opinions on their memories only. It is not fair to sneak to a phone to call a newspaper for the correct answer. This takes all the fun out of arguing, and everyone gets home too early.

This is the way it's always been with my favorite argument — the Roosevelt-Pyle-Empire State Building question asked earlier.

Everyone my age (I don't argue with little children) knows these three events occurred in 1945, the last year of the great war. But in what order did they occur?

Most veterans of World War II use memory association.

"I'll never forget where I was when I heard about it," the old vet says, and then tells three war stories before coming up with a one-two-three answer.

Using this method, I've long insisted that Roosevelt went first, then Pyle, then the plane crash. But I've argued with dozens of people who swear I am wrong.

None of us has ever phoned a newspaper or visited a library to get the correct answer. It is more fun to argue, and tell war stories, and make bets we know we'll never lose because we'll never know who won.

That's the way the game should be played. No outside experts should be consulted. After all, who really cares when MSU and Notre Dame tied?

The important thing was losing that bourbon. Sit down, and let me tell you about it...

Four counties

Governor requests farm disaster aid

Gov. William G. Milliken has asked U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland to declare Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac, and Saginaw counties as agricultural disaster areas.

Granting of the disaster status would make some farmers eligible for low-cost loans through the Farmers Home Administration (FHA).

In a letter to Bergland, Milliken said total crop losses in the four counties amount to $21.37 million.

Approximately 6,250 farmers have been affected, most by excessive rainfall and some by drought and hail, the governor stated. Earlier drought-caused losses have been compounded by extreme wet weather in August, September, and October, which prevented harvesting of fields such as dry beans, corn, and forage crops.

The emergency loans, Milliken continued, are "critical to the farmers for the continuation of these affected farming operations."

The estimated losses in each county were compiled by agricultural officials in each county, sitting as an emergency board.

As the estimates were made at different times, and since there is no set amount the damage must exceed for a county to be declared a disaster area, the figures do not necessarily reflect up-to-date losses.

For instance, the disaster application for Tuscola county was submitted to Lansing Sept. 27, just after heavy rains flooded part of the county, but before all the damage from excess rain was done in October.

For Tuscola county, that estimate is $2,600,235 to dry beans and $246,382 to potatoes. It is estimated 70 farmers will be eligible for the loans.

In Huron county, the estimated loss, as of about Oct. 20, was $8,886,240 for dry beans, $392,175 for hay, and $99,000 to oats. A total of 750 farmers may be eligible for loans.

The Sanilac county loss, as of early October, was put at $3,225,750, for dry beans, with possibly 100 farmers eligible for loans.

The loss estimate for Saginaw county was $5,925,214, with maybe 50 farmers eligible.

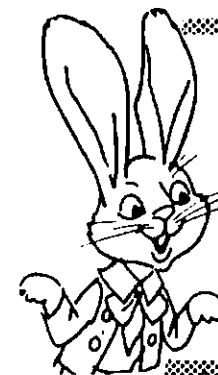

Although a reported 6,250 farmers suffered some losses, as indicated, a far lower number will be eligible for the emergency loans if the disaster designation is approved.

Assuming previous rules are retained, one criteria for eligibility will be that the farmer can no longer get credit elsewhere.

Also, they must have had a yield loss of at least 20 per cent, are staying in farming, and must have collateral.

The FHA loans will be at 3 per cent interest for up to $250,000; 5 per cent for more than that. Borrowers will have seven years to repay.

If all goes well, FHA offices could start taking loan applications by the end of November.

The story didn't mention it last week but among the persons at last week's luncheon honoring industry were two longtime members of the Cass City Development Association.

They were Herb Ludlow and Cliff Croft. Ludlow did yeoman duty for the CCDA before retiring from Detroit Edison. Croft has spent over 20 years promoting industry in the village and is still at it.

Both men have earned the right to be part of the luncheon for industry.

I goofed, so will the real Karr please drive up? It was Preston Karr, not Ed Karr, that took that Wyoming hunting trip described in this trivia last week.

I've seen windows soaped, soaped, soaped. But nothing like the job done at Fuelgas the Sunday before Halloween.

Walking to the store I thought it was a protective film spread to foil the pranksters.

But it wasn't. What it was, was soap over every square inch of those windows that stretch across the entire front of the building.

I'll bet you couldn't hire whoever did it to do it again.

Sometimes I wish that Cass City was named Slippery Rock or something. This week the trucking association sent me a release telling of taxes paid by trucks in Cass county.

Every so often our mail is sent to Cassopolis and over the phone, out-of-state listeners always want to send orders to Kansas City.

More times than not Thursday afternoons are the times when business is pigeonholed and the golf links beckon.

Remember last week? Wednesday was beautiful. Friday was gorgeous. Thursday was zilch.

Isn't that the way it always is?

Wouldn't it be something if this year's Senior class came up with three co-valedictorians? It could happen because you can't be any better than perfect.

Going into the final year three members of the class of 1978 had all A's.

The three are: Ross Ridenour, Debbie Lockwood and Janice Wentworth.

This is a column of trivia but there is nothing trivial about that.

M-24 extension hearing Nov. 29

The Department of State Highways and Transportation has scheduled a public hearing Nov. 29 on the proposed extension of M-24 north from Caro to M-138, east of Akron, and the rebuilding of M-138 from that point north to M-25.

The approximately $10 million project is scheduled for construction in 1980.

The hearing will start at 8 p.m. in Caro High School.

The highway department has proposed four alternates for the extension:

—Proposal A, extend M-24 north along N. Cleaver Road, then west on Bieble Road to Unionville Road, then north where Unionville Road becomes M-138 at Akron Road. Bieble Road, now about 1 1/2 miles long and unpaved, would have to be extended about 2 1/2 miles, which would require the use of 26 acres of farmland. —Proposal B, north on Cleaver, then west on Dutchman Road to Unionville Road. About 2 1/2 miles of Dutchman, presently unpaved, would have to be paved. Sixty-four acres of farmland would be needed.

—Proposal C, north on Cleaver to Darbee Road, then west to Unionville Road. About 2 1/2 miles of Darbee along the route are presently unpaved. The alternative would require 71 acres of farmland.

—Proposal D, north on Cleaver to Fairgrove Road, then west to Unionville Road. About 2 1/2 miles of Fairgrove Road along the route are presently unpaved. Since some homes might have to be relocated, along with consuming 52 acres of farmland, this alternative might not be considered at the hearing.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

If you thought you had to have a million to make a marriage contract have any meaning, forget it. You can do it with nothing at all and if Jacinth Baublitz has her way, Jackie Onassis will have nothing on you.

Jacinth who? Jacinth Baublitz, a social worker in Midland, that's who.

She says that in this changing world a partnership contract is needed so that feelings can be put on a level where they can be touched without threat.

The contract might specify that the man will get a night out a week with the boys or the woman get to eat out once a week or, at the very least, have hubby fix dinner one day a week.

That may sound laughable, she says, but it's serious business to families with the problem.

Isn't that interesting? You know in advance just what's ahead.

Our Midland expert says that the contract is preventive therapy.

It's picky, I guess, to ask what happens when hubby's night out comes on the same night as the wife's inalienable right to go bowling. Everything hits the fan then.

And if hubby violates the contract and stays out two nights, what happens?

She doesn't call it that but Ms. Baublitz is really pushing the feminist movement. She says that the contract helps to get rid of the stereotype of

PEDALING AROUND

Too many doctors?

By Mike Eliasohn

Three months ago in these pages appeared an article concerning efforts to attract more doctors to Cass City.

Needed then, and still needed, were two family physicians and an obstetrician-gynecologist.

Have no fear, Cass City, doctors may some day be banging on our doors wanting to come here.

A recent Detroit News article that originally appeared in the Washington Post said that while some federal health officials are still trying to find ways to get doctors to the estimated 4,000 communities that don't have enough (or any) doctors or too few of the right specialty, other officials are concerned there will soon be too many doctors.

With too many doctors, they are afraid it will become even harder to try to bring soaring medical costs under control.

The reason for the soon-to-be too many doctors is that Congress, reacting to the doctor shortage, appropriated money to increase the number of medical school openings.

The United States now has about 175 physicians per 100,000 population. By 1990, it will increase to 225-240.

Having more doctors doesn't necessarily mean health care will improve.

Many nations with fewer doctors per 100,000 population have as good or better health status statistics than the U.S.

Since the law of supply and demand says that the more there is of a commodity, the lesser the per unit cost, how do health officials figure the nation's health bill -- now $139.3 billion a year -- will increase to an estimated $243 billion by 1980?

The theory is, to quote the article, "physicians have a unique ability to generate the demand for their services."

With either private or government health insurance paying two-thirds of doctors' fees nationally, physicians can order tests and procedures and perform operations to generate income that they could not if their patients were paying the bills directly.

A recent study showed there are twice as many surgeons per capita in the U.S. as there are in Britain, and there is twice as much surgery being performed here. The unproven implication is that some surgery performed here isn't needed.

Another contributing factor to increased fees is metropolitan areas have a greater proportion of physicians, almost 2 1/2 times greater in metropolitan areas than in non-metropolitan areas.

A recent U.S. Department of Health Education and Welfare study, which confirmed earlier findings, found that doctors in urban areas charge higher fees, work fewer hours, and see fewer patients than doctors in rural areas and small towns.

The problems associated with too many doctors will dissolve if national health insurance is adopted, according to an expert quoted in the article.

If medical care becomes "free" (that is, paid for by taxpayers), many people who currently cannot go to a doctor, except perhaps for extreme emergencies, will be able to do so for more routine aches and pains.

I know it makes me sound heartless, but that's what bothers me about national health insurance and why I'm opposed to it.

Few would argue now that the widespread availability of private and government health insurance has driven up the cost of medicine. Doctors have fewer qualms about prescribing a test, medication, or surgery that may or may not be necessary if someone other than the patient is paying the bill.

In the doctors' defense, it must be pointed out that some in the "may or may not" category is to guard against malpractice suits later because they didn't take all possible precautions to guard a patient's health.

But if all medical care is free, the only possible restraint against excess medical spending is excessive bureaucratic regulation.

And if medical care is free, how do you get doctors to all areas that need them? After all, free health care is meaningless for people living in an area without any doctors.

Owen-Gage rejected again for state aid

Despite the Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education passing what it called a balanced budget Oct. 10, a state education official says it has yet to demonstrate that it "can adopt a balanced budget for 1977-78."

The official, Robert Hornberger, director of department services for the state Department of Education, says the board must slice $65,100 from its new budget in order for it to be balanced.

His comments concerning the budget and the district's 1976-77 audit were contained in a letter dated Oct. 24 to Supt. Ronald G. Erickson.

Erickson calls the letter "intimidation," but said he will respond to all the points and charges raised in Hornberger's letter.

Directly at issue is categorical state aid for the district and the district borrowing money in anticipation of that aid.

Owen-Gage was hoping to borrow about $51,000 in anticipation of state aid to help relieve its present budget crunch, until property tax revenues start coming in in January. But as long as it runs a deficit, according to state law, it can't get the categorical state aid. And as long as it can't get the state aid, it can't borrow in anticipation of receiving it.

The state aid money would be used to pay off the loan. Because of the district's deficit, the state withheld $6,944, the final payment for 1976-77, in categorical state aid and has yet to make any payments this year. The 1977-78 budget shows a total of $56,950 expected in state aid for specific purposes in 1977-78. The district receives no general state aid because of its high property valuation per pupil.

According to Hornberger in the letter, $23,064 has been withheld so far.

The state official makes two major contentions in the letter, that the district is using a too-high state equalized valuation in its budget, thus is overestimating income, and that some of its financial practices are wrong, and in one instance, illegal.

The budget adopted by the board in October was based on an SEV for the district of $28,606,040, which at 23.5 mills would give the district $597,871, that is, $74,371 less. As potential state revenues are underestimated he said, "realistic program and personnel reductions totaling about $65,100 would have to be effected to balance the 1977-78 budget."

The difference between the $25 million SEV and the $28 million -- $3,164,700 to be exact -- is the valuation of the so-called Goslin parcel. The parcel by court action is now part of the Cass City district, until and unless Owen-Gage ultimately wins its appeal in the state Supreme Court.

"I have never agreed we have lost any territory," Erickson said. "I think we'll win our case."

The most serious of Hornberger's charges is that $25,020 was transferred from the debt retirement funds to the general fund, which "was unlawful, irrespective of rationalizations which may attempt to justify the use of funds for purposes other than intended by law."

The 1976-77 audit shows the amount owed to the debt retirement funds.

Erickson's explanation was that property tax revenues from the county treasurer's office are received in single checks, not separate checks for the general fund and debt retirement funds.

The approximate split is 80 per cent to the general fund and 20 per cent to the debt retirement, but the final accounting can't be done until after the annual audit is completed. The $25,020 owed to the debt retirement fund does not mean that it was borrowed from it.

"Every school district does that," he said of the accounting procedure.

Hornberger also said that $24,778 received in federal Title I funds for a remedial reading program was not properly reported under expenditures in the audit.

The superintendent said the funds were "absolutely" spent for the purpose for which they were received. As for how they were classified in the audit, he said that was up to the auditors.

Hornberger's seven-page letter contains a total of 16 questions pertaining to the district's application to borrow money in anticipation of state aid and the annual audit and 1977-78 budget.

Erickson said he was preparing a point-by-point reply answering all the questions, which he expected to have done some time this week.

Enclosed with Hornberger's letter were blank forms "your district may use to submit an accurate, complete application resolution to borrow operating funds."

The superintendent expressed doubt that the permission to borrow the funds will ever be approved. "He (Hornberger) is going to hold that up forever, or as long as he can," Erickson said.

Bank 'saves' district staff

Although the Owen-Gage School District is out of funds until property tax revenues start coming in in January, or until it can borrow money, employees of the district will still be able to put bread on the table, thanks to the Farmers and Merchants State Bank.

The bank, which has branches in Owendale and Gagetown, is extending interest-free loans to all employees who want them until they again receive their paychecks from the district.

Meanwhile, the district passed its first hurdle in its effort to borrow money in anticipation of property tax revenues, when the House Education Committee in Lansing Oct. 25 approved a bill to allow the district to borrow $150,000.

The bank loans are in the form of funds placed in checking accounts for each employee every two weeks equal to the amount they would have received had they been paid by the district, if they want the full amount.

The loans are secured by the recipients assigning their presently withheld paychecks to the bank for collection once funds are available from the district.

Employees were last paid by the district Oct. 14. The next regular "pay day" would have been Friday.

Bank publicist Walter Rummel said the action "has nothing to do with the question over there (in Owen-Gage) at all. This is being done strictly for individuals."

A statement released by the bank said, "Our attitude is that about 50 people, most of them with families, contracted to serve the school district for the present year.

"They did this in good faith, depending on a regular pay check to provide for their family needs. Now, through no fault of theirs, those paychecks are not forthcoming.

"We regard our action as purely humane, to lend a helping hand to individuals in a difficult financial crisis.

"Granting loans such as this is a common practice where a situation arises and contracted persons are not able to receive their pay. Many banks followed this procedure when the state of Michigan went on payless paydays some years ago."

The bill approved by the House Education Committee is now in the House Appropriations Committee. If it passes there, it must then be approved by the full House of Representatives, two Senate committees, the Senate, and then be signed into law by the Governor.

The hope is that the bill, introduced by State Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, will become law by the end of the month.

The district borrowed $245,000 in anticipation of state aid in June. Unless the law is changed, that is the maximum amount it can borrow.

Supt. Ronald G. Erickson, who was at the education committee meeting, said the bill was approved 13-0 despite it being opposed by state Department of Education officials.

Wheat, corn payments possible

Farmers unable to get all of their 1978 intended wheat acreage planted and those who got less than 60 per cent of their normal corn yield when done harvesting should contact their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office.

The offices should be notified by Nov. 7, or as soon as possible thereafter, by farmers unable to get all of their intended wheat acreage planted.

Then, if unable to get other crops planted in the spring equal to their total crops planted in 1977, they may be eligible for payment under the disaster program.

Also, many farmers have yet to sign the payment forms for 1977 wheat deficiency payments to be made later this year. The payments will be made if it is evident the wheat market price for the five months after harvest nationally will average below the 1977 target price of $2.90 per bushel.

Most farmers have already reported their 1977 acreages of wheat and feed grains, but now must report other crop acreages, which will be used to determine the 1978 base under the new wheat and feed grain program.

Farmers are also reminded that if after harvesting their 1977 corn crop, it is less than 60 per cent of their normal yield, they will be eligible for a low yield payment from the ASCS if they file a request for payment form.

The low yield payments apply to total planted acres, not just to the corn base as in the past.

If the crop is not worth harvesting as grain, it must be appraised by their county office before being used for grazing or destroyed.

HEALTH TIPS

Hunting stress can cause heart attacks

It's that time of year again—the great American hunting season—when thousands of people take to field and forest in the quest for game. Sadly, some will be hunting casualties. Every year during hunting season the papers are full of stories about hunters who didn't come back. Probably when hunting casualties are mentioned, most people think of shooting accidents. Far too many hunters, however, are the victims of heart attack because they failed to realize the hazards of unaccustomed exertion during cold weather. Dr. Sol Pickard, Henry Ford Hospital cardiologist and president of the Michigan Heart Association, explains: "Cold weather is a hazard to the heart in itself. The body reacts to cold weather by constricting its small arteries, thus making it harder for the heart to do its job of pumping blood to all parts of the body. "While this is happening, the hunter may be putting himself through the added exertion of cross-country hiking which he may not have experienced since last year at this time. Combine these two factors, and you may be a candidate for a heart attack." "There are, however, several precautions a person can take to reduce these hazards while hunting," Dr. Pickard says. "First of all, never hunt alone. Get a good rest before starting out and be moderate in your eating and drinking. Also, be very cautious about smoking in cold weather, since smoking also constricts the blood vessels." Other precautions you can take, says the Heart Association, are: "Wear several layers of light warm clothing. This will keep you warmer than one heavy layer. "If you are on medication for your heart, be sure that other members of your party know what it is, where you keep it, and instructions for its use. "Know the symptoms of a heart attack: A sensation of fullness, heaviness or squeezing pain in the center of the chest, which may spread to arm, shoulder, neck or jaw, and may be accompanied by nausea, vomiting, sweating or shortness of breath. Symptoms may subside and then return. "Get help to "drag the bag" out of the woods back to camp -- it can be very physically demanding to do so! "It has been found," says Dr. Pickard, "that hunting may quadruple the demands normally put on the heart as extremes of weather, change of altitude, rough terrain and the stress of the chase can levy heavy tax on the hunter's capacity."

nasium, 407 E. Woodworth. There will be exhibits by nine microwave dealers from Huron county. In addition, local dealer or factory representatives will be present to answer questions. Demonstrations on three different microwave ovens will be given by Edison

to the Editor

Cheerleaders need praise

Dear Mr. Haire,
I am writing this letter as a postscript to Mr. Bushong's letter a couple of weeks ago. It concerned the lack of appreciation shown toward the band at football games. I was pleased to see the spectators applaud the band at Friday night's game.

After witnessing the success of Mr. Bushong's call for appreciation, I decided to write to you about another group that is ignored. They are the cheerleaders.

They cheer their hearts out, no matter what the weather, with an incredible amount of energy, and no one seems to notice. Are they out there for their health? I certainly do not believe that. They are, indeed, trying to perk up the spirits of the spectators, so that the spectators, in turn, may cheer the players on to victory, and not "boo" a call made by a referee that was right but against us.

My attention was drawn to this miscarriage of justice against the cheerleaders while talking with some of them. It was right after a well-executed, but ineffective, pep assembly at school. Spirits among the cheerleaders were low, and so it was easy to talk with them. The basic thought shared by them was that they give and give, but they never know if they are doing any good for anyone.

Next time we see a cheerleader, let us talk with them. We will find that they are quite human, and vulnerable. They do not want applause for themselves; they simply want acknowledgement. We can best do that by following their lead when we cheer. And then, the spirits of the players are also lifted.

I pray that what I have written is the truth concerning this matter. I would also thank Mr. Strait for his contribution at the pep assembly.

Sincerely,
Peter Kessler

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Undaunted, the fire fighters boxed up sacks of popcorn and took them to Main Street where they had no trouble finding goblins to gobble the goodies.

Rained out of the original Homecoming day, the annual class float competition was delayed. The sophomore float was judged the winner in close competition with the juniors' creation.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Three lovely young ladies were selected for Homecoming festivities. The girls are: Eunice Smith, Colleen Ryan, and Mona Lee Howell. They are all very active members of their class.

E. B. Schwaderer of the Tuscola County Road Commission said that a survey just finished by the department showed that 64 of 297 bridges in eight of 23 townships were in poor condition. Provincial House has loss Provincial House, Inc. has announced a loss of $63,859, or 7 cents per share, on total revenues of $19,755,776 for the fiscal year ended June 30.

This compares with net income of $243,737, or 26 cents per share, on revenues of $17,754,957 for the eleven months ended June 30, 1976. Results for the 1976 period reflect a change in the company's fiscal year from July 31 to June 30.

"The major factors contributing to our overall loss for 1977," according to President Patrick J. Callihan, "were rapidly rising operating costs without corresponding increases from the State of Michigan for Medicaid patients, the strike at Alpena, losses from the Provincial House Hospital, the opening of two new homes, and, most importantly, the new single business tax which is not related to earned income and which amounted to $237,000 for the year. Under Michigan's previous program of taxation the total tax paid would have been less than $25,000."

Your Neighbor says

No easy answer to tax relief

Republican leaders in the state House of Representatives are promoting a plan to give homeowners and farmers a break on their property taxes.

Residential and agricultural property would be assessed at 25 per cent of true cash value, instead of the present 50 per cent. Commercial, industrial, and timber cut-over property would remain at 50 per cent.

The money lost in property taxes would be replaced by an increase in the income tax, from the present 4.6 per cent up to 6.7 per cent.

Although Ron Chappel feels "maybe a percentage income tax is the fairest way," he has some doubts over increasing that in order to reduce property taxes.

"Everybody pays enough income taxes already," he said.

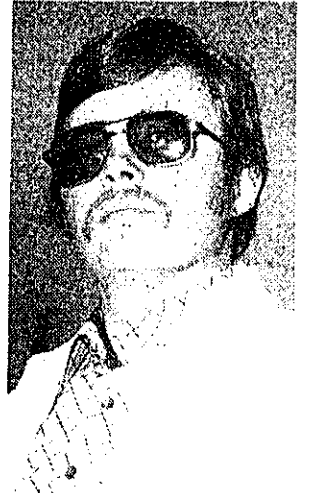

As for property taxes, "the worst part is the school tax, but you can't really bitch about it if you want to get your kids educated."

"I'd like to see them (property taxes) lower, but I don't know how they can make them lower."

He isn't really sure if reduced property taxes will be an improvement. "You've got to finance the county, townships, and schools, and everything else -- you've got to get the money from somewhere else (if property taxes are lowered.)"

Chappel, his wife Susan and daughters Jennifer, 2, and Joann, 10 months, live on Centerline Road, south of Kingston. He is the owner of Chappel's Men's Shop in Cass City.

Alcona final test Friday for excellent Bulldog grid squad

The "almost but not quite" season for the Owen-Gage Bulldogs ends Friday night with a long bus ride of about three hours each way to play Alcona High School.

The school is located south of Alpena midway between Harrisville and Lincoln.

Coach Arnie Besonen's Bulldogs ended their North Central D League season Saturday afternoon with a 41-6 trouncing of Peck on the latter's home turf.

With Akron-Fairgrove winning Friday night against Carsonville-Port Sanilac, 39-0, the Vikings finished on top in league play. The Bulldogs, whose only league defeat was the 8-7 squeaker to the Vikings, Oct. 21, finished in second place, after winning the title the previous two seasons.

Scoring started in the first quarter with quarterback Roger Ziehm scoring on a 26-yard run. Tom Howard kicked the extra point.

Jeff Hallock made the second Bulldog touchdown, on a seven-yard run, with Howard again kicking the PAT.

Ziehm then connected with Dick Glidden on a three yard toss, with Glidden taking the ball over the goal line. The quarterback passed again to Glidden for the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter, Scott Bruno intercepted a Peck pass and ran the ball 23 yards for the touchdown. Howard again kicked the extra point, making the halftime score 29-0.

Owen-Gage didn't rest in the third quarter. First Tim Lorenz scored on a two-yard run and then Brad Erickson on a three-yarder. Both of Howard's kick attempts for the PAT went wide.

Peck finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth quarter, on a one yard run by Tim Garvey. The PAT attempt was unsuccessful.

The Bulldog rushing was overwhelming in the game, gaining 261 yards on 41 carries. Top ground gainers were Erickson, seven carries and 100 yards; Jeff Hallock, three for 41; Ziehm, five for 29, and Howard, nine for 39.

Peck gained 59 yards on the ground on 39 carries. Top man was Mark Lorkowski with eight carries and 24 yards.

In the air for Owen-Gage, Ziehm had six completions out of nine attempts for 49 yards. Jim Hendershot completed one out of 11 for 20 yards.

On the receiving end, Dick Glidden caught four passes for 46 yards. Erickson had two for 12 yards, and Mark Sontag, one for 11.

For Peck, Greg Lorkowski had two completions out of eight pass attempts for 16 yards. He had two passes intercepted. Tim Garvey's one attempt was successful, for 11 yards. Catching all three passes for Peck was Mark Lorkowski.

Tops on defense for Owen-Gage were Roger Powell with seven tackles; Arnie Howard, six plus one interception; Erickson, Dick Hartman, and Sontag, four each.

Top tackler for Peck was Norm Harris with eight.

The Bulldogs had nine first downs, zero fumbles, and were penalized eight times for 75 yards. Peck made six first downs, had one fumble, and were penalized six times for 60 yards.

VICKY LAPP goes up for 2 points on this short pop over Vassar's Paula Wade. Waiting for a possible rebound is Paula Butler. Cass City won the Monday game, 44-34.

Frosh post winning season

Cass City freshmen concluded their season last week with a tough 12-10 loss to Millington to bring their season's record to 4-2.

The Frosh lost to two Class B schools, Millington and Garber, 20-7.

Oddly enough the entire schedule was against Class B schools. Victories were posted over Frankenmuth, 13-6; Vassar, 33-12; North Branch, 20-16; Caro, 7-0.

Leading ball carrier for Coach Jim Mastie's charges was Tom Loomis, with 666 yards in 127 rushes, and Mike Loomis, 79 rushes for 342 yards.

Tom Loomis scored 30 points and Phil Zawilinski netted 24 points. Zawilinski was the leading pass receiver with 6 catches for 84 yards while Craig Tomi had 5 catches for 42 yards.

Leading tackler was Doug Sowden with 33 tackles and 16 assists. Bob Leslie had 33 tackles and 17 assists.

Quarterback Brian deBeaubien had 17 completions in 51 passing attempts for 125 yards. He was intercepted six times.

Bob Leslie was named the team's most valuable player. Tom Loomis was the most valuable offensive player and Mike Loomis won the same honor for defense.

Owen-Gage girls title bound

Owen-Gage defeated Akron-Fairgrove Tuesday night, 66-44.

The Owen-Gage girls' basketball squad kept its undefeated string going last week with victories against Peck and Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

All nine of coach Judy Campbell's hoopsters got in on the action Tuesday, when the team entertained Peck, with everyone scoring and making at least one rebound, the first time that has happened this season.

Final score in favor of the Bulldogs was 55-30.

Top scorers for the victors were Mary Lenhard and Carol Goslin, both with 10.

Peck's top scorer was Patti Parsell with 14.

The action was less happy in the junior varsity game, as the teams were tied in North Central D League play going into the contest. Peck came out on top in a squeaker, 33-31.

The loss puts the Bulldog reserves at 8-2 in league play, 9-2 overall.

At Carsonville-Port Sanilac Thursday night, the Bulldogs were victorious, 38-22.

Mary Lenhard was tops in scoring and on the boards with 14 points and 13 rebounds. Carol Goslin was next high scorer with nine points.

Linda Drago was top scorer for the Tigers with eight points.

Owen-Gage had 34 rebounds in the game to 25 for Carsonville.

The Tiger reserves were no match for the Owen-Gage squad, which won 29-6.

Tuesday night this week was the big game, with the Bulldogs playing host to Akron-Fairgrove, the only team with a good chance to unseat them from the league crown. Up to Tuesday night, A-F only had one loss in league play, in an earlier game against Owen-Gage.

This Thursday they play at Port Hope and Tuesday, Nov. 8, they have a bye.

Hawk harriers improve; Marlette dominates loop

Cass City showed improvement but Marlette dominated Thumb B Conference cross country competition this fall. The Hawks finished the year with a 5-9 record as compared to a 1-6 record last season. The Hawks were sixth in the 7-team league. Bad Axe does not have a cross country team. Cass City was led by sophomore Steve Richards, who broke his own school record with a 16:52 clocking. It was good for 10th place in the conference meet.

While Marlette dominated the meet, individual honors went to Randy Jensen of Frankenmuth with a time of 16:13, a new course and league record. Second was Bill Bechler of Lakers. Marlette showed its depth by winning the next three places. Marty Payotells, Ted Sullivan and Chris Titus finished three, four and five. For their efforts the top five were named to the All-Conference team. The second five to finish were on the second all-conference team. They were: Vincent Pratt, Caro; Mike Patullo, Caro; Doug Bechler, Lakers; Bill Romosler, Marlette; Steve Richards, Cass City. Every runner in the top 10 broke 17:00.

Hawks bury Hatchets in free scoring league final, 39-12

Defense was left to the pentagon last Friday night as Bad Axe and Cass City ran up and down the field in a Thumb B Conference clash at Cass City. When it was all over, the Hawks of Cass City had run the most and they racked up a 39-12 decision on parents' night. It was the final home game of the season and the boys were playing for pride only. Both Bad Axe and Cass City were eliminated from title contention. The Vassar Vulcans had already clinched a tie for the title and when they defeated Caro assured themselves of an undisputed crown.

The Hatchets started as if they were going to run Cass City right off the field. They took the opening kick-off and marched from their own 33 to paydirt in just five plays. Tom Engelhart rambled 29 yards for the score. It didn't take Cass City long to get that one back. With third and long yardage, Jeff Hartel faded back and threw a strike to Scott Richards who took it in stride on the 22 and ran in untouched. Bad Axe came roaring back with two quick first downs and appeared on the march again when they fumbled and Cass City recovered. Using Hartel's passing on quick tosses to Steve Ballard and Rick Hollis and some short gains on the ground the Hawks moved inside the one from where Clarke Haire dove over for the marker. At the end of the first period, Cass City was in front 12-6. History repeated itself on the next series. The Hatchets took the ball and were rolling down the field when a fumble, recovered by Cass City, put the Hawks at the throttle once more. Haire ate up yardage in big chunks on plays around the ends on the option. The Hawks moved to the 9 from where Haire dashed over for the touchdown. Haire scored the extra points on a pass from Hartel.

The Hawks succeeded in holding the Hatchets on the next series, the best defensive series for the team all night. Cass City took the punt and went to work on the ground and in the air. Hartel hit his ends over the middle and the ground game also picked up valuable yardage. With the ball on the 11, Hartel hit Haire in the left flat on a touchdown heave. The Hawks scored their third touchdown of the quarter with less than a minute left in the half. Haire broke around his own right end, cut back against the grain and rambled 43 yards for the marker. Coach John Blackstock had his charges scrimmaging at halftime. The Hatchets were behind 32-6 at the half but the visitors were not that badly outclassed. Evidently the workout did some good. In the final two periods, the visitors outscored the Hawks 12-7... but by then it was far too late. The Hawks never threatened to score in the final two quarters except for the play that covered the distance. It was a busted play that turned into a version of the "flea flicker". Hartel pitched out to Haire who tried to go around his own left end.

Hemmed in he spotted Hartel behind him in the flat and pitched the ball back. Hartel took it in stride and raced 80 yards down the sideline to score. Haire netted 138 yards in 15 carries. Hartel romped for 119 yards in just 4 attempts. Ron Langmaid led all tacklers with nine solo and 2 assists. Dale Peters, Rick Hollis and Ray Piaskowski recovered Hatchet fumbles. The Hawks end the season at Almont Friday. The Almont eleven has won a league championship and will be trying for a play-off spot against the Hawks.

Prank nets 30 days in jail

Four area men, arrested after tires were burned on Atwater Road, west of Uby, were each sentenced to 30 days in jail Thursday, Oct. 27, after they pleaded guilty to obstructing traffic, a misdemeanor.

Pleading guilty in connection with the prank, were Donald E. Melnik, 25, of Owendale, John W. Stapleton, 18, and Gary J. Bismack, 17, both of Uby, and Ross L. Brady, 18, of Cass City.

Huron county sheriff's deputies arrested the four after the incident, which took place late Monday night and early Tuesday, Oct. 24-25. Deputies said nine used tires were taken from an Uby service station, dumped on the road about 1 1/2 miles west of the village, doused with gasoline, and then set on fire. Damage to the road surface from the fire was estimated at $500-$1,000.

Uby police assisted in the investigation. The fire was extinguished by Uby firemen.

The four were sentenced by District Judge John T. Schubel. Wednesday, Oct. 26, before Judge Schubel, Frank A. Wendall waived examination and was bound over to circuit court on a charge of unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle. Bond has been set at $5,000.

Wendall, 27, of Owendale, is charged in connection with the July 15 theft of a pickup truck from Mary Voelker of Canboro Road, Owendale.

Wendall and the truck were found in Oregon in early October. He waived extradition and was brought back to Michigan.

"It's a fascinating job, it really is. I happen to love public health nursing."

Carol Hrycko admits it's a good thing she loves public health nursing, because she is now in charge of 12 public health nurses.

Since Oct. 14, she has been director of nursing for the two-county Thumb District Health Department. She had been acting director since May.

Her position puts her in charge of the six nurses working out of the Caro office and six in Lapeer.

The conventional image of a nurse is a woman dressed in white walking down a hospital corridor. In public health nursing, the tasks are somewhat different - and the nurses wear street clothes instead of uniforms.

One of the biggest tasks in the two counties is the home health program, which Mrs. Hrycko describes as "one of the most rewarding things we do."

The patients are primarily those just released from hospitals. The task of the visiting nurses includes changing dressings, helping the people to understand why they are on certain medication, and to monitor the patients' progress.

The other major duties come under the category of maternal and child health.

The nurses visit new mothers and aid children who have potentially crippling diseases. Family planning assistance is another duty, plus school nursing in those districts which do not have their own nurses.

The department has an immunization clinic each Thursday for school children through college age.

The free clinics are held each Thursday from 9:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m. in the health department office on M-81 southwest of Caro. On the first Thursday of each month, the afternoon session runs until 7:30 p.m.

The immunization clinics are a good example of what Mrs. Hrycko feels is the major role of the health department nurses, that of prevention.

"The major concept is preventative," she explained, "and when you're talking prevention, you're talking education."

Education is weaved throughout all of the programs, much of which is on a one-to-one basis. "Whenever you're dealing with a person with a problem, you try to teach them about prevention."

Mrs. Hrycko, 39, graduated from Mercy College in Detroit with a BS degree in nursing. She worked at the University of Michigan Hospital for two years and then for the Detroit Visiting Nurses Association for four, the first two in Oakland county and then in the inner city of Detroit.

She married her husband, Thomas, in May, 1966, and retired from nursing at the end of the year when she was expecting their first child. They now have four: Raymond, 10, Julia, 8, Jeffrey, 6, and Rusty, 4.

Mrs. Hrycko grew up in Southfield, her husband in Troy. Both places are now bustling Detroit suburbs, but were basically rural when they grew up.

A longing to get back to a more rural setting led the couple to move from Detroit to a farm they bought on Green Road, west of Gagetown, in October, 1971.

Most of the farmland has since been sold. Hrycko, a stock broker, works for two Detroit brokerage firms, doing most of his business by telephone out of his home.

After the birth of their youngest child, after they moved, Mrs. Hrycko decided to go back to work. She began working for the health department as a public health nurse in October, 1974.

She became senior nurse in March, 1976, which involves some supervisory duties, and was appointed acting director of nursing in May of this year.

She replaced Evelyn Schaffer, who resigned to become director of the Saginaw Visiting Nurses Association.

In contrast to her former duties, which involved a lot of daily travel, Mrs. Hrycko now spends a lot of time behind a desk.

Because of the different duties, she wasn't sure she would like the job, so chose to first accept it as acting director until she was sure she wanted to do it permanently.

"It is an adjustment. There's no question about it," she said. "So far I guess I like it. I'm not going to worry about it. I'm just going to dig in and do my job."

She divides her duties into two basic categories, as director and as supervisor.

As the latter, her main role is training new nurses to perform public health duties. "It takes a great deal of education to get a nurse to adapt from a hospital to a home setting."

She hopes that task will be eased by Jan. 1, when an additional nurse is hired in both Tuscola and Lapeer counties. With the full complement of seven nurses in each county, each can have one nurse serve as supervisor.

As director, she says her job includes such duties as policy making "so that the nurses have a uniform way of handling things," preparing budgets, and attending lots of meetings, sometimes to Lansing to remain abreast of the latest program changes from the state health department.

She goes to the health department office in Lapeer at least once a week.

Switching from an active nursing role to that of an administrator meant a change for Mrs. Hrycko, but she explained with a laugh, "I'm a kind of a person who likes a challenge and there's certainly a challenge."

Eastern Star group installs new officers

The following officers were installed Oct. 22 by the Order of Eastern Star in Decker: Worthy matron, Iva Rockwell; worthy patron, Basil Morse; associate matron, Patricia Chard; associate patron, Phil Smith; secretary, Evelyn Smith; treasurer, Shirly Morse; conductress, Suellen Ryan; associate conductress, Judy Hudson; chaplain, Frances Krause; marshal, Irma Ross; organist, Eleanor Shaw; Adah, Helen Fields; Ruth, Lola Chippi; Esther, Iva Nauka; Martha, Bonnie Laming; Electa, Barbara Rockwell; warder, Beatrice Vatter, and sentinel, Eldon Fields.

Others installed included: Flag bearers, Irene Lee and Harold Lee; and Julia Cagala and Gertie Saigeon as "special" officers and instructresses.

The retiring worthy matron and worthy patron respectively, Gertie and Jimmie Saigeon, were presented the jewels of their office and escorted through an honor line of past matrons.

Lunch was served, with tables decorated in the colors of the new worthy matron, with pink and white carnations. Guests were from Argyle, Cass City, Marlette, Sandusky, Flint, and Rochester.

Ouvry finishes weapons class

Airman William A. Ouvry has graduated from the U.S. Air Force's weapons mechanic course conducted by the Air Training Command at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver, Colo.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Aime L. Ouvry of 6742 Pine St., Cass City, is now trained to load and inspect weapons used in Air Force aircraft, and will serve at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich.

Completion of the course earned him credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Ouvry is a 1976 graduate of Cass City High School. His wife, Angelette, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendal Harmon of Decker.

Cancer Society has crusade round-up

Members of the Tuscola County Unit American Cancer Society met Monday evening, Oct. 24, for their crusade round-up and victory dinner. The 7 p.m. potluck was preceded by a social hour with music by Joe Merchant of Cass City.

Earlene Cassidy, crusade chairman, welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Ione Perry introduced the board members and division representative, Ruth Hoffman.

Mrs. Hoffman congratulated the unit on its successful crusade, having passed its goal of $34,000 by more than $1,500. The unit dedicated this year's crusade to former board member Gretchen Haines.

Betty Kochalka announced that memorials are on the increase and this last year more than $9,500 was added to the crusade through memorials.

Board members were pleased to announce that this year volunteers were working in the Kingston, Gagetown and Fostoria areas, which some years were not covered.

It was also reported that the "Table Toppers" again contributed in the area of $3,000. The "Bowl Down" netted $2,891 and the golf tournament helped with $1,400.

Mrs. Cassidy thanked all volunteers who helped with the "Door to Door" crusade.

Mrs. Cassidy will be crusade chairman for the 1978 crusade.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dorothy Sobourin of Sandusky. Mrs. Sobourin is a cured cancer patient and serves on the board of the Sanilac County Unit, ACS. She is also chairman of the Sanilac County "Reach to Recovery" program. Presently she is planning a teaching session for others who are interested in joining the program.

Patricia Pitch of Almont, Lapeer county co-chairman of public education for the ACS, was the other speaker.

Mrs. Joe Young, Unit service chairman, and Mrs. Erhardt Rogner are heading the uterine task force this year. A grant has been awarded from the Michigan Division to allow the unit to pay the lab fee on 600 Pap tests, in an effort to detect uterine cancer in the early stages.

A special marked kit has to be obtained, which women then take to their personal physician. Kits can be obtained from Mrs. Young in Gilford township, Mrs. Iva Profit in Cass City, Mrs. Don Petzold in Arhela, Mrs. Betty Stuart in the village of Tuscola, Mrs. Beatrice Reinert in the village of Richville and Mrs. Charles Hirschman in Reese or Mrs. Rogner in Denmark township. Chairmen in other areas will be announced as soon as someone volunteers by phoning Mrs. Young at 868-4415 or Mrs. Rogner at 868-4578.

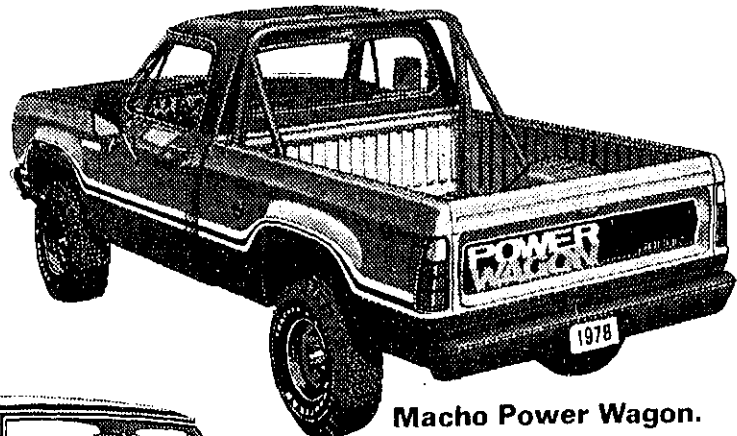

Meeting set

William N. Nicholson, Ph.D., a certified clinical psychologist and minister, will be the guest speaker when the Saginaw Valley Cleft Palate Association meets at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 16, at Delta Family Clinic, 2303 East Amelith Road, Bay City.

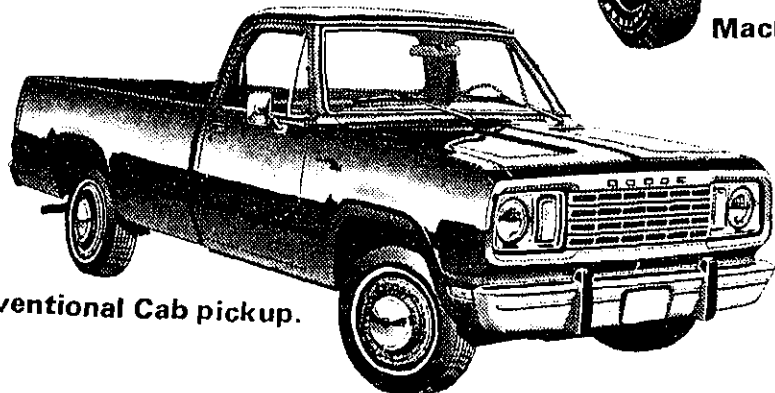

He will discuss psychological problems which may be encountered by children with cleft lip and palate and their families.

Feed screening test available

With the dry conditions that occurred across most of the country this summer followed by a wet fall, a great deal of attention has focused on aflatoxins in grain.

With this in mind, Brookside Farms Laboratory has set up a screening test to detect aflatoxins in feeds. In the procedure we are using, the aflatoxin is separated from the feed sample by solvent extraction and then injected into a mini-column. If the toxin is present it will fluoresce under ultra-violet light. The intensity of this fluorescent band is then compared to that of pure aflatoxin standards. This enables us to estimate the concentration of aflatoxin in the sample. For further information contact Brookside Farms Laboratory's local consultant, Roy F. Shaft, at 517-872-4742. Adv.

Government official Alton Reavey dies

Tuscola County Road Commissioner Alton E. Reavey, 66, of Almer township, died Tuesday, Oct. 25, in Saginaw General Hospital following a brief illness.

The former Almer township clerk and supervisor and chairman of the county board of supervisors was a member of the county Planning Commission and Board of Public Works at the time of his death, in addition to serving on the Road Commission. He also served as treasurer of the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region board of directors.

He was born Aug. 6, 1911, was a lifelong resident of Almer township, and was self-employed as a farmer.

He is survived by his wife, the former Doris Fritz, whom he married July 2, 1938; a son, William of Akron; daughter, Mrs. Sharon Daniels of California; four grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Blenford (Alice) Monte of Caro and Marion Reavey of Detroit.

Funeral services were conducted Friday at the Caro United Methodist church, Rev. Clive Dickins and Rev. Brian Kundering, officiating. Burial was in Almer cemetery.

Vassar couple convicted of aiding armed robber

A Vassar couple were found guilty last Thursday by a circuit court jury of charges in connection with the robbing of a rural Vassar woman April 2.

Found guilty at the end of the six-day trial of entering without breaking an occupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny was Jewel Swinton Jr., 26.

Found guilty of that charge plus the charge of aiding and abetting an armed robbery was Augusta C. Bables, 29. Swinton was found innocent of the aiding and abetting charge. The two lived at the same address in Vassar, 145 Andy Street.

Oct. 4, Gregory M. Tyson, 26, of Saginaw, pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery in connection with the same incident.

He was also charged with criminal sexual conduct (1st degree) and conspiracy to commit breaking and entering in connection with the same incident.

In a plea bargain agreement with the prosecution, he pleaded guilty to the armed robbery charge and the prosecution agreed to drop the other two charges.

Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn pointed out at the time that armed robbery carries a maximum penalty of life in prison, as does the criminal sexual conduct charge.

Even if the case had gone to trial and he was found guilty of all three charges, under the concurrent sentencing required in Michigan, his sentence would not have been any longer.

Sentencing before Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements is scheduled Monday.

The fact that a rape allegedly took place during the robbery complicated the jury selection, which took three days.

More than 80 potential jurors were questioned and defense attorneys Gary Crews for Mrs. Bables and Raymond Findlay for Swinton both used all 20 of their preemptory challenges.

Judge Clements questioned in his chambers all potential jurors who indicated they had read or heard anything about the case and dismissed more than 25 of them for cause. The judge pointed out during the trial that although testimony was introduced about the rape, the defendants were not charged with any criminal sexual activity. The trial started Oct. 18, with the victim, the mother of four children, taking the stand.

She said she was assaulted and robbed after she admitted a man into her home to use the telephone. The weapon used to threaten her was a machete or large knife.

Taken in the robbery were U.S. savings bonds, $8 in

Fire damage estimated at $4,000

Halloween pranksters were blamed for starting two fires Monday night.

Elkland Township Fire Chief Jim Jezewski estimated total damage at about $4,000 to an old wood barn on Germania Road, a half-mile south of Argyle Road, owned by Larry Puterbaugh, who lives in the area.

The fire was apparently started by pranksters. Jezewski said, as there are no houses nearby and no electricity in the barn.

He said the old barn contained about 500 bales of hay and some lumber.

Firemen were on the scene about two hours, until about 2 a.m. Tuesday. Lamotte township firemen assisted with a tanker.

The other Halloween arson fire took place about 9 p.m. Monday when cardboard and papers being stored in a trailer behind the Gamble store on Main Street was set on fire.

Jezewski said the fire scorched the inside of the trailer and caused slight damage to the store roof.

The trailer was chained to a pole. Firemen had to cut the chain in order to pull the trailer away from the pole and building.

An overheated space heater was blamed as the cause of a fire Monday night at the Harry Pyonk home on Decker-ville Road, about one mile west of Deford.

Damage was estimated at $4,000.

Fireman Milt Connolly said the chimney fire, started by the overheated heater, started burning between the walls.

The heater was located in the living room-kitchen area of the home.

Firemen used about 190 gallons of water to extinguish the blaze. They were on the scene about one hour. The fire siren sounded about 9:45 p.m.

F. Cooley dies after short illness

Florence Cooley of Cass City died Friday, Oct. 28, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after an illness of one month.

She was born June 19, 1889 in Owendale, the daughter of Seward and Agnes Cooley.

Miss Cooley came to Cass City in 1925 with her mother from Owendale.

She was a member of the Trinity United Methodist church of Cass City for more than 50 years.

Miss Cooley is survived by a twin sister, Mrs. Fern Maier of Cass City; two nieces and three nephews. One brother Arthur preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 3 p.m. from Little's Funeral Home with Rev. Byron Hatch of the Trinity United Methodist church of Cass City, officiating.

Burial was in Grant cemetery, Huron county.

Halloween 'not bad,' police chief says

In comparison to some past years, Halloween in Cass City this year "was not too bad, basically," according to Police Chief Gene Wilson.

Incidents of egg throwing and soaping windows were less than in some years, said the chief, who recalled that one year, a fire truck was used to wash down Main Street because of all the eggs that were thrown on it.

Cardboard and papers stored in a trailer behind the Gamble Store on Main Street were set on fire but were extinguished by Elkland township firemen. (See story on fires elsewhere.)

The only complaints concerning egg throwing, according to Wilson, came from some people who were probably involved in throwing some. No adults reported any eggs being thrown on their cars.

Minor damage to the sign in front of the high school, plus some paint spraying were reported there.

Some pumpkins were broken.

Three tickets were issued Monday night, when approximately 40 youths congregated downtown. Two were for minors in possession of alcoholic beverages; one for careless driving.

Some litter barrels downtown were thrown onto Main Street Sunday night. The barrels were removed by city workmen Monday during the day to prevent a repeat "performance" that night.

Bruce Cain of Vassar reported to sheriff's deputies Saturday evening that three engines were stolen within the previous few days from property on Bliss Road in Indianfields township. Mrs. Alvin Hutchinson of 4129 Leach Street, librarian at Rawson Memorial Library, reported to Cass City police last Thursday afternoon that the bicycles of her daughters, Jill and Joan, had been stolen. The girls parked their bikes outside the library when they went in to see their mother. When they returned a few minutes later, the bikes and two boys who had been standing outside were gone. The Huff 3-speeds were valued at a total of $80.

At 6 p.m., Mrs. Hutchinson called the police to report the two boys had walked past her house carrying some bicycle parts. Officer Donald Miller Jr. stopped the two boys, who said they found the parts in a field. The parts were shown to Alvin Hutchinson, who was unable to identify them as coming from his daughters' bikes.

Dale Bader of 4678 Kennebec Drive told Cass City police Wednesday, Oct. 26, that a citizens band radio had been stolen from a used car parked on the B & W Auto Sales lot on Main Street. In addition to the loss of the radio, valued at $200, damage estimated at $100 was done in removing it from the car.

Dorothy A. Seidler of Rt. 1 S. Plain Road, Kingston, told deputies early Friday afternoon that occupants of a car westbound on Harmon Lake Road had stopped and shot her cat.

They then got out of the car, clubbed the animal to death, and got back in the car. They turned around at the Plain Road intersection, fired one more shot, then sped off east.

Douglas Bell of 6608 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, told deputies that three of the radial tires on his car were slashed with about one-inch cuts while parked at the Kingston High School football game Friday night.

Dean P. O'Harris of Unionville told Cass City police at 8 a.m. Monday that while his car was parked at the Charmont Restaurant the previous evening, someone put a circular crack in his windshield. The crack, about 4 inches in diameter, was apparently made with a blunt object.

Delmar Miller of Hughes Road, Owendale, told village police late Monday night that someone bent the citizens band radio antenna and broke the mount on his car while it was parked at the Charmont, sometime after 9 p.m. Both windshield wipers were bent. Total damage was estimated at $40.

Stanley VanVliet of Rt. 1 Morarity Road, Decker, told Cass City police a hit and run driver damaged his car while it was parked during the day Thursday, Oct. 27, at Provincial House on Hospital Drive.

Village police at 1:20 a.m. Sunday arrested John S. Kloc, 57, of 1643 N. Kingston Road, Deford, on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. His car was stopped on Main Street at Senger Street. He was taken to the county jail, where he was later released after posting $100 bond, pending arraignment in district court.

Maryland man to be charged

Tuscola County Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn said Tuesday that he will issue a warrant charging a Maryland man with the Oct. 12 theft of the pickup truck of Wayne K. McNeil of Hadley Road, Cass City.

The truck was found later that day.

To be charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile will be Charles W. Caudill, who is now being held by Maryland authorities on a variety of charges.

Det. Sgt. Bill Wolner of the Caro state police post said Maryland authorities told him Caudill is being held in that state on charges of breaking and entering, larceny, two charges of uttering and publishing, and two charges of forgery.

In addition, he is also wanted on criminal charges in Ohio.

Joslyn said extradition of Caudill to Michigan will not be sought immediately, pending resolutions of the charges against him in the other states. If convicted of some of these charges, and if they carry sentences longer than that imposed for the charge of unlawfully driving away an automobile in Michigan, the charge may be dropped.

If convicted, he would serve the sentence concurrent with any sentences elsewhere, thus wouldn't serve any additional time if tried and found guilty here.

The McNeil pickup was stolen sometime after 1:45 p.m. at the west end of Wilsie Road, north of Cass City, where the owner left it while working.

It was found at 3:30 p.m. that day by Joanne Lier of 1584 Maplewood Drive, Caro, who reported it had been abandoned and her son's car stolen. The car of Larry Lier was found Oct. 14 by police in Frederick, Md. The occupants, Mehrl and Gloria Stull, both of Frederick, were arrested and charged with grand theft.

Joslyn said no charges will be brought against the Stulls, that all prosecution will be left up to the Maryland authorities.

Caudill is only being charged with the theft of the McNeil pickup as that charge would be easier to prove than charging him with the theft of the Lier auto, according to the prosecutor.

Det. Wolner said the trio, according to Maryland authorities, allegedly all drove to this area in a vehicle stolen in Maryland. They apparently were visiting relatives somewhere in Tuscola county.

The McNeil pickup was abandoned because of a leaking radiator and the Lier auto was taken.

Caudill apparently drove the car back to Maryland while the Stulls drove the vehicle they came to Michigan in. Once back, they switched cars.

Caudill was arrested by Maryland authorities some time after the Stulls were apprehended.

On another criminal matter, Prosecutor Joslyn said he has not yet issued warrants charging two Huron county men with the Sept. 28 break-in of the Cass City IGA Food-liner. Sheriff's department detectives turned over their investigation report to the prosecutor with the request that warrants be issued, but he requested further investigation be made before charging the pair with the crime.

4-H ACTIVITIES. 4-H important for youth today. By Bernard Jardot. Never before have young people been more important to America than they are today. The 4-H youth program like many other youth groups are being challenged to continue and expand its programs to meet the needs of today's youth. The President's Task Force on Rural Development commended 4-H for the emphasis on private initiative through productive individual projects and urged that these programs be intensified and expanded to serve more rural youth. Interest in 4-H youth programs is being expressed by many national and state groups who are working to help expand 4-H to make it more available to our youth regardless of where they live. Also more and more parents have indicated that they want their youngster to have the kinds of experiences 4-H has to offer. Yes, our young people find 4-H is fun and is unbeatable in its combination of learning by doing. The great need today is for increased numbers of volunteer adult and teen leaders to advise the expanded number of youth interested in 4-H. If you are interested in serving as an adult advisor for a 4-H group, contact the county 4-H office, Civil Defense Center, Caro.
