

"WHAT HAPPENED?," wonders three-year-old Stacy Marker as she looks at the aftermath of the tornado that hit the Dorothy Perry farm on McGregory Road in Elmwood township last Wednesday about 5 p.m.

Legislative races draw several candidates

All three of the Thumb area state legislators face re-election, either in the Aug. primary and/or in the Nov. general election.

SENATE

Incumbent State Sen. Alvin DeGrow, R-Pigeon, faces Edward Moore of Bad Axe in the primary. The Republican primary winner will face Democrat Kathleen Asher of Vassar in the general election.

The 28th Senate district consists of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties and part of Lapeer and St. Clair counties. DeGrow, 52, owns a variety store in Pigeon. A navy veteran in World War II, he has been a Rotary club district governor and president of the local Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was first elected to the Senate in 1968.

In the Senate, he serves on the appropriations committee. He previously served on the health and social services, highways and transportation, and labor committees.

Edward J. Moore, 44, began his own certified public accounting firm in the early 60s, which he merged with Carl Leppien & Co. in 1976. He now serves the latter firm as a tax consultant. He was past chairman of the St. Ignace chapter of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

He has served as county publican chairman and finance chairman, chairman of the 8th Congressional district Republican Committee, and was an alternate to the 1976 Republican National convention in Kansas City. He has been on the executive board of the Lake Huron Area Council of the Boy Scouts and an officer in the Bad Axe Rotary Club.

Eugene Gainer of Bad

Axe also filed nominating petitions to run in the Republican primary but later withdrew.

84TH HOUSE DISTRICT

Incumbent State Rep. Loren Armbruster, R-Caro, is unopposed in the primary.

Two Democrats, Donald R. Acheson of Clio and James T. McCann of Akron, are seeking to oppose him. The two ran against each other in the 1976 primary, with McCann the winner.

The 84th district consists of all of Tuscola county plus part of Saginaw county.

McCann is Tuscola county veterans counselor. A veteran of the U.S. Army, he is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Michigan Association of County Veterans Counselors, and the Thumb Area Consortium planning council.

He has associate and bachelor's degrees from Columbia College in Columbia, Mo., and a master's degree in education and community leadership from Central Michigan University.

An ex-farmer, Acheson is employed at A.C. Spark Plug Division of General Motors. He served two years in the U.S. Army, studied political science at Flint Junior College, and has been a precinct delegate since 1968.

He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Third Order of St. Dominic, and attends St. Charles and Helena church.

77TH HOUSE DISTRICT

The present state representative, Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, is being opposed in the primary by Keith Muxlow. The winner will face Democrat Richard Davies of Melvin in November.

The district consists of Sanilac and Huron counties and parts of Lapeer and St. Clair counties.

Hoffman, 63, was Sanilac county sheriff for 10 years prior to being elected to the legislature in 1964. He is vice-chairman of the House agricultural committee and also serves on the taxation, public safety, labor, and joint administrative rules committees.

Hoffman raises purebred beef. In the past, he has been a village president, school board president, president of the Sanilac unit of the American Cancer society and the Eastern Michigan Law Enforcement Association and a Boy Scout commissioner.

Muxlow, 44, has been Brown City mayor for seven years. Until recently, when he sold his financial interest, he was involved in a 1,100-acre dairy farm across the county line in Lapeer county. In addition to his 25 years in the dairy business, he was active in a number of farm organizations, was on the advisory committee to the county extension service and was a director of the McDonald Dairy Co.

He also has been active in the Republican Party in Sanilac county, currently serving as treasurer, and was general chairman of the Brown City bicentennial celebration in 1976.

Area hit by violent wind, rain storm

Grant Hutchinson, owner of Rolling Hills Airport, wasn't in his office when the wind storm hit the area late last Wednesday afternoon, so wasn't able to read his wind speed gauge.

But he recalled what it was like at times when the gauge measured 50 mile per hour winds. "It was blowing a lot more during the storm," he said.

His son in Saginaw told him news reports said the wind hit up to 78 m.p.h. there.

At Huron County Memorial Airport in Bad Axe, the wind speed was measured at up to 65 m.p.h.

In addition to the wind, there was also lots of rain. At the Cass City Wastewater Treatment Plant, only .33 inch was recorded, but elsewhere, there were reports of as much as 1½ inches falling.

The only apparent serious injury in all of the Thumb because of the high winds was to a 15-year-old Ruth boy who was driving a tractor which was pulling a loaded hay wagon.

The wind blew the trailer over, which in turn caused the tractor to tip over into a ditch, trapping the youth underneath. He was hospitalized in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

Although there were apparently no official reports of tornadoes, observers along McGregory Road in Elmwood township and Cumber Road in Greenleaf and Austin townships said it definitely was tornadoes that touched down in those two areas. (See related stories in this issue.)

DESPITE THE HIGH winds, the tie-down ropes at Rolling Hills Airport held and none of the planes parked outside were damaged.

Some trees in Cass City weren't so lucky.

Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie reported there were apparently five or six trees blown down by the wind.

There were, of course, lots of branches blown down. Six village workers using three trucks worked until 8 p.m. Wednesday and then all day Thursday, Friday and Monday to clear away the debris.

Where the downed limbs or trees were entirely on private property, it was up to the property owner to get the debris to curbside to be picked up by the village crews.

Some streets were partly blocked temporarily by fallen trees or limbs. Only one, Maple Street between Houghton and Third, was totally blocked.

Despite the winds and fallen timber, LaPonsie was unaware of any damaged buildings in Cass City, except for a village-owned storage building. About a third of its tar-paper covered roof was torn off.

In addition to the destruction where the two tornadoes struck, and no doubt lots of unreported instances of damage, an estimated $50,000 loss occurred on Jurgess Road, southeast of Ubyly. There, the 26-by-50-foot metal-sided barn of Ken Glaza was ripped from its foundation and pushed nearly 12 feet.

Seventeen feeder cattle were trapped inside the two-year-old barn, but neighbors using chain saws were able to free them. Only one of the animals was killed.

Mrs. Sylvester Leppek of Huron Line Road, 1½ miles east of Cemetery Road, told the Chronicle part of a tree fell on the hood of her husband's tractor. The radiator needed replacing and there was other damage.

Kay Bean of 8360 Van Dyke Road reported an 18-foot boat on her property was carried 14 feet by the wind and landed upside down.

THE WIND KNOCKED down numerous power lines and lightning knocked out transmission equipment.

George Anderson, Detroit Edison manager for Tuscola county, said 1,400 customers lost electrical power. Most had it back within 12 hours, but about 70 had to wait almost a full day.

The outages were in various areas of the county. There were 92 customers without power on an Elkland-Elmwood township circuit and 233 cut off on a circuit serving portions of Elkland, Novesta, Kingston, Evergreen and Lamotte townships.

The Vassar area had the largest single outage, with 885 customers affected.

Huron county was harder hit than Tuscola, Anderson

"We better get out of here." -- John Kamrad to son.

The wind blew a light pole onto the car, severely denting the roof and smashing the windshield. Perry got into the car and was able to drive it close to the road, away from the buildings. The car received a flat tire, apparently from a nail, and another dent from an unknown object.

A nearby farmer, Wayne Becker, drove the pair to the home of Troy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Perry, on nearby Jacob Road. John Perry then drove his father and son to Cass City via a round-about way, as some roads were blocked by fallen trees. Harold Perry and his grandson returned later in another car.

Becker was in his tractor, cultivating a field, when he saw the funnel cloud approaching. He started heading south and said that at one point, the wind tilted his tractor to one side.

The funnel cloud that hit the Perry farm touched down just to the west of the buildings and lifted up on the east side of the road, a distance of perhaps 75 yards.

It did strange things. Kamrad's combine was parked outside the barn. After the tornado was gone, the left side tires were sitting on top of part of the barn roof. The combine cab was smashed in and the wood cutting blades were broken.

Two trucks, two snowmobiles, a grain drill and a farm trailer were inside the barn. After a cursory inspection, Kamrad said it appeared only the truck he and his son had just parked inside was damaged, with the damage consisting of the sides of the carrier box being bent.

Another portion of the barn roof landed against the house, which hasn't been occupied since Dorothy Perry moved out. Two beams were driven through the roof.

A falling tree fell on one end of a garage. The tree also knocked over an out-house.

It was apparently the same tornado that blew down the barn of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kappen on Cass City Road between Jacob and Hurds Corner Roads, more than a mile away from the Perry farm.

Mrs. Kappen said two calves were found dead in the wreckage and a bull and cow that were still alive had to be shot. In addition to the animals, a quantity of hay was stored in the barn.

Mrs. Kappen and her grandson took refuge in the house basement after "it got so black." A hired hand, Gordon Roy, took shelter in a barn lean-to which fell on his leg. He was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Lightning struck a transformer during the storm, Mrs. Kappen said. The power went off at 4:30 and wasn't restored until early Thursday afternoon.

The tornado was somewhat fickle. Coming from the Perry farm, Mrs. Kappen said, it passed over the house of her son, Robert Kappen, but struck her farm.

Nervy thief arrested

Youth seeks reward offered for bike he stole at park

It pays to advertise in the Cass City Chronicle. It got Larry Buehrly his bicycle back.

It also resulted in the 16-year-old youth who took it being petitioned into juvenile court.

Buehrly, of Greenland Road, reported to Cass City police Monday, July 24, that his 10-speed bicycle was stolen that evening while he was watching a ball game in the village park.

He placed a classified ad in last week's Chronicle offering a reward for its return.

Last Friday, the teenager received a phone call from a boy on Warner Road who said he had the bike and would return it if Buehrly would come and get it.

Buehrly called Police Chief Gene Wilson, who went out there in place of the youth. After advising the boy of his rights, and with his mother present, the youth admitted taking the bike and also a 3-speed bike belonging to Clark Helwig of 4333 Ale Street. He had reported his bike missing to police Sunday, July 23.

The chief retrieved both bicycles and petitioned the youngster into juvenile court. Buehrly didn't pay him the reward, the chief said.

Bob Leslie has fair's top steer

The 1,244 pound Charolais of Bob Leslie was judged the grand champion steer Tuesday at the Tuscola County Fair.

Bob, 15, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Leslie of Leslie Road, Decker. He will be starting the 10th grade this fall at Cass City High School.

As a Cass City Future Farmers of America member, this was the first year Bob was eligible to enter the Tuscola fair. As a 4-H member, next week will be the fifth year he has entered the Sanilac County 4-H Fair.

In addition to winning the grand champion trophy, Bob also was senior showmanship champion in beef in judging Tuesday.

The grand champion will go on the auction block this Thursday during the annual livestock sale.

Unite pair in rites Saturday

Miss Cheryl M. Ledbetter of Dixon, Ill., and Curtis Rockefeller of Kankakee, Ill., were married Saturday, July 29, at the Church of the Nazarene in Dixon. The couple were married at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Rockefeller is the son of Donald Rockefeller of Cass City and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ledbetter of Dixon.

A reception was held following the ceremony at Loveland Community Building in Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rockefeller attended the wedding.

The groom is a student at Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Doerr

Mary Beth Windy and Richard Edward Doerr were married in a double-ring ceremony Saturday, June 24, at 4 p.m. at St. Pancratius Catholic church, Cass City.

Father Joseph Morales performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Windy Jr. of Cass City and the son of Mrs. Shirley Doerr of Cass City and the late Donald Doerr.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of organza with a high neckline "V" insert adorned with imported chantilly lace, long bishop sleeves enhanced with lace medallions, and a floor-length skirt of organza complemented by a chapel train.

A cloche lace headpiece secured her veil of imported illusion. The veil was in chapel length and was edged with imported chantilly lace. Her bouquet consisted of white roses, peach tipped carnations, stephanotis, lily of the valley and baby's breath.

Brenda Hahn of Cass City was the maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Cindy Doerr of Davison, sister of the groom, Ruth Windy of Cass City, sister of the bride, and Jenifer Kapala of Lapeer and Yvonne Hahn of Cass City, both friends of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Jackie Kapala of Lapeer, friend of the bride.

They wore identical apricot color gowns of organza sheer with round neckline and a cape effect over the shoulder, edged with lace. The skirt was floor length with lace edged hemline and a pick-up effect at the back. Bridesmaids carried bouquets of white roses, white and peach tipped carnations, white spider mums and baby's breath. The junior bridesmaid carried a white basket of the same flowers.

Joe Windy of Cass City was best man. Groomsman was Ivan Stine of Cass City, Rick Rabadieu of Gagelown, both friends of the groom, and John Doerr and Joe Doerr of Cass City, brothers of the groom. Junior groomsman was Jim Windy, of Cass City, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Paul Windy, brother of the bride, and Don Doerr, brother of the groom, both of Cass City.

The bride's mother wore a long polyester magic knit gown in apricot with polyester chiffon flowing cape. Her corsage was white sweetheart roses, peach tipped carnations and stephanotis.

The groom's mother wore a long knit gown in Nile green, featuring split Dolman sleeves, blouson bodice and full A-line skirt, her corsage of white sweetheart roses, green tipped carnations and stephanotis.

Paul Kerbyson was organist. Soloist was Tom Gunthier who sang "The Wedding Song."

A dinner and reception followed the ceremony at the Colony House, Cass City.

The bride is employed at Sommer's Bakery, Cass City, and the groom works at Doerr Farms, Cass City.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the couple now lives at 6622 N. Cemetery Rd., Cass City.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

There should be a big market for the Walbro water purifier in Belgium.

Over there it's impossible to drink water out of the tap, returning exchange students confide. Drinking water is bought in bottles, like pop.

There is only one drawback to possible booming sales, according to the students.

The Belgians never seem to want water when there is a bottle of wine available . . . and there is always one available.

It has to be one of three alternatives. Either the machine is off, the timing faulty or we have a pitching phenomenon in our midst.

Paul Harmer was pictured last week throwing a baseball at 103 miles an hour, as timed by radar.

If you don't know just how fast that is consider this: Mark Bird Fydrich has been timed and his hardest pitch is somewhere between 95 and 100. I don't say that the radar was off but I wouldn't want to be timed going down Main Street with it.

Speaking of malfunctioning equipment, how about the town whistle? It's been off about seven minutes for a week or more now.

When you think about it, about the only good reason I can think of for having it blow at noon and again at 5 p.m. is to make sure it's operating. That and as a conversation piece as residents check their watches.

Ordinarily Cliff Croft of Cass City isn't chagrined when he's left off the invitation list for meetings. After all, he's entitled to more than his share in a lifetime of public service. But he was mildly ticked when Chesaning Rotary didn't invite him to a meeting recently. The reason was that Guy Ilton was named Rotary Distinguished Citizen of 1978 for Chesaning.

"It just happens to be Croft's brother-in-law, Chilton, was a rural postal carrier for 42 years and active in local and civic affairs.

"To know him was to like him," a neighbor said at his funeral.

ate judge's suit o be dismissed

4½-year-old civil suit against Tuscola county late Probate Judge C. S. Wills is expected to be dismissed.

VOTE FOR PRINCIPLE
Retain Senator Alvin DeGrow

Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn has signed an order of dismissal presented to him by the executor of the Wills estate.

The order was then sent to Wills' attorney and must be filed with Saginaw County Circuit Judge Joseph McDonald, who was assigned the case after it was transferred from Tuscola county.

Wills filed suit in January, 1974, claiming the county owed him $23,950 in back pay, plus interest, dating from the time pay for probate judges was switched from a county responsibility to the state.

In June, the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners authorized Joslyn to file a countersuit, if necessary, contending Wills was not owed the money because, due to illness, he wasn't able to perform his judicial duties.

The countersuit was ready to be filed when the order for dismissal was received.

SUMMER LILIES -- Who says Easter Lilies are just for Easter? Katherine and Karl Weippert of 6351 Pine Street planted these lilies outside, that they received in a pot three years ago at Easter. Normally, such plants only sprout 8-10 blossoms, but this year 12 flowers blossomed. The first blossom came out July 20.

Rail car shortage means higher costs

Michigan shippers of grain, dry edible beans and other agricultural commodities are experiencing the most severe shortage of rail cars in history, according to B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Area elevators are among those feeling the pinch, and one result, according to an elevator manager, will be higher shipping costs paid by farmers.

James Turner, manager of the Blount Agriculture elevator in Gagetown, says he has ordered six rail cars from the Grand Trunk three times a week for the last 8-10 months. He has gotten an average of two cars per week.

One result has been the need to ship more grain out by truck, which costs seven cents per bushel more to haul than by railroad. "I guess in a sense, the farmer pays," Turner said of the added shipping cost, despite company efforts to keep the cost down.

The problem, he explained, is "Grand Trunk just doesn't seem to have the cars."

The situation seems to be improving, however. About a month ago, the elevator was notified the railroad had leased additional cars from Canadian National, Grand Trunk's parent company.

By then, arrangements had been made to truck grain from the Gagetown elevator to the one in Gifford, where a unit train from another railroad would haul it to market.

But with Grand Trunk now having more grain cars on hand, Turner said the situation should be improved for the fall harvest season.

Shipments from the Wickes Agriculture elevator in Cass City are arranged by the firm's Saginaw office.

Local manager Bob Wischmeyer said according to the firm's traffic coordinator, there hasn't been a problem in getting rail cars from the Grand Trunk, which serves Cass City. With the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, there have been delays of as long as two months before Wickes could get the cars needed.

Wickes prefer to ship grain by whatever means offers the biggest price advantage at the moment, Wischmeyer explained, which can change, from week to week. As of the beginning of the week, grain was being hauled out by truck. From there, the grain can go to the Wickes terminal in Saginaw and then be loaded on ships.

Contributing to the rail car shortage statewide, according to Ball, are cars being removed from service faster than they can be replaced or built; railroad industry problems in moving loaded cars to destination; and increased world demand for U.S. feed grains, causing rail car back-ups at eastern ports.

"Complaints that railroads serving terminal and country elevators are not furnishing a sufficient number of rail cars to ensure a steady movement of grains and dry edible beans to market are constantly received by the Michigan Department of Agriculture," he said.

Michigan grain and bean elevator operators appear to be utilizing the few cars available to best advantage. Cars are loaded promptly and elevator operators are asking receivers to unload quickly so they can be reused with minimum delay.

In an attempt to determine the current rail car situation, MDA recently conducted a survey of Michigan grain and bean elevators. Results of the survey show 2,501 rail cars were received within the last three months although an additional 1,354 cars were on order. However, because of the approaching harvest season, the number of cars needed within the next three months will increase to 4,725.

Officials of MDA have contacted railroad officials, Interstate Commerce Commission personnel and senators and congressmen in Washington to ask for their assistance in the crisis.

A telephone "hot-line" has been established at the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington so shippers and grain and bean elevator operators can alert the USDA to serious rail car shortages.

"If It Fitz. . ." $118 billion erratum?

By Jim Fitzgerald

The White House sent me an erratum. It reminded me of a practical joke, and it worried me.

I didn't know I'd received an erratum until several days after it arrived. By then it was too late. I'd thrown the erratum away. That's when the worrying began.

Not that an erratum is a rare thing. If you look hard enough, you can probably find more than one erratum on this page. More than one erratum, the plural for erratum.

An erratum is an error in printing or writing. A misspelled word in a book is an erratum. If it were misspelled through ignorance, you'd call it a mistake. If it were misspelled inadvertently, because a printer's finger hit the wrong key, you'd call it a typo.

You'd never call the misspelled word an erratum. You wouldn't say "I made a spelling erratum yesterday." Unless you worked in the White House.

The Office of Media Liaison, which is part of the White House press office, sends me a Background Report almost every day. The purpose of the report is to provide newsmen "with information that may assist you in informing the public." It makes me feel important to receive the report, and I usually read it, but the truth is that five minutes later I can't remember what I read.

This is my fault. I'd like to blame it on the people who write the report, for using such obscure words as "erratum." But the truth is that I have a lazy mind, to match my body, and I have trouble retaining information that doesn't interest me. Mostly, I remember who drove in the winning run when the Detroit Tigers won the World Series in 1935. I forget what the Office of Media Liaison said yesterday about the history of the legislative veto.

Which brings us to that practical joke mentioned at the top. It was popular back in the days when Western Union would deliver a telegram to your door, and you held your breath while opening it. Receiving a telegram then was an important, even alarming event. It usually announced life or death or the impending arrival of a rich relative who wanted to be picked up at the railroad depot.

The joke was to send someone a telegram saying: "Ignore previous telegram."

What previous telegram? What did it say? A person could go nuts worrying.

The Office of Media Liaison has sent me a small slip of paper, the size of a telegram, with "Erratum" printed in large letters at the top. The complete message is:

"In the June 22, 1978, Background Report on Federal Government Cash Management, on page 2, first paragraph, line 3, the correct figure would be: 'paid an extra $118 million interest on the funds it' (NOT $118 billion)."

Somehow I didn't catch that $117,882,000,000 erratum when I first read the June 22 Background Report. It slipped right by me. As a taxpayer, I believed I was paying $118 billion interest when actually I was paying only $118 million. Or maybe I believed I was collecting $118 billion when I was actually getting only $118 million. I can't remember.

That's the terrible thing. I arranged my personal budget that week based on the $118 billion figure, but now I don't know if it was income or outgo.

The June 22 report was long ago discarded. There's no way I can check to see what it said in line 2, or line 4, or on page 3. There's no way I can find out who paid $118 million to whom. There's no way I can adjust my budget because I don't know whether to add or subtract the $117,882,000,000.

All I can do is stare at the undetailed notification of erratum and curse my poor memory and worry about my budget being out of whack.

But maybe the whole thing is a practical joke, like the telegram. Maybe there was no June 22 Background Report. Maybe there can be no such thing as paying $118 million interest. What could the principal possibly be? Dumb.

Whenever I hear those billion-dollar figures coming out of Washington, I can't help thinking they're a lot of errata, or some dirty word.

It's unfortunate that Ed Moore of Bad Axe selected this time and this job to toss his hat in the political arena. It's unfortunate because there's a high regard here for the genial Republican from Hatchet City.

Moore is a candidate for State Senator from our 28th district. He is facing incumbent Al DeGrow.

And that's the rub. It's the sad case of one good man facing another good man.

DeGrow has been a State Senator for 10 years since he surprised everyone to defeat a herd of 12 candidates vying to replace retiring Sen. Frank Beadle.

Everything else being equal, any district will be better represented by a 10-year veteran than a political newcomer.

That's because as the seniority mounts, so does the clout. Right now DeGrow serves on the important appropriations committee.

That means he's in a position to influence legislation. He's got bargaining power with his colleagues because he has his hands on the purse strings.

DeGrow's been sensitive, if not always successful, to the needs and demands of the district.

In the decade he has been representing us at Lansing, there is little evidence that he has slipped into the complacency that sometimes afflicts veteran politicians.

For these reasons it's the recommendation here that DeGrow be re-elected.

As I said in the beginning, it's sad that Moore chose DeGrow to run against.

Moore is a proven, successful businessman and has paid his "dues" as a worker in the Republican party at the county level.

He would make us an able, articulate candidate. It would be far from disaster if he were sent to Lansing.

If he is defeated, and the political pros see him in an uphill battle, it will be the district's loss if he decides to pack it in and never run again.

Able persons willing to take the time and endure the hassle just to win a political office that they really don't need are rare.

It's to our advantage to keep them working for us if we can.

Moore is one of that breed and so is DeGrow.

Mike Krause, operations and engineering manager for Thumb Electric Cooperative, was unable to give a total number of customers who were without electric power. His firm serves rural customers in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties.

Most of its affected customers had power back by 10 or 11 Wednesday night, with the electricity going off about 5 p.m. A few customers, he said, had drop lines running from main lines to their houses down, but didn't report it until Thursday morning.

The hardest hit single area, he said, appeared to be in the Cumber Road area of Greenleaf and Austin townships of Sanilac county, where a main power line was down. About 150-200 customers were without electricity. A tornado struck in the area, damaging two homes about a half-mile apart.

In Tuscola county, outages were scattered and usually a small number in each location. Places without power included some in Novesta, Elkland, Ellington, and Columbia townships.

Bob Stevens, General Telephone customer service manager for the Thumb area, said other than possibly a few drop lines to houses being down, he was unaware of any problems with telephone service. That's because the company's service cables are buried underground.

Road crews apparently didn't have much work to do, at least in Tuscola county.

James Miklovic, Tuscola County Road Commission clerk, said in most instances where roads were blocked, farmers cleared the debris away, thus there wasn't much clean-up work for Road Commission crews to do on Thursday.

Competition is heated in the Tuesday primary for seats on county boards of commissioners.

In all county board districts in the area -- in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties -- more than one person is running in the Republican primary.

TUSCOLA COUNTY

Royce Russell and Clifford Ryan are seeking to succeed Maynard McConkey in representing district 2, which consists of Elmwood, Elkland, Ellington and Novesta townships, plus the northern part of Kingston township. Both are Republicans. No Democrats are running, thus the winner Tuesday will be the new commissioner.

Royce Russell

Russell, 53, of Green Road, Gagetown, was Elmwood township treasurer for 18 years before resigning this spring to run for commissioner.

A dairy farmer until four years ago, he was at one time president of the Sebewaing local of the Michigan Milk Producers Association and was also a local director of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association and Michigan Artificial Breeders Co-op. He now is a cash crop farmer.

He is a lifelong resident of Elmwood township.

Ryan, 60, of 4282 West Street, Cass City, a lifetime resident of the area, operated a John Deere dealership here for 18 years after World War II. He and his wife then ran Ryan's Men's Wear here for 10 years. He has since been associated with Rabideau Motors Farm Supply and Auten Motor Sales. He is now semi-retired.

Cliff Ryan

Ryan served for eight years on the Cass City village council in the 1950s.

SANILAC COUNTY

Lloyd Severance, 62, is seeking election to his fourth two-year term on the board from district No. 1, which consists of Greenleaf, Evergreen, Lamotte, Moore and Argyle townships.

He presently is chairman of the finance and personnel and insurance and bonds committees. In 1976, Severance served as chairman of the county board.

In the past, he has served as Evergreen township supervisor, treasurer and trustee and as a member of the Evergreen school board.

Lloyd Severance

He lives at 6003 Severance Road, Decker, and operates a dairy farm with his two sons.

Michael Lucas, 36, of Argyle Road, Snover, is presently a licensed builder of custom homes. He also is a certified auto and diesel mechanic and licensed social worker.

Michael Lucas

A former school teacher and car stylist for General Motors, he had been working for Sanilac County Mental Health Services for 2 1/2 years, in charge of its adult and work activity programs, when he was fired in 1976. He claims the action was because of union organizing activities and is now suing the Sanilac County Community Health Services Board, individual board members, and Sanilac County Board of Commissioners in federal district court for $3 million in damages, claiming violation of his civil rights.

He first ran for county commissioner two years ago.

The third candidate is Rev. Allen J. Lewis, 60, of N. Bulgreen Road, Snover. He has been a member of the mental health board for three years but says his candidacy has nothing to do with Lucas also running.

Ordained in 1939, Lewis was pastor of the Moore and Trinity United Methodist churches in Moore township for seven years. For the past seven years on a part-time basis, he has been minister at the Omard and Flynn United Methodist churches near Brown City.

Allen Lewis

He farmed for eight or nine years, giving that up last year, and taught English for four years in the Sandusky schools. He was chairman of the now-defunct Sanilac County Economic Opportunity Committee and the Thumb EOC and has served on the county Board of Canvassers.

Severance, Lucas and Lewis are Republicans. The winner Tuesday will face Democrat Eileen Riess of Snover in November.

In district 2, Joseph J. O'Connor of Minden City, is being opposed in the Republican primary by Donald R. Decker and William Lakatos, both of Deckererville. No Democrats are running.

The district is composed of Austin, Minden, Delaware, Wheatland and Marion townships.

HURON COUNTY

Edmund Good Sr., 70, of 8046 Bach Road, Gagetown, is serving his eighth year on the board from district 1, composed of Brookfield, Sebewaing and Fairhaven townships.

He presently is chairman of the committees on senior citizens, social services and health; recreation, parks, tourism, history and airports, and solid waste and sanitary landfills.

Good was a state representative from 1961-65 and chairman of the Huron County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for 20 years.

A lifetime resident of Brookfield township, he is a cash crop and dairy farmer.

Bruce Kuhl, 42, of Kuhl Road, Bay Port, first ran against Good two years ago.

He is president of the Michigan Milk Producers Association Sebewaing local, vice-president of the Huron County Farm Bureau, chairman of the building and grounds committee of the Bayshore Evangelical Association camp and past trustee of the Sebewaing - Kilmanagh Cemetery Association.

He owns a 365-acre dairy farm.

Good and Kuhl are both Republicans. No Democrats are running.

The same situation prevails in district No. 2, where only Republicans are running. Seeking to succeed Robert Grifka, who decided not to run for reelection, are Bruce Brown of Uby and William Nugent of Bad Ax.

The district consists of all the townships from Gratiot township east to Lake Huron.

Primary races in townships

Several area townships have primary races on the ballot Tuesday. There are millage proposals, for either roads or fire protection, in four townships.

Polls at the township halls are open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m. Townships where there are primary contests or millage proposals are as follows:

TUSCOLA COUNTY

Elkland -- Fay McComb of 4292 Maple Street, trustee since 1970, is being challenged for the Republican nomination by Jack McDaniel of 4645 Hunt Street. McComb is a builder; McDaniel is office manager and a co-owner of Anrod Screen Cylinder.

Ellington -- Incumbent Trustee Robert A. Wood of 3675 E. Caro Road is being challenged by Harry Steele Jr. of 3478 E. Akron Road for the Republican nomination.

SANILAC COUNTY

Austin -- Democrats Sylvester J. Bukoski of 8971 Tyre Road and Steven Mausolf are seeking the nomination for trustee.

Argyle -- Supervisor Gerald King of 2480 Argyle Road is being challenged in the Republican primary by Hazel L. Foote of Frieburg Road, presently township treasurer.

For the vacated treasurer spot, K.M. O'Connor and Darwin J. Moriarty of 1482 Main Street, Snover, are seeking the Republican nomination.

Also on the ballot will be renewal of one mill for three years for road maintenance and a half-mill for fire protection.

Moore -- There are three Republican primary contests. Incumbent Clerk Stanley Kohn is challenged by David Jansen; Treasurer Clayton Bitterling is opposed by Donna Freiburger, and Gary Schell is running against incumbent Trustee Colon Jury.

Evergreen -- The decision of Larry Puterbaugh to not seek reelection as supervisor has spurred a contest for the Republican nomination between Audrey Leslie of 3204 Leslie Road and write-in candidate William (John) Agar of 5965 Shabbona Road.

Mrs. Leslie, a bus driver for the Cass City schools, assisted Puterbaugh with the township books for three years and is a certified level 1 assessor. She and her husband, Dale, own a dairy farm.

Agar is a manufacturing engineer for Wickes Corp., active 4-H program leader, and a resident of the township for 15 years.

Greenleaf -- Renewal of one mill for fire protection for five years is on the ballot.

Lamotte -- Voters are being asked to approve renewal of two mills for two years for road maintenance and bridge repair.

HURON

Brookfield -- Incumbent treasurer John Draschil of 8674 Rescue Road is being opposed for the Republican nomination by Robert McPhail of 7679 Sebewaing Road.

Grant -- Renewal of three mills for three years for road maintenance is on the ballot.

PEDALING AROUND

Election reflections

By Mike Eliasohn

If I ever run for political office, I have one necessary qualification — one of the jobs I had while attending college was washing pots and pans in a dormitory cafeteria kitchen.

That seems to be one of the things political candidates are stressing this year, how in reaching their present pinnacle of success, they had jobs like us mortals, driving a truck, working in a factory, etc.

It is easy to get cynical about politicians, especially in election years. Can't any of them, for instance, come up with a different television commercial than the one of them with suit jacket off talking to a group of supposedly ordinary people?

The idea, of course, is to show how the politician is sympathetic to the needs of the common man.

This is not going to be a cynical treatise on how rotten politicians are, believe it or not. It bothers me, for instance, when I see newspapers — or more correctly, their publishers — take the attitude in print that all politicians are crooks. No wonder the public gets cynical.

Not that I think all politicians represent truth and enlightenment. There is too much of an attitude of "What can I do for my district to get the most votes?", instead of, "What can I do that is best for all of us?"

To paraphrase whoever said it first, "Democracy is a disorganized mess, but it's better than the alternative."

Like it or not, our present political system is the best we've got.

And as screwed up as our Michigan legislature seems, it is better than those of some states. To cite an example, our legislators didn't hesitate to ban fireworks after the loophole in the state law was discovered that made them legal.

In many states, however, fireworks are legal and still maiming children, their politicians afraid to bar anything that can make someone a buck.

One thing that bothers me each election is how truly difficult it is for someone who cares to make an intelligent decision on whom to vote for.

It is very difficult, and maybe impossible, to know how one's legislators vote on issues in Lansing or Washington.

It is also impossible, amid the barrage of promises, to know whether any of their opponents will be an improvement.

It isn't possible to get campaign literature on all the candidates, especially in a small town, and the newspapers and radio and television can't report everything.

Thus we are almost forced to make our choice by intuition — he seems honest, what he does say makes sense, at least he seems intelligent.

It disturbs me more when people don't even bother to try to be informed, dismissing all politicians with a "They're all corrupt, anyway."

One-party districts, which seem to be the rule rather than the exception, bother me. I've lived in districts where only Republicans get elected and in districts where only Democrats get elected and all too often, once a politician in such districts gets elected, he is set for life, no matter what he does or doesn't do.

As bad as persons not running, which is common in local elections.

Office holders don't get challenged in elections and sometimes, there is no one running for an office.

To those that do run for local offices, my congratulations and sympathy. For all the work and grief involved, we should feel fortunate that there are some willing to serve.

My only complaint is there should be more like them.

PREPARED

In today's world a man need not worry about the years ahead of him if he has spent the years behind him intelligently.

VISITORS — Kyosti Karttunen, 17, (left) from Finland and Charlotte Oskarsson, 18, from Sweden have been visiting Cass City as participants in the Lions Club exchange program. Kyosti, who has been staying with the Ken Martin family, arrived June 29 and departs Monday. Charlotte, who stayed with the Allen Witherspoon family, arrived June 25 and left last Wednesday.

Sanilac 4-H fair features exhibits

The annual Sanilac County Fair is ready for its opening Monday and the week-long event is again crammed with special attractions for Thumb residents.

As always, the fair will feature wholesome entertainment and the accent will be on the many exhibits and 4-H and open contests that are run daily.

Fair authorities said that despite rapidly escalating costs, the low admission price of $1 per person would be maintained.

The complete program:

MONDAY

Judging starts at 9 a.m. with 4-H and open class foods.

At 1 p.m. is judging of horticulture, vegetables, landscaping and natural beauty and 4-H horses and ponies. Litter barrels are judged at 5 p.m.

Tractor pulling starts at 7 p.m. with the following classes: 0-16 horsepower garden, 1,000-pound modified garden, 1,750 mini, 5,500 superstock, 7,500 superstock, 5,200 limited modified, 6,000 farm, and 6,000 4-wheel drive pickup.

TUESDAY

Tuesday is Senior Citizens Day.

All remaining non-animal exhibits will be judged starting at 9 a.m., including animal science and veterinary science, plus 4-H horses, hogs and ponies. Poultry is judged at 1 p.m. and dogs at 6 p.m.

The tractor operation contest is at 11 a.m. Pony pulling is at 4 p.m.

The musical group "Sunshine Express" is back for the second year in a row, with shows at 7 and 9. The group is composed of six young men and three young women.

The 4-H king and queen contest is at 8 p.m. The winners will succeed Eric Hodge and Debbie Mahaffy, both of Snover and both members of the Lucky Stars 4-H Club.

WEDNESDAY

Wednesday is Children's Day, with special prizes for rides from 1-6 p.m.

Judging of 4-H beef is at 9 a.m. and 4-H dairy goats at 7 p.m.

The motorcycle rodeo starts at 8 p.m. New events this year will be a slalom race, broadjumping contest, slow race and "wheelie" contest. The "Spirit of '76" professional stunt team will also perform.

THURSDAY

Judging of 4-H dairy animals starts at 9 a.m. Rabbit judging starts at 10. Sweepstakes showmanship judging begins at 5:30 p.m. Swine, sheep and beef will be sold in that order at the livestock sale, starting at 6:30.

The demolition derby starts at 8.

FRIDAY

Children's Day prices for the rides will again prevail from 1-6 p.m.

Judging of 4-H horses and ponies begins at 9 a.m. Tractor pulling starts at 7 p.m. Scheduled classes are 5,200-pound modified, 7,200 modified, 9,500 open, 9,000 farm, 13,000 farm and 7,000 antique.

SATURDAY

Entries for the open class horse show will be accepted after 8 a.m. The show starts at 9. Horse pulling starts at 2, with both light and heavy-weight classes.

All exhibits will be released at 3 p.m.

Country music singers Clover Willis and Stella Parton will perform at 7 and 9 p.m.

Labor safety law class set

United Steelworkers Local 6222 and District 29 will present a class this fall in Cass City on the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act: Employees' Rights and Responsibilities.

The class is open to all union members and their families. It will run Monday nights from 7-9, starting Sept. 18 and running through Oct. 30, in the Local 6222 hall at 6240 Main Street.

Local 6222 represents workers at General Cable. District 29 is paying expenses for the class.

Persons interested in attending are asked to call local President Grace Nemeth at 872-2554.

Class topics will include petitioning for changes in standards and rules, requesting inspections, participating in inspections, abatement requirements, protective equipment and apparel, and complaints.

Three seek new judge's post for Tuscola—Lapeer Counties

Three candidates are vying for the newly created third judgeship in the 40th Judicial Circuit, composed of Tuscola and Lapeer counties.

They are Tuscola County Prosecutor Patrick Joslyn, Tuscola County Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr., and Lapeer County District Judge John P. Spires. The two candidates getting the most votes Tuesday will face each other in the Nov. 7 general election. A 10-year term is at stake.

Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements is unopposed for election for another six-year term in the 40th circuit.

PATRICK JOSLYN

A Caro resident, Joslyn was appointed county prosecutor in January, 1976 to replace George Holmes, who resigned, and was then elected to a four-year term in November, 1976.

A native of St. Johns and veteran of four years in the Navy, he has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and received his law degree from the Detroit College of Law.

From November, 1971 to February, 1972, he worked with a St. John's law firm, then went to work as an assistant prosecutor for Clinton county, continuing to do some private work in his spare time. He was chief assistant prosecutor when hired as prosecutor for Tuscola county.

Patrick Joslyn

Joslyn, 37, is president of the Tuscola County Bar Association and a Rotary member. He is a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Prosecutors Association and has taught at seminars for the association and for the Michigan State Police Academy since 1972. He and his wife and five children live in Caro.

WALLACE KENT

W. Wallace Kent Jr., 36, was elected probate judge in November, 1976. His term has four years remaining.

A Kalamazoo native, he graduated from Kalamazoo College and received his law degree from the University of Michigan. He practiced law with the Caro law firm of Ransford, Kent and Crews from late 1967 until he became probate judge.

He serves on the Michigan State Bar Association Juvenile Law Committee, the Michigan Ad Hoc Committee for the Revision of Child Placing Agency Rules, Michigan Probate Judges Juvenile Affairs Committee and the Caro Regional Center Citizens Advisory Council.

He is a former president, vice-president and treasurer of the 40th Circuit Bar Association and former local counsel to the Michigan State Bar Association grievance board.

As probate judge, he has been assigned to both the district and circuit courts here and as visiting probate and juvenile judge in several counties.

He and his wife and family live in Caro.

Wallace Kent

Kent has been endorsed by the United Auto Workers Thumb Area Political Action Committee.

JOHN P. SPIRES

John P. Spires, 47, earned his B.A. and law degrees at Wayne State University. He is a native of Pontiac.

He held a variety of jobs before becoming an attorney, including service in the U.S. Army and as an insurance casualty claims adjuster and claims supervisor.

He was a practicing attorney from 1964-68 and Lapeer county prosecutor in 1968-69. He was first elected district judge in 1970.

He started the Lapeer County Citizens Probation Council, a volunteer organization which works with first offenders as an alternative to formal prosecution.

He has been assigned as a visiting judge to Wayne County Circuit Court, Detroit Records Court and some other county district courts.

John Spires

If elected, he says he will move with his wife and four children to Tuscola county, the date depending on when he can sell his house near Lapeer.

Sanilac bean tour Thursday

This Thursday, Aug. 3, at 6:30 p.m. is the date for the Sanilac County Bean Growers Tour and Picnic. The group will make two tour stops and then have their evening picnic and program.

The tour and picnic are sponsored by the Sanilac Bean Growers Association and the Sanilac County Cooperative Extension Service. The board members wives are in charge of the evening meal.

The first stop, at 6:30, will be the Stone Brothers farm, one mile east of Sandusky and one mile north on Banner Road. This stop will be to look at dry beans and sugar beets and how soil compaction inhibits root growth.

The second stop will be at the John Parrent farm. The field is 2 miles north of Sandusky and then a half-mile west on Custer Road. At this stop the group will be viewing approximately 75 different varieties of navy and colored beans.

The final stop will be at Parrent's farm pond for a free evening meal.

A short program will feature John Knoerr, Michigan Bean Commission member, and Gary Flynn, Wickes Corp.

Expand PBB livestock tests

Gov. William G. Milliken has signed Senate Bill 1605, expanding the state's PBB law to include poultry and other livestock, as well as dairy cattle.

It expands the definition of livestock to include all bovine animals, sheep, swine and goats and defines poultry as chickens, turkeys, geese and ducks.

The new law authorizes the Michigan Department of Agriculture director to test a representative sample of livestock or poultry on farms which were quarantined before Oct. 4, 1977, if five of the farm's livestock or poultry exceeded the federal guideline of .3 parts per million PBB, or if one of the farm's livestock or poultry contained more than five parts per million PBB.

The director is given discretionary authority to test livestock or poultry on a farm on which 30 percent or more of the dairy cattle have been found to be contaminated above the state's guideline of 20 parts per billion PBB in animal fat or five parts per billion PBB in milk. He can also direct tests if he has reason to believe the livestock or poultry are intended for human consumption and are contaminated.

Farmers will receive $10 for each animal tested.

The law also: —Authorizes the Director of Agriculture to quarantine or condemn livestock or poultry which exceed 20 parts per billion PBB and authorizes indemnity at market value as if the animal were not contaminated.

—Prohibits an owner of contaminated livestock from selling the animals for breeding or production purposes without informing both the agriculture department and supplying test results to the buyer.

—Requires the Department of Natural Resources to pick up and dispose of all animals which die after biopsy and before the slaughter certificate is issued.

NOTICE

SERVICES FOR PERSONS UNABLE TO PAY THEREFOR

Hills and Dales General Hospital, 4675 Hills Street, Cass City, MI 48726 has certified that in the current fiscal period from April 1, 1978 to March 31, 1979 it will not exclude any person from admission on the grounds that such person is unable to pay for needed services, and that it will make available to each person so admitted services provided by the facility without charge or at a charge which does not exceed such person's ability to pay therefor.

The services set out above meet the presumptive compliance guidelines of the Federal regulations.

Copies of the criteria used for identifying persons unable to pay for services may be obtained at the business office of the facility.

Records and documents on the basis of which the above decision was established are available for public inspection at 342 North Logan Street, Lansing, Michigan between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on regular business days.

Tot injured in bike-car mishap

Seven-year-old Nicholas Sanson was injured Tuesday, July 25, when he rode his bicycle into the side of a car.

The youngster, of 3446 Phillips Road, Cass City, was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment. He was released from there Friday.

Sheriff's deputies reported Audrey L. Wilson, 44, of 5965 Kingsbury Street, Kingston, was northbound on Phillips Road when the boy rode his bicycle out of the driveway at his house into the side of her car.

Howard E. Hare, 67, of Hoppe Road, Unionville, was taken to Hills and Dales after an accident Wednesday, July 26. He was released from there the following day.

Deputies said Hare was driving a stake truck southbound on M-138, north of Hoppe Road, behind a combine. The driver of an unknown northbound vehicle first stopped south of a narrow bridge to allow the traffic to cross, then started to cross it.

Hare was forced to stop on the bridge and his truck was hit in the rear by the semi-truck following him, driven by William L. Vanderpool, 20, of White Creek Road, Kingston.

Vanderpool was ticketed on a charge of failure to stop in an assured clear distance. Scott A. McLeod, 18, of Cass City, was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital following a 1 p.m. mishap Friday.

Deputies said he was riding in the back of a pickup driven by Melvin Ertman, 49, of Fairgrove, and was injured when he fell off.

The truck was being driven on Garner Road, south of Akron Road in Gilford township.

Deputies reported Friday afternoon that Sally J. Langenburg, 24, of 4488 Leach Street, Cass City, was backing a delivery truck out of a driveway at 2470 E. Dayton Road, Caro, and struck a parked car. The right front of the truck hit the left rear of the car, owned by Pauline Bills of that address.

At 4:42 p.m. Sunday, deputies reported, Donald J. Smith, 44, of Burton and Joseph S. Sroka, 58, of Dearborn, were both headed southwest on M-81.

Smith attempted a left turn onto Colwood Road as Sroka was attempting to pass him and their two cars collided.

Eldon Stoutenburg, 44, of 4291 Maple Street, was ticketed by Cass City police on a charge of failure to yield right of way after investigation of an accident Tuesday, July 25.

Stoutenburg was driving a village-owned truck south on Ale Street and struck the car of Richard Erla, 53, of 4633 Huron Street, who was eastbound on Main Street.

HONORED — Steve Ross and Carl Palmateer, Pack 3594 cubmaster, look at the certificate Steve received honoring him for rescuing his sister, Amy, 4, who is at left.

Scouts honor Steve Ross

Steve Ross, 9, a member of Cub Scout Pack 3594, has been presented with a certificate of merit from the Lake Huron Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America for having rescued his sister, Amy, 4, from possible drowning.

Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross of 4417 Brookier Street.

The incident took place in March while the Ross family was visiting relatives on Tomlinson Road, Caro.

Steve, Amy and their brother Darren were playing outside alongside a ditch. Amy stepped to the edge, which gave way, dropping her into the water-filled ditch. Because of the spring thaw, the water was flowing rapidly.

While Darren ran for help, Steve stepped onto the muddy bank and was able to pull his sister out of the water.

Cubmaster Carl Palmateer presented Steve with the certificate of merit during the Cub Scout field day in the Cass City Recreation Park July 22.

The certificate honors him for his meritorious action in demonstration of Scouting's best traditions.

Steve holds the rank of Wolf and is a member of Den 4.

Youth arrested after chase

A 16-year-old Caro boy was ordered to appear in juvenile court after he was apprehended by Cass City police after a lengthy car chase that started about 10 p.m., July 25.

Officer Bill Moore clocked the car involved going 51 miles per hour westbound on Main Street and gave chase. The car turned south on Doerr Road, west on Elmwood Road, and then south on Phillips Road.

The road dead ends there and the driver pulled into a yard and turned off the car's lights. He was then taken into custody by Moore.

Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. ordered the youth lodged in the county jail until he could be turned over to his mother. He scheduled a hearing in his court July 27.

A passenger in the car, Julie A. Hawley, 19, of Caro, who was its owner, was cited on a charge of allowing an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle.

Dale Deering of Cass City reported to Huron county deputies that his Lamplighter Restaurant in Sebawaing was broken into during the week end. The intruders escaped with $550 taken from a cash register in the dining room, along with $150 in supplies. More than $500 in an office drawer was untouched.

Deering also owns the Big D Restaurant in Cass City. Ugly police are investigating a break-in last week at Ugly High School. Taken was a $150 fog generator and a gray-colored jacket.

In addition, ignition wires were cut on two buses in the parking lot in an apparent attempt to start the vehicles.

The break-in was discovered last Thursday morning. Stuart Merchant of 5449 N. Cemetery Road reported to the sheriff's department July 18 that a headset and microphone were stolen from his plane at Rolling Hills Airport. Value was $110.

Caro state police arrested Timothy G. Phillips, 73, of 4533 West Street, Cass City, at 12:10 a.m. Friday on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. His car was stopped along M-81 between Hurds Corner and Elmwood Roads. He was released from jail later the same day after posting bond, pending his appearance in district court.

Dale Damm of Damm Agricultural Implements, 6544 Main Street, reported to Cass City police Sunday morning that someone threw a stone through a front window while he was inside, putting a 3-inch hole in the window.

Cass City police at 2:30 a.m. Sunday arrested Lawrence J. Bulla, 20, of Elkton, on a warrant from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department for aggravated assault after they spotted him driving a car.

They stopped his car on Cemetery Road near Milligan Road.

Bulla was released from jail on bond Monday.

Faculty vs. facilities

Is there a yardstick that parents and taxpayers can use to determine the successful school district?

Dr. Dorothy S. Strickland, the president of the International Reading Association, and a professor at Kean College in New Jersey, thinks there is.

"A successful district is one in which fiscal resources are predominantly invested in personnel rather than facilities, per se.

"Successful schools have acceptable pupil-teacher ratios, teacher aides to assist in individualized instruction, and often a reading specialist or program coordinator," she claims.

SURVIVORS -- John (Richie) Kamrad, (right) and his son John, 15, stand on top of what was once part of the barn roof at the Dorothy Perry farm. They had just closed a barn door when the tornado hit.

TORNADO DAMAGE -- Most of the debris is part of the barn roof. The wind tore off the porch behind the debris. Two boards which pierced the roof can be seen in the photo. Owner Dorothy Perry hasn't lived in the home on McGregor Road for six years.

Sanilac Bean Queen

5 candidates seek crown

Five local Sanilac young ladies will be competing for the title of 1978 Sanilac County Bean Queen. The new queen will be crowned at the Sanilac County 4-H Fair Friday evening, Aug. 11.

The girls running for bean queen are: Deborah Broecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Broecker, 3066 Hadley Road, Decker; Debra Himmel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Himmel, 6395 Bailey Road, Brown City; Nancy Maynard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Maynard, 1624 Banner Road, Sandusky; Margaret Messing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Messing, Hyde Road, Carsonville; and Sally Wadsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wadsworth, 5081 Richmondville Road, Deckerville.

The Bean Growers Board Members, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Flynn, Sandusky, and

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Clark, Crosswell, took the contestants to dinner July 26. At this time the three judges had dinner with them and then selected the winner.

The judges were Dean Berden, Snover; Michael Heussner, Marlette; and Bob Groat, Crosswell.

The new Sanilac queen will represent the Sanilac Bean Growers at the Fairgrove Bean Festival where the state bean queen will be selected.

The local growers and agri-businesses, in addition to taking the girls out to dinner, will provide the queen with a sash and tiara. Corsages will be furnished to each girl the night of the fair.

The Michigan Bean Commission will provide the queen with a check for $50 toward expenses for the state contest at Fairgrove. Last year's Bean Queen was Agnes Mausolf of Deckerville.

JUNK -- A bystander examines the remains of the mobile home of Larry and Linda Young on Cumber Road, Greenleaf township. The undercarriage of the structure is on top, at left. The concrete slab the home was mounted on is about 30 feet off to the right.

Young leaves, tornado slams into trailer

Until 4:55 p.m. last Wednesday, Larry and Linda Young lived in a mobile home located on the farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Brown, on Cumber Road, west of Germania Greenleaf township.

That was when a tornado destroyed their mobile home. If it had come a moment sooner, it would have taken Larry Young with it.

Mrs. Brown had asked Larry to come over to the house. His wife at the time was in Caro.

"I figured big deal, rain, I shut the windows and went outside," Young said. "I never saw the tornado until it was a mile away. I saw it as a neighbor saw two small clouds."

He figured the tornado ripped the mobile home over 1 1/2 times, with the unit or what was left of it landing upside down about 30 feet south of the concrete slab it had been moored to with six anchors. Pieces of his house were scattered as far as a mile to the east, according to Young, who works at a mobile home factory in Marlette.

He and his wife are staying at her parents' until a new home can be erected.

The tornado also struck about a half-mile to the east on Cumber Road, at the brick home of Michael Kolar, which he shares with his brother, Peter Kolar, and sister, Mary Beno.

The wind knocked down the chimney at the east end of the house and peeled off the roof at that end.

Most of the damage inside, according to Mrs. Beno, was from falling bricks and water that came in after the portion of the roof was torn off. Bricks from the house were found as far as Cumber, about a mile away.

The wind also peeled off the roof of the metal garage nearby.

Michael Kolar was in the basement when the tornado struck and Peter was going down the stairs.

Mrs. Beno, a widow, was in a bedroom at the west end of the house. "I said, 'Oh, my God, we're going,'" when she saw the funnel approaching, she recalled later.

She managed to make it to the east end of the house.

By Thursday morning, carpenters were already at work to repair the damage, sent there by Kolar's insurance agent.

RETRIEVAL MISSION -- Larry Young hunts for undamaged items amid the wreckage of his mobile home on Cumber Road in Greenleaf township. Clocks inside stopped at 4:55 p.m. last Wednesday, indicating what time the tornado hit.

DISTRICT COURT

Julius S. Wright, 23, of 6217 Lakeside Drive, Cass City, pleaded guilty Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern to possession of fireworks.

The judge accepted his plea and fined him $15, with court costs of $20.

Wright was arrested on the charge July 23 by Cass City police.

Michael J. Walker, 23, of Phillips Road, Kingston, stood mute to a charge of supplemental information, that of being an habitual offender.

He stood mute to the charge and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

He is charged with cashing a fraudulent check for $76 at the IGA store in Caro

Dinsmore's ex-wife to testify at trial

The ex-wife of Donald Dinsmore will be one of witnesses when he goes to trial for a second time, charged with two counts of murder in the Sept. 23, 1977 slayings of his former in-laws.

A Circuit Court jury was unable to reach a verdict on the rural Akron resident who was tried for the first time in late April and early May.

A second trial before Judge Martin E. Clements started Aug. 22. The jury is scheduled to run five days.

Monday, the judge denied a prosecution motion to endorse the former Dinsmore and Donald as witnesses.

Clements granted one defense motion, to allow an expert witness to examine exhibits in the case. He denied a motion to set aside the trial for Dinsmore and for county to pay the cost of transcript for the defense of a new trial.

Clements reserved judgment on a fourth defense motion until the time of the motion being for a change in venue (holding of trial in another county).

Dinsmore, who is still in county jail, is represented by Michael Gorte Ray City.

The defendant is charged with shooting his former in-laws, Henry Beamish, 64, and his wife, Frances, 62, in their home on Waterman Road, Vassar.

In other action Monday before Judge Clements:

Samuel E. Trisch was sentenced to 5-21 years in the state Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for being an habitual offender.

He was originally sentenced to 4-14 years in prison after being found guilty April 12 of forgery in the writing of a forged check for $250.

He later pleaded guilty to being an habitual offender, admitting he was a second felony offender, which under state law meant he could be resented, with the maximum penalty increased by half.

His pleading guilty to being an habitual offender was in a plea bargain agreement with the prosecution, in return for which he was allowed to plead guilty in another case to a reduced charge of attempted forgery.

He was later sentenced in that case to 3-5 years in prison, which will be served concurrently with the sentence for forgery.

Trisch, 32, is from Caro. Michael J. Walker, 23, of Phillips Road, Kingston, stood mute to a charge of supplemental information, that of being an habitual offender.

He stood mute to the charge and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

He is charged with cashing a fraudulent check for $76 at the IGA store in Caro

Democrats crowd ballot in Tuesday primary

Persons planning to vote in the Democratic portion of the ballot in the primary Tuesday will have lots of choices to make for statewide races.

Those voting Republican only have one choice, in the race for U.S. Senator.

Gov. William G. Milliken is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

There are four Democrats fighting for the nomination in order to oppose him Nov. 7. They are:

-Zolton Ferency of East Lansing, 55, a lawyer and associate professor of criminal justice at Michigan State University.

-William B. Fitzgerald, 36, a state senator from Detroit.

-Patrick H. McCollough, 36, a state senator from Dearborn.

-William R. Ralls of Birmingham, 39, an attorney and member of the Michigan Public Service Commission from 1971-76.

The race is even more crowded for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator. Candidates are:

-Paul A. Rosenbaum, a state representative from Battle Creek and chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

-Richard A. VanderVeen, a lawyer and former Congressman from Grand Rapids.

-Anthony A. Derezinski, a state senator from Muskegon and chairman of the Senate Corporations and Economic Development Committee.

-Carl Levin of Detroit, a lawyer and former president of the Detroit City Council.

-John R. Otterbacher, a state senator from Grand Rapids and chairman of the Senate Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee.

-Phil Power, from Ann Arbor, publisher of 27 suburban Detroit newspapers.

For the Republican nomination, incumbent U.S. Senator Robert Griffin of Traverse City is being challenged by Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson. Griffin served in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1957 to May, 1966, when he was appointed to fill a vacancy and has been elected to two six-year terms since then.

The Michigan Court of Appeals, second district, covers 14 counties, including Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac.

The top two vote getters in the non-partisan contest will face each other in November. Running are:

-The incumbent, Walter P. Cynar of Warren, a Macomb county circuit judge from 1966 until March of this year, when Gov. Milliken appointed him to the appeals court bench.

-Luke Quinn, a Genesee county probate judge.

-E. Thomas Fitzgerald. No information was received by the Chronicle about him.

Persons voting in the election Tuesday can only vote for candidates in one party, Democratic or Republican, or in the party qualification section for only one of the three minority parties listed.

Rough roads

The Federal Highway Administration reports America's roads are deteriorating 50% faster than they are being upgraded or maintained.

Almost 20% of our 564,000 bridges are deficient by Department of Transportation standards. One hundred-fifty to two hundred bridges buckle or collapse each year.

Nearly two-thirds of America's 3.8 million miles of roads are unpaved. Many of them were built 40 years ago. The average road is designed for 20-year use.

Poor road conditions cause accidents and delays and contribute to wasteful use of precious, increasingly expensive fuel.

SHERMAN, PARIS, BINGHAM, SHERIDAN AND GRANT

Nominate and Elect
BRUCE BROWN
Huron County Commissioner
DISTRICT 2

Dear Voters,

I am running for Huron County Commissioner of District 2 and would appreciate your vote.

I have served on the Ugly Village Council for eight years and six years on the Huron County Dept. of Public Works. I am an active member of the Ugly Lions Club, Community Club and Thumb Veterans Organization. I have served as President of the board of the Huron County Sheltered Workshop for five years. I am a life long resident of Michigan, (born and raised in Snover), and have resided in Ugly the past thirteen years. I was manager of Bloch & Guggenheimer Pickle Co. in Bad Axe until 1971 and since that time, own and operate Huron Vending & Ice Service.

I am a strong supporter of local control in government. Big Government means big spending. On the local level we know our needs and have the ability to use the most economical way to accomplish this goal.

I feel that the Commissioners should work together for the betterment of the whole County and not just one district, village or city. We all benefit if the County works together as a unit.

I feel it is time for a change on the Board of Commissioners!

YOUR SUPPORT IS NEEDED AND WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED — AUGUST 8 PRIMARY

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS written requests have been made to the Village Council of Cass City for the vacation of the following described alley in the Village of Cass City:

Commencing at the NE corner of Lot 1, Seeds Park addition to the Village of Cass City, Section 27, Town 14 North, Range 11 East, Elkhart Township, Tuscola County, Michigan, thence West 264 feet to the NW corner of Lot 4, thence North 33 feet to the SW corner of Lot 5, thence East 264 feet to the SE corner of Lot 8, thence South 33 feet to the point of beginning.

and which requests were filed by the owners of all the lots contiguous to both sides of said alley; and

WHEREAS, it appears that said platted alley was never actually constructed or open to public use as an alley, and nor does it benefit adjacent properties so as to require its preservation as a public alley in the Village of Cass City.

NOW THEREFORE, Be It Resolved that the Village Council deems it advisable to vacate, discontinue and abolish said alley pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, and for that purpose does further resolve that the Clerk shall give notice that a public hearing will be held on August 29, 1978, at which time this council shall meet and hear objections thereto, if there be any, and after which time it will take final action on this vacation petition. The Clerk shall cause said notice to be placed in the time of said meeting, along with a copy of this resolution, to be published in the Cass City Chronicle in each of three weeks consecutively prior to the date of the hearing.

Army worm threat passes — second invasion due as new eggs hatch

The army worms didn't stay in Tuscola county long enough to become a plot for a new Hollywood movie.

What county Extension Director Bill Bortel called the worst outbreak ever seen here of the green and yellow pest started about three weeks ago and has now subsided.

Damage was scattered throughout the county, according to Bortel. There weren't any farmers who lost all of their corn or oat crop to the pest, but in fields where the worms were, damage was severe.

In most instances, either the existence of the worms was discovered too late or farmers couldn't get a plane to spray in time to prevent much damage.

Bortel was unable to give an estimate on how much acreage was lost to the pests countywide but guessed the percentage was very small.

The loss was about evenly divided between corn and oats, he said.

One place invaded by army worms in the area was the Art Little farm at Dodge and Little Roads, rented by the McNeil Brothers of the Colwood area.

The fields were sprayed by airplane July 22. Bob McNeil hadn't inspected the fields of late when contacted by the Chronicle Monday, but guessed probably 40 out of 140 acres of corn were lost.

Spraying only killed maybe 60-70 percent of the worms, enough to save some of the crop.

McNeil said in the Colwood area, the army worms were not only attacking corn and oats, they were also eating barley.

At the Howard Hill farm on Robinson Road, spraying of oats took place July 22. Mrs. Hill said the extent of damage wouldn't be known until the field was harvested.

Although the army worms are disappearing, they will be back.

The worms mature into moths, which lay eggs, up to 2,000 per moth. They prefer to lay the eggs in grassy areas, such as fence rows, small grains, or in annual grasses.

The eggs will hatch into new army worms, which will then repeat the process, lasting two to three weeks before the pupa stage arrives, when they spin their cocoon and mature into a moth.

Bortel said the next batch won't be nearly as destructive, as the grasses they need to feed on won't be as plentiful at that stage.

The army worms haven't been the only problem for Michigan farmers this year.

Michigan State University has now issued a warning to farmers to be on the alert for corn rootworms.

In normal years, the adult stage of the corn rootworm isn't much of a problem. This year, because wet weather resulted in a lot of corn being planted late, adult beetles and corn silks will be present in fields at the same time, which could mean trouble.

"Adult corn rootworms can severely damage corn by eating the silk as fast as it grows and interfering with pollination and grain set," said Bob Ruppel, extension entomologist at Michigan State University. "Ordinarily pollination is completed before the adults emerge, but this year, we could have large numbers of adults present even before the silks come out."

So far, corn rootworm adults have been spotted in Ingham, Lenawee, Kalamazoo, St. Joseph and Cass counties. They will move farther north as time goes by.

Growers who want to prevent serious damage to corn crops should start checking their fields when tasseling starts, Ruppel advised. If they find four or more corn rootworm adults per ear and pollination has not occurred, they should apply an aerial spray of malathion, Sevin or diazinon.

Look for hard-shelled, very active beetles about one-fourth inch long with long antennae. Either or both of two species may be found in Michigan. The northern corn rootworm is pale green or yellow. The western corn rootworm may be yellow or red with three black stripes down its wings.

It's possible to confuse the corn rootworm adult with the striped cucumber beetle, but, if large numbers are present in corn, growers can be fairly sure it's the corn rootworm.

In addition to chewing the corn silks on this year's crop, the adult beetles will mate and lay eggs that will hatch into next year's corn root pests. Feeding by the immature beetles can cause severe damage.

Growers who have had problems with these insects often apply an insecticide at planting time to protect the corn roots. At best, these controls reduce adult emergence by only about 50 percent, however. They are no guarantee that the adults will not be a problem.

"There's not much growers can do about the larvae now, but they can take steps to meet the threat posed by the adults," Ruppel said. "Especially where corn planting was delayed, growers should check fields carefully and apply control sprays as needed."

This seems to be the year for farm pests in the state.

Cutworms are another problem. Bortel said there hasn't been a major outbreak here yet, and if there is, it will probably be confined to vegetable crops, of which there isn't much in the county. That won't be a consolation to those growing vegetables if an outbreak occurs, he added.

DAMAGED CORN — Unlike the army worms, which strip the corn leaves down to the central rib, the greyish-brown cutworms eat large chunks of the leaves as well as the stalk of the plant. Parrott plans to spray to get rid of the infestation.

Grasshoppers have also been devouring crops in some parts of the state, primarily alfalfa, but with some damage to soybeans, corn, oats and peas. So far, according to Bortel, there hasn't been a grasshopper infestation in the county.

UNWELCOME VISITORS — The fingers and the corn belong to William Parrott of 3121 Dodge Road, Cass City. Unfortunately, so do what have been tentatively identified as army cutworms, not army worms. County Agricultural Agent Don Kebler plans to send some to Michigan State University for positive identification.

Water heater energy tips

If you have a gas water heater, you are already using an efficient energy appliance—using it and your laundry equipment wisely can save even more energy and money:

(1) Lower water-temperature setting to 120 degrees F. A savings of 10-20% in water heating costs can be achieved; (2) Repair dripping water faucets; (3) Wash full loads of clothes and dishes; (4) Use one third less hot water for bathing. A savings of up to 14% of water heating costs can be achieved; (5) Insulate hot water pipes in crawl spaces or where exposed to outside air.

4-H horse show

Whittaker high point winner

Colleen Whittaker was the high point winner from the Junior Wranglers 4-H Horse Club of Cass City in the 4-H horse competition Monday at the Tuscola County Fair.

Colleen is 11 and therefore won't be able to represent her club in the state 4-H horse show in East Lansing Aug. 22 as participants must be at least 12.

The next highest point winner, John Tuckey, will therefore represent the club. He received 13 points to 15 for Colleen.

Other representatives from Tuscola county going to the state show will be Rhonda Thornton, Mayville; Sarah Tait, Caro; Lisa Benedict, Kingston, and Jill Lester, Millington.

Alternates will be Kaylene Brown, Cass City, and Kim Walker, Kingston.

During the show Monday, Al Seeley was presented with a watch by the Junior Wrangler members in honor of his having served as club leader for 20 years.

Placings of Junior Wrangler members at the fair Monday were as follows:

Showmanship, 16 and over: John Tuckey, 4th, Carrie Carpenter, 5th, Dave Whittaker, 6th.

Western Pleasure, 16 and over: Carrie Carpenter, 1st,

John Tuckey, 3rd, Dave Whittaker, 5th.

Western pleasure, 13-15: Kaylene Brown, 1st, Julie Carpenter, 3rd, Shelly Beecher, 6th.

Horsemanship, 10-12: Colleen Whittaker, 3rd, Heidi Iseler, 5th, Marica Hendrick, 6th.

Showmanship, 8-9: Deanna Hutchinson, 6th.

Western pleasure, 8-9: Katy Scollon, 1st, Anthony Moran, 3rd, Deanna Hutchinson, 5th.

Pole Bending: Mary Czapla, 2nd.

Horsemanship, 16 and over: John Tuckey, 1st, Dave Whittaker, 4th, Carrie Carpenter, 6th.

Horsemanship, 13-15: Julie Carpenter, 1st, Kaylene Brown, 3rd, Rebecca McLaren, 5th.

Showmanship, 10-12: Amie Hedley, 1st, Colleen Whittaker, 2nd.

Western pleasure - 10-12: Colleen Whittaker, 1st, Amie Hedley, 3rd.

Trail: Rebecca McLaren, 1st, Julie McLaren, 2nd.

Western riding: Sandy Beecher, 3rd, Rebecca McLaren, 5th, Katy Scollon, 6th.

L. Comment bean queen candidate

One of 11 young women, the largest number of candidates in many years, will be crowned Tuscola County Bean Queen Thursday night at the county fair.

One of the candidates is Lori A. Comment, 17, daughter of Clare and Jeannie Comment of 3780 Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown. A student at Cass City High School, she is being sponsored by the North Elmwood Farm Bureau group.

The other candidates are Cheryl A. Bauer, 21, of Reese; Alane L. Findlay, 17, Reese; Mary K. Gruber, 19, Reese; Brenda L. Hornbacher, 18, Unionville; Debbie Metcalf, 17, Fairgrove; Cathryn D. Rayl, 18, Akron; Gaylene M. Roth, 20, Reese; June M. Roth, 19, Reese; Janet M. Taylor, 17, Reese; and Kerry Wells, 21, Vassar.

The 11 candidates, four more than competed last year, were interviewed July 26 by a trio of judges at the Farm Bureau building in Caro.

The winner will receive her crown in ceremonies scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday in front of the grandstand.

She will compete in the state bean queen pageant during the Fairgrove Bean Festival in September.

The new queen will succeed Marsha K. Hillaker of Fairgrove.

READY TO RIDE -- Judy Campbell of Gagetown rode "Auricomous Butch" in western pleasure and barrel classes in the open class horse show Tuesday at the Tuscola County Fair. Another of her horses, "Boogie's Right Hand," was judged grand champion Appaloosa. Miss Campbell is the Owen-Gage High School girls athletics coach.

Kingston patrol seeks members

The "Community Watch" program in Kingston is looking for additional members to go on patrol duty in the community.

The group, which started its community patrols June 21, has about 30 members, according to its chairman, Ed Kaminski.

And of the 30, he said, about half live outside the village limits.

The organization, formed to cut down on the amount of vandalism in the community, has had a positive effect.

Sheriff Hugh Marr told the group at a meeting last Thursday that the number of complaints called in to his department from Kingston has declined since the citizen patrols started.

Two persons patrol in a car at a time and there are two shifts per night of about 3½ hours each to cover the hours of darkness.

That means 28 persons are needed per week and with some persons on vacation or off because of illness, some persons have had to patrol more than once in a week. "It puts us in a bind," Kaminski said of the shortage of members.

The aim is to recruit at least 10-15 more.

Participants drive around the community in their own cars and pay for their own gas.

If they spot any violations of the law being committed, they call the sheriff's department or state police. Community Watch participants are not armed.

"We can't stop 100 percent (of the violations)," Kaminski said, "but it helps."

The goal of the group and the village council, the local businessman continued, remains hiring of a full-time policeman. The village has hired a sheriff's deputy on a part-time basis, but of late, according to Kaminski, his hours have been limited because of overtime work with the sheriff's department.

Men and women interested in volunteering can contact Kaminski.

Presently, there are a half-dozen husband and wife teams in the group who patrol together.

WHOLE HOG -- Cass City FFA member Dave Matthews, 17, and one of the three hogs he had entered at the Tuscola County Fair. A senior at Cass City High School, Dave lives at Hadley Road, Decker.

Delegates at convention

Three elected delegates from United Steelworkers Local 6222, which represents employees at General Cable, attended the state AFL-CIO convention in Dearborn July 23-26.

Attending from Cass City were Grace Nemeth, local president; Mary Smithers, guide, and alternate delegate Ella Bauer.

They will present a report on the convention at an upcoming union meeting.

Vice-president Walter Mondale was the featured speaker at the convention. Other speakers were Gov. William G. Milliken, state Supreme Court Justice G. Mennen Williams, U.S. Senator Donald Riegle, U.S. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall, and Michigan secretary of State Richard Austin.

State AFL-CIO President William Marshall presided at the convention.

Delegates approved some changes in the organization constitution and voted on approximately 50 resolutions.

Local boys on baseball title team

The Sebewaing American Legion baseball team, which includes four Cass Cityans on its roster, won the 7th district north championship Saturday with a 5-1 win over the Lapeer West team.

The Sebewaing squad won its first district game Friday over Lapeer East 13-3 to qualify for the final. The tournament was held at Lapeer West High School.

In the championship game, pitcher Tom Binder of Pigeon had eight strikeouts and allowed three hits.

The team plays Friday in the zone competition at Berkley. The winner there goes on to the state championships.

Cass Cityan Tony Doerr, who plays first base and outfield, had three hits in the Lapeer West game. He is batting .444 for the season.

Outfielder Todd Alexander from Cass City had four hits in the two games in Lapeer.

The other Cass Cityans on the squad are pitcher Earny Sloutenburg, who has a 4-1 mark, and Dean Severance, who was hitting .313 before a leg injury put him out for the remainder of the season.

Steve Martin from Kingston, an infielder, is also on the squad.

The team coached by Frank Hofmeister of Sebewaing plays in the Bay County American Legion League and as of the beginning of this week, was tied for first place with a 9-3 mark. The outcome of two games this week, one of which completes a contest halted by a power failure, will decide the league championship.

The American Legion program is for boys 16-18.

Form followed in opening play-off games

Form was followed Monday in the opening round of the Church League play-offs as the regular season champions of the National and American divisions both won.

In the American division, Lamotte bested Deford Blue, 7-5, and Missionary topped the Methodists, 6-5.

Lamotte was paced by Jim Keller and Jim D'Arcy with two hits each. Keller pitched the victory over Henry Cooklin.

In the National division the Baptists edged the Lutherans in a well played game, 3-2. Jack Hillaker bested Ken Martin Jr.

Ron Ouvry and Elwyn Helwig led the winners' attack while Martin cracked a triple for the losers.

In the other American division contest, Shabbona powered to a 11-6 decision over Deford Red. Les Sevance bested Lewis Tibbitts for the win. Bill Bar cracked two hits for Shabbona while Tibbitts did best to help his own car with a home run smash over the fence.

In regular season playoffs trophies were awarded the Baptists and Lamotte first place division finish, and to the Lutherans a Deford Blue, runners-up, the divisions.

Thursday night championship of the divisions will be decided when Lamotte faces Missionary 7 p.m. for the American crown and the Baptists vs Shabbona for the National title at 9 p.m.

After that the divisions will meet for the league crown in a two out of three play-off.

Tight battle in Lions tourney

Competition was fierce in the annual Lions Club Golf Tournament Sunday at Sherwood on the Hill golf course.

After 18 holes of the best-ball foursome handicap event, two teams were tied with a score of 18 under par.

In the sudden death play-off the foursome of Bill Denbrock, Jerry Dutcher, Harvey Furness and Bill McGee topped a team of Harold Craig, Cliff Ryan, Tom Woody and Tom Craig.

In the women's division the foursome of Doris Jones, Linda Marshall, Michelle Zdrojewski and Harriet Richards finished first.

Second place honors were won by Enid Craig, Naomi Barnes, Linda Bennett and Mary Ryan.

In addition to prize money and trophies won by the winners and runners-up there were many special awards presented for closest to the hole, longest drive and other similar events.

This was the second year for the junior golf program headed by Lovejoy, who has been the high school golf coach.

LET US HELP YOU BUY A HIGH INTEREST MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATE

You've heard a lot lately about the new Money Market Certificates financial institutions are offering. For many people, the $10,000 deposit requirement is a deterrent to taking advantage of the new high rates.

We would like to help you by lending you the money you need to attain the $10,000 minimum. Our interest rate is favorable too.

HERE'S HOW WE CAN HELP:

Each week the Money Market Certificate rate is established at the U.S. Treasury Auction. For the purpose of illustration, let's assume the current rate to be 7.50% per year. We'll lend you the money you need at 1% over that rate or 8.50%.

Suppose you borrow $3,000. Your six month repayment obligation will be $127.50 interest based on an annual interest rate of 8.50%.

Purchase a Money Market Certificate paying an annual rate of 7.50% (6 months: 3.75%). You earn $375.00.

Your earnings on $10,000	$375.00
Your interest cost on $3,000	127.50
Your net earnings	$247.50
$7,000 at 5.5% interest (5.5% is the highest rate available on deposits of 90 days to 6 months)	192.50
Net gain as against 5.5%	55.00

*Money Market Certificates require a minimum deposit of $10,000 and a term of 6 months. Withdrawal of time savings accounts prior to maturity is subject to a substantial interest penalty as prescribed by Federal Regulations.

SEE YOUR PERSONAL BANKER TODAY

EFFECTIVE THIS WEEK THURSDAY AND GOOD FOR ONE WEEK, THE MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATE INTEREST RATE WILL BE

7.362 % * (Annual Rate)

* 6 month term, $10,000 minimum deposit

Withdrawal of time savings accounts prior to maturity is subject to substantial loss of earnings as prescribed by Federal Regulations.

Road bids accepted

Bids were recently accepted by the Department of State Highways and Transportation for three projects in the area.

Saginaw Asphalt Paving Co. was lowest of two bidders at $142,591 for paving of three-foot shoulders and erection of guardrail on 5.6 miles of M-53 from Popple Road northeast to the west city limits of Bad Axe. The project is to be completed in September.

The same firm was lowest of three bidders for asphalt paving of three miles of Sheridan Road south from 2.5 miles southeast of Millington. Its bid was $97,796. Completion date will be in November.

Frank Strausberg and Sons of Saginaw was lower of two bidders at $277,353 for shoulder paving on 8.8 miles of M-81 from M-15 east to the Vassar Road intersection. Included is 1,000 feet of widening to four lanes with curb and gutter in Reese. Completion date is in September.

Ideas remain nothing unless you're willing to work with them.

HEALTH TIPS

Life style and heart disease

By Frank Chappell,
American Medical Association

Heart disease is a broad term that covers many different types of disorders.

Heart and blood vessel ailments are the leading cause of death in the United States. Millions of people are walking around with some sort of heart or circulatory problem.

No one can tell you positively that a given pattern of life will prevent a heart attack. There are still many unknowns. But there is enough evidence on the causes of heart attacks to suggest a few fundamentals. The American Medical Association points out.

--Worry about symptoms that may or may not be heart disease is futile. Clear away the doubt by consulting your physician. Most chest pains are not heart attacks.

--Regular, moderate exercise to keep physically fit is advised by all health experts. However, the term "moderate" is important, and plenty of rest to ease the work load on the heart is equally vital.

--Keep your weight down. It isn't too difficult to devise a diet that will provide proper nourishment without adding surplus pounds. Ask your doctor what you should weigh and how to reduce if you're overweight.

--Tensions--and--anxieties aren't easy to reduce or eliminate from your life. But it's wise to try. A good vacation each year is important. A relaxing change of pace on week ends helps.

--Don't smoke. There no longer is any doubt that cigarettes increase the risk of heart disease. And talk with your doctor regarding an approach to dietary fats.

Most people who have heart attacks recover and can go back to work.

High blood pressure usually can be controlled. Recurrent attacks of rheumatic fever, forerunner of rheumatic heart disease, can be prevented.

Strokes aren't necessarily hopeless, and invalidism can often be reduced or prevented. Heart defects sometimes can be repaired and sections of diseased arteries sometimes replaced through surgery. Many patients with circulatory disorders affecting their legs and arms are helped by treatment.

You cannot be certain of preventing heart disease. But you can control or lessen some of the factors that often are associated with a tendency toward heart troubles.

Your Neighbor says

Test tube baby probably alright

The birth of Louise Brown, the world's first test-tube baby, in England last week made headlines all over the world.

The use of Gilbert Brown's sperm to fertilize one of his wife Lesley's eggs in a laboratory also stirred controversy. Some said it gave hope to women desperate to have children but unable to conceive naturally; others said it was an ominous step by man to control and manipulate human life.

"I guess it's alright if they (a couple) can't have a child on their own," was the reaction of Joan Hercliff.

"People who really want them and can give them a home," she believes should have the opportunity. "Why not let someone else have a chance?"

She hasn't done a lot of reading on the topic, but concedes those opposed to the experimental technique may be justified in some of their criticisms. "It probably has its bad points," she said.

Mrs. Hercliff is employed at Walbro. She and her husband, Jack, have two children, Kevin and Wendy and live on Seeley Road in Cass City.

Bicycle safety

By Bernard Jardot

Kids can outgrow their bicycles just the way they do their shoes and clothing. A bike that no longer "fits" a child can be a real safety hazard.

To judge whether a bike is the right size, young people can follow these tips:

1) The ball of the foot should just touch the ground when the cyclist is astride the bike saddle. The knee will be slightly bent when the pedal is at the bottom of the pedaling stroke.

2) When the saddle is properly adjusted, the legs will be slightly bent, giving more power as the cyclist pushes down alternately on the pedals. The saddle can be adjusted by raising or lowering and should be parallel with the ground.

3) Handlebars also can be raised or lowered. They should turn without hitting the knee.

Youth can improve their bicycle knowledge and skills in a variety of learn-by-doing projects in the 4-H Youth Program. Learning how to choose a bike, how it works and how to keep it in top operating condition can be both educational and fun.

Bicycle safety activities stress understanding and obeying "rules of the road" as they apply to bike riders. The 4-H clubs may plan and conduct community service activities that include safety checks, skill driving events and bike-a-thons for charity.

For more information contact a local 4-H club or the county 4-H office, Civil Defense Center, Caro, telephone 673-3161.

Home is the perfect place for generosity — let outsiders look out for themselves.

Retain Senator Alvin DeGrow. Vote for Experience. Vote for Principle.

Conservative

Senator DeGrow is described by the Saginaw News as "... a gutsy conservative ... a living example of old-fashioned attributes — hard work, common sense and down-home values ... the kind of lawmaker who thinks before he speaks." The newspaper voted Senator DeGrow one of the twelve best legislators of 1977. Senator DeGrow is noted for his efforts to lead your government back to traditional values.

Tax Reform Leader

Those traditional values include trying to halt the spread of bureaucracy. Since taxation is the only way government can inflate itself, tax reform is the chief means of governmental reform. Senator DeGrow has led and supported efforts toward tax relief and more equitable taxation.

Senior Republican

Ten years a senator, Alvin DeGrow has achieved a position of Republican leadership in a Democratic controlled legislature. This knowledgeable and experienced lawmaker is one of only three Republicans serving on the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee. This means that Senator DeGrow has a voice in the fate of virtually all important legislation; his is the voice of fiscal responsibility and integrity.

Hardworking ... Sincere

Senator Alvin DeGrow stands on principle. He is dedicated to putting principle into action through unceasing and uncompromising legislative work for the people of the 28th senatorial district. Senator DeGrow's leadership is badly needed in Lansing ... he means what he says, and he works for what he says. He wants to continue serving Thumb area residents as Senator. Vote for common sense conservatism. Retain Senator Alvin DeGrow.

Snover girl on MMPA milk tour

About 60 4-H members and adult leaders from throughout Michigan took part in the Michigan Milk Producers Association 41st annual 4-H milk marketing tour July 25 and 26 in Detroit.

Attending from this area was Kathy Smith of Snover. The tour, sponsored by MMPA in cooperation with the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, is designated to give 4-H members more familiarity with milk marketing procedures and the duties and operations of a dairy farmer cooperative.

The 4-H members toured the MMPA Detroit office and visited Detroit Pure Milk Company. Glenn Lake, MMPA president and Jack Barnes, general manager, discussed the Association's marketing and price bargaining efforts and its member services.

Tour participants also attended a banquet and entertainment at the Holiday Inn in suburban Southfield.

Need inner tubes to keep afloat

The First Baptist Church Youth Group needs some help in order to keep plans for their proposed trip afloat.

What the group needs are inner tubes for a "river raft" to float down a river near Gladwin. Except for a few who might prefer to "go it alone" with their own tubes, the rest of the tubes will be lashed together.

The intended trip, according to inner tube coordinator Dan LaPonsie, will be for probably 6½-7 hours down the river Friday, Aug. 11, to a camp where the group will spend the night. They will return to Cass City the next day.

The number of inner tubes needed depends on the number of youngsters going on the trip, but the goal is 25-30 tubes. So far the group has 15, some of which need patching.

Persons with inner tubes to donate can call LaPonsie at 872-3314.

Students sought for agri-business

Young people interested in agri-business careers are invited to investigate the elevator and farm supply training program offered by Michigan State University, according to Bob Wischmeyer, Wickes Agriculture manager in Cass City.

"This course has been offered at MSU since 1946, and more than 500 graduates are now employed in the elevator and feed industries, serving as managers, assistant managers, sales personnel and key employees," he said.

Advancement opportunities are excellent for those who prove themselves on the job, and the job openings are also excellent in the industry as firms are constantly looking for good young people with specialized training to serve modern agriculture, according to Wischmeyer.

The course lasts 18 months, including six months of practical on the job training.

The next course will start this fall at MSU, and currently there are openings available for students who wish to start the program.

Financial assistance is available through industry scholarship grants to those who qualify.

Interested persons may find out more about the program by contacting Wickes Agriculture or other elevator firms or by contacting the Institute of Agricultural Technology at Michigan State University.

The Pioneer Group held its monthly meeting Thursday, July 27, at Sanilac County Park No. 3 on M-53.

A potluck dinner was served at noon. After dinner a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Fred Emigh. A program of readings was presented by Mrs. Maude Holcomb, Mrs. Milford Robinson, Mrs. Emigh, and Mrs. George Krause.

Plans are to meet again for the Aug. 24 meeting at the park.

Baptists hold Argentina day

Sunday was "Argentina Day" at First Baptist church, featuring Rev. Jim Evans and his family, who expect to leave soon for their new mission field in Buenos Aires, Argentina. They previously served as missionaries in Peru.

Evans was the speaker in the morning worship service, which was followed by a cooperative dinner in the church fellowship rooms and an informal discussion period with the Evans family.

In the evening service, Evans outlined their plans and goals in Argentina and told about the country and its people. Pastor Tim Teall and the deacons of the church participated in a brief ceremony rededicating the Evans family to missionary service.

Food stamp hearing scheduled

An area Food Stamp Advisory Council has been formed to make recommendations to the Michigan Department of Social Services on changes in the food stamp program for 1979.

A public hearing will be held at the YWCA, 615 E. Jefferson Ave., Saginaw Thursday, Aug. 10, from 1 a.m.-noon.

Ideas being solicited include training for Department of Social Service (DSS) workers, contacting persons who don't know about Food Stamps, delay in the application process and problems in getting to where the stamps are available.

For more information contact the Tuscola County DSS in Caro.
