

County eyes millage levy

With the handwriting on the wall, Tuscola county commissioners Tuesday explored the idea of putting a millage proposal on the ballot for support of county operations.

The concern is that direct or indirect federal revenue sharing funds to the county will be eliminated.

Although the county may not lose the federal aid it receives directly from Washington, it appears the $100 million the state receives in federal revenue sharing may be dropped after this year, which in turn would presumably mean Tuscola will get less money from Lansing.

"Kicked around," in the words of Commissioner Royce Russell of Elmwood township, was .8 mill, which if approved by voters, would bring in about $400,000, enough to offset an aid loss from Washington.

The county board has until early June to decide and still get a millage proposal on the Aug. 5 primary ballot.

The board was presented with a request from the county Health Department to provide it with "pool cars" for use by employees.

At 17 cents per mile, it cost the county $19,894 last year to reimburse them for use of their own cars.

Commissioners decided to explore whether the Health Department might make better use of some of the present county cars than those from other departments presently entitled to use them, instead of buying more cars.

In January, the board approved paying a 50 percent share, $1,392, for purchase of various radio equipment to go into the car used by county Emergency Services Coordinator Frank Kroswek to enable him to be in contact with police agencies, fire departments, etc., during emergencies, such as tornadoes.

Federal funds were to pay the other half.

However, the state Department of Natural Resources, which controls the federal grant, has only authorized $1,009, so commissioners Tuesday appropriated $383 additional so that all the equipment can still be purchased.

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission was to have conducted a hearing Monday on the county board's complaint filed against the union representing courthouse employees over its negotiating a separate contract for probate court employees.

The hearing has now been postponed to May 5 at the county's request because the board wanted its labor attorney, Michael Ward, at the hearing. He couldn't be there Monday, hence the postponement to when all parties will be available.

CITIZENS OF THE YEAR - The 1979 Citizen of the Year, Bill Kritzman (center), presented the plaques to those receiving the 1980 honor, Esther McCullough and Dr. Delbert E. Rawson, DDS.

McCullough, Rawson Citizens of the Year

For the first time in the 18-year history of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce Citizen of the Year program, two persons received the honor Saturday evening, Esther McCullough and Delbert E. Rawson, DDS. Ken Martin was named Junior Citizen of the Year. The 1979 Citizen of the Year, Bill Kritzman, presented the honor at the chamber banquet at the Colony House.

Mrs. McCullough came to Cass City from Illinois in 1927. She taught school here three years and two years elsewhere.

She married Raymond (Mac) McCullough in 1931, who purchased what was to be Mac and Scotty Drugs with his brother in 1937 (now Coach Light Pharmacy).

After her husband's death in 1951, she took an active role in the business until she sold her share in 1963.

Much of her contribution to Cass City has been in music. She taught piano and violin, performed at numerous public functions, played for a women's church chorus, belonged to a popular piano and string trio and for more than 40 years, until she retired in December, 1978, played the organ and piano at Salem United Methodist church. She still teaches an adult Sunday school class and sings in the church choir, having started doing both about the same time she started playing piano and organ there.

She has served on the local library board since the late 1950s and has been secretary-treasurer for the past several years.

She is also a member of the Tuscola County Library Board and the county Board of Canvassers.

Mrs. McCullough is an active member of the Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary, American Association of University Women, Zonta Club, Historical Society, Arts Council, Hobby Club and for 40 years, the Order of the Eastern Star.

Dr. Rawson is a lifelong resident of Cass City. His father, former state Sen. Audley Rawson, now living in Florida, was citizen of the year in 1970.

The dentist was one of the original members of the Cass City Development

Corp., first president of the Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Rotary Club.

A former member of the Gavel Club, he was active in the beginning of the Christmas decoration program started by that group.

He was a member of the Cass City School Board and Tuscola Intermediate School District Board of Education for several years in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

Rawson has served on the village council since 1964 and presently is president pro-tem. While on the council, he worked to obtain land for park expansion and for support for construction of the swimming pool.

He has championed planting of new trees in the park and throughout the village.

A trustee of the Trinity United Methodist church for many years, he was in charge of the building program during its remodeling.

JUNIOR CITIZEN

Ken Martin will be graduating in May from Cass City High School fifth in his class of 163. He presently has a 3.952 grade point average.

He has been a member of the National Honor Society since the ninth grade, starting in the Junior Honor Society.

He has been on the football, basketball and baseball teams all four years, class secretary his freshman year and class vice-president his junior year.

Martin was a member of the Trip Club his first three years, served on the student council in 12th grade and has been in the Varsity Club the past two years. He is in the co-op program, working for his father as an apprentice electrician.

Outside of school, he has been active at Good Shepherd Lutheran church in its youth group and for the past two years as an usher. He has been a volunteer at the hospital gift shop for three years.

The Junior Citizen of the Year is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Martin of 4180 Hurds Corner Road. His award was presented by Intermediate School Principal Robert Stickler.

STATE OF THE VILLAGE

A traditional part of the Citizen of the Year banquet program is presentation of the State of the Village address by village President Lambert Althaver.

Although the village is in about the same financial condition as it was a year ago, he said, the future is cloudy because of the uncertainty of federal and state funds Cass City will receive. "We don't know what the future of those revenues will be."

The village will spend about $770,000 this year, which includes some state and federal money.

In addition, Althaver pointed out, the village requests.

Authorizes condemnation

Council delays vote on levying of added millage

The Cass City Village Council Monday evening delayed a decision whether to levy an additional mill on summer tax bills until a special meeting April 7.

It did decide Wickes Agriculture had delayed long enough in tearing down the old grain elevators on Vulcan Street and authorized village attorney Clinton House to begin condemnation proceedings.

Main purpose of the special meeting will be to award construction bids for the wastewater treatment plant expansion and improvement project. Bids were originally to be opened March 20, then postponed to March 27 and now to April 3, at the request of contractors who wanted more time to prepare bids.

Fifty-five contractors have taken out the bid document blueprints for the estimated $6 million project.

The council delayed a decision on a possible 1 mill increase from the present 13-mill levy for village operations because two council members, Elwyn Helwig and Dorothy Stahbaum, were absent.

It continued its discussion from past meetings about whether the added mill is needed. It did have the recommendation before it from Village President Lambert Althaver that the extra mill be levied.

He is also recommending that the 2.5-mill debt levy for the sewage plant project be continued for a second year.

Council members saw for the first time Monday the 1980 assessment report, which shows state equalized valuation for the village of $17,938 million, compared to $16,104 million in 1979.

Of the increase, according to the report of Assessor Daniel Eria, $263,100 is due to new construction; the rest is due to inflation in property values.

The $17.94 million times 13

mills would produce revenue of $233,193. An additional mill would bring in $17,938 more.

The council appears to be leaning in the direction of adding the mill because, in the words of Althaver, "I'm looking at our budget and listening to what has been said in state and federal legislatures."

What it appears will happen is that Congress will eliminate federal revenue sharing to the states as a budget cutting move, which will cost Michigan $100 million.

In turn, Lansing distributes some of that money to local governmental units. It now appears that Cass City will lose $18,000 from that source, slightly more than the additional mill would replace.

In addition, it is expected that because of the recession in Michigan, sales tax revenue will decline, so Cass City will get less from that source.

The apparent consensus is that the 1980 village budget is so tight, there aren't

Township meetings Saturday

Township annual meetings take place Saturday afternoon, the date mandated by state law.

At most such meetings, business is fairly routine, with the major items being presentation of the annual budget and approval of salaries for township officials.

At the Novesta township meeting, however, electors will be asked to consider whether the township should purchase the present Novesta Church of Christ building on Cemetery Road for use as a new township hall.

The building is bordered on three sides by the township cemetery. The church is building a new and larger structure on the opposite side of Cemetery Road. As of February, it was asking $20,000 for its old building.

The present township hall, where the meeting will be held, is on the west edge of Deford.

The meeting there and in the following area townships will start at 1 p.m.: Austin, Brookfield, Ellington, Elmwood, Evergreen, Greenleaf, Kingston, Moore.

Starting at 1:30 will be the meetings in Elkland, Argyle, Columbia, Grant, Lamotte and Sheridan townships.

The Bingham township meeting starts at 2.

JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR honors went to Ken Martin, who received the plaques from Intermediate School Principal Bob Stickler. The plaque in Martin's left hand hangs at the high school. He gets to keep the other one.

Seize $150,000 in trucks, parts

A warrant has been requested by the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department charging a person in connection with the $150,000 in trucks and parts seized last Wednesday morning when a search warrant was executed at a location in Greenleaf township.

Until then, there will not be an arrest.

The search warrant was executed on a residence and large garage on property adjacent to the highway on M-53, north of M-81.

Seized, according to the sheriff's department, were four semi-truck tractors, and numerous truck and other vehicle parts, all suspected of having altered vehicle identification numbers.

Two deputies from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department auto theft squad and an investigator from the National Auto Theft Bureau assisted at the scene.

The seizure culminates an intensive investigation by the sheriff's department and others.

According to Detective Sgt. Donald Trowhill, of the Sanilac sheriff's department, the investigation began in early January after some tips were received from citizens. The Federal Bureau of Investigation also received a call, he said.

A warrant has been requested from Prosecutor J. Anthony Sykora for the arrest of one man, with the charges to be decided by the prosecutor. As of Tuesday, Sykora was trying a case, expected to take most of the week, so Trowhill didn't expect the warrant would be issued for a few days yet.

Until then, the person involved would not be named.

Trowhill added that investigation is continuing and there may be more arrests. "I don't know who it will encompass before we're through."

Part of the continuing investigation, the detective said, is to determine where the seized items were stolen from.

The Wayne county (Detroit) deputies were at the scene because of their expertise in such matters, he explained, not necessarily because the trucks and parts were stolen from there.

Roads bad, power out in Friday storm

Roads were in the worst condition Friday they have been all winter, according to Tuscola County Road Commission Clerk Jim Miklovic.

What that means, which everyone knows, is that it has been a mild winter. Still, that wasn't a consolation to those who had to be out driving Friday.

Classes were cancelled in the Kingston and Uby School Districts. Classes were held in Cass City, but students were sent home about two hours early.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department reported numerous traffic accidents Friday because of the poor road conditions, but none was in the Cass City area.

Road crews "had their hands full on primary and state highways Friday," Miklovic said. As a result, they didn't do any work on local roads until late afternoon. They worked about two hours overtime.

Saturday, they started working on unpaved local roads first, while the surfaces were still frozen. The plow drivers had to be careful, lest they tear up the soft surfaces once the roads thawed.

Paved local roads were plowed last and by the end of Saturday afternoon, Miklovic said, apparently all roads had been plowed or if not plowed, were passable.

None of the roads was completely snow covered. The problem was the strong winds Friday which caused drifting in spots and at their peak, blowing snow sometimes made it very difficult for drivers to see.

The muddy unpaved roads and soft earth caused problems for utility crews trying to reach downed power lines, which fell because of the heavy snow on them and the strong winds.

George Anderson, Detroit Edison supervisor for Tuscola county, said several repair trucks got stuck. Thumb Electric Co-operative Manager John Kutter said his men had to make use of a bulldozer-track vehicle borrowed from a contractor to reach all the downed lines.

Anderson said there were about 1,500 customers without power in clusters in the Fairgrove, Millington, Vassar and Indianfields township areas, plus scattered outages elsewhere in the county.

Power lines started falling early Friday morning and continued throughout the day.

SNOW GOING - Cass City school bus drivers had to contend with conditions like these and sometimes worse when they transported students Friday. This bus was making its way through a drift on Koepfgen Road to return students home. School was let out about two hours early.

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Cass City does very well in the support of its high school athletic teams, but it doesn't have a corner on school support.

Basketball buffs know that Reed City won the Class C state championship this year, a goal that the Hawks narrowly missed.

One of the players on that team was a foreign exchange student from Sweden. Some folks believe that the school would not have won without him.

In any case he was one of the top players on the squad and he town evidently realized it.

After Reed City made it to the finals the town took up a collection and flew the boy's parents to the United States so that they could see their son perform.

Usually Channel 19 presents programs that are interesting, educational and fun to watch. But there's room for improvement in one area.

It's the opinion here that a little censorship wouldn't be out of place. At about 8:30 in the evening in a light opera presentation an oath connecting God and the parentage of a dog was used without a single bleep.

Hardly seems necessary at any time and especially not in prime time TV watching hours.

Arlan Hartwick was interested in the information about "Count Kef," Cass City's most famous race horse, submitted in a letter by Gerald Kercher and wrote Kercher to find out how old a horse can race and be effective. This is part of the information he received from Kercher: "Count Kef is 8 years old, I think. Race horses all have a birthday New Year's Day regardless of when they were foaled. Harness horses often race well into their teens.

"There was a 12 or 13-year-old mare named Sandra Lil who used to give Count Kef fits a couple of years ago in New York. I don't believe he ever beat her. Now she only runs every 2 or 3 weeks. The Count runs almost every week.

"Thoroughbreds generally don't race as long as standardbreds (harness horses). Jumpers or steeple chase horses just hit their prime in their teens."

CHIMNEY FIRE -- A large part of the wall, plus the brick, had to be removed Sunday at the Larry Hartwick home to enable firemen to get water on the fire smoldering in the wall. The wood burning heater had been connected to the pipe emerging from the wall.

Elkland firemen have varied week

It was a varied week for Elkland township firemen, with runs made to a grass fire, downed power lines (see story elsewhere on Friday's snow storm) and two chimney fires.

The worst fire occurred Sunday morning at the home of Larry J. Hartwick, 7169 Bay City-Forestville Road.

Damage because of the chimney fire was estimated at $2,000, mostly because the plaster and brick behind the wood burning heater in the living room had to be cut away so firemen could get water on the fire, which had remained within the wall.

The heater was removed by firemen before the cutting started. The unit was connected to a pipe which went through the wall to the chimney which ran up the outside of the wall. The new chimney had only been in use since last fall.

Apparently, creosote inside the chimney started burning and the fire then got inside the wall. Firemen believe it smoldered all night.

Mrs. Hartwick said she was awakened by the smell of smoke, which had gone up the wall to the upstairs bedroom over the living room. The fire was reported to the fire department at 7:39 a.m.

In addition to the wall, there was some smoke damage.

It was fireman Bob Wischmeyer's chimney which started burning Monday. The fire siren sounded at 6:30 p.m.

The Wischmeyer home is at 4890 Schwegler Road.

Firemen said creosote or other material inside the fireplace chimney ignited, but burned itself out by the time they arrived. Slight smoke damage was reported.

The Haire Net

1980 marked the 30th year in a row for me at the Michigan High School basketball finals and the thrill is still there.

It's hard to explain. It's much more than good basketball. If that was all there would be no need to leave the easy chair and the college or pro players coming in over the boob tube.

There's an excitement at high school basketball games that you won't find at any other level.

And you have to be there to experience it. You can't savor it over the television screen. It's what draws capacity crowds year after year to the tournament.

There's little resemblance to the game today and the ones played the first years I attended.

The players are more talented. They are bigger and quicker. But that's not what keeps fans coming year after year.

The allure of the games is the same today as it always has been.

The strong loyalties of the fans for their team and the intense excitement generated by them in a close game is what makes it great.

And make no mistake about it, the electricity generated by the fans is as real as the electricity that turns on the house lights.

It's not the large schools that generate the largest, most loyal fan following. It's the smaller communities.

In the finals the biggest and most vocal fan sections were provided by Reed City and Grand Rapids South Christian, two teams in the same class as Cass City and with fan support about the same as that provided here.

You couldn't help being turned on by the ecstatic Reed City players and fans celebrating their one-point victory in the final half second of the game ... or commiserate with the dejected Ecorse players who lost it.

The years when you watch the teams play and the local team compares favorably make it even more fun. It's not hard to see how Cass City could have been a part of it all this year.

But that's just frosting on the cake. It's a once in a lifetime thrill for most of the kids that play there every year. You see it and sense it and a little rubs off. You return home feeling a little better for having shared it.

That's what it's all about and that's what kept me returning for 30 years and makes me plan now for next year with the same enthusiasm that was with me in the beginning.

"If It Fitz..." Speaking of the ERA...

By Jim Fitzgerald

Feedback and other strange stuff...

The suggestion that Elaine Donnelly hides behind her maiden name sounded too much like a bumper sticker. I couldn't believe it. Mrs. Donnelly, of Livonia, is national media chairwoman of the committee dedicated to killing the Equal Rights Amendment for women. It wouldn't be unusual for a woman who supports the ERA to continue using her maiden name after marriage, but I would never expect a STOP ERA official to do it, especially on the sneak.

But the accusation was made by several people after they read a letter I reprinted in a recent column. It was signed by S. Chenevert of Lincoln Park. The letter rapped me for writing nasty things about Elaine Donnelly's efforts to stop the ERA and suggested perhaps my problem was that my sister Terrible Jean dropped me on my head when I was a little boy. "Pity it wasn't from higher up," Chenevert wrote.

I had no clue as to the exact identity of Chenevert, and didn't much care. I assumed he or she was simply another ERA opponent who believes I shouldn't ridicule Elaine Donnelly's anti-ERA arguments, which are sometimes pretty silly. But then I received an unsigned postcard saying: "Long ago we were classmates with Elaine Donnelly in a Lincoln Park School. At that time her name was Chenevert."

My interest was piqued, especially after I heard from several other readers who also suggested Donnelly and Chenevert were the same person. Every pique should be soothed, so I phoned Mrs. Donnelly and asked her if she writes nice letters-to-the-editor about herself and signs her maiden name to them. She said she would never do such a thing.

Mrs. Donnelly said S. Chenevert is her mother. That's nice. I like mothers who defend their children. My dear mother is dead but Terrible Jean is plenty old enough to take her place.

It would be nice if Terrible Jean would write flattering letters-to-the-editor by using her maiden name. As previously reported, she married a Fitzgerald so she wouldn't have to change the name welded to all her sweat socks.

Speaking of the ERA, I just received a note from fellow columnist Art Buchwald whose name may be familiar to you. He pleaded guilty to sharing my favorite fantasy.

In August of 1979 I wrote a column about Phyllis Schlafly, godmother of the anti-ERA movement, in which I described this fantasy. In it, Mrs. Schlafly is drafted into a homosexual army and assigned to permanent duty in a sexually integrated latrine. She is the sole supporter of 15 children because her husband left her for Joan Baez. Her sergeant is Bella Abzug.

Seven months later, Buchwald wrote a column in which he had an almost identical fantasy. When this blatant plagiarism was called to Buchwald's attention, he sent me the note, which says:

"I acknowledge that you thought you printed the article first about Phyllis Schlafly, but I had the fantasy before you did. I just didn't get it into type soon enough. Please stay out of my fantasies."

... I was relieved to learn Gerald Ford will not run for president, especially after hearing his speech blasting Jimmy Carter's handling of the hostage crisis in Iran. Ford made it clear that, if he were president today, he would take a much more hard-headed approach to freeing the American captives.

Who can forget how President Ford rescued the crew of the Mayaguez when they were hung up on an island off Cambodia in 1975? If he were running our nation in 1980, Ford would probably get 40 Marines killed by attacking New Jersey two days after the hostages left Iran.

PEDALING AROUND

Drive a . . . ,
then decide

By Mike Eliasohn

It's Congressman Bob Traxler to the rescue of the American auto industry -- or, what Detroit can't do for itself, Washington will do by fiat ("a command or act of will . . ." not the Italian car by the same name).

The Bay City Democrat has introduced legislation in Congress that would restrict the number of foreign cars that could be sold in this country.

His bill would impose an annual quota of 1.5 million cars that could be imported into the U.S. from now through 1983. After that, there would be a further reduction of 20 percent per year.

A 1.5 million unit quota would mean a reduction of about 35 percent in the number of foreign cars sold here.

Each manufacturer would have a quota of either 200,000 units or a pro-rated share of 1.5 million units, based on the manufacturer's share of the 1979 market, whichever is larger. After 1983, the second quota would be reduced by 20 percent per year, until all manufacturers are governed by the 200,000 unit level. (This paragraph is quoted directly from Traxler's March 7 statement to the House Subcommittee on Trade, so if you don't understand it, blame him, not me.)

The 200,000 figure exempts all but Datsun, Toyota and Honda -- all Japanese, and since Honda will soon be building an auto plant in Ohio, it will presumably exempt that firm also.

The aim of Traxler's bill is to force the foreign companies to build cars here, such as Volkswagen has done.

I admit there is cause for concern. Foreign automakers sold more cars in the U.S. in February than Ford and Chrysler combined. About a fourth of all cars sold in this country are foreign-made.

Obviously, if fewer foreign cars were sold here, there would be fewer American autoworkers unemployed. Traxler says one-third of the current auto unemployment can be attributed directly to the rise in foreign car sales.

It should be pointed out that foreign cars do provide jobs in this country. Importers and dealers employ 137,644 persons, who receive an annual payroll in excess of $2 billion, according to the American Imported Automobile Dealers Association. (Though their figures may be biased, no one else has bothered to count.)

Also, foreign-made cars on the average get better mileage than do American ones, so without the foreign ones on the road, Americans would be consuming more gasoline than they do now. (I'm talking about averages. There are, of course, lots of American cars that are more economical than many foreign ones.)

I don't like Traxler's bill for various reasons.

First, it reduces car buyers' freedom of choice. With the exception of the made-in-Pennsylvania Volkswagen Rabbit, which uses a German-made engine (plus all the company profits go back to Germany), the most economical cars available are foreign-made.

Thus if one buys a car strictly on the basis of economy, he buys a foreign car -- or a VW.

Secondly, by restraining import of any product, that reduces the incentive for American manufacturers to improve their products.

Because American companies are being forced to compete, they are developing higher mileage, more desirable cars. Admittedly, the government-imposed mileage standards are also a factor.

The General Motors X-cars were the first on the new generation and this fall, Chrysler and Ford will have new front-wheel drive models in their showrooms.

Unfortunately for econobox buyers -- those seeking the highest possible mileage -- it looks like it is going to be 1985 before Detroit has models competitive with the most economical of present-day imports.

Until then, I don't feel it is proper to deprive Americans of all possible choices. When Detroit finally does offer super economy cars, I don't think the foreign autos will be as big a threat.

In the meantime, our government could strictly enforce the law against dumping, that is, foreign manufacturers selling products for less in this country than they are sold for in their home country.

Our government has always claimed such charges are difficult to prove, thus usually chooses to do nothing. Proving such charges would force foreign manufacturers found guilty to raise their prices, but wouldn't decrease their products' availability.

Farm facts

The 1979 U.S. corn crop, at 7.4 billion bushels, alone outstrips the harvest of all Soviet grains. That happened once before, in 1975.

U.S. agricultural exports in fiscal 1979 reached a record high of $32 billion, double the amount of imports.

"DRACULA, BABY" -- Dr. Seward (Scott Krueger) gives Renfield (John Scollon) a shot in the arm, while Count Dracula (Steve Corcoran) terrorizes Lucy (Jane Hobart) in action from "Dracula, Baby," the all-school play to be presented in the Cass City High School cafeteria Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Jewelry, clothing and some other items, worth more than $1,200 total, were reported stolen from a Cass City home.

Donald Smith of 6645 M. Street told village police Saturday he and his wife returned home March 3 to discover a 6-inch hole in the bathroom window.

The window was repaired and they thought nothing of it until last Thursday, when Mrs. Smith noticed half the panels in her kitchen curtains were missing.

Further checking found other items missing, a pearl necklace and earrings, $700; blue coat, $82; three dresses, $210; three pant suits, $200, and two small wood boxes, one containing jewelry, $20, and the other, $7 in cash. The curtains were worth $70 and the broken window cost $30 to repair.

Jury finds Periso guilty in sexual assault case

A Circuit Court jury last Wednesday found Raymond D. Periso guilty of a charge of criminal sexual conduct (1st degree).

Periso, 17, of 1545 Phillips Road, Cass City, was found guilty in connection with an incident June 28 in Novesta township.

Judge Martin E. Clements presided over the two-day trial. After the jury's verdict, he continued Periso's bond until sentencing April 21.

In cases heard Monday before Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley:

Kenneth G. Robinson, 32, of 6332 First Street, Mayville, was placed on three years' probation for receiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

He was also sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, credited with two days served, fined $200 and assessed $200 court costs.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Feb. 11, in a plea bargain agreement with the prosecution, in exchange for which, a second receiving and concealing charge was dropped.

His guilty plea involved purchase of a stolen motorcycle from William Payea last September in Vassar township.

The cycle was stolen as part of a multi-county theft ring operation. In January, Payea, a Vassar resident, was sentenced in Crawford County Circuit Court to 6-10 years in Jackson state prison on charges of breaking and entering for his role in the operation.

Sentencing of Larry Spencer, 35, of Otisville, on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor (2nd offense) was delayed six months. Bond was continued.

Claudette M. Talkott, 28, of 6024 Fox Street, Mayville, pleaded guilty to a charge of insufficient funds - check, in connection with writing of three checks totaling $62, drawn on the First State Bank of Saginaw.

Her plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled April 28. Bond was continued.

William W. Brown, 19, of 704 W. Huron Avenue, Vassar, failed to appear for arraignment on a charge of uttering and publishing, involving cashing of a fraudulent check for $50 at a Vassar service station in December.

His bond was forfeited and a bench warrant for his arrest issued.

DISTRICT COURT

Wallace Kappen of 3192 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, pleaded guilty in District Court to a charge of selling milk containing antibiotics.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and fined him $63, with court costs of $37.

The action took place Feb. 25 and was reported by the Michigan Department of Agriculture Bureau of Consumer Protection.

Altar Society plans activities

The March 10 meeting of the St. Michael's Ladies Altar Society was called to order by President Florence Szostak.

Father William O'Shea opened the meeting with an inspirational reading. Fifteen members were present and a new member was introduced. Treasurer, Maxine Kozlowski, gave the financial report and also reported on the results of the February bake sale and the organ fund.

Purchase of a new altar cloth was approved. Wednesday, March 26, was designated as the day for cleaning the church. An Easter flower collection will be held before and after masses Saturday, March 29, and Sunday, March 30.

The mother-daughter breakfast will be Sunday, May 11, chaired by Mary Ann Megge and Marguerite Krywko.

Revision of the bylaws of the Altar Society was discussed and further deliberations will take place at next month's meeting.

Other activities which were brought up, to be discussed in more detail at future meetings, were the breakfast for the 1980 graduates of Kingston, Cass City and Marlette High Schools (members of St. Michael's Parish); father-son breakfast; bake sale to be held in June, and the Red Cross Bloodmobile scheduled for October.

Next meeting will be Monday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m.

Curtis Cleland makes, plays 3-string fiddle

Curtis Cleland likes to fiddle around and he has a string missing.

Nothing wrong with that. The Germania Road, Holbrook, resident, 64, has been playing a fiddle since age 12. He still owns his first violin.

His newest violin, which he made himself, only has three strings.

He read an article in a magazine devoted to stringed instruments about the "Scottish pocket fiddle" and decided to build one.

The article mentioned the instrument had only three strings, but didn't say why. There was no illustration, so Cleland had to guess at what it looked like.

"I didn't know what I was doing, just using up my scrap," he said.

The result of a couple of weeks of off and on effort was a small violin, with the top and bottom made from plywood.

The Scottish pocket violin got its name because it was small enough to be easily carried by a traveler in Scotland riding a horse. Cleland's is too big to fit in one's pocket, and presumably so were the originals, but it could be carried in a saddlebag.

The three-stringer is played just like any normal four-string violin, its maker explained, but obviously doesn't have the range. "You just don't have as much to work with."

The pocket violin is the second instrument Cleland has built from scratch. He likes to attend old time fiddlers' jamborees, though only to listen.

At one of them, he and daughter Judy Doerr, spotted a hammer dulcimer, a 26-string instrument played with wood hammers, used to hit the strings in much the same way one would drive nails.

They decided they would like one, so Cleland ordered a kit and assembled it.

The instrument proved to be too flimsy and would easily get out of tune, so he built another one from scratch, much heavier, which stays in tune.

The hammer dulcimer is not the easiest instrument to play, as it's easy to hit the wrong string while flaying away at it.

Instructors are as hard to come by as sheet music -- in other words, non-existent -- so Mrs. Doerr had to learn to play the instrument, according to her father, by "just hammering away at it."

The instrument apparently dates back to ancient Persia, he explained, and is mentioned in the Bible, although it was apparently played with the fingers, instead of with hammers.

The Appalachian mountain dulcimer is a much simplified version, usually with four strings, which is plucked or strummed. "I've been threatening to make one of them," he said.

Cleland describes himself as semi-retired. He and his wife, Velma, do reupholstering work in a shop behind their home, (for which their services are booked several months in advance). He also on occasion repairs a stringed instrument for a friend.

"I'm not a musician, by no means," he said modestly, but he knows what he likes to listen to. "I always liked a violin."

FIDDLER -- Curtis Cleland plays the three - string Scottish pocket fiddle he constructed. In the foreground is the 26-string hammer dulcimer he made.

Three plans already

Proposals many on ways to shift, reduce taxes

More state legislators are scrambling to offer a solution to staggering increases in property taxes, with the hopes of getting something acceptable approved before the voters take the matter into their own hands at the November general election. Already two tax shift plans are pending before the Legislature. A new third one recently unveiled would practically eliminate taxes on residential property for financing education.

The other plans would shift the source of about $700 million in revenues needed to provide basic services from property taxes to state income, sales and use taxes.

LEGISLATORS ARE hustling in light of the proposed constitutional amendment which will cut property taxes by 50 percent and prohibit the lost revenues from being made up elsewhere by increasing other tax rates unless specific approval is given by the voters.

Petitions are currently being circulated to get the question on the November general election ballot.

A similar plan, the so-called Tisch amendment, was only narrowly defeated two years ago as voters opted for the less radical tax limitation (Headlee) amendment, which to date has had little effect on voters' tax bills.

THE LATEST PROPOSAL, which would also appear on the ballot as a constitutional amendment upon approval by the Legislature, would eliminate from property taxes local monies used to finance education. The $700 million would be made up with an income tax increase and property taxes levied statewide against business and industrial property.

The measure would also exempt the first $25,000 assessed valuation on property owned by senior citizens to aid them in keeping their homesteads despite fixed incomes and an inflationary economy.

The proponents of the proposal, Representatives Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) and Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti), both members of the House Taxation Committee, say one of the most important features of the plan provides equitable school financing throughout the state.

"We will be sharing the wealth for all students equally," Smith said.

The representatives said no definite increase had been set for the income tax to make up the lost revenues, but estimated the increase would be over 32 percent, making the personal income tax rate 6.1 percent.

The current rate is 4.6 percent.

INCLUDED IN STATE financing will be property taxes of up to 35 mills spread on businesses and industry throughout the state. Smith said that could mean up to a 10 percent tax increase for business.

He noted, however, that because of assessing procedures, taxes will likely go down.

Both the income tax and business property tax will be specifically earmarked for school financing. Districts wishing greater income than provided by the state could levy either a 1 percent income tax or a 7 mill property tax.

Renters would be insured current tax credits although the plan does not specifically mention renters' credits. Legislation would have to be enacted to guarantee the continuation of the credit.

The proposal would be phased in over a five-year period. During 1986, the revenue limits imposed by the Headlee tax limitation amendment would be relaxed to allow for taxes for education.

Smith said the proposal will guarantee local control of education and high quality schooling. Further, he said, it would also prevent the disruption of school administrative functions because school administrators would no longer have to campaign for millage increases.

Parents can ease sibling rivalry

Parents can help minimize -- or at least ease -- sibling rivalry by doing their best to down play their new baby in front of their "old" one for a while, even several weeks. It's usually wise to keep a stock of toys on hand to give to the older child when people bring gifts to the new one.

Federal job funds plunge likely in '81

Federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds for the upper Thumb are intact for this year, despite strong talk in Washington about cutting back the program.

At the consortium administrative board meeting last Thursday, board Chairman Calvin Reibling, who was in Washington earlier this month, said the cutbacks will come in the 1980-81 fiscal year, which starts Oct. 1.

"I think the one that will take the beating is Title VI," he said. The program provides jobs for persons who would be presumably otherwise unemployed, usually working on short-term projects for governmental units (park maintenance, brush cutting, painting, etc.). Discussed at a Senate hearing

Reibling attended was eliminating 250,000 of the present 350,000 Title VI jobs nationwide.

If that happens, consortium Executive Director Frank Lenard said, it could have an especially severe impact on the upper Thumb due to various factors.

On-the-job training programs with private employers (CETA Title II-B) are presently at low ebb because private employers aren't hiring.

The on-the-job training program with government and non-profit agencies (Title II-D) is lagging because of the $7,390 annual wage limitation and 18-month maximum length of the job.

The employing government agencies can't hire someone paid with CETA funds at $7,390 annually if they have non-CETA employees doing the same job at higher pay. Few government employees these days are paid that amount or less.

Title VI has the fewest restrictions, being basically for "anybody willing to work," so a severe cutback in that program will mean a big decrease in total CETA funded jobs in this area.

The consortium will be receiving $461,101 for the CETA Summer Youth Employment Program this year, in addition to the $62,704 it has already received to begin planning. That should be enough to provide about 400 jobs for youths from low-income families, ages 14-21.

The consortium has also received $134,383 to be used for other CETA programs, that similar agencies elsewhere in the state couldn't use.

The board accepted the resignation of program coordinator Alfred Berry, who has accepted a job as CETA planner in St. Clair county. The person hired as his replacement, for what is the No. 2 position in the agency, will start at $17,500 annually.

New television system allows deaf to 'hear' shows

THEN: Since the early days of television, the nation's hearing-impaired population could see programs on the screen, but they couldn't understand what was being said. The picture improved somewhat in 1975 when the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) began offering a few "open captioned" programs. With this system, captions could be seen on all TV screens, but programming was limited due to objections from hearing viewers.

NOW: Beginning in early 1980, a "closed captioning" system will be initiated by PBS, ABC and NBC with the help of the nonprofit National Captioning Institute, which captions television programs. By attaching an adapter unit to a standard TV set or using a set with built-in decoding equipment, viewers will be able to see many major prime-time programs.

received $90,000 last year from Washington for improvements in the industrial park, is getting $180,000 in federal cash this year for the Doerr-Garfield street project and may get money for new tennis courts.

In what will be the costliest project ever in Cass City, the federal government is paying 75 percent and the state 5 percent of the estimated $6 million cost of the sewage treatment plant project. Construction bids will be opened Thursday.

Master of ceremonies for the program was chamber President Tom Herron. Rev. Harry Capps gave the invocation.

The financial report of the chamber, made available at the event, showed the organization with a deficit as of March 22 of 1978. The organization took in $13,732 during the past fiscal year and spent $15,517. (It started last year with a surplus of $817.)

The big reason for the present situation was the July 4th festival. The chamber spent $11,020 on it and took in only $6,831.

enough, if any, items that can be eliminated to make up for a loss in revenue.

The village charter authorizes the council to levy up to 17 mills.

DEMOLITION

The village was notified by Wickes Agriculture in a letter in late February that permission had been requested from the firm's main office in California to have the old Vulcan Street elevators demolished.

The village Planning Commission at its recent meeting recommended the council start condemnation proceedings and Monday, it concurred.

House, the village attorney, was notified Tuesday of the council's decision. He didn't know without first researching the matter how long it will take before the property is officially condemned and demolition has to start or whether there might be some other legal remedy, according to village Superintendent Lou LaPonzie.

It was reported that demolition of the Grand Trunk depot on Garfield Street has started. The railroad has contracted with Mike Bryant of Cass City to do the work.

The latest in the three-year struggle to have the Margaret McNeil covered basement demolished is that county Prosecutor Artis

Noel has sent the woman a letter telling her to contact the county building inspection department, otherwise legal proceedings will be instigated. The abandoned house is at Houghton and Brooker Streets. Mrs. McNeil lives in a Pontiac nursing home.

OTHER ITEMS

A contract was approved with the certified public accounting firm of Yeo and Yeo to perform the 1980 village audit at a cost of $5,200-$5,900. The 1979 maximum was $5,300.

The council will consider seeking bids to perform the 1981 audit.

Althaver appointed new trustee Lynda McIntosh to the parks and recreation and streets and parking committees and made her chairman of the Memorial Day parade (a tradition reserved for new council members).

Reappointed to the Planning Commission was Lee Rabideau. Ex-council member Nat Tuttle was appointed to fill a vacancy. The terms are for three years.

Reappointed to the Zoning Board of Appeals for three years were Bernard Freiburger and Gerald Prieskorn. Renamed to the Library Board for three years were Esther McCullough and Maynard McConkey.

Joe Howey of 7850 Kelly Road, at $471.59, was highest of two bidders for purchase of the 1977 police car, which has about 80,000 miles on it.

The village landfill has been licensed by the Department of Natural Resources for one year, as of Feb. 21.

Members of Local 21-M of the Service Employees International Union have been working without a contract since Dec. 31.

Miklovic said no agreement was reached Friday and didn't know when another negotiating session would be held.

day. The last of the repairs were made by 3 a.m. Saturday.

One place where power lines fell to the ground was at the Erla's slaughter house on Cemetery Road, just south of Cass City.

The lines were sparking, so Elkland township firemen were called to the scene. That was at 5:30 a.m. They stayed until Edison repair crews arrived. There was no fire.

The utility also had an outage in the Ubley area, beginning about 4:40 a.m.

Kutter said most of the outages for his company were along the shoreline in Sanilac county and in Watertown township, south of Sandusky. There were scattered outages elsewhere, including some in Tuscola county.

Power was restored in most places by 4 p.m. with the last of the repairs completed by 7:30 that evening.

The mild winter has meant a savings for the Road Commission, Miklovic said, but it isn't possible to say how much. Money was saved in such items as overtime, fuel and equipment repair, however, there is no way to calculate money not spent. Instead of plowing snow, road crews were doing other maintenance work.

In another matter, representatives of the Road Commission and the union representing Road Commission employees met with a state mediator Friday, for only the second time since the union requested the presence of the mediator in late January. (A previously announced March 10 negotiation session wasn't held.)

Members of Local 21-M of the Service Employees International Union have been working without a contract since Dec. 31.

Miklovic said no agreement was reached Friday and didn't know when another negotiating session would be held.

Theo Cleland college grad after 9 years

It was a long nine years of effort for Theo J. Cleland, but it was worth it. The 36-year-old mother of three earned her bachelor of business administration degree at the end of the fall semester at Saginaw Valley State College. She majored in accounting.

Mrs. Cleland, of 7876 Germania Road, Ubyly, worked part-time for the certified public accounting firm of Yeo and Yeo in Marquette for two years, until January, when she became a full-time staff accountant. She will be taking her examinations to become a CPA in May.

A 1962 graduate of Alma High School, she worked in Lansing for a time for a bookkeeping firm, which got her interested in that type of work.

After her marriage to Curtis (Jerry) Cleland Jr. in 1962, she took time out to start raising her family before she began classes part-time at SVSC in 1970.

She and her husband, a counselor at Cass City High School, have three children: Dale, 15, Katha, 14, and Beth, 11.

"I've had a lot of support from family and friends," she said of the years she spent juggling textbooks, raising a family, and for the last two years, also working.

Until she started working at Yeo and Yeo, she took mainly daytime classes, attending two or three days a week. After that, she took mostly evening classes. Her heaviest class load was one semester when she took 12 credit hours. (A full-time schedule is usually 14-16 hours.)

Mrs. Cleland described her new career as very interesting and one which she enjoys.

SNOW JOB -- Brothers Mark (left) and Steve Dolecki of 6479 Van Dyke Road, Cass City, didn't have anything better to do Saturday afternoon so created this snowman and snow dog in about two hours' time.

An almost record year for Rawson Library

A total of 45,435 books and other materials were checked out from Rawson Memorial Library in 1979, the second highest number in history.

The record year was 1977, when 46,155 items were circulated. The 1978 total was 44,734.

As of the end of last year, the library had 13,779 books on its shelves, plus 240 records, 275 cassette recordings, and 45 periodicals being received.

It cost $31,322 to operate the library in 1979. The biggest single expense was the $15,356 for the salaries and social security of the head librarian (Barbara Hutchinson - 36 hours a week), two part-time assistants and for the person who does the cleaning.

The next biggest expenditure was $5,860 for purchase of new books.

The library, which began the year with $16,943 cash on hand, ended it with $23,942 remaining.

A large surplus is needed each year, Mrs. Hutchinson explained, to provide operating capital until regular revenue starts coming in.

The good news for the townships and village that provide a large part of the support for the library is that they won't have to give more money in 1980.

Cass City and Elkland township are each being asked to again contribute $4,500. The other townships pay at the rate of 35 cents per resident. Elmwood township paid $436 last year (and is being asked for the same this year); Evergreen, $250; Greenleaf, $233, and Novesta, $384.

The big reason for the library's rosy financial picture is that the amount of penal fine revenue it received last year, $16,526, was much more than the $10,000 anticipated.

A factor in why the amount was so large was the first year of existence of the sheriff's special road patrol unit, paid for with state funds. With more deputies on the road, more traffic tickets were written and accordingly, more fines paid, of which the libraries receive a share.

Other revenue last year included state aid, $3,648; federal revenue sharing money from the county, $1,654; book fines, $1,051; Community Chest, $1,000; special gifts, memorial and gift books, $1,800, and photocopy machine income, $990.

The 1980 budget projects expenditures at $38,350, of which $17,000 will go for staff salaries, including social security.

The next biggest item is $6,000 for book purchases. The increased cost of books is of obvious concern to librarians. Books which used to sell for $6 or $7, Mrs.

Hutchinson said, now rarely cost less than $10.

The head librarian will be completing 10 years at Rawson next month.

Cass City couple defendants in suit

A Cass City couple, Clark and Isabelle Seeley, are defendants in a law suit filed by a Southfield man in connection with an accident in which his since deceased wife was injured.

The Seeleys live at 4627 Schwegler Road.

Plaintiff is Georges C. Gagney, driver of the car in which his wife, Bernadette, was injured.

Their car was southbound on M-53 Oct. 22, 1978, according to the suit, and collided with the northbound auto driven by Mrs. Seeley, who was turning left onto M-81. Seeley was owner of the car driven by his wife, who was the lone occupant.

Gagney claims in the suit that his wife, then 56, suffered severe injuries in the crash which aggravated pre-existing illnesses and/or injuries "and as a further result, Bernadette G. Gagney acquired active acute leukemia resulting in her death Feb. 13, 1979."

He seeks a minimum of $10,000 in damages in connection with his wife's death, plus a minimum of $10,000 compensation for injuries he suffered in the crash, plus costs, interest and attorney fees.

The suit was filed Jan. 28 in Oakland County Circuit Court. Attorneys for the plaintiff and defendants subsequently agreed to a change of venue, to which the judge assigned to the case there agreed.

It has now been transferred to Tuscola County Circuit Court and assigned to Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Berry running for sheriff

Sheriff's Deputy Paul P. Berry of Caro has announced he will seek the Republican nomination for the office of Tuscola county sheriff.

Berry, 47, ran in the Republican primary of 1976, losing to incumbent Sheriff Hugh Marr by only a few hundred votes. Marr isn't seeking re-election.

A native of Caro, Berry graduated from Caro High School in 1951.

He was appointed a special deputy in July, 1955, and worked on a part-time basis for a year before being appointed a full-time deputy in 1956. He served as undersheriff from 1969-72.

cerning all aspects of police work including police administration and supervision.

He is a member of the Fraternal Order of Police and for two years was that organization's president. He is a member of the National Sheriff's Association, a long-time director on the Tuscola County Fair Association Board, is a former special activities chairman for Cub Scout Pack 3562 of Caro, and has worked in Scouting much of his life.

Berry is a life member of the Caro Jaycees and was recipient of its distinguished service award in 1966. He is also a member of the Moose Lodge of Caro.

Jeff Berlin running for Congress

Saginaw real estate developer Jeff Berlin announced his candidacy Wednesday for the Republican nomination for Congress from the 8th district.

The district, currently represented by Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, includes Tuscola, Huron, Saginaw, Bay and Lapeer counties, most of Sanilac and part of Arenac counties.

Berlin, 34, inherited half the family furniture business in Saginaw at age 16, when his father died, and operated it until the store was closed in mid-1979.

He earned a B.A. degree in English and psychology in 1968 from Saginaw Valley State College.

He opened Berlin Realty, Inc., a commercial real estate development and investment management company, in 1972 and owns various properties.

Berlin was Saginaw county chairman for the Governor Milliken re-election committee in 1978, has been a delegate to county and state GOP conventions since 1974, and presently serves on the Saginaw County Republican executive committee, Saginaw GOP steering committee, and Eighth Congressional District Republican Ways and Means Committee.

He is chairman of the Resource and Consensus Committee of Saginaw, member of the County Private Industry Council, Northwood Institute Scholarship Auction Committee, Masonic Lodge 129 of Bay City, Bay City Scottish Rite Consistory, Saginaw Art Museum, Michigan Farm Bureau and board of directors of the Saginaw Jewish Community Center.

The Republican candidate for Traxler's seat in 1978, Norman R. Hughes of Metamora, is expected to again seek the GOP nomination, which would put him in the primary against Berlin.

Cheap ways to save money on utilities

Today's energy-saving suggestions from the U.S. Department of Energy cost less than $5. Together, they can save $20 to $30 per year in homes with gas water heaters, and $45 to $70 with electric heaters.

These savings are based on costs of 5 cents per kilowatt hour for electricity and 37 cents per therm for gas.

for the critical areas. It is also important that the insulation be affixed to the tank so that it can't slip and cover the openings later. A mistake here could cause a fire or even an explosion.

Cooling the Wash

A switch to a lower temperature on the washing machine can have a major impact on utility bills. It takes combination, the highest setting on most machines, requires 25 gallons of hot water. A load a day on such a setting, for electric water heaters, could easily cost $100 a year. Changing the rinse water to cold, which experts say does not affect the results of the wash, will save 8 of those gallons per day, or $25 a year. By changing the wash setting from hot to warm, you could save another $25. If you have a gas water heater, the savings would be $10 a year for each strategy.

To increase the savings even further, use a cold water detergent, and wash and rinse with cold water. You may be well satisfied with the cleaning results.

The gossip's business seems to be everyone else's business.

Cutting the Losses Off at the Tank

A good way to save money is to add an extra layer of insulation around the outside of the water heater tank to cut heat loss. This should save $20 a year for electric water heaters, and about $10 a year for gas. You can buy enough regular foil-backed insulation and tape to do this job for less than $5.

Wrap the insulation so that it completely encircles the tank and also covers the top. It goes around the tank like gift wrapping on a package - the shiny foil on the outside. Seal the seams with duct tape. A circle can be cut for the top and attached to the insulation on the sides of the tank with tape.

Cover all exposed surfaces of the tank, except for certain critical areas that must be left free to "breathe." On electric water heaters it is best not to cover the drain faucet, the thermostat access panel, or the relief valve that comes out of the top of the tank. On gas water heaters, a crucial warning must be heeded: Do not cover air inlets, pipes, controls, relief valves, or the flue at the top of the heater.

If you are unsure about the various crucial openings on gas and oil water heaters, you can buy a manufactured insulation jacket kit with holes pre-cut

Teen Ranch topic at Zonta Club

The Cass City Zonta Club met at the home of Toby Weaver March 18 with Janice Chippi and Colleen Krueger as co-hostesses. Mike Bearden from Teen Ranch gave a talk with a movie on the progress of Teen Ranch. He said it covers 550 acres with three separate campuses and is the largest facility for boys in the state and has the best success record for dealing with boys.

The facility houses up to 80 boys from Lapeer, Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties. He attributes the success of the boys to the love and dedication of the house parents. Bearden said Cass City is the largest supporter of Teen Ranch. The nominating committee nominated Agnes Milligan and Colleen Krueger as the two new board members for the next two years.

President, Donna Werne; vice-president, Lottie Konwalski; secretary, Betty Hurst, and treasurer, Marie Roch, will complete their two-year terms in office. Plans were formulated for a rummage sale in the spring with Edith Little as chairman. Next meeting will be April 15 at Florence Karr's with Betty Hurst and Shirley Buschlen as co-hostesses.

Meredith Auten remembers

Fred Striffler, Herb Orr and Clarence Myers came over to Cass City to begin a Rotary Club. I was not for it. They invited me over to Caro to a large Rotary meeting, where many clubs were in attendance. I sat at a table where the man next to me was a referee-in-bankruptcy. Clarence Myers asked me to come to the head table. I then sat next to Paul King, whom I knew. Clarence asked me to say a few words. I said that when I came in, I sat next to a referee of bankruptcy. I was then taken to the head table. "Opposite me sits Hoke Smith, to whom all Tuscolaites go when they get into financial trouble," I continued. "At the head of the table, I see Paul Woodruff, to whom Huron businessmen go, and I pick up the programs and see that Paul King, the state referee in banking, is the guest speaker. I said to myself, 'This is a damn good club to join if you want to go bankrupt!'"

The Rotary Club was organized in Cass City when I was in Detroit and I found myself president. We soon had charter night at the school. The accident took place at 12:20 a.m., east of Phillips Road. Connie J. Duey, 29, of Caro, sought her own treatment after an 8:50 p.m. accident Monday. Caro state police reported she was eastbound on M-46, east of M-24, when she lost control of her car on some ice. It crossed the centerline and hit the westbound car of Newell Harris, 38, of 4630 Huron Street, Cass City. Ms. Duey was cited on a charge of driving left of center. At 12:30 p.m. last Thursday, deputies reported, Melissa Ann Kelley, 16, of 6632 Houghton Street, was pulling into the Croft-Clara Lumber Co. lot in Cass City and ran into the back of a vehicle that was backing out of a parking place. Driver of the other vehicle was Norris Lounsbury, 27, of Elmwood Road. Both drivers told officers their vision was obstructed by a van parked in the lot. A collision took place in a Walbro parking lot at 5:55 a.m. Friday because of the slippery conditions. Cass City police reported that Joann Pobanz, 42, of 6787 Houghton Street, was attempting to park her car and slid into the parked auto of Richard Doerr. Location of the lot wasn't specified in the police report.

Report minor injuries in rash of area accidents

Two persons suffered possible injuries in an accident early Sunday on M-46 near Kingston. Deputies reported that Joan E. Dennis, 42, of rural Caro, headed west, was stopped on the south shoulder in order to deliver newspapers. Its headlights, fog lights and turn signal were on. Gordon N. Teddy, 44, of 3476 Washington Street, Kingston, who was eastbound, according to officers, veered off the south side of the road and struck the Dennis auto almost head-on. Teddy was taken into custody, charged with driving under the influence of liquor. He is now free on bond, with arraignment in district court scheduled April 7. Neither driver required hospital treatment.

Sheriff's deputies reported that at 7 p.m. last Wednesday, Dale W. Heckroth, 35, of Unionville, was driving on Deckerville Road, east of Dodge Road, when his vehicle struck a deer. At 9:30 p.m. Saturday, according to Caro state police, Arthur W. Millbacker, 58, of North Branch, was southbound on Kingston Road, north of Gilford Road, when his vehicle collided with a deer. David E. Strickler, 26, of Sandusky, was westbound on Bevens Road, east of Clothier Road, according to deputies, when his car struck a deer at 8 p.m. Monday.

SVSC to host Thumb students

Saginaw Valley State College, in cooperation with 24 school districts from the Thumb area, hosts its second annual Thumb Day April 16. High school juniors from Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties have been invited to the college that day to see first-hand what SVSC has to offer and what college in general is like. Among events scheduled for the special day are a fair in Doan Center mall on campus with representatives from SVSC's financial aids, placement and academic advisor offices, fraternities, sororities, student government, and other organizations. Saginaw resident Jim O'Brien will speak on "How to be Successfully Motivated in College and Career." O'Brien, former director of Vocational Rehabilitation Services in Saginaw, has long been a promoter of success motivation. After lunch, the visitors will get a tour of the campus, and will be able to talk with current SVSC students from the Thumb about what SVSC is like in terms of classes, professors, living on campus, and student life. They will also learn how to use their senior year of high school to better prepare for college. SVSC faculty members will explain the various courses of study offered and outline the job market for those disciplines. The day will last from 9:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Students interested in more information should contact their high school counselors.

The Chronicle

Played like champions

Dear Mr. Haire,

Please allow me to use you and the paper as a vehicle to transmit my congratulations to the Cass City basketball team. True they didn't win the state championship but from the limited exposure that I had to them, I feel they exhibited the poise and manner of champions as did their coach and fans. With a team such as that and boosters such as the Cass City people, it is almost impossible not to get swept along and join with them.

My family enjoyed meeting and seeing many of my old friends and classmates from Cass City as did I. I certainly enjoyed the vicarious thrill that a champion calibre team from my old high school provided.

In closing then, let me say, congratulations and thank you.

Sincerely,
D. L. Tuckey
Frankenmuth, Mich.

Letters to the Editor

Reader sees need for free Bibles

Dear Mr. Haire:

I wish to renew my subscription to the Chronicle. I am so thankful for a publisher like you who prints a good clean hometown paper without cigarette and liquor ads.

A few weeks ago, I noticed on the front page an item stating that the school board voted 3-4 to refuse the Gideons permission to pass out the little red New Testaments to the fifth graders as they have done in other years.

How times have changed.

When I attended Cass City High School, we were given credit for Bible class the same as choir or art. The ministers of the town taught our classes.

One young fellow who needed extra credit to graduate enrolled in Bible class. After a couple of weeks, I heard him say, "I never knew Bible class could be so interesting."

My children looked forward to being fifth graders when they would receive their own little red testaments, a gift from the Gideons.

When my son David Schember was inducted into the service of his country, the Gideons were at Caro to present each serviceman with the special New Testament just for the men in the armed forces.

I appreciated each school board member who voted in favor of permitting the fifth graders the privilege of receiving the Gideons New Testament.

How I hope the school board will reconsider their decision and grant our fifth graders the privilege of receiving the testaments free.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Ruth (Knoblet) Dorman Snover

Urges support of bill

The use of chambers for the euthanasia of animals is outlawed in several states. Injections of sodium pentobarbital is the approved method to be used. A bill is in Lansing now for Michigan to use sodium pentobarbital and would welcome support.

If you want this more humane method of putting animals away you can write your state representative.

I want the drug sodium pentobarbital or a drug comparable, approved by the Michigan Veterinarian Society, to be used exclusively to end the lives of pets and domesticated animals.

The drug should be administered by a veterinarian or one under the supervision of a veterinarian.

The veterinarian would be solely responsible for the drug and the administrator's proper and humane treatment of the animals.

Severance won't seek re-election

Sanilac County Commissioner Lloyd Severance of Severance Road, Decker, has announced he won't be a candidate for re-election.

His district consists of Greenleaf, Evergreen, Argyle, Lamotte and Moore townships.

Severance is in his eighth year (fourth term) on the board. Prior to then, the dairy farmer had served as supervisor, treasurer and trustee in Evergreen township.

Airman Robert L. Drake Jr., son of Beatress D. Sosynski of Sault Ste. Marie, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force fuel specialist course at Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, Ill.

Drake learned procedures for receiving, storing and issuing petroleum products. He is being assigned to Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda.

His wife, Carol, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilmore of 5936 Rossman Road, Kingston.

Vandalism repair cost $3,000

Vandalism to a tractor in Kingston cost $3,300 to repair.

Kingston Farm Service owner Richard Walker reported the damage to the sheriff's department last Wednesday for insurance purposes, the incident having taken place Feb. 1 or 2.

Water was poured in the crankcase, Walker reported. When the tractor was used, the water mixed with the oil, causing the engine to seize. A complete overhaul was necessary, which cost $3,300.

Schelke sees pitching as key to Hawk title chances

Coach Don Schelke will get his first real look at the candidates for the Hawk baseball team this week as the school's success in basketball curtailed the start of spring sports.

Although he hasn't seen them in practice this year, many of the players who will see plenty of action are familiar. They are veterans of last year's squad that posted a 10-6 overall and a 9-5 Thumb B Conference record last year. That was good for second place.

While veterans man most of the positions there will be some big shoes to fill. Start with Tony Doerr, the portside swinger who was one of the best hitters in the league last season. He posted a .404 record and was a long ball threat every time he stepped to the plate. Tim Severance hit .421 and was a defensive standout at third.

He also was one of the big two on the mound for the Hawks.

Last year's lead-off man, Todd Alexander, a left fielder who hit .319 and was adept at working opposing pitchers for walks, is gone and so is Ray Piaskowski who filled in wherever needed.

That's the bad news. The good news starts with Earney Stoutenburg, a fireballing pitcher who also plays the outfield. He's a two-year letter winner. His battery-mate is Ken Martin.

Martin is a fine defensive catcher and is capable of hitting the ball out of sight. He needs to work on consistency with the stick. He also has a cannon arm and will see duty on the mound. His development on the mound will be one of the keys to the Hawks' success this spring.

The keystone sack will be well cared for by Tim Johnson. A two-year letterman, he is a fine fielder and has one of the sweetest strokes in the Thumb at the plate.

Tim Fahrner can play either at shortstop or first base. If he's at first it's likely that Trent Gunther will take over at shortstop.

There's experience in the outfield. Jack Groombridge, Mike Stee and Randy Ferris are returning lettermen.

A junior, Todd Comment could help take up some of the slack on the pitching mound.

The remainder of the squad will be picked from among candidates up from the Junior Varsity. All juniors, they include: Randy Severance, Randy Stine, Brad Hartel, Scott Stine, Craig Tonti, Phil Zawilinski and Doug Sowden.

Schelke sees the Lakers, Vassar and Marlette, traditionally strong baseball schools, as the teams to beat in the Thumb B this season. Development of pitching will be the key to Cass City's chances for the crown, Schelke feels.

POSTHUMOUS HONOR - Shirley Doerr accepted the most valuable offensive player award Saturday in behalf of her late son, Joe, who was the leading scorer in the Deford Community Church Basketball League at the time of his death. Presenting the trophy was Roy Hull, the league president. Looking on were some of Joe's teammates on the Argyle Catholic team, from left, Bill Izydorek, Rick Doerr and Ed Izydorek.

State's loan to Chrysler averts economic disaster

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

With more than 80,000 jobs and much future state revenue at stake, the Michigan Legislature has cleared the way for a $150 million loan to the ailing Chrysler Corp.

The troubled automaker, as part of the federal government's $1.5 billion loan guarantee, must raise an additional $1.43 billion from other sources to qualify for the federal funds.

Michigan, where a majority of Chrysler plants and workers are located, is chipping in the lion's share of a total of $250 million to be raised from state and local governments. Other states and cities where individual facilities are located will make up the additional $100 million. A major portion of the funds are coming from members of the United Auto Workers who would have the most to lose with loss of jobs if the automaker should fold.

The UAW has made over $800 million in concessions of negotiated wage rollbacks and delays of deposits in their retirement accounts.

THERE WAS NEVER any question whether Michigan would provide the money. The question was where the state, with budgetary problems of its own, would find the funds.

Without the loan, Chrysler would certainly fail, throwing those 80,000 employees out of work and putting them on unemployment rolls. Those unable to be absorbed into the workforce would ultimately end up on the welfare rolls.

Additionally, those 80,000 people would not be paying state income taxes, the corporation would not be paying the state's single business tax or property taxes to local governments and satellite businesses serving Chrysler would suffer or even fail themselves.

Conservatively, the failure of Chrysler could cost the state revenue coffers more than $600 million per year making the $150 million a small price to pay.

THE LEGISLATURE APPROVED a two-bill package providing up to $75 million from state employee pension funds and as much as the entire $150 million from state surplus funds which are constantly being invested on a short-term basis.

The second bill providing the full amount was necessary in the event the Investment Advisory Committee -- a five-member panel judging investments of pension funds -- prohibits making the loan from the pension money.

The loan to Chrysler would be a major departure in the type of "prudent" investments where pension money is being placed.

Such a loan would not otherwise be considered from state surplus funds as they are normally placed in safe, short-term, high yield investments. The Chrysler loan would be a departure from these loans as it would be for a long term -- 15 years -- and less safe.

MANY LEGISLATORS expressed concern over the loan but realized the importance of keeping Chrysler going for the good of the state. Calling it a "social loan" rather than a "prudent loan," they questioned the safety of the loan, especially when it came to authorizing the use of pension funds.

The Deford Community Church Basketball League season ended last Thursday with the Deford Community I team winning the single-elimination playoffs.

The team defeated the Deford II and Cass City Lutheran teams to win the playoff title. The Lutherans finished second; Kingston Methodist, third, Argyle Catholic, fourth, and Deford II, fifth.

Cass City Lutheran took the season title. Final standings for the season are given below.

The two-game-a-week schedule began Nov. 27. Last games of the regular season were played March 11. Games were played at a school gym in Kingston.

The trophy for most valuable offensive player was presented posthumously to Joe Doerr, who was killed Feb. 23 in a traffic accident. The trophy was presented to his mother, Shirley Doerr, Saturday.

Her son, 17 at the time of his death, played for the Argyle Catholic team (though he was a Methodist). In the 20 games he played, he scored a total of 408 points, an average of 20.4 per game. The next highest scoring player didn't come close to scoring that many points in all 24 regular season games.

Most valuable defensive player was Ed Lowe of the Cass City Lutherans, described as a man hard to keep away from the boards.

Final standings:

Team	W	L

Dietician Marion Turner says —

Scientifically prepared meals important in patient care

One doesn't go to the hospital because of the food served.

Meals are, however, an important part of the treatment process. Poor nutrition may have been one of the contributing factors why the person is in the hospital.

Feeding of patients is only one of several nutrition programs carried out at Hills and Dales General Hospital, according to registered dietician Bonnie Johnson.

There are diet classes for diabetics, individual diet counseling, the new WOW Club (Weight Off Wisely) for hospital employees seeking to lose weight, and the Meals on Wheels Program, for which the hospital prepares the meals.

Mrs. Johnson is a member of the American Dietetic

Association, which has designated March as National Nutrition Month in order to focus attention on what she says are "the benefits of good nutrition in maintaining healthy living."

Mrs. Johnson, a Caro resident, works under contract with Hills and Dales and is there one day a week, on Mondays or Tuesdays. She works on the same basis at Caro Community, Scheurer Hospital in Pigeon, Fisher Convalescent Home in Mayville and the Thumb Commission on Aging.

As a college-trained dietician, her role at Hills and Dales is primarily advisory, plus she teaches the diet class for diabetics, gives in-service training to hospital staff and counsels patients needing dietary advice.

THE FULL-TIME DIETARY assistant supervisor at the hospital is Isabelle Seeley, a certified dietetic assistant.

Her primary task is overseeing the kitchen operation, including ordering of the food. For the current fiscal year, which ends March 30, Hills and Dales has budgeted $74,560 for food.

The total budget, which includes the salaries of 14 full and part-time employees, plus Mrs. Johnson, is $192,042.

The task of running the food program is complex because there are so many different types of meals that must be served, depending on the needs of the patients.

For any given meal, Mrs. Seeley said, an average of 12 different diets must be accommodated, such as full liquid, semi-liquid, soft, bland, calory restricted, fiber restricted, ulcer management, fat restricted.

In January, the hospital kitchen workers prepared 6,226 meals, consisting of regular diets, 764; special diets, 2,153; nourishments (snacks), 313; employees, 2,678; guests, 173; and Meals-on-Wheels, 145.

The basic menu is repeated every three weeks (the average patient stay is less than that) and major changes are made quarterly, for instance, more fresh fruit in summer and more soup and meat and potatoes in winter.

"The food here is really outstanding," Mrs. Johnson said. "We get very few complaints."

When a patient is introduced to a new diet in the hospital that has to be continued once he or she goes home, for instance, because of an ulcer, it is the task of Mrs. Seeley or one of her diet clerks, or sometimes, Mrs. Johnson, to advise the patient and family about his or her dietary needs after leaving the hospital.

Mrs. Johnson teaches the class for diabetics, held from 1-3 p.m. the first Monday of each month in the basement meeting room.

It is for new diabetics or old ones who are having trouble with their diets, such as by gaining weight.

The Meals-on-Wheels program is run entirely by volunteers, for persons recently released from the hospital but still unable to prepare their own meals or in need of a special diet, or who otherwise have difficulty in preparing their own meals.

The hospital prepares the hot meals, which are delivered at lunch time. As of about a month ago, there were 12 recipients being served, who received the meals either two, three or five days a week.

The recipients pay all or part of the cost. Meals-on-Wheels gets the rest of the money from donations and reimburses the hospital for the cost of preparing the meals.

A NEW NUTRITION program at the hospital is for the benefit of employees seeking to shed weight.

The Weight Off Wisely Club was organized by Judy Eskelsen, RN, who teaches the Wednesday afternoon class. Mrs. Johnson helps her prepare materials for the class.

Along with the teaching is the weigh-in. Members had to set their own goal, but needed to lose at least 10 pounds to join.

As an incentive to lose, members contribute a minimum of $1 each per week. If they make their goal, they get their money back. If they don't, the money is used for purchase of educational materials for the class.

The WOW Club was started in mid-February and has about 30 members.

Even registered dieticians are not exempt from being overweight. When the club was organized, Mrs. Johnson was the first to join.

HIGH COST

The world will allow a man to have his own way if he is willing to pay the price.

FRIENDLY ADVICE -- Bonnie Johnson (left), registered dietician at Hills and Dales General Hospital, reviews a meal planning guide with Mary Hoff of Van Dyke Road, Cass City.

CHECKING TRAYS for the noontime meals at Hills and Dales is Isabelle Seeley, the dietary supervisor. In the background is Marion Turner. Cards on tray in foreground will be used to designate the type of diet on each meal tray.

Obesity leads to serious ailments

From a nutrition standpoint, obesity is probably the No. 1 health problem, according to Bonnie Johnson, registered dietician at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Being overweight can lead to a variety of problems, including diabetes, high cholesterol, stroke, hardening of the arteries and back and leg problems.

Eating the proper foods in the proper amounts, according to a pamphlet she has, means proper growth and repair of body tissues, energy, prevention of "deficiency diseases," such as anemia, rickets, scurvy and goiter and resistance to disease and infections.

In addition to too many Americans eating too much, another problem in this age of junk food is that they don't eat the proper foods for a well-balanced diet.

"We find people consuming too many fats, salt and sugar," Mrs. Johnson said. She attributes part of the blame on the pace of modern living, with persons eating out more and cooking more instant foods.

It is possible, she pointed out, to eat at a fast food restaurant and get a balanced meal, but not by eating just a hamburger, French fries and a soft drink.

For starters, don't order the hamburger that comes with three slices of bun.

That's too much starch for adults.

Red meat is not bad for adults, the dietician pointed out, as long as it isn't eaten in excess. A good substitute for the hamburger, however, would be the filet of fish.

Milk is a nutritious substitute for a soft drink. Adults should drink skim milk or low fat.

Most fast food restaurants don't serve fresh vegetable salads or fresh fruit, however, substitutes for those respectively are tomato juice and fruit juice, available at some places throughout the day.

Somewhat surprisingly, Mrs. Johnson says a lot of misconceptions among those who believe in eating health foods.

It isn't necessarily that health foods are bad, but that they are unnecessary and thus is money spent unwisely as items purchased in health food stores cost more than in regular groceries.

"I am finding young couples, maybe those who were on college campuses or moved from cities, have picked up those ideas (that health foods are better)," she said.

She cited an article from Michigan Health Educator magazine, in which was stated, "Foods grown with chemical fertilizers are as healthy as foods grown with natural fertilizers."

Library receives donations

The monthly meeting of the Rawson Memorial Library board was held at the library March 18 with all board members except Barbara Tuckey present.

Attending were president, Mrs. K. I. MacRae; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Esther McCullough; board members Mrs. Lucy Auten, Lou LaPonsie and Maynard McConkey and librarian Mrs. Barbara Hutchinson.

There was a discussion of the open-meeting rule and henceforth there will be a public notice of the regular meeting to be held the third Tuesday of each month at 9:30 a.m.

The library is to receive 5 percent of the estate of the late Mrs. Esther Benkelman. A recent contribution to the library furnishings are chairs and a caddy for the new room, given by the Cass City State Bank.

Also up for discussion was the proposed purchase of a new bike rack, new front door and a special table for the Com Cat microfilm reader.

Long range plans are for the librarian to attend a six-sessions workshop in Saginaw this summer.

Next meeting will be April 15.

Bike-a-thon chairmen announced

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has announced local chairmen for the 1980 "Cycling for CF" bike-a-thon throughout the state, to be conducted in April, May or June.

Rev. Bob Combs and the Riverside Church of God will be hosting the Cass City event for the first time ever.

Charles Shanlian will be conducting one in the Gagetown-Owendale area, which last year raised $124.

Chairmen for the Snover event, which last year raised $872, will be Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hughes.

Money raised will be used by the CF Foundation in its efforts to find a cure for the children's lung disease.

Milk output up 7%

A decline in cow numbers on Michigan dairy farms from a year ago failed to disrupt the overall increasing trend in milk production, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

A total of 389 million pounds of milk flowed in the state during the month of February, 7 percent above a year ago. Increased production per cow of 8 percent offset the 3,000 head decrease from February, 1979. The average price received for all milk was $13 per hundredweight, unchanged from January, but a $1.10 jump from a year earlier.

Costs were up also. For instance, replacement milk cows inched up $5 from last month to $1,180, which was $230 above February, 1979. Complete dairy feed with 16 percent protein averaged $170 per ton in February, $10 above a year ago.

U.S. February milk production totaled 9.9 billion pounds, increasing over 6 percent from the previous year.

Make the most of your day by making the most of each hour.

AROUND THE FARM Not ready for alternate fuel farm production By Don Kebler

It would be nothing new that I remark there is more than a token interest in farm production of fuel sources. The two are alcohol and methane gas.

The big question in both cases is where can one purchase the production equipment and/or where are the plans to make and operate your own.

The answer to both of these questions is the same. There is no known system developed to meet the production needs for a farm operation.

At present there is large volume commercial fermentation and distilling equipment and units too small for individual farm alcohol needs. In other words, the units are too big or too small for individual farm needs.

Methane generators are of the large volume type and are either too costly or the livestock operation does not provide sufficient animal waste to make the unit work economically.

Shown at a recent seminar was a methane gas generation system owned by a dairyman. Calculating interest and principal, without any repair or maintenance costs, showed the person to have a costly toy.

The dollar value of methane gas produced by this system working at maximum production showed it would take between 17 and 20 years to break even - providing the system didn't wear out before that time.

In general, the situation is this. A lot of public and private monies are being expended to develop and produce both types of substitute fuel sources for farm and otherwise. Like anything else started from scratch, the principle and system is well-known chemically, physically and biologically, but a multitude of pieces are needed to complete the puzzle before perfecting a safe, easy operable, durable and economical production device.

One unsolved problem in home manufacturing of alcohol to mix with gasoline is a drying unit to remove extra water from the alcohol distillate so the alcohol can be mixed with gasoline, stay mixed and burn as a fuel. A still can only produce about 90 percent alcohol, the rest is water and some pollutant impurities like ketones. This is only one unsolved problem.

So in the meantime, what do we do? Here are the alternatives: Be patient with the researchers, both commercial and governmental, wait for development of feasible units, or go out on a limb and buy an untried and proven unit, then hope it makes you money.

If you want to do the experimentation on your own or on a unit you buy, consider it a hobby as hobbies do not pay their way. At least before buying, get names of users from the sellers of a unit so you can talk with the user.

Lastly, while looking for a new source of making your own fuel, make good use of what fuel we have. Ask yourself - is this trip or field operation really necessary or can I double up and take less trips to accomplish the same task? Years ago, people went to town once a week and did all their family shopping. We all can do some down-shifting with some planning.

Cynthia Smith earns college scholarship

Cynthia Dee Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell T. Smith, 4657 Jacob Road, Cass City, has been notified she has been selected as the recipient of a freshman honor scholarship for the 1980-81 academic year at Huntington College.

The scholarship is awarded to first-time freshmen on a predicted grade-point average, which is based on the Scholastic Aptitude Test, high school rank in class, English grades and overall high school grades.

The monetary value ranges from $200 to $700 and is renewable for the remaining years at Huntington if the student maintains a high enough cumulative grade point average.

Cynthia graduates from Cass City High School in May, where she is a member of National Honor Society, student council, assistant editor of the yearbook, has won three awards for school writing contests and has participated in freshman basketball and junior and varsity volleyball.

She has been her church youth secretary and is a member of the Campus Life singing group, "Satisfaction."

Huntington College, Huntington, Ind., has 525 students and is affiliated with the Church of the United Brethren in Christ.

If so, he or she must be a hermit who has lived for the past 20 years in complete isolation from all others.

The serious and dangerous health results of smoking have been thoroughly aired to the American public for many years.

Tobacco smoking shortens life. It is a major cause of lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and chronic bronchitis. It is associated with other cancers,

New books at the library

THE DEVIL'S ALTERNATIVE, by Frederick Forsyth (fiction). It's June, 1982, and World War III is at hand. An economic crisis in Russia -- and a political struggle at the highest levels -- have forced the Soviet leaders to consider an invasion of Western Europe. The only alternative is to seek massive economic help from the United States -- and pay the cost in concessions at disarmament talks. Only a handful of people know that total war is imminent. And only one man, Adam Munro, has the information needed to prevent the war. Adam, an agent for the British Secret Intelligence Service, has been working undercover in Moscow.

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF SAFE MOPED OPERATION AND REPAIR, by Neil Schultz (non-fiction). A definitive guide to buying, enjoying, maintaining and repairing foreign and domestic mopeds, written in non-technical, easily understood style. It contains accurate information on all the new models, as well as step-by-step instructions with accompanying photographs for the repair of each major mechanical system.

BEGINNER'S GUIDE TO COIN COLLECTING, by Ted Schwarz (non-fiction). This new addition to the Beginner's Guide series is a fully illustrated introduction to the hobby of coin collecting. Here is everything the novice numismatist needs to know to start, maintain, and build a collection of American and international coins. Included are a history of coinage, in-depth descriptions of hundreds of collector's items from around the world, tips on buying and selling, information on illegal and mint issues, advice on how to care for a collection, a guide to coins as investments and a glossary of terms.

All members present. Circuit Court Judge Norman A. Baguley appeared before the Board in regard to Circuit Court Judges and Court Reporters salaries.

80-R-2 Representatives from the Equalization Committee, Township Association and Manatron Corporation appeared before the Board regarding a tax billing program.

Commissioner Royce Russell presented the following Resolution and moved for its adoption. Seconded by Robert Russell. Motion carried.

RESOLUTION

To the Honorable Tuscola County Board of Commissioners: Because of recent legislative changes and the general need for greater efficiency because of growth of the Townships and more responsibilities of Township and County Officials, it becomes necessary to recommend change in our property tax system.

After working with a committee of the Townships, our Equalization Director and County Treasurer, we would like to propose the following:

- That the County participate in a cost sharing arrangement with the various local units of government within the County.
- That this cost sharing arrangement be on a 50-50 split basis for the file creation and for basic yearly processing and legal forms.
- Any other forms, supplies, or optional services requested would be paid for by the unit using them.
- That the Chairman of the Board be authorized to enter into an agreement with Manatron Incorporated for said services.

After consideration of many alternatives, this company was chosen because they specialize in servicing local government in the area of data processing and currently service some 500 Cities, Townships, and Villages in 40 of the State's 83 Counties.

This decision will bring about a general efficiency gain amongst the local units of government within the County as well as our various County Departments.

Respectfully submitted,

Equalization Committee

Royce Russell

Robert Russell

J. Benson Collon

80-M-65 Motion by Wentla, seconded by Collon that the County of Tuscola transfer the West 1/2 of the North 1/2 of the North 1/2 of the Northeast 1/4 of Section 9, Town 13, North Range 8 East to John Monchilov and Erma J. Monchilov because of an error found on Liber 495, page 729 of the Tuscola County Register of Deeds Office, said description included more property than was intended by the parties. Motion carried.

Your Neighbor saysSome TV shows are good, some aren't

The National PTA has released its list of most and least worthwhile shows on television.

It bases its awards on what it feels are shows of positive value broadcast during the family viewing hours.

It feels the best show is "Little House on the Prairie."

Mary Alice Gretz also feels that is one of the better programs on the air. "It seems to be good for the kids," she said, adding, "My husband likes to watch it."

She does also sometimes, when she gets home from work in time.

A similar type show she enjoys is "The Chisholms."

"I like it when I do see it." Another favorite is a new program, "That's Incredible." "It's kind of different."

Mrs. Gretz works as a dietary aide in the kitchen at Marlette Community Hospital. The program most often discussed there is "Real People." "We're always talking about it." Three shows she likes

Community fetes team; coach and players applaud support

On behalf of the Varsity Basketball team, I would like to thank the students of Cass City High School, and the many fans from our fine community for their tremendous support during yet another championship basketball season. This group of young men realizes the importance of your enthusiastic support and has been inspired weekly by it. I hope as athletes we can always represent Cass City in a positive manner.

The team appreciates the following people who so graciously made donations for tournament pre and post game meals and of course the Cass City Lions Club for providing a charter bus to Troy Athens March 19.

ROB CLARKE

A senior. Rob Clarke was the best jumper on the team. He was valuable in several games when Ken Martin ran into foul trouble. A strong team player he was a big booster for the team when he watched from the bench. He's the type player the coach appreciates even though fans sometimes fail to know his true value to a championship club.

TIM FAHRNER

A senior. Fahrner sat out his junior year with injury. He worked his way back into the starting line-up with some outstanding play during the summer. He was Cass City's leading rebounder and his quickness made him the player Nurnberger looked to on defense to stop his opponent's best forward. He logged more playing time than any other player. He's a second team all-conference selection.

TODD COMMENT

A junior. A football injury kept Comment off the floor for the first three games and hampered his development during much of the regular season. Cass City's best outside shooter, his height, 6-2½ and growing, helps in the rebounding department. He worked his way into the starting lineup for the tournaments and added to Cass City's scoring punch.

RANDY FERRIS

A senior. Randy is in his second year on the varsity. He is a good shooter and was used in spot situations all year. On nearly any other team in the Thumb B Association he'd have been a starter and a top scorer. Most years he would have been one for Cass City. But during his years here Cass City was loaded with good guards.

BRIAN deBEAUBIEN

A junior. Brian didn't figure to play much this year and he knew it. His development toward next season was hampered by a string of injuries. He's on crutches now. But he accompanies the team on every game and is one of the club's strongest boosters. He's the type of player and individual that everyone hopes will do well. He helps the team without playing.

TRENT GUINTHER

A senior. Trent didn't see much playing time this season. When he did he showed flashes of ability. His problem was that he wasn't tall enough for a guard and was facing competition on the front line by much taller players. Trent was one of the most popular players on the team and a big favorite with the fans when he took the floor.

Championship season: woeiful beginning, glorious ending

It was a season that started miserably and ended gloriously for the Cass City Red Hawks.

Cass City was a heavy favorite to take the conference crown and the Lakers were expected to be the chief challengers. The luck of the schedule pitted the two best in the opening game. That was expected to be in Cass City's favor with a veteran team.

But it didn't turn out that way. Injuries to Todd Comment, Ken Martin and Tim Fahrner hurt. The Lakers took command with hot shooting guards to post a 60-57 win and the Hawks' hopes for a title appeared slim.

Next on the list was Caro, which was expected to be the best of the rest in the league. The Hawks handled them, 73-54, and Craig Tonti started to assert himself as the guard Coach Ron Nurnberger was looking for. He scored 16 points.

The first of many one-sided victories was posted by the Hawks over North Branch, 83-59. Everybody played, everybody scored. The Hawks moved outside of the league for the first time to play USA and it was nearly a duplicate of the North Branch blow-out. Cass City won, 83-59.

It was back to league action following the Christmas holidays and Marlette bowed, 59-40. Fahrner scored 16 to show the way in a lackluster game.

The Hawks put it all together against Mayville and the result was an 80-51 decision for Cass City. That set the stage for the first big test of the year.

The Lakers had been defeated and Vassar was leading the league with a 4-0 mark. The game played at Vassar was a good one and Cass City, led by Tonti with 22 points and Martin with 19, registered a key 74-68 win to make a three-way tie for the league lead.

It was out of the league again for a game with Harbor Beach. The Pirates bowed, 65-50, in a game without much excitement.

The Hawks didn't look all that impressive against the Pirates or against Bad Axe in the next game. Cass City waited until the final quarter to pull away, 57-45.

Cass City tuned up for the most important game of the regular season with a 93-47 win over Sandusky. Five players scored in double figures and everybody scored.

The Hawks were on their game after a slow start in the first quarter to take the league lead with a 68-58 decision over Lakers. It was a game where Tim Johnson won his spurs as a guard for the team.

Cass City suffered a let-down in the next game against Mayville but managed to win, 68-58, as Johnson scored his career high of 23 points.

Cass City jumped off to an early lead to top Caro, 69-54, and Fahrner showed his value taking over at center when Martin was on the bench with fouls.

Cass City rolled past North Branch, 69-46, and easily topped Marlette, 76-44, to set the stage for the return match with Vassar, the last league team with a chance for an upset.

That game was settled early as Cass City scored the first 11 points and went on from there for an easy, 80-64, decision. Cass City was tested by a traditional foe in the next game. The Hawks and Frankenmuth battled for three quarters before Cass City spurred in the final frame to win, 62-52.

Returning to league action, everybody played as Bad Axe bowed, 74-34. The Hawks helped USA open its new gym in the next encounter and the Patriots staged a serious challenge before bowing, 60-53, as Tonti scored 28 points, the best of his career.

The Hawks had already clinched a share of the title before the final game against Sandusky. A win would give them an undisputed championship. It was no contest as the Hawks went ahead early and waltzed to an 81-45 decision. Comment showed his shooting ability with 18 points.

In the district tournament the luck of the draw pitted Cass City against Brown City in its first game. Brown City boasted a 17-3 record and fans were looking for an exciting game. It proved to be a blowout. The Hawks won, 80-61, in a game that was decided by halftime.

That set the stage for the district finals against Sandusky. There wasn't much excitement, much concern over the title game. After all Cass City had defeated Sandusky twice by 38 and 46 points.

Everybody knew that Sandusky had no chance except Sandusky. The Redskins came out in a slowdown offense and fought Cass City to the wire before losing in the final period, 44-33.

Cass City had a much easier time in the first round of the regionals. Capac was talent-poor and the Hawks rolled to the finals, 83-54, as everybody played when the Hawk margin zoomed to 40 points early in the final period.

That set the stage for the finals against a fine Flint Hamady team. The Hawks moved into the quarterfinals on the heels of a fabulous shooting night by Comment who scored 30 points in a 60-59 come-from-behind victory.

THERE WAS GREAT FAN support and excitement before the game, some fierce competition during the confrontation with Ecorse and tears and sadness after the narrow loss in the quarterfinals.

BRAD HARTEL

A junior. Early in the year Hartel knew that he would receive limited playing time this season. He chose to be a part of the team anyway. He worked on his game and added to his ball handling ability with an eye towards next year. He'll be one of several with an opportunity to contribute in 1980-81 as Cass City seeks to continue its basketball dominance.

RUSTY HOAG

A senior. Every championship needs a couple of Rusty Hoags. The kind of guy that can come off the bench or start and do a job. Hoag was able to play either forward or guard. He is the fastest man on the team and often was placed on the opposition's best player. The big thing about Hoag was that he could go in and the team wasn't hurt in the slightest.

TIM JOHNSON

A senior. Coach Ron Nurnberger says that Johnson's value to the club can't be measured by the statistics. He knows his role and he plays it, says the coach. The role is to take the opponent's best guard on defense, handle the point on offense and get the ball to the players who should be scoring.

TOM LOOMIS

A junior. Another of the Hawks waiting for next year and learning while doing it. He plays on the scout squad and forms the competition for the regulars during the practice sessions. You won't read his name in the box scores much this year but his role was a vital one in making a championship Cass City team again.

KEN MARTIN

A senior. Winding up his second year as a regular. He's a player that Coach Nurnberger described as one that Cass City just couldn't get along without. An all-conference player in basketball and in football. Martin's value to the team was apparent when he was forced to the bench with foul troubles in close games.

STEVE RICHARDS

A senior. He's the hardest worker on the squad. He's been at his best when the pressure's the greatest. The second leading rebounder on the team. He's quick enough to play at guard if needed. It's sure that Cass City could never have compiled the record it did without this honorable mention all-conference performer.

CRAIG TONTI

A junior. Tonti wasn't counted on as a regular when the season started. But he worked every day summer and fall to improve. And how he improved. By the second game he had moved into the starting line-up. By the fifth game he was the player that the team looked to in crucial situations. By the time the season ended he was an all-conference first team performer and the Hawks' leading scorer.

Team proves class in narrow loss

Hawks fight Ecorse to wire in quarter-final shoot-out at Troy Athens

TIM JOHNSON scored on this jumper as Steve Richards watched, but it wasn't quite enough as Ecorse won a narrow victory.

The Cass City Red Hawks proved last Wednesday at Troy Athens High School that they were capable of playing with any class C team in the state.

The Hawks were defeated in the quarterfinal confrontation, 56-51, in a game that Cass City had an excellent chance to win right down to the final whistle.

Ecorse dropped out of the tournament with a one-point loss to Reed City, which was decided by a free throw after the clock showed time had expired. Reed City went on to win the championship Saturday night.

It was a question of who was on top when the games ended in those contests and Cass City fans undoubtedly will be talking about what might have been if the ball had taken a couple of bounces in favor of the Hawks.

Cass City showed a little tournament jitters in the early going, missing several one and one free throws, an area where the team had been outstanding all year long.

Meanwhile Ecorse moved its fast break into high gear and rushed off to a 12-6 lead.

Cass City never caught up but closed the gap to a point twice, once in the first half and once just before the end of the game.

The first half spurge was paced by Todd Comment. He hit three of his first half buckets midway through the second quarter and suddenly it was 25-24 with a minute left. The Red Raiders added a bucket just before the intermission to lead, 27-24, at the half.

Ecorse concentrated on Comment in the second half and kept him from getting the ball in scoring position much of the rest of the way.

He added five free throws and another bucket to help the Hawks' attack.

With the attention on Comment, Cass City's guards started to operate. Craig Tonti came up with some key buckets and Tim Johnson added two from the key to keep the Hawks on the heels of Ecorse. Ken Martin and Tim Fahrner helped out with strong rebounding and crucial points.

Ecorse used its superior height to keep its offense rolling. The Raiders managed to stay from three to six points ahead until the dying moments of the game.

The Hawks kept their poise and chipped away at the Ecorse lead.

Suddenly it was a three-point lead for the Raiders, and when Comment converted two charity heaves it was 50-49.

Ecorse came down and failed to score and the Hawks had a chance to go in front for the first time in the game.

There was 2:38 left and Cass City had the ball. But a pass intended for the wing man was intercepted by Kevin Bailey, who went the length of the floor to score.

That turnover ended it for Cass City. With the lead,

Ecorse went into a control ball offense and Lance Ector took advantage of the pressing Hawk defense to drive for a score.

Holding Ector in check was one of the keys to Cass City's excellent defense of Ecorse. The senior guard was held to 13 points and kept from his usual role of dominating the Ecorse attack.

Johnson had the primary responsibility for guarding the Red Raider star who, at 5-11, electrified his followers with a reverse dunk on a lay-up.

Coach Ron Nurnberger called this his best team before the tournaments, but even he admitted that he didn't know just how good it was.

He found out last Wednesday. It was good enough to play with the very best.
