

TWO PLUS ONE -- A rare event occurred last Thursday on the farm of cousins Frank and Tony Enderle when a cow gave birth to these triplets, two heifers and a bull. Standing with them is Tony's son, Craig. Odds of a triple birth are said to be 3,500:1, with odds of the triplets all surviving better than that. On Saturday, a cow on the farm gave birth to twins. The Enderle farm is on McAlpin Road, Owendale.

Debate intermediate line Split grades Deford, Evergreen, board rules

A decision affecting the educational program at Evergreen and Deford schools and a hassle over attendance policy and discipline at the Intermediate school highlighted the regular meeting of the Cass City School Board Monday night.

The board ruled that Evergreen and Deford would have mixed grades in classes to compensate for declining enrollment.

That decision will cost district taxpayers more than an alternative plan that would have bused kindergartners to Campbell school in Cass City.

The reason is that under the proposed plan the district could have operated with one teacher less. Under the plan adopted the district can eliminate a half teacher. That means an increased cost of some $10,000 per year.

A half teacher salary is saved because at Evergreen there will now be a teaching principal. Retired Mrs. Ruth Smith, former principal, taught for only a half day.

Supt. Don Crouse said that by adopting the procedure the board is establishing guidelines that will call for mixed classes through the two schools in years to come.

The solution appeared to please the representatives present from Deford and Evergreen.

DISCIPLINE

Danny Allen and Mr. and Mrs. David Marr, both of Deford, spearheaded an attack on the discipline at Cass City Intermediate School.

Allen said he was worried about the disciplinary climate at the school. He charged that firecrackers were thrown in the stairwells of the school for three weeks before it was stopped.

Principal Robert Stickle hotly refuted the charge, saying that there were three incidents and one of the students was found and disciplined.

More serious charges were leveled by Mr. and Mrs. David Marr.

They said that two of their children attending school were intimidated by other students and were so fearful that they didn't want to come to school. Another parent said the same thing happened to her child.

Mrs. Marr said that one of her children landed in the hospital. She feels that the emotional trauma caused by the school climate may have led to her mental breakdown. Mrs. Marr said that the girl was hit by other students. She acknowledged that it was not injuries caused by the alleged beatings that caused her daughter to be placed in the hospital.

Both of the Marrs and Allen called for more stringent disciplinary measures at the school.

Much of the problem centers around time spent in the school yard at recess and in the halls between classes.

There are two supervisors outside the building and teachers are unable to watch all of the children all the time.

In the three-floor Intermediate building with narrow hallways Supt. Crouse said that if children don't complain it is virtually impossible to stop one child from poking another while walking down the hall.

Board President Geraldine Priesskorn said that an investigation would be made in an effort to come up with a system with more control.

CHALLENGES POLICY

The complexity of the problem was illustrated by another parent appearing before the board. Mrs. Joyce Lane challenged the board's suspension policy.

She says that she feels that students were suspended too quickly for minor offenses.

She presented a written statement outlining complaints she received from other parents.

One of the cases that Crouse said he was acquainted with was presented with erroneous facts. None of the students were named in the written statement. School authorities said that suspension was only recommended after several infractions were reported.

Mrs. Lane also questioned the taping of conversations between pupils and principal Russell Richards without the knowledge of the pupils or parents when present.

That was quickly denied by assistant principal Roland Pakonen who said that the persons involved were told about the taping so that misunderstandings could be avoided. Richards was not at the meeting because of the death of his father.

OTHER BUSINESS

The board accepted and placed on record a report compiled by Mrs. Ellen Toner dealing with school population. The report indicated that there would be an increase in school population in 1985.

Teacher contracts were approved for Donna Emerson to replace Charlene Kopf as elementary librarian and Deborah Armstrong to replace Pat Holt as high school physical education teacher.

A title I application was approved as submitted by Pakonen. It calls for teacher aides and the addition of a part-time school nurse.

An increase in the number of high school special education students from 16 to 22 next year will require another teacher and another room in the already crowded high school building.

Four new books for the Intermediate School were approved at a cost of $4,192.

A change in the curriculum will institute handwriting in place of Spanish for the seventh grade.

A Freshman Home Economics textbook was approved at a total cost of $547.25.

Mrs. Jan Christner asked the board to consider the use of a classroom for the pre-school nursery if one becomes available. The preschoolers now meet in the Presbyterian church.

Millages pass in all districts

Millage proposals on the ballots in Cass City, Owendale-Gagetown and Kingston all passed in school elections Monday.

The two incumbents on the Cass City school board ran unopposed for re-election. Geraldine Priesskorn, of 4645 Kennebec Drive, received 231 votes and Dr. Edward Scollon, DVM, of 4849 N. Seeger Street, got 246 votes.

The renewal of 8.4 mills for two years for operations passed 185-85.

Owen-Gage -- Patrick Goslin of Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown, ran alone and received 244 votes to fill the school board post left by Jack Laurie, who did not seek re-election.

Voters approved renewal of 4.25 mills for two years by a substantial margin of 229 "yes" votes to 43 "no" votes.

Kingston -- The two millage proposals on the ballot both passed. Robert Wilmot, of 4970 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, defeated challenger Velna Richter for another term on the board, 167-67.

Proposition One, renewal of 13 mills plus an additional one mill for one year for operations, passed 158-83.

The other millage proposal, one mill for one year to improve school parking lots, passed by a mere two votes, 121-119.

Uby -- Newcomer Arthur Jahn of Ruth received the most votes in the history of Uby school elections to take one of the terms with his 399 votes. The other position was filled by one of the incumbents who ran, Clarence Rutkowski, S. Verona Road, Uby, re-elected with 312 votes.

The other incumbent who ran for re-election, John Kennedy of James Street, Uby, lost with 157 votes. Ruth Olshove of Agnes Street, Uby, received 108 votes.

There was no millage proposal on the Uby ballot.

Empty wallet at Owen-Gage -- payless paydays start June 22

Payless paydays for Owendale-Gagetown employees start on what would otherwise be a regular payday, Friday, June 22.

The district's running out of money affects teachers and administrators, all of whom are paid year-round. The district's shortfall, the school board was informed Monday night, is due to three factors:

-Cutoff of categorical state aid pending submission of what the state Department of Education feels is a balanced budget for 1978-79. By the time the final payment is due in August, the district will have "lost" $23,505.

-Failure by Tuscola county to deliver any 1978 delinquent taxes despite establishment of a delinquent-tax fund. Amount: approximately $24,000.

-Failure by the district to get 1978 Goslin parcel taxes of approximately $100,000. The matter is still in the courts.

Supt. Ronald Erickson doesn't expect more than three paydays (every two weeks) to be missed.

District employees previously went without pay for a few months in 1977-78, though they later received their back pay plus interest.

At the school board meeting, the board authorized applying to the state Municipal Finance Commission (MFC) for permission to borrow $370,000 from banks in anticipation of receipt of property taxes.

Such borrowing is routine by school districts to fill the revenue void between the end of a school year and the receipt of property taxes starting each December.

Owen-Gage borrowed $336,000 last year.

In order to apply for permission to borrow the money, the board had to approve a 1979-80 preliminary budget. Final approval won't come until October.

The budget prepared by Erickson projects a deficit as of June 30 of this year of $75,000, and that anticipates both state aid and delinquent taxes. It does not include Goslin parcel tax revenue, the difference between a deficit and a healthy surplus.

Minus Goslin and Elenbaum parcels, the 1979-80 budget projects revenue of $893,000; with Elenbaum, $988,348, and with Goslin and Elenbaum, $1,079,813.

With expenditures projected at $818,000 and the $75,000 deficit to be paid off, that would leave the district with a zero balance as of June 30, 1980. With Elenbaum, it would have a surplus of $95,348 and with Elenbaum and Goslin, $186,813.

Erickson figures revenue "lost" from properties transferred from Owen-Gage between 1975-79 at $500,000.

The application to borrow money specifies July 3 as the date to open bids from banks to loan the district the money (the bid is awarded to the one charging the lowest interest), but Erickson doubts the MFC will approve the application soon enough for that to happen.

PROPERTY TRANSFER

The district has notified Tuscola County Intermediate School District Supt. Bruce Dunn that it "considers the proposed property transfer hearing (Seibel) from the Owen-Gage district to the Unionville-Sebewaing district as categorically illegal" because the state law dealing with property transfers is still in the courts.

The hearing by the Tuscola and Huron intermediate boards is scheduled June 21 in Caro on the request by Harold Seibel of Colwood Road, Gagetown, to have his district property transferred to the USA district.

INSURANCE

The board approved a contract with Mutual of Omaha for student insurance. The board will pay $1.25 per student annually to provide coverage for all students from the time they Please turn to page 6.

Too many unwanted pets -- county board must decide how they will die

Should dogs and cats brought to the Tuscola County Animal Shelter be killed there or used for medical research, the result of which is that they may die?

The circuit courtroom in the courthouse annex in Caro was perhaps a fitting setting for the debate Saturday morning on the subject.

The three county commissioners who will make a recommendation to the full county board convened the session to hear both sides. No decision was reached.

The man on trial, so to speak, was Fred Hodgins of Howell, whom the county pays $35 per pick up (once a week) to take animals from the shelter which are not returned to their owners or sold to new ones.

Hodgins resells many of the animals to medical research facilities. The Protective Animal Welfare Society of Tuscola county (PAWS) wants the county to stop dealing with him, alleging the animals are cruelly treated at research facilities.

The county board must make a decision soon because the new animal shelter west of Caro is supposed to open June 29, completed with a decompression chamber to kill animals and a special incinerator to cremate the carcasses.

DISPOSAL BY ONE means or another is necessary because the shelter comes nowhere close to being able to adopt out all the animals it takes in.

The 1978 annual report showed 5,189 animals being taken in by the shelter, of which about 80 percent were brought by the public. The rest were picked up by the two animal control officers. Of the total, 350 animals were sold, 140 were returned to owners and most of the rest (4,607) were picked up by Hodgins and his men.

The animal dealer said out of 40-60 animals he picks up in a week, only 15-20 are good. He puts the rest -- kittens, puppies and sick animals -- to sleep by needed injection and then disposes of them.

He takes the rest to his kennels, where he feeds them until they are in good enough condition to be sold. Hodgins is licensed by the state and federal governments as a research animal dealer.

The "jury" Saturday was Commissioners Paul Nagy, Vassar; the board chairman; Ben Collon, Caro, and Robert Russell, Vassar. They along with Commissioner Donna Rayl recently visited Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit to see how animals are used in research there. The visit was mentioned frequently.

Hodgins brought along his attorney, Bert Beurmann of Hartland.

Representing PAWS were its president, Sue Maxwell, and vice-president, Jerome Lewis, both of Caro.

ONE OF THE GOALS OF the group, formed early this year, formed early this year, Lewis said, was "to protect animals against inhuman treatment."

Mrs. Maxwell described it as an issue of morality. At Ford Hospital, which she visited on her own, the treatment of animals is probably "best" (compared to other facilities), but even at the very best, they (animals) would be subject to some pain.

Hodgins argued that the animals suffer no more "than you would go through if you were being operated on."

The PAWS president said shutting off the supply of animals from Tuscola county could drive the price of research animals up, thus forcing researchers to be more selective in their use of animals.

With "such easy access to animals," she avowed, researchers don't use such alternatives as computers and tissue cultures. She did not advocate banning all research on animals.

Commissioners countered that Mrs. Maxwell hadn't provided proof of abuse of research animals -- she said she would provide it -- and that based on what they were told at Ford Hospital, many admitted past abuses have been eliminated.

More important was the need for the animals for research. "My wife has had five major operations in her married lifetime," Nagy said. "I'd like to think they tested that on something (first)."

"Maybe it (animal research) is going to help somebody down the road," Russell added.

ECONOMICS WAS ANOTHER concern.

Hodgins has offered to start paying the county $1.50 for every dog he gets and $1 for every cat.

Nagy guessed that in comparison, if the county took over disposal of excess animals, it might cost $15,000-20,000 for an added employee and the cost of gas to cremate the animals.

(Chief Animal Control Officer Jeff Quinn said after the meeting an added employee will be needed even if the arrangement is kept with Hodgins, because of the larger size of the new shelter and a new county animal control ordinance, now in the preparation stage, which might result in more animals being brought there.)

Mrs. Maxwell doubted that it would cost more for the county to do its own disposal.

Animals have to sometimes be kept beyond the legal minimums until Hodgins' truck comes, she said, thus money could be saved by quicker disposal. And instead of cremating the dead dogs and cats, probably Wayne Soap Co. would pick them up. (Licensed animals have to be kept a minimum of seven days; unlicensed, four days.)

RUSSELL AND NAGY suggested PAWS should be more concerned about mistreatment of animals within Tuscola county, not those in medical research facilities.

Please turn to page 6.

DEFENDING his business was research animal dealer Fred Hodgins. PAWS President Sue Maxwell (inset) presented the opposite point of view. Tuscola County Board Chairman Paul Nagy is on Hodgins' right.

Add numbers 10 and 11 to the list of area residents older than the Chronicle's 88 years. Mrs. Frank Hutchinson reports that Minnie Sowden of Cass City is 90. James MacTavish says that Fern Maier, a patient at Provincial House will be 90 years old June 19. Are there any more?

A pair of church volunteers got pleasantly sidetracked at the Chronicle this week. Running through our files tracing the history of the Novesta Church of Christ were Mrs. Thelma Pratt of Cass City and Mrs. Viola (Quick) Colton of Rochester.

While working they became engrossed in the stories around the turn of the century that related to the times, customs and persons of the day.

So much so that their church history work was delayed.

There's an ad in the Chronicle from the Cass City Community Education Department offering golf lessons for women Monday evening.

If it interests you, better check the day again. That time period conflicts with the Cass City Golf League and it's hard to see how classes and league competition would be held at the same time.

There's a spot on Shabbona Road, Decker, in the yard of the Hazen Kritzmanns where four-leaf clovers are frequently found.

A new record was set Saturday morning by Hazen Kritzmann. His wife reports that he found a seven-leaf clover which should provide enough good luck for the rest of the year.

How many guys around town did like Alden Asher when he read a story in the metro daily where a doctor said that going fishing was good for heart disease, nerves, arthritis and a variety of other complaints?

What Asher did was clip it out and place it in a prominent place in his home. This has to be the best of ready-made excuses for a day off that's appeared since I started looking for reasons.

I've always said that Alden is one of the smarter guys that I know... extra quick to capitalize on a better idea. He could work for Ford.

Monday was a record day at Rawson Memorial Library. There were 402 items checked out, more than ever before, according to head librarian Barbara Hutchinson. The previous record was somewhere in the 350-360 range.

Although about half the materials were checked out to youngsters enrolling in the summer reading program, the rest were checked out by adults.

Both are graduates of Central Michigan University and are teachers.

An Aug. 18 wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glaza

Fiji mums decorated the altar of St. John Catholic church, Ubbly, Saturday, May 26, for the wedding of Suzette Kubacki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kubacki, Ubbly, and Arthur Glaza, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glaza Sr., Minden City.

Father Gerald Kukla officiated for the double ring ceremony.

The bride chose a formal length gown of silk organza over taffeta with a Queen Anne neckline detailed in Venice lace. The empire bodice of English tulle was detailed in embroidery work with a ruffled V of Chantilly lace. It had bishop sleeves detailed in daisy Venice lace. The skirt had a sweeping chapel train with a flounce edged in Venice lace.

Her fingertip veil of English imported illusion, detailed with lace rose appliques fell from a Julia headpiece of Chantilly lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, and ivy.

Musical selections by Sandra Genter were "Wedding Song," "Evergreen," and "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother."

Maid of honor was Joann Kubacki, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Cynthia Kubacki, cousin of the bride, and Rosemary McCullough, friend of the bride.

They were identically attired in long gowns fashioned of Bermuda blue polyester organza, styled with a triple ruffle collar, inset waist, and flared skirt falling to a deep hemline flounce, secured at the back waist to form a double ruffle back bustle.

Their bouquets were white spider mums, pink fuchsias, and blue and yellow daisies. Don Glaza, brother of the groom, was best man.

The groom's mother wore a formal length gown of aqua with a long, sheer cape that was secured at the neckline.

A reception for 175 families was held at St. Joseph's Hall, Argyle.

After a honeymoon trip to Colorado and Wyoming, the couple now reside at 2522 Pringle Road, Ubbly.

The Haire Net

Just when you get to wondering, something happens and you know there is life left in the old burg yet.

Along comes another dose of what's been this community's biggest asset over the years. A massive shot of community interest and cooperation.

The town has gone awhile now without any visible signs that we are still able to get together for an all out effort.

The kind in the past that produced Hills and Dales General Hospital and later its addition. The kind that started Cass City Recreational Park. The kind that brought Anrod, Walbro and General Cable to town.

Now we're proving again that under the placid surface of everyday rural life there's still a strong vibrant current.

This latest manifestation is the upcoming July 4th celebration.

Since it's only a one-day event, it's fair to ask, other than a little fun what's the good? What's the benefit?

Nothing much that you can point a finger at. Maybe a few families will leave after the celebration and feel just a little closer to the community and the businesses in it. Feel that Cass City, after all, does care about them and their families. Maybe not.

The real value will be the work that went into it.

The volunteer work. The cooperative work. All of this started when another mover and shaker in town, Tom Herron, decided the Chamber of Commerce should be revitalized.

In less than six months after the reorganization the membership doubled and the Chamber became a force in town again.

You have to credit Herron and his board for that.

But he couldn't have done it unless the latent support was there when he went to drum it up.

Over the years Cass City has been the envy of many Thumb communities because of its community cooperation.

It's paid off in dollars and cents for all of us who live here. Without good subdivision, good schools, good recreational facilities and good medical facilities you'd have a community with little if any industry and a decaying business community.

That's why it's great to know that we still can drive together for a common goal. It'll make July 4 a bright sunny day for all of us who live here even if it rains.

"If It Fitz..." Winning isn't everything

By Jim Fitzgerald

Sports fans everywhere were shocked when an executive of the New York Cosmos recently told a reporter: "Our team has a record of 9-2, but we could have lost five of those wins."

What kind of jockstrap heresy is that?

Ever since Adam threw out the first ball, the managers and coaches of losing teams have been saying: "Our record is 2-9 but we could have won five of those losses."

It is traditional that a team is never as bad as its record. Barring injuries and bad bounces, every team would win every game.

But Rafael De La Sierra, executive vice-president of the New York Cosmos, claimed his team wasn't as good as its record. He had a special problem.

The Cosmos are in first place in the East Division of the National Conference of the North American Soccer League. They won the league championship last year and also in 1977. The coach who led the Cosmos to all this success is Eddie Firmani.

Firmani was fired last month, and De La Sierra had to explain why. Firmani hadn't mouthed off at his boss, or slugged a sports-writer, a la Billy Martin. Firmani hadn't done anything except win. He said he had "no idea whatsoever why I was fired."

De La Sierra supplied the idea as he put the flip-flop to one of sports' best-known cliches. He said his team could easily have lost most of the games it had won, and he blamed Firmani for not losing them.

De La Sierra didn't say what Firmani's fate would have been if he hadn't won games he could have lost. But if he had lost them, Firmani wouldn't have been worse than his record. De La Sierra probably would have raised his salary and extended his contract for three more years.

The extension would have given Firmani the time a coach needs to develop a team with enough experience to live down to its record, a team that wouldn't befuddle fans by winning games it could easily lose.

De La Sierra's handling of the Firmani firing breaks new ground in sports management. It has always been easy for a team owner to justify dumping a manager for losing. Everybody dumps on a loser. But now De La Sierra has demonstrated how an owner can justify the firing of a winner. All the owner has to do is twist a cliché.

A football team owner, for instance, might explain: "Coach Biffer said he always played one game at a time. I wanted him to play the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers on the same Sunday. He said he could beat any given team on any given Sunday but not until after he'd seen the game films. I fired Biffer for refusing to come inside the stadium until after he'd established his running game."

After firing his manager, a baseball team owner could say: "He was a good manager, but he kept insisting that his players give him a 130 percent effort, even if their contracts called for giving only 115 percent, unless they were Pete Rose who always gives 150 percent. The players' agents complained to me because, in the old days, players were expected to give only 100 percent. I couldn't afford a manager who kept insisting the game wasn't over until the last man was out 130 percent."

You get the idea. Thanks to De La Sierra's pioneering, team owners now realize it's as easy to fire winners as losers. All the owners have to do is tell the fans it's not whether they win or lose, it's how they put on their pants. Onward and upward.

Millions are being sentenced to unemployment by high taxes.

As licensed practical nurse

Bertha Hildinger — Still working at 74

At 74, Bertha Hildinger could consider herself a prime candidate for retirement.

A licensed practical nurse for most of her adult life who presently works full-time at the Provincial House skilled nursing facility in Cass City, Mrs. Hildinger says she is often asked why she doesn't hang up her cap and take life easy.

"My daughter asks me, 'Mom, when are you going to retire and enjoy life?'" she says. "I say, 'I'm enjoying it now the way it is.'"

Four days a week, Mrs. Hildinger reports for her eight-hour shift at Provincial House, acting as an afternoon charge nurse.

FOR ONE YEAR, SHE worked in Morris Hospital in Cass City. Then, in 1948 she purchased the Seeger Street facility, changed its name to Cass City Hospital and with help from her daughter, Iva Mae, ran the hospital until 1962. The facility was transferred to the ownership of a board of directors at that point, and Mrs. Hildinger remained on staff as business manager until it closed five years later.

During that time, she says, at least 3000 births took place at Cass City Hospital. That's why it's not uncommon for her to say to a fellow Provincial House employee, "I was the first person to slap your bottom."

In fact, Mrs. Hildinger says, one of the best things about being a nurse in her earlier years was working with mothers and newborns.

LEARNING TO HANDLE births was just one area that Mrs. Hildinger became familiar with in the 3½ years she spent preparing for a career in nursing. Her schooling wasn't like today's nursing programs, she explained.

"I had a good friend who was a registered nurse and instructor of nursing in a large hospital. She spent a lot of valuable time with me and there wasn't too much I didn't know about nursing when she got through with me."

"But I wasn't a Licensed Practical Nurse in the beginning. In those days you didn't have to be."

When she completed her studies, Mrs. Hildinger immediately went to work and spent the next five years in a position at Sandusky Hospital and later on at Pleasant Home Hospital in Cass City. She didn't take the state exam to become an LPN until 1953 when, under a grandfather clause, she could substitute her early schooling and experience for the regular nursing program that became a state requirement.

"If you had five years' nursing experience, you could take the exam," she explained. "I took it and passed it."

AFTER CASS CITY HOSPITAL closed, the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility in Caro sought her for a staff position, and she spent more than four years there — getting her first experience working with a patient population that included a large number of elderly.

Mrs. Hildinger suffered a setback early in 1972 when she and her husband, Herman, were involved in an auto accident while on their way to visit their daughter in New Mexico. Both of them were injured, with Mrs. Hildinger spending the next 18 months out of work recuperating.

She and her husband live at 4294 Oak Street.

When she recovered, she remembers, "They wanted me to come back to work over at Caro. But I just felt as though I didn't want to drive after that accident. . . I just didn't feel up to it."

In the meantime, Provincial House had opened.

It was on Oct. 8, 1973, that Mrs. Hildinger began working there.

She doesn't have any plans to retire. "I like to see my patients well taken care of," she says. "And I do love these older people. I like to do for them, and I like to be able to sit and talk to them and visit a little bit."

(Written by Kathy Buzzelli-Gibbons, Provincial House public relations.)

STILL WORKING at age 74 is licensed practical nurse Bertha Hildinger, seen here visiting with Provincial House resident Susan Keating.

Cancer crusade drive lagging

Board members of the Tuscola County Unit, American Cancer Society, met at the home of Mrs. Tom Gaudreau for their monthly meeting and reports.

Ione Perry presided, Betty Kochalka gave the treasurer's report and Gail Gengler read the minutes of the last meeting.

It was reported that only $17,367 has been received in this year's crusade, short of the goal of $42,500 that had been set by the Michigan Division. Sandy Gaudreau, crusade chairman, reported that the areas that are being covered are coming through like always, but she has several townships where no one has volunteered to help. If the townships are not covered, it will be the first time in eight or more years the county unit did not make its goal.

At the same time, Service Chairman Mrs. Joe Young announced that the group is presently providing services to more patients than ever before. In 1978, it helped more than 70 patients. She may be called at 868-4415 in Reese for information on service.

Lois Stange announced the cookbooks have now gone on sale. All proceeds from the books will go toward the crusade. They may be obtained from any board member or at the bank in Richville, the First State Bank in Vassar, and several business places in Cass City and Vassar. Plans were made to have a booth at the Caro fair again and to have a stand at the Vassar Heritage Days.

Mrs. Gaudreau reported on many films that were shown. She may be contacted at 823-3126 by organizations needing a speaker or literature for a meeting.

A nominating committee was appointed as election of officers takes place in the June meeting.

Events prove that economy, like honesty, is a good policy.

PEDALING AROUND

Getting tanked

By Mike Eliasohn

Get gassed on gasohol. In a figurative sense, that is what they will be doing in Lansing June 20 at Michigan Gasohol Day, a day-long meeting with various speakers who will discuss the potential benefits of the fuel.

For the unknowing, gasohol is a mixture of 90 percent unleaded gasoline and 10 percent grain alcohol.

Not only will it make your car run better, its backers say it provides a new market for farm products and reduces our nation's dependence on imported fuels.

That's the good part, but at this point, I wouldn't rush off to Caro, Bad Axe or Deckerville, the nearest places where the fuel is sold, to buy the stuff.

The reason is that with the present technology being used to produce alcohol, more energy is being consumed than is being produced.

According to a report by the Department of Agricultural Economics at the University of Nebraska, "even when ignoring the energy investment required in corn production (that used by farmers), the process of ethanol manufacturing consumes 1.6 BTU (British Thermal Unit) for every BTU available in the alcohol. If fossil fuels are used within the alcohol plant, the process is clearly energy inefficient and non-renewable."

At Midwest Solvents in Atchison, Kansas, one of the largest fermenters of grain alcohol in the U.S., 150,000 BTUs of heat energy supplied by fossil fuels are being used to make one gallon of alcohol that has a heat value of 90,000 BTUs.

Thus, buying gasohol now means you are actually consuming more in conventional fuels than is being saved.

All is not hopeless, however. What is needed is an alternative fuel to burn in the distilling process.

Being talked about in Michigan by potential investors is an alcohol production plant combined with a cattle feedlot. Cattle manure could be used to produce methane, which would be the heat source needed for distilling.

If corn were used for the raw product, one bushel, when fermented by yeast, would produce 2.6 gallons of ethanol, 17 pounds of distillers' grains and 16 pounds of carbon dioxide.

The distillers' grains, which contain 28 percent protein, can be fed back to the cattle. The carbon dioxide, if produced in large enough volumes, can be sold.

Then there is Lance Crombie.

For a total investment of about $18, the Webster, Minn., farmer built a sun-powered still that produces 8-10 gallons of alcohol a day.

Now he's going big time. For an investment of about $1,500, he's going to convert one of his outbuildings into a double-stage solar still that will produce 10,000-20,000 gallons of alcohol per year.

Crombie is not an advocate of gasohol, however. Why bother, he says, when he can use pure alcohol instead.

To be mixed with gasoline, the alcohol needs further refining to remove water. For his own purposes, and presumably for others, the water doesn't hurt anything. Crombie uses his home brew in both his car and furnace.

One of the beauties of his solar still is that it works on a larger scale is that no massive investment and big feedlot is needed. There could be lots of little plants instead of a few massive ones which require the processed fuel to be transported hundreds of miles.

There is also a question about the effect that use of alcohol fuels on a large scale would have on market prices.

Production of 340 million gallons of alcohol a year, according to the University of Nebraska report, would increase the price of corn by 25 cents per bushel, but that would increase the cost of producing ethanol by about 10 cents per gallon.

All that ethanol would mean 1.6 million tons of distillers' grains to dispose of, four times as much as is being produced now.

That would increase the total supply of high protein feedstuffs by 5 percent and could result in a drop in soybean prices of as much as 50 cents per bushel unless overseas markets for the distillers' grains could be found.

Car vandal damages lawns

A car-driving vandal caused damage in the parking lot at General Cable Friday evening and damaged the lawn at the Walbro plant across Garfield Street.

According to Cass City police and witnesses, the car first did some "doughnuts" in the General Cable lot, leaving tire marks, then went into a field west of the lot. It broke the curb on the lot edge before entering the field.

In leaving the field, it ran over and broke a utility pole guy wire. It crossed the street and drove onto the front lawn at Walbro. The car, described as a red Ford Torino, tore up the sod and ran over a lawn sprinkler.

Ervin Holder of 6444 W. Seventh Street, reported to village police May 28 that a 3 horsepower Gamble's lawnmower had been stolen from his unlocked shed. It was valued at $83.

Gagetown man dies in Saginaw crash

A Gagetown man was killed and a Sebawaing man critically injured when the car they were riding in struck a train near Saginaw early Friday.

Killed was Arthur S. Cooley Jr., 57, of 4030 Maxwell Road. As of Tuesday, the driver of the vehicle, Jess W. Story, 63, was still reported in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw.

According to Buena Vista township police, their car was northbound on N. Portsmouth Road, a half-mile south of M-81, when it failed to stop and struck the westbound Chessie System train.

The crossing is about four miles from the Saginaw Steering Gear plant where the two men were employed on the second shift. Cooley was a millwright there.

The crossing did not have warning lights, police said. The Buena Vista Fire Department, assisted by Saginaw Mercy Ambulance attendants, worked for about an hour with the Jaws of Life rescue tool to free the pair. The accident occurred at 12:06 a.m.

Cooley was born Dec. 3, 1922 in Grant township, the son of Arthur and Hazel Cooley Sr.

He and Anna I. LaVeque were married May 16, 1948 in West Branch. He was a World War II veteran.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Cynthia M. Schweitzer, Essexville, and Mrs. Robert (Debra) Muter, Standish; two brothers, Fred W. Cooley, Owendale, and John B. Cooley, Fairfax, Iowa, and two sisters, Mrs. Roy (Ina) Greenfield, Millington, and Mrs. Jack (Sarah) Angel, Greenville, Calif.

Funeral services were held Monday from the Schultz Funeral Home, Sebawaing. Burial was in Grant cemetery, Owendale.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

An accident at 8:40 p.m. Wednesday, June 6, sent two people to the hospital.

Kirk C. Brown, 17, of Caro, was transferred from Caro Community Hospital to St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, where he was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon.

His passenger, Douglas E. Mills, 20, of 3846 N. Cemetery Road, Cass City, was treated and released from the Caro Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said their car was southbound on Bruisee Road when it struck a vehicle westbound on Bliss Road which had pulled into the intersection after stopping at the yield sign.

Grant township road vote Monday

Voters in Grant township will be asked Monday to approve a two-mill levy for three years to pay for road improvements and repairs.

Polls at the township hall will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

The added millage, if approved, will bring in $21,178 the first year (two mills times the township's 1979 equalized valuation of $10.59 million).

The decision to seek the extra millage was made at the annual township meeting March 31, Supervisor Helen Ellicott said. The budget presented at that meeting included $30,000 for roads from the township general fund. It was felt more money than that is necessary in order to make all needed repairs, she explained.

If approved, the millage won't be collected the first time until it appears on December tax bills, thus the added revenue can't be spent before 1980. Therefore, the board doesn't have to decide until then what roads the added money will be spent on.

ORDINANCE NO. 88

AN ORDINANCE PRESCRIBING THE COMPLETE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT PROCEDURE CONCERNING THE KINDS OF LOCAL PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS FOR WHICH ASSESSMENTS MAY BE MADE, THE PREPARING OF PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS, ESTIMATE OF COSTS, NOTICE AND HEARING, THE MAKING OF THE ASSESSMENT ROLL, COLLECTION OF THE ASSESSMENT ROLL, THE ASSESSMENT OF SINGLE LOTS OR PARCELS, THE AUTHORIZATION OF ADDITIONAL ASSESSMENTS, AND ANY OTHER MATTERS CONCERNING THE MAKING OF IMPROVEMENTS BY SPECIAL ASSESSMENT.

The Village of Cass City Ordains:

Section 1. Definition of Terms.
A. Costs. The term "cost" as used in this ordinance when referring to the cost of any local public improvement shall include the cost of services, plans, condemnation, spreading of rolls, notices, advertising, financing, construction, legal fees, interest on special assessment bonds for not to exceed one year and all other costs incident to the making of such improvement, the special assessments therefor and the financing thereof.

B. Local Public Improvement. The term "local public improvement" as used in this ordinance shall mean any public improvement, any part of the cost of which is to be assessed against one or more lots or parcels of land to be especially benefited thereby, in proportion to the benefits derived therefrom.

Section 2. Council Authority.
A. The Village Council shall have the power to assess and re-assess the cost, or any portion thereof, of any local public improvement to the property especially benefited by resolution in the manner hereinafter provided.

B. The Village Council, in order to ascertain whether or not a reasonable number of property owners to be assessed desire any particular improvements to be made, may request and receive a petition therefor, or may receive such a petition voluntarily presented by property owners whose aggregate property in the proposed district was assessed for not less than fifty-one (51%) percent of the total assessed value of the privately owned real property located therein, as shown by the last preceding general tax records of the Village. Such petition shall contain a brief description of the property owned by the respective signatories thereof and if it shall appear that the petition is signed by at least fifty-one (51%) percent as aforesaid, the Clerk shall certify same to the Village Council. The petition shall be addressed to the Village Council and filed with the Clerk and shall in no event be considered directory but as advisory only.

Section 3. Preliminary Proceedings.
A. Before the Village Council shall consider the making of any local improvement, the Village Council shall cause to be prepared a report which shall include necessary plans, profiles, specifications and detailed estimates of cost, an estimate of the life of the improvement, a description of the assessment district or districts, and such other pertinent information as will permit the Village Council to decide the cost, extent and necessity of the improvement proposed, what part or proportion thereof should be paid by special assessments upon the property especially benefited and what part, if any, should be paid by the Village at large, and determine the number of installments upon which assessments may be paid. The Village Council shall not finally determine to proceed with the making of any local public improvement until such report has been filed, nor until after a public hearing has been held by the Village Council for the purpose of hearing objections to the making of such improvement.

C. At the public hearing on the proposed improvement, all persons interested shall be given an opportunity to be heard, after which the Village Council may modify the scope of the local public improvement in such a manner as they shall deem to be in the best interest of the Village as a whole; provided that if the amount of work is increased or additions are made to the district, then another hearing shall be held pursuant to notice prescribed in Section 6(B).

D. If at, or prior to, the final confirmation of any special assessments, the owners of privately owned real property to be assessed for more than fifty (50%) percent of the cost of an improvement, or in the case of paving or similar improvements the owners of more than fifty (50%) percent of the frontage to be assessed for any such improvement, shall object in writing to the proposed improvement the improvement shall not be made by the Village Council, provided that this section shall not apply to sidewalk construction.

Section 4. Village Council Determination.
A. After the report required in Section 3 has been received and a public hearing held, the Village Council may, by resolution, determine to make the improvement and to defray the whole or any part of the cost of the improvement by special assessment upon the property especially benefited in proportion to the benefits thereof. By such resolution the Village Council shall approve the plans and specifications for the improvement; determine the estimated cost thereof; determine the proportion of such cost to be paid by special assessment upon the property especially benefited and what part, if any, shall be general obligation of the Village; determine the number of installments in which assessments may be paid; determine the rate of interest to be charged on installments, not to exceed ten (10%) percent per annum; designate the district or land and premises upon which special assessments shall be levied; and direct the Village Assessor to prepare a special assessment roll in accordance with the Village Council's determination.

B. Notwithstanding any provision of this section, the Village Council may, in its discretion, delay the preparation of the special assessment roll until after the completion of the improvement, in which case, the actual cost thereof shall be reported to the Village Council, and the special assessment roll shall be then made for such actual cost rather than for the estimated cost as in other cases.

Section 5. Special Assessment Roll.
A. The Assessor shall make a special assessment roll of all lots and parcels of land within the designated district benefited by the proposed improvement and assess to each lot or parcel of land the proportionate amount benefited thereby. The amount spread in each case shall be based upon the detailed estimate of cost as approved by the Village Council.

B. When the Assessor shall have completed such assessment roll he shall file the same with the Village Clerk for presentation to the Village Council for review and certification by it.

Section 6. Hearing and Confirmation.
A. Upon receipt of the special assessment roll, the Village Council, by resolution, shall accept the assessment roll and order it to be filed in the office of the Village Clerk for public examination, shall fix the time and place the Village Council will meet to review such special assessment roll and direct the Village Clerk to give notice of a public hearing for the purpose of affording an opportunity for interested persons to be heard. The notice shall be given by publication one, at least ten (10) full days prior to the date of the hearing, in a newspaper published or circulated within the Village and by first class mail addressed to each owner of or person in interest in property to be assessed as shown by the last general tax assessment roll of the Village, mailed at least ten (10) days prior to the date of the hearing. The hearing required by this section may be held at any regular, adjourned or special meeting of the Council. At this meeting, any persons deeming themselves aggrieved by the special assessment roll shall present their objections thereto in writing with the Village Clerk prior to the close of said hearing, which written objections shall specify in what respect they deem themselves aggrieved. The Assessor shall be present at every meeting of the Village Council at which a special assessment is to be reviewed.

B. The Village Council shall meet at the time and place designated for the review of such special assessment roll, and at such meeting, or a proper adjournment thereof, shall consider all objections thereto submitted in writing. The Council may correct the roll as to any special assessment or description of any lot or parcel of land or other errors appearing therein; or it may, by resolution, annul the assessment roll and direct that new proceedings be instituted. The same proceedings shall be followed in making a new roll as in the making of the original roll. If, after hearing all objections and making a record of such changes as the Council deems justified, the Council determines that it is satisfied with the special assessment roll and that assessments are in proportion to benefits received, it shall thereupon pass a resolution reciting such determinations, confirming such roll, placing it on file in the office of the Village Clerk and directing the Village Clerk to attach his warrant to a certified copy thereof within ten (10) days therein commanding the Assessor to spread and the Treasurer to collect the various sums and amounts appearing thereon as directed by the Council. The roll shall have the date of confirmation endorsed thereon and shall from that date be final and conclusive for the purpose of the improvement to which it applies.

Section 7. Assessing Single Lots.
A. When any expense shall have been incurred by the Village upon or in respect to any single premises, which expense is chargeable against such premises and the owner thereof, and is not of that class required to be prorated among several lots and parcels of land in a special assessment district, an account of the labor, material or service for which such expense was incurred, with a description of the premises upon or in respect to which the expense was incurred, and the name of the owner, if known, shall be reported to the Village Clerk who shall immediately charge and bill the owner, if known. The Assessor shall annually on or before January 15, or at such other times as he may deem advisable, prepare a special assessment roll covering all such charges which shall not have been paid. Said roll shall be filed with the clerk who shall present the same to the Village Council.

B. The provisions of the preceding sections of this article with reference to special assessments generally and the proceedings necessary to be had before making the improvements shall not apply to assessments contemplated in the above subsection.

C. Upon confirmation of any special assessment roll authorized by this section, the Village Council shall determine the number of installments in which assessments may be paid and the rate of interest to be charged on installments, but not to exceed ten (10%) percent per annum.

Section 8. Attachment of Lien. All special assessments contained in any special assessment roll, including any part thereof deferred as to payment, shall, from the date of confirmation of such roll, constitute a lien upon the respective lots or parcels of land assessed and until paid shall be a charge against the respective owners of the several lots and parcels of land. Such lien shall be of the same character and effect as the lien created for Village taxes and shall include accrued interest and penalties. No judgment or decree, nor any act of the Village Council vacating a special assessment, shall destroy or impair the lien of the Village upon the premises assessed for such amount of the assessment as may be equitably charged against the same, or as by a regular mode of proceeding might be lawfully assessed thereon.

Section 9. Payment of Special Assessments.
A. All special assessments, except such installments thereof as the Council shall make payable at a future time as provided in this ordinance, shall be due and payable upon confirmation of the special assessment roll.

B. After the Village Council has confirmed the roll, the Village Treasurer shall notify by first class mail each property owner on said roll that said roll has been filed, stating the amount assessed and the terms of payment, and shall give notice by one publication in a newspaper published or circulated within the Village that said special assessment roll has been filed in his office and specifying when and where payment shall be made. Failure on the part of the Village Treasurer to give said notice or of such owner to receive said notice shall not invalidate any special assessment roll of the Village or any assessment thereon, nor excuse the payment of interest or penalties.

C. The Village Council may provide for the payment of special assessments in annual installments. Such annual installments shall not exceed ten (10) percent of the full amount of the assessment, the first installment being due upon confirmation of the roll or on such date as the Village Council may determine and deferred installments being due annually thereafter, or in the discretion of the Village Council, may be spread upon and made a part of each annual Village tax roll thereafter until all are paid. Interest shall be charged on all deferred installments at a rate not to exceed ten (10%) percent per annum, or such other rate as may be established by the Village Council in accordance with state statute, commencing on the due date of the first installment, or ninety (90) days after the date of confirmation if the first installment is not due upon confirmation, and payable on the due date of each subsequent installment. The full amount of any deferred installments, with interest accrued thereon to the date of payment, may be paid in advance of the due dates thereof. If the full assessment or the first installment thereof shall be due upon confirmation, each property owner shall have ninety (90) days from the date of confirmation to pay the full amount of said assessment, or the full amount of any installments thereof, without interest or penalty. Following said ninety (90) day period, the assessment or first installment thereof shall, if unpaid, be considered as delinquent and the same penalties shall be collected on such unpaid assessments or first installments thereof as are provided by law to be collected on delinquent general Village taxes. Deferred installments shall be collected without penalty until ninety (90) days after the due date thereof, after which time such installments shall be considered as delinquent and such penalties on said installments shall be collected as are provided by law to be collected on delinquent general Village taxes.

Section 10. Delinquent Special Assessments. Any assessment or part thereof, remaining unpaid in the first Monday of March following the date when the same became delinquent shall be reported as unpaid by the Treasurer to the Village Council. Any such delinquent assessment, together with all accrued interest shall be transferred and reassessed on the next annual Village tax roll in a column headed "Special Assessments" with a penalty of four (4%) percent upon such total amount added thereto, and when so transferred and reassessed upon said tax roll shall be collected in all respects as provided for the collection of Village taxes.

Section 11. Additional Assessments. Refunds. The Village Clerk shall within sixty (60) days after the completion of each local or special public improvement, compile the actual cost thereof and certify the same to the Assessor who shall adjust the special assessment roll to correspond therewith. Should the assessment prove larger than necessary by less than five (5%) percent the same shall be reported to the Council which may place the excess in the Village Treasury or make a refund thereof pro rata according to the assessment. If the assessment exceeds the amount necessary by five (5%) percent or more, the entire excess shall be credited to owners of property as shown by the Village assessment roll upon which such assessment has been levied, pro rata according to the assessment. No refunds of special assessments may be made which impair, or contravene the provision of any outstanding obligation or bond secured in whole or part by such special assessments. In the case of assessments due in installments the Village Council may order the refund given by credit against the installments last coming due. When any special assessment roll shall prove insufficient to meet the cost of the improvement for which it was made, the Village Council may make an additional pro rata assessment, but the total amount assessed against any one parcel of land shall not exceed the benefits received by said lot or parcel of land.

Section 12. Special Assessment Accounts. Monies received by special assessment to pay the cost of any local improvements shall be held in a special fund to pay such cost or to repay any money borrowed therefor. Each special assessment account must be used only for the improvement project for which the assessment was levied, expenses incidental thereto, including the repayment of the principal and interest on money borrowed therefor, and to refund excessive assessments, if refunds be authorized.

Section 13. Contested Assessments. An action may not be instituted for the purpose of contesting or enjoining the collection of a special assessment unless: (a) Within 45 days after the confirmation of the special assessment roll, written notice is given to the Village Council indicating an intention to file such an action and stating the grounds on which it is claimed that the assessment is illegal; and (b) the action is commenced within 90 days after the confirmation of the roll.

Section 14. Reassessment in Event of Invalidity. If a portion of an assessment roll is determined to be illegal, in whole or in part, or whenever the Village Council shall deem any special assessment invalid for any reason whatever, in whole or in part, the Village Council may revoke its confirmation, correct the illegality or defect, if possible, or reconfirm it. Property which is not involved in the illegality may not be assessed more than was imposed upon the original confirmation without further notice and hearing thereon as provided for in the original assessment. If any portion of the original assessment shall have been collected and not refunded, it shall be applied upon the reassessment and the reassessment shall to that extent be deemed satisfied. If more than the amount reassessed shall have been collected, the balance shall be refunded to the persons making such payment.

Section 15. Collection by Court Action. In addition to any other remedies and without impairing the lien thereon, any delinquent special assessment, together with interest and penalties, may be collected as delinquent Village property taxes or by a suit at law in the name of the Village against the person assessed, in any court having jurisdiction of the amount. If in any such action it shall appear that by reason of any irregularities or informances the assessment has not been properly made against the defendant or upon the premises sought to be charged, the court may, nevertheless, on satisfactory proof that expense has been incurred by the Village which is a proper charge against the defendant or the premises in question, render judgment for the amount properly chargeable against such defendant or upon such premises.

Section 16. Combination of Projects. The Village Council may combine several districts into one project for the purpose of effecting a saving in the costs. There shall be established for each district separate funds and accounts to cover the cost of the same.

Section 17. Division of Parcels. Should any lots or lands be divided after a special assessment thereon has been confirmed and divided into installments, the Assessor shall apportion the uncollected amounts upon the several lots and lands so divided, and shall enter the several amounts as amendments upon the special assessment roll. The Village Treasurer shall, within ten (10) days after such apportionment, send notice of such action to the persons concerned at their last known address by first class mail. Said apportionment shall be final and conclusive on all parties unless protest in writing is received by the Village Treasurer within twenty (20) days of the mailing of the aforesaid notice.

Section 18. Severability, Inconsistent Ordinances Repealed, Headings. Should any section, clause or provision of this ordinance be declared by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, the same shall not affect the validity of the ordinance as a whole or any part thereof, other than the part so declared to be invalid.

All ordinances or resolutions or part of ordinances or resolutions inconsistent with this ordinance are hereby repealed. Section headings are furnished for convenience only and shall not be construed as a part of the ordinance.

Section 19. This ordinance shall be known and may be cited as the "Special Assessment Ordinance" of the Village of Cass City, Michigan.

OTHER ITEMS

A new language program, including penmanship and spelling, was adopted for grades K-6, which will be in conjunction with the reading program. Elementary Principal William Britt said the program will cost $2,000 the first year -- $800 more than would have been spent on the previously used workbooks and other materials -- but in the long run will save money.

Erickson reported that after about $30,000 in bills are paid for the high school addition, there will be about $100,000 left in bonding issue funds, enough to pave the bus driveway area, finish a hallway ceiling and fix an old building roof "unless we get zinged by CCI."

Construction Coordinators Inc., which coordinated the building project, claims it is owed $43,000 in additional fees. The district disagrees.

Barring changes, the 1979-80 school year will start for students Sept. 5. Christmas vacation will be Dec. 22-Jan. 1. The last day of classes will be June 6.

May student of the month was Doug Laurie.

Craig is a member of the Cass City Lions and the Chamber of Commerce. His wife, Ann, works at Rawson Memorial Library and a daughter, Barbara, is a student at Cass City Intermediate School.

Cass City Steel Supply, Inc., opened in Cass City in 1969 but the owners of the company have been in business in Cass City for many more years than that.

One of the founders of the business was Harold Craig who had been in the bridge construction business here many years before Steel Supply was formed.

That's why the present manager, Tom Craig, was well known before he returned to the community to manage the business. The company sells hydraulic hoses and fittings, oxygen and acetylene corrugated metal pipe and drainage products. It also offers steel sheet piling and steel to local and county customers.

Games highlight last day before summer vacation for elementary students

THE SCHOOL YEAR at Evergreen Elementary School came to an end last Wednesday with holding of field games for all students. This was the start of a dash.

BACKWARD MOTION -- This was the backward crawl at Evergreen. Similar field games were held Monday, June 11, at Deford Elementary.

PLAYING OUTDOORS -- Who wants to spend the final day of school indoors? With Campbell Elementary first graders already holding a picnic lunch in the village park last Wednesday, vocal music teacher Jim Hobbs took his guitar and joined them for what otherwise would have been an indoor class after lunch.

THREE DOWN -- For lack of a better title, this was the three-legged sack race at Evergreen.

ISD opens bids for vo-ed building

How close the cost of the county vocational education center will be to the almost $2.8 million estimate will be known Tuesday when the Tuscola County Intermediate School District (ISD) Board of Education awards construction bids.

Bids in approximately 40 different categories were opened Tuesday of this week.

According to William L. Pratt, ISD director of vocational and career education, some of the bids appeared lower than estimates and some higher. There were numerous bidders in the various categories "and that's going to help us."

The construction management firm, Elzinga and Volkers, took all the bids back to its Holland office for study.

It will have its recommendations on which bids to award, and thus the total cost, ready for the special meeting Tuesday.

The nearly $2.8 million estimate includes building equipment.

Voters in April, 1978 approved a 1.75 mill levy to pay the local share for construction and operation of the center, with federal funds to pay the rest of construction cost and state money paying part of the operating cost.

The center will be able to provide training for about 900 county students per day in 24 job skills.

Once bids are awarded, Pratt said, excavation work could get underway within a few days.

The building is scheduled to open in September, 1980. It will be built on Cleaver Road on the east side of Caro.

Homemakers set plans for tours

An area council meeting of the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers was held May 23 at the Charmont, Cass City.

The area council is made up of the executive committees of the Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola County Extension Councils. There were 11 members and two extension home economists present.

Chairman Jean Clarke, Cass City, conducted the meeting. Plans were made to have three tri-county programs for the 1979-1980 year. A fall tour to New York City is planned for September, a Mini-College Day at Cass City High School in October, and International Night, with the focus on Germany, in March.

Election of officers was conducted and the new officers are: Mrs. Lyle (Jean) Clarke, Tuscola and Sanilac, chairperson; Mrs. John (Charlene) Richter, Sanilac, vice-chairperson; Mrs. Charles (Onalee) Bendrey, Huron, secretary, and Mrs. Alan (Jean) Houghtaling, Tuscola, treasurer.

Area program of work chairpersons were also appointed from each county. The district meeting will be held Aug. 29 at Corunna, at which time there will be a short area meeting to finalize plans for Mini-College Day. All area officers and area program of work chairpersons are to attend.

Extension Home Economist advisors for the group are Brenda White, Huron county and Peggy Houck, Tuscola and Sanilac.

Hospital finishes year well in black

Report of an excess of revenues over expenses totalling $109,039 highlighted the annual meeting of the Hills and Dales General Hospital board Tuesday night.

The amount was about $75,000 less than last year's excess of $183,909, said Robert Tuckey, certified public accountant, who presented the annual hospital financial report at the meeting.

Part of the decrease he said is caused by the construction of the $1.5 million ambulatory care facility currently underway that will also include a four-bed intensive care unit.

Board President James Bauer commended the hospital staff for their patience in dealing with the construction and thanked them for a successful year.

"It certainly hasn't been easy," Bauer said, "but the people here are dedicated and willing to meet the challenge."

Blood check on Thursday

The Thumb Area Commission on Aging is sponsoring a blood pressure clinic this Thursday at 1 p.m.

It will be held as part of the American Association of Retired Persons meeting at Good Shepherd Lutheran church, Cass City.

Three board members were up for re-election and were unanimously elected to remain on the hospital board, Philip R. Keating, B. A. Calka and Lee Rabideau were re-elected to their positions.

Hospital administrator Ken Jensen gave his third annual chief executive report and commended the Hospital Auxiliary for the work it did during the past year.

"These 12 women volunteers have done a tremendous job through the gift shop and the volunteer messenger service," Jensen said. "I think it's an indication of a bright and hopeful future ahead."

He also complimented the people involved in the hospital fund drive for their soliciting of pledges in the community.

Jensen said the key to any successful hospital today is to maintain cost and have happy patients.

"The commitment the 153 people on the staff give to those in the hospital combine for the success we experience."

FAIR BOOTH -- Louis Ouvry (left) built the Chamber of Commerce booth for the July 4th festival and Joe Stanko did the lettering. Festival souvenirs will be sold from the booth, which will also be the lost and found. The booth comes apart for easy storage.

Urge alcohol abuse campaign

Carrying extra gas can be dangerous killed annually in Michigan accidents involving a drinking driver.

The conference, called by Secretary of State Richard Austin, urged that the .10 level of blood alcohol be made conclusive rather than presumptive evidence of driving under the influence.

Further, the group urged driver education programs include instruction on the effects of driving under the influence, that health care providers be encouraged to inform patients of the effect of prescribed drugs on humans when combined with alcohol and that criminal justice personnel be given more education on the effect of alcohol on drivers.

Carrying containers of gasoline in a car or truck or storing it at home as a precaution against a possible gasoline shortage can be dangerous, according to the Michigan State Police.

Gasoline is highly volatile. It vaporizes at relatively low temperatures.

The vapors are heavier than air and will seek the lowest point of a surface. They are easily ignited and will burn violently with explosive force.

If gasoline must be carried in a vehicle or kept at home, compliance with the Michigan Flammable Liquids Regulations is recommended for reasons of safety, as well as because it is the state law.

Approved portable gasoline containers must be of substantial metal construction with all opening equipped with liquid-tight screws or spring metal caps or covers, painted bright red and be lettered with the words "gasoline," "naphtha" or "benzene."

No more than six gallons of gasoline in approved containers can be carried in a passenger vehicle or passenger compartment of a truck. Containers must be removed from the vehicle to be filled.

Large portable flammable liquid containers can be no more than 60 gallons, must meet the same requirements as those for small containers, and must be secured to the vehicle in an appropriate manner.

Six gallons of gasoline in an approved container can be stored in a private dwelling, provided it is in a room vented to the outside and away from a source of ignition. It cannot be stored in a basement or pit.

Quantities over six gallons must be stored outside, at least 40 feet from any building and 25 feet from property lines and must be approved by local authorities.

Patnaude joins Pinney Bank staff

Management at The Pinney State Bank has announced the arrival of a new employee, Jude T. Patnaude, who joined its work force June 1, as a vice-president. His duties will be in the accounting and lending functions of the bank.

Patnaude is a graduate of Cass City High School, following which he attended Michigan State University, where he acquired a degree in Business Administration.

He has been working in the Detroit area, first employed by Arthur Anderson & Company, certified public accountants. More recently his employer has been Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, an affiliate of Michigan Consolidated Gas Company. His first position was as Senior Staff Accountant, later promoted to the position of supervisor, financial research.

Patnaude and his wife, Deanna, live in Cass City.

Mandated cost program okayed

A proposal implementing the mandated costs feature of the tax limitation constitutional amendment approved by voters last fall has been unanimously approved by a special joint House-Senate committee.

The mandated cost feature requires the state to pay local governments for those costs mandated by legislation or state rules.

The so-called Headlee amendment has tied up the Legislature in knots as implementation has not come easily as legislative leaders are struggling to determine all the ramifications of the amendment.

The budget writing process has all but ground to a halt because any new program must be state funded and the upcoming budget year is all important as it is the basis on which future state budgets will be written.

The mandated cost proposal defines those costs, required or implied, that do and do not require state payments.

Such costs will include regulations required or implied by the federal government, costs brought on by statutes approved by referendum and costs due to court requirements.

"This proposal is only for the purpose of getting action," Rep. Richard Young (D-Deerborn Heights), co-chairman of the committee, said. He noted this bill is only a starting point.

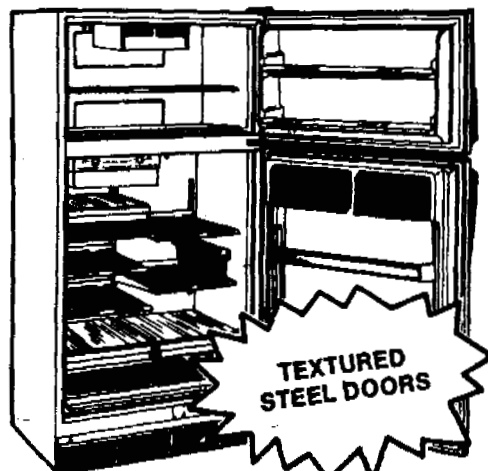

The committee has not completed work on another section of the tax limitation amendment prohibiting the state from reducing the proportional share of its budget going to local governments. A separate proposal is before the committee now for study.

Sen. Gary Corbin (D-Clion) chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said drafting a proposal for mandated costs was more difficult than drafting a proposal for the controversial millage rollback section of the tax limitation amendment.

Leaders of the tax limitation drive have not indicated if they will support the proposal as it comes from the committee for drafting into specific legislation.

Walbro de Mexico ships millionth carburetor

"When we recently shipped the 1,000,000th diaphragm carburetor from our subsidiary Walbro de Mexico, it marked more than a production milestone."

uity of delivery to carburetor customers throughout the Americas, Europe, and Asia."

Walbro de Mexico Vice-President-General Manager Walker Matlack pointed out this subsidiary at Nogales, Mexico went "on line" at the turn of 1977-78. Today, it is a fully integrated manufacturing operation with engineering, purchasing, machining, assembly, testing, quality control, and service capabilities.

Walbro Corporation has similar carburetor facilities at Cass City as well as at two other subsidiaries: Walbro Far East, Kawasaki City, Japan and Walbro Singapore Pte. Ltd., Republic of Singapore. Also, Walbro GmbH, Stuttgart (Wolfschlugen) West Germany provides Sales and Engineering Services to customers in Europe.

Walker Matlack, vice-president-general manager of Walbro de Mexico, pauses with inspector Leticia Primero to note the one-millionth diaphragm carburetor shipped from that facility. A fully integrated manufacturing operation, Walbro de Mexico is one of four off-shore subsidiaries of the Corporation.

Energy shortage may give power to Gov. Milliken

By Warren M. Hoyt
Michigan Press Association

Although the 1979 legislative session appears to be slow starting, the 80th Legislature is meeting head on an issue affecting the daily lives of all Michigan residents -- an impending energy emergency.

The legislature is in the process of taking action to give the governor the power to declare an energy emergency and give him broad powers to take appropriate steps.

The legislation (SB 244) has already passed the Senate and is under immediate consideration in the House.

The potential problems of an energy shortage are believed to be serious enough by the Legislature that the 148-member body seems willing to do something they seldom like to do. That is to give the governor certain powers normally left to the legislature.

Under the legislation, the governor would be permitted to declare an energy emergency for a period of 60 days and then to take immediate actions to help the state through the crisis period.

The bill provides for an energy advisory committee, however, the governor would be allowed to declare an emergency without their advice or consultation if he so determines.

One of the major controversies surrounding the legislation was establishing driver penalty points for violation of an energy speed limit during the period of the declared emergency.

The Michigan State Police says without penalty points, enforcement of an energy speed limit would be difficult. Representatives from the department indicate drivers who can afford to take the chance of speeding will continue to do so in light of an energy emergency.

The Senate removed the points provision prior to passing the bill, but House leadership has declared they would support reinserting the violation points when considering the bill on the House side.

After declaring an emergency, the governor has the powers, besides lowering the speed limit, to restrict the use and sale of energy resources, restrict interior temperatures, lighting and hours of operation of public, commercial, industrial and school buildings, set conditions on hours and days during which energy resources may be sold, restrict the use of privately-owned vehicles and restrict the use of public transportation facilities.

The governor also has the authority to direct energy resources be sent to so-called "essential services" to protect the health, safety and welfare of the public.

Such essential services include medical facilities, police, fire and emergency vehicles, food growers, processors, wholesalers and distributors, newspapers and radio and television stations to keep lines of communications open.

The Michigan Consumers Council has issued a consumer card -- much like a business card -- to aid Michigan residents in calling the state Guideline, a toll-free telephone service.

According to Consumers Council Executive Director Linda Joy, the card provides a ready reference to the Guideline number and carries a list of services available through the council.

"We've found that consumers can often resolve their own complaints if they have the right kind of counseling and information. That's exactly what we try to provide. And the Guideline allows every Michigan consumer to call for advice at no charge," Joy said.

Five consumer counselors answer the Guideline, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

The cards are available at no cost by calling the Guideline at 1-800-292-5680 or writing the Council at 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan, Lansing 48933.

Walbro tells details of research center

Walbro Corporation has a new corporate research and development capability which has been operating for slightly over a year. The formal acknowledgement was made by L. E. Althaver, president and chief operating officer of the Walbro Corporation, at the recent annual stockholders' meeting.

"Though activation of the group was some time ago, delay of the formal announcement was intentional," said Althaver. The company had given C. H. "Chuck" Tuckey, vice-president of the R & D Group, a broad range of areas to cover. "And we didn't want to overload the group before it got under way." Althaver also pointed out the R & D Group has its own building in Caro, with its own design section, model shop, and a growing array of custom-built test equipment.

Commenting on the new R & D directives from Walbro management, Chuck Tuckey explained, the operations fall into three general categories:

"We work on a project basis for the Walbro Automotive Products Group and the Walbro Carburetor Group to develop new products or with them and their customers to improve product applicability, specific performance levels and serviceability factors. Also, we cooperate with the engineering and production staffs of the APG and Carburetor Group to recommend new materials and methods to contain production costs, help offset the rising costs of goods and services."

"Our second area of operations," continues Tuckey, "is to work directly with prospective customers' R & D or product development people." In this respect, he noted the Walbro R & D Group was now working closely with a Big 3 automaker on development of a forthcoming highly improved fuel system... is heavily engaged with several manufacturers of winter sport vehicles to redesign and test carburetors which will permit substantially more design freedom for the next generation of their vehicles.

According to Tuckey, a third and equally important function for the Walbro R & D group will be to develop or to monitor and evaluate new ideas and innovations... do the spadework that will lead to development and marketing of new proprietary products by the Walbro Corporation.

NEW ENGINEER

Edward A. Hantle has joined Walbro Corporation's R & D Center as a Senior Project Engineer. He will be reporting to Charles H. Tuckey, vice-president, Research and Development.

Prior to joining Walbro, Hantle had gained eight years' experience as an automotive diagnostician, most recently working for an automotive products division of Borg Warner. He received his B.S. degree in Industrial-Mechanical Engineering from Illinois State University.

Hantle, 28, his wife, and their three children live in Caro.

Which way for school enrollments?

Ellen Toner prediction based on long study

In comparison to some large school districts faced with closing of buildings because of declining enrollments, the Cass City district's problems aren't as severe.

However, debate over what to do about the kindergarten classes at Evergreen and Deford Elementary Schools -- terminating one or both -- has focused attention on problems resulting from declining enrollments.

One who has examined the problem, with an eye toward making some general predictions about future enrollment trends, is Ellen Toner. She views the question from two vantage points, that of a mother of two students in the Cass City schools and as a sociology student.

She and her husband Dan have two children. Danielle will be an eighth grader in the fall; Todd will be a senior. The family lives on Doerr Road.

Mrs. Toner is also studying sociology and history at Delta College part-time and expects to get her associate degree in December. She then plans to work towards her bachelor's degree at Saginaw Valley State College.

IT WAS A QUESTION she missed on a sociology examination at Delta that got her interested in the topic of declining school enrollments.

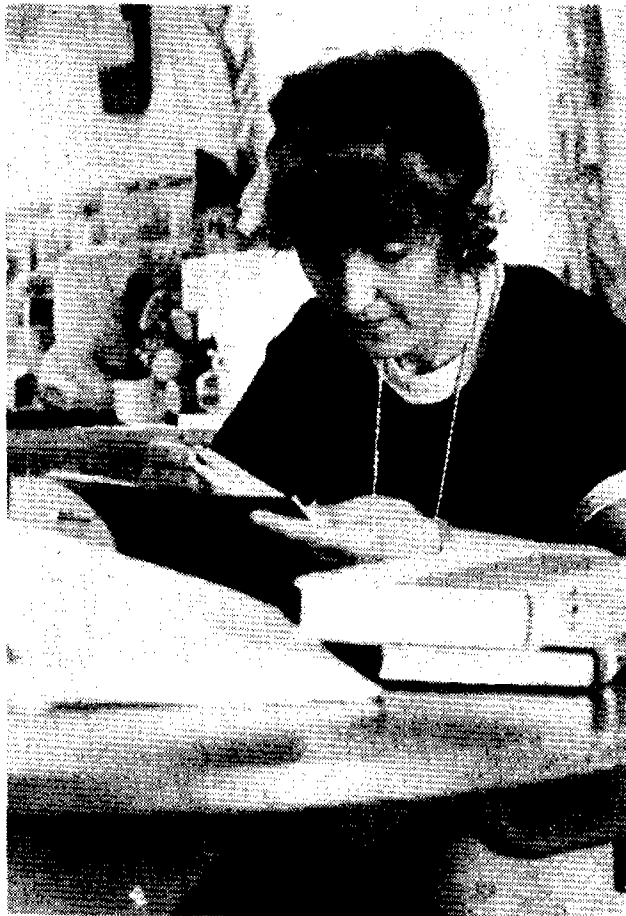

The question was whether there would be a need over the next 10 years for more elementary teachers.

She answered "no." That was the wrong answer.

She asked her professor why it was wrong.

The reason, she was told, was an increase in the number of young families resulting from the high birth rates of the 1950s and 1960s. Even if such couples have an average of only two children, by 1984 or 1985, there will again be large kindergarten enrollments.

That doesn't mean that all school districts will have such an increase, said the professor in a written reply to Mrs. Toner.

ELLEN TONER pores through one of her several books of population statistics and related information in preparing her report on predicted future school enrollment trends.

Due to such conditions as availability of jobs and housing, some areas, such as Bay City, are experiencing a loss in population.

It is the areas that people are moving to that will need more classrooms and teachers.

Add in a question about whether the increased cost of gasoline will deter people from moving farther from work, he said, and, "It makes planning for educational needs very complex."

Starting with the information the professor gave her, Mrs. Toner started delving into various sources of population information and also made a few phone calls, such as to realtors.

Her completed report was presented to the Cass City

School Board Monday night as background information while it debated what to do about the Deford-Evergreen kindergarten situation.

SOME ITEMS FROM her report:

The world gains more population in three days than the United States lost in all wars it has fought in (more than 600,000).

In the United States, the north is losing population to the south and southwest.

Rural areas have higher fertility rates than urban areas.

Based on conversations with realtors, she found there does not appear to be as much migration to rural areas as there once was.

In Tuscola county, real estate is selling better in the Caro and Millington areas, because they are closer to large urban areas, where the well-paying factory jobs are.

Within the Cass City School District, real estate sells better in the Deford area, because of its closeness to Cass City, than it does in the Evergreen area.

Population has increased faster and is projected to increase faster in Tuscola county than in Sanilac.

STRONG WINDS sometime last Thursday night blew down an already weakened tree at the Glenn Groth residence at the corner of West and Elizabeth Streets. The elderly tree was in weakened condition prior to its downfall. Standing underneath are Jeff Havens, left, and Gared Becker. Winds Sunday afternoon downed a limb at Woodland and Main, which pulled down a telephone line.

Criminal trials highlight busy circuit court docket

A Circuit Court jury Wednesday, June 6, found Richard P. Johnson guilty of attempted armed robbery in connection with the Jan. 7 robbery attempt at Shay Lake Grocery.

Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn, who presided over the three-day trial, scheduled sentencing July 27 for the 19-year-old Clifford man. Bond was continued.

Johnson was accused of trying to rob the store but ran off when the owner, 65-year-old Hattie Stevens, pulled a .38-caliber revolver from her smock pocket and fired a shot over his head.

Victor M. Radecki, 19, of Clifford was found guilty by a jury of aiding and abetting an armed robbery in connection with the holdup and in May was sentenced by Joslyn to 2½ years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson.

Friday before Joslyn, Gary L. Roberts, 17, of Pontiac, stood mute to charges of armed robbery and unlawfully driving away an automobile.

He is charged with beating and then taking an article of clothing from Darren Hatfield, 13, of Kingston, then driving away in the car of Mike Engle, the incident having taken place May 13 in Mayville.

A plea of innocent was entered and bond set at $7,000. A pretrial hearing was scheduled June 22.

Terry Lee Johnson, 21, of Prescott, pleaded guilty to attempted larceny in a building. His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled July 27.

He was charged with taking clothing from Haffner's Five and Dime in Vassar Feb. 14.

Ralph P. Kinney, 18, of 4948 E. Center Street, Fairgrove, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for attempted uttering and publishing. He was credited with five days served.

The charge was in connection with writing of a bad check for $650 March 10 to the R & C Body Shoppe.

Letters to the Editor

Mrs. Brown my best teacher

Dear Editor, I really enjoyed your feature on Mrs. Brown. A woman who has given so much of herself for others truly deserves recognition. I would like to tell you a little of Mrs. Brown from the point of view of one of her students. I had Mrs. Brown as my sixth grade teacher 12 years ago. I would like to share with you an assignment I did for her, that I found tucked away in a drawer. If I remember correctly it was an English test on writing a paragraph. I will quote the assignment exactly as written: "My subject is Mrs. Brown, my sixth grade teacher. She is nice, even though she loses her temper sometimes but that's only when we get on her nerves, which we do a lot. When we have a problem that we don't understand, she helps us so we do understand. When you are sad and heartbroken and crying because of a death of a relative, she helps you to understand the reasons and makes you feel better because you know "why." So far in my seven years of school, she is the most comforting, understanding and the "BEST" teacher I have ever had." This is all true. I'm not making it up. As I am older now and have a baby daughter, I can only hope that there will always be teachers like Mrs. Brown, and that some day my daughter can have a teacher who cares as much.

Sincerely yours, Mrs. James Bolz (Karen O'Dell) Willis, Mich.

P.S. The assignment received an A!

Set-aside acreage reports due

Rev. Hatch leaving for Standish Farmers enrolled in the 1979 Wheat and Feed Grain Program, as they complete their planting, are reminded they must report these crops, the acreage of each and designate their set-aside acreage by July 1. Otherwise, they will forfeit the 1979 Wheat and Feed Grain Program benefits. Reporting their planted crops to their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service also enables their crop history to be kept current which could mean an advantage in future programs.

Thanks for tour of Chronicle

Dear Mr. Haire, Brownie Troop 609 of Cass City wish to thank you for giving us the tour of the Cass City Chronicle in early April. We learned much of what a weekly paper looks like from the inside.

Clown Clinic Saturday

There will be a 4-H clown workshop Saturday at the Farm Bureau Building in Sandusky from 10 a.m. noon and 1-3 p.m. Ann McPhail from Lapeer will share some timely tips on clowning. New books at the library

THE SPHINX, by Robin Cook (fiction). A thriller by the author of "Coma", Erica Baron, a beautiful young woman, is on a sabbatical from her job as Egyptologist for the Boston Museum of Art. In an antiques shop in a Cairo bazaar, she witnessed a bloody murder and a major theft. Both crimes were tied to the international black market in Egyptian antiquities and pointed to the possibility that someone had unearthed a new trove of artifacts more fabulous than the treasures of Tutankhamun. Erica is drawn into the plot along with two men, a wealthy French adventurer and the Director of the Egyptian Services of Antiquities. Their pursuit of the treasure became linked with pursuit of Erica.

BADGE OF THE ASSASSIN, by Robert Tanenbaum and Philip Rosenberg (non-fiction). On May 21, 1971, two policemen were brutally gunned down on the streets of New York City. Their murders sparked one of the most intense manhunts in police history—a five-year search that stretched from St. Louis to New Orleans, New York to San Francisco, and ultimately to the poverty-stricken farmlands of rural Mississippi. Co-authored by the assistant D.A. who prosecuted the accused killers, "Badge of the Assassin" vividly recreates the dogged determination of the investigators, the frightening ordeal of the two teenage girls who were the state's key witnesses, the underground activities of the killers while still at large, and the tension-filled apprehension of the final suspect—all culminating in one of the most dramatic, headline-making trials in New York history.

SHERLOCK BONES: TRACER OF MISSING PETS, by John Keane (non-fiction). A "lost dog" ad gave John Keane the inspiration to abandon a job that bored him and start a new career—as a pet detective. Learning from experience and research, he established himself as "Sherlock Bones," the first and only professional tracer of missing pets. He writes with humor and sincerity about his most provocative cases and shares his 10-step method for recovering a missing pet.

NARROW LINE — Leann LaRoche walks on the balance beam, with Missy Knowlton (left) and sister Tena LaRoche, the assistant instructor, as spotters. Instuctor Patricia Holt is in the rear.

OVER THEY GO — Instructor Patricia Holt supervises as two students practice their backward rolls in the gymnastics class for 7 and 8-year-olds.

Young gymnasts off to good start

Another Cathy Rigby or Olga Korbut? Who knows? Maybe the closest they will ever come to the Olympics is watching on television, but for about 20 7-8 year-olds gymnastics became reality in a class taught by Cass City High School physical education teacher and gymnastics coach Patricia Holt.

The four-week session, one hour per week, sponsored by the Community Education Department, ended May 31.

Miss Holt was assisted by high school gymnastics team member Tena LaRoche.

The advantage the participants in the class will have if they continue on in the sport is illustrated by the fact that Miss LaRoche, a junior, didn't start gymnastics until the sixth grade.

The 7 and 8-year-olds -- all but two of them girls -- are in the second or third grade, thus have a good head start if they continue.

"It's easy to teach them and they get excited," Miss Holt said of her young students. "They pick up things quickly." In fact, she was surprised at how quickly they learned.

Being so young, or even younger, she explained, is an advantage in that "They don't develop fear and do get enthusiastic."

The youngsters started off each session with about 10 minutes of exercises, then worked on such basics as forward and backward rolls, cartwheels, no-handed roll and such movements as slides, hops, gallops and combinations of the various movements.

They then graduated to the balance beam, where they learned to walk forward and backward on it and the duck walk.

Season underway

3 teams unbeaten in Church League

The Lutherans and Shabbona remained unbeaten through the first week of the season to share the leadership position in the National division of the Church League.

The Baptists earned first place in the American division with wins over Lamotte and the Methodists.

The Lutherans rolled over the Catholics 12-0, Monday, June 4, behind the three-hit pitching of Ken Martin Jr., who struck out 12 to pick up his first win of the season. Ross Ridenour had three hits and Johann Schultz contributed two hits to lead the Lutheran hitting attack.

The Methodists defeated Deford Blue to get their only win of the week, Monday, June 4.

Randy Ferris, Ron Ouvry and Russ Hillaker each got two hits to pace the Baptists over Lamotte 7-6 Tuesday, June 5. Dave Gaffner pitched the win and Mike King was charged with the loss.

Shabbona picked up its first win of the season with a 9-5 rout over Deford Red. Les Severance topped Alvin McKee on the mound. Phil Bader cracked two hits to lead Shabbona to victory.

Skip Speirs pitched a fine game and led his Church of Christ team to an 11-1 thumping over the Colwood Lions. Jerry Lemunyon suffered his first defeat on the mound.

While the Lions lost, the Colwood Cubs managed a 9-4 win over Missionary behind the strong hitting of Dave Smith (four hits), Dwayne Smith (three hits) and Mike Palmer (three hits). Dale Smith led the way on the mound while Roger Root took the loss for Missionary.

Shabbona made it two in a row with a 16-9 decision over the Church of Christ Thursday, June 7. Severance pitched his second win of the young season and got help from the bats of Durell Caister and Dean Severance, who each had two hits.

Missionary evened its record at 1-1 with a win over the Catholics, who are still looking for their first win of the year.

The Lions bounced back with a one-sided 12-0 win over the Blues Friday, June 8. Jerry Lemunyon topped Bernie Babich on the mound. Chuck Kastraba, Ron Cybulski and Joe Graham each had two hits to pace the Lions' hitting attack.

Bill Bader was the winning pitcher and led the Baptists to a 15-4 pounding over the Methodists and gave them sole possession of first place in the American division. Randy Ferris banged four hits, Cass Ferris had three hits and Brian Helwig and Jack Hillaker each contributed two hits to lead the Baptist attack.

Lamotte picked up its first win in a 13-11 slugfest over the Reds. Jim Keller outlasted Alvin McKee on the mound while Dale McLaren and Jim D'Arcy each had two hits for the winners.

The Lutherans stayed tied with Shabbona for the National division lead with a 9-3 victory over the Cubs. Martin won his second game of the season on the mound, defeating Dale Smith, who is 1-1 for the year. Besides striking out nine, Martin helped his own cause with a triple while teammate Ross Ridenour cracked an inside the park home run.

Regional finals

Bulldogs bow to Tornado O'Keefe

Thanks to a tornado named Ellen O'Keefe, the Owen-Gage softball team's season came to an end in regional play Saturday with a 6-1 loss to Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard.

The game was played at Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes High School.

O'Keefe, headed for Northwestern University on a full athletic scholarship, fanned 15 Bulldog batters in the seven inning game, gave up only two hits and didn't walk anybody. She also got three of her team's five hits.

Laurie Andrakowicz faced the first four batters for the Bulldogs and gave up one hit and three walks.

Becky Howard then took over and struck out three, walked five and gave up four hits.

The two also accounted for their team's two hits. Howard got a single and Andrakowicz ended her outstanding high school athletic career with a home run.

"The girls played good defense. They made several double plays," said Bulldog coach Judy Campbell.

"I thought they did a real outstanding job. It's just they're not used to pitchers like that."

Her team, which won the North Central D League title for the fourth season in a row, finished the season with a 20-4 win loss mark. It was 14-2 in the league.

Cass City takes all-sports award

Cass City High School won the Thumb B Conference all sports award for 1978-79. Athletic Director Roland Pakonen announced this week.

The award is earned by accumulating points in 11 sports on the basis of one through eight, depending on the finish in each sport. First place is worth 8 points with the points dropping through eighth place which is worth one point.

Marlette, which won the trophy last year was second.

The order of finish and the points earned were: Cass City, 60; Marlette, 58; Caro, 52 1/2; Frankenmuth, 52; Sandusky, 48 1/2; Vassar, 45 1/2; Bad Axe, 39; Laker, 36 1/2.

Few modern conveniences

Alaska cold poses problem but Berridge will return to teach

It doesn't take Bob Berridge long to make up his mind.

If he did, the 27-year-old ex-Cass City school teacher might have never gone to Alaska last August to teach.

Now he is home for a summer respite before going back.

With him at the Cass City Rd., Uby, home of his parents, Burton and Bette Berridge, is a student at the school where he teaches, Aqpailuuraq Field. He also goes by the Christian name of Horace. (That, plus his last name date from the days of Christian missionaries.)

Berridge is a Romeo High School graduate, where his parents were then living, and received his bachelor's degree in special education in December, 1976 from Western Michigan University.

He taught for nine months at the Lima (Ohio) State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. During the 1977-78 school year, he was the resource room (special education) teacher at Cass City Intermediate School.

He had every intention of returning to Cass City in the fall, but then there was that day in August.

He had a couple of hours to kill while at his parents' house so started reading a job placement bulletin he had received from Western Michigan.

In it was a notice for teachers needed in rural Alaska.

"I had no intention of going there at all," he proclaimed, but out of curiosity, he called the number listed.

On the other end of the phone was Bill Hawkins, director of special education for the Northwest Arctic School District. Hawkins is -- well, the type who could sell refrigerators to Eskimos.

Berridge found himself giving Hawkins the name of intermediate school Principal Robert Stickle as a reference. Hawkins called the principal and five minutes later called back and offered the special education teacher a job.

"Give me the worst," he asked.

Hawkins said the worst is that he might find himself sleeping in a sleeping bag on the floor of the home of one of his students.

"I thought about 10 seconds and I said, 'Sure.'"

Berridge started traveling to see all his friends to say goodbye, on the day before he left he went to the wedding of his brother, Ron, and five days after the phone call, he was in Alaska.

THE NORTHWEST ARCTIC School District covers an area about the size of Ohio. There are only about 2,500 students in the district, attending schools in 11 communities, 10 of which have high schools. (Schools are state funded.)

Berridge found himself in Noorvik, an Eskimo community of 550 persons on the Kobuk River.

He was typical of most teachers there, young, white and there for a few years for their "great adventure."

Berridge had 20 students, either slow learners or with trouble learning due to other factors. One student, for instance, lived with her grandparents, who only spoke Eskimo, which handicapped her because school is taught in English.

In fact, the students are taught Eskimo in a language class like students elsewhere would study Spanish or French.

Outside of school, according to Aqpailuuraq (pronounced ahq-pay-luraq), students speak some English and some Eskimo.

Only some older Eskimos speak only their native tongue. There are numerous Eskimo dialects, by the way. The one spoken in Noorvik is Inupiaq.

It's also the older Eskimos who still wear fur coats and mukluks. The rest usually wear store-bought clothes and boots.

They also don't live in igloos -- and never did. Eskimos in northern Canada and Greenland did and some still do. In Alaska during their nomadic days, the Eskimos burrowed down into the snow in winter.

Nowadays, the Eskimos live in homes, though they may be far from modern.

Despite the old joke, Eskimos do own refrigerators and freezers. They don't need them in winter, however, as food is stored in an unheated room.

WHICH LEADS TO THE obvious question. How cold does it get?

Well, 30-40 below is normal, according to Aqpailuuraq, and sometimes it gets to 50-60 below. Add the wind chill factor, and it can be equivalent to more than 100 below.

Berridge awoke in the middle of one winter night to find the heater in his one-room shack malfunctioning, the top of his head frosted and the water in his wash basin frozen solid.

The shack had electricity, but that was about it.

He lived there about three months. Next year, he plans to live in a plush trailer, complete with refrigerator, stove and flush toilet.

The new part of Noorvik, incidentally, has one of only two air sanitary sewer systems in the world -- air because water would freeze. Flush the toilet and it sounds like a 747 in your tank. There is a water system, with the above ground pipes heavily insulated.

BERRIDGE IS OVER SIX feet tall, lanky, and except for the beard, looks like a basketball player. Looks was enough as he was made the Noorvik High School basketball coach and athletic director despite the fact he never played the sport in high school or college.

For men 35 and under, basketball is the big sport. As for the high school team -- well, it's not like playing in the lower 48.

The 2½ miles of unpaved roads in Noorvik only go as far as the airfield and garbage dump. To go anywhere, it must be done by plane. (Except for a few barges that come up the Kobuk River in summer, all goods are brought in by plane.)

Flying 100-150 miles to a game is routine. The regionals tournament was played at Dillingham, 525 miles away by air. For the regionals, the school chartered a jet so that the entire student body could go. Bad weather forced the plane to detour to Anchorage, more than 300 miles from Dillingham, where everyone spent the night.

Under Berridge, the Noorvik Bears finished the season at 10-10.

Aqpailuuraq is one of the basketball team members and his enthusiasm for the game was illustrated by the fact that during a two-hour interview, the only time he wasn't holding a basketball was when he was eating.

He is hoping to attend a basketball camp this summer.

THE YOUNGSTER, WHO turns 17 the 17th of this month, starts his junior year this fall.

His coach feels he has college academic potential and brought him here to get acquainted with the world beyond his village.

Coping with the outside world is hard for those few youngsters who go to college and many soon drop out.

Until coming here, Aqpailuuraq had never seen railroad tracks, for instance, and had never ridden in a car. Other than snowmobiles and a few motorcycles, the only motor vehicles in Noorvik are four trucks.

Except for the few who have jobs, the people live primarily by hunting and fishing to meet their own needs. The money they need comes from the dividends they receive from the Northwest Arctic Native Association, organized to administer the money natives were granted a few years ago by the U.S. Government in exchange for taking of their lands.

There isn't much to do and isn't much of a future, thus many students don't see the need for education.

More than half drop out by their senior year. Of the 50-60 high school students in Noorvik, only five graduated in May.

Berridge's enthusiasm for the students -- and adults -- is undiminished. "I really like my students a lot."

How long will he stay in Alaska? "I'd like to stay five or six years, but I never know. There's a nice bunch of eighth graders I'd like to see graduate."

$4,700 for fire truck overhaul

The Elkland Township Board Monday night approved expenditure of $4,700 for reconditioning of the fire department's 1968 pumper truck.

The work will include some rewiring and recoating of the water tanks.

The truck will be gone about two weeks while the work is done, during which time area departments will provide backup assistance, if needed.

The 1968 truck is the department's No. 2 pumper. Its No. 1 unit was purchased last year.

The reconditioning will be done in the near future.

The board gave approval to granting of Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act agreements by the state to Clarence and Maxine Merchant for 79 acres in Section 16 between Merchant and Wilsie Roads and to Maynard and Clara McConkey for 240 acres in Section 14, west of Buehly Road.

Final payment of $7,679 to the Tuscola County Road Commission for work done on Milligan Road was approved.

SHOW PROGRESS

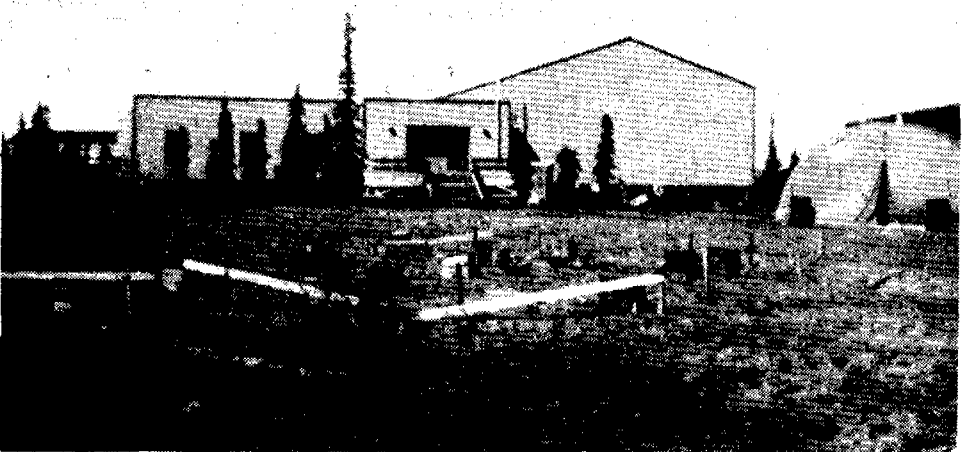

Aiming to do right helps, but to be successful one must score an occasional hit.

AQPAILUURAQ (HORACE) FIELD AND BOB BERRIDGE

MAIN STREET in Noorvik, Alaska, population 550. Commercial establishments consist of a few general stores and a hotel-restaurant. Snow starts falling in late September and doesn't melt away until mid-May.

NOORVIK HIGH SCHOOL -- The building is elevated about 5 feet off the ground. If built on ground level, the heat from inside would melt the permafrost underneath and the building would sink. Until built five years ago, students going to high school had to go to one more than 600 miles away.

Dry bean acreage up in 1978

More dry beans were planted in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties in 1978, than in 1977, which was in line with the state trend, according to a recently released report from the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Statewide, 550,000 acres were planted in 1977; 570,000 the following year. Reflecting lousy harvesting conditions the earlier year, only 480,000 acres were harvested, compared to 560,000 in 1978. Total production in 1977 was 5.66 million hundredweight; 6.44 million cwt. in 1978.

In Tuscola county in 1977, 78,700 acres were planted; 72,200 harvested, and the total yield was 903,000 cwt. Figures for 1978 were 84,500 planted, 83,800 harvested, and an identical yield of 903,000.

In Huron county, in 1977, there were 88,900 acres planted, 69,300 harvested and total yield of 913,000 cwt. In 1978, there were 95,000 planted, 93,700 harvested and total yield of 1.21 million cwt.

In Sanilac county in 1977, there were 53,100 acres planted, 33,600 acres harvested and total yield of 334,000 cwt. In 1978, there were 53,500 planted, 52,500 harvested and total yield of 423,000 cwt.
