Sewage plant funding - gets ok

At last. At last.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has approved its 75 percent funding for the Cass City sewage plant expansion and improvement project, "after seven long years," accord-ing to village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie.

Planning for the project goes back about that far. LaPonsie said he was notified Tuesday by two different EPA officials that the funding has been approved.

The next step is for the EPA to notify probably U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, so he can make a formal announcement (or one of Michigan's two U.S. Senators). That may come yet this week.

Within the next week or two, the village will receive written confirmation from the EPA that the grant has been approved.

After that, the village engineers, Hubbell, Roth and Clark, can prepare the final bid documents and then advertising for construction bids can be done.

LaPonsie guesses that opening of bids will take place before winter is over. At that time, the big question will be answered, whether the project can still be done for the estimated $6 million cost.

That was the estimate back in March of this year when village voters approved levying of millage to pay back money Cass City will borrow to pay the 20 percent local share for the project. (The state pays 5

A Deford man was one of two persons killed in Tuscola county traffic accidents during the past week.

Dead is Chester J. Karpowski, 68, of Chapin Road, who was killed in a 6:30 p.m. accident Sunday at Deckerville and Cemetery Roads.

Kurt A. Rupprecht, 17, of Frankenmuth was killed Wednesday, Nov. 7, in an accident northwest of Vassar.

They were the 17th and 18th persons to die on county roads this year, compared to 25 as of this date a year ago. Caro state police reported witnesses saw the Karpowski vehicle, southbound on Cemetery Road, fail to stop at the stop sign at Deckerville Road.

His car was then struck in the right side by the eastbound car of Alice Mae Thomson, 51, of Midland. She was wearing a seat belt, troopers said, and only suf-fered minor injuries, for which she sought her own treatment.

Karpowski was not wearing a seat belt. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Both vehicles came to rest after the impact southeast of the intersection.

Karpowski was born Dec. 14, 1910 in Cleveland, Ohio, and has lived in this area most of his life.

He and his wife Wanda were married in April, 1937 in Detroit. She died in April, 1977

He was a retired grocery merchant.

He is survived by a son, Patrick, Detroit; a sister, Mrs. Marian Barylsky of Florida; a brother, Steven Karpowski of Saginaw, and two grandchildren.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at St north of DeLong Road.

Driver of the combine was David P. Deering, 25, of 97 S. Crawford Road, Deford. He was unhurt.

Both vehicles were southbound. According to deputies, the combine had its rear tail-lights flashing and a slow-moving vehicle warning sign.

Officers said Gettel's pickup ran under the rear of the combine, forcing it off the road. The truck remained on the highway. As of Tuesday, the accident was still under investigation.

has $80,000 deficit

Cass City Schools will spend a record $2.8 million in the 1979-80 school year as Supt. Donald Crouse presented an $80,000 deficit budget for approval of the board Monday night at Cass City High School.

The deficit was no surprise as the superintendent has predicted several times in the last few months that additional millage will be needed to carry the school next year.

The deficit could be as much as $125,000 if plans authorized by the board Monday are carried to conalusion

The board authorized an energy audit at a cost of $5,000 to qualify for funds under the National Energy Act.

In a pre-application preentation Cass City placed just high enough on the priority list to qualify for funds However, when the energy audit is completed, the district could move up or down and be disqualified, but Crouse said he feels this is unlikely

What the school has applied for is replacement of windows at Campbell, Evergreen and Deford schools. The estimated cost is $132,000. Of this amount Federal taxes pay half and the school pays half. "In kind" costs can be used as part of the school's 50 percent. The plan is to have custodians help with the installation, the labor charged against the school's share of costs. With this in mind, Crouse estimated a cash cost to the school of $30,000 to $45,000. If all of these plans are carried to fruition, the school deficit would jump to $125,000. Crouse said that, judging by the savings in taxes to be collected next fuel experienced at the Intermediate School, the project would pay for itself in five years or less.

The budget as presented was computed on an 8 percent inflation rate with the exception of utilities which were computed at 20 percent more.

Because of the Headlee amendment there will be a slight decrease in projected State Aid which will be more than counterbalanced by an increase in local taxes.

The annual financial statement also revealed that the hot lunch program was running over $10,000 in the red and Trustee Dean Hoag intimated that price hikes may be forthcoming in the months ahead.

For the first time in several years the district will borrow money against Michael's Catholic church, Wilmot, Father William O'Shea officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

VASSAR CRASH

Rupprecht, 17, died at 7:15 p.m. last Wednesday when the tractor he was riding was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by James A. Anscomb, 32, of Saginaw. Anscomb told Caro state police he was going about 55-60 miles per hour and did not see any lights on the tractor. The impact carried both vehicles off the south side of the road into a ditch.

Rupprecht was thrown off. Anscomb was reported as having been taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw for treatment; however, the hospital had no record of his having been treated there. As of Tuesday, the accident remained under investigation.

COMBINE-PICKUP

Wilmer A. Gettel, 57, of 5556 Severance Road, Cass City, was reported in serious condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw, where he was taken after his pickup ran into the rear of a combine on Cemetery Road. (See photo, page 3.)

Cass City shoppers will be able to gobble up free turkeys this week end when 21 Cass City merchants will each give away a turkey.

something was burning on the stove, only to discover that fire had broken out around the oil heater.

She and her husband have now moved into a house that was on the grounds, according to her daughter-in-law, and friends and relatives have donated needed furniture and other items.

Payless paydays for Owen-Gage?

Owen-Gage School District employees are again facing payless paydays, the school board was informed Monday night.

Supt. Ronald Erickson reported that after leaving aside money for "essensuch as insurance tials. bills, the district only has enough money to pay its employees for the final pay period this month, Nov. 24. They were last paid Friday. Whether they get paid in December depends on the outcome of a meeting Friday between Erickson and some board members and Robert Hornberger, director of department services for the state Department of ducation.

Hornberger controls the department's purse strings and since last April has been withholding the categorical state aid Owen-Gage should receive because he doesn't feel Owen-Gage has a balanced budget. State law says school districts have to have a balanced budget in order to receive state aid. Erickson said the state aid being withheld now totals about $50,000. With the payroll running about $23,000 every other Friday, that would be enough to get the district through December. By January, property tax revenue will start coming in. Hornberger has requested the district to submit a budget minus revenue from the Goslin property. Its audit for 1978-79 showed the district as finishing in the black, but that was based on receiving the Goslin revenue, which barring a reversal in the courts, it won't get. Its 1979-80 budget, minus projects Owen-Goslin, Gage as breaking even for the year, but that figure was based on its having finished in the black last year.

Owen-Gage employees have had to go without pay at least two times in the last couple of years (missing more than one pay period each time). They always later received their back pay from the district with interest.

PROPERTY TAXES

Also affecting revenue this year is whether Owen-Gage will be able to allocate its full operational levy of 21.5 mills, or whether it will have to roll it back in accordance with the Headlee Amendment

An old photo that appeared in last week's Chronicle has been identified

The photo of the 23 women (and two infants) was apparently taken at a reunion hosted by Mary Zinnecker Clark at her Caro home, of her longtime friends from Cass City, according to Dorothy Hunt of Cass City.

Mrs. Hunt's mother, Florence Clark Tindale, is in the photo.

Mrs. Clark was married to a Caro doctor. Mrs. Hunt guesses the photo was taken in the 1920s and doubts that any of the women in it are still living.

A footnote to ownership of the photo: Dean Robinson and the late Evelyn Oliver were brother and sister. Robinson got the photo from her husband and then gave it to his cousin, Fern Peters.

I've been bribed to get this next item in this column of trivia. Chris Erla says it's time that women got a little publicity, too.

What has Chris bubbling since she returned from Reno is her luck at the slots. She hit the jackpot at one of the casinos to the tune of $1,680. (She didn't reveal how much she played back.)

In the small world department Chris said that she met Triends from Caro while visiting the "Bucket of Blood" 👌 Saloon in Virginia City.

Oh, yes, the bribe. Chris promised my wife she would bake me a pie for this publicity. (I'm not particular, any apple, cherry, pumpkin or raspberry will do.)

Dorothy Stahlbaum, a veteran worker for the Cass City Chamber of Commerce and the Cass City Retail Committee, said this week that she had an advance peek at the Main Street Christmas decorations.

Out of this world, says Dorothy, obviously delighted. She's undoubtedly happy, too, that the village has taken over the job of paying for the sparkling new decorations from the Chamber.

You'll be able to see for yourself shortly, according to Stahlbaum; the decorations will be starting to adorn the utility posts this week end.

"If It Fitz..." Callipygian pants By Jim Fitzgerald not easy to be a woman. This fact has often been brought to the husband's attention, but never more vividly than when he read what some women must do to put on long pants. During an interview with a fashion writer, Gloria Vanderbilt was praising the fit of the blue jeans she has designed. She said: "The jean that has been available till now that a lot of women wore had to be put on by lying down on the floor to zip up.

The husband couldn't help wondering: If all the women zipping up their jeans were lying end to end, would they stretch all the way around the world, only halfway, or just far enough to make it impossible to close the door of a public rest room?

The husband has never claimed to be a stylish dresser. The evidence to the contrary has always been too convincing. For example, he recently had the slob label pinned on his feet by no less a sartorial expert than Alex Karras, eminent actor and a former football lineman. Karras was discussing his former boss, Russ Thomas, general manager of the Detroit Lions, a former football team.

"I'll just never forget the time Russ called me into his office to talk about my 'image,''' Karras said. "He told me he didn't like the way I was acting and he told me he didn't like the fact I never wore a tie. I looked at him and said: 'Russ, you're wearing Hush Puppies!

Hush Puppies! You're tell-ing me I don't wear a tie and you're wearing $12 shoes.' The husband has been wearing the same pair of Hush Puppy shoes for 25 years. They cost $9 new. including the cleats on the bottoms. He wears them for golfing and for making acoustical tile floors. Just last summer, on the golf course, he accidentally ran into Ray, the shoe salesman who sold him the Hush Puppies back when both of them were boys. Ray couldn't help sobbing at the sight of his old friend in the old Hush Puppies. "You can't possibly be still wearing those shoes," Ray said. "How can you expect shoe salesmen to make a

I am not a compulsive contest enterer, but when I see a contest with worthwhile prizes, I enter.

By worthwhile, I mean a car or a vacation trip or pest of all, money. Even a motor home that gets six miles per gallon. I figure if I won it, I could always sell it. With the price of gasoline these days being what it is, one could buy it cheap and Jet it sit in their driveway and let everyone passing by think they are rich enough to drive it.

An impractical prize to me would be a lifetime supply of pantyhose or having dinner at the 21 Club in New York with Howard Cosell.

The only contests I enter are the ones that don't cost me anything other than for a postage stamp and a couple of minutes of my time. I don't buy lottery or raffle tickets, because I figure the odds of my winning are small so I'm better off not buying. Fortunately, not everyone feels that way. If they did, the Michigan Lotery could go bust and fund raising raffles for charity would go fundless.

The contests I enter are he ones in which one has to end in a boxtop or in lieu of that, one has to write the name of the product on a 3-by-5 sheet of paper. I Always do the latter alternative. I also enter the sweepstakes type contests where one gets a so-called lucky number in the mail. So far, all the numbers I have received have been unlucky. To the best of my recollection, I have only won two contests in my life.

One was recently, when I won a dollar in a local supermarket's contest which is tied to the score of the Monday night football game. It can be said, figuratively speaking, that I ate my winnings.

The other time I won was when I was living in Monroe. I won a bicycle.

Our assistant editor at the Monroe Evening News pedaled a junky old 3-speed to work. One day while it was parked at work, someone stole the front wheel. Since I'm always looking for excuses to visit bicycle shops, I volunteered to go get him a new wheel. To get off on a tangent, one of the nicest things about working for the Evening News was that it was across the alley from TWO bicycle shops. I still have some of the junk parts they threw out. (As any junk collector will testify, what's junk to one person is salvageable to another.)

Back to the wheel. I went to a bike shop outside of town which specialized in used bikes and parts, figuring I could get a used wheel cheap.

I arrived to discover the shop had a new owner and was starting to sell new bikes and parts. I not only bought a new wheel very cheap, I also got to enter the owner's free drawing to celebrate the change in management.

Fortunately for me, but not for the owner, he didn't believe in advertising, so not too many people came to the shop. (He later went out of business.)

Thus as I recall, there were only 95 names in the box when my name was drawn -- which aren't bad odds.

I won a new Japanesemade 10-speed bicycle. A few months later I sold it. I don't really care for 10-speeds -- the front gear changer is just one more thing to go wrong -- the frame was too big for me, even though it was the smallest one available, and the orange paint kept flaking

In fact, my biggest thrill in winning it wasn't riding it later but in telling my seen walking by at about assistant editor that thanks 8:30 that morning. Jury finds Marr innocent

After deliberating seven hours Friday, a Tuscola County Circuit Court jury found William T. Marr Sr. innocent of manslaughter.

Marr, 25, of Lapeer, was charged in connection with the July 7, 1978, traffic death of Ralph E. Bates of Flint. The accident took place 51/2 miles east of Millington, when Marr's southbound auto on Center Road was struck by Bates' truck as the latter was headed west on Millington Road. Deputies reported at that time Marr either didn't stop or didn't yield the right of way at the intersection.

Cass City police investigated two break-ins Sunday, both of which resulted in only a small amount of money being stolen. The first occurred Sunday morning. Bill Eberline told police he entered the Walbro engineering building on Garfield Street at 8:15 a.m. to do some work.

He heard a noise in the back, called out, then heard a door shut.

Later investigation found entry had been gained by breaking a window, then reaching in to unlock a door. Agriculture Day set

A large Thumb Agriculture Day is scheduled Wednesday, Dec. 19. Forty or more exhibitors and a timely program, coffee and donuts and door prizes will all be part of the special day. The activity will be at the Colony House (located 4 miles east and 4 miles north of Cass City) from 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Agribusinessmen from throughout the state will be 22½ participating with educational displays and or exhibits. The special exhibits will feature what's new in insecticides, herbicides. energy equipment, building supplies, credit and other agriculture interests. Those attending will have a chance to view the exhibits and visit with the exhibitors during the early morning, noon and late afternoon. The morning program will feature "energy alterna-tives" by Dr. Bill Stout, Department of Agricultural Engineering, Michigan State University. The afternoon program will focus on "Energy -

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" by Ralph L. Lewis Jr., of the public affairs department Gulf Oil Corp. New Orleans. His talk will trace the way oil and gas were formed, where it is today and where it is not, world politics and its impact on energy and the role of alternate fuels.

The day's activity is open to all agriculturists with no admission charge and many door prizes will be given throughout the day. A meal will be served at noon for a nominal charge.

Agriculture Day is sponsored by the Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola Cooperative Extension Service, along with the agribusinessmen participating. Eight hundred persons are expected to attend.

Lodging, mass and breakfast was attended each day at Bethesda, Md., before setting out to explore Washington, including Mount Vernon, Kennedy Cultural Center, Smithsonian Institution, Arlington National cemetery, the capitol and White House. Highlight of the four days in D.C. was the presentation of the Congressional Medal of Honor and plaque honoring Michigan war dead, hung in the amphitheater at Arlington, witnessed by many Michigan dignitaries, and placing a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

any one else." Doc McCoy, Dr. Schenck, Grover Burke and I all requested membership in the Saginaw Country Club. We were all accepted, but I intercepted McCoy's acceptance letter and re-wrote it saying, "We suggest you re-apply at the culmination of your legal difficulties." Mac was suing Dr. Morris for libel. Mac called Walt Mann down to his office and asked, "Is there something obnoxious about me? I seem to get in more trouble than Walt came over to see me. He said you'll have to tell Mac. He is calling his attorney and all his friends in Saginaw. I called Mac to come and showed him the real letter accepting him. He looked at me with blood in his eyes and said, "You'll go to jail for this!" A few days later coming from Rotary, he pulled me over to Mac and Scotty's show window, where there was a beautiful golf bag and a rather dinky one. He said, 'See that big bag? That is mine. See that dinky bag? That is yours.

I took the big bag down to George West's blacksmith shop and had lead put in the bottom of the bag. Mac and Herb Orr appeared a few days later with Mac's bag hanging nearly double over his shoulder. They went to the Caro Golf Course. At the third hole, the caddy said, "Mister, your bag is so heavy I can't carry it." That ended that day's golf.

++++++ Every year we used to have a banquet promoting Horatio S. Earle Memorial Highway. "By Gum" Earle, the first Michigan highway commissioner, for whom a monument stands a mile east of Cass City, was always the speaker. (He was called "By Gum" because he often used that expression.)

Earle was extremely homely and was cross-eyed. Eddie Guest always attended the annual banquet and once stated, "Mrs. Earle only made one poem, which goes as follows: 'I sipped the nectar from his lips as neath the moon we sat. I said I wonder if anyone else ever drank from a mug like that?"

Also, contractors at winter time are likely to be competitive in the bidding, in hopes of landing a project to keep them busy for the year. (The Cass City project will take two years.)

In approving the funding, the EPA gave in to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' insistence (actually that of the Water Resources Commission) that the project include advanced waste treatment, consisting of a final sand filter and a nitrification process.

Although they had been included in the original plans, the EPA had insisted of late they weren't needed. The federal bureaucrats finally gave in after the DNR submitted various studies showing the advanced treatment is necessary to prevent pollution of the Cass River.

The project has run into continued delays because of bureaucratic red tape, such as the EPA changing requirements after planning had been done.

Back in March, when voters approved the local funding, construction was supposed to get underway in June.

In November, 1976, when the engineers completed what is known as the facilities plan, the timetable called for the project to be completed in December,

However, the bill contains no requirement that should a

Democrats argued that without binding arbitration, disputes could go on indefinitely. Republicans countered, however, saying that binding arbitration could act as an incentive to make strikes last longer.

TAX REFUNDS

Under legislation recently signed into law. taxpayers may get two refund checks -one, an income tax refund and the other a property tax credit refund.

Currently, taxpayers re-ceive their property tax credit lumped together with their income tax rebate.

The legislature wanted the taxpayers to know what they were doing for the people in the way of property tax credit, so they wrote the bill separately into two checks the income tax return and the property tax credit.

To show that taxpayers are getting this property tax credit, the new program is expected to cost somewhere around $500,000 per year to administer.

RECORD PACE

The Michigan Lottery, under Acting Commissioner James R. Culver, continues to be the top lottery in the nation and announced new records for both gross ticket sales and net income for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30. Total sales amount to $410 million for the year, an increase of 26 percent over the previous year. Lottery profits ware also up $35 million with total net earnings of approximately $175 million for the period. Ticket purchasers shared in the revenue by collecting $200 million in prizes for a 30 percent increase over the previous year.

This is the seventh straight year that the lottery has established new sales and net revenue records. Since it started in 1972, the lottery has contributed over $725 million to the state's general fund - money that would have had to be found probably through found increased taxes. The funds have been spread throughout state government providing services to people. Education has received $282.7 million, social services, $246.5 million, health and medical services, $72.5 million and other government services, $123.2 million.

the Bulldogs would qualify for the state tourney by sweeping through an undefeated season.

As is often the case when two good teams meet, turnovers were decisive Saturday. Owen-Gage fumbled away a sure touchdown from the half-foot line and later coughed up the ball on its own 13 when Kirk Carolan was back to pass. The Bulldogs were unable to play over the miscues.

The Cardinals came out strong and it looked as if the Saginaw team were going to dominate the game.

Seminary took the opening kick-off on its own 34 and moved in to score, picking up two first downs on the way. Key plays in the drive were a 20-yard pass to Pat Majeske and a run off tackle for 23 yards and a first down on the two. From there, Mark McCormick drove over for the marker. Majeske's kick was good and the score was 7-0 with 8:43 left in the first quarter.

Meanwhile Owen-Gage was having trouble getting untracked. The Bulldogs were unable to make a first down until there was just 1:36 left in the first quarter. But once they did start moving, they went all the way to tie the score. Big yardage was gained on a pass to Jim Glidden behind the Cardinal left corner-

The next time the Bulldogs got the ball proved to be a turning point of the game. Owen-Gage took over on the Seminary 26 after a bad pass from center on a Cardinal fake kick attempt. On the first play Hallock. broke two tackles and picked up five yards. Erickson then set up what appeared to be a sure touchdown as he pushed through the center of the Seminary line and galloped for 19 yards and a first on the one-yard line. But on the next play, Erickson fumbled and Seminary recovered and from that point on the Saginaw eleven dominated the game.

After moving for one first down, McCormick caught a Mike Hartman pass that moved to the Owen-Gage six-yard line. Only a desperation tackle by Erickson saved the marker. But the save was only temporary. On the next play, McCormick crunched off left tackle for six yards and the goahead touchdown. There were six seconds left on the clock. The kick was good. Seminary scored again on a sustained drive in its first possession after the half. Helped by a run of 38 yards by Hartman, a Pigeon resident, Seminary moved for a first down to the 8. preliminary game, 48-45. Jill Root scored 13 points and Deanna Pomeroy added 11. Carrie Lautner and Pomeroy shared rebound honors with 5 each. SANDUSKY GAME

The Hawks had much less trouble with Sandusky last

The Hawks went out in front in the first period and coasted to victory.

Cass City's tight zone defense kept Sandusky from getting inside most of the night and the Redskins had trouble bringing up the ball against the Hawk press.

At the end of the first quarter it was 10-4. The margin lengthened to 24-11 at the intermission. From there it was only a question of how big the margin was going to be.

Randall scored 18 points and Vickie Pobanz added 10. Sue Polewach scored 17 for Sandusky. Pobanz grabbed 13 rebounds and Hartel, 9. The Hawk Junior Varsity lost a close one, 25-22. Carrie Lautner's 6 points was high for Cass City. Kris Proctor added 5. Michelle Fahrner, 8, and Deb Ouvry, 7, led the rebounders.

Tell grid statistics

Vatter named most valuable

The statistics belie the Season's statistics for the fourth place finish. Cass City amassed a total of 2,537 yards passing and running while giving up only 1,854 yards

The Hawks scored 125 points and gave up 112.

Close losses, as any Hawk fan will tell you, accounted for the lackluster season when compared with the game statistics.

The dispute stems from the length of employment for Sieradzki and other workers who have less seniority. At least two workers joined the school staff after Nov.20, 1977, when Sieradzki was hired.

Supt. Crouse said that it was the understanding that persons hiring under CETA were different than employees hired with school funds. The two persons who have less seniority than Sieradzki are paid with school funds.

The grievance procedure now calls for submitting the grievance to advisory or binding arbitration, if both parties agree.

Higher gasoline and weight taxes (license plate fees) produced more revenue in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, but reduced fuel consumption and lighter cars have leveled the growth rate, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

As a result of the tax increases, Cass City will receive $10,774 as its third quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund payment, compared to $8,676 for the same period (July-September) in 1978.

Area communities and the quarterly payments they will be receiving (1978 payments in parentheses) are: Gagetown, $3,553 ($2,973); Kingston, $2,492 ($2,084); Owendale, $2,626 ($2,194); Ubly, $4,412 ($3,689), and Caro, $18,403 ($15,386).

Where being 'sneaky' is a compliment

By Mike Eliasohn

It is Saturday night and Department of Natural Resources Conservation Officer David Beaumont could be home with his wife and two children. Instead, he is patrolling the back roads of northeastern Tuscola county looking for deer poachers and would-be poachers. Beaumont is not his real name. There have been instances of conservation officers and their families being harassed once officers became too well-known, he

Three poachers get jail terms

Three local men were sentenced Tuesday to five days in the Sanilac County Jail after pleading guilty to illegal possession of deer. Arrested on the charge earlier in the day, to which they pleaded guilty in Sanilac County District Court, were Karl Zawilinski, 26, of 6410 Elizabeth Street, and Henry Langenburg, 23, of 6437 Main Street, both Cass City, and Edward Adams, 28, of 6806 Shabbona Road, Decker

In addition to the jail term, Judge Richard P. Riordan fined each $100 and ordered total payment of explains, hence his request adopt some of the same for anonymity.

October and November are the worst months for poaching and combined with the regular firearms deer season, which starts Nov. 15, it's the busiest time for conservation officers.

They are paid for 85 hours every two weeks, but Beaumont worked 73 hours one recent week and 55 the next. He starts his evening's patrol at 7, northeast of Cass City. Poachers are sneaky, Beaumontexplains, so conservation officers have to $200 restitution.

A report of deer shiners and gunshots in the vicinity of Shabbona Road and M-53 was made to the Tuscola county Sheriff's Department at 4 a.m. Tuesday. The information was relayed to Sandusky state police as that location is in Sanilac county.

Troopers and the two Department of Natural Resources conservation officers from that county were dispatched to the scene, according to the state police. There, they confiscated a buck and a doe and arrested violations poachers can be cited for: Shining with weapon in possession, the least serious, attempting to hunt deer (or certain other game animals) with artificial light, and willful or illegal killing or possession of deer. Most of those caught are iven an appearance ticket for them to appear in district court, as opposed to taking them to the county jail for booking.

Most persons who shine do so because they like to look at deer, he explains, not for purposes of poaching.

That proves to be the case with those in the oncoming vehicle, a van, which he decides to stop.

After turning onto Buehrly, he follows the van for about a half-mile, all without turning on his lights. He finally turns on his dashmounted flasher -- and stops the vehicle. The occupants of the van are two men in their 40s. Beaumont checks inside with his flashlight. Finding no firearms, he cautions them not to shine their spotlight on people's houses and lets them go. He next stops a station wagon on Daus Road, filled with five adults and three children, who had been shining. They were out looking for deer and the children are all excited because they have seen some.

MOST POACHERS THAT he has caught, he says, intend to use their illegally shot game for their own use, not for sale, but "it's not that Gagetown. they will starve if they don't have it." Beaumont next pulls into a state mini-game area, off Schwegler Road, where he thinks he has spotted a light. He turns the light and engine off and climbs up on the hood, but sees nor hears nothing. He also examines tire tracks, which appear fresh. The road farther in is too muddy and he is afraid he will get stuck, so he turns around and leaves.

The officer, who likes to hunt when he can find the time -- which is seldom -points out that the game area was paid for with fees paid by hunters.

He next checks out another mini-game area, south of M-81, east of Cass City, and then heads for one east of

In the latter, he drives over a road that shouldn't be there. The game areas are closed to off-road vehicle use. Those who use the area are supposed to park in the lot by the road and walk in.

Instead, many drive, some of whom, of course, are poaching, and create a road. Over the police radio comes a somewhat strange report of a deer being killed with a bow and arrow and then cut up with an axe. That was on Deckerville Road, a mile east of M-81 (near Caro), so he heads in that direction.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Mary Lucille Christie, 53, of 5911 Curtis Street, Kingston, was ticketed by Caro state police on a charge of failure to yield at a traffic sign after an accident at 7:25 a.m. last Thursday.

Troopers said she was eastbound on Curtis, stopped at River Street, then proceeded into the intersection where her car collided with the southbound auto of Helen M. Duncan, 76, of 3267 River Street.

Harland L. Trisch, 43, of 3540 E. Dutcher Road, Cass City, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of failure to yield right of way after an accident at 3 p.m. Friday.

Officers said Trisch was southbound on Vassar Road and collided with the car of Keith E. Tedford, 36, of Mayville, who was eastbound on Millington Road. Cass City police cited Dale J. Peters, 18, of 5433 Pringle Road, Decker, on a charge of failure to stop within an

CAR-DEER

Lenny F. Adamczyk, 22, of 2275 Adamczyk Road, Kingston, suffered possible injuries in a deer-related accident at 11:20 p.m. Saturday. According to Caro state police, Adamczyk was eastbound on M-46, east of Lobdell Road, when he lost control of his car trying to avoid a deer in the road. He missed the deer but his car rolled over.

At 3:40 a.m. Sunday, according to Cass City police, John Tuckey, 19, of 4681 Schwegler Road, was northbound on M-53, north of Downington Road, when his vehicle hit a deer.
