

Cass City not under investigation

By Mike Eliasohn

The U.S. Department of Labor is not investigating scandal in the federal job program in Cass City.

What it did investigate on a very small scale was the retirement system of the Tuscola County Road Commission in response to a complaint by a former employee who was being paid with federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds.

What was broadcast by area radio and television stations Monday night and Tuesday morning was that the labor department was investigating fraud and other abuses in several places in the United States, one of which was Cass City.

Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie first heard about the supposed investigation on the radio Tuesday morning. "We don't know what in the world is going on," was his reaction a short while later.

It took a few phone calls by village officials to Washington before it found out and got Cass City off the hook.

Washington Star reporter Lance Gay, who called the Chronicle late Monday afternoon seeking information, said news of the investigation was announced at a press conference held by U.S. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall. He said an investigation was being conducted into abuses in the CETA program in several places in the U.S.

Gay said reporters later obtained a list of where investigations were being conducted and on it were the states of California and Oklahoma plus New York City, Atlanta, Indianapolis, Gary, Ind., and Cass City. Cass City is the headquarters for the Thumb Area Consortium, which directs the CETA programs in Tuscola, Huron, and Sanilac counties.

Its executive director, Frank Lenard, told the Chronicle Tuesday afternoon, after Gay's call, "The only contact I've had with the Office of Special Investigations (of the labor department) is in regard to the retirement system of the Tuscola County Road Commission for CETA employees."

The consortium received a letter March 14 from Eric Jann of the Office of Special Investigations and Review requesting a copy of the Road Commission's retirement plan. Lenard obtained a copy from the road agency and sent it to Jann, suggesting he contact the Road Commission clerk, James Miklovic, if he had any questions.

Miklovic told the Chronicle Tuesday morning he received a call from Jann after the retirement plan was sent out. According to the clerk, Jann's questions about the pension plan related to employees in general, not specifically to those hired with CETA funds.

He told Jann the Road

Commission's pension plan was voluntarily submitted to the appropriate federal agency, which gave it its approval. "We're confident we've done everything in a proper fashion," Miklovic said.

The Road Commission last June permanently laid off all 24 of its CETA employees due to lack of work and to save money. Federal funds paid up to $10,000 per employee, but most were receiving additional pay from the Road Commission. All were covered under the same retirement plan as the regular employees.

Both LaPonsie and Lenard contacted Jann Tuesday and the mystery was finally cleared up.

The village of Cass City, which has only four CETA employees, was not being investigated. The only "preliminary investigation" done was that of the Road Commission's retirement system, which was done because of a complaint filed by one of the CETA employees who was laid off.

Because of the investigation, Cass City was on the list of communities and states where the labor department was investigating operation of CETA programs.

Lenard said that based on Jann's examination of the Road Commission pension plan and conversation with Miklovic, "the investigation was complete as far as he (Jann) could see." He quoted the federal official as saying nothing was discovered wrong and he (Jann) didn't contemplate taking any further action.

Lenard, who was bombarded with phone calls Wednesday morning by various reporters, concluded, "We got a big splash for a real little pebble."

AT HOME — Allison and Marjorie Green sit in front of the fireplace in their Phillips Road home, Kingston. They were there this past week end, after Green announced Friday his last day as state treasurer will be April 28.

State treasurer retiring to Kingston area home

Allison Green is coming back to his Kingston area home to stay.

The state treasurer announced last Friday he will retire April 28. Age 66, he is first appointed to the post in November, 1965, by George Romney. He served longer than any previous state treasurer.

Green first went to Lansing after being elected to the Michigan House of Representatives in 1950. But despite his years in the Capitol, he said, "I never put down very deep roots in Lansing."

He and his wife of 43 years, Marjorie, are returning to the farm home on Phillips Road which they first lived in in 1944. During Green's 14 years in the legislature, she and their children lived there. Since then, he has served as a week-end residence.

The couple has five children, all married, and nine grandchildren. Two sons, Bert and James, have moved to their parents' home, a dentist, is associated with Dr. Paul Chappel in Cass City. James is a social worker with the Saginaw schools.

Thomas lives in the Fenton area. Joan (Mrs. John Chapin) lives near Caro. Their other daughter, Marjorie Costello, lives in Lansing.

Green, a graduate of Caro High School and Central Michigan University, started as a teacher. He taught two years in a rural school near Kingston, starting in 1932. Then came a year teaching in the school for first-year college students, held in the old Cass City High School, followed by a year working in an automobile plant.

Then came eight years in the Columbiaville area schools, near Lapeer, where he started as a teacher and basketball and baseball coach and ended as superintendent.

Then he and his wife moved to their Phillips Road farm. It was immediately south of Green's parents' farm and he started farming with his father.

Teachers were in short supply in 1946, so the Kingston schools asked Green to teach. He stayed there until 1950, the last two years as high school principal.

He was also basketball coach and his teams won one Little League championship, the district tournament twice, and once made it to the finals of the regional tournament before losing.

Why did Green decide to run for the legislature? "My wife always wondered about that too," he responded with a smile.

He cited an interest in government and politics since he was a youngster and said one reason for moving to the Phillips Road farm in 1944 was to establish a political base from which to run for the legislature.

The district at that time consisted of Tuscola county. Green took on the incumbent, James Kirk, in the Republican primary in 1950 and won by 46 votes - 2,175-2,129. He was then elected that November.

He was elected to the House of Representatives six more times (two-year terms), served as Republican floor leader from 1954-62 and speaker of the House in 1963-64.

It was during his last term that the U.S. Supreme Court made its one-man, one-vote ruling, which meant that the districts in the legislature would have to be redrawn.

Green was sure, and he was later proven right, that the redrawn districts would result in a majority of Democrats being elected to the House. The majority party elects the House speaker.

"I didn't relish going back in a minority position," he explained. For that reason, plus he would have had to run in a redrawn district - though he feels he could have won - he decided not to run for reelection.

He did run at the Republican convention in 1964 for the nomination for lieutenant governor, but William

Electors up salaries for Elkland board

Pay raises for township officials were approved at the Elkland township annual meeting Saturday.

About 20 persons, including township board members, were in attendance and voted unanimously for the increases.

The supervisor, previously paid $4,500 annually, will be paid $2,000 as supervisor and $4,000 for assessing. Salary for the clerk and treasurer, previously $3,000 each, was raised to $4,500. Trustees, who were paid $20 per meeting for all meetings attended, will receive $50 for a maximum of 12 meetings. The last pay increase was in 1974.

Roads scheduled tentatively for ditching, widening, and other work this year, Supervisor Jack Gallagher reported, are Richie Road, south of Bay City-Forestville, Daus between Schwegler and Buehrly, and Crawford south of M-81.

The general fund budget for 1978-79 estimates receipts and expenditures at $90,250. The 1977-78 budget was for $90,005, with actual expenditures of $63,904 and revenues of $86,771. The money left over, combined with that unspent from the previous fiscal year, left the township with a balance on hand of $30,193 March 22, the end of the fiscal year.

Of that, $5,000 was entered under receipts for the new fiscal year, with the rest deposited in savings.

Property tax revenue for 1978-79 (just collected) totals $38,200. The next biggest revenue source is proceeds from the state sales and income taxes and state revenue sharing, a total of $33,000.

The largest budgeted expenditure is $41,590 for road construction and $17,000 for road maintenance.

The fire department budget is $20,750, which requires a $2,750 transfer from the general fund. The cemetery budget of $18,210 will require a transfer from the general fund of $2,960 to break even.

It was announced that the $7,406 in the special fire fund will be used this year to buy a new four-wheel-drive truck to replace the present vehicle used for fighting grass fires, which is on loan from the state Department of Natural Resources.

Electors approved an increase from federal revenue sharing funds to Rawson Memorial Library from the previous $3,000 annually to $4,500. The federal revenue sharing budget as presented said a similar request will be made at the next Cass City Village Council meeting.

The library board has also requested that other townships who support the library increase their appropriation from the present 25 cents for each township resident to 35 cents.

Part of the reason for the library's financial problems, Mrs. Hutchinson explained, is a continuing decrease in penal fines, which make up about one-third of the library's income.

Budgets highlight annual meetings

Electors approved spending the money on roads. They also decided federal anti-recession funds of $1,700 for this year should be spent on applying brine on roads to keep down dust and for fire protection.

General fund revenues, including a carryover from last year, should total $40,000. Expenditures should total $19,836. Other than roads, the biggest single expense will be for fire protection, $6,000.

The road fund currently totals $36,275. That, plus the $11,000 in federal revenue sharing money, and some from the general fund will probably all be spent on roads this year, according to Deputy Clerk Leonard Briole.

Fifteen persons attended, including board members. Please turn to page 12.

AUSTIN

Electors voted to have township officials paid an annual salary. The board is to come up with suggested salaries, to be voted on at the 1979 annual meeting. Until then, the rates of pay for each day worked remain the same, which is on a per diem basis for each day worked.

Federal revenue sharing funds left over from last year plus those expected this year should total $11,000.

There is one "women's" service club in Cass City that men are free to join.

Out of 80 members of the Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary, according to President Jeanne Auten, about 10 are men. There are, however, only about 25 active members, all of whom are women.

Should sexes meet in service clubs?

ould women be allowed in men's service clubs? Should men be allowed to women's service clubs? Such organization, try International, says "March 27 it expelled 23-member Rotary Club uarte, Calif., for having itted three women bers. Admitting the en is in violation of ry International's ter.

e reaction of local serv-club members is mixed the question of whether opposite sex should be itted to their organiza-ss City Rotary Presi-Roger Little strongly orts the stand taken by ernational. "I have to up what the International did because they (the Duarte club) broke the (Rotary) law," he commented.

"If we wanted women in a men's club," he continued, "then it would no longer be a men's club. If ladies want to belong to service clubs, then there are excellent service clubs for them to belong to."

The issue of admitting women has been brought up at Rotary International conventions, and if he had been there, he said he would have joined the majority in opposing their admittance.

Lions Club President Ken Martin feels similar to Little. "I prefer things the way they are," he commented.

The issue of admitting women has never come up nationally, he said.

Martin pointed out that the Lions Club has a viable alternative for women, the Lioness Clubs.

Lioness Club president Marilyn Schriener takes the opposite viewpoint from Martin. "I feel if a person is interested in the activities of a club or organization and wishes to join, there should be no barrier (to joining) due to sex."

"If they enjoy the activities of a club, they should be able to join no matter if it's a woman's club or a man's club."

She doesn't expect men to start pounding on the doors of the Lioness Club to get in. "Most women enjoy certain things and men enjoy certain others," she explained.

Lioness Clubs don't have a ban on admitting men but the only references in their bylaws are to women.

The issue of admitting men came up at a meeting of the American Association of University Women Cass City chapter last week. The idea of that happening, according to President Doty Scollon, led an older member to respond, "The first thing they'll have to worry about is changing the name."

"I'm sure it's coming," she said of the admittance of men to the organization, adding, "I couldn't see any reason why they couldn't join."

"I wouldn't be opposed to a man joining our group if he would be an active member," she continued, adding, "If he's joining just to see if he can get in, I can't see that as a terrific reason for joining."

She said she isn't pushing the idea of men joining the AAUW, she simply isn't opposed to it.

An unanswered question for both AAUW and Business and Professional Women is what happens to the college scholarships they offer each year if a boy applies? The two groups offer them to high school girls, and for the AAUW, also to adult women seeking to return to school.

BPW President Clara Gafney was unable to respond to the question whether men should be admitted to the BPW. "I don't know how to answer that," she said.

Zonta Club President Shirley Buschlen also didn't have a ready answer to the question, but did say, "I think it's strictly a women's organization."

One local club which could do what it wants is the Gavel Club, which is not part of a national organization.

A sign of the times department: Stopped for self service in a recent trip to the metro area. The new wrinkle there is that you pay for the gas before you pump it. To foil the thieves, the pumps won't operate till the customer walks in and plunks down a deposit. You can pump the full deposit or only part of it. Whatever you don't use is refunded.

Last week Mike Eliasohn recalled in his column how kids ruined the gut in his home town of Lansing. The term scribbled the kids who rolled up and down the main stem (Washington Avenue) back in the early '60s. Which proves nothing changes much. The kids have been down to do it now on Main Street in Cass City. Last week on short vacation to Las Vegas the big story of the day in the al paper was what to do about kids cruisin' down Las Vegas Boulevard, the main stem in Las Vegas.

Incidentally there've been many, many changes at Vegas the 2 years since the last visit. One is the booming gaming programs visible everywhere. The other is the sharp increase in prices. If you didn't know, Vegas used to be a place where wonderful entertainment was available at downright cut rate prices. more. Except for the package deals offered to get you there, Vegas prices are as high as any other.

Area thefts reported

Police find stolen car in Detroit

A car stolen in Kingston Wednesday, March 29, was recovered by police in Detroit the next day.

Terry L. Hogan of Marlette said his wife had parked the car behind his store, Zorn's IGA in Kingston, about 8:20 a.m. the 29th. A set of spare keys was in the glove compartment.

He first realized it was gone at 12:20 p.m. but thought someone had borrowed it. After doing some checking, he realized it was stolen and reported it to state police in Caro at 3:15 p.m.

Detroit police the next day recovered the car, which was being driven by a 15-year-old boy from Clinton (southwest of Ann Arbor). The boy was being held by the police youth bureau pending a probate court hearing.

Hogan was notified he could pick up his car, a 1977 Pontiac Grand Prix.

Cass City police arrested Gerald W. Heronemus, 37, of 6950 Pringle Road, Cass City, following a high speed chase about 2:30 a.m. March 29. He was charged with reckless driving and fleeing and eluding.

Officer Phil Klaus first observed the Heronemus auto headed east on Main Street at Oak without any lights on. Klaus started in pursuit, first turning on his blinker lights and then his siren.

After reaching reported speeds of 90 miles per hour on M-81, the officer finally stopped the car at M-53.

Sanilac county deputies had been notified and arrived on the scene a short time later.

Heronemus was taken to the Tuscola County Jail, where he posted bond and was released the next day.

He was arraigned Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who postponed further action in the case for one year due to Heronemus' clean driving record in the past.

At 1:25 a.m. Monday, village police arrested Michael

B. Walters, 26, of Inverness, Fla., on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor.

Taken to the county jail, as of Tuesday afternoon he was still there, having failed to post bond.

Two citizen band radio antennas were reported stolen to Cass City police March 29.

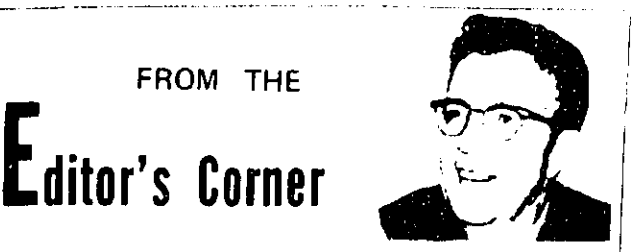

Both were taken the previous night, apparently by the same individual, police believe.

Reporting the antennas taken while their cars were parked by their houses were Edward Doerr of 6440 Huron Street and Maureen Krauth of 6644 Third Street.

Value of each antenna was about $23.

Deputies were called to Kingston High School Saturday morning by Principal Lee Robinson to investigate a break-in. Entry was gained by breaking out the glass in a door at the west entrance of the building.

Papers were found scattered in the receptionist's area, superintendent's secretary's office, and in the first aid room. All that was apparently missing was $6 from a filing cabinet by the secretary's desk.

I don't know whether or not the picture that appears at the head of this column can be called a caricature. It's been printed for many many years without change. More than a decade. It is actually a picture shot without "tones." It was done deliberately for effect.

It wasn't planned that way but it did erase the wrinkles and the grey hair and that ain't all bad.

The question that popped up the other day was is it time to change?

After all every so often pictures are updated. Sen. Al DeGrow did it just a couple of weeks ago.

Still, I am sort of attached to the present one. Granted it's not really a picture of the real me, but it is sort of a column trademark.

Rather than take such a drastic step without serious thought after all this time, I decided to experiment.

That's why these two photos appear in this column today.

that I change the name of this weekly opus. When I started writing it, I was the editor.

That's when the job called for real genius. Besides being the editor I was also the publisher, printer's devil and floor sweeper.

Now I'm no longer the editor. So the name really doesn't fit anymore.

The name and the picture are both relics of the past but it's hard to change either.

If the name changes what should the column be called? From the publisher's corner really doesn't get it, does it?

If a new picture is used which one should it be?

I'm open to suggestions. In fact they would be very welcome.

The first new name that arrives and is used will be worth a free subscription.

The best reason presented for switching pictures (or keeping the one now in use) will also earn a subscription. The prizes aren't great. But there is a bonus. I'll pass along here whatever remarks you care to make no matter how insulting.

Grandpas are softies

By Jim Fitzgerald

'SWOOOOOOSH! It flew over my left shoulder and then turned abruptly to the right, nicking my nose before dipping crazily into my lap. I was driving at the time, and the sudden attack nearly forced me to jerk my eastbound car into the west-bound freeway.

From the backseat there came two whoops, followed by gurgly giggling. "It certainly is nice to have the grandchildren visiting us," I said to my wife, who had crawled into the glove compartment.

We had been attacked by an escaped balloon from the International House of Pancakes.

I suspected there was going to be trouble when I first saw the inflated balloons tied to the cash register. I've never gotten along well with balloons.

Melissa is five years old and her sister Michele is eight. Naturally, they asked Grandpa to buy them balloons. That's what little grandchildren are supposed to ask their grandpas. It's a law, passed by Congress in 1953 in honor of Norman Rockwell.

"Grandpa can't afford it. He spent all his money on the movies and popcorn and Dr. Pepper and pancakes and hot fudge sundaes and nerve pills," I lied. I'm a firm believer in lying to children. The truth can only make them jump up and down and cry.

"The balloons are free," said the woman behind the cash register. "What do balloons have to do with pancakes?" I asked her. "I have never seen a balloon salesman giving away pancakes. Why do you have to give away balloons?"

She ignored me and handed limp balloons to Melissa and Michele. Children are never given inflated balloons. Children's balloons must be blown up by their parents or grandparents. This is another law, passed by Congress in 1949 in honor of Oscar Apoplexy.

I explained to the children that I was physically unable to blow up their balloons, due to a hernia suffered at a circus in 1955 while inflating a two-foot-long balloon for their mother who even then, at the age of five, was busy earning her subsequent nickname which starts with "T" and rhymes with the nicknames of her siblings, Nerd and Ferd.

Melissa and Michele assured me they could blow up their own balloons. Melissa didn't appear to be nearly big enough for the job, but I didn't want to question her ability for the second time that evening. I'd already bet she couldn't eat six pancakes, a scrambled egg, a hot fudge sundae and two of Grandpa's sausages in five minutes. But she did it. When Melissa grows up, she wants to be a steam shovel.

So Melissa undertook the inflation of her balloon, in the backseat, on the freeway, and got the job almost done. You know the rest. SWOOOOOOSH! Show me a motorist who retains his composure while an escaped balloon blows amok around his head, and I'll show you a motorist who is parked.

But we all survived, and Grandpa didn't do anything to embarrass Norman Rockwell. In fact, there were no reprisals at all, not even a harsh word. Melissa and Michele thought the near-accident was pretty funny, and somehow I couldn't tell them to stop laughing.

Twenty years ago, if their mother had pulled a similar stunt, I would have driven to the nearest orphanage and thrown her out of the car.

Obviously, I've become the cliché grandparent. When my own kids did it, it was a crime. When my grandkids do it, it's cute.

Time is the accepted reason for this flip-flop behavior. Grandparents usually spend little time with the children, so it's comfortable to ignore the crimes for a few hours and send them home spoiled. Parents spend much time with the children, and if the darlings are spoiled, the small soon becomes unbearable.

That's what Ann Landers and the other experts say, and there's truth in their explanation. But it's not enough.

The night of the balloon escape, I watched my granddaughters say their prayers before going to bed, and then I listened to them giggle when they should have been sleeping. Instead of telling them to shut up, I just sat and enjoyed the sound.

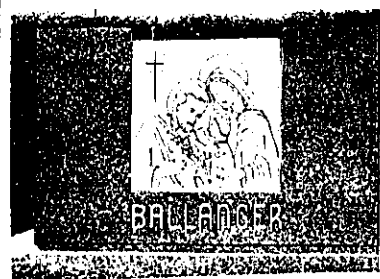

And I decided grandparents spoil grandchildren because grandparents are old enough to know something parents don't know. Grandparents know how fast children grow up, how swiftly the sweet times are gone, and how nice it would be to live them again.

Which is pretty mushy stuff for me to be writing, but I have to. It's a law, passed by Congress many years ago, in honor of love and balloons.

Three die in area house fire

Three persons died early Friday in a house fire in Silverwood. Five others managed to escape.

Killed were Clarence R. Hicks, 48, his wife, Ida Jane, 36, and their daughter, June, 3.

Four of the survivors were their children, the fifth, another woman living in the home.

The Clifford Fire Department, assisted by the Mayville department, extinguished the blaze that destroyed the two-story wood dwelling. The fire alarm was received at 6:18 a.m.

Clarence Hicks Jr., 10, told investigating Tuscola county officers that he, sister Mary Jane, 9, and brother, James, 7, were sleeping on the living room floor when their mother awakened them because of the fire and told them to get out of the house, which they did.

Clarence Jr. said he saw a pan of grease on the stove that was on fire.

He said he assisted Mrs. Pearl McConnell, who is blind, who had made it from a bedroom to the door of the home. He then ran to a neighbor's house where the fire department was called.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, daughter June, and son Johnny, 5, slept in a bedroom where the bodies were found. The 5-year-old managed to escape.

Clarence Jr. told officers his mother went back into the bedroom after telling those in the living room to get out. She then reappeared with her husband, but they went back into the bedroom and weren't seen again.

Owner of the home was Clarence McConnell, who was in Florida. His son, Orval, also lived in the home, but had left at 5:30 a.m. to go to work. He later told officers he didn't see anything unusual when he left.

The house was located at Maple Grove and Marlette Roads.

Elementary registration dates set

Campbell Elementary School pre-kindergarten registration and visitation will take place Monday and Tuesday evening, April 10 and 11.

Rural parents and their child to be enrolled are asked to register Monday from 6:30-8 p.m. in the Campbell school gym. Town parents and their child to be enrolled are to register Tuesday starting at 6:30 p.m. The children will be visiting the kindergarten rooms at this time for special activities.

Deford Elementary parents and their child to be enrolled are to visit their school Tuesday, April 11, from 1-2:30 p.m.

Evergreen Elementary parents will register their children Tuesday from 2:30-3 p.m. Evergreen pre-school children will visit on another day.

Parents are to bring birth certificate and immunization record for their children to these meetings. Children who are eligible for enrollment must be five years old on or before Dec. 1, 1978.

The state also requires a pre-school vision test. A free vision and hearing clinic day for all pre-schoolers will be scheduled at each school to meet this requirement. Deford children will be screened May 17 and Campbell Elementary children will be screened May 15 and 17. Parents who do not attend the clinic days will have to make appointments with their own doctors.

Parents who cannot come on the above dates to register their children should call the school for an appointment.

The graduates consisted of 31 adults and seven youngsters, who all had to successfully complete an examination Tuesday night before receiving their diplomas from Connolly and Bill Stender, 15th division vice-captain, Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The first class was Jan. 24, with each session, all Tuesday nights, running from 7-10.

Youngsters 12-16 who completed the course qualified for a boat operation license, required by state law for that age group in order to operate a boat with a motor.

CONTRIBUTORS - Richard Hunt and Harry Capps of Cass City received outstanding contribution awards Tuesday night from the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary for helping get the safe boating course started. Cass City Rotarians hosting Indian visitors

Cass City Rotary Club members will be playing host for a week starting this Thursday to five business and professional men from India and one from Sri Lanka (formerly Ceylon).

The visitors are taking part in a Rotary Foundation group study exchange program. One from the Kerala, India club serves as group leader and coordinator.

Other than the team leader, the rest are non-Rotarians. The group consists of a lawyer, engineer, process control manager, a manufacturer of plastic box straps, college lecturer, and a businessman.

They arrived in Michigan March 28 and will be here until May 4, spending each week based in a different community. The first hosted by the Rotary Club there. The first week they were in Frankenmuth. After their stay in Cass City, they will be going to Bay City, Alpena, and Midland.

In Cass City, they will be staying in the homes of Rotarians Bert Althaver, Dale Deering, Harry Capps, John Haire, Ken Jensen, and Gerald Prieskorn.

The visitors won't be confining their stay to Cass City. During the week, they will be traveling to Caro, Bad Axe, Harbor Beach, Sebawaing, Elkton, and Pigeon, where they will be hosted by members of the Rotary Clubs in those communities.

According to Rev. Capps, they will be visiting various businesses, government offices, and other highlights in the Thumb area.

The aim of the program in addition to promoting better international understanding, is to help the visitors better understand the economic, social, and cultural characteristics of the area, they are visiting.

In the past, the Cass City club has hosted similar groups from South Africa and Japan.

Next January, the Rotary district that Cass City is in will be sending a similar group to India. Persons going must be non-Rotarians, ages 25-35, outstanding in their field, and provide a cross-section of business and professional life. Persons interested in applying locally can contact Tom Proctor at Old Wood Drug.

PEDALING AROUND

Government as employer

By Mike Eliasohn

Alvin DeGrow, meet Jerry Wurf.

Opposites may attract, but in this particular instance, they apparently passed each other.

DeGrow is the state senator from the Thumb area and is considered rather conservative.

Wurf is president of the 750,000-member American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees.

The issue here is government as employer of the last resort. In other words, if private enterprise doesn't have enough jobs for those who want them, government should provide the jobs.

In general, conservatives argue that there should be less government spending, fewer government employees, and private enterprise should receive various incentives to put more people to work.

I can't say that DeGrow has ever advocated this position, but I found it interesting that he has been urging Congress to extend the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), which expires Sept. 30 unless Congress votes to extend it.

"The CETA program pays for more than 10 per cent of the jobs on our local, city, village, and township payrolls," he said in a recent press release. "If this program is not extended by Congress, our state would lose the federal funds that pay the salaries of nearly 49,000 municipal workers in Michigan."

"Termination of this program would not only result in the loss of jobs for thousands of people in our state, it would greatly hamper the ability of local units of government to provide the services needed by their residents. Services such as police, garbage collection, and parks and recreation are heavily dependent in many areas of our state on these federal CETA funds."

In contrast, Wurf in a recent speech criticized the Carter administration for emphasizing creation of temporary public-service government jobs to solve urban problems.

"Private-sector employment must be the linchpin of true urban recovery, and incentives for private investment are the key to a workable program of urban progress."

That doesn't mean Wurf is about to join ranks with the Chamber of Commerce. Without the tax revenues created by additional private-sector jobs, he feels, financially beleaguered cities will be hard-pressed to provide public-service jobs for his members (plus, I presume, pay increases).

CETA is a program which funds jobs and job-training. The interesting aspect to me is that it was designed in 1974 as a temporary program. The intent was that it would end once the economy improved and workers could get jobs in the private sector and/or government agencies and units employing CETA workers could add them to their regular payroll.

Instead, we have a situation where 10 per cent of local government employees in Michigan are CETA-funded, according to Sen. DeGrow. Four of the 16 village employees in Cass City are paid primarily with CETA funds (the village adds something on top of the $10,000 maximum per employee that CETA pays). Out of approximately 100 Tuscola county employees, 17 are paid with CETA funds.

Obviously, ending the CETA program would have disastrous consequences. Many CETA workers, if the program ended, would end up on welfare.

What's the answer? Here's where I put in my 2 cents.

Part of the problem why there aren't enough private-sector jobs -- which generate taxes -- is that wages are getting too high.

In the past, many unskilled workers could at least get a job pumping gas. But with the minimum wage $2.65 an hour, self-service gas stations, especially in big cities, are becoming the rule rather than the exception.

About 12 years ago when I was bagging groceries in Lansing, I was earning $1.35 an hour. I don't know what baggers in Lansing are making now, but in the Detroit area, I recently read, the average is $4.65 an hour.

I doubt if fellows sweeping floors in auto plants are making less than $5 an hour. (I'm probably conservative.)

It's impractical to advocate rolling back wages but there should be some means to stop continual inflationary increases.

Unfortunately, I don't think the problem of unemployment is completely solvable.

To quote former U.S. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz: "A Secretary of Labor spends his years in office trying futilely to fight unemployment by creating more jobs; and only later, freed of the inhibitions of office and politics' restraints, faces the truth that there are too few jobs because there are too many people."

Funds available: It's full speed ahead for Owen-Gage building

Construction of the Owen-Gage High School addition and gymnasium will apparently be done without any cost cutting from the original plans.

Foundations are now in and construction could resume as early as April 19, nearly a month earlier than previous forecasts, according to the project manager, Carl Trof.

The school board last Thursday awarded bids it opened March 23 and opened bids for the balance of construction.

The cost estimate was based on the amount of the bids awarded so far plus adding together the amounts of the low bids opened at the special meeting.

Trof, project manager for Construction Coordinators Inc. (CCI), said the total project cost appeared to be $1,834,181.

Including $1.675 million in bond money plus interest from deposit of that money, the district has a total of $1,773,770 available for the project. That subtracted from the bid totals leaves a deficit of $60,411.

Then Supt. Ronald Erickson got out his scissors and started trimming. First, he thought the bond deposits will probably gain some additional interest, a few thousand dollars.

He then began looking at some miscellaneous items included in the building proposal that have not yet been purchased. For instance, equipment for the arts and crafts room was budgeted at $10,000. He thought that could be cut in half. Furniture was budgeted at $30,000. That could be reduced to $10,000.

"Actually, we're not cutting a darn thing," he exclaimed.

If that isn't enough, there are other areas where cuts can be made. The low bid for painting was $24,000. It was thought that possibly that could be done by the district's regular maintenance personnel.

Paving of the parking area and driveway, the lone bid for which was $14,000, could be postponed, although Erickson was confident enough that the cuts could be made elsewhere so that wouldn't be necessary.

In addition, many of the bid categories contained various options, some in addition to the base bid, some as substitutions, so cost cutting could be done there, if necessary. However, the superintendent and board members present indicated they didn't want any changes made there as that would detract from the original building plans. Indications were that such cuts won't be necessary.

Bids were opened last Thursday in 32 separate categories, for which a total of 115 bids were received.

Trof said he and the architects, Wigen-Tinknell and Associates, would have at least some of the bids reviewed in time for them to make recommendations to the board for their being awarded at the regular monthly meeting April 10.

The board did award one bid opened at the special session, on the recommendation of the construction managers. Electrical work was awarded to the low bidder, Deering Electric of Bad Axe, for $135,450.

The other bids awarded, on the recommendation of CCI, were opened at the March 23 special meeting. They were:

Strescor, Inc. of South Bend, Ind., $15,240, for precast concrete.

Sanilac Steel, Inc., of Marquette, $39,750, for structural steel, miscellaneous iron, and steel erection.

Lee Iron Works of Saginaw, $27,309, for steel joists and metal decking.

Pioneer-Detroit Door Corp. of Inkster, $9,500, for hollow metal door framing. The amount is $245 over the original bid so that the contractor will speed delivery. Other than some minor masonry work, resumption of construction was dependent on delivery of the hollow metal.

United Glass Co. of Saginaw, $14,250, for aluminum entrance doors, frames and windows, glass and glazing. Ittner-Wiechmann Co. of Saginaw, $14,000, for finish hardware.

In some of the bids, the board reserved the right to reserve or deduct alternate up to one week after the architect's approval of shop drawings.

Certified seed means quality

Tuscola county farmers are finding themselves putting the finishing touches on machinery repair and getting ready for spring work.

One of the many management decisions is the selection of high quality seed. It is impossible to produce high yields of any crop unless you start with good seed. The best management decision for a farmer is selection of this high quality seed and one of the best insurance measures is certified seed.

Seed certification is a service designed to preserve the genetic purity high germination and superior performance through resistance to disease, insects and other hazards. Every seed is a tiny computer - programmed to sprout and grow and to possess certain characteristics. The seed is also programmed to respond in known ways to cope with disease, insects and unfavorable weather.

The Michigan certified seed program provides a system for bringing quality seed of outstanding field crop varieties to farmers and seedsmen. The producers of certified seeds are farmers who earn part or all of their income in producing and processing and selling quality certified seed.

Tuscola county is the leader of all counties in Michigan with the production of 7,163 acres of certified seed. Second is Lenawee with 4,163 acres, followed by Saginaw with 3,372 acres, and Huron with 3,083 acres.

We are fortunate to have this high quality seed at our doorstep and this year it will be important to order quality seed early since there is a shortage of many varieties. Certified seed means research, testing, production and processing. It takes a combination of all of these for production of high quality seed.

State should ban nuclear disposal

Should disposal of nuclear wastes be allowed in Michigan?

Both the State House of Representatives and Senate have approved measures that would bar depositing or storing radioactive waste in Michigan, though the two chambers must now agree on differing amendments contained in the bills each passed.

The action by the state legislature was in reaction to the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration considering a site near Alpena for underground storage of the wastes from nuclear power plants.

Ray Armstead agrees with the legislature's action. "I think it (nuclear waste disposal) should be barred all over because they have no way of controlling it," he commented.

For that reason, he favors not building any more nuclear power plants until a safe means can be found of disposing of the nuclear wastes. "They need them (nuclear power plants), but they have to find a sure means to control the wastes," he commented.

He feels more study is needed to find a safe means of disposing of the wastes already generated.

Armstead and his wife, Betty, have just moved to Cass City from Clarkston, near Pontiac, and are living on Seeger Street. He is a maintenance contractor, doing such work as installing siding and insulation.

Mrs. Armstead, whose maiden name is Shagena, is a native of Cass City. The couple has four children, none still at home.

Social Security report due

Time is getting short for those people getting Social Security checks who are required to file an annual report of their earnings for 1977.

The deadline for filing a report, when one is due, is April 17. Those missing the deadline may be subject to a penalty unless they receive a time extension.

People required to file an annual report are those who received one or more Social Security checks during 1977, did not reach age 72 before January, 1977, had total earnings of $3,000 or more in 1977, and did not have all benefits withheld that year.

If people in this group did not receive an annual report form in the mail, or if they lost the one they did receive, they can get another at the Saginaw Social Security office.

There are other people who, although not required to file an annual report, probably should do so. These people may be due benefits for 1977, but Social Security has no way of knowing unless a report is filed.

The first group who should file are those who had some benefits withheld during 1977 because they expected to earn more than $3,000 during that year but whose actual earnings were less than $3,000. No back benefits can be paid unless a report is filed.

The other group who should file a report are those who had all benefits withheld because of expected high earnings and either earned less than expected or who earned $250 or less and did not perform substantial services in one or more months.

niversary. The couple have two children, seven grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. They were married April 3, 1923.

HEALTH TIPS

Smoking harmful to non-smokers

Smokers have a right to pursue their habit. Non-smokers have a right to clean air. Sometimes these rights clash.

Confined places such as airplanes, meeting rooms, elevators and restaurants present special problems. Studies show that in smoke-filled rooms the level of carbon monoxide may be in excess of the legal limits for maximum air pollution.

The American Medical Association's pamphlet: "Smoking: Facts You Should Know", points out that a person doesn't have to be a smoker to suffer ill effects from cigarettes.

A nonsmoker in the company of a smoker breathes in smoke from the burning end of the cigarette as well as the exhaled smoke. Some individuals actually are allergic to tobacco smoke and may suffer smoke-caused asthma attacks.

If smoking is a personal right, it carries with it the responsibility of respecting the rights of the nonsmoker too. Nonsmokers who suffer from allergies of diverse causes and other nonsmokers find that tobacco smoke causes eye irritation, nasal symptoms, headache and coughing.

Inhaling second-hand smoke increases the heart rate, blood pressure and level of carbon monoxide in the blood. This is particularly dangerous for those with heart and respiratory conditions.

An added note: Smoking is unsafe in more ways than one. People are killed or injured every day as a result of fires caused by careless smokers. The safety hazards of smoking are enormous, affecting many innocent nonsmokers as well as smokers.

Few voters attend sessions

Road work discussions highlight annual meets

Zoning Board chairman Hazen Parker reported the zoning board will meet at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday, April 6, in the Owendale Community Building to consider possibly changing the ordinance regarding mobile homes.

Presently, mobile homes are only allowed in such instances as for a farmhand or son on the property of his employer or father respectively. Landowners cannot live in a mobile home themselves.

A proposed change would allow a landowner to live in a mobile home, provided there was a minimum lot size, such as 10 acres.

Fire Chief Jerry Stirrett reported on the two new fire trucks added to the department during the past year plus a stand-by generator at the Owendale community building.

Supervisor Walton Brown reported that work on five miles of Bach Road has been completed and after settling, can be paved in a future year.

One mile of Gagetown Road between Canboro and Sebawaing Roads and another mile between McAlpin and Bach will be graded and graveled this year if Grant township agrees to pay its share. The road forms the boundary between the two townships.

A delegation from the Owendale Women's Club asked the board to make some improvements at the township park. Clerk Edmund Good Jr. outlined procedures to establish a park commission. Fifty petition signatures are needed in order for the proposal to go on the ballot in August. If approved by voters, they would elect six members in November to a township park commission.

Salary of the supervisor was increased from $2,500 annually to $3,000; the clerk and treasurer, each from $1,400 up to $1,900, and trustees, $30 per meeting attended instead of the previous $20.

The 1978-79 budget projects both income (including carryover from last year) and expenditures of $105,000. The largest expenditure will be $80,000 for roads. Twenty-five people attended.

COLUMBIA

The supervisor, clerk, treasurer, and trustees were all given a six per cent pay increase.

The budget was increased $1,000 from last year, to a total of $70,000, of which $25,000 is budgeted for roads. Hoppe Road for one mile east of Colling Road and Colling Road for one mile north of Bay City-Forestville may be paved this year.

Ten people were in attendance.

ELLINGTON

Township officers were voted a 10 per cent pay increase. The new salaries are $2,200 for the supervisor plus $1,980 for assessing; treasurer, $2,530; clerk, $2,310, and trustees, $2,641.

Expenditures and revenue in the 1978-79 budget are both projected at $110,050, of which the biggest single expenditure will be $46,341 for roads. The amount spent on roads includes all $3,760 the township will receive in federal revenue sharing funds.

The cemetery fund budget is $2,562. Nine people attended.

ELMWOOD

The six electors plus township board members voted to have one constable in the township and then appointed Harry King of Gagetown to the position.

The budget as presented estimates income at $68,000 and expenditures of $56,100. Of that, $20,000 plus $5,500 in federal revenue sharing funds, will be spent for roads. Other expenses include $9,500 left to pay for the new township-village hall, plus $1,000 for its operation; $3,500 for the fire department, and $3,500 to Cass City to permit use of its landfill by township residents.

Salaries will stay the same. Possible road work in the township was discussed.

EVERGREEN

Township roads will probably be brined twice this year to keep down dust, instead of the one application done in past years. Decker Road from Deckerville to Downing Road is scheduled for paving this year, it was reported. At least three miles of other roads may be graveled.

Including the balance on hand at the end of the last fiscal year, revenue is projected at $45,000, with $36,000 in expenditures if brining is done twice. A total of $16,000 will be spent on roads.

Salaries of board members will remain the same. The new budget includes expenditure of up to $3,000 for a new roof and other repairs to the township hall. Fourteen people, including board members attended.

GRANT

Charlotte Cooley, Jeanne Hatlas, and Dalton Coe were appointed to study the township zoning and whether residents want it. No date was set for them to report to the township board.

Electors voted to put on the ballot, probably in August, extension of the three mills for three years for township roads. The previous measure, the same amount for three years, expired with the December tax bills.

The adopted budget shows projected revenue of $31,000, plus $45,000 left over from last year. Of the leftover funds, $40,000 is scheduled to be spent on roads. Other than that, expenses are listed at $31,500, of which some may also be spent on roads if the Huron County Road Commission can do the work this year.

The township board met with the Road Commission Tuesday, April 4, to discuss a road program for the year. Pay raises of $300 each were granted to the supervisor, who will now make $2,500 annually, treasurer, $2,300, and clerk, $1,800. Trustees' pay stays the same at $45 per day, with a meeting being considered a half-day.

A federal revenue sharing budget was adopted, with the total amount of about $3,100 being allocated for roads.

About 25 people attended.

GREENLEAF

Including federal revenue sharing, the 1978-79 budget income should total $51,300, with expenditures estimated at $37,030. Of that, $23,000 will be spent on roads and $5,000 for fire protection.

Salaries will remain the same. The Cass City summer recreation program will receive $100 and Rawson Memorial Library, $233.45, it was decided.

Discussed was possibly having grading and graveling done on the following roads this year: One mile of Seeger from M-53 to Hoadley, one mile of Bad Axe from Bay City-Forestville to Holbrook, and a half-mile of Spencer south of Cleland. Nine people attended.

KINGSTON

A 1978-79 budget was approved with expenditures of $75,709. The largest item is $32,604 for roads, followed by drains-at-large, $16,000. Salaries of township officials remain the same.

There were nine electors and three board members present.

LAMOTTE

Including $57,954 left at the end of the last fiscal year, the new budget lists $95,947 in revenues and the same amount in expenditures.

Green ends distinguished political career

Milliken was nominated by a narrow margin.

In January, 1965, the newly reelected George Romney appointed Green as acting auditor general, to work on transfer of some of the functions of that office to the treasury department as part of the reorganization mandated by the new state constitution, approved by voters in 1963. That November, the governor appointed Green as treasurer, a position he has held ever since. When Romney went to Washington in January, 1969 as a member of President Nixon's cabinet, the new governor, William Milliken, asked Green to stay on.

As treasurer, he is responsible for the state's finances. That includes collection of state taxes and administration of the various state pension funds plus deposits of state revenues on a short term basis. Pension fund investments and the short term notes add up to about $4 1/2 billion.

Green is the man in charge of paying the state's bills. Other treasury department duties include auditing county governmental units and reviewing audits done by certified public accountants of cities, villages, and townships, plus performing some special audits.

The department has about 1,600 employees, which will decline by at least 100 once work on state income tax returns is completed in June.

The responsibilities of the job, according to Mrs. Green, have often kept him awake nights making decisions.

The state treasurer told Gov. Milliken when the latter last run for governor in 1974 that he might not stay the whole term, as he would have been 67 when he ended.

In December, he told the governor he wanted to retire after the sale by the state of $200 million in notes and $51 million in bonds was completed. That has now been done, which led to the announcement Friday of his retirement.

He has recommended to Milliken that one of his two deputies be appointed as his replacement.

As for the future, Marjorie Green responded, "He's going to get a few jobs done that he started 40 years ago."

In addition to that, the couple's plans include traveling, gardening, and for Green, helping his sons if they plant some crops. The farm has 80 acres, some of which is used by a neighbor, plus 40 acres nearby only suitable for grazing.

In contrast to two years ago, when the state was spending more than it was taking in, Green said he leaves with the state in good financial condition, provided the economy stays good and the legislature continues to add to the new budget stabilization fund, now totaling $78 million.

"We have turned it around a great deal," he said of the last few years. "The trend is right. They're spending less than they take in, which is building some surpluses."

Fishing season warms up

The ice is out and all fishing opportunities are opening up, reports the East Michigan Tourist Association.

Steelhead are in the Ausable River, Whitney Drain, Thunder Bay River, Black River, and at Rogers City, Hammond Bay, and Cheboygan.

Lake trout season is on in Lake Huron from Au Gres, Tawas, Oscoda, Harrisville, Alpena, and Mackinaw City. Brown trout season is on at Tawas, Oscoda, Alpena, Hammond Bay, and Cheboygan.

Splake can be caught off the Thumb area. Spring perch and smelt runs begin about mid-April in Saginaw Bay and along the Lake Huron shore.

The special trout season started Saturday on specially designated lakes and streams throughout east Michigan. The regular trout season starts April 29.

Other species legal after April 29 are white bass, bluegills, crappie, rock bass, and sunfish. The season starts May 15 for walleye, northern pike, and muskellunge.

But maple syrup tastes the same

Plastic plumbing ousting old tin bucket

Mmmmm, good. Maple syrup gently flowing out of a little over a stack of panes. It creates an appetite just thinking about it. Making maple syrup also builds up an appetite, because there is a lot of work involved. But thanks to modern technology, the work is getting easier while the old-fashioned taste remains.

The innovation is hundreds of feet of plastic tubing, replacing the traditional tin buckets. "If it weren't for the tubing, I wouldn't be doing this," said Nancy Hoxie on a cold early morning afternoon recently. Sap starts flowing in the maple trees when daytime temperatures are above 40 degrees and below 32 degrees at night. Mrs. Hoxie and her family began gathering the sap about two weeks ago. Depending on the weather, the operation will last until about mid-April. Mrs. Hoxie, 35, is the only family member devoting full time to the business. Her husband, Ralph, is an instrumentation engineer for a Detroit firm and commutes home week ends.

Her sons from a previous marriage, Jim, 13, and Brian, 9, plus a neighbor youngster, Jeff Healy, help when not in school. The one hired helper is Floyd Moorish.

The Hoxies live on a 200-acre farm on Lamton Road, Lamotte township. They are renting the maple "bush" (the trade term for grove or woods) and equipment of Art Battel on Daus Road, northeast of Cass City.

The Battel family has been in the maple syrup business since the 1880s, when his grandfather settled there. He will receive half of the Hoxie production to sell. Mrs. Hoxie expects they will produce a total of about 200 gallons.

The Hoxies have been in the maple syrup business five years, starting when they were living on a small farm near Decatur in southwestern Michigan. They rented a grove about two miles away from their home.

Mrs. Hoxie learned the basics as a youngster when her parents, Lynn and Marian Spencer of Germania Road, Ubyly, made syrup. "Mom says I wasn't even hatched yet when they did it," she said.

The first five years have been a learning experience, both first-hand and from talking to other producers and experts at Michigan State University.

One thing she learned early was she didn't care for the time consuming task of emptying buckets each day. The Hoxies started using tubing after seeing it being used by another producer in southwestern Michigan.

They moved from Decatur to their Lamton Road farm in December. Since the plastic lines have to be cut to measure the fittings attached in advance, that didn't give them time to "pipe" the entire Battel bush.

As a result, they're using about 200 buckets this season plus 400-500 taps connected to plastic lines. Depending on the diameter of the tree -- 10 inches is the minimum -- there are from one to three taps per tree.

PRODUCTION

Where lines are used, there are usually 20 taps per line, with the line leading to a large container. With the old system, there would be 20 buckets to empty. Instead, a pump is used to pump out the containers into

Meetings are routine

Following the annual meetings Saturday, action at the regular meetings of the Novesta and Elmwood township boards Monday night was described as very routine, with the major item at both being approval of payment of bills.

a large tank on a tractor-towed trailer. As of last week, though, the pump wasn't working so the containers were being bailed out with buckets.

The collected sap is dumped into storage troughs outside the sugar house. From there, it's poured through a strainer to weed out foreign matter, such as leaves, into the holding tank inside.

From the holding tank, the sap flows into the wood heated evaporator (some burn oil). It takes 25-45 gallons of sap, depending on moisture content, to make one gallon of syrup and the Battel evaporator only produces about one gallon per hour, so it's a long slow process.

After being drawn from the evaporator through some filters, the next stop is the kitchen. Then it's poured through more filters to remove the remaining "sugar sand" and to clarify it.

Then the syrup is heated to 218 degrees and held there until the proper concentration of 11 pounds per gallon is reached. While still hot, the syrup is poured into sterilized bottles. The cap is put on with both inner and outer seals.

MERCHANDISING

The Hoxies' finished product is marketed mainly through a chain of southwestern Michigan supermarkets, the Horne's restaurant chain, and some independent restaurants.

Hoxie and his father, who works for the same engineering firm, deliver the maple syrup during their frequent business trips to the southwestern part of the state.

In stores, the Hoxies' syrup, which sells for up to $2.25 a pint, must compete with artificial maple syrups (mainly made from corn syrup, with maple flavoring added), which sells for less than $1 a pint.

"Unless you know where to market it and how to market it, it doesn't move," Mrs. Hoxie explained.

Instead of putting it on the same shelf with the artificial syrups, she and her husband like to see it displayed in the produce section.

A supermarket in Hartford tried that, she said, and sold 15 cases (24 pints to a case) in one season.

The Hoxies receive $13-15 per gallon wholesale for their product, about enough to break even financially.

The state average is a profit of about 5 cents a gallon. A profit for the Hoxies depends on getting better equipment and improving their production process.

Their eventual aim is to utilize a new commercial pump called the "Sapsucker." Plastic lines in the entire bush run to the pump which pumps the sap direct from the trees to the evaporator.

The Hoxies raise hogs, beef cows, and sheep. Mrs. Hoxie has a college degree in animal husbandry; her husband in agricultural engineering.

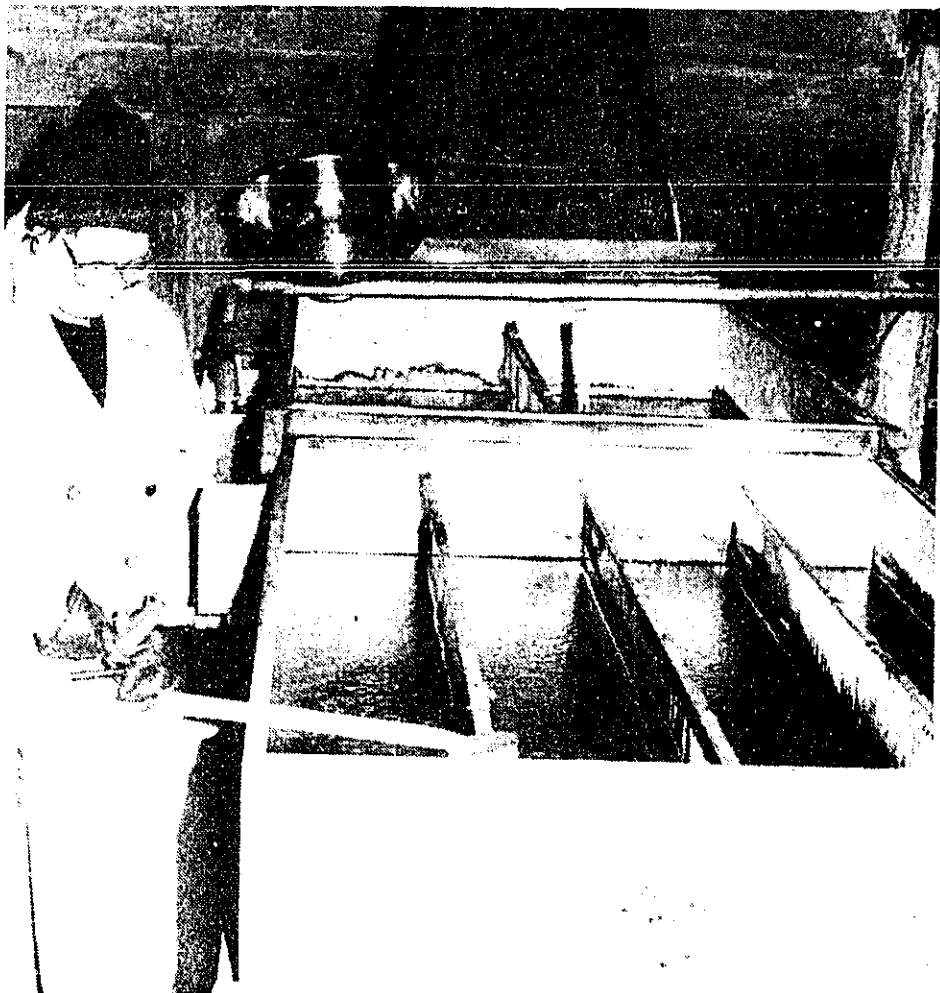

She looks on the maple syrup business as an activity during what otherwise would be the slow season for farming. "This is a way to utilize your time and brains and to keep yourself busy," she explained.

OLD WAY -- Brothers Jim (left) and Brian Hoxie pour sap from the buckets hanging from the trees into a larger container for hauling to the sugar house. Jim is 13, Brian, 9.

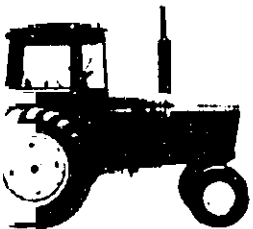

GRAVITY TESTING -- Mrs. Hoxie uses a hydrometer to test the gravity, that is, the thickness, of the syrup as it nears its end of time in the evaporator. Her husband, Ralph, looks on.

EVAPORATOR -- The evaporator wasn't running when this photo was taken. Firewood goes through the doors in the front. The sap comes from the holding tank through the pipe in the rear to the flue pan and then to the finishing pan, slowly flowing around the dividers and then is drawn off, as demonstrated by Mrs. Hoxie. Heat from the fire goes underneath the pans and then up the chimney in the rear.

NEW WAY -- Nancy Hoxie points to the plastic tubing running directly from the tree taps to the large collection container. About 20 taps run to each container, which can be pumped out mechanically into a trailer-mounted tank for rapid collection.

Three-car crash sends 3 to hospital

A three-car accident at 3:10 a.m. Saturday sent three persons to the hospital and two others seeking their own treatment.

Reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Bay Medical Center in Bay City was one of the drivers, John McGuire, 50, of Bay City. He was taken there from Caro Community Hospital. Two passengers, his wife, Sarah, 49, and Catherine Campbell, 73, of Toronto, were treated and released from the Caro hospital. The third passenger, Mrs. Campbell's husband, Archibald, 76, was unhurt.

The other two drivers involved sought their own treatment.

Caro state police reported that Richard K. Martin, 20, of 5908 Bruce Street, Deford, was eastbound on M-46 and started to turn left onto Chambers Road. As he was doing so, his car was struck by the westbound auto driven by McGuire.

The impact sent Martin's auto into the car of Margaretta F. Wilson, 38, of Vassar, southbound on Chambers, who was halted at the stop sign at M-46. Martin was ticketed by officers on charges of improper turning.

George E. Russell, 26, of 5789 Decker Road, Decker, was treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital after an accident at 9:45 p.m. last Thursday.

Cass City police reported he was exiting the drive from the Charmont onto westbound M-81, missed the turn, and his car struck the guard rail on the north side of the road.

GOODYEAR

test in Chicago.

A senior, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Loeffler of 6824 McElowny Road.

Other team members were Randy Judd, Cornuna, and Loretta Brenner, Twin Lake. All three are students in the MSU crop and soil sciences department.

They placed second in team crop identification and second in team grain grading competition.

Teams were from MSU, University of Minnesota at St. Paul, University of Minnesota at Crookston, University of Wisconsin at Platteville, Purdue, Ohio State University, Oregon State University, West Texas State University, Montana State University, and South Dakota State University.

Judd was second high individual out of 29 competitors in the grain judging event and was second high point gainer in total crops judging divisions.

This is the first time in recent years MSU has entered this competition. Coaches were Dr. Larry Copeland, MSU crop specialist, and Don Miles of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association (MCIA).

Copeland said that team members must be well acquainted with all aspects of grain grading, seed analysis, plant and seed (crops and weeds) identification. The students are required to know more than 200 species of plants and their seeds.

"This type of activity increases the student's ability not only in current studies but in the field after graduation," Copeland explained. The Chicago competition, as does the Kansas City National Collegiate Grain Judging Contest, which MSU entered, gave the students insight to the commercial aspects of grain marketing and handling, he said.

At each of the contest sites, the students were given tours of key grain marketing facilities and taken on educational trips. They had an opportunity to observe grain marketing activity at both the Kansas City and Chicago Boards of Trade, which served as their hosts.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Sheriff's deputies reported a two-car accident at 12:30 p.m. Friday on Elmwood Road, west of Crawford Road.

They said David E. Matthews of 4630 Hadley Road, Decker, was eastbound and Timothy A. Severance of 6331 Severance Road, Decker, was westbound. Their two vehicles sideswiped each other when they crested a hill. The Severance vehicle then struck a mailbox.

Larry L. Bennett, 28, of Linden, and John J. Doerr, 18, of Huron Line Road, Cass City, were both northbound on M-24, north of Riley Road, at 12:50 a.m. Sunday when their cars collided.

Deputies said Doerr was passing the Bennett auto as the latter driver started to turn left into a private drive and turned into the right side of Doerr's car.

Monday morning, deputies said, Edward D. Becker, 23, of Birmingham, headed northeast on M-81 at Colwood Road, slid off the north side of the road. The pavement was icy at the time due to a freezing rain.

March 29, Cass City police reported Helen M. Peters, 50, of Rt. 3 Robinson Road, backed into the open door of a parked car in the Walbro Corp. parking lot on Garfield Street. Owner of the parked car was Gayle Peters, no available address, who was changing a flat tire.

At 2:10 a.m. Sunday, according to village police, Ronald T. Sieradzki, 19, of 350 N. Crawford Road, Deford, backed into a parked car while backing into the Deer on highways more likely

The Department of Natural Resources is urging motorists to be alert for deer crossing highways as warmer spring weather brings increased activity in the state's deer population.

"Deer have been concentrated in heavy cover longer than usual this winter because of deep snow," says Dave Arnold DNR wildlife executive. "Now with the spring thaw, deer will be on the move more than in the past few months."

Letter to the Editor

Youth program head responds

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to the news article published in your March 30 edition relating to the Youth Employment and Training program being operated by the Human Development Commission under contract with the Thumb Area Consortium.

The article pointed out that the placement rate of youths into jobs has been slower than expected. While the Human Development Commission agrees with this statement, our progress has been slowed considerably due to non-participation of four school districts in the Thumb area.

As of the date of publication of the article, the Caro, Bad Axe, Vassar, and Reese districts have not agreed to participate. (Caro Community Schools and Vassar Schools have refused to sign a required proposed agreement, thus the Human Development Commission cannot implement the program involving students in these school districts.) However, the Human Development Commission has received approximately 80 referrals from these four districts, 60 of which are from the Caro district. As a result, while these 80 students may need a job, they cannot be placed in the program. The signing of an agreement with each school district is required by contract with the Consortium.

At the end of March, 24 youths have been placed in jobs, five of which are placed in the private business sector in an on-the-job training type of experience.

Sincerely,

Judith A. Murphy

Probation granted to Akron man

Bryan S. Huizar was placed on three years' probation Monday by Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley

Gunshot wound accidental

Gordon A. Watson of E. Mayville Road, Silverwood, was treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital Saturday night after accidentally shooting himself while cleaning his .22 caliber rifle.

Watson was cleaning the weapon at the home of his father, Arley Watson, 4366 Hoppe Road, Galetown.

The victim told sheriff's deputies there was no bullet clip in the rifle, so the shell that discharged had been left in the chamber. He said the butt was on the floor and he was leaning over the weapon while wiping around the trigger area.

The bullet entered in the left chest area and exited under Watson's left arm. He declined to be kept at the hospital overnight for observation and went home. The incident took place about 10 p.m.

for attempted receiving of stolen property.

Huizar, 18, of 4195 Elmwood Road, Akron, pleaded guilty to the charge March 6 in connection with the Jan. 12 theft of two snow tires valued at more than $100 from an Akron service station.

He was also sentenced to six months in the county jail, credited with one day served, fined $200, and assessed $200 court costs.

Craig A. Reinert, 19, of 4785 W. Main Street, Millington, was placed on two years' probation for attempted larceny in a building.

He was also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, credited with five days served, fined $200, assessed $200 court costs, and ordered to pay $217 restitution.

He pleaded guilty to the charge March 6 in connection with the theft of $217 from Walt's Bar in Millington Jan. 18.

Judge Baguley found Charles M. Hitchcock, 36, of Otisville, to have violated his probation.

88 attend evangelism banquet

Good Shepherd Lutheran church hosted an Evangelism Banquet, held at the Charmont, April 1. Eighty-eight attended the event.

The Rev. Paul Faust of Ann Arbor was the speaker. He is Executive Director of Stewardship and Evangelism for the Michigan District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Entertainment was by the Ongoing Ambassadors for Christ. Their director is Rev. Stephen Biegel of Grace Lutheran church in Fairgrove. The Ambassadors consist of teenagers from the Thumb and Saginaw areas who make evangelism calls in a particular community one week end each month.

Missionary speaks at BMS meet

Mrs. Tim Teall was hostess Monday evening for the monthly meeting of the Baptist Missionary Society held at the parsonage. Twenty-nine women attended.

Mrs. Richard Shaw, president, announced that the May meeting will start with a birthday supper at the church.

Mrs. Wayne Barber, a missionary home on furlough from Brazil, was the guest speaker. Mrs. Barber is continuing her education at Grand Rapids Bible College. Her daughter, who is a student at the same college, accompanied her to the meeting. Mrs. Barber was presented with an assortment of homemade gifts.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Myrtle McColl, Mrs. Vera Bearss and Mrs. Teall.

Loose dogs kill deer

The Department of Natural Resources is asking dog owners to keep their dogs tied up. Reports of dog-killed deer have come in to the DNR from throughout the state during this year's severe winter.

Deer become easy victims of dog packs when a crusty layer forms on top of deep snow. With their sharp hooves, deer sink into the snow while dogs can run on top of it.

"Even if the dogs don't catch the deer, it can die of exposure because the running weakens it," said Joe Vogt, DNR deer specialist. Most dogs will chase deer if given the opportunity to run loose, according to Vogt.

"It is unlawful to let your dog run at large according to the Dog Law Act, Public Act 339 of 1919 as amended," added Bruce Andrews of the DNR's Law Enforcement Division. "The Act provides for penalties if a dog is allowed to run at large, even if the dog is licensed."

Hitchcock was placed on three years' probation in August, 1976, after his conviction for attempted false pretenses with intent to defraud.

The probation violation was for his failure to report to his probation officer in February and March and failure to pay his court ordered obligations in January and March although he was working.

Legion hall sale funds donated

Proceeds from the sale of the American Legion Tri-County Post 507 hall in Cass City have been donated to two organizations.

Members donated $1,500 to the American Legion Auxiliary in Cass City and $500 to the Cass City Lions for use in club projects.

The covered basement hall on W. Main Street, built in the late 1940s, was last used in 1975. Due to the poor condition of the structure, the village council last summer ordered the Legion to repair it or tear it down.

The organization advertised for bids and earlier this year sold it for $3,680.

The new owner, who didn't want to be identified, told the Chronicle his plans for the structure are still indefinite.

Post Commander Casimir Bartnik said members are still deciding what will be done with the rest of the funds from the sale.

He also said the post, which has about 20 members, isn't disbanding. The post, organized in 1946, once had more than 100 members.

Incumbents reelected at co-op

Incumbents defeated challengers for positions on the board of directors at the March 28 annual meeting of the Thumb Electric Co-op, held at Ubly High School.

Elmer Rayl of Akron defeated challenger George Ellesin of Cass City, 221-82. Clarence Murray of Ubly defeated Clame Richard Goniwicha of Harbor Beach, 235-80. Goniwicha attempted to stir interest in the meeting by sending letters to area newspapers prior to the meeting criticizing some co-op practices. The third incumbent reelected, Allen Shaw of Marlette, defeated Merlin Smith of Snover, 218-81.

Roger Vollmar of Caro was elected to fill a one-year vacancy created by the resignation of Al Goslin of Unionville and Louis Wenzlaff of Kingston was elected to a two-year term created by the resignation of Paul Vollmar of Caro.

The incumbent officers were all reelected: President, Walter Cook of Harbor Beach; vice-president, Allen Shaw; treasurer, Michael Lasceski of Filion, and secretary, Elmer Rayl.

Defeated by the members, 201-124, was a resolution that would have increased pay for directors from $25 per meeting to $50.

Approved 213-100 was an amendment to the bylaws that will allow the annual meeting to be held in any of the three upper Thumb counties, instead of solely at Ubly.

The treasurer's report showed cash receipts for 1977 totaled $5,464,569. Expenditures were $4,961,946. The co-op showed a margin for the year of $132,369.

Co-op Manager John Kutter explained the fuel and power adjustment factor that started appearing on electric bills in September.

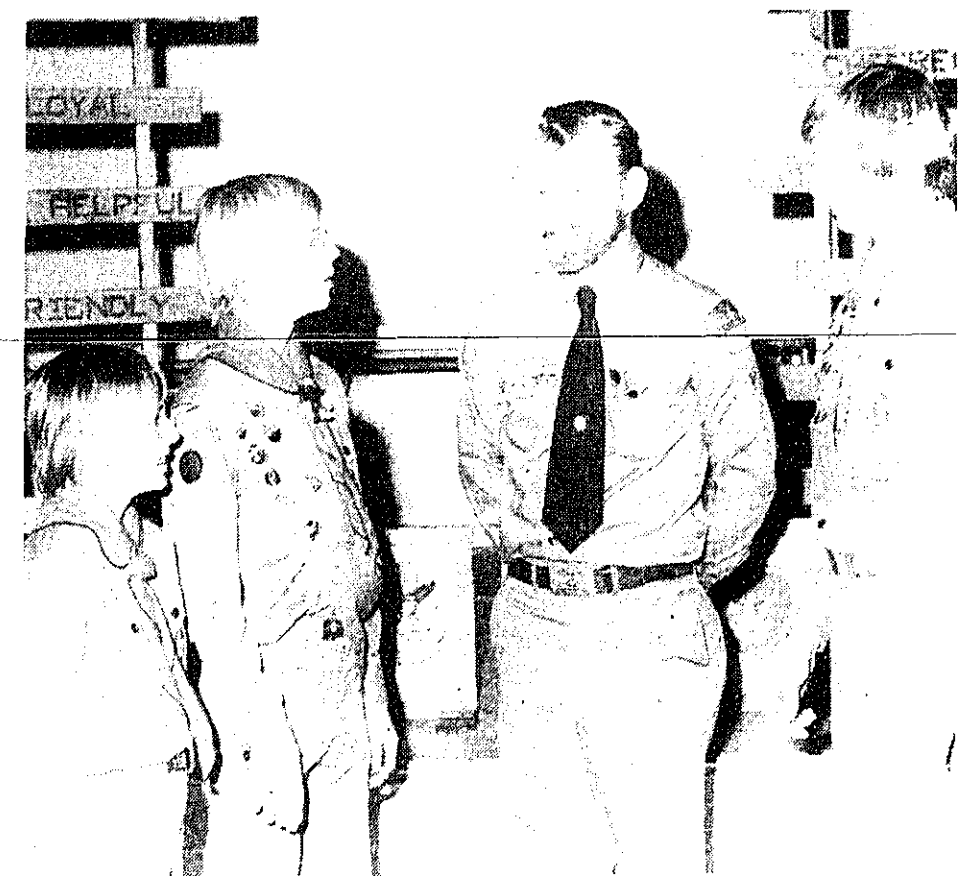

The factor, approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission last June, is a positive or negative rate adjustment added to monthly bills to account for increased or decreased fuel and purchased power costs.

Grass fire extinguished

Elkland township firemen extinguished their first grass fire of the season about 12:45 p.m. last Thursday, along Cemetery Road about 2½ miles south of Cass City.

The fire, cause undetermined, only took a few minutes to extinguish. The fire siren went off at about 3:30 and 6:45 p.m.

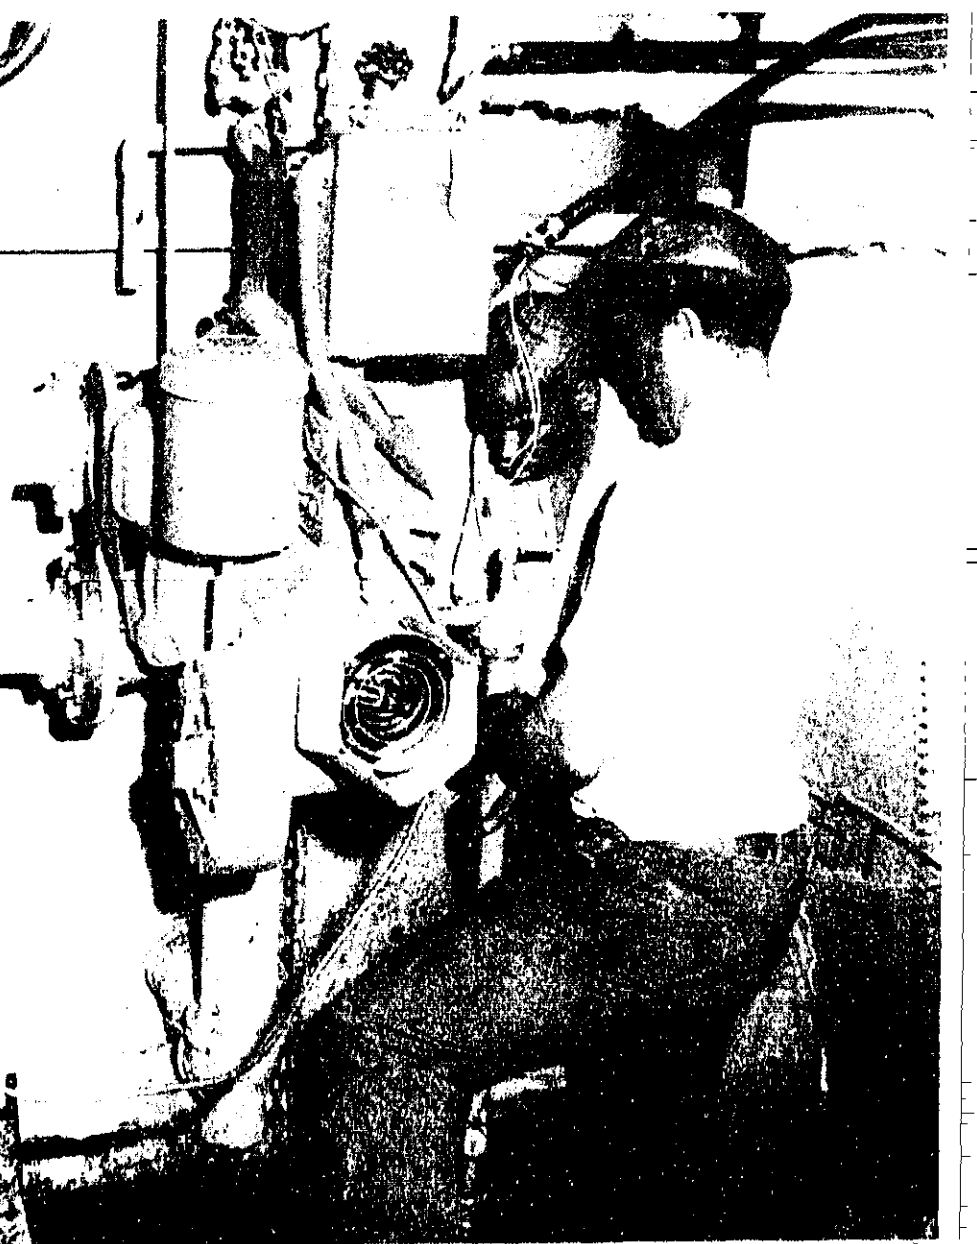

Tuesday but there were no fires. Why the siren, which is turned on by radio signal from the sheriff's department in Caro, went off was undetermined.

ALL IN THE FAMILY — Scouting is a family affair for the William Healy family. Healy is the new scoutmaster of Troop 594, Cass City, and his sons are members. From left are Jeff, 11, Robert, 14, Healy, and John, 16. Healy takes over for Jim Baker, who is becoming Scout assistant district commissioner, but will also serve as Troop 594 assistant scoutmaster, Healy's former position.

NEW EAGLE SCOUT — Jim Baker II, 13, last Thursday became the 23rd Scout in the history of Troop 594, Cass City, to become an Eagle Scout. With him, from left, are Harbor Beach Scoutmaster Hugh Clark, who performed the ceremony, his mother, and father, Jim Baker, who became an Eagle Scout in 1946. The new Eagle had to earn at least 24 merit badges—he has 26—plus participate in a public service project to obtain the honor.

HARD WORK — Removing the 30-year old valves and installing new ones on the two village water softeners was no easy job. It took C.L. Robinson (in foreground) and helpers Eddie Sanders, seen here, and Don Kemp, all from Detroit, about nine hours last Thursday to replace the first one and about 17 hours Friday and Saturday for the second one. The valve is the entire slightly darker mechanism to the left of the two men. The old valves were leaking an estimated 25,000 gallons of water a day. Rust made their removal difficult. Replacing them plus installing new filter material in the two softeners is costing Cass City about $25,000.
