Cass City doesn't gain from Goslin transfer

Owen-Gage's loss isn't Cass City's gain.

The transfer of the Goslin property to the Cass City School District from Owen-Gage-Gagetown will mean a loss of about $1,800 to Cass City, according to Supt. Donald Crouse.

Following a Michigan Court of Appeals decision Oct. 1 awarding the property to Cass City, Tuscola County Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements Oct. 22 ruled the 1978 and 1979 taxes go there, not to Owen-Gage.

For every dollar it gains in additional property tax revenue from Goslin, according to Crouse, it loses the same amount in state aid.

The 1978 Goslin taxes, which were levied at Cass City's millage rate of 20.9 mills, produced revenue for the district of $73,167, based on the property's then valuation of almost $3.37 million.

The situation concerning 1979 is somewhat confusing because of the Headlee Amendment rollback provision. That basically says that if the valuation of a school district (or any other governmental unit) increases more than the rate of inflation, the millage has to be rolled back so that the district's increase in property tax revenue is no more than the rate of inflation.

The amount of Cass City's rollback was originally figured minus the Goslin property and would have meant a loss to the district of about $78,200 in state aid and property taxes over what it would receive if it could levy the regular 20.9 mills.

However, the addition of Goslin increased the district's valuation, so required an additional rollback.

The Cass City school operating levy, according to Crouse, as reflected on December tax bills, will now be 19.98 mills, instead of the 20.9 mills it could have levied without Headlee. It will thus "lose" $80,000 in state aid and taxes because of the rollback, $1,800 more because of the addition of the Goslin property.

However, the district may only lose $57,000, which makes the matter more confusing.

State aid is tied to the amount of millage a district levies, thus when Headlee reduced millages, it also meant a reduction in state aid.

A provision in the 1979 State School Aid Act would have authorized state aid based on a district's millage rate prior to the rollback; however, Gov. William G. Milliken vetoed that portion of the legislation.

Legislation has now been introduced that would restore the provision vetoed by the governor.

If it passes, Cass City will be out $57,000 in state aid and property taxes (compared to what it would get at 20.9 mills). If it doesn't pass, it will be out $80,000.

Whichever is the ultimately correct figure is the amount of the deficit Crouse is projecting the district will have at the end of the present school year.

School millage levy decreases

Although his district loses $1,800 because of the gain of Goslin, Owen-Gage loses much more because of its loss, assuming it is unsuccessful in efforts to get the appeals court decision overturned.

The district's audit said Owen-Gage would have received $82,269 from Goslin in 1978 taxes, had its 23.5 mill levy been collected there, plus $15,053 debt retirement for the new high school addition.

In addition, it filed a petition Friday with the Michigan Tax Tribunal asking it to award the 1978, '79 and '80 taxes from the Goslin parcel to Owen-Gage, plus damages.

The 1979-80 budget lists school operating taxes the district would have received from Goslin at $95,348.

Owen-Gage has filed a motion with the appeals court asking for a rehearing of the property transfer case.

The DNR is offering proof from studies done of the river by it and the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region.

If the EPA accepts the study information and therefore accepts the advanced waste treatment, it will immediately approve funding, village superintendent Lou LaPonsie reported.

A decision is expected by Friday.

If, however, the EPA says present studies aren't adequate, it will require a more detailed study, and that can't be done until next year.

In fact, such a study can't be done until about next August, during low flow conditions. That would presumably delay the start of construction until 1981 - with or without the third treatment stage, depending on results of the study.

That's why the DNR is urging the EPA to approve the project right away with the third stage added. As debt millage, but because of higher valuation of the district, the board was able to reduce the debt levy to 1.1 mills, compared to 1.2 mills a year ago.

The new operating and debt levies add up to 21.0829 mills, a reduction of 1.017 mills from the 22.1 paid last year.

Property owners in the Goslin parcel don't have to pay the Cass City district's debt levy.

They will still be paying Owendale-Gagetown's 1967 debt levy of 1.0 mill. They aren't paying the 1976 levy (3.4 mills this year). Owen-Gage contends they should and will probably eventually take the matter to court.

Sewage plant de

Cass City wa while bureaucrats debate

Cass City may become completely wrapped in red tape and it won't be for Christmas.

Not only might the sewage treatment plant project be delayed as much as two years because of bickering between the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the state Water Resources Commission (WRC), the village faces potentially large costs if it wishes to keep its landfill in use.

The grim news was presented to the village council Monday evening.

The latest bureaucratic wrangle concerning the sewage plant expansion and improvement project was first presented to council members at their September meeting. Developments since then have potentially been all downhill.

The basic dispute concerns advanced waste treatment, which consists of a final sand filter effluent would go through before being emptied into the river, and something called nitrification.

The EPA, which pays 75 percent of the cost, says it isn't needed.

The state Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which pays 5 percent, said it was, but finally gave in to the EPA. The WRC, which also has to okay the project, still refuses to give in.

It gets more confusing.

The EPA bureaucrats - that's the feds - will change their mind if the DNR (of which the WRC is a part) can prove the condition of the Cass River is such that it will be badly polluted without the third or advanced treatment stage.

The DNR is offering proof from studies done of the river by it and the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region.

If the EPA accepts the study information and therefore accepts the advanced waste treatment, it will immediately approve funding, village superintendent Lou LaPonsie reported.

A decision is expected by Friday.

If, however, the EPA says present studies aren't adequate, it will require a more detailed study, and that can't be done until next year.

In fact, such a study can't be done until about next August, during low flow conditions. That would presumably delay the start of construction until 1981 - with or without the third treatment stage, depending on results of the study.

That's why the DNR is urging the EPA to approve the project right away with the third stage added. As related by Dr. D.E. Rawson, president pro-tem, who presided at the council meeting, if construction started as soon as possible, it would cost no more including the third stage than it will two years from now without it, because of inflation.

Delaying the project one or two years, in addition to increasing the cost, also puts into question the validity of the authority granted by Cass City voters last March, allow the village to borrow money to fund the local 20 percent share of the project.

The first year's levy of 2.5 mills to pay off the yet-to-be borrowed money was collected on summer tax bills. (It's now in a bank drawing 11 percent interest, LaPonsie told the council.)

Back in March, it was estimated total cost of the project would be $6 million. Construction was to get underway by June, with the project to be completed two years later.

OTHER BUSINESS

The formal petition from Thomas and Linda Herron for annexation of approximately 48 acres was approved and now goes to the county Board of Commissioners for its okay. The property is between the Herrons' Northwood Estates-Village subdivision and the railroad tracks to the west.

Approved was transfer of the Colonial Inn liquor license from Don and Evelyn Stilson to David and Raymond Dearing, who are buying the establishment (restaurant, bar, ballroom and hotel). Their mother, June Dearing, is the manager.

In response to a question from Councilman Richard Hampshire, LaPonsie said the village is paying so much for overtime and part-time police help that it is to the point a fifth police officer is needed. That's a matter that will come up in budget deliberations for 1980.

Purchase of 24 trees, mostly maples, for $46 each from a Frankenmuth nursery was approved. Probably three will be planted in the park with most of the rest going in the south end of town.

A letter from John T. Stoliker Enterprises of Richmond seeking oil and gas leases on village-owned property was placed on file tantamount to rejecting the request.

LaPonsie reported state shared revenue to the village is going to be about $11,000 less than was anticipated because of failure by the state to allocate all it was supposed to. Area legislators will be contacted in an effort to rectify the situation.

LANDFILL

News wasn't much better concerning the village owned landfill south of town. The problem there is increasingly strict state regulations.

In his written report to the council, LaPonsie reported, "Act 641 states that all solid waste facilities must be upgraded by 1984. Hydrological studies are to be completed within the next two years. This would include soil borings, the installation of monitoring wells (minimum of three) and leachate (seepage) control along with other determinations. This would require the use of a soil consulting firm as well as our own consulting firm."

What that all means is increased cost to the village to comply with all the new requirements. Specifically what Cass City will have to do should be known after sanitarians from the DNR and county Health Department inspect the landfill Nov. 16 and then meet with village and other officials.

Rawson speculated that if the costs are too great, the council might have to consider whether Cass City should get out of the landfill business.

Meanwhile, in order to get the present landfill operating license renewed by the state, the council approved a restricted covenant between it and the DNR agreeing that when the landfill is some day closed, it won't be used for any other purposes without DNR approval for 15 years.

The covenant is a new requirement.

Two adult males who were "driving around" were arrested and taken to the county jail in Caro, one on a charge of drunk driving, the other for driving with a suspended license. Names were being withheld pending district court arraignment some time Wednesday.

Village police had three cars patrolling the streets, but when the first person was arrested, that meant one car was gone, taking the man to Caro. About the time it got there, Wilson said, the second man was arrested, so for a while, there were two cars gone.

Police nab 5 in pre-Halloween mischief making

Cass City police took into custody five persons Tuesday night in connection with night-before-Halloween mischief.

Police caught three girls as they were about to set fire to some tires at Main and Seeger Streets. Two were turned over to their parents. The parents of the third were to see Police Chief Gene Wilson Wednesday as they couldn't be located that evening. The girl, 17, was let go.

Helen's Beauty Shop owner Helen Agar, who just had to replace a damaged railing along the steps leading to her shop, reported the new railing had been damaged.

Joseph Gruber of 6624 Church Street told police the canvas cover he had put over his car had been taken. The cover was found later and had been damaged.

There was a car-deer accident about 7:45 p.m. Tuesday on M-81, east of Schwegler Road, and a motorcycle accident about 10 in which a person was injured. Details on both accidents weren't immediately available.

8 accidents prove cars, deer just don't mix

This should be an excellent deer hunting season in the Thumb - provided that most of the animals haven't been killed off by cars prior to Nov. 15, the start of the firearms season.

Police agencies reported eight vehicle-deer collisions within the past week in this area or involving area drivers. No persons were injured.

The most serious occurred at 5:35 p.m. Monday and involved the semi-truck-tractor driven by Adrian L. Hutchinson, 45, of 3918 N. Cemetery Road, Cass City. Sheriff's deputies reported he was eastbound on M-81, west of Crane Road, when a deer jumped in his path. He braked, but the truck slid off the south side of the road and jackknifed.

Hutchinson was unable to avoid hitting the deer.

Other vehicle-deer accidents, all reported by the sheriff's department, were:

Evelyn Ziehm, 50, of 6221 Green Road, Gagetown, at 6:15 a.m. last Thursday, while southbound on Hurds Corner Road, near Dickerson Road.

FALLING STAR, by Lillian O'Donnell (fiction). Mici Anhalt is an unusual detective. She is a social worker for the New York State Crime Victims Compensation Board. Her job brings her in contact with some complex rip-off schemes and fearsome crimes. Her latest investigation revolves around the death of a friend whose career was declining while her dependence on drugs grew. Several worlds are skillfully depicted in "Falling Star". The Broadway stage, the seamy side of Times Square and the bureaucratic maze Anhalt has to confront to accomplish anything.

When she dies and he is left with a large estate, Jamie flies to Ireland to track down a look-alike ancestor who may have been a famous Irish poet. Instead of a welcome from his Irish relations, Jamie is met by fear, hostility and even violence.

DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HOLMES, edited by Loren D. Estleman (fiction). For personal reasons, Dr. Watson and Sherlock Holmes persuaded author Robert Louis Stevenson to omit their vital role in solving the mystery of Dr. Jeekyll and Mr. Hyde, and to publish the work as fiction. Now Dr. Watson reveals to us the real story. In it, we follow Holmes and Watson through the low-life areas of London on the trail of Mr. Hyde. Traveling incognito, they follow him to a waterfront burlesque show, give chase in a handsome cab and match wits with his brilliant and evil mind. Watson presents new material concerning Dr. Jeekyll's background and an indiscretion with a chorus girl while he was a medical student in Edinburgh. "If It Fitz..." Depression candy bars

By Jim Fitzgerald

Currently, for anniversary and dismal reasons, persons in my age group are being asked for our memories of the Great Depression. OK.

The thing I remember most is sitting on the front porch on Friday evenings, waiting for my father to come home from work. Sometimes, while waiting, I would eat a candy bar the way a candy bar is supposed to be eaten.

Candy bars have been much on my mind lately, because of a terrible thing that happened last week. In response to something I wrote, two kind readers sent me Snickers bars. My wife sliced the two bars into thin, square pieces and put them on the coffee table in a plate, with toothpicks lying beside them.

I didn't realize what was on the plate until I demanded to know where my wife had hidden my Snickers bars and she said they were sitting right under my nose. She was suggesting that tiny bits of Snickers should be speared and popped daintily into the mouth, like stuffed olives.

Snickers hors d'oeuvres, God help us all. That's worse than scraping the corn off the cob with a knife.

Eating candy bars is supposed to be fun. I learned that much during the Great Depression when I couldn't afford more than one five-cent candy bar a week. Forty years later I can afford a 25-cent candy bar every day, but I can't eat them because they make me fat. However, when I receive a Snickers bar as a gift, common good manners require that I eat it. And common humanity demands that I be allowed to eat it as I did when I was a boy — directly from the wrapper, not from some dumb dish.

The important thing about eating a candy bar when I was 10 years old was to not finish my bar before my big sister Terrible Jean finished hers. If I did, she made me feel bad by shouting: "Ha, ha, ha, your candy is all gone but I still have a lot of mine left."

Habits acquired during the despair of the Great Depression are hard to break. Even today, I never consume the last bit of candy without first looking behind trees for Terrible Jean. It wouldn't be surprising to find her still sucking on a Holloway sucker purchased in 1935.

The secret to the slow eating of a candy bar is judicious licking, or sucking. No biting or chewing should be done. Everything should melt in your mouth, not in your stomach. Even almonds can be sucked to death if you try hard enough.

The unwrapping of the candy is crucial to slow success. The wrapper should be pulled down the bar in half-inch increments, so as to not expose too much bar to the mouth at one time. The temptation to chomp must be avoided at all times. When the candy begins to taste like paper, it is time to resume unwrapping.

During the Great Depression, much of my candy licking was done while waiting for my dad on Friday nights because, for a long time, he came home only on week ends. His local business had failed and the only job he could find was in a town 120 miles away.

Dad drove a rickety Essex and my sisters and I would straddle the porch railing, stretching out toward the curb, competing to be the first to see the old green car coming down the street. He would always arrive to great whoops of welcome, followed by much hugging and kissing. When I try, all these years later, I can still feel the scratch of his beard against my face.

Dad was around 40 years old then, the interlocutor in the annual Kiwanis minstrel show, the best after-dinner speaker in his little hometown. But he couldn't find a job there. It was many years later before I realized what a bitter experience that must have been for him.

It was also many years before I learned how broke we had been when I was a kid. I may have grown up slightly poor during the Great Depression, but all my boyhood memories are rich. It is because of those memories that I couldn't possibly eat sliced Snickers.

One stands mute

Two plead guilty in horse theft

Two men pleaded guilty and one stood mute to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, the property being Mrs. Fisher's horse.

The registered Palomino quarterhorse gelding of Charlotte Fisher of 2351 Sanilac Road, Caro, was stolen from the owner's barn. It was later found by sheriff's deputies, who returned it to Mrs. Fisher four days later.

Pleading guilty to a charge of attempted larceny of livestock in connection with the theft was James R. Gillespie, 21, of 1350 Blackmore Road, Mayville.

Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn accepted his plea and scheduled sentencing Dec. 28. Bond was continued.

Randy J. Berlin, 22, of 6226 Third Street, Mayville, originally charged with breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of attempted larceny of livestock.

His plea was also accepted and sentencing scheduled Dec. 28. Bond was continued.

Monte A. Neuville, 19, of 125 Alexander Street, Caro, stood mute to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, the property being Mrs. Fisher's horse.

A plea of innocent was entered and hearing of pretrial motions scheduled Nov. 23, to be followed by the pretrial hearing. Bond was continued.

The first of three men charged in Tuscola county in connection with a large multi-county theft ring appeared in Circuit Court Friday.

Paul S. Luketich, 56, of Mt. Morris, stood mute to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled Nov. 23. Bond was continued.

He is charged with possession of a stolen garden tractor in Vassar township Aug. 29.

Luketich was originally also charged with unlawfully conspiring to buy and receive stolen property over $100. That was dismissed by District Judge Richard F. Kern Oct. 19 due to lack of evidence the offense had been committed.

Also Friday, Jeffery S. Edgley, 17, of 6255 Pinkerton Road, Vassar, pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of property over $100.

His plea was accepted and bond continued until sentencing Dec. 28.

He was charged with having broken a front window at Atkins Hardware in Vassar Oct. 20.

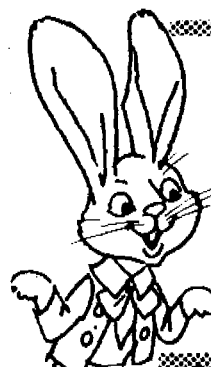

Lori Ann Curtis, 17, of 224 S. East Street, Vassar, pleaded guilty to attempted larceny from an auto in connection with an incident in Vassar July 5.

Her plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled Dec. 28. Bond was continued.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Progress sort of sneaks up on you. Cass City has moved ahead in the last 10 years, says Jim Wynes.

Wynes coached in Cass City about 10 years ago. He left to accept a principal's post and for the last four years has been superintendent at Atlanta. It's been four years since he's been in the community.

The changes in business and housing are many, Wynes said Saturday. Particularly noteworthy are the housing developments in northwest Cass City. There was only one house there when I left, he said, and now look at it.

Older folks aren't supposed to get around much anymore. You couldn't prove it by Garrett Rienstra, 78. He was in town visiting Pete Rienstra. He travelled alone from California and averaged more than 600 miles a day.

Note to the person who taped an unsigned letter to our door. We can't publish unsigned letters but we passed it along to the proper parties.

The letter was critical of certain aspects of the giveaway sponsored by the Cass City Retail Committee. Persons in charge will try to make whatever changes necessary to improve the program when and if it is run again.

One thing about it, regardless of minor flaws, it was a promotion with a galaxy of prizes that didn't cost anyone a red cent to join. The purpose, of course, was to have area folks come in and see what local stores have to offer.

A long ago Cass City resident, Donald Kilbourn, Ph.D., was master of ceremonies Wednesday at a Rotary meeting that featured the exchange team that visited India and Sri Lanka last year.

Perhaps because they have given speeches at myriad Rotary Clubs, Kilbourn and the other members of the team present an entertaining program laced with personal anecdotes that illustrate many of the cultural differences of the two countries.

It has to be a coincidence that a message from a Michigan State supporter comes from Death Valley.

Anyway, in the Spartan corner is Linda Koepfgen, whose brother, Jeff Maharg, bleeds Wolverine Blue. He put the needle to us in a letter to the editor when U of M crushed State. She writes to Jeff via the Chronicle:

"Dear Jeff, HAIL NO! Keep the crying towel. You'll need it in 1980. GO GREEN. As always... except when you admit to the maize and blue. Sincerely, Linda Koepfgen, Spartan Alumni, Death Valley, Calif."

Cass City

The Haire Net

It's an article of faith in Thumb communities that each believes that they have the finest, most ardent fans there are or ever were. Never-say-die supporters of the teams.

Cass City is no exception. Residents preen their feathers by telling of the outflow gyms, the fans ringing the entire football field for championship games through the years.

Certainly there's more interest in a high school team in the Thumb than there is in, say, Flint. In the Thumb, high school sports is all there is and there's just one to a community. No divided loyalties.

That loyalty extends to neighboring communities after local favorites are eliminated. Everyone rejoiced with the success of Bad Axe in football and Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port in basketball last year and many travelled to Lansing and Detroit to see them play.

Persons who watch these teams perform are sports fans and followers of winners. There's a difference between them and fans like most folks like to regard themselves.

I'm speaking here of adult fans. In the school itself, student support has been at a low ebb for many years. There are 700 kids in the high school alone and pick any week you like with the possible exception of homecoming or a championship game and you'll find maybe 100 at the games. Maybe the addition of girls' competitive sports has diluted the attendance as there are now twice as many school sporting events to choose from.

Whatever the reason, student support here never measured up to the student turnout that Frankenthum received when it was in the league. In contrast, adult support at Chicken City is one of the poorest in the league.

That's not the issue here. What we are talking about is community-wide adult support.

There's a chance to prove me wrong. This Friday, Cass City plays Mayville in football. It's the last game in a season that started bright with promise and now is in chaos.

Before the first game, Cass City was favored to be the league champion and perhaps march through an undefeated season.

Last week the Hawks were humiliated by Lakers. They have lost as many games as they won.

If ever there was a "nothing" game, this is it. Mayville is ending a zilch season, too.

The disaster gives fans a chance to prove they are the greatest.

A rousing send-off by as many persons as would crowd around to see a winner play would do it.

Sadly, I can't see it happening. There won't be many fans at Cass City Recreational Park Friday and even fewer students.

Winners get support, losers get criticism.

The 1978-79 audit shows a change in the General Fund balance of only $2,982. Thus, the ending financial condition of the district this past year was basically the same as in the preceding year.

The debt retirement funds were applied on schedule with the accounts retaining a sufficient balance as determined by the State.

During the current school year the millage levy for the Cass City Public Schools will be lowered almost one mill as a result of the Headlee amendment. This lower millage will reduce the state aid for our school district unless the state legislature makes special provisions.

In all probability, an increased millage levy will be needed next year if the school district is to continue offering a quality education program on a financially sound basis.

It's a bad time for car-deer accidents

The Department of Natural Resources warns motorists that November is the peak month for car-deer accidents in Michigan.

During 1978, there were a record 17,155 accidents over the 12-month period. Two persons were killed and 944 injured.

In Tuscola county last year, there were 246 car-deer accidents, resulting in injuries to 10 persons; in Huron, 246 accidents and 11 injuries, and in Sanilac, 236 accidents and 11 injuries.

Bill Gutos, DNR safety manager, says fall and winter, when deer activity is greatest due to the mating season and changing foraging habits, is prime time for car-deer collisions.

Most accidents occur on unlighted roadways after dark; the peak period is two hours after sunset, according to Gutos. Just before dawn is also a likely time.

When you see a deer warning sign, slow down, he advises. It's there because deer have been killed in the area. Keep your speed down for the next two or three miles at least; you can't expect the deer to obligingly cross the highway in front of the warning sign.

Be alert to traffic ahead and behind you and check the shoulder of the road in case you should have to hit your brakes. Make a habit of fastening safety belts so you and your passengers won't be jolted by a hard stop.

If you do smash into a deer, chances are less likely that anyone will be seriously hurt if everyone is belted in. Deer tend to travel in groups, so if you spot a deer crossing the road, assume there's another not far behind. Be ready to hit your brakes and sound your horn.

Blowing your horn when you spot a deer may startle it into darting back into cover—but don't count on it. Use your brakes. In most cases there isn't time for evasive action.

"I've had two run-ins with deer, both times during blinding snowstorms when traveling at low speed," Gutos says. "The most important thing to remember is to keep control of the car so you don't run off the road."

If all else fails and you do hit a deer, Gutos says try to get your car and the deer off to the side of the road and contact the local police department.

He reminds motorists not to remove a deer from an accident scene without a permit. Every state police post and most law enforcement agencies have the permits. One copy will be given to the person taking the deer and one to the local conservation officer.

Need facts on 1881 great fire

James H. Lincoln, retired Wayne county juvenile judge, is seeking information from Thumb area residents about the great fire of 1881.

He hopes to hear from persons who remember stories told them by relatives who survived the fire, as well as written accounts.

He plans to incorporate the information into a book, which he hopes to have published by Sept. 5, 1981, the 100th anniversary of the start of the fire.

The fire, driven by hurricane force winds, swept in a northeast direction through portions of Lapeer, St. Clair, Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties.

Historical accounts say 282 persons died, 15,000 were left homeless, more than 3,400 buildings were destroyed and more than 1,000 square miles burned.

"The more I read and learn, the more I get the idea that the fire of 1881 is an indescribable event," Lincoln said in a recent interview. "For many, this was simply Armageddon."

In addition to writing the book, Lincoln also plans to make all material collected available to libraries and schools. He hopes to persuade a television network or station to do a documentary on the great fire, for broadcast around the time of the 100th anniversary.

In addition to information passed down from parents, grandparents, etc. he is also seeking objects relating to the fire.

Lincoln can be contacted at 1892 S. Lakeshore, Harbor Beach 48441, telephone (517) 479-6310. Preferably, persons should write down everything they remember and send it to him.

A native of Harbor Beach, he was Wayne county juvenile judge from 1960-77, when he retired to his family farm with his wife, Kim.

PEDALING AROUND

Call me
unwed

By Mike Eliasohn

To me, being single is a state of being.

All persons are born single, and unless they marry, they remain that way.

It takes no effort to remain single, yet some married couples have to work at staying married. Some people even have to work at it to get married.

At least, that is what I have always thought. Now it appears one has to work at being single.

For those who don't know how, there is now a workshop you can attend to learn.

What is labeled as the Midwest Singles Expo '79 (previously ridiculed in this column) is being promoted by Stephen Bay, who at 37 has been divorced 14 years and, to quote his publicity, "came up with the brainchild of the Singles Expo as an alternative for people turned off by the meat market, bar and disco scene."

At the price of meat these days, who can afford it.

Bay's theory apparently is that single persons have guilty consciences, that, "Most singles have been brainwashed into believing that you have to be paired to be happy."

Singles obviously don't have to be unhappy. "I really want to spread the word that being single is okay and that it's now an alternative lifestyle, not just a passing through stage of people's lives," he says.

Thus the next time someone asks me how I can stand to live in such a filthy apartment, I will inform them that filth is an alternative life style.

Apartment cleaning, however, is not one of the lecture topics at the Midwest Singles Expo. Presumably, it's not esoteric enough.

Instead, there will be such topics as "The Guilt of Being Single," "Understanding the Stock Market" (what that has to do with being single is beyond me), "Divorce Recovery," "Single Parenting," "The Clergy Looks at Singleness," "Legal Aspects of Living Together" (I wonder if Michelle Triola and Lee Marvin will be guest lecturers) and "Creative Ways to Meet New People."

Presumably, one of the creative ways to meet new people is by attending the Midwest Singles Expo.

For those who don't like meat markets, by the way, don't go to the "gala dance on Saturday evening."

For those who would still like to go, the Midwest Singles Expo is Nov. 9-11 in Dearborn.

As for me, I will be in my apartment that week end. Maybe I will even clean it.

On second thought, if there are any single women out there age 21 or over who would like to come to my apartment that week end to clean it for me, consider yourself invited.

That would be a creative way to meet, unlike the Expo, it won't cost you anything, and while you're scrubbing my floors, I will give you a lecture about the one stock I own.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says net farm income should reach about $30 billion this year, up from $27.9 billion last year.

Gold affects grain prices

By William Bortel

It seems a little odd that the price of gold and similar metals would have a direct bearing on the price of grains, but since we are moving grains on a world market, there is a relationship that bears watching.

Dr. George K. Dike, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service agricultural economist, says that grain producers should be careful in their marketing strategies this year.

price while the dollar weakened, corn and other farm commodities strengthened. On the other hand, if the strength of the dollar did not suffer relative to metals, then the price of corn did not move with metals.

This kind of observation suggests that the value of the dollar continues to be important to the price of our exportable commodities. New demand appeared in the picture as the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced expanded limits on the Russian agreement. Those who find exports encouraging should view the announcement with some caution.

Large traders all over the world probably expected this development and we will now see reports showing large orders of corn and/or wheat transferred from "destination unknown" to the Soviets. Thus, the net new export orders will be smaller than the announced Russian deal would lead one to suspect.

Oct. 2, the five-day national average price of corn reached $2.52 per bushel. This triggered the release again of the farmer owned reserve. Nov. 30, the USDA must review the average price to see if the release authorized should remain in effect.

Observers in the grain trade feel that the 540 million bushels of reserve corn will not be drawn out immediately. For one thing, the trade is now focused on new crop corn, and for another, holder of reserve inventories have two months of assured government paid storage.

SOYBEANS

The near term pricing opportunities have exceeded many expectations. Supply and demand or balance sheet analysis doesn't seem to support current high price levels. There seems to be a heavy psychological component here reflecting concern with inflation and paralleling gold fever.

A look six months down the road may appeal to more sober personalities and may convince some people to take advantage of current favorable pricing opportunities.

In September, the USDA reported its earlier estimate of world oilseed production for 1979-80 at 177 million tons; up 11 percent from last season's 159 million tons. This included a Brazilian estimate of 14.8 million tons, well up from last year's drought-stricken crop.

Domestically, broiler production is being cut back to 4.2 percent over last year. It had been 8 to 10 percent above, clearly implying a slower demand for soybean meal. Hog feeding plans are also being reduced for the same reason - poor profits or no profit at all.

While projected meal demand seems reasonably good the first half of the season, the second half will be poor, not only domestically, but in exports, too, depending on the South American crop.

Chimney fire extinguished

A chimney fire Saturday afternoon was out by the time Elkland township firemen arrived.

The fire was at the home of Douglas Monroe on Phillips Road, north of Kelly Road.

Fire Chief Jack Hartwick said the fire was in the fireplace chimney and Mrs. Monroe aimed a fire extinguisher up the smokestack to put it out. He added that it would have eventually burned itself out anyway.

The incident took place shortly after 2 p.m.

HEALTH TIPS Telltale signs to identify alcoholics

By Frank Chappell,
American Medical Association

How can you tell that a regular, heavy drinker has crossed over the line and become an alcoholic, who no longer can control his or her drinking?

The American Medical Association in its Manual on Alcoholism points to some markers to help identify the alcoholic.

1. Increasing consumption of alcohol, with frequent, perhaps unintended, episodes of intoxication.

2. Drinking to handle problems or relieve symptoms.

3. Obvious and preoccupation with alcohol and the frequent need to have a drink.

4. Surreptitious drinking or gulping of drinks.

5. Tendency toward making alibis and weak excuses for drinking.

6. Refusal to concede what is obviously excessive consumption and expressing annoyance when the subject is mentioned.

7. Frequent absenteeism from the job, especially following week ends and holidays.

8. Repeated changes in jobs, particularly if to successively lower levels, or employment in a capacity beneath ability, education and background.

9. Shabby appearance, poor hygiene, and behavior and social adjustment inconsistent with previous levels or expectations.

10. Persistent vague physical complaints without apparent cause, particularly insomnia, stomach upset, headaches, loss of appetite.

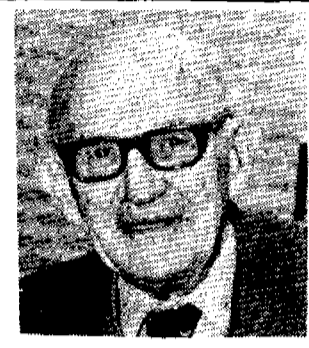

11. Multiple contacts with the health care system with disorders that are alcohol caused or related.

12. Persistent marital and family problems, perhaps with multiple marriages.

13. History of arrests for drunkenness or drunken driving.

Meredith Auten remembers

I remember in 1931 when Gov. Comstock ordered all banks in Michigan closed.

I was playing golf when the news came over the radio. I never finished the round of golf. I couldn't hit the ball.

Our deposits shrank from $540,000 in 1930 to $140,000 in 1933.

Oats were 11 cents a bushel. Wheat was 33 cents a bushel.

I bought 35 head of cattle at 6 cents a pound. I fed all my crops, including 2,000 bushels of corn and 60 tons of hay, to the cattle and asked Cal Striffler what he would pay for them. He said 5 cents a pound.

I said I'll ship them myself, so I hired a car to take them to Buffalo, where I sold them for 4 cents a pound.

I owned the Phil Quinn farm, now owned by Homer

Muntz. Phil Quinn, a good farmer, cared for the cattle. He had a hired hand man and said to me, "I am ashamed of the treatment I have given my hired man. He has worked hard and all I have paid him is a few silver dollars with which to buy tobacco, but do you know, I can't afford to feed him and have to let him go."

Harley Holmes, our school superintendent, had some City Service stock which kept increasing in value.

Harley put a mortgage on his home, just east of Curly Calka's. The stock went to $770 a share. It dropped to $3 a share. Harley deduced me the house when he left town.

Milton Sugden had 1,500 bushels of potatoes in his basement, one mile west of Cass City. The potatoes wouldn't bring enough to pay his taxes.

What is worse -- a depression or a recession?

Diabetes testing Tuesday

Hills and Dales General Hospital will be offering free diabetes testing in conjunction with American Diabetes Week, Nov. 4-10.

The testing will be from 9-11 a.m. Tuesday in the meeting room in the basement.

It will be a screening test for finding new diabetics and not a test for known diabetics.

According to Jane Mitchell, RN, hospital in-service educator, persons who are over 40, overweight, are a blood relative of a diabetic or had a baby who weighed over 9 pounds at birth are considered in the high risk group and should be tested for diabetes regularly.

Approximately two hours before the test, persons should eat a high carbohydrate breakfast. Suggested is one cup of orange juice, one cup of cornflakes or oatmeal with one cup of milk and one tablespoon of sugar, two slices of toast with one tablespoon of jelly, one egg if desired, and coffee or tea without caffeine.

Diabetes is the third leading cause of death by disease. It is the leading cause of new blindness and a major factor in heart disease, circulatory problems and kidney disorders.

The testing is being done by the hospital in conjunction with the American Diabetes Association, Michigan affiliate. The testing agent is being supplied free through Dow Diagnostics.

Persons with any questions can contact Mrs. Mitchell at the hospital.

Red Cross soliciting special funds

Board members of the Tuscola County Chapter of the American Red Cross have received a telegram from the National Red Cross Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Mary Alice Osgerby of Caro, county chairman, said residents are being asked to take part in a special fund-raising campaign.

Mrs. Osgerby said, "There have been a number of disasters over the past few months in such places as Florida, Texas, Indiana, North Dakota, and Illinois. Because of these, the American Red Cross has spent more than $23 million, compared to an average of $16 million in years gone by."

This amount cannot be made up by the local chapters of the Red Cross themselves.

"This was the case during the ice storm of 1976 when the Red Cross spent more than $44,000 in Tuscola county alone, and none was paid back," she said.

Mrs. Osgerby explained that each chapter of the American Red Cross has been asked to pledge a 20 percent fair-share requirement to go towards a special quota disaster fund campaign totaling $15 million.

Tuscola county's amount comes to $691.

The Tuscola County Chapter will launch a fund-raising drive through the mail during the first part of November.

Your Neighbor says Car inspections are unnecessary

State Rep. Jack Kirksey has introduced a bill in the legislature that would require mandatory vehicle inspections.

The Livonia Republican claims such inspections would reduce the number of auto accidents since at least 5 percent of the approximately 400,000 accidents annually in Michigan are thought to be caused by vehicle defects.

His proposal calls for state-licensed garages to perform the once-a-year inspections for $7.50. Brakes, turn signals, headlights, steering and exhaust systems and tires would be examined once a year. Cars that flunked would have to be brought up to par within 30 days.

Mary Ellen Miller doesn't think Kirksey's proposed vehicle inspections are necessary.

"Most people take care of their cars," she said, "besides a few minor repairs that need to be done."

"Because of the high price of gas these days, she feels people are taking better care of their cars than they once did, in order to get the best possible mileage. Along with engine tuneups comes maintenance of the rest of the car.

"I just think that because of gas the way it is, people are thinking twice about running their cars into the ground."

Her husband Ken does most of the maintenance work on the one car they own.

Mrs. Miller recently opened a studio in her basement to teach tap dancing. She has 12 students, children and adults.

She and her husband have a son, Garrett, 10 months, and daughter, Ashley, 4. They live at 6786 E. Main Street.

Foster parents needed

Catholic Family Service of the Thumb area is seeking families who are interested in becoming foster parents.

Foster family care can be temporary, moving toward a goal whereby the child and his natural parents can be reunited; possibly helping the child move into permanent adoptive families; or preparation for independent adulthood. Primarily it is a caring family providing the specific kind of help a child and his family need at a specific time.

Children who need foster care range from infants to teenagers. Some may have lost their parents due to death, illness, hospitalization, imprisonment or abandonment. Others have families who are unable to cope with their specialized needs, such as mental or physical handicaps. Some youth may have reacted to family, school and other problems through illegal activities.

Families from Huron, Tuscola or Sanilac counties who wish further information can contact Catholic Family Service, 592 N. Port Crescent, Bad Axe, telephone 269-7931.

World wheat production is showing a decline of 8.5 percent this year, down nearly to 401 million metric tons. A year ago, world production was at the 438.5 million-ton mark.

Need win at Manton for play-off berth

Champions! Unbeaten O-G rolls to crown

Ordinarily, an end of the season game against a non-league opponent approximately 160 miles away wouldn't mean much.

But for the Owen-Gage Bulldogs, the Saturday afternoon contest at Manton means a lot, for winning it is their ticket to the state Class D playoffs.

That game became crucial after the Bulldogs knocked off Carsonville-Port Sanilac Friday night at home, 34-0, to take sole possession of the North Central D League title. The Tigers needed to win to get a share of it.

In addition to winning, Owen-Gage needed a loss by Beal City, and that happened Friday courtesy of Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart, 24-9.

The until then undefeated school near Mount Pleasant had been second in Region III Class D playoff points. Its loss combined with the Owen-Gage win moved the Bulldogs into the number 2 spot necessary to qualify for the playoffs.

Number 1 is Michigan Lutheran Seminary of Saginaw, whom the Bulldogs will presumably be playing in the playoffs if they win at Manton.

Manton was the closest school Athletic Director James Barr could find willing to take on the Bulldogs.

The Class D team is presently 6-2 but doesn't play that tough a schedule, according to Owen-Gage coach Arnie Besonen.

The host school did offer to house the visiting players and cheerleaders Friday night, but as the Owen-Gage coaches are going to be scouting Michigan Lutheran then, the team will leave from Owendale about 9 a.m. Saturday.

With a couple of stops along the way to limber up, Besonen feels his team will be ready for the start of the game at 2. Manton is north of Cadillac.

Last Friday's clash was expected to be close, matching the league's top offensive team, Owen-Gage, against the most stubborn defense, Carsonville.

It didn't turn out that way as the Bulldogs rushed for 349 yards in 50 carries and gained 78 yards in the air on five Kirk Carolan passes (no interceptions), for a total of 427 yards.

The Tigers could only claw their way for 62 yards on the ground in 19 carries, plus 161 aerial yards (16 completions of 32 attempts, plus two interceptions) for total yardage of 223.

Brad Erickson scored the first Bulldog touchdown, on a 4-yard run in the first quarter. Pete Klemkowski kicked his first of four conversions for the night.

It was Erickson again in the second quarter, the fleet senior halfback scampering for 8 yards to cap a 99 yard drive in 13 plays which started with the Bulldogs returning a Tiger punt.

With less than a minute left in the half, Kirk Carolan dived in from the one to end a seven-play, 83 yard drive.

The Tigers, hurt by the loss of starting halfback Yale Payne from an injury suffered in physical education class the day before, made one of its few scoring threats in the third quarter. They were finally forced to try for a field goal from 17 yards out, which went wide. Jeff Hallock scored on a spectacular 76 yard run, the Owen-Gage drive having started on its own 10-yard line.

Final score for the victors came with two minutes gone in the fourth quarter when Scott Gaeth crossed the goal line from 10 yards out.

A bobbled hike ruined Klemkowski's chances for making his fifth consecutive PAT.

C-PS had a final chance to score with about two minutes left, when it got the ball to the Bulldog 7-yard line, but was unable to get it further.

Hallock was the victor's top rusher, gaining 166 yards in nine carries. Erickson gained 100 yards in 15 carries and Gaeth, 86 yards in 16 carries.

Mark Turcott led the Tiger rushers with 13 carries and 50 yards.

Defensive standouts for Owen-Gage were Jim Glidden with 10 tackles, Dan Warack with nine and one interception, and Kendall Howard with five.

Glidden was also top receiver with three catches for 37 yards.

Neither team fumbled in the game. The Bulldogs were penalized six times for 30 yards; their opponents, only once for five yards.

The tables were turned Thursday, when C-PS won the junior varsity game, 56-6.

Score by quarters:

O-G	7	14	7	6	3
C-PS	0	0	0	0	6

Microwave program scheduled

The Cooperative Extension Service for Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola counties is sponsoring a Holiday Explosion Thursday, Nov. 8, from 7-9 p.m. at St. Paul and Peter Catholic church in North Branch.

Total cost for the microwave program, materials and tasting spree is $1.50 per person. Margaret (Battel) Bethel, a native of Cass City, will be the demonstrator.

Reservations may be made through the Cooperative Extension Service in any of the three counties. Registration fees are due by Nov. 7. Send them to: Cooperative Extension Service, Civil Defense Center, Caro 48723.

BRINGING DOWN Brad Erickson hasn't been the easiest task for Owen-Gage opponents this fall. Tackling him in this second quarter play Friday night was Carsonville-Port Sanilac's Joe Prusik (48) and another player behind Erickson. The 140-pound senior has gained 892 yards this season, an average of 111.5 per game.

Solons kill property tax relief bill for 1979

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

A legislative proposal to provide $450 million in property tax relief, with the additional revenue coming from an increase in the personal income tax rate, has been declared dead for the remainder of the 1979 legislative session.

Rep. George Montgomery, (D-Detroit), proposal sponsor and chairman of the House Taxation Committee, said the plan was dead after the Michigan House refused to tie-bar three remaining parts of the plan to the main bill.

Those two pieces of legislation would have exempted utilities and telephones from sales and use taxes.

The only way the so-called tax shift plan could be renewed, Montgomery suggested, is if Republicans come forward with a list of specific proposals that could be adopted onto the plan.

Montgomery had asked the House to tie-bar the two bills exempting the utilities and telephone from use or sales taxes to legislation increasing the income tax from its current 4.6 percent rate.

It was suggested the income tax would have to be increased to make up $100 million, the cost of the two other bills.

Republicans, however, criticized the tie-barring proposal, saying it was like trying "to hit a moving target" because no income tax increase had yet been established.

Rep. Paul Henry (R-Grand Rapids) said they did not feel a tax shift was a bad idea per se, but they needed more specific information before committing themselves to the plan.

The plan was introduced last winter with high anticipation that it would pass into law by spring. It was one legislative proposal devised to counter the Tisch property tax cut constitutional amendment which was narrowly rejected by voters in November.

Originally, the plan would have shifted $450 million in revenue by increasing the property tax credit and the personal exemption and then increasing the income tax rate.

It ran into opposition early as Republicans claimed it was a backdoor attempt to create a progressive income tax — an issue rejected by Michigan voters.

NORMAL LANGUAGE

Legislation requiring that the language of insurance policies be simpler is being drafted by the state Insurance Bureau, according to Insurance Commissioner Richard Hemmings.

Currently, only lawyers can understand insurance policies, he said noting that legislation to simplify policy language is just one of several goals mapped out by the bureau for 1980.

Hemmings said that while the legislation will not guarantee that insurance policies are suddenly fun to read, it should make policies easier for people without legal or insurance training to understand.

The legislation will have standards regarding readability, size of print, text organization and language.

Other goals of the insurance bureau include preparing rules for consumers before they buy health and life insurance.

The bureau will also take steps to protect consumer privacy.

AAUW told of management

The Cass City Branch of the American Association of University Women met Tuesday, Oct. 23, in the high school library.

A program entitled "Action Identification," an exercise designed to establish relevant branch action on the controversial issue of resource management, was led by Geraldine Prieskorn.

A report was given about the Halloween carnival which was to be held Tuesday, Oct. 30, in the Intermediate School cafeteria, sponsored by the AAUW and the Cass City Pre-School Nursery.

Following the program, refreshments were provided by Alice Donahue, Doris Rawson, Esther McCullough, and Dotty Scollon.

Mayville to end sad year for Red Hawks

The Cass City Red Hawks will end the disappointing 1979 grid season Friday when they entertain Mayville, another team with a lack-luster record, at Cass City Recreational Park.

The Hawks will be attempting to regroup after suffering a humiliating loss to the Lakers, 38-7.

The game was as one-sided as the final score indicated.

The Hawks could do nothing offensively. Despite this, it was Cass City that scored first. It took a trick play to do it.

With fourth and long on the Laker 46, Bob Sawdon took a hand-off on a fake punt and raced around his own left end untouched for the marker. Brad Hartel's extra point try was good and it was 7-0.

That was the only time that the Hawks were ahead.

The marker came early in the second period. After that the Lakers staged a scoring parade.

It started on the next series of plays. The Lakers moved down the field primarily on the ground for a first on the three from where Kurt Damrow scored from the two. It was a 54-yard drive.

The Lakers scored from far out in the waning minutes of the quarter. It was a pass to Todd Wisenbaugh who slipped behind the Hawk secondary to go the distance in a play covering 73 yards. At the half the score was 15-7.

The Green and White took over again in the third period. This time it was the same pass combination that clicked in the first half, Brad Farver to Wisenbaugh. Wisenbaugh took the pass over center, shook off a Hawk defender and rolled to the touchdown. When the two-point conversion was good the visitors led, 23-7.

After that the rout was on. Kurt Damrow scored twice on runs of 40 and six yards and Rob Brown hit a 25-yard field goal as the Lakers piled it on.

Statistically, the Hawks didn't appear to be as out-classed as they were. Cass City rushed for 208 yards and passed for 79 more for a total of 287 yards. The Lakers rushed for 153 yards and passed for 150 yards for a total of 303 yards.

The Hawks were hurt by turnovers. Quarterback Rusty Hoag was intercepted six times in 17 tosses and Hartel intercepted once. The Hawk aerial game was hurt by the hard charging Laker forward wall.

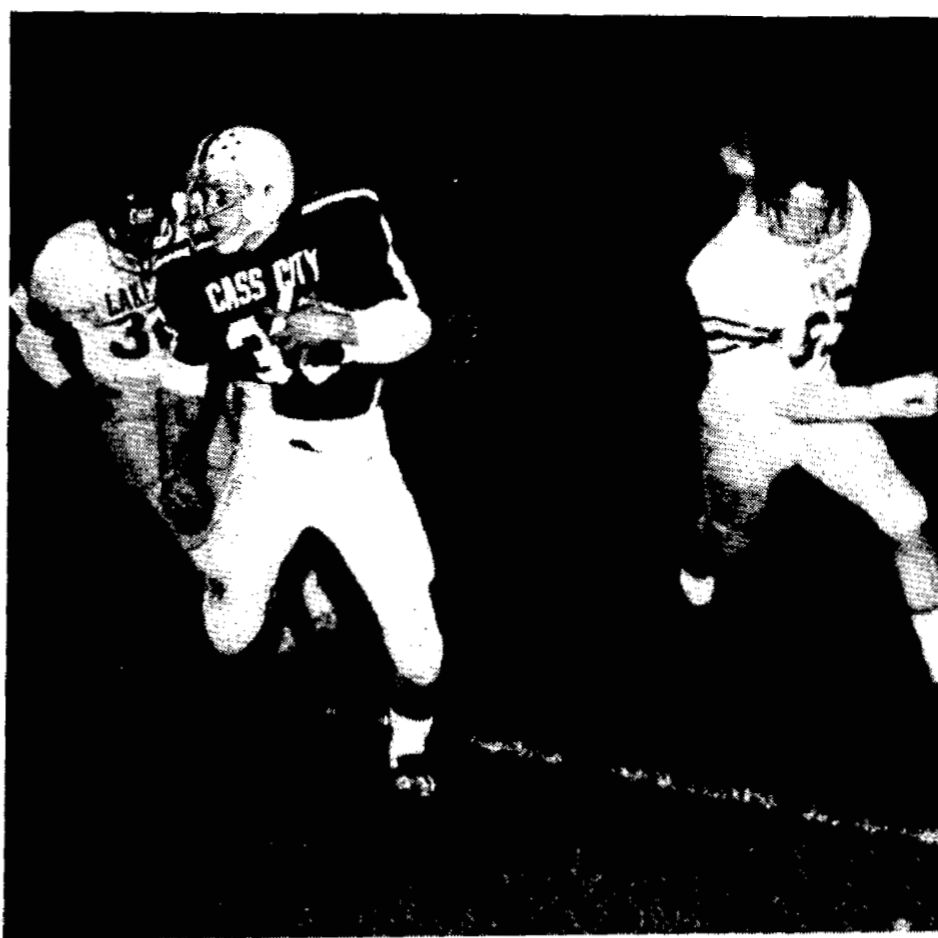

Coach Don Schelke named Ken Martin Red Hawk of the week.

Thumb corn growers to discuss gasohol

The economics, demand, and methods of producing gasohol will be discussed in Tuscola county, Thursday, Dec. 6, for Thumb-area corn growers.

Sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, the meeting starts at 1 p.m. at the United Methodist church in Caro.

County Extension Director Bill Bortel says the session will provide preliminary guidelines for those interested in small or large-scale gasohol production.

The program will run from 1-4 p.m.

Robert Soleta of the National Gasohol Commission, Inc., will discuss the potential benefits of gasohol. Washington's view on gasohol and energy grants will be reviewed by Marilyn Herman of the U.S. Department of Energy.

The legal process encountered when setting up a gasohol manufacturing process will be outlined by William Davis, from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, Washington, D.C.

Dr. John Waller, MSU Extension animal husbandry specialist, will talk about using distillers grain, the gasohol manufacturing by-product, of animal feed. The program will conclude with Dr. Bill Stout, MSU Extension agricultural engineer, providing an outlook of future energy sources.

Details of the program may be obtained by contacting the county extension office.

Hawks move closer to first Thumb B regular season championship

The Cass City Red Hawks posted two more Thumb B Conference victories during the week and are fast closing in on the first girls' cage league title in history.

Coach Lloyd Schinnerer's charges rolled over the Lakers last Wednesday, 68-44, and whipped Caro Monday, 47-37.

The Hawks are now 7-0 in the league and 9-2 overall. If they get by Bad Axe in a game to have been played Wednesday you can pop the cork on the high school equivalent of the victory champagne. Bad Axe is second in the league, two games behind with a pair of losses.

The game against the Lakers was expected to be a laughter and it was. The Hawks went in front early and added to the lead until all the starters took a seat on the bench in the final period.

After the first quarter it was 14-7. By the intermission Cass City was in front 34-20. The third period was a disaster for the visitors. Cass City outscored the Green and White, 28-1. In the mop-up final period the Lakers made the score more respectable with a 23-6 advantage.

Padgett Randall (who else) led the scorers with 25 points. Nancy Tonti, working back into the line up after an injury, scored 10. Robin Smith netted 11 for the losers.

The Hawks pulled down a season's high 61 rebounds led by Libby Hartel with 14 and Vickie Pobanz with 13. Cass City shot 39 percent from the floor and 55 percent on 6 of 11 free throws.

Caro. Randall and Pobanz picked off 13 boards each and Hartel was credited with 9. The Hawks hit a very respectable 49 percent from the floor on 18 for 37 and converted 11 of 19 free throws for 58 percent.

JV GAMES

The Junior Varsity wasn't as successful as the varsity. The young Hawks lost to the Lakers, 43-31, and were edged by Caro, 39-37.

Carrie Lautner scored 11 points in the Laker defeat while Tammy Heins with 10 and Michelle Fahrner with 8 were Cass City's leading rebounders.

Kris Proctor with 11 points was the leading scorer against the Tigers. Fahrner scored 10 and picked off 7 rebounds.

It's 'old hat' for Elmwood Missionary Circle

Patience a prerequisite for making quilts

Thousands of tiny little stitches, all done by hand. Members of the Elmwood Missionary Circle wouldn't have it any other way. The 17 members of the group have a unique way of performing charitable deeds. They make quilts. The organization has been around so long no one knows when it began. It is known that it was originally a sewing circle called the Baptist Missionary Society and consisted of members of the Elmwood Baptist church. Also known as the Frog Island church because of its swampy location, (on Dale Road between Hurds Corner and Green Roads, northwest of Cass City in Elmwood township), the church disbanded during World War I. The building was later torn down.

The society members decided to keep the group going after the church dissolved, so changed the name to the Elmwood Missionary Circle. Ironically, its membership now consists of Methodists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Church of Christ and Missionary church, but no Baptists. Also, no longer do all the members live in Elmwood township. The Oct. 17 meeting, for instance, was at the home of Marian Gray on Argyle Road, east of M-53. Meetings are held the third Wednesday of each month in a member's home. The meetings start about 10 and the members quilt until it's time for the potluck lunch, then reconvene around the quilting frame until 3 or 3:30. The group raises $200-$250 a year through the sale of their labors and by dues of 25 cents per month. They make comforters for persons who have been burned out of their homes or are otherwise in need (usually 1-3 a year) and give donations to the Teen Ranch, March of Dimes, Easter Seals, cancer fund, Teen Missions, Hills and Dales General Hospital building fund, Christmas Seals and Salvation Army. QUILTING IS A TWO-step process, with the first known as "piecing." That consists of sewing all the little pieces of cloth together. Sometimes the little pieces are scrap and sometimes new material. If the pieces are sewn together in a design, it is called a pattern quilt. If there is no pattern, it's a crazy quilt. As a group, the Missionary Circle members don't do piecing. Piecing is done by individuals (non-members), who pay the Missionary Society to do the quilting. That's the second step. It consists of fastening the piecing to the lining. In between goes the padding, known as batting. The three layers are fastened together with thousands of little stitches, all done by hand, to create the quilted effect. For doing the quilting and attaching the binding, the Circle charges about $50, the exact price depending on the size of the quilt. The members make three or four such quilts a year. For members' own quilts, provided it is a one-day project, they don't charge. Making a quilt for a son or daughter who gets married is a tradition with the group. With thin batting, the finished product is a quilt. With thicker batting, it's a comforter. Comforters are tied, that is, instead of continuous stitching as on (most) quilts, a separate stitch is made and tied every couple of inches. That's much faster than continuous stitching and it's these comforters that are given to victims of home fires. IT MIGHT SEEM LIKE an anachronism to sew quilts by hand when sewing machines would make the work much faster and easier, but it just wouldn't be the same, the members explained. Hand sewn quilts are softer and... the quilters say, "It just wouldn't be a hand-done one," if done by machine. Handmade ones, understandably, are also more valuable than machine-made ones. Making all those tiny stitches can be somewhat tedious, but by quilting together as a group, which allows lots of conversation, it becomes fun. "It's just like doing anything else you like," one member explained. Members of the Missionary Circle range in age from 58-84. So far they haven't been able to find any younger members interested in learning the craft. "They're interested, but they don't like to work," said Clara Bond. The group is always looking for new members, young or old. They will also accept men. "We're not chauvinists," said Wilma Finkbeiner. So far they haven't found any men yet willing to join. Mrs. Finkbeiner is one of the second generation members of the group. The others are Irene Tracy and Alexia Cook. Mrs. Gray is a third generation member, her mother and grandmother having belonged. Officers of the Missionary Circle are: Frankie Anker, president; Mrs. Gray, vice-president; Mrs. Tracy, secretary, and Mrs. Finkbeiner, treasurer.

DIFFERENT QUILTS -- The quilt at left uses what is called the Mohawk trail pattern. At right is a patchwork quilt. One with no pattern at all is called a crazy quilt.

Mission at St.

Pancratius Church - Cass City

Given By

Fr. James Sullivan, Redemptorist
From Nov. 3rd to Nov. 11th of 1979

"He that confesses Me before men, him will I confess before My Father Who is in heaven; he that denies Me before men, him will I deny before My Father Who is in heaven."

A Mission is not a time of amusement or entertainment. Nor is it a time to be concerned about our foreign policy or nuclear energy. A Mission is an extraordinary event that takes place rarely in a life time of a Parish. An extraordinary time to be concerned about the most basic, fundamental and necessary truths of our faith. Those truths that will never change in our modern ever changing Church. So, a parish Mission then, will be that extraordinary opportunity for us to recall those eternal, unchangeable, absolute, ultimate truths that God himself gave us and Jesus Christ left us in the Church that He founded.

Two Services Daily - 9:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

The mission will be full expression and public profession of the appreciation you have for your faith and your gratitude for this wonderful gift. We see how you will want to make plans to attend every morning or every evening of your mission: only ONE week! God deserves that much.

Just Wednesday Evening

Will Be Reserved For Youth

Friday Morning and Evening

- 1) For those who are married.
- 2) For those who have been married and are widows or widowers or separated.
- 3) For those who are preparing for marriage in the near future.

EVERYONE IS WELCOME!

Dr. Hoon Jeung moved to Cass City in 1976 and has never regretted coming to what he terms a progressive community.

Dr. Jeung had completed a wide ranging medical career before coming to Cass City. A Korean by birth, Jeung started his career there. He graduated from Korean University Medical School in 1966 and served at Yonsei University Hospital.

After a year he entered service and spent 3½ years as a medical officer including a year in Viet Nam with a M.A.S.H. unit.

He came to Chicago in 1970, interning at Mercy Hospital and also worked on a surgical residency there.

In 1973 he came to Saginaw to continue work in a surgical residency at Saginaw Cooperative Hospitals which includes St. Luke's, Saginaw General and St. Mary's Hospitals.

In 1976 he moved to Cass City and established his current practice as general surgeon working out of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Dr. Jeung is a member of the American Medical Association, Michigan Medical Association, Michigan Surgical Association and a fellow of American Society of Abdominal Surgeons.

His wife, Yun, supervises the office in addition to work as a housewife. The couple has two children, Andrew, 11, and Jeffrey, 6, both attending Cass City Schools.

For Rev. Bob Combs and family

Iran a 'stopover' on way to Cass City

If it weren't for the Ayatollah Khomeini, Rev. Bob Combs and his family would still be in Iran.

Two receive Cub Scout badges

Cub Scout Pack 3594 met Oct. 22 at Campbell Elementary School.

Boys getting their badges were Walker Aumann, Bobcat, and Reed Keyser, Wolf.

Dens 2 and 3 put on a skit for Fire Prevention Week. Den 1 will perform the skit at the November meeting.

Russ Bradley is the first male den leader, having taken it over from Janet Hurley. His meetings will be on Thursdays.

Cass City now has eight dens. Den leaders are to let Cubmaster Carl Palmateer know one month in advance who is to get badges.

Mrs. Hurley and Celia House went to the Cub Scout leaders' pow wow Saturday at Camp Rotary near Clare.

U.S. agricultural exports are expected to reach a new high - $32 billion - for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30. If imports hold at the estimated $16.3 billion, it will mean a $15.7 billion agricultural trade surplus.

Instead, they are now living on Kelly Road, Cass City, where he has been minister of the Riverside Church of God since Sept. 28.

Rev. Combs, 44, didn't go to Iran as a missionary. A 20-year veteran of the Air Force - he retired in 1973 as a technical sergeant specializing in helicopter maintenance - he went as a U.S. government employee teaching helicopter maintenance to members of the Iranian Air Force.

He was active in the ministry for about his last four years in the service. After his retirement, he worked under a minister in Florida for two years, then went to Northwest Bible College in Minot, N.D., to work on a college degree in Bible education.

He still has 53 credit hours to earn before he gets his degree, which he is hoping to get through correspondence courses and possibly classes at Saginaw Valley State College.

While in Minot, he became a licensed minister and pastored a small church about 70 miles away. He described driving there in winter as "30 below and solid ice," but despite such conditions, Sunday services were cancelled only once because of bad weather.

Hagen retiring as head of Huron Road Commission

More than 250 well-wishers honored retiring Huron County Road Commission Secretary-Manager Murray J. Hagen at a dinner last Thursday at the Ubyl Heights Country Club.

Hagen, 62, of 4466 Harrison Street, Ubyl, steps down Jan. 1. He was born and raised in Ubyl.

A World War II veteran, he went to work for the Road Commission in 1946 as secretary-accountant and served as secretary-manager the past 13 years.

He feels the greatest accomplishment of the road agency during his time there was paving all of the county's primary roads.

Back in 1956 there were 338 miles of gravel roads to be paved when he helped develop plans for the program.

Fittingly, the very last of the paving was done Oct. 22. Among the gifts presented to him at his retirement dinner was an engraved canister containing two pounds of blacktop material from the final section to be paved.

Among those present Thursday night were present and former Road Commission employees and weather.

After leaving Minot, he pastored a church in Chillicothe, Mo., where a married daughter, Terry, lives. He was there 14 months, then left for Iran.

The middle eastern nation presented a chance, the minister explained, for the financial security of working for the government and also a chance to further his ministry.

He went there with his wife Kathy and two of their children, Debby, now an 11th grader, and Lillian, 7th grade.

In addition to Terry, they have two other children who are married, a son Bobby, who is in the Air Force and in the process of being transferred from New Hampshire to the Philippines and a daughter Robin in Westland, and three grandchildren.

WHAT WAS SUPPOSED to be a three-year stay in Iran lasted nine months - until "We got sort of booted out of there in January."

The Combses went to Isfahan, a city of about 250,000, south of the capital of Tehran.

Combs worked at an Iranian Air Force helicopter base, about six miles out in the desert.

While in that country, he had an opportunity to conduct Sunday services and also further his ministry among individual Americans. He did work some with Iranians, but doing so was very touchy in the Moslem nation. He also spent time studying that religion.

All was peaceful for the first 1½ months, then the restaurant next to the motel where the family was living was firebombed. At that time, they were getting ready to move into a house.

After the firebombing, the Army was in the street continually, armed with guns and tanks.

There were two groups of demonstrators during the months of turmoil, one supporting the Shah, and the other supporting the Ayatollah, who was to ultimately win power in the political struggle.

THE MOST TICKLISH time for him came when his car was stopped by a mob of 300-400 demonstrators while driving home from work one day. Fortunately for him, they were supporters of the Shah "and that was the only thing that saved me from getting my car turned over or burned."

Specifically, what saved him was, "I happened to have a picture of the Shah on the seat and they saw it. If it had been the other group, I would have been in trouble."

Rev. Combs estimates there were about 6,000 Americans (workers, wives and children) living in the Isfahan area. They were kept informed of developments by the U.S. Consulate there and were told before Christmas "to get ready and that we might have to leave any time."

They did not go out of their house the final two weeks they were in the country until they boarded a bus to take them and other Americans to an Iranian air base about 1½ hours away for the flight to the United States.

The Combses arrived back in the U.S. Jan. 14. All of the Americans were apparently out of Isfahan by Feb. 1, shortly before the Ayatollah returned to Iran from exile and assumed power.

"We enjoyed it over there until the last couple of months," the minister said. Some Iranians, his wife added, apologized to the couple for the troubles going on there. The family still exchanges letters with some Iranian friends.

THE COMBSES WENT to his home town of Middletown, Ohio, where he took a temporary job as director of Christian education at the Church of God there, until asked by the church's Michigan overseer to become pastor of the Riverside church here.

He replaces Rev. Robert Rathbun, who left in September to do church work in Florida.

Average attendance at the Riverside Church of God is about 65, and Rev. Combs has some programs in mind that "with the help of the Lord" will help build up the membership.

Sunday services there are at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Since he went into the Air Force, the longest he and his family have lived anywhere is three years. As for their new home, he said, "We like Cass City. The people seem real friendly."

Letters to the editor

We're proud of Red Hawk girls

Dear John,

Just want to say how proud we are of our girls' varsity basketball team and their coach. They're doing a fine job.

It would be nice to see more people come and show some community spirit and support.

It seemed good to see a picture in the Chronicle for a change. Hope to see some more. They deserve it.

A Red Hawk Fan,
Pat Wells

I wonder if it makes sense to deplore a stupid act of vandalism in an editorial on one page of your paper, and to advertise a stupid movie on the next.

Von Oyen in college biology honor society

Peter Von Oyen is one of 35 Alma College students who became associate members of Beta Beta Beta biology honor society during the fall term.

A 1976 graduate of Ublly High School, he is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Von Oyen of Ublly.

Associate members must be biology majors with at least a 2.5 grade point average in biology and good overall academic standing, have completed at least three biology courses and be approved by a two-thirds vote of the active members.

Purpose of the society is to create interest beyond classroom study in the biological sciences, stimulate scholarship and promote dissemination of scientific knowledge and biological research.

4-H leaders honored in Huron county

Some area 4-H leaders were among those honored at the annual Huron county 4-H recognition banquet Wednesday, Oct. 24, at the Sacred Heart Parish Center in Bad Axe.

Receiving 4-H leader clover awards were Alan Depcinski for 15 years of service and Mrs. Marjorie Briolat and Mrs. Fred Ruttko, each for five years, all of the Ublly area.

All 1978-79 Huron County 4-H Council members and officers were presented with gifts, including Dennis Gaskill of Owendale.

Following the program, the county 4-H Leaders' Association met to elect members to the 4-H Council for new terms. Gaskill was selected for a new three-year term.

Instead of a 20 percent decline in fiscal 1979 purchases, as predicted earlier, the USSR is now expected to spend $2.3 billion on U.S. farm products this year, 20 percent more than last year.

$1,000 loss at Gee cottage leads theft parade reported to police

Four shotguns and a black and white television, worth a total of more than $1,000, were reported stolen from a cottage owned by a Cass City man Saturday.

Bad Axe state police said the owner of the cottage on Bay View Drive, north of Sebawaing, was Bruce Gee of 4696 Hunt Street.

More than $700 in special auto parts were reported stolen to Cass City police last Wednesday.

Dana Truemmer of 6577 Huron Street said the parts, all for a Chevrolet engine, were taken some time from his garage since the afternoon of Sunday, Oct. 21.

Taken were a carburetor, $80; exhaust headers, $50; starter, $35; racing camshaft, $100; racing torque converter for an automatic transmission, $300, and a set of roller rocker arms, $150.

A brooch worth $350-400 was among items stolen from the trunk of a car belonging to Sophie Peters of 5032 Schwegler Road.

She reported the theft to Cass City police last Wednesday. The brooch was in a purse which was taken. Also stolen were a box containing some papers, value unknown, and some flares.

The items were taken Oct. 18 or 19, possibly on the latter day when the car was parked on Main Street from 3-11 p.m. with the keys in it.

Edwin Dexter of Lansing, an employee of the Midwest Bridge Co., reported to the sheriff's department Friday that a portable chemical toilet was stolen from the bridge site on Dodge Road near Akron Road between Oct. 19 and 22.

The green fiberglass toilet, owned by Handijon, Inc., was valued at $500.

Terry Burrows of Caro reported to Caro state police early Oct. 16 that his 1969 Volkswagen was stolen between 1 and 2:15 a.m. that morning while parked at the North Grove Inn at M-24 and M-46. The keys had been under the front seat. A wallet containing about $100 was in the glove compartment.

Sheriff's deputies found the car Oct. 18 in the woods off Lamton Road, south of Full time police officer helping to curb vandalism in Kingston

The presence of a full-time police officer in Kingston has "really helped a lot," according to Village President Arlo Ruggles. "It's quieted things down."

It wasn't always that way, which ultimately led to the village council's hiring of officer Thomas Kolb.

When he started his duties early last December, Community Watch volunteers ended their patrols.

Organization of the citizen patrol came in reaction to repeated acts of vandalism, break-ins and other problems in the village.

Included was about $10,000 of vandalism at Kingston High School, several break-ins at the Auto Haven, broken windows at Zorn's IGA and ransacking and attempted arson at Margaret Legg's restaurant and candy store.

Community Watch volunteers patrolled the village in their own cars and called the sheriff's department or state police whenever they spotted any trouble.

The citizen patrol got off to an inauspicious start. On its first night of patrol, in late June, intruders broke into the office at Kingston Lumber and Building Supplies, ransacked the place and escaped with $60 in cash.

Community Watch was intended as a temporary measure, until the village council hired a full-time policeman. Its then chairman, Ed Kaminski, feels that the patrol did have a beneficial effect. "It makes a difference if you (wrongdoers) know someone is there."

The businessman feels that since Kolb has been on the job, there has been less vandalism and other incidents in Kingston, that his presence has been a deterrent.

That doesn't mean all problems have been eliminated, the painting of some obscenities on the village water tower recently being an example, but "A policeman can only do so much."

Kingston had a reputation as a "wide open town," he said, which attracted kids from elsewhere. That has stopped, but "you'll always have problems."

sideways and came to a halt half in the ditch and half in a cornfield.

Patrick R. Preston, 23, of Ubyly, was treated and released from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, following an accident west of Port Hope early Sunday.

According to Huron deputies, he was southbound on Huron City Road when his car went off the west side of the road, crossed the ditch and struck a utility pole.

Mark S. Panknin, 32, of Rossman Road, Kingston, was cited by Tuscola deputies on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor after a mishap at 6:08 p.m. last Thursday.

Officers reported he was southbound on Phillips Road, north of Bevans Road, when he lost control of his vehicle, which rolled into the ditch on the east side of the road.

Albert S. Finley, 18, of 4250 English Road, Kingston, told deputies he was northbound on English, south of Phelps Lake Road, at 7:15 a.m. Friday when he fell asleep. He woke up when he felt his truck going off the left side of the road. It went into a gully and hit a tree.

Nuclear accident ups stress for state's residents

A legislative committee investigating the nuclear power industry in Michigan has found that stress, shown as concerns over health, local economy and safety, was the single greatest impact the nuclear accident in Pennsylvania had on local residents.

At the first meeting of the committee, testimony describing the effects the accident had on those living near the facility was presented by Joyce Freeman, executive director of a special Pennsylvania state commission investigating the accident and Michigan State University professor Stanley D. Brunn.

The special committee was formed after the accident occurred at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant. Its purpose is to investigate the nuclear industry in Michigan, the state's capabilities to deal with a possible emergency and the possibilities of reverting to alternate forms of power.

It is still uncertain how the accident occurred but there was a breakdown in the cooling system which led to a partial meltdown causing the emission of radiation.

Freeman said though radiation was leaking, it never reached dangerously high levels.

Human health studies are still continuing and will include pregnancy studies, chromosome studies and mental health studies.

The single most important social issue that the accident has had is stress, according to Freeman. She said people face concerns about their health, about the local economy, about the willingness of people to move into the area and whether they should leave the area.

"There is still a very high level of tension in the community because we can still make the national news at the drop of a hat," she said.

Brunn said the accident had a significant impact on how people felt about nuclear power.

He noted before the accident, some 41 percent of the local residents favored nuclear power against 23 percent who opposed it with the rest uncertain.

After the accident, there was a dramatic shift with only 34 percent in favor and 48 percent opposed.

The committee held the hearing on the effects of the Three Mile Island accident as a way of setting background for its future work.

such inspection, he was getting little support for the idea in Michigan.

The State Police do random safety inspections and use the occasion to also check the driver for possible warrants or alcoholic influence.

Kirksey's bill would set up a state-licensed inspection station at private garages.

The garages could charge $7.50 for the inspection and would be prohibited from making repairs, costing more than $20, within 10 days of the inspection.

The Livonia Republican said such a prohibition was an attempt to reduce any chances of fraud.

He also said the safety inspections could be done in conjunction with a proposed auto exhaust emissions testing program.

Last year's total of $110.2 billion in cash receipts by U.S. farmers was more than double the 1970 figure of $50.5 billion, according to the Department of Agriculture.
