

Two hearings set

Council oks industrial development district

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday night conducted one public hearing and scheduled two more. No one from the public spoke at the hearing Tuesday, which concerned establishment of 37 acres in the northwest corner of the village as an industrial development district. Thirty-two acres are owned by the Cass City Development Corp., which requested the special designation. Roger Marshall (Marshall Distributing), William Bliss (Bliss Milk-uling) and Cable TV Co. own a total of five acres, all of which was purchased in the development corporation. Establishment of the industrial development district allows industries located there to receive a property tax break, which gives the development corporation a selling point in trying to convince industry to locate or expand here. In response to a question from Councilman Nat Tuttle, Village President Larry Althaver said an industry already in the village might relocate in the industrial park probably wouldn't be eligible for a tax break unless it can show its new plant will result in increased employment. Establishment of the district was approved 4-0, with trustees D.E. Rawson and James Ware absent. Any firm seeking to locate there must now apply for and be issued an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate, granting of which is up to the council, though subject to review by state agencies. If a new building is constructed, once the certificate is granted, the firm will pay 50 percent of the property tax it would otherwise pay for 12 years. The July 25 meeting was set for a public hearing on the request by developer Tom Herron for rezoning of four parcels he purchased from Provincial House, now zoned for special uses, which are part of his Northwood Village and Northwood Estates subdivisions. For the two large parcels west and north of Provincial House, he originally requested they both be zoned multi-family to allow construction of apartments. At a village Planning Commission meeting earlier this month, some Hospital

Drive residents objected to the lot west of Provincial House being zoned for apartments. As a compromise, the Planning Commission recommended to the council that the lot be zoned for single-family residential, as well as two small parcels adjoining the parcel on the north side of Provincial House. The north-side parcel is still being recommended for use for apartments. The August 29 meeting was scheduled for a public hearing on a request by all adjoining property owners to abandon the alley on the north side of Main Street running east for a half-block from Sherman Street along the edge of the post office parking lot. Legally, the alley is still in existence for the length of the entire block. Council members explained that the facility could be zoned for general business or for light industrial, but not both, and there were more potential uses allowed under the general business classification. If, however, someone wants to buy the building for light industrial use, Schweikart was told, he can always then request the rezoning. The council accepted the request of Enick Rutkoski for annexation of his property at the southwest corner of Seventh and Seeger Streets to the village. The request must now be approved by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners. The village engineers, Hubbel, Roth and Clark, will present the now completed preliminary plans for expansion and improvement of the village sewage treatment facilities at the July council meeting. It was reported that Police Chief Gene Wilson has received an Associate in Applied Science degree in law enforcement from Eastern College.

"As a bowling alley at the present time, it has no value," he explained. The property has been listed for sale for a year as a bowling alley or for general business, he said, but he has yet to receive an offer. Addition of the light industrial zoning, Schweikart felt, would increase the potential for sale of his building, possibly for use as a small industrial shop. Council members explained that the facility could be zoned for general business or for light industrial, but not both, and there were more potential uses allowed under the general business classification. If, however, someone wants to buy the building for light industrial use, Schweikart was told, he can always then request the rezoning. The council accepted the request of Enick Rutkoski for annexation of his property at the southwest corner of Seventh and Seeger Streets to the village. The request must now be approved by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners. The village engineers, Hubbel, Roth and Clark, will present the now completed preliminary plans for expansion and improvement of the village sewage treatment facilities at the July council meeting. It was reported that Police Chief Gene Wilson has received an Associate in Applied Science degree in law enforcement from Eastern College.

OTHER BUSINESS

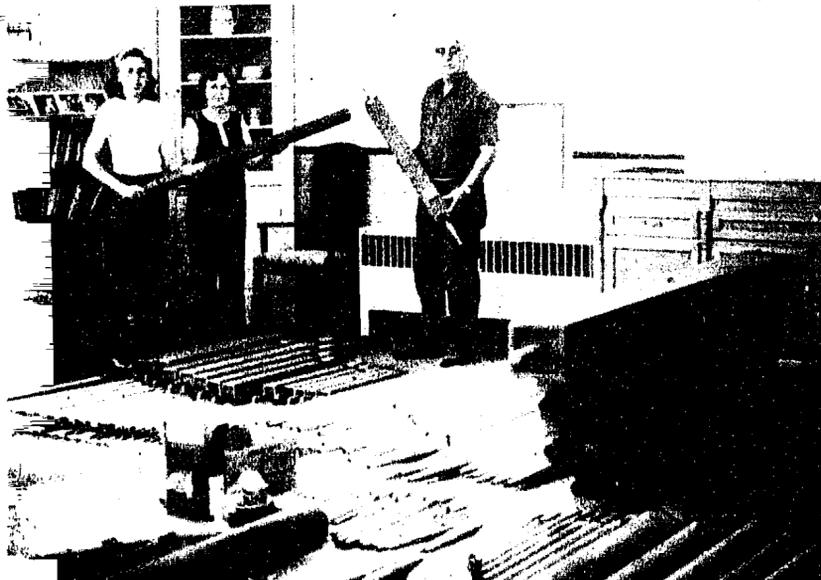

On the advice of the planning commission, the council rejected the request of Ray Schweikart, owner of Cass City Lanes on Weaver Street, for an additional zoning of light industrial. It presently is zoned for general business.

Owners compete for race track

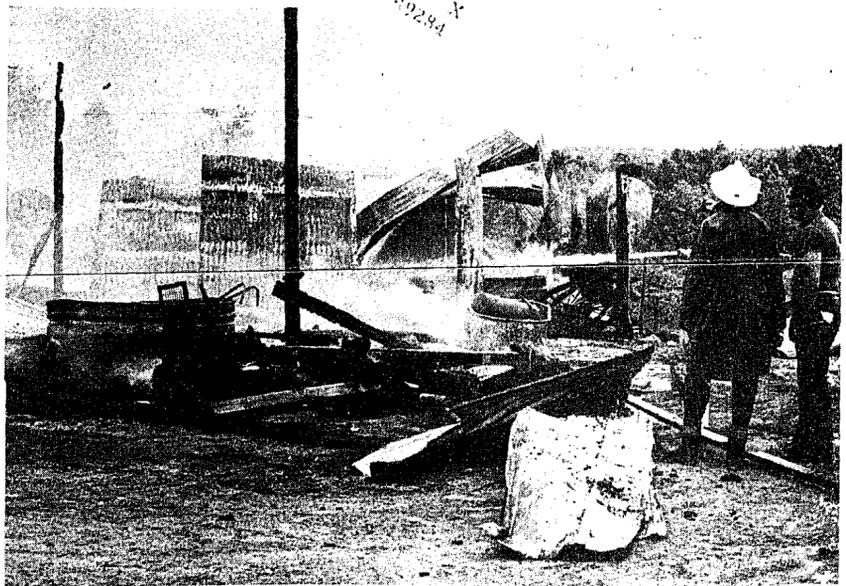

The biggest competition at Owendale Speedway this season hasn't been between drivers but between those who claim they own it. Another hearing in the dispute is scheduled for 9:30 p.m. Friday in the Huron County courtroom of Circuit Judge Allen E. Keyes. The latest twist came last Friday when the track opened under its former owner, Wayne Dubs. Dubs last August agreed to sell the track to the Cass and Co., which also owns Thunder Road Speedway M-53, north of M-81. He had owned the track four years. David Duncan, who with his wife, Florence, operates Thunder Road, is a partner in Cass Land Co. According to Dubs, Cass had made a down payment on his track but the Duncans wouldn't sign a contract to finalize the sale. In return, the company filed suit in Huron County Circuit Court, seeking to force Dubs to proceed with the sale. The Duncans opened the Owendale track this spring under the name Huron County Speedway, with races on Friday nights. The first races were May 12 and continued until a couple of weeks ago. Thunder Road Speedway maintained its Saturday night schedule. Under the different owners, the two tracks both ran Saturday nights, thus competing for the same customers. Dubs said he decided to sell his track to the Duncans because there aren't enough fans in the area to support two tracks. "I'd figured I'd get some money for it," he commented. According to Dubs' attorney, Karl Kraus of Bad Axe, his client was unable to present a contract to finalize the sale that was satisfactory to the Duncans. The last proposed contract was presented June 9, which he claimed was in accordance with the original sales agreement, but the Duncans wouldn't sign it. Last Thursday in a hearing before Judge Keyes, according to the attorney, the judge said he would sign a judgment dismissing the suit by Cass Land Co. against Dubs. He gave the Duncans until noon Friday to vacate the Owendale track. The Duncans' attorney, John P. O'Gurek of Farmington, has now petitioned

Judge Keyes to set aside his judgment of last week, to schedule a trial to hear the suit, and for the judge to disqualify himself, plus an objection to entry of the judgment. The hearing on his motions will be this Friday. O'Gurek was reluctant to discuss the case prior to the hearing, as were the Duncans, but did indicate his arguments will be based on what he feels were legal inconsistencies by the judge. Kraus said Tuesday the judgment he prepared dismissing the case was in the county clerk's office awaiting Judge Keyes' signature. He said at the Friday hearing he will also seek an order from the judge for the return of Dubs' public address, concession stand and timing equipment, which is at the Thunder Road track. Despite last-minute publicity consisting of hand lettered signs, Dubs said he had 30 cars and 300-350 spectators for the races Saturday night, compared to an average of 50 cars and 600 spectators in the past. If another potential buyer of the track came along, he commented, "I kind of doubt if I'd sell it now."

BARN FIRE -- Albert Palazzola (right) surveys the remains of his barn with Assistant Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. The fire started about 11:30 a.m. Monday and took firemen three hours to extinguish.

Germania Road blaze destroys barn, livestock

Fire of unknown origin Monday destroyed a barn containing some livestock. Owners of the one-story sheet metal covered structure were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Palazzola. It was located on their farm on Germania Road, a short distance south of Argyle Road. Elkland township firemen were at the scene for three hours extinguishing the blaze, smoke from which could be seen from M-53, four miles away. They were unable to get there in time to save the building. The Lamotte township and Uby fire departments each brought a tanker to the fire. Palazzola and a young son were the only ones home at the time the fire started, about 11:30 a.m. He told the Chronicle he had just gone in his house and removed his shoes when he looked outside the window and saw the building burning. He ran outside in his stocking feet and with a neighbor, began chasing sows out of the building and removing baby pigs from their pens. Not all of the sows could be removed before the smoke became too intense and some of the sows ran back inside to be with their offspring. He estimated 10 baby pigs, one sow, plus 20 turkeys and 20 chickens and possibly some kittens died in the blaze. Also destroyed in the fire were some feed, equipment and tools. Part of the structure was standing when Palazzola and his family moved to the farm eight years ago, but one addition was added three years ago and another, two years ago. It recently had been rewired. No heat lamps were in use when the fire started. The farmer had no idea what started the fire or his financial loss. The barn was insured but he doubted that the insurance would cover the entire loss. + + + + + Elkland township firemen were called late Saturday morning to a reported fire on Cass City Road near M-53. The fire was someone burning brush.

Church preserving unique 113-year-old organ sound

When the restoration of the 113-year-old Tracker organ is completed late this summer the community will be invited to a concert. When it is held, members of the First Presbyterian church and a host of visitors will expect to hear golden tones pouring from the gold colored pipes in the front of the organ. If that's what they expect they will be disappointed. The music will be great, make no mistake about that. But it won't be coming from the pipes that the congregation and guests will see. Proving that all that glitters is not gold, the pipes in front are mere ornaments and have nothing to do with the operation of the organ. That interesting bit of trivia was learned during an interview with visiting expert, Ms. Dana Hull of Ann Arbor. Ms. Hull was contracted to restore the organ to its original majestic grandeur. Not that it was in such poor condition before restoration started, Ms. Hull explained, it was in surprising good condition considering its age. But after 113 years the dirt and dust does collect. The leathers in the bellows do wear away. The pipes do get bent and the collars broken. There's more to the Tracker than meets the eye. Much more. To start with there are 500 pipes that work tucked away behind the fake pipes that everyone sees. And they all fit in a special slot, in a special way. The pipes vary from giants, 8-foot long and six inches in diameter to little midgets barely six inches long with the circumference of a lead pencil. These pipes are metal and wood. And the larger the pipe the deeper the sound. It took a week to carefully tear down the organ and the visiting expert anticipates about two weeks to put it back together again after parts are repaired.

She doesn't appear concerned about it either. To a rank amateur it looks almost impossible. The pipes are arranged in sets by size and one appears indistinguishable to another... like so many peas in a pod. Each of the 500 were labeled when removed and that should help when it comes time to pick up the pieces and put them together again. Actually, finding the right slots is the easy part. Putting the organ in tune again is the hard part. Ms. Hull said that she will start with one set of pipes and an electric tuner. The pipes are tuned by moving a collar up and down on the pipe to regulate the air going through. The longer the pipe the deeper the note. And, naturally, the shorter the pipe the higher the note. Ms. Hull gravitated to her work naturally. She's a member of the Organ Historical Society and has turned this interest into a business. She's done a dozen partial restorations previously. This is her first complete restoration. Aside from her commercial interest in the work, Ms. Hull feels that the restoration is well worth the estimated minimum of $3,500 that it will cost. Evidently church members do also as the bill will be paid by volunteer donations. There's a number of reasons for the excitement about the project. First and foremost is that the organ has a lovely, unique sound. No organ of this type is exactly like another. When it's working again there will be a noticeable difference in quality and ease of operation. That's to be expected because the dirt of 113 years have encrusted the parts. It's the first repair of the venerable machine since it was built. The Tracker is also a valuable antique. Anything over 100 years has considerable value as an antique, Ms. Hull said. Prior to last week, folks in the know suspected that it was over 100 years old. Now they know. The age of the organ can be pinpointed because one of the pipes had the date of installation stamped on it. Another unusual feature of the organ is that much of the wood used for some of the pipes is black walnut. Walnut, of course, is an extremely expensive, scarce wood today. When the work is finished, the congregation will be able to hear the instrument played exactly as it did 113 years ago. The hand pump for the bellows will be replaced and the organ will operate by hand or with the presently installed motor. One area in which there won't be much if any work or change is the casing of the instrument. That glows today much like it must have when it was built. When it comes to organs like the Presbyterian Tracker it can truthfully be said, "they don't make them like that any more." And that, in the final analysis, is what makes the mammoth restoration worth while.

Novesta halts tax card survey

Supervisor Bill O'Dell reported to the Novesta township board Monday night he has called a temporary halt to the surveying and listing of properties on file cards as required by the state. O'Dell said he halted the program due to "lack of competent personnel." The two persons doing the work, non-township residents, were paid with federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds. Their hiring was not done by the township. O'Dell said the program may resume using local persons hired by the township. The board voted to seek bids from local implement dealers for a tractor mower for the township cemetery. Sexton Frank Spencer explained to the board the present mower is several years old and not designed for cemetery purposes. Jerry Lemunyon, district conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, reported on the proposed soil survey in Tuscola county. As originally proposed, Novesta would have had to pay $500 per year for five years as its contribution for the survey. The amount has now been reduced to $250 per year. The board tabled the matter until the next meeting. Discussed, with no action taken, was the possibility of increasing the rental fee for use of the township hall by various organizations. The increase is due to the increased cost for maintenance. It was decided to contact local insurance agents regarding the township's insurance, which includes workers' compensation, building coverage, bonds, etc. The meeting was held a week earlier than usual due to the regular meeting date occurring during the extended July 4th week end.

The Elkland Township Board will meet Thursday, July 6, instead of July 10. 6-29-2

"If It Fitz..." Sometimes strong men cry

By Jim Fitzgerald

The husband was about to leave the bedroom. "Pull that blanket up on your side of the bed," his wife instructed him. And then she complained that he wasn't tucking the blanket under the pillow properly.

"I don't make beds," the husband explained reasonably.

"What do you mean, you don't make beds? Why don't you make beds? Do you think only women make beds?" asked the wife who thinks she is Bella Abzug. "Of course men can make beds," the husband said, still reasonably. "But I've never made beds around here. You do that. I go to work every day while you stay home with the beds. That's the way it's always been in over 20 years of marriage. We've developed a domestic pattern in which I don't make beds." "You're a male chauvinist. You think making beds is strictly women's work," the wife said.

That evening the happy couple went to the baseball game. There's a domestic pattern to this, too. After they've been seated, a few minutes before the first pitch, he always goes to buy their dinner. She always stays behind to count how many times the Detroit manager pats his players' butts as they leave the dugout to begin play.

Dinner is two hot dogs and a beer for the husband, and two hot dogs and coffee for the wife. At Tiger Stadium, it is necessary to stand in line for 10 to 20 minutes before purchasing these items. There are many lines stringing out from many lunch counters, and at the end of some of these lines, you can buy only beer, not hot dogs and not coffee. So a person should be careful to get into a line leading to a woman who will sell food and coffee as well as beer. Otherwise, the dumb person will end up standing in two lines.

The husband usually stands in two lines. Eventually his four hot dogs and beer and coffee are packed into a small open container about the size of a cigar box. This container appears to be made of cardboard but it is actually made of slightly starched toilet paper.

It is necessary to put the hot dogs in the middle of the box, with the beer at one end and the coffee at the other. By carefully putting one hand under the beer, and the other hand under the coffee, the husband usually manages to spill only half the beer and coffee on the hot dogs. Unless someone bumps into him, in which case he spills all of the beer and coffee.

The wife likes both mustard and ketchup on her hot dogs. The husband likes just mustard. The women who sell hot dogs at Tiger Stadium do not sell mustard and ketchup. Customers must help themselves from squirt jars located across the corridor. There are always thousands of people walking fast in these corridors. These are the people who make sure that the husband spills all of the beer and coffee on the hot dogs.

At the mustard-ketchup shelf, the husband must unwrap each hot dog to apply the mustard and ketchup. The wrapping won't come off because it is soaked with the spilled beer and coffee.

When the husband removes the box of dinner from the mustard-ketchup shelf, he must be careful to hold the box with both of his hands spread wide across the bottom. This is because the soggy bottom has fallen out of the box.

"Why do I always have to get the dinner at the ball park?" the husband asked the wife when he finally got back to his seat on the evening of the day he helped make the bed. "We have been going to baseball games for over 20 years and you have never once gone to get the hot dogs."

"Men always do those things," she answered, "because they're supposed to."

"What is the difference between making the bed and getting the hot dogs?" the husband asked. "I don't slop beer and coffee all over the bed," the wife said.

The husband sobbed.

Accident round-up

3 escape injury as car rolls over

Three persons escaped injury Saturday night when the vehicle they were riding in rolled over.

Occupants of the truck were Larry J. Osantoski, 22, of Snover, the driver, and passengers James M. Osantoski, 17, and Scott D. Page, 22, both of Ubly.

Huron county deputies reported the vehicle was southbound on Verona Road, about four miles southeast of Ubly, when it went off the road and overturned in a ditch. The accident happened about 8:30.

Joanne Stout, 47, of Bay City-Forestville Road, Ubly, sought her own treatment last Wednesday night following an accident in the Kingston Veterans of Foreign Wars hall parking lot on S. Kingston Road.

Tuscola county deputies reported she was getting into the car of Irving J. Czewski, 54, of 4440 Pike Road, Ubly, when a car leaving a parking space struck the open door, pushing her into the Czewski car. Driver of the other vehicle was Dorothy A. Warner, 45, of 5245 Barrons Road, Deford.

A 16-year-old Deford girl was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield after an accident at 7:27 a.m. last Wednesday.

Cass City police reported she was northbound on Oak Street and quoted witnesses as saying she only slowed before entering Main Street, where she collided with the eastbound car of Mark F. Williams, 21, of Caro.

She told officers she was unable to see the oncoming traffic because her view was blocked by parked cars.

At 5:15 p.m. Monday, according to village police, John Churchill, 15, of Koepfgen Road, Cass City, headed west on Main, was stopped to turn left onto Ale Street when another westbound vehicle hit the rear of his car. Driver of the other car was Scott A. Fisher, 16, of Daus Road, Cass City.

Churchill was driving a driver education car. Riding in it with him was instructor Eric Wilmore.

At 9:10 p.m. Monday, officers reported, James R. Johnson, 38, of 4286 Oak Street, was backing from a parking spot along Scotty McCullough Drive in the Cass City Recreation Park and backed into a car pointed north, which was stopped. Driver of the other car was Brenda Herron, 17, of 4861 N. Seeger Street.

Ethel Wolfram, 67, of Pigeon, was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw. A week ago, she was reported in critical condition there, where she was taken after an accident June 19 in which her car, northbound on M-53, struck a truck-towed haybale.

CAR-DEER

Roger L. Vollmar, 34, of Caro, was westbound on Elmwood Road, east of Colling Road, when he swerved to miss a deer, and lost control. His car went off the north side of the road, swerved to the south side, went off the road and rolled over. Sheriff's deputies investigated the 2 a.m. Sunday accident.

Deputies reported that at 1:45 a.m. Saturday, Deborah Ann Koch, 19, of 6328 Main Street, Cass City, was southbound on Koepfgen Road, north of Merchant Road, when her car struck a deer.

At 8:05 p.m. Monday, according to Caro state police, Floyd J. Brief, 68, of Brief Road, Kingston, was northbound on Clothier Road, north of Denhoff Road, and struck a deer.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

It could be that the accident involving the haybale last week could pose an interesting legal responsibility, a local insurance man confides.

Under "no fault" you can't sue for damages. You can't if it's an auto or truck you are driving. However farm implements and farm vehicles are not covered by "no fault."

However, the haybale was pulled by a truck so can you or can you not seek damages in court? (We just pose the questions here, we never answer them.)

Aren't we creatures of habit? When the walk-wait signs were first posted on Main and Seeger I tended to ignore them and watch the light.

After awhile I started watching them instead of the light. So much so that when one set was out of commission last week I noticed and missed it almost immediately.

If memory serves there was one year in the last quarter century when there were no organized local softball or baseball teams playing at Cass City Park.

Now the pendulum has swung. There are so many this year that I couldn't even tell you the teams or the names of the various leagues.

I do know that there is a game of some kind every night and Sundays. There is baseball, slow pitch, fast pitch and girls' leagues. The Chronicle reports those that are reported to us. We received no official report but we can tell you that Deering Packing won a girls' game one day last week.

Harold Deering, sponsor, told us about the victory. Winning is an old story for the team that won a championship a couple of years ago playing in a league in another community.

Tuesday holidays are among the biggest in the headache department for weekly newspapers. Especially weekly newspapers that publish Wednesdays as most of them do. The Fourth of July comes on Tuesday this year and we ask your usual good cooperation with early copy. Copy should be in the Chronicle office by the week end if possible.

Plans for the annual Sidewalk Days are in full swing. Authorities remind area residents that the walks are available to charitable groups free Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 13-14-15, for flea markets, bake sales, book sales, and similar promotions.

Others can reserve space for a small charge. Contact Chairman Mike Weaver at Coach Light Pharmacy.

When the open house is held and you tour the new Cass City State Bank you'll be impressed.

Chances are what made me marvel won't be all that great with you. The bank features a heat pump system that uses the outside air to heat and cool. It's electric.

I can't tell you how it works except that when I look at it, see how it works and compare it with the monster in my basement I turn a little green.

Green? Why kid, I get positively ill, that's what I do.

Owners report Cass City lost proposed railroad car plant

A railroad car rebuilding plant that might have been erected in Cass City may be built in Detroit.

Behind the project is the Dearborn-based Michigan Thumb Producers Railroad Co.

It announced last fall it had hoped to build the facility in Cass City, had it been able to purchase the 66-mile Grand Trunk Western rail line from Imlay City to Caseville, which runs through Cass City. It was unsuccessful in its efforts to buy the line. The proposed plant would have provided 300 jobs.

Until the announcement, village business and municipal leaders had never heard of the proposal, thus casting doubt on the seriousness of the firm's intentions.

Being proposed in Detroit is a 50,000-square foot roundhouse structure used to repair and store railroad cars. Building of it depends on the firm, with aid of the city, to obtain approximately $4 million of initial capital to help finance acquisition of equipment and fixtures and to pay start-up costs, according to the city of Detroit's Community and Economic Development Department.

In addition, Thumb Producers is proposing that the city own the roundhouse building and then lease or sell it to the firm "at favorable rates."

The development department is now exploring means of obtaining financing for the project.

The Haire Net

You won't find any answers after reading this but the problem should come into sharp focus.

The other day a lady called and wanted to write a letter telling how her young daughter had been molested by an older girl in the bathroom at Cass City High School.

She wanted to write the letter and not sign it. Her question was, would it be printed?

I want people to know what's going on up there she said.

At first blush you're thinking that what's a paper for if it won't bring to the attention of the people a situation like this?

And you'd be right, too. It is our function. One of them. The other is to print stories of this kind only after their authenticity can be nailed down positively.

In my mind I feel that anonymous caller was sincere. But that's not enough. Far from it.

Suppose the young daughter was having a flight of fancy? Suppose the mother had a grudge against the school?

It's more likely, much more likely that the reputation of the youngster was the reason that the caller wouldn't write and sign.

She wouldn't even though we guaranteed not to use her name or the name of her daughter in the letter.

All we wanted was to have it on file.

It's easily understood why that wasn't satisfactory.

SIMULATED ENGRAVED BUSINESS CARDS AVAILABLE 1-COLOR OR 2-COLOR CASS CITY CHRONICLE

Although it wasn't published, I would know. For all she knew the news editor would know and the type-setter would know.

That wouldn't have been the case, but how was she to KNOW it wasn't?

Truthfully, it's easy for me to understand why she won't risk ANY name exposure.

If the incident is true it should have been reported to the police. Even if there's a refusal to prosecute, there should be some record about persons committing kinky sex acts.

When she called, it was apparent that the caller was blaming the school.

That's not fair of course. You can't place a police woman in the bathrooms every hour of every day.

And it would be a massive step back for our educational system if conditions forced a school gestapo.

If it did happen as described it certainly would be a step forward for our community if it were documented as to the exact time, day and location.

That's asking a lot of any parent. I doubt if I would be willing to subject my daughters to the remotest possibility of exposure as a victim.

And it's 100 to one that every parent reading about this problem feels the same way.

Breath club meeting set

The Michigan Lung Association Saginaw Valley region's Breathing Club for Adults will meet Thursday, June 29. The meeting will be from 7-8:30 p.m. at Saginaw General Hospital. The club is for adults who have emphysema, bronchitis, or asthma.

Candidates needed for bean queen

Farm Bureau groups, National Farmers Organization, farmers' clubs, service clubs, agri-businesses and others have been asked to encourage qualified candidates to get their nominations in for the 1978 Tuscola County Bean Queen contest. The contest will be held in conjunction with the 1978

Tuscola County Fair, Aug. 2-7, according to Roy Hickey of Fairgrove, County Bean Queen committee chairman. Applications are available through the local Farm Bureau, study groups, National Farmers Organization, farmers' clubs, and at the extension office in Caro.

July 19 is the deadline for entering the contest. Contestants will be called together on the evening of Wednesday, July 26, for a meeting with the judges. A meal will be furnished through the courtesy of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau. Then, Thursday evening, Aug. 3, at the fair, the new bean queen will be crowned as a part of the evening program.

Interested contestants are asked to contact their local groups to enter the contest. Contestants must be unmarried and a farmer's daughter who has or is now growing beans. Age limitation is 17 through 25. County bean queens of previous years are not eligible.

For a number of years, Tuscola county elevators have provided funds to help finance the contest, as well as to provide cash awards for all of the bean queen participants. This year the Fair Board Association is providing additional funds for each contestant and the Michigan Bean Commission is donating a $50 prize to the 1978 winner.

Other members of the County Bean Queen Committee in addition to Hickey and his wife are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sattelberg of Unionville.

HEALTH TIPS

Poison ivy season here again

By Frank Chappell,
American Medical Association

Poison ivy season is here again. You may have handled poison ivy last year and escaped without an itch, but don't push your luck. No one is permanently immune to poison ivy, oak or sumac, according to the American Medical Association.

Your next meeting with this pesky plant could take place in your own yard, as well as in the woods and fields. Poison ivy, oak and sumac have appeared in city gardens. Poison ivy sometimes forms a beautiful vine up the side of a house. Poisonous "oils" from these plants can come your way in the smoke of a neighbor's trash fire, or on your dog's coat.

If you can detect poison plants, you can often avoid them. Poison ivy and its close kin, poison oak, are three-leaved plants which may grow as low bushes or climbing vines. They may be mixed with honeysuckle and other climbers.

Poison sumac, an eastern swamp plant with seven to thirteen leaflets and small white berries, usually grows as a shrub.

If you have been exposed, carefully remove your clothes and thoroughly wash all affected areas with warm water and soap. Sponge with a 50 to 70 per cent alcohol solution. Using rubber gloves, clean your clothes in an oil solvent and soapy water. Dry them in the sun.

Ivy, oak and sumac poisoning start with itching and redness within a few hours to several days after exposure. Watery pimples appear. There is no cure for the big itch. Wet dressings of boric acid or Epsom salts solution bring some relief. Calamine lotion reduces itching. If the inflammation is extensive, see your physician.

If you know that you will be near poison plants or working with them, have your druggist make a 10 per cent sodium perborate ointment and apply on exposed skin. After contact with the plant, wash off ointment and scrub all clothing — even shoelaces.

Your Neighbor says I'd like to go to Australia

Where would Leslie Lounsbury like to go for vacation if he had the chance?

"I've thought about going to Australia but I don't know if I ever will or not," he said, adding that he has no special reason why he would like to go there.

Lounsbury is a retired Tuscola county drain commissioner and has the luxury of taking a vacation when he and his wife want. They prefer to take their vacations in winter, driving to such warm weather states as Florida, Texas, Arizona, and California.

The only possible travel plans this summer are to Mackinac Island for a few days to visit a daughter who runs a store there.

Lounsbury and his wife, Lucille, have five children, three living in Michigan, one in Virginia and one in Oklahoma.

Lounsbury was drain commissioner for eight years, through 1976. Prior to being first elected to the post, he was a drain inspector for seven years, and farmed for a living before then. His present activity is repairing some lawn mowers and go-carts.

He and his wife live on M-81 and Dodge Roads and rent out their farm land.

Sanilac, Huron in water study

Huron and Sanilac counties are among 400 counties in the United States where some randomly selected residents will be interviewed as part of a national study of rural drinking water being conducted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The study, currently underway, involves a 45-minute interview with rural residents all over the U.S. on the characteristics of their household water, as well as an analysis of water samples taken from their taps and wells. The interviews are scheduled for completion by mid-October.

The project, the first thorough nationwide assessment of rural drinking water, was required of the EPA by Congress in the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974. The study, currently underway, involves a 45-minute interview with rural residents all over the U.S. on the characteristics of their household water, as well as an analysis of water samples taken from their

Varner new ag agent for Huron

Van V. Varner has been named the new Cooperative Extension Service agricultural agent for Huron county. He assumed his new duties June 19.

His main responsibilities will be in crops and soils, including organizing educational programs for Huron county farmers. He will also deal with agricultural engineering, farm management, and pest control.

Varner received his bachelor of science degree in agriculture education from Michigan State University in 1975. Since this, he has been vocational agriculture instructor at Breckinridge High School, near Alma.

He replaces William Hamilton, who now is extension regional farm management agent.

Schwartz on dean's list

Michigan State University's Lyman Briggs Science College has announced that Mark D. Schwartz made the dean's list for spring term, 1978. He carried 12 credits with a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schwartz of Gagetown, and was a 1976 graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School.

Schwartz is studying meteorology and is also active in on-campus radio and television. He also works part time for WKYO-WIDL AM-FM radio in Caro. He will be a junior in the fall.

Patrols begin in Kingston

Citizens patrols in Kingston to counter vandalism in the community got underway Wednesday night of last week and has continued each night since then, according to Ed Kaminski, chairman of the committee overseeing the effort.

There have been no outward incidents since then. The next meeting of the citizen patrol, called "Community Watch," is scheduled July 5. Participants in the group are patrolling in their own cars, with two or three persons per car. Violations observed will be reported by phone to the sheriff's department or state police for enforcement.

PEDALING AROUND

Out-pedaled

By Mike Eliasohn

There was the 7-year-old girl who pedaled 328 miles to get there.

And the 70-year-old man who pedaled 310.

Then there was me. I drove. What we and 797 other bicyclists went to was the League of American Wheelmen national convention in Kalamazoo last Thursday through Sunday. The organization has about 15,000 members nationwide.

The convention is held in a different city each year and Kalamazoo is the closest it's ever going to get to me. So I loaded my junk parts Motobecane (put together from parts from at least seven different bikes) into my Gremlin and off I went.

Since bicycles are non-polluting and don't consume gasoline, it bothers me somewhat to ride my bicycle, but I had lots of company. Of the approximately 800 in attendance, 140 rode their bikes there. Other than the few who flew in or took a bus, the rest of us drove.

So much for philosophy. Whatever your hobby, the best thing about any such gathering is being able to meet with people who have similar interests.

I have, I think, the only bikes in Cass City (I own two of them) with toe clips and I know I'm the only person to wear a cycling safety helmet. In contrast, I can't recall seeing a bike at Kalamazoo that didn't have toe clips and I would guess three-quarters of the participants wore helmets.

For the uninitiated, toe clips, usually with straps, fasten to the pedals. They hold the foot in the proper position on the pedal and also enable the rider to pull up on the pedals for more power. Without them, a cyclist only has power when pushing down on the pedals. As for the helmet, I often get laughed at when wearing it around here, but I only have one head and I would like to keep it intact. No one laughs at football players wearing helmets, yet there is probably more potential for serious head injuries in cycling than there is in football.

"Fancy" equipment, of course, doesn't make a good cyclist, and there are LOTS of people who can pedal circles around me. Some of them could do it using only one leg.

For instance, there was the 7-year-old girl from Illinois who pedaled her bike (with her family) 328 miles to the convention. The 70-year-old man -- I don't know from where -- rode his bike 310 miles.

The woman riding the farthest to the convention was 57 years old and rode 850 miles from Topeka, Kansas.

The person riding the farthest pedaled 1,500 miles from Texas. It took him about 2 1/2 weeks to do it.

All of the above received awards for their efforts. There was also the hard luck award, given to the man who blew 10 tires in pedaling to the convention. I think he was naturally unlucky. In climbing the stairs to the stage to get his award, he tripped and almost fell.

For a bicycle freak like me, a big thrill is looking at all the nice bikes, for instance the chrome plated Schwinn Paramounts that now sell for more than $700. There was a tandem (two-seater) there that had the ultimate in everything. I'm sure it was worth at least $1,200 and probably closer to $1,500.

There was also a bicycle that carried decorated fiberglass motorcycle saddle bags, a citizens band radio, and heaven knows what else. I think the equipment weighed more than the bicycle did.

For those of you who will never get out of your cars but have bothered to read this, I leave you with this consoling thought. Based on the roads I pedaled over in Kalamazoo county, I can say the roads here are much better. Down there, pavement has patches on top of patches.

EQUALLY DIVIDED

For success in any endeavor the right proportion of prudence and boldness is needed.

Minimum wage to continue in work-experience program

Persons employed under the federally-funded work-experience program will continue to receive the federal minimum wage of $2.65 per hour, the Thumb Area Consortium administrative board decided last Thursday.

The decision was made in response to a request from the Human Development Commission (HDC) to pay persons enrolled in the program the higher entry-level wage, when applicable. The Caro-based agency runs the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) Title I work experience program under contract with the consortium.

The request was made because some Title I participants are finding themselves working alongside some CETA Title VI participants who are paid more, as much as $3.50 per hour. Title VI requirements are that the person hired be paid the same entry-level wage as a regular employee.

The request was rejected by the board, according to consortium Executive Director Frank Lenard, because the Title I program is intended to be a learning experience, not an employment subsidy program for governmental units. Participants in the work experience program can remain in the program a maximum of six months.

Much of the meeting was devoted to the proposed Title I program for the 1978-79 fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

In that regard, the HDC requested that the plan for Title I and Title III (youth employment programs) "allow for the payment of participant wages commensurate with other delivery contracts and dependent on such factors as the type of work performed and the skill proficiency of the participant."

The HDC contended such action would eliminate the "career ladder" aspects of persons making careers out of CETA jobs, which are intended to be only temporary, and the competition at worksites between CETA employees earning different wages.

The consortium board, like on the earlier action, decided that the minimum wage of $2.65 will continue to be paid for the two programs.

The 1978-79 Title I program, which will be submitted to the state Bureau of Employment and Training for approval, was okayed by the consortium board. It calls for a continuation of the on-the-job, classroom, and work-experience programs to train persons for jobs.

The "planning allocation" is $943,000 for 1978-79, as compared to the $1,238,500 the consortium received in Title I funds for the current fiscal year. Lenard anticipates the final allocation will be about the same amount as received this year.

As of May 31, 340 persons from Tuscola, Huron, and Sanilac counties were participating in the various Title I job-training programs.

The board was informed the consortium has received $394,000 in CETA Community Conservation and Improvement Projects program funds, application for which was made last fall. The federal program will provide jobs for about 140 youths, ages 16-19, almost all of whom have already been hired by the Tri-County Public Service Agency. They will be working with CETA Title VI workers, in a program the agency also runs, on temporary public works projects, such as street repairs, brush cutting and painting. Funding for the new program ends Sept. 30.

2 graduate at Bethel College

Two local residents recently completed their undergraduate studies at Bethel College. Bachelor of Arts degrees were conferred at the annual commencement exercises.

Delores Sherrard, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Sherrard, 4557 Seeger St., received a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in accounting and a minor in mathematics and economics.

Miss Sherrard was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. She has served on the student council, was a member of the social life commission and was elected homecoming queen.

She plans to take an accounting position with a firm in South Bend, Ind.

Douglas Taylor, son of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, 4393 Koepfgen Rd., received a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in physical education.

His job plans are indefinite. Bethel College is a fully accredited coeducational four-year Christian liberal arts college with 16 majors leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree.

Need Sanilac bean queen candidates

The Sanilac County Bean Growers are looking for a county girl to be crowned the new Sanilac Bean Queen. Last year's queen was Agnes Mavsolvy of Decker-ville.

The lucky girl will be crowned at this year's Sanilac County 4-H Fair.

The contest is open to any daughter of a farmer who has grown beans in the last five years. The young lady must be 17-25 years of age and single. Judging will be on poise, posture, and knowledge of beans and bean growing practices.

The winning young lady will receive $50 and compete for the State Bean Queen title at Fairgrove.

Entry blanks can be picked up at any elevator or feed dealer, Farm Bureau office, or county extension office. Bean Growers board members also have applications.

All entry blanks must be turned in to the extension office by July 20.

New books at the library

ANNA'S SILENT WORLD, by Bernard Wolf (children's grades 3-4). Anna, born deaf, leads for all intents and purposes a normal life. This has been possible because of family support, special training, and sound-amplifying technology that maximizes what little hearing she does possess. Wolf's photographs and running text take us into Anna's life, showing her in a round of activities with family friends, teachers, and pets. Information on deafness and the kinds of therapy that work to overcome it twine through the text; questioning reactions of other children crop up when Anna's mother explains to a young visitor why her daughter's speech is sometimes hard to understand and how Anna is able to understand what's being spoken around her.

A SUMMER TO DIE, by Lois Lowry (youth, grades 7-9). Meg poignantly relates the story of her 15-year-old sister's death from leukemia, a warm picture emerges of a family bound together by caring and closeness that carries the through their immense loss. Meg watches-confuse-helpless, and at times angry-as the ravages of illness change Molly from a confident, pretty sister to a touch invalid and finally to a hospital patient calmly facing the inevitable. But this is also the story of Meg and her awakening self-awareness through her developing interest in photography, as well as her friendship with Will, salt-of-the-earth 70-year-old.

DR. BEAUMONT AND THE MAN WITH THE HOLE IN HIS STOMACH, by Sam and Beryl Epstein (children's grades 3-4). William Beaumont was the Army surgeon at Fort in the wilderness of Mackinac Island, Michigan Territory, in 1822 when he was called to treat the victim of a shooting accident. Alex St. Martin, a hardy frontiersman in the fur trade, had been shot, leaving a hole in his stomach that would never close up, even after Dr. Beaumont healed him. Through that hole, a clear passageway into the stomach from outside the body, the doctor was able to perform experiments on digestion, which had been a mystery to science for centuries.

'B tests
now given on Mondays

The Thumb District Health Department has announced a change in the day the tuberculin tests given its TB clinics. The change will begin Monday, July 3, when the test will be given every Monday morning from 8-10 a.m. The test result must be read three days later, on Thursday morning, from 8-10 a.m. If the test results are negative, a card will be used that declares the person to be free of tuberculosis. The tests are given at the health department office, 66 W. Caro Road, Caro. This change in the tuberculin testing day does not affect the regular immunization clinic offered every Tuesday at the same location. An appointment for immunizations can be made by calling the department at 8-114.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Mrs. Maggie Loomis was honored at a surprise birthday party. She celebrated her 90th birthday with her three children, 12 grandchildren, 31 great-grandchildren, and seven great-great-grandchildren. Michael Klunkman, Cass City, has been awarded a four year scholarship from General Cable Corporation to the University of Michigan.

Jackie Bedwell and Greg Erla were lucky winners of the two bicycles that were given away at the Western Round-Up.

TEN YEARS AGO

More than 200 guests attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Eastman. Relatives from as far as North Surrey, British Columbia attended the open house.

The Cass City School District will receive approximately 220 additional students and $4 million of taxable property when the dissolution of the Owen-Gage district is completed. Mr. and Mrs. James Hempton celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. The couple was married June 20, 1928. They have three living children and five grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Woolman celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The couple were married June 24, 1903. They have two daughters and one son. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Crawford of Novesta became grandparents of the second set of twins in three months. The two sets of parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Crawford and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Crawford.

Pfc. Elwyn Helwig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Helwig, was slightly wounded on his right ear and arm while fighting in Korea.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Arthur Holmberg, director of the Cass City Swimming Pool, has reported that the pool has been opened two days, and already over 550 people have crowded the facilities.

Ethel Wells dies at 72 in Lansing

Ethel N. Wells, 72, of St. Johns, died Wednesday, June 21, in Lansing. She was the widow of O.E. Wells, at one time from Deford, who died in December, 1976. The couple lived in St. Johns for 25 years but came back to this area frequently to visit.

She is survived by one son, David, of Lansing. A brother-in-law, Cecil Wells, lives in Deford. Funeral services were held Saturday at the First United Methodist church in St. Johns. Burial was in Woodlawn cemetery in Jackson.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mudge of Evergreen township, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary. They were married June 26, 1918.

The Cass City School Board engaged three new members on the school staff. Jack London has signed a contract to serve as athletic director of the Cass City High School. Mr. Harold Oatley will teach government and economics, and Mrs. Dudley Mosure has accepted the position of librarian. The position of instrumental music instructor is yet to be filled.

James Britt dies at 63 in Pontiac

James E. Britt of Pontiac died June 18 at Pontiac General Hospital. He had been ill three years.

He was born April 24, 1915 in Grant township, Huron county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Britt. He was married to the former Clara Landry. They moved to Pontiac in 1953. He was retired from the engineering department of the Pontiac Division of General Motors. Britt was a member of Fraternal Order of Eagles Lodge No. 1230, which conducted a memorial service in his honor June 20 at the Voorheis-Siple Funeral Home. He also belonged to Moose Lodge No. 182.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Kenneth Britt of Madison Heights; a daughter, Mrs. Myrna Cunningham of Oxford; five grandchildren; one brother, Howard Britt of Cass City, and two sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Hundersmarck and Mrs. Margaret Schenk, both of Bad Axe. One sister, Helen, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held June 21 at the Columbia Ave. Baptist church in Pontiac. Pastor Billy Whitt officiating. Burial was in the Christian Memorial Cultural Center in Rochester.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters

A chance to have some really fun times and someone to talk to is just what this cute 15-year-old girl wants! She lives in Caro, and likes bike-riding, swimming, horses, roller-skating, hiking, and shopping.

This 10-year-old boy would enjoy doing all kinds of work and fun things with a Big Brother. He's been waiting almost a year for a man in the Vassar area to be his special friend.

If you're a very active younger woman, we have an 11-year-old girl who would

Fr. Skornia reassigned

A former pastor in the area has been reassigned by the Catholic Diocese of Saginaw.

Presently pastor of St. Casimir Catholic church in Saginaw, Father Bernard L. Skornia will become pastor of the Sacred Heart church in Kawkawlin, effective July 13.

Ordained in 1957, the Bay City native was associate pastor in Oscoda, Alpena, and Saginaw. He then was pastor of the Church of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin in Sebewaing and St. John the Evangelist in Uby before being assigned to St. Casimir.

Decker man ends training

Navy Aviation Support Equipment Technician Airman Recruit Joel A. Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee R. Galloway of 5970 Snover Road, Decker, has completed the aviation support equipment technician's hydraulic course.

During the nine-week course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn., students received instruction on the inspection, maintenance and repair of basic hydraulic systems. They studied metal working, corrosion control and oxyacetylene welding.

Hernandez named top NCO

Senior Master Sergeant Manuel A. Hernandez has been named outstanding senior noncommissioned officer of the year at Albrook Air Force Station in Panama Canal Zone. A 1958 graduate of Owendale High School, he is son of Mrs. Mary F. Buson of Gagetown. His wife, Brenda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown of Marietta, Ohio. An education and training superintendent, Hernandez was selected for leadership professional skill, and performance. He is assigned to the Inter-American Air Forces Academy, a part of the Tactical Air Command. The academy was the recent recipient of the Air Force outstanding award, having been cited for meritorious service from July 1, 1975-June 30, 1977. Members of the academy will now wear a distinctive ribbon to mark their affiliation with the unit.

APPLICATION

What a fellow really knows is secondary — it is the use of what he knows that counts.

Mrs. Harold Koch, Gagetown, Mrs. Carl Weber of Frankenmuth, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brintley and Mrs. Nora Meyer were in Mount Clemens Sunday for the 125th anniversary of the founding of Immanuel Lutheran church. Their late father, Louis Meyer, was teacher-principal at the Lutheran School there from 1945-1950. They were dinner guests of Mrs. Lulu Kraatz in Mt. Clemens and in the afternoon they attended outdoor services. The Rev. Oswald Hoffman renowned speaker of the Lutheran Hour was guest speaker. Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller held a graduation party June 3 in honor of their daughter Dedra, who recently graduated from Owen-Gage and Brayshire Beauty Academy, Bay City. Guests were present from Allen Park, Kawkawlin, Bay City, Bridgeport, Cass City, Pigeon, Bay Port, Bad Axe, Owendale, Sebewaing, Filion, Saginaw and Gagetown. Mrs. E.W. Bestpitch, the former Minnie Evalin Whidden from Vassar, came to visit Mrs. Archie Ackerman and other Gagetown relatives one day last week. Mrs. Bestpitch is now living in Boonsboro, Maryland. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weatherhead were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Loomis one day last week. Ron Ziehm was at Michigan State University for two days this week for freshman orientation.

C. Hrycko area nurse of the year

Carol M. Hrycko, nursing director for the Thumb District Health Department, has received the nurse of the year award from the Lapeer district of the Michigan Nurses Association.

The Gagetown area resident received the award at the district's annual banquet June 12. The recipient must be an active Michigan Nurses Association member and have made contributions to the community, according to district President Lois Hodge. "Carol Hrycko was chosen for the award because she has encouraged other nurses to join the MNA and for her professional activity in the community."

She is a member of the Lapeer County Cooperative Health Council, East Central Michigan Health Systems board of directors, Thumb Area Directors of Nursing, and ex-officio member of the home health advisory committee for the health department.

A graduate of Mercy College in Detroit with a B.S. degree in nursing, she has been employed by the health department since 1974. She has been director of nursing since October of last year.

She and her husband, Tom, and their four children live on Green Road, Gagetown.

Students of month named

Deb Gettel and Lori Mandich were named Owendale-Gagetown co-students of the month for May at the June 13 board meeting. Deb and Lori both finished their sophomore year this spring.

Deb has been active in all of the girls' sports at Owen-Gage, but had to sit out of spring sports this year due to a broken leg. She has been very active as a class officer and in Future Homemakers of America (FHA). She is presently ranked 6th in her class with a cumulative grade point average of 3.68.

Lori's extracurricular activities this past year included forensics and FHA. She was FHA secretary. She is consistently on the honor roll, maintaining a GPA of 3.16.

Two farm buildings for the price of one.

Cuckler Countryside machinery storage buildings give you the durability of all-steel construction, plus straight sidewalls, a pitched roof, a concrete foundation and doors up to 28' wide. And one more thing many machinery storage buildings can't offer: the ability to become a grain storage building when market prices warrant it. (Capacities up to 40,000 bu. — for 60' x 80' building — and more, using additional 20' bays.)

Components for Countryside two-in-one storage buildings are packaged, ready for quick delivery. In most areas, they qualify for Farm Storage Loan Programs, too. (Your local ASCS office can provide information.) So call us today, and see how affordable a dual-purpose building can be.

Emmons stands mute

McConnell sentence delayed one year

Sentencing of Cass City nurse Peggy L. McConnell was delayed Monday by Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley for one year.

She pleaded guilty May 30 to attempted possession of a controlled substance (Mepheridine) in a plea bargain agreement with the prosecution, in turn for which six other drug-related charges were dropped.

Sentencing was delayed under Section 47 of the state Controlled Substances Act. If during the one year she complies with provisions of her probation, the charge will be dismissed.

As a condition of her probation, Judge Baguley ordered that Miss McConnell, 30, not be employed where she has access to drugs without supervision.

The charge was in relation to the defendant obtaining the drug last fall while employed at Hills and Dales General Hospital. She was fired from the hospital earlier this year because of the incident.

In other cases Monday: Mark Emmons, 25, stood mute to two charges of murder. Pleas of innocent were entered and a pretrial hearing order set for Aug. 21. He was remanded to the Center for Forensic Psychiatry at Ypsilanti State Hospital for further treatment.

A defense motion for administering a Brevital (truth serum) test to the defendant at county expense was granted.

Emmons is charged with the shooting deaths of his mother and sister in Caro last July 8.

Two Saginaw men, Todd M. Tigner and Philip M. McKinney, were both sentenced for attempted willful burning of an automobile valued at more than $50.

Each received an identical sentence of 90 days in the county jail with credit for time served, three years' probation, a fine of $200, costs of $200, and each to pay one-third of the storage cost involved of $214.

The two were charged in connection with the burning of a 1973 Chevrolet in Fremont township April 16.

The guilty plea of Elmer Gould, 28, of Flint, to attempted larceny over $100 was accepted. Bond was continued with sentencing July 24.

He was charged in connection with entering of a Fairgrove township home April 1.

DISTRICT COURT

June 20, Judge Richard F. Kern ordered David M. Conter, 18, of 5696 Phillips Road,

THE SHABBONA Pioneer group held a meeting at the park on M-53 Thursday. The group meets once a month at various homes and locations. It was potluck for the senior citizens. President this year is Mrs. Ethel Emigh. It's a time for good fellowship and good food.

YOUNGEST COUPLE at Thursday's meeting was Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowers. Obviously they are having a fine time. Oldest member is Myrtle Murphy, 85.

Elkland faces road choice

The Elkland Township Board at its July 6 meeting will have to decide which roads it wants rebuilt this year.

The Tuscola County Road Commission last Thursday held a public hearing concerning the proposed projects and opened bids for the work. The road commission will meet again July 7, at which time it will award the bids.

Most of the questions asked at the hearing, according to Road Commission Clerk James Miklovic, concerned what is being proposed and specific questions, such as what trees will be removed.

Proposed for the roads is ditching, drainage, and some tree cutting and widening. Once the work is done, the roads could be black-topped in the future.

The township board requested that the Road Commission obtain the bids so that it could then decide on which roads it wanted the work done this year.

The township has budgeted $41,590 for road construction this year.

The proposed projects are: Daus Road between Schwegler and Buehry -- Lowest of two bidders, C.R. Hunt Construction Co., Cass City, $12,400.

Richie Road south of Bay City-Forestville -- Lowest of two bidders, Patrick La-Fave, Caro, $14,850.

Crawford Road between M-81 and Elmwood Road -- Lowest of two bidders, C.R. Hunt, $16,300.

Milligan Road between Koepfgen and Cemetery -- Lowest of three bidders, Howard Rexin, Cass City, $11,975.

United States leads world in lemons

The most lemons in the world are produced by the United States, which packed more than 29.4 million boxes in 1975. Italy is the second largest producer, followed by Argentina, Greece, Turkey, Spain, Lebanon and Chile. The chief lemon-growing states in the U. S. are California, Florida and Arizona.

Lemonade is America's most popular lemon drink.

Question legality of lobby reform bill

The Michigan Legislature is often off target.

This is the case with the pending legislation to require registration and expenditure reporting of lobbyists and their agents.

The Senate has been going through a long painful process of rewriting and refining the so-called lobbyist reform bill placing financial disclosure requirements on lobbyist expenditures in the course of doing business with public officials.

In its present form, the bill at best is vague and would unlikely stand up under a constitutional challenge. It requires any person who spends more than $250 per year on an individual public official or $1,000 per year on lobbying practices to register and report quarterly to the secretary of state's office.

Arguments presented indicate a business owner could not petition government - a guaranteed right of both the U.S. and State Constitutions - without fear of being subject to criminal penalties after reaching a certain dollar value expenditure in both direct and indirect expenses.

Who can define what an indirect expenditure is and what should be reported? How about parking fees, shoeshines, haircuts or even the cost of a babysitter so a person could attend a committee meeting?

This vagueness alone would be grounds for the courts to strike the reporting requirements down as unconstitutional.

Another constitutional grey area the legislature is toying with is the removal of members of the press who were exempted from the registration and reporting requirement. The First Amendment guarantees the right of free press and such inclusions infringe upon these rights.

Members of the Legislature and other public officials would be better to try to control themselves and their dealings with lobbyists rather than trying to place the restrictions on these lobbyists and the public.

It would be a simple matter to develop and pass conflict of interest legislation or ethics legislation setting guidelines for those people in public office.

This would be the best answer as public office holders would know exactly what they could or could not do and could decide whether to enter public service with full knowledge that such restrictions exist.

The Legislature is becoming more and more well known for the number of acts passed to regulate. It would be better to look in a mirror and regulate what they see.

Better to regulate 148 members of the legislature instead of 9.2 million residents of the state.

SHERIFF ROAD PATROL BILL APPROVED

Governor William G. Milliken is one step closer to exercising a threatened veto as the House recently passed a bill mandating Michigan's county sheriffs to patrol secondary roads and providing state funds to support those patrols.

Milliken has labeled the legislation as a "pork barrel" to preserve jobs for Wayne county sheriffs. He further maintains it will begin to erode powers of the State Police.

Legislative leaders meanwhile are trying to reach a compromise between the governor and the legislature.

The bill mandates that county sheriffs will be the law enforcement body primarily concerned with patrolling the county roads and highways. It allows for cities and villages to contract with the sheriffs to patrol those county highways that pass through the incorporated sections.

The measure also allocates a formula for paying the county sheriffs for that patrol. The formula is based on the number and length of the county roads.

Charge Gagetown resident with attempted arson

A Gagetown man was arrested Friday, charged with attempted arson to an automobile in connection with the burning of his pickup truck.

Arrested was Preston Woodle, 34, of 6466 Lincoln Street. He was arraigned in district court Monday and then released on personal recognizance bond, pending preliminary examination July 14. The Caro fire department was called shortly after 7 p.m. Friday to extinguish the fire in the burning truck, which was at Rossman and Underwood Roads. Most of the damage to the truck was to the seat.

Woodle was caught by officers and arrested after they found him walking nearby on Lee Hill Road, just off Wells Road, a short while later. He was taken to the county jail.

Cass City police last Thursday evening arrested James O. Boyce, 22, of 3383 Cemetery Road, on a charge of driving with license suspended.

An officer saw two vehicles eastbound on Main Street at high speed and chased one as it turned onto Sherman Street, then east on Houghton Street, and finally stopped at a yard on Woodland Street.

There, the driver, Boyce, was arrested. He was taken to the county jail. He posted bond that same evening and was released pending his appearance in district court.

The other vehicle involved was also at the Woodland Street address. The driver was given a ticket citing him for excessive noise from his vehicle.

Donald Hanke, 39, of Warren, was arrested by Cass City police at 2:35 a.m. Sunday and charged with driving under the influence of liquor after they stopped his car on M-81, just east of Schwegler Road.

A warrant from the prosecutor's office charged him with driving under the influence and for speeding. He was later released from the county jail pending an appearance in district court.

Dale Mellendorf of 4135 N. Cemetery Road reported to village police last Thursday morning that six windows on the south side of his house had been shot out with BB guns.

Investigation led to two boys, ages 11 and 12, who each said the other did it. They were released to the custody of their parents, who agreed to share the cost for repairing the windows. Damage was estimated at $60.

Dorothy Stahlbaum, owner of the Clothes Closet on Main Street, told Cass City police Friday that while she was talking on the telephone, a girl in her late teens left the store, taking a jacket that was on a rack with her. The blue satin jacket was valued at $20.

Curtis Cleland, counselor at Cass City High School, told officers last Thursday morning he saw a youth steal a speaker from the school. The youngster ran outside and put it inside the car of another youth.

Police Chief Gene Wilson later talked with the latter youth and got the speaker back. A petition is to be filed with the probate court involving the two youths. The speaker is used with a movie projector.

Robert Ryland of 4242 S. Seeger Street reported to police early Sunday that the driver's side door and a fender of his pickup truck were damaged while it was parked earlier at the Char-mont. He drove home before noticing the damage.

Freak car accident McKenny in narrow escape

Michael J. McKenny, 18, of 286 Crawford Road, De-ford, escaped with only bruises last Wednesday after coming close to being crushed by a wheel of the car he was working on.

The incident took place at Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds on E. Cass City Road shortly before noon. A witness told sheriff's deputies McKenny was under the car, trying to get it started by shorting the starter, which was defective. When it started, it was in gear and started moving. A tire rolled up against McKenny's head, which turned the wheel. The car turned and hit a 1978 Olds-mobile in the lot. The witness said McKenny immediately got up and ran after the car.

McKenny was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment of what turned out to be only bruises. He was being released when deputies arrived to interview him. He told them he didn't realize the car was in gear when he was working on it.

ROTC honors Hosner

Steven R. Hosner of De-ford was one of 51 Michigan State University Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets who were honored at Army and Air Force commissioning ceremonies at MSU's Kellogg Center Auditorium, June 10.

Brig. Gen. Willard E. Henshaw, commander of the 70th Division (Training) U.S. Army Reserve located in Livonia, was the guest speaker at the joint ceremony honoring the ROTC cadets.

Hosner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Hosner, 231 N. Kingston Road, is a 1969 graduate of Cass City High School. He is a senior at MSU with a major in packaging and will complete his requirements to become a commissioned officer in December, 1978.

ROTC cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants following successful completion of a four-year program in military science.

Hartsell jailed early

A Cass City youth found himself in jail a couple days early because of an armed robbery with which he was not involved near Kinde late last Thursday.

Phillip J. Hartsell, 18, of 4446 Sherman Street, Cass City, was scheduled to begin serving a 30-day sentence Monday, with credit for six days served, for larceny in a building.

The charge was in connection with an Oct. 4 break-in in Novesta township to which he pleaded guilty. He was placed on three years' probation in January by Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley. The jail sentence was to be served after he graduated from Cass City High School.

Early Friday, Cass City police received a radio alert from state police in Bad Axe to be on the lookout for a car carrying two men involved in a robbery of a Bad Axe man who was hitchhiking on M-53 at Kinde at 11:40 p.m. Thursday.

At 1:30 a.m. Friday, village officers observed a car westbound on Main Street similar in description to the one wanted in the armed robbery. They followed it to a location on M-81, 2 1/2 miles west of Cass City. They then called Bad Axe state police. The troopers who were dispatched stopped the car on Doerr Road, south of M-81.

Hartsell, the driver, was arrested on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and violation of the controlled substance act (possession of phenobarbital) because of items found in the car.

He was taken to the county jail and arraigned on the two charges in district court Monday. He was given until July 3 to obtain a lawyer and reappear in court. Bond was set at $3,000, meaningless for now since he is being held to serve his sentence for larceny in a building.

Two girls riding with Hartsell in the car when it was stopped were released. State police are still searching for the two suspects in the armed robbery, in which $53 was taken

County authorizes countersuit

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners authorized the county prosecutor to file a countersuit against the estate of the late county Probate Judge C. Bates Willis as a defense should his estate decide to continue his suit against the county.

Willis had filed suit against the county, seeking $23,000, contending he was owed that amount, it having been lost in the shuffle during the time pay for probate judges was switched from a county responsibility to the state, with the county adding a supplement.

The countersuit, if it is necessary, will contend Willis was not owed the money because, due to illness, he was not able to always perform his duties as probate judge.

District Judge Richard F. Kern reported to the board that the 10 applicants for magistrate has been narrowed to three for final consideration.

He also reported that the escheats funds, bail or bond money that was never picked up and was deposited in the county general fund, was supposed to go to the state. Commissioners authorized transfer of the $2,080 involved to the state.

Robert Wellington, engineer for the Road Commission, reported that bids for construction of five bridges in eastern Tuscola county - two over the Cass River and three over White Creek - were "favorable" when opened by the state Highway Commission June 21. Transfer of $145,479 in bridge millage funds to the road commission was approved. The county pays part of the cost for the bridges, federal funds pay the rest.

It was reported bids for the controversial Moore Drain project in the Vassar area will be resubmitted July 7. The entire project was estimated to cost about $1.13 million but bids, opened recently totaled $1.72 million.

Citizenship 4-H program

By Bernard Jardot

Several young people from Tuscola county participated in the 1978 National Citizenship Shortcourse program at the National 4-H Center located in Washington, D.C. Participating were Debra Blackmore and Diane Keinath, Millington; Mary Ann Green, Shirley McDurmon, and Carla Wagner, Caro; Jacquita Stokes, Fostoria; Shelly Stoll, Silverwood; Teresa Cartwright, Unionville; Lynda Wells and Mary Beth DeCoe, Vassar, and Velvet Barry, North Branch. The adult chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Timko and Bernard Jardot, 4-H youth agent.

Using the nation's capitol as a "classroom", the program included a day on Capitol Hill to meet Rep. Bob Traxler and to see
