

Walbro workers ok pact

By an overwhelming margin Sunday, 292-16, Walbro employees approved a new three-year contract with the company.

The new pact with United Auto Workers Amalgamated Local 213 took effect Monday, the old one expiring the day of the vote.

The union represents 375 hourly employees at the Walbro plants in Cass City and Caro.

According to Don Tonti, the firm's director of human resources, the contract provides for a 50 cents per hour pay increase the first year, 30 cents the second year and 20 cents the third year, with a maximum cost of living increase of 25 cents per year. The previous cost of living had been 15 cents a year.

Including fringe benefits, the contract is worth about $1.98 per hour additional to Walbro employees over the three years.

Because of the state of the economy, Tonti said, wages were the big issue in the negotiations, which began less than two months ago.

Fourteen negotiating sessions were held, according to union local President Ralph Elenbaum of Sandusky, with tentative agreement being reached late Friday afternoon. Union members gathered at the Masonic Temple in Cass City Sunday to vote on the contract.

"I think we reached a good settlement," Elenbaum concluded.

CLEANING CHIMNEYS is hard work, as evidenced by the grimace on Irene Ferguson's face. The rods in the canvas bag, protruding over the side of the chimney, are attached in sections to the wire cleaning brush. The Pigeon resident was cleaning the chimney of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Frederick, of Evergreen township. (Story on page 18.)

Walbro still trying for state approval for chemical disposal

Walbro Corp. is still hoping to obtain approval from the state Department of Natural Resources to discharge a chemical it hopes to use in its manufacturing process at its Garfield Street plant into the village sewer system.

In the interim, the company is continuing to pay a Detroit area disposal firm to haul away its chemical wastes, which because of the cost, it feels it cannot continue to do indefinitely.

The problem is a chemical called Metaseal, used to fill pores in carburetor castings. As reported by the Chronicle in October, until last July, Walbro was dumping the 11 gallons of Metaseal it was using daily, plus some other chemicals, and primarily water, a total of 4,500 gallons a day, into an underground pit behind the factory.

Because the Metaseal compound used contained 40 percent styrene, which may cause cancer or mutations in humans, the DNR ordered Walbro to stop the underground disposal.

As of July 27, the firm started having the 4,500 gallons a day of liquid waste hauled away. It is taken to Wayne Disposal, a Detroit area firm, which solidifies the material and then dumps it in an approved landfill.

Because the waste hauling is too costly -- Walbro won't say how much -- Walbro wants to use a different Metaseal compound, which uses vinyl toluene instead of styrene, and then discharge it and the remainder of its chemical waste into the sewer system.

It planned to install vacuum cleaning units which would eliminate the need to use 1,500 gallons (of the 4,500) of 90 percent water and 10 percent Stanozol, a cleaning compound, and a centrifuge to reduce the 11 gallons of Metaseal used daily down to five or six.

The question then became whether the Metaseal with vinyl toluene had any harmful effects. Walbro hired a private laboratory to do the testing.

According to Walbro Director of Purchasing Bill Ewald, the laboratory is still involved in a disagreement with the DNR over the allowable parts per million of the chemical.

The state agency, the executive said, wants to require fewer parts per million (diluted with water) than Walbro feels is necessary for safety, that because of past chemical disasters in Michigan, "they're not going to go out on a limb at all."

Henry Torres, DNR water quality specialist, gave a different account. He told the Chronicle there had been disagreement between his agency and laboratory over the parts per million to be used in the tests.

That has now been resolved, apparently in the DNR's favor, and the laboratory is now testing the biodegradability of the chemical at various tolerance levels.

The state agency is now waiting for results, he said, with no time limit imposed on when they have to be in.

Ewald said he has been continually pursuing the DNR in hopes of getting the matter resolved, but so far has encountered mainly paperwork, red tape and delay.

In addition to ending the underground disposal of the 4,500 gallons of the chemical waste, Walbro last July also agreed to sink test wells. Samples from the wells will determine whether there has been any harmful contamination from the underground disposal, which in turn could affect underground water supplies.

If contamination were found, Walbro might be forced to undertake a costly cleanup, either pumping out the contaminated ground water or even more expensive, digging out the earth containing the contamination.

The wells have been in place several months now, according to Ewald, but the DNR has yet to send around someone to draw the samples to test.

The reason, according to Torres, is a staff member in the DNR underground compliance section assigned to the Walbro case was transferred to another department. No one else has been assigned yet, because those in the section are working on higher priority cases.

In approving the 1980 budget, the council decided

It couldn't afford the $30,000 it would have needed to match the anticipated federal grant it had applied for in that amount for construction of four new tennis courts.

It didn't matter.

The village has been notified by the state Department of Natural Resources that President Carter has placed a freeze on awarding of federal Land and Water Conservation Fund grants.

The project has high priority, if and when the funds are unfrozen. That could work to Cass City's advantage, Althaver pointed out, should it get the grant late enough this year (or next year) so that the village could pay the local share out of 1981 funds, if it can afford it then.

Contributions are being sought for the local share. Latest contributor is the Walbro Charitable Trust, $1,500 for the village park but designated for the tennis courts.

CONSTRUCTION, DESTRUCTION

The DNR has now given the final documents for the wastewater treatment plant project and sent them on to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for its review, with final okay there expected by May 9.

With the other procedural steps also on schedule, village Supt. Lou LaPonsie reported, construction should start by June 1. Completion date is scheduled Nov. 18, 1981.

The contractor on the Garfield Street-Doerr Road reconstruction project, Hallenbeck Construction Co., will probably start Monday, weather permitting.

TENNIS COURTS

In approving the 1980 budget, the council decided

No significant progress was reported in the village's efforts to get Wickes Agriculture to tear down the old Vulcan Street elevators. Althaver said a company official in Saginaw did express disappointment over the telephone that the council had decided to commence condemnation proceedings, that he thought the village was satisfied with Wickes' promise it would have them demolished by summer.

It was also reported the county filed a condemnation suit to have the Margaret McNeil covered basement at Brooker and Houghton Streets torn down. (See story elsewhere in this issue.)

OTHER ITEMS

The council gave its informal assent to the police department having enforcement powers at the high school parking lot, authorized by the school board April 17. The police will now be able to issue tickets for cars parked in the fire lane, for student cars parked in areas not designated for them and for improperly parked cars causing disruptions.

Highest of three bidders for purchase of the village's 1967 pickup truck was A.T. Sundman of Dodge Road, Gagetown.

Unless the cost is prohibitive, a drinking fountain will be installed by the softball diamonds in the park.

Village clean-up days were designated May 7-8, during which time village crews will provide free pick-up of all debris.

Next scheduled council meeting date would be May 26, which is Memorial Day, so it will be rescheduled.

Swimming is the same, feds empty handed for tennis

It won't cost any more to take a dive this year.

The Cass City Village Council voted Monday evening to keep rates at the Helen Stevens Memorial Pool the same as last year.

The pool will open some time before June 6, possibly Memorial Day.

Individual rates, Monday through Saturday, will be 25 cents from 1-3 p.m., 35 cents from 3-5 p.m. and 50 cents from 7-9 p.m. and 2-5 p.m. Sundays. Swimming will be free from 1-3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays for the benefit of those who might otherwise not be able to afford to use the pool.

Rates for Saturday night group reservations, season passes and swimming lessons also remain the same.

In 1979, the village collected $5,376 in fees, but spent $29,976 for operation of the pool, of which slightly more than half was for salaries of lifeguards.

Council members debated raising the fees, but based on experience in other communities, where rates were increased and attendance declined, decided to keep them the same.

They agreed with the comment of Trustee Dorothy Stahlbaum that the pool can never be made self-supporting. She added, "I would like to try to get money out of neighboring townships, if possible."

Village President Lambert Althaver responded, "We can try," but expressed doubt anything will be contributed beyond what they presently give.

TENNIS COURTS

In approving the 1980 budget, the council decided

Await layoff word at regional center

The Caro Regional Center won't be laying off any employees as of this Thursday, the date layoffs were to start, but after that is still a question mark.

According to the center's director, Dr. Marlin H. Roll, the mandate from the Michigan Department of Mental Health was that the center was to reduce its staff of 820 by 210, with 10 percent of the reduction (21 persons) to be made each pay period, starting May 1.

However, since the time the staff count was made, he said, enough persons either retired or quit to avoid having to make any layoffs this Thursday.

Before the next pay period in late May, he hopes to have heard whether the center will have received any supplemental funds, which might reduce the number to be laid off or eliminate the need to do so.

The money would have to either come from the legislature or the mental health department's limited discretionary funds.

There aren't enough discretionary funds to cover all state mental institutions which are being cut back in personnel, he pointed out, so cuts will have to be made somewhere.

If no additional funds are forthcoming, he indicated, he and the center's employees will at least know what the future holds. For starters, no more funds will mean 21 persons will lose their jobs in mid-May. Roll declined to speculate what might happen.

The state institution is close to the minimum staffing standards now, he pointed out. Once it falls below the standards, it won't receive federal funds. The loss of federal funds would be more than would be saved by the axing of 210 employees.

The regional center presently has about 620 residents. Except for one 18 bed unit for persons mentally ill, the rest are mentally retarded.

The need for around-the-clock care, seven days a week, is why there are more employees than residents, Roll explained.

Because of the state's money crunch, the mental health department is aiming to start the new fiscal year Oct. 1 with 1,625 fewer employees than it has now, with half the reduction to come from attrition, the rest from layoffs.

Apparent fire was deceiving

Appearances can be deceiving.

There was a fire, all right, but it wasn't what the person who reported it thought it was.

Elkland township firemen responded to a reported fire in the Wickes Agriculture office on Main Street at 8:10 p.m. Saturday. All they found was trash burning in a barrel behind Veronica's Restaurant next door.

Investigation found that a patron at the Big D Restaurant across the street had spotted what he thought were flames inside the Wickes office. They were actually the flames from the trash barrel fire reflected through the windows.

MOTHER DUCK -- This duck has been sitting on its eggs, a few feet from the edge of Reed Road in Elkland township. The expectant mother duck was discovered by David Holik, who lives nearby.

"If It Fitz..." 25 years later...

By Jim Fitzgerald

Twenty-five years ago today, on April 21, 1955, I proved I was a wild and crazy kind of guy. I eloped. Eloping is not something that can be done alone, so I took a bookkeeper named Pat with me. She kept the books at the newspaper where I sold advertising and wrote columns. I eloped because I thought the experience would furnish good material for a column. Pat went along because I owed our boss money for a company car I had wrecked and he had ordered her not to let me out of her sight.

We went to Angola, Ind., which in those days was something of an elopement capital. You could buy a marriage license, a blood test and a brief ceremony all in one day if you didn't mind standing in lines and sitting around waiting rooms. In case she needed evidence later, my bride took several snapshots of our wedding day. One of these photos shows me reading a newspaper outside the justice of the peace's office.

Many years later, when our daughters saw these pictures, they asked their mother why she married a clod, so insensitive he read a newspaper at his own wedding. Pat said it was part of her job as company bookkeeper.

The romantic aura continued after the wedding. We ate our marriage supper in a bowling alley in Muncie, Ind. Our first night was spent in a travel court containing five tiny units so close together they all used the same screen door. During the remaining three days of the honeymoon, I led an intensive search for a lost barracks in Ft. Knox, Ky.

I had lived in that barracks while learning to be a soldier in 1944. I knew Pat would tingle at the sight of the actual building from where her husband launched the military career that ultimately meant victory for the United States in World War II. She wasn't surprised that I would use our honeymoon to revisit scenes of my Army glory. The reason she wasn't surprised was that she had just recently learned I was so military that, nine years after my honorable discharge, I still wore khaki underwear.

Unfortunately, all barracks look alike and I never did find the right building. Pat suggested it had been moved to Arlington Cemetery as a shrine to the Unawakened Soldier. On the drive home she took a picture of me changing a flat tire in the rain. I said I should have married a mechanic instead of a bookkeeper. The honeymoon ended as we moved into a one-room apartment which featured a combination sink-stove-refrigerator and a five-year-old daughter named Karen.

Karen is the answer to those finger-counting readers who recall that I have a 10-year-old granddaughter. A guy can do it in 25 years of marriage if he adopts a five-year-old girl soon after the wedding. She came equipped with a bookkeeper. Given the circumstances of the first one, it is obvious that my wife deserves a second honeymoon on our silver anniversary. So there will be no columns here from me for the next two weeks. Try to bear up.

Originally, it was my intention to dig out my khaki underwear and take Pat along the route to Ft. Knox, perhaps skipping the bowling alley in Muncie.

Instead we will go to Toronto for a few days, for the good times and to other towns to see the children who went away too fast, along with the 25 years, and to squeeze the grandchildren who remind us how sweet our life has been.

We'll also stay home alone a lot, and it will be like so many other nights. I'll watch TV while she sews, and she'll ask me what she missed on TV while she was out of the room, and I won't admit I fell asleep and don't know. Instead, I'll tell her Lou Grant hired Mary Richards to take Billie Newman's place on the Los Angeles Tribune.

And once in a while I'll look at her, and touch her, and feel very lucky.

She has been the best bookkeeper a husband could ever want, and if I had known in 1955 what I know today, I would have eloped with her even if I hadn't been a wild and crazy guy who needed some column material.

The Haire Net

The ratings for programs during the current television season were recently announced and your choices and mine differ sharply.

They do if you watch what the majority watch.

Of the top 10, I tune in two, 60 Minutes and M-A-S-H.

And it's not the competition that makes this so. Most times when the other eight shows are aired, the competition is so weak that I turn off the boob tube and curl up with a good, or even not-so-good, book.

This year the top rated mini-series was "Guyana Tragedy," a story about the mass suicides caused by religious fanaticism. The promo for the show kept telling how this show would explore the reason for the tragedy. My reaction is, who cares?

Man, I can get to feeling low enough with the everyday demands of this job without looking for more of the same when I get some time off.

My kind of show is "The Sting," which ranked a dismal seventh during the week it was shown. The program that makes you feel good after it ends. What's wrong with a little escapism?

With this philosophy, why don't I eat up Three's Company, Dallas, Alice, Flo and the remainder of the lightweight comedies that flood the tube?

That's easy. To be enjoyable a show has to be believable. You're living the role with the characters in any good production. A plastic situation designed for one liners with sex innuendos is not funny and not entertaining.

Ever so often I catch a rerun of "Gunsmoke," that long-running western, and it's easy to see why it lived as long as it did.

Oh, there's action and gun fighting in most episodes and that's okay, too. But there's also a story, a believable story that's really the guts of the show. No wonder it lasted and lasted.

Many times when all of these sit-coms are showing, you can flip the dial and find an old movie. Some of them are really fun and if they get a little tiring you can while away a few enjoyable moments trying to identify a current star with the way he looked 30 years or so ago.

It's sure that more of these TV diversions will be needed next season than were necessary this year. The name of the game is the Nielsen ratings.

When seven of the top 10 shows are sit-coms, you can be sure that all three networks will jump on the band wagon.

We'll be seeing more girls in bikinis and plunging necklines and more almost off-color or off-color one liners than ever before.

It won't be long before viewers get so much of a "good" thing that they tire of it. When they do, another entertainment cycle will start.

Until it does I'm stocking up a pile of good books I've always wanted to read. I know I'll have plenty of time next season.

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

There are 13 yard sales slated for the town-wide garage sale event scheduled May 15-17 under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. Arrangements have been made to furnish a spot in a downtown parking lot for persons wanting it. It may be that participation has been held down for a reason that most folks wouldn't think about.

At Monday night's village council meeting, Trustee Lynda McIntosh commented that an aunt who holds a sale each spring may not have one on that date. The reason? She wants to shop all the others slated during the 3-day event.

Saturday is the last day to sign up.

And this is the final comment that you'll read here about this Chamber promotional event.

How mild a winter was it? Well, according to Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie, there were 25 water line freeze ups in 1978-79 and this winter there was one.

Signs of the times? Monday the annual Cass City Lions car raffle-banquet will be held. As of Tuesday noon there were over 20 tickets remaining to be sold. In past years the club sold the 110 tickets without strain. Due to inflation the price is now $70 a copy and evidently customers are taking a second look. The Lions do give a host of prizes in addition to the car and if the budget can stand it the price is not out of line.

A complaint of all GI's from the midwest that were stationed in Texas during my service years, was that in the Lone Star state there was never any spring. The weather went from cold to hot almost overnight. The last couple of years that's what we've been getting here and it looks like this will be another just like it.

Or am I mistaken and it just seems that way?

It may be that Chuck Klein was right. Chuck who? He's my son-in-law and was a professional pitcher with two turns on the mound in the majors.

He said two years ago that Mark Fidrych was all through pitching because of arm trouble. Since his career ended that way I should have listened but I refused to believe.

I'll still bet a cookie that Fidrych will pitch again in the majors. The Detroit baseball club is not about to pass up the bucks that he'll bring in his first start in another "test."

A raccoon was literally out on a limb Friday in a tree on Pine Street by the Robert Fischer residence.

The animal, which attracted lots of attention, was first spotted early that morning and spent the day on a limb far above the ground.

By the time Fischer left for work at 6 a.m. Saturday, according to his wife, the raccoon was gone.

Teachers ready for bargaining

The Tri-County Bargaining Association (TCBA) has notified 10 Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac county school districts of the appointment of bargaining teams to negotiate teacher contracts for the 1980-81 school year.

Negotiations are scheduled with the Cass City, Owendale-Gagetown, Akron-Fairgrove, Deckerville, Harbor Beach, Huron Intermediate, Tuscola Intermediate, Elkhart-Pigeon-Bay Port, North Huron and Unionville-Sebewaing school districts.

The expiration of 10 contracts this summer is the largest number which have occurred in one year since TCBA's origin in 1977.

The TCBA, an affiliate of the Michigan and National Education Associations, is the collective bargaining agent for a majority of the upper Thumb's teachers and holds bargaining rights in 13 school districts.

TCBA President Leo R. (Bob) Gengler, a teacher at Cass City High School, is optimistic about this year's bargaining. "TCBA is eager to secure fair successor agreements at the earliest possible date," he said. "We are confident that good faith on both sides of the table will result in reasonable contracts which will be good for citizens, teachers and students alike."

The main bargaining issues, he said, will be economic gains "during this period of rapid inflation" and "the need to secure protections in contracts which will properly protect both the educational process and the employment security of educators."

President Carter wins in 2 of 3 counties

President Carter was the winner in two of three upper Thumb counties in the Democratic caucuses held statewide Saturday.

In Tuscola county, he received 54 votes to 19 for Sen. Edward Kennedy. He won 39 votes in Huron county, with Kennedy receiving three and three votes uncommitted.

Kennedy was the winner in Sanilac county, 14-10, with one person uncommitted. In the entire 8th Congressional district, including Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac, Carter received 499 votes; Kennedy, 450.

Statewide, fewer than 15,000 registered Democrats voted. Apportionment of their votes Saturday gave Kennedy 71 delegate votes at this summer's Democratic nominating convention in New York City. President Carter will receive 70.

Keehn stands mute to three assault charges

Robert C. Keehn Jr. stood mute at his arraignment in Circuit Court Monday to three charges of felonious assault and one of malicious destruction of personal property over $100 in connection with a Feb. 9 incident in Cass City. A plea of innocent was entered by Judge Norman A. Baguley, who scheduled a pretrial hearing May 27. Bond was continued.

Keehn, 30, lives at 3115 Cemetery Road, Kingston. He is charged with holding a knife to one person's throat and threatening two others with the weapon while the three were seated in a car parked on Seeger Street.

The defendant is then charged with having slashed all four tires of the car the three were sitting in.

Also Monday, Kim Jae Kitchen, 25, of 940 Ann Drive, Caro, in a plea bargain agreement with the prosecution, pleaded guilty to the lesser included offense of malicious destruction of property under $100.

Judge Baguley accepted the plea and ordered the defendant to pay restitution of $2,014, for damage done to a building March 8 on Sue Drive in Indianfields township.

Bond was continued, with sentencing delayed one year. The charge will be dismissed then if the defendant complies with all provisions of probation during that time.

Phillip S. Patrick Jr., 24, of Taylor, pleaded guilty to a charge of resisting and assaulting a police officer.

His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled June 9. Bond was continued. He is charged with assaulting Deputy Jeffrey Bagocius while the officer was guarding the defendant Nov. 30 in the county jail.

Claudette Mae Talcott, 28, of 6024 Fox Street, Mayville, was sentenced to 15 days in the county jail for insufficient funds - check. She was credited with one day served.

She was also placed on one year's probation. The judge reserved judgment on levying of a fine and costs.

She pleaded guilty to the charge March 24, of having written three checks totaling $62, drawn on the First State Bank of Saginaw, for which she had insufficient funds in her account.

DISTRICT COURT

Thomas L. Baker, 40, of 6839 Herron Drive, Cass City, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of impaired driving.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and fined him $100 and assessed $150 court costs. Baker was also placed on six months' probation and ordered to attend alcohol education classes and such others as may be deemed necessary.

He was arrested by Cass City police Oct. 30.

Cornerstone opened at Trinity church

The cornerstone box at the Trinity United Methodist church on Houghton Street was opened Sunday as the first step in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the church building.

Heritage Sunday, the centennial celebration, will take place May 18 with a guest speaker, the bell choir of the First United Methodist church in Alpena and the Alpena Community College Collegiate Singers.

Placement of the box back in the cornerstone will take place the following Sunday, with some items added representative of 1980.

This past Sunday wasn't the first time the metal box had been opened since the church was constructed 100 years ago. The last time was in 1969, when the 100th anniversary of the organization of the church was celebrated.

Added to the box that year were some articles about man's first walk on the moon, which took place in 1969.

Also found in the box when it was opened this time, according to Rev. P. Thomas Wachterhauser, were two newspapers from the 1880s, a copy of the Detroit Free Press and one of the Cass City Enterprise, a predecessor of the Chronicle.

There were also three books of Methodist discipline (church policy, etc.) from the mid-to-late 1800s.

T. Scollon wins Merit Scholarship

Teresa J. Scollon has been awarded a four-year National Merit Scholarship at Michigan State University.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Scollon of 4849 N. Seeger Street, Cass City, and a senior at Interlochen Arts Academy, near Traverse City. She graduates from there May 31.

The scholarship is awarded with the stipulation that she attend MSU, which finances it.

Teresa has not yet decided whether to accept it, according to her mother, as she has also been offered a scholarship at Kalamazoo College because of her poetry writing and may go there. She has had her poetry published in the Louisville Review and the Interlochen Review.

Winners were selected by officials of the sponsoring institution, who also computed the students' financial needs and determined the individual stipend.

The dollar amounts, which range from $1,000-6,000 over the four years, are not made public since they are related to confidential family financial information. The average is about $725 per year or a total of $2,900.

Approximately 1.1 million high school students nationwide entered the 1980 Merit Scholarship competition by taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test in October, 1978.

Based on those scores, plus grades and endorsement by their high school principals, 14,000 advanced to the finalist level, which required taking of another test.

Of the finalists, more than 4,500 are being awarded Merit Scholarships worth a total of almost $14 million.

PEDALING AROUND

Those who watch

By Mike Eliasohn

According to my boss, and to his consternation, the top-rated television show of two weeks ago was "The Guyana Tragedy," the two-part episode on the life of Rev. Jim Jones, who led more than 900 of his followers to their deaths.

I guess I wasn't disgusted, because I was one of the millions who watched.

What got me interested in watching is that the reviews beforehand generally said the show was good and gave special praise to the actor who portrayed Jim Jones, Powers Boothe.

Beyond that, I suppose I have a curiosity as to how so many people could so blindly follow a leader who, at least to those of us who like to think of ourselves as normal, was so obviously not normal.

One thing that bothered me is that in being "adapted for television," or whatever the proper phrase is, I didn't know which events actually took place and which were figments of the script writers' imaginations.

I do know, from what I read in the articles published immediately after the Jonestown massacre, that the television production was toned down somewhat, that some things Jim Jones said actually and did were never shown on the screen.

Other than that slight criticism, I thought the program was well done, considering the subject matter. I have to add, everything looks less gory in black and white.

Even if well done, there remains the moral question of whether such a sordid subject should have been broadcast at all.

That is a question the news media often faces, and the answer is there is no answer. Reporters look on tragic human events from both sides. They can see the tragedy, but inside their heads, little wheels are turning, which cry out, "Wow, what a great story."

Reporters aren't usually involved, except as observers, which makes it easier to write such stories.

It's even easier when the reporter is working for a big newspaper or television network as there is more distance -- not necessarily in terms of miles, feet and inches -- between the reporter and his subject.

I am writing this on a Friday. I'm sure at this point, the parents of the eight men killed in the disastrous rescue mission attempt in Iran are getting pestered with phone calls from reporters from all over the country.

What can a reporter ask in such circumstances? "Do you feel your son died in vain? Are you made at President Carter?"

Sometimes what I have to do as a reporter does bother me, for instance, doing a story with photographs about a fatal traffic accident, because I wonder how the family of the victim will react when they see it.

Still, I don't question that fatal accidents and other such tragedies are news.

I also suspect that though many persons won't admit it, the little bit of ghoul in (almost) all of us finds such items interesting.

I recall the fatal traffic accident about two years ago at the M-53 bridge over the north branch of the Cass River. The woman most severely injured died a few weeks later.

When I got to the accident, she was still pinned in the car, screaming with pain, her face covered with blood, as the ambulance and wrecker attendants attempted to remove her from the car.

I got close enough to get a photograph -- which didn't show her face -- and not any closer.

Many bystanders, however, got as close as they could to watch what was happening.

Maybe that is why "The Guyana Tragedy" got such a big rating.

Clarification

The article in last week's Chronicle about the financial outlook for farmers said farmers not enrolled in last year's federal reserve program can now enter corn and wheat still on hand from last year. The program only applies to corn and ends May 15 or when approximately 295 million bushels have been placed in reserve, whichever comes first.

You're only young once -- after that you'll have to make up some other excuse.

Owen-Gage band gets top rating

The Owendale-Gagetown High School band, directed by Laura Witezak, received a top rating -- equivalent to a "1" -- in class C-D at the state band festival Saturday at Walled Lake High School.

Of the three upper Thumb schools that qualified for the festival, the others were Lakers and Bad Axe. Owen-Gage was the only one to receive the top rating.

Qualifying required earning a "1" rating at a district band festival, which Owen-Gage achieved at the District III festival March 15 at Laker High School.

At the state festival, the band performed a required number, a march and one number of its own choosing.

Cass City man arrested on drunk driving charge

Ronald L. Roberts, 29, of 4394 Maple Street, was arrested by Cass City police Saturday night on charges of driving under the influence of liquor (2nd offense) and transporting open intoxicants in a motor vehicle after they found his car crosswise in the intersection of Maple and Garfield Streets.

Roberts was taken to the county jail. He was arraigned Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled a pretrial hearing May 13. He was released on $2,000 personal recognizance bond.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the trailer home of John Male on Bond Road, Wilmet, April 21, to investigate a break-in in which several hundred dollars worth of items were taken.

Taken from inside the trailer or outside on his

County files suit to have McNeil house condemned

The Tuscola County Department of Public Works Building Codes Division has filed a condemnation suit against Margaret McNeil in an effort to get her to tear her dilapidated house down.

The covered-basement structure, which has holes in the roof, is located at the corner of Houghton and Brooker Streets in Cass City and hasn't been used for many years. Mrs. McNeil lives in Pontiac.

The action, filed in Circuit Court April 16, orders the defendant to show cause why she should not be ordered to make her basement structure "safe or alternatively, be demolished."

A hearing before Judge Patrick R. Joslyn is scheduled May 19.

The condemnation suit notes that the structure was inspected by a county building official Aug. 29, 1979, who found it to be unsafe. A notice was sent to the owner the next day requesting her to correct the problem.

The replies received from her since then, according to the suit, were "that she does not intend to correct the situation."

The suit asks the judge to issue a preliminary injunction to require Mrs. McNeil to correct the unsafe structure or allow the public works department to demolish it.

According to Chief Assistant Prosecutor Scott Stermer, who filed the suit in behalf of the department, the judge has various options, whether Mrs. McNeil shows up at the hearing or not.

They boil down to he can either give her more time to comply with the condemnation order (fix the building or tear it down) or he can order it torn down by the DPW.

If the county gets the task of hiring someone to tear it down, Stermer said, it would have to start another legal action in order to get Mrs. McNeil to pay for the demolition job.

The matter of the McNeil house goes back to June, 1977, when the village council ordered her to repair the place or tear it down.

The proceedings dragged on for two years, during which a realtor was brought in at one time to talk to her, but Mrs. McNeil refused to do anything.

Finally, the village's attorney, Clinton House, was about to begin condemnation proceedings, only to learn the state law had been changed and jurisdiction over such matters was in the hands of the county.

At that point, the county DPW and prosecutor's office became involved, which finally led to filing of the condemnation suit.

Koepfgen entering Air Force

Donald F. Koepfgen of Traverse City has entered the United States Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Technical Sergeant Paul D. James Jr., the Air Force recruiter there, Koepfgen's entry into the DEP serves two purposes. First, it allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area. Second, the DEP enables the 1978 graduate of Cass City High School to wrap up his personal affairs before leaving home.

Koepfgen will enter the regular Air Force May 28. Following graduation from the six-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training in the general area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

He is the son of Mrs. Ken Maharg, 5206 Koepfgen Road.

Dry bean acreage

to increase

The April prospective planting survey shows Michigan farmers planning a large increase in dry bean acreage this year, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Current indications are that 570,000 acres of dry beans, up 15 percent, will be planted this year. The switch to dry beans can be attributed to the recent forward contracting for black and pinto beans by Mexico. Planting intentions by varieties were not asked in the April 1 survey.

Soybean acreage had the sharpest decline in intended acreage from last year's planted acreage, down 8 percent to 900,000 acres. Much of the lost soybean acreage will probably be growing dry beans.

Acreage intended for corn at 2,900,000 acres was unchanged from what was planted last season.

Other crops with acreage increases planned were oats, up 3 percent at 300,000 acres; sugarbeets, up 3 percent to 95,000 acres; and barley, up 6 percent with 19,000 acres. Michigan's hay acreage intended for cutting this year at 1,320,000 acres is down 1 percent.

Nationally, intended dry bean acreage is up 21 percent to 1,757,000 acres. Other field crops with planned acreage increases are corn, up 3 percent; sugarbeets, up 4 percent; and barley, up 2 percent.

Soybean acreage was virtually unchanged from a year ago, while oat acreage declined 3 percent. Hay acres for intended harvest this year were down 1 percent.

Rheumatic fever hits young hearts

By Frank Chappell
American Medical Association

Rheumatic fever accounts for much of the heart disease found in children and young adults.

Rheumatic fever usually occurs between the ages of 5 and 15, although adults can have it. It may affect any part of the body temporarily, but damage to the heart, which can be long lasting, is the greatest danger.

Rheumatic heart disease results from the scarring of the heart muscle and valves by rheumatic fever. This may interfere with the vital work of the heart.

Many patients recover without permanent injury to the heart valves, but the disease has a way of repeating itself and each attack renews the chances of heart damage.

Rheumatic fever is preceded by a streptococcal infection such as strep throat, scarlet fever or a strep ear infection. It can be prevented by treating the strep infection promptly and thoroughly with antibiotics.

Because persons who have had rheumatic fever are susceptible rather than immune to repeat attacks, long-term preventive treatment is often prescribed for them.

Regular doses of penicillin, under the direction of a physician, can prevent further strep infections and thus ward off subsequent attacks of rheumatic fever.

You can protect your child against rheumatic fever by consulting your doctor if the child develops a sudden, severe sore throat, or if he or she has been exposed to someone with scarlet fever or another strep infection.

Bridge levy on Aug. 5 Huron ballot

By a 4-0 vote, with three abstentions, the Huron County Board of Commissioners April 22 approved putting a 1 mill levy on the Aug. 5 primary ballot for repair of bridges.

If approved by voters, the levy will run five years. It will generate about $560,000 the first year.

The levy was in response to Road Commission Engineer Robert Tufts' earlier warning that without substantial funding, 35 decaying bridges in the county would have to be closed within the next year.

Of the 131 bridges in Huron county, he has rated 24 in excellent condition, 22 in good shape, 29 fair, 39 poor and 17 very poor.

The commissioners who abstained claimed either the resolution approving putting the levy on the ballot wasn't specific enough as to where the money will be spent or that it needed more study.

Athletic Director Roland Pakonen said this week that there will be trophies for the best boys' squad and the best girls' squad. The grand championship trophy will go to the school with the best combined record.

In addition there will be medals for the first six places in each event.

Field events will start at 10 a.m. Track preliminaries start at 10:15 a.m. and the finals start at 1 p.m.

Defending champion Caro will be back to defend its title. Other schools slated are: Almont, Akron-Fairgrove, Capac, Cass City, Lakeland, Frankennuth, Ireland (girls only), Marlette, Reese, Saginaw Sts. Peter and Paul, Vassar and North Branch.

Pair of rallies feature twin bill with Caro

It was a strange double header Tuesday, April 22, when the host Cass City Red Hawks split with the Caro Tigers.

In both games Cass City rallied in the final inning, once to tie and the second time to win.

Things were coasting along in ordinary fashion in the first game that the Tigers won in the first extra inning, 9-5, until the fatal sixth.

In the opener Caro drew first blood with a couple of markers on two hits and an error while the Hawks countered with a run in their half on an error and a single by Mike Stec.

It was a tight game after that as Earney Stoutenburg and Mark Cockerill were engaged in a tight pitching duel. Caro looked as if it salted away the game in the sixth by ripping out three hits good for two runs to lead 4-1.

But Cass City came charging back in their half of the sixth to tie the score. Key blow was a line drive double to right center by Ken Martin that drove in two runs. Cass City had the winning run on third with one out but couldn't put across the clincher. Caro then came back to score four times in the seventh and take the win.

In the nightcap it appeared as if Cass City were going to lose both ends of the double header. The Tigers were just coasting along with a big lead with the game apparently sewed up. Leading 7-0 after five innings is a cause for confidence.

Cass City hadn't been able to come close to scoring until the last half of the last inning. Then the team exploded for an unbelievable 8 runs and an 8-7 decision.

Key blow in the game was a single past third by Stec. It came with the bases loaded and when the ball slipped by the left fielder everybody scored and the Hawks had chalked up their first Thumb B Conference victory.

Hawks roll to 2 wins over Caro in Thumb B loop

Cass City was off to a flying start Tuesday, April 22, in the Thumb B Conference softball race by sweeping both ends of a double header from Caro at Cass VICKIE POBANZ puts this pop fly away in the last inning of the first game against Caro. The Hawks rolled to two easy victories at Cass City Recreational Park.

City Recreational Park. Cass City won the first game 6-1 and the second, 11-1.

Shirley Fleming pitched both games. In the first she was touched for four hits. In the second she was extra stingy, allowing only a single base knock.

Meanwhile her teammates were backing her with a lusty hitting attack. In the first game the Hawks scored all the runs they needed in the first inning when they scored twice on two hits. It was a tight game until the fifth when the Hawks, leading, 3-0, scored three times.

Fleming helped her own cause with two hits and Libby Hartel was perfect at the plate with two hits and a walk in three tries.

In the nightcap the Hawks clinched the victory in the very first inning. Cass City batted around and scored six runs. After that it was merely a question of what the final score would be.

Sherry Bader led the Hawks at the plate with three hits in three tries while Hartel continued her heavy stick work with two for three.

The Hawks continue their quest for a league title with games with Sandusky Friday at Cass City Recreational Park. Tuesday the girls play at Marlette.

TOURNAMENT

Cass City finished second in a 4-team round robin tournament at Essexville-Garber Saturday. The tourney was won by Garber with a 3-0 record.

Cass City lost to the tourney champions, 7-4. A disastrous first inning spelled defeat for the Hawks. Garber scored four times on three hits before Tammie Root could settle down. The winners rode the first inning rally to the win. Cass City scored twice without a hit in the first on two walks and an error. A single run was added in the fourth on an error and a single by Nancy Tonti. Cass City picked up three hits while Garber slammed eight.

Probably the best game of the tourney for Hawk fans was the game against Millington which Cass City won, 3-2.

The Hawks broke open a 2-2 tie in the last inning to win it. Tonti, who was three for four, slapped a single to score Shelley Lapeer who walked to lead off the inning. Fleming pitched a two-hitter for the victory.

The third game against Birch Run the Hawks won, 12-8. Cass City ripped out 10 hits while the losers rapped 10. Fleming was the winning pitcher.

Both Sieradzki collected three hits in four tries to pace the hitters.

Rescue attempt may have been mistake

Was the ill-fated attempt to rescue the American hostages in Iran last week a mistake?

Bruce Wright is inclined to think it was, "as much as I know." He pointed out that President Carter, in ordering the rescue attempt, presumably had more information than did the American public.

"If they (the hostages) are going to get out of there in the future, it was kind of silly."

"If there was no hope at all for them," he added, "then I agree" (with conducting the attempt).

Continued delay while peaceful means were attempted to gain the hostages' release would have been hard on them, Wright said, but a rescue mission would have meant risking their lives.

He didn't think there would be reason to try another rescue attempt, especially now that the hostages have supposedly been dispersed to various locations "unless there's no hope for them; they'd have to try to do something."

A Caro resident, Wright is laid off from Caro Products Co., a manufacturer of supply racks for the auto industry, where he was a welder.

He is engaged to Susan Kappen of Cass City.

Bishop Reh retiring due to health

The resignation of Francis F. Reh, 69, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Saginaw, has been accepted by Pope John Paul II and took effect Tuesday.

However, the bishop has agreed at the request of the pope to serve as apostolic administrator of the diocese until a new bishop is appointed.

In most cases, the Vatican appoints a new bishop within one year.

Bishop Reh cited reasons of health for his resignation after 11 years as head of the diocese.

While not serious, the bishop said the state of his health would prevent him from dedicating himself totally to his ministry.

"I just could not see myself 'slowing down,'" he said. "I've tried to present myself personally to the laity, religious and clergy and this has filled my ministry with the greatest priestly satisfaction."

"I have concluded that I would not be failing my people, but rather exercising a continuing ministry to them, in allowing that they have the benefit of another bishop. The church of Saginaw could only benefit from the ministry of one more physically able to serve."

Open house slated Sunday

Lutherans to dedicate church addition

A service of dedication for the new $160,000 addition to the Good Shepherd Lutheran church in Cass City will take place Sunday.

It will also be the first time that Sunday school students will get to use their new classrooms.

The president of the Michigan district of the Lutheran church, Missouri Synod, Dr. Richard L. Schlecht of Ann Arbor, will speak at the dedication, which will be part of the regular 9:30 worship service.

At 12:30 will be a dedication dinner for church members and guests.

The public is invited to view the new addition from 2-4 p.m. Refreshments will be served during the open house.

Construction of the 4,770 square foot addition began with groundbreaking ceremonies last July. Contractors were Fay McComb of Cass City and Bob Rockwell of Snover.

The addition contains three large classrooms with dividers to divide them into three smaller rooms in each of the larger classrooms and two rooms in the smaller one, church office, pastor's study, two restrooms and a new entranceway.

The entranceway, with the doors on the east side, is actually an addition onto the rear of the church, which allowed addition of about 50 seats in the rear of the sanctuary. The classroom portion of the addition is on the west side.

The addition was needed, according to Rev. James VanDellen, "because of the increased size of the congregation and the large number of children that are part of the congregation."

During the past 10 years, membership has approximately doubled, to about 580 adults and children. Sunday school enrollment, included in the 580, is about 130.

Sunday school classes until now have been squeezed into the fellowship hall, pastor's office and an entranceway. Some classes will continue to meet in the fellowship hall, but they won't be cramped as in the past.

Rev. VanDellen previously had to share his study with the church office. Now there is a separate room for both.

The previous church office-study is being partly used for storage, with use of the rest of the space still undecided.

The minister won't be using his new study very long. After 10 years at Good Shepherd Lutheran, he gives his final sermon June 1, then departs with his family for the Lutheran church at Lake Orion.

The $160,000 cost figure for the addition, the minister said, is the latest one but not a final amount.

Of that, $40,000 has come from donations from church members, the rest in the form of a loan from Pinney State Bank, to be repaid by members over a 20-year period. The Cass City State Bank has also made loan money available, but so far the church hasn't had to use any of it.

OFFICE -- Rev. James Van Dellen inside the church office. The pastor's study is in the room next door. Before construction of the addition, the office and pastor's study were combined in one small room.

CLASSROOM -- A partial view of one of the new classrooms at the church. The divider and another one out of view can split this room into three smaller ones. Each small classroom will have its own blackboard-bulletin board and storage cabinet.

Criminal cases increase in county in March

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department received 512 criminal complaints in March, compared to 447 the month before.

The greatest number, 197, concerned traffic (reports of accidents, reckless driving, etc.), followed by larcenies, 58, vandalism, 40, domestic problems, 36, and burglaries, 31.

Deputies made 79 arrests in March, of which 42 were for traffic violations, 10 for liquor violations and eight for obstruction of justice.

There were 288 traffic citations issued, including 95 for speeding, 51 for registration violations and 37 for defective equipment.

The county jail received 180 inmates during the month, of whom 13 were female, and released 178.

Patrol units traveled 45,038 miles and consumed 4,199.1 gallons of gasoline (10.725 miles per gallon).

Cass City police made eight arrests in March, four for traffic offenses, two for obstruction of justice and one each for burglary and liquor law violation.

Caro state police made 31 arrests, including 13 for traffic offenses and four each for liquor violations and assault.

The number of complaints received from and accidents respectively in area townships and villages were: Cass City, 33 and 0 (there were accidents in the village, but weren't counted by the sheriff's department); Elkland township, 18 and 1; Columbia, 7 and 1; Ellington, 15 and 3; Elmwood, 12 and 1; Kingston township, 12 and 2; Kingston village, 3 and 1; and Novesta township, 20 and 4.

Good seeks register of deeds nod

Owen-Gage School Board President Ronald Good, a farmer in the Owendale area, announced his candidacy last week for the Republican nomination for Huron county register of deeds.

He is the sixth candidate to seek the Republican nomination in the Aug. 5 primary. He is also running for re-election to the school board, on which he has served 15 years, but is unopposed in the June 9 election.

Good, 49, also sells real estate, and is chairman of the Vocational Education Council of Huron county and of the board of the Owendale United Methodist church. He is married and the father of six children.

A claimed attack by two dogs on a motorcyclist has led to filing of a law suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Plaintiffs are Robert and Olive Beardsley of Mayville. The suit claims that Olive Beardsley was riding her motorbike July 20, 1979, on Blackmore Road in Dayton township, when two dogs owned by the defendants, Steve and Jean Adams, ran out and bit her left foot.

Mrs. Beardsley fell off her cycle, resulting in injuries.

In the suit, she seeks $75,000 in damages or "such sums as may be determined she is entitled to commensurate with the injuries," plus costs and attorney fees.

Her husband claims loss of consortium and mental anguish because of his wife's injuries and seeks "such sum as may be determined he is entitled to," plus costs and attorney fees.

The suit, filed April 22, has been assigned to Judge Norman A. Baguley. A jury trial has been demanded.

FACE THE FACTS

We all have to play life's game with the hands dealt us, so why expect a reshuffle.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES for the $160,000 addition to the Good Shepherd Lutheran church will take place this Sunday. The classrooms are in the portion closest to the camera. The old entrance is at right. The new one to the sanctuary is around the right corner, on the east side of the building.

2 Cass Cityans serve on nuclear aircraft carrier

Two Cass Cityans are aboard the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, the nuclear powered aircraft carrier, now steaming toward the Persian Gulf to replace the USS Nimitz, the carrier from which the helicopters departed on the ill-fated hostage rescue attempt in Iran.

They are Edward Schwartz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schwartz Sr., 4234 Seeger Street, and Ronald B. VanAllen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas VanAllen of 6386 Severance Road.

The two entered the Navy within two weeks of each other, in October, 1976. They have both been on the Eisenhower more than three years, from the time it was launched or shortly thereafter.

Schwartz works in the laundry. VanAllen is involved with launch and landing of aircraft.

The Eisenhower departed from Norfolk, Va., April 15 and will arrive in the Persian Gulf May 7. It isn't scheduled to leave there until January, 1981, when it will be replaced by another carrier.

VanAllen won't have to stay that long -- barring war, his mother points out. His four years are up and he doesn't plan to re-enlist. Schwartz probably will re-enlist, his mother said. If he does, he presumably will come home on the Eisenhower.

Because the ship won't be making any stops at port until January, their parents are asking friends of the two seamen to write them. Their addresses are: SH3 Edward Schwartz Jr.; Supply S-3 Division (CVN-69); USS Dwight D. Eisenhower; FPO New York, N.Y. 09532, and ABS 2 Ronald B. VanAllen; V-4 Division (CVN-69); USS Dwight D. Eisenhower; FPO New York, N.Y. 09532.

This will be a perfect world when people are as free with their money as with their advice.

Shriners to sell newspapers

William D. Gregory, Potentate of Elf Khurafah Shrine Temple, representing Shriners in 26 Michigan counties, has announced the Temple's third annual newspaper sale Friday and Saturday to raise money for the support of Shriners Hospitals for crippled children and burns units.

The newspapers will be sold in Cass City.

Admission to either a Shriners Hospital or burns unit is open to any child from infancy to 18 years of age, regardless of race or religion, who suffers from a bone disease or deformity that orthopedic treatment could cure or materially help or a burn victim that could be helped and whose parents or guardians need assistance in treatment of their child.

In addition to free medical services while a child is in a Shriners Hospital or burn unit, a child is also provided with food, clothing, laundry, linen, toilet articles, schooling and dental care.

Persons who have, or know of, such a child can contact Herman Umpfenbach in Cass City, any other Shriner or Elf Khurafah Temple in Saginaw at 752-8612 for further information.

Clinics to aid Special Olympics

The Special Olympics Committee and the Decker-ville Education Association will co-sponsor a stop-smoking, a weight loss, and a stress management-relaxation clinic May 9 and 10 at the West Park Motor Inn in Sandusky to raise funds for the Thumb Area Special Olympics.

Barry Beder, MSW, CSW, a hypnotherapist from Southfield, will conduct the clinics.

Proceeds will be used to send children to the summer Special Olympics, an event at which handicapped or retarded children who qualify can compete in special physical contests according to their capabilities.

For more information on the clinics or the Special Olympics, contact Connie Holland, evenings only, (313) 648-4094.

Huron horse team places 1st in state

The Huron County 4-H Senior Horse Bowl team won the state finals Saturday in East Lansing and will represent Michigan in national 4-H competition in Pennsylvania later this year.

The four-member team of Cami Gaskill, Owendale, Colleen McIntyre and Kevin Cubitt, both of Bad Axe, and Tina Farver, Elkton, earned the top spot during contests at the Horse Jamboree at Michigan State University.

The team is coached by Dennis Gaskill, Owendale, assisted by Mary McIntyre, Bad Axe.

Huron Extension director Robert Johnson said team members are interviewed one at a time and questioned on any aspect of horse science. Questions include care and feeding, genetics and breeding, and current events related to the horse industry.

The team will compete Oct. 4 at the National 4-H Horse Bowl Contests at Harrisburg, Pa.

They qualified for the nationals by beating six regional winners.

The Huron team placed second at regional competition at Harrison in February to qualify for the state contests. At regionals around the state, there were 47 counties represented.

Miss Gaskill and Miss Farver belong to the Lucky Horseshoe 4-H Club, Miss McIntyre is a member of the Thundering Hoofs 4-H Club, and Cubitt is a member of the Equus 4-H Club.

Armbruster home from hospital

State Rep. Loren Armbruster, R-Caro, returned home Monday after three weeks at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, where he had surgery on the carotid artery in his neck.

He was in the hospital one week prior to surgery and for two weeks' recuperation afterwards, according to his wife, Edna.

It is expected he will have to be home for 2-3 more weeks of recuperation before he can return to work.

Armbruster, first elected to the legislature in November, 1972, hasn't decided yet whether to seek re-election, his wife said.

New career began with chimney fire

If Irene Ferguson ever had a lofty goal in life, she has obtained it.

She is a chimney sweep, complete with top hat and tails.

The Pigeon resident, a mother of four, is in her third year in the dirty but necessary business.

Recent customers were Lloyd and Mary Frederick, whose house is on Leslie Road, Evergreen township.

It was a fire in their fireplace chimney, about a month earlier, that led to their hiring Mrs. Ferguson.

She and her husband, Morris, got into the business because of a chimney fire at their own home.

Morris soon backed out, his wife joked, because, "He didn't like heights so I got the job."

The frequently jovial Mrs. Ferguson also felt her husband didn't have the proper attitude for sweeping chimneys. "He wouldn't wear top hat and tails."

The real reason he stopped, however, was because his full-time job, then at an Elkton meat market and now with a drainage tile company, didn't leave him much time for cleaning chimneys.

His wife averages about five chimneys a week, a job which usually takes 1-2 hours per chimney. Her longest job took six.

The two months of the year she won't work are July and August, because it gets too hot up on the roofs. She worked right through this past winter, it being a mild one and roofs weren't usually snow covered and slippery. Her busiest time is in the fall.

The chimney sweep, 36, has never had the other kind of fall, which she attributes mainly to being careful. She will never use a ladder without a hook on the end, which hooks over the peak of the roof.

It isn't always necessary to climb up on the roofs. If the chimney is straight, it sometimes can be cleaned from the bottom.

The first step in cleaning a chimney, of course, is running a spiral wire brush up and down it. Once that is done, the soot, fly ash and creosote that has fallen to the bottom is removed with a powerful vacuum.

IT IS THE CREOSOTE, an oily or tarlike substance produced as wood burns, that causes the problems. Creosote is carried into the chimney as a vapor along with the smoke. When it comes in contact with a cool flue lining, it condenses on the walls and becomes extremely hard.

The creosote reduces wood stoves' efficiency. According to August West Systems, a manufacturer of chimney sweeping equipment, wood stove manufacturers estimate that as little as 1 millimeter of creosote lining the chimney can reduce the stove's efficiency by as much as 15 percent. If not cleaned off, the creosote continues to build up and can eventually completely block the flue.

BEFORE THAT HAPPENS, however, something much more serious is likely to happen. Creosote is very flammable and burning a slightly larger or hotter fire than usual, or a flaming piece of paper, can start a chimney fire.

Chimney fires burn very hot, over 3,000 degrees. At that temperature, mortar melts. Homeowners who have a chimney fire may be lucky and the fire will soon burn itself out; they may have a ruined chimney, or they may lose their house.

Mrs. Ferguson has seen a lot of cracked chimneys because of the heat. She has also seen creosote built up

Little tips for babies

When traveling with a baby, it's often a good idea to bring along a couple of plastic tablecloths for covering beds and carpets on which the baby may sleep, crawl, sit or be changed.

Parents should not compare their children's development to that of others the same age. Perfectly normal babies vary greatly in their rate of development. Some walk without help at eight months, others, not for four years.

around fallen bricks, branches and even dead birds inside chimneys.

Curves in chimneys, in addition to making them harder to clean, also are places where creosote builds up.

A bad practice she sometimes sees is use of 8-inch flues. They are too small to let the smoke, etc., escape efficiently. Ten inches is the recommended minimum size.

THE TWO BIG REASONS for excessive creosote build-up, she said, are burning of green wood and, surprisingly, use of too-efficient stoves.

Some of the modern stoves, Mrs. Ferguson explained, hold in a lot of heat. The result is there isn't enough heat going up the chimney to make the smoke rise fast enough to carry out the creosote.

She recommends that chimneys be inspected at least once a year. Homeowners can do it themselves by using a strong light and a mirror to look up the flue from the bottom, or they can have a chimney sweep do it. (According to the August West brochure, "If the bricks still look pink, you're okay; if they're black or kind of furry-looking, it's time for a sweeping.")

Stoves that are used every day in season, she said, need to have the chimney cleaned every year.

AS MENTIONED, MRS. Ferguson is the mother of four children, ages 17, 15, 9 and 8. What do they think of having a chimney sweep for a mother?

"I came home one night at 9 or 9:30 (after cleaning a chimney) and I was a mess," she responded.

Daughter Jill, 8, still wanted her good-night kiss, no matter what her mother looked like, and got it.

Then, her daughter said, "I'm the only one tonight who kissed a chimney sweep for a mother."

Crooked chimneys led to top hat and tails

Europe, chimney sweeps in England were at the very bottom of the social ladder. Apparently to help compensate for their lowly position, the master sweeps started wearing top hats and tails, scrounged from undertakers after hired mourners wore them out.

Over the years, the outfit became the standard one for chimney sweeps as the master sweeps passed them on to their boys.

Accidents

Wednesday, April 23, Richard J. Majeski, 22, of Filion, was eastbound on M-81, southwest of Green Road, when his car struck a deer.

Thomas F. Hawkins, 65, of Cass City, was still reported in critical condition Tuesday at St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, where he has been since being struck by a motorcycle in Caro April 9.

Hawkins, who lived at the Cass City Hotel, was walking in the middle of a traffic lane on State Street when he was struck by the cycle.

UP ON THE ROOF of the Evergreen township home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Frederick is chimney sweep Irene Ferguson of Pigeon.

Most merchants satisfied with local trucking service

Local merchants are generally satisfied with the trucking service they receive, but do feel there is potential for improvement.

That was the finding of a U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) study team which interviewed various merchants in Cass City, Deford and Kingston.

The three and other communities have been studied in order to determine the degree to which small town shippers and receivers are satisfied with the present truck transportation system and how beneficial is the regulation of the trucking industry by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

Studies have been conducted so far in Alabama, Arizona, Kansas, Kentucky, New Mexico and Michigan.

In addition to the three towns mentioned, the DOT researchers also visited Armada, Romeo and Escanaba in Michigan.

Interviews with merchants were conducted in February and early March of this year.

Interviews were conducted in Cass City with the owners of the Ben Franklin Store, Bigelow Hardware, Cass City Sports, Federated Store, Marshall Distributing, Old Wood Drug, Ryland and Gue plumbers, Schneberger Furniture, Clothes Closet and one merchant who requested his name not be used.

The owner of the Deford Country Grocery was interviewed and in Kingston, Barden Hardware, Ed's Plumbing and Heating and Zorn's IGA.

The researchers found a high degree of satisfaction with service provided by United Parcel Service. It would be used even more if the weight (100 pounds) and size limitations, imposed by the ICC, were eased.

THERE WAS LESS SATISFACTION with ICC-regulated truck freight delivery service.

Most freight brought to this area comes in non-regulated trucks owned by the product manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors.

The major complaint regarding regulated carriers stemmed from the lack of direct interstate service to this area. What that means is that freight shipments coming from other states must be unloaded in Michigan, then hauled here by other trucking firms.

In addition to resulting higher costs, it causes other problems.

"For example," according to the report, "if Ed's Plumbing and Heating orders a furnace from Milwaukee, the general freight carrier will take the furnace to Detroit, a one-day trip, and hold it there until it has enough freight for Kingston and the surrounding area. It can thus take up to 10 days for the furnace to be shipped to Kingston."

Clarence (Bud) Schneberger said "that it often takes more than two weeks to get a shipment from Georgia (of carpet), and it is not uncommon for carpet shipments to be detained in Detroit for more than 10 days."

Most of the store's furniture shipments are brought there by the manufacturers' own trucks, which reduces costs and shipping damage. One regulated carrier, which specializes in transporting furniture, is sometimes used.

MARSHALL DISTRIBUTING, a wholesale distributor of snowmobile and motorcycle parts, has a unique problem.

Many of its outgoing shipments go to small towns which are served only by intrastate carriers. The firm has customers in all 50 states.

It makes extensive use of UPS. When that's not possible, "All shipments moving by general freight carriers are handled by two interstate carriers; these carriers interline shipments with other carriers for long-distance interstate movements."

When the shipment is destined for a community in another state served only by an intrastate carrier, "three different carriers must often handle a shipment. This causes time and payment problems."

According to Ben Franklin store owner Gerald Prieskorn, direct freight service would "lower transportation costs, shorten transit times, lead to fewer shipment delays and reduce the amount of lost and damaged freight."

FREIGHT COSTS ARE substantial. The merchants questioned said shipping costs, depending on the product, accounted for 4-30 percent of the cost paid by consumers.

Although some merchants expressed satisfaction about the trucking service they receive from the regulated carriers, a few mentioned being "periodically forced to contact the ICC to help settle long overdue loss and damage claims."

One said "it was simpler and less costly to forget about the problem than it was to get reimbursed by the truckers," accordingly has never lodged a formal complaint with the ICC or state regulator agency.

As for the rates the trucking firms charge, comments expressed ranged from "pretty fair" to "believed to be rising faster than the general rate of inflation" to "would like to see rate decreases."

Although some merchants didn't see a need for more trucking service here, some did. (Two truck lines serve Cass City and Deford; one provides service to Kingston.) Schneberger told the interviewers "more competition would solve the problems." He faces competition daily "so why couldn't the truckers?"

AS FOR WHAT HAPPENS now that the DOT study is completed, all it does is make some recommendations.

One is that, "Easing entry standards for carriers offering to provide service to small communities would help small town service."

"Small town service can be further improved by expanding the weight limits for small package specialists and relaxing route, commodity and intermediate stop restrictions."

The interviews conducted in Michigan show that trucking service to small communities is adequate under the present system . . . due to the resourcefulness of individuals in these communities, not due to the (ICC) regulated system.

"The service currently provided to these towns would not be adversely affected by regulator reform," the report concludes, "and changes in trucking regulation can be expected to lead to improved trucking service in small towns."

No word available on road pact vote

It was unknown publicly as of Wednesday morning whether hourly employees of the Tuscola County Road Commission approved a new contract with the agency.

Tentative agreement on a new contract was reached April 22.

Members of Local 21-M of the Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO met in Akron Tuesday evening to vote on the new pact. Afterward, local President Arthur (Jim) Saeger declined to say what the outcome was until he met with the Road Commission. The union represents 44 laborers equipment operators and mechanics.

A special meeting of the Road Commission board was tentatively scheduled Wednesday. As of deadline its clerk, Jim Miklovic told the Chronicle he was still waiting to hear from Saeger whether the meeting should be called.

The union members have been working without a contract since the old one expired Dec. 31.
