

Boat goes under in eight minutes

It was the fastest eight minutes Alfred Horne ever lived through. It also ruined a good vacation -- to say nothing of his family's boat.

Horne, his wife, Mary, sons Allan, 11, Mike, 10, and Bob, 9, and their guests were enjoying a cruise last Wednesday afternoon on the Hornes' boat, the 34-foot cabin cruiser Islander II. Their guests were Bill and Gladys Slimmon of Trenton, Ont., and their children, Powell, 17, and Darlene, 13.

Horne was at the helm in the three-foot waves in 27 feet of water, four miles northwest of the Caseville breakwater.

He never saw what the boat hit, but believes it was a floating log. One was later recovered by other boaters and towed to shore. The object made a hole midship on the right (starboard) side, about 1 1/2 feet below the water line.

"We heard it when it hit," said Mrs. Horne, who was sitting at the galley table below decks with Mrs. Slimmon. "I looked under the table and all I could see was water coming in."

She went on deck to tell her husband. "I had my mouth open but nothing came out," Mrs. Horne finally got the words out, that the boat was sinking.

HER HUSBAND CALLED "Mayday" over the radio, but the only one that heard it was the Saginaw Bay Marina in Caseville. The person there notified the Huron County Sheriff's Department marine patrol, but in his haste, Horne hadn't given the proper location. The patrol boat went in the wrong direction.

Those on the Islander II yelled at a nearby boat on which two people were fishing. If they heard, they chose to ignore the shouts.

Another boat went by at high speed without stopping.

Horne was grateful for one thing. He took the Coast Guard Auxiliary safe boating class offered in Cass City last winter. One thing stressed in the course was that life preservers should be kept close at hand at all times.

At the time of the sinking, all the life preservers were on deck. Previously, Horne had kept them stuffed in a cupboard under the galley table. If they had been there when the boat struck the log, they would have become quickly submerged and inaccessible.

EVERYBODY GOT their life jacket on, but fortunately, they weren't needed. Help arrived just in time in the form of John and Agnes DiVincents, who were returning from fishing. DiVincents is the Caseville mayor and police chief.

The Islander was going down stern first and everyone was standing on the forward deck in water when help arrived. Horne was the last one off. As he stepped onto the DiVincents' boat, he went under. "I don't think the movies could have timed it better," he joked.

It was only eight minutes from the time the Islander struck the log until it went under. Horne described them as eight short minutes. "I didn't know in my lifetime there were short minutes and long minutes," he added, "but there is."

The DiVincents also had their niece aboard, so with those rescued, that was a total of 12 people on board the 19 1/2 foot boat as it crawled back to Caseville. "We were a little overloaded," Horne commented, "but we were sure the Coast Guard didn't mind."

By the time they were rescued, other boats had arrived on the scene, whose occupants marked the spot where the boat went down. Two feet of the bow later resurfaced, so sheriff's department marine deputies, whom Horne telephoned once he was on shore, had no trouble finding it. The officers were able to tow the boat as far as the Caseville breakwater, alongside the outside of the channel, where it sank again.

THERE IT SAT UNTIL Friday when a Bay City salvage crew Horne hired came to retrieve it.

While it rested alongside the breakwater, with water up to the cabin windows, some items were stolen from the boat, including a chrome clock and barometer.

Getting the boat out of the water took the salvage crew from 8 a.m. Friday to 12:30 a.m. Saturday. A chain was run under the stern and then attached to a submerged 300-gallon tank on each side. Air was then pumped into the tanks, which lifted the boat's stern out of the water.

The crew then sealed all the holes and windows with plywood and foam, pumped all the water out, then towed

Debt levy reduced

Owen-Gage board okays teacher pact

The Owendale-Gagetown board of Education Tuesday night approved a new three-year contract with teachers.

Details of the agreement can't be made public until it has been ratified by the Tri-County Bargaining Association (TCBA) board of directors, which negotiated the agreement, and by the Owen-Gage teachers.

The board also set the 1979 wage levy, which included almost two-mill decrease in the debt levy.

The master contract, being approved by the board, retroactively covers the 1977-78 school year, when teachers worked out a contract, plus the rent year, which started Wednesday, and the 1980 school year.

The tentative agreement reached Tuesday, Aug. 1, at a negotiating session between Supt. Ronald Erickson and TCBA representative Warren Ley, the Michigan Education Association representative in Clare. Erickson said negotiating session lasted about five hours.

In addition to that, the last year had been a meeting between three school board members and three teachers early August.

It appears to be a good agreement for the board, community and teachers.

the superintendent commented after Tuesday night's meeting.

The new pact was approved by a 4-0 vote after the board met in executive session for more than an hour to discuss it with Erickson. Voting for it were Ronald Good, Jack Laurie, Joe Warack and Duane Ziehm. Jack Brinkman, Don Cummins and Leona Lafave were absent from the special session.

MILLAGE

The board set operational millage at 23.5 mills, the same as last year. The 1967 debt levy was set at 1.0 mill, versus 1.48 a year ago; the 1977 levy at 4.3 mills, versus 5.79 a year ago.

Erickson said the debt millages were reduced because higher property valuations will bring in the same amount of money as the higher levies of a year earlier. Operational millage had to stay the same, however, because of increased operating expenses.

The millages will be reflected on tax bills received in December.

TEACHERS

The resignations of Wanda (Schave) Siebinksi, elementary special education, and Helen Gettel, sixth grade, were accepted. Mrs. Siebinksi is moving with her new husband to Sandusky; Helen Gettel is returning to school.

Approved was the hiring of new teachers William Richardson, guidance counselor, Laura Witszek, music, Nancy Folk, English, and James Oss, science, all high school, and Linda Ballagh, elementary resource room teacher. Oss was hired for one year only, to replace Manuel Thies who is on leave of absence.

As of Tuesday, the district still had to hire a high school special education teacher.

OTHER BUSINESS

The four classrooms on the north side of the new addition were completed Friday, enabling the start of classes this Wednesday.

Erickson said the library, music room, business room, and general classroom on the south side, plus the hallway, should be ready for use in two to three weeks.

New contracts were approved for Erickson and elementary Principal William Britt. Details will be released after the board approves the contract for high school Principal James Barr at its regular monthly meeting Monday.

Ronald Susalla, who was a bus mechanic and janitor, was named transportation supervisor.

New law may change CETA job windfall

By Mike Eliasohn

Thumb area governmental units are going to have to dig deeper into their pockets within the next year if they want to keep employees who up to now have been paid with federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds.

The proposed new law presently considered by Congress will give units a year to put present CETA employees on their regular payrolls or dismiss them.

More than 600 persons in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties will be affected. In Cass City, four of 16 village employees are paid with the funds. The Cass City schools has three CETA employees; Owendale-Gagetown School District, six. Out of almost 170 Tuscola county employees, 28 are affected.

The Thumb Area Consortium administrative board, which administers CETA programs in Tuscola, Huron, and Sanilac counties, was informed last Thursday of proposed changes in the law now before Congress. Legislation authorizing the present CETA program nationwide expires Sept. 30.

The Senate has already passed its CETA bill; the legislation is still pending in the House of Representatives. Once it finally passes there, a conference committee will have changes between the Senate and House versions.

ONE YEAR MORE

There is one change that is common to both versions so presumably will be retained in the final legislation. Persons employed with CETA funds as of Sept. 30 can stay on the program only one more year. Persons hired after that will only be able to stay on the CETA program 18 months. At present, there is no limit on how long people can be employed with CETA funds; some have been employed more than three years.

The program change, consortium Executive Director Frank E. Lenard said, will leave employing governmental units with two options by Sept. 30 of next year: Start paying the CETA employees with regular funds or letting the persons go. The latter option would allow the employing unit to hire new CETA employees -- who could work a maximum of 18 months -- but that could cause problems for those units whose employees belong to a union.

If the contract between the union and employing unit guarantees job security to employees, the unit will have to either hire the person as a regular employee or terminate the position without hiring a new CETA replacement.

Even if no union is involved, those doing the hiring will have to decide whether they want to fire an employee who presumably has performed good service because the unit can no longer receive federal funds to pay his or her salary.

Although governmental units have a year to make a decision, for three jobs, a decision will have to be made much sooner.

At present, CETA employees can be paid a maximum salary of $10,000 a year with the federal funds, but local governmental units are unrestricted in the amount of supplement they pay.

The proposed legislation will change that. Assuming $10,000 stays the maximum, the House bill would allow a supplement of no more than $2,500 annually; the Senate bill, no more than $2,000.

EMPLOYEES

Assuming one or the other amounts remains in the final legislation, the change will go into effect Oct. 1, which will apparently affect three Tuscola county employees, Lenard said, all now being paid more or about to be paid with expected raises more than would be allowed with the maximum. Two are sheriff's deputies; the other is a psychologist with the mental health department.

As mentioned Tuscola county has 28 CETA employees out of almost 170 working in the courthouse, courthouse annex, sheriff's department, animal shelter, mental health and public health departments.

In addition to the deputies, the sheriff's department also has one clerk and three matron clerks. Mental health also has a case aide, clerk typist and home maker.

Other county CETA employees are nine clerk-typists, animal shelter worker, one grounds keeper and one custodian, 4-H assistant, assistant building inspector, juvenile probation officer, and within the health department, an alcoholism counselor, sanitarian and health educator.

Cass City has four CETA workers, two laborers, one wastewater plant worker and village clerk (in secretarial capacity).

Kinde residents flee

10 fire units battle huge elevator blaze

A massive fire destroyed large portions of the Farmers Cooperative Grain Co. and Blount Agriculture elevator facilities at Kinde Tuesday night.

Approximately 400 of the town's 650 residents had to be evacuated for about two hours out of fears the flames would spread beyond the elevator complex, located in the center of the downtown area.

The Elkland Township Fire Department was one of 10 Thumb area departments at the scene, having supplied a pumper. A tanker and van with fire fighting gear stood by in Bad Axe, as that city's department was at Kinde.

At its peak, there were about 120 firemen and 30 fire trucks at the scene. Most units were able to return home about 11 p.m. although some firemen were there all night. Speculation was that some grain would continue to burn for two or three more days. The Elkland township pumper returned about 12:30 a.m.

An automatic fire siren at the Farmers Co-op summoned Kinde firemen there at 7:30 p.m. Flames could be seen coming from the head house at the top of the receiving bins, but due to the height and lack of enough water pressure, firemen were unable to contain the flames.

Within 1 1/2 hours, the fire had jumped the tracks to the Blount Agriculture facilities. For a time, fire threatened storage tanks containing 100,000 gallons of gasoline, fuel oil and anhydrous ammonia.

With the fire out of control, firemen spent much of their time hosing down nearby areas to keep the flames from spreading.

About 40,000 bushels of grain, mostly beans, were lost at the Farmers Co-op, the bean plant and grinding facilities being the main areas destroyed.

At Blount Agriculture, the office and a processing building were destroyed. Storage silos at the co-op and Blount had to be inspected after the fire to determine if there was any damage, such as cracks in the walls.

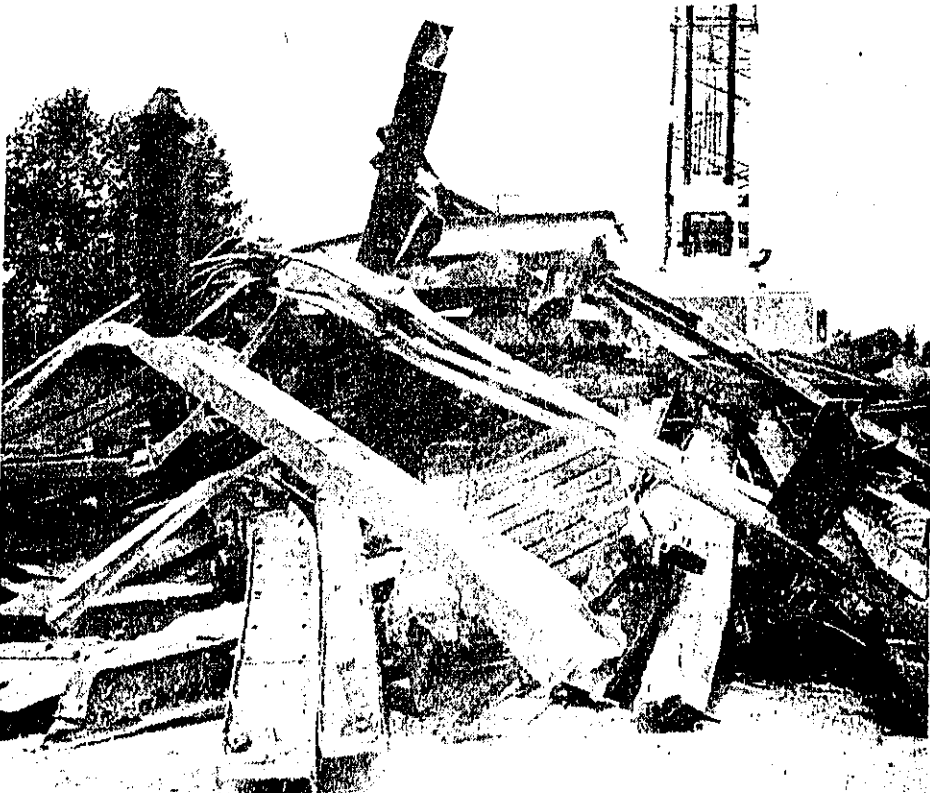

No estimate of monetary losses was immediately available.

Long-time residents of the area said there was a large fire at the same place in 1929.

Federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration inspectors were called to Kinde to aid in the investigation of what caused the fire.

Two firemen were injured in fighting the fire, both of whom were treated at the scene.

At its peak, the fire could be seen in Bad Axe, 10 miles away.

RUBBLE -- The remains of the old bridge over the Cass River on Dodge Road looked like this last week after the structure was demolished. The steel girder bridge was probably built before 1910.

Ugly girl sells steer at state fair in Detroit

The heavy Maine-Anjou steer of Judy Tyrrell sold for 58 cents a pound at the livestock auction last Wednesday at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit.

The buyer was Albert Greuner of Rochester Packing Co. of Rochester.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tyrrell of Huron Line Road, Uby, and a member of the Uby FFA. She had the third place heavyweight steer at the Huron County Fair in August.

Scott Trump of Frankemuth, who had the reserve champion hog at the Tuscola County Fair last month, also had the reserve champion hog at the state fair.

The Haire Net

For a nominal fee I can assure Victor Korchnoi a victory. Absolutely assure it.

For a couple of hundred and expenses all of Korchnoi's troubles would be over.

Korchnoi is the Russian dissenter who left his country and is now playing a Russian, Anatoly Karpov, for the chess championship of the world.

Korchnoi feels the reason that he trails in the series, 4-1, is because Dr. Vladimir Zoukhar is hypnotizing him with his evil eye.

We don't have any evil eye geniuses in Cass City but the guys I propose sending over don't need it.

I speak from personal experience. All of the experts in gamemanship that would be headed for the Philippines under my plan are tried and true, hardened by under battle conditions.

I know. I've played golf with every one of them.

It wouldn't take long before the Russian champ would be asking the tournament officials to remove our reps from the tourney arena.

For the golf tactics are easily transferred to the chess board.

My experts can leave an opponent shaking after sinking a brilliant 30-foot putt by pointing out how fast the ball was rolling and remark how three putts were sure if the ball hadn't miraculously fallen in the hole.

When Karpov makes a brilliant move our delegation would soon have him convinced that it was only divine providence that kept him from being checkmated in two moves.

If that's not enough there is the pitying glance, the knowing smirk, and the condescending consolation mixed with the timely shuffling of the feet, wiping of the glasses and the persistent cough to administer the coup de grace.

After these guys get through it's sure that Zoukhar's evil eye will no longer be in demand.

Not only are they better at casting a spell, they would also work cheaper.

I pointed out that all it would cost was a couple of hundred. That's for me. Those guys love their work so much I'm sure they would ruin Karpov for nothing.

And laugh while they did it.

WILMOT SCHOOL -- There wasn't much left at the Wilmot School prior to the fire last Wednesday and even less afterwards. The school, built in 1902 or 1903, was in the process of being demolished prior to the fire.

Remains of Wilmot School burn in fire

What was left of the Wilmot School on Bond Road, west of Wilmot, burned last Wednesday night.

Kingston Fire Chief John Barden said the building was in the process of being torn down. The walls above the first floor had already been removed. What burned was debris lying on the first floor. The debris, along with the floor, fell into the basement, leaving only the stone walls extending to the first floor still standing.

Firemen were at the scene about two hours, starting at about 8:30 p.m.

Cause of the fire was unknown, although Barden said arson was a possibility.

As the building was being torn down, he figures there was no financial loss.

According to a neighbor, the school was built in 1902 or 1903.

Its owner was Thomas Schaible of Deckerville Road, Deford.

Elkland township firemen were called Saturday afternoon to the Max Wise residence on Krapf Road, south of M-81, where the owner was burning stumps.

The fire got out of control and started a grass fire. Firemen were there about 20 minutes.

Tapes stolen from pickup

Caroline Ann Leyva of 4946 State Street, Gaytown, reported to Cass City police Saturday that her pickup was entered the previous day while she was at work at General Cable.

Taken from the truck, which was parked in the company lot, were 24 8-track tapes, valued at more than $100, and the case they were in, $20.

Lee Rabideau of Cass City reported to Bad Axe state police Aug. 28 that a 14-foot plastic canoe was stolen from the rear lawn of his cottage west of Oak Beach. It was valued at $190.

Tuscola county deputies early Saturday stopped a car at Bay City-Forestville and Colwood Roads after its driver passed a stop sign without stopping. The driver, Terry E. Thomas, 25, of Ferndale, was then arrested on a charge of driving with license suspended.

He was placed in the patrol car, which his wife started following when they took him to Caro. Officers ran a check on her, Sandra L. Thomas, 25, and discovered her license was also suspended. They stopped the car she was driving and took her into custody on the same charge.

The couple, who had their three children with them, were later released from custody after friends from Caseville posted bond.

Charles Bliss of 5855 W. Cass City Road reported to Cass City police last Thursday that the right side of his car was dented while parked at the Crestwood Lounge, Caro, the previous evening. The report was made for insurance purposes.

Requests due for disaster payments

Producers of corn and grain sorghum are reminded that now is a critical time to determine what use is to be made of those crops that have been under stress, such as severe drought or insect damage.

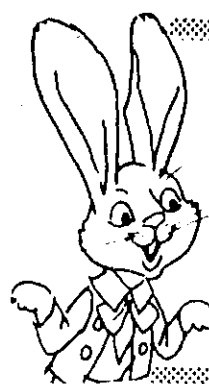

After they decide what they are going to do with the crop and if they are going to use the crop in any other way than for grain, they must file a request with their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office for possible disaster payments.

Only those producers that are participating in the 1978 Set-Aside Program are eligible for these payments. If the crop is to be used for any purpose other than grain, it must be appraised before harvest. If no feed benefits are to be gained from the crop, an appraisal is not required.

MD collection nets $194

Rob Albee, Kevin Bliss, Mark and Brian Rutkowski, and Jon, Dana, and Doug Zdrojewski collected money in Cass City Monday for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

They collected $194.38, which was turned in at Bad Axe Tuesday.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else can get to help)

In Capac football is not king. It's not even a member of the king's court. It's nothing.

When only 18 boys, including freshmen, reported for practice, the coach, Pat Egan, cancelled the season. Speculation is that the homecoming will be during a girls basketball game.

Attention Cass City Historical Society. Lee Smith was to speculate about how long it has been since the mastodon was discovered northwest of Cass City. He believes it was 50 years ago.

Anyway he has a picture of a couple of local residents holding the mastodon's tusks.

You're never too old. Not if you are William Kitchin, 74, you're not.

Kitchin, of Cass City, was one of 25,000 who walked the Mackinac Bridge Labor Day. He reports the walk took an hour and 15 minutes. This is the third time he's walked. He also made the trek in 1974 and 1976.

From the promotion clips and the preview shows now on the boob tube it appears as if a recent trend at the Hall, household will be continued... turning to public TV. I'd guess that an average of an hour a night is spent with channel 19. The news shows and the Boston Pops are special favorites.

The first real attempt by Cass City Schools to establish an adult education program is underway under the direction of Community Education Director Kathleen O'Donnell.

You'll find a listing of course offerings in this issue. It appears to embrace most areas that could be of interest.

If there are subjects needed and not listed, the director will be happy to hear about them.

Community reaction to the program in its first year will be watched with interest by the school board.

AROUND THE FARM

Plan now for weeds

By William Bortel

The groundwork should be laid now for controlling potentially troublesome weeds that can detract from next year's crop vigor.

This should include identifying and mapping weed growth throughout the farm to develop a control program.

Most farmers have a pretty good idea of existing weed problems, but weed varieties can change over a period of time and this calls for adjustments in cultural practices, herbicide use, and/or crop rotation.

For example, a field infested with quackgrass was planted to corn because it is tolerant to herbicides used for quackgrass control. Over the years, the quackgrass has been subdued but the field has gradually become infested with a variety of broad-leaved weeds.

This is the time of year a positive identification of these weeds should be made to facilitate planning control with effective preemergent herbicides. A grower not aware of spreading broad-leaved weed problems this year might find his corn competing with a heavy growth of weeds next year.

Don't count on being able to identify and control these broadleaved weeds next year, because by the time weed seedlings are big enough to identify, it's too late to use preemergent herbicides. Postemergent controls are not available for every weed problem in every crop.

This is why crop rotation is such an important part of a weed control program. Growers can almost always find some crop in which chemical control of a specific weed problem is possible. For instance, a field of dry beans with a quackgrass infestation could be switched to corn for a year.

through topics relevant to their lives, such as dating, careers, morals, courtesy, school and patriotism.

Johnson is also the author of more than 30 books and booklets for young people. The banquet will start at 7 p.m. The meal will be followed by special music by Rev. Terry Lilley of Caro and the inspirational message by Johnson.

Tickets are available from the Child Evangelism Fellowship office at 155 W. Lincoln St., Caro.

County does well in state 4-H contests

Tuscola county was represented at the state 4-H horse show Aug. 22 at Michigan State University by four youth.

Lisa Benedict of Kingston received a bronze award and a 7th place; Sarah Tait of Caro, a gold award, silver award, and a 5th place; John Tuckey of Cass City, silver award and two bronze awards; and Kim Walker of Silverwood, bronze award, a 4th place and a 6th place.

In the 4-H State Dairy Days at Michigan State University, delegates from Tuscola county received a 6th place herdsmanship award. They were Nathan and David Rupprecht of Vassar and Patsy Jordon of Fostoria.

The county adult chaperone was Mrs. Pat Jordon of Fostoria.

The Richville 4-H Livestock Club junior girls' softball team won in their division at the State 4-H softball championship games at MSU Aug. 19.

Mel Johnson, internationally known radio personality, will be the speaker at the Tuscola County Child Evangelism Fellowship fall banquet Tuesday, Sept. 12, at the Sveden House in Saginaw.

Johnson has been host of the program "Tips for Teens" for 25 years. The 15-minute program is heard five days a week on a network of stations throughout the United States and Canada, with select stations overseas. It is geared to reaching young people

Your Neighbor says

Leave high paying jobs to husbands

The nation's unemployment rate, at 5.7 percent in June, the lowest since 1974, climbed to 6.2 percent in July. In August, it was 5.9 percent. That means that close to 6 million persons were out of work.

One way of increasing employment, Jennifer Pugh feels, is to bar women from working in high paying factory jobs "unless she's the only source of income."

"If he (a husband) is working, she (this wife) shouldn't need to go to a factory to work."

Mrs. Pugh isn't opposed to a husband and wife both working, but feels if the husband has a good paying job, the wife should take a lower paying job. "There's hospitals, restaurants, that sort of thing. That's a good place for them (wives) to work."

If there aren't enough jobs in private enterprise, should the government create jobs?

"Yes, they should," replied Mrs. Pugh. "They have enough money."

She and her husband, Roger, and two children live on Froede Road, Deford. He is employed at Mariette Homes. Mrs. Pugh worked at a nursing home in Caro but is not employed at present.

Farm receipts up for first half of year

Michigan cash receipts for farm marketing, for the first half of 1978, rose 10 percent above the same period last year, according to the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

Total cash receipts for January-June were $860.8 million compared to $781.7 million in 1977. Higher returns for both crops and livestock products accounted for the increase.

Livestock provided 52 percent of the total receipts with $451.7 million. This was 13 percent above the $401.1 million for the first half of 1977. Receipts for 1978 were higher for each month during this period.

Receipts from crops were $409.1 million, 8 percent greater than the $380.6 million for January-June 1977. Every month except June showed larger returns for crops.

For all of 1977, cash receipts on Michigan farms totaled $1.82 billion. Crops provided 54 percent of the total receipts with $983. million, while livestock and livestock products returned $840.6 million or 46 percent.

Funded primarily by Title VII of the federal Older Americans Act, the service will be provided as part of the statewide Community Nutrition Services Program administered by the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging.

The commission has been authorized to provide 32 meals each weekday in 11 different site locations.

Any person age 60 or older, and their spouse, regardless of age, is eligible to participate in the Community Nutrition Services Program.

MUCC sets land use pass program

A program to improve relations between sportsmen and landowners is being continued this year by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC).

The organization will issue Sportsmen's Land Use Passes that indemnify landowners who allow MUCC members access to their property. Terms printed on the passes stipulate that MUCC will reimburse landowners up to $500 for damage that may be done to their livestock or property by hunters who are members of the association.

Passes are being distributed free of charge to MUCC members and to hunters who join the association.

In return for the privilege of hunting on the private land, the MUCC member agrees to observe rules of safe gun handling and not to damage property or livestock. The pass contains a clause notifying landowners that they are not liable for injuries to hunters if the landowner does not charge a fee for use of his lands and if the injuries are not the result of gross negligence or willful misconduct of the landowner.

HEALTH TIPS

Health factors affect driving

By Frank Chappell,
American Medical Association

Auto accidents don't just happen. They are caused.

An overwhelming proportion of them are caused by the human element. Sometimes this human element involves a driver with a physical or emotional condition that makes him a less than ideal driver.

You are in good health. You have an excellent safety record. Yet, under certain circumstances, it can be dangerous for you to be in the driver's seat, the American Medical Association points out.

The emotional stability of the driver is important in maintaining traffic safety. You owe it to others—and to yourself—not to drive when you have serious problems on your mind. If you are thinking about that argument you had before you left your home or office; if you're in a depressed or angry "I-don't-care-what-happens" mood; if you're very worried about a personal problem... you're better off not driving.

The sleepy driver causes many accidents. In fact, a sleepy driver is as much of a hazard as a drinking one. Dozing at the wheel can occur in broad daylight as well as at night. On long auto trips, stop every two hours for a break. If you feel drowsy, pull up and rest.

Many medicines can affect the way you handle the wheel. Antihistamines, cold tablets and mild sedatives may dull your reflexes or impair your coordination. Stimulants can make you nervous. Tranquilizing drugs can cloud your judgment.

Dance Club schedules fun night

The Rocking Eights Square Dance Club of Caro is having a "fun night" Saturday at the fairgrounds in Caro to start its new season.

Persons who would like to learn to square dance are invited to attend.

Dances are held on the second and fourth Saturday of each month with Clyde Cullings doing the calling.

It goes without saying that alcohol and gasoline are a dangerous combination. You don't have to be drunk to be dangerous. Even a small amount of alcohol can impair judgment and reaction of many persons.

Driving demands clear healthy eyesight, side vision, judgment of distance and the ability to see well at night. Have your eyes tested regularly. If you use glasses for distance vision, don't forget to wear them when you drive.

If you have a nervous disorder, or a heart condition, or diabetes, ask your doctor whether you are a safe driver. This also applies as you get older. Past 65, reflexes and coordination tend to be a little slower.

Church school to resume

Sunday School classes at Good Shepherd Lutheran church will begin Sept. 10 at 10:45 a.m., after the summer recess.

Vacation Bible School will hold, with 125 students attending the morning sessions, Aug. 7-11. Mrs. Dale Iseler was VBS superintendent.

Mrs. James Van Dellen Sunday School superintendent, expects an enrollment of about 115. The classes, nursery through eighth grade, have a staff of 14 teachers. Brian Bills is assistant superintendent.

An all-day staff workshop was held Saturday, Aug. 15 at the church.

BUILDING PLANS

Sept. 10 is also the date for a special congregational meeting at 10:45 a.m. in the church, when plans will be presented for the proposed building project at Good Shepherd.

Kurt Proctor spends year there

New Zealand—More sheep than people

New Zealand is a country that has 18 sheep for every human being. It is also the country where Kurt Proctor lived for a year.

Tom Proctor of 4794 N. Seeger Street, Kurt spent what otherwise would have been his junior year in high school there as a Rotary Club exchange student.

Auckland is on the North Island, where about two-thirds of the country's three million citizens live, the rest being on the South Island. New Zealander Paul Prangley lived in the Proctor home as a Rotary exchange student in 1972 and Kurt decided he wanted to go there "from what he had told me of the country."

In comparison to such countries as Australia and Sweden, New Zealand isn't as well known to would-be exchange students and that was another factor in his choice of countries. "I wanted to go to some place a little different, a little less known."

Proctor stayed the first 4½ months with Prangley's parents. Paul is now married but four other sons were still at home. The father, Brian Prangley, is an assistant manager at a large pottery works.

The next 4½ months were spent with a couple with two children. The father is a pilot with Air New Zealand. The final six weeks were spent with a postal worker and his wife. They had one son still at home.

PROCTOR ATTENDED two schools. When he was staying with the Prangley family, he attended the Catholic all-boys school. That was from September until the end of November. The seasons being reversed down there, November or early December marks the start of summer vacation for students.

School resumed in February, when Kurt attended a public coeducational school. Other vacations for students are two weeks off in May and three weeks off in August.

The Cass Cityan was in the seventh form at the high school. Out of 1,200 students, only 20 were in that form.

At the end of the fifth form -- for youngsters age 15 -- everyone takes an examination. About only half of those pass. Those who do can go on to the sixth form, although some choose to get a job instead. Some who fail the test take the fifth form over again.

At the end of the sixth form, students take a university examination. Some who pass it go right on to a university, but most go on to the seventh form.

During his year in school, Kurt took "maths," consisting of algebra, geometry and trigonometry, economics, accounting (public school only), English, biology, and geography (Catholic school only). Not all subjects were taken every day.

Kurt found students in New Zealand study more and have more homework. There is more lecturing by teachers and less discussion. English involves a lot of writing compositions and essays.

At school, he played on the softball and volleyball teams. Other school sports are rugby, cricket, and basketball.

School teams compete against teams from other schools. Competition is held on week ends "but few people go out and watch."

Kurt also belonged to a tennis club and played tennis quite often. He also did some sailing.

AGRICULTURE IS A major industry. New Zealand's hilly countryside is especially suitable for grazing sheep, as indicated by the fact that sheep outnumber people by a ratio of about 18:1.

In addition to sheep products, New Zealand also exports beef, some of which, according to Proctor, is purchased by McDonald's in this country. When Proctor was there, Auckland and Wellington (the capital) each had a McDonald's and two more were under construction.

The Cass Cityan toured the North Island on various trips with his host family. In May, he was one of 40 exchange students who went on a two-week bus tour of the South Island.

Proctor, who likes to ski, was there too early for the excellent skiing on the South Island, the only snow when he was there being on some of the mountain peaks. In Auckland, being farther away from Antarctica, the temperature rarely goes below 40 degrees or above 80. In winter there, it rains often.

For Kurt Proctor, one of the best things about the trip was having three summers in the space of a year. He left Cass City last August, had his second summer during what was our winter, and returned home in mid-July for his third.

BACK HOME -- Kurt Proctor and some of the items he brought back with him from New Zealand, including a sheepskin vest. The rug, showing a map of the country, was a gift to his family from Paul Prangley, when he stayed in his parents' house as an exchange student in 1972. Proctor was given the T-shirt he is wearing as a "gag" gift when he left.

Motor home lost in fire

Fire destroyed a motor home Tuesday afternoon, valued at $20,000 including the contents.

The fire was reported at 3:50 p.m. on M-53 at Atwater Road.

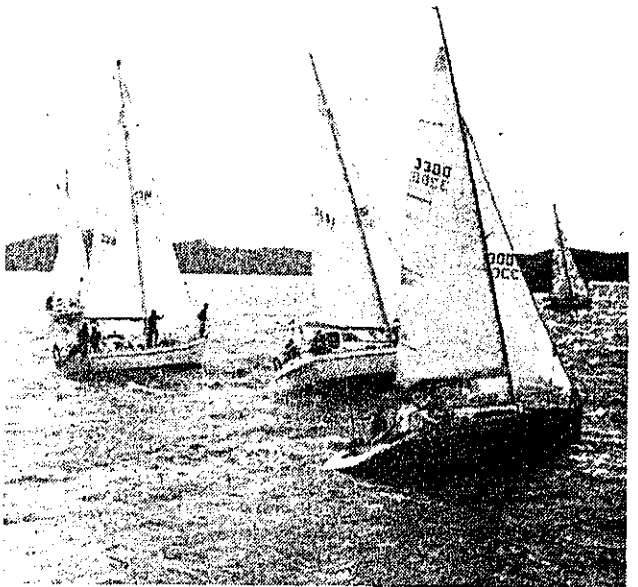

Driver of the vehicle, according to Bad Axe state police, was Alan Karlin, 25, of Union Lake, who was heading south when the fire broke out. After he first noticed something was wrong, he stopped, took off the engine cover, and sparks shot out. The vehicle was totally destroyed by the time Uby firemen could arrive.

Karlin and his passenger, Bonnie Turmbo, 23, of Union Lake, both escaped injury.

Apparent cause of the fire, according to troopers, was a stuck thermostat which caused the engine to overheat.

The fire resulted in traffic being blocked on M-53 for close to an hour.

SAILING is a popular sport in New Zealand. Kurt Proctor took this photograph of the start of a race.

Eye change in CETA

Changes now being considered by Congress in the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) will shift some of the emphasis away from providing government jobs to providing incentives for private employers to hire and train more workers.

The present CETA legislation expires at the end of this month. (See related story on page 1.)

The changing emphasis was discussed last Thursday by the Thumb Area Consortium board, which was told by Executive Director Frank E. Lenard that the change is due to an improving national economy, which has less need for government to act as "employer of last resort" because more jobs are becoming available from private employers.

The proposed new CETA legislation adds a Title VII to the present program, to be called the Private Sector Initiative Program (PSIP). Details of the program won't be final until the CETA bill passes Congress, but part of it calls for providing wage subsidies to employers who provide on-the-job training. Subsidizing individuals to work while also attending an education or training program at the same time is another part of the program.

Lenard expressed some reservations about PSIP, as only covers -- as currently written -- poverty-level persons ages 18-24.

He also mentioned the problem of there being various programs at present which involve finding jobs for private employers, such as the CETA Title I on-the-job training program and Youth Employment Training Program, both administered by the Human Development Commission, and the Michigan Employment Program, administered by the consortium.

Along with programs administered by other agencies, such as for finding jobs for high school graduates and the handicapped, employers are being continually besieged by representatives of the various agencies.

Lenard suggested some coordination is needed, lest employers be "turned off" and that more job-training positions be opened than there are people to fill them.

The PSIP legislation will require creation of private industrial councils to provide a link between private business and the local CETA coordinating agency.

A meeting will be held in Gaylord in mid-September to decide on some directions for the PSIP in Michigan, to be attended by the executive director and one business representative from each of the 11 consortium regions.

Lenard will choose the business representative to attend from suggestions given to him by consortium administrative board members.

OTHER BUSINESS

For the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, Lenard was granted a pay raise from his present $22,000 a year to $27,000. It was pointed out in granting the increase that he administers a program with about $8 million in expenditures a year, with only about five percent of that going for administration, versus 15 percent allowable.

Program coordinator Al Berry was granted an increase from his present $15,500 annually to $18,000, starting Oct. 1.

A requested rent increase from Edward J. Hahn for the office space rented by the consortium in the Hahn Real Estate Building in Cass City was granted. The present rent of $2.85 per square foot for 2,170 square feet of space will go up as of Oct. 1 to $5 per square foot.

The consortium has been informed its request for $450,000 in federal Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Projects funds has been rejected by the state Bureau of Employment and Training, which disburses the funds. Lenard will now submit a request for some of the governor's discretionary funds for the program.

State property taxes in danger zone

In case you haven't noticed, Michigan property taxes are high.

As a matter of fact, according to an intergovernmental study group, Michigan's property tax rate is at a level that dangerously risks adoption of a California-type tax cut plan.

The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, in a discussion paper on dealing with tax cut proposals, said the property tax will be accepted as long as it is at a moderate rate of 1 to 1.5 percent of the market value of property.

The commission report said anything over 2 percent is in the danger category. In its survey of 1974 rates, the Michigan rate was 2.38 percent.

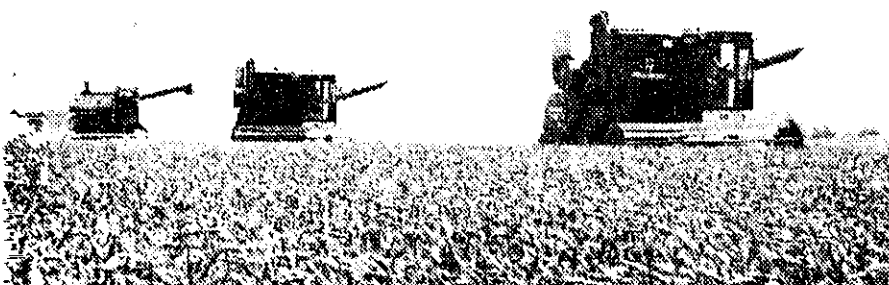

Along with New Hampshire, Michigan has the fourth highest rate in the country.

running between Ludington and Milwaukee, is the subject of a five-year phase down plan which could eventually result in total elimination of the service.

Milliken recently ordered the Highway Commission to instruct the state highway department to withdraw its support from the so-called Keweenaw Plan, which calls for the phase down in service.

Replaces electric service

Windmill blows up storm of direct current

"You don't see any Edison lines, do you?" says George Moslander.

People driving by his Phillips Road home south of Cass City won't see any electric lines. What they will see is a three-bladed windmill on top of a tall tower in the middle of his large front yard. The windmill-driven generator, by charging batteries, provides all the electricity he and his wife Lois need.

"That's one way to avoid excessive light bills," Moslander says of his windmill.

He admits though, he doesn't have anything against Detroit Edison Co. It's just that when he and his wife moved from Detroit a year ago, he found the cost of paying the utility to run a power line along Phillips Road excessive. If the line had already been there, he would have made use of it. Instead, for less than $2,000, he went into the electricity business.

It's possible to buy new electricity generating windmills (and also water pumps) but Moslander's is a Jacobs, made by a Minneapolis firm no longer in business. He bought it from a firm that reconditions the units, which were mainly used in the Plains states in the 1930s before the days of generating plants there and electric lines. The Jacobs Wind Electric Plant he bought, according to the blueprints, was made sometime after 1945.

The hardest part of the project was finding a windmill tower. There are lots of them still around, but he had a tough time finding someone who would sell theirs, even though it wasn't being used. He finally convinced a retired farmer on M-46 to sell.

The camera-shy Moslander got his windmill in operation in mid-May. Until then, the electricity in his home was provided by a couple of large batteries, charged by his pickup truck.

The wind generator, he explains, works on the same principle, only instead of using an engine to run the generator to charge the batteries, the turning blades of the windmill turn a shaft which turns the generator.

The blades start turning when the wind is blowing about seven miles per hour, but it takes about 10 mph before the generator starts generating electricity. The generator shuts off at about 20 mph to avoid damage from excessive winds.

From the generator the electricity is used to charge two banks of six six-volt batteries. Golf cart batteries are used because they are designed to be repeatedly recharged, unlike car batteries. The batteries are kept in a small concrete block building by the house.

The Moslanders haven't fallen total victim to the "live better electrically" age. Their electricity from the wind only provides power for their lights and water pump. Their refrigerator and stove both run on bottled gas. They do not have a television and the couple doesn't miss it.

The present setup only provides direct current (DC), whereas homes, televisions, and modern-day appliances use alternating current (AC).

Moslander has found some appliances will run on DC, such as his wife's mixer, only it won't rotate as fast as it would with AC. The coffee pot gets the water hot, but there isn't enough "juice" to get the water boiling.

He does have a small gasoline-engine generator for when he does need AC. For their limited use of electricity, the windmill works fine. One set of six batteries, once fully charged, provides enough electricity for four or five days, with the second set in reserve. The couple has never been without electricity since they started using the windmill, even when there was a four-day period when the wind didn't blow at all.

Moslander, a welder, plans to eventually install a $500 inverter, which will convert the DC current to AC, but he's in no hurry.

"That's the main principle," he says half-jokingly of his present set-up. "It won't run a television."

Ransford leads local campaign

Governor William G. Milliken has announced that Paul Ransford, Caro, has been selected Tuscola county chairman for the governor's 1978 reelection effort.

Ransford is the owner of the Tuscola County Abstract Company, former chairman of the Tuscola County Republican Party, and a member of the Caro Community Hospital Board of Trustees.

WINDBLOWN -- The turning blades of George Moslander's windmill drive a generator, which charges batteries. His total investment in the project was less than $2,000.

TOO DRY BEANS -- Lack of rain this summer has resulted in dry bean yields of only 10-20 bushels per acre, versus average yields in good years of 25-30 bushels. Dave Milligan, combining this field of navy beans Tuesday on Koepfgen Road, thought it would yield maybe 20 bushels. Quality of the beans harvested, according to area elevators, has been excellent.

Accident round-up

Several injured in area auto crashes

A Holt man was in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw following a 4 p.m. accident Monday on S. Elkton Road (Cemetery Road).

Hospitalized was Dennis McArdle, 26. The driver was his wife, Maria, 26, who was treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital after the accident.

Huron county deputies reported the couple was southbound, near McAlpine Road, when the car ran off the road, struck a guard rail, then landed in a ditch that runs perpendicular to the road.

Both were taken to Hills and Dales, with McArdle later transferred to the Saginaw hospital. Lawrence J. Bulla, 20, of Elkton, was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales, where he has been since an accident at 7:15 p.m. Monday.

Tuscola county deputies quoted him as saying the throttle stuck on his motorcycle while he was accelerating, resulting in the bike flipping over. He was eastbound on Kelly Road, east of Cemetery Road, when the mishap occurred.

Charles Jewett, 55, and his daughter, Samantha, 12, of 4118 S. Seeger Street, were treated and released from Hills and Dales after an 11:25 a.m. accident Saturday.

They were passengers in a car driven by Jewett's wife, Ida Mae, 50, which was westbound on M-81, east of Crane Road.

The car in front of them pulled out to pass a farm tractor. Mrs. Jewett also pulled out to pass but the car in front then turned left into a driveway and the Jewett auto struck the rear of the other car.

The other driver, Stuart J. Venema, 19, of 2161 Phillips Road, Deford, was ticketed by troopers on a charge of making an improper left turn.

Shirley Kruse, 44, of Rt. 2 Schwegler Road, Cass City, sought her own treatment at ter an accident at 12:15 a.m. Saturday.

She was in a car driven by Faith Ann LaPonsie, 20, of 4658 N. Seeger Street. Caro state police quoted them as saying they were eastbound on M-81, east of Green Road, when a westbound car passing another car forced their vehicle onto the south shoulder to avoid a collision. The car went out of control, crossed the road and landed in a ditch on the north side of the road.

Timothy J. Fuester, 17, of Caro, reportedly refused treatment after an accident at 7:40 p.m. Sunday.

Deputies reported he was northbound on Phillips Road on his motorcycle, stopped for the stop sign at M-46, then was struck by an eastbound vehicle as he was turning left. Driver of the other vehicle was Henry E. Stein, 34, of Port Huron.

Fuester was ticketed by troopers on a charge of failure to yield right of way.

Cass City police reported late Friday morning that the car of Gloria Jean Clink, 26, of 4237 Doerr Road, eastbound on Main, west of Leach Street, was struck in the right side by a car pulling out from a parking space by the south curb.

Driver of the other car was Sharon Lynn McClorey, 5162 Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown.

Novesta Baptist church

New pastor rides in with own bus

Not too many ministers bring a bus with them when they come to their new pastorate, but Rev. John Lange did.

It served as a handy moving van to move his family's belongings and now that it's here, it figures in his plans for the Novesta Baptist church.

Rev. Lange comes to the Lamton Road church from Michigan City, Ind., about 40 miles east of Chicago, where he was youth minister at the Bible Baptist church while attending Hyles-Anderson Bible College in nearby Hammond, Ind.

He received his B.S. degree in Christian education from the college in August.

A native of Michigan City, the Bible Baptist church is his home church. Another member of the church is evangelist John Goetsch, who has presented programs twice at Novesta Baptist. He recommended the youthful minister for the position.

Rev. Lange, 25, gave his first sermon at Novesta July 16 as a candidate. The church members voted to offer the position to him Aug. 2.

He replaces Rev. Steve Love, who is now at a church in Gibraltar, south of Detroit.

Lange and his wife, Jean, have two children, Ann, 2, and Jonathan, nine months. Their moving van to bring their belongings from Michigan City was a church bus, donated by his church there to his new pastorate.

He sees the bus as a means to bring new members into the church. The Novesta Baptist church has about 40 members, of whom only about seven or eight are youngsters.

The emphasis will be in attracting youngsters. "Once you get their kids involved," Rev. Lange explained, "it is easier to get the adults involved."

"Our concern is that the kids are taught about God," he said of youngsters not attending church.

"A lot of parents are not interested themselves (in joining)," Mrs. Lange added, "but want their children to have a Christian education."

That's where the bus comes in. Saturdays, church members will go in the bus to an area to talk to people who might be interested in coming to church.

Sunday, the bus will be used to bring people to church, primarily youngsters to Sunday school.

Novesta township not being Michigan City, Rev. Lange isn't expecting similar numbers, but at his church there, three buses were used to bring from 150-250 youngsters to Sunday School each week.

The Indiana native decided to become a minister at age 19. Starting in high school at age 15, where he learned the trade, he was a printer for seven years, then was a machinist for two years while attending college. He worked as unpaid youth minister at his church for 4½ years before being on the staff his final year.

Rev. Lange is still nostalgic about the printing business. One of his church members is David Moody, who operates a small print shop in the basement of his Deford home. "The smell is good," he said of the odor in Moody's basement.

"The people are real nice. Real friendly and helpful," the pastor said of the persons he has met so far here.

Novesta township is quite a change for the Lange family. Michigan City is a suburb of Chicago, without much open space between the two cities.

In Michigan City, they lived in a mobile home only a quarter-mile from a busy expressway.

"It's quiet," Mrs. Lange said of their new surroundings. "You can hear the birds."

In fact, it's so quiet, she commented, she and husband had trouble sleeping the first night they were here. They were too used to the noise.

Barriers for women in licensed professions

According to a preliminary study released by the Department of Licensing and Regulation, women and minorities in Michigan are discouraged and discriminated against by the state's licensed professions.

Of the 32 professions reviewed, only two had a greater percentage of minorities than the 11.9 percent in Michigan's workforce. These were barbers and medical doctors.

Only six had a greater percentage of women than the 41.6 percent in the workforce and those were in fields traditionally entered by females, such as nursing and cosmetology.

"The number is pathetically low. In some occupations, like electricians and dentists, the numbers of women and minorities are so low you couldn't find them with an X-ray," said Licensing and Regulation Director William Ballenger.

*****

He noted Michigan's licensed occupations run behind the national average for the number of minorities and women employed.

Ballenger said Governor Milliken has done much by increasing the representation of women and minorities on licensing boards. He added, however, that the state must bear a lot of the blame for the situation.

He said some of the problems stem from the "incestuous relationship" between legislators and special interests. The occupation associations and labor unions, which represent a special interest, have often been able to get legislation written that specifies qualifications or rules for licensing. Ballenger noted quite often such legislation and/or rules preclude minorities.

Barriers for women and minorities to the licensed professions can include education requirements, societal pressures, photographs on license applications, examinations and other items such as credit records.

The report made 13 recommendations including increasing women and minority representation on state licensing boards; funding at least part of Michigan's regulatory activities with general funds, rather than through licensing fees; determining whether licensing tests are truly job related; and "removing every last trace of the historical power which professional societies and association, as well as labor unions, have held over the appointment of members of the state's regulatory and licensing panels."

Ballenger said the report indicates that while there has not been any blatant discrimination in some professions, the potential for discrimination does exist.

Find PBB in sheep

A new chapter was beginning to unfold when a herd of Michigan sheep were found to have high traces of PBB over the allowable level.

This brought renewed assurances from top state officials that Michigan food was entirely safe for both intrastate and interstate commerce.

One state meat packer is now threatening to refuse to slaughter, pack and distribute any Michigan grown meats.

PBB is without question in the food chain. To what extent is uncertain. It probably will be years before results are in on the contamination and its effects on humans.

One thing for certain is much more will be said, many more studies will be conducted and many more taxpayers dollars will be spent before an end comes to a problem introduced into the state by a mix-up by private manufacturers and distributors.

Finance your home insulation through Detroit Edison. (Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow.)

A charming snow scene in a glass paperweight. In the old days it was the favorite possession of many a little girl or boy.

But the reality of winter in southeastern Michigan can be harsh—bringing high heating bills.

Before another cold, snowy winter, make sure your home is properly insulated. It's the most important single thing you can do to keep heating bills down. And help save energy.

Detroit Edison's Home Insulation Finance Plan is designed to help. First, by providing a list of participating contractors. Second, with convenient financing.

Under the plan, you can arrange to have insulation installed anywhere it's needed—wherever valuable heat might escape into the cold winter air.

If you're a residential customer with legal title to your home and an acceptable credit rating, you can take advantage of Detroit Edison's Home Insulation Finance Plan. Call or stop in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office for details.

Then when winter comes, sit back and say—"let it snow, let it snow, let it snow."

Save where it really counts. The power is in your hands.

Letters to the Editor

Memories of early days

A lot of people have spoken to me saying they look for my letters in the Chronicle, some of them wishing I would write more often. Many of my past letters have been on the liquor question or regarding school problems.

After the last request was made I thought of the series of letters Robert Warner had in the paper quite some time ago recalling events and happenings of pioneer days. I watched for them and read with interest and enjoyment.

What a wonderful thing the brain is to store up the happenings of a lifetime and to come down to old age with a mind that is clear and a body that is not afflicted with pain or handicapped in getting around.

At Brown City camp a few days ago, I saw a man come in badly stooped and walking with two canes, his hair as white as snow. I thought, "there is an old man." I managed to walk out with him and asked his age. He replied, "I'll be 85 my next birthday." And I was 85 my last birthday. I too must be old.

I visit in the Provincial House and come away feeling not as the Pharisee who thanked the Lord that he was better than other men, but saying, "But for your grace (unmerited favor) I might be in the same condition." What the future holds or how I'll leave this world I know not. One of old said, "My times are in His hands and a song writer wrote,

"I'll live for today nor anxious be."

Now for the beginning of the things I remember.

Perhaps the first was having our first family picture taken. Mother was standing, holding baby brother; father was sitting, holding me on his knee. I was dressed in a plaid dress. Yes, little boys wore dresses for quite some time in those days. Mr. Maier was holding the little bird in one hand with bulb in the other ready to press at the right instant and saying, "Watch the birdy."

The second memory is when I was a little past three. Mother was taking us over to visit Aunt Vida Mitchell, in the horse and buggy, of course. They were building the Methodist church at McHugh corners and as we were going by, father was walking the ridge.

Third memory in 1898. Mother was kneeling on the floor in front of us with little Alice on a stool and Ray and I behind her. She was teaching us to sing, "When the roll is called up yonder." For little sister the call came only two or three months later when spinal meningitis caused her death. I remember father, mother, Uncle John and Aunt Lizzie standing around the cradle. Then the little white casket in the corner of the parlor and the little form surrounded with perennials white phlox.

Elvis thanked for memories

As all of us know, Elvis Presley died just a little over a year ago. I can't help but think he'd be rather disappointed and saddened by some of the things that are being said, have been said, and have been written about him since his death.

It seems so often that one picks up a paper or weekly gossip magazine and reads where someone just had his looks changed for his own selfish monetary reasons. Granted, it's nice to have one or two Elvis imitators around who do a good job of imitating him and his songs, so people can remember what he was like, but too much can spoil the effect. I really think it has gotten to this point.

Then, of course, you have the people who will dig up any trash they can find for a few bucks or to get their name in a book or magazine article. And to think some of them were supposedly his closest friends or associates. All I can think is that they really didn't know what Elvis was all about.

As I sat home last Tuesday evening, watching the last half hour of the Elvis special, I thought what a shame that the world lost such a beautiful person, his life cut short many years.

He had always given so much of himself to his fans and audiences everywhere.

Whether it be through his acting in movies or his concert tours, he gave everyone something and someone to relate to. He could always sing a good rock-n-roll song, but when he would get more serious in a song, he would do it with so much feeling. An example of this would be "My Way" or "American Trilogy."

I think he held a true admiration for not only his audiences but also for his musicians and backup vocalists. If you watched the special you couldn't help but notice the expression on his face and look in his eyes. He was one of the greatest performers this country has ever known and yet he was a big enough man to appreciate talent he saw in others. It is a pity some people have to look for the worst in others, especially when that person can no longer defend himself. I think all Elvis fans can be thankful that people who have chosen to stain his image are very much in the minority.

In closing I'd just like to add that I was and am an Elvis fan. I would have liked to have seen him perform on stage. I, as do others, appreciate what he did for music and the growth of it. He left us all a great gift.

Hawks favored over Ubly in first test of '78 grid squads

Pre-season scrimmages have revealed that the Cass City Red Hawks' offense is ahead of the defense, a reversal of the usual trend in the early part of the season. The reason for that may be that Coach Don Schelke is trying to teach new techniques on the defensive line and his charges haven't mastered it.

Schelke says that if the new defense proves to be too much to learn the team can go back to the traditional methods.

Local fans will get their first look at the Red Hawks Friday against Ubly, a team which Cass City is favored to defeat.

There will be 20 different players in the starting lineup as Schelke plans to start the year with only two players scheduled for two-way duty.

On offense, junior Rusty Hoag will call the signals. Tony Doerr, a senior, will be the fullback and the half-Coach Schelke has designated Thursday, Sept. 7, as meet the team night.

Parents and fans are invited to attend at 7 p.m. when the players will be introduced before the final pre-game practice.

backs will be senior Dave Heins and sophomore Bob Sawdon.

Three juniors will be the offensive ends. Ken Martin will anchor one side while Mike Stec or Tim Fahrner will start at the other end.

The center will be either junior Bob Warju or senior Paul Guernsey. On the line will be senior Ray Piaskowski, junior Mike Vatter, senior Mike Truemmer and senior Doug Erla.

On defense, senior Keith Pobanz and junior Jack Groombridge will be at the ends. Tackles will be seniors Jeff Jensen and Steve Meeker with Tony Doerr ready to fill in as a two-way player.

A sure two-way player, Truemmer, will be one line-backer and junior Jim Nicol will be the other line-backer.

The cornerbacks will be seniors Todd Alexander and Don Doerr.

The only other two-way player, Heins, will be at safety with sophomore Tim Sontag.

Of the starting 22 players only seven have varsity experience. How soon they can develop into a cohesive unit may well determine the Hawks' chances in the Thumb B Conference this fall.

A line on Cass City's prospects for a championship should come in the second game of the season. That's when the Hawks meet Bad Axe, one of the pre-season favorites for the title.

Present golf award at annual Fun Day

The Sherwood on the Hill Monday Ladies' Golf League had its Fun Day and awards dinner Aug. 28.

Following dinner, president Valerie Downing presented position awards to the winning league teams. First place was won by Nelda Phillips, Unionville and Nancy Robertshaw, Gagetown.

Second place winners were Shirley Kramer, Unionville and Barb Burdon, Gagetown. Third place winners were Lois Kerr, Ruth Volz, Sebawaing, Donna LaFave, Gagetown and Agatha LaFave, Gagetown.

The league members played golf with only the golf clubs per lady and a foursome team won prize.

THE LARGEST GOLF squad in history at Cass City has turned out for practice this fall. Four (seated) of the players are letter winners.

Missing is Tim Johnson.

Golfers ready

Largest squad in history ready for title run

It's a new season under a new coach, Mike Gogola, and hopes are high that this year's edition of the Red Hawk golf squad can make a serious run for the league championship.

Hopes are high because of the talent on the squad and because the competition promises to be less severe than it was in 1977.

Or rather the talent at Vassar has been diluted by graduation, giving the rest of the teams in the league a crack at the title.

Cass City will be anchored by Jeff Prieskorn. He holds the school's longest record and also the Rolling Hills course record.

Prieskorn missed last year when he spent a year overseas as an exchange student, but he's back stronger than ever as a senior.

He'll be flanked by four lettermen. Tim Johnson, Steve Richards, Scott Krueger and Tim Severance earned letters last year.

Challenging the vets will be a host of underclassmen who have shown steady improvement.

Some of last year's stalwarts have graduated. Jim Mohr and Mike Richards were big point winners for the Hawks and it will be up to the boys moving into the starting ranks to pick up the slack caused by their departure.

The Hawks entertain Millington Thursday, Sept. 7, in a non-conference tilt.

The league schedule opens Sept. 11 at Bad Axe.

The complete schedule:

Sept. 7 Millington, home
11 at Bad Axe
15 at Caseville
18 Sandusky, home
25 Vassar, home
27 at Lakers
30 at Marlette

North Central D League

Owen-Gage girls ready to defend championship

The schedule:

Sept. 19 at Carsonville-PS
21 Akron-Fairgrove
26 Port Hope
Oct. 3 Kingston
5 at Caseville
10 North Huron
12 Port Austin
17 at Peck
19 Carsonville-PS
24 at Akron-Fair.
26 Port Hope
Nov. 2 at Kingston
7 Caseville
9 at North Huron
14 at Port Austin
16 Peck

The Owendale-Gagetown girls' basketball team is defending North Central D League champion, but repeating as league champions won't be easy, according to coach Judy Campbell.

"I think the league will be tough this year -- the toughest since I've been here," she said. Miss Campbell is starting her fourth season as coach.

In addition to her Bulldogs, she sees North Huron, Akron-Fairgrove, Caseville and Peck all in contention for the top spot.

Owen-Gage won the league crown last year with a 16-0 mark plus winning one non-conference game during the season. It also won the district title but lost the first game in the regionals for an overall record of 19-1.

Miss Campbell has five returning lettermen, but only two were starters last year. Laurie Andrakowicz and Becky Howard, who became a starter toward the end of the season.

The other lettermen are Tammy Wissner, Jan Rapson and Carol Goslin.

Defense is the Bulldogs' strong point, with Goslin, Howard, and Andrakowicz being "super good on defense," according to their coach.

Offense, however, needed work, she said a few weeks before the start of the season, the main problem being that her players don't shoot enough at the basket.

As of the beginning of the season, the Bulldogs were lacking an inspirational team leader, a spark plug to encourage other players.

The team may have one advantage over the other seven North Central D League teams -- provided it doesn't develop claustrophobia. With construction underway at Owendale, the team will be playing all its home games in the Gagetown gym, the smallest in the league. Being used to the small court should give it an advantage for home games, the coach feels.

All games start at 6:30 p.m., starting with the junior varsity contest MI Campbell also coaches the JV's.
