

Daughters of Deford man die in fire

Two daughters of a Deford man were killed early Friday morning in a house fire in Owosso.

The dead girls are Sandra Kae, 17, and Donna C. Johnson, 14, who were sleeping in a second-floor bedroom when the fire broke out about 3 a.m. Friday.

The father is Vernon M. Johnson, of Mushroom Road in Deford.

Two other victims, Cheryl Johnson, 19, and her stepbrother, Russel Ackels, 5, escaped from another second-floor bedroom when her brother, John J., placed a stepladder to their window. Cheryl dropped Russel from the bedroom window into John's arms, she then climbed down the ladder, said Owosso Fire Chief Marvin Geeting.

Russel was listed in critical condition Monday morning in Hurley Medical Center, Flint. Cheryl was reported in satisfactory condition.

Their parents, Walter and Donna Ackels, who were sleeping on the ground floor, John and another child escaped from the house without injury. A neighbor said the couple had 12 children, six living with them. Five of them were at home when the fire broke out.

The fire was reported by John at 3:07 a.m., who was watching television when he smelled smoke and awakened the other family members.

Geeting said the cause of the fire was a broken flexible tubing connected to the gas dryer. He did not know what the source of ignition was, however.

A SAFE RETURN — Louis and Jeanette Langenburg sit on the Harley-Davidson motorcycle that took them 7,614 miles cross-country in a unique 36-day vacation. "It was something I've always wanted to do," said Langenburg. "And we finally got the chance to do it."

Louis and Jeanette Langenburg

Dream comes true — Couple goes 7,614 miles on motorcycle

Some thought they were crazy; others said they'd never make it and many wondered why they would even try such a stunt.

But for Louis and Jeanette Langenburg, of 6197 Koepfgen Road, it was a trip they'll never forget.

The two of them, aboard a recently purchased Harley Davidson motorcycle, travelled westward and when it was over, they drove 7,614 miles through 18 states on their 36-day journey. They arrived home Friday.

The couple has 15 children and six grandchildren. Langenburg is an alcoholism counselor for the county Health Department in Caro. Mrs. Langenburg keeps busy with the rest of the 15 children still living at home.

"It was an experience I'll never forget," Mrs. Langenburg said. "A lot of fun, a lot of excitement and a lot of calluses. I won't sit for weeks," she laughed.

Langenburg had thought about doing something like this for many years but he never had time before.

"I figure I better do it soon or I'll be too old to try it," said the 49-year-old. "We met a lot of very interesting people and most of them were friendly to us — all complete strangers."

The couple averaged over 210 miles a day and Langenburg said they went 300 to 400 miles a few days if they didn't get too tired.

"Sometimes I would see those mountain curves in my sleep."

"I have been riding for only a couple of years and that bike had a lot of weight on it." He estimated the bike weighed well over 1,300 pounds.

They did most of their traveling during the daylight hours and usually slept in motels or camped out.

"Camping out was rough," Mrs. Langenburg said. "When you've slept on a mattress for 50 years, it's hard to get used to the ground."

During one of their camping adventures in California, the Langenburgs slept in a defunct camp site, now a barley field.

They didn't see the "no trespassing" signs but met the angered owner who claimed to have shot two members of the Hell's Angels motorcycle gang a few years ago.

"That was a night I'll never forget," Mrs. Langenburg said.

OTHER THAN CROSSING the Golden Gate Bridge, touring the Queen Mary in the Long Beach harbor and travelling through the Rocky Mountains, the "dynamic duo" didn't do a lot of sightseeing during their vacation.

"This was more of a 'people vacation,'" she said. "The places will always be there, but people won't be."

The people they met were the most impressive part of their journey.

"We met some really wonderful people, Langenburg said. "That was something I just couldn't get over — how nice people were."

Example: The Langenburgs were travelling through Oregon when a car passed them and the people in it waved and honked "like crazy."

"I thought something was wrong with my bike," Louis said. "But come to find out later, he noticed my bumper sticker (Easy Does It) on the back and so we pulled over at the next rest stop and met them."

The couple, Jack and Edna O'Rourke, were on their way to Canada and invited the Langenburgs to go with them.

"We stayed with these complete strangers for three days," Jeanette said. "Our entire trip was filled with meeting people like them."

"We went through Mexico and toured Tijuana while we were on the West Coast before going to Monterey Park to see Ann," she said.

They took a wrong turn in California to visit their daughter and had to go about 600 miles out of the way to get back on the right way.

EXCEPT FOR THE hydraulic lifter coming loose in Springfield, Mo., the Langenburgs had little mechanical trouble.

"An old wino came over and saw we were having trouble so he pulled a patrol car over and they came to help us," Langenburg said. "The cops got on the radio and called a buddy of theirs who knew a lot about cycles. He was there in a few minutes to fix the lifter."

He said that, overall, the gas throughout the country was very poor quality. California was the worst for premium and Oregon the best.

"The bike ran rough at times because of that," he said. "It ran so bad in California that I had to get a new carburetor, but had to wait until Vancouver till I found one."

He paid anywhere from 87 cents to $1.03 for a gallon of gas and once, that was all he got.

Cass City police nab four after break-ins of two businesses

Two teenagers have been charged in connection with the early Friday break-in of McMahan Auto Supply, 6647 Main Street.

Charged with breaking and entering is Terry E. Bruce, 17, of Seeger Street, Cass City. His 16-year-old companion was petitioned into probate court. As of Tuesday morning, Bruce was still in the county jail.

In addition, Cass City police have requested the county prosecutor's office to issue warrants charging two men, one 18, the other 20, with the break-in of the Quaker Maid Dairy Store, 6614 Main, sometime after the store closed at 11 p.m. Wednesday, June 27.

Taken in the break-in were a total of about $1,200 in cash, food stamps and lottery tickets, plus three cases of beer and six cartons of cigarettes.

Store owner Munir Isa reported the break-in to police at 9:40 Thursday morning. Entry was gained through a rear window.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said a tip he received led to the pair who committed the break-in. In checking it out, a large number of lottery tickets were found on the floor of the van belonging to one of the suspects, who later implicated the other.

The prosecutor's office asked that police interview some additional witnesses before it will issue warrants. Wilson requested that the names not be made public until the pair are officially charged with the crime.

The break-in at McMahan Auto Supply, almost straight across Main Street from the Quaker Maid Store, was discovered by police at 3:20 a.m. Friday when they found a rear window forced open.

They had started checking stores closely in the area after being told of two youths seen walking between the Quaker Maid store and Wesley's plant.

Inside the auto parts store, officers found the intruders were unable to get to the front part of the store where the cash register was because of a locked door.

The owner, Brian McMahan, came to the store and found two car mufflers missing.

Later that morning, in checking out the two suspects, police found the two mufflers, still in the boxes, in the car belonging to one of them.

The pair later admitted the break-in and said after that, they tried to break into the Quaker Maid store but were scared off when a car came into the alley.

They then drove south on Seeger Street and tried to break into the M & R Grocery, but the windows were locked. Continuing south, they broke into an abandoned trailer on the Erla's packing house property and took a jewelry box. They then went north and took a hammock from an unknown residence on Seeger Street.

Bruce was taken into custody Saturday.

Progress looms on old buildings after 2 years

After two years of meetings, letters, conferences and estimates, three buildings in Cass City will soon either be rebuilt or torn down, according to village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie.

Two of the three buildings are covered basement-style structures. Their owners were told by the village council in June, 1977 that they must be either repaired or torn down.

One of the buildings is the Margaret McNeil house, at Houghton and Brooker Streets. LaPonsie said the fate of the structure is being considered by village attorney Clinton House.

"We have conferred with Mrs. McNeil twice and we have been working on this situation for some time," he explained. "Last year, we had a local realtor talk with her and she also received estimates on her house. But it's been difficult to get anything accomplished."

Part of the reason, LaPonsie said, was due to Mrs. McNeil being in a Pontiac nursing home and unwilling to allow anything to be done to the building.

"We've given her two years to act, now it's before the village attorney and action should be taken shortly."

The other basement-style structure is the American Legion Tri-County Post 507 hall on Main Street. It hasn't been used since 1975.

"Plans have been made to begin tearing down and for reconstruction in July," LaPonsie said. "Hahn Real Estate is currently handling the situation."

Several months after the council requested something be done with the structure, the Legion sold it to John Connolly of Cass City. It is not in the process of being sold again, but Realtor Edward J. Hahn declined comment, other than to confirm that the building is changing owners.

The third structure, which has been standing unchanged since fire broke out Jan. 3, 1979, is the house at Sherman and Pine Streets.

Occupied by Ruby Hartwell and her two children for about ten years, Elkland Township Fire Chief Jack Hartwick estimated the loss at $13,000 to the building plus the contents.

Most of the damage was sustained in the rear bedroom and kitchen and officials believed that because of the condition of the building, it would not be repaired and soon would be torn down.

At the time of the fire, the owner, David Laber of Snover, was living in Florida and remained there until this spring. Since then, he has sold the house to Lyle and Jean Clarke, who obtained a building permit May 29, 1979 to remodel the house.

The permit says the owners will be able to "rebuild the house as it originally stands, with the exception of tearing off the porch and the room in the back of the house." These were the two areas which received the greatest amount of damage in the January fire.

LaPonsie said the permit is good for one year and reconstruction should start soon.

"What we have tried to do in each of these cases is to avoid condemnation at all costs," the village superintendent explained. "And there were extenuating circumstances in each case as well. Mrs. McNeil is in the nursing home, Laber was in Florida until this spring and the American Legion Hall will be taken care of in July."

LaPonsie felt the village wanted to give as much chance to the owners in repairing each of their structures before deciding if condemnation was necessary.

"We don't want to resort to that. Condemnation leaves a sour taste in everyone's mouth."

Gagetown needs new policeman

The Gagetown Village Council is looking for a new police officer again.

The council was informed at its meeting Monday night that officer Larry Ringvicki had resigned last week.

A Bad Axe resident, he has obtained a job with that community's police department. A former Huron county sheriff's deputy, he had worked in Gagetown only since late May for 30 hours per week.

Also at the meeting, the council approved establishment of an economic development corporation, which has the power to issue tax exempt bonds to finance new commercial or industrial construction, which will result in new jobs.

Permission was given to Marty and Ann Lapienski of Caro to hold teen dances in the old fire hall until 1 a.m., should they decide to purchase the structure.

Permission was given to the bopper ball players to have a beer tent at the village park during their tournament in late July.

Landfill neighbors have complaints

Some persons who live close to the Cass City landfill complained to the Novesta Township Board Monday night that they are having problems with rats coming from the landfill.

The village-owned disposal site is in the township, east of Cemetery and north of Kelly Road.

Discussion was held about that and other problems stemming at the landfill, Supervisor Bill O'Dell said, but no action was taken. He indicated, however, the board won't be letting the matter rest.

One possible option, he suggested, would be asking the village to close the landfill and then contract with a private hauler to dispose of trash. Novesta currently pays Cass City for the privilege of using the village landfill.

There was also discussion about extending Koch Road, which leads to the landfill, east to Englehart Road, so that Koch could be used as an exit for the new Cass River Development Co. subdivision going in south of the Cass River.

The Tuscola County Road Commission has informed the township board that such a project cannot be done at county expense, therefore, it would be up to the township to pay for it.

Installation of culverts and roads in the subdivision have already begun, according to O'Dell.

Two residents along Severance Road complained that the ditches along the recently reconstructed portion between Englehart and Crawford Roads filled up during the recent heavy rains because there was no place for the water to drain to.

The township board will consult with the Road Commission about having the problem fixed.

Members of the Board of Review — Keith Little, Gerald Hicks and Edward Lebeda — were reappointed for 1980. Members of the Planning Commission whose terms were expiring were also reappointed.

HOLES IN THE ROOF — This is the covered basement roof of Mrs. Margaret McNeil's house, located at Houghton and Brooker Streets. The fate of the basement-style structure is currently being considered by village attorney Clinton House.

Pam Dube was organist and accompanied Angela Dietzel, flutist, playing Sonata V by Mozart. Dale Wertz, soloist, sang "The Wedding Song" and "Evergreen," the latter with flute accompaniment. Altar flowers were bouquets of daisies, carnations and glads.

The bride wore a formal gown fashioned of crystal organza in an A-line silhouette. The bodice of chintilly lace featured a Queen Anne neckline accented with pearl clusters and sheer shepherdess sleeves. The skirt was adorned with appliques of pearl-accented lace, falling to a double flounce hemline, and flowing into a full chapel train. She wore a cross necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. Her fingertip veil of English illusion was appliqued with chintilly roses and was held by a cap of matching lace and seed pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white marguerite daisies, golden garnet roses and yellow carnations with baby's breath.

Angela Dietzel, sister of the bride, Owendale, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length silesta maize print gown with blouson style bodice, split sleeves and natural waistline with accordion pleated skirt.

Her flowers were a bouquet of yellow daisies, yellow carnations with baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Marjorie Dietzel of Lansing and Patricia Dietzel of Niles, sisters of the bride. Their gowns were identical to the maid's of honor only in so-called maize color. They carried identical bouquets.

James Findlay, St. Louis, friend of the groom was best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Jack Woodhams and Ed Kentfield, friends of the groom from St. Johns.

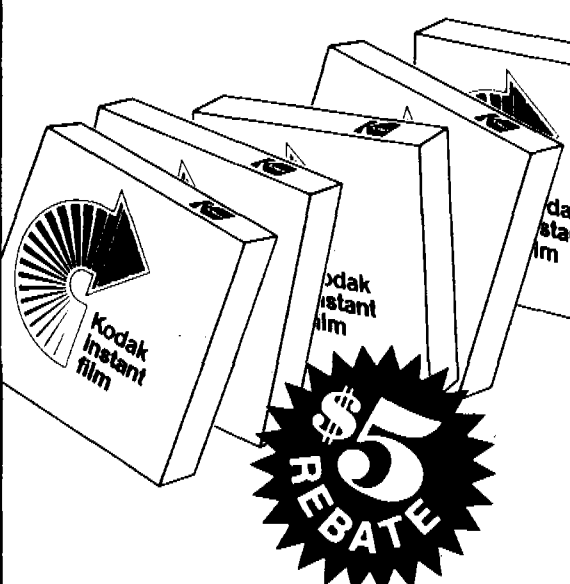

The bride's mother wore a sleeveless knit gown of yellow, beige and brown print with an attached shoulder-draped capelet with lace edging. She wore a corsage of golden garnet roses and yellow pixie carnations.

The bridegroom's mother wore a peach colored gown with lace bodice and long sheer sleeves. Her corsage was of golden garnet roses and yellow pixie carnations.

A dinner reception followed at Laker High School with guests attending from Lansing, Coldwater, Flint, Ida, Pontiac, St. Johns, Saginaw and the surrounding area.

The bride is a secretary Lansing Community College. Her husband teaches in the Cassopolis school system. After a week's honeymoon in northern Michigan, the couple is residing for the summer months in Lansing.

"If It Fitz. . ." Joining the club

By Jim Fitzgerald

A few months ago, Detroit's black community accepted its first member from the Detroit Athletic Club (DAC), one of the town's most exclusive men's clubs (women use the side door, please). He is a lawyer named Robert Young, no relation to Mayor Coleman Young.

This week, another barrier was overcome. The black community accepted a woman from the Bank of the Commonwealth's board of directors. She is a city employee named Joyce Garrett, no relation to Mayor Young, but a pretty good buddy.

There has been considerable speculation as to the reasons for the black community's change in admission policy. For 65 years, no DAC member was allowed to join the black community. And no one can remember the last time a woman director of the Bank of Commonwealth was invited into the black community.

When contacted by this columnist, leaders of the black community were reluctant to discuss lawyer Young and Mrs. Garrett. One black leader, who asked that his name not be published, insisted there was no great significance to the admissions. He pointed out that DAC members and women bank directors have often been guests in the black community down through the years. Many of them have even been employed there.

"Joyce Garrett and Robert Young are simply the first ones to live here," the black leader said.

Many skeptics find this reasoning hard to accept. For several years, the black community has been under fire for its membership policies. There have been reports that DAC members and women bank directors were barred from black ghettos if only one black resident white-balled them.

It is known that several black residents threatened to move to Grosse Pointe rather than live next door to a DAC member. And women bank directors are still required to enter black neighborhoods by a side street.

It has been suggested that the black community finally opened its doors to DAC members and women bank directors because of discrimination charges made by the federal government. Some skeptics say black leadership fears the loss of federal funds needed to raise HUD housing.

Other skeptics aren't so harsh. They say the black community has simply realized it is no longer socially acceptable to blatantly discriminate against people simply because they are DAC members or women bank directors. These skeptics claim Robert Young and Joyce Garrett were admitted only as tokens to buttress the black community against attack by bleeding hearts from the ACLU and the FCIC.

When interviewed this week, black leadership strongly denied all these charges. They insisted the black community is not guilty of discrimination and, in fact, will build low-income housing for all DAC members and women bank directors who want to follow the lead of Robert Young and Joyce Garrett.

Under further questioning, black leadership also denied it had been influenced by the occupants of the first DAC member and first woman bank director to join the black community.

"I know some people think Robert Young received special treatment because he's an attorney associated with an important law firm, but that's ridiculous," a black leader said. "Almost all DAC members have law degrees. There's only one janitor belonging to the DAC and we can't get him because he already joined the Chicano community."

Black leadership was further stung by a suggestion that Mrs. Garrett was admitted to the black community simply because she is Detroit's director of public information and the mayor's good buddy.

"Mrs. Garrett is welcome to join the black community simply because she is a woman bank director seeking shelter," a black leader explained. "We aren't looking for favors from City Hall. Membership in the black community is open to all women bank directors regardless of their station in life. There's one woman bank director who is on ADC but we couldn't get her because she's in jail for buying beer with food stamps."

There, I hope that convinces the skeptics. Obviously, some of the black community's best friends are DAC members and women bank directors.

SHRINKING DOLLAR -- More than 500 million of the new Susan B. Anthony dollars made their debut across the country Monday, including local banks. The hand belongs to Beverly Hurley of the Pinney State Bank. The coin is only a little larger than a quarter.

Car stolen Friday found near Caro

A car stolen from a Cass City woman was found Friday by sheriff's deputies near the Caro Regional Center.

Helen Agar of 4581 Seeger Street told village police at 8 a.m. Friday that she had last seen her 1973 Oldsmobile at 10 the previous evening. It was parked in the alley near her house.

It was found along Chambers Road.

Also Friday, village police were informed that sets of keys were stolen from two cars, having been left in the ignitions.

Don Finkbeiner of 4137 Maple Street reported his were stolen between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday. The car was in his driveway and the keys were for his car, house and gun shop.

Dagmar Brown of 6541 Elizabeth Street said her keys were taken between 12:30 p.m. Thursday and 10 a.m. Friday from her car while it was in her driveway. Included were some keys for the Caro Regional Center, where she works.

Details were unavailable as of Monday, but turned over to Cass City police Saturday night was a case containing about 30 cassette tapes, which someone had found under a tree. They were apparently stolen the previous day from a vehicle.

At 3 a.m. Saturday, village officers arrested Timm Hill, 18, of 5296 Robinson Road, on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. They stopped his car after it had turned from Main onto West Street. He was later released from the county jail, pending appearance in district court.

At 3:05 a.m. Sunday, sheriff's deputies stopped a car on M-81, east of Schwegler Road. Its driver, Joe D. Valdez, 44, of Detroit, was arrested on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. His passenger, Guillerino M. Hinojosa, no age given, also of Detroit, was arrested on a charge of possession of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle.

Both were taken to the county jail and later released, pending appearance in district court.

Safety in the kitchen

Help cut down the number of kitchen accidents by reducing the chance of getting cut.

The best general precaution is to get organized. Store sharp knives in a knife rack, not mixed with flatware and other utensils in a utility drawer.

Never use a knife to open metal cans. Use a modern can opener, one that does not produce jagged edges.

The Haire Net

Most of you will be reading this after the big July 4 Festival is history but it's being written well in advance of the big day.

If everything works out as planned I will have survived working at the Rotary concession at the park.

Now working at a stand in staid old Cass City for the Rotary Club may not seem like a particularly hazardous duty.

Little do you know. Let me take you back about 25 years, give or take a year or two. Back to when the Home-coming was held in Cass City. The Chamber of Commerce sponsored a bingo tent and selected members served a stint calling the numbers or picking up the money.

I can't remember just who was on with me other than Gerald Prieskorn and Howard "Baldy" Ellis.

It was a beautiful warm evening. To keep cool a special tea, a very special tea, was served, ice cold.

It went down easy. Oh, so easy. Those little paper cups didn't hold that much. A couple of swallows and they were empty.

The time flitted away rapidly as we were busy as beavers collecting that money and keeping the action going so that Chamber could pay expenses. My two-hour stint was over before I knew it.

Everything was cool except my relief didn't show and what could I do but continue working? Working and sipping. Sipping and working.

It was really fun now. Jostling with the customers and repeating the numbers. I was doing it all, never ever better.

Perhaps it was the heavy night air or maybe the players were a little older than they were earlier in the day. Whatever the reason they just couldn't hear as well. Kept asking me to repeat and repeat the numbers.

That night air also affected the dollar bills. They stuck together something fierce. Several times the patrons called me back when I had refunded too many singles in change for a five.

Working that hard that long was evidently too much for me.

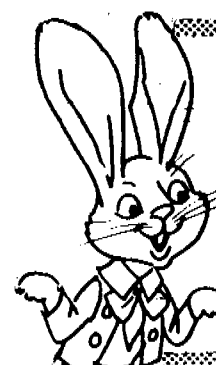

The next day I felt as horrible as I have ever felt before or since.

I had the sympathy of my fellow workers. In mid-morning, Prieskorn heard of my plight and visited me as I lay on the couch and planted a single lily in a pretty green vase on my chest.

I didn't care. I didn't care about anything until about 7 o'clock that evening.

So now you see how hazardous working at these concessions can really be.

You can be sure that I will not have overworked at the big festival Wednesday. Or drank too much tea either.

Coach Ron Nurnberger says that investigation into a State ruling has revealed that the proposed basketball game between next year's varsity and alumni of 1977-78 is illegal and cannot be played.

The cancellation has both teams upset because both were convinced that victory was assured.

The Cass City State Bank was not founded by I. B. Auten, Fred Auten explained this week. He came shortly after the institution was founded by Curtis W. MacPhail, father of Larry MacPhail who was born in the apartment over the bank. The Chronicle had Auten as the founder in a "Progress" story last week.

The list grows and grows. With today's additions there are 22 members in good standing in the older than the Chronicle's 88 years.

Nina Shagena, 95, was born and raised in Cass City, according to her niece, Lilah Wilhelm. She stays with her son, Leo, in Cass City and spent the winter in Florida.

Mrs. Margaret Evens of Gagetown, who now lives at Caro Medical Facility will be 95 July 9, according to information passed along by Mrs. Lee Smith, a niece.

The Shabbona news really rocked along last week. Only it rocked to Little Rock, Ark., instead of Cass City. It was mailed in Snover June 25 and remailed from Little Rock the next day, June 26, according to the postmarks.

It didn't get to us until June 29 but by that time we didn't really care.

Father Joseph Morales, pastor of St. Pancratius church, may have been doing his job a little too well. During the dry spell he received a request for a prayer for rain. He complied and you know what the last few days have been like. It wasn't long before this parishioner requested a prayer for the rain to stop. Evidently he did, for Monday was a very fine day. (I should have asked him to keep it up for July 4 just to be on the safe side.)

Man arrested after pursuit

A Gagetown man was arrested by Cass City police after a pursuit of several miles Friday evening.

Taken to the county jail on charges of driving under the influence of liquor and leaving the scene of a property damage accident was Randy E. Dohring, 32, of 4049 S. Elkton Road.

Officer Ken Schott was called to Seventh and Seeger Streets at 6:15 where a car, eastbound on Seventh, had crossed the intersection, jumped the curb and struck a small tree on the lawn of William Patch, 4150 S. Seeger.

Schott was told the car had left, headed south on Seeger. He saw tire tracks leading onto Elmwood Road, which he followed to Lamton Road, then north to M-81.

A motorist there told him the car had continued north on Greenland Road (same as Lamton).

The officer continued on. Tire tracks indicated the car narrowly missed a parked pickup. Schott finally caught up with the car and arrested Dohring at Reed Road, two miles north of M-81, where it had stopped because of a flat tire.

He was later released from jail on bond, pending appearance in district court.

THE CASS CITY LIONS CLUB

through the generosity of area Merchants take this opportunity to inform you of

LIONS INTERNATIONAL FOUNDATION, Inc.

LIF is truly our global investment in humanity. Since July 1, 1978, less than a year ago, the countries indicated here have received Lion-to-Lion assistance through LIF. The grants represent only a small percentage of the funds provided through our Foundation since its organization a decade ago.

An institute for speech and hearing in Colombia, medical supplies for a cholera epidemic in Zaire, flood disaster relief in Minnesota—different needs in nations thousands of miles apart. But they, along with countries the world over have one very important thing in common: each is a recipient of assistance from the Lions International Foundation.

LIF is today one of the world's foremost agencies dedicated to helping people in need. And it is growing, growing because the Lions, Lionesses and Leos of the world are supporting its global humanitarian objectives.

Thus far this fiscal year, more than $324,000 has been disbursed to Lions in 19 countries to help them meet specific community and human needs. These needs are as varied as the languages and cultures represented throughout the world of Lionism: Housing facilities for orphans in Portugal, a workshop and factory for the blind and handicapped in Barbados, cancer detection equipment in India, tuberculosis relief aid in Bangladesh, nutritional aid to children in Indonesia. These represent only a few of the over $1,000,000 in grants disbursed since the inception of LIF, a little more than a decade ago. As contributions increase, the Lions International Foundation, your Foundation, will be better able to provide Lions with the necessary funds to help their fellow-man in the three areas of LIF involvement: Disaster Relief, Vocational Assistance and Humanitarian Services.

Undesignated donations enable the Foundation to provide grants when and where needed. The generosity of Lions, Lionesses and Leos is making it possible for LIF to be recognized for its capacity to work with local Lions in alleviating human suffering.

In the area of major disasters, for example, LIF is helping Lions to provide relief by helping to rebuild communities after disaster strikes. The construction of schools, homes and hospitals are examples of how LIF is making it possible for communities and nations to recover after initial disaster relief (food, clothing, medicines) is no longer required. Housing units in India and Sri Lanka, a recreation and athletic facility in Texas and general reconstruction projects in Brazil are recent examples of how this relief is operating to help disaster victims rebuild their communities and their lives.

LIF will increase this aid in direct relation to the generosity of you, Lions, Lionesses and Leos working together to promote this Lion-to-Lion service. It is your Foundation. Your dollars in support of LIF will make it possible for more people across the earth to better understand the true meaning of Lionism. The Lions International Foundation is your investment in humanity, an investment that will bring dividends in sight restoration for the impoverished, new job opportunities for the handicapped, vocational training for those in need of skills, the rebuilding of communities destroyed by natural disasters, healthful living standards for the poor and other humanitarian services.

LIF—an investment only you can help make, one which will affect people throughout the world.

PEDALING AROUND

Confusion
in the tank

By Mike Eliasohn

Forgive me if I sound presumptuous, but I have come up with a solution to the energy crisis.

My solution is so simple, I am surprised no one has ever thought of it before.

It requires no additional government regulations, no additional government employees, no additional red tape.

It also requires no additional increases in the cost of gasoline and other fuels beyond what they will go up anyway.

I decided my plan was needed after reading in the Detroit Free Press the results of the test it conducted of the two gasoline conservation plans that have been proposed so far.

The plan proposed by President Carter, which has already been rejected by Congress, would have created a stand-by gas rationing plan. If put into effect, it would have limited car owners to 55 gallons per month of gasoline.

The two families that did try the plan for the Free Press obviously saved gasoline, but they had to eliminate almost all recreational driving in order to do it and stay with their rationed allotment.

A proposed alternative to the Carter plan, which Congress is considering, would require all car owners to leave their vehicles home one day a week. More-than-one-car families would have to leave all their vehicles home on the selected day.

The two families that tried the plan for the Free Press didn't save any gasoline. They just did more driving on the other six days to make up for the one day of the week they didn't drive.

Thus the need for my plan. I call it anarchy, or in other words, no plan at all.

The reason I know anarchy will work is because it is already working.

Shortages of gasoline in California led to long lines at gas stations in California. Motorists then cut down on their driving — either to avoid having to stop for gas any more than necessary or because they spent so much time in gas lines, they didn't have time to drive anywhere.

Now the same thing is happening in the eastern United States.

Not only are drivers living in those states cutting down on their driving, tourists who might have driven there are staying home. Why go to some place when, instead of traveling around, you end up spending your vacation time in a line at a gas station?

Then there are the striking independent truck drivers who by shutting down truck stops and fuel terminals have made it easier for other motorists to save gas. One who can't get gas can't drive.

Eventually, without government planning, the shortages will get around to everybody.

Some parts of the country will have to do without while other parts have adequate supplies.

Thus with my plan, no additional government planning will be needed in order to conserve gasoline. What the government is or isn't doing now is more than enough.

EQUALIZATION

Somewhere along the line there must be a limit fixed for both taxes and expenditures.

Accident round-up

3 teenagers suffer minor injuries in 2-car crash

A 10 p.m. accident Friday on Bay City-Forestville Road sent three persons to Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Injured was the driver of one car involved, Diane Goslin, 16, who was treated and released, and her two passengers, Kelly Harder, 16, who was released Saturday, and Holly Phillips, 17, released Sunday. All are from Unionville.

Sheriff's deputies reported that Scott Howard, 17, of 3569 Third Street, Owendale, who was eastbound, had stopped prior to turning left onto Richie Road when his car was struck in the rear by the eastbound Goslin vehicle. The accident took place a mile east of Gagetown.

Albert Palazzola Jr., 20, of 4815 Germania Road, Snover, was treated and released from Hills and Dales after a 5:30 a.m. accident Saturday.

Cass City police reported he was westbound on Argyle Road, west of Germania Road on his motorcycle when it struck a deer.

Huron county deputies reported Ernest W. Zinger, 21, of Uby, sought his own treatment after an 8:55 a.m. accident Sunday on Elkton Road.

Deputies said he was southbound, about a half-mile north of Sebawaing Road, when his car went out of control and landed in a ditch. Zinger said he lost control when a deer ran in front of his car.

Tuscola county deputies reported that at 10:50 a.m. Saturday, Clayton E. Strait, 29, of State Street, Kingston, was backing out of a driveway on River Street, north of M-46 in Kingston, and backed into a northbound car.

They reported Strait couldn't see the oncoming car because of a truck parked by the curb. In turn, the other driver, John Kasdorf, 17, of 3750 White Creek Road, Kingston, couldn't see Strait backing up because of the truck.

CLEAR HEADS

The future of our own country depends on the sound, sane thinking of our citizens.

Second flag stolen from memorial

Cass City police reported the second flag in less than a month was stolen Tuesday night, June 26, from the Lions Club Harry Little Memorial in the village park.

The first flag was stolen after Memorial Day and the second one was up only four days before it was taken.

Police are encouraging area residents to report anyone trying to sell either of the four by six foot flags or know any information which can help.

The Lions Club pays for the flags.

Fires in the rain

Elkland township firemen were called out twice in the rain Wednesday night, June 27.

The first time was at 10, to extinguish a reported tree fire at M-81 and M-53, the tree having been struck by lightning. Firemen never found the tree, the rain possibly extinguishing the fire before they got there.

Seventy minutes later, they went out again to extinguish unattended burning brush piles on property owned by Jim McDonald on M-81, east of Schwegler Road.

'49 class holds reunion

The Cass City High School class of 1949 met at the Charmont Saturday evening for its fifth reunion in 30 years.

Gerald Prieskorn, chairman of the event, was the emcee and greeted the 46 people who attended the dinner and social hour that followed. There were 81 who graduated in 1949.

Some of the "records" achieved by the former class members included the youngest children, 7-year-old twins whose father is Irving Parsch and classmate Peggy Regnerus, who boasts of five grandchildren. Robert Howell came the longest distance as he travelled to Cass City for the reunion from Florida.

Prieskorn hopes to combine other graduating classes and meet again in five years to celebrate their sixth reunion.

Upper Thumb on 'labor surplus' list

Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties are among 936 areas nationwide designated by U.S. Secretary of Labor

Ray Marshall as eligible for federal procurement preference because of high unemployment.

Under federal law, the purpose of designating "labor surplus" areas is to put the government's procurement dollars in areas where people are in most severe need.

Employers in those areas will now have contract preference when bidding on federal contracts for one year, from June 1 through May 31, 1980.

The U.S. Department of Labor previously announced its "labor surplus" areas quarterly, but to provide more stability in the contracting process, as of June 1, the designations will be made only once a year.

ENCOURAGEMENT

Placing a little more confidence in your fellow workers often produces great results.

The RLDS Women Department met Wednesday, June 27, at the annex with Mrs. Nellie Gregg and Marie Meredith as hosts.

A noon luncheon was served. After dinner the meeting was called to order by leader Mrs. Gregg. She read a poem for a call to worship. Mrs. Voyle Dorman had charge of the worship service. Roll call was answered by a home-making or gardening hint. Lesson was Year of a Child by Mrs. Gregg. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. The reunion kitchen help letter for the Blue Water Reunion was read. Dates were set for the rummage sale to be held at the home of Mrs. Gregg, Aug. 28-29.

The next women's meeting will be Aug. 16 with Mrs. Mary Kritzman. Mrs. Mary Snell will co-host. Friendly visitors for the month will be Mrs. Kritzman and Mrs. Wilfred Turner.

There will be a 4-H foods meeting at 1:30 July 9 at the home of Virginia Auslander.

Karen Brown at ROTC summer camp

Cadet Karen P. Brown, daughter of Mrs. Susan I. Pitsberg, Phoenix, Ariz., is receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army ROTC Advanced Camp, Fort Lewis, Wash. Her father, Robert L. Brown, lives at 6420 Bay City-Forestville Road, Cass City.

The six-week training program is designed to present cadets with "hands-on" training which cannot be adequately presented on a college campus.

While at camp, cadets will learn orienteering, land navigation, individual and small unit tactics, first aid, drill and ceremony, and fire a variety of weapons.

Upon completion of camp, some cadets will be commissioned as second lieutenants. Others will return to their schools to complete their senior year and will be commissioned upon graduation.

Miss Brown is a student at Arizona State University in Tempe.

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Greater Michigan Chapter, has announced its local chairmen for the 1979 Breath of Life Campaign. Included are Mrs. Karl Zawilinski, Cass City; Mrs. Laurence Wilding, Gagetown, and Mrs. Juanita Crittenden, Kingston.

Door-to-door contributions will be solicited in September to raise money for research, education, diagnosis and treatment of cystic fibrosis.

Although CF is still the leading genetic cause of death among children, the average life expectancy of its victims has risen from five to 18 since 1965.

The greatest health problems from the disease are caused by increased lung damage from repeated infections and malnutrition from inadequate digestion of food.

Gyomory funeral held

Lidia Gyomory, 91, of 2112 Cemetery Road, Deford, died Tuesday, June 26, in the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility in Caro.

Mrs. Gyomory was born in Hungary Aug. 5, 1887. She came to the United States in 1907.

She and Steve Gyomory were married in 1912. He died in 1962.

HEALTH TIPSSwimming safely can save your lifeBy Frank Chappell,
American Medical Association

Swimming, one of the most popular of summer sports, can be a healthful, stimulating part of the summer vacation.

On the other hand, swimming can be one of the most dangerous of outdoor pastimes.

The American Medical Association says that healthful swimming begins with clean, sanitary water. Water is an easy and quick means of transmission for many disease organisms, and inevitably swimmers will swallow some water.

Swim only in approved areas where the water is clean and free from pollution.

Swimming can be dangerous. Deaths from drowning can occur at any age. Inability to swim, inexperience, carelessness, poor judgment or lack of supervision are causes of most water accidents. Infants and toddlers need constant supervision by adults who themselves practice good water safety rules.

Swimmers must know their limitations. The depth of the water should be checked and hidden rocks and stumps located before diving.

Swimmers should always have someone else along, and preferably swim where a lifeguard is near. Remember that salt water and surf can be more tiring than swimming in a quiet pool or lake.

The swimmer in trouble often can survive if he or she stays calm. Assume a face-up floating position, keeping hands under the water, and move hands and feet slowly. It is possible to stay afloat for hours with relatively little effort. But thrashing the water in panic will exhaust the endangered swimmer quickly.

Each member of the family should be coached in the fundamentals of swimming safety, and especially mouth-to-mouth resuscitation procedures.

Navy school

Navy Electronics Technician Third Class Kirk B. Kibbey, son of Cliff Kibbey and whose wife, Joy, is the daughter of Lawrence and Dorothy Holik, all of Cass City, has graduated from basic electronics technician school.

The course was conducted at the Navy Service School Command, Great Lakes, Ill. Students received introductory instruction on electronic circuit concepts, radar principles, and the basics of radio transmitters and receivers. In addition, they studied the procedures for repairing amplifiers, transmitters, receivers and power supply lines.

A 1978 graduate of Marlette High School, he joined the Navy in May of that year.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Sanilac county's first rock fest, staged at Thunder Road Speedway in Greenleaf township, fizzled Saturday as less than 500 persons attended. The gathering fell far short of the estimated 4,000 persons expected by promoters.

A controversy which may end up costing Tuscola county taxpayers a wing added to the county jail for emotionally disturbed persons broke into the open at a Thursday night inter-agency meeting in Caro, attended by some 50 persons.

An open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harris of 6780 E. Main Street, on their 50th wedding anniversary will be held Sunday, July 14, at the White Creek Club. The couple has three children, Mrs. Norma Decker, Newell Harris and Mrs. Joyce Hampshire. They also have seven grandchildren.

Gagetown village council has begun a study of village street needs with an eye to resurfacing some of them this year. Clerk Madeline Sontag said the village will attempt to do as much resurfacing as possible with available funds this year.

TEN YEARS AGO

Three Michigan game biologists drew fire from over 120 militant area sportsmen Tuesday night at the Caro Gun Club when the Game Division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources held a hearing on their recommendations for the distribution of 275 antlerless deer permits for the expected take of 95 deer.

A nurses' aide program operated under the Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission and using mostly federal funds is stymied by lack of a teacher.

Eldon Dietzel was chosen president of the Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

Jim Hatch has been elected president of the retail board of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

A new water heater, installed at the village swimming pool, is expected to be operating very shortly.

CHEERLEADING CAMP

June 17-20, the Ubyl Varsity cheerleading squad consisting of Joanne Block, Colleen Schefka, Laura Voorheis, Bev Kanaby, Lisa Kutter, Michelle Fligger, Shannon Forman (co-captain) and Kim Walsh (captain) attended USCA camp at Walden Woods in Hartland, Mich.

While at camp, the squad learned at least 40 floor cheers and over 100 chants. During the evenings the squad competed against other squads and won a total of six ribbons. Four of them were for the cheers they performed and one for a dance routine performed by Michelle Fligger and another for their skit called "Sometimes." Their skit qualified for the National competition. On final night the squad received a plaque which qualified them to go to Nationals and compete with other National winners of each camp session. They will be competing with other squads from Florida, California, Kentucky, Hawaii and more from all over the world.

The National competition will be held at the Lansing Civic Center Aug. 23, 24 and 25. This will be Ubyl's second year to attend Nationals.

Copeland and Gornowicz

2 Thumb natives build local agency

Editor's note: this is one of a series sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce about community boosters who are members of the organization.

Bob Copeland and Bob Gornowicz are two natives of the Thumb that didn't have to leave home to make their living.

Copeland was born and raised in Cass City and Gornowicz is from the Ubyl area. Copeland graduated from Cass City High School and attended Northeastern Business College. Gornowicz graduated from Ubyl High School and farms 160 acres in the Ubyl area.

Both men received training in the business working for other insurance companies before entering into partnership.

The company started April 1974 in a portion of the New Gordon Hotel. From there the partners moved to a location by Helen's Beauty Shop. In October of 1977 the firm purchased the building on Main Street from which it now operates. It was completely remodeled into the modern office building it is today.

Copeland is a member of the Cass City Lions and is active in Cass City's Minor League. He and his wife, Marcia have two children who attend school at Cass City.

Gornowicz is a member of the Ubyl Jaycees. He and his wife, Audrey, have two children.

The agency handles complete coverage of all types of insurance.

New Methodist pastor sees challenge at Cass City church

NEW MINISTER at Trinity United Methodist Church in Cass City is Rev. Paul Thomas (Tom) Wachterhauser. With him are his wife, Donna, son Eric, 6, and daughter Erin, 4.

Rev. Paul Thomas (Tom) Wachterhauser looks upon his new pastorate at Trinity United Methodist church as a challenge and an opportunity.

For his wife, Donna, it is a homecoming of sorts.

Rev. Wachterhauser gave his first sermon at the Cass City church June 17.

He was commuting from Midland, where he had been an associate minister at the Midland First United Methodist church, until June 26, when he and his family moved into the parsonage.

He replaces Rev. Byron G. Hatch, who is now the minister at Community United Methodist church in Standish.

Rev. Wachterhauser and his wife, Donna, will have been married eight years in August. They have two children, Eric, 6, and Erin, 4.

Mrs. Wachterhauser lived in Cass City for several years as a youngster. The daughter of Mike and Lillian Yedinak, the family moved to Alpena in 1961. Her parents, as do her husband's, still live there.

"Wherever you are when you're a child, you're happy," she said, "so it's nice to come back."

Rev. Wachterhauser, 33, was born and raised in Alpena. He attended Alpena Community College and received his B.S. degree from Michigan State University in divisional sociology (sociology, psychology and history).

"I had thought on and off, growing up as a boy in Alpena, of being a minister," he said, but he didn't make the final decision to become one until graduating from college.

He attended Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill., where he earned his master's degree in theology.

His first appointment was to the Methodist church in Burr Oak, southeast of Kalamazoo near the Indiana border. The church there was about half the size of Trinity United Methodist, which has about 300 members.

After three years in Burr Oak, he went to one of the largest Methodist churches in Michigan, in Midland. The First United Methodist church there has 2,800 members. One of four ministers, he was charged with youth and education.

He described that as "very specialized work," and eventually "I began to get the itch to have some new challenges and opportunities to do some new and different things."

He thus notified the conference he was available for reassignment and ultimately, after five years in Midland, was appointed to Cass City. (Appointments are made by the conference bishop and council of district superintendents, working with representatives of the church in need of the new minister.)

While in Midland, Rev. Wachterhauser started studying part-time at Central Michigan University for a master's degree in counseling. "People come to a minister with all kinds of needs and problems, so I wanted the skills to help," he explained.

He has completed all of his class work and needs only to write his master's thesis — probably a year's project of off and on effort — to get his degree.

At his new church, members have indicated interest in increasing activities for youth. There's a good chance some of those activities will be of the outdoor type.

The Wachterhauser family hobbies include sailing, canoeing, swimming, tennis, downhill skiing and bicycling.

2 teams boast of perfect 7-0 records in league

Shabbona and the Baptists continued their winning ways and kept their undefeated seasons intact as the third week of the Church League came to an end.

Shabbona won its sixth straight game of the season with a 6-1 decision over Deford Blue Monday, June 25. Les Severance picked up the win on the mound and Lewis Tibbitts was charged with the loss.

Tom Shelito gathered two hits to lead his Colwood Lions past the Methodists 14-13 in a heartbreaking slugfest. Jerry Lemunyon pitched the victory while Tim Johnson took the loss for the Methodists. Kevin Wagg and Larry Robinson each had two hits in the losing cause.

Tim Smith and Bruce Turner paved the way for the Colwood Cubs with three hits apiece as they defeated the Church of Christ 10-6 Tuesday, June 26. Dave Smith picked up the win and was helped by Wayne Smith, who had two hits. Skip Speirs suffered the loss and he and Scott Hartel each had two hits in the losing effort.

Wally Laming smashed three hits and Ken Martin Jr. helped his own cause with two hits as the Lutherans handed Deford Red a 7-2 loss. Martin was credited with the win and Alvin McKee took the loss.

Jack Hillaker struck out 12 and walked only one batter in a three-hitter for the undefeated Baptists as they knocked out the Catholics 11-1 in a five inning game. Jim Hillaker and Bill Bader each contributed two hits for the winners and Jack Groombridge took the loss for the Catholics.

Lamotte beat Deford Blue. No report was available.

Missionary nipped Lamotte 11-10 in the bottom of the eighth inning when Puskas drove in the winning run with a single to end the game. Roger Root took the win on the mound and Jim Keller suffered the loss.

Down 5-3 going into the seventh inning, the Baptists scored six runs to take a 9-5 decision over the Colwood Cubs Thursday, June 28. Bill Bader pitched the win and he got help from teammates Cass Ferris, Jack Hillaker and Craig Helwig, who each contributed two hits.

Dale Smith took the loss on the mound and Mike Palmer smashed three hits while Tim Smith and Bruce Turner each contributed two hits in the losing effort.

The Lutherans defeated the Colwood Lions. No report was available.

Shabbona made it seven in a row as they handed Missionary a 10-1 loss. Les Severance paved the way once again, pitching the win and helping his own cause by getting two hits. Roger Root took the loss for Missionary and Mike Klinkman had two hits for the losers.

HEAD BUMPS - One of Tim Tuckey's favorite drills is head bumping, which is trying to keep the ball up in the air using only his head. The only soccer player allowed to use his hands is the goalie.

FOOT DRIBBLING - One of the many exercises Tim Tuckey practices during the off-season is a drill called foot dribbling. He tries to keep the ball in the air using only his feet in order to develop foot coordination.

Two Cass City all-star teams will each play a game with all-star teams from Marlette.

The Cass City Babe Ruth B team will play two games against the Marlette Babe Ruth squad.

Persistence pays off for Tuckey in soccer, life

"Lady Luck" might have had something to do with Tim Tuckey making the Bethel College soccer team, but much of it can be credited to the persistence and hustle he displayed on the field throughout the season.

It certainly wasn't his experience.

"I had never played soccer before in my life," confessed the college freshman, a 1978 graduate of Cass City High School, now home on summer vacation. "I didn't even know the rules."

He was on the football, wrestling and track teams his freshman year in high school but didn't play after that because of an injury.

He and his roommate, Jim Jones, tried out for the team at "spring camp" last year and neither one had ever played the game before.

"We sort of helped each other along," Tuckey said. "We gave each other encouragement and the desire to do better. We were lucky to make the team cut."

Tuckey said he and his roommate were the last two players to be added to the 15-man squad at Bethel College, a liberal arts college with a Christian emphasis in Mishawaka, Ind.

"There were about 40 who tried out for the team when spring camp started in mid-August," Tuckey said. "And the coach (Dick Patterson) didn't make things easy the first day. He wanted to sort out the guys who couldn't cut it from those who could make it."

Tuckey remembers that the first practice started at 6:30 a.m. and the team had to run up a 100-step staircase, run back down and do it again before they ran four miles in less than 30 minutes.

"Most of the guys didn't make it in less than 30 minutes, but Coach Patterson got his point across that he meant business," he said.

Tuckey had to endure other problems. In his first game of soccer, he was accidentally kicked in the knee by a teammate and was sidelined for three weeks with a jammed kneecap and torn muscles.

"It was hard making a comeback, but I trained every day and ran at least six miles to keep in shape," he said. "We practiced twice a day, once at 8 in the morning and then again at 3 in the afternoon. I had no spare time at all."

Tuckey's persistence paid off. When the season was over, the Bethel College team finished with a .500 season and Tuckey was voted the most improved player on the squad. He had played in every game during the season and even started in a few.

"I played a halfback position which requires a lot of endurance because the halfback controls the flow of the game," Tuckey said. "I have to run the entire length of the field at times and I've always got to stay in shape for that."

Tuckey planned on trying out for the soccer team and trained hard the summer before going to Bethel College for spring camp by running and doing other exercises. Since there were no soccer teams organized in this area, Tuckey had to "just bounce the ball around by myself."

His team was in the National Christian Collegiate Athletic Association (NCCAA) and played schools like Notre Dame and Grace College. "We were the smallest college in the conference."

"Indiana has some of the best soccer players in the country," Tuckey said. "It might be known as the basketball state, but many of the collegiate soccer players coming from Indiana make it in the pros."

Bethel College had two

All-Americans on the team, Nick Garcia from Mexico and Roberto Smith from another Latin American country.

"We also had freshmen on the team from New Hampshire and Vermont who were soccer four-year lettermen in high school. They were fantastic. In the East, that's all they think about - soccer."

This summer he is living with his mother, Fonda Tuckey, at 6582 Pine Street.

Tuckey's father is Mark Tuckey of 4353 Koepfgen Road.

Tuckey plans to return to Bethel College and the soccer team this fall. Besides playing the sport, he will continue working on his pre-law degree and in six years he plans to have undergraduate degrees in English literature, philosophy, psychology and art.

Last year he maintained a 3.49 grade point average, was business manager of the yearbook and worked with the traveling drama club.

"Whatever I do, I usually stick with it," Tuckey said. "It's sort of my life's philosophy: Persistence pays off."

Scouts hold Pinewood derby in church

Deford Cub Scout Pack 3495 held its annual Pinewood Derby June 3 in the basement of the Deford United Methodist church.

First place winner was John Vandenbussche; second, Darin Gyomory, and third, Darrin Sleight.

Thirteen boys were entered, with the top two in each division competing in the finals.

The father of two boys competing, Ray Vandenbussche, made 12 wood trophies for the event.

In addition to those named, also competing were Laurel Griffen, Brent Wood, Brian Gyomory, Tony Yost, Nicky Pohlod, Tim Mozen, Dickie Mallory, Matt Purvis, Jim Vandenbussche and John Lebioda.

Osentoski softballers win seventh in a row

Osentoski Realty and Auctioneering continued its winning streak in the San-Cass softball league by defeating McGraw Edison Thursday, June 21, 11-7. Dale Auslander was the winning pitcher.

Ron Ouvry and Don Galbraith led the way. Ouvry had two homers and a double. Galbraith had one homer, a triple and a single. Ken Lowe and Todd Alexander also had two hits each.

Monday, June 25, Wolverine State Bank of Marlette was defeated 10-1. Auslander was again the winning pitcher. He also had a homer, double and a single. Don Galbraith and Ed Lowe each had two hits. Todd Alexander also had a home run.

Osentoski finished the first half with a record of 7-3 with one game rained out. It lost its first three games, then came back to win seven straight.

The second half of the season was to start Wednesday, June 27, against Spiegel Construction, but the game was rained out.

False rumor

Builder denies plans for new apartment building

A rumor that a builder was interested in constructing apartments on land south of Hillcrest Street, between lots along Hunt and Seeger Streets, is apparently untrue.

The rumored builder, Donald Smith of Smith Builders in Caro, told the Chronicle, "I don't even know where Hunt Street is."

Other than denying the rumor, he declined comment, except to say if he does decide to build apartments somewhere in the Cass City area, the public will know about it.

Smith Builders constructed the Hillside Apartments here and manages them for a Muskegon real estate firm that owns them. The above mentioned site is presently zoned RA-1, single-family residential, which would prohibit apartments from being constructed there without the village council first changing the zoning to RC, multi-family residential.

A local real estate agent, who did not want to be named, said someone is interested in the site for condominiums, however, the only permitted residential use in RA-1 districts, according to the village zoning ordinance, is "one-family detached dwellings," which presumably would rule out condominiums without rezoning.

The only vacant property in Cass City presently zoned for apartments is behind Provincial House and is owned by Northwood Estates and Village developer Tom Herron.

Jim Hosner is going to Europe.

What is unusual about it is that he isn't planning to come back for a few years.

Hosner, 34, is the son of George and June Hosner of 231 N. Kingston Road, Deford.

In most persons' eyes, the 1964 Cass City High School graduate is in the category of one who "hasn't settled down yet."

He doesn't disagree, it's just that "I decided I prefer traveling to staying in one place."

It's not that he has been loafing since he got out of high school. "It doesn't matter where you go, you're going to have to do some work, so you might as well be someplace you like doing something you like to do."

As for where he is going, the bearded Hosner said the day before his departure, "I don't know where I'm going to go, but it's going to be warm and it's going to be near water."

THE FIRST PLACE HE went after graduating from high school was Mount Pleasant where he attended Central Michigan University. He earned his bachelor's degree in January, 1969, with a psychology major and math minor.

He taught English at Vassar High School for a semester, then Uncle Sam came calling.

During his two-year Army hitch came his one involuntary trip. In 1970-71, he was stationed in Chu Lai, South Vietnam. He was assigned to an artillery unit.

In 1971, "I got out and I had my GI bill. I said I had a good time last time (at CMU), so I went back."

It wasn't until August, 1978, that he got his master's degree in development psychology.

In addition to taking classes part-time, he worked.

In 1973-74, he installed custom stereo units and built speaker cabinets for stereo sets for musicians.

For the next three years, he was a self-employed auto mechanic. Then came substitute teaching at Mt. Pleasant High School and the Mt. Pleasant Center for Human Development. He was also a substitute teacher's aide at the institution.

After receiving his master's degree in August, which required writing of a thesis (topic: Intra-individual variations in short term memory), he went to work at the Caro Regional Center teaching the severely mentally retarded. He lived at home with his parents.

NOW IT'S TIME FOR some traveling.

His trip to Europe won't be the first. He was there in 1971.

He has also done extensive traveling in the United States -- "I really like driving. Moving, the road blurs. That's what I like," -- and starting last December, spent a couple of months touring Guatemala, Mexico and Belize.

He had gone there at the invitation of a Guatemalan he had known at CMU, who invited him to come down for New Year's Eve. Fireworks are a big part of the celebration down there, which makes the start of the new year somewhat spectacular.

Hosner left for Europe Thursday, June 21, only he is taking the long way there. He drove his 1963 Volvo sports coupe to Florida, where he figured he would get a better price for it. He had used his mechanical skills on the car and had rebuilt the engine and front end and installed a newer transmission.

He was hoping to get $1,800-$2,000 for it, money needed to finance his trip to Europe.

He figured that might last him six months, but if it doesn't, it won't bother him. He figures he is going to have to work sometime.

THE DAY BEFORE HIS departure, he was figuring his first stop in Europe would probably be Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

Rotterdam is the headquarters for the world spot oil market, where surplus petroleum is sold to the highest bidder. Where there is oil, there is money, he was figuring, so that improved his chances for getting a job.

Another advantage of going there is that English is the second language of Holland. Other than his native language, Hosner speaks only a little French.

"If I find a job, I'll stay, but I got some traveling to do."

The psychology graduate already had an appointment to be in Paris July 14 for Bastille Day, the French day of independence. He will meet a Frenchman there whom he first met during his trip to Central America.

The people he meets is one reason why he likes to travel. People who do a lot of traveling, he said, "are a lot more friendly. They don't worry about how much you've got."

After Paris, and if he doesn't get a job in Rotterdam, the Defordite plans to next go to Greece. It's warm there -- he doesn't like cold weather -- and if he goes to the right place, he can be close to water.

Assuming he doesn't end up working in Rotterdam, Hosner has various ideas in mind to earn a living.

He has a list of schools in Europe for children of American dependents, so possibly can get a teaching job. Teaching English to Europeans is another possibility. He also plans to do some free lance writing, selling his articles to publications in this country.

He isn't worried about not being able to find a means of earning a living.

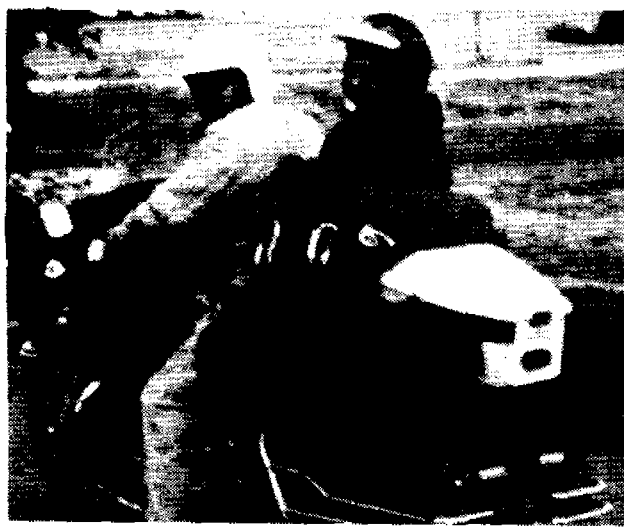

HIS PRESENT AGENDA plans for staying in one place in Europe a couple of years with possibly a side trip to Moscow for the 1980 Olympics.

After that, he wants to go to Australia, then to South America. He plans to be gone five years, then will probably settle in California, where a brother lives.

He is at an age when probably most people have settled down and many are raising a family.

He is told by family and friends that he should do the same. "You really ought to consider a good steady job and start building for the future," they say. "I should, but I don't want to do it that way."

He realizes that traveling means having to give up a steady paycheck and money in the bank, but, "It's not worth it to me."

THEY'RE OFF -- Packed with a tent, sleeping bags, clothes, kitchen utensils and some food, Louis and Jeanette Langenburg waved goodbye as they began their 36-day journey. The motorcycle weighed over 1,300 pounds, plus its two passengers. (story page 1)

Your Neighbor says Meaning of July 4th has lost significance

For many in the United States, the Fourth of July holiday has little patriotic significance, says Esther McCullough.

"When I was a child, everyone looked forward to celebrating this important day in America's history," she said. "All the homes had flags outside and everyone was proud to show them. You don't see that kind of patriotism today, unfortunately."

Mrs. McCullough believes some of the meaning is lost because a lot of people go away on trips or vacations and don't have the time to recognize the anniversary of our nation's independence.

"But maybe now with the gas shortage people will stay home and celebrate the day as a community," she said. With that idea, she suggested that the Cass City area residents should participate in the first annual Fourth of July Festival to revive some of the excitement lost over the years in the holiday.

"This is the kind of thing we need around here to put more life into the holiday spirit and improve ourselves as patriotic American citizens," Mrs. McCullough said.

She thought the nation should take a good look at itself and start to fight the selfishness and greed which seems to have overcome the American people.

"People nowadays are only interested in their own personal benefit," she said. "A give me, give me, give me kind of attitude. Very few are interested in helping one another."

She believes that holidays like the Fourth of July are needed as a start to improve the image of the United States.

"In that way, we can look at ourselves as the ideal country that we once were. Until then, it's important that we look out for others and not think of our own interests."

Mrs. McCullough is a widow and lives at 4230 S. Seeger Street. She is retired. Her late husband was once co-owner of Mac and Scotty's Drug Store, now Coach Light Pharmacy.

K. Ridenour gets degree in teaching

Kris Ridenour received her B.S. degree from Central Michigan University May 12.

Kris Ridenour

She majored in pre-school child development and minored in biology and received an elementary teaching certificate.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Ridenour of Cass City, she is a 1975 graduate of Cass City High School.

She is working this summer at Bauer Candy Co. and is seeking employment for this fall.

New books at the library

A PRIVATE BATTLE, by Cornelius Ryan (non-fiction). A painful book, drawn primarily from secret records kept for more than four years, documents Cornelius Ryan's fight against cancer (supplemented with sections from the diary of his wife, who acted as editor of all the material). Ryan was such a forceful writer the reader is made to share the physical and mental anguish as he learned of his disease, underwent treatment, tried to keep the strain from being too great on his family, and strove to complete the book he was working on, "A Bridge too Far," which was published two months after his death in November, 1974. Understandably tinged with self-pity, bitterness, and desperation, his account is remarkable in its forthright expression of fortitude and self-awareness.

MAGGIE, by Lena Kennedy (fiction). Maggie is an indomitable Cockney woman whose relatively sheltered existence with her adoring "Dah" was abruptly shattered by his death when she was 14. Motherhood and scrubbing porch steps soon followed as Maggie was thrust into the reality of the London slums. The colorful portrait Kennedy has drawn of Maggie's tumultuous life is abrupt and sketchy at points but, overall, the lengthy tale speaks vividly of the intense characters who peopled the East End from prewar days through the fifties.

THE ISLAND, by Peter Benchley (fiction). A writer for a weekly newsmagazine sets out to investigate the mysterious disappearance of some 600 boats within a five year period near a group of desolate islands in the Caribbean. He discovers a primitive society which has been living on one of the islands for 300 years, with no contact with the outside world save through bloodthirsty acts of piracy.

System can up corn yields by 60 bushels

Irrigation is "insurance" for Satchells

Mike Satchell looks on irrigation as an "insurance policy."

"We know we can get the feed we need, good years and bad."

That's important to Satchell, his brother, Bill, and their father, Fred. The trio operates Satchell Farms, which with more than 210 cows being milked is probably Tuscola county's largest dairy farm. It is located at Ellington.

This is the third season for the Satchell's low pressure towable center pivot rig, which has a capacity of irrigating 200 acres.

Out of 542 acres of corn planted this year, 180 are under irrigation, plus 20 acres of alfalfa. All corn raised is used for feed.

A six-inch pipe runs underground for about a mile from the pump over the 350-foot deep well. There are five risers along the pipe.

The irrigation rig can attach to any of the risers. From the center pivot, the arm irrigates a 40-acre circle. Four sets of wheels, with an electric motor for each set, support the overhead pipe and moves it in a circle.

Water is pushed through the overhead pipe at 25 pounds per square inch pressure. Nozzles spray the water out and down.

Satchell said the rig is much more energy efficient than others which use 100 pounds pressure and or spray the water up into the air, which makes it easier for winds to blow some of it away.

He figures his energy costs at $1.80 per inch of water per acre.

It takes a day to deposit 1 1/4 inches of water in a 40-foot circle. Speed that the overhead pipe moves is controlled by a switch mounted on the center pivot, thus the amount of water deposited can be changed by increasing or decreasing the speed.

After the desired amount of moisture is applied to a circle, the wheels on the support arms are turned 90 degrees to line up with the pipe, the pivot tow bar is hooked to a tractor and the whole rig is towed to connect with the next riser.

Satchell figures he broke even financially the first two years because he had pump problems at critical times when moisture was needed, thus reducing potential yields. With the bugs eliminated, he doesn't anticipate any problems this year.

In order to make the system pay, he said it is necessary to gross at least $100 per acre more.

The irrigation system was installed on sandy soil, which in prior years had averaged 80 bushels per acre. Irrigation has increased the yields to 130-150 bushels.

Installing irrigation there made more sense than on the Satchells' heavier ground, because even in dry years, the heavier ground is likely to yield at least 70 bushels. On sandy ground, it would be far less.

Although the irrigation rig is definitely paying off on the Satchell dairy farm, Mike said the economics might be different for a cash crop operator.

When it was purchased, the investment came to about $200 an acre. Due to inflation, he guesses it's more like $300 now.

In addition to increasing yields, there are some indirect benefits:

-The Satchells were able to plant some corn in early June, yet know they will still have a crop there.

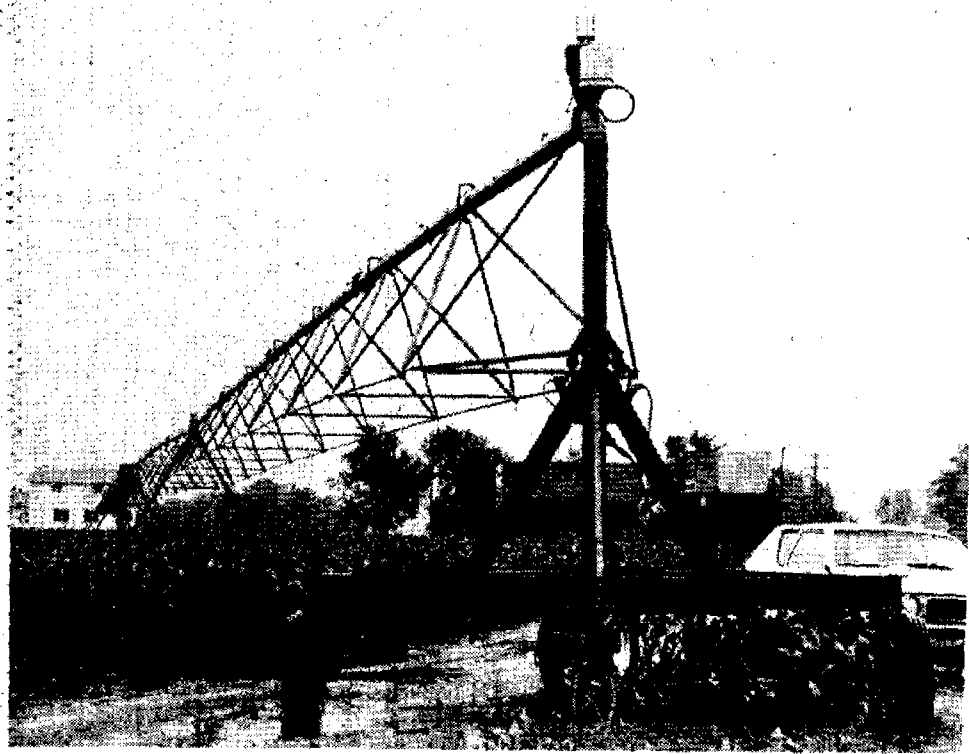

-By knowing what their yield will be, give or take a relatively small percentage, they can more carefully plan fertilizer requirements.

-A nitrogen tank can be connected to the pipeline and the nitrogen then distributed along with the water. Without the irrigation rig, the nitrogen would have to be all distributed during planting or additional trips would have to be made later over the fields.

-Having an assured supply of corn means the Satchells aren't forced to buy corn during a dry year, when prices might be driven up by farmers with livestock who must augment their diminished corn supplies by buying.

In addition to all the conventional advantages for irrigation, Satchell has discovered an additional one.

When the rig is running, he finds the spray is just right for washing his car.

WATER FALL -- The overhead pipe stretches more than 600 feet from the center pivot of the irrigation rig on the Satchell farm. The whole rig is towable by means of the tow bar on the pivot. Irrigation isn't normally used until July, when the driest part of the growing season (July and August) begins.

LOTS OF CORN in Tuscola county isn't even this high by the Fourth of July, due to dry weather prior to last week's deluge. The field Mike Satchell of Ellington is standing in was irrigated twice, but it rained right after both times, so he figures it would have been just as tall at this point without irrigation.

Lack of rain slows corn

Knee-high corn by the Fourth of July may have been ideal in grandpa's day, according to Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel, but by today's standards, that's pretty short.

Ideally, nowadays, corn should be at least waist high by July 4.

But because of lack of rain early this growing season, corn is doing well to be knee-high by now and some is shorter (though some is taller).

Rains the last few days did provide welcome relief for farmers, but lots more is needed over the next few months in order to have a successful growing season.

"The crops are progressing about as well as expected, but are behind the normal situation," Bortel said late last week. "We don't have as good stands of corn, sugarbeets and beans as we would like to have."

The dry growing season up to recently isn't necessarily a problem, he explained, provided there is adequate rainfall during the rest of the summer. The worrisome aspect is that July and August are normally the driest months.

Ideally, farmers need a half-inch to an inch of rain a week during those months. The extension director admitted, however, that an inch of rain "is what we call utopia."

The recent rains were too late to be of much benefit to this year's wheat crop, harvesting of which is rapidly approaching, Bortel said.

He expects the wheat crop, to be only average. Growth this spring was hurt by lack of rain at the right times and cool temperatures contributed to mildew, which hurt yields.

The only bad insect problem so far this year has been the alfalfa weevil. Bortel cautioned farmers to be on the lookout for armyworms, a few of which have been observed in the county in growth alongside cropland.
