$_{\scriptscriptstyle \lambda}$ Caro post isn't full time yet

Back in August, Gov. William G. Milliken announced that six state police posts, including the one in Caro, would begin around-theclock operations Oct. 1.

The Sandusky post was also scheduled to begin 24hour operation.

That date is now past and the Caro post commander, Lt. Kenneth A. Maciejewski, is still waiting for word from Lansing when the change might be implemented. He is also wondering if it will be implemented

At present, although the post sometimes has patrols on the road around the clock, the dispatch desk is only manned from 7 a.m.-11 p.m. each day. From 11-7, calls made to the post are answered by the dispatcher at the Bay City post.

There presently are eight troopers, plus three serg-eants and a detective sergeant assigned to the post, in addition to Maciejewski. He figures he will probably need two more troopers and another sergeant for aroundthe-clock operation.

The post is getting a new trooper, Dale L. Hardy of Boyne City, who just graduated from the state police academy, but he is replacing an officer who was reassigned. Maciejewski hasn't seen anything in writing, but apparently after the legislature appropriated the funds in the 1979-80 budget to open the six posts on a full-time Milliken Gov. trimmed the state police and other state department budgets because of an anticipated decline in revenues. The new fiscal year started Monday. Reportedly, the state police budget is being reduced $8 million.

If true, the post commander wonders not only when he will get the added help he will need to operate on a 24-hour schedule but also if he will get it.

THE CAR of Ted Czapla of Caro appeared a total loss after being completely gutted by fire Saturday. Elkland township firemen were called to the scene at 1 a.m. on Dodge Road, about three-quarters of a mile south of M-81. Czapla, who wasn't there when firemen arrived, later said the fire started under the dash. Sheriff's department deputies were called to investigate.

Enrollmen, decline in all'area districts

Oh dear, where did the ing adult high school com- dents from the previous students go?

The answer is, they may not have gone anywhere. There just aren't as many of them as there used to be.

Official "fourth Friday" enrollment counts were conducted in all Michigan school districts Friday. The results showed all school districts in this area, plus all in Tuscola county, with fewer students than attended a year ago.

The Cass City district declined from 2,071 last year

Loss of students means loss in state aid, with the exception of Owen-Gage, which has too high a property valuation per student ratio to qualify.

"I can't attribute the decline to anything," Supt. Ronald Erickson said of the fewer students. In 1978-79, to 2,040 this year (not includ- his district gained five stu-Enrollment in the Cass City schools dropped by 31, with most of that coming at the elementary level. At the high school (grades 9-12), there were 680 students enrolled, only two less than last year. At the intermediate school (grades 5-8), 581 students were counted, only one less.

At Campbell Elementary (K-4), enrollment declined from 516 a year ago to 507; at Evergreen (K-6), from 139 to 128, and Deford (K-5), from 152 down to 144.

The loss of 31 students from a year ago, Supt. Donald Crouse said, will mean $36,700 less in state aid over what it would be if enrollment had stayed the

As he first predicted at the school board's August meeting, "I am anticipating we will have a deficit budget. We may not have a choice.'

In addition to the loss in state aid from the enrollment decline, the Headlee amendment has meant a millage reduction, which hurts revenue. Also, since the state aid formula is partially tied to the millage levied by a district, the reduced millage will also mean a reduction in state provision in terms of revenue aren't known yet, according to the superintend-

The area school district suffering the biggest drop was Ubly, a loss of 53 students, from 1,294 down to

High school students (grades 7-12) declined in number from 627 to 614, thus most of the loss was at the elementary level.

In terms of state aid per student, the enrollment drop will mean a loss of about $71,000 in state aid, according to Business Manager Mark Tenbusch.

The money situation isn't as grim as it might appear, however. The loss in state aid will be offset some by increased property tax revenue due to increased valuations. Additionally, the school board adopted a deficit budget for 1979-80 in order to use up a surplus left over from last year.

Thus, the district has enough money to offset any reduction in state aid this year, Tenbusch said, with the implication the situation may be different next year.

The district is projecting continued enrollment declines for the next two or three years, but after that, it appears student population will start increasing again, according to the business manager, as more younger families are remaining in the area

KINGSTON

There has been a lot of home building in the Kingston School District, so school officials were projecting that the downward trend of recent years would end and aid. The exact effects of that enrollment would increase this year.

Owen-Gage the loser in key Goslin property transfer case

School District was the loser Monday when the Michigan Court of Appeals ruled against it in the key Goslin property transfer case. Barring a presumably unlikely reversal by the Michigan Supreme Court should Owen-Gage appeal, the decision clears the way for a flood of other transfers from the district which have been held up or withdrawn pending a decision in the Goslin

What the appeals court decision ruled, according to Assistant Attorney General Gerald Young, is that the state Board of Education has the right under state law to transfer property from one school district to another supporters, based on past

Some questions still unanswered

The Owendale-Gagetown as long as the valuation is 10 percent or less of the "losing" district's valuation. If more than 10 percent, a public vote is required in the district from which the property is to be detached.

That, said Young, "has been our position all along.' He had represented the state board in the appeal to the appeals court.

Owen-Gage's position. which has now been rejected by the appeals court, was that once more than 10 percent of the district was transferred away, which had already been done, a public vote was required on all subsequent transfers, including Goslin.

The fear of Owen-Gage actions of the state board, is that it will transfer so much of the district away, there won't be enough left for it to survive.

The ruling, barring a Supreme Court reversal, clears the way for the state board to act on any property transfer petitions before it and for property owners in some parcels who had withdrawn transfer appeals to the state board to start their efforts anew.

Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson expressed the fear surrounding school districts (Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port, Unionville-Sebewaing, and Cass City) will now be encouraged to start their own efforts to expand their boundaries by annexing property from Owen-Gage. That has happened at least once, when the state board approved a request from Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port for a chunk of Owen-Gage, despite the protest of the two property owners involved who wanted to stay in Owen-Gage. The Goslin case, which involves more than 40 property owners and property with a valuation of about $3.5 million, goes back to May, 1975, when the Boards of Education of the Tuscola and Huron Intermediate School Districts rejected their request to have their property transferred from Owen-Gage to the Cass City School District.

That issue is being adressed in separate litigation. Erickson, who first learned of the appeals court

Eliminating potential pollution problem costly for Walbro

By Mike Eliasohn

In cooperation with the tate Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Walbro Corp. is spending thousands of dollars to eliminate a potential pollution problem from chemicals it uses at its Garfield Street carburetor -production plant.

Resolution of the problem could be even more costly should it have to undertake a cleanup of the chemicalwater mixture it formerly dumped into an underground seepage bed on Garfield Street behind the plant there

Continued operation of the plant may hinge on whether the firm can use another chemical for its metal treatment process.

Until it stopped doing so in late July under orders from the DNR, Walbro had been dumping 4,500 gallons a day of liquid waste into the underground pit. It is now hauled away for disposal. Of that, 1,500 gallons consisted of 90 percent water and 10 percent Stanasol, a cleaning compound. Approximately 3,000 gallons consisted of 2,264 gallons of water, 11 gallons of a chemical called Metaseal, 5 gallons of Metacure, 10 pounds of a soap called Metaclean and the rest Stan-tion respectively). "Styrene could also be a great hazard to the workers at this company (by inhalation and skin absorption) if not properly handled," the letter continued.

An inspection by the DNR was made at the plant in December, 1978 to confirm WALBRO WAS GIVEN time to find an alternative means of disposal and at a meeting July 30 of this year with DNR officials, Ewald reported the underground disposal had ceased after the second shift July 26.

hope is to be able to discharge into the village sewer

THE FIRM IS UNDERtaking three actions to deal with the problem. First, it is in the process of installing vacuum cleaning units which will eliminate the need to use the 1,500 gallons of water-Stanasol solution.

Secondly, it will be installing a centrifuge that will reduce the amount of Metaseal used from 11 gallons a day down to 5 or 6. However, Ewald said, no matter how much the amount is reduced the DNR still won't allow it to be discharged into the sewer. Thus Walbro is hoping to switch to another Metaseal compound known as 3752, which contains vinyl toluene instead of styrene. The company has hired an independent laboratory "in the east" to test the 3752 for any possible harmful effects.

To test it, the lab first had to develop a set of test procedures that the DNR would agree to as the state agency didn't have any of its own, according to Ewald. That has apparently now been done, so the next step is for the lab to determine if the 3752 meets the standards that would allow it to be safely discharged into the sewer. Once the DNR officially okays the standards, it is expected it will take 21 days to test the chemical before

"If that doesn't work, I don't know what we will do,' Ewald told the Chronicle. 'There is a strong possibility we would have to do it (move production) else-

According to Walbro Director of Purchasing Bill Ewald, the firm started using the underground disposal pit, which allows the liquids to slowly seep into the ground, to relieve the Cass City wastewater treatment plant of the burden of having to treat that much

"If It Fitz..." Big oil shoeing in

By Jim Fitzgerald

Texaco is now open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, if you want to buy

It's enough to make a man cry. Don't offer me a box of Kleenex. For wiping my tears and blowing my nose, I always carry a handkerchief.

Using a handkerchief is my contribution to conservation of energy in a disposable civilization threatening to dispose of itself after only one use. When it comes to saving energy, I rank handkerchiefs right up there with insulation in the attic. My wife isn't impressed.

I don't cry out of sorrow at Texaco's invasion of Thom McAn's territory. These are tears of joy at Texaco's unselfish willingness to sacrifice gasoline profits by making it easier for people to walk unbarefooted.

With last month's gasoline bill, Texaco sent me a 26-page, multicolor brochure advertising a wide range of men's footwear. I can charge a $180 pair of genuine lizard slip-ons to my Texaco credit card and pay as little as $15.31 a month. I can order Texaco shoes by mail or by dialing a toll-free number answered at any time of any day or night. Thom McAn never keeps his lizards up that late.

Some people might worry about getting a proper fit when they buy shoes by mail or phone. Texaco answers this problem by offering a 15-day free home trial. And if for any reason you don't like your Texaco shoes, you don't have to exchange them for a lube job at the nearest sign of the flying red shoehorn.

In its brochure, Texaco promises to take back rejected shoes directly. It isn't explained exactly how this return will be accomplished, but Texaco thinks of everything, so its lizards are probably trained by homing pigeons.

In an awesome display of unselfish patriotism, the Texaco brochure urges everyone to "save time . . . save energy . . . shop at home the easy Texaco way." A gasoline company telling people to stay home is the same as Thom McAn telling people to walk in their stocking feet.

"If Texaco can make that big a sacrifice in the interest of conserving energy, you can certainly launder my handkerchiefs," I told my wife.

She was skeptical. She said lizards will soon turn into sheikhs, the same way kissed frogs turn into princes, and Texaco will make more money selling shoes with sand in them than it ever made selling gaso-

She said Thom McAn will start selling gas to customers who will try on every gallon in the place before finally deciding the only one that doesn't make their tank slosh is the gallon they wore into the store.

She will say any foolish thing to get me to use Kleenex. She is wasting her foolishness. All my life, people have given me white handkerchiefs for Christmas. I have two drawers full of them, both smelling of pine needles. No one ever gave me a box of Kleenex.

Handkerchiefs can be recycled indefinitely. I still have the first handkerchief my mother-in-law ever gave me. Kleenex can be used once, or less if you blow hard. No one saves a soggy tissue for future use. Used tissues are immediately discarded, creating litter as well as wasting energy.

There is no calculating the tremendous amount of energy that could be saved if this nation banned the Dixie Cup mentality that has brought us to disposable pens, one-pee diapers and a mechanical cigaret lighter that is thrown away like a burned match, God help us all. If everyone used a handkerchief, lizards wouldn't be so anxious to turn into sheikhs.

But my wife still said "YUCK!" the last time she saw me use a Christmas gift from her mother. For the umpteenth time, she said it is not fun to wash and iron handkerchiefs. She is not impressed by the Texaco sacrifice in the name of energy conservation. She said if Texaco really loved gasoline, it wouldn't sell shoes, and if I really loved her, I wouldn't use handkerchiefs.

I said I would continue to be a patriotic, energy-conserving nose-blower and she should be proud to be mar-ried to me. She said she'd be better off kissing a homing lizard on its way back to the Gagetown Village Council meeting Monday night to complain about the noise emanating from the bands playing at the dances being held Friday nights in the old fire hall.

Loud dances bring Gagetown protest

The building is now owned by Marty and Ann Lapienski of Caro, who promote the teen dances. They received permission from the council to hold them in July.

According to Village President Bill Downing, the council will keep a close eye on the situation and if "not calmed down," they will talk to the owners.

Dances haven't been held there the last two Fridays. Lapienski told the Chronicle

Several residents were at Tuesday he has wedding receptions booked in the building the next two week ends and that he probably won't be holding dances there again in the near future, but didn't preclude holding them again.

During the discussion at the meeting about the dances, some residents suggested Gagetown needs a full-time police officer and that the council should consider putting a millage proposal on the ballot next year to raise money to pay for

Downing said he and the councilmen were lukewarm to the idea, that they didn't feel it would be worth it to levy a millage just to have a policeman patrolling 10 more hours a week than one is now.

Some villages with more police protection don't have any fewer problems than does Gagetown, he said to the Chronicle.

The village presently pays out of its general fund for 30 hours of police protection a week. James Compo, a Tuscola County Sheriff's deputy, had been working for Gagetown in his off hours.

He has now been assigned to the night shift, so the council Monday hired a second officer. Bill Sovey of the Millington-Arbela Police Department. He and Compo will split the 30 hours between them.

Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 6-8 p.m. was set as the trick-or-treat Halloween hours

A complaint was also made at the meeting about junk cars being stored on private property, in violation of village ordinance. The property owners involved will be sent letters telling them to remove the

For the past 10 days the Chronicle has been bombarded with clippings from Los Angeles, Orange county, Calif., and Long Beach, Calif., newspapers telling about the California Angels winning a division baseball crown. In one air mail packet a color photo of the team was enclosed.

The return address said merely "From the fans of the Calif. Angels from Mich."

This week a subscription renewal from Orange, Calif., was received for John A. Popp.

I can't say that it was Popp that popped for the papers sent our way but if it wasn't the guy that sent them it is the best handwriting forger I've come across.

Anyway it has been fun and I'm waiting for the Angels to win the league crown to see what the mail brings then.

Judging by what we saw, last week end was the peak period for a color tour in the Gaylord area although there should still be plenty left for another week.

There were tourists aplenty, of course, but it just seemed that it wasn't as busy as it might have been. Maybe the reason those vibes come through is that the management and help seemed to really appreciate your business.

My favorite television show, Lou Grant, delved into the same answer that he had an interesting subject last week. At least, it was interesting to me.

The subject, or rather, the question, was when is news news and when does something become news by virtue of it being reported.

The storyline on Lou Grant was about a rising woman politician who possibly might even run for governor some day. The only problem was that the press kept reporting about the drinking problems of her

The key point in the program came after it was learned the husband had been involved in an accident, presumably driving while drunk, and his passenger was a waitress at a

As soon as he heard the news, Grant told reporter Joe Rossi to do an analysis of what the drunk driving incident would do to the man's wife's political

The answer, of course, was that the incident would do nothing to harm her career if the press hadn't bothered to report it and then ask people would it hurt woman's political

Her ultimate response was to drop out of politics and resign her seat on the Board of Supervisors or some other political body. (I forget.) This touches on a theme I wrote about in this space two eeks ago. Whether President Carter is truly unpopular or whether he is unpopular because the news media says he is and what effect such coverage has on the possible Presidential candidacy of Sen. Edward Ken-ફ ટdy.

Lending credence to what I said earlier was a United Press International article that appeared since then. It told about Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, the o. 3 ranking House Democrat, who emerged from a meeting with the President and other Democratic leaders and was questioned by reporters.

He told them about the meeting, which was mainly concerned with energy, and tken was asked, "Are you supporting Carter for re-

The Congressman gave given many times in the past, that he will support the Democrat nominee. That is, of course, different than saying he will support President Carter.

Because he said it on the steps of the White House, here's what happened (quoting from the article):

"Brademas, who is seldom shocked by anything, was shocked at the coverage given his non-statement. Both wire services, the television networks and several major newpapers moved major stories saying that Brademas had 'Sidestepped an opportunity' to endorse Carter.

Was Brademas' statement really news or did the media make it news?

I'm not sure whether working on a small newspaper makes answering the question of what is news easier or harder.

A lot of items that get into the Chronicle (and other small papers) wouldn't get into papers in big towns.

This is an advantage, of course, when one wants news about their club or details of their daughter's wedding dress printed, but not an advantage if you've been involved in a minor (or major) traffic accident or were arrested for drunk

There is no pat answer to what is or isn't news and I suppose in most instances, it is the person who doesn't want something in the paper who argues that "that isn't

Students had the day off. Speaking on "What's Basic in Education?," Down told 600 faculty and administrators, "The prime responsibility of education, and our charge as educators, is academic development -- not career education, not personal hygiene, not social adjustment.

"Schools have been asked to solve all of society's problems. We must reorder our priorities to assure that every high school graduate emerges with a solid list of academic accomplishments.

"No student should be allowed to spend twelve years broadening a base on the bench-seat warming his or her way through school." "Basic education is not

There was a gasoline can inside the shed, but, according to Assistant Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr., no signs of it having exploded. There were no electrical lines running to the building. It should have been locked, but

magistrate resigns

Tuscola

Tuscola County Magistrate Joan Maki has submitted her resignation, effective at the end of Novem-

She told the Chronicle she is resigning for personal reasons and at this point, she has no future plans. "I guess I just want a change.

She first served as magistrate from May, 1977 until June of last year. An imbroglio then developed between District Judge Richard F. Kern, who appoints the magistrate, and the county Board of Commissioners, who must approve his appointment, when the board rejected the judge's recommendation for her replacement.

Mrs. Maki came to the rescue, applied for the position and was reappointed in August of last year.

Her recently submitted resignation has been accepted by the judge. It also must be accepted by the county board, which next meets Tuesday.

The job pays $14,800 a vear, with an anticipated increase as of Jan. 1. Judge Kern is accepting applications from those interested in the job until Oct. 24.

Your Neighbor says

I'd buy a small car over a big one

Along with the increasing cost of gasoline this year has been increasing sales of smaller cars as buyers purchase vehicles in which to squeeze every possible mile per gallon.

The bad news about small cars is that they aren't as safe as bigger ones.

That's not new information but a recently released study by the Highway Loss Data Institute reinforced that fact.

The study of accident statistics showed imported subcompacts had the worst injury record of cars sold during the 1978 model year, while large American cars were the safest. Mileage vs. safety?

If Phyllis Koch were in the market for a new car, she would buy a smaller car with better mileage.

"It's cheaper and I figure if you're going to go (be killed), you can go in a big car just as well as in a little one," she commented. Mrs. Koch presently drives a pickup truck.

Also related to vehicle safety and saving gas is the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Five more Cass City High School students have been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1973-74: Nancy Koepfgen, Jill Field, Dorothy Schwartz, Janet Auvil and Randy Hoffman.

Enrollment in the Owen-Gage schools declined from 626 students last year to 588 this year. That will mean a decline in combined state aid and local revenue of $20,000 from a year ago, to $550,000 for 1974-75.

Officials at Hills and Dales General Hospital are looking into purchase of a radio communications system which could put doctors. police and fire departments in immediate contact with the hospital.

The Evergreen Township Zoning Board of Appeals rejected a request from developer Peter Murray for a special permit needed to develop 120 acres at Deckerville and Leslie Roads into a recreational development.

Expanding its volunteer program and follow-up work on its surveys are just two of the projects on the docket of the Citizens for Improved Education for 1974-75. Officers of the group are Janet Harrison, president; Ellen Toner, vice-president: Beverly Langenburg, treasurer; Joyce Lane, secretary; Pat Childs, steering committee, and Thresa Burnette, project director.

Jack Laurie of Dodge Road has been named by Michigan Farm Bureau President Elton Smith to the MFB Policy Development Committee.

TEN YEARS AGO

A group of officials from various Tuscola county police agencies and township supervisors met in Caro to discuss what steps might be taken to curb the high death rate on the county's highways. During the past five years, Tuscola county has recorded more traffic fatalities in its population bracket area to have a field tiled with the new plastic tubing in place of the familiar cement tile.

Representatives of five employers received plaques honoring them for large contributions or 100 percent participation by employees in the payroll deduction plan for Community Chest. They were Walbro, General Cable, Cole Carbide, Cass City High School and Old Wood Drug.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

In the 15 years that the Cass City school safety patrol has been in operation, there has never been a fatality while a patrol boy or girl was on duty.

Out of every dollar Tus-cola county housewives spend, according to a survey, 25 cents is used to buy food. Nationally, less than 24 cents goes for food.

Beans brought to Cass City elevators indicate that the yield will be below normal, with an average pick of 22.3. Farmers selling their beans now are receiving $7.10 per hundredweight, with the support price being $7.36.

Grant Ball appeared before the village council to see if he could get a definite commitment to get proper drainage put in this year on Seed Street so that curb and gutter could be installed next year. The council didn't commit itself.

Speaker at the first fall meeting of the Cass City Community Club will be Saginaw Municipal Judge Joseph Friske. A major in the Army Air Force in World War II and a war crimes prosecutor after it ended, his topic will be "Germany After 1945."

Cass City native Fred Brown has been named assistant to the vice-president transportation services, for United Air Lines.

Although overeating is probably the major cause of overweight, physical inactivity contributes greatly to the problem.

There are a few encouraging signs that desire for ness or health-consciousness is replacing simple weight-consciousness in the minds of many Americans. There is growing awareness that a sedentary way of life can contribute to de-generative disease of the arteries and to obesity and its potential complications, most notably, diabetes, says a new pamphlet from the American Medical Association.

There also is a growing preference among Americans for a healthy, physically fit appearance. Emphasis is on condition. Body, skin and hair that are in good condition are widely regarded as necessary for good looks.

You may feel too lazy to get started on a physical fitness program, but it's probably the lack of exercise that makes you feel that

On the other hand, you may think of yourself as active or energetic because you are always busy-too busy to take time out for vigorous exercise. Some of the busiest people in the world have found time for jogging, tennis or morning calisthenics.

There are all sorts of guides to simple home exercise programs. Or there is jogging or other such activities. Or regular participation in active sports and games, such as handball or

If you are over age 30 or are unaccustomed to vigorous exercise, consult with your physician before starting a program.
But, if you want to maintain good health and to keep the excess pounds off, a regular, vigorous exercise program is a must. For the rest of your life.

JEREMIAH LOST HIS life the same year, in December. He tried to jump for safety's sake from a speeding wagon being pulled by skittish horses, Allan Sr. explained. He didn't realize that someone was sitting on the tails of his coat so instead of leaping clear, he fell into the path of the wheels and was run over. He He was 35 or 36.

On his death bed, on Dec. 23. he wrote his will, It deeded the farm to his wife, Catherine, but specified that should she ever remarry, the farm would be divided among their eight children.

There were only seven children at the time; his widow gave birth to their eighth in April, 1882. That was Jerry, who died Aug. 6 of this year. He was living in Saginaw Around the turn of the century, Mrs. McCarty married Paul Freiberger, so in accordance with the will, the farm was divided among the eight children. The oldest of them, Alexander, was the only farmer and he eventually bought out all the others.

In 1905, he married Margaret Trudeau. They had five children, Allan, the oldest, 72 now, Mark, Ray, Ruth and Patrick,

An uncle, Emil Karr. owned one of two stores in Cumber when he was a youngster. (Not the one that later became the Cumber Bar.) He was told that years earlier, a cheese factory had been located there.

The family did most of their shopping in Argyle. Crops or animals were taken to Ubly to market.

ALEX LATER SOLD 80 of his 240 acres to Mark and another 80 to Allan, who in turn, later bought half of Mark's acreage.

Mark and his wife Josephine live to the north of Allan on his 40. Patrick lives to the south on land he bought along M-19 in Argyle township. Ray lives in Oxford and Ruth lives in Gary, McCarty, Allan's son. He and his wife and son live to the south of his parents.

There are two more families living on the original farm, for a total of five. Allan and Betty's other child, daughter Maribeth and her husband, Jerry Heilig and their two children live next door to her parents, on the north side.

Mark's daughter Judy and husband Bob Lautner and family live on part of what was her father's property.

A.J. runs the farm, with the aid of his semi-retired father and some hired help. In addition to the original 240-acre farm, some land is rented for a total of about 450 acres. Some cash crops are raised, in addition to feed for the dairy herd. About 65-70 cows are milked.

Applications for centennial farm recognition are available from Centennial

The $4.6 million general fund operating budget was mostly approved when the Legislature recessed in July, but a grants and transfers bill and capital outlay bills remain to be sent to the governor.

LEGISLATURE THE will formally revive Governor William G. Milliken's line-item vetoes, the foremost being his veto of budget restrictions in the welfare budget on nontherapeutic abortions.

The governor's authority to take that action was, early in September, uphéld by the Court of Appeals and the issue is before the state Supreme Court.

One of the first items facing the Senate is getting the so-called essential insurance bill in a joint conference committee where differences between the House and Senate can be resolved.

The bill would prohibit insurance redlining and meet the Supreme Court objections to the no-fault automobile insurance act.

As approved by the Senate, the bill dealt only with auto insurance and eliminated the division of the state into separate rating territories. The House added homeowners insurance coverage to the bill but said the state could be divided in no fewer than 20 rating territor-legislation in his Appropriations Committee.

Also high on the priority list is conflict of interest legislation that has been getting sharp controversy from local officials. Related to the conflicts bill is another political reform bill - the sunset bill.

Some type of decision will also have to be made this fall on the presidential primary. Senate Republicans have predicted the Senate would approve a House bill eliminating the primary.

However, the speaker has said he thinks the primary will continue in its current state which means the National Democratic Committee will no longer consider results from the primary as a valid means of selecting delegates to the national convention.

WAYNE COUNTY RE. organization, another issue involving a standoff between the governor and the Legislature may soon come to a head.

The county reorganization is viewed as a long-term solution to its long-standing deficit problems. Legislators also want to help the county on a short-term basis to pay its bills, but Milliken is objecting to that route until a long-term agreement is reached.

Meanwhile, the governor has his own ideas as to what the Legislature should concentrate on this fall. Items on his priority list include bills setting procedures for appeals in the occupation safety and health act, reorganizing the structure of Blue Cross-Blue Shield, extending the home heating assistance program, increasing the severance tax on oil and gas operations, recodification of the juvenile code, setting points for violation of energy speed limits and creating a state Department of Energy.

posed to be in to Lansing by Monday, but the engineer hired hasn't been able to start work yet and probably won't be able to for at least a week. Then it will take probably 30 days for a finalanalysis.

IF THERE IS A POLLUtion problem which precludes leaving everything as is, according to Thomas A. Newell, DNR Water Quality Division assistant district engineer, the contaminated ground water may have to be pumped out or even more costly, the earth containing the contamination may have to be dug out.

He also said that Walbro was in violation of the state law for not having obtained a discharge permit once the state law requiring them went into effect April 15,

However, there are lots of companies in the same boat, and so no legal, action is planned. Walbro has been very cooperative with his agency, he said, concluding "We want to eliminate the problem . . . not fine them for the sport of doing it.

Sandusky game now meaningless

Narrow losses ruin Hawks' grid year

Three little points have turned a season bright with promise into a disaster for Coach Don Schelke and the Cass City Red Hawks. That's the margin by which Cass City has lost two of its first three Thumb B Conference games following a 19-18 defeat last Friday to the Broncos of North Branch. for the Hawks as they swing into what should be an easier

It was old fashioned Now it's wait till next year Woody Hayes type football that won for the Broncos. Three yards and a cloud of part of the schedule with dust with smashes off tackle games at Sandusky this and trap plays through the Friday and a home-coming center of the line. The encounter against Marlette visitors controlled the ball running 48 of their 60 plays in the last half. It was the first time this year that the Hawk defensive line had been penetrated consistent-

North Branch won the game with two sustained the two-point conversion and suddenly the score was drives. In the third quarter they moved 45 yards for the score. Randy Richmond

capped that drive from eight yards out. Mike Urchick ran play gave them the ball on the Cass City 37. Helped by a fake punt that moved the ball to the Hawk 10 the Broncos scored on a 20-yard field goal.

That didn't appear too important at the time as Rusty Hoag was passing North Branch dizzy.

On the first play from scrimmage after the field goal he faded back and hit Ken Martin all alone for a touchdown in a play that covered 50 yards. The kick missed.

The next touchdown came moments later and was the direct result of some outstanding individual play by Tim Fahrner. The lanky end set up the drive when he intercepted a Bronco pass to give the Hawks a first down on their own 33.

After two first downs the Hawk drive was grinding to a halt when Hoag tossed a pass in the flat that was apparently just out of reach. But Fahrner reached out with one hand, cradled the ball for a moment and hauled it in for a first down on the North Branch 20.

A moment later he took a pass over his shoulder crossing the goal line for six points.

With time running out in the first half the Hawk defense set up the next Cass City marker. The Hawks staged a 10-man rush and a Bronco kick gained just 4 yards to give the Hawks a first on the 29.

From there Cass City moved to the eight with passes and runs.

Phil Zawilinski, subbing for the ailing Bob Sawdon, then staged a pretty run. He faked out the tackle at the line of scrimmage and eluded the linebacker with a nifty fake to score standing up. But that was the last time Cass City was to score and it wasn't enough.

Schelke named Fahrner and Tim Sontag as Red Hawks of the week for their play against North Branch.

The statistics:

NB CC Rushing plays 108 104 Rushing yards 10 Passing yards Passes complete 2-15 16-33 Passes intercepted 1 Total yards 3-35 Penalties

JV FOOTBALL

North Branch made it a clean sweep over the Cass City Red Hawks last week as the Bronco JV defeated the Cass City Junior Varsity, Coach Larry Robinson said that his charges who have yet to win in 4 tries are much like the Detroit Lions because they tend to find ways to beat themselves.

North Branch won the game in the first half with THUMB B CONFERENCE two scoring drives. The Hawks fumbled at mid-field and North Branch marched down the field to score.

In the second period the North Branch Broncos completely fooled Caro the Hawk defense with a reverse play and went 45 yards to paydirt.

The Hawks bounced back in the third quarter to score twice. Greg Hutchinson paced the team to a touchdown with good tough running. Late in the period Darryl Hoag scored for Cass

City and then ran for a two-point conversion to close the gap to two points.

In the crucial last period pitch out went astray and a North Branch back intercepted with a wide open field in front of him. He scored from 40 yards out.

Cass City staged another drive in the final quarter but it was stopped by inches on the 15-yard line.

The JV team has been close in each of its four games but . . . no cigar. Scores of the other gamewere: Standish, 26-8; Carc, 14-6; Bad Axe, 16-8; North Branch, 22-14.

The JV will entertain Sandusky this Thursday.

A-F to challenge undefeated Bulldogs in homecoming clash

For the first time in three years, the North Central D League title won't be directly at stake when Owen-Gage clashes with Akron-Fair-

The Bulldogs are 3-0 in the league, following last Friday's 26-6 win at Kingston, while the Vikings are 1-1.

Owen-Gage has yet to beat Akron-Fairgrove, which is now in its third season in the league. An added incentive is that it's homecoming night at Owendale.

Since it doesn't appear to be in the running for the league title that it has won at least a share of its first two vears -- the Vikings lost nine starters from last year's squad -- "this game will be the whole season for them," according to Bulldog coach attempts for 181 yards, with no interceptions. Two of his bombs, both to Jim Glidden, resulted in touchdowns, the first an 11-yarder in the first quarter and the second on a 57-yard pass play in the third. Pete Klemkowsky kicked the extra point after both TDs. The Bulldogs final TDs came in the fourth quarter, on a 42-yard run by Brad Erickson and a 4-yard scamp by Craig Gettel. Klemkowsky missed the first PAT attempt and Gettel missed on the kick attempt after his own TD.

Kingston didn't get on the scoreboard until there was only 1:43 left in the game, when Chris Lockhart caught a 40-yard pass from Jason Koehler. The Cardinals tried to run the ball over for two more points but were
