Goblins will strike Oct. 31

Get the goodies ready. The ghosts and goblins will soon be knocking on your doors.

Halloween is Wednesday, Oct. 31, and following past practice, all village councils in the area have set official hours for trick-or-treating in their communities.

In Cass City, it will be from 6-8 p.m.

Hours in Kingston are 6:30-7:30, followed by a hot dog roast and costume judging for youngsters at the village hall. That will last

Almost time to turn the clocks back

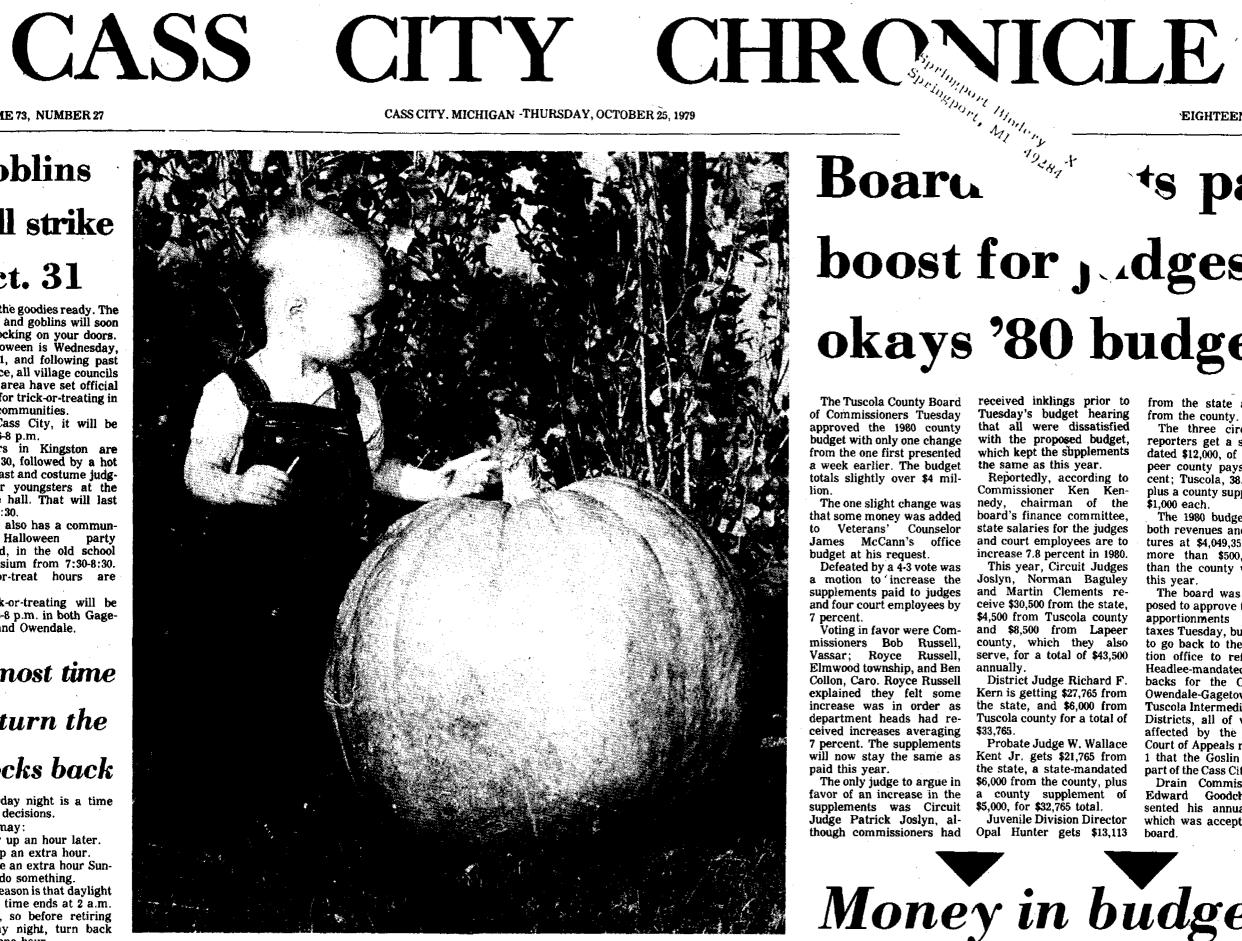

Saturday night is a time for big decisions.

You may: -Stay up an hour later. -Sleep an extra hour.

-Have an extra hour Sunday to do something. The reason is that daylight savings time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday, so before retiring Saturday night, turn back clocks one hour. That means there will be a gain of an extra hour at that

It also means daylight will come an hour earlier, but it will get dark an hour earlier.

THE GREAT PUMPKIN came early for Beth Phillips, 20-month-old daughter of William and Jean Phillips of Grassmere Road, Grant township. Her father grew the pumpkin, which weighs 96 pounds and is 66 inches in circumference. For all youngsters, pumpkin night -- Halloween -- is Wednesday, Oct. 31.

The judge denied a motion from Owen-Gage attorney Mark Chessman that the matter be referred to the Michigan Tax Tribunal for a decision, he having agreed with the three defense attorneys that the tribunal doesn't have jurisdiction in such disputes.

Although various arguments were presented during the approximately halfhour hearing, most centered around the Michigan Court of Appeal's Oct. 1 ruling that the Goslin parcel is part of the Cass City district, the state Board of Education having had the legal right to transfer it from Owen-Gage without a vote of the people. The district filed a motion Friday with the appeals court asking for a rehearing.

Chessman contended that Ingham County Circuit Judge James T. Kallman had issued two stays of the state board's transfer of the Goslin parcel to Cass City during the lengthy legal proceedings and that those stays remained in effect until the appeals court ruled

Boaru boost for judges, okays'80 budget

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday approved the 1980 county budget with only one change from the one first presented a week earlier. The budget totals slightly over $4 mil-

The one slight change was that some money was added to Veterans' Counselor James McCann's office budget at his request.

Defeated by a 4-3 vote was a motion to increase the supplements paid to judges and four court employees by 7 percent.

Voting in favor were Commissioners Bob Russell, Vassar; Royce Russell, Elmwood township, and Ben Collon, Caro. Royce Russell explained they felt some increase was in order as department heads had received increases averaging 7 percent. The supplements will now stay the same as paid this year.

The only judge to argue in favor of an increase in the supplements was Circuit Judge Patrick Joslyn, although commissioners had received inklings prior to Tuesday's budget hearing that all were dissatisfied with the proposed budget, which kept the supplements the same as this year.

Reportedly, according to Commissioner Ken Kennedy, chairman of the board's finance committee, state salaries for the judges and court employees are to increase 7.8 percent in 1980. This year, Circuit Judges Joslyn, Norman Baguley and Martin Clements receive $30,500 from the state, $4,500 from Tuscola county and $8,500 from Lapeer county, which they also serve, for a total of $43,500 annually.

District Judge Richard F. Kern is getting $27,765 from the state, and $6,000 from Tuscola county for a total of Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. gets $21,765 from the state, a state-mandated $6,000 from the county, plus county supplement of $5,000, for $32,765 total.

Juvenile Division Director Opal Hunter gets $13,113 from the state and $4,000 from the county.

The three circuit court reporters get a state man-dated $12,000, of which Lapeer county pays 61.4 percent; Tuscola, 38.6 percent, plus a county supplement of $1,000 each.

The 1980 budget projects both revenues and expenditures at $4,049,352. That is more than $500,000 more than the county will spend this year.

The board was also supposed to approve the county apportionments for 1979 taxes Tuesday, but that had to go back to the equalization office to refigure the Headlee-mandated tax rollbacks for the Cass City, Owendale-Gagetown and Tuscola Intermediate School Districts, all of which are affected by the Michigan Court of Appeals ruling Oct.

1 that the Goslin parcel is part of the Cass City district.

Drain Commissioner J. Edward Goodchild presented his annual report, which was accepted by the Most county salaried employees are getting pay raises of about 7 percent in 1980, but two exceptions are Sheriff Hugh Marr and Undersheriff Bruce Tait, whose increases are noticeably higher.

The sheriff will get $22,000 next year, up 16.4 percent from his present $18,900, and the undersheriff will get $20,000, up 19 percent from $16,800. The reason, according to county Commissioner Ken Kennedy, chairman of the board's finance committee, is that without the substantial increases, as of July, 1980, under the county's new contract with the Fraternal Order of Police, the departlieutenant (Paul ment Megge) would have been making more than the undersheriff.

The latter as second in command had to make more than the lieutmant, and the sheriff had to make more than the undersheriff, hence the larger than average pay

Tuscola stays out of transit program

It doesn't appear Tuscola county will be participating in a limited public transportation program with Huron and Sanilac counties.

The program will serve senior citizens and the handicapped. Tuscola's not participating doesn't mean those persons will be left out in the cold, however.

Commissioners from the three counties met in Sandusky last Wednesday to lecide whether to proceed with the proposed program, which is the outgrowth of an almost $29,000 study of upper Thumb public transportation needs. The Michigan Department of Transnortation (DOT) paid the Nagy explained at the meeting Wednesday that his board is reluctant to support public transit because of an apparent lack of interest so far by human service agencies in the county that would participate.

Commissioners also question whether a new transit agency would really improve service over what is provided now.

"If It Fitz..." Life with a detective

"Where did this Milky Way wrapper come from?' the wife asked.

"I haven't eaten a Milky Way in at least five years," the husband said with innocent calm. But inside his head he was raging against mself. How could he possibly have been dumb enough to leave that balledup wrapper on the table beside his chair where Mrs. Sherlock Holmes was sure to find it in the morning? His nlan had been to burn it and taush the ashes down the toilet while she slept. How could he have forgotten? It was true he hadn't eaten a Milky Way in several years. The balled-up wrapper was from a Snickers bar. te would discover this when she took the wrapper into her laboratory to check for fingerprints. He might as well confess and beg for

For several reasons, all fat, neither the husband nor the wife should eat candy. This is easier for her because she doesn't like candy as much as he does. No one in the world likes candy as much as he does.

The husband believes a uccessful marriage must be built on trust. When his wife swore to eat no more candy, he believed her. He never searches her pockets for Heath bars. When he kisses her, he never sniffs for the smell of chocolate. Çe never grants their grandchildren immunity from prosecution if they will testify she bit from the same giant Hershey bar that spoiled their appetites.

He is a marvelous person who has implicit faith in the integrity of his spouse. He would never suggest she might fall victim to the overwhelming temptations that assault innocent people from every billboard and force even men as com-Litted as St. Peter to three times eat a Three Muskateer

On the other hand, the wife believes a successful marriage must be built on suspicion and good detective work. She believes a husband is guilty until an analysis of the contents of his stomach proves him innocent. She is ever alert for any clue the husband might be enjoying life more than

For instance, there was a recent evening when the wife was out of town, visiting her mother. To take some of the pain out of the lonely hours without her, the husband and their son went to a jazz concert. There was a photographer present and he snapped the heartwarming scene of a father and his son boogying down together. He later tried to sell the picture for a Saturday Evening Post cover, but Norman Rockwell hasn't been dead the So the photographer mailed the photo to the husband's home, which is also the home of the wife. The husband thought it was a good picture. The son's red, shoulder-length hair shone brightly in the barlight, matching the husband's nose. Snickers bar for 25 cents. Next to it there is a box which releases newspapers for 20 cents each, Around 10 o'clock the other night, the husband began his regular descent to buy a newspaper.

"I hear more than 20 cents jingling in your pocket," the wife called from three rooms away.

This hurt the husband, who only wants to be trusted by the person he loves most. When he returned with the newspapers, he anticipated a body search and left the Snickers bar out in the hallway, in a potted plant, to be retrieved after the wife went to bed. He'd teach her to mistrust him.

The scheme worked beautifully. But then he forgot to burn the candy wrapper and flush the ashes down the toilet. His honest confession gained him no mercy, which is exactly what the big dumbo deserved.

Astronaut Shaw dedicates trainer

Astronaut Brewster Shaw Jr., a Cass City native, was guest of honor Oct. 5 at the dedication of the Apollo command module emergency egress trainer at the Detroit Science Center.

He is the son of Brewster (Bruce) and Leone Shaw of Pringle Road, Cass City. They and a sister, Peggy (Mrs. Joseph) Maycock of Grosse Pointe Farms were present at the dedication.

An Air Force captain, since July of last year, he has been in training at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration space flight center at Houston, Texas, to pilot the space shuttle.

An airliner for outer space, the massive shuttle will be capable of rocketing to orbits 100-600 miles above the earth, then returning to land the same way an airplane would. It will be capable of carrying 65,000 pounds of cargo into space.

The trainer was used during the earlier Apollo, Skylab and Apollo-Soyuz missions for astronauts to practice quick exits in case they would have to leave the real space capsule in an emergency while on the launching

Before Mutual Savings started its new building on West Main Street the two big trees in front of the lot were chalked with a big S.

The question posed was did the "S" stand for save or saw? Now that the construction is well underway it's apparent that the trees will be saved.

That doesn't make the location unique but in Cass City it wouldn't have been the first location on Main or connecting streets in the business district to have trees cut to make way for concrete.

I can understand using Milligan Road for a drag strip. Not condone, but understand. Young nuts behind the wheel often don't know any better than to risk their necks and worse, the necks of innocent passers-by as they race cars. That's dumb but it's not vicious. Sure, if caught they should be made to pay because it is a dangerous and expensive game they play. Any parent of a teenage son can tell you insurance for boys and young men is expensive. That's bad news but it doesn't compare with the actions of vandals that rip up private property for no other apparent reason than destruction. Why would anyone take the trouble to remove a portion of a wood fence so that they could gain admittance to a golf course to do "wheelies" on the green? There might be some rhyme or reason to it if someone had a grudge against the owner. If vandalism was the primary goal, then the goal was reached. It will cost about $1,000 to repair the green.

Deliberate destruction has happened to teachers who have had lawns ripped after incurring the wrath of students at school.

It's hard to see that this is the case here. The owners of Rolling Hills Golf Course, John and Kally Maharg, have bent over backwards to be friendly, Mrs. Maharg teaches, but none of her students is old enough to

It might even make a little sense if no fence guarded the property where entry was made. You can visualize a couple of stupid drunks suddenly deciding that a race down a golf course would be grand sport.

But this isn't the way it happened. The vandals didn't drive through by the club house where access is easy and where they would be easy to observe. They took the trouble to carefully lift a section of the fence that's located away from adjacent homes so that chances of being seen were reduced. That doesn't appear to be a spur of the moment thing. More like a well planned piece of vandalism. If acts like this go unchecked, it reduces measurably the good life that living in small towns affords. Here's one vote for more than a slap on the wrist for the persons responsible if they are caught.

Following months of haggling among legislators, consumer groups and insurers, a final agreement has been reached which may finally bring reality to the so-called essential insurance

The legislation basically would prohibit insurance redlining -- disqualifying or increasing rates for coverage depending upon where the applicant resides -- and guarantee coverage at a fair and equitable rate under the state's automobile no-fault insurance act.

During the summer recess, an ad hoc committee hammered out differences between the House and Senate over rating territories.

Under the agreement. auto insurers are given explicit criteria for making insurance available. It further requires companies to tell consumers what factors were used in setting rates while limiting the variances in rates in adjacent areas and across the state for each

THE SENATE VERSION would have eliminated rating territories entirely, which would have resulted in averaging insurance premiums statewide regardless of where the person lives.

The house version would have allowed the state to be divided in no more than 20 rating territories with the highest rate in the state no greater than twice the lowest rate and rates in adjacent territories differing no greater than 10 percent.

The agreement still allows only 20 rating territories and retains the 10 percent variance standard, but permits the high rate to be 2.22 times the low rate.

While companies could still base rates on age, they could not vary rates due to the legislation require insurance companies to write policies for all drivers unless they have bad driving records, were substantially at fault in an accident, have safe vehicles and have not been convicted of serious violations.

Driving records are rated by a penalty point system similar to that used by the secretary of state, although different point values are used and energy points (exceeding the 55 mph limit) are used.

For the first two years of the legislation, insurance would be guaranteed to drivers with no more than six points, and thereafter, to drivers with no more than seven points. Points are to be accumulated over a three-year period.

AN APPEAL PROCEDure would be established for drivers who are denied insurance coverage, based on dent standards. Drivers legitimately denied insurance would still be placed in the assigned risk pool. Last year, the state Supreme Court upheld the no-fault insurance law but said both availability and rates must comply with due process requirements. The homeowners insurance provisions of the bill also limit rating territories in the voluntary market to three in an effort to eliminate insurance redlining in central cities.

Separate territory provisions apply in the residual pool, which has been used for high-risk coverages, and where attempts failed to make each territory no smaller than a county.

The agreement of the ad hoc committee will be placed in the legislation by a Senate-House conference committee which would not be subject to amendment after a final agreement is

Tips for making Halloween safer

Parents can make Halloween safer with a few simple costume decorating tricks, says the president of the Michigan Optometric Association.

According to Dr. Owen R. Dueweke, Halloween accidents are most likely to happen when drivers can't see children in the street and when children can't see where they are walking.

The first can be solved by decorating costumes with retro-reflective material. The second can be overcome by using makeup instead of masks to disguise young trick-or-treaters. Retro-reflective material on shoes and clothing makes pedestrians safely visible to drivers. Nothing else, not even white clothing, can top Retro-reflective material is available in iron-on, sew-

Thus, without direct government support, our athletes often do very well in international competition. (There is, of course, indirect support through scholarships given to athletes by government-supported universities.) Often ignored in the debate is that we "lose" many of our best athletes to sports that aren't played in the Olympics -- football, baseball and tennis.

Some of those massive professional college and professional football linemen might have made worldclass shotputters or weight lifters if they had chosen to go into those sports.

Here's where the paper company comes in.

Champion International Corp., a paper manufacturer, is now a major financial sponsor of the U.S. National Speed Skating Team, which will send 12 men and eight women to the 1980 Winter Olympics.

It joins Phillips Petroleum, which is funding the swimming and diving teams; Miller Brewing, track and boxing; Sears, the Amateur Athletic Union's (AAU) Junior Olympics program, and Mack Trucks, weight lifting.

Other companies are supporting amateur athletics and the Olympics by donating use of their products or with direct financial contributions.

Thus with more and more corporations getting involved in supporting amateur athletics, there is even less reason now for government support. Uncle Sam already has his hands in too many places they shouldn't

Our leaders in Washington apparently don't see it that way, however, because a year ago, Congress appropriated $16 million for amateur athletics, to be administered by the USOC.

The USOC hasn't got the money yet, because the squabble over which organization should control amateur athletics and our Olympic effort hasn't ended. The money was apparently supposed to be a "reward" for an end to the turmoil.

The latest argument is between the National Collegiate Athletic Committee, which says that the U.S. Wrestling Federaton should govern amateur wrestling, and the USOC, which says the AAU should continue to do so because that is the organization still recognized by the international wrest-

He swam half way across and the same day went over and then went under. I asked to see A.D. MacIntyre of him why he went down. He Frutchey Bean, I told him said, "I went down to rest." I'd like $10,000 for the hos-

I proposed to the Rotary Club that we dig out a swimming pool under the bridge. After some discussion, it was proposed to build a pool.

Dr. Donahue and Otto Prieskorn presented me with a paper stating they were giving $100 each and asking others to give $25. I took the paper and said if they were giving $100 each, I'd get 10 others to do the Ernie Schwaderer furnished the cement blocks. John Bohnsack said he would do the plumbing. So the first pool was built at no cost to the village.

A short time after this, namely 1941, we had speeches by each Rotarian as to what the town needed most. Speeches by Donahue and Walt Mann were decided to be the best, and with that it was voted to build a hospital. It was thought $100,000 would be ample to build a small hospital. It was thought $5,000 a bed. The club voted that Fred Pinney and M.B. Auten be elected to raise the money.

We started out with an auction sale which netted about $2,500. Chick furnished a steer which he said they'd buy back, which I ran up in the bidding to a point where they said if I raised another dollar, I would have landed the steer. Donahue furnished some sheep, etc. We had a lot of fun. I remember I bought a can of coffee at a pretty high price.

A committee was appointed and an organization was formed with John Haire as president (about 1955). We started raising money for Cass City Community Hospital. The Ford Foundation offered to give so much a bed to hospitals not supported by taxes, so we changed it over to Hills and Dales General Hospital, a corporation entity in itself. We made a drive on everyone in the area and raised about $100,000. After that, I started in earnest with the proposition that any one giving $5,000 would have a room with their name placed on a door in the hospital.

At that time there was a federal organization called the Hill-Burton Hospital Survey and Construction Co. When the survey was made they decided that hospitals should be erected in Caro, Bad Axe and Sandusky. Joe Hominga was the administrator of the organization, and said they would go with Caro in six minutes if they would apply to get it.

Caro didn't want it. We did. Joe said we couldn't raise $500,000, that Caro would serve 30,000 people while Cass City would only serve 13,000. I practically guaranteed personally that I would raise the $500,000 and make up any deficit we might have.

One day Mrs. Art Ricker, who was comparatively well-off, purchased a thousand shares of Michigan Seamless Tubes. The company prospered and gave her 2,000 for her 1,000, and later, 6,000 for her 2,000, and still later, 12,000 for her

Returnable bottle law a good one

Results of the annual Michigan Department of Transportation litter survey along selected areas of state trunklines are in.

The study, the first since Michigan's returnable container law went into effect last December, shows a 41.5 percent drop in litter overall from what was found a year earlier and an 81.8 percent decrease in discarded beverage containers.

What does Jeanette Hewitt think of the ban on throwaway beverage containers? "As far as I'm concerned, I think it's good because I like neatness and order along our roads," she replied.

Her home is at the end of a long driveway. At the foot of it, she used to notice a lot of discarded beverage cans, but now she doesn't see any. Even teenagers, she commented, are realizing that something worth a dime isn't something to be thrown

She doesn't feel having to lug bottles and cans back to the store is a bother. "I'm going to the store anyway ... so to take back some pop bottles isn't an inconvenience.

Her only concern is when too many bottles accumulate around the house before they get taken back.

Zonta Club hears about England

The Cass City Zonta Club held its monthly dinner meeting Oct. 16 at the home of Lottie Konwalski. Cindy McConkey was co-hostess.

Donna Wernette and Betty Hurst gave a report on the fall conference held in Ann Arbor in September. More than 200 attended. This year is dedicated as "Year of the Child" for Zonta.

A $25 donation was given to the Boy Scouts and $25 for the Girl Scouts for the year. The club is supporting one boy from Teen Ranch on a yearly basis.

Lottie Konwalski gave an interesting talk on her recent trip to England where she worked as a nurse some 25 years ago. She told of the changes that had taken

The November meeting will be at the home of Edith Little with guests and an auction. Beverly Little, Joy Anthony, and Anna McCallum will be co-hostesses. Coleen Krueger, Toby Weaver and Janice Chippi will comprise the committee for the auction.

The meeting will be the second Tuesday of the month instead of the third Tuesday.

Heading in the right direction is more important than speed.

As of last Thursday's conadministrative board meeting, Congress had yet to approve Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funding for the fiscal year that started Oct. 1 because the money was part of a larger appropri-ation bill, approval of which is being delayed over the controversy whether the government should pay for any welfare abortions.

The consortium ended the 1978-79 fiscal year with about $492,000 left over, only enough to continue the CETA job training and employment programs until the end of this month and possibly not that long, Executive Director Frank Lenard

However, his agency will be able to get leftover CETA funds from elsewhere in the state that weren't spent in 1978-79. That should be enough to keep the programs running until the end of the year, he said, should Congress still be unable to resolve the funding contro-

Predictions are the legislators may approve "continuing resolutions" authorizing spending of money at last year's level on a monthto-month or quarterly basis for the rest of the current fiscal year to avoid having to make a final decision on the abortion question.

Profits down at Walbro

Walbro Corporation reported that net sales from consolidated operations for the three months ended Sept. 30, were $9,482,731, compared with $7,771,927 for the same period in 1978 -- an increase of $1,710,804 or 22 percent. Consolidated net earnings for the third quarter were $60,636, compared with $246,914 for the like period a year ago - a decrease of $186,278 or 75 percent. Per share earnings for the quarter were $.08 on 778,864 shares outstanding, compared with $.32 per share on 779,570 shares outstanding at Sept. 30, 1978.

According to W.E. Walpole, chairman of the board, the decrease in earnings was due to a combination of

Crash kills Vassar pilot Saturday

A Vassar pilot was killed Saturday when his singleengine plane crashed during an emergency landing. Killed was James G. Ball, 29, of Hess Road, the lone occupant. The crash occurred near Atkins Road, west of Vassar.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department reported that witnesses said the plane's propeller was not turning prior to when its wing hit a tree as the pilot was attempting an emerg-ency landing. The plane crashed into a farm field, but did not burn.

The accident took place shortly after 4 p.m.

Federal Aviation Administration investigators were called to the scene, but could not immediately find a reason for the engine to have stopped running.

factors. There were strikes at the corporation's die casting facility and at a major independent source of die castings. Third quarter carburetor sales did not reach first and second levels due to quarter slowed chain saw sales. Start-up costs for the new Walbro Singapore carburetor manufacturing plant continued to affect performance. Increases in materials and energy costs and interest rates affected profitability.

For the first nine months of '79, net sales were $30,621, 921 - up 23 percent over the comparable 1978 period. Net earnings were $995,957, down slightly from $1,085,-468, which amounted to $1.28 a share as compared with $1.40 a share for the like nine months in 1978.

On the bright side, Walpole pointed out, demand for the Corporation's products has increased for the fourth quarter, the strikes are settled and Walbro Singapore is now producing carburetors on an earningsefficient basis.

At its regular September meeting, the Board of Directors declared a third quarter cash dividend of $.10 per share of Walbro Common Stock, payable Oct. 31, to stockholders of record, Sept. 28, 1979.

come up with a proposal to present to the board, and so far they haven't done that. What's good for Huron and Sanilac may not be good for Tuscola," he added.

THE PROPOSED PLAN calls for the human service agencies in the three counties - Commission on Aging, Human Development Commission, mental health, etc. -- to pool all the vehicles they presently use (at least 17) for transporting their clients, into a single fleet.

A newly organized transit agency then would contract with the individual agencies to provide transportation services, thus eliminating some present duplication.

Senior citizens could get rides to the supermarket, doctor, etc., for which they probably will be charged ($1 has been suggested). Clients of, for instance, mental health programs, would re-

Public transportation for anyone who wants a ride is Phase II of the plan and that would come at the earliest, 1-11/2 years after inauguration of the first stage.

A representative of the Huron county mental health agency said at the Wednesday session that the new transportation setup would allow it to double the number of clients it serves FIRST ESTIMATED year cost of the new program is $336,000.

However, the various agencies that would be involved are now spending $200-250,000 annually to transport their clients, according to Sanilac Commissioner Stuart Parsell.

With that money being spent to purchase the service from the transit agency, $86-136,000 will have to come from elsewhere. The increased amount over what the agencies spend now covers start-up costs and added

At least some of the "elsewhere" and maybe all of it will come from the state of Michigan.

The Huron and Sanilac county boards will probably pass resolutions this week agreeing to participate in the transit plan and to seek a grant from the state, according to Parsell.

It isn't known yet how much the state might contribute. Any difference in the amount from Lansing and the amount coming from the human service agencies would have to be made up by the participating counties.

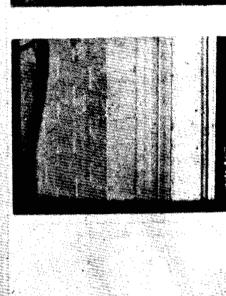

PARSELL, THE SANIlac board's transportation watchdog, said the DOT is looking on the proposed program here in the upper Thumb as a demonstration project, thus he is confident at least some state funding will be forthcoming.

Once the state agency receives the resolutions of intent from the Huron and Sanilac boards, it has to prepare a formal proposal outlining the costs. Parsell didn't know how long that will take, but once that is done, if the two county boards then give the go-ahead, the new transportation program could be underway 90 days later.

See energy key to transportation

Availability of energy supplies will have a big impact on transportation planning for the future.

Future growth, which might be affected by energy supplies, also enters into the

That was revealed at the public hearing Monday at Cass City High School on the East Central 14-county Michigan Regional Transportation Study, prepared the Michigan Department of Transportation (DOT) and East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region.

Purpose of the study, explained Phil Chisholm of the DOT's public involvement section in a prepared script, was to identify current and future deficiencies in all forms of transportation in the region - highways, railroads, public transit, ports, airports and non-motorized transportation -- and recommend improvements.

"The issue of energy had not been addressed in previ-ous planning efforts," Chisholm read.

In contrast, the new study takes into account the availability of future energy supplus continuous changes or growth in the settlement patterns of the population.

"Simply stated, the more the region grows, the more there will be a demand for additional transportation improvements," he said. And as the availability of future energy supplies becomes more scarce, the more the transportation planning emphasis will shift towards development of more fuel efficient modes of transportation.'

IN PLANNING FUTURE transportation needs, the planners created various possible scenarios.

They projected population growth in the region at low, a 13 percent increase by the year 2000; medium, 24 percent increase, and high, 32 percent.

Energy projections were defined as "abundant – adequate fuel resources for all trip purposes;" or "restricted - fuel restrictions imposed by government with significant impact on all trip purposes.'

Thus the scenarios range from a pessimistic low popugrowth-restricted energy use, to an optimistic abundant energy-large population increase.

The latter would require highway improvemore while the former ments require more imwould provements in public transportation (as would medium or high population growth combined with restricted energy supplies).

NEEDED HIGHWAY IMprovements are keyed to the energy-population scenar-

For instance, M-81, east of M-24 in Caro is listed as a "deficiency" in 2000 in need of improvement even if energy use is restricted.

However, improvements of M-81 all the way to Deckerville Road from M-24 (about 11/2 miles) is only seen as a deficiency in need of improvement if there are "conserved" energy supplies.

cerns highways deals in terms of problem areas. It does not give specific recommendations, other than to say that certain places are in need of further study.

It is noted that traffic problems exist at the M-142 -M-53 intersection at Bad Axe, evaluation of methods to relieve congestion in Caro is needed, and if energy supplies remain abundant, corridor studies are needed on several state highways, including M-24 and M-46.

MOST QUESTIONS OR comments raised by some of the approximately 25 people in the audience were about specific highways, railroads or airports.

A question was asked whether there are any long range plans to make M-53 into a four-lane divided high-

The answer from DOT regional planning coordinator Richard Baibak was that although safety improvements will be made on it, it will remain a two-lane highway.

One of the improvements will be replacement of the narrow bridge over the north branch of the Cass River, north of M-81, with a wider span. No one knew when that will be, only that it is on the DOT schedule.

Huron county Commissioner Bruce Kuhl of Bay Port said M-25 south of Sebewaing needs widening, stressed the importance of the Sebewaing airport and asked what happened to the connector route between M-24 and M-138, north of Caro. (The latter is in the design stage, he was told.)

Huron County Road Commission Engineer Robert Tufts noted that the road north of Bad Axe is listed as 'deficient" and asked what happened to the Grand Trunk Railroad's attempt to abandon its line from Imlay City to Caseville, which runs through Cass City. Its abandonment petition was de-

Owen-Gage Tops Clare

Meets Tigers in title battle

The Clare fans were laughing Friday night when the Owen-Gage Bulldogs came onto the field.

"They thought we were the JV team," said coach Arnie Besonen, "but it's how big your heart is."

The visiting Bulldogs put their hearts and everything else they had into the game, and when it was over, the Clare fans weren't laughing. Owen-Gage won the nonleague affair, 20-7.

This Friday, half of the North Central D League title is on the line as Owen-Gage plays host to Carsonville-Port Sanilac, the only team with a chance to share top spot. The Bulldogs are 5-0 in the league (7-0 overall), while the Tigers are 4-1 (5-1 overall)

C-PS, according to Besonen, "has one of the best defenses around. We're going to have to respect their defense and continue to make the big play.'

That means, he explained, trying for long gains as opposed to "grinding it out."

golf tourney The Cass City Red Hawk golf team finished 11th in a field of 21 class C teams competing in the state finals Saturday at Deer Run Golf Course at Lowell.

The state title was won by Burton-Bentley with a stroke total of 341. Second was Stanton Central-Montcalm at 343. Goodrich, which won its regional at Vassar where the Hawks finished second, was third with a stroke total of 345.

Cass City's score was 367. Scott Murphy shot an 88. Next was Tim Johnson at 89. Scott Krueger posted a 91 and John Scollon, 99.

Coach Mike Gogola said that it was a warm day but that scores went up because of a strong wind.

Class C Clare, north of Mt. Pleasant, was a big school in more ways than one. Two years ago it was Class B. There were at least 1,500 fans in the stands, according to Besonen, its marching band covered the entire field and its players were so big, there. I couldn't believe it." The Pioneers, who have some of the top ranked teams in the state on their schedule, were 3-3 going into the game.

Neither team scored in the first quarter.

The Bulldogs got on the scoreboard in the second quarter on a one-yard plunge by Kirk Carolan, followed by an extra-point kick by Pete Klemkowsky.

Jeff Hallock added six more points in the quarter on a 4-yard run. Klemkowsky's kick missed.

Clare's only points came in the third quarter on a 3-yard run by Tim Nyquist, with Jim Dickerson kicking the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, Hallock scored again, this time on a 5-yard run. Klemkowsky kicked the extra point for the final 20-7 score.

Owen-Gage played an almost mistake free game, with no fumbles or intercepted passes and being penalized only twice for a loss of 10 yards total.

The Pioneers, who fumbled once (no interceptions) were hurt by penalties, 10 for a loss of 87 yards. The Bulldogs made 16 first downs to only six for their opponents.

The victors gained 284 yards on the ground on 48 carries and 109 yards in the air, with Carolan completing eight of 11 passes, for a total of 393 yards.

The Pioneers gained only 192 yards - 130 on the ground in 28 carries and 52 through the air on three completions of four attempts.

Brad Erickson had another 100 plus night gaining Hallock contributed 80 yards in nine carries, which in-

To honor Stamats in Caro Friday

Caro Community Schools has set aside Friday as a special day of tribute to its longtime teacher, coach and athletic director Don Stamats on his 50th year in education.

There will be a reception for all friends of the coach in the high school cafeteria following the Sandusky-Caro Varsity football game.

To help pay tribute to Stamats, the school district is asking anyone who has been associated with him over the years to send him a personal letter or card commemorating these 50 years as an educator and a belated birthday card celebrating his 75th birthday, which took place this past August.

"We want Coach Stamats to know that his work in education and athletics has been appreciated by those interested in the welfare of our young," said Caro Junior High Principal Don Kanicki, chairman of the tribute committee.

Send the card or letter to: Don Stamats, Athletic Director; Caro Community Schools, 301 N. Hooper St., Caro 48723.

Bob Sawdon helped the Hawks pick up a couple of first downs in one series of plays but that was the best the Hawks could muster. It was apparent that this was the kind of game that a break could decide.

Cass City got that break in the third period. The Vulcans fumbled on their own 26 and the Hawks recovered. From there Cass City marched in to score. Rusty Hoag went the final six yards. The Hawk defense staged its second great goal line stand of the season to preserve the win. The Vulcans were hammering at the Hawk goal in the final period with either a tie or win in sight. But the drive ended on the one-foot line as the Vulcans were unable to push across.

The defense produced the same great effort in a win over Sandusky.

The Hawks were led on the ground by Bob Sawdon who gained 99 yards in 27 carries. Sawdon was named co-Red Hawk of the week. The other player winning the award was Mike Vatter who recov-

Hawks slip by Vassar in overtime

The Cass City Red Hawks are still undefeated in Thumb B Conference basketball action but the girls preserved their status by the narrowest of margins Monday at Vassar. Cass City won the game in overtime,

It took a near miracle finish to do it. With five seconds left, the Vulcans were in front by two points and at the free throw line for two shots.

The first shot went in and it looked like curtains for Cass City but the shooter was on the line. The second shot missed and Padgett Randall tossed in a 25-footer as the buzzer sounded with the ball in the air to tie the Randall, who led all scorers with 25 points, tossed in all five Cass City points in the overtime to lead the Hawks to the win.

In the first half it didn't appear that the Hawks were going to have any trouble protecting the win string. They jumped into a 10-4 first period lead and stretched it to 24-14 at the half.

But the Vulcans gained four of the points back in the third quarter and then posted a 13-7 last period advantage to send the game into overtime.

The losers were helped by Bobbie Facler with 12 points and Mary Wade with 10. For the Hawks, Randall picked off 15 rebounds and Vickie

In the preliminary, the Hawks bowed, 37-24. Cass City's top scorers with six each were Jill Root, Michelle Fahrner and Carrie Lautner. Deb Ouvry and Fahrner each picked off six rebounds.

MARLETTE GAME

The Hawks had less trouble with Marlette, last Wednesday topping the Re l Raiders, 44-32, at Cass City High School.

Randall continued her scoring spree with 26 points while Shelly Lapeer netted 8. Terrie Lumm scored 12 and Debbie Lumm, 6, for Mai -

The Hawks edged in front 13-8 at the end of the first quarter. The lead was lengthened to 29-14 at the half, from where Cass City coasted to the victory.

Pobanz picked off 9 rebounds and Libby Hartel added 7 for Cass City. The Hawks shot better from the field than from the free throw line, hitting 20 of 45 for 44 percent from the floor while converting just of 10 charity tosses for 4J percent.

The Hawks are now 6-0 in the league and 8-2 over-all this season.

The Junior Varsity made it a clean sweep for Cass City but was forced into double overtime to do it, 37-36. Fahrner and Sherry Stec scored 8 points each to lead the attack. Fahrner was Cass City's leading
