The sun finally started shining Monday afternoon, which was more conducive to outside activities, such as for these youngsters skateboarding past Cass City Intermediate School.

Village millage levy to remain the same

Should they or shouldn't they?

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday night decided they shouldn't and voted to keep the village property tax levy at 13 mills, the same as it has been for several years.

They could have reduced the millage to 12.5 mills and had the same income as projected in the 1978 budget.

The council received the report of village Assessor Dan Eria that showed Cass City's 1978 equalized valuation (real and personal property) totals $13,862,400, as compared to $12,773,000 last year.

The 1978 village budget projected property tax revenue at $172,000. The final valuation will provide slightly more than $180,000, so Trustee Nat Tuttle suggested the millage could be reduced to 12.5 and the village would still get $172,000 (actually, $173,280).

Council members decided the village has some pressing needs, such as maybe having to buy a bulldozer for the landfill, increased operating costs for the sewage treatment plant, and maybe the need for a third water well, so decided the added $8,000 will come in handy.

Their unanimous vote, with Richard Hampshire absent, carried the proviso that the "extra" $8,000 will be earmarked for a specific project before the end of this year.

The millage rate will be reflected on the village tax bills sent out this June.

It was pointed out that if the village does buy a bulldozer -- upwards of $75,000 new -- or other tracked vehicle to compact the trash in the landfill, that would increase the capacity there probably by one-fourth to one-third.

SUBDIVISION

Approval was given to the final plat for Phase I of the Northwood Village and Estates, west of Seeger Street and north of Hospital Drive.

Phase I will contain 57 lots, out of a total of 129 in the entire subdivision.

At the request of developer Tom Herron, due to the size of the project, the council exempted him from having to install all utilities -- curb, gutter, and paving, water lines, and sanitary and storm sewers -- before selling lots, the normal requirement.

Instead, he will have to have the utilities installed by the time he has 50 per cent of the lots sold in Phase I or within five years, whichever comes first.

STREETS

James Ware, chairman of the streets committee, reported that with money already committed to other paving projects, the village won't have the money this year to pave three alleys as requested.

The Cass City State Bank wanted the alley paved behind its new building, between West and Downing Streets, and Schneoberger's wanted the alleys paved between Oak and Maple Streets, both north and south of Main Street.

He also stressed the proposed road from behind the intermediate school to the high school will be a public road, not just for use by school buses.

As a village road, it will be eligible for state maintenance funds. It will also improve access to the baseball diamonds on the west end of the village park.

Estimated cost of the project is still being figured. Being proposed is that the village and school district split construction cost 50-50.

APPOINTMENTS

Appointments by village President Lambert Althaver to council committees were as follows:

Budget and finance, D.E. Rawson and Dorothy Stahlbaum; streets and parking, Ware and Elwyn Helwig; parks and recreation, Rawson and Ware; public safety, Richard Hampshire and Nat Tuttle; personnel, Hampshire and Stahlbaum, and public utilities, Tuttle and Helwig.

Retirement trust board members are Edward Anthes (village employee), Hampshire (council member), and Frederick Pinney (public member). President pro-tem of the council is Dr. Rawson.

Named to new terms on the planning commission were Herbert Ludlow and William Ewald; zoning board of appeals, Arlan Hartwick and Larry Davis, and library board, Lucy Auten. The village attorney remains Clinton C. House.

The appointments were made with the approval of the council.

OTHER BUSINESS

In order to be in accordance with the new state law regarding public intoxication, the village ordinance regarding disorderly persons was revised.

Persons who are intoxicated under the revision can only be arrested if they are endangering life or property or are causing a public disturbance.

Althaver reported Cass City has moved up on the state priority list to receive federal funds for its proposed sewage treatment plant expansion and improvement to either 26 or 29 (he didn't remember which) among state communities. A year ago, Cass City was in the 90s on the list.

County board debates training deputies as emergency medics

Should deputies be trained as emergency medical technicians?

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday wrestled with the question awhile before deciding to refer the matter back to its county affairs committee to study the possible cost.

The discussion was an outgrowth of a recent board meeting when Huron County Sheriff Richard V. Stokan talked about his department's four-wheel-drive rescue vehicle, which is equipped with various life-saving equipment. Tuscola Sheriff Hugh Marr was also present and discussed with the board the possibility of applying for federal funds to buy such a vehicle for Tuscola county.

Tuesday, county affairs committee chairman Donna Rayl of Akron reported her committee was recommending that the county not apply for the funds until deputies were trained in life-saving techniques, that is, as emergency medical technicians (EMT).

Her proposed motion was that the county delay application for funds for the emergency life support vehicle and that the board recommend to the sheriff that his men receive EMT training.

Commissioner J. Benson Collon, owner of a Cara funeral home, endorsed the idea, but pointed out the training takes 80 hours. He said the Tuscola sheriff's department only has one deputy trained as an EMT, whereas Huron has 17.

Commissioner Kenneth L. Kennedy then asked whether serving as an EMT would interfere with a deputy's police duties, such as at an accident. "Is he a medic or a cop?" he asked. Board Chairman Maynard McConkey of Cass City responded, "If it was me (in an accident), I'd hope he was a medic."

Those who liked the idea pointed out that police officers are usually the first official personnel at an accident, thus would know how to save lives if they received the EMT training.

In response to Kennedy's question, Commissioner Paul Nagy of Vassar pointed out that it would be up to the officer at the scene to make the decision whether police or life-saving duties came first.

It was also pointed out that usually a backup police unit is usually sent, or can be sent, to a bad accident.

The discussion became hung up over the question of whether the deputies would have to be paid to take the EMT training, which possibly would be after regular working hours, and if so, would they have to be paid time-and-a-half.

Commissioner Robert Russell of Vassar suggested deputies who took the EMT training might be given additional pay and that the issue might be negotiated in the new contract with deputies.

Mrs. Rayl finally withdrew her motion, with the matter being referred back to her committee. It will now meet with the sheriff to discuss possible procedures for training deputies as EMTs and whether it will be necessary for all the deputies to receive such training.

OTHER BUSINESS

The full board will probably be meeting with the sheriff on another matter, that of making changes in the jail to comply with requirements of the state Department of Corrections.

April 17 was set as the tentative meeting date with the Cooperative Extension Service staff and a committee of farmers to discuss space needs for the extension office and a possible new location.

It is generally felt that changes at the jail will require use of the space in the basement presently housing the extension office, plus it is felt the department also needs more room.

The board authorized advertising for new bids for the approximately 95 acres of farmland it owns by the county Medical Care Facility on Cleaver Road.

The farmer renting it for three years asked to be released from his contract and rebid at a lower price because of low crop prices.

The bids will be opened at 10:30 a.m. at the April 11 meeting.

April 12 at 10:30 a.m. was scheduled for a special meeting with township supervisors in order to set the county equalized tax valuation for 1978.

Donald Willis was appointed deputy animal control officer, to replace one who resigned. Willis had been custodian at the county animal shelter. A new custodian will be hired with federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds.

NEW COUNCIL MEMBERS -- New members of the Cass City Village Council are Elwyn Helwig and Dorothy Stahlbaum. Both were elected earlier this month, although Mrs. Stahlbaum was first appointed in February to serve at the one meeting remaining in the term of Bill Bliss Jr. who resigned.

List minor injuries in two area accidents

Michael P. Quinn, 19, of Kingston, was released from Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday, where he was taken following an accident early Saturday.

Huron county deputies reported he was southbound on Owendale Road, about 1 1/2 miles south of Owendale, at 2 a.m. when his car went off the west side of the road into a corn field. He told officers he was forced off the road by an oncoming car.

Two Unionville drivers were injured in an accident at 2:45 a.m. last Wednesday.

Tuscola deputies reported that Jeffrey L. Heintz, 20, was southbound on Unionville Road, north of Dickerson Road, when his car went off the right side of the road. He pulled back on the road sideways and his station wagon was struck in the left side by the southbound truck of Paul F. Goslin, 20.

Deputies reported both were taken to Hills and Dales, but the hospital had no record of their being treated there.

DRIVERS CITED

Robert A. McClorey, 18, of Daus Road, Cass City, was cited by deputies on charges of failure to yield right of way and defective equipment (no brakes) following an accident at 6:05 p.m. Sunday.

Officers said Paul Morrissey, 35, of Grand Blanc, was westbound on M-81 and was struck by the McClorey auto, which was southbound on Cedar Run Road and didn't stop at the stop sign at M-81.

Luther G. Durham, 73, of 4572 Hill Street, was cited by Cass City police on a charge of failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead after an accident at 9 p.m. Sunday.

Officers reported he was eastbound on Main Street, west of Downing, and struck the rear of a car parked by the south curb. Owner of the parked car was Lee A. Soldan of 7166 Kelly Road.

Ronnie T. Austin, 22, of Bad Axe, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of failure to yield at a signed intersection.

They said Barbara Ann Lukasavitz, 24, of 4851 State Street, Gageton, was eastbound on Bay City-Forestville Road at 7:25 a.m. Monday when her car was struck by the Austin auto, which was southbound on Cemetery Road.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Frank Leslie, 65, of Rossman Road, Kingston, was northbound on Hurds Corner Road, south of Harmon Lake Road, when he struck a deer. Sheriff's deputies investigated the 12:01 a.m. accident last Thursday.

Deputies reported at 1:4 p.m. Monday that Eddy A. Tarzwell, 23, of Deckerville was westbound on Decker ville Road, east of Cemetery Road.

He was unable to stop his truck in time to avoid hitting some telephone lines hanging low across the road. The lines were snapped, as were the antennas on his truck.

Larry D. Buehrly, 17, of Greenland Road, Cass City, was northbound on Greenland, north of M-81, at 11:30 p.m. Monday when his car struck a deer, which ran off after the accident. Deputies investigated.

Elkland sexton retires after 36 years on job

After 36 years, Charles Bigelow decided it was time to let someone else take over as sexton of the Elkland township cemetery. That will happen this Saturday.

In retirement, he will be able to look out the front window of his new home, at the cemetery where he worked so long. The location of his home has something to do with why he became sexton in the first place.

Bigelow, 70, will be honored Saturday evening with a dinner hosted by the township board at the Wildwood Farms Restaurant.

It was in 1942 that the township board advertised for bids for a sexton to maintain the cemetery east of Cass City. Bigelow submitted a bid and got the job. The family farm -- it has belonged to the Bigelow family since 1861 -- was directly across from the cemetery so he figured he could handle the sexton's job while still maintaining his herd of purebred Herefords. "As long as we had the farm, it was very convenient," he explained.

In addition to the 40 acres at Cass City and Schwegler Roads, his sister had purchased during the Depression the southern 20 acres of the cemetery, which was too swampy for burials but suitable for grazing. The family also owned the 40 acres south of that, for a total of 100 acres.

Bigelow originally sold bulls for breeding purposes. When artificial insemination ruined the market for breeding bulls, he raised the animals for beef. He usually had 12 cows and a total of 30 head.

He continued farming and raising Herefords until about 1965, when he began renting his land out on shares.

The 60 acres south of the cemetery has since been sold. The six acres at the corner from the original farm were sold to Aime Ouvry for his auto dealership.

For the first several years, Bigelow had to bid for the contract for sexton each year. He doesn't know if he was the only bidder; if he wasn't, he was always the successful one. Eventually, the township made him an employee and put him on salary.

His duties as sexton consisted of, as he put it, making the grave openings and closures; maintenance, including mowing, trimming shrubs, and doing cement work on foundations; keeping the cemetery books, and selling lots. In the summertime, he had helpers when needed to assist with the maintenance chores.

The retiring sexton has no idea how many persons are buried in Elkland cemetery. There are, however, about 700 lots remaining for sale with five spaces per lot, plus additional spaces in lots already sold to families, so "it will be several generations before more land is needed," he said. The cemetery totals 28 acres.

Bigelow is only the third sexton since about 1910. John Ball was sexton for about 19 years and then Joe Benkelman had the job from 1929-42. The cemetery itself dates back apparently to 1867.

Bigelow and his wife, Twila, who didn't want their photograph taken, were living in town when he first became sexton. In addition to farming, he also had been an electrician.

The new position meant a move to the home provided for the sexton across from the cemetery.

It's right next door to their new home, which is on their farm. The Bigelows, with some help, did much of the construction work themselves, including erecting the framework and putting on the shingles.

The couple has been married 37 years. They have two daughters, Linda (Mrs. Larry Sokol) of Cass City and Jane (Mrs. Alvin Meredith) of Snover, and six grandchildren.

Bigelow decided two years ago he wanted to retire, so notified the township board, giving it lots of time to find a

Suit filed in child's death

The father of a girl killed Sept. 23 when her bicycle was struck by a car has filed suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court against the driver and owner of the vehicle involved.

Plaintiff is Lachlan McDonald of Bevens Road, Caro, administrator of the estate of his daughter, Valerie.

Defendants are Steven D. Robison of Caro, the driver, and Joann Baranic, the vehicle's owner. The youngster, 9, was killed when the bicycle she was riding on Bevens Road near her parents' home, southeast of Caro, was struck by the vehicle involved. Sheriff's deputies reported at the time that she rode into the path of the car driven by Robison.

The suit seeks judgment against the defendants "in whatever amount plaintiff is found to be entitled, plus statutory interest, costs, and reasonable attorney fees."

The suit, filed Tuesday, has been assigned to Judge Norman A. Baguley.

Time flies department. The Chronicle installed a part in one of its composing machines this week. As long as we have had this machine, I remarked to the composing staff, I can't complain about replacing the part. That kicked off a debate on how old the machine was. My guess was about 3 1/2 to 4 years. Mary Damm said 4 to 4 1/2 years. Betty Ball figured it must have been a little longer than that. All of us were here when the machine arrived. Just for kicks I looked it up. The machine was purchased in January 1972.

The last time I looked there were about four locations on the main stem where trees have either died or been vandalized.

While that's not good, it's not bad either. You expect a few not to make the grade. The ones that did certainly spruce up the town all spring and summer.

The ones that didn't can be replaced. It was a fine job spearheaded by the Chamber of Commerce. It turned out much better than many (including me) thought possible.

Big is beautiful. At least for retailers in Cass City. In the last 25 years successful stores have been gobbling up smaller units one after another.

No fewer than 10 stores have been purchased and made parts of larger stores. Starting from the southeast corner of Main Street this is the way it went. (This is from memory and is strictly unofficial.)

Schneeberger's has annexed a gas station. A hardware store became a part of Sommers' Bakery. A grocery is now part of Ben Franklin.

The Pinney Bank now includes a former clothing store. A barbershop has disappeared from Old Wood Drug. The former post office and later clothing store building now is part of Coach Light Pharmacy.

A bar now is encompassed by Colonial Inn.

A restaurant is now a wing of Albee Hardware. Nearly half of Kritzman's store was formerly a pool room. Half of Richard's furniture store was a Kroger store. (Kroger left more than 25 years ago but the consolidation was completed within the allotted time span.)

In addition, more than half of the stores mentioned have made other additions to their stores.

Keith McConkey brought in a potted plant to the Chronicle his week. Are you ready for this? It was a dandelion. That's right, a dandelion.

Try growing one yourself in this temperature. Keith says guess that must be hard. But it can't be as hard as not growing them in your yard when spring comes. Can it?

County GOP dinner April 5

Tuscola county Republicans are starting their election year activities with a fund raising dinner Wednesday, April 5, at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Ryan Road, Caro. It will start at 30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased Friday in Cass City from Guest speaker will be Peter B. Fletcher of Ypsilanti, chairman of the State Highway Commission and a member of the Republican National Committee.

Owen-Gage opens construction bids

The Owendale-Gagetown School Board will know this Thursday whether it will have to do some cost cutting on the high school addition and new gymnasium.

Bids were opened last Thursday on some of the major construction items, including pre-cast concrete, steel, door frames, and windows.

Bids on those items will be awarded this Thursday. In addition, bids will be opened on other major items, such as cement and carpentry work, roofing, flooring, electrical work, and various equipment.

After the bids are opened, Carl Trof of Construction Coordinators Inc. (CCI) told the board, the apparent low bids can be added together with the bids to be awarded that day, to get a tentative grand total for the project. The district has $1.675 million (plus interest) available for the project, including construction and architectural and construction management fees.

For the precast concrete, two bids were submitted. There were 12 bidders for the various steel items, though not all bid on all the items. For the hollow metal door framing, there were six bidders.

Aluminum entrance doors, frames and windows, finish hardware, and glass and glazing drew eight bidders, with some not bidding on all the items.

The special meeting to award the bids opened last Thursday and to open the other bids was set for 2 p.m. this Thursday in the Owendale cafeteria.

Some board members present inspected the installation of the concrete foundations, which was nearing completion, which shows the outline of the new classroom addition and gymnasium.

OTHER ITEMS

The board passed a resolution commending the Owen-Gage Band Boosters for its efforts in raising money for new band uniforms, which have now been ordered.

The organization started the school year with about $600 but has now raised $9,600 of the $11,628 needed for the 61 uniforms ordered. Band Boosters President Donna Salcido said the rest of the money should be raised by the time the uniforms arrive, in a minimum of two months.

The big money maker for the organization has been its weekly bingo games. Other fund raisers included an auction and sale of Watkins Products. Board members donated their 1976-77 pay totaling $1,550.

A sample of the new uniform was modeled for board members by Mike Sullivan. Arnie Besonen was appointed varsity track coach for boys and girls -- he coached only the boys last year -- with new teacher Mike Fisher appointed as assistant coach.

Named students of the month for February were Laurel Billy and Dick Glidden.

To show results in the battle of life one must keep fighting.

"If It Fitz..."

Mad painter strikes

By Jim Fitzgerald

It is no longer boring to ride the elevator at 1300 Lafayette East, the 28-floor apartment building where I make my home in downtown Detroit. Whenever a fellow tenant enters the car, I look at him or her closely and ask myself, "Is this the mad painter?"

My apartment building is often mentioned in the newspapers and on TV news programs. This is because our generous government guaranteed the construction loan when the building was built. The owners felt behind on mortgage payments, so the government had to pick up the tab. At last report, taxpayers were stuck for more than $8 million on the principal loan and more than $427,000 in interest. This type of high-level rip-off tends to make headlines.

Anyway, whenever 1300 Lafayette East is mentioned in print or electronically, it is described as "plush" or "luxurious" or "Detroit's fanciest high-rise." The tenants are invariably called "wealthy" or "professional people" or "sports and media celebrities."

The news people usually include details of the building's security arrangements -- 24-hour guards, sturdy gates and TV cameras. The public gets the impression of a velvet-lined fortress peopled by stuffy doctors and pampered poops.

Much of this puffery is nonsense, but not all of it. The stuff about security is pretty accurate. Several years ago, a shoot-out on the 16th floor killed three people. This resulted in unpleasant publicity, which prompted management to strengthen the palace guard and to become more selective about tenants. Ever since, life at 1300 has been a pussy cat.

This is comforting for the people who live there, of course, but boring. I didn't move into downtown Detroit to get shot in bed or even mugged at the front door. But geez. The most exciting thing to happen in our building in the last two years was when a woman drove into the underground garage before the gate was up.

Until last week, that is, when the mad painter struck.

The painter was mad about a change made by management in the apartment lobby. A thick, colorful carpet was replaced by an all-weather carpet that is more practical but dingy. It is more for slush than plush.

The mad painter used white spray paint to demonstrate displeasure all over the new carpet. He or she sprayed a haphazard pattern from the front door through the lounge and into the elevator area. Management is angry and tenants are curious. Who did it?

It had to be an inside job. At 3 a.m. each day, a changing of the guard leaves the lobby untended for two minutes. Only a tenant could gain entrance to the lobby at that time.

Many of the tenants are dismayed by the certainty that there is a vandal living among us. But I think it's pretty neat. The vandal improves my credibility.

In the past, several people have accused me of living a cloistered life at 1300, insulated from the real Detroit. What do I know about crime, they asked. A fellow columnist even made these allegations a matter of public record, which was embarrassing. He said he grew up friendly with a lot of Detroit crooks but I had never even seen one. I couldn't deny it.

So naturally I'm grateful for the emergence of the mad painter. Now that I'm living under the same roof with a wanton spray-painter, I can write with authority about crime in Detroit. I've been there.

Whenever a stranger joins me in the elevator, I covertly inspect him or her for traces of white paint under the fingernails. If I ever learn the identity of the mad painter, I will not squeal to the law. I will ask him or her to paint me a message to the management.

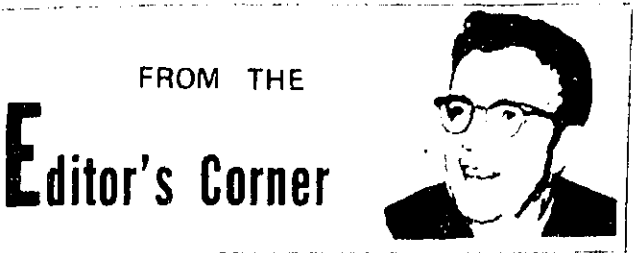

Our parking space in the 1300 garage is half a mile from the apartment entrance. My wife is forever crabbing about carrying groceries and luggage that far. The mad painter should paint on the garage wall:

"SHUT PAT UP. MOVE HER CAR 25 SPACES TO THE EAST."

This could be constructive crime. After all, what good is crime if it doesn't pay?

Editor's Corner

It's understandable why star-struck fans storm the homes and watering holes of actresses and actors.

They can return home and tell everyone they talked to the current sensation and then whip out an autograph to prove it.

It's sort of a reflected ego trip for those that do it.

Personally, I care nothing about the private life of actors and if they have been married once, twice or weekly for the last 10 years.

If they entertain on stage or in the movies that's all that I ask. But, as I said, I do understand how you may feel differently. When I was a kid I would have loved to talk to Tiger pitcher Lynnwood "Schoolboy" Rowe. But I outgrew it.

What really is difficult to relate with is the visiting of graves. An article in a Sunday metro paper reports how thousands of nostalgic fans visit the graves of celebrities in Hollywood every year.

That's right. The graves. Hollywood Memorial Park distributes maps to celebrity burial sites.

Just what prompts them? Some of it has to be morbid curiosity. I can think of no other reason.

Of course funerals and

AROUND THE FARM Pesticide examinations

By Don Kebler

bers 17 and 18 were given. Nearly 60 took their exams.

I thought the public demand for another examination period would diminish from now through spring work. However, it is believed there is more need than ever to have another before spring work really begins.

The list of restricted use pesticides has been passed and is now on our governor's desk for his signature. If he signs it, the pesticides will be restricted officially April 15, 1978.

Once the restricted list becomes official, the pesticides on it cannot be purchased except by certified persons.

Because of this situation there will be two exam sections at the Civil Defense Center in Caro April 10. Section 7919 will begin at 9:30 a.m. with section 7920 at 1:30 p.m.

Persons qualifying to take their exams on this date are:

- 1) Anyone who has mailed his exam application form. It is not necessary to have received your authorization card from the state before taking the exam, just come.
- 2) Everyone else who has already received their authorization card, and those who want to be re-examined.

Anyone wanting to write their exam April 10 who has not mailed their application yet can stop in at my office, get the form, and mail it before the exam date.

You may want to check out the list of restricted pesticides. Maybe the ones you want to use are not restricted and no certification is needed to purchase them. This list is also at my office.

If any are on this restrictive use list, and you don't want to be certified, they can be purchased without certification proof until the April 15 deadline and used in 1978.

PEDALING AROUND

Cruisin' the Gut

By Mike Ellasohn

On my recent sojourn to Lansing to see my parents, I came across the current issue of "Lansing" magazine. In it was an article about growing up as a teenager in the Capital City during the late 1950s and early 60s, during the golden days of rock and roll.

As a 1963 graduate of Lansing Eastern High School, those were my days, at least according to the article - I missed out on the fun, or at least most of it. Serves me right for being a late bloomer.

The "in" thing in those days for those with access to cars as described in the article was "cruisin' the gut." The "Gut" was the main street in downtown Lansing.

The starting point was the &W drive-in at the south end, with the turn around in the A&P grocery parking lot to the north end.

The aim, of course, was to drive around, be seen, and pick up girls, or at least to make the attempt. Usually, for girls, the car was to get picked up by boys, though it's hard to imagine any respectable girls back then doing such things. Of course, what their parents didn't know wouldn't hurt them (the parents, that is).

Back then, it was easy to find the non-respectable girls cause they wore bouffant hairdos, sometimes known as bushel basket hairdos. All their hair was piled on top of their heads and then held in place by gallons of hair spray. (The condition of the hair spray wasn't a concern.)

Legend was that some of these girls never shed their hair, lest they be rebuilder their architectural masterpieces from scratch.

And rumor had it that croaches were discovered in some of the unheated hairdos.

Now, nobody cruises the A&W and A&P are gone from downtown Lansing and part of Washington Ave. has been converted into an open-air mall. Maybe teens in Lansing do their cruising on the inside of the enclosed shopping malls that have unfortunately replaced downtowns as the places to be.

Although I was a stay-at-home sort much of the time, I didn't miss out on all the fun. I saw Bill Haley and His Comets at the Lansing Civic Center when the group was in its heyday. That would have been in 1956 or '57.

They were the last group on the bill of about 10 rock and roll acts. The irony was everyone was clapping along with Bill Haley's music so loudly that it was impossible to hear the music.

In later years, I would read that the screaming and shrieking was so loud at Beatles' concerts that the foursome from Liverpool would sometimes unplug their amplifiers and no one noticed.

I remember what was considered the "coolest" car in town when I was going to junior high. It was a 1956 or '57 Chevy, all white, with about two inches of ground clearance (for some reason, that's what made it cool). Legend had it that there were only two driveways in Lansing it could get up without scraping bottom.

I did go to the high school dances in my last year or two of high school. They were good for exercise because those who didn't dance walked around all evening in a big circle. The two songs I remember from then are "Monster Mash" and "Ahab the A-rab."

I also remember the cute cheerleader I asked to dance who turned me down.

At my 10-year high school reunion, she looked better than ever, even if she had two kids (wine isn't the only thing that improves with age - up to a point).

This year is the 15-year reunion. The way modern society is these days, by now, maybe she's divorced.

TOWNSHIP - VILLAGE HALL - Work on the Elmwood township - Gageton village hall and fire station is proceeding, with construction scheduled to be completed this summer. Booms Construction Co. of Bad Axe is building the $173,000 building. Federal public works funds are paying $150,000 of the cost; the village and township are splitting the remainder.

Increased minimum wage means fewer youth jobs

A total of $450,000 may flow into Tuscola, Huron, and Sanic counties this summer to provide jobs for disadvantaged youth, the Thumb Area Consortium administrative board was told last Thursday.

The money will be provided through the federal Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth (SPEDY).

The estimated amount, according to consortium Executive Director Frank Lenard, compares to $422,000 received last year, which was enough to provide jobs for 436 youth.

The federal minimum wage which the youths are paid, however, has been increased since then, so Lenard estimated the $450,000 will only be enough to provide 415-420 jobs this summer.

Applications for the SPEDY jobs will be taken starting in May. The jobs will start after school ends in June and continue into August.

The consortium has received $30,108 to begin setting up the SPEDY program, such as for hiring staff and finding jobs for the 16-year-old admits taking wallet with $70

A 16-year-old Cass City boy admitted to village police that he took a wallet containing $70 from a locker at Cass City Intermediate School.

Walter Laming of 6993 Bay City-Forestville Road reported to police Wednesday morning, March 22, that the wallet was taken from a locker while he was playing basketball in the school gym the previous evening.

The suspect in the case initially denied to police he took the wallet but admitted it the following day, last Thursday.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said Tuesday a petition will be filed with juvenile court regarding the youth. The wallet wasn't recovered.

March 17, village police apprehended a 14-year-old Deford girl who was spotted entering cars parked in the Charmont parking lot shortly after 11 a.m.

She was seen taking a handbag from a car. Police found the purse in some bushes and then followed footprints in the snow to the bowling alley. Inside, they found the girl in question.

She was taken to Cass City High School, where she should have been at that time. Her foster mother, who was not home at the time, was later notified. The purse, which didn't have any money in it, was returned to the owner.

State police at the Caro post are investigating a break-in at the Department of Natural Resources field office at the Fish Point State Game Area north of Unionville.

The break-in was reported Monday morning and occurred some time after 10 a.m. Saturday when the building was last used.

Taken was a $300 cassette recorder. A stake truck parked there was found 1 1/2 miles north in a ditch, with the transmission damaged.

Paint from a spray can was sprayed inside the attached garage and the contents of a fire extinguisher were emptied in the garage and office. A supply cabinet in the office was pried open.

Cass City police at 4:55 a.m. last Friday arrested Richard C. Spring, 23, of 426 Bates Street, Caro, on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor.

His car was stopped on M-81 at Koepfgen Road, after first being spotted exiting an alley from the wrong direction onto Seeger Street near Main.

He was taken to the county jail in Caro, where he posted bond later that day, pending arraignment in District Court.

Square dance graduation on Saturday

The Rocking Eights Square Dance Club of Caro will hold graduation exercises for seven students who have completed the "75" basics of square dancing.

The graduates are Kathy Hoard, Linda Roberts, Nancy Broadworth, Danny Hoard, Tom Gunsell, Steve Atchinson, and Bill Pouliot.

The graduation will be at 8 p.m. Saturday, followed by a dance and a potluck dinner at the Sacred Heart School on Hooper St., Caro.

All square dancers are invited to attend.

Honor Society induction set

Owendale-Gagetown High School's annual induction ceremony for its chapter of the National Honor Society will be Tuesday, April 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Owendale Community Building, according to Principal James Barr, chapter advisor.

To be eligible for membership consideration, sophomore students must have a cumulative grade average of 3.5; juniors, 3.25, and seniors, a 3.0 average on a 4.00 scale.

Additionally, potential members must meet high standards in leadership, service, and character.

Leadership is based on the student's participation in two or more community or school activities, or election to an office. To meet the service requirement, the student must have been active in three or more service projects in the school and community.

Character is measured in terms of integrity, behavior, ethics, and cooperation with both students and faculty.

Candidates are screened by the guidance counselor, principal and faculty. This year, 17 students are being inducted, giving the Owendale chapter a total membership of 24.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

The question of abortions in the Thumb area continues to be a clouded one at most hospitals and there appears no early solution to the problem.

While unemployment in Tuscola county has dropped greatly from year to year, figures still average close to state and national totals.

Mr. and Mrs. John Guinther celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary at the home of Hazen Guinther. The couple has 13 living children, 34 grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Forty-six new members were added to the Cass City High School chapter of the National Honor Society in the traditional candlelight induction ceremonies.

TEN YEARS AGO

Lyle Biddle of Cass City, formerly of Rochester, passed away Friday at Hills and Dales General Hospital after an illness of five days. He was born May 17, 1907, in Evergreen township, Sanilac county, the son of Elmwood and Lillian Biddle.

He married Ruby Palmer Miller, Oct. 24, 1933, in Pontiac. They came to Cass City in 1971 from Rochester. Biddle was a member of the Novesta Baptist church.

He is survived by his wife, Ruby; two sons, Donald Biddle of Hiawatha, Kan., and Emerson Biddle of Texas; one stepson, Paul Miller of Flint; one daughter, Mrs. Stanley (Patricia) Hall of Springfield, Ill.; one brother, Harold Biddle of Decker, and 11 grandchildren.

He was taken from Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, to the Novesta Baptist church Tuesday morning to lie in state until the 1 p.m. funeral service. Rev. Stephen Love, the pastor, officiated. Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Angott gets ag service award

Wesley's Quaker Maid President Thomas V. Angott was presented with the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources Distinguished Service Award at a Farmers' Week luncheon March 23 at Michigan State University.

In addition to Quaker Maid, which has a plant in Cass City, Angott is president of Detroit Milk, Michigan Beverage, and Modern Foto, all headquartered in Detroit. He lives in Orchard Lake.

Angott was cited for his leadership in the dairy processing industry. He serves on a variety of local and national organizations, including the National Dairy Council, of which he is chairman of the board of directors.

HELPING HAND

Happiness comes from the load you lift from the weak, not from laurels heaped on the strong.

tive Service Board at Cass City announced that 28 Tuscola county young men have been sent their induction notices to enter the Armed Forces. One of these 28 men is from Cass City, Clare Brooks.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

One of the largest groups of men from Tuscola county will be leaving for Fort Custer for induction into the Armed Forces. Among the group, three men are from Cass City. They are: Orin Hughes, Kenneth Denev, and Raymond Seeley. Treasurer of the Tuscola County Chapter of the American Red Cross, Frederick Pinney, has reported that the goal that was set for the drive has been passed and about $6,000 more will be coming.

Cantata set in Marlette

A chorus of 40 voices will present "Alleluia" by Bill and Gloria Gaither at the First United Methodist church in Marlette. The cantata is being given again this year by popular request. Two presentations are scheduled for Sunday, April 2. The first will be during the worship service at 11 a.m. It may be heard in the evening at 7:30. Mary Beth Cook is the director of the chorus, and Alton Smiley will act as narrator. The "Alleluia" is being sung to the taped rendition of the original score.

HEALTH TIPS IUDs can curb pregnancies

By Frank Chappell, American Medical Association

The pill is such a popular and effective method of birth control that American women sometimes overlook the fact that other good methods are available.

Some women cannot use the pill for various health reasons. For these individuals there are intrauterine devices (IUD's), other mechanical devices such as the diaphragm, and spermicidal preparations such as jellies and creams.

IUDs are small devices, usually made of soft plastic, that are placed inside the uterus to prevent pregnancy, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association. They are inexpensive, they require no preventive action at the time of intercourse, and they do not demand continuing awareness on the part of the user as do oral contraceptives and other methods.

Available in several shapes, IUDs are composed of inert material, or may contain a slow release chemical. It is compressed and inserted through the cervix into the uterus where it may remain for years. Some of the devices require periodic replacement. A string attached to the device remains outside the cervix for easy removal. Insertion and removal should be done only by trained medical personnel.

Exactly how the IUDs work to prevent pregnancy is not known. Effectiveness varies slightly among different sizes and shapes of the device. Expulsion may occur, usually during a menstrual period. It is easy, however, to check the cervix for the presence of the string.

About one in 10 women request removal of the device because of cramping and bleeding, and these individuals then turn to other contraceptive methods.

The diaphragm is made of soft rubber with a flexible metal rim covered with rubber. Positioned properly and used with a spermicidal preparation, it is from 85 per cent to 98 per cent effective in preventing conception, depending on proper use. The cervical cap is similar to the diaphragm.

The condom, a widely used male contraceptive, has an added advantage in that it is effective in preventing venereal disease as well as pregnancy. The condom can sometimes tear or slip off, however.

Spermicidal preparations alone properly used are 75 to 85 per cent effective in preventing conception. The rhythm method stresses abstinence from intercourse around the time of ovulation. Reliability is less than perfect in preventing conception. The vaginal douch as a contraceptive technique has little to recommend it.

Ministers help meals program

The Cass City Area Ministerial Association has given $100 to the Human Development Commission to support continuation of the "meals on wheels" program in Cass City.

The HDC now has enough funds to continue the program through this summer, but indications are the program will not be refunded at that time. It is the desire of the commission that each local community will be able to fully support the program within its own geographical area.

The gift to the HDC was to come from the proceeds of the community Thanksgiving Eve service held at the First Presbyterian church last November, but net receipts were only $33.74. The Ministerial Association, however, decided to donate $100 to the project.

Donations to the "meals on wheels" program can be sent to the Human Development Commission, 264 N. State Street, Caro 48723.

Help needed in search for barn owls

The Department of Natural Resources needs help in conducting a census of the state's barn owls.

John Lerg, the DNR's endangered species program assistant coordinator, says the barn owl was fairly common in the state during the 1930's and 1940's, but declined drastically since then, and is now listed as a threatened species in the state.

"Small towns and family farms years ago provided barn owls with their favorite nesting places in church towers, silos and barns," Lerg said. "The birds are vanishing now, as the Michigan countryside changes."

The barn owl, sometimes called monkey-faced owl, stands approximately 16 inches tall, has a creamy white, heart-shaped face patch, long legs, and black eyes.

"This owl should not be confused with the smaller screech owl," according to Lerg. "The screech owl is gray or reddish-brown, stands about eight inches tall, has yellow eyes, short legs, and ear tufts."

Plans to help the species will require observations of barn owls to determine their numbers in Michigan, weather they are nesting, and their location.

The public can report observations of barn owls to the DNR's Wildlife Division, Box 30028, Lansing 48909. Exact location of the owls is not needed, but include your name and address so the DNR can contact you later for more information.

Owen-Gage tells 3 essay winners

Three students from Owendale-Gagetown Area Schools have been named local winners in the 1977-78 America and Me essay contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

The three are Julie Enderle, first; David Ricker, second, and Bonnie Wells, third. All three will receive honor certificates for their achievement. In addition, the name of the school's first place winner will be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

As the school's first place winner, Julie's essay now advances to the state competition from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected.

More than 7,500 eighth grade students from 370 Michigan schools submitted entries in the 1977-78 contest, open to all eighth grade students. The annual contest encourages Michigan's young people to seriously consider their roles in America's future through "America and Me" essays.

On the local level, winners are selected from each school and the school's best entry is advanced to the statewide competition.

Prizes for the top ten in the state include savings bonds ranging in value from $50 to $500.

A panel of Michigan dignitaries, headed by Gov. William Milliken, will determine the final ranking of the 1977-78 top ten winners. Other judges are State Supreme Court Justice Mary Coleman, Congressman Robert Carr, and Grand Rapids television personality Buck Matthews.

Zonta club authorizes $100 gift

Clare Touchette, service supervisor for Detroit Edison, explained coal as an energy source to members of the Cass City Zonta Club Tuesday noon, March 21.

He explained that 82 per cent of energy is generated by coal and that 35 per cent of the coal mined in Montana is used by Edison.

Reclaiming the land is very expensive, Touchette said, and the cost is reflected in the cost of coal.

Restoring the land after strip mining is very successful, according to the guest speaker.

In the business session, Irene Freeman was elected to a two-year term to the board. Installation of officers is set for the May meeting when the District Governor will attend.

An annual gift of $100 was authorized for the Rawson Memorial Library. Carolyn Benscoter, club member, was named president of the State Federation Council for exceptional children.

A workshop slated in Lansing May 7 will be attended by several members and a representative will attend the 1978 international convention in Denver June 25-30.

The next meeting will be April 18.

ESSAY WINNERS -- The top three competitors in the "America and Me" essay contest at Owen-Gage were, from left, Julie Enderle, David Ricker, and Bonnie Wells.

Announce poster contest

The Michigan Association of Soil Conservation Districts and the Michigan State Grange are sponsoring youth soil and water conservation scrapbook and poster contests.

The poster contest is open to youngsters in grades K-6; the scrapbook contest, grades 3-8.

The purpose is to develop among school youth and the general public an awareness of the problems involving land and its related resources and technology available to provide solutions to those problems. Theme of both contests for 1978 is "Clean Water."

Entries must be turned in to the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District office, 852 S. Hooper Street, Caro 48723, by June 1.

The district will present awards to the county winners. The two best entries in each class will then be judged in statewide competition.

The three best entries in each class in both contests on the state level will receive plaques.

In the poster contest, all entries must be 12-by-15 inches, with choice of materials optional.

The name, address, division, and soil conservation district (Tuscola) must be printed or typed on the back. The three divisions in the poster contest are I - 4th, 5th, and 6th grades; II - 2nd and 3rd, and III - kindergarten and 1st grade.

In the scrapbook contest, all pictures, drawings, charts, and graphs must have appropriate explanations and/or captions and source noted. Photos taken by participants are encouraged.

The participant's name, age, mailing address, and contest class must appear on the cover or cover page of the scrapbook. The three classes are: I - 3rd and 4th grades; II - 5th and 6th, and III - 7th and 8th.

Entries will be judged on originality, appropriateness to the theme, clarity, visual impact, and overall appearance. Further information can be obtained by calling the district office in Caro at 673-8174.

Federal grants spark 3 state recycling projects

Three Michigan communities will begin experimental programs this month to turn waste back into usable materials or energy.

Federal grants of $14,300 each have been awarded to Grand Traverse and Kent counties and to the city of Kalamazoo as part of the state's energy conservation program.

Grand Traverse county will study whether the Traverse City Light and Power Department could burn wood waste and refuse-derived fuel in a new electrical power plant. The grant will be used for a consulting engineering firm to investigate fuel and material markets, boiler plants and resource recovery plants and cost-benefit ratios.

Recycle Unlimited of Grand Rapids, a community organization, will test the feasibility of using a resource recovering trailer in parts of Kent county.

The trailer will follow garbage trucks making curbside pickups and will process household waste into products such as color-sorted glass particles, newspapers and magazines and flattened tin, aluminum and other metal cans.

In Kalamazoo, the city will test the effectiveness of various public information techniques to increase public participation in a planned city-wide curbside newspaper recycling project.

According to the State Energy Commission, within the Department of Commerce, results of the six-month studies are expected to be applicable elsewhere in Michigan. A new series of grants will be available in late March for other Michigan cities, townships and counties.

LEGISLATION APPROVED FOR YOUTH SERVICES AGENCY

The House of Representatives recently approved legislation for improved services to delinquent, abused and neglected young people through a stronger state agency.

The legislation would create a new Office of Children and Youth Services to consolidate various service programs now scattered throughout the department.

All youth services in the department, except day-care, child care facility licensing and the Youth Parole Review Board, will be consolidated in the new agency. It would develop, promote and evaluate youth services, including foster care.

The office is authorized to spend up to 20 per cent of the child care fund to provide for early treatment of problems of delinquency and neglect and to expedite the child's return to the home. The agency is expected to cost about $400,000 the first year.

CONSUMERS MAY HAVE NEW PROTECTION AGAINST BAD AUTOS

Consumers may be getting closer to a solution as to what they can do in case their pride of ownership of a new car becomes one of disgust when they find that auto is a lemon.

After many years of failure, both houses of the Legislature approved a bill eliminating the holder-in-due-course doctrine for auto installment sales contracts.

The statute would allow auto owners to withhold payments on autos they believe to be defective, at least until some agreement can be reached between the owner and the seller.

However, the Senate tacked on amendments requiring that payments due must be paid to an escrow account until the case is decided. Also, another amendment eliminates the right after 24 months.

The bill's sponsor Rep. Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) is not happy with the Senate amendments and has headed the measure to a conference committee to work out differences.

He challenged the Senate amendments saying they eliminate some of the consumer rights for which the bill was originally proposed.

Bullard said consumers should not have to continue making the payments to an escrow account as they need the money for other transportation during the period. He also said the two year cut off is not right as current auto financing often goes 36 months and sometimes 48 months.

State establishes land use committee

The Department of Natural Resources has established a special committee of employees and interested citizens to determine how public lands can best be used by all the people of the state.

The committee, called the Public Land Hunting and Compatible Use Committee, is an outgrowth of the DNR's New Urban Recreation Program. That program places new emphasis on utilizing available public lands for recreation in southern lower Michigan.

The department has noted southern Michigan game areas provide the land base for many kinds of recreation and in some cases, there are problems between hunters and non-hunters.

A major goal of the committee will be to promote hunting on public lands while still permitting compatible uses on these lands by non-hunters.

The committee plans to survey state park managers, district wildlife biologists and conservation officers to identify the nature and location of user conflicts and determine how much of state land now closed to hunting can be opened.

It naturally follows that they will also help cut heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer.

Room-darkening window shades in pretty colors are a boon to children's rooms. They block out light for early bedtimes and naps - while adding decorative, non-allergic window treatments to the room.

replacement. For the past year, he has worked with his successor, Ted Morgan. "I think 36 years is enough in any one place," the gray-haired Bigelow said of his reason for retiring. Future plans include finishing touches on their house, landscaping, gardening, and traveling.

As sexton, Bigelow always was on call. The longest "vacation" he and his wife had in 36 years was one week end trip up North.

And until the township started charging extra for Sunday funerals, there was a lot of work on Sundays. "It used to be if you died after a Monday, you were buried on a Sunday," the retiring sexton explained.

"You're just about tied to the hitching post," he said of the routine as sexton.

Two persons were bound over to Circuit Court last Friday to face charges in connection with cashing of bad checks. The checks used were stolen as blank checks from Geno's Villa in Mayville in December.

Michael J. Walker, 23, of Phillips Road, Kingston, was bound over by District Judge Richard F. Kern on a charge of uttering and publishing.

Personal recognizance bond was set at $7,000. He will be arraigned in Circuit Court April 10.

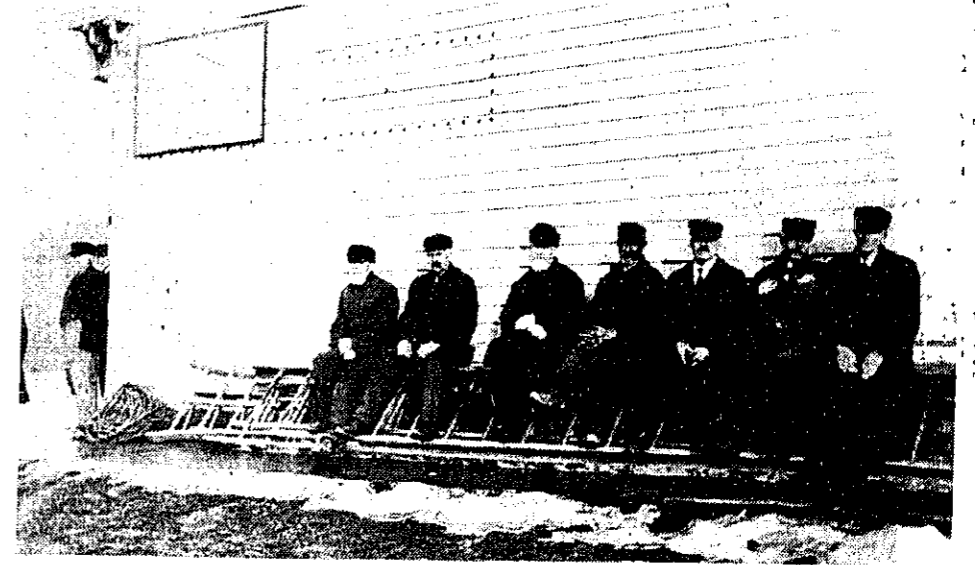

Ann Bilicki, 21, of Caro, was bound over on a charge of forgery. Arraignment was scheduled April 17. Personal recognizance bond for her was set March 13 at $2,000.

Both were arrested earlier this month. Each is charged in connection with cashing of a single check, both on Jan. 11.

Checks with the name of Geno's Villa were cashed in January at about 25 businesses in Cass City, Caro, and Vassar.

In Cass City, checks usually for $75-85 were cashed at 10 businesses. No one has been charged yet in connection with the cashing of those checks.

These ladders and men were perched outside the hardware store at Seeger and Main, the present site of the Boron service station. Milligan identified two men here. Easter Seal TV campaign slated

The Tuscola county chapter of the Easter Seal Society will be taking pledges as part of the national Easter Seal Telethon Saturday and Sunday.

The telethon will be seen in the area over Channel 25, Saginaw. It will run from 11 p.m. Saturday until 7 p.m. Sunday. Television actor Jack Klugman is the national host.

The county pledge center will be in the Sears store in Caro. Pledges can be phoned in there by calling 673-4101 from 10 p.m. Saturday to 1 a.m. Sunday and then from 7 a.m.-7 p.m.

Although the national tele-thon has been held several years, this is the first year the county Easter Seal unit has participated.

Proceeds will be used to aid crippled children and adults, such as for providing therapy and equipment and operating summer camps.

A portion of the money raised in Tuscola county will be returned here to aid local residents, according to county chairman Ron Laeder.

Persons in need of Easter Seal Society services for themselves or others, such as for therapy or equipment, are invited to call the Thumb area office at (313) 985-8818 in Port Huron.

Study shows tankers can be made safer

Now that the Legislature is about to act to ban double-bottom tankers carrying hazardous materials, a University of Michigan study says the tankers can be made twice as safe through some improvements in connections and suspensions.

The study showed one major reason for rollovers is the instability of the pup -- the second half of the tandem. The pup could be made more stable by installing a stiffer hitch that did not allow the pup to roll as easily.

Also, on five-axle pups, removing the middle axle would help stability. Putting different bolts on the tanker's suspension system, to allow less play on the springs, would also help.

The results of the study, however, may be too late as the Legislature, under public pressure, is moving for a statewide ban on the tandem tankers.

Your Neighbor says

Laetrile should be proven effective

A state House of Representatives special committee has recommended that Michigan legalize prescription use of the controversial cancer drug Laetrile.

The four of five committee members who endorsed the recommendation argued that cancer patients should have the right to use the drug if they wish. If legal, production can be regulated and purity insured; if illegal, patients will find and use the drug anyway.

Fourteen states have legalized use of Laetrile, made from almonds and peach pits.

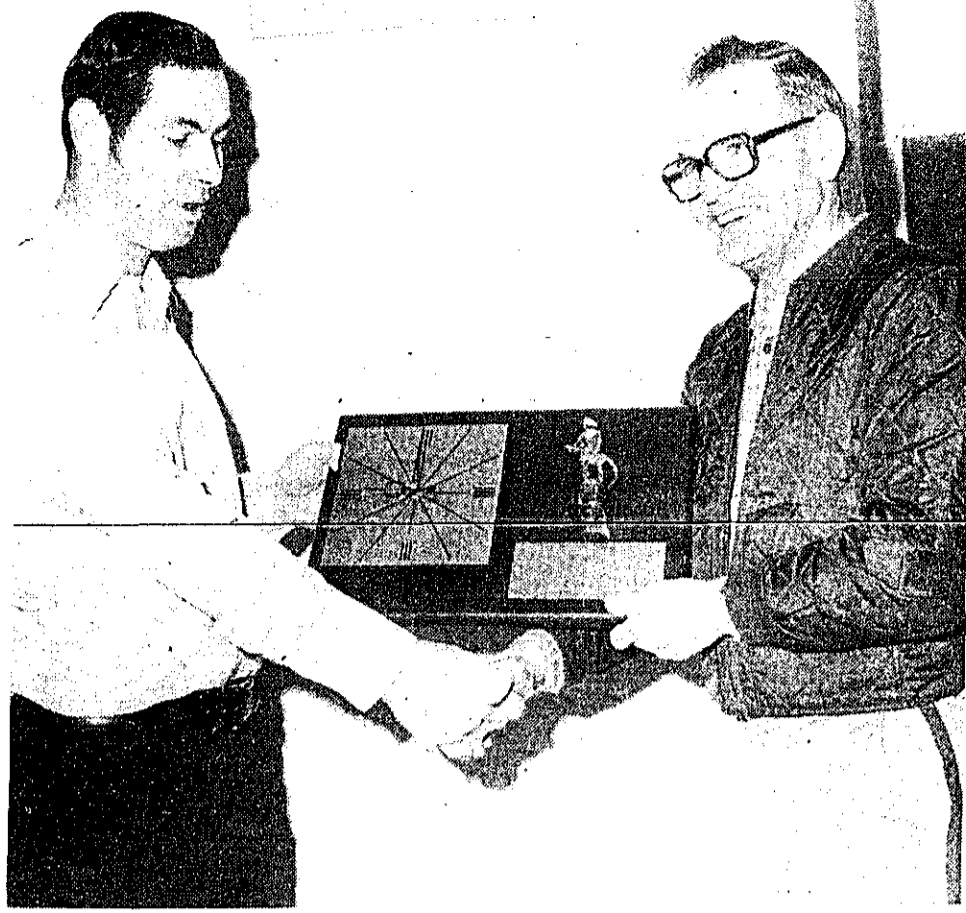

Peg Schwartz is of mixed emotions about legalizing it. "I think it should be legalized if they can prove it works," she said. "At this point, it probably shouldn't be legalized, because it hasn't been proven."

But she can also see the viewpoint of those who feel cancer patients should be able to use Laetrile if they want, even if it hasn't been proven beneficial.

"It kind of goes both ways," she said of the arguments for and against the drug.

Peg Schwartz and her son, Jason, 2, live at 4481 Maple Street. She does babysitting in her home.

Beware! Michigan's tornado season is here

Last year, according to the National Weather Service, the Michigan tornado season ran from March through September, with a total of 31 reported tornadoes. In the past four years there have been more than 140 tornadoes in Michigan, resulting in at least nine deaths and over 200 injuries. In order to keep you informed, the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies offers these tips on what to do before and after a tornado.

aid kit prepared, along with a flashlight, portable radio and extra batteries.

--Stay tuned to radio and television weather reports. That "tornado watch" could change to a "tornado warning", meaning a tornado has been sighted. In Cass City and other communities with fire sirens, the siren will sound continuously for 2-3 minutes to signal a warning.

--When the "tornado warning" is announced, move to a place of safety immediately. Go to your basement. If you don't have a basement, move to the center of the lowest floor you have, preferably in a small room or closet. Stay low and if possible, under heavy furniture. Keep away from windows.

--If traveling during a "tornado warning" drive at right angles away from the storm. If that's not possible, get out of the vehicle and into a basement, ditch, ravine or any other low place. Stay as low to the ground as you can.

--If you are at school or work, move to an interior hallway of the lowest floor possible. Avoid windows and large rooms.

AFTER THE STORM

--Be alert for downed power lines and damaged buildings.

--Review your insurance policy with your insurance representative to be certain you have the proper coverage in the event of a loss.

--Keep an up-to-date inventory of your personal property. This will aid in any insurance settlement following a storm.

Energy aid available to some

Senior citizens and low-income families needing help in paying fuel and utility bills, or bills for emergency repairs, may be eligible for assistance, according to the Human Development Commission.

The commission has received federal funding to provide assistance to low-income and elderly households who suffered financial hardships due to the unusually cold winter months. Eligibility requirements for assistance include families with incomes no higher than $7,313 for a family of four, or elderly couples with an income at or lower than $5,895.

HDC personnel will take applications five days a week at the program office, 190 N. State Street, Caro. Individuals making application must bring proof of income for the past 12 months and bring current fuel bills with them. The program ends May 1.

More information may be obtained by calling 673-6153. Funding for emergency assistance has been made available through the nationwide Emergency Energy Conservation Program signed by President Carter Feb. 28.

"How can I plan for a career when I don't even know what I want to do, or for that matter, what I can do?"

That complaint is often voiced by young men and women in high school, college or graduates from high school and in the job market.

Caro Services Inc., a division of Caro Area Services

For the Handicapped (CASH), has a series of computer tests called the Hester Vocational Evaluation System which may be able to provide some answers for many of these people. The system is being used by CASH and Vocational Rehabilitation Services clients as part of a four-week series of tests and work samples designed to identify vocational strengths and weaknesses.

Some students referred to Caro Services by their high school and some persons from "off-the-street" are also taking the Hester test, which takes three hours. Persons coming in on their own are charged a fee to cover expenses.

Caro Services has had the Hester equipment since October.

"Traditionally, evaluation systems have been constructed to test the abilities of mentally and physically handicapped individuals," according to rehabilitation director Doug White. "Little attention has been given to the culturally disadvantaged or high school students without vocational goals. The Hester System is applicable to these groups in that it measures mental and motor skills and projects them into feasible potential vocational groups and specific jobs."

Although the Hester computer machines look somewhat strange, close inspection reveals their practicality.

The silver device with the mirror which reflects an image of a black star tests clients for "visual motor reversal." The testee is asked to trace the outline of the star using the mirror image as a guide. The machine records, in fractions of a second, how long the subject actually stays on the star outline.

"The ability to think in reverse is essential in many repair jobs," White said. "One example where this skill is demonstrated would be a truck driver backing up or maneuvering a trailer." Another device shows a blip of light traveling quickly around a large triangle. The subject attempts to follow the blip with a pencil-like instrument. The computer records how much time the subject was actually touching the light spot.

"That machine measures tracking ability," White said. "The blip moves faster around the corners of the triangle and requires the subject to keep with the stylus. I tested an avid bird hunter on it one time and he scored very high. Tracking ability is necessary for many assembly line jobs or any job which requires aiming."

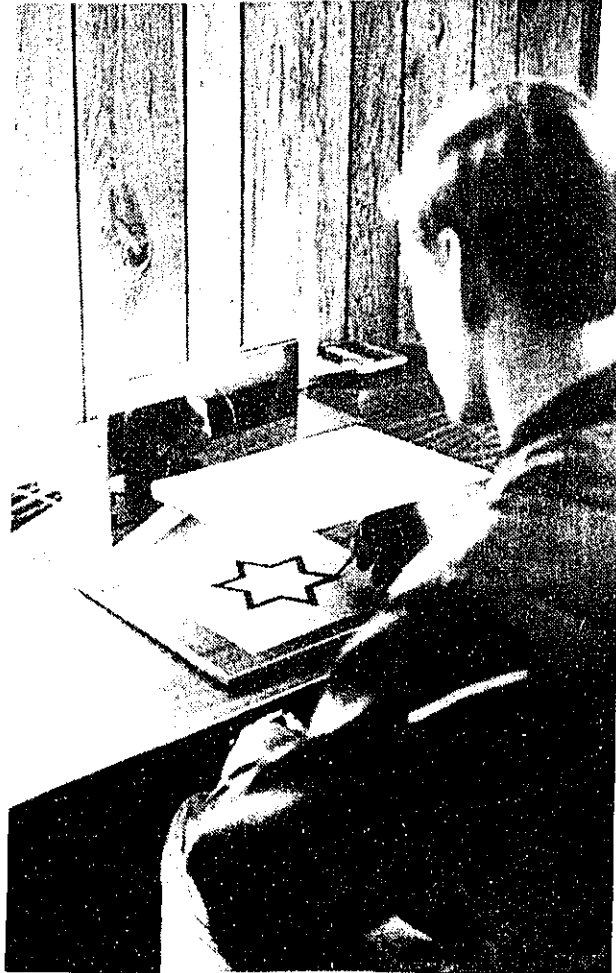

The projector device is used to measure perception accuracy and quick decision-making ability. A picture is shown on the screen and the subject is given a photograph which matches the projector picture. Then pictures are displayed on the screen which have certain differences from the photograph, ranging from subtle to obvious. The person taking the test has to make quick and accurate identification of the differences.

Other machines test perceptual speed, multi-limb coordination, hand steadiness, and many other mental and motor skills required in the execution of certain jobs. There are 28 sub-tests in all. The machines record the scores and the data is sent to the main computer at the University of Illinois. A computer printout is made, suggesting vocation groupings and specific jobs to catch the skills of the subjects.

"Many other vocational tests only take the person's interests into account and totally ignore skill levels," White explained. "The Hester System is just the opposite. Also, the Hester is totally objective because it requires no observations of the experimenter."

Results are returned about a week after the test is taken.

"When the printout is returned, I talk with the student, and his counselor

VISUAL MOTOR REVERSAL - By trying to trace the star outline by looking in the mirror, visual motor reversal, the ability to think in reverse, is tested. (CASH Photos)

PERCEPTION ACCURACY - By determining whether the photograph held by the testee matches the picture projected on the screen, perception accuracy and quick decision making ability are tested.

2 years probation

Payne sentenced for selling drugs in bar

Joseph A. Payne, 22, of Cat Lake Road, Caro, was placed on two years' probation Monday by Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements for delivery of phenylephrine.

A Circuit Court jury found Payne guilty of the charge

Feb. 28, in connection with the sale of the drug Oct. 15, 1976, at a bar in Unionville. He was also sentenced to one day in the county jail, with credit given for one day served, fined $150, and assessed $300 court costs.

Also Monday, James L. Wickings, 19, of 493 Birch Street, Vassar, was placed on one year probation for attempted larceny in a building.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Feb. 27 in connection with the theft of $3 from the Vassar United Methodist church Jan. 22.

He was sentenced to two days in the county jail, credited with two days served, fined $100, and assessed $200 court costs.

Alvin J. Dandron of 1559 E.

Dayton Road, Caro, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail for larceny by conversion. He was credited with one day served.

Dandron was found guilty of the charge by a Circuit Court jury Feb. 16, in connection with the borrowing of a shotgun belonging to Burt White and not returning it.

A motion for appeal bond was granted by the judge, who set it at $5,000. He denied a defense motion for a new trial.

Kenneth Diener, 17, of 120 Ellington Road, Caro, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail for joy riding. He was credited with 19 days served.

He pleaded guilty to the charge March 13, in connection with taking of a car in Akron township Dec. 29.

A charge of violation of probation against him was cancelled.

March 22, a Circuit Court jury found Martin L. Cooper, 20, of Birch Run, guilty of attempted acquiring of a controlled substance by forged prescription.

Bond was continued by Judge Norman A. Baguley, with sentencing scheduled April 17.

The charge was in connection with his attempt to obtain the drug, phenmetrazine, at a Mayville pharmacy last Aug. 20.

Honor area pair as 35-year MMPA members

Leonard Dorman of Deckerville Road, Snover, and Basil Ziehm of Bach Road, Gagetown, were honored as 35-year members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association at the organization's annual delegate meeting in East Lansing March 18.

Other 35-year members honored from the Thumb area were M.J. McCully, Lee Wilson, and Leslie Wilson, all of Deckerville; Marvin Eagle, Sandusky; Orville Orchard, Applegate; Harry Prowse, Marlette; Elmer Rodammer, Vassar; Walter Turner, North Branch, and Frank L. Stevens, Clifford.

North Branch dairy farmer Glenn Lake, 62, MMPA president since 1955, was re-elected as a director-at-large on the state board. Among resolutions approved by the delegates was one commending the legislature and governor for approving an amendment to the state PBB testing law which assures fairer treatment for dairy farmers. The amendment increases biopsy payments from the former $10 per cow to $30, retroactive to the start of the testing program last October. The measure will mean an expected $600,000 to dairy farmers for the period through February. The increase is believed to more nearly compensate farmers for costs of caring for biopsied cows under terms of the law.

MMPA is a milk marketing cooperative owned and controlled by about 5,700 dairy farmers in Michigan, northern Indiana, northern Ohio, and northern Wisconsin.
