

Stars, Mars or flying saucers?

Was it Mars, was it a star or was it an unidentified flying object? Several skywatchers in the Gagetown area would like to know.

Jim Winchester of 4055 Dale Road, received a call from his brother, Carl, at 10:15 last Wednesday night, who told him to look at a strange light in the sky to the west.

The orange-red light, he said, was stationary while it grew dimmer and disappeared after about 15 minutes. His brother had been watching it about 15 minutes before calling him. Carl Winchester lives about a half-mile away on Hoppe Road.

Four persons in the area saw it that night, Jim Winchester said. "We don't know what it could be."

Winchester saw whatever it was again Thursday night for about a half-hour between 9 and 10 and Friday night starting about 9:30 when he was on his way home from Deford.

He said a nephew observed the object Friday night with binoculars and observed the bottom of the object was greenish.

Carl Winchester saw the object for a brief time Saturday night.

Jim Winchester called the Caro radio station, WKYO, Thursday morning, to report the object. The station broadcast the report and Saturday, he received a call from a Vassar woman who had heard the broadcast. She had seen the object Wednesday night and said it had been moving. When the Winchesters had observed it, it was stationary.

What did the Winchesters and the others see?

Douglas Grezeszak teaches physics, including some astronomy, at Cass City High School.

He has some ideas what the object may have been, since he hasn't seen it, it is an educated guess -- with some ifs.

The planet Mars and one star are orangish-red and at this time of year would be appearing in the western part of the sky.

They would appear to be stationary, he said, until they disappear below the horizon. Until then, the object would not grow dimmer. Grezeszak also said any planet would appear to be the size of an ordinary star. Winchester said the object was larger than a star.

"According to the characteristics of a planet or a star, it would not explain what they said they saw," the teacher concluded.

SNOW FUN -- Friday was the first day this winter snow was good for packing. Rather than having youngsters throw snowballs at each other, Campbell Elementary Principal Jacqueline Freiburger assigned everyone to building snowmen and other objects. ## Cass City man charged in Owendale bar shooting

David R. May of Cass City faces charges in Huron County District Court of injury of another person by careless discharge of a firearm and fleeing and eluding in connection with the shooting Monday night of a Gagetown man outside an Owendale bar and a subsequent chase by police.

May is charged with the shooting of David J. Abbe, injured in his lower left leg, who was released from Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday.

May, 45, of 6631 Koefigen Road, demanded examination on the firearm charge Monday when he appeared before District Judge John Schubel. The judge scheduled the examination March 31, and set bond at $2,000, which May has since posted. The defendant pleaded innocent to the fleeing and eluding charge. No trial date has been set.

Witnesses told Huron county deputies the incident began before 9 p.m. when the suspect and another man were asked to leave George's Bar in Owendale after arguing with each other.

The suspect returned about an hour later and started arguing with another man, Terry Lee Howard. The two went outside and began fighting in front of the bar.

With Howard the apparent victim, the other man went to his pickup and removed a 12-gauge shotgun. The on-lookers locked themselves inside the bar and called police.

The armed man tried to enter the bar. Unable to do so, he climbed in his truck, drove up to the front of the bar and fired one shot through the front door, which injured Abbe. The suspect then fled in his truck.

The first officer at the scene, Keith Diller of the Sebawaing police, saw the man get into his truck and drive east on Sebawaing

Buying a house for the very few

High interest rates create hard times for borrowers, lenders

By Mike Eliasohn
"Neither a borrower, nor a lender be."

Little could William Shakespeare have realized when he wrote the above line for "Hamlet" that there would come a time that was not good for borrowers or lenders.

Perhaps hardest hit are couples who would like to buy a home. Very few can afford the present interest rate on mortgages, of around 16 percent. Buying a house is becoming the impossible dream.

It is also a time of trial for bankers, who are paying out more in interest to attract some deposits than they are getting back in interest on some loans.

"It has to be quoted almost daily," said Bob Keating of the Pinney State Bank of skyrocketing interest rates.

They have been going up so rapidly of late, that the Cass City bankers interviewed for this story last Thursday and Friday cautioned that interest rates quoted might be out of date by the time the article gets into print.

SAVINGS

High interest rates would seemingly be of most benefit to those who have money to save, but even then the picture isn't rosy.

The maximum interest bank patrons can receive is on six-month money market certificates: As of last week, they were paying interest of almost 15 percent. The rate is the same at all financial institutions.

The difficulty for many would-be investors, however, is that the certificates can only be bought in minimum amounts of $10,000.

All the bankers contacted indicated a significant increase in the number of certificates being purchased. Deposits in regular savings accounts aren't showing growth.

Where do people come up with $10,000 in these economically troubled times? In many instances, they are reinvesting money from expired certificates of deposit, which paid lower interest.

In fact, it may pay for holders of still current certificates of deposit to cash them in, take the penalty, and buy the money market certificates.

For those who don't have $10,000, banks and savings and loans are offering 30-month certificates of deposit paying 11.75 percent minimum. Minimum purchase amount is usually $500.

But if the inflation rate for the first two months this year continues at its 18 percent rate, savers will be losing money.

Even if a saver can afford a 15 percent money market certificate, Mutual Savings branch manager Lee Iseler pointed out, "You're still behind the eight-ball, so there really isn't much of a gain as far as people are concerned."

LOANS

Credit is a way of life for farmers, who routinely borrow money to buy their seed, fertilizer, etc., each spring and then repay the loan after they sell their crops.

Banks still have money, to loan, but it is much more expensive.

Local banks quoted interest rates for farm operating loans of 15½-17½ percent, compared to 9½-13 percent a year ago.

Farm and other business loans are beneficial to banks, because they can charge enough to recover their costs to borrow money (for instance, in the interest they pay out for money market certificates).

Not so with auto loans. Interest rates on all such installment loans are limited by state law to 12.83 percent. The legislature is con-

Five children lose father

Two killed in area traffic accidents

Two accidents early last Thursday resulted in the deaths of two area men.

Killed were Darrell C. Myers, 34, of Cass Street, Unionville, the father of five children, and Fred Henderson III, 38, of 3830 Marton Road, Kingston.

Both accidents were not discovered until a few hours after they had taken place.

According to Tuscola county deputies, Myers was southbound on McEldowney Road, south of Bay City-Forestville Road, at a high rate of speed when his car went off the west side of the road.

The vehicle traveled 163 feet off the road before the right side slammed into a tree, splitting the car in half and ejecting the driver, who was killed instantly.

Based on the time investigators learned that Myers left the Colwood Bar, they believe the accident occurred about 2:30 a.m. It was reported at 1:47 a.m.

Cass City police assisted at the accident scene.

Myers was the fourth person to die in a Tuscola county traffic accident this year.

He was born June 19, 1946, in Charleston, W. Va., and had lived in the Unionville area 13 years. He married Barbara Kata May 1, 1964, in Tennessee. He was employed as a welder by Bechtel Power in Midland and was a member of the Michigan Army National Guard.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Teresa and Leish, three sons, Michael, Darrell and Robert, all at home, his parents, two sisters, four brothers, a grandmother and grandfather.

Funeral services were held Monday, with burial in the Columbia township cemetery.

HENDERSON ACCIDENT

Sandusky state police reported that Henderson was southbound on Marton Road (the county line), south of M-46, when he lost control of his pickup.

The vehicle went off the east side of the road, struck a log, went airborne, then struck a tree, the force ejecting the driver from the truck.

Henderson was pronounced dead on arrival at Marlette Community Hospital.

The accident was not reported until 7 a.m. It is believed to have taken place about 3 a.m.

Henderson was born July 28, 1951 in Koylton township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lynn Henderson. He was single, lived at home and farmed with his father.

He is survived by his parents, and four sisters, Mrs. Shirley Ferman of Sylvania, Ohio, Mrs. Janet Cartier, Bay City, Mrs. Kay Bennett, Chesaning, and Mrs. Sue Shafer, Midland.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at Harmon Funeral Home, Kingston, Rev. Gilson Miller of the Kingston United Methodist church officiating. Burial was in Kingston cemetery.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Lambert Althaver, 48, of 4618 Kennebec Drive, sought his own treatment after an accident at 1:50 p.m. Monday.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was headed west on M-25 at Quanicasee when he started to pass a car.

The driver of the other car, James R. Behrmann, 29, of Bay City, then started to turn left onto Old State Road and the vehicles collided. Behrmann then left the scene, headed east on M-25. He was later arrested by deputies and charged with driving under the influence of liquor.

Behrmann was released from the county jail Tuesday, pending appearance in district court.

Althaver told officers he didn't see a turn signal prior to starting to pass the Behrmann auto.

At 9:25 a.m. Monday, deputies reported, Dorothy Mae Koch, 19, of Unionville, was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, west of Ashmore Road, and collided with a car that was passing her as she was turning left into a driveway.

Driver of the other vehicle was Timothy V. Adams, 22, of 2930 Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown.

Adams said the Koch car had slowed prior to his starting to pass it but he didn't see a turn signal. Ms. Koch said she had signaled.

A three-car collision was reported at Cass City High School at 2:30 p.m. last Thursday.

Village police said Steven Corcoran, 18, of 4077 Van Dyke Road, Decker, was backing up and backed into the northbound car of Deborah Page, 17, of 6846 Herron Drive.

The impact forced the Page auto into the parked car of Steve Kamrad Jr. of Gagetown, which was parked in the fire lane.

At 7 p.m. last Thursday, according to deputies, Frank E. Mosher Jr., 33, of 4510 Leach Street, Cass City, was northbound on Cemetery Road, south of Severance Road, when a deer ran into the side of his truck and then ran off.

Loss $20,000 in Ubly fire

Damage was estimated at $20,000 to the Swiss Auto Sales building south of Ubly, which burned early Friday.

Cause is still unknown. Bingham Township Fire Chief Elmer Brahmer has requested the state fire marshal's office to send an officer to investigate. The officer is scheduled to be there Friday.

Brahmer said the fire started in the office area in the front of the 30-by-65-foot wood-framed metal building, which was fairly new.

The office was destroyed, including equipment and car titles on file.

The walls remained standing in the rear; however, the roof for the entire structure was destroyed.

A car in the rear of the building was removed without any damage.

Brahmer said the business owner, Steve Peruski, had insurance on the structure.

Firemen were at the scene about two hours, starting at 6 a.m. About 3,000 gallons of water were used in fighting the blaze.

Elkland township firemen were called to the Steve Wright home, 4276 Ale Street, at 3:15 a.m. last Thursday for what turned out to be a non-fire.

Firemen said fuel oil collected when the furnace was off. When the furnace reignited, the fuel oil exploded, with the force blowing off

Seek .2 mill levy for senior citizens

The Thumb Area Commission on Aging (TACA) Board of directors Monday decided to seek voter approval for a .2 mill levy for four years to support senior citizen activities in the upper Thumb.

It will now be up to the boards of commissioners in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties to put the measure on the ballot.

The intent is to have the proposal on the Aug. 5 primary election ballot.

A levy of .2 mill equals 20 cents per $1,000 of valuation. TACA Director Ron Cassie will now be working with the prosecutors of the three counties to develop common wording for the ballot proposal, after which he will present it to the county boards. They must approve it prior to June 17 to get it on their respective ballots.

He is confident all three will do so. "I don't anticipate any problems. All three counties have expressed interest in going in this direction."

President Carter's threatened shutoff of federal revenue sharing funds to states and local governmental units, he feels, will provide an incentive for commissioners to put the millage on the ballot, as its passage would mean they would no longer have to subsidize TACA from their general funds.

County budgets will be under severe strain in the future without the input of federal revenue sharing funds, which total several hundred thousand dollars a year collectively for the three counties.

There was extensive discussion by the TACA board Monday, Cassie said, about writing the ballot proposal to limit dispersal of the money to be raised to TACA.

A .2 mill levy will raise a total of about $240,000 annually in the three counties, enough to replace present county funds given to TACA and federal funds used to pay some employees, plus expand services.

The agency's director will need to get the opinion of the three prosecutors whether the millage can be committed solely to TACA or whether it can be available for any senior citizen activities, which would open use of the funds to other groups.

TACA will prepare a separate budget in each county, which will have to be approved by that county's board of commissioners, so that taxpayers in one county won't be subsidizing activities in a county where the millage was rejected, should the levy be approved in only one or two counties.

Tribute to Claude Bell

By Jim Fitzgerald

Claude W. Bell of Highland Park was one of the statistics printed regularly in newspaper articles about despair in big cities. He was a young black man with no job. Last month, his lifeless body was found floating in the Detroit River.

There was a tiny story about the death on a back page of this newspaper. It hinted that Claude Bell's life ended in suicide. It didn't say why he might have killed himself. It didn't say anything about what he had done with his 29 years of life.

This isn't unusual. There was nothing spectacular about Claude Bell's death. He wasn't shot while robbing a bank, or knifed while defending his home. And there was nothing front-page about his life. He didn't hit home runs for $1 million a year, or spend $11 million per delegate to run for the presidential nomination.

To someone who didn't know him well, Claude Bell's life would appear fairly typical of the thousands of street people who "never get a break." There was no great public notice taken of his death, and it seemed sufficient that the mourning was limited to friends and relatives. But a Methodist minister doesn't think that was at all sufficient.

He is the Rev. W. Herbert Glenn, pastor of the Clawson United Methodist church. Soon after speaking at Claude Bell's funeral, Mr. Glenn told me: "Our church is a strong supporter of the work done by Rose Bell and her son Claude. He was tormented by an epileptic-type disease which did not at all respond to normal control medications. As a result, he had tremendous headaches and the seizures prevented his ever getting and holding a job."

"So he spent his time on the streets trying to help young black men to get to school, to stay in school, to get jobs and to get along without falling into the normal traps of the street. . . I think Claude Bell's life deserved more than a four-inch column on a back page."

Claude's mother, Rose Bell, lives in the Jeffries Housing Project and runs United Neighbors. Her group of volunteers finds food and clothing and other help for people who can't get it anywhere else. And, quite uniquely, the people receiving help are required to "pay" for it by helping United Neighbors help others.

Mrs. Bell told me Claude was in "constant, terrible pain most of his life, but never wanted her or anyone else to mention it. Medication didn't help because, for many years, he was incorrectly diagnosed as an epileptic. Only recently was it discovered he had a brain tumor, Mrs. Bell said. Because of his illness, he was never able to support his wife and three small children the way he wanted to, and this worried him greatly."

"In spite of all that, he felt he had to help the young people, and they listened to him because they knew he genuinely cared," Mrs. Bell said. "He found them jobs and took them to the hospital and even took them into his home. He did what the big social agencies couldn't do. He worked miracles."

Pastor Glenn recalled the summer Claude organized a summer program for about 30 youngsters. "He got them food, and tents to sleep in. He was like a first lieutenant. He taught them to say grace before meals and he taught them table manners. He was always taking youngsters to wherever they had to be to get help or jobs or schooling. He tried to show them how to live in the society they have to live in."

Why did he do it? Claude's older brother, Paul, answered: "Because he was in love with the world and all people."

Did the pain of his illness force Claude to jump off the Belle Isle bridge? Or was he escaping from a life of chronic unemployment? He wasn't paid for his work with children and "the system looks down on volunteers," his mother said.

Claude Bell's family and friends find it difficult to believe he killed himself. They are searching for another explanation of his death. But they have no doubts about his life. They know it was worth a lot more than a four-inch column on a back page. They are right. It was worth more than an $11 million delegate.

Top students named at Kingston H.S.

Kingston High School Principal Lee C. Robinson has announced the 1980 valedictorian, salutatorian and top 10 honor students.

The 1980 valedictorian is Elisabeth Ann Britton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Britton of Plain Road, Kingston.

Her accumulative grade point average is 3.976, out of a possible 4.0.

She has received a letter of commendation for outstanding performance, placing in the top 5 percent on the PSAT-NMSQT test, administered nationwide to college-bound high school juniors in October, 1978. As a result of her ACT scores, she was named a State of Michigan Scholarship semifinalist.

Elisabeth is a three-year letter winner in track and cross-country. She has also played French horn in band for four years and has been in the National Honor Society for four years, where she has served as president the last two years. She has been a class officer the last three years and a member of 4-H.

Cass City H.S. bands receive '2' rating

The Cass City High School symphony and concert bands each received a 2 rating in the district band festival Saturday at Fenton.

Each band was rated by four judges. A 1 rating was the best possible and 5 the worst.

Each band had to play a march of its own selection, a required number and a number of its own selection.

The symphony band was the only one that competed last year, when it received a 3 rating.

Band Director Thomas Clair said the symphony band's rating does indicate it showed improvement over last year, but with "things to strive for yet" in order to improve further.

Bands from about 15 high schools took part.

Symphony band members performed in the morning so were able to get back in time to go to the basketball game. Concert band members played in the afternoon, however, so weren't able to go to the game.

The Haire Net

Our city cousins have many misconceptions about how all of us hicks in the sticks operate.

That's apparent all through the year but never more apparent than when they try to explain interest in the high school sports teams in smaller communities.

All of those misconceptions are aired most frequently during a time like now when the community is caught up in support of its team during "March Madness" tournament time.

One of the favorite explanations is that in hickville, there's nothing else to do. When it comes to entertainment the line is it's the sports team or nothing.

It's evidently inconceivable to persons living in Detroit that Thumb dwellers have all the options that they do . . . and a few they don't, such as walking down the street at night without an armed escort.

Detroit with its cultural advantages is at our doorstep and most of us use them. The bars serve the same brands here as they do in bigville.

It's hard to figure out whether metro media don't know why high school teams are big in small towns or whether it just makes good copy to say, "Main Street in Podunk was deserted as the tiny hamlet closed up to follow its team, etc.," and then go on to tell how it was the biggest thing to happen there in 50 years.

Intimating, of course, that in this hamlet it was big because it lifted the ancients from their front porch rockers.

The only thing accurate about that picture is that the interest is there, is genuine.

That's true for at least two good reasons. One is that virtually everyone knows something about the team.

They know one of the players. Or work with the parents of one of the players. Or the grandparents talk about their grandson at the weekly bingo party. Somehow virtually everyone is touched by the activities of the teams.

The second reason is a little harder to pinpoint but Don't worry. If Cass City won its quarterfinal match at Troy Athens you won't miss the annual Cass City Chamber of Commerce banquet.

If Ecorse falls, the banquet is postponed to April 12, says President Tom Herron.

*****

Win or lose the Hawks travelled in style when they went to Troy Wednesday. That's because the Cass City Lions rented them a Greyhound bus to make the trip. Set the club back $350, according to one member.

*****

Perfect putdown. Bill Wallace related this at the coffee table Tuesday. After that wild win in the regional finals Saturday, a Hamady booster informed Janice Winter that Cass City wouldn't go far.

She quietly replied, that's one more than Hamady will win.

*****

What promised to be a bonanza for Kathy Iseler almost turned out to be the most expensive free food she ever received.

It all started when Mrs. Iseler won the right to forage for free food for 3 minutes in a Cass City IGA contest.

After the 3 minutes she had her cart piled high with goodies, more than any other winner in the previous weeks the contest ran.

Everything was fine until she arrived at the check-out counter to unload her loot. It was then she discovered that the diamond from her ring was missing.

She scurried back over the route she had taken and found it on the floor.

Whew!

Incidentally, IGA owner Harry Lenda evidently wants his prize winners to do well. After the shopping spree was over he asked Mrs. Iseler if she missed anything.

Informed that time ran out before she got to the hot dogs, Lenda picked up a couple of packages and gave them to her.

Complaints decline

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recorded 447 criminal complaints in February, a sharp drop from the 544 received in January.

The greatest number, 148, involved traffic (accidents, reckless driving, etc.), followed by larcenies, 49; vandalism, 32, and domestic problems, 30.

Deputies made 48 arrests during the month, including 29 for traffic violations and four for larceny.

There were 364 traffic tickets issued, including 179 for speeding, 55 for defective equipment, 38 for stop sign violations and 25 for no proof of insurance.

Patrol units traveled 43,563 miles and consumed 3,708.6 gallons of gasoline (11.7 miles per gallon).

The county jail took in 138 inmates during the month, of whom 11 were female, and released 139.

Cass City police made six arrests in February, three for traffic, two for burglary and one for assault.

Caro state police made 14 arrests, including eight for traffic and two for sex offenses.

The number of complaints received from and accidents in area townships and villages in February respectively were: Cass City, 47 and 0; Elkland township, 18 and 0; Ellington township, 12 and 4; Elmwood township, 14 and 5; Kingston village, 6 and 1; and Novesta township, 18 and 4.

There's no doubt that the small town syndrome is alive and thriving in the Thumb and here's one vote for keeping it that way.

It's just as valid. It's the theory here that persons in small towns are more interested in what's going on with their neighbors. That's one reason why they live in small towns.

There's little doubt that your life is more private in Detroit than in Cass City where "everybody knows everybody."

That's good or bad, depending on your viewpoint. I feel that it's great that I can be thrilled right along with the rest of the town when "our boys" make it to the quarterfinals or win a championship.

If I didn't, my place would be in Detroit, not Cass City.

Miscellaneous ramblings

By Mike Eliasohn

Odds and ends:
I installed a new ribbon ast week on the typewriter with which I am typing this. What galls me every time do that is that the new ribbon comes with two reels. Only one reel is necessary 'nce I can use one of the old ones, but there is, of course, more money to be made by selling typewriter ribbons with two reels.

The two camera batteries I bought this past week end are 3/4ths inch in diameter. The plastic covered cardboard each was attached to was 4-by-5 1/4 inches.

Buy a roll of 35mm film, and it comes in a handy little reusable plastic container. But how many of those handy plastic containers can one use?

The same goes for food in the "handy reusable plastic containers."

Bad enough in non-inflationary times but even worse now. How much of our money gets wasted on unnecessary packaging?

John Wayne Gacy gets put to death in the electric chair in Illinois.

What I don't understand is how the jury that had to decide whether he was sane or insane could decide, as it did last week, that the murderer of 33 boys and young men was sane. How can anyone who kills 33 persons be sane?

It was not a choice between having him put away and letting him go away. I didn't save the article, but I do recall reading that even if he had been found insane, Gacy could have been put in a state institution for life.

Madeline Sontag, wife of Gagetown Village Clerk Elery Sontag, asked me to make the following correction: Only 55 persons voted in the March 10 election there instead of the 74 I reported in last week's Chronicle (which was the number who voted in Owendale, which was reported correctly).

Still, the 55 persons who voted make up 45.8 percent of the 120 or so registered voters in Gagetown.

In contrast, 65 persons voted in Cass City, which is only 6.2 percent of the 1,045 registered voters here (even worse than the 6.6 percent incorrectly reported last week).

Some might use the excuse that no one running in Cass City had any opposition, but no one had opposition in Gagetown either.

The lack of turnout means persons in Cass City are satisfied with their elected village officials or didn't like who was running. If the latter, some of the complainers should have run. It's an old cliché, but still true, that it is easier to complain about a problem than to do something about it.

For whatever reason, I feel it is appalling that only 6.2 percent of the registered voters bothered to vote, contests or no contests.

The oil-rich OPEC countries are a growing market for U.S. farm products. Their purchases of U.S. agricultural products are approaching the $3 billion mark.

Thieves loot home site of $1,000 in tools, materials

More than $1,000 worth of building materials and tools were stolen from the site of a new home under construction on Shabbona Road, Novesta township.

Owner Michael Phillips of 5931 Main Street, Deford, told sheriff's deputies Saturday the items were taken between Monday and Thursday.

Entry to the home was gained by forcing open a window and to a storage shed by breaking a lock. The thieves were unsuccessful in attempts to break into a second storage shed.

The most valuable items stolen were a cast iron wood burning stove, ripped away from the chimney, worth $250, and a Craftsman table saw, plus three extra blades, $400.

Other items taken included a hand saw, four pipe wrenches, four hammers, plus some wire, $142; tool box and tools, $75; well point pump, 40 feet of pipe and five couplings, $129; axe, two shovels and a tape measure, $35; two extension cords, $20, and an extension walking plank, $20.

Also, a work apron, two tape measures, knife and two bags of nails, $25; two rolls of wire, $64; two 10-foot chains, $54; 10-foot length of plastic pipe, $17; staple gun, brace and bit and electric drill, $34; coffee table, $35; padlock, $8, and child's wagon, $20.

OTHER NEWS

Dennis J. Porter, 19, of 6419 Houghton street, Apt. 2, will be arraigned in district court March 31 on a charge of breaking and entering. He is presently free on $3,000 bond.

Cass City police obtained a warrant charging him with the offense after he was observed putting gas into his car after 9:30 p.m. last Thursday at Progressive Plant Foods, 4155 Vulcan Street, where he was an employee.

Turning on the pump required entering a building, which had a broken lock in order to turn on the switch. Reporting the incident to police was Michael Lowe, also an employee.

Bruce Thompson of 4245 Maple Street, reported to Cass City police Friday that an electric circular saw was stolen from his garage during the previous three weeks. It was worth $43.

Robert J. Erla of 4705 N. Seeger Street told village officers Monday afternoon that someone kicked the right side door of his pickup while it was parked in the high school lot March 12 from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. It was the second time such damage was done in two weeks. Damage was estimated at $50.

A camera found in the Third Street area was turned in to Cass City police Monday. The owner will have to identify it to get it back.

George Taylor of Elmwood Road, Ellington township, reported to Caro state police last Wednesday that someone stole a pony saddle from his house March 10. It was worth $150.

Mike Lagos of Plain Road, Cass City, reported to troopers March 11 that someone kicked in the door to his porch, but was unable to gain entry to his house. Nothing was taken. Damage to the door was estimated at $25.

Jaycee Jelly Week sale begins Sunday

Cass City Jaycees will be conducting their second annual Jaycee Jelly Week sale March 23 through April 5. Most of the sales will be conducted door-to-door, though some jars of jelly may be sold downtown.

Proceeds will be used for "bettering Cass City," with the specific cause to be decided at a Jaycee meeting this Thursday.

The organization raised $621 from its jelly sale last year, which was donated for use in the new outpatient unit of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Father Cronkite dies after illness

Father Glenn William Cronkite, priest at St. Agatha's Catholic church in Gagetown from 1951-59, died Monday at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw following a long illness. He was 63.

He was born May 13, 1914, in Saginaw, and attended St. Joseph's Seminary in Grand Rapids for his secondary, college and philosophy training.

He received his theological training at Theological College in Washington, D.C.

Father Cronkite was ordained into the Diocese of Saginaw May 18, 1940, and served as an assistant at St. Andrew and Sacred Heart Parishes in Saginaw and at St. Michael's Parish in Pinconning.

He then served as administrator at St. Joseph Parish, Rapson; St. Edward Parish, Omer, and St. James Parish, Whittemore.

In addition to St. Agatha's, his pastorates were at St. James at Whittemore, Sacred Heart in Merrill and St. Francis Borgia in Pigeon.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Robert Burns and Mrs. Merle Eearius, and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary's Cathedral in Saginaw. The Most Rev. Francis

F. Reh, bishop of the Saginaw Diocese, will be the principal celebrant of the Liturgy of Resurrection.

There was to have been a wake service at 7 p.m. this Wednesday at the cathedral.

Burial will be in the family plot at Mount Olivet cemetery, Saginaw.

Deadlines near for Medicare
enrollment

March is the last month of the 1980 general enrollment period for people who failed to sign up for Medicare medical insurance at their first chance.

There's a general enrollment period during the first three months of each year. Also eligible to enroll at this time are people who once had medical insurance but who dropped this protection.

Medical insurance protection will start July 1, for people who sign up during this period. The basic monthly premium is increased by 10 percent for each 12 months a person could have had this protection but did not.

The premium paid by those with medical insurance represents less than one-third of the cost. The remaining amount is paid by a federal government.

People receiving Social Security benefits who earned more than the annual exempt amount in wages or self-employment during 1979, have until April 15, to file an annual report of their earnings.

The 1979 annual exempt amount was $3,480 for people under 65 all of the year and $500 for people 65 or over. In general, a person has $1 in benefits withheld for each $2 of annual earnings over the exempt amount.

The Saginaw Social Security office is located at East Tennesse and N. Warren streets in the Federal building, telephone 771-1010.

HEALTH TIPS

Giving the gift of sight to others

When Kathy Blackburn was seven years old, she contracted a Herpes infection (the cold sore virus) in her right eye. When the infection finally was cleared up, scars on her cornea had obstructed the sight of that eye.

"She has always been such an active child, we were afraid, after she lost the sight of her eye, that she would be injured by not being able to see and judge exactly what she was doing," her mother said.

The family set out on a search for help for Kathy. Eventually, in 1975, they were referred to a Detroit ophthalmologist who, after examining her eye, recommended corneal transplant surgery.

"He said he would put her on a waiting list and we thought, 'Oh, it's going to be years!'" Mrs. Blackburn recalled. "But, actually, it was only about a month... we were really happy," she said.

The successful transplant was performed in the spring of 1975.

Today, Kathy enjoys an active, normal life. Two years ago, as a seventh grader in Oak Park, she broke the school's softball batting record with a .629 average.

Now, a freshman at Fernside High School, she plans to try out in the spring for the high school softball team.

Baseball isn't her only athletic interest. She likes bowling, tennis, roller skating and a wide variety of sports. Kathy not only is an outstanding athlete, but a scholastic honor student as well.

In her spare time, she likes to hook rugs and sew, when she isn't baby-sitting to make some of her own spending money.

"I'm really grateful to the person who left me the eye," Kathy said. "Being able to see out of both eyes makes such a big difference."

During 1979, the Michigan Eye-Bank provided corneal tissue for the 3,000th sight-restorative corneal transplant since its establishment in 1957.

The cornea, the portion commonly used for transplantation, is the small, clear "window" that protects the front of the eye. Whole eyes cannot be transplanted, but other eye tissues sometimes are used for surgical repairs.

Corneal transplants are the most successful of any human tissue transplant. Approximately 10 percent of all blind people are suitable

Men's Club has Sunday breakfast

The newly organized Men's Club of the Owendale Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints held a breakfast Sunday morning for 25 members and guests.

After cooking and eating their pancakes and sausage, Tom Craig, a lab technician and professional photographer from Pigeon, gave a talk on his hobby of photography. He taught the men how the amateur can perfect his own picture taking.

During their business session, conducted by president Mike Dubs, the men decided to donate $35 to the Mental Health Activity Center and $25 to the Huron County Recreation Association for the handicapped.

The men planned a pancake and sausage supper for Friday, March 21, at the church's lower auditorium at 6 p.m. Members are encouraged to invite their neighbors.

The men are planning a yard sale at the church June 6-7. Members were encouraged to start getting their items together. Last year's sale was a huge success. The women's department will have a bake sale during the yard sale.

Meredith Auten remembers

Charlotte was born June 7, 1921.

Then in a couple of years came Carolyn, and two years later, Fred.

Virginia managed this all with the greatest of ease. She couldn't understand why people have trouble with their children.

When Charlotte was two, some boys going to school warned us she had climbed out the window and was on the porch roof.

She got into my safety razor blades and her hand was covered with blood, but the trouble was small and Virginia was a great mother.

Then along came Chuck. Life was different. He did pretty much as he wanted. I spent one whole afternoon getting a spoonful of eggs in his mouth.

When he wouldn't do things, we just said, "Come on, go to the closet," until one day he proclaimed, "I can't stay in the closet all the time."

Both boys were industrious. They had paper routes. I recall one day, when Fred was trying to get Charlotte to take him to a home to deliver something. I said, "Why don't you take the car yourself?" He could barely reach the pedals, but he took it up, turned around, and got back okay.

Chuck started a garbage route and the barn smelled to heaven with his garbage truck. He always carried some money.

One day I asked Fred and Chuck if they wanted to buy some Farm Produce stock. Fred said he would take $200 and charge it to his savings account. Chuck said, "I'll take $100 worth," and pulled it from his pocket.

We had various ponies and many dogs. One time, there were eight puppies, plus ducks, chickens, a goat and cats. I recall one day Charlotte came out the back door with a great big pan of food and proclaimed, "Come boys." There was a stampede and all the animals dove for the pan.

Your Neighbor says

Death penalty should be restored

About 30,000 Michiganiens so far have signed petitions calling for a vote on restoring of the death penalty.

Chief backer of the petition drive is Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, who is hoping to get the measure on the ballot in 1982. A total of 287,000 signatures are needed to get the proposal on the ballot.

Bill Shagene supports the proposal. "I think it (death penalty) should be for hard core criminals. The ones who seem like they're going to go out and do it again."

Specifically, he feels the death penalty should apply for the crimes of first degree (premeditated) murder, rape when bodily harm is involved, and slayings that occur during commission of a crime.

Imposition of the death penalty should not be automatic, but should be decided by the judge or jury after the person has been found guilty, Shagene said.

In some instances, he feels, existence of the death penalty will be a deterrent to crime, but won't who it involves a hard core criminal "acting on instinct and survival."

Shagene is a heavy equipment operator for C.R. Junt Construction Co.

He and Andrea Bines were married March 8 and are living at 4020 S. Elton Road, Cass City.

Seed vigor testing

By William Bortel

Farmers may obtain better field performance in dry edible bean and soybean seedlots if they plant seed that has been tested for vigor.

Seed vigor testing is a means of measuring seed quality. It is relatively inexpensive but affords significant payoff.

The Michigan Crop Improvement Association offers two vigor tests in addition to the standard warm germination test that is normally used for marketing seed.

Information from such tests can be very useful to farmers as a supplement to the standard warm germination test, because they indicate the potential for seed performance in the field. The standard warm germination test used for seed labeling reflects the potential germination under optimum conditions in a seed germinator.

One vigor test offered by MCIA is the cold soil test, which indicates the ability of a seed to germinate under cool and wet (early spring) conditions. Another is the tetrazolium viability and vigor test, a chemical test which detects weak areas and deterioration within the seed.

By using results of vigor tests as well as the standard warm germination test, farmers can avoid the risk of planting poor seedlots and help eliminate poor seed quality as a deterrent to crop productivity.

Farmers need to use every possibility they have to strengthen their economic position and return. A farmer cannot afford to take risks any more by planting low quality seed.

Some seedsmen throughout the north central soybean and navy bean area are beginning to sell seed on the basis of vigor ratings. Therefore, farmers need to know what's meant by all of this and take advantage of it. The recent growth in interest in seed vigor is due to a growing awareness of seed quality.

Today's inputs in raising crops are more expensive and more crucial than they once were. That makes it necessary that all inputs pay off.

A vigor testing program provided by a laboratory needs to be supported by sound research. The Michigan State University research program is exploring other vigor tests -- the four-day germination count, the accelerated aging test and the conductivity test. The goals of this research are to establish the relationship between laboratory seed vigor ratings and field performance, and to develop vigor tests to identify high field performance potential.

So far, the conductivity test has shown a higher correlation with field performance than any other test -- including those now used by the MCIA. One or more of these tests may be used by the MCIA in the future.

Your conscience can't be your guide if you don't have one.

20 YEARS -- Al Seeley (left) received congratulations at the Leadermete for his 20 years as a 4-H leader from Mike Tate, state associate 4-H director.

Seeley honored for Schneeborgers 4-H work help Cass City grow

Al Seeley of Cass City was honored for his 20 years of service to the Michigan 4-H Youth Program during the 1980 4-H Leadermete conference held at Michigan State University March 2.

He has been leader of Junior Wranglers 4-H Horse Club for those 20 years.

Seeley was one of 23 volunteer 4-H leaders recognized statewide and received the 20-year diamond clover award sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

A former 4-H member, Seeley has worked with young people in the horse project area longer than anyone else in Tuscola county. His club usually involves at least 45 4-H'ers in a variety of educational, learn-by-doing experiences.

Seeley has also served on the county 4-H council.

Editor's note: this is one of a series sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce about community boosters who are members of the organization.

In 20 years, Schneeborgers has been transformed from a small combination fruit stand with a television repair in the rear to one of the largest furniture firms in the Thumb.

The growth was steady. In 1962 appliances were added and fruits and vegetables discontinued in the same building. In 1963 furniture was added.

The former H.O. Paul building was purchased in 1965. Continued expansion soon required the purchase of the warehouse on Church Street in 1970. More space was added when the building adjacent to the warehouse was purchased in 1972.

Don Hendrian joined the corporation in 1973 as appliance and television service manager.

In 1976 the parking facility in back of the store was added. In 1977 plans for the addition of 12,000 square feet of showroom to make Schneeborgers the largest retail store in the Upper Thumb were completed.

Both Russ and Bud are lifelong area residents. Russ belongs to the Masonic Lodge in Cass City. He manages a minor league baseball team for boys and is a past member of the Chamber board. Married, he and his wife, Olga, have three children.

Bud is a member and past treasurer of Cass City Rotary. He is a Mason and a member of the Cass City Methodist church. Married, he and his wife, Olga, have three children.

Don is a member of the Masonic Lodge at Mt. Morris. He has five children.

Russ is the secretary-treasurer of the corporation and is the company sales manager and furniture buyer. Don is vice-president of Schneeborgers. Bud is the president of Schneeborgers Furniture and also of Schneeborgers Development Corporation of Cass City.

Lila Misico feted for 25 years in 4-H

Lila Misico, of 4370 Pike Street, Ubyly, was honored for her 25 years of service to the Michigan 4-H Youth Program during the 1980 4-H Leadermete conference at Michigan State University March 2.

Mrs. Misico was one of 20 volunteer 4-H leaders recognized statewide and received the 25-year Emerald Clover award sponsored by Michigan Farm Bureau.

The Huron county 4-H leader has worked with young people in a number of project areas, including knitting, leathercraft, crocheting, crafts, foods, gardening, and the 4-H Passport to Understanding project.

She has served on the Huron County 4-H Council as a board member and also as secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Misico's husband, John, is also involved with the 4-H program and serves as a leathercraft leader.

The Misicos' eight grandchildren have also been active in the 4-H program.

Leaders honored at Girl Scout anniversary fete

Approximately 70 parents, family members and friends were present Wednesday afternoon, March 12, for the 68th birthday celebration of Girl Scouts of America.

An interfaith service was performed at Good Shepherd Lutheran church by Rev. James Van Dellen.

Opening remarks and a welcome were given by Mrs. Hilda Koch, service unit chairman. A flag ceremony followed, with pledge to the flag and singing of "America" by all.

Mrs. Koch lit the promise candle, then all leaders and Girl Scouts joined in a rededication to Girl Scout-ing's highest ideals by repeating together the Girl Scout Promise.

The 10 Girl Scout laws were recited with the lighting of a candle for each law.

Special guest was Evelyn Ziehm of Gagetown, who is a member of the board of directors of the Mitten Bay Girl Scout Council.

Special recognition was given to the leaders, who were introduced as follows:

Brownie leader, Carol Rutkowski; Mrs. Marty Nickolson; Troop 826; Helen Kitchen, Linda Bucholtz and Connie Horiski; Troop 644, and Karen Smith, Judy Profit, Joyce Loomis and Hilda Koch, Troop 856.

Junior Girl Scout leaders introduced were Janet Hurley and Ann McDaniel, Troop 929; Mrs. Arlene Szarapski and Theresa Sugden, Troop 170, and Lois Sugden and Barb Tuckey, Troop 221.

Rev. Van Dellen spoke on birthdays and his message was based on the Gospel of John 3:1-7, the story of Nicodemus and his confrontation with Jesus.

The Girl Scouts sang "Girl Scouts Together" and everybody joined in singing Happy Birthday to the Girl Scouts.

Rev. Van Dellen gave a closing prayer. The service ended with a recession of the flags.

Punch and cookies were served in the fellowship hall following the service.

Number of area jobs declining

The average number of non-farm jobs in Tuscola county stayed the same in 1979, compared to the year before, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Tuscola did better than the two other upper Thumb counties, however. Non-farm jobs declined 1.4 percent in Huron county from 1978 and 4 percent in Sanilac.

The figures were cited in an article, "1980: Hard Landing for Michigan," in the latest issue of the Michigan State Economic Record, written by David I. Verway, research professor at the Graduate School of Business Administration, Michigan State University.

In the article, the professor forecasts the change in number of jobs from 1979 to 1980.

He projects the Thumb area will feel the effects of the automotive slump. The number of jobs in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties will decline from 2.5-4.9 percent.

High interest hurts everyone

sidering increasing that. The original proposal was to raise the limit to 16 percent, "but 16 doesn't look good now," said Fred Auten of Cass City State Bank.

Since car loans aren't big money makers for banks now, they are generally trying to limit such loans.

One local bank does that by boosting the required down payment. Another will make a regular loan for three months at 15 percent, then when the new law is passed, rewrite the loan into a regular car loan.

A third bank hasn't changed its policy, but is hoping for a quick change in the law.

Banks really haven't been hampered much by the comparatively low interest rate. Because of the high cost of cars and the state of the economy, Thumb National Bank Vice-President Paul Clabuesch pointed out, "there hasn't been much of a demand for car loans."

MORTGAGE RATES

When Lee Iseler started working for Mutual Savings and Loan in August, 1977, the mortgage rate on home loans was 8 1/2 percent.

When he and his wife took out a home loan last June, the rate was 10 percent.

As of last week, it was 16 percent, which very few can afford, he said.

Iseler frankly admits that between the increase in the cost of the prefabricated home he and his wife purchased last summer and the increase in interest rate, they couldn't afford to buy a home now. His wife also works.

"We are running into mortgage payments that are out of range of quite a number of people," he explained, which requires much more careful checking to determine whether the borrower can handle the increased payments.

For instance, a $50,000 20-year mortgage would mean a payment of $550 per month. At 16 percent, that means a monthly payment of $696, a difference of $146. Comments from bankers were similar.

THE FUTURE

Everyone interviewed agreed with a recent Detroit Free Press article that predicted that because of the profit squeeze on banks in the 1980s, they will eventually have to start charging customers for services that now are free.

A prime candidate will be charging for checks. It costs a bank at least 20 cents to process each check, said Thumb National's Clabuesch, and as costs increase, banks will have to start charging for services "on the basis of what they are worth."

Legislation in Congress, if approved, will allow banks to start paying interest on checking accounts. Auten doesn't think customers will gain when that happens because banks will have to start charging enough in fees to cover the cost of processing and interest payments.

If there is any good news in all this, it is that none of the bankers interviewed expect the high interest rates to last forever.

Curt Strickland of the local Thumb National branch foresees interest rates on mortgages dropping possibly 2.3 percent, but doesn't expect the decline to begin "until probably the third or fourth quarter of the year."

Auten doesn't expect to see any changes for at least six months. "I don't see them coming down in the short run."

Iseler pointed out that the high interest rates are a result of policy set by the Federal Reserve Board, which regulates banking, and hopes to slow inflation through the high rates, in order to cut consumption.

For that reason, he doesn't expect the board to start lowering interest rates until the second or third quarter of 1981.

Keating took the historical viewpoint. The United States has always made it through past crises and it will make it through this one.

Order psychiatric exam for Caro murder suspect

Glen A. Christner, charged with murder in the March 5 shooting death of his wife, will undergo a psychiatric examination at the Center for Forensic Psychiatry at Ypsilanti State Hospital.

Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn Monday granted the motion of Christner's attorney, James Woodward of Bad Axe, to have his client undergo the exam in order to evaluate his competency to stand trial and criminal responsibility or culpability.

Christner, 31, of 1580 W. Sanilac Road, Caro, was then remanded to the county jail without bond. He must be transported to the psychiatric center within the next 60 days and then be evaluated within 30 days.

Christner is charged with possession of a firearm during commission of a felony, in addition to the murder charge.

His wife, Edna, was found shot to death in their home on the evening of the 5th. Christner, who was home when deputies arrived, was taken into custody and later charged with causing her death.

Also Monday, Thomas P. Myschok, 33, of 4987 Poplar Street, Fairgrove, pleaded innocent to charges of armed robbery and possession of a firearm during commission of a felony.

His plea was accepted and pretrial hearing scheduled April 7, to be preceded by hearing of pretrial motions. Myschok was then remanded to the county jail without bond.

He is charged in connection with the Feb. 27 armed robbery of Zabriskie's Market in Watrousville, in which about $600 was taken.

Norman Lee Parkin, 40, of 1297 S. Mertz Road, Caro, pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal sexual conduct (2nd degree).

His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled May 5. Bond was revoked. The incident with which he is charged occurred Feb. 26.

John M. Springer, 25, of Otisville, stood mute to charges of child abuse and supplemental information.

Pleas of innocent were entered and pretrial hearing scheduled April 7, to be preceded by hearing of pretrial motions. Bond was continued.

He is charged in connection with injuries to his son Jan. 4 when he (Springer) was living in Caro.

A new pretrial hearing for Marshall C. Deline, 33, of 9471 State Road, Millington, was scheduled April 7, he having failed to appear at the originally scheduled hearing March 3. Bond was set at $1,000.

He is charged with obstructing, resisting, opposing or assaulting a police officer, in connection with an incident Oct. 13 in Watertown township involving Deputy Arthur Adam, while the latter was trying to make an arrest.

John S. Beebe, 18, of 7775 Sheridan Road, Millington, was placed on two years' probation for breaking and entering a motor vehicle.

He was also sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, with credit given for two days served, and work release privileges granted for 13 days. The final 45 days is to be served at the end of probation. He was also fined $100 and assessed $100 court costs.

He pleaded guilty Jan. 21 to breaking into a pickup truck in the Vassar area.

The guilty plea of Debra Partaka, 23, of 2787 Dutcher Road, Caro, to issuing three checks with insufficient funds was rejected. A jury trial is to be scheduled.

JUDGE CLEMENTS

A mistrial was declared March 11 at what was to have been the start of the trial of Terry L. Burrows, 29, of 1114 E. Caro Road, Caro, on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

Judge Martin E. Clements declared the mistrial because of the disclosure by a juror, reportedly that he or she knew the defendant or was related to him.

Monday before Judge Clements:

James D. Sandoval, 21, of Saginaw, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail for attempted larceny in a building. He was credited with 61 days served.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Feb. 19, of having stolen $267 from a Richville gas station in December.

Richard L. Moore, 39, formerly of Mayville, was sentenced to 180 days in the county jail for violation of probation. He was credited with 52 days served. Probation was revoked.

Trucks pay $837,606 in taxes

Tuscola county benefited from a total of $837,606 paid in truck taxes during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1979, according to the Michigan Trucking Association.

The truck portion of the money paid to counties statewide represents 35.9 percent of the total amount of special state highway users taxes. While trucks pay 35.9 percent of the taxes, they represent just 14.9 percent of all motor vehicles registered.

He was placed on 24 months' probation in January, 1978, for malicious destruction of property over $100.

He pleaded guilty March 3 to violating probation by having consumed alcoholic beverages and failing to make court ordered payments in November, 1978 - March, 1979.

Huron Line Road, the truck pulled over.

Diller said he got out, pulled out his revolver and ordered the man out of the truck.

According to the officer, the man did as he was told, asked who he (Diller) was, was told, and responded, "I don't believe you." (Diller was in uniform and was driving a patrol car, according to the sheriff's department.)

The man jumped back in his pickup and headed east on Huron Line. Diller fired two shots at the left rear tire, which apparently missed, got in his patrol car and continued the chase.

The suspect turned north on Maxwell Road, then east on McAlpin Road, at which time Elkton Police Officer Lonnie Hedley joined the chase.

After less than a mile on McAlpin, the suspect driver pulled over and surrendered. The shotgun was confiscated at that time, Diller said.

Nuclear teach-in March 27

A teach-in exploring the issues of nuclear power in Michigan and alternative energy sources - wood, wind and the sun - will take place Thursday, March 27, from 7:30-9:30 p.m. at Caro High School.

The teach-in is being organized by John Carroll and his wife of Millington. Carroll is a substitute school teacher in Millington, a yoga instructor and is affiliated with the Lone Pine Council, an anti-nuclear group in the Bay City - Saginaw-Midland area.

The council will be providing a slide program and the speaker, Terry Miller.

Carroll said the aim of the teach-in will be to show there are practical alternatives to nuclear power, which he feels is not practical because of the dangers of radiation and the problem of disposal of nuclear wastes. He pointed out that March 27 is the day before the first anniversary of the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant mishap.

Sanilac commissioners defeat proposal for township road paving

The Sanilac County Board of Commissioners last Wednesday bounced the ball back to the county Road Commission and the townships in the continuing imbroglio over paving of 27 miles of presently unpaved road.

Included is nine miles of Germania Road in Greenleaf, Evergreen and Lamotte townships.

The Road Commission has signed contracts with 11 townships for paving of 27 miles of road, with the townships to contribute $4,000 per mile. The contracts date back as far as 1972.

Nothing has been done since because the road agency hasn't had any money. Meanwhile, the cost of paving a mile of road has increased from $12,000 per mile to an estimated $30,000.

In an effort to break the deadlock, county Commissioner Donald Decker of Deckerville introduced a motion at last Wednesday's board meeting for the county to pay 150 percent of the amount each township agrees to pay per mile of paving. The order and number of miles would be determined by the Road Commission.

That motion was tabled, so later in the day, Decker introduced an amended motion. That would have provided that for every $1,000 the township agreed to pay per mile of paving, the county board would have paid $1,500, with the maximum amount allowed from the townships being $10,000 per mile.

The amended motion was defeated 5-2 and then the original motion was defeated 7-0.

According to Decker, the general feeling of the board was that the paving contracts are between the townships and Road Commission and they should try to resolve their differences before coming to the county board for money.

The Road Commission has all along said it didn't have any money for new paving. Its engineer-manager, Jack Kineman, said at last Wednesday's meeting that the Road Commission would pick up the cost in excess of $30,000 per mile, should costs run that high.

Although the townships collectively are taking the position that they won't contribute more than $4,000 per mile, their contracts with the Road Commission being binding, according to Decker, some are willing to contribute more if that's what it takes to get their roads paved. Some aren't.

The next step is up to the townships, whether they should go to court to try to force the Road Commission to honor the contracts or decide to contribute more of their own funds for the paving.

Decker and Sanilac Township Supervisor Mary Schlichting, chairman of the county Townships Association, told him Saturday the townships will be getting together some time this week to make a decision.

Workshop

The Caro Schools Community Services Office in conjunction with many of Tuscola county's human services agencies is sponsoring an information sharing workshop at the Sacred Heart Parish Center, corner of Hooper and Frank Street in Caro, Wednesday, March 26, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Purpose of the workshop is to bring together all the agencies that work with unemployed persons. By doing this, area unemployed will not need to travel all over the county to find out what services are available to them.

County residents with questions about job availability or services provided by the different social service agencies, special problems with bill paying, family illness or housing problems since becoming unemployed are invited to the workshop.

"Hogs are nice to work with"

Hendrick: automation key to pig farm

Chuck Hendrick has liked pigs since he was a kid. At age 21, he is in the hog business full-time.

He farms with his father, Earl, on their Pringle Road farm in Evergreen township. Earl Hendrick has a full-time job at Hills and Dales General Hospital and shares the field work with his son, who normally does all the work with the pigs.

If it weren't for automation, the two couldn't handle the operation alone.

How do you automate a pig? You don't, but about everything else about the hog operation is automated. The setup has been functioning about a year.

Pigs are fed automatically. Corn and soybean supplement is mixed and ground with a push of the button. Manure flows down the slanted floors to a trough and from there, once a week is pumped into the slurry tank.

The labor saving devices allow Chuck to do all the normal chores involving the hogs in about a half hour. "If you had to do all that work by hand, you'd be in there half a day."

The Hendricks farm more than 500 acres, with 260 of them owned by Earl Hendrick. His son rents the rest. Crops grown are corn, navy beans, wheat, hay and sometimes oats. Other than the land, ownership between the two is split 50-50.

Mrs. Earl (Doris) Hendrick keeps the books and helps in the pig barn when her husband and son are busy in the fields. Chuck, unmarried, lives at home.

AFTER CHUCK GRADUATED from Cass City High School in 1977, the Hendrick family (he has two older brothers) faced the familiar dilemma for farm families. If he was to stay on the farm, the operation had to be expanded to provide added income.

Hogs were chosen as the medium of expansion.

One reason was that there always have been hogs on the farm. Prior to construction, the Hendricks were keeping about 100 feeder pigs in the barn on the farm next to theirs, on which they hold a life lease.

Secondly, Chuck explained, "I've always liked them. Hogs are nice to work with. They can be disagreeable at times, but you just have to be patient."

A third reason was that hogs would provide the family with a steady income year-round. There is also more money to be made by raising corn to feed to hogs than to sell corn as a cash crop.

IN ADDITION TO THE new equipment, Chuck had to learn a new part of the operation, farrowing, that is, breeding. Previously, he and his father had always bought feeders, which they fattened to market weight (205-230 pounds).

At present, he keeps 45 sows and two boars in the barn at the adjoining farm. One to two weeks before the sows are due to farrow, they are brought to the farrowing house in the new building, capable of holding 12 sows and 140-150 little pigs. The little pigs are weaned away from the mothers after five weeks and go to the nursery, where they gradually are converted from hand feeding to the automatic feeders.

After a month there, the pigs are moved to the finishing building section, where 12 pens hold 20-25 pigs per pen, for a maximum of 300. Hendrick usually sells one pen per week.

THE FINISHING SECTION is the only part which is unheated. It contains 6 inches of insulation in the ceiling and 3 1/2 inches in the walls and on a day when the outside temperature was 10-15 degrees, inside it was probably 50-55 degrees.

There are vents on one side of the building and fans on the other, and even on the hottest days of summer, the constant ventilation and insulation keep temperatures at 70-75 degrees inside. The air pulled through the building also pulls out most flies.

The floors in the hog building are slanted toward troughs that run along the walls. Manure runs down the floor into the troughs and once a week is pumped into pits. Once a week, the contents of the pits are pumped into the slurry storage tank, which can hold six months' supply. From there, it is emptied into a manure spreader and spread onto fields, which only has to be done twice a year. The pens do not need cleaning.

THE SILO HOLDS 10,000 bushels of shelled corn, a year's supply. A bin holds 12 tons of commercially made soybean meal.

A push of a couple buttons each day grinds enough mixture of the corn and soybean meal to fill two bins which hold a 24-hour supply. The feeders turn on automatically every two hours and dump a supply of feed onto the floor of each pen. Controls mounted over each pen allow the amount to be adjusted, depending on the size of the pigs in the pen.

Water is supplied to the hogs automatically, which get it from nipple spouts.

At present, Hendrick is still buying some feeders. He is gradually increasing the number of sows to 80, from the present 57, which will provide enough feeders for his own needs and allow him to sell some.

THE YOUTHFUL FARMER didn't care to disclose how much money he and his father have invested in their new facility.

Back last fall, when fattened hogs were selling for $34-35 per hundredweight, he figured the break-even point was $33, only enough to allow them to make all their payments.

When he had been to market a few weeks ago, hogs were selling in the high $30 range, which was "enough to get by at that price."

Hendrick's operation isn't big enough that he can cut back on the number of hogs being fed when market prices dip.

That is what the bigger operators are doing now, reducing the size of breeding herds and selling record numbers of hogs in a reaction to low prices. Unlike cash crops, livestock can't be held back until prices improve.

ACCORDING TO THE Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service, the 960,000 hogs and pigs on Michigan farms as of Dec. 1 was the most since World War II. The 508,000 hogs slaughtered in November resulted in the highest average daily kill on record. In January, the number slaughtered was still higher than expected.

It takes a sow normally 112 days to farrow and pigs 5-5 1/2 months to reach slaughter weight, thus hog farmers cannot react immediately to low prices by reducing the numbers they feed.

After the number of hogs going to market starts declining, it will mean the price paid to farmers will increase, and farmers like Chuck Hendrick obviously look forward to that.

Michigan State University agricultural economist John Ferris is predicting prices will be in the mid-$40s by late spring or early summer.

"I HAVE A HEADACHE" -- Pigs aren't likely to become too amorous at any hog feeding operation, such as that of Chuck and Earl Hendrick. Boars not kept for breeding become barrows at an early age. Pigs are sold for slaughter after 5-5 1/2 months, when they reach a weight of 205-230 pounds.

FINISHING BARN contains 12 pens, 7, 8 or 10 feet wide. As the pigs get bigger, they are moved into bigger pens. Each pen holds 20-25 animals. Feed comes from the row of hanging trays, one over each pen.

Extension group picks officers

The Cass City Extension group met Friday at the home of Frances Kloc.

A dessert luncheon was served before the meeting. Election of officers was held. Leader is Mrs. Rose Wortsell; co-leader, Mrs. Henry Airgood; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Irby Simcox, and flower fund chairperson, Kathy McCarthy. Miss Kloc showed slides and gave a commentary on township, county and state government. An open quiz followed.

Next meeting will be April 11 at the home of Leila Battel.

Bridges receive funding

Funding for replacement of three bridges in the upper Thumb has been announced by State Transportation Director John P. Woodford. Federal funds pay 80 percent of the cost, state funds 10 percent and the respective county road commissions the remaining 10 percent.

The Tuscola County Road Commission received funds for the Vassar Road bridge over Perry Creek, estimated cost of which is $98,900, and the Ormes Road bridge over Perry Creek, $123,000. Both bridges are near Vassar.

The road commission had applied for funds for 24 bridges and earlier received money for three other ones.

Construction may not take place until 1981, depending on when plans are completed and bids let.

The Sanilac County Road Commission received funding for the Walker Road bridge over the south branch of the Cass River, estimated cost $138,000. The bridge is near Marlette.

That county's road commission had applied for funds for 12 bridges.

Priority for deciding funding, according to Woodford, was based on condition of the bridge, its importance to the street or road network and the local agency's ability to finance its share of construction.

Selections were made by a nine-member committee composed of representatives of the state Department of Transportation, county road commissions and municipal street agencies.

Deadline nears for license tabs

The end of an old tradition in Michigan is fast approaching.

Monday, March 31, will be the last day to buy new license plate tabs. They must be mounted on plates by the following day.

Starting with 1981 license plates, they will expire on the car owner's birthday, thus eliminating the last minute long lines at secretary of state's offices.

The Caro office, located in the village hall on State Street, will be retaining its regular hours, 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Tuesdays and 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Fridays.

Tabs can also be purchased at the AAA office in Caro on Millwood Street, behind the state police post.

The secretary of state offices in Bad Axe and Sandusky are open from 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. weekdays and Saturday, March 29, will be open from 8:30 a.m.-1 p.m.

The Bad Axe office is at 47 Westland Drive, in the small shopping center off M-53 on the west side of town.

The Sandusky office is at 93 S. Elk Street.

Last minute lines this year may be longer than usual. As of March 14, according to Secretary of State Richard Austin, only 3.8 million registrations had been sold, compared with 4.3 million as of the same time last year.

New books at the library

QUICKSILVER LADY, by Barbara Whitehead (fiction). A beautifully crafted Regency romance about two young girls and their efforts to find husbands. A romantic plot, an authentic Regency setting, and strong heroine combine to make this an enchanting novel.

JUPITER'S TRAVELS, by Ted Simon (non-fiction). A fascinating memoir of a young man who traveled the world on an overloaded motorcycle and met people, physical danger, and delight, suffered joy and depression, yet grew and matured with each of the 65,000 miles and four years of his journey. These pages are packed with people and anecdotes of all kinds, and rich with humor and incisive observation. The linking thread is the author's persistent struggle with his own fears, and the search for meaning in his Odyssey.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN NEEDS TO KNOW ABOUT THE LAW, by Martha Pomroy (non-fiction). The first, complete general guide to the law for women giving advice about their rights in given situations and telling them when to go for further help. It covers family law, job law, housing law, personal law, transfer payments, consumer law, and criminal law. It also points out state-to-state discrepancies in certain areas of law and discusses when to hire an attorney and how to manage one.

Family films at 7:30 p.m. Monday: "Kodiak Island," "Consumer Con Capers," and "Pushmi Pullyu."

Kenneth Babich announces candidacy

Kenneth Babich has announced his candidacy for state representative of the

Kenneth Babich

77th district. He will be running on the Republican ticket in the August 5 primary.

Currently he is in his third term as village president of Marlette and is an instructor of American government in the Marlette Community Schools.

He graduated from Central Michigan University in 1968 with a B.S. degree in political science. Since that time, he and his wife, Ruth, and their three children have resided in Marlette.

The present 77th district representative, Quincy Hoffman, is not seeking reelection.

Kindergarten registration next month

Campbell Elementary School pre-kindergarten registration and visitation will take place Tuesday and Wednesday evening, April 15-16.

Rural parents and their child to be enrolled are asked to come April 15 at 6:30 p.m.

Town parents and their child are to come the following day at the same time.

At all schools, there will be a 1 1/2-hour schedule of activities, with children visiting their kindergarten rooms.

Evergreen elementary parents and their child will register at that school April 15, starting at 2 p.m. At Deford Elementary, parents and children should be there at 1 p.m., April 16.

Parents are to bring birth certificates and immunization records for their child to the meetings. Children must be 5 years old prior to Dec. 1, 1980, to be eligible for enrollment.

The state requires a pre-school vision test. A free vision and hearing clinic day for all pre-schoolers will be conducted at each school to meet the requirement.

Deford children will be screened May 12 and Campbell Elementary children, May 12 and 14. The date for Evergreen Elementary will be announced later.

Parents who do not bring their children on the clinic days will have to make appointments with their own doctors.

Weight limits in effect

Spring weight restrictions have gone into effect on roads in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties.

They began Saturday in Tuscola and Monday in the other two counties. Last year, they went into effect March 7.

The lowest load permitted, on Class B restricted roads, is from a normal 18,000 pounds on a single rear axle down to 11,700 while restrictions are in effect and from 13,000 pounds on tandem axles, reduced to 8,450 pounds. On steering axles, the load maximum is 450 pounds per inch of wheel width instead of a normal 700 pounds.

Comment's hot shooting puts Cass City in quarterfinals

Wow! Hawks advance with miracle finish

The Cass City Red Hawks roared into the state quarterfinals of the Class C Michigan High School Basketball Tournaments Saturday with an almost unbelievable come from behind victory over Flint Hamady, 60-59.

It was an out-of-this-world win and was made possible by some out-of-this-world shooting by Todd Comment and clutch performances by the entire team.

In a way it was a reflection of the team's performance the entire season.

Like it did in several key games during the season Cass City fell behind early and then rallied to win.

But until the final 30 seconds of the game it appeared that the age of miracles was past and that the Thumb's last representative was going to the sidelines.

Despite tremendous shooting by Comment, who hit nine of 10 shots in the last half and scored 12 of his 30 points in the last quarter, Cass City trailed, 55-50, with a minute and a half remaining. A tough call on Ken Martin for being in the lane too soon on a free throw gave Leon White a second chance and he scored to put the margin at five points.

That appeared big and seemingly erased the Hawks' last chance to win. It meant Cass City had to score 3 times to tie or win instead of twice.

Comment tossed in a jumper from the side to cut the margin to three, but Levan White hit the front end of a one and one to shove the Hamady lead back to four points with 59 seconds left.

Comment whipped in a basket from the top of the key with Hamady players all over him, to cut the margin to a single basket.

Bill Harris took the in-bounds pass after the bucket and was attempting to dribble up the court with the ball when Rusty Hoag slapped it away to Tim Johnson who pushed in a layup and the score was tied as Cass City fans went berserk.

Levan White was fouled as he dribbled the ball out front and he hit the front end of the one and one for Hamady and then missed the second. Cass City called time out with 30 seconds left and the plan was for Comment or Martin to take the shot.

Comment pushed up a 15-foot jumper and Cass City was ahead for only the third time in the game, 58-57.

Hamady was detected travelling and lost the ball. Johnson was fouled with nine seconds left. After two Hamady timeouts he calmly swished both free throws to put Cass City ahead, 60-57. John Reese hit a long bomb with two seconds left and after another time out Cass City passed in to Comment and he held the ball as time ran out.

Cass City opened the game with a beautiful fast break basket to take a short-lived lead, 2-0. After that Hamady scored the next 12 points. They whipped in two fast break baskets, stole the ball from Cass City guards for two more and, when the Hawks couldn't find the shooting range, picked up three more points. Things looked dark.

But Cass City had been in that situation before. The buckets started to drop and the Hawks added six for six from the charity stripe to pull back into contention at the end of the quarter, 14-12.

Hamady then spurred in the see-saw game and went ahead again by six points. The Hawks countered with some of their best basketball of the night to register nine unanswered points and go in front, 25-21, with two minutes left.

Hamady forced a turnover and took a rebound to score two buckets as the quarter ended and the two teams left the floor at intermission deadlocked at 25-all.

Paced by some awesome rebounding by the White brothers, Hamady spurred ahead by five points before Comment started hitting to shove the Hawks ahead briefly for the only time in the second half until the end of the game. The one-point Hawk margin didn't last long as Hamady charged back to lead by four going into the fateful final frame.

Comment made 9 of 10 in the last half and 12 of 16 for the game. Coupled with 6 for 6 from the free throw line, it added up to 30 points. Martin netted 10 points and Tim Fahrner also scored 10 while playing a very fine defensive game. Cass City hit 22 of 46 from the floor for 47.8 percent.

For Hamady, which shot 50 percent on 25 of 50, Leon White scored 19 and his brother, Levan, scored 15. Reese was credited with 10. One of the keys to the win was that Cass City was able to hold Harris in check. He scored six points but was not the dominant player he was when Hamady knocked Ubyl from the tournament.

QUARTERFINALS

The Hawks were to play in the quarterfinals Wednesday at Troy Athens against highly regarded Ecorse, a team predicted by some experts to be the next state champions in class C, despite a 14-9 season's record.

The last time Cass City reached the quarterfinals was in 1974 when Scott Hartel, Paul Bliss and company were defeated by Bay City All Saints, the State Champions that season.

The best that any Cass City team has done in history was to go to the finals which has been achieved twice. The last time was in 1944 when Cass City lost to Lansing St. Mary's in a game played at the Vocational School at Lansing.
