

Extension sought for loans

As of 8 a.m. Wednesday, SBA Small Business Administration officials in Caro are still waiting to hear if the application deadline for farm disaster loans was going to be extended.

The deadline was supposed to be this Wednesday. The deadline has been extended for farmers who apply to the Farmers Home Administration for a disaster loan under a different program who are rejected and then apply to the SBA.

The FHA application deadline is not until Nov. 9. The agency is also now making loans to farmers who suffered physical or production losses due to the Jan. 26 snow storm.

Barbara Porterfield of the SBA office said all they had heard was Gov. William G. Milliken had written to the SBA in either Washington or Chicago to request the extension.

As of late Tuesday afternoon, the temporary SBA office in the county jail basement in Caro had accepted 1,282 applications. It began taking applications in mid-December.

The office, plus one in Standish, is serving 18 eastern Michigan counties that were declared agricultural disaster areas because of the heavy rains last fall. No breakdown of the number of applicants per county is available.

Ms. Porterfield said that she and the others in Caro figure many more farmers will apply for loans if the deadline is extended. Despite extensive media coverage about the availability of the loans, she commented, "We're absolutely amazed by the number of people calling who (up till now) hadn't heard about it."

SBA and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service officials have sought the loan extension because of inability to process all the loan applications immediately because of the large number of applicants.

The ASCS has to figure normal crop yields as part of the application process to determine losses.

Shortage of application forms has been another problem.

Because of the approaching deadline, the SBA asked farmers who applied lately to fill out only the front page of the application in order to beat the deadline, with the rest to be filled out later.

Interest rate on the loans, intended to cover the amount of crop losses, is

Snow removal cost county $15,000

It cost the Tuscola County Road Commission about $15,000 extra to dig out from the Jan. 26 snowstorm.

That's only for that day and the three days following the storm.

With some more snow since then and much of it being blown into drifts, road clearing efforts have been a continual effort, with some additional overtime put in by commission employees.

Drifted over roads led to the closing of the Owenage schools Monday and all area schools Tuesday. Owenage was still closed Wednesday.

Clerk James Miklovic of the road commission said Tuesday that it would probably be Wednesday afternoon before all county roads could be cleared -- provided there wasn't more snow and rifting.

The $15,000 estimate by Miklovic was for overtime pay to employees and equipment costs beyond the normal eight hours they could have worked that Thursday and Friday, Jan. 26-27, plus all work done that week end.

Overtime labor costs those two days came to $1,740 and equipment costs, $3,600. Labor costs for Saturday

DISASTER AVERTED -- Tanker driver Otto Threehouse (right) was all smiles as he talked with Elkland township firemen early Monday after he and two policemen put out a small fire that could have become a very big one. The double tanker carried a total of 2,700 gallons of gasoline.

But that may change

Cass City adult education -- you have to ask for it

By Mike Eliason

If you want an adult education course, you'll have to ask for it.

That could change by this fall, however, if a full-time community education director is hired for the Cass City schools.

At present, anything under the category of community education is under the direction of high school Principal Russell Richards. Evening adult enrichment classes, but apparently not high school completion, have been offered on and off over the years locally.

When Richards came here nine years ago, there wasn't any program. In 1970, a teacher started an adult education program as a field project for his master's degree program. The teacher left the next year and Richards inherited the program.

At first, a regular program of classes was offered each semester.

For instance, offered in January, 1975, were typing, record keeping, auto mechanics, drafting, golf fundamentals, electronic organ playing, office practices, gourmet cooking, home repair, cake decorating, arts and crafts, gymnastics and weaving.

Classes ranged from six to 12 nights, one night a week, and course fees from $8.75 to $16.

Despite advertising courses through the school district newsletter, newspapers, at factories, and notifying past participants, Richards said he usually had to cancel 95 per cent of the classes due to lack of enrollment. Enrollment was open to anyone, not just district residents.

"Frankly, I got tired of going through the motions and having to cancel them," Richards said.

Why hasn't an adult education program succeeded in Cass City?

Richards feels one reason may be that there simply aren't enough people in the area to make it viable. Offer a typing class for a couple of semesters and you've reached about everyone interested in learning how to type.

There's also the 'vicious circle.' Offer a class in, for instance, auto mechanics. A person is interested but fears, based on past experience, it might be cancelled. So instead of signing up, he goes to Caro and signs up for the auto mechanics class there, which he knows won't be cancelled.

As a result of the dismal response, according to the principal, "In recent years, we have taken the position we are willing to work with people in the community if they want an adult education class."

Under the policy of offering classes if they are requested, chair caning was offered last spring. This past fall, cake decorating and china painting were offered but the latter class was cancelled due to lack of response. "Slinnastics" may be offered this spring.

Since the tuition charged has to be enough to pay the instructor and other costs, Richards prefers to have at least 12-15 students enroll, but, "I'll offer a class for 8-10 people."

COMMUNITY EDUCATION

The Caro Community Schools Community Services program, according to director Steve Hoffman, enrolled more than 1,700 people during the two terms of the 1976-77 school year.

Of those, about 1,000 took personal enrichment classes, 400 were enrolled in the high school completion program, and 300 took college extension classes. Another 100 took General Education Development tests, passage of which entitles qualified individuals for the equivalent of a high school diploma.

Hoffman feels that possibly a fourth of all the students live "towards Cass City" or in the immediate Cass City area.

Last summer, after some debate, the Cass City School Board accepted an offer from the Caro schools that the latter hire an intern who would work to establish a community education program here.

The program would probably start with high school completion classes, for which state aid is available, and then enrichment classes would be added.

Under a program with Alma College, the Caro schools would have paid the person hired, who had to be

Quick action prevents major tanker fire

Quick action by the driver of a gasoline double-tanker truck and some luck avoided a potential disaster in Cass City Monday when the truck caught fire shortly before 12:30 a.m.

Damage was slight and the fire was extinguished by him and two policemen by the time Elkland township firemen arrived.

The driver, Otto Threehouse of Kawawlin, was preparing to pump a load of fuel into the storage tanks at L. & S Standard Service, at the corner of Oak and Main Streets, when the fire started.

According to Sgt. Bill Ozdych of the state police fire marshal's office, the cause was gasoline that remained in the draw-off pipe from the forward tanker, possibly 10-15 gallons, which spilled out when Threehouse removed the cap in order to hook up the hose.

The gasoline in the pipe, which somehow remained after a previous delivery, dripped onto shorted tail-light wiring and ignited.

Threehouse had not turned the pump on to empty the tanker. Hours later, when he did so, it wouldn't operate as the automatic emergency fuel shutoff device had functioned properly as soon as the fire started.

The driver grabbed the fire extinguisher out of the cab of his truck as soon as he saw the fire and almost had it out when the extinguisher ran out.

He ran to the nearby pay telephone booth and called the operator who called the fire department.

The first to respond were police officers William Moore and Phil Klaus, who were in their patrol car nearby when they received the fire call. By using the fire extinguisher in their car and throwing snow on the fire, they were able to have it out by the time firemen arrived moments later.

Moore told the Chronicle that when he and his partner arrived, the rear three axles of the front trailer and front two axles of the rear trailer were standing in flames.

Threehouse pulled his truck forward as the officers extinguished the flames. As he did so, he ran over the citizens band radio he had accidentally pulled out of the cab when he grabbed his own fire extinguisher.

The driver later told the Chronicle that had the operator taken about two more seconds to get the call through to the fire department, he was planning to get back in his still burning rig and drive it out of town.

He said he told her of the emergency but as she hurriedly tried to find the number for the fire department, she was more nervous than he was.

The double tanker, owned by Ray Molder Inc. of Bay City, holds 15,400 gallons of gasoline when full. Threehouse had stopped previously in Caro and only had 2,700 gallons left when he got to Cass City, 2,000 in the front tanker and 700 in the rear.

Threehouse, who turned 40 Tuesday, is a 20-year veteran of the Air Force and has been driving for the gasoline hauling firm for five months.

After the incident was over, he joked with firemen that if his unit had been fully loaded, he would have run instead of trying to put out the fire. "If it was fully loaded," he exclaimed, "I would have called you from the end of town."

Threehouse wanted to return to Bay City without emptying the 2,700 gallons, but was unable to do so because his taillights wouldn't operate.

Fire Chief Jack Hartwick called the fire marshal's office in Bay City to notify them of the fire and Sgt. Ozdych drove to the scene, arriving about 3 a.m.

The officer wouldn't let the tanker be driven back to Bay City until the taillights were repaired and any possible damage to brake lines was repaired. He also made Threehouse empty the 2,700 gallons at the Standard station, which could be done by manually overriding the automatic shutoff.

Ozdych said the fire extinguisher carried in the truck did not meet specifications requirements for the fuel tankers and that a citation might be issued.

The spread of the fire, according to the officer, may have been slowed by the snow on the ground and cold temperature. The potential was there for "quite a fire" or an explosion.

As for the effort done by Threehouse in extinguishing the fire, Ozdych commented, "He did a fantastic job."

Log cabins are nice to visit but not so nice to live in Log cabins are nice places to visit, according to Jim McDonald, but he wouldn't want to live in one.

He should know. He, along with his family and friends, have built one.

Actually what they did is take apart an old one, move it, then put it back together. McDonald, his wife, Pat, and children Sandy, 13, Jimmy, 8, and Patrick, 6, live on E. Cass City Road.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald collect antiques and decided a genuine log cabin would be nice to put on some property they own in the area.

They could have built one from scratch as the property they own is heavily wooded, so they had a ready supply of logs. But, explained McDonald, then they would have had a new log cabin instead of an antique one.

There are still a lot of log cabins around, according to McDonald, the problem being finding one the owner is willing to sell and is in good enough condition to dismantle and move.

After scouring the Thumb, the McDonalds finally found what they wanted between Deckerville and M-25.

The cabin wasn't being used and had been covered with wood siding. The owners had lived in it about 60 years ago and McDonald guesses it probably is about 100 years old.

In preparation for their project, he and his wife looked at log cabins at Greenfield Village and in Ohio and Indiana, and read what literature they could find on the subject.

It took three days to take the cabin apart and move it to the new location. There the logs sat for about four years before McDonald found time to start the project.

Each lot was marked when the structure was taken apart for easy reassembly, but by the time McDonald got started on the project two years ago, he had lost his list of markings "so we had to do some jiving around."

By last fall, the roof was on and the building could be used. All that remains to be done now is chinking between some of the logs, some trim work, and finishing the chimney.

McDonald, a self-employed building contractor, said no special problems were encountered in the construction, other than finding the "time and ambition."

In addition to the family working on the project, lots of friends contributed their labor.

"You can't believe the

Have you ever wondered why bread from small bakeries tastes different (I think better) than the "store bought" bread from large bakeries?

Tom Sutter told the Rotary Club Tuesday noon that it's because of different ingredients and the absence of preservatives.

I remarked last week about the prompt snow removal in the village. An added silver lining is that much of the cost doesn't come directly from the village budget. Work on Main Street, M-81, is billed to the State. That's why you find the crew there before regular working hours. The State authorizes time and a half for the emergency work.

Work on the remainder of the village streets comes in during regular hours and at straight pay nearly all of the time.

Maybe there is something to this retirement after all. A visitor in Cass City this week was Asel Collins, retired publisher of the Pigeon Progress.

"Ace" is a native of Cass City. He's been retired for about two months now and is enjoying every minute of it.

A round up of the "good news" will be coming your way in the special good news progress edition slated for March 15. It will have a round-up of everything that's happened in our bustling community in the last two years since the last similar edition was published.

Don't give up hope. Although last winter was one of the coldest on record there were rays of sunshine.

One was that in the middle of March last year the mercury climbed into the 70's.

Cass City resident sentenced to prison

Terry L. Young, 21, of 6421 Main Street, Cass City, was sentenced Monday to 16-24 months in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for violation of probation.

Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley pronounced sentence. Young was credited with 115 days served.

The violation was for failing to report to his probation officer in November and December. Young was sentenced in March, 1976, to three years' probation after having pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted larceny in a building in connection with a December, 1975 break-in in Elkland township.

He faces sentencing Feb. 21 for attempted breaking and entering. He was found guilty of the charge by a jury Jan. 23 in connection with the attempted break-in of the Quaker Maid Dairy Store in Cass City last March.

Also Monday, before Judge Baguley, Judith R. Schniers, 18, of 500 S. Almer Street, Caro, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of uttering and publishing.

The charge was in connection with cashing of a forged check for $80 at the Western Auto Store in Caro.

Her guilty plea was accepted and sentencing was scheduled March 6. Bond was continued.

The judge took under advisement a prosecution motion to dismiss the original charge of forgery with intent to injure or defraud.

Michael K. DeMott, 21, of 8738 Fostoria Road, Fostoria, pleaded guilty to one of two counts against him of obstructing, resisting, opposing a police officer.

His plea was accepted and sentencing was scheduled March 6. Bond was continued.

The charge was in connection with the attempt by Mayville police officer Hilton Searles to arrest another individual.

Sentencing for Larry F. Humbert, 23, no available address, for delivery of phenylcyclidine was delayed one year. He was assessed $200 court costs. Bond was continued. He is to attend substance abuse counseling.

He pleaded no contest to the charge Jan. 4. The incident took place Oct. 1, 1976 at a bar in Unionville.

"If It Fitz..." The flashy panhandler

By Jim Fitzgerald

Complaining about crime in Detroit streets, John DeLorean recently told a reporter: "You can't walk from your office (at the Free Press) to the London Chop House without getting the top of your head caved in."

He's right. There's always the danger of bumping into one of the magnates who lurk around the Chop House entrance. One of these magnates is liable to hit you on the hat if you refuse to build him a $15 billion factory on the riverfront.

DeLorean is trying to squeeze such a deal out of the City of Detroit. So far the city has offered him a $48.2 million package if he will manufacture a sports car here. Puerto Rico may top this offer. DeLorean claims he is exceedingly worthy of this expensive wooing.

"There's nobody who's got a better track record in the goddamned automobile business than I have," he said.

Some latecomers may not be familiar with DeLorean's splendid record. I will bring you up to date.

DeLorean was once a vice-president of General Motors. More important, he was once Ricky Nelson's brother-in-law and Tom Harmon's son-in-law. By 1973, he was one of the nation's best known auto executives, perhaps second only to Henry Ford II, who has the built-in advantage of being named after all those hub-caps.

DeLorean was good at selling Chevrolets, but it was not this ability that titillated the public. It was his lifestyle. He wore sneakers while jetting to exotic vacation spots, and his second wife was the gorgeous Kelly Harmon, half his age, the daughter of Michigan's most famous football player and the sister-in-law of Ricky.

the younger son of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, for heaven's sake. It was the type of glamor not usually associated with the industry that produced George Romney and planned obsolescence.

There was hardly time for public disillusionment when DeLorean lost his famous relatives via a split with Kelly. He was soon wed again, to another nubile beauty, a Hollywood starlet named Cristina Ferrare, and the DeLorean image remained intact. There was never any verification of the rumor that he met Miss Ferrare on a blind date to which he had agreed because he thought she was an Italian sports car.

Another separation brought DeLorean to his publicity peak. He separated himself from General Motors and there was great shock throughout the land. Why would he do it? Everyone knew he would some day have become president and then chairman of the board and then secretary of defense. Why would a man walk out on such a glittering future?

Of course, a few newsmen hinted that DeLorean was eased out of GM because his life-style didn't fit behind the desk of the president of the world's largest industrial corporation. But not many people believed this nasty story.

All the world loves a lover and this includes GM board members who could doubtless see that a man of DeLorean's talents could have opened grand new horizons for all of them. His old address books might have become corporate property.

No, it seems certain that DeLorean left GM without being shoved in the rear bumper. And, in his Free Press interview this week, he revealed how he could walk away from all that treasure.

"Money's not a motivation to me, it never has been," he said. "The real thing that turns me on is accomplishment."

Right now, what DeLorean wants to accomplish is a new auto company. His motivation for wanting to accomplish it in Detroit is to help Detroit fight crime. His factory would hire the crooks right off the street and give us all a safer town to walk in. That's what he says.

But DeLorean is asking the city to bet millions of tax dollars that people are aching to buy a luxury sports car priced over $10,000. There must be a cheaper way to get from the Free Press to the London Chop House without risking confrontations with ambitious panhandlers who hire lawyers to help them beg.

Maybe a tunnel could be dug. We could use it until the magnate panhandlers have all gone to Puerto Rico, and it's safe to come above ground.

Ex-Cass Cityan on TV ministry

Mrs. Henry Hulbert, the former Emaline Bullis of Cass City, is now appearing on the weekly television program, "Echoes from Calvary."

"Echoes from Calvary" is an out-reach ministry of the Calvary Bible church of Cheboygan, where Rev. Henry Hulbert is pastor. The six-year-old congregation began a TV Ministry in November, 1975 with one black-white camera on a small cable station in St.

Ignace. The program is now in color and viewed each week by thousands in much of Michigan.

"Echoes from Calvary" is heard on television stations in Alpena, Traverse City, Sault Ste. Marie, and cable television stations in Petoskey, Cheboygan and Newberry.

Mrs. Hulbert was a member of the First Baptist church in Cass City and a church pianist before her marriage to Rev. Hulbert of Lansing.

The Hulberts started the Calvary Bible church of Cheboygan six years ago and now operate three Sunday School buses, the TV Ministry, participate in a Christian school program with other Baptist and Bible churches and have two long-playing records out.

The couple has six children and one adopted son and all appear regularly on the telecast.

Deford man accused of taking car

A preliminary examination for an 18-year-old Deford youth accused of failing to return a used car from a Bad Axe auto dealership was scheduled in Bad Axe Wednesday morning.

Charged with larceny by conversion is Ronald A. Clyne of 261 Kingston Road. Clyne was arrested at 6:20 a.m., Feb. 1, by Tuscola County Deputy Robert Fox who stopped the car he was driving after the officer received a "be on the lookout" report from the department radio dispatcher.

Fox was 2½ miles south of Caro on M-24 when he received the dispatch, headed north, and stopped a suspect vehicle a half-mile north of Sun Club Road in Caro. Clyne was the driver.

According to Bad Axe police, the 1971 Chevrolet involved was taken from Huron Chevrolet Sales in Bad Axe when the driver took it for a "test drive" in late afternoon on the 1st. When he failed to return, the dealer called city police who put out a bulletin over the police teletype.

Clyne was taken to the county jail in Caro and later turned over to Huron county authorities.

He was subsequently arraigned before District Judge John T. Schubel, who set bond at $10,000 and scheduled the preliminary examination for this Wednesday.

Clyne requested a court-appointed attorney. John T. Terris of Bad Axe was appointed to represent him.

Deliberation is a good policy, but it has broken few records.

CAR FIRE -- Fire about 2:20 a.m. last Thursday destroyed the car of Connie Wilcox of Mayville. The 1970 Chevrolet station wagon was parked behind the Colonial Inn on Main Street, Cass City, apparently for some time. Elkland township firemen believe an electrical fault, probably in the dashboard area, started the fire.

Cass City area youngster 'fair' after sled accident

Thomas Lee Willis, 14, was listed in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital where he has been since a sledding accident Sunday.

Bad Axe state police reported that the youth was riding on an old auto hood being towed by a pickup truck driven by his half-brother, Frederick W. Milligan III.

The makeshift sled spun around, went under the truck, and Willis was run over by the left rear wheel of the truck.

The incident took place about 5:30 p.m. on the farm of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Milligan, at Hartsell and Huron Line Roads, Grant township. The farm has a Cass City address.

The other passenger on the sled, Allan Hendricks, 12, of Cass City, escaped injury.

Two youths riding in the bed of the pickup and one other in the cab also witnessed the accident.

INJURY ACCIDENTS

Jack E. Winchester, 30, of Elkton, was treated at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, Saturday after he was run over by a wheel of a four-wheel-drive pickup.

Driver of the pickup, according to Huron county deputies, was Edward Mitchell of Cass City.

Winchester told deputies he was standing on the snowplow blade mounted on the front of the pickup in order to add weight to the front end. He lost his balance, fell forward, and one of the front wheels ran over both his legs.

The incident took place about 10 p.m. while the men were clearing a driveway on private property about 5½ miles northwest of Elkton.

Robert G. Houghteling, 16, of Caro, was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital following a 3:55 a.m. accident Sunday.

He told sheriff's deputies he was southbound on Colwood Road, north of Hobart Road, when he fell asleep. His car went off the road and struck a bridge abutment.

Florence M. Smith, 38, and her son, Daniel V. Smith Jr., 16, of Phillips Road, Deford, sought their own treatment following an accident at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Deputies said she was westbound on Deckerville Road, east of Colwood Road, slowed down and the vehicle behind her, after braking, slid into the rear of her car. Driver of the other vehicle was Donald J. Howard, 24, of 3308 Warner Road, Cass City.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A tandem tanker, loaded with liquid soybean extract, tipped over onto its side Friday afternoon on Sebe-waung Road, about 1½ miles east of Owendale.

The driver, Glenn D. Stuck, 42, of Bay City, who was headed west at 1:20 p.m., told state police from Bad Axe he heard a noise from the rear of his truck.

The snow alongside the road gave the illusion there was enough space to pull off the road. There wasn't. The truck slid into the ditch and the entire unit -- tractor and two tanker trailers -- tipped onto its right side.

Another tanker was called to the scene to pump out Stuck's rig so that it could be righted. Loaded, it weighed 70,000 pounds.

The Cass City High School parking lot was the scene of an accident at 5 p.m., Jan. 31.

Village police said Scott E. Richards, 17, of 4642 N. Seeger Street, was leaving via the entrance drive and collided with a car that was entering the lot. The other driver involved was Gail Marie Laszlo, 16, of 7130 Deckerville Road, Deford.

At 6:45 a.m., Jan. 26, Robert Speirs, 55, of Rt. 3 Akron Road, Cass City, was eastbound on Kelly Road, west of Phillips Road.

According to deputies, the heavy snow "guided" his vehicle off the south side of the road, where it struck an old cobblestone gate post.

At 6:20 p.m., Feb. 1, deputies reported, Janis Hubbard, 43, was turning right into her driveway at 3039 S. Kingston Road, Kingston. The northbound car behind her was unable to stop and collided with her auto. The other driver was David J. Heacock, 18, of 6105 Bevans Road, Kingston.

Caro state police reported an accident at 3 p.m. last Thursday. They said Kim B. Bill, 22, of Caro, was backing out of a driveway onto M-81, southwest of Colling Road, and backed into a car headed southwest.

Driver of the other vehicle involved was Clemens R. Koepf, 28, of 3273 Warner Road, Cass City.

Martin D. Rankin, 17, of Imlay City, was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, just west of M-53, when his car struck a deer. Bad Axe state police investigated the accident, which occurred just before 7 p.m. Friday.

Two cars sideswiped each other at 11:45 a.m. Saturday as they crested a hill on Elmwood Road, east of Cedar Run Road.

Troopers said Randy L. Czapl, 16, of Caro, was westbound and Howard Woodard, 69, of 5171 Kelly Road, Cass City, was eastbound when their vehicles made contact and slid off the south side of the road. According to officers, the two were driving close to the centerline because of the icy pavement.

Deputies reported at 8 a.m. Monday that Robert A. Griesmayer, 29, of Unionville, was entering the Evans Products Co. parking lot in Gagetown when his van slid on the icy surface into a parked car.

Owner of the parked car was Billy Hutchinson, 44, of Caro.

At 1:30 p.m. Monday, two cars collided on Cemetery Road, south of Severance Road.

Deputies said that Grace L. Newsome, 55, of 6508 Deckerville Road, Deford, started to turn left into a driveway from the northbound lane and the car following her struck her vehicle in the left side. The other driver involved was Carl D. Nicol, 43, of Box 83 Deckerville Road, Deford.

She told officers she had her turn signal on but they noted that her taillights were covered with packed snow.

Region economy plan updated

The East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region (ECMPDR) is the first of Michigan's 14 regions to have its updated Overall Economic Development Plan (OEDP) approved by the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA).

According to ECMPDR Chief Economic Development Program Planner Jeff Lichty, the OEDP is a document that describes the region and identifies its economic strengths and weaknesses. The purpose is to give direction to economic development in the region and serve as an informational base from which to attack the regional problems of low family income and unemployment.

Lichty said EDA approval of the economic plan insures ECMPDR local governmental units an automatic 10 per cent increase in any EDA grant they apply for up to a maximum of 80 per cent. Approval of the Regional OEDP also means that ECMPDR counties now developing their EDA required OEDPs will find their task faster, more efficient, and less expensive.

According to Lichty, one additional EDA funding requirement is that ECMPDR counties must have an EDA approved OEDP. Without the approved county OEDP, he said, that county and its local units of governments are not eligible for EDA funding.

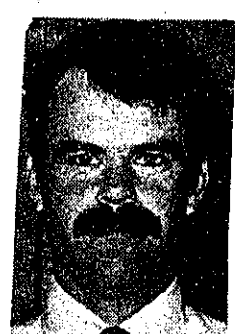

Gratiot and Saginaw counties have approved OEDPs; Iosco, Gladwin, Sanilac and Huron counties have submitted draft OEDPs to EDA for approval, and Tuscola and Clare counties are in the process of developing their plans.

Approval of the plans for Huron and Sanilac counties will probably come in March.

PEDALING AROUND

Me and Arnold

By Mike Eliasohn

I don't have muscles like Arnold Schwarzenegger (in case it wasn't obvious, I thought I should tell you), but we do have something in common -- our mothers.

I have come to the conclusion that all mothers are alike, no matter where they're from, at least regarding their sons.

Arnold, the king of the muscle builders, was on the Johnny Carson show the other week and mentioned he was having a hard time keeping in shape. The reason was his mother was visiting from Austria and filling him full of apple strudel and Wiener schnitzel.

If there's one person in the world who doesn't look like he's starving, it's Arnold Schwarzenegger.

And no doubt as he pumped his way to success, he had to put up with, "Arnold, why don't you quit this muscle building business, get a good job, find a nice girl and settle down?"

On my once-a-month sojourn to Lansing to see my parents, it's rare that I can get away without a sackful of goodies from my mother, even though I could buy them just as easily in the supermarket.

One year when I attended Eastern Michigan University, I had a roommate from Hong Kong. Every month or so, he would get a big package from his mother of things to eat.

Among them, I might add, were bags of peanuts from Communist China. This was in 1970-71, before President Nixon made his first trip to China and importing such items was legal. Fortunately, arresting people eating illegal peanuts was not too high a priority with the campus police.

In addition to being convinced their sons are starving to death, mothers also worry about what they wear.

My father is 69, but dresses quite up-to-date. I'm firmly convinced, however, that if it wasn't for my mother (and my sister, who also lives in Lansing) to nag him, he would still be going around in a baggy suit he bought in 1955.

Since I wasn't old enough in 1955 to be wearing suits, I don't have any that old. My newest suits are only 6½ years old but fortunately styles haven't changed that much yet. Plus I wear my suits so seldom, they always look new anyway.

I have a continuing battle with my mother, who is firmly convinced that unless she intervenes, I will end up going to heaven some day looking like a slob.

Thus she buys me clothes, which inevitably have to be returned because they are the wrong size. It's hard to fit someone when he isn't there, which is why I've never gotten a job in Lansing.

Of course, ties are easy to buy, which she does and which is why I wear them at work. Although it is very easy to get by not wearing them in Cass City. If I don't wear my ties at work, I'll never wear them out.

And while on the topic. When narrow ties went out of style, I put them all in a dresser drawer in my parents' house as I was firmly convinced they would make a comeback some day and I could wear them again.

My mother wouldn't believe me, however, and gave them all away to the nearest rummage sale.

I was right, however. According to the fashion news, narrow ties are making a comeback.

I'm sure my mother is delighted. Now she has an excuse to buy me some new ties.

EXTRAVAGANCE

Families that spend recklessly soon find that a little credit is a dangerous thing.

Novesta discusses taxes

Property tax was again an issue before the Novesta Township Board Monday night.

Questions asked, according to Supervisor Bill O'Dell, included property assessing and valuations.

Those present were read the resolution of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners, which it approved in December, seeking a freeze of last year's valuations for 1978. The township board voted at its January meeting to support the county resolution.

The board decided to set up a card system for tax records for future assessing. The work involved of transferring information on each taxable parcel from the present township records onto the cards may be done by college students paid with federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds.

The card system, O'Dell explained, is being mandated for all townships so that they all have a uniform way of keeping tax records.

The board accepted petitions asking closing of additional alleys in Deford. The matter was taken under study by the board.

HEALTH TIPS

Diabetics can live normal lives

By Frank Chappell, American Medical Association

At least two in every hundred Americans have diabetes. And one of those two is not yet aware of it. In early or mild diabetes the typical symptoms aren't disabling, and there may be virtually no symptoms at all.

Diabetes is a serious disease for which there is no cure. But, fortunately, most of those with known diabetes who have been able to control their body chemistry live such normal lives that you wouldn't know about their diabetes unless you were told.

Diabetes is characterized by the inability of body tissues to utilize carbohydrates (sugar and starch), both for immediate energy needs and in storage for future needs.

Too little effective insulin is present to let sugar be used, so that sugar accumulates in the blood and spills over into the urine. The sugar must have water, which is excreted through the kidneys. This process dries out body tissues, causing excessive thirst, one of the first symptoms of diabetes. Other symptoms are loss of weight, increase in urination, hunger, unexplained tiredness, pains in the legs, itching, and skin infections. As the disease becomes more severe and the patient grows older, the blood vessels, kidneys and eyes may be affected.

Control of diabetes is worked out by balancing the kind and quality of food intake and the use of exercise and insulin. This usually can be done without interrupting the patient's routine of living very substantially. Half of all patients who develop diabetes after age 35 can manage their disease by diet alone.

The cue to successful control of diabetes, says the American Medical Association, is early detection, understanding rather than fear, and a well-managed balance among food intake, physical activity, and insulin or oral medication. This comes about when patient and physician work together in mutual understanding.

No patient can maintain continuous successful control of diabetes without regular visits to his or her doctor. Ignorance of proper self-care is the greatest single hazard of diabetes.

Snow removal

discussed in Gagetown

The Gagetown Village Council at its meeting last Thursday discussed snow removal.

According to Village President William Downing, it was decided that if federal funds become available to help pay the cost of snow removal, the village won't apply as no overtime was needed to clear the streets after the Jan. 26 snowstorm.

The council approved the transfer of $1,000 to the fire department to meet expenses. The village pays one-third of the cost of maintaining the fire department; Elmwood township, two-thirds.

120 attend sweetheart banquet

About 120 attended the Sweetheart banquet Sunday evening in Salem UM church, sponsored by the youth of the church.

The dining room was decorated with a Valentine's Day theme by Christine Bucherly, Kay Loomis, Dawn and Lisa Wilson.

Following the meal, the group went to the church auditorium to enjoy a musical program by "The Living Truth" quartet from Elkton.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters

Tuscola County Big Brothers-Big Sisters will make a concentrated effort to recruit new volunteers during Big Brothers-Big Sisters Appreciation Week, Feb. 19-25, according to Executive Director Evelyn Gilbert.

"Right now we have 38 boys and 13 girls who have asked for a Big Brother or Sister but just have to wait because there are not enough volunteers to go around."

Eleven children have a Big Brother or Sister in the Cass City-Deford-Gagetown area; five children are waiting for a Big Brother or Sister.

This year's Big Brothers-Big Sisters Appreciation Week comes during the diamond jubilee anniversary of the Big Brother movement and its unique concept of one-to-one service to children.

Working through 370 affiliates all across the United States, Big Brothers-Big Sisters helps to relieve the plight of children growing up in single-parent homes.

Under the supervision of a professional caseworker, the Big Brother or Sister befriends a child who lacks adequate adult attention. He or she spends a few hours a week with the Little Brother or Sister, talking, sharing simple activities, helping to fill the gap in the child's life.

Mrs. Gilbert also announced the Caro Jaycees are still selling Valley Variety Books. All proceeds from the sale of the coupons books are being donated to the Tuscola County Big Brothers-Big Sisters. Details are available by calling the office in Caro.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters in Tuscola county is located at 230 N. State Street, Caro, telephone 673-6996; in Huron county at 121 N. Heisterman Street, Bad Axe, telephone 269-7264; in Sanilac county at P.O. Box 1, Sandusky, telephone 648-4433.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Volunteers are expected to be rapping on doors sometime this month in an effort to raise some $210,000 to build a four-man clinic on Hill Street directly east of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Mike Weaver, one of five partners that have purchased the former Cass City Hospital Building, issued a statement that the owners were not interested in renting the building to doctors and would not consider doing so if space in available clinics was not full.

Stanley Morell and James Dennis of Caro were two of a party of seven men who hunted snowshoe rabbits near Lake City. The hunters bagged 15 rabbits.

Maynard Helwig and Jerold Little, two employees of the Walbro Corporation, completed Unit III of Wittenberg University's Management Development Program.

Karen S. Hahn has been named Cass City High School's 1973 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

TEN YEARS AGO

After rejecting several previous plans and six years of study and strife, a merger between Unionville and Schewaga was finally authorized by voters in both districts.

State police in cooperation with Cass City police are looking for vandals who maliciously destroyed 15 mailboxes on North Cemetery Road and on Schwegler Road, north of M-81.

Record-breaking warm weather and heavy rains swelled rivers and ditches. The Cass River on Cemetery Road overflowed its banks and was near the top of the bridge at its crest. Crawford Road near the Cass River east of Cass City was also inundated.

Fifty-two persons were present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Thane of Wilnot to celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Thane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Furness.

Diabetes unit

meeting set this Thursday

The Tuscola County Unit of the American Diabetes Association will meet this Thursday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the Vassar City Hall basement on Huron Ave.

There will be discussion groups and a panel to answer questions.

Fund raising projects planned by the group this year are a bike-a-thon and garage sale, both being held for the second year. Volunteers are needed to work at the weekly bingo group sponsored by the organization each Thursday in Essexville. Volunteers can call Dorothy Fraizer at 823-7937 in Vassar.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McBurney and daughter, Mavis, who have been staying at the home of Mrs. Chris Seeger since their home burned, were able to move into their garage, which has been made ready for them.

Arthur Little reports that the people of Cass City and community donated about $25.00 to the Infantile Paralysis Fund, through the purchase of tickets to the President's Ball.

Your Neighbor says

I don't watch
much television

Do you think you watch too much television?

That was the question asked by the Gallup Poll in a recent nationwide survey. Of those surveyed, 31 per cent thought they watch too much television; 48 per cent said "about right"; 17 per cent, "too little," and four per cent didn't know.

Nancy Howard is among those who don't watch television. "I'm not that really interested in television," she said. "Some nights I don't even watch it."

The one program she does like is "Grizzly Adams." She also likes nature shows.

Mrs. Howard has quite an interest in animals, for her hobby is raising and showing quarter horses. "They take up most of her time."

Her husband, Donald, also prefers working with the horses as opposed to watching television, she said. The couple own three of the animals.

The Howards live on Warner Road, Cass City. In addition to raising horses, Mrs. Howard works at Walbro Corp.

"HEY, THAT'S MY DODGE."

'78 DODGE MAGNUM XE.

What else can folks say after they've seen Magnum XE? The exciting new car with a bold new look. And handling and performance to match.

You see, Magnum XE is a remarkable automobile that combines the attributes of a touring car with those of a luxury car. And based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices . . . Magnum is priced less than these comparably equipped cars: the Monte Carlo, Landau, Pontiac Grand Prix, Olds Cutlass Calais and Buick Regal Limited.

One look at Magnum XE's clear retractable head-lamp covers and classic grille and you'll be saying . . . "That's my Dodge!"

Log cabin building is work and play

time and the fun," McDonald explained. "You work an hour and play two."

Now that the work is (almost) done, the McDonalds frequently use the cabin for entertaining friends, for breakfasts, dinners, and card parties.

Inside and out, the cabin looks very much like it did when it was first built.

The logs, all cedar, were hand hewn to a square shape by the original builders. Due to the poor condition, the roof, stairs to the loft, and windows had to be replaced. McDonald had all the new boards cut (from trees on his property) by Deford sawmill operator Wally Kappen. His pioneering spirit didn't extend to cutting them by hand. The roof boards are two inches thick.

The cobblestone fireplace was made from stones found on the property and is similar to the one in the cabin in its original location.

Other than the cement floor, the inside looks original. There is no paneling and the only "modern" appliance is an old wood burning cooking range.

The fireplace is used for heating, and once the fire gets going, comfortably heats the cabin.

There is no plumbing and the restroom facilities consist of the traditional path out to the back to the traditional outhouse.

The cabin is also without electricity, though that may be added, primarily so a refrigerator can be used. The McDonalds bought their cabin for $200 and have about $800 more invested in materials. The number of hours spent by family and friends are countless.

McDonald has spent one night in the cabin, during deer season, but wouldn't want to stay there. "We wanted a place where we could come and enjoy it," he said.

In contrast, a Caro teacher came out to inspect the place as he wants to build a cabin on property he owns near Grayling and then pursue a lifestyle somewhat similar to that of the pioneers.

That may be okay for the teacher, McDonald commented, but as for him, he would rather visit his log cabin than live there.

INSIDE -- The woodburning kitchen range may be "new" in comparison to the rest of the McDonald log cabin but it still looks like it belongs there.

Lost Grand Rapids man 'found' in Caro

A 79-year-old Grand Rapids man got lost last week and ended up in Caro.

The man came into the Caro state police post at 4 p.m. Saturday, said he had gone to pay his taxes to the Kentwood treasurer (a Grand Rapids suburb) Wednesday and had been lost since. He asked for directions back to Grand Rapids.

Instead, troopers contacted the man's son, who also lives in Grand Rapids. The son said to keep his father there and he would come get him.

The son arrived at 10:05 p.m. in Caro. He said his father had been in Grand Rapids Friday.

Schwaderer honored

E.B. Schwaderer was the guest of honor at a noon luncheon Feb. 1 of the Rawson Memorial Library Board, held at the Charmont restaurant.

The board expressed appreciation to Schwaderer for his supervision in the planning and building of the new addition to the library. He was presented with a gift to use in his hobby of rug hooking.

Attending the luncheon were board members Mrs. K.I. MacRae, Mrs. M.B. Auten, Mrs. Esther McCullough, and Lou LaPonsie. Also attending were librarians Mrs. Barbara Hutch

Adult education could change

The person hired would set up a program here, which would be coordinated and promoted by the Caro schools. In turn, that district would keep the revenue generated by the program. In essence, all that the Cass City district would have to do is provide the classrooms.

Hoffman said he would like to meet with Cass City Supt. Donald Crouse in March or April to discuss the proposal.

He feels the advantage for Cass City is that Caro already has the expertise in setting up, running, and promoting an adult education program.

He cites as an example of the potential for Cass City what has happened in the Unionville-Sebewaing Area Schools (USA), a district smaller than Cass City.

Baptist women meet

Fourteen women attended the monthly meeting of the Baptist Missionary Society, held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Stanley McArthur.

Mrs. Richard Shaw presided over the business meeting. She reported on a quarterly meeting held recently at Lapeer where the speaker was a missionary from Pakistan.

Mrs. Ralph Hanby reviewed the book "The Spring Wind" by Gladys DePree, one time missionary to China.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Vera Bearss on the subject of "Prayer". She also led prayer-time for missionaries.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. McArthur and Mrs. Jim Perry.

Although promoted as the USA community education program, it is run entirely by Caro. A director and intern are assigned full-time to the program.

This semester, Hoffman said, students are enrolled in 12 different classes in USA.

Supt. Crouse, who hasn't met with Hoffman concerning the new proposal, said he is considering having Cass City set up a program on its own. "I don't see any real advantage in having Caro do a program here," he commented, though he didn't rule out the possibility.

State aid is available to hire a community school director, which would pay two-thirds of his salary up to a maximum of $10,000. The amount of the state subsidy would decline each year.

Hiring of a director, he said directly by Cass City or by Caro, will have to be approved by the school board here.

If the board gives the okay, Crouse said he would like to have one hired in time to start an adult education program here this fall.

Bad Axe bank sets dividend

The Board of Directors of Community Bank of Bad Axe at its January meeting declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share for shareholders of record as of Jan. 16, 1978. 1977 total per share dividends were $1.60.

Preliminary unaudited figures indicate a deposit growth in 1977 of $7,166,000 to $64,084,000. Total loans meanwhile increased by $841,000 to $39,858,000. Total assets for 1977 stand at $71,373,000, an increase of $7,886,000 over 1976.

1977 after tax income was $472,867 including capital gains of $49,303.

Snowstorms really meant digging out in the 'good old days'

Snowstorms these days mean waiting for the road commission to come and plow out the roads.

But in the "good old days" for persons living out in the country, getting out after a snowstorm was up to them. There was no road commission with big snow plows.

But they were prepared for long winters and if need be, could have survived the long winters without going to town.

According to Ernest Beardsley, 78, who has lived in the same house on Cedar Run Road for 52 years, "We planned ahead so we didn't have to (go to town). We had more of our food that we grew here. We just got along the best we could."

Elsie Anthes, 86, of 4259 S. Seeger Street, grew up on a farm on Short Road, off Schwegler Road northeast of Cass City. Her brother Edward Buehrly, 82, still lives there.

Fall, she said, was a time for canning and drying food in preparation for winter. Her father took a load of wheat to the mill in Shabbona to have it ground into flour, enough to last the winter. Hogs were butchered when needed. The family made its own butter and bread. Enough potatoes were raised to last the winter.

"We never suffered for anything to eat," she said.

Ed Frederick, 79, lives on Lamton Road, Evergreen township. He recalled the days when farmers would borrow a grader, attach six horses to it, and plow out the roads.

The roads didn't have to be plowed out too wide to accommodate a Model T Ford and most owners had tire chains for their cars.

The snow drifted higher on the roads back then, he said, because the roads were narrower and lined with farmers' tightly woven wire fences, along which weeds would grow heavily.

The result was that the drifting snow would pile up along the roads between the fences. Once a pathway was cleared, it was like driving down the bottom of a ditch.

In fact, according to Mrs. Anthes, travel during such time was "any way you could get out."

If travel was possible down the roads, fine. If not, people would open farm gates and travel over the fields, where much of the snow had blown away.

Beardsley recalled one winter when the roads were blocked for a whole month. Travel to town to get the mail and deliver milk was done through the fields.

If the milk truck couldn't get through, the farmers on Cedar Run Road hauled their milk cans to M-81 for pickup there.

The first snowplows, he said, were handmade and pulled by horses. Later, tractors were used.

The first road commission snowplows, blades attached to the front of trucks, weren't as powerful as the ones today. If the snowplow couldn't get through a big drift, Beardsley said, 10-15 farmers would get out with their shovels to help the snowplow get through.

"Everybody helped everybody else," he commented.

Both Frederick and Mrs. Anthes mentioned that the snow would pile up in drifts along the fences so high and so hard that children on their way to school could use the drifts as "bridges" to walk over the fences.

Farm loan extension sought

three per cent up to $250,000; 6 5/8 per cent for amounts more than that.

In addition to the crop disaster loans, the SBA has been making economic injury loans available for businesses affected by the agricultural disaster. The application date for those loans remains Sept. 8.

The Farmers Home Administration (FHA) has also been making disaster loans.

Unlike the SBA loans, the FHA requires a credit test and there must be a production loss of at least 20 per cent.

In a "memorandum of understanding" between the FHA and SBA, the deadline for farmers who were rejected for an FHA loan to apply to the SBA for a loan has been extended until Aug. 8.

Farmers cannot get a loan from both the FHA and SBA.

Interest rates on the FHA loans are three per cent up to $250,000; five per cent over that. The application deadline is Nov. 9 of this year.

As of Monday, 45 applications had been made at the FHA office in Caro, which serves Tuscola and Saginaw counties. The Bad Axe office, which serves Huron and Sanilac counties, had received 153 applications.

Eligibility requirements for the FHA loans to cover physical or production losses because of the snowstorm are similar to those for the farm disaster loans.

David Steeby, FHA county supervisor in Caro, said examples of losses that might be covered would be for a farmer having to dump milk because it couldn't be picked up or for a barn roof that collapsed because of the snow.

As of Monday, no one had applied for the blizzard loss loans, in Caro or Bad Axe, however, their availability had just been announced.

Still, getting to school wasn't easy. Mrs. Anthes and her brothers and sisters sometimes left before daylight to walk the two miles to Wright School on Schwegler Road. School started at 9 a.m.

Although farm families were relatively isolated during the winter months, that didn't mean their lives were dreary.

In addition to the farm work, there was time to have a good time. Ed Buehrly recalled hitching up the team and sleigh and going to other houses for parties.

His sister, Elsie Anthes, said, "We used to play checkers. We used to have good times together."

There were six children in the Buehrly family. "We didn't care (about being isolated)," she commented. "We had a lot of fun at home among ourselves."

SNOW GOING -- Although the car is a 1931 Chevrolet, Elsie Anthes took this photo in January, 1946. Driving the car on Schwegler Road, near M-81, was her brother, Lawrence Buehrly.

CASS CITY WON THE BATTLE of the boards all night Tuesday at Vassar. Jesse Groth goes up for a short shot over the top of the Vulcans' Tim Greenwood.

Hawks stay in title chase with easy loop victories

It's getting near the end of the season and the Cass City Red Hawks appear ready to make a determined drive for at least a share of the Thumb B Conference title. The Hawks played what Coach Ron Nurnberger called one of their better games of the season to run away from Vassar Tuesday, 91-69.

The Hawks shot a blistering 67 per cent from the floor in the first half to decide the game. It was a night in which the regulars played only about 2½ quarters.

If there could be any fault found in the game it was with the defense that allowed the Vulcans several easy baskets with long up-court passes.

But it was the same defense that caused many turnovers by the Vassar team.

The Hawks moved out in front 26-16 in the first quarter behind the shooting of Mike Richards who canned six baskets to lead the way. After that it was all downhill for Cass City.

Cass City duplicated its first period scoring surge in the second quarter and so did Vassar.

Cass City used balanced scoring by Clarke Haire, Paul Battel and Jeff Hartel to bring Cass City's halftime margin to 52-32.

With the regulars on the floor in the third quarter, the Hawks spurred to a 28-point lead before Nurnberger turned to his bench for the rest of the evening.

The Hawks were in front 74-49 at the three quarter mark.

In the final quarter the Hawks were outscored 20-17 by the host team to draw the final a little closer.

Cass City had 10 players in the scoring column. Richards showed the way with 20 closely followed by Haire with 19. There were five players in double figures. Jim Gohsman with 18 led Vassar. Jeff Tetreau netted 17.

JV'S LOSE

Over the years the Vassar gym has been a tough place for Cass City to win. While the varsity overcame the "Vassar jinx", the JV did not. The Vulcans won 64-62.

The little Hawks were off to a very slow start and scored just seven points in the first period and trailed by 14 at one time.

Early in the fourth quarter they rallied to tie but the Vulcans stiffened to go ahead again and hold on for the win. The loss was the second for the JV and probably cost them a chance for a tie for the title. Frankenmuth is now in first place and will be heavily favored to win its remaining games.

BAD AXE GAME

Cass City continued to roll along in Thumb B Conference competition Friday night as they easily disposed of the visiting Bad Axe Hatchets, 71-47.

The Hawks moved out in front early and from then on it was no contest.

The Hawks found Jesse Groth in the middle in the first period and responded with seven of the 19 points counted in the quarter.

Jeff Hartel pitched in with five more. Three of them came on technical fouls. Coach Jim Watkins of Bad Axe was slapped with a two-shot technical and when he protested too loudly, another one was immediately awarded. Hartel then made three of the four gift shots.

Paul Battel took over the scoring load in the second period. He scored 10 points including four of four from the foul circle to pace the Hawks to a 42-23 halftime lead.

Most of the Bad Axe offensive firepower was generated by John Wakefield who scored 10 points in the first half, eight in the first quarter.

The visitors' offense practically disappeared in the third period. The Hatchets were held to six points while Cass City used balanced scoring to move the lead to 58-29 at the three-quarter mark.

After that the bench took over to finish out the game. Everybody on the team played and all but two scored.

As might be expected by the score, Cass City dominated all the vital statistics.

The Hawks posted a 42-31 edge in rebounding. From the foul line the percentage was .58 as compared to .39 for Bad Axe. From the field

Owen-Gage ready to defend North Central volleyball title

The Owen-Gage girls' volleyball team is aiming for its third straight North Central D League championship this season.

That may not be easy, according to coach Judy Campbell, as only two starters from last year's squad are back. Mary Lenhard and Laurie Andrakowicz.

Miss Lenhard and Dawn Erickson, who is starting the season with a sprained ankle, are the only seniors on the team, the rest being juniors. Dawn was on the varsity last year but wasn't a starter.

The 1977 squad had an outstanding season, winning the league crown, Caseville Invitational, and making it to the quarter-finals of the state championships, where it lost to the eventual state runner-up. Up till then, it had only lost one game (but not the match), to Bad Axe in the Caseville tournament.

Coach Campbell looks for the toughest competition this season to come from Caseville, Port Hope, and possibly Akron-Fairgrove, which is an unknown factor as it wasn't in the league last season.

The junior varsity team, also coached by Miss Campbell, only lost one match last season.

Starting time for all regular season meets is 6:30 p.m., starting with a varsity match, then junior varsity, then a second varsity match. Last season, each squad only played one match. Meets are Monday and Thursday nights.

All home games will be played in the Owendale gym.

The first game of the season was scheduled Monday night at home against Akron-Fairgrove. It was postponed because of poor road conditions and hasn't yet been rescheduled. The rest of the schedule is as follows:

- Feb. 9 - At Kingston
- Feb. 13 - Carson - Pt. Sanilac
- Feb. 16 - At Port Austin
- Feb. 20 - At Port Hope
- Feb. 23 - Caseville
- Feb. 25 - Caseville tournament, 9 a.m.
- Feb. 27 - At North Huron
- March 11 - Regional at Caseville (time to be announced)

Bulldogs-Tigers meet

Title on line in cage clash Friday

Friday is the big one, with the winner likely taking all the marbles in the North Central D League -- or at least a share of them.

Owen-Gage, currently in second place with an 11-2 mark, will entertain first place Carsonville-Port Sanilac in the Owendale gym. After last Friday's game, the Tigers were 12-1. They played Tuesday while the Bulldogs had an open date.

The Bulldogs' final game before the crucial contest was last Friday at Kingston, where they downed the Cardinals, 84-58.

Friday's game should be a repeat of the initial close contest between the two teams, which Carsonville won 66-62 on its home floor Jan. 10.

"We hope we can play the same kind of game we've been playing lately on our own floor," said Owen-Gage coach Phil Gray.

In addition to the home floor advantage, another plus for the Bulldogs Friday will be a healthy Billy Parker, who had a sprained ankle in the game at Carsonville.

Tuesday, Feb. 14, is a makeup game at Caseville. The regular season ends Feb. 17 at Kinde North Huron.

North Branch voted into Thumb B loop

North Branch became the new member of the Thumb B Conference to replace departing Frankenmuth at a league membership meeting held Wednesday morning.

North Branch will begin league competition 1979-80, Athletic Director Robert Stickle said.

There were two ballots taken. In the first Millington and Harbor Beach each received two votes and North Branch three votes.

In the next ballot it was unanimous for North Branch.

Better locks help

Precautions can be taken to prevent burglaries

In comparison to Detroit, the possibility of someone in the Thumb having their house broken into seems slight. So imagine how a Detroit woman felt recently when she learned someone had broken into her Ellington township cottage. Nothing was taken, but the intruders did about $250 in damage. It isn't just unoccupied cottages that thieves break into.

A Deford man recently lost a $600 stereo set to thieves. More than $1,000 in merchandise, including a $500 grandfather clock, was stolen from a Kingston area home.

In 1976, the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recorded a total of 404 burglary complaints. Totals for 1977 haven't been compiled yet.

The Michigan State Police, in various informational pamphlets, suggest means to lessen the possibilities of a break-in.

DOORS

Outside doors should be solid core wood, metal, or plate glass. Hollow core wood doors are considered unacceptable for security purposes.

Glass in existing doors should either be replaced with unbreakable glass or plastic or covered with protective grill work.

The poorest type of lock to use is probably the most common -- the spring latch, which can be locked by simply closing the door. Use of a thin bladed knife, credit card, etc. can be used to push open the latch.

Recommended are dead-bolt or rim locks, which must be turned with a key or inside knob before the door can be closed.

If using a deadbolt lock that requires insertion of a key from the inside to unlock it (some use a knob instead), the key should be kept in the lock or closeby. People have died in fires because they couldn't find the key to unlock the door to get out.

in the inside track to prevent them from being slid open if the lock is forced.

For casement windows that swing inward or outward, replace at least one screw in each hinge with a smooth-headed carriage bolt or a non-removable screw. Inadequate latches should be replaced.

Louvered windows, according to the state police pamphlet, "offer little or no security and should be replaced or secured with bars or gratings."

OTHER HINTS

Garage doors should have both inside and outside locks.

Outdoor security lighting is recommended. An inside light should be kept on when away from the home. A timing device can be installed to turn lights on automatically.

Borrow an engraver and mark all valuables with the Michigan driver's license number. If the items are stolen and then recovered, the owner can be traced via the number.

Make a list of all valuables and their serial numbers. Owners of vacation cottages and cabins should remove all portable items of value and take them home. In lieu of that, put them all in a locked secure room.

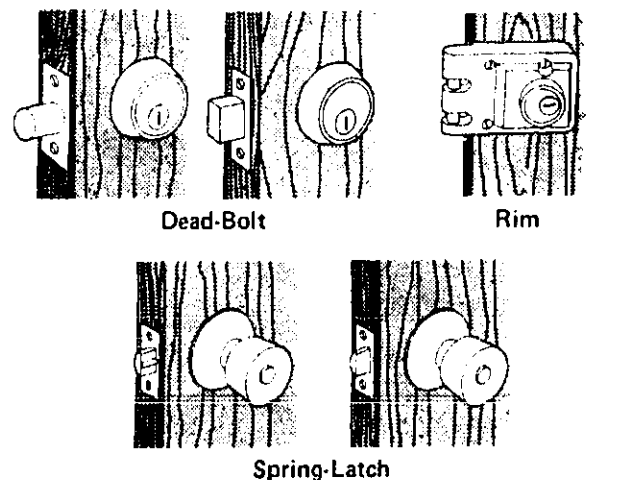

Secure items kept outside such as boats, trailers, docks, and boat hoists. Remove wheels from boat and snowmobile trailers.

Put an audible alarm or siren on the cottage or cabin to alert nearby permanent residents if the dwelling is entered.

Lastly, the state police recommend, don't hide spare keys "where no one would ever look," and if you do meet a burglar, "Let him go. Better to lose money or property than your life."

Baseball innovator

Vote MacPhail to hall of fame

Larry MacPhail has been awarded a place in the baseball hall of fame by the Committee on Baseball Veterans.

MacPhail was born in Cass City. Although he left at an early age he maintained relations with the community. At the height of his career he returned to speak at a dedication ceremony.

He is best known for his business acumen as a general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees from 1933-47.

His most famous venture was pioneering night baseball at Crosley Field in Cincinnati in 1935.

He was also first in the majors to authorize regular air travel for his teams, first to make players wear batting helmets and a leader in obtaining a pension plan for the players.

He also recognized the need and promoted better facilities to move baseball from a male-oriented game to a form of family entertainment.

Fifth traffic fatality dies on Jan. 31

Tuscola county recorded its fifth traffic fatality of the year Jan. 31 with the death of a Saginaw woman who was injured in an accident Jan. 11.

Thelma L. Karaba, 63, died about 4 p.m. Jan. 31 at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

She was injured early on the 11th when her car, eastbound on M-46, ran into the rear of a semi-truck trailer that was halted in the eastbound lane.

Driver of the truck was Craig House, 31, of Mount Pleasant, who was not injured.

The accident, investigated by sheriff's deputies, took place at the intersection with M-15 in Reese.

In 1977, Tuscola county didn't record its fifth traffic fatality until April 30.

WINDOWS

The standard rotating latches on double hung windows found in most homes aren't very strong.

A cheap and simple solution is to drill a sloping hole from the top of the inside window through the bottom of the outside window. Then insert a pin, nail, or screw, which prevents the window from being pried open from the outside.

Glass doors and windows that slide sideways to open can often be lifted upwards and then removed. To prevent this from being done, insert screws into the overhead track that protrude enough to prevent the window or door from being lifted out of the track.

To prevent such windows and doors from being slid open, lay a snug fitting stick

2 students in Lions Club band

Lauri Enos and Teresa Scollon, both sophomores at Cass City High School, will participate in a band featuring Michigan high school students during the Lions Club International convention in Tokyo, Japan, the week of June 18.

The 116 Michigan students have been busy preparing for their performance. They hold monthly practices at the Music Building at Michigan State University under the direction of John Francis.

Lauri is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Enos of 5338 Ritter Road. She occupies fifth chair in the Lions Club band's baritone section.

Teresa is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Scollon of 4948 North Seeger Street. She plays the flute and is the third chair occupant in the Lions band.

They were selected from resumes sent in detailing their past musical experience.

Newcomers join Lioness, Lions Clubs

Four women and six men were inducted into the Cass City Lioness and Lions Club respectively Monday evening at the first joint meeting of the two organizations. The dinner meeting was held at the Charmont restaurant.

The new Lioness Club members are Evelyn Butler, Marilyn Green, Geraldine Jantz and Connie McNaughton.

Joining the Lions Club were Ted Jantz, Robert Green, Harold Sweeney, Clare Comment, Jim Krizman and Al Seurynek.

Performing the initiation ceremony was Al Witherspoon of Cass City, a past Lions Club district governor.

The program was given by Kim Witherspoon (Al's daughter), who showed slides of her trip to England last summer as a participant in the Lions Club International exchange program.

Zoning member resigns

The Elmwood township board Tuesday night accepted the resignation of Beverly Hartman from the township zoning board. A replacement will be appointed at the next meeting.

The Saginaw accounting firm of Yeo & Yeo was hired to audit the township books. It has performed the audits in the past.

County Emergency Services Director Frank Kroswek was appointed as emergency services coordinator for the township.

Supervisor Roy Messer reported on construction progress of the new township-village hall and fire station in Gagetown. Rafters of the building are now up.

The meeting was postponed one night because of poor road conditions Monday.

Youth can apply for jobs

Interested 15 to 18-year-olds can now apply for a limited number of summer jobs available under the Youth Conservation Corps.

The Department of Natural Resources says these are both working and learning jobs involving such projects as building forest trails, cleaning up campgrounds and improving wildlife habitat.

To be eligible, applicants need a Social Security card and must be able to get a work permit.

Application details can be obtained from high schools or by writing: YCC, Box 30028, Lansing 48909.

More dry beans may be planted

Michigan farmers are planning to plant seven per cent more dry beans than they did in 1977, according to the January intentions report compiled by the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

That would mean 590,000 acres of dry beans, 40,000 more than last year. The MCRS adds, "With last fall's dry bean harvest disaster, but current favorable prices, it is difficult to assess growers' current intentions." No national forecast has been prepared yet.

For sugarbeets, the forecast is for a slight decline in acreage, from 92,300 acres in 1977 to 92,000 in 1978. The U.S. forecast is for an increase, from 1.21 million acres this past year to 1.27 million in 1978.

Due to the wet fall and presumably also to low prices, only 490,000 acres of winter wheat were planted in Michigan last fall, 44 per cent less than in fall, 1976.

The national outlook, combining wheat planted last fall and predictions for spring wheat planted this year, is for a reduction in acreage from 74.735 million acres last year to 65.987 million this year.

Soybean acreage will likely increase. A 16 per cent increase to 850,000 acres in Michigan is predicted. The national forecast is for 63.087 million acres, an 8.2 per cent increase.

Corn acreage in Michigan may increase 1 per cent, to an indicated 2.75 million acres in 1978. Nationally, it may decrease 2.1 per cent, to 79.295 million acres.

Oats acreage in the state may increase 15 per cent, to 460,000 acres, and decline 1.2 per cent nationally, to 17.37 million acres.

Barley acreage should stay the same as last year in the state, 21,000 acres, and decline only .3 per cent nationally, to 10.125 million acres.

The MCRS concludes, "There is more uncertainty this winter as to actual spring plantings. This is due to lower farm prices and increased unrest among farmers."

Anyone can be a reformer, but it's another thing to reform.

Good turnout at meetings

By Don Kebler

I really enjoyed the response at last week's Soils Day and Estate Planning meetings.

The 33 who attended were very interested and it was just like one big family with lots of questions.

Don Volk of the Akron Sohigro fertilizer company provided the fine refreshments that morning. We enjoyed the excellent room facilities of the Akron State Bank.

Seventy people braved the cold night to attend the estate planning seminar in the fine Vassar High School facilities.

Mike Kelsey, our M.S.U. specialist, gave his usual excellent presentation. Dave Andreycheck, attorney in Vassar, gave a most outstanding presentation of his topic.

This Thursday's Second session will feature Caro attorneys Thomas Abbey and Forrest Walpole presenting the topics "What Is Probate" and "How Do Death Taxes Affect Your Estate" respectively. Here again we'll begin at 7:30 p.m.

Some concern is being shown by crop producers regarding losses of last fall's application of nitrogen. They are wondering how much nitrogen will be available for the crops grown on those fields this year. No one can answer this one, only the crops can. However, these crops could help you determine what could happen to that fall applied nitrogen.

On sandy soils low in humus, we do not recommend fall nitrogen applications as the leaching rate in these soils are most rapid compared to heavier or higher humus soils.

The least loss from fall applications, everything being equal, will occur in heavy clay and clay loam soils, with soil temperatures below 50 degrees F. and where ammonia nitrogen carrier fertilizers are applied. Our common ammonia carriers are anhydrous ammonia and urea.

Why at temperatures below 50 degrees? At soil temperatures below 50 degrees, soil bacteria virtually go dormant and can't change ammonia nitrogen to non-ammonia leachable forms of nitrogen. Ammonia nitrogen is held by clay and humus which restricts leaching. Therefore, any deviation from this will increase soil nitrogen loss of fall applied nitrogen.

In the spring under high soil water conditions, nitrogen compounds tend to denitrify becoming both gaseous and leachable compounds not usable by plants. Thus the longer the time soils stay under this water saturated condition the greater the gaseous and leachable nitrogen losses will be.

Therefore, no fall applications of nitrogen are as efficient as those applications made the closest to early spring planting time or as soon as possible after plant emergence.

PBB causes some to change buying habits

More than one-third of Michigan consumers have changed their food buying habits because of the PBB-contamination incident.

The declaration comes as a result of a Market Opinion Research study, commissioned by the Department of Agriculture, to determine what effect the mix-up of the fire retardant with cattle feed has had on the consuming public.

Additionally, results of the study will be used to stage an informational, educational and promotional campaign to build confidence in Michigan agricultural products.

The survey cost taxpayers $13,600 which came from a total of $250,000 to stage such a promotional campaign.

The survey showed the statewide study (a representative sample of 800 citizens) revealed that 98 per cent of Michigan consumers are aware of PBB and the mix-up which led to it ending up in the food chain.

Only 3.3 per cent of the consumers polled have cut their purchases of beef because of the contamination.

Confidence in Michigan beef is not, however, as high as in other markets sampled for comparative attitudes.

About 52 per cent of Michigan consumers believe beef produced in the state is the same or of better quality than that produced elsewhere, while 61 per cent of Cincinnati consumers put Ohio beef in that category and 76 per cent of Indianapolis consumers put Indiana beef as the same or better than other states.

Confidence in Michigan dairy products is slightly higher.

The Department of Agriculture is slightly above the average for its performance, with PBB the reason given by half of those interviewed for giving the agency low marks.

Ex-Cass Cityan gets promotion

Ex-Cass Cityan Dr. Koert J. Lessman has been appointed associate director of the New Mexico State University (NMSU) Agricultural Experiment Station.

He will be in charge of the station's research program, which employs more than 100 scientists at the university's main campus in Las Cruces and at nine other locations throughout the state. They are engaged in over 200 agricultural and home economics research projects.

Lessman had been serving as head of the Department of Agronomy at NMSU, a position he assumed in 1976, coming from Purdue University in Indiana, where he had been a professor of agronomy.

A 1949 graduate of Cass City High School, Lessman received a bachelor's degree in crop science from Michigan State University. He earned his master's and doctoral degrees from Iowa State University.

His major area of interest as a master's degree candidate was plant breeding. He did research on grain sorghum while pursuing his doctorate. He engaged in numerous research and teaching efforts while at Purdue.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lessman. His father is no longer living. His mother, Clara, lives with his family in Las Cruces.

His wife, LaDonna, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Ludlow of Cass City. The couple has four daughters and a son, of which three daughters still live at home.

In announcing the appointment, L.S. Pope, dean and director of the NMSU College of Agriculture and Home Economics, said, "Dr. Lessman brings to this position an excellent background as a researcher and administrator."

"He gained a keen understanding of the needs of New Mexico farmers and researchers during the period when he served as head of one of the college's most important departments."

"He has proven his ability as a teacher, research scientist, and administrator, and is well qualified to direct the total program of the agricultural research conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station."

Lessman replaces Dr. Marvin L. Wilson who stepped down to resume research responsibilities in the agronomy department.

She was sitting on the curb at the northwest corner of Seeger and Rose Streets when a car turning right from westbound Rose onto Seeger, struck her. The suit claims she suffered "severe, permanent, and painful injuries."

Proctor on small business action council

Tom Proctor, owner of Old Wood Drug in Cass City, has been named an Action Council member of the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), based in San Mateo, Calif.

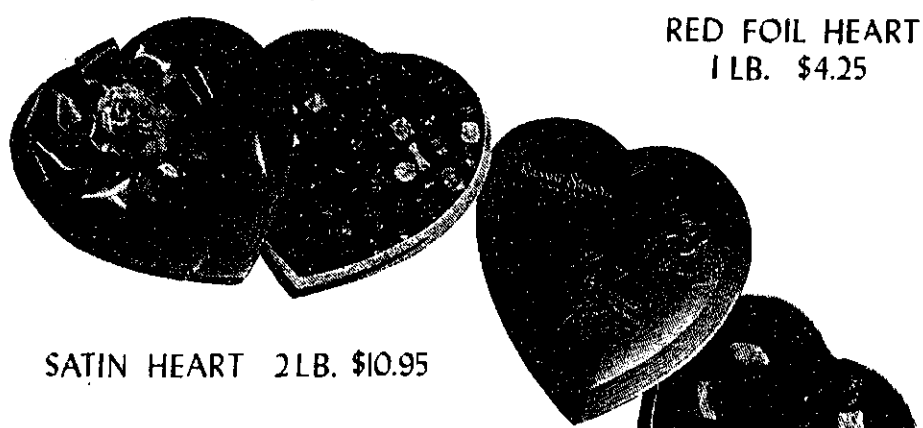

He said the appointment will mean he is available to speak before groups on such topics as the free enterprise system and problems of small businesses.

NFIB is a non-profit, non-partisan organization representing the needs of small businesses across the country. It was founded in 1943 and maintains an office in Washington, D.C., to give it, according to a news release, "a greater voice in shaping the laws which govern business and government."

The idea of the Action Council was developed by NFIB President Wilson S. Johnson, who felt the need for members to take a more active role in furthering the cause of small and independent business at the grass roots and federal level.

Proctor, who was asked by officials of the organization to serve as an Action Council member, has belonged to the NFIB for about 10 years.
