Law eases license tab for farmers

Many farmers will no longer have to obtain special endorsements on their driver's licenses to legally carry out some of their farm work under a bill recently signed into law by Lt. Gov. James Brickley.

State Rep. Quincy Hoffman (R-Applegate), the bill's sponsor, said the new law will exempt many farmers from having to qualify for, and purchase, a class 1 endorsement.

Under the measure's provisions, persons who drive passenger vehicles and trucks weighing less than 24,000 pounds which are properly registered for exclusive farm use will no longer be forced to obtain the endorsement.

Class 1 endorsements were costing farmers $7 for a four-year license and $4 for a two-year license.

"I introduced this bill because I believe that the old law represented an unnecessary hardship on farmers, who drive certain farm vehicles only occasionally to haul feed, seed, fertilizer and spray," Hoffman said.

"Since farmers drive these vehicles on public roads only to get from one field to another, they pose no danger to the public and should not have to take special driving tests and pay extra fees for endorsements."
