HOUGHTON STREET, between Brooker and West Streets, will be 32 feet wide, not 39 or 40 feet, the Cass City Village Council decided Tuesday evening. Arrows shown aren't to scale.

Protestors don't show

Council okays 32-foot width on Houghton St.

Not a protest was heard Tuesday evening as the Cass City Village Council decided a reconstructed Houghton Street will be 32 feet wide. A rate increase for cable television subscribers was approved.

Reconstruction of the twoblock section between West and Brooker Streets was slated to get underway in late July but was halted when all but three of 15 affected property owners signed a petition demanding the street be 39 feet from curb to curb, not the 32 feet planned.

Council members were expecting a large contingent of residents at the meeting, but to their surprise, only two showed up and both wanted sentiment as expressed by the names on the petition versus the non-turnout by those who signed, two previous public hearings held, and money already invested in Houghton ($12-14,000) for drainage work and water and sewer line installation. It then voted unanimously that the street should be 32 feet wide. The petition signed by the protestors said they would not pay the assessment for curb and gutter if it isn't 39 feet wide. The assessed property owners will have three years to pay. If they don't, the amount they owe goes on their property tax bills and if they still don't pay, legal procedures imposed are the same as for non-payment of taxes Work on the street, just getting underway when it was halted, was to resume this Wednesday morning. Contractor is Andrew Barnes Jr. Curb and gutter will be installed, with paving to be done next year. Similar work is almost completed on Brooker and Downing Streets between Main and Church.

McNEIL HOUSE

After two years of letters, negotiations, etc., village Attorney Clinton House was about ready to start condemnation proceedings against the dilapidated and unoccupied covered basement house belonging to Margaret McNeil at Houghton and Brooker Streets.

That now isn't possible, he reported to the council Tuesday. He recently discovered that the state legislature last fall took away authority from local governmental units to declare such buildings as public nuisances. The authority has now been given to county health departments.

House has now notified the project. Federal funds will pay 77 percent of the cost.

A public hearing on special assessments to pay for curb and gutter will probably be held at the Sept. 25 meeting.

It was decided the regularly scheduled August meeting, which would have been on the 28th, won't be held.

The council approved a new village traffic ordinance, putting it into conformity with the new state law which makes most minor traffic offenses civil violations instead of criminal ones.

As of Aug. 10, 80.3 percent of village property taxes had been paid. This Wednesday was the last day to pay them without penalty. A 3 percent cost the district $31,500 more yearly to keep the custodians The district which operates on the lowest millage rate in the State will probably be forced to seek more operating funds after the upcoming school year is over.

The district has been hit with a double financial whammy . . . inflation and the Headlee amendment.

The revenue picture from the State is a little cloudy due to Gov. William Milliken's veto of a portion of the school aid bill.

If the final bill passed in Lansing approximates the one vetoed, Crouse figures the district will have $90,000 more for operation than it did in 1978-79.

But that is a relatively small increase, he points out, compared to the school budget of well over $2 million. That's an increase of less than five percent when teachers' salaries alone increase over 7 percent, Crouse says.

Without Headlee, the increase in revenues would have been $78,000 more and the superintendent said that the district could have operated nicely on a $168,000 increase.

The situation right now is even more bleak. If no further action were taken in Lansing the total increase would be $73,000, not $90,000. It's expected that a new bill will be passed restoring the money cut by veto. Total debt and operating millage

In the last 25 years there have been only a couple of. times that the district faced operating on a deficit budget and Supt. Donald Crouse predicted Monday at the regular meeting of the board at Cass City High School that 1979-80 would be another.

In their place part-time high school students will be hired and remaining personnel shuffled to try and equal the increased work-load.

WITHDRAW FROM SUIT

The board voted to withdraw the district from a class action suit instituted by Attorney General Frank Kelley against Olson Anderson, a supplier of school equipment. The board acted after learning that the company made about $20,000 in the last reported year and the charge was made because of the complaint of an employee who was not allowed to sell "outside of a service area" mandated by the company.

Several business items were quickly handled. A committee was appointed to handle bus insurance bids and new guidelines for free and reduced price lunches were approved. They will be presented in detail in the annual school opening advertisement in the Chronicle.

ADMISSION CHARGES

There have been a few changes in the admission charges for sports at Cass City Schools. All of the modest increases have been in varsity sports that had a gate admission less than boys' football and basketball.

The charge for boys' varsity football and basketball remains at $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students at the school pre-sale. All tickets at the gate will be $1.50.

Last year, gymnastics, wrestling, girls' basketball funds run out. It would have same as the boys' varsity, $1.50 and $1.00 for students, pre-sale.

One other change will see a charge for boys' and girls' junior high basketball for the first time. The charge is $1.00 adults, 50 cents, students' pre-sale.

Season ticket prices re-main unchanged. For the fall season they will cost $7.50 for adults, $5.00 for students. For winter season the price is $15.00, adults, $10.00 students. The tickets are good for all sports in the respective season.

SELL TIRES

Twenty-three bus tires were advertised for bids and bids received on 13 of them. Four were sold to Elmer Hahn for $28.50 each. Nine were sold to Roy Powell for varying amounts ranging Paul Bliss said making the street wider would mean "traffic will come through there faster." He hadn't signed the petition.

Merle Kitchen said the only reason he signed it was find out what was happening and to get rid of the two petition circulators, Jim Seale and Ron Weippert, as he had company at the time they came to his house.

Village President Lambert Althaver reviewed past sistory. The village master plan, approved in 1959, specified that major streets should be at least 48 feet wide, collector streets, such as West and Church, should be 40 feet, and local or sidential streets, such as Houghton, should be 32 feet.

Decisions made since then by the council have supported the master plan. One exception has been in front of churches, where local streets have been made 40 bet to allow parking.

Council members debated such factors as the majority

Two hurt in on-the-job accidents

One Cass City resident remains in Hills and Dales eneral Hospital and another is resting at home following two separate falls that occurred last week.

Robert Bliss, 32, of 6785 E. Main Street, Cass City, fell last Friday from the roof of house currently under construction in the Northwood Estates subdivision.

He suffered a punctured lung and was taken to the hospital where he was listed in fair to serious condition Tuesday afternoon.

In an incident last week Monday, Robert Alexander, 25, of 4426 Woodland, suffered a concussion when he fell from a ladder while painting at a Walbro plant in Cass City.

He was taken to Hills and Dales and was released from there Tuesday morning of this week. He is now home recuperating.

CABLE TV

The request of TV Cable Co. to increase its regular monthly rate from $7 to $8 was approved, along with an added charge of $10 per month for a new entertainment channel for those who want it. The last rate increase was in May, 1977.

Implementation of the increase is contingent on the firm putting into effect imservice, which proved should take place sometime this fall. The only complaint about the increase came from Jerry Vegosen of 4574 Hill Street, who commented, "All I want is some guarantee if this increase is approved, we will get better service.'

Improved reception will come about, TV Cable President James A. McCoy told the council, because the firm is installing a satellite receiving station in Caro, an investment of about $1 million.

In addition to better reception, he said the new equipment will enable subscribers to get three more channels (from Chicago, Atlanta, and the public broadcasting station in East Lansing), plus for the $10 extra per month, Home Box Office (recent movies and special entertainment programs). There are eight channels received now.

To finance the new equipment and expansion to six additional Thumb communities (it is in three now), McCoy has organized a new and larger corporation, the First Michigan Cablevision Corp.

The council approved "transfer" of the Cable TV Co. franchise to operate in Cass City to the new corporation.

retary.

The Owendale-Gagetown School District still owes Construction Coordinators, Inc., (pick one):

$2,730 $46,433. $81,871.

The East Detroit firm coordinated construction of the addition and gymnasium at Owen-Gage High School, which was first used during the 1978-79 school year.

owes it $46,433. Carl Tropf of the firm was present at the school board's meeting Monday night to explain why CCI claims it is owed that amount.

Armed with an overhead projector showing enlarged copies of letters and other documents to reinforce his position, he contended that the contract between CCI and Owen-Gage called for the project to be completed in 12 months, but his firm was on the job from September, 1977, through February of this year – 17 months.

Thus CCI is owed extra money for the extra time it spent on the project. He also cited some other reasons, such as changes in the project, which required extra work.

Tropf also claimed that he could document that CCI is actually owed $81,871.

As for why the project took longer than expected, he said the problem was that architects, Wigen, the Tincknell & Associates of Saginaw, were late in delivering plans and bid specifications to CCI. "Getting contractors on the job was not the problem in this case," he explained.

Board President Ronald Good contended that the board was powerless at the time, that if anyone could have gotten the architects to speed up their work, it should have been CCI.

'We weren't contracted to Tropf Wigen-Tincknell," countered. "You were." The board's position came out in discussions after Tropf had left. It feels that it contracted with CCI for a flat amount of $108,000, regardless of how long it took to complete the project. Based on that amount, Supt. Ronald Erickson said Owen-Gage still owes CCI only $2,730.

While he was there, Tropf offered the board a compromise of less than $46,433, but wouldn't reveal the amount unless members were prepared to act on it that evening.

With two members absent, the board declined. Instead, at Tropf's suggestion, a meeting was tentatively scheduled Monday, Aug. 27, at 8 p.m. in the Gagetown Elementary building, at which both sides will have their attorneys present.

"I don't want to have to go to litigation" the CCI official said shortly before leaving.

PROPERTY TRANSFERS

The state Board of Education last Wednesday in Lansing denied three property transfer appeals it had before it, concerning the Miller parcel from Owen-Gage to Cass City, Gremel from Owen-Gage to Unionville-Sebewaing, and the request by Owen-Gage to get the Elenbaum parcel back from Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port.

Petitioners in all three appeals had withdrawn right to appeal.

Offerings were taken for the Regular Baptist Children's Home in St. Louis, MI., and for the general fund. Mrs. Louise Baker gave the devotions, and Mrs. Pauline McArthur led prayer time. Mrs. Pat Wells asked the blessing on the refreshments, which were served by Mrs. Linda Helwig and Mrs. Connie Merchant.

Ah, the government bureaucracy. A representative of a bureau responsible for checking safety hazards was in to look over the Chronicle.

Nothing wrong with that. But listen. The first time he came was on a Wednesday morning. That's publication day and it's frantic around here.

What the representative wanted to do was interview me first, then inspect. I suggested that he make his inspection and then come back for the interview. Can't be done. Well, make an appointment.

Can't be done. Why? Departmental procedure.

That procedure resulted in three calls before the inspection was made. The interview and the inspection lasted about 15 minutes.

Lonnie Wilson

Lonnie, 16, is the daughter of George and Glenda Wilson of 6633 Gage Street, Gagetown. She will be a junior this fall at Cass City High School. She was accepted into the band last summer, her first time at the camp, located northeast of Muskegon. Although no audition was required, musical ability was obviously a major consideration. That summer, Lonnie was occupying the seventh chair (of 18) in the top band of three at Blue Lake.

Ability to get along with others and ability to pay for the trip were other considerations. It was to cost her parents about $1,500.

ONCE ACCEPTED INTO the 91-piece band, the first rehearsal for the entire group came on a Sunday afternoon at Whitehall, north of Muskegon, in November. Additional rehearsals were held there, one Sunday per month, in December, March and Gagetown girl takes clarinet to Europe down, maybe Blue Cross-Blue Shield should hire Roland Fayne to be an audit mechanism.

I first wrote about Fayne last month, shortly after he and his wife became parents at Detroit's Hutzel Hospital. He claimed his hospital bill, paid by the Blues, was $1,258 too high, and he asked Blues' President John McCabe to investigate.

The investigation has been completed. Hutzel has admitted an accidental overcharge of $442, with apologies. Joyce Neumaier, executive assistant to John McCabe, wrote to Fayne:

"We certainly appreciate your concern because it is only with the full co-operation of our subscribers that we can expect to stabilize health care costs . . . These overcharges were unintentional and we do have an audit mechanism designed to identify such errors. However, your prompt letter resulted in an earlier than usual resolution.'

The Blues are claiming that if Favne's complaint hadn't saved them $442, an audit mechanism would have done it anyway, eventually. You might be skeptical about that claim, but what do you know about audit mechanisms?

Hutzel's big mistake was a $375 nursery charge. The Fayne's baby son didn't use the nursery but instead roomed in with his mother. A Hutzel spokesman explained nursery charges are automatically added to the patient's account unless the hospital's "Data Processing Center" is notified to skip it. Someone forgot to notify the center.

The rest of the overcharge resulted from a mistake concerning anesthesia. The established hospital charge for an anesthetic is $90. However, if only a local is administered, the charge is $23. Mrs. Fayne had a local but was charged $90. Hutzel didn't explain how this mistake occurred.

A skeptic might point out that almost all new mothers get the $90 anesthesia, and almost all new babies stay in the $125-a-day nursery, and almost all Data Processing

A nasty skeptic might suggest that none of this fuss would have occurred if Roland Fayne had acted normally. The normal Blues subscriber wouldn't have complained about the overcharges. He wouldn't even have noticed them. Most insured people simply glance at the total at the bottom of the printout and thank God it's covered by medical insurance. A skeptic might wonder how many overcharges are paid by

Dick Donahue's sunflowers: One beauty of a cash crop

If there were a beauty contest for cash crops, sunflowers would win hands down

It's hard to imagine a sight prettier than a field of Jie bright yellow blossoms stretching almost as far as the eye can see.

Regardless of looks. there are lots of other advantages to the crop, according to Dick Donahue, and they all spell money.

This is the third year he has grown sunflowers. The first year he planted 40 acres and grossed $302 an acre. That was about $100 more per acre than corn was bringing that year, yet input costs (seeds, fertilizer, etc.) were about the same.

The second year he planted 110 acres and this year, he has 320. WERE SUNFLOWERS

U.S. sunflower crop is exported to Europe, where it is preferred over many other food oils. THE BIG SUNFLOWER states are North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Texas. There, the average yield is 1,383 pounds per acre. Donahue has done much better than that, 1,800-2,700 pounds per acre, but figures that may be because Michigan gets more moisture than the states out west. In comparison to soybeans, sunflowers usually do better in dry conditions.

Sunflowers have an image among some farmers of being a good crop for poor soil, according to Donahue, but practicing that philosophy only results in a poor crop. He plants his sunflowers on good ground. FROM A TECHNICAL standpoint, growing the crop is similar to growing corn. Field preparation work is the same and the seed is planted in 30-inch rows with a corn planter with a special plate inserted.

After the crop is in the ground, the fields are cultisoybeans, which have vated once and there is one application of anhydrous ammonia. The crop is planted around years, neither birds nor disease has been a problem. The one problem he has had is with deer munching on the flowers at his 80-acre field at Elmwood and Phillips Road, southwest of Cass City.

Donahue, whose home is on Cass City Road in Columbia township, also has a 130-acre field of sunflowers rail.

Construction of an exercise trail in the western section of the woods in the Cass City Recreation Park has been started by the Rotary Club and should be opened by mid-fall, according to publicity director Bob Schott.

'We should have some of the stations opened by then," he said. "And we expect the trail to be completed some time next spring.

Board postpones new law

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday postponed further consideration of a proposed nev county animal control ordinance pending resolution of the question of whether animal control officers should be deputized.

Fear was expressed that officers won't be able to enforce the ordinance if they are not deputies.

However, to be deputized requires the same training as for all new policemen so alternatives other than deputizing animal control officers will be explored.

Annexation to Cass City of a lot owned by David and Arlene Erla on the south side of Seventh Street was approved.

Also approved was hiring of an additional full-time clerk in the magistrate's office.

The added clerk, who will replace a part-time position, was needed because of the increased work load due to the sheriff's department's new secondary road patrol resulting in more arrests and the new state law changing many minor traffic offenses into civil violations instead of criminal ones.

Engineers, specialists meet in Japan

When a task force of senior executives, project engineers and production specialists from the multinational Walbro Corp. met in Japan recently, they put into action a plan that puts Walbro in a position well out in front of other manufacturers of small engine carburetors.

"We're exclusive in our industry," said Robert H. Walpole, senior vice-president, Walbro Carburetor Group. "We can now source a customer from any of our four production facilities. And, with these operations located around the world in the U.S., Japan, Mexico and the Republic of Singapore we can assure customers of continuity of delivery.

According to Walpole, when the Walbro task force met in Kawasaki City and Miyagi, Japan, "We put into action plans that had been in the making for several years and finalized only this past June. Today, all four plants are working with an acrossthe-board commonality -- universal methods of drawing, materials specification writing . . . standardized dimensional and quality control criteria. We're also phasing-in standardized dies costs of materials and outside services. We can also equalize production schedules, which helps us react quickly to our customers' requirements. But equally important," he said, "we can now offer carburetor customers all the benefits of using a single source . . . the safeguards of dealing with multiple sources . . . plus interchangeability of new carburetors no matter where they've been produced. THE LAST CHANCE ENERGY BOOK, by Owen Phillips (non-fiction). The simplest solution to the dwindling supply of domestic energy is to import more oil, whatever the cost - which is precisely what we have done thus far. That solution, cautions Phillips, a science professor at Johns Hopkins, will lead to national impoverishment, economic decay and personal hardship. With worldwide depletion of oil and natural gas resources, Americans must replace 75 percent of our total energy supply or do without. Phillips discusses personal conservation -- mostly money saving -and national, large-scale conservation. Many of the popular alternatives -- solar energy, windmills, ocean thermal power, the silicon cell -- are either not practicable for megapower or too expensive, according to the author. More promising alternatives are gasification or liquefaction of coal and "bio-mass conversion," producing energy from plants.

HANTA YO, by Ruth Beebe Hill (fiction). Focusing on the years from 1794 to 1835, this magnificent multigenerational saga (which has already been compared to "Roots") recreates the world of the Plains Indian before the white man brought about its destruction. A remarkable book that tells the Indians' story from the inside out.

LOSE WEIGHT NATURALLY, by Mark Bricklin (non-fiction). Nearly every diet book these days seems to have a trick or gimmick, but this one, by an editor of "Prevention" magazine, is refreshingly different, using only plain old common sense and a program of behavior modification to produce what might be a genuinely useful formula. What's more, it makes lively reading, because Bricklin, a humorous fellow, analyzed his own weight loss-gain experiences, and uses his personal insights to warn others of the pitfalls and to help them establish new eating patterns. There is no diet per se. He seems to know the perennial dieter's excuses and demolishes all of them, wittily and effectively. His useful food rating and evaluation guide lists, in addition to calorie counts, the nutritional value of each food and other (often more filling and nutritious) alternatives.

DISTRICT COURT

A prosecution motion for "no prosecution" against Richard H. Bradley, 22, and Regenia M. Bradley, 20, of 4118 S. Seeger Street, Cass City, was granted Monday by Judge Richard F. Kern. Bradley was charged with conspiracy to commit the crime of entering without permission; Regenia Bradley with entering without permission, both in connection with a July 5, 1978 break-in of a home on Deckerville Road, Almer township.

Each pleaded guilty, after which sentencing was delayed a year. The charges were dismissed because, according to the prosecutor, both had been "excellent citizens for the past year." Donald Gaeth, 34, of 2969

Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown, was sentenced Monday for impaired driv-ing, to which he pleaded guilty July 23.

He was fined $100, assessed $150 court costs and placed on probation. He was arrested on the charge June 16 in Indianfields township. · A charge of possession of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle against Robert W. Hicks, 18, of 4010 Lamton Road, Deford, was dismissed. The prosecution moved for dismissal because the "facts do not establish defendant's possession within a reasonable doubt." He was cited on the charge

March 20 by Cass City police.

The warning signs of stroke are: A sudden, temporary weakness or numbness of the face, arm or leg.

-- Temporary difficulty or loss of speech or trouble understanding speech.

-- Sudden, temporary dimness or loss of vision, particularly in one eye.

- Dizziness with double vision.

-- Sudden, severe headache and stiff neck. -- Temporary dizziness or unsteadiness. -- A recent change in personality or mental ability. Dr. Ausman advised. "Though these warning signs may indicate problems other than stroke, anyone who experiences any of the signs should see his doctor promptly.

"Through detection of the warning signs and, more recently, surgical intervention--added to the fact that people are now more aware of the risk factor of cardiovascular disease--stroke death rate has been on the decline since 1968. In fact, between 1968 and 1976, the last year for which figures are available, stroke declined some 27.9 percent," he said. "Still, it is a major killer and crippler. In 1976, stroke killed 188,623 people' and affects nearly 2 million.

How can strokes be averted in people who exhibit the warning signs?

"By thorough medical evaluation," Dr. Ausman said. Dr. Ausman, who is one of a small number of internationally known who has neurosurgeons pioneered bypass surgery for the brain, explained further. "The brain, where a stroke occurs because of a blocked or ruptured artery, is one of the last arenas of the body that has resisted medical invasion. Now, thanks to microsurgery. which allows doctors to work with blood vessels on the surface of the brain which are no larger than a pencil lead, blockages in such vessels can be bypassed, providing improved circulation

Area clubs win big at Sanilac County Fair

GRAND CHAMPION STEER at the Sanilac County 4-H Fair belonged to Hope Leslie of Snover. With her is buyer (at $2.20 a pound) Bill Palmer of Palmer Feeds, McGregor. (Sanilac County 4-H photos)

The Evergreen Guys and Sals 4-H Club scored a clean sweep at last week's Sanilac County 4-H Fair with members having the grand champion steer, swine and market lamb.

That is apparently the first time in the fair's hist.ry that all three top livestock winners were from one club.

The grand champion steer, an Angus-Simmental crossbreed, belonged to Hope Leslie, 17, daughter of N'r. and Mrs. Dale Leslie of 3204 Leslie Road, Snover. It was the ninth year she has entered a steer and the first time she had the grand champion.

Buyer at Thursday's livestock auction, at $2.20 for e'. sh of its 1,215 pounds, was Bill Palmer of Palmer Feeds of McGregor.

The grand champion hog belonged to nine-year-old Beth Severance, who won in the first year she has shown: » the fair. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Severance of 6331 Severance Road, Decker.

The 245-pound crossbreed was purchased for a stupendous $4.75 a pound by Bader and Sons farm implement dealer of Sandusky.

On to state finals for Osentoski team

Watch out!

Whoever plays Osentoski Realty in the state Class D slow pitch tournament should be warned that they will be up against one of the Thumb area's best teams ever.

And if a baserunner who rounds first is thinking about going to second, he better think again.

The Cass City club, with four players from Caro, has four rifle arms roving around in the outfield, just waiting for a chance to gun somebody down.

Osentoski vaulted into the state tournament play when it took on Big Dan's Bar Aug. 7 at the Caro Fairgrounds for the district championship. They had little trouble with Big Dan's in a 21-5 rout that showed no mercy.

There was little mercy shown in the preceding semifinal game either as Osentoski whacked Owner Realty 15-0 in six innings. The 10-run rule did not apply in the championship series.

"This is what we've been working for all season long,"

The two met in a final division lead. Lakowski's outslugged Osentoski 16-15 in the first game, but fell to defeat in the second, losing 15-12. The Cass City team had too much speed on the bases, throwing power and batting ability at the plate for Big Dan's and Lakowski's.

held for dystrophy

Eighteen swimmers braved inclement weather conditions and cold temperatures to finish the grueling 80-mile trek in the third annual Muscular Dystrophy Swimathon at the Cass City pool Monday and Tuesday.

The swimmers raised "somewhere between $500-600," according to Scott Richards, who was in charge

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN

Watch out!

"But our success has been showdown where Lakow- a team effort," the manager ski's had to have won both explained. "Without every games in order for the two one of our players giving teams to tie for the south everything they've got, we wouldn't be where we are now.'
