Barnyard stills

Alcohol: The fuel of the future?

Backyard stills may become as common on Michigan farms as in the hills of Kentucky, but the "moonshine" produced will go into fuel tanks, not down parched throats.

The idea is intriguing enough to have drawn approximately 400 persons last Thursday to a seminar on the subject of alcohol fuels, sponsored by the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service and Caro Chamber of Commerce. One group of farmers even flew in from Petoskey.

The program was held at the Caro United Methodist church.

The comments of the five speakers could be summarized as: Yes, there is an energy crisis; yes, alcohol fuel is practical; but no, it can't provide a large portion of our nation's energy needs.

First up to the podium was Bill Stout of the Michigan State University Department of Agricultural Engineering.

He used such words as "catastrophic," "awful" and "dismal" to describe the present energy situation and our nation's record so far in dealing with it.

The two solutions, he said, were reevaluating the way we use energy -- "Let's not use it more than we have to." -- and developing alternatives to oil and natural gas "that make sense."

Motorists presently consume 120 billion gallons of gasoline a year. By utilizing waste agricultural products and unused crop land, the professor felt 10-15 percent of that amount could be replaced with alcohol without hurting food production.

ALCOHOL POTENTIAL

The speaker that followed, Bob Soleta, was even more optimistic.

The director of the renewable fuels program for the National Corn Growers Association used a lot of numbers, but they boiled down to that it's possible to extract alcohol from corn without harming its nutrient values, that both the oil and protein will be left.

The byproduct of alcohol production is what is known as distiller's grains. MSU's John Waller of the Department of Animal Husbandry explained that the grains can be a cheap source of protein for livestock, but it does have its problems. The problems stem from the fact that from the alcohol production plant, it comes out 90 percent water and 10 percent edible matter.

Using fuel to dry the mixture would consume too much energy, so ways must be found to cope with such difficulties as freezing, handling and flies, mold, bacteria and other diseases.

LICENSING

Moonshiners don't pay taxes but do worry about getting caught.

Farmers who make alcohol fuel won't have to pay taxes and won't have to worry about getting caught -- if they get a government permit and follow the rules.

Those were explained by William Foster of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms of the U.S. Department of Treasury.

The agency presently licenses two types of plants: Commercial ones for production of alcoholic beverages and alcohol for industrial purposes and those qualified as experimental.

The latter cannot produce alcohol for consumption or sale. The permit is only good for two years and is usually not renewable.

Because of the increasing interest in alcohol fuels, the bureau has proposed to Congress that it authorize licensing of a third category, specifically for plants that produce alcohol for fuel.

Foster advised farmers interested in producing their own fuel to begin now by obtaining the experimental permit, rather than wait for the new licensing category.

In addition to licensing, the federal government is involved in other ways, according to Lloyd Costley of the National Alcoholic Fuels Commission.

The agency was established by Congress last summer to advise it and various federal agencies.

Of 82 bills introduced in Congress concerning alcohol fuels, Costley said, two are considered of major importance.

A tax credit for those who make alcohol fuel and use it themselves and other financial incentives may pass by Christmas. It's included as part of the proposed windfall profits tax on oil companies.

The other key bill would appropriate $6 million in loan guarantees and financial aid for construction of alcohol production plants, of which $2 billion would have to be earmarked for "small" facilities (probably production of 5 million gallons a year or less). That bill may pass in early January.

In response to a question during the later question and answer period, Soleta predicted that maybe five or six years from now, 30 percent of alcohol will be produced in big plants, 50-60 percent at the local cooperative level and 20-30 percent on the farm.

Indicative of interest in the last approach, when Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel asked for a show of hands, enough audience members indicated interest in a workshop on how to make alcohol production stills that Bortel indicated he probably will schedule one.

Alcohol stills, incidentally, are being sold, now for on-the-farm use, but more than one speaker urged those in the audience to beware. Some of the stills are not too efficient and some consume more fuel than they produce.

Another question concerned the amount of energy needed to produce alcohol.

Under old methods, Stout responded, more energy was consumed than was produced. Newer methods, he and Soleta said, have reversed that.

Lunch prices increase Jan. 1

Hot lunch prices are going up for the first time since 1974 in an effort to stem a $10,695 deficit in the program.

The Cass City School Board voted to raise all prices a nickel starting Jan. 1. That will make lunches cost the following prices:

Grades 1-6 ..... $5
Grades 7-12 ..... $6
Adults ..... $7.50

The new prices are in line with the average payment for meals as figured by the state. The district is reimbursed 76 cents for each free meal it serves to persons with no or limited income. Compared to other schools

Sloppy copy at Hawk Herald? School board wants to know

The school newspaper was under fire Monday.

Dr. Edward Scollon, trustee, spearheaded a discussion about the grammar and content of the "Hawk Herald," at the regular meeting of the school board at Cass City High School.

Scollon and the rest of the board were concerned about numerous spelling errors in the paper and quizzed Leo Gengler, advisor, about it. The newspaper reflects the school in the eyes of the persons who read it and the comments haven't been good, according to members of the board.

Gengler said that as an advisor it is not his duty to write for the students. He said that some stories are written under the pressure of a time limit that causes errors.

The advisor rejected the suggestion that another person be called in to proof read the copy before it is edited. He said that the board can replace him as advisor if desired, but not place another person in charge of reading copy.

Gengler added that he felt that the paper was a learning process and that the students learned by making mistakes. That's where the matter ended with little apparent meeting of the minds.

RESCIND MOTION

As president of the Cass City Teachers Association, Dale McIntosh monitors school board meetings and his close attention to financial details may have saved the school district $200.

The school board had approved retaining Alan Luce, school district negotiator, for 1980 for a fee of $4,400, the "same as last year."

McIntosh checked his notes and after the measure was passed told the board that last year the salary was $350 a month which totals $4,200.

When that was checked and found accurate the board quickly rescinded the motion and Supt. Don Crouse will check with Luce.

Several other actions were taken concerning teachers. A salary for the assistant wrestling coach, newly authorized at the November board meeting, was set at $673 after consulting with the teachers' union.

Karen Siders, fifth grade teacher, resigned to move to Marine City.

A policy concerning driving education is under study by the board. It will be discussed and possibly approved at the January session.

Submission of the policy to the board sparked a discussion on variances in the training for different students.

Persons familiar with the program told the board that because of the different skill levels of the pupils it was impossible to give them all the same driving lessons.

There is not enough time, Crouse said, to make students 100 percent qualified in all driving skills. One of the reasons for this policy program is to make sure that parents don't feel that after finishing driver education, students no longer need direction, authorities pointed out.

First Headlee suit i.

Kelley sues to for back Owen-Gage tax roll

Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has filed suit against the Tuscola and Huron County Boards of Commissioners because of their failure to apply a property tax rollback in the Owendale-Gagetown School District.

Other defendants in the suit are the treasurers in the six townships which have portions of their territory within Owen-Gage: Elkland, Elmwood and Columbia in Tuscola county and Grant, Brookfield and Sebawaing in Huron county.

The suit was filed Tuesday in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The attorney general asks the court to order township treasurers to stop collecting the higher tax and order the board of commissioners in the two counties to show cause why they should not void the current school tax levy and adopt the lower one in compliance with the Headlee amendment approved by voters in November, 1978.

If the rollback is applied, it will cost the district about 1 mill or $32,000 in property taxes.

The suit is the first action of its kind filed under the Headlee amendment and in effect establishes a procedure for contesting tax increases prohibited by it.

The suit also asks for refunds for residents who might have already paid the higher tax, but in reality, no tax bills have been sent out yet.

According to Pat Murphy, administrative assistant in the attorney general's office, treasurers can go ahead and send out the tax bills in the district at the higher rate as the appeals court has not yet issued an injunction barring them from doing so.

Treasurers as of Wednesday morning had received official notice that the suit had been filed.

The appeals court won't hear the case for the next week or two, Murphy said. One of its options, should it rule in favor of Kelley's suit, is that it could order a rebate on tax bills sent out a year from now.

Both county boards approved the apportionment rolls Nov. 27, having accepted the millage figures presented by Owen-Gage, a total of 21.5 mills for operations.

Supt. Ronald Erickson's explanation was that minus the Goslin parcel, the district's valuation increase from 1978 (including Goslin) was low enough that rollback provisions of the Headlee amendment didn't apply. Its total operating levy is two mills less than what it was one year ago.

Furthermore, Owen-Gage still contends the Goslin territory is part of the district.

Prosecutor Artis Noel's interpretation of the Headlee amendment was that the rollback must be applied to the millage the district had in effect prior to Dec. 31, 1978, which was 17.25 mills. It does not apply to the 4.25 mill levy approved by voters last June, which was two mills less than the amount that expired.

The board was told of the suit at its meeting Monday evening, Supt. Ron Erickson and board President Ron Good having conversed earlier in the day by telephone with Assistant Attorney General Richard Roesch, who represents the Tax Tribunal.

The board did discuss the advisability of its intervening as a defendant in the suit. Erickson said Wednesday morning it likely would do so if the case drags on and thus threatens all property tax income to the district.

The attorney general brought the suit in behalf of Dalton P. Coe, David and Donna Sting and Elmwood Township Supervisor Roy Messer, who are all taxpayers in Owen-Gage.

OTHER LEGAL ACTION

The Michigan Court of Appeals has denied Owen-Gage's request for rehearing of its (the court's) Oct. 1 ruling upholding the state Board of Education's transfer of the Goslin property to the Cass City district. Erickson reported an appeal has been filed with the state Supreme Court.

The Michigan Tax Tribunal in early January will hear motions concerning Owen-Gage's appeal to it of the Oct. 22 ruling of Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Martin E. Clements that the 1978 and 1979 Goslin property taxes go to Cass City, not to Owen-Gage.

Attorneys for the three defendants, Elmwood township, the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners and Cass City School District, have all filed motions for accelerated judgment, that is, to dismiss the appeal.

Owen-Gage, having been informed by Assistant Attorney General Roesch -- apparently incorrectly -- that the Tax Tribunal won't hear the appeal, is planning an appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court. Please turn to page 13.

Treasurers' dilemma

As of Wednesday morning, Elkland Township Treasurer Art Randall was presuming he will send out the tax bills in the Owen-Gage district as he would normally since the state appeals court hasn't yet barred him from doing so.

Since the bills won't be ready until the end of this month anyway, he added, the appeals court may have ruled by then. There are only 35-50 parcels in Elkland township which are in the Owen-Gage district.

Randall was delivered official notice of the suit at 2:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The Chronicle tried to contact treasurers in Elmwood, Brookfield and Grant townships, just prior to deadline, but none was home.

(Related story page 16).

quested binding arbitration or private mediation in its dispute with the school board over the laying off of Ron Sieradzki.

Sieradzki was a CETA employee and was cut when funds were cut. He claims seniority over other custodians at the school.

The union now has to go to court if it desires to pursue the case further.

Non-union employee salaries will be studied by a committee of President Geraldine Priesskorn, Dean Hoag and Art Severance. Union salaries are also up for negotiation this year as the current three-year contract expires June 30.

HIRE APPRAISER

In the November session the board authorized the superintendent to take bids for an appraisal of school property for insurance purposes.

Two bids were received and the lower was by Industrial Appraisers of Pittsburgh. Cost will be $2,695 for the initial year. After that the cost will be $220 a year for three years and $275 a year for two years.

Also approved was a screening program for scoliosis caused by a sideways curvature of the spine.

It will be given to students 10-13 years old, by school nurses, Janet Bixler and Lynn Babich, to children in grades 5-9. The program is to start Feb. 18. Early treatment can prevent the need for surgical treatment, authorities said.

Trustee Dr. E. Paul Lockwood said that he wanted to see the results of the tests and he approved the program only after it was learned that it would take about a minute per student and would be administered during physical education classes.

"If It Fitz..."

Auto repairs

By Jim Fitzgerald

The Oldsmobile had smelled bad for several weeks. Occasionally, wisps of smoke floated out of the dashboard. The husband kept hoping the wife wouldn't notice.

But she did. "I'm not going to drive this car one more mile until you get it fixed," she said. "This car is warning us there is something wrong with it. If you don't listen to that warning and do something about it, this car will break down on the freeway while I am driving it and I will be eight hours late getting home to kill you."

The husband had always ignored warnings that something was going wrong with his cars. If he hadn't gotten married, he might still be driving a 1951 Plymouth whose rear end wagged every time it rained. Shortly after the honeymoon, the wife forced the husband to take out a mechanic who discovered the Plymouth had an easily swayed back bumper that had somehow fallen under the influence of two persuasive windshield wipers.

It isn't that the husband doesn't believe it when his car signals it will soon collapse. On the contrary, he is convinced every ping and rattle is symptomatic of a serious illness that will eventually require a tow truck. He just doesn't want to ask for help too soon.

It is the husband's fear that his car, despite its wheezing and gasping, might still be healthy enough to live longer than he will, in which case there would be no sense in getting it fixed. Dead men have no need for live cars. And nothing would pain the husband more than to undergo the terrible trauma of visiting an auto repair garage only to die before he could drive the repaired auto. This would be the same as having five cavities filled just before his teeth fell out.

His violent distaste for auto repair shops is the sole reason for the husband's reluctance to heed his car's warning of an impending tow truck. The people who repair cars intimidate and embarrass him. But first, they ignore him.

The case of the smelly, smoky Oldsmobile was typical. Following his wife's command, he drove it back to where he'd purchased it. He parked in line outside the service door, and it was 20 minutes before he inched his car inside the garage. No one came up and asked him what he wanted. In every auto repair shop, there is a rule, etched in grease, against employees asking customers what they want to buy.

Because of past experience, the husband knew enough not to bother any of the men in dark green shirts who kept walking by him. Auto repair men in dark green shirts never want to know why a person has driven an auto into their garage. All they want is for the owner of the auto not to bother them.

Wisely, the husband looked for a man wearing a smudged white shirt and carrying a clipboard. In auto repair garages, these are the men who, when cornered, will admit they work there. After 10 minutes, the husband finally found such a man protruding from a Coca-Cola machine. While the husband explained that his Oldsmobile smelled bad and smoked a little, the man in the smudged white shirt listened the same way a surgeon listens to the village idiot explain how to remove a gallbladder.

It turned out the trouble was a burned-out core, whatever that is. The husband was promised that the repaired car would be ready by 3 o'clock. It was ready at 4 o'clock, and he missed an important appointment. The total bill was $150, including $28-per-hour for labor.

But the cash cost wasn't the most traumatic part of the experience. The worst moment came earlier, during diagnosis, when the man in the smudged white shirt instructed the husband to start his motor and release his hood. He pulled the hood-release handle several times, but nothing happened. The hood remained closed. The husband shrugged his helplessness. The man in the smudged white shirt leaned into the car and pointed out the error.

The village idiot was yanking the wrong handle. He was releasing the hand brake, not the hood. Oh, god.

When next the husband and wife met, she wondered why he was sobbing. He said his tears were a warning that there was something wrong with him and he might break down on the freeway if she didn't get him some help. Unfortunately for him, she was wearing a dark green shirt.

GASOHOL DAY speakers were, from left, Bill Stout, Michigan State University Department of Agricultural Engineering; John Waller, MSU Department of Animal Husbandry; Lloyd Costley, chief counsel, National Alcohol Fuels Commission; Bob Soleta, director of renewable fuels, National Corn Growers Association, and William Foster, U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. At the microphone is Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel. (Story on page 1)

Saldana gets six months; LaBlanc found innocent

Arturo Saldana, 21, of 1797 VanGeisen Road, Caro, was sentenced to six months in the county jail Monday by Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley for breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling.

He was credited with 91 days already served. He was also placed on three years' probation, fined $200 and assessed $200 court costs.

Saldana pleaded guilty to the charge Nov. 13, in connection with the break-in of a home in Caro Jan. 30.

Randy L. Johnston, 19, of Flint, pleaded guilty Monday to violation of probation. His plea was accepted and he was remanded to the county jail without bond to await sentencing Jan. 14.

He was placed on 36 months probation Dec. 26, 1978, for larceny over $100. He violated probation by failing to report to his probation officer in March, April and May of this year, failure to pay court ordered obligations during those months and possibly changing his address without prior approval of his probation officer.

The Haire Net

There is hope now that the movie, "Star Trek," may be okay.

That's because most of the critics have panned it. Michael Clark of the Free Press says it's $40 million wasted.

Over the years more often than not when the critics laud a movie or film I find it boring. I can remember "Lawrence of Arabia" as one that the professionals gave four-star ratings. I walked out mid-way through it.

"True Grit" won an oscar for John Wayne and I liked it least of any of his shows. The comedy of Mel Brooks leaves me cold.

I go to shows to be entertained. To escape.

The sad shows are chalked off my list. The events of the normal day can be depressing enough. Why leave the theatre all choked because of the death of the hero? Shows should be fantasy where everything comes out all right. The villain reforms. Bad is avenged, good is rewarded.

Leave the messages out. Messages should be sent by Western Union.

When a show is good, real good, you can see it again and again. Right now "Miracle on 34th Street" is showing again on the tube.

It has run every Christmas season since it first appeared 30 years ago and every time that it's possible I watch it.

The eyes still blur when the little girl gets the house for Christmas and it still tickles the funny bone when the letters to Santa are poured on the judge's bench to "prove" Santa is really Santa. That show makes you feel good.

But I digress. The topic here is the new "Star Trek" movie. Although not a "trek" I do enjoy Capt. James Kirk and company on the tube. I probably have seen each episode at least twice.

Before the critics panned the movie version there were serious reservations about the movie. Now there is at least hope.

It will be fine if they capture the essence of the TV series on the big screen. It will take more than special effects to make it happen.

The action in the science fiction movie is essential, the special effects set the stage.

But that's all it should do. It should never be the central theme instead of the background for the story.

You should be able to get involved emotionally in the story unfolding on the screen. You should be able to leave the theatre feeling a little warm glow because of an upbeat vicarious experience.

If "Star Trek" does that chances are I'll see the movie over and over just like I do the TV version.

BPW Club meets Dec. 5

Twenty-six members and two guests attended the Dec. 5 meeting of the Business and Professional Women's group.

During the business meeting, thank you notes were read from Ruth McConnell and Genevieve Freiburger by Elva Pitcher.

An auction of baked goods netted $60.00 for the club treasury.

There was a Christmas gift exchange and the singing of Christmas carols.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Evidently a stolen car ring has been dumping units in the Thumb. That's a conclusion drawn after a Detroit cop dropped into the Chronicle one day last week.

He wanted to talk to Dwight Loeding, who works with us at the Chronicle. Dwight purchased a used truck from a dealer and the investigator figured it might have been stolen. It wasn't.

If it had been, the truck would have gone back to the rightful owner and then Dwight would have had to collect (if he could) from the dealer.

Folks in Owendale can pick up a copy of the paper each week at Owendale Market where a newsstand started last week.

Also in this commercial let me boast a little about circulation. In the past three months we've added 389 new customers all without offering reduced prices or gimmicks of any kind. Just a good paper, folks. End of advertisement.

The Bob Baders didn't forget the Elwyn Helwigs' 25th wedding anniversary. They sent a beautifully decorated blooming potted plant to commemorate the occasion. It was proudly displayed on Elwyn's office desk. It was a bull thistle.

We've received several calls about the 'Citizens of Tomorrow' pictures that we ran last year and expect to run this year. The hold-up has been the pictures sent us for publication weren't what we needed.

The photo company promised replacements but they haven't arrived.

Art Randall, Elkland treasurer, is being bugged because tax notices have not been sent out. It's not his fault, he says. The notices haven't been received from the county treasurer yet.

When they do it takes about two weeks to process them. Hopefully, they'll be in the hands of the taxpayers by Jan. 1, the treasurer says.

It's easy to understand the dilemma and I want to cooperate. They can send mine last.

PEDALING AROUND

Looking back and forwards

By Mike Eliasohn

With 1979 drawing to a close, as well as the 1970s, this is a time for the news media to look back on the past decade as well as to make predictions about the next 10 years.

Due to lack of anything better to write about (at least I'm honest), allow me to contribute my own 10 cents worth. (Ten years ago, I would have said "2 cents worth.") Inflation affects everything.)

As 1970 began, I was in the Army and counting the days until I no longer would be. I got out that March.

With Uncle Sam paying the tab, I went back to Eastern Michigan University (where I had earned my B.S. degree) to get my master's degree.

The best thing that happened to me during my second college career was that I started writing for the school newspaper, the Eastern Echo, and out of that I got a new career. My original training was as a school teacher.

In July, 1970, I bought a new car, the second car I had ever owned and my first new one. Steady readers of this column will realize I am still driving the same car.

I got my M.A. degree in July, 1971 (in social studies, not in journalism), which was just in time. One more college course and I would have been ready for another state institution with an Ypsilanti address. The more courses I took, the more inane they seemed.

Since leaving the world of academia (sounds impressive, doesn't it?), I have been employed by four newspapers (sounds like I can't keep a job, doesn't it?) I have been in Cass City since June, 1977.

The year 1970, to back-track a bit, was when I got interested in bicycles. Since then I have owned, if I'm counting right, six bikes, but never more than two at a time.

Now it's time to make predictions about the next 10 years.

I'll probably own at least six more bikes during that time.

Unless my Gremlin falls apart prematurely, I will probably buy a new car in 1981. Chances are I will still be driving that car as the 1980s end.

By then, I'm confident gasoline will cost at least $5 per gallon, so I will probably be driving less and pedaling more. (Gas is more than $4 a gallon in some parts of the world now.)

I will probably still be in the newspaper business as the 1980s draw to a close. I will then have only 20 years to go until I retire.

I will close with one non-personal prediction about what life will be like 10 years from now.

There will be so many Christmas television specials, the networks will begin broadcasting them before Thanksgiving and maybe even before Halloween.

19th county fatality

Sebewaing man dies after walking in front of car

Loren P. Kaufman of Sebewaing became Tuscola county's 19th traffic fatality of the year Sunday night when he walked into the path of a car driven by a Cass City man.

The driver of the car was Douglas H. Salgat, 47, of 6016 Cass City Road. Caro state police, who investigated the accident, aren't expecting any charges will be brought against the driver due to the actions of the victim and the fact he was wearing dark clothing. The accident took place at 9:20 p.m.

The final decision on that will be up to the Tuscola County Prosecutor's office. As of Tuesday, results of the autopsy performed on the victim were being awaited before a final decision could be made, according to Assistant Prosecutor Kathleen Boyle.

Salgat, according to investigators, was southbound on M-25, just south of Huron Line Road, when Kaufman walked into the path of his car, and was struck by it.

The victim was pronounced dead at Bay Medical Center, Bay City.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon. Kaufman, 29, is survived by his mother and stepfather, three sisters, two brothers, and his maternal grandmother.

Last year at this time, 25 persons had been killed in Tuscola county traffic accidents.

ing and failure to replace an illegible driver's license after an accident at 2:35 a.m. last Thursday.

Cass City officer Phil Klaus was northbound on Cemetery Road when a car went past him headed south. The car was fishtailing and had a loud exhaust, so he turned around and gave chase.

The car turned east on Elmwood Road, police said, went out of control and struck a tree on the north side of the road.

Pratt was taken to the county jail, where he posted interim bond a couple of hours later, pending appearance in district court.

At 8:50 a.m. Dec. 4, according to Cass City police, Robert Warju, 18, of 5043 Severance Road, was turning right from eastbound

Main Street onto Maple Street when the pickup he was driving struck a truck parked by the west curb. Owner of the other vehicle was John T. Kilbourn of 6797 Pine Street.

At 1:40 p.m. that day, village police said, Forest L. Tyo, 69, of 1542 Spencer Road, Deford, was backing from a parking place along the alley south of Main Street, east of Seeger, and backed into a parked car.

Owner of the parked car was Vaughn Lynch of Van Dyke Road, Cass City.

At 10:15 p.m. Friday, according to officers, James W. Wright, 17, of 5505 Shabbona Road, Deford, was backing up from behind the Pizza Villa, 6637 Main Street, turned too sharp and struck the car parked alongside it. Owner of the other car was Diane Dashkevich of Caro.

CAR-DEER

At 12:50 a.m. Dec. 4, according to Cass City police, Barbara A. McCree, 19, of 3200 E. Dickerson Road, Galetown, was southbound on Cemetery Road, when her car struck a deer.

Caro state police reported that at 4:50 p.m. last Thursday, George J. McGinnis, 74, of Clifford, was westbound on Deckerville Road, east of Kingston Road, when his vehicle struck a deer.

At 6 p.m. that day, Cass City police said Tammie Lynne Root, 17, of 4229 Doerr Road, was northbound on Cemetery Road, north of Elmwood Road, when her car collided with a deer.

At 7 a.m. Sunday, according to village police, Larry K. Becker, 27, of Fairgrove, was eastbound on M-81, west of Schwegler Road, when his car struck a deer.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Director appreciates Cass City

Dear Mr. Haire:

I wish to take this opportunity to personally extend my sincere appreciation to all the good people of Cass City who helped make the first annual Village Bach Festival the wonderful success that it was.

While I knew in advance of the festival that those few days in your community would be enjoyable, quite honestly, I was not prepared for the overwhelming sense of joy and accomplishment that developed and pervaded the entire festival.

All of my musical colleagues were caught up in this rare spirit and were keenly aware that we were all better for the experience. Having lived as a child in a small rural community, I know of the love and caring that can exist. It certainly shone through in Cass City at Thanksgiving, 1979.

Speaking for all the participants, we sincerely hope that this was only the first of many such festivals and that Thanksgiving and Bach in Cass City will become a treasured tradition for us all.

Most sincerely,

Don Th. Jaeger

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Kathy Burrows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burrows of Gagetown, has been selected to receive the DAR Good Citizenship Award from Owen-Gage High School.

Ten lucky persons got an added Christmas shopping boost Saturday when their names were drawn to receive 20 Christmas dollars to be redeemed at participating Chamber of Commerce businesses in Cass City. Winners were E.F. Thompson, J. Finkbeiner, L. Buehly, L. Evard, M. Miller and A. Hutchinson of Cass City. Four out-of-townners were also lucky.

Mrs. James Bauer has donated two scrapbooks to Rawson Memorial Library. One depicts the Christmas-town displays of the early 1950s. The other is a collection of clippings on Cass City's Centennial celebration in 1965.

Dr. and Mrs. Efrén Dizon, pediatricians, will begin their medical practice in Cass City around January 1 and will work from the same office. Their office will be located in the recently completed clinic which also houses Dr. Kim and Dr. Lee.

TEN YEARS AGO

Announcement was made this week of the sale of Konrad's Bakery by Mr. and Mrs. Konrad Konwalski of Cass City to Virginia and Tom Sutter of New Haven. The new owners have a total of 23 years experience in the bakery business and will specialize in cake decorating.

Nearly a third of the money received by the Cass City Community Chest this year will come from General Cable Corporation and its employees. The plant contributed a total of $3,046.96. Of this amount $2,046.96 was realized through cash and payroll deductions of employees and $1000 was donated by the corporation.

Tom Proctor, Cass City pharmacist, has installed a poison control center at Hills and Dales Hospital emergency room. The cabinet contains a complete range of antidotes for poisons encountered in the home.

Cass City Intermediate School pupils will compete in the Science Quiz program sponsored by WNEU-TV Sunday mornings, according to an announcement made by Jim MacTavish, sponsor. Cass City has been accepted after trying for three years to become part of the program.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Alex Reusch, father of Mrs. Rayford Thorpe, Greenleaf, brought home a deer Thursday from near Atlanta. Mr. Reusch is 80 years old.

Major Robert McMahon of the Salvation Army in Saginaw will be guest speaker at the December meeting of the Cass City Community Club at Cass City High School.

Hugh Milligan and Leslie Severance topped the Cass City livestock club's entries in the Junior Livestock Show at Detroit. Hugh showed the first group of three Shorthorn steers and won fourth place for his Shorthorn steer. Leslie had first pen of three Shropshire sheep and first individual Shropshire sheep.

The Cass City Gavel Club decided to have Santa Claus visit Cass City this year. Arlan Hartwick was chosen chairman of the Santa Claus committee. Harold Oatley was in charge of the meeting.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Miss Winnifred Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton H. Orr, of Cass City, who is in her first year of pharmacy at Ferris institute at Big Rapids, is among those students who will be listed in the 1944-45 issue of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Methodist folks are looking forward to a warm church building for their congregational meetings and a comfortable home in their parsonage for the minister's family this winter. A new heating unit is in process of completion which heats both church edifice and parsonage by steam.

Stuart A. Atwell was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States on December 6 upon completion of the officer candidate course at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga. The Lieutenant is a graduate of Cass City High School and Michigan State College.

M. Guinther qualifies for math final

Mark Guinther is the only student at Cass City High School to have finished in the top 4 percent on part I of the 23rd annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition.

He was among approximately 1,000 Michigan students who competed in the final examination this Wednesday.

The senior is the son of Stanley and Melva Guinther, 4445 Oak Street.

Math teacher Joseph Guza was supervisor for Cass City students taking the test.

The competition is sponsored by the Michigan section of the Mathematical Association of America and is designed to foster a wider interest in mathematics and to focus attention on the need for math training in most professions and trades.

The 100 winners will be honored at the awards program at Central Michigan University Feb. 16. Half of the winners will receive college scholarships, which totaled $12,050 last year. Contributors to the scholarship fund include Burroughs Corp., Michigan Bell, Kuhlman Corp. and Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

HEALTH TIPS

Smoking IS hazardous to health

If you're considering giving up cigarette smoking as one of your New Year's resolutions, here are some rather startling facts which might give you more motivation.

-Cigarette smoking is estimated to be responsible for 325,000 premature deaths each year in America.

-More than one third of these deaths, 37 percent, represent heart attacks, 19 percent lung cancer.

"The evidence compiled from many studies," says Dr. Sol Pickard, Henry Ford Hospital cardiologist and president of the Michigan Heart Association, "points to smoking as the single most preventable cause of those diseases and deaths resulting from them."

In fact, according to statistics of the American Heart Association, of which Michigan Heart is an affiliate, a man who smokes more than a pack a day of cigarettes has nearly twice the chance of a heart attack and nearly five times the risk of a stroke of a non-smoker.

"Unfortunately," says Dr. Pickard, "gains against this man-made hazard have been modest, considering the evidence found and the active campaigning by the Heart Association and other agencies in recent years."

"While many middle aged adults have reduced their use of cigarettes, there has been an alarming and progressive increase in smoking among teenage girls."

"There has been additional light cast on the mechanisms where smoking accelerates cardiovascular disease, with nicotine and carbon monoxide further incriminated as the chief harmful ingredients. While filters now available reduce the tar and nicotine, they do not entirely remove any one of the many harmful ingredients in cigarette smoke, particularly carbon monoxide. Development of a safe cigarette seems unlikely."

"Not all the news is bad, though. When a person who smoked quits, the risk of heart attack and a stroke goes down. After a period of years, it drops almost to the same level as that of a person who had never smoked. So it's never too late to quit."

"So," says Dr. Pickard, "if you've been a one or two pack a day smoker, take heart. This is one risk factor you can eliminate and know you're really doing yourself some good."

Rites held for Louisa Graves, 89

Louisa W. Graves, 89, of Bay Port, died Sunday in Provincial House, Cass City.

She was born March 11, 1890, in Caseville, daughter of Henry and Lena Schember.

She and Albert E. Luettkie were married in 1910 in Sebawaing. He preceded her in death Sept. 9, 1926.

She and Oscar H. Graves were married Dec. 5, 1941, in Kilmanagh. He died June 3, 1976.

Mrs. Graves was a member of the Kilmanagh United Methodist church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Morris (Lena) Graves, Harvard, Ill.; three sons, Henry Luettkie, Pontiac, Walter Luettkie, Pigeon, and Floyd Luettkie, Cass City; five grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; two great-great-grandchildren; two stepdaughters and four stepsons; several step-grandchildren, and one brother, Alfred Schember, Elkton.

Two sons, Clarence and Lloyd, preceded her in death.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Shetler-Bussema Funeral Home, Pigeon. Rev. Harold Blakely and Rev. William Maynard officiated, with burial in Grandlawn cemetery, Pigeon.

Novinski on air carrier with Marines

Marine Lance Cpl. Michael J. Novinski, son of Dale R. and Pat Moore of 3176 Vatter Road, Snover, has deployed to the Indian Ocean.

He is a member of the Marine Detachment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, homeported in San Diego, and currently operating as unit of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

The Kitty Hawk is part of a carrier task force which departed the Philippines for the Indian Ocean to join another task force operating there.

A 1978 graduate of Sandusky High School, Novinski joined the Marine Corps in September of that year.

The biggest problem with many people who pay as they go is that they are slow-goers.

5 seniors end cage careers as Hawks bow out

The long and glorious basketball trail for the Cass City Red Hawk girls came to an end last Wednesday when a rugged rebounding Armada quintet topped the Hawks, 64-58.

Although the Turks' front line was not especially tall, the girls were husky and used strength to keep Cass City off the boards. Especially effective were Nancy Morrison and Lisa Schuette. Armada jumped off to an early lead in the first quarter on the strength of some early buckets and Cass City's ability to hit.

The Turks scored the first six points of the game and jumped off to a 12-4 lead with 2:30 left in the first period before Coach Lloyd Schinnerer called time out.

The Hawks went into a pressing defense, alternating several types of zones and the move paid off.

Cass City whipped in two quick buckets on steals by Nancy Tonti and Padgett Randall and suddenly the score was 16-10.

The same pair hit another bucket a few moments later and the score was 18-14 with 6:04 left in the second period.

In the next six minutes left before the half, Cass City played some of its finest ball of the tournaments. With Libby Hartel joining Tonti and Randall in the scoring parade, the Hawks kept chipping, chipping at the Armada lead until they took the lead for the first and only time in the game just before the intermission. A pair of charity tosses by Randall put the Hawks in front 31-29 but a basket by Morrison tied it up at the end of the first two quarters.

The third quarter spelled disaster for Cass City. It looked at the start of the period like Cass City was going to take up where they left off in the first half.

With Hartel, Randall and Vickie Pobanz scoring, the Hawks moved in front 39-35 in the first 2½ minutes.

But Armada turned to the press, a defense that helped the Hawks to many victories during the season, and it paid off.

The Turks picked off two quick steals to tie the score and were on their way. Cass City went colder than an iceberg and Armada whipped in 15 straight unanswered points.

From four points behind, the Turks went to a 50-39 lead. Cass City rallied briefly just before the quarter ended on baskets by Randall and Tonti and trailed by five, 50-45, at the end of the three periods.

The Turks proved to be a tough team to play when they have a lead. They went into a version of the four-corner control ball offense and nearly every time handled the ball without turnover to get a good shot.

The lead went back to about 10 points and stayed there for most of the rest of the game. Three quick baskets by Randall in the dying moments did nothing but close the final gap.

Morrison led all scorers with 29 points. Randall led Cass City with 23 points. Tonti added 14 and Hartel, 13.

FINAL GAME

It was the final high school game for five seniors, including five starters on the championship team. Gone next year will be Hartel and Pobanz, two of the top rebounders on the team.

Also graduating will be the two starting guards, Tammi Rabideau and Nancy Tonti. Connie Clark is the final loss on the 14-girl team.

Recreation league

3 teams win first 2 tilts

The newly organized Cass City Recreational basketball league lead is shared by three teams after two games this season.

Omaha defeated the Charmont, 73-62, in a game last Wednesday behind balanced scoring by Joel Leipprandt, 14, Aaron Deering, 12, and Dale Ackerman, 10. The Charmont was paced by Bill Stevenson, 26. Dave Asher, 11, and Tom McIntyre, 10, were in double figures. Charmont was outscored 22-8 in the second quarter to decide the game.

In the second game Wednesday, People's State Bank topped Brown's Party Store, 75-45. Mark Green was the leading scorer with 22 points. Helping were Tom Bates, 10, Stevens, 14, and Chuck Peterson, 10. People's State Bank had 10 for the losers. It was close only for the first quarter.

The Advertiser topped IGA 64-58 behind Dave Romig's 24 points. Dave Doerflinger added 14 and Mark Gunther added 12. Johann Schultz scored 21 for the losers while John Hacker scored 12. The game was decided in overtime as Romig scored six points and his team outscored IGA 10-4.

Guss' Convenience had four players in double figures in a free scoring contest that was anybody's game, almost to the final whistle. Paul Treiber netted 18. E. LaBair, 17, Dave Bitzer, 14, and Bret Bitzer, 10, paced the winners. For the losers Randy Rifle scored 21 while Roy Calahan had 15 and Louie Calahan, 14.

Hawks bounce back after upset Laker loss to top Caro, 73-54

For awhile Tuesday it looked as if the Cass City Red Hawks were going down the drain in the Thumb B conference after just two games.

Before getting their game together and pushing to an easy victory, 73-54, the Hawks had all of their Cass City fans worried.

Caro came out shooting in what looked like a repeat of the game with Lakers last Friday and trailed 6-1 at the end of two minutes in the first quarter and by seven later in the period.

Cass City didn't start looking like a contending team until Craig Tonti entered the contest. The junior guard made a strong bid for a lot of playing time this season as he sparked the Hawks with some timely foul shooting and good ball handling at the point.

The Hawks were able to top the Tigers with only limited help from Ken Martin. The big senior center for the second time in a row suffered from foul trouble and shot about half the game on the bench.

Martin's fouls coupled with some cold shooting by Tim Fahrner, who was on the rim on every shot but unable to convert, kept the game close.

It was not until there was 5:45 left in the second period that the Hawks finally went into the lead. When they did they kept widening the margin until the final whistle.

The Hawks moved in front on six unanswered points including a basket by Fahrner from about 12 feet and a fast break lay-up by Tonti.

That made it 16-15 in favor of the Tigers. When Tonti hit both ends of a one and one Cass City was in front to stay. By the time the half rolled around the Hawks' lead had grown to 35-22.

Cass City continued to surge ahead in the third period. Featuring divided scoring and capitalizing on numerous Tiger turnovers the lead widened to 12 points, 51-39, at the end of three periods.

In the last quarter Coach Ron Nurnberger was able to get a look at his entire team for the first time this year.

Although a victory is a victory it was far from a polished effort by Cass City. It's likely that Cass City will have to improve sharply when they face North Branch this Friday. The Broncos showed a potent offense in their opener against Marlette last Friday.

Cass City had three players in double figures led by Tonti with 16 points including 8 for 8 from the free throw line. Richards added 10 points and Fahrner 14. For Caro Doug Block scored 14.

JV GAME

The Cass City Junior Varsity led all the way to post a 70-52 victory to even the season's record at 1-1.

LAKER GAME

The Cass City Red Hawks hopes for a repeat championship in the Thumb B Conference were jolted in the opening game of the season Friday when host Lakers took an early lead and held on for a 60-57 decision.

Coach Ron Nurnberger said that one of the keys to the game was Ken Martin who was unable to play at more than 75 percent efficiency because of a knee injury. He also reverted to some bad habits he suffered with early last year when he got in early foul trouble and was forced to sit out over a quarter of the game.

There were plenty of other areas where Cass City showed the need for improvement. At times the defense was leaky and there were numerous turnovers, more than a class team should show.

Fortunately for Cass City fans it was the first game of the year and there are 19 games left to correct the physical and mental mistakes.

Nurnberger was afraid Monday that tough games with Caro and North Branch this week could kill the team's championship chances before the season was well underway.

Cass City used many various combinations Friday against the Lakers and none was entirely satisfactory.

The Lakers jumped off to an early lead hitting on jumpers from outside and rebounds as Cass City stood around not doing much of anything. With 3:13 left in the first quarter it was 11-4.

The Hawks got in motion after that and started hitting and rebounding and pulled to within three points 15-12 at the quarter.

Martin picked up three fouls along the way and was benched for the second quarter. With the senior center on the bench, the Lakers controlled the rebounds and stormed into a 12-point lead. But Steve Richards took charge at this point and his six points helped keep Cass City in contention at intermission, trailing by 7 points, 36-29.

At the start of the third quarter Cass City played like true title contenders. Featuring balanced scoring the halftime Laker lead was quickly whittled away. With three minutes left Cass City had pulled to within a point.

At this point Scott Farver hit three quick buckets from 18 feet and the Lakers were in front 50-41 at the end of three periods.

Cass City wasn't through yet and they challenged right down to the wire.

With a minute and a half left the gap was three points and Cass City had the ball. Tim Johnson went in for a driving lay-up but was called for charging and that killed Cass City's last chance to win.

Cass City hit just 21 of 64 shots for 33 percent from the floor. The team was a gaudy 15 of 18 from the free throw line. The Lakers hit 23 of 57 for 40 percent but only 14 of 21 charity tosses for 67 percent. Steve Richards led the rebounders with 10.

JV'S LOSE

O-G bows in opening games

Inability to find the inside of the basket was only one of Owen-Gage's problems Tuesday night as they were blown away by defending North Central D League champs Carsonville-Port Sanilac, 86-41.

The Bulldogs, handicapped by the absence of would-be starters Jeff Hallock and Kirk Carolan, only shot 26 percent from the floor, connecting on 18 of 69 shots. They were five for 15 from the free throw line.

The host Tigers, led by Jim Olesnavage's 33 points, shot 51 percent from the floor, connecting on 37 of 72 shots, and 54 percent from the charity line, 12 of 22 shots.

Dave Regnier scored 13 points and Bob Kolakovich had 12.

Only Bulldog in double figures was Brad Erickson with 11.

The only bright spot for the evening was the junior varsity contest, which Owen-Gage won, 37-29.

Owen-Gage plays a tough Peck squad Friday night and Port Hope Tuesday night. Both games are at Owendale.

FAIRVIEW

The Bulldogs opened the 1979-80 season by playing too willing hosts to visiting Fairview Friday night, the Eagles going home with a 76-50 win.

The Bulldog cause wasn't helped by their meager four points in the first quarter. They only connected on one of 14 field goal attempts during that period.

For the entire game, they shot only 29 percent from the floor, versus 53 percent by their opponents.

The Class D Oscoda county school is favored as the likely champion of its league, Bulldog coach Phil Gray said, adding, "I think they could beat any team in our league."

Bulldogs in double figures were Jeff Hallock with 14, Brad Erickson, 12, and Jim Glidden, 10.

Glidden was top rebounder with 13, his team pulling down a total of 39, one less than Fairview.

In double figures for the victors were Randy Detweiler, 20, Rob Shantz, 18, Brian Layman, 11, and Rick Handrich, 10.

Fairview won the junior varsity game, 38-35.

Seek update of sewer plan

Gagetown might know as soon as late spring of 1980 whether it will get federal funds for its proposed sanitary sewer and waste treatment system.

First, however, its engineers must update the feasibility plan submitted two years ago to the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The major item in the updating, according to Richard Knop of Edmands Engineering, will be a new cost estimate for the project.

The last one was made prior to the submission of the feasibility plan to the DNR in October, 1977. The cost estimate then was $1.1 million.

Edmands is also doing the engineering for Owendale, which is also under orders from the state to have waste treatment facilities in operation by March, 1982. (At present, buildings in the towns have septic tanks, with effluent flowing into storm sewers or drains.)

Owendale's feasibility plan was submitted at the same time as the one for Gagetown, so it must also be updated, including the cost estimate. The figure two years ago was $921,000.

If the projects are ultimately approved, the federal government will pay 75 percent of the cost; the state, 5 percent, and village residents, the remaining 20 percent.

Edmands' representatives met with DNR officials in Lansing last Wednesday to iron out what aspects of the feasibility plans must be updated.

The DNR did lose some of Gagetown's documents submitted two years ago, but have now received copies from Edmands, Knop said. The basic problem, according to the engineer, was that it took the DNR two years to review the plans, during which time some of the documents got lost in the shuffle.

It will take until late January or early February to have the updated feasibility plan for Gagetown back to the DNR, provided the agency does not require new public hearings.

It will then probably take 60-90 days until it is known if the state agency has ap-

O-G school funds threatened

gan Court of Appeals as soon as the transcript of the hearing before Clements is ready.

MONEY

Payless paydays for district employees may start with what would otherwise be the Dec. 22 payroll. Whether there will be enough to pay them, according to the superintendent, depends on what bills Owen-Gage can avoid paying until property tax revenue starts coming in in January.

The district has been notified by Robert Hornberger, director of department services for the state Department of Education, that Owen-Gage owes the state $50,000 because of an overpayment in state aid in 1976.

Erickson has requested specifics. He predicted after the meeting Monday that as that is about the same amount as the state is presently withholding in aid, the state will eventually consider the money owed presently to Owen-Gage as payment of the 1976 debt.

OTHER ITEMS

Subject to reversal, the board approved changing of its workers' compensation insurance to the Michigan Association of School Boards policy once its present one with Farm Bureau Insurance expires in February.

John McKernan of Corporate Service, Inc., which handles the program for MASB, said the premium will be about the same but the district is sure to get a dividend of 30-50 percent of its premium.

The elementary school Christmas program will be Wednesday, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the Gagetown gym. The girls' basketball team and coach were commended for their 19-3 season.

The mobile home last used for storage of athletic equipment will be sold to the highest bidder.

November student of the month is Kirk Carolan, a senior.

proved the updated plans.

If they do get the okay, the next step is for the DNR and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to rule on Gagetown's application made in February of this year for Step II-III funds for the project. (Owendale applied for Step II-III funds a short time earlier.)

Step II pays for the preparation of the plans needed to build the project; Step III is for actual cost of building it.

Optimistically, Knop feels it is possible Gagetown could have its Step II-III grant approved by June or July, after which planning of the project could begin.

Bids could then be taken some time in spring, 1981, with construction to be completed a year later.

The timetable for Owendale would be about the same.

MIKE SERRA is the new owner of the Chevrolet-Oldsmobile-Cadillac dealership in Caro, having purchased it from Shurley Wilsie and Robert Simpson.

Tight squeeze for tax bills

The Elkland Township Board Monday night gave an informal okay to Treasurer Art Randall to do whatever is necessary, such as hiring extra help, to get tax bills mailed in time for persons to pay their taxes by the end of the year if they so choose. Normally, tax bills would have been mailed by now but the whole process was delayed by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners' late approval of the county tax roll because of the Goslin parcel dispute involving the Owendale-Gagetown School District.

Receipt of the tax roll from the county equalization office is expected this week, after which it normally takes 2-3 weeks of preparation before the tax bills can be sent out. "It will be close," Randall said Wednesday, but if he gets the tax roll this week, he thinks he can get the tax bills out in time.

The board approved painting of the meeting room-office portion of the township-fire hall.

The work will be done by Stanley McArthur at a cost of about $1,000, half for McArthur and half for paint. The garage portion will probably be painted next year.

Purchase of a $10,000 four-year certificate of deposit from the Cass City State Bank at 10.3 percent interest for the cemetery perpetual care fund was approved.

Repair of the air compressor used to recharge the fire department's air packs was authorized at an approximate cost of $400.

Thumb Crops Day slated Wednesday

"Energy -- Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" will be the topic of Ralph L. Lewis Jr., vice-president, public affairs, of Gulf Oil Corp., who will speak at Thumb Crops Day, Wednesday, Dec. 19, at the Colony House, M-53, Cass City.

In addition, Bill Stout, extension specialist from the Michigan State University Agricultural Engineering Department, and others from the university will spend the morning discussing alternate energy uses on the farm, such as wind, methane, solar and alcohol.

Sixty-two exhibitors from all over Michigan and northern Ohio will have exhibits on everything from seed to energy. Door prizes will be awarded throughout the day and lunch will be available at a nominal cost.

Commercial exhibits open at 9 a.m. The program starts at 10 and will run until 4 p.m.

BEV SCHELKE of Cass City was quick to adopt a suggestion by the Lions Club to send a Christmas card to American hostages held in Iran. Lions officials say there is no guarantee the hostages will receive the cards but feel the effort is well worthwhile. Persons wanting to participate in the program should address cards to American Hostages, Iran Mission, United Nations, 622 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Kingston election

Petitions for village offices in Kingston may be picked up at the village hall on Ross Street. They must be filed by 4 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 18.

Electors in March will be voting for president, clerk, treasurer, assessor and three trustees, all for two year terms, April 1, 1980 to March 31, 1982.

Gagetown hearing

The Gagetown Village Council is planning to apply for $125,000 in federal funds for establishment of a senior citizen housing facility.

A public hearing on the proposal will be held in the village-township hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

The village is applying for U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Small Cities Program funds, which can be used for various purposes, including housing, street, water, drainage and sewer improvements, park improvements and demolition of unsafe structures.

Purpose of the hearing is to hear about what is proposed and offer suggestions as to what they feel would be better choices for use of the money if the grant is received.

The proposed project, according to village President William Downing, calls for remodeling of an existing structure into four apartments.

An option hasn't been obtained on the property yet, so he didn't want to name the building. It should be obtained prior to the hearing, at which time it can be announced.

Seventh exchange student from same family

Tradition continues with Diva Becker

Diva Maria Goncalves Becker would like to take a microwave oven back to her native Brazil when she leaves Cass City, but it's a little big to carry under her arm.

But the Rotary exchange student has accumulated numerous other items during her stay here, which she will take back, including jeans, pens (they're expensive in Brazil), charm bracelets and a curling iron. She will also have a lot of stories to tell, but in the Becker family, they only become another chapter, not a book in itself, for Diva (pronounced "jeva") is the seventh member of her family to be a Rotary exchange student.

She has five older brothers and one older sister, all of whom spent a year overseas (in the U.S., Australia or South Africa). A younger sister who comes to this country next year will be the eighth. There are a total of 11 youngsters in the family.

Diva arrived in Cass City late last January. The first thing she had to get used to was the cold weather, which is unknown where she lives. "I almost died," she said figuratively. She ultimately decided, "I just love the snow, but not the cold."

She also had to learn to speak English. She had studied the language for four years before coming here, but it was basically reading and writing, thus she could speak very little. It took her 2-3 months before she felt comfortable in her new tongue. (Portuguese is spoken in Brazil.)

DIVA FIRST LIVED with the Chuck Eria family, then with the Bob Wischmeyers and since late September, with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ziehm on Green Road.

The Ziehms' daughter, Lori, returned home in August from a year's stay in Diva's home town of Belo Horizonte as a Rotary exchange student.

Each attended a different school but did meet there through the exchange program. Diva's father is exchange program officer for the Rotary Club, which helps explain why so many of his children have participated in the program. The Becker family has also had 13 exchange students from the U.S. and elsewhere stay with them over the years.

Belo Horizonte is a city of about 2.2 million persons, about 250 miles north of Rio de Janeiro.

It took a while for Diva to become used to the small town atmosphere here, but now that she has been here almost a year, she can say, "I like small cities better."

THE 18-YEAR-OLD (HER birthday was Dec. 1) has a year of high school remaining when she returns home.

When she gets home, it will be during summer vacation (seasons are the reverse of here) and school will resume in March.

After graduation, she has to take the tough entrance examinations to get into a university. Her present aim is to study medicine, but that is one of the toughest fields to qualify for as there are few openings.

It's only natural that Diva would want to study that difficult subject, which requires seven years of schooling. Both her father and mother are doctors and two brothers and a sister are now in medical school. Her father specializes in lung diseases, such as tuberculosis, and her mother is a blood specialist, doing most of her work in a laboratory, though she does treat some people with general ailments on the side.

AS AN ALTERNATIVE, Diva has given thought to returning to this country and studying physical education. She likes sports, her favorites being tennis, basketball, and gymnastics, but basically for fun, not for its competitive aspects.

She has had to give up on gymnastics after three years of it in Brazil because she hurt her back (playing volleyball), though she briefly did try it and track at Cass City High School.

She is studying art, physics, biology, communications, composition and typing.

DIVA HAS HAD AN opportunity to do some traveling in this country in organized tours with other Rotary exchange students. There was a trip to the western United States and Canada in July and in October, a trip to Stratford, Ont. She has also visited Cedar Point.

Brazil is a modern country and with brothers and sisters having been here before and exchange students from this country staying at her house, there were few surprises when she came here.

Automatic door openers at supermarkets were something she had never seen before and vending machines were another. And then there were microwave ovens. "I just love that."

Understandably, after almost a year here, Miss Becker is looking forward to going home, but with mixed emotions after what she says was the "great year I have had."

Cass City lists need for doctors

The need for more physicians in Cass City and many other communities has been brought to the attention of 506 young physicians registered with the Michigan Health Council Physician Placement Service.

The Health Council recently published a new "Roster of Opportunities" which lists over 130 openings in the state for physicians.

"The roster is in the mail to young physicians in hospital residency training programs in 12 Michigan counties, to physicians coming out of the military or completing medical missionary projects, and to others who are interested in coming to Michigan from other states," according to C. Allen Payne, M.D., MHC president.

Of the many openings listed, 99 locations wanted family physicians.

Cass City lists in the roster a need for three doctors, in urology, family practice and internal medicine. Hills and Dales General Hospital Administrator Ken Jensen is listed as the contact person.

Christmas Town concert theme Monday

"Bring Back Christmas Town" will be the theme Monday when the Cass City High School choir and vocal ensemble perform their annual Christmas concert.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the cafetorium.

Highlight will be an original composition by vocal music director Jim Hobbs describing what Cass City was like when it was called Christmas Town, Michigan.

Mrs. Wells elected WMS president

Twenty-three women attended the Dec. 4 meeting of the Baptist Missionary Society at the First Baptist church.

The work project began at 7:30, followed by the business meeting at 7:30, opened by Mrs. Rosella Kretschmer with prayer. Minutes of the November meeting were read by Mrs. Jim Perry and an offering was taken to be divided between the general fund and the children's home at St. Louis.

Members brought Christmas gifts to be distributed to shut-ins and cookies for the parsonage family.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Clyde Wells; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John Wood; devotions chairman, Mary Hanby, in-formations chairman, Mrs. Jim Perry; prayer chairman, Mrs. Richard Shaw; project chairman, Mrs. Rosella Kretschmer; reporter, Mrs. Stanley McArthur.

Devotions at the meeting were conducted by Mary Hanby and prayer for missionaries was led by Mrs. McArthur.

Grace was given by Mrs. Linda Helwig. Mrs. Jerry Ferris and Mrs. James Burleson served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Sometimes a fellow strikes out trying to strike it rich.

Meredith Auten remembers

I was married in June, 1920, when I was 29 years old and had a world of enemies. Virginia was beautiful, I wasn't so hot.

I had hidden my car in our barn with all of our bags loaded, prepared to take off.

The Wilsey house was full of invited guests, but lined up outside with their lights pointed toward the house were probably 15 cars filled with uninvited guests.

The house was beautifully decorated with flowers. Everything was dignified and serene. Father Wilsey, sober and doubtful; Mother Wilsey, the perfect and proper lady.

Rev. Bradford performed the ceremony. I shall never forget when he finished, took my hand and nodding towards Virginia, said, "Meredith, your wife."

We went upstairs, where we changed our clothes. Outside the house, there was a large crowd milling about. I looked them over and saw no sympathetic eyes.

I was glad I had taken track at Bowdoin, so when the time came to go, I dashed out of the house, across the street and down the alley.

It was like a bunch of hounds after a rabbit. I hid behind a billboard and let the crowd go by. I then circled up to our barn and gleefully opened the door, only to find all of our bags gone and the wires of the car disconnected.

It was hopeless, so I took my foot in hand and hied down to the rear door of the post office, where I found Joe Dodge and told him to have my brother-in-law, Clark McKenzie, meet me a mile west of town.

I raced along the side of the road inside the fence. I had a new suit and overcoat on, but I forgot there was a gravel pit en route. It was pitch dark. I rolled down the side of the pit into a mud puddle at the bottom. Not deterred, I picked myself up and found Clark at the mile corner as agreed and he took me to Caro.

In the meantime, Dr. McCoy had picked Virginia up and carried her kicking and screaming out the front door to his car. The group had taken the distributor out of his car, but when they saw the doctor supposedly kidnapping Virginia, Bill Martus put it back on. Harry Crandell jumped on the side of the car. Virginia shoved her hand in his jaw and he bit her finger.

Clinton Seeley, my best man, grabbed Crandell around the waist and pulled him off as the car started. Crandell started to fight poor Clinton, but away went McCoy with some other cars following.

Virginia lost her voice. McCoy outdistanced the other cars and pulled up at Seeley's house, into which Virginia ran with McCoy.

Mr. Seeley came home and everlastingly berated McCoy for pulling such a trick and ordered McCoy out of the house.

I came along shortly after with no car and no bags, so I went over to "Uncle Elmer's" and he let me have his car.

We then proceeded peacefully to the Bancroft at Saginaw, where I had engaged a room. The clerk looked me over. I was a pitiful sight, covered with mud and with no bags. He said, "Nothing doing," so we journeyed on to the Fordney, where they rather reluctantly accepted our version of the night and gave us a room.

The next day, Mr. Wilsey and Helen arrived with our bags and we proceeded blissfully happy by boat to Buffalo and from there, on to New York.

Huron fair board fetes A. Sweeney

Angus Sweeney of Huron Line Road, Uby, was guest of honor Dec. 1 as the Huron County Community Fair Board honored him for his 29 years of service "above and beyond the call of duty" to the fair.

He joined the fair board in 1950, was vice-president for several years, and also was chairman of many of its committees.

Total income of the fair the year Sweeney joined the board was $37,600, compared to $179,300 netted at the 1979 fair.

He has now retired from the board, his spot being filled by Bob Oeschger of Port Hope.

Sweeney and his wife, Albina, will be spending time in Arizona, but will be at the 1980 fair when it opens Aug. 4.

Special guests at the appreciation dinner included Sheriff and Mrs. Richard Stokan, Bob Labor of the Michigan Livestock Exchange and his wife, and Huron county Extension Director Robert Johnson and his wife.

Volunteers needed as tax helpers

The Internal Revenue Service is looking for community-minded citizens to be trained as volunteer income tax assistants (VITA).

VITA is designed to provide free tax assistance in neighborhood locations to senior citizens, low-income, military, or non-English speaking individuals who cannot travel to an IRS office and cannot afford to pay for professional guidance.

VITA volunteers do not need special backgrounds in law or accounting. A general educational background is all that's necessary. Training and materials for VITA are provided free by IRS.

VITA programs can be sponsored by local civic or fraternal organizations, educational institutions, churches, and social groups. Most VITA volunteers provide assistance in their own neighborhood at schools, churches, and libraries that are conveniently located for taxpayers who cannot travel to an IRS office. Persons interested can call the IRS. A toll-free number is listed in all telephone directories.

440 North State Street
Caro, Michigan 48723

Members attending the Tuscola County Farm Bureau annual meeting on September 27, 1979 adopted the following resolution:

COUNTY EXTENSION SERVICE BUILDING

Whereas the office and storage space of the Civil Defense Center at the County Jail is being more and more occupied by the Sheriff's Department and Jail, we recommend immediate action be taken by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners to budget sufficient funds, perhaps by setting aside Revenue Sharing Funds, for the building and/or renting of a facility for the Cooperative Extension Service, complete with adequate space for offices, meeting rooms and extension personnel.

We would appreciate it very much if the members of the Board of Commissioners would consider this resolution.

Yours very truly,

Margaret Boyne, President
Paul Lefler, Building Codes Administrator, appeared before the Board and discussion followed on fees received by his Department.

79-M-290

Commissioner Wenta presented the following resolution and moved for its adoption. Seconded by Commissioner Kennedy. Motion carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners have studied and considered the proposed revision of the Juvenile Code as represented in House Bill 4774 and Senate Bill 581, and
WHEREAS, the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners believe it is unnecessarily complex and creates more procedural problems than it resolves, and
WHEREAS, it imposes tedious, time-consuming and expensive procedures which do not improve the protections of due process presently existing in law and court rule, and
WHEREAS, it fails to establish a reasonable balance between the protection of the respondent's rights and the rights of the public to protection,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners oppose passage of House Bill 4774 and Senate Bill 581, and
IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution be submitted to the Governor, Senator Alvin DeGraw, Representative Loren Armbruster and the Michigan Association of Juvenile Court Administrators.
