

Unionville man killed

Kingston woman dies in Sanilac accident

A Kingston mother of four, Helen M. Noyes, was killed last Thursday in a traffic accident west of Sandusky. A Unionville man, Jerry Winter, died Monday of injuries suffered last Thursday in a motorcycle accident north of that community. According to Sandusky state police, Mrs. Noyes, 39, of 5685 S. Kingston Road, was eastbound on M-46, about 6½ miles west of Sandusky, when the vehicle in front of her slowed. She swerved to miss it but her van went off the north side of the road and rolled down an incline. Mrs. Noyes was partially out of the vehicle when it came to a halt. Troopers said drivers in front of her had slowed to view the remains of a semi-trailer that was involved in an accident at that location the day before. The accident occurred at 7:40 a.m. Mrs. Noyes was the seventh person to die in a Sanilac county traffic accident this year.

She was born March 24, 1940 in Colorado and worked in the Sanilac County Department of Social Services in Sandusky. She married Thomas B. Noyes June 6, 1963 in New Mexico. Mrs. Noyes was a member of the St. Elizabeth Catholic church, Marlette. She is survived by her husband; four sons, John, David, Adam and Thomas, all at home; her mother, Ciria Pacheco of Colorado; one brother, Juan Pacheco Martinez of Midland; four sisters, Della Spradlan of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Richard (Mildred) Trujillo, Diane Pacheco and Rosanne Pacheco, all of Colorado. Rosary services were held Sunday evening in the Hacker Funeral Parlors, Sandusky. Funeral services were held Monday morning at St. Elizabeth Catholic church, Father Joseph Kearns officiating. Burial was in Greenwood cemetery, Sandusky.

MOTORCYCLE CRASH

Jerry Winter, 36, of Unionville, died Monday at Bay Medical Center, Bay City, of injuries suffered in an accident at 11:30 p.m. Thursday. Sheriff's deputies reported he was westbound on Bach Road on his motorcycle and failed to stop at M-25, which has a stop sign there. His cycle went across M-25 and landed in a ditch on the west side of the road. Bach Road dead ends at M-25. Winter is the 10th Tuscola county traffic fatality this year. Survivors include his wife, Donna, and four daughters. Funeral services were to be held Thursday afternoon at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Unionville.

INJURY ACCIDENTS

Brian Woodward, 16, of 7635 Deckerville Road, Deford, was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Caro Community Hospital, where he was taken after an accident at 8:30 p.m. Monday. According to Caro state police, the youth was headed northwest from a trail onto Lamton Road on his motorcycle and ran into the side of a southbound car. Driver of the car was Bill C. Lewis, 50, of Detroit. Woodward was thrown into the windshield of the car and then fell in front of the vehicle. The accident took place south of Shabbona Road. A six-year-old passenger in a car driven by Barbara L. Langmaid, 23, of Caro fell out of the moving auto as it was rounding a curve Monday afternoon. Janey Lee Powell of 352 Froede Road, Deford, was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital where she was treated and released. The vehicle, according to sheriff's deputies, was rounding a curve on Lakeside Drive in Huntsville Trailer Park leading to Please turn to page 15.

TOTAL LOSS -- Elkland township firemen make sure the fire is out in a combine owned by Keith Beecher. The Monday evening fire started in the engine compartment and spread to 1½-2 acres of wheat

Combine destroyed in fire

Elkland township firefighters were called out Monday at 7:10 p.m. to extinguish a fire in a wheat field seven miles east of Cass City. The fire started in the engine compartment of a combine owned and operated by Keith Beecher, of E. Cass City Road, according to Elkland Township Fire Chief Jack Hartwick. The combine was a total loss and Hartwick estimated the damage at $25,000 to $30,000. But, he added, if Beecher wants a new combine he will have to spend at least $70,000 for it. According to Hartwick, the fire spread from the combine to 1½-2 acres of wheat which was lost on Beecher's property. Firemen were at the scene for over two hours.

+++++ The fire alarm in the main alarm box at Marshall Distributing, 4160 Doerr Road, went off Saturday evening at 9:30 for no apparent reason. Elkland township firemen responded to the alarm but arrived at the scene and found nothing wrong. Cause of the alarm malfunction is unknown and still under investigation.

+++++ Firemen weren't called Monday afternoon to the Ralph Hastings home on M-53.

A fire broke out from an unknown cause in a window casing on the northeast side of the house, Mrs. Hastings said. Her son Steve, 15, used a garden hose and quickly had the fire out, so that firemen didn't have to be called.

Owen-Gage willing to sell land for new apartments

Some new apartments may be in the offing in Gagetown. The needed first step came Monday night when the Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education approved giving Gagetown builder Gary McKellar first option for purchase of six or seven of the 10 acres it owns between the elementary school and village park. He will pay $1 for the option, which is good through Feb. 5. Actual granting of the option is contingent on advice of the board's attorney. Questions were raised over whether the land might have to be sold to the highest bidder and whether approval of district residents is needed before the board can sell any land. The talked about selling price was between $1,500 and $2,000 an acre. The motion approved by the board also says the land will revert to the district should the project fall through. Proposed are five four-unit buildings -- a total of 20 apartments. McKellar said he plans to "put up a couple to start with to see how it goes."

The builder said after the meeting he is attempting to obtain financing through the recently formed Gagetown Economic Development Corp., which would ensure a lower interest rate from a bank. He indicated some additional options are also being explored. The builder hopes to get construction underway before this winter.

LOAN

Community Bank of Caseville, the lowest of three bidders, at 5.95 percent interest, will be loaning Owen-Gage $350,000 in anticipation of receipt of property tax revenue. Receipt of the money will allow the district to resume paying its teachers and administrators, who last received paychecks June 8 because of lack of funds. The loan will have to be repaid by April 1. The interest will cost the district more than $12,000. The other bidders were Citizens' Bank of Flint and Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Sebawaing. The board also named those three banks as deposi-tories for the district's funds.

OTHER BUSINESS

The state Board of Education at its July meeting supposedly postponed consideration of requests to transfer from Owen-Gage the Miller parcel to the Cass City district, Gremel to Unionville-Sebawaing, and Dietzel to Elkton-Pigeon Bay Port until its September meetings. For unexplained reasons, the transfers, minus the Dietzel parcel, were back on the board's agenda for its August meeting Wednesday of this week in Lansing. Supposedly, consideration had been postponed until after the state Court of Appeals heard arguments this month in the Goslin parcel transfer case. The board approved payment of a final settlement of $4,975 to Grover Science Equipment of Muskegon for work done refurbishing and installing science room equipment in the high school addition. Supt. Ronald Erickson thought that was about $1,500 more than the firm should be paid because of unsatisfactory work but told the board taking the matter to court would have been more costly in the long run. A letter of appreciation will be sent to the Band Boosters for its purchase of a flag pole and the letters spelling out "Home of the Bulldogs" to go on the outside of the high school addition. Erickson reported that after all bills are paid, there will be about $40,000 left in building bond issue funds, probably enough to pave the driveway in front of the school and part of the parking area. Whether there will be that much, however, depends on the outcome of the dispute with Construction Coordinators, Inc., managers of the building project, which claims it is owed an additional $43,000. Board meetings will remain the second Monday of each month at 8 p.m. alternating between Owendale and Gagetown. The session this Monday at Gagetown was a special meeting.

County board upheld in Owen-Gage Goslin tax suit

The Owendale-Gagetown School District was the loser Monday when Tuscola County Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements upheld the county Board of Commissioners and Commissioner Royce Russell in their allocation of Goslin parcel property taxes. Two suits were filed by Owen-Gage after the county board voted Feb. 13 to allocate 1978 school taxes from the Goslin parcel to the Cass City School District, instead of to Owen-Gage. Involved, the suit claimed, was $100,828 lost in school operating and debt retirement taxes. Sought was that amount plus about the same amount in punitive damages. The county board voted 4-3 to allocate the taxes to Cass City and one of those votes in favor was that of Russell. Owen-Gage claimed in its suit that he was in conflict of interest, and thus in violation of state law, because he owns some property within the Goslin territory. According to county Prosecutor Artis Noel, Clements' ruling meant the commissioners and Russell "didn't abuse any of their powers." The prosecutor had advised commissioners prior to its Feb. 13 vote that as of the legal date for determining which property belongs where for tax purposes, Sept. 1, 1978, the Goslin parcel was part of the Cass City district. He also advised Russell that he could vote on the issue. The prosecutor emphasized, however, that Judge Clements didn't address the question of where the Goslin parcel taxes should go. Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson said the district will appeal the judge's ruling. "We feel Royce Russell is definitely in conflict of interest. It all boils down to Royce Russell. If he hadn't voted, the board would not have acted improperly." According to one of Owen-Gage's attorneys, Mark Chessman, the question of where the 1978 Goslin taxes go ultimately rests on a decision by the state Court of Appeals on the bigger issue of whether the state Board of Education can transfer the parcel to Cass City without a public vote. The appeals court is scheduled to hear arguments in the case this month. The suit which Owen-Gage lost in Clements' court only Please turn to page fifteen.

Naomi Ruth Anderson

Same name causes confusion

Will the real Naomi Ruth Anderson please stand up? Two Cass City residents with the same name have been confusing the phone company, Pinney State Bank employees, nurses and friends of one or the other for the past year. Naomi Ruth Anderson, 35, of 4227 Bach Road, has lived in the Cass City area most of her life, and until several months ago was leading a normal life with little confusion. But then in July, 1978, Roger Anderson moved to Cass City from Carsonville with his wife, Naomi Ruth Anderson. That was just the beginning of months of confusion for a few people. "The first time I found out there was another Naomi Ruth Anderson in Cass City was last November when I went to the doctor's office to get a physical for a job at Walbro," said Naomi Anderson, 21, of 6191 E. Shabbona Road, Deford. "The nurse called for a 'Naomi Anderson' so I stood up and tried to make it through the door past the nurse. But she wouldn't let me through."

The nurse said: "I called for a Naomi Anderson." "I know. I am she." "No, you're not." It took several minutes for Naomi Anderson to explain to the nurse who she was and finally the nurse let her through to see the doctor. The second instance, in addition to occasional mix-ups in telephone calls, happened to the Naomi Anderson of Deford when she tried to cash her first Walbro check at the Pinney State Bank. She signed the check and presented it to the cashier. "And I suppose you're Naomi Anderson," the clerk said suspiciously. "That's right, I am." "No, you're not because I know Naomi Anderson (of Bach Road) and you aren't her." With that she threw the check back at Mrs. Anderson. "It took several minutes before the bank knew what was going on," Naomi Anderson said. "Finally they checked the account started by my husband (Roger) and that convinced them." The Naomi Anderson of Deford has run into several friends of the other Naomi Anderson around town, including Marie Groombridge who used to work at the M and R Grocery and who used to bowl with the Naomi Anderson of Bach Road in a league. When Mrs. Anderson of Deford tried to cash a check at the grocery, Marie Groombridge was very suspicious of the check and the signature. "She finally remembered my husband coming in earlier in the week and pieced everything together. We both got a laugh out of it," Mrs. Anderson said. But the most complicated and serious problem was a mix-up with the telephone company and the two Naomi Andersons. For about three months, the phone company was confusing the bills of the two women and gave Naomi Anderson of Bach Road credit for what was paid by Naomi Anderson of Deford. "We were getting phone calls from the telephone company asking us why we weren't paying our bills. I told them I had the cancelled checks and that we were paying on time every month." But the phone company didn't believe it. They called the Anderson residence several more times threatening to turn off the phone if the bills were not paid. After several weeks of threats, the phone company turned off the phone and that's when the Andersons had had enough. "Roger called them and tried to explain that they might have confused the bills on Naomi Anderson with another but they still thought we were crazy and trying to get out of paying our bills." After a week and a half of checking, the phone company finally realized they made a mistake. "I had a phone bill that was over $50 and before everything was straightened out the bill was paid and I had over $100 credit towards my phone bills," Naomi Anderson of Bach Road said. When the two Naomi Andersons met for the first time Monday they found out they had more in common than just their names. Naomi Anderson of Bach Road used to live approximately a half-mile from where Naomi Anderson of Deford lives now. Naomi Anderson of Deford was born in Ohio but spent most of her life in Carsonville before moving last July. During her childhood years, she spent much of her time hanging around Harold's Market in Carsonville. The owner, Harold Cox, is the uncle to the Naomi Anderson on Bach Road. And one might ask, where did the parents of the Naomi Ruth Andersons come up with their unique name, Naomi Ruth? "My father is a minister and my parents are very religious so they took the name out of the Old Testament in the Bible," said Naomi Anderson of Deford. "Both of my parents were very religious." Naomi Anderson of Bach Road said, "and they got the name out of the Bible too."

WHO IS WHO? -- The two Naomi Ruth Andersons of Cass City met Monday for the first time. Naomi Ruth Anderson of Bach Road (left) is welcomed to the Anderson home on Shabbona Road by the other Naomi Ruth.

Father Joseph Schabel performed the double-ring ceremony, attended by more than 500 guests.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Forster of Cass City. Louis Barry of Elkton and Arlene Barry of Bad Axe are parents of the bride.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza with a controlled skirt trimmed with a band of Venice lace. The lifted bodice featured a high neckline and a sheer yoke with a cameo design. Long sheer sleeves were accented with rows of lace which also adorned the skirt front. Chantilly lace encircled the trim of her picture hat.

She carried a small cascade of white miniature carnations and orange sweetheart roses with baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Jacqueline Barry of Elkton, sister of the bride. She wore a full length silesta knit apricot gown with a macrame lace yoke accenting the neckline. The blouse bodice was gathered at the waistline with a matching fabric belt highlighting the full flowing skirt.

She carried a single Woburn Abbey rose with baby's breath and orange streamers.

Bridesmaids were Kay Tait of Kinde and Colleen Braun of Elkton, sisters of the bride, and Crystal Forster of Cass City, sister of the groom. They were attired identically to the maid of honor and carried identical flowers.

Ronald Thiel of Kinde, friend of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Gary Forster, Pigeon, brother of the groom, and Duane Kruse, Decker, and Rick Christner, Elkton, both friends of the groom.

Ushers were John Barry, brother of the bride, and Eric Chappel, cousin of the groom, both of Elkton. Organist was Cindy Volz and soloist, David Ziel, who sang "The Wedding Song" and "You Light Up My Life."

The bride's mother wore an apricot polyester knit gown. The groom's mother wore a gown of apricot Qiana and nylon chiffon, designed by her cousin, Marjorie Williamson. Each wore a shoulder corsage.

A reception at the Pigeon VFW Hall followed the ceremony.

After a week-long honeymoon, the newlyweds are now living on Schwegler Road, Cass City.

"If It Fitz..." The price of comfort

By Jim Fitzgerald

During a recent attack of extreme humidity, I did something I'd never done before. I went to work in my shirtsleeves — no suitcoat, no tie, no sweat.

It was during this humid spell that I overheard my wife say to our son: "I like to sunbathe with the mister."

The mister? Who are we, Ma and Pa Kettle? Do I sunbathe with the missus?

She explained that the mister is a bottle of water with a spray attachment. While lazing in the sun, she sprays herself with a fine mist of water to keep cool. It's easier than jumping into a swimming pool, especially when you can't swim — or jump.

I considered using a mister to keep cool while walking to work but rejected the idea. In the downtown area, it's not unusual to see a man carrying a bottle, usually with the neck sticking out of a brown paper bag. However, I was afraid passing strangers might be startled by the sight of a wino ingesting his addiction through his pores, and I'm too shy to be an object of curiosity.

In my former life, periods of high humidity were no problem. I drove from my air-conditioned home to my air-conditioned office and back in my air-conditioned car. I walked bravely through the hot gaps between curb and building, accepting the suffering as penance for past sins. (At my age, I'd rather be punished for future sins, so I'd know I still have some coming, but God's ways aren't that wondrous).

Now I live close enough to walk to work. I don't enjoy the exercise, but I do enjoy thumbing my nose at the robber barons who own most downtown parking lots. My favorite thumb is the sweetheart who asks people to pay for parking in his lot at night, when there's no attendant on duty, by pushing money through a slot. Anyone who doesn't pay, a big sign promises, will be punished by four flat tires.

As a middle-aged slave to idiot customs, I've always worn a suit and tie to work. There is no sensible reason for this in the summer and probably not in the winter, either. Whatever the season, I take off my suitcoat and loosen my tie and roll up my sleeves before I reach my desk every morning. I don't go to fancy restaurants for lunch. Usually I skip lunch so I can bore people with painful tales about the great sacrifices I make to keep my chin count below four.

Despite the obvious insanity, I remained in uniform until the humidity went berserk. That's when I discovered that a man wearing a coat and tie can't walk for 20 minutes in such weather without turning into a wrinkled puddle of light-weight Dacron mush. It doesn't help to carry the coat, because it still must be draped somewhere touching your body. If you hold it out at arm's length, as if it smells bad, strangers will stare at you almost as much as they would if you were spraying Mogen David inside your pants.

So I left the coat home, with the tie, and wore a short-sleeved sport shirt to work. The only problem was pockets. There are at least four roomy pockets in the normal suitcoat. Shirts have only one pocket, and it's small.

Where does a walking man without a coat carry his notebook and eyeglass case and cigars? They can't be carried in pants pockets. They impede your stride and get crushed and make it risky to sit down.

If you cram all this stuff into your shirt pocket, it looks dumb. You jiggle, and strangers offer to sell you half a bra.

My wife suggested I carry a briefcase on humid days, but I don't like the idea. Strangers might think I'm someone important, like a lawyer, and ask me for legal opinions. I would be embarrassed to tell them the only reason I was carrying a brief case was because I was too shy to be seen downtown with the mister.

Perhaps the only good answer is for me to stay home from work on humid days. I'll tell the boss I was seriously burned while sunbathing with Ma Kettle. Orward and Upward.

COMMUNAL EFFORT — Members of the Novesta Church of Christ chose a unique way Sunday to break ground for their new auditorium building. They tied a rope to a horse-drawn plow and started pulling. The building will be done in spring, when construction of a fellowship hall and gym will start. (Scott Hartel photo)

Reconstruction bids to open Aug. 16

Opening of bids will be the next step in the proposed reconstruction of Krapf Road between M-81 and Elmwood Road in Elkland township.

Estimated cost is $42,400. Bids from private contractors will be opened by the Tuscola County Road Commission Thursday, Aug. 16.

A public hearing conducted by the Road Commission last Thursday drew five residents and township Supervisor Jack Gallagher.

A couple of those present, according to Road Commission Clerk Jim Miklovic, questioned why the work is needed, saying that they were happy with the road as is.

They expressed fear that an improved road will become a "race track."

Proposed is such work as ditching, adding base material, grading, widening if needed to 22 feet of traveled surface, brush removal and culvert work. No added right-of-way will be needed.

Once the work is done, it would be suitable for eventual blacktopping if the township board ever wants it done.

At this point, Miklovic said, the board hasn't committed itself to having the reconstruction done as it is waiting to see what the actual cost will be. That won't be known until bids are opened.

The township will have to pay almost the entire cost. The Road Commission's only contribution, he explained, is to pay the fringe benefits for its employees who work on the project and $1,888 in matching funds, which all townships receive.

If the go-ahead is given, depending on the schedule of the successful contractor, the work might be done this fall or will wait until spring. Completion date probably will be July 1, 1980.

Riley dies suddenly

Retired businessman Joseph Victor Riley of Pringle Road, Cass City, died suddenly Saturday at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

He was born June 30, 1904, in Ludington, the son of Harry and Dolly Riley.

He married Alice Sites July 3, 1940, in Columbus, Ohio. They came to this area in 1943 from Evansville, Ind.

Riley was the owner and operator of Riley's Foot Comfort Store from 1943 until his retirement in 1968.

Joseph Victor Riley

He helped initiate the Cass City Chamber of Commerce and the Cass City Development Corp. and served on the latter's first board of directors.

He is survived by his wife, Alice; one sister, Mrs. Pansy Dilworth of Madison, Wis., and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon from Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. John Tatgenhorst of the Shabbona United Methodist church officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

It's sad that members of the White Creek Club were about to post a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of vandals that gutted the club building last week. The plan was not used because the kids responsible were caught.

The desperate measure was to be adopted because the club building has been repeatedly broken into over the years. The most recent break-in was particularly frustrating. Nothing much of value was hanging around so the vandals cut up the chairs and generally wrecked the interior.

Joe Riley's death leaves one fewer of a rare breed. He was a craftsman-businessman. No one was better at repairing shoes or altering them to cure foot problems.

Not many have this talent. Fewer still combine it with business acumen.

What Riley did was bring customers to Cass City from the entire Thumb to buy his health shoes. He turned his skill into a profitable business.

He also was one of the pioneer promoters of industry for Cass City. He organized the 10 persons who purchased the original 20 acres for industrial development.

He left his mark on the community.

Walter Rummel, former publisher of the Sebewaing Blade was the official photographer last October for a study group in China.

He has assembled a slide presentation that makes an outstanding program. He presented it Tuesday at a meeting of Cass City Rotary and if you can get him for your favorite organization it's well worth the trouble.

One of the more interesting facets of the country can't be seen in slides. It's the absolute honesty of the people. There are no locks on the doors. The group piled all their belongings unattended on a busy street where literally thousands of persons passed and picked it up several hours later all intact. Stealing is non-existent in the country, Rummel says.

That's the sample of the stuff you get when Rummel presents his program.

Back in June, in reporting the 100-year history of St. Agatha Catholic church in Gagetown, it was mentioned that the new rectory, built in 1971, replaced the original one, built in 1881.

Donna Wernette called the Chronicle recently to report the original rectory is still standing. She and her husband Donald purchased it from the parish in 1972 and had it moved to a site along the Cass River on Lamton Road. It is now their home.

PEDALING AROUND

Riding the Thumb

By Mike Ellasohn

I wonder how many people living around here go "up north" or elsewhere for a week end trip but have never toured the Thumb.

I suspect there are a lot. Probably most Parisians have never visited the Eiffel Tower, most New Yorkers have never been to the top of the Empire State Building and to mention my home town, probably most Lansingites have never toured the Oldsmobile factory.

I have been to the top of the Empire State Building and have seen how Oldsmobiles are made, so two out of three isn't bad.

Make that three out of four. I have now toured the Thumb, or at least part of it.

Regular readers of my weekly diatribe will know that I'm not an advocate of extensive driving by car, so I suppose my rationale for touring the Thumb is that it requires less gas than a trip to Traverse City or some other "exotic" location.

My trip was made with my father and sister, who drove up from Lansing the week end before last.

Unfortunately, we didn't have much time, so what we saw had to be squeezed into about 24 hours.

Our first destination was Harbor Beach, for a visit to the Frank Murphy Museum, reported elsewhere in this paper (unless it gets held back a week due to lack of space).

The visit was of sentimental significance for my father, a retired attorney, as he was appointed to the state parole board by Murphy when the latter was governor.

Obviously, this part of the visit was of more significance for the Ellasohn family than it would be for most people, but the Murphy Museum is still worth a visit for anybody.

As for Harbor Beach, I understand it isn't so pleasant in winter, but in summer, it is very nice. Clean, a breeze off the lake and not "touristy."

The latter can be said for the eastern shoreline of Huron county. Up to about Grindstone City, there are motels and beaches, but it's far from overcrowded and traffic is light.

Starting at about Grindstone City, and especially from Port Austin on toward Bay City, the shoreline is very touristy. Wall-to-wall cabins and wall-to-wall tourists, which isn't my cup of tea.

We had visions of spending the night in the Port Austin to Caseville area, but there wasn't an empty room to be found. Either that means it doesn't bother people to travel and use gasoline or they are staying closer to home and not traveling as far.

To backtrack, the Phelps Memorial Museum and village at Huron City was closed when we went by, but looked like it would have been worth a stop if it had been open.

Due to lack of time, we didn't go hunting for the grindstones at Grindstone City and didn't see the turnip rock at Pt. Aux Barques. (To be seen from land, it's necessary to traverse private property, but I understand it is possible to get permission to do so.)

From Caseville, we headed south back to Cass City. The "tour" ended Sunday with a look at the octagonal barn near Gagetown and the petroglyphs (Indian rock carvings) in Greenleaf township.

So if you are looking for a place to go for a week end, try the Thumb sometime. You may find some surprises in your own backyard.

Dance on August 18

The Tip of the Thumb Singles Club will hold its next dance Saturday, Aug. 18, at the Methodist church gym in Bad Axe from 8:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m.

Music will be provided by the Harley Scott orchestra. There will be a potluck supper during intermission.

LOOKING OVER pictures in a photo album taken since the couple moved to Bethel, Alaska, are Robert and June Graham. They work in the school system up there for nine months of the year and are looking forward to returning there soon.

A cold "paradise"

Grahams enjoy working in Alaska

When most people dream of living on a deserted island, they usually set their sights on some place in the South Pacific.

But Robert and June Graham's "paradise" is 400 miles west of Anchorage, Alaska.

Bethel is a village of 3,500 residents located in the barren Alaska tundra below the Arctic Circle. It is one of the largest villages in the area. Most have populations less than 200.

"It's a beautiful isolated part of the world," said Mrs. Graham, who will soon start her fifth year of living and working for the Lower Kuskowim School District in Bethel as one of two permanent substitute teachers. "I love working with children and this job gives me an opportunity to work in a unique situation."

Robert Graham has worked the past three years for the district as a custodian and will leave for Bethel sometime next week.

"You are certainly isolated from any type of civilization up there and I suppose that was the hardest thing for me to get used to," he said. "That and the weather."

Winter normally starts around mid-September. Usually the area does not get a lot of snow. What they do get is a steady amount of heavy winds, cold temperatures and freezing rain.

"Winds average 15-20 miles per hour throughout the year and occasionally they gust up to 50 miles per hour," Graham said. "And temperatures can vary 60 degrees overnight."

One morning the temperature was 20 below zero and by the afternoon it had warmed up enough to start raining.

Although Mrs. Graham felt the last three winters have been "mild," she said her greatest concern with the weather is the ice.

"Everything freezes, including the (Kuskowim) river," she said. "When the snow thaws and then turns to ice, that's when it's dangerous to even try to walk outside."

When the river freezes in the winter, it becomes a useable "roadway" for the few automobiles owned by the village residents. They can't travel on the tundra because it's so soft and there is only one road, seven miles long in the village.

"Most of the supplies are shipped in the summer by boat and in the winter by plane," Graham said.

"There are several privately owned small planes and two times a day a jet lands in Bethel from Anchorage bringing necessary provisions."

One friend of the Grahams travelled the 400-mile stretch of tundra from Bethel to Anchorage by way of dog sled. Many local residents use snow machines for transportation during the winter.

ABOUT 80 PERCENT OF the residents in Bethel are Eskimo and the other 20 percent are white North Americans. Most of the natives in the surrounding villages speak Yupik, the Eskimo language for that part of the state.

"The Eskimo children speak English taught in the schools and many come from the small surrounding villages in the area," Mrs.

Graham explained.

The school district is run by the state and has three separate institutions, the Kilbuck school, which handles kindergarten through eighth grade, a new primary school for children in kindergarten to second grade and Bethel High School for ninth through twelfth grade.

The high school students live in what could be called "dorms," and stay there for the nine months of instruction, coming from surrounding villages to Bethel.

"THE HOUSING IN THE village is very strict (limited) and unless you know a friend in Bethel that you can stay with, there is little doubt that you won't find a place," Mrs. Graham said. She recalled the price of a hotel room in Bethel averages $35 to $47 a day for a place "with the bare necessities."

All of the buildings are built above ground on steel pilings so that they won't sink into the tundra. There is no sewer system and all pipes are laid above ground so they will not freeze during the winter.

Graham said the village built a bowling alley this spring but couldn't open it because it wasn't built on enough pilings and the ground shifted several times.

THE GRAHAMS HAVE lived in their own "home" in Bethel for the past three years. It is a freezer van left from one of the boats that docked in the area. The van is about 30 feet long and 10 feet wide made of wood. An oil stove is used for cooking and heating.

"Most of those who move to Bethel live in this type of housing," Mrs. Graham said. "It's comfortable and efficient."

Food is usually ordered by the caseload and the Grahams said their order included 38 cases of food for themselves.

"We'll probably be set for the year with that much," Graham said. "But then you never know what will happen."

He said most of those who order food this way are the white families, while the Eskimo families live more on a "day-by-day basis" with most of them working for the fishing industry.

BESIDES THE RECREATION organized by the village (which includes dancing, art workshops and other programs), most of the residents enjoy basketball and wrestling for sports activities. Due to the soft tundra, there is no football, baseball or any outside sports played.

"The tundra is flat, barren land, mostly of sand, with no trees," Graham explained. "The first 18 inches of sand in the ground is soft and spongy, but the next 375 feet is what is known as 'permafrost' or frozen sand."

Graham said that due to this unusual type of soil, wells dug for water are an expensive and tedious operation.

"There are six wells in the village and I think the average price for digging one is around $10,000. Most of the residents buy the water once a week from city trucks that come around and

Miller pleads guilty to robbery charges

Donald A. Miller pleaded guilty in Circuit Court Monday to charges of conspiracy to commit robbery and simple assault in connection with the Jan. 7 robbery attempt at the Shay Lake Grocery.

Judge Martin E. Clements accepted the plea and scheduled sentencing Sept. 17. Personal recognizance bond of $10,000 was continued.

Miller, 19, of Clifford was the last of the three men charged in connection with the attempted armed robbery of the grocery in which the owner, Hattie Stephens, drove off the would-be robber when she pulled a revolver from her smock pocket and fired one shot over his head.

Two other Clifford men, Victor Radecki, 19, and Richard P. Johnson, 19, were sentenced to serve 2½-5 years and 18 months to five years respectively in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson in connection with the incident.

A jury found Radecki guilty April 25 of aiding and abetting an armed robbery.

Johnson was found guilty June 6 by a jury of attempted armed robbery.

The prosecutor moved to dismiss the original charge of armed robbery in exchange for his testimony in the two companion cases.

Also Monday, a prosecution motion to dismiss charges granted against Pamela Sue Eaton, 21, of Birch Run, was granted. She pleaded guilty to possession of LSD July 31, 1978.

The delayed sentencing was for one year and the charges were dismissed because Ms. Eaton complied with probation requirements during that time.

Anthony R. Grzeskowiak, 56, of 2283 Vassar Road, Vassar, was placed on one year probation for non-sufficient funds check under $50. He was also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and must pay restitution of $633 before June 11, 1980.

He pleaded guilty to the charge June 18, in connection with writing a bad check for $1,123 to Gagetown Oil and Gas Aug. 31, 1978.

Kevin W. Lawe, 17, of 2661 Barnes Road, Millington, pleaded guilty to attempted unlawfully taking away a motor vehicle without intent to steal.

His plea was accepted and bond continued, with sentencing scheduled Sept. 17.

He was charged with taking away a motorcycle belonging to Donald Kowitz June 27 in Watertown township.

Mark E. Schnetter, 18, of Davison, pleaded guilty to joy riding in connection with the same incident.

His plea was accepted and bond continued, with sentencing Sept. 17.

Cattlemen to meet Tuesday

Cattlemen in the Thumb area will meet Tuesday, Aug. 14, at 8 p.m., at Wildwood Farms Restaurant, M-53, Cass City, to discuss cattle feeding programs for the year ahead.

Dr. John Waller, extension beef specialist at Michigan State University, will talk about maximizing profits from the corn crop through beef cattle.

He will discuss the use of silage additives, including limestone, urea, anhydrous ammonia, and commercial products which are available.

Dr. Waller will also discuss least-cost rations in terms of how much corn and how much corn silage should be fed at various corn prices.

The meeting is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service in the Thumb area.

Special ed kids exhibit at fair

Forming their own 4-H club under the direction of Sanilac County 4-H Agent Danny Sandmann, a group of special education youngsters put on a display of their work at this year's Sanilac Fair.

Calling their club the Sanilac Super Stars, these youngsters made bird houses and small 4-H plaques.

Under the direction of Mrs. Wilford Miller, Debbie and Bruce Irland and Sandmann, the youngsters' projects showed the quality of construction and finish comparable to the projects in the regular 4-H woodworking groups.

Jim Blades of Cass City, owner and operator of Fire House No. 1, recently attended an all-day seminar-workshop on applied solar energy. The seminar was sponsored by StarPak Solar Systems of Novi.

Included was a visit to the Riverview (Mich.) Recreation Center where an old U.S. Army Nike base has been converted into a solar heated activity center.

The second stop was at a children's day camp to view a solar green house, hot water heating system and a pool heating system for a very large pool.

Blades' interest in solar was highlighted recently by his election as vice-president of the Tuscola County Energy Society.

Reunion held in Gagetown

The 11th annual Mosack-MacDonald-Everts family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Mildred Mosack in Gagetown July 28-29.

Mrs. Mosack was hospitalized at the time and was unable to attend the festivities but came home Monday morning, July 30, in time to say goodbye to some of the last ones to leave.

Those attending from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mosack Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Tony Mosack and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Mosack and son, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Urbancic, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mosack and family, and Bob Simmons, all from the Cleveland, Ohio, area.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mosack and family and Lee Osborne attended from Flint.

From Cass City were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kerbyson and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Beyerlein and sons from West Branch, and Kathy Kerbyson and Larry Douglas from Saginaw.

Mrs. Gail Mosack and family attended from Owendale.

From Detroit were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Everts and Mrs. Eileen Gentile, from Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. George Stucky and family, and Mrs. Elizabeth MacDonald and Mrs. Ralph Garlick attended from Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Mosack was able to spend some time with her five great-grandchildren, including two whom she had not seen before.

The usual family volleyball competition was held with Ohio soundly beating Michigan 4 games to 1. Ohio took home the traveling trophy award.

The 12th annual reunion will be held on the last week end in July, 1980.

Organic farm group to meet

The Thumb Area Chapter of the Organic Growers of Michigan will meet Thursday, Aug. 16, at 7 p.m. at the home of Ann and Nelson Davis, 1318 W. Brown Road, Mayville.

There will be a mini-tour and reports will be presented.

New books at the library

SPORTS CONDITIONING: GETTING IN SHAPE, PLAYING YOUR BEST, AND PREVENTING INJURIES, by Frank O'Neill (non-fiction). A complete guide to getting into peak physical condition for sports and for overall health. High school physical education is often geared to the "glamor" athletes, the boys on the football and basketball teams, for example. But fitness is equally important to girls, to members of intramural teams, and to non-athletes. These youngsters need to devise their own conditioning programs, and "Sports Conditioning" will tell them how. For the varsity player, there's information on supplementing team practices and warm-ups with a personal exercise regimen.

HITCHHIKING ON HOPE STREET, by Michael A. Warnke (non-fiction). Religious performer Mike Warnke, whose three albums have been bestsellers on the CBA contemporary charts, uses this book to affirm his belief in the healing power of humor by interweaving parables, autobiographical anecdotes, and "outreach" letters to troubled people around the country.

NURTURING SILENCE IN A NOISY HEART, by Wayne E. Oates (non-fiction). A sensitively written guide that tells contemporary Christians how to bring inner tranquility to their often frantic daily lives. Dr. Oates, author of "Workaholics" and "Make Laziness Work for You," identifies the silent selves that lie within all of us - unused talents and ideals we have lost track of - and helps us to speak to them again.

HEALTH TIPS

Bursitis brings pain in joints

By Frank Chappell,
American Medical Association

Sometimes it's "housemaid's knee." Or "police-man's heel."

By any other name it's still bursitis. It is one of mankind's more painful and disabling ailments.

Bursitis, says the American Medical Association, means inflammation of a lubricating sac about a joint.

The sac, called a bursa, is similar to a collapsed balloon with some fluid inside. It is located at various places in the body where joints or tissues touch and rub. Without cushioning there would be friction.

Bursitis can hit many points in the body, but most often occurs in the shoulder, elbow or knee.

In almost every case bursitis follows unaccustomed strain or overuse of a limb.

By taking a little time to warm up to your physical condition, and especially by training the muscles that you plan to use in any repetitive motion outside your normal activity (strengthening your wrist and arm before starting to paint the house, for instance) you can probably keep clear of this common and painful ailment.

If you get bursitis, no one need suggest that you see a doctor. The pain is so acute that you will be the first to seek relief.

There is much your doctor can do to relieve the pain and promote healing. One of the mainstays in treatment is a mild pain killer. Cortisone-type drugs have been used with some success. Heat treatments also have their place in bursitis therapy. In extreme cases, surgery may be required.

The basic treatment is complete rest in bed. Anything that will lessen the chance of the afflicted joint being moved will ease the pain and speed healing.

Like bearings in mechanical things, your bursa stay trouble-free much longer if you warm up slowly and let them get fully lubricated before you race the motor.

Striffler-Benkelman meet held

The 48th Striffler-Benkelman reunion was held Sunday at the Masonic Hall with a potluck dinner at noon.

There were 22 present. Mary Gardner read a poem, "Trust and Obey," as a memorial for the deceased during the past year.

Walter and Helen Jezewski were in charge.

Get well cards were sent to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Striffler and Ethel Buehrly.

It was voted to have the reunion next year at the home of Laura Lenzner at Bad Axe, the second Sunday of August.

Hunt on Navy cruise

Navy Gunner's Mate Seaman Kevin D. Hunt, son of Harriette I. Hunt of 4291 West Street, Cass City, is currently participating in exercise "Unitas XX" in the Southern Hemisphere.

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Dewey, homeported in Charleston, S.C.

This marks the 20th consecutive year for the series of combined U.S. and South American naval exercises called "Unitas."

Participating U.S. forces will circumnavigate South America and join with the navies of Venezuela, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, Peru, Ecuador and Colombia for the scheduled training.

Units will visit some 20 cities in eight different countries during the 4½-month deployment.

A 1976 graduate of Caro High School, Hunt joined the Navy in September of that year.

A reputation for honesty is an asset money cannot buy.

TRIP

Horace Field of Noorvik, Alaska and Bob Berridge returned home Wednesday morning from a six-day trip. They spent July 24 at Lima (Ohio) State Hospital where they visited one of Bob's former students when he worked at the hospital. They spent five days with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Campion at Bowie, Md. Mr. and Mrs. Campion took Bob and Horace on a tour of the Goddard Space Center where Campion is head of communications from ground to satellite.

Horace and Bob toured 10 museums and the White House and sat in on the Senate and House of Representatives sessions. When they toured the Capitol, Horace and Bob visited his (Alaska) Senator Ted Stevens. They also toured the Smithsonian Institute, Lincoln and Washington Monuments, Jefferson Memorial and saw a play at John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts starring Sandy Duncan.

En route home they spent Tuesday at Cedar Point at Sandusky, Ohio, where they rode the largest roller coaster and saw a movie on the world's largest screen which was seven feet high and half the width of a football field.

"Keep that great GM feeling with genuine GM parts"

SALES INCENTIVE ENDS AUGUST 15, 1979

Services held for Hila Hagen

Services were conducted Monday for Mrs. Hila E. Hagen, 55, Uby, who died unexpectedly Friday at her home.

She was born Sept. 9, 1923, in Greenleaf township, Saginaw county, daughter of Mrs. Rayford Thorpe, Uby, and the late Fred Wills.

She and Fred Hagen were married April 13, 1958, at Fraser Presbyterian church.

The couple have lived in Bingham township since their marriage.

Mrs. Hagen was a member of the United Presbyterian Women's Association of the First Presbyterian church, Uby.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Eric Hagen and Karl Hagen, both of Uby; her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Rayford Thorpe, Uby; one brother, Howard Wills, Bad Axe, and a step-sister, Mrs. Betsy Swiden, Vassar.

Services were conducted from Zinger Funeral home, Uby. Burial was in Valley cemetery near Uby.

Lori Ziehm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ziehm, returned home recently after spending a year in Brazil as a Rotary exchange student.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goodell attended the wedding of Mary Zolnierok and Blake Krieger at St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic church in Saginaw and the reception following at the Candellight in Bridgeport Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Koch and family attended the Errer reunion near Bad Axe Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Gerry Carolan, Mrs. Rose Ann Kruse of Florida

White mold likely in dry beans

Michigan dry beans may be vulnerable to white mold this year because heavy foliage growth is covering the area between the rows and recent rains and extended periods of high humidity provide an ideal environment for infection and disease development, according to Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel.

If white mold was present in the field in previous years, serious consideration should be given to protect the crop.

Spraying with Benomyl (1 1/2 lb. 50 percent wettable powders per acre) in the early bloom to mid-bloom stage of growth is recommended. "We suggest you use a sticker-spreader when applying the Benomyl," he said. A new product, "New Film 17," is available which serves as a sticker-spreader and extender and is recommended at the rate of 4 ounces per acre with the Benomyl.

spent Sunday with Mrs. Carolan's daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Conners, at her cottage in Caseville. Afternoon callers were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Comment, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Comment of Gagetown, Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Birch of Bay City and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Day of Detroit.

Mrs. Gerry Carolan, Mrs. Francis Goslin, Charlene and Marla attended a taped mass for seminarians with Craig Carolan at TV Channel 5 Sunday evening. It will be seen on Channel 5 at 9:30 a.m. next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Loomis, Becky and Kay, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weatherhead attended the wedding of Sue Weatherhead at Flint Saturday. Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Weatherhead of Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hendrick called on the Frank Weatherheads Sunday evening.

Mrs. Mabel Ondrajka and Mrs. Betty Koch of Unionville attended the funeral of Lydia Steele of Au Gres last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chet Forest of Detroit were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn Thursday through Saturday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat LaFave of Caro and Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn had dinner at the Charmont Sunday.

REUNION

All seven children of Mrs. Regino (Tillie) Lopez of Gagetown were present last Thursday for a family gathering.

Present were cousins Nico Elizard and grandson Alonzo, Los Angeles, Calif.; Regino Lopez, Long Beach, Calif.; Venny Lopez and daughter Liza Lopez, Louisville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chisholm and family, Caro; Paul Richard, Millington; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lopez and daughter, Lapeer; Frank and Matt Venitez, brothers of Mrs. Lopez, Gagetown; Anita Venitez and children of Elkton, and Judy Lopez and family.

Concert in Kingston

"Found Free," a Christian musical group from Philadelphia, will be performing in Kingston area Sunday. "Found Free" will be performing an outdoor concert at the Kingston Wesleyan church on Washington Street beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The concert is being sponsored by the Kingston Ministerial Association, which includes Pastor Lowell Davis of the Wesleyan church, Rev. Gilson Miller of the Kingston United Methodist church and Father William O'Shea of St. Michael Catholic church.

Concert goers should bring their own blankets or lawn chairs. In case of rain, the performance will be held inside the church.

Laurie to head policy committee

The process of developing policies which will guide the state's largest farm organization in its activities during the coming year is underway. Elton R. Smith, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, has announced the appointment of 20 farmers to serve on the organization's state policy development committee. Jack Laurie, of Dodge Road, Cass City, dairy farmer and vice-president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, will serve as chairman.

Members of the policy development committee are charged with the responsibility of studying and correlating all recommendations submitted by the state's 69 county Farm Bureau units.

They will meet with experts in various areas to gain background knowledge on the policy recommendations, then compile the proposals and present them to voting delegates at the Michigan Farm Bureau annual meeting, Nov. 27-30 in Kalamazoo.

Recommendations adopted by the delegates which have to do with state affairs become the policies of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Those involving national affairs are forwarded to the American Farm Bureau Federation, where they go through the same process. Voting delegates from 49 states and Puerto Rico will take action on these policy recommendations in January, 1980, in Phoenix, Ariz.

Recommendations adopted at county Farm Bureau annual meetings, held throughout the state during September and October, which deal with local issues, become the policies of the county units.

Owen-Gage retirees plan trip

Fellowship, bingo and euchre were enjoyed by 36 members of the Owen-Gage Senior Citizens and two guests, Ann Klokulak and Dorothy Heckman, Aug. 2 in the Gagetown Municipal Building.

Coffee and cookies were served. Betty McCracken took blood pressure readings. Door prizes were won by Grace Clara and Ed Good. Elta Webster was sent a get well card.

Birthday greetings were sung to Arnold MacCallum, Lorraine Donnelly, Elma Miklovich, Mike Pisarek, Roland Gettel, Celia Smith and Pearl Albrecht.

Instead of the usual potluck lunch Aug. 16, the club will go to the Crossroads Village near Flint. Each member will bring their own bag lunch.

The bus will pick up the first group at 8:30 a.m. at the Owendale Community Building then proceed to pick up others at the Gagetown Municipal Building.

Mrs. Ardie McIntyre dies at 63

Ardie J. (Buik) McIntyre of 7832 W. Saginaw Road, Vassar, died Thursday, Aug. 2, at Saginaw General Hospital following a prolonged illness. She was 63.

Mrs. McIntyre was born Oct. 23, 1915 in Detroit. She married Donald C. McIntyre Sept. 12, 1945 in Imlay City. They had been residents of Vassar for 15 years. Previously, they lived in Columbiaville.

She is survived by her husband, Donald; her mother, Mrs. Burnice Williamson of Imlay City; one sister, Mrs. Dare Bryant of Belding; two brothers, G.W. Buik of Plymouth and Douglas Buik of Imlay City, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday, Aug. 4, at the Atkins Funeral Home in Vassar, with the Rev. Clare Patten officiating. Burial followed at Elkland township cemetery, Cass City.

MUST DELIVER

Self-confidence is a good trait, but always be in a position to back it up.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuscola county voters overwhelmingly said "no" to antlerless deer hunting on the advisory ballot placed there by the County Board of Commissioners. Countywide, the vote went 518 yes and 3,241 no. Elkland township voters said no by a 169-32 margin. The results were similar in every township but Wells, where election canvassers reported an 83-14 yes vote margin.

With the release of its second quarter report July 31, Walbro Corp. sent its stockholders of record June 28, 1974, checks representing semi-annual cash dividends of 9 cents per share on Walbro common stock. 1974 net sales to date were up 18 percent over the first half of 1973.

Sixty-three were present Saturday evening at Wildwood Farms for a reunion of the Cass City High School class of 1958. Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ackerman were special guests at the dinner.

Gagetown Village Council reaffirmed its intention at its regular meeting to resurface as many streets as possible. Council voted to transfer 25 percent of its major street money to local streets. Village President Lawrence Cummings was instructed to contact construction firms for bids on sealcoating as many streets as possible.

Who says neighborliness is dead? Just ask the Virgil Geister family of rural Decker. Efforts by neighbors, along with the Lamotte and Elkland Township Fire Departments, saved the Geisters' 60-by-100-foot barn Wednesday from being destroyed by fire.

Don't look for extensive changes in the basketball program at Cass City High School when the season opens this winter under new head coach Ron Nurnberger. The youthful head mentor was in town this week to conduct "get acquainted" practices for three days with cage candidates in the top four grades.

TEN YEARS AGO

The last hope for persons in the Cass City School District who were in favor of increasing taxes for a full school curriculum went glimmering Monday by the slim margin of 12 votes. A total of 1,263 votes were cast. The vote went 636 no and 624 yes.

Supervisory personnel at Cass City Schools were granted raises for the 1969-70 school year ranging from slightly over 7 percent for the superintendent to slightly over 10 percent for principals at two of the grade schools.

Tuscola County Supervisors are sending invitations this week to Huron and Sanilac sheriff's department, asking them to participate in assessing tri-county law enforcement needs.

Cass City schools list only two vacancies on its staff for the 1969-70 school year, but a shortage of industrial arts teachers has forced a change in the curriculum. John Bifoss, who last spring vowed that he was going to continue in the coaching ranks after he lost the head coaching job here, has kept his promise to himself. Bifoss will coach next year at Houghton Lake.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Michael Yedinak Jr. has been signed to coach the Cass City High School football team for the 1954 season, Supt. Willis Campbell announced last week.

An announcement was made this week of the sale of Bad Axe Farm Equipment to William Spencer of Cass City, who had been a pilot for International Division of Philippine Air Lines in Manila until he resigned earlier this year.

Legion Auxiliary Officers for the coming year are: Mrs. William Anker, president; Mrs. Clement Tyo, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Alward, secretary; Mrs. William McKinley, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Holm, sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. and Mrs. John Keller of Wickware will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary next week. They have three sons, Carl and Frank, at home and Pvt.

Hobart on dean's list

Ann Hobart has been named to the dean's list at Kalamazoo College for the spring quarter.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hobart of 2558 Hobart Road, Gagetown.

To be named to the list, students needed a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

golden wedding anniversary. The marriage of Dr. I.A. Fritz and Miss Grace Phelan took place in Cass City, Aug. 9, 1894.

Always remember that needless anger is a killer of men.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the resolution of the Village Council dated June 26, 1979, notice is hereby given that a petition from the Village Council for the enlargement of the Village of Cass City Village limits will be presented to the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners at their regular meeting on Tuesday, August 14, 1979, at 2:00 o'clock p.m. at the Commissioners Room of the Tuscola County Court House in Caro, Michigan. Any persons interested in said petition or who wish to object thereto, may appear before the Board of Commissioners at that time. The description of the property proposed to be annexed to the Village is as follows:

Lot #10 of A. H. Ale's Addition to the Village of Cass City, Tuscola County, Michigan.

Your Neighbor says

I'd go back to Texas and Calif.

If you had the chance to go anywhere in the world for one week where would you go?

Thelma Pratt would want to go back and see family members in Texas and California.

"I went out west earlier this year to see my son in Texas and my two daughters in California," she said. "And I'd sure like to go back."

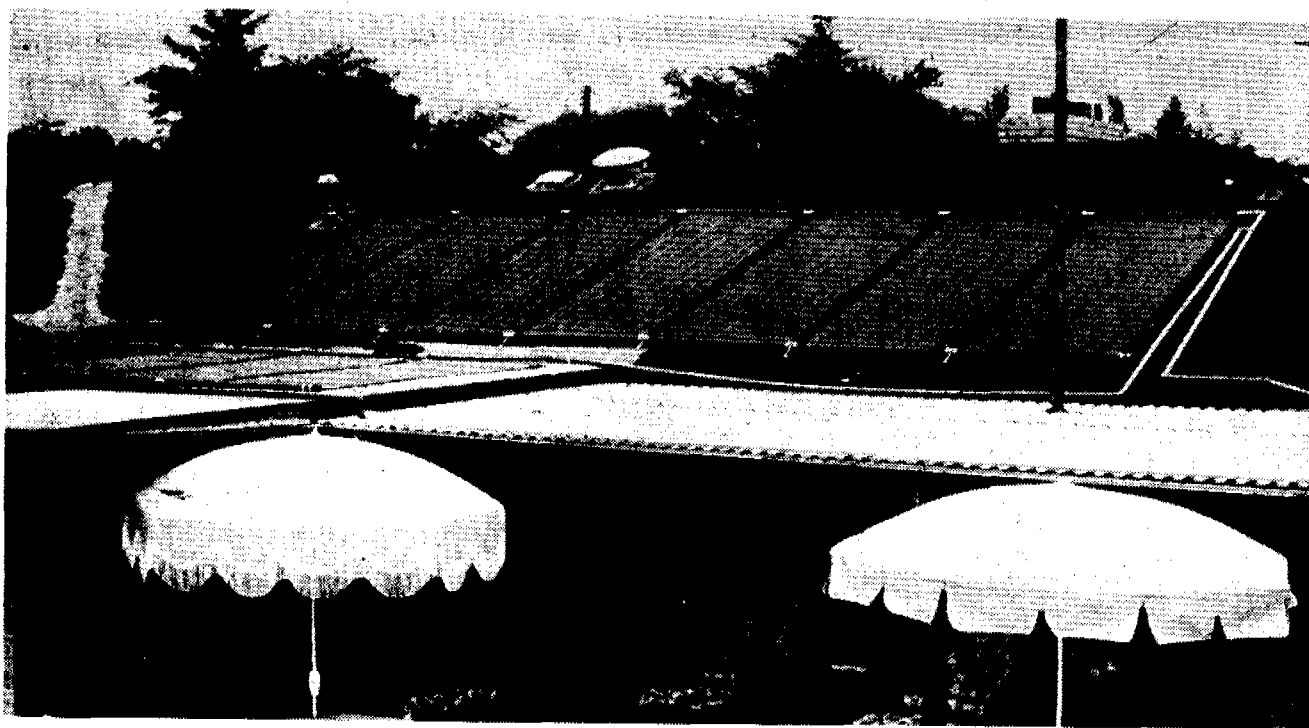

Mrs. Pratt visited her son Marvin in Willis, Texas, and her two daughters, Mrs. Elaine Scamon and Mrs. Velma Simpson, both of Riverside, Calif.

"I would certainly enjoy the weather there because I did the last time I went. It's such a beautiful part of the country in those two states."

But, Mrs. Pratt said, even though it would be good to spend a week's vacation out west, she would not want to live there.

"I would only do that if I could take all my friends in Cass City with me. I couldn't do without them."

Mrs. Pratt is a widow and lives at 4123 S. Seeger Street. She is retired and was once the owner-operator of Thelma's Grocery for several years until 1974. That is now M & R Grocery.

UP ON THE ROOF are the 11 solar panels that heat the swimming pool of Dick and Chris Erla. (Four of them are on the flatter surface at left.) The heat-absorbing dark shingles and closeness to the pool were ideal for the roof mounting, but the panels can be installed at ground level.

Solar energy keeps Erla pool warm at less cost

If Dick and Chris Erla had a piano close to their swimming pool, the appropriate song to play would be, "Let the Sun Shine In."

Or maybe, "Sunshine On My Shoulder."

Since late June, the Erlas have been heating their 22-by-44-foot kidney shaped pool with solar energy.

The pool behind their Huron Street home has been there 12 years. Until the sun-powered heating system was installed, it was being heated with natural gas. Last summer, their gas bill was running about $100 a month.

The system, installed by a Saginaw firm, in one day, consists of 11 4-by-10-foot rubber solar panels on the roof of the house. Small tubing runs back and forth through each panel.

Water from the pool is pumped onto the roof where it runs through the tubing in each of the 11 panels. It then goes through the pool filter and back into the pool.

The pump used is the same one needed to circulate water through the filter and conventional heating system. The one the Erlas were using was 12 years old so he decided that installation of the new heating system was an opportune time to install a new one. It wasn't necessary that he do so, however.

With probably 35,000 gallons of water in the pool, Erla figures the water gets recirculated three times a day.

Not only has the solar system eliminated gas bills, it has also halved use of electricity to run the pump.

With the gas heater, it was necessary to keep it running around the clock.

With the sun providing the heat, it isn't necessary to keep the system going full-time.

The sun doesn't shine around the clock, of course, and some days it doesn't shine at all, but the system still generates some heat. Even after a couple of gloomy days, the water is still comfortable.

The Erlas normally use their pool from Memorial Day through Labor Day, but if they want to, he figures they can add a month to each end of the season with little additional cost.

He prefers not to say how much he paid for the system, but figures in terms of the natural gas and electricity he isn't using, he will get his investment back in five years.

An added bonus is that under a recent change in federal income tax laws, he will be eligible for a partial tax deduction by using the energy saving device.

For most pools, he estimated the cost would be about $2,000.

If the Erla home had a hot water heating system, it would be possible to tie the solar panels into the system to furnish some of the heat. They could also be used to heat water, though Erla isn't planning to do so.

In addition to eventually saving money, Erla also figures he is doing a small part in conserving our nation's energy supplies. "If everyone did something, in the long run it would do a lot."

Erla likes his water warm. Controls for the water heater are set so the temperature of the water won't exceed 90 degrees. (The circulating water automatically bypasses the solar panels to prevent that from happening, but continues to go through the filter.) The temperature can be set lower.

It's not necessary to have a pool heater, of course, but by swimming standards, the water would be very cold, probably never more than 74-75 degrees in Michigan, according to Erla, without a heater.

"A pool without a heater in Michigan is worthless unless you like ice cold water," he commented.

Johnson was advanced to lieutenant in 1973 and assigned to command the new post being established that year at Caro. In 1975 he served briefly as commander of the Pontiac post, then he was returned to Caro where his rank was reallocated in 1977 to lieutenant V.

His department credits include a citation for meritorious service. This was for his part in State Police efforts toward controlling and ending the Jackson prison riot in 1952 and included his involvement in escort duty for a deputy warden in an area where there were hostile inmates.

Johnson was born at Iron Mountain where he graduated from high school. Beginning in 1945, he served in the U.S. Navy for 36 months, including 24 months on duty overseas. His college training included a year at Sacramento (Calif.) Junior College and a year and a half at Northern Michigan University at Marquette.

He has a son and three daughters by marriage.

Starting Aug. 19, the commander of the Caro post will be Lt. Kenneth Maciejewski, presently the post commander in L'Anse in the Upper Peninsula. Sgt. Arnold Block will serve the two-week interim as the Caro post acting commander.

Johnson enlisted in the State Police in July, 1951, serving at the Flint, Sandusky and Bridgeport posts.

In 1965, he was promoted to corporal and transferred to Calumet, then was assigned the next year to the St. Clair post where his rank was reallocated in 1971 to sergeant.

Lt. Johnson retires in Caro

State Police Lt. Ward F. Johnson, 52, commander of the Caro post, retired Friday after serving more than 28 years.

He will be moving to Monroe where he will be working in security for the Detroit Edison Co., which has a power plant there and another one under construction.

Frank Murphy Museum and Birthplace

Museum honors former governor

When members of the fledgling United Auto Workers conducted sit-down strikes in auto plants in 1937, the governor of Michigan, Frank Murphy, refused to send troops to evict them.

As an associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, Murphy wrote many of the court's opinions concerning civil rights. In one, he upheld labor's right to strike, holding that peaceful picketing was a form of freedom of speech.

It is said that he developed his sympathy for the working man while in college when he worked summers for the Huron Milling Co. in his home town of Harbor Beach for $1.75 a day. There he saw fathers of large families trying to support them on the same wage.

Frank Murphy died in 1949, but his memory lives on in his home town on the east side of Huron county. His birthplace now serves as a museum, filled with news clippings, photographs and memorabilia describing his life.

The building and furnishings also gave an idea of what life was like in the early 1890s when John and Mary Murphy moved from Detroit to Harbor Beach.

Murphy was an attorney and he established his office in an already existing building. Living quarters were in the rear.

It is that building that is now the museum, located on S. Huron Street, (M-25) on the south edge of downtown.

It was there that Mrs. Murphy gave birth to four children, Frank, George, Harold and Marguerite.

When the children were still small, their father bought the large home two doors south, built for a lumber baron and manufacturer. George later bought the small house in-between.

FRANK WAS BORN IN 1890. He and George, born in 1897, both became lawyers, getting their law degrees from the University of Michigan. Each began practice with their father.

Frank Murphy

Frank, who received his law degree in 1914, was an Army officer in World War I and served in Germany. He further studied law in London and Ireland after the war, then from 1920-23 was an assistant U.S. district attorney for eastern Michigan.

He served as a recorder's court judge in Detroit (equivalent of circuit court) from 1923-30. From 1922-27, he was also a law instructor at the University of Detroit.

The 1930s were extremely varied for Frank Murphy.

He was mayor of Detroit from 1930-33, then was appointed governor general of the Philippines. After it attained commonwealth status, he became U.S. high commissioner. He served there from 1933-36.

HE RETURNED TO Michigan to run for governor and despite it being a Republican state, the Harbor Beach Democrat was elected.

He was to serve only two years, in 1937-38. His refusal to send in troops to evict the strikers from the auto plants didn't go over too well in a conservative Republican state and he was defeated in his bid for reelection -- by the man he defeated two years earlier.

But there was a Democrat in the White House and President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed him attorney general of the United States.

He held that job for only two years, because in 1940, Roosevelt named him to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Murphy was still a member of the nation's highest court when he died of a heart attack in Detroit in July, 1949. He is buried in the family cemetery plot south of Harbor Beach.

Murphy never married.

His father died in the early 1920s and his father's office was closed until 1960, when the Harbor Beach Chamber of Commerce opened it as a museum honoring Frank Murphy.

It was only open a few years, however.

THAT'S WHERE HAROLD RICHARDS enters the picture. The Harbor Beach resident and one time auto worker and United Auto Workers officer kept after the UAW higher-ups and finally persuaded them to provide a subsidy to open the museum. "He did a lot for labor," Richards said of Murphy.

The UAW provided $5,000, plus $1,000 a year for 10 years. The subsidy has two years to go after this year.

That money, plus donations from visitors and federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds, which pays the salary of the guide during the summer months, is all that the museum has to operate with.

The museum has never been a big tourist attraction.

There were only 841 visitors last year, according to Richards, and the most there ever were was a little over a thousand.

The museum, operated by the Huron County Historical Society, is owned by Brigid Murphy, George's widow, who lives in the house next door with her daughter Frances. Her husband had been a Detroit recorder's court judge 25 years at the time of his death in 1961.

She also owns the large home on the other side, which John Murphy bought around the turn of the century. Not open to the public, it is used for family visitors in the summer but closed in the winter to avoid high heating bills.

The Frank Murphy Museum and Birthplace is open in June, July and August from 11 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, and on Sundays from 11 a.m.-4:30 p.m. It is open Mondays and the rest of the year by appointment by calling Harold Richards at 479-9434.

INSIDE the Frank Murphy Museum, the walls are covered with photographs marking the career of the one time Michigan governor, Detroit mayor and U.S. Supreme Court Justice. Looking them over is Harold Richards, who has charge of the museum. Richards is the father of Don Richards of Cass City, director of the Regional Educational Media Center.

THE FRANK MURPHY MUSEUM in Harbor Beach looks little different than when the late Michigan political leader was born there in 1890. Located on S. Huron Street downtown, it is open daily in June, July and August; by appointment the rest of the year.

Gambles Store owners

Papps are veterans
in retail business

Editor's note: this is one of a series sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce about community boosters who are members of the organization.

The Mike Papps are fairly recent owners of Gambles Store in Cass City but are veterans in the retail business at the corner of Main and Seeger Streets.

The couple purchased the store in August of 1978 and have been at the helm for a year. But prior to becoming owners Mike Papp worked in the store for Lloyd Bryant for 8 years.

Immediately after taking control the couple started remodeling. A new front, new counters and shelving and a refinished floor were quickly completed.

Next came the expansion of the store inventory. The Papps are turning the store into a complete lawn and garden center, specializing in the repair of lawn and garden power equipment.

Mike and his wife, LeAnn, attended the Gambles management-training program in Minneapolis before taking over the store.

Besides the usual supply of hardware the store also offers a full line of major appliances.

The Papps have two children, Jason, 3, and an infant daughter, Rebecca.

Myers heads program

County program looks into child support

Taxpayers didn't have to pay $420,000 in 1978 to aid Tuscola county children who had a parent trying to get away with not paying child support.

That was the amount collected by the county Cooperative Reimbursement Program from the would-be welching parents.

The program is headed by Assistant Prosecutor David Myers, who said there are currently 600 cases pending in his office concerning child support.

"We average 12 new actions initiated per week," he commented. "Due to this heavy caseload and lack of staff, we remain consistently behind in both actions to secure support and in collection of previous support orders."

The Cooperative Reimbursement Program was established in 1969 under federal and state law. Tuscola county started its program in 1976. The program has two aims, according to Myers.

"They are to legitimate children born out of wedlock and to secure child support for children from absent parents or other legally obligated persons."

The process is started by a separated or divorced parent with custody of children seeking child support from the other parent in one of three ways, Myers said.

"They can either come into the prosecutor's office on their own, be referred from the Social Services office . . . or petition for support from another state under the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act (URESA)."

Myers said that "more than 90 percent" of the persons initiating the support are females, usually a mother who is on welfare.

Once the process is underway, the prosecutor's office then locates the defendant parent and acquires an order for support, either through court action or an out-of-court agreement.

"It usually takes four to six weeks for my investigator to find the defendant and serve him the order," Myers said.

After the support order is entered by the Circuit Court, the Friend of the Court, Geraldine Wilson, records the order and her office enforces payment. (See sidebar story).

When an order for support is entered and the parent is receiving ADC, the money paid by the defendant parent goes directly to the state for reimbursement while the initiating parent remains on ADC. The previously mentioned $420,000 was secured for the state last year.

Myers explained that Michigan has an incentive program in which 15 percent of the amount collected for support in ADC cases is refunded to the county to be used as incentive to further develop the Cooperative Reimbursement Program.

"In 1978 Tuscola county was refunded $63,671 by the state of Michigan for Cooperative Reimbursement collections," he said. "And last year the county only spent $6,828 on the program."

The salaries of the workers in the Cooperative Reimbursement Office, the assistant prosecutor in charge, investigator, clerk-typist, and secretary and an investigator from the Friend of the Court's office, are paid by the state. The county leases a few of the office machines and receives partial reimbursement from the state for use of office space in the courthouse.

The program started in Tuscola county in 1976 under Chief Assistant Prosecutor Scott Stermer and has experienced a rising increase annually in the number of support orders secured, money collected and incentive paid to the county.

"Based on our current records, increases will continue this year as well," Myers said.

The assistant prosecutor started working as head of the program in April and considers the goals to be the following:

- To legitimate all illegitimate children in the county.
- To secure support for all unsupported children.
- To enforce the idea of parental obligations for support in court and in principle.

- To help keep Tuscola county off the invisible list of Michigan counties known as "welfare havens."

"About 80 percent of my job is working directly through the cooperative reimbursement program,"

Myers said. "My favorite part of work is going to court and fighting."

He credits much of the success of the program to the efforts of his investigator Bernard Lenda and clerk-typist Karen Izydorek.

"Their experience and dedication to the program are really what makes all of this possible," Myers said. "Without their efforts the work would never get completed."

Investigator seeks to help out children

Tracking down parents who fail to pay child support may not seem like a job that would be very popular, but Friend of the Court Investigator Bill Coruthers believes his work is helping those hurt most when families break up.

"The kids are the ones who need the help," the 38-year-old deputized investigator said. "The money received for child support helps pay for the clothes, utilities, education and other costs most children have. But it's hardly enough."

Child support is determined by a percentage of the defendant's net pay (defined as gross pay less taxes and social security) and then divided by the number of children up to age 18.

One child receives 20 percent, two children 33 1/3 percent, three children 40 percent, four children 45 percent and five or more 50 percent.

"Someone who is making $200 a week is only paying $30 after taxes and that can only count for a portion of the child's expenses," Coruthers said.

Last year the Friend of the Court secured over $1.4 million from persons paying child support and $120,000 in June of this year.

"Usually 65 percent of our people who pay do so on a regular basis," Coruthers said. "But I have over 70 warrants out towards those who don't pay."

The Friend of the Court office has over 1,200 people on file paying child support and the number of new cases increases weekly.

"We've had 14 new cases in the last two weeks while we closed out only one during that time," the investigator said. The office staff handles problems in child support and visitation rights, not alimony or medical matters.

The common procedure for the Friend of the Court is to mail the defendant an interview form and a letter and have the completed form returned so that he or she can be scheduled for an appointment.

"Our job is to make recommendations to the court and so we must have the opportunity to hear from both sides," Coruthers said. If the person is not reached after some attempt, a bench warrant is ordered and that's when Coruthers begins investigating.

He sends for postal information, talks to relatives, friends and school officials and traces back the person's work history. The investigator said he stands by one rule concerning his job: any information you get, write it down. "I have a drawer filled with short notes I take."

Coruthers believes he does more investigating than anything else. He has personally arrested 12 people since Jan. 1, but has never pulled the gun from the holster on his waist.

"I've used my handcuffs every time I'm transporting someone in the car. It's not that I don't trust them, but a safety precaution I like to take."

Coruthers took the job Aug. 25, 1978 after spending 20 years in the Navy. Before he was accepted, he had to spend eight weeks in the police academy "with guys half my age."

"It was physically tough but a very good learning experience as well. I learned more about the court and judicial system in those eight weeks than I knew in my lifetime."

Even though the Friend of the Court office contacts thousands of people yearly, Coruthers believes in handling each case individually and carefully.

"We try not to treat people like file numbers but deal with them as individuals. If there are any family hassles we don't take sides."

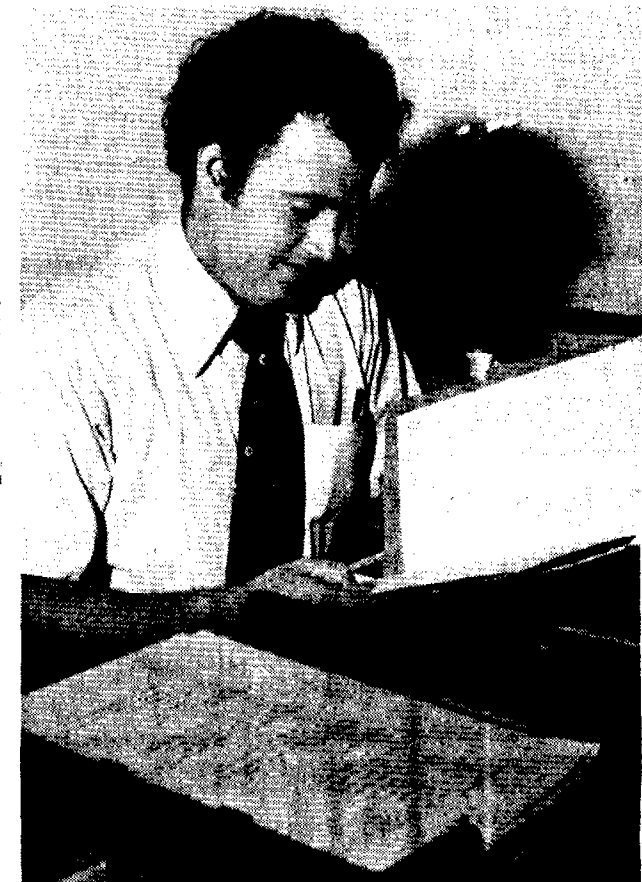

The mediator who listens to parents about their children is the Friend of the Court, Geraldine Wilson.

The hardest part of his job, Coruthers said, is being a listener and talking with adults to get the most help to the children.

"It's a full-time job and not one that I leave my work at the office at 5 p.m. I'm on duty 24 hours a day and occasionally I get calls to transport persons from one jail to another at all hours of the night."

Coruthers believes the personal reward in his job is knowing he is helping to get needed money to children of broken families.

"Without that satisfaction this job would be a lot harder to take."

ASSISTANT PROSECUTOR in charge of the Cooperative Reimbursement Program is David G. Myers who has been the head of the program since last April.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A Burton youth and his passenger escaped injury when the van in which they were riding went off the side of the road and ended in a ditch Sunday morning at 1:40.

The driver, Kevin A. Smith, 16, told deputies he thought he fell asleep at the wheel and the next thing he knew, he was in the ditch.

The vehicle was eastbound on Gerou Road, east of M-81, when it left the roadway and ended in a ditch on the north side.

Susan Finkbeiner, 17, of 4137 Maple Street, was eastbound on M-46, northeast of Vassar, according to Caro state police, when her car struck a deer. The mishap occurred at 10 p.m. Saturday.

involved the propriety of the county board's actions in allocating the taxes to Cass City and in Royce Russell's participating in the vote.

The separate suit filed at the same time to recover the $200,000 in taxes and punitive damages remains, the outcome depending on the appeals court ruling.

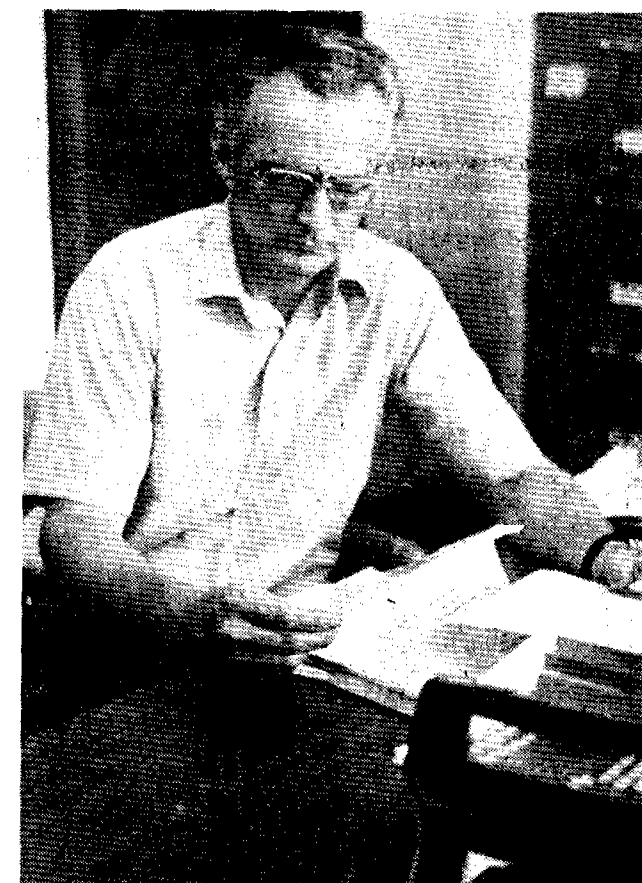

In issuing his ruling Monday, Clements took under advisement a motion filed in behalf of Elmwood township, a defendant in the latter suit, asking that it, in essence, be dismissed as a defendant.

Top steer and hog get record prices at livestock auction

Apparent record prices paid for the grand champion steer and hog highlighted the annual 4-H and Future Farmers of America livestock auction last Thursday at the Tuscola County Fair.

The grand champion, 1,175-pound Limousin steer of Eric Stoll of the May-King 4-H Club was purchased by the Mayville State Bank for $2.70 a pound.

Auctioneer Boyd Tait said that was the highest price he could remember since he has been one of the auctioneers at the sale, starting in the early 1960s.

The $2.70 compared to only $1 a pound paid last year for the grand champion and 90 cents paid in 1977. The market price last Thursday was 57-60 cents a pound.

The reserve champion Simmental crossbreed steer of Tim Ruggles of the May-

King club was sold for $2.15 for each of its 1,230 pounds to Kingston Farm Service.

Other top steers and the price they sold for were: Darwin Hecht, Richville 4-H Livestock Club, champion Holstein, 91 cents a pound to Weber Lumber, Richville; Dennis Walker, May-King, beginner showmanship, $1.04 a pound to Kingston State Bank; Mary Bauer, Richville Livestock, junior showmanship, 86 cents a pound, to Tuscola County Farm Bureau, and Greg Daily, May-King, senior showmanship, $1 a pound to Mayville State Bank.

SWINE

Jim Cooklin of the CCM&D

4-H Club had the grand champion hog, a 216-pound Hampshire-Duroc crossbreed, which was purchased by Blount Agriculture of Gagetown for $3.60 a pound, also believed to be a record. The 1978 grand champion sold for $3.05 a pound; the 1977 one, $2.85. The market price last Thursday was 36 cents.

Jim, 14, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooklin of Dodge Road, Cass City.

David Palmreuter of Richville Livestock had the reserve champion, which made up half of the grand champion pen.

Wickes Agriculture of Vassar bought the reserve champion, 240 pounds, for $1.80 per pound. The other half of the pen, 239 pounds, was sold to Frankenthuth Bank and Trust, Richville branch, for $1.70.

Wendy Graham of the Dayton-Clover 4-H Club had the reserve champion pen. One sold for $1.20 per pound to Wayne Feeds of Mayville. The other went for 90 cents a pound to Ducker-Tomlinson, Mayville.

MARKET LAMBS

Randy Severance of the Cass City High School FFA scored a grand slam with the grand champion individual and the grand champion pen.

Randy, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severance of 6331 Severance Road, Decker.

His grand champion Suffolk individual, 120 pounds, was purchased by Gettel Motors of Sebawaing for $2.55 a pound.

That compares to $3.60 his brother, Dean, received for the grand champion last year, and $3 paid the year before.

The Cass City branch of Thumb National Bank and Trust was purchaser of one of Randy's grand champion pen, 106 pounds, for $1.55 per pound. Wickes Big Acre bought the other one, 105 pounds, for $1.45.

Scott Hutchinson, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hutchinson of Spencer Road, Cass City, and a member of the Cass City 4-H Livestock Club, had the reserve champion individual lamb, a 140-pound Suffolk. Caro Building Supply bought it for $1.40 a pound.

Kristi Garner of the Vassar Trail Blazers 4-H Club repeated last year with the reserve champion pen. The 120-pounder sold for $1.45 to Bavarian Inn of Frankenthuth. The Tuscola and Saginaw Bay Railroad bought the other one, 110 pounds, also for $1.45.

The market price for sheep last Thursday was 55 cents a pound.

In addition to the 41 market lambs, 23 market beef and 91 swine which were sold, 11 rabbits also went on the auction block, the first time the latter have been sold. The auction ran about four hours.

EYE TO EYE -- Checking out the sheep at the Tuscola County Fair last Thursday was 2½-year-old Matthew Putnam, son of William and Rose Putnam of Little Road, Cass City.

AN ELATED Lori Ewald received her crown as Tuscola County Bean Queen last Thursday night at the fair from Congressman Bob Praxler. Waiting to tie on her banner is last year's queen, Mary Kay Gruber, who later became Michigan Bean Queen. Lori, 21, was selected from 11 candidates by a three-judge panel. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Ewald of Unionville, she will be a senior this fall in marketing at Michigan State University. She was sponsored by the Friendly Farmers Farm Bureau group.

Novesta opposes additional subsidy

In an advisory vote, the Novesta Township Board Monday night voted against appropriating an additional 25 cents per resident subsidy for the Cass City Area Ambulance Service.

The township's representative on the ambulance board, Lucille Stine, recommended voting against the added subsidy as she felt the operators of the ambulance service aren't collecting fees rapidly enough from those who use the ambulance.

The possibility of requesting an added subsidy from the four townships which support the service has been discussed by the ambulance board in July, Jack McDaniel told the Chronicle, but they have not been asked to do so.

The ambulance service operator did say that there is a problem in getting some people to pay the money they owe.

The ambulance board met Tuesday night. Its president, Eikland Township Supervisor Jack Gallagher, said it was determined there are enough funds so that no added subsidy is needed now.

At the request of a school bus driver, the township board will check into whose responsibility it is to cut brush at railroad crossings.

It was reported that county Road Commission crews were graveling Knoblet and Tuckey Roads Monday, which the township is paying for.

The board gave its okay to granting of Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act agreements for property owned by Jack Kappen, Gordon Holcomb and Eugene Otulakowski.

Because the regular meeting date next month falls on Labor Day, the board will meet instead Sept. 10.

Ex-school counselor dies in Kentucky

Mrs. Joyce Vickers of Elizabethtown, Ky., was killed Monday night in an auto accident in Kentucky. She was a former resident of Cass City and was a counselor at the Intermediate School.

Funeral services are scheduled Thursday in Elizabethtown. Among the survivors are her husband, Bruce, and two daughters.

Gagetown hires new policeman

The Gagetown Village Council Monday evening hired a new policeman, James Compo.

He will be continuing his present job as a Tuscola County Sheriff's deputy and will be working in Gagetown during his off-hours, usually for 30 hours a week.

The last policeman hired in Gagetown worked there little more than a month in May and June. He quit for a better paying full-time police job in Bad Axe.

The council approved purchase of 50 remote water registers for about $35 each from Badger Meter, Inc. of Milwaukee.

The registers will be connected to present water meters but can be read from outside. They will be installed in those buildings where the present meters are hardest to get to, read, Clerk Elery Sontag said, such as in crawl spaces and close to basement ceilings.

There are 164 buildings in Gagetown, so the council might buy more meter registers in the future.

Appointed to serve on the Gagetown Economic Development Corp. board of directors were: Leroy Stapleton, Richard Carroll, Mary Downing and Mary O'Rourke, all one-year terms; Fred Sullivan, two years; George Wilson, three years; Richard Ziehm, four years; Amasa Anthes, five years, and Eugene Com-

Crawfords hold annual reunion

The Clayton Crawford family reunion was held at the Cass City park Sunday with 51 members and three guests present.

Arthur Crawford of Pontiac was the oldest. Kristy McClorey, daughter of Dan and Mary McClorey of Cass City, was the youngest present.

There was one death in the past year. A cousin, Addie Ulbrich from Caro, died in March. There was one birth. A daughter, Jamie Lynn, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tom (Sharla) Crow.

Members attended from Detroit, Dearborn Heights, Troy, Dryden, Pontiac, Argyle, Caro, Cass City and Deford.

The 1980 reunion will be held the first Sunday of August at the same place.

Attendance drops at Tuscola County Fair

Attendance at this year's Tuscola County Fair, which ended Saturday, was down from last year.

There were 17,223 who came through the gates with general admission tickets and 459 who purchased passes good for the week.

That compares with 19,133 general admission tickets sold last year and 465 weekly passes.

Fair board president and fair manager Walt Jackson attributed the downturn partly to the weather.

It rained about 10 p.m. Wednesday night, too late to hurt attendance, though it did hurt the fair's revenue from a percentage of mid-way ride receipts, and it rained for a while starting about 6 p.m. Saturday, which did hurt attendance.

Jackson pointed out that last year was a better than average year, with paid admissions not too far below the all-time mark of 19,195.

In comparison, this year's attendance was "normal."

Grandstand attendance was down about a thousand from last year's total of more than 11,000.

The rain Saturday night was one contributing factor. Practice for the motorcycle reserves was supposed to start at 6 with the races at 7:30. The track wasn't dry enough to use until about 8:30, when tickets went on sale, but by then there weren't as many spectators as there otherwise might have been.

Loss of seating capacity due to the June 18 fire which destroyed the grandstand was another big factor.

The grandstands which burned and bleachers in front had a total seating capacity of about 3,500. The replacements seated about 2,200.

The Thursday night tractor pull and Friday night demolition derby drew standing room only crowds and probably more tickets could have been sold if would-be spectators could have had a place to sit down.

Jackson said the fair board is planning a fund raising campaign over the next two years to finance a covered-over grandstand to be in place for the 100th annual fair in 1981.

A big plus at the fair was the Thursday afternoon livestock sale, "probably the biggest we ever had," according to the fair manager. (See story elsewhere in this issue.)

It will be a while yet before the fair board knows how it did financially. With attendance down, revenue will no doubt be down, but all in all, the fair manager summarized, "We're not going to be hurting too bad."

Blue ribbon winners from Cass City area 4-H clubs at the fair were as follows:

DOUBLE WINNER -- Randy Severance, 16, (center), holds his grand champion market lamb. He also had the grand champion pen of lambs, with the one at left held by Scott Vatter; the one at right by Scott Hutchinson. Randy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severance of Severance Road, Decker.

GRAND CHAMPION market hog at the Tuscola county fair was that of Jim Cooklin, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cooklin of Dodge Road, Cass City. The Hampshire-Duroc crossbreed weighed 216 pounds.

Colleen Whittaker tops horse show

Colleen Whittaker of Cass City was high point winner in the 4-H horse show Monday and Tuesday of last week at the Tuscola County Fair, thus qualifying her for the state 4-H horse show Aug. 20 at Michigan State University.

Colleen, 12, riding "Heza Big 10-4," a three-year-old quarter horse gelding, scored 29 of a possible 36 points. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whittaker of 6766 Third Street.

She was also the high point winner last year on the same horse but was a year too young to participate in the state show.

She is one of two members of the Cass City-based Junior Wranglers 4-H Horse Club to qualify for the state show.

Second place went to Kim Walker of Silverwood, also a club member.

There was a three-way tie for third so the trio was asked to do a western riding pattern to break the tie.

The winner and thus the third county representative at the state show will be Troy Parsell of Caro, a member of the Hoof Printers.

The others, who are now alternates to the state show, are Amie Hedley, Unionville, and Shari Walker, Silverwood, who are both Junior Wranglers.

Members of the club who won first places in the county fair show were:

Julie Brown -- horsemanship.
Carrie Carpenter -- showmanship.
Steve Dadacki -- trail (two first places).
Amie Hedley -- pleasure.
Heidi Iseler -- pleasure (two first places).
Krista Iseler -- horsemanship (two first places).

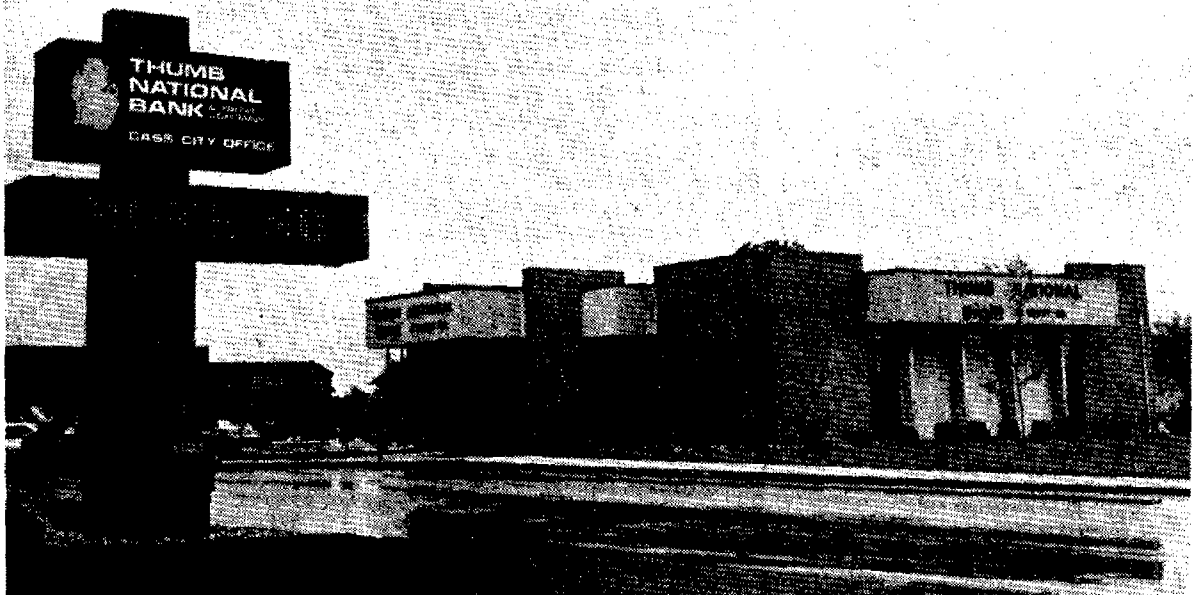

Kim Walker -- horsemanship, pleasure.
Shari Walker -- showmanship.
Colleen Whittaker -- horsemanship (two first places), pleasure.
Dave Whittaker -- showmanship, pleasure.
Al Seeley is the Junior Wranglers club leader.

TOP RIDER -- Colleen Whittaker of Cass City, riding Heza Big 10-4, earned the most points in the 4-H horse show at the Tuscola County Fair, thus qualifying her to compete in the state 4-H horse show later this month at Michigan State University.

Saving gas

Vehicle maintenance plays an important role in conserving gas. You can improve your car's efficiency by having it serviced regularly. Check the manifold heat control, have a general tune-up. Have the choke, fan and air conditioning belts checked and the air filter inspected. Improperly aligned tires, too, waste gas and make the tires wear out faster.

Two arrested after fighting

Two teenagers were arrested by Cass City police last Wednesday evening on charges of being disorderly persons after they were caught fighting publicly.

Arrested were Kirk Klebba, 19, of 4222 S. Seeger Street, and Ronald Simpson, 19, of Germania Road, Uby, reportedly living on Fourth Street.

Officer Phil Klaus was first summoned to the gas station at Main and Maple Streets on a report of the youths fighting there. He was told that an off-duty Caro state police officer had broken up the fight and the pair had left.

Klaus was no sooner told that when he was dispatched to Woodland Street on a report the fight had resumed there. He found the two pushing and shoving, with blood on their clothes and face. The fight was reportedly over $40 "someone owed someone."

The two were taken to the county jail.

Both were later released after posting $50 bond each. Each has been formally charged with disturbing the peace outdoors. They will be arraigned in district court Aug. 13.

Kenneth Zdrojewski of 4311 Seeger Street reported to village police Friday morning that during the night, someone stole two mini-bikes from the shed at the rear of his property. Doors to the shed were open.

One of the machines was an Arctic Cat; the other, make unknown. They were valued at about $100 each.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Reader disputes story

I have just fallen victim to your newspaper column, "Your neighbor says." It was the most inaccurate piece of journalism I have ever witnessed. I was not only misquoted, but 50 percent of the content was never said by myself.

I suggest that you consider changing the title of this column to "Fact or Fiction," if writing of this manner continues, or maybe just forget it all together.

50th reunion Sunday draws 140

A total of 140 attended the McCrea-O'Kelly 50th anniversary reunion Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Gracey on Cass City Road, Uby, which was put together by Carrie Gracey and Maude Blades.

A potluck dinner was served at noon.

Maude Blades, 93, Cass City, was the oldest member present and Joey Johnson was the youngest member.

Those coming the farthest were from Minneapolis, Minn., and Missouri. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gracey called from Dawson Creek, Alberta, Canada.

Guests attended from Minnesota, Missouri, Ontario, California, Cedarville in the Upper Peninsula, Detroit, Troy, Warren, Flint, Midland, Cass City, Caro, Deckerville, Uby, Livonia, Sterling Heights, Pickford, Roseville, Caseville, Oxford, Washington, Pontiac and Mount Clemens.

TOP PEDALER - Juanita Bradley, 12, raised $260 in the Riverside Church of God bikeathon June 2, more than any other youngster from the more than 100 churches in the Michigan district of the Churches of God. That won her the recently received bike she is riding. Juanita is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bradley of Cass City. Sister Dawn, 10, raised $89. More than $30,000 was raised in the bikeathons statewide, with the money going to support missions in Africa.

Women plan events

Eight members and one guest attended the Monday evening meeting of United Methodist Women of Salem church, held at the home of Mrs. Dale Buehly.

Mrs. Buehly led the devotions and Mrs. Stanley Kirn presided over the business meeting.

Plans were announced for the children's retreat to be held in October; for "guest night" to be observed at the Sept. 10 meeting and for the annual "thank offering" service Nov. 25.

The local organization will sponsor Iva Hildinger for the coming year. She works as a missionary nurse in a New Mexico hospital.

The local society hosted the Port Huron district meeting Tuesday evening and will host the "coffee hour" following the worship service Sunday.

The Sept. 10 meeting is the deadline for submitting recipes for the booklet being assembled.

Refreshments furnished by Mrs. Pat Sherman were served by Mrs. Buehly.

Church League finals

Shabbona tops Lamotte for playoff championship

After walking away with the National Division title with an 11-0 record, Shabbona left little doubt who was the top team in the Church League by defeating Lamotte last Wednesday in two games for the softball championship, 6-4 and 13-1.

Behind the strong pitching of Les Severance and the timely hitting and fielding of Terry Hendrick, Shabbona stayed ahead of Lamotte long enough to win the first game of the best-of-three series.

Hendrick had three hits, a single, double and triple, while teammate Phil Bader contributed a single and a double.

Severance allowed four runs, five hits, struck out one and walked only two. Jim Keller took the loss on the mound for Lamotte.

The second game of the series was of little contest as Shabbona exploded for six runs in the fifth inning and eventually won the game 13-1 to take the championship.

Severance was the ace on the mound again for Shabbona, giving up one run, six hits, two walks and striking out one. Leland Hirsch took the loss for Lamotte.

Five Shabbona players had two hits or more. Glenn Tatgenhorst smashed two singles and a triple. Bader had two triples. Tim Severance hit a single and a triple and Russ Smith and Roy Sefton each had a double and a single.

The real story for Shabbona in the second game was performance by outfielder Terry Hendrick.

He hit a double and scored a run in the second inning and then cracked an inside-the-park home run to highlight the six-run fifth inning rally.

The play of the game, and probably the playoff series, happened an inning later when Lamotte's Dale McAlren hit a liner to right field and Hendrick made a circus catch when the ball went from his mitt to his bare hand and then back to his mitt as he made the diving effort.

That catch did everything to close out the chances for a Lamotte comeback.

Shabbona finished the season with a perfect 15-0 record, making it to the playoff finals by defeating Missionary 18-2 and the Lutherans 13-9 before facing Lamotte in the championship series.

Lamotte made it by upsetting the Baptists, who finished the regular season on top of the American Division with a 9-2 record. Lamotte ended the regular season in second place in that division with a 6-5 record.

Swimathon fund raiser next week

The Cass City swim team will host its third annual Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Swimathon from noon Monday, Aug. 13, until noon the next day.

The goal set this year is 80 miles.

All persons interested in swimming must have pledges and written parental permission. Any question can be answered by calling 872-4716.

Cass City scouts at camp

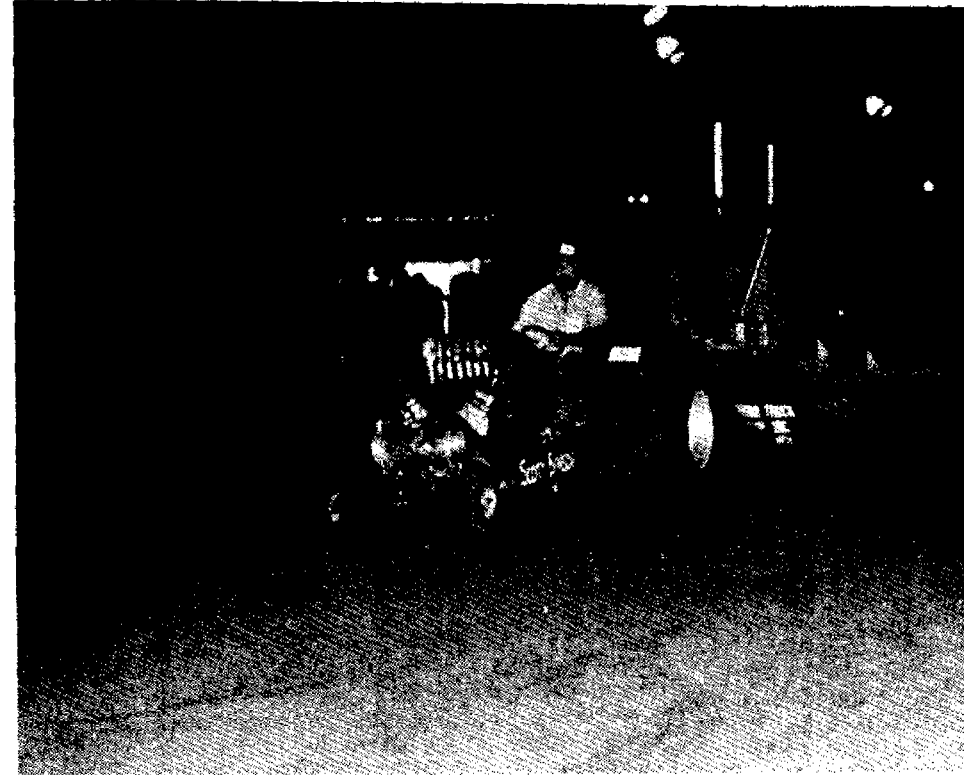

Three boys and two adults from Cass City Boy Scouts attended Camp Rotary the week of July 29-Aug. 4.

Jimmy Palmateer, who completed his first class just prior to attending, completed two more merit badges.

Jeffery Healy completed three merit badges and two skill awards to complete his 2nd class.

Jim Baker completed two merit badges making him eligible for the gold palm which requires 10 merit badges in addition to those for Eagle.

The two adults attending camp with the boys were Assistant Scoutmaster James Baker and Cubmaster Carl Palmateer.

TRACTOR PULLING attracted a standing room only crowd to the fair last Thursday night. This was Scott Benson of Fairgrove, who took third place in the 1,550-pound modified class.

Zones announced for steel shot

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service have announced zones where steel shot will be required for waterfowl hunting this fall.

Included is the area around Saginaw Bay, including Huron, Tuscola, Saginaw, Bay, Arenac and Iosco counties.

In Tuscola county, that consists of the area north of M-138 to Vassar Road, north to M-25, northeast to Kinde Road in Huron county, east to M-53, north to M-25, then northwest from there to the point of beginning, the tip of Tawas Point in Iosco county.

As steel shot is only being made for 12-gauge shotguns this year, other guns are

Food labels

Current food labeling regulations require all food products containing added nutrients or making nutritional claims to show on package labels the number of calories, amount of protein, carbohydrate and fat in grams, and the percent of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances for protein and seven vitamins and minerals in a typical serving.
