

11-year-old girl, motorcyclist die in area crashes

Two persons were killed in area traffic accidents within the past week, one east of Owendale and the other east of Cass City.

Killed in the latter crash Sunday afternoon in Greenleaf township was Janice Wills, 11, of Manton.

Donald C. McIntosh, 29, of Pigeon, died last Thursday night in the other accident.

Miss Wills died shortly after she was brought to Hills and Dales General Hospital by ambulance following the 4:35 p.m. accident Sunday.

She was a passenger in a pickup driven by Rodney Dean, 20, of Bad Axe.

Sanilac county deputies reported the vehicle was eastbound on Jackson Road and was unable to stop at Gilbert Road before turning left. The truck went off the east side of Gilbert into the ditch and landed on its side. The victim was thrown out and pinned under the truck. Jackson dead ends at Gilbert.

Her sister, Tamera, 15, was taken to Hills and Dales, where she was treated and released.

A report of the investigation has been turned over to Sanilac county prosecutor's office, where as of Tuesday afternoon, the possibility of bringing charges against Dean was still under consideration.

The Elkland Township Fire Department was summoned to the scene to stand by in case of fire because gasoline was apparently leaking from the damaged truck.

Miss Wills was the sixth person to die in a Sanilac county traffic accident this year.

OWENDALE ACCIDENT

Donald C. McIntosh was pronounced dead at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, shortly after he was brought there following the 9:45 p.m. accident last Thursday.

According to Bad Axe state police, McIntosh was eastbound on Sebewaing Road and ran into the right side of a station wagon which was turning left from the westbound lane into the driveway at Owendale Speedway.

The car's driver, Jennie Thorp, 39, of 4571 E. Sebewaing Road, Owendale, told officers neither she nor her husband, Frederick, saw the cycle approaching as its headlight was not on.

Her husband was driving another vehicle and witnessed the accident.

One of the couple's four children, who was riding in Mrs. Thorp's car, Frederick II, 8, received slight injuries which didn't require hospital treatment.

The motorcycle headlight was taken to the state police crime lab in Bridgeport to determine if it was operating at the time of the crash. As of Tuesday afternoon, results weren't available.

The cycle's speedometer was "stuck" at 80 miles per hour after the accident, according to officers.

McIntosh, a former East Detroit resident, was a member of St. Columbkille Catholic church, Sheridan, where funeral services were held Monday. Burial was in the church cemetery. He was the 10th person to die in a traffic accident in Huron county this year.

INJURY ACCIDENTS

Dale F. Iseler, 42, of 5089 Schwegler Road, Cass City, was released from Hills and Dales General Hospital Monday, where he was taken after walking into a car Saturday.

Sheriff's deputies said he was driving eastbound on M-81, east of Crane Road, when a couple of bales of straw fell off his pickup. He parked on the shoulder and went to get them.

Dorothy Mae McFarland, 46, of Rescue Road, Cass City, who was westbound, slowed to go around the bales. As she was doing so, according to officers, Iseler picked up the bales and walked into the side of her car.

Mrs. McFarland was also reported to have been taken to Hills and Dales, however, the hospital had no record of her being treated there.

Ira Kincaid, 65, and Charles Lake, 50, both of Phillips Road, Kingston, were treated and released from Caro Community Hospital after an accident at 5:45 p.m. Sunday.

Both were passengers in a car driven by Victor J. Griggs, 61, of Vassar, which was northbound on Phillips Road, north of Bevans Road. Deputies said the car went off the east side of the road and landed upside down in a ditch.

Griggs was arrested on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor and taken to the county jail. He was later released on $100 bond, with pretrial hearing in district court scheduled Aug. 28.

Timothy A. Smith, 17, of Caro, was treated and released from the Caro hospital after a mishap at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

According to deputies, he was westbound on Elmwood Road, west of Jacob Road, when he lost control of his motorcycle when it hit several bumps.

Ronald L. Lester, 20, of 3673 Ross Street, Kingston, sought his own treatment following an accident at 1:30 a.m. Friday.

He was northbound on Kingston Road, north of Gifford Road, deputies said, when his car went off the left

New rules of the road will speed legal process

As of this Wednesday, the rules of the road have changed.

Drunk drivers will (maybe) still go to jail, but many traffic violations will no longer be criminal charges. Instead, they will be civil violations.

The change, approved by the legislature in 1978, will speed up the legal process, according to Tuscola County District Court Magistrate Joan Maki, and relieve the burden on the court.

Many traffic offenders in the past, she explained, would plead innocent to a charge, demand a court appointed attorney and jury trial in hopes of avoiding getting penalty points added to their driver's license, but be found guilty anyway.

The new law changes that procedure for minor offenses.

Such serious offenses as drunk driving, driving with license suspended, reckless driving, failure to stop at the scene of an accident in which the driver was involved, and impaired driving will remain criminal offenses, with proceedings before the district judge.

"Decriminalized" are such offenses as speeding, careless driving, failure to possess registration or proof of insurance or to have vehicle licensed, running a stop sign, failure to yield, illegal parking and equipment violations.

IN ONE RESPECT, there won't be a change. Persons charged with those offenses prior to the new law had them handled entirely by the magistrate if they chose to plead guilty.

Now the person charged with a civil traffic offense can plead "responsible," the equivalent of a guilty plea, "responsible with mitigating circumstances," or "not responsible."

If the person admits committing the offense, the magistrate levies a fine and court costs, the same as in the past. Previously, a jail sentence was imposed only if the defendant couldn't or wouldn't pay the fine and costs.

Under the new law, jail sentences cannot be imposed for the civil traffic offenses.

Amounts of fines and costs are presently established by District Judge Richard F. Kern -- so much for a certain offense -- but the state is in the process of establishing uniform monetary penalties statewide, Mrs. Maki said.

In pleading "responsible but with mitigating circumstances," the defendant is admitting guilt but receives a hearing in order to explain his opinion of what happened.

IF THE DEFENDANT chooses to plead "not responsible," he or she then has a hearing before the magistrate. The person cannot be represented by an attorney. If one is wanted, the case is automatically moved before the district judge; however, no jury trial will be allowed.

At the hearing before the magistrate, the police officer who issued the ticket will be present. He and the defendant will be able to question each other. If the latter wants any witnesses to testify and they are not willing to appear for free, he (the defendant) must pay their costs.

In a criminal proceeding, the burden of proof -- that the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt -- is up to the prosecution to prove.

But in the civil proceeding before the magistrate, the burden of proof will be on the defendant to prove that he or she is innocent, as in all civil proceedings.

If the person charged is unable to prove his case and is found "responsible" by the magistrate, he can appeal to the district judge.

Mrs. Maki pointed out that the person will not be able to argue they had "no intent" to break the law, for instance, that they were speeding because their speedometer was inaccurate. Intent is not an element of any traffic offense. Thus, in speeding cases, for instance, the only question that can legally be addressed is whether or not the person was driving the speed shown on his traffic ticket.

UNDER THE NEW LAW, Mrs. Maki will decide whether the defendant is "responsible" based on the preponderance of evidence, not the old standard of "beyond a reasonable doubt."

If the person is found to have committed the offense, as mentioned, fine and costs will be imposed; however, there cannot be a jail sentence.

The person can choose to appeal the magistrate's finding to the district judge.

Ex-Cass Cityan called hero in tanker crash

A Brighton truck driver, who was formerly a Cass City resident, was credited with saving the lives of several motorists after his gasoline tanker hit a guard-rail early Sunday, spilled 9,000 gallons of gas and eventually turned the freeway ramp at I-75 and I-94 in Detroit into a sea of flaming gas.

Senior Fire Chief Michael Purcell said Roger Ball, 30, of Brighton, would be recommended for a citation for heroism "because he risked his life to warn the other drivers, knowing it (the tanker) would probably ignite."

Ball lived in Cass City and drove a truck for Wesley's Quaker Maid Inc. in 1972. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ball of Essexville, who lived in Cass City for a number of years.

He told state police that he was driving his single-bottom rig from the eastbound Ford Freeway onto the southbound Chrysler ramp when a passing car cut him off, causing him to crash into a guardrail.

His rig tipped over, rupturing its gas tank and sending a flood of gasoline gushing more than 300 yards down the incline. Police said the gasoline ran under several cars that had stopped behind the truck.

Firemen said Ball sprinted to the cars stopped behind his truck and warned the drivers and passengers to get out before the gasoline ignited.

Seconds later, the gasoline ignited, turning the ramp into an inferno. Three cars were destroyed, but police said no one was seriously injured. The truck driver and six motorists were treated for minor burns.

The fire closed the freeway ramp for 11 hours as 35 men, 13 fire trucks and the Wayne County Road Commission fought the fire and then cleaned up the mess.

According to one witness a fire truck was also burned after gas backed up and exploded out of a sewer drain.

Three firemen suffered from heat exhaustion, burns and smoke inhalation but were not hospitalized.

"It's truly amazing no one was killed or seriously injured," said one police officer at the scene. "It was like an inferno when we got there."

GRAND CHAMPION STEER at the Tuscola County Fair, judged Tuesday, was the 1,175-pound Limousin of Eric Stoll, 13, of English Road, Kingston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Stoll.

Would-be Scouts may be looking in due to shortage of parent volunteers

There may be would-be Brownie and Girl Scouts on the outside looking in this fall because of lack of parents willing to donate their time to be scout leaders.

Janet Hurley is in her second year as neighborhood chairman, which means she has the task of recruiting new leaders this year.

She has heard all the excuses of parents who don't want to get involved. "I don't have time," "I just can't do it," "I'm not interested."

The majority of the parents -- husband and wife -- work, which does make recruiting difficult.

It also makes it difficult to keep leaders. Some of the 1978-79 leaders did work, Mrs. Hurley said, and had to rush from work to the once-a-week after school meetings.

The overall attitude of those who aren't coming back, she continued, is that, "They figure they put in their time and their year and they figure it should be someone else's turn."

FOR GIRLS, THERE are four basic divisions. Brownies are for those in the second grade and third grade, Girl Scouts for grades 4-6, Cadets for grades 7-9 and Senior Scouts for grades 10-12.

There were only enough leaders last year for Brownies and Girl Scouts.

"We could have had a Cadet troop last year but I couldn't get a leader, Mrs. Hurley said. "Lots of them (girls) asked me this year (to have a troop), but whether we'll be able to have one, I don't know."

Based on expected turnout, Mrs. Hurley needs two leaders and two co-leaders for two Brownie troops, two leaders and four co-leaders for Junior scouts and a leader and co-leader for Cadet scouts.

About the only criteria is that they be adults. Leaders need not have children in the program and can be male or female. Mrs. Hurley is even hoping to interest some senior citizens in volunteering. The Main Street resident is in her 20th year of scouting, 11 of them as a scout when she was a youngster and nine as a leader.

She and her husband, Roger, who also volunteers much time to scouting, have four children, Lorie, 13, and Tammy, 11, both in Girl Scouts, and Steven, 9, a Boy Scout. Wendy, 3, is too young yet for scouting.

Their mother, in addition to being neighborhood chairman, also assisted with Brownie Troop 826 last year and was den mother of Den 3 of Cub Scout Troop 3594.

In addition to donating their time, the Hurleys also found themselves providing space and some of their labor in building a float for this year's July 4 parade. That meant, at times, as many as 15 kids, plus leaders, in their back yard working on the project.

IN 1978-79, THERE were 85 girls in the Cass City School District who participated in Scouting, divided among two first-year Brownie troops, two second-year troops and two junior (Girl Scout) troops.

In addition to there not being a Cadet troop because of lack of leaders, some troops had more members than is desirable for the same reason.

As of now, Mrs. Hurley is losing seven leaders from last year. Returning will be Hilda Koch and Lois Sugden, both of whom have been involved for several years, and Karen Smith and Arlene Szarapski, leaders for the first time last year. Kathy Iseler does the book work for the Cass City Girl Scouts.

As there is every year, there will be a sign-up in schools for girls in early September.

In order to get an advance start, however, the leaders are asking girls to pre-register by mail as soon as possible. (They will be able to register later at the sign-up).

Girls should write their names, address and age, telephone number, grade in school, whether they will be new to scouting, or if in the program last year, the number of the troop they were in and the leader's name.

The information should be sent to Mrs. Hurley at 6755

E. Main Street, Cass City, or Hilda Koch, 4065 Hobart Road, Gagetown 48735.

Adults interested in serving as leaders can call Mrs. Hurley at 872-4481 or Mrs. Koch at 665-2536.

Cubs have the same problem

The Girl and Brownie Scouts aren't the only ones in search of adult leaders.

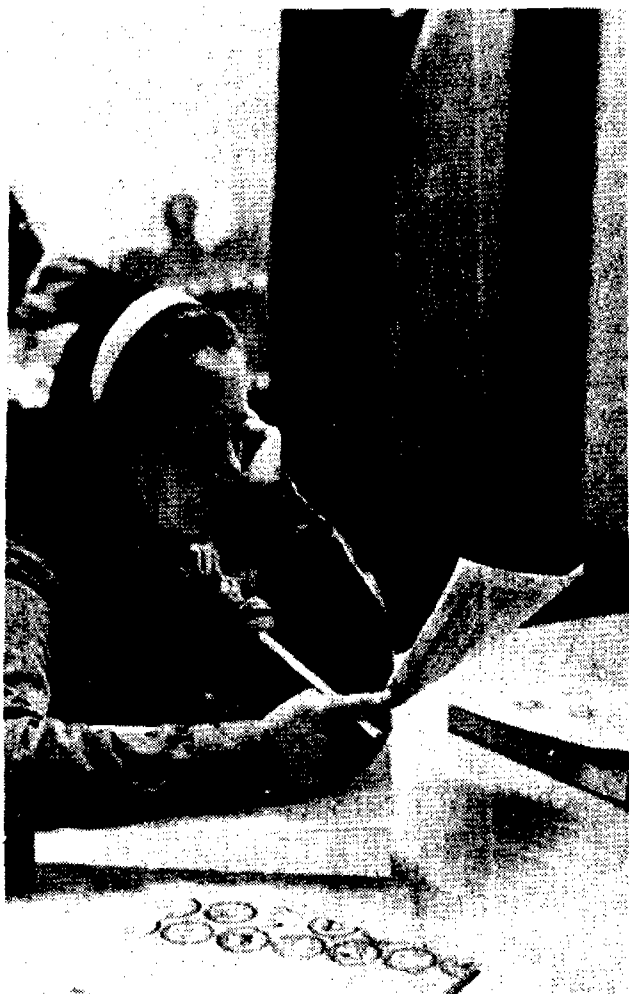

The Cub Scouts are in the same boat.

Cass City Cubmaster Carl Palmateer encounters the same problems in recruiting leaders as does Janet Hurley for the Girl and Brownie Scouts.

"People say they don't have the time, but the leaders have less time than some parents who don't help."

He added that he sees some of the parents who "don't have time" at the bowling alley or busy with other outside activities.

Palmateer is someone who could easily claim he doesn't have the time. A long-distance truck driver, in order to attend the once-a-month pack meetings, he has to give up a day on the road. He is also giving up a week of vacation to attend scout camp with the scouts. Please turn to page 12.

LOOKING somewhat frustrated as she scans her list of possible volunteer leaders for Cass City Girl and Brownie Scouts is Janet Hurley.

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Gerald Prieskorn has been taking medication every day for four years and he doesn't know if it has done him a particle of good. In fact he didn't even know what kind of medicine he was taking.

That's because he has been one of a horde of heart attack victims participating in a giant study to determine the effectiveness of aspirin in curbing subsequent heart attacks.

In the study the volunteers were divided into two control groups. One was given aspirin, the other placebos. A placebo is a medical term to describe a pill with no effect at all.

Four times a year the patients were required to be checked. Prieskorn was checked in Ann Arbor. Neither he nor the doctor knew if he was part of the aspirin or the placebo group.

The end came this month. Prieskorn said that he would have been willing to bet that he was receiving the placebos. He never experienced any reaction to the two-pill a day dosage he was taking. The doctor was inclined to agree.

When the envelope was opened the verdict was . . . aspirin every day.

Because of his tolerance to the drug it was decided that he would continue the dosage.

That could change sometime in October when the results are expected to be tabulated and disclosed. It will be the first massive test, over an extended period, of aspirin for heart disease.

Mrs. Rachel Wright submits these names as members in good standing of the older than the Chronicle club. They are Mrs. Omar Glaspie, 92; Mrs. Grace Brown, 93, and Mrs. Celista Wiles, 92.

Another that Mrs. John Guinther feels should belong is William (Buster) Brown. He's 96 and lives in Frankenthum now.

His claim for membership is that he was born and raised in Cass City. These additions swell the membership to 29.

I just may give up golf. Two weeks ago I lost money to that one-armed hustler, Phil Retherford, who shot a 41 and Monday I was buried in Cass City Golf League play by 79-year-old Earl Harris who shot a 41.

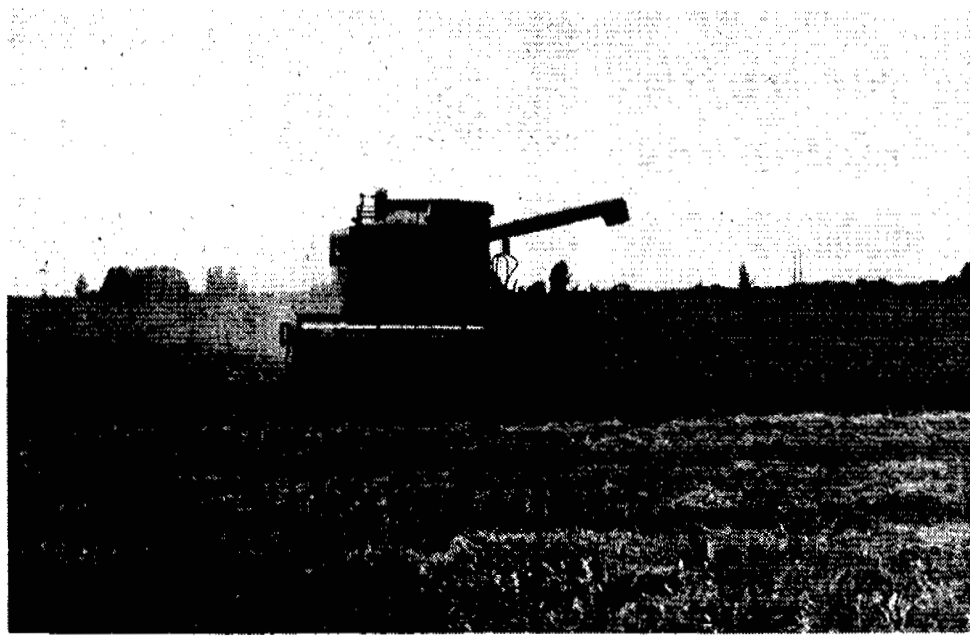

A note or two on a brief three-day excursion around Lake Huron via Georgian Bay.

Gas in Canada is cheaper than in the United States because of the money discount rate. Most places unleaded sold for about $1.05 a gallon. The rebate brings the cost under 90 cents. It was easy to find any time, including Sunday. Prices of food and clothing appeared to be higher in the area we traveled even when the discount was figured in.

Traffic in Canada travels faster than it does on two-lane roads in Michigan. All traffic generally exceeds the posted speed limits.

In Mackinaw City the place to eat is Kenville's. It features home made bread and pies and quality food and lots of it at very moderate prices. Complete full course meals including dessert cost between $4.50 and $7.95.

One sour note. Nightly between 5 and 8 p.m. and Sundays from 12 noon on there is a waiting line to get in. The restaurant doesn't take reservations. The silver lining is that the turnover is great and most times a 30-minute wait gets you inside.

WHEAT HARVESTING should end this week unless delayed by rain. Combining Ephraim Knight's approximately 90 acres off Elkton Road in Grant township Sunday was Elmer Hoffman. Area elevators report most farmers are averaging 50 bushels per acre, considered a good yield but not exceptional.

Bruce pleads guilty in local break-in

Terry Bruce pleaded guilty in Circuit Court Friday to attempted larceny in a building in connection with the June 29 break-in at McMahan Auto Supply in Cass City.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn accepted the plea and scheduled sentencing Sept. 10.

Bond was reduced to $1,500 cash or surety, which has been posted.

Bruce, 17, of Seeger Street, Cass City, was originally charged with breaking and entering, but pleaded guilty to the lesser charge in a plea bargain with the prosecution.

Two auto mufflers were taken from the store, located at 6647 Main Street. Both were later recovered by police.

A 16-year-old was also apprehended in connection with the break-in. He was petitioned into probate court.

Also Friday, Richard P. Johnson, 19, of Clifford, was sentenced to 18 months to 5 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for attempted armed robbery. He was credited with 74 days served. Mental health counseling and vocational training was recommended.

A Circuit Court jury found him guilty of the charge June 6, in connection with a Jan. 7 robbery attempt at the Shay Lake Grocery.

He was accused of trying to rob the store, but the owner, Hattie Stevens, pulled a revolver from her smock pocket and fired a shot over his head and he ran out the door.

Terry L. Johnson, 21, of Prescott, was placed on two years' probation for attempted larceny in a building. He was also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

The Haire Net

One of the disadvantages of a weekly paper is that sometimes (like now) what you read today was written last Thursday.

That increases the chances of sounding slightly ludicrous when you discuss topics of the day.

When I can get away with it I wait until the first of the week to write about what strikes my fancy for the upcoming issue. Besides that I have always operated under the rule of never doing today what can be put off until tomorrow.

Events beyond my control make it imperative to get it done early this week. Besides I wanted to talk about the issue while it was fresh in my mind.

It was just yesterday (Wednesday) that the president talked again about his energy program. He really didn't say much but what he did say I endorse.

An excess profits tax on oil is right and needed. It's just a hunch but it does appear that many of us are ready to buckle down and face the fact of the energy crisis and more are joining the ranks everytime the price of energy rises and is reflected in inflation of the staples we can't do without.

Perhaps one of the more significant messages in the Carter speech was his reiteration that there is no free lunch and that we get what we pay for.

It's doubtful that the speech Wednesday garnered any votes for the chief executive.

A more astute political position would be the one adopted by Sen. Edward Kennedy. That's not surprising. The Kennedys are nothing if not politically astute.

Anyway, Kennedy wants us to eat our cake and have it too.

He's going to cut oil usage by boosting subsidies for energy conservation. According to his projections we'll save more oil and the program will cost less than the one outlined by the president.

His plan makes no allowance for making big oil share in the burden that all of us face due to the OPEC cartel.

The trouble with that program is that figures can be made to prove anything. The truth has to be that the estimated savings and the estimated costs are pie in the sky amounts.

Judging by any government program including giveaways in the past you can count on the costs to exceed the wildest pre-program estimates.

The president didn't promise me a rose garden without thorns and I can buy that. A promise of a flower garden without weeds leaves me skeptical.

The way things are in government these days by the time this is published both programs may have been tossed in the ash can. If so wrap them in this column.

As I said in the beginning, there are unavoidable hazards connected with writing for a weekly.

"If It Fitz. . ." Conceptualizing

By Jim Fitzgerald

In a radio interview, Richard Nixon said if he had it to do all over again, he'd be a sportswriter.

"I can conceptualize that," my friend Ralph said.

Ralph had just read the report card that Hamilton Jordan, the White House chief of staff, asked department heads to use in rating the job performance of their subordinates. Among many other skills, employees are graded on their "conceptualizing" ability.

Several department heads refused to report on conceptualizing, saying it is none of the government's business how good its employees are at having babies.

This was a misunderstanding. There is more than the pregnant type of conception. Ideas, as well as children, can be conceived. Ideas can also be aborted. It's easy to get federal money to finance the abortion of an idea. In fact, it's generally believed that more ideas are aborted in federal offices than anywhere else in the world.

No one ever complains that an aborted idea, if it had been allowed to live, would have saved the world, or even an empty lot. The evidence of bureaucratic history suggests too strongly that the most likely result of a non-aborted idea is a much slower death caused by incessant coffee breaks.

Bureaucrats are forever grateful there is no widespread objection to the abortion of ideas in the sterile environment of government offices. Otherwise, it would be necessary to have ideas aborted in back alleys, which are often filthy because the idea of having municipal employees collect garbage on time was aborted.

Anyway, my friend Ralph was simply showing off his vocabulary when he said he could conceptualize Richard Nixon as a sportswriter. Ralph wanted me to know he is at least as smart as Hamilton Jordan.

"If Nixon covered baseball, he wouldn't report stolen bases. He'd cover them up," Ralph said. "He would do the same thing with intercepted footballs and stolen basketballs."

"If his editor asked him if there wasn't a base stolen in last night's game, Nixon would perspire on his upper lip. He would insist he wasn't in on the planning of the theft and didn't know a thing about it until the next morning when he woke up in bed with second base," Ralph said.

It seemed like a good time to change the subject, before Ralph conceptualized that Nixon would prove he was an honorable sportswriter by marrying second base, even though he'd never gotten to first base. So I asked Ralph what he thought of the recent shuffle in Jimmy Carter's cabinet.

The best replacement was Charles Duncan in for James Schlesinger as energy secretary," Ralph said. "I can conceptualize Duncan doing great things to keep this nation rolling on the freeways."

This surprised me. All I knew about Duncan was that he is from Georgia. Most of the political pundits insist the biggest trouble in Washington is too much Georgia. So what's so promising about Duncan?

"He used to be president of Coca-Cola," Ralph explained. "All my life I've heard about the amazing things Coca-Cola can do besides relieve thirst. I know people who say they use Coke to scrub rust off bumpers and glass rings off coffee tables. I met a lady who grew huge tomatoes in her basement. She said she watered them with Coca-Cola."

"I fully expect Charles Duncan to announce soon that American-made automobiles will run on Coke, at about 280 miles per six-pack. This will immediately erase the fuel shortage. Coca-Cola is available everywhere at all times of the day or night."

The people who dug up King Tutankhamen's tomb in the 14th Century had to shove aside a Coke machine to get in," Ralph said.

I have to admit that Duncan may have a marvelous conception. I only hope it isn't aborted before it is thoroughly tested. If the idea of Coke for gas must die, it should be from coffee breaks.

New rules for traffic violations

however, there will still be no right to a jury and the judge will make his decision based on the weight of the evidence. Such appeals must be made within seven days. Failure by the person ticketed to appear before the magistrate or to pay fine and costs after being imposed by her or the judge means an automatic suspension of driving privileges by the Secretary of State. The license remains suspended until the money due is paid. Driving while the license is suspended is a criminal offense and can result in a jail sentence.

THE NEW LAW MEANS more work for Mrs. Maki — "Boy, there sure is," — and her limited staff. She has one full-time clerk, and one part-time. She has requested that the county Board of Commissioners pay for a second full-time clerk, but the board has yet to act on the request.

The new law will reduce the burden on the prosecutor's staff, which up to now has had to furnish an attorney to prove the people's case every time a traffic offender contested his citation. That included pretrial hearings, as well as the trial itself.

With most of such proceedings removed from district court, that will speed up other proceedings in district court.

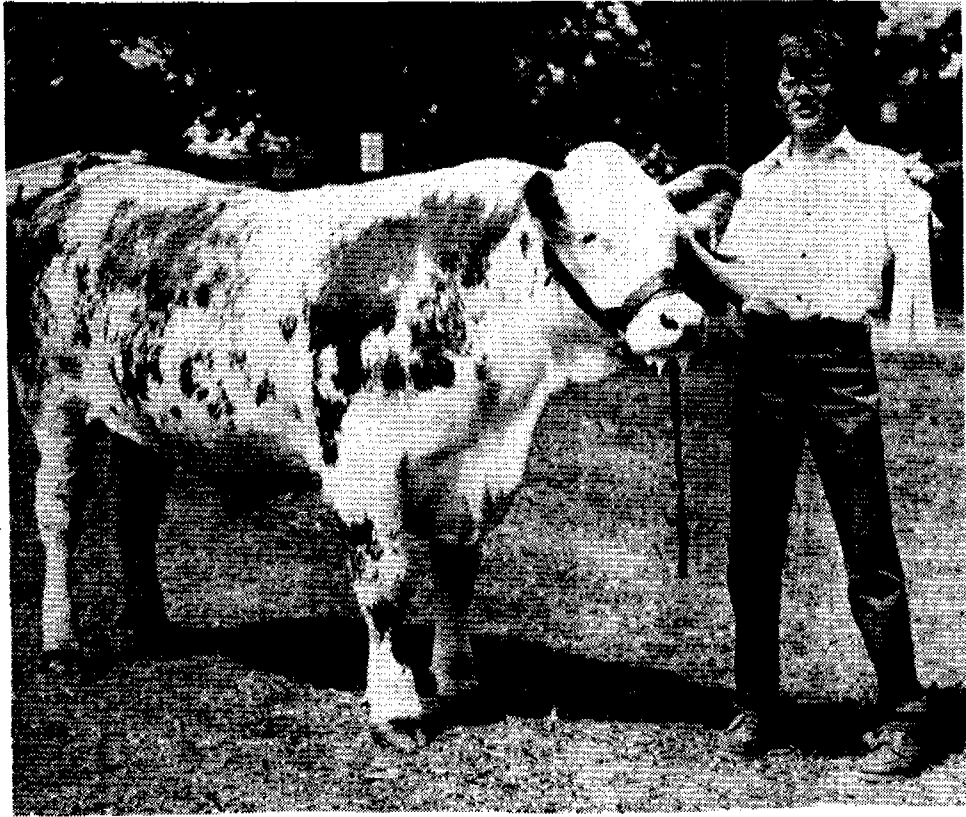

As for the district court, it's too early to gauge the impact, according to Judge Kern.

If a lot of people request formal hearings with an attorney present (held automatically before the judge) or appeal decisions of the magistrate that the defendant is "responsible," the number of cases before him may not decline at all.

The county will still save money, however, as jury trials aren't allowed in such proceedings.

If the caseload is reduced Judge Kern said, that will give him more time to hear civil law suits (for up to $10,000 in damages). Because of the present backlog, visiting judges presently have to be brought in (and paid) to hear the civil suits.

He and Mrs. Maki pointed out that the caseload for traffic offenses is increasing in Tuscola county, partly because of added state funds putting more deputies on the road, which means more tickets being issued.

High blood pressure--silent killer

High blood pressure — also called hypertension — is a silent killer. There are usually no symptoms. You can have it and not know it.

In fact, says the World Health Organization, many of the 34 million Americans with high blood pressure are unaware that they have the disease. Yet, a simple test can detect it. And it can be easily controlled.

For a number of years, many patients were required to take two separate medications — a diuretic and a "beta-blocking" agent

Chard dies after long illness

Leon T. Chard, 55, of Decker died July 27 at the Marlette Community Hospital after an extended illness.

Chard was born Sept. 4, 1923, the son of Clayton and Lydia Chard in Decker. He was married in Marlette township Aug. 16, 1947 to Lillian Boegner.

He was a farmer who resided in Lamotte township most of his life and was also a member of the Decker Masonic Lodge No. 479.

Chard is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Susan Plummer of Mt. Pleasant and Mrs. Kathy Chapin of Hermiston, Ore.; one son, Thomas L. Chard of Decker; three brothers, Charles Chard of Snover and Ronald and Robert Chard, both of Decker, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Marsh Funeral Chapel in Marlette, with Rev. Thomas Barbert of the Hope Lutheran church officiating.

Entombment followed in the Mooretown cemetery, Snover.

SAVE ON NU-WOOL INSULATION

9 Easy Steps To Follow

STEP 1

You need to know the square footage of the area you are going to insulate (multiply the length times the width of your attic. Nu-Wool manufacturers recommend you have at least R-40 in your attic. The chart below gives you the "R" Value for the depth of Nu-Wool insulation used.

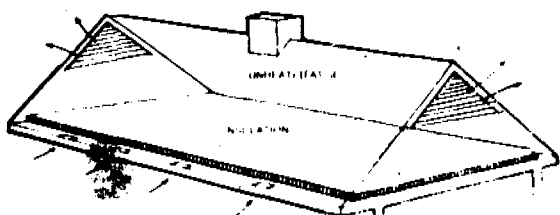

4" Depth	R 16.68
6" Depth	R 25.02
8" Depth	R 33.36
10" Depth	R 41.70

Use the following chart to determine the number of bags of Nu-Wool insulation needed for your attic. BAGS REQUIRED (approximately) for

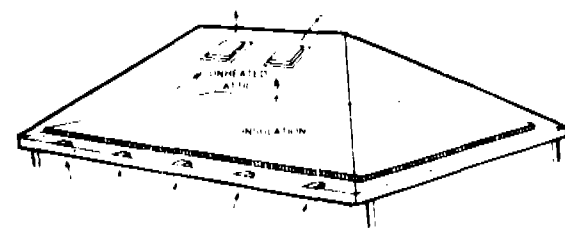

SQ. FT. TO BE INSULATED	DEPTH OF INSULATION DESIRED
	4"	6"	8"	10"
100	2	3	4	6
200	4	6	8	11
300	6	9	12	16
400	8	12	17	21
500	10	15	21	26
600	12	18	25	31
700	14	21	29	36
800	16	24	33	41
900	18	27	37	46
1000	20	30	41	52

STEP 2

When you insulate your attic, you must ventilate. Moisture is removed by means of proper ventilation.

There should be one square foot of cross ventilation for each 300 square feet of attic floor area.

Vents should be cut in before the insulation is put in the attic. This helps keep dust from getting in your living area during installation. The following sketches illustrate different methods of ventilation.

If your home has undereaves vents, you will need to use one of the other type vents as well. This type ventilation also requires the use of a backer board to allow air to enter and leave your attic.

Undereaves Vent

STEP 3

Do not use a vapor barrier in your attic. This prevents moisture from escaping and will damage your ceilings. If your attic contains a vapor barrier, it is best to remove it.

If your attic contains a batt type insulation, check to see if it has a facing on the top, or bottom side. If it does, it is best to completely remove facing from batts in every other stud run so a vapor barrier isn't formed.

PEDALING AROUND

Blame it on the humidity

By Mike Eliasohn

I hate to be the bearer of bad tidings, but summer is almost over.

The signs are all there.

The Detroit Free Press the Sunday before last had two big ads for ski equipment. The television networks are starting to advertise their fall programs. Soon -- and maybe by the time you read this -- you will start seeing snowmobile ads on the tube.

So far, it doesn't seem like it has been much of a summer. I'm still waiting for the networks to debut their summer programs.

You know, the shows that ran for about five weeks, usually of the variety type with a celebrity host.

I do remember one show, though, a season or two back, which was hosted by three unknown young women. Apparently the network had run out of celebrities. As far as I know, the three young women are still unknown. At least I don't recall reading about them in People magazine. So much for the gimmick of picking three unknowns to host a television show.

I do recall one summer show this year. It was called "Real People," and to illustrate the depths to which the networks have failed, it ran the first time in maybe May or June and is now being repeated.

The only thing I remember about "Real People" from the first (and last) time I watched it was the item about the truck driver who wore skin tight pants. If the driver hadn't been a she, I assure you I would not have remembered.

One other summer show this year was the one starring Susan Anton. As one reviewer recently wrote, she is still trying to find her niche in the entertainment world.

Maybe she should have stuck to doing Muriel cigar commercials. Blondes like that have always been somewhat of a fantasy to me and what better place for a fantasy than in a commercial.

Speaking of commercials, I find the car commercials stressing "range" somewhat amusing.

"Range" is a rationale the car companies are using to try to unload their big cars by telling would-be buyers how much farther their cars will go on a tank of gas than will some other car.

The gimmick, of course, is the big cars have big fuel tanks. They might only get 20 miles per gallon at best (downhill with a tailwind), but they will go a farther distance than some small cars with small gas tanks, which get much better mileage.

I'm waiting for Winnebago to put a 500 gallon gas tank in one of its eight mile per gallon motor homes. The commercial will say: "Go 4,000 miles without stopping." (And with a built-in bathroom, that's possible.)

Of course, for those who wouldn't be caught dead driving anything less than 4,000 pounds, now apparently isn't a bad time to buy a big car.

If it now strikes you that there is nothing in this column that is of significance, you're right. It's obviously the humidity. Even my brain has gone limp.

Cindy and Rev. Joseph E. Adkins III

First one full-time

Church of Christ has new minister

Members of the Church of Christ, 6745 Main Street, welcomed the church's first full-time minister July 1 when Rev. Joseph E. Adkins III gave his first sermon as head clergyman to the congregation.

Rev. Adkins, 22, of 4365 S. Seeger Street, has moved around the country several times since his birth in Huntington, W. Va.

"I've moved about 10 times in my lifetime, but my wife (Cindy) has moved over 30 times," Adkins said. "Together, that's about 40 moves."

Mrs. Adkins was born in Dunkirk, N.Y., and met her husband in Chicago two years ago. They have been married 11 months.

Rev. Adkins is a 1975 graduate of South Plantation High School in South Plantation, Fla., just outside Fort Lauderdale. He went to a religious college for four years and graduated from David Lipscomb College in Nashville, Tenn., in June, 1979.

"The longest period of time I have lived in one place is four and a half years in Florida," Rev. Adkins said.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Adkins have lived in Michigan before coming to Cass City. Cindy Adkins lived in Jackson for a period of time before moving again and Rev. Adkins lived in Muskegon for three and a half years.

Adkins found out about the position available at the Church of Christ in May from the "Gospel Advocate," a religious periodical. He gave his first sermon at the church June 17 as a guest and met with the people following the service. July 1 he gave his first sermon as minister of the church.

"I am the first full-time minister the church has ever had," he said. "This is a very pleasant community and I like living in a small town, compared to half a million people in Nashville. It's a big change.

Previously, the church was led by two elders, Lyle Clarke and John Webb, Rev. Adkins said.

"They act in the same manner that the elders of the Old Testament did; supervising the actions of the church and overseeing the congregation," he said.

The new minister noted his job as pulpit clergyman is more personal and evangelical-oriented.

"I'm looking forward to serving the people of this community. The Thumb is a beautiful part of Michigan and the residents here are very pleasant."

Rev. Adkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Adkins Jr., of Lebanon, Ohio.

Headlee act

County figures corrected in tax rollback amendment

As reported in last week's Chronicle, Tuscola county will gain additional property tax revenue despite the effects of the Headlee amendment tax rollback provisions.

However, two figures cited in the article were incorrect.

Because of increases in valuation and new construction, the county should gain $240,966 in revenue. If Headlee were not in effect, the county would have gained an additional $87,751.

The article last week incorrectly said the county would have gained $240,000 without Headlee and $87,000 less than that with the provision in effect.

County Equalization Director Donald Graf stressed the figures are tentative, with the final ones depending on the outcome of assessment appeals made by property owners. The final figures won't be too far different from the tentative ones, however.

The Headlee amendment, approved by voters last November, basically limits governmental units' tax revenue from rising faster than the rate of inflation, not including that gained from new construction. The rollback is achieved by decreasing the millage rate.

The consumer price index (inflation rate) increased 7.7 percent last year.

The formula used to determine the millage rollback is quite complicated, Graf explained, but basically involves the 7.7 percent plus the value of new construction.

For its operations, Tuscola county has levied 4.2 mills in the past. With the rollback formula applied, in order to comply with Headlee, the county will be levying 4.014 mills on December tax bills.

At that rate, times the county's state equalized valuation of $471.78 million, the county will collect $1,893,733 in property tax revenue. At the old 4.2 mill rate, it would have collected $1,981,484. (It was incorrectly indicated in last week's Chronicle that property tax revenue would have been more than $2.5 million).

Graf said school superintendents and township supervisors have received the formula needed to calculate what their own millage rates must be in order to comply with Headlee. Those rates must be turned in to the county clerk by Oct. 1, so that the county Board of Commissioners can set the county apportionment in order for tax bills to be sent to property owners in December.

Graf cautioned that most persons are still going to find increases in their tax bills due to assessment increases. The Headlee amendment is only going to limit the increase.

Also, because the amendment does not require local governmental units to balance out assessment increases among classifications -- agricultural, residential, commercial, etc. -- and within classifications, the reduction won't apply uniformly to all property owners.

$150 wheel covers taken

Saturday

Four wheel covers worth a total of $150 were stolen from a car parked in the Charmont lot early Saturday.

The car's owner, Joyce Januchowski of 5130 Elizabeth Street told Cass City police they were removed from her 1976 Chevrolet some time between 12:30 and 1 a.m.

Two reports of thefts of bicycle or motorcycle parts were reported to village police last Wednesday, the thefts having taken place the night before or in the early morning.

Bunnie Keyser of 4368 Woodland Street told officers the front wheel and handlebar crossbar pad were stolen off her son's bike. The front tire but not the wheel was later found in the street.

Charles McConnell of 6721 Garfield Street said the handlebars were taken off his son's mini enduro bike.

The theft of sunglasses from Coach Light Pharmacy was reported to village police Friday morning. Officers were told a boy aged 13-15 put the glasses, worth $15, in his pocket and left.

Lovina Trescott of 7258 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, reported to sheriff's deputies early Monday that someone had bent her steel clothesline pole over and scattered pieces torn from a pickup camper top over her lawn. Damage was estimated at $70.

Fred Sullivan of South Street, Gagetown, told Caro state police last Thursday that someone had broken the glass in his yard light.

Girl hurt when goat strikes bike

An Uby girl suffered a reported broken wrist last Thursday when a goat knocked her off the bicycle she was riding.

Treated and released from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, was Sandra Weltin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Weltin of E. Huron Line Road.

The Huron County Sheriff's Department reported she and her brother were riding the bike about 4 p.m. on Verona Road, north of Huron Line, when the animal ran onto the road and struck the riders.

The goat's owner, Henry Kubacki, later told officers he would keep the animal penned.

It's self-interest that usually warps a man's judgment.

H. Hartwick dies July 26

Harry M. Hartwick, a former Cass City resident, died July 26 in Royal Oak. He was the youngest son of George Gilbert and Harriet Pixley Hartwick. He was born Jan. 11, 1889 in Evergreen township. He farmed in Elkland and Elmwood township and served in World War I. He worked for Buick in Flint for 35 years and retired in 1955. He married May Bearup in 1908. She died many years ago. A daughter, Ella, preceded him in death.

In 1947, he married Mrs. Helen Williams. They lived in Burton. She died in 1977. Funeral services were held Monday, July 30, at 1:30 p.m. from the Dods-Dumanois Funeral Home in Flint. Dr. William O. Moulton conducted the service. Burial was in Grace Lawn cemetery. He leaves a number of nieces and nephews.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Elkland township voters face a ho-hum time at the polls in the statewide primary election Aug. 6, as all township races and the commissioner's race offer no competition for incumbent Republicans. However, there are heated races for the clerk's job in Elmwood township and for clerk and treasurer in Kingston township.

Randy D. Howard, new administrator at Hills and Dales General Hospital, says that after 1½ days on the job, he can see no major unsolvable problems. The problems ahead are minor compared to those that many facilities face, he explained.

There's good news and bad news emanating from Cass City schools. The good news is that district taxpayers will pay less in taxes than they did the previous year. The bad news is that an apparent settlement between the district and the Operating Engineers has been rejected.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Merchant celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a trip to West Berlin, Germany. They visited their son and his wife there for 12 days.

The championship of the Girl's Little League was decided in a free swinging game in which the Braves outslugged the second place Tigers 18-15. Leading the winners were Libby Hartel with three singles and Kelli Winter with four hits, including a game winning double. Deb Zawilinski smashed a home run and two singles for the losing Tigers.

TEN YEARS AGO

For the third time in five months, voters in the Cass City school district will go to the polls to decide whether or not the system will operate with a full curriculum in the 1969-70 school year.

Area wheat farmers are reaping a projected average of 50 bushels to the acre wheat yield, Michigan Bean elevator officials report.

A community work night has been slated Tuesday evening to prepare the new baseball diamonds in the park addition.

The Uby school district vote Tuesday for five extra mills for one year for operating expenses was approved overwhelmingly, 666-225.

Cass City has a growing need for residential construction workers and draftsmen, according to a survey completed by Delta College.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lorenz Sr. of Owendale will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house hosted by their children Sunday, Aug. 10. Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz were married Aug. 5, 1919, in Detroit. They moved to their farm in Owendale from Wyandotte in 1939.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Cass City Lions softball team concluded its regular season in the Caro Softball League undefeated by easily whipping Reese 11-1 at Caro.

Eleven new teachers have signed contracts with the Cass City Public Schools for the coming year. They are: James Seals, Harry Miller, David Helser, Isabel Brady, Thomas Lee, Jean Wheaton, Trevor Ginter, Lila Phipps, Mrs. Marilyn Nicholas, Mrs. Lucy Starmann and Ruth Shirley.

Martha Lucille Knoblet and Iva C. Profit will be among 251 persons receiving degrees and certificates at the close of the current summer session, July 30, according to Dr. David M. Trout, dean of students at Central Michigan College.

Isabelle Fournier and Jacqueline Stapleton, both of Gageton, will be among 35 Central Michigan College students who will take the travel course in New England literature Aug. 1-12.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Orr received word this week that Sgt. Edwin Sassanella, who for the past 18 months has been stationed at Copenhagen, Denmark, arrived at his home in Ft. Worth Tuesday. Mrs. Sassanella was formerly Margaret Orr.

John Ellis and Jim McDonald left Seattle, Wash., Friday for Adak Island, one of the Aleutians, where they will be stationed for a period of time.

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the fifth annual Homecoming in Cass City and expects the one-day event Thursday to draw record crowds to the community. As always, the Homecoming committee has planned events so that persons in the area can attend without paying anything for the day-long fair.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

John Arnold Reagh, pilot of a bomber in England, has been the recipient of several air medals. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Reagh of Branch, former residents of Cass City.

Dr. and Mrs. I.A. Fritz were honored by friends and relatives as they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

J.W. Eastman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Eastman, and Charles N. Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Mann, both of Cass City, received bachelor's degrees at the end of the summer quarter at Michigan State College.

Farm Produce Company reported best annual profits in 18 years at their annual stockholders' meeting.

The members of the board of trustees of the proposed new hospital in Cass City elected Frederick Pinney, chairman of the board, at a recent meeting. Others elected were W.C. Downing of Gageton as vice-chairman and M.B. Auten as secretary-treasurer. The trustee appointments were made by Village President W.L. Mann.

Energy group meeting set August 8

The newly formed Tuscola County Energy Society will meet Wednesday, Aug. 8, in the community meeting room of the Tuscola County Advertiser in downtown Caro.

The meeting begins at 8 p.m. Starting at 7, resource people and literature will be available concerning solar water and space heating, alcohol and methane production, wind energy, heat pumps, woodstoves and earth sheltered housing.

Speaker at the meeting will be Bill Park of Star-Pak Solar Systems of Novi, a manufacturer and installer of solar energy systems.

Anyone concerned with the exploration and sharing of information on alternative energy systems is welcome.

Pet show, pre-school programs set

The Cass City Recreation Program pet show will be Wednesday, Aug. 8, at 2 p.m. at the park pavilion. Ribbons will be awarded in 18 categories.

Thursday, Aug. 9, will be a pre-school day for children ages 5 and under from 1-3 p.m. in the arts and craft building.

For information, call 872-3475.

Lounsbury - Dean reunion held Sunday

The annual Lounsbury-Dean family reunion was held Sunday at the Cass City park.

Eighty-eight persons attended. Those coming from the greatest distance were the Loren Brinkmans (Vera Lounsbury) from Southfield.

The eldest of the Dean families was Harley Dean o' Caro and the youngest was Donald Ainsworth of Unionville. Mabel Hiser of Caro was the eldest of the Lounsbury family and eight-month-old Joshua, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lounsbury of Cass City, was the youngest.

Officers were re-elected for the coming year: President, Lewis Livingston, Sebawaing; vice-president, Harley Dean, Caro, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Don Finkbeiner, Cass City.

The 1980 reunion is planned for the last Sunday in July at the same location.

Three at band camp

Sisters Lonnie and Leigh Wilson are attending the third summer session at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp, north of Muskegon.

They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of 6633 Gage Street, Gageton.

Both are enrolled in the band program.

Also attending is Vicki Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander of Owendale.

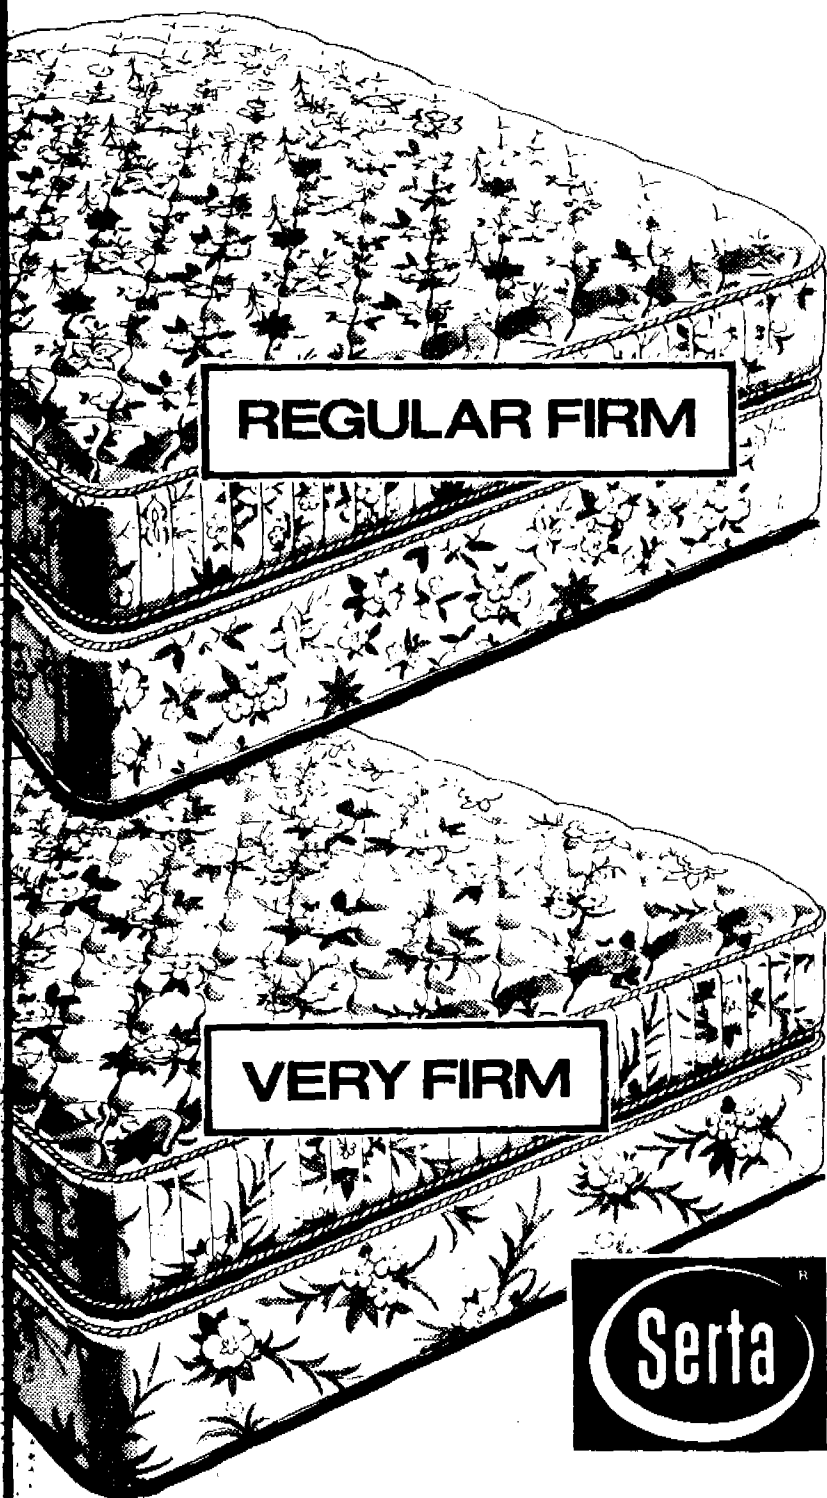

The right kind of experience is always worth the cost.

Novinski
on aircraft
carrier

Marine PFC Michael J. Novinski, son of Dale and Sandra Moore of 3176 Vatter Road, Snover, recently departed for a deployment in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a member of the Marine Department aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, homeported in San Diego. While deployed, the Kitty Hawk will operate as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

During the cruise, the Kitty Hawk is scheduled to participate in training exercises with other Seventh Fleet Units and with ships of allied nations. Additionally, port visits are scheduled in Japan, South Korea, Thailand and the Republic of the Philippines.

The Kitty Hawk is 1,062 feet long and carries a crew of 2,800, plus 2,150 personnel assigned to an attack aircraft wing. It is capable of carrying 85 jet aircraft.

Novinski joined the Marine Corps in September, 1978.

Your Neighbor says

Too much sex and violence on TV

The National Parent-Teachers Association (PTA) recently did a survey that concluded that its pressures on advertisers has had an effect in reducing violence and blatant "sexploitation" on television.

But Deb Haag sees very little change on TV.

"The majority of shows on television contain sexual topics of one kind or another and violence usually goes along with it," Mrs. Haag said. "There's very little value to these kinds of shows."

Because of the violence and sex exploited on several prime time shows on television, the 25-year-old said she usually doesn't watch much TV. Her favorite shows of those she does watch are "Johnny Carson" and the news in that order.

"I still get nightmares when I watch those cop-and-robbor shows that have a lot of violence. But I guess that's what people want to see in their homes."

Mrs. Haag said some of the worst shows she has seen included "Highcliffe Manor," "Cliffhangers" and "Vegas." Those that she felt were good to watch were "60 Minutes" and "World of Disney."

"The humor on television is directed mostly to an audience with a grade school education or below," Mrs.

Haag said. "Often I feel offended by the level producers and advertisers use to reach an audience."

Two groups she felt commercials were directed to reach included children and animals, especially cats.

"Every time a commercial comes on, my cat races to the television set and watches it. It's the craziest thing to watch."

One of the cat's and Mrs. Haag's favorite commercials is a cat food advertisement that has a couple of felines singing and playing the banjo.

"It's the cutest commercial I've seen in a long time."

Mrs. Haag is a housewife and lives at 5423 Jacob, Gagetown, with her husband Ken, an electrician at Saginaw Steering Gear.

Immunization clinics set in Sanilac

The Sanilac County Health Department scheduled the next regular immunization clinics to be held in the Health Department office at 115 N. Elk Street, Sandusky for four days.

The dates set are: Aug. 8, 15, 22 and 29 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 4 p.m. each day.

Immunizations against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, measles, mumps, polio and rubella will be available free of charge. Children who are two months old through high school are invited to attend.

A parent or legal guardian must accompany the child and parents are asked to bring a record of previous immunizations.

For those attending the August clinics, make sure it is at least four weeks between visits to the clinics.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters

A 13-year-old from the Cass City area is waiting for a Big Brother. He enjoys all sports, especially baseball, fishing and bowling. Being much older than the other children has left this child without someone to talk to. He would be lots of fun and very rewarding for any man.

Going through early teen years can be difficult without a dad. This child from the Reese area would enjoy a special male friend. He likes to bowl, swim, play basketball and baseball, and is 13 years old.

This cute little nine-year-old has been waiting some time for a Big Brother. He enjoys fishing, baseball, basketball and football. He lives in the Millington area. Why not offer some friendship?

Tuscola County Big Brothers-Big Sisters has announced that its Second Chance store in Caro will be closed from Aug. 1-24 in order to clean and reorganize its merchandise. Proceeds from the sale of new and like-new clothing and household items are used to help finance the organization.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters in Tuscola county is located at 230 N. State Street, Caro, telephone 673-6996; in Sanilac county at 26 Lexington Street, P.O. Box 1, Sandusky, telephone 648-4433; in Huron county at 592 N. Port Crescent, Bad Axe, telephone 269-7264.

Gagetown Area News

Mrs. Harold Koch

Phone 665-2536

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Devore and sons Chris and Cary of Normal, Ill., are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Koch attended the annual Lowe Seed Company dinner meeting at Zehnders in Frankmouth Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Thressa Johnston spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Elger Generous.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hendrick of Cass City visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weatherhead Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Day of Detroit spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Gerry Carolan, also her niece Mary Sweeney of California and her son Gary Carolan of Lapeer. Sunday, they all traveled to Tawas City to take a boat to Caseville.

Tony Watterworth of Dearborn visited her grandmother, Mrs. Gerry Carolan, over the week end.

Dorothy Crouch of Port Huron and Gertrude Endersbee of Owendale called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weatherhead last Friday.

Mr. Terry Hoese, former principal and teacher at Bach-Kilmanah schools, was ordained into the Holy Ministries at St. Peter's Lutheran church at Bach Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Hoese has been called to serve as missionary-at-large to Dimondale near Lansing.

AROUND THE FARM

Earwigs and beetles

By Don Kebler

European earwigs and vinegar beetles have been really thick this year and if you look, you'll find one or both around your place.

The European earwig is a shiny reddish brown wingless insect with what appears to be large pincers on the rear end.

They are found in flower beds, gardens, in the house and almost anywhere. They like cool, damp and dark places and they will be found under dead bark of trees.

They don't pinch or bite as the pincer-like appendage at the rear end of the earwig is not a pincer. They don't purposely seek peoples ears to crawl into.

Control in the house is by destroying them with a vacuum cleaner or removing their hiding places in debris.

Outside control is made by using one of these insecticides: Malathion, Sevin or Diazinon applied as a spray or powder either on the earwigs or in a band from the foundation wall of the house on the ground. Several applications may be needed until this pest is reduced or eliminated.

These insecticides are cleared for control of earwigs on certain garden vegetables and flowering plants. Vinegar beetles, often called sap or picnic beetles, are those small dark black shiny beetles with white dots on the body.

You find them anywhere there is fruit souring. Raspberries, field and sweet corn, tomatoes and melons are prime examples of where you'll find them.

When you are making pickles, making bread or having a picnic outside where salads are served, you'll have them all over. They are attracted to beer, too.

There is no control of these insects on raspberries except the use of Diazinon dry bait spread repeatedly on the ground around the raspberries. Diazinon bait can also be used for earwigs around the house foundation and outside wall soil areas.

The same insecticides sprayed on clusters of vinegar beetles, as recommended above for earwig control, will kill this pest also.

Always check the product label for correct use, limitations and precautions before using.

Recreation grant made

Congressman Bob Traxler has announced that the Community Services Administration has awarded a grant of $11,000 to the Human Development Commission for summer youth recreation.

The grant will serve Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola counties, and will run for four months.

Joyce Lane fights for rights

TAWRO protects welfare rights

LOOKING OVER new food stamps regulations is Joyce Lane, corresponding secretary for the Thumb Area Welfare Rights Organization. She is currently running the office in her home at 6594 Pine Street and she says she needs more office space.

When many people hear the word "welfare" they sometimes cringe with the thoughts of militant beggars of the 1960s.

They are getting the wrong impression of what welfare people are like in the late 1970s, according to Joyce Lane, corresponding secretary for the Thumb Area Welfare Rights Organization (TAWRO), which serves Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties.

"We have been named the strongest state (Michigan) welfare rights organization in the country by Rep. William Brodhead in Washington," she said. "And even though our organization grows practically daily, there are many who don't really know what being on welfare is all about."

The history of TAWRO originated in 1976 due to the combined effort of Mary Schacher and Thelma Lineske, both of Mayville. In July, 1977, Mrs. Lane joined the two and in that same month, they were recognized as one of Michigan's 29 chapters of the state welfare rights organization.

"We currently have over 200 members in our chapter and the work here is all volunteer," Mrs. Lane said. "The largest chapter is also the first chapter in the state. It's the West Side Mothers in Detroit with over 1,200 members. Michigan has well over 10,000 people in the organization, and it's always growing."

The organization is getting moral and/or financial assistance from religious and research groups and court judges.

In May, according to Mrs. Lane, TAWRO petitioned for hearings in 150 cases where people were not receiving the proper amount of welfare and were successful in all but eight. In June, 1979, the numbers jumped to 190 cases and only nine lost, resulting in over $8,000 of welfare benefits to poor people.

TAWRO HAS RECEIVED $900 from the Catholic Campaign for Human Development to assist in obtaining fair treatment for those in need in the area.

The Campaign for Human Development is the Catholic church's effort to help poor people help themselves. The grant came from monies raised during the 1978 Campaign for Human Development collection taken in November. Twenty-five percent remained in the Saginaw diocese for special projects.

TAWRO has also had help from the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM) in the area of rural slum landlords.

"When people hear of tenant problems and slum landlords, they generally think of that occurring in the big cities," Mrs. Lane said. "They don't realize that it can happen in the rural area also."

General Cable parent firm's earnings up 51 percent

GK Technologies, Inc., parent company of General Cable, has announced that sales for the second quarter were $295.06 million, up 51 percent from $195.97 million for the comparable quarter last year.

TAWRO members pay a dollar a month for dues. Because Mrs. Lane and the other TAWRO officers must travel in three counties to see people, they sometimes face financial problems.

"We are now applying for our second grant (in Saginaw) and it looks pretty good," she said. "I'm glad we could find some office space at the Job Club office in Caro. The last few years, we have been discriminated against. People just get the wrong impression of what this organization wants to do. We want to help the poor help themselves."

Mrs. Lane is currently running the office in her home at 6594 Pine Street and she says the more the work piles up, the less space she has in her home. The group meets in Caro every Friday night.

"We've got to move. . . It's getting too big. . . We need more office space."

The Tuscola County Department of Social Services has dealt with TAWRO a number of times, some favorable, some not, according to director Onalee Detwiler.

"We feel they are beneficial in helping their clients seek their own help and that's it," she said.

Ms. Detwiler also noted Mrs. Lane's figures on welfare hearings were "essentially correct" and thought the organization has been successful in that area.

TAWRO has several goals and objectives:

-TO REPRESENT RECIPIENTS with hearings at the Department of Social Services

-TO TRAIN PEOPLE through workshops of the new and existing policies

-TO ENCOURAGE LOBBYING for change

-TO SOLVE LANDLORD-tenant problems

-TO SETTLE MEDICAID issues

-TO INTERVENE IN Social Security and SSI problems

-TO ENCOURAGE able-bodied recipients to seek training and education for achieving job skills to make them employable.

They hope to achieve these objectives through their deep conviction of faith, prayer and God's direction, according to Mrs. Lane.

In addition to her, other TAWRO officers are Vern Higgins, Caro, chairperson; Linda Smith, Kinde, first vice-chairperson; Marjorie Campbell, Kinde, recording secretary; Janet Stilson, Snover, second vice-chairperson; Russell Boyer, Port Austin, sergeant at arms, and Clayton Lane, Cass City, treasurer.

Mrs. Lane hopes people will begin to understand and accept the poor people on welfare.

"One of our major goals is getting all the able-bodied people looking for jobs working," she said. "We're out to improve the communities in the Thumb by having people help themselves."

New books at the library

DO I REALLY NEED A LAWYER? by Stuart Kahan and Robert M. Cavallo (non-fiction). This is not an anti-attorney book, nor does it promise to invest the reader with a law school education. In enumerating and illustrating the most common legal problems encountered by Americans, the authors explain which situations a lay person can handle and which ones require the services of a lawyer. The broad topics they discuss include consumer protection, human rights, family matters, real estate, business procedures, crimes, negligence, malpractice and wills. The depth and range of information, and the clear, well-organized way in which it is presented make this a valuable reference guide.

THE LAST ENCHANTMENT, by Mary Stewart (fiction). The final volume of Mary Stewart's acclaimed Arthurian trilogy recounts the timeless and beloved story of King Arthur's reign from the time he claimed the magic sword, Caliburn; his military triumphs; his two great loves -- one tragic and doomed, the other touched with both the sweet and the bitter; the sinister machinations of his evil half-sister, Morgause, and the building of the magnificent city that has lived in legend -- the "bright and shining," Camelot. As in "The Crystal Cave" and "The Hollow Hills," the narrator is Merlin, entrusted with Arthur's care from infancy, gifted with remarkable visionary powers -- and with the rare wisdom to use them in guiding his ward's royal progress.

NOW, GOD BE THANKED, by John Masters (fiction). This huge, multi-generational novel takes us from the Kentish countryside to the bustle of London and the battleground of Europe during World War I, a war that completely changes the lives of the well-bred Rowland family.

Electric fence causes fire

An electric fence was the apparent cause of a small grass fire Sunday afternoon, according to Elkland township firemen.

About two acres of grass and some fence posts burned on the property owned by Paul and Ron Chappel off Huron Line Road, west of Koepfgen Road.

The fire broke out about 3 p.m. Firemen were there about a half-hour.

Community booster

111th annual

Farm supply

Dick Enos joins Chamber

Editor's note: this is one of a series sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce about community boosters who are members of the organization.

Enos Farm Supply is one of the new members of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce. That's not surprising because it is also one of the newer businesses in Cass City.

The firm opened at the corner of M-81 and M-53 in April of 1977. It was new here then but not new to the farm supply business.

Dick Enos and his wife, Loraine, were previously in business in Deckerville.

Now located on 4½ acres the company sells farm trailers, power tools, barn equipment, livestock equipment, power washers, fertilizer spreaders and special liquid manure systems.

In addition the firm offers irrigation systems, wood stoves and splitters. We try to handle everything to fill the needs of the farmer,

Plans complete for start of Huron County Fair

Plans are complete for the 111th annual Huron County Community Fair starting Sunday at Soldiers Field in Bad Axe where events will range from harness racing to 4-H and FFA exhibits to concerts and an auto thrill show.

Midway rides will again be provided this year by Vinson Amusement Co. starting Monday and lasting through Saturday.

The Top-of-the-Thumb Leisure Ministries opens the fair with a program starting at 1 p.m.

The Indian Trails Riding Club will conduct its members-only rodeo at 1:30. Harness racing begins at 6:30 p.m.

MONDAY

The 4-H horse show starts at 9 a.m., heavyweight horse pulling begins at 4 p.m. and the crowning of the Huron County Bean Queen is at 7 p.m.

The state championship lightweight horse pulling contest starts at 7:30 to round out the evening program.

TUESDAY

Judging for 4-H, Future Farmers of America and open class will start at 9:30 a.m.

The Bad Axe High School band plays at 4:10 and 7:40 p.m. Harness racing starts at 4:30 and the Joie Chitwood Auto Thrill show rounds out the evening, starting at 8.

WEDNESDAY

Open class judging of exhibits and 4-H open class dairy judging starts at 9 a.m. The Laker High School band plays at 1:40 p.m.

Harness racing starts at 2 p.m., go-cart races at 4 and tractor pulling at 7 p.m.

THURSDAY

The open class horse show starts at 9 a.m.

The Harbor Beach High School band will play at 1:40 p.m. and harness racing begins at 2 p.m. Also at that time, the crowning of the senior citizen king and queen will take place.

Starting at 4 p.m. will be the 4-H talent show and the crowning of the 4-H king and queen. The battle of the bands is at 7:30 p.m.

FRIDAY

The 4-H and FFA steer and swine sale begins at 2 p.m.

Also at 2 will be the county talent show, crowning of the queen of queens, horse and pony running races and

Faculty needed for adult education

The Cass City Community Education Department is recruiting local teaching faculty for the fall adult education classes.

The following areas are of first priority: consumer economics, accounting career education, wood-working and furniture building, auto mechanics, art including painting and drawing, home economics, U.S. history, American government, general English, readiness development, psychology and general math.

Any interested adults with up-to-date secondary teaching credentials who would like to work with adult learners are asked to contact the Cass City Public Schools Community Education Office at 872-4151 for more information.

Ubly school registration next week

Ubly High School (grades 9-12) registration is next week.

At the sessions, students will assemble their schedules for 1979-80.

The schedule next week: Tuesday, Aug. 7, 9 a.m., seniors last names N-Z; 10:30, seniors A-M.

Wednesday, 9 a.m. sophomores N-Z; 10:30, sophomores A-M.

Thursday, 9 a.m., juniors N-Z; 10:30, juniors A-M.

Friday, 9 a.m., freshmen N-Z; 10:30, freshmen A-M.

Students unable to keep their appointed time are asked to come on any of the other dates.

Parents are reminded to have their children complete all immunizations needed to attend school this fall.

New families moving into the area who have not registered their children for school are urged to do so.

Your health and the way you feel during your holiday is probably the most important factor in determining the success of your trip. In the excitement of vacation preparations, do not overlook any aspect of the family's health that may cause problems during the trip.

This may mean a trip to the dentist to guard against toothaches, and a copy of your prescription for eyeglasses, in case of loss or breakage.

In planning where to go, the family should consider allergies and possible reactions to high altitudes.

High elevations, excessive heat, and high humidity sometimes can make a stay uncomfortable for persons with heart trouble or difficulty in breathing.

Check with your doctor about any special problems concerning a member of the family who has been ill or is an older person. Planning for special limitations in advance will assure every one of a more enjoyable vacation.

HEALTH TIPS

Keeping healthy while traveling

By Frank Chappell, American Medical Association

Cass City FFA honored

Cass City Future Farmers of America was among 19 chapters from throughout Michigan to be honored at MABC-Select Sires' FFA Dairy Recognition Day in June.

Michigan Animal Breeders Cooperative sponsors the annual event, honoring the top gold and silver award chapters in dairy cattle judging and showmanship.

This year's educational event centered around career opportunities in agriculture. Speakers from Michigan State University, and Select Sires presented an inside look at what is available to today's high school student interested in a career in dairying.

In the afternoon the group, numbering well over 100 travelled to Spike Farms of Owosso. This dairy tour was a unique opportunity as participants viewed an on the farm computer and circular milking parlor. This highly respected Shiawassee county dairy farm is owned by Tom and Bill Spike.

Representing Cass City High School at the event were Lyle Clarke, vo-ag instructor, Scott Hobart, Ed Zimba and his father, Bill Zimba.

The man equipped with patience and perseverance is well on the road to success.

DESTRUCTION-CONSTRUCTION - While Cass City employee Art Fisher was tearing up the old pavement on Brooker Street Monday morning, one block over, John Anderson (front) and Jeff Halahan were smoothing cement on the new curb on Downing Street. They work for Andrew Barnes Jr., contractor for the village for the two street rebuilding projects, plus the one on Houghton Street, which has been temporarily delayed by neighbors' protests over the width of the street.

Legislation could increase auto insurance rates

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Automobile insurance premiums will increase drastically for most residents of Michigan under legislation designed to put the state's no-fault law in compliance with a recent state Supreme Court ruling.

The high court last year ruled the no-fault insurance law basically constitutional but directed the legislature to amend the law to provide the insurance at reasonable rates to everyone in the state since coverage is required of every driver in the state.

The legislature must act by Dec. 6.

The Senate recently took the first step toward implementation of the order with the approval of legislation which in effect removes all factors, except driving records, for insurance companies to use in determining auto insurance rates.

THE BILL REMOVES use of where a person lives, thus making the state a single insurance rating territory for determining rates.

Also prohibited for use under the bill are marital status, sex, occupations and handicaps to either deny or increase rates.

Meanwhile, the House Insurance Committee is completing work on similar legislation but it permits the division of the state into as many as 20 different rating territories. Any differences are expected to be worked out during the summer recess with the finishing touches expected to come in the early fall session.

Senate Republicans, in a solid block opposing the legislation, charged Democrats with shutting off debate on the issue when they, on a straight party-line vote, advanced the bill for a final vote without allowing unlimited debate - an item of business allowed on all other measures.

Minority Leader Robert VanderLaan of Kentwood charged the Democratic majority with practicing undemocratic procedures and said the action would look like that of a kangaroo court.

All Republican offered amendments addressing the territory question were ultimately rejected on a basic party-line vote.

The bill spreads the risk factor across the entire state and does not take into account the areas where the person will do the majority of his or her driving and the number of cars, or potential risks, within a specific area.

Therefore, under the bill, drivers in rural communities will be considered the same type of risk as drivers in major metropolitan areas and pay similar insurance rates. It will, in effect, increase rates of drivers out-state and decrease rates of people living in metro areas.

SEN. ARTHUR MILLER (D-Warren), chairman of the Commerce Committee which reported the legislation to the floor, said the insurance problem stretches across the entire state and it is grossly unfair for people who live in urban areas to pay 30 percent more for coverage.

Sen. Richard Allen (R-Alma) said he could not believe the Senate would consider legislation to make people pay more for insurance than their actual risk value. He added it was absurd not to recognize differences around the state.

Allen even went as far as to suggest the state take general funds and subsidize insurance rates of people in high risk areas instead of making people all over the state pay higher insurance rates to subsidize urban drivers.

THE LEGISLATION REQUIRES availability of auto insurance to all licensed drivers whose vehicles comply with safety requirements and their driving records must meet certain minimum standards.

These standards include no more than five violation points in a prior three year period, have not been at fault in an accident and have not been convicted of a serious moving violation, such as drunken driving, vehicular homicide and/or reckless driving.

Those who are denied insurance due to their records would qualify to obtain coverage through the state's assigned risk pool, but only after a due process hearing requiring the insurance company to declare reasons for denial or cancellation.

The final form of the legislation is yet to be determined, but one certainty is that most Michigan motorists will be paying higher auto insurance rates.

Safety in the kitchen

Many kitchen accidents occur when consumers use poor work habits or fail to read and save manufacturers' use and care instructions and thus misuse kitchen devices.

With the variety of kitchen equipment and appliances available today, it's most important to read use and care instructions carefully. For example, never use heat-resistant glass ovenware on top of the range or under the broiler.

When using a microwave oven, check the manual to see what cooking accessories and materials can and cannot be used.

Don't overload electrical wiring by plugging too many appliances into one circuit. Replace or repair frayed or broken cords.

2 students head for overseas

Two Cass City High School students are among 27 Rotary exchange program participants from Michigan who will experience life in a different country for nearly a year.

Kent Wischmeyer, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wischmeyer, 4890 Schwegler Road, will leave Aug. 24 for Perth, a city in western Australia.

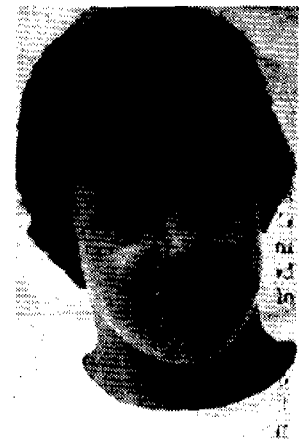

Karen Hall, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Hall, 5825 Main Street, Deford, leaves Aug. 25 for Kyoto, Japan.

"I heard from Rod Krueger, who heads the Rotary exchange program, that those students who went to Bolivia and Japan were the ones who learned the most and were most impressed," she said. "The country just sounded exciting."

Wischmeyer heard interesting stories about Australia from Dave Heins, who went there via the Rotary exchange last year.

Karen Hall

Kent Wischmeyer

"He said it's an interesting country to visit and a lot of things are happening all the time," Wischmeyer said.

The Rotary exchange program reaches 155 countries throughout the world. The two local participants had more than 12 to choose from.

The high school juniors will stay in their exchange countries for 11½ months, returning home sometime in mid-July of next year.

Head first

Although it's the automobile driver, not the motorcycle rider, who's at fault in most motorcycle-car accidents, the motorcycle rider can do a lot to protect himself by wearing proper protective gear.

Chapman dies in Marlette

Elmer F. Chapman of Marlette died July 25 at Marlette Community hospital. He was 87.

Chapman was born Oct. 31, 1891 in Shabbona, the son of John and Alferetta Chapman and married Blanche Frost in Novesta township Aug. 14, 1918.

He lived in Novesta township until 1935, moved to Evergreen township until 1970 when he moved to Marlette and has resided there since then.

He served in the Army during World War I and has been a member of the Mizpah Missionary church. His occupation was a farmer.

Besides his wife, Chapman is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Paul Adams and Mrs. Gladys Reifel both of Elkhart, Ind., Mrs. Esther McLeish of Marlette and Mrs. Vivian Freshney of Caro; one son, James Chapman of Lapeer; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Sadler of Decker and Mrs. Altha Cooley of Center Line; 10 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Mizpah Missionary church with Rev. David Burrows officiating. Entombment followed in the Elkhart cemetery, Cass City.

Number one dairy county is Sanilac

Sanilac county remains Michigan's No. 1 dairy farm county, according to the 1978 report just issued by the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

In 1978, there were 30,800 dairy cows in Sanilac, compared to 19,600 in Huron, the No. 2 county.

Tuscola was way down the list with 7,800 cows.

Dairy production declined in all three upper Thumb counties compared to the previous year.

The 30,800 cows in Sanilac gave an average of 12,795 pounds of milk for total production of 394.1 million pounds. That compared to 32,200 cows, a monthly average of 12,705 pounds and total production of 409.1 million pounds in 1977.

In Huron in 1978, the 19,600 cows gave an average of 12,582 pounds of milk and total production of 246.6 million pounds. The year before, 19,900 cows produced an average of 12,492 pounds of milk each and a total of 248.6 million pounds.

In Tuscola in 1978, the 7,800 cows produced an average of 11,692 pounds each and a total of 91.2 million pounds. In 1977, there were also 7,800 cows, which produced an average of 11,615 pounds and a total of 90.6 million pounds.

The state's most efficient cows were in Missaukee county in northern lower Michigan, an average of 13,358 pounds of milk per cow in 1978.

Statewide, the number of cows stayed at 403,000 in 1977 and 1978. In 1977, average production was 11,814 pounds per cow and total production was 4.76 billion pounds.

In 1978, average production was 11,893 pounds and total production was 4.79 billion pounds.

Unbeaten Catholics add tourney toga to regular season crown

The Catholic women's slow pitch softball team completed an undefeated 6-0 season and captured the Church League tournament championship when they handed Deford a 17-4 thumping Tuesday night.

The Catholics finished the regular season with a perfect 4-0 record and in first place of the four-team division before going into the tournament this week.

They made it to the finals Monday when the Novesta Church of Christ forfeited the playoff game scheduled. Deford defeated the Baptists that night to face the Catholics in the finals.

It was little of a match from the start as the Catholics combined for 11 runs in the first three innings, scoring two each in the first and second innings and a seven-run outburst in the third. They didn't strike again until the sixth, when they tallied for six more to bury Deford for good.

Five Catholics led the hitting attack with two or more hits apiece. Linda Leiterman batted out a single, double and a three-run home run and teammates Karla Wischmeyer and Shelly Rabideau each got a triple and a single.

Dawn Herron hit two triples and Gail Little had two singles for the winning Catholics.

Annette Robinson started and went five innings to pick up her sixth win on the mound. Gail Little came in to relieve Robinson and earned her sixth save of the year.

Deford's last threat came in the fourth inning with runners at first and second and two out. But a line shot speared by Carol Little playing first base ended the threat.

First-year Coach Mike Vatter was pleased with the win and the championship and credited the Catholics for their fine team play.

"It was a total team effort," the Cass City High School senior said. "Everyone did the job."

Vatter did single out Tammi Rabideau as one of his finest defensive players and included Ms. Rabideau, Linda Leiterman and Shelly Rabideau as the team's top hitters. "I wish we could get more teams together next year for a bigger league," Vatter said. "Maybe more interest will start to be taken."

4-team meet set

Swimmers lose to Marlette

The Cass City swim team dropped its last regular season meet Sunday as the host Marlette team won 161-135 to make Cass City's record fall to 2-4.

House deals with toxic waste

After study by three separate committees, the House of Representatives approved legislation to deal with the problem of hauling and disposing toxic wastes, a growing problem in Michigan and around the nation.

Called one of the most critical issues before the Legislature this year, the bill creates a hazardous waste management planning committee within the Department of Natural Resources that has the responsibility of developing a toxic waste management plan.

Once the plan is adopted, the measure further requires that disposal site approval boards be appointed to approve each proposed toxic waste disposal site.

The site approval board will have nine members - five permanent representatives for the state and four ad hoc members from the local area where the site has been proposed. Of the four, two will represent the county and two will represent the locality where the site is proposed.

2 Osentoski teams win slow pitch championships

Two slow pitch softball teams sponsored by Osentoski Realty and Auctioneering of Bad Axe won two separate tournaments in Kinde and Caro the week end of July 20-22.

The Caro slow pitch softball tournament held July 20-22 was won by the timely hitting and great defensive plays of the Osentoski Realty team in the double elimination invitational.

Dale Wissner's two-run home run in the eighth inning proved to be the difference as Osentoski Realty came from behind to squeak out an 8-6 win over the Bay City Truckers in the first game of the championship series.

This forced a second game with the Truckers because each team had one loss. Osentoski's only defeat in the tournament was a 12-6 decision, against the Truckers July 20.

In the championship game Osentoski was in total command as the team scored seven runs in the first three innings and eventually won 9-3.

Rick Trembley's three hits, including a home run, paced the Osentoski hitting attack. Ed Lowe and Dale Wissner each collected two hits with Wissner slamming out his second home run in as many games.

Ken Lowe of Osentoski Realty was the defensive standout in the tournament.

The other Osentoski Realty and Auctioneering team won the Kinde Homecoming tournament Sunday, July 21, with a 9-3 win over Ward's Party Store of Bad Axe.

Osentoski Realty defeated Danilo's Cafe 17-11 Saturday during first round action. Sunday they won 12-11 over Lor-Del's, 8-7 over Castle Lounge and 12-11 over Wildwood.

Those wins enabled Osentoski to face Ward's Party Store in the finals of the Homecoming tournament.

This made the second straight tournament championship Osentoski has captured, as they also won the Kinde Memorial Day tournament earlier.

Cass City, Gagetown set dates for sports physicals

Physical examinations will be held Saturday for all Cass City students planning to participate in athletics this year.

Examinations will be in the high school gym. Boys should report at 1:30 p.m. and girls at 2:30.

Physical examinations for students of the Owendale-Gagetown area schools for all sports and cheerleaders for both boys and girls will be held Thursday, Aug. 2, from 7-8:30 p.m. in the Owendale school.

Dr. Richard Hall will be giving the physicals. Parents should complete their part of the information on the physical cards before their children come for the physical. Additional cards are available at the high school offices.
