

Area dealers say

Car sales slump, but truck sales worse

By Mike Eliasohn

News reports and the state of the economy to the contrary, area dealers report car sales aren't that bad. It's pickup truck sales that are terrible, and they normally form a big chunk of their sales.

The dealers are still here, however, which is more than many of their now ex-brethren can say.

The combination of low sales and high interest rates dealers must pay for the cars they get from the manufacturers has forced many out of business, either because of bankruptcy or to avoid going bankrupt.

Automotive News reported that 258 dealers nationwide went out of business in the first three months of this year, the third largest number in a 90-day period since it started keeping track 19 years ago. (More than half were Chrysler Corp. dealers.) Some of those dealers were in the Thumb area.

Compared to the last big auto sales slump, in 1974, Ron Geiger of Geiger-Hunt Ford said, car sales are about the same, but pickup sales are down about two-thirds.

Compared to good times, car sales are down about one-third; pickup sales at least half.

Aime Ouvry of Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds didn't get into specifics, but commented, "I can't complain about car sales. They're as good as can be expected at this period of time." Car sales are down, but not as much as for trucks, he said.

The most optimistic of the dealers contacted was John Bukoski of Bukoski Chevrolet-Pontiac in Ubyly.

"Quite frankly, car sales are very good," he confessed, adding that the key was to have the right inventory, namely smaller, more efficient cars.

As for pickup trucks, whereas he used to sell 8-10 of them a month, he now sells two. The only vans he sells nowadays are to businesses that need them.

Those contacted at Rabi-deau Motors, the Cass City Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, declined comment.

The dealers agreed that about 50 percent of customers who normally buy pickups don't need them for business reasons. But with most pickups getting poorer mileage than cars, would-be pickup buyers are switching to cars if they're buying at all.

Bukoski said truck sales in normal times made up about 25-30 percent of his total sales; Ouvry, one-third, and Geiger, one-half.

LOAN RATES

Until recently, the interest rate on car loans under the state law was 12.8 percent. When interest rates started skyrocketing, it was costing banks more than that to get their money, therefore they were very reluctant to grant car loans.

Bukoski said he had 50 cars "sold" in February and March, but then was unable to arrange financing for those who were going to buy them. "That's really discouraging."

Geiger said he was able to arrange bank loans for those with good credit ratings but lost some sales to those with marginal ratings who couldn't get loans.

Under pressure from car dealers, the legislature about a month ago boosted the maximum allowable interest rate on car loans to 16.5 percent.

Geiger said it hasn't helped sales any. "I don't know what car dealer thought it would." Loans are available, he explained, but the interest rate is too high to make them affordable.

Those who are buying cars either have enough money in savings or have arranged their own financing.

In contrast, Bukoski exclaimed, "The ability to buy a car has returned."

For a young couple in need of a car, he offered as an example, a car loan at the 16.5 percent interest rate breaks down to only $8 a month more over the four-year payback period than at the old rate.

Ouvry thought it was too early to assess the impact of the higher interest rate.

DEALER INTEREST

When dealers obtain cars from manufacturers, they pay for them in the form of loans and the interest they now pay on the loans, in the words of Ouvry, "is definitely a killer."

On April 1, 1979, according to Geiger, the dealership was paying 12.75 percent. One year later, the rate was 20.75 percent.

On a big car, Bukoski said, interest payments can run $140-150 a month, and when the car sits on the lot 6-8 months, the impact on the dealer's financial status is obvious.

What are dealers doing about the high interest rates? They're not ordering cars.

Except for cars specifically ordered by a customer, Ouvry said he hasn't ordered any new cars in 2½ months.

The inventory at Geiger-Hunt is down by at least a third from normal.

Bukoski said he stopped orders on big cars six months ago and started whittling down the supply of big cars he already had.

With only a few big cars left, with General Motors granting dealers the first 30 days interest free on small cars and with most of those sold within that time period, the situation doesn't look too bad, he explained.

Despite lots of empty space in dealer storage lots, they all said buyers can still get what they want.

If they don't have what a prospective buyer wants, they trade or otherwise strike a bargain with a dealer that does have the desired car. "If we don't have it, we will find it," Geiger said, pointing to his microfilm reader that lists all the cars held by Ford dealers in the Michigan district.

As for the future, none of the dealers was predicting better times just around the corner, but feel eventually they will improve. "I just hope they do," Geiger said.

EMPTY SPACES -- Car dealers are cutting down on the number of vehicles they keep in stock in order to reduce the interest they must pay. When a customer wants a car they don't have, they try to obtain it from another dealer. This is the Geiger-Hunt Ford lot.

Duncan charged in stolen truck and parts operation

Warrants were issued last Thursday charging ex-local speedway operator David Duncan with a total of 10 counts involving possession of stolen property.

As of Wednesday morning, Sanilac county authorities had not yet found him to place him under arrest.

Issuance of the warrants by Sanilac County Prosecutor J. Anthony Sykora followed intensive investigation since well over $150,000 in trucks, parts and other equipment were seized when search warrants were executed at Duncan's property March 19 and on two occasions since then.

Duncan and his wife, Florence, had been operators of the Thunder Road Speedway on M-53, north of M-81. Mrs. Duncan was the owner and in February sold the track and the 30 acres it was on to John R. Williams of Hazel Park on a land contract.

The Duncans retained ownership of an adjacent 9.46 acres, on which was located their mobile home and a large garage building, where the search warrants were executed.

They are renting a second mobile home on their property to Williams, who has renamed the track Cass City Raceway Park. He conducted his first races there Sunday. The Duncans are not involved in operating the track, according to the new owner.

Three warrants were issued, Sykora explained, each involving a separate piece of equipment that was seized by authorities.

The first is a 42-foot flat-bed trailer. Count I charges Duncan with misrepresenting identity of a mechanical device (altering vehicle registration number) and II is embezzlement of mortgaged property (sale or attempted sale of the property without permission of the party holding the mortgage).

The second warrant involves a payload, a type of earthmoving equipment. The first count is possession of stolen property over $100 and the second, misrepresenting identity of mechanical device.

The second two counts involve installing a different engine in the payload. The charges are misrepresenting identity of a motor and possession of stolen property over $100.

The payload, according to Sykora, had been purchased by local used truck dealer Marvin Winter from Duncan. Winter became suspicious, and furnished information to the investigators. Meanwhile, he no longer has the payload, which he paid money for.

The third warrant involves a semi-truck tractor in which the engine was switched. The counts are misrepresenting the identification of a motor, possession of stolen property over $100 (the engine), misrepresenting the identity of a mechanical device and possession of stolen property over $100. (The latter two charges involve the tractor.)

The reason why it took so long from the time the search warrants were executed until the arrest warrants were issued, Sykora explained, was because of the difficulty in establishing the true identification numbers.

It was easy to establish that the identification numbers had been altered, but it took time to establish the original numbers, which required working with the manufacturers, and learn the equipment.

The investigation has been handled by sheriff's department Detectives Donald Trowhill and Lowell Grimes.

John Latimer of the National Auto Theft Bureau and John McAllen of the vehicle theft investigation unit of the Michigan State Police.

Investigation is continuing regarding four other trucks, plus many truck parts (cabs, doors, frame members, etc.) the sheriff's department has seized and Sykora said he expects he will be issuing more arrest warrants.

He also said he "can't rule out" other persons being eventually charged in the case.

A couple of weeks prior to the issuance of the arrest warrants, the Duncans filed suit against the sheriff's department in Sanilac County Circuit Court, charging illegal search and seizure and seeking return of the items seized from their property.

A hearing was scheduled March 28 on the suit, however, at that time Judge Allen E. Keyes granted the motion of the Duncans' attorney that he disqualify himself as he had signed one of the search warrants.

The case has been reassigned to Huron County Circuit Judge M. Richard Knoblock but apparently no new hearing date has been set.

Sykora has been in contact with Duncan's attorney, Joseph Freed of Detroit, during the investigation and after the arrest warrants were issued Thursday, notified him that he should have his client turn himself in by 5 p.m. that day, otherwise police would be searching for him. Duncan didn't show and, as mentioned, as of this Wednesday morning, was still at large.

FARM FIRE -- The various farm equipment and other items destroyed Sunday night were valued at $25,000. The shed, valued at $7,000, and most of the equipment belonged to William Zink.

Building, equipment fire loss $32,000

Loss was estimated at $32,000 in a fire that destroyed a storage building and its contents Sunday night.

Owner of the building on Robinson Road, east of Hoadley Road in Evergreen township, was William Zink.

The 30-by-50-foot wood frame, metal covered structure was engulfed in flames by the time Elkland township firemen arrived about 9 p.m. They were there about 1½ hours.

A son, Tim Zink, told the Chronicle the origins of the fire began Sunday morning when he burned some trash.

He went away and returned in the afternoon to find that fire had ignited a grass fire. He, a brother and some friends and neighbors extinguished that fire, mainly by guiding it toward a ditch where it burned itself out. That was about 4 p.m. At least everyone thought it was out. About 8:30, when the family was watching television, brother Andy looked outside and discovered the building was on fire, presumably having been ignited by sparks from the grass fire.

Assistant Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. estimated the building as being worth $7,000, with contents valued at $25,000. Tim Zink said his father had insurance.

Inside the structure were an old tractor, old corn planter, hay rake, hay mower, bean harvester that belonged to a neighbor, snowmobile, motorcycle, 75 bales of hay and some miscellaneous items.

Elkland firemen received two assists, one from Bartnik's wrecker service after the tanker got stuck in soft ground on the Zink property. The tanker was close enough so that a hose could be run to the pumper near the fire. The Lamotte Township

Fire Department brought a tanker.

WOODS FIRE

Elmwood township-Gagetown firemen spent three hours Sunday fighting a tough-to-extinguish woods fire at Hurds Corner and Cass City Roads.

About four acres of woods burned, all on the property of James Compo.

According to fire Chief Chuck Wright, Compo was burning some leaves and grass in a pit behind his house, left it unattended, and the fire spread to the nearby woods.

The trees that burned included some good-sized ones, Wright said.

Firemen received the call at 3:45 p.m. There were eight of them there.

The Department of Natural Resources sent two trucks and three men to assist.

Novesta seeks levy for roads

A majority of the Novesta Township Board Monday evening voted to put a 1½-mill proposal on the Aug. 5 primary ballot to finance road construction.

If approved, the levy will run one year.

This year, the board decided, it will have crushed gravel put on the two miles of Severance Road between Englehart and Lamton Roads in preparation for eventual paving, provided the cost does not exceed $24,000.

In order to put rates more in line with what other cemeteries are charging, the board raised the price for a single lot in the township cemetery for non-township residents from $75 to $175. Price for a half-lot (four plots) for non-residents was increased from $300 to $500.

The price for township residents remains the same.

The board gave its consent to granting of Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act agreements for property owned by Floyd Trisch, Ronald and Marcia Mozen and Harold and Marilyn Deering.

Through October, when Daylight Savings Time ends, board meetings will start at 8 p.m. instead of 7 p.m.

HANGING TOGETHER -- As part of their study of the 50 states, students in Sally Goodall's fifth grade class at Cass City Intermediate School created this mobile. Most students each made a map of two states and, hanging from each map, a product or natural resource the state is known for. Hanging up the last of the items are Lisa Hirn, left, and Clayton Hobart.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Larry Hartwick has decided to cash in on his lifelong love for fishing and he recently became a charter boat captain.

To be eligible to take charters the boat must pass a rigid safety inspection. My spies tell me that Larry did that the other day and the boat passed the test with flying colors.

It was a case of the operation being a tremendous success while the patient died. When he placed the boat back in the water it promptly sank.

You know what happened . . . someone forgot to replace the drain plug.

Big winners at the Lions car raffle Monday were Mrs. Mary Rabideau and Ken Eisinger. They split the top prize. In the interest of accurate reporting I should report that the big loser was this writer of trivia. I not only lost on my original ticket but also on a second ticket that I purchased together with a couple of other guys who shouldn't have been listening when I was talking about the purchase. The names of the other members of this ill-fated company are withheld. I figure I've done enough by talking them into buying the second chance.

Incidentally, regular readers will recall that last week at this time there were 22 tickets left. Lions members went to work and sold out the remainder before the bash Monday.

The slowdown in the northern Lower Peninsula is for real. Despite ideal weather there were vacancies galore in even the best of the motels.

Coming back on M-66, a well travelled state highway, but not an expressway, I clocked the time that elapsed before I met an approaching car. I did it only once and that time three minutes, 25 seconds passed before another car appeared.

Guessing, I'd say that we didn't meet a car a minute on that road on a Sunday afternoon and I can't ever remember a situation like that in the last 10 years.

The traffic picked up considerably when we neared the Bay City area, indicating perhaps that folks are still taking off on Sundays but staying closer to home.

The Haire Net

When travelling, it's wise not to lose your luggage. It's especially wise not to lose it in Canada.

Nearly a year ago Nordair Airlines lost a fishing tackle box of mine and I'm still trying to settle the claim.

Now I believe all those horror stories that veteran travellers tell about.

Let me start at the beginning. The return from Chibogamau to Montreal is on Nordair, and it was here that the box was lost. Total value is $175.

In blissful ignorance, figuring that the box would catch up with me in a day or so, I filled out the claim at Montreal.

For two months I heard nothing. Finally I wrote Nordair. After about a month the answer came. The box was given to Vet's Taxi and I undoubtedly had it by now. The letter was just a formality to verify it.

The return letter was ignored and more months passed. Now the situation is getting serious. I invest in a call to Montreal. Vet's Taxi has the box and we have the receipt to show for it, says the claim agent. See Vet's.

Now the blood pressure is rising and I explain that my claim check is not against Vet's but Nordair and I'd like the box or the money.

Several more months pass. Nothing. An advertising pitch comes from the Canadian tourist department inviting me back to Canada.

My letter to this department invites them to help Nordair find my fishing box or my money.

At last a response from Nordair. The box was turned over by Vet's to Greyhound and Greyhound is checking for it.

Meanwhile, what was the contents of the box? After about 10 months they want an inventory. Okay, there were flies, there were reels, there were lures . . . there was $175 worth of fishing equipment.

A Greyhound supervisor tells me that there are a couple of places that they may look to find the box yet. She says, "I have the inventory and you'll be hearing from us with the box or the money in 10 days or so."

That was two or three weeks ago. I have yet to hear from Nordair. I did hear from Greyhound. They wanted a list of the contents of the fishing box.

Do I need to tell you that my reply to the bus company was, at best, curt and to the point? I pointed out that I had no claim against Greyhound. My claim is against Nordair. I pointed out that a list of the missing stuff was given to Nordair's claim department and if they wanted it, check with the airline.

And that's the way it stands. No money, no box. There's always a silver lining. It could have been my cane rod that came up missing. That cost 50 bucks some 25 years ago. The way the airline figures it would be depreciated out by now and not worth much of anything. In reality it's worth a minimum of $150 now and probably more.

I shudder to think of the chance I took when I checked it with the rest of my luggage.

If that came up missing I'd really be out the rod and most of the cash.

In other words if the fishing rod were gone I'd be in the same boat as I am now with my claim against Nordair for the tackle box. Zilch.

PEDALING AROUND

Brown with envy

By Mike Eliasohn

The way I look at it, I was born white and I intend to stay that way.

I am not a racist, but I am not embarrassed about my race, either. Therefore, you will never see me trying to change.

Not so for lots of white people, though. Give them a warm sun and they are outside roasting like a chicken on a spit.

If I have to be outside, fine, be it for work, other necessities, like going to the supermarket, or for pleasure, such as riding my bike. But to be out in the hot sun for no other purpose than to be out there, no thanks.

I have my reasons. One is simply I can't see sweating unnecessarily. It is possible to get skin cancer from too much exposure to the sun.

Being in the sun too much dries skin out, causing one to look prematurely old. (Of course, I could grow a beard if that happened, but then I would look like Gabby Hayes.)

However, since I am not prejudiced against persons who want to turn brown, I will tell you about the latest product to help you in doing so. It will make you look like an orange chicken, but few things in life are perfect.

Let me first digress slightly. To persons who don't like being white, nothing is more embarrassing than going through winter in that condition.

One solution is to go to Florida or Arizona, but that is expensive, plus any tan gained there in two weeks obviously won't last an entire winter.

A more enduring solution is sun lamps.

I don't pay much attention to such things, but I think there are lotions that will turn one's body brown without sun. Of course, if you don't put the stuff on evenly, you will look like a brown and white zebra.

There are also tanning salons. The tan seeker forks over his or her money, goes into a little booth with lots of lights in it wearing little clothing, and in a matter of a few minutes, comes out very brown.

Questions have been raised about the safety of the tanning salons, however, because of the possibility of dried skin, burns and increased chances of skin cancer.

That brings us to the latest, for which you have French chicken farmers to thank. It was at a farm near Marseilles that raised chickens for barbecuing that chickens were fed canthaxanthine, a chemical compound used in the United States to darken butter and cheese.

It worked. The chickens, which in their natural state looked too pale, turned a more attractive yellow.

A French firm then reasoned if the canthaxanthine worked for chickens, it might work for humans. It did. It turned them orange, or as the firm prefers to call it, light apricot.

The chemical, in the form of pills called Oro-bronze, have been imported into Canada for two years. All one has to do, after laying out $25 for 80 of them, is take two each morning and two each afternoon for two weeks, and then take two a day to maintain the proper skin tone.

Selling the pills in this country isn't as easy, however, as the Food and Drug Administration must first give its okay and the manufacturer is only now preparing an application.

With the warmest time of the year ahead of us, it doesn't make a difference now.

But come this fall and winter, while tan worshippers in this country are turning green with envy, their neighbors to the north will be turning brown with pills.

BOND DRAIN -- Nicol and Sons of Cass City are contractors on the Bond Drain cleaning project in Evergreen and Greenleaf townships. Photo was taken Friday south of Pringle Road, east of Leslie Road.

Drain commissioner wins dispute with Sanilac board

A specially appointed board of review has upheld Sanilac County Drain Commissioner Stuart Armstead in his dispute with the county Board of Commissioners over the cost to be assessed to the county-at-large for the Bond Drain cleaning project.

An appeal by the county board is likely.

Four miles of the drain, which is in Evergreen and Greenleaf townships, are being dug out. Work started about three weeks ago.

Of the total cost of the project, Armstead assessed 26.5 of the $63,000 total cost of the project to the county-at-large. Benefiting property owners were assessed 60.5 percent; Evergreen township, 11.5 percent, and Greenleaf township, 1.5 percent.

County commissioners thought their share -- $16,695 -- was too much and appealed to the board of review.

Of that total, $8,341 was for total cost of two new tube bridges where the drain crosses Leslie and Pringle Roads, and $8,354, for benefits to roads.

The board of review was appointed by Probate Judge George E. Benko. It issued its ruling April 29.

County commissioners had hired an expert witness, an engineer from St. Johns, who testified before the review board that the county's share should only be 11.27 percent.

The board, however, agreed with Armstead's 26.5 percent assessment, to be borne by the county taxpayers at large.

One bone of contention was the two bridges. The present tube bridges for Pringle and Leslie Roads are to be replaced by larger diameter ones.

The Road Commission, according to Armstead, wanted the new tubes longer than they need at present, should it in the future build up and widen the roads.

His contention is that if the Road Commission were putting in a new bridge, all the county's taxpayers would have to share in paying for it, therefore, the situation was no different because the bridges were being put in as part of a drain project.

According to county Commissioner Lloyd Severance, in whose district the Bond Drain is located, the board is likely to appeal the board of review's finding to circuit court, that the commissioners don't feel the benefits to the roads and the county-at-large are equal to 26.5 percent of the total project cost.

Meanwhile, work continues. The contractor, Nicol and Sons of Robinson Road, Cass City, have until fall to finish, but based on their present pace, Armstead expects they will be done in about 1½ months.

Plans street work

Gagetown okays increase in trash pick-up charge

Inflation affects everything, including trash.

The Gagetown Village Council Monday evening granted the request of Robert Cove of Cove Sanitation, Bad Axe, for an increase in trash pickup rates.

Starting with the payment for April, May and June, the fee per household will go up from $10 to $12 per quarter. The $10 fee had only been in effect one quarter, having been raised in December from $9.

The fee for homeowners is included on their village water bills. Businesses contract on their own with Cove for trash pickup.

The council left the meeting room for a while to inspect village streets, then returned and decided to have two sections of streets repaved this year, at a maximum cost of $10,000.

One section will begin on South Street, then on Cleaver Street to State Street. The other will be Lincoln Street from the railroad tracks north to the village limits.

Councilmen also decided to have two loads of gravel deposited between South Street and the sidewalk in front of the homes of Ben Lesoski and Dennis Thiek.

Liability insurance coverage for the two village maintenance men was increased from $300,000 to $500,000.

A motion was approved for transfer of the liquor license from United Credit Union to Sherwood on the Hill.

Sebewaing will be the host this year for the annual Michigan Week dinner for village officials from that community, Gagetown, Owendale and Pigeon. The dinner will be May 23.

Sanilac equalized valuation up 10.8%

The Sanilac County Board of Commissioners April 30 approved the 1980 equalization report, with a total state equalized valuation of the county 10.8 percent higher than the 1979 figure.

That compares to an increase of more than 20 percent last year.

The 1980 figure, real and personal property combined, is $460,379 million, compared to $415,625 million last year.

For area townships, the total equalized valuation is as follows (1979 figure in parentheses): Argyle, $9,102,000 ($8,631,648); Austin, $7,426,483 ($7,084,528); Evergreen, $9,697,748 ($9,148,735); Greenleaf, $6,432,110 ($7,483,709); Lamotte, $11,605,800 ($10,868,887); and Moore, $15,822,234 ($14,602,166).

Of the 10.8 percent increase, according to county Equalization Director Eugene Regentin, based on past experience, about 1.5 percent of that would be because of new construction. That would leave 9.3 percent due to increases in property values.

Regentin noted that studies conducted for this year's equalization report showed the value of personal property (machinery, equipment, etc.) increased more percentage-wise than per real property (land and buildings). That is the opposite of what usually happens. Despite the lesser increase in valuation than in 1979, he said there were as many and possibly more complaints than last year. "I guess you reach a saturation point."

New books at the library

AMANDA-MIRANDA, by Richard Peck (fiction). V. Mary Cooke arrives at Whitwell Hall where she is to be servant, she is astonished by her uncanny resemblance to her new mistress, Amanda Whitwell. But she is unnerved when this fiery young woman willfully rechristens her "Miranda" and goes on to decree her duties as a kind of double! Only bit by bit does Miranda piece together the reason for Amanda's strange passion -- a passion that goes beyond the magnificent Whitwell estate to a London town house, where a shameful secret lies hidden.

MARY FRAN AND MO, by Maureen Lynch (non-fiction). Now a graduate student in a special education program, the author describes the year she took off from her undergraduate studies to live in Seattle with Mary Fran, her then 22-year-old mentally retarded sister, who was eager to sharpen her skills for living a normal, independent life. While Mo does not gloss over her ambivalent feelings about the project, her love and concern for her sister overshadow her frustrations and doubts in what became ultimately a successful effort. This warm, upbeat personal narrative, in which both young women emerge as real, caring individuals, will certainly encourage and inspire those wanting to help the mentally retarded.

ARABIA: A JOURNEY THROUGH THE LABYRINTH, by Jonathan Raban (non-fiction). Raban winds his way through the intricacies of the land, language, and culture of the Yemenis, Qataris, Saudis, and Egyptians with an open, questioning spirit. The result is a frank, evocative portrayal of a people that the author had found rudely caricatured in his native England. The British and Arabs encountered on the travels are rounded, intriguing characters, so effectively introduced that the reader will find them readily familiar. A similar emotion is engendered about the cities, deserts, and villages described with crisp, perceptive comments.

Ritter will have on display about 15 pieces that he has made while here -- vases, bowls, etc. Included will be an example of the plate that is now in the permanent collection of the home of the vice-president of the United States in Washington, D.C.

Ritter starts with sand to make his own glass and then by mixing various colored glass during the glass blowing process creates his objects.

His works are sold at galleries in several states and as far away as Japan.

The exhibit this week, according to Mrs. Ritter, will be to enable residents to see what the artist has created while living in this area, not for purposes of selling them.

This brochure also explains some of the legal facts about hiring youth. The other brochure, directed at youth, explains how to go about finding a job, what hours youths can work, and how to act and what to say during an interview. ### Let the Cubans take care of themselves

A reported 15,000 Cubans had arrived in Florida within the past two weeks as of Monday. The United States government was supposedly preparing for the eventual arrival of a total of 40,000-50,000 refugees via the so-called "freedom flotilla."

Pat Mills thinks our country would be better off if the Cubans didn't come, but also feels we might not have much choice in the matter. "We already have too many now," she commented.

If federal budget cuts should mean a reduction in welfare and food stamp payments, a large number of Cubans receiving such benefits will hurt the increasing number of unemployed Americans who have to go on welfare, she commented. "If that (welfare and food stamps) is guaranteed when they (Cubans) get here, what are our people going to do? It's not fair if our program runs out, giving it to non-citizens."

Mrs. Mills doesn't think the Cubans should be given jobs that can be held by Americans "because we don't have enough for our own."

Two of her sons, who both served in the military, she mentioned as an example, can't find jobs, at least ones that pay enough so they could "live off the wages."

But she also doesn't feel we can send the Cubans back. "I feel they (the Cuban government) would kill them if they went back."

What should be done then? She suggested putting the Cubans on government-owned land and letting them build their own houses and grow their own food. "There's bound to be some carpenters, some doctors. Let them take care of themselves."

Mrs. Mills and her husband Donald are the parents of seven children, of whom two still live at home, one of whom has a full job. They have nine grandchildren.

Home is 3846 Cemetery Road, Cass City.

Poster contest

By Bernard Jardot

A Tuscola county young person could win top honors in the 1980 Michigan Dairy Poster Contest, co-sponsored by the Michigan 4-H

Judson-Berean class meets

Thirty-four were present when the Judson-Berean class of First Baptist church met at Veronica's Thursday evening, May 1, for a dinner meeting.

Pastor Teall conducted devotions and class president, George Fisher Sr., presided over the business meeting.

The June meeting will be held at the church.

For entertainment, Ed Connell showed films made on bus tours when he was a driver.

War is the only game in the world in which even the winners are losers.

Youth Program, American Dairy Association of Michigan and the dairy farmers of Michigan.

Purpose of the contest is to inform others about the value and importance of milk. It's also an excellent opportunity for young people to show off their artistic skills. 4-H'ers 9 to 19 years of age are eligible to compete in the contest.

Young people interested in competing should design a 22-by-28-inch poster around the theme: "Milk Is The One." Contestants are encouraged to display their posters in community stores, businesses or schools to further promote the dairy industry.

Interested youths should contact the county 4-H office for more information on the contest and a copy of the official entry form. Posters must be produced before June 15 to qualify for the state competition.

Youth labor law hearing in Caro

Persons 16 and 17 years old may find more restrictions and fewer job opportunities on certain farm jobs, if a new proposal by the Michigan Department of Labor is enacted into law.

Currently, federal law covers Michigan youth under 16 working on farm jobs which are declared hazardous by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The proposed Michigan youth employment standard surpasses the federal law affecting young workers by including those 16 and 17, says Howard J. Doss, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service safety specialist.

A public hearing on the Michigan proposal - Youth Employment Standards, Part 3, Hazardous Occupations in Agriculture - will be held at the Caro Regional Mental Health Center, administration building - ground level, Monday, May 19, from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Persons unable to attend the hearing can make their opinions part of the hearing record by sending written comment to: Mrs. Dorothy Ransom, Court Recorder, Office Hearings, Michigan Department of Labor, State Secondary Complex, 7150 Harris Drive, Lansing 48909.

Written comments, for or against the proposed rules, are considered equally with those who appear in person at any public hearings.

Even those who appear at the public hearing are urged to submit written comments at the hearing in addition to any oral comments they wish to make at the hearing.

Students who get benefits must report

Men and women ages 18-22 who receive Social Security benefits because they are full-time students should make sure the "end of year report" form they received is completed and returned to Social Security, according to Susan Ludwig, Social Security field representative in Saginaw.

If the form is not returned in time, benefits will be stopped until an investigation is completed.

After the student completes the top part of the form, he or she should take it to the school registrar who will certify the student's enrollment and return the form to social security.

The form must be completed even if there is no change in the student's plans.

Students should report to Social Security if they make any change in their plans. Benefits can be paid only while a student is attending school full time.

More information about student's benefits can be obtained at the Saginaw social security office at E. Genesee and N. Warren Streets in downtown Saginaw, telephone 771-1010.

Softballers win easily

Girls take 2 from Sandusky

Cass City's potent softball team kept rolling along Friday with a pair of lopsided victories over Sandusky at Cass City Recreational Park.

The girls batted around in the first inning when 11 girls went to the plate and Cass City scored five times on four hits. Meanwhile, Shirley Fleming was pitching a strong six-hitter and the Hawks won easily, 8-2.

Beth Sieradzki paced the hitters with three hits in four tries. Shelly Lapeer and Libby Hartel each garnered a pair of safeties. The Hawks backed Fleming with an 11-hit attack.

In the nightcap the Hawks posted a runaway victory,

17-2, in a game called after five innings because of the 10-run rule. The Hawks scored three times in the first and added seven more in the second before rounding out the day with four-run clusters in the third and fourth.

Nancy Tonti was the leading hitter with four hits in four tries. Padgett Randall and Hartel collected two hits each. Randall and Tonti each drove in three runs.

The power at the plate made it easy for Tammy Root to chalk up the win on a six-hitter.

The Hawks were to have played at Marlette Tuesday and will host Vassar Friday at Cass City Recreational Park.

Baseball team bags a pair

The Cass City Red Hawks stayed in the thick of the Thumb B Conference baseball race with a twin bill victory over Sandusky Friday at Cass City Recreational Park.

Strong pitching by Earney Stoutenburg and Ken Martin were the key to the two wins. The Hawks now have a conference record of 3-1, second to Caro's, 5-1, but all even in the important loss column.

In the opener, Stoutenburg got little hitting support, but didn't need it as he hurled a one-hitter in a 3-0 whitewashing of the Redskins.

Stoutenburg struck out 13 of the 18 players he faced and got the side in the second and fourth innings via the strikeout route.

The Hawks scored the only run they really needed in the first as Randy Ferris led off with a hit and came around on hits by Mike Stec and Tim Johnson. The Hawks scored again in the third and added the last counter in the fifth Johnson and Ferris with two hits each led the 6-hit attack.

In the nightcap Martin tossed a six-hitter to pace Cass City to a 3-1 decision. The Hawks again scored enough in the first inning to win. Hits by Stec and Johnson coupled with an error netted the runs. Meanwhile, Martin closed the door on the Redskins until the last inning when the visitors turned a couple of hits into a run. Stec, who is Cass City's leading hitter, showed the way with two of Cass City's four hits.

King, queen contest threatened

The deadline for entries for the king and queen contest in conjunction with the Cass City July 4th Festival is fast approaching.

If more entries aren't obtained, there won't be a contest.

The only criteria to enter is that couples must be married.

If there aren't more entries by Friday, May 16, there won't be a contest. Only two have signed up so far. Couples interested should call Vicky Patrick at Ouyry Chevrolet-Olds, 872-4301.

If there is a contest, the couple that wins will receive a free week end, probably at a hotel in Midland, as was the case last year, or at Shanty Creek Lodge. The only cost to the winners will be to drive there and back.

The couple that wins will be the one that raises the most money, either by placing canisters in stores or other solicitations. The money raised by all the entrants pays for the trip. The winning king and queen will be crowned during the July 4th festival.

Mrs. Patrick sent out letters to 15-20 organizations, asking them to sponsor a king and queen candidate. Only two have replied they will, the Jaycees and Rotary. (Such sponsorship isn't necessary to enter.)

Mrs. Patrick even called some persons, asking them to run, with no response.

Only two couples ran last year. A minimum of four or five is needed this year, she said.

OK Huron valuation

The Huron County Board of Commissioners last Thursday approved the 1980 equalized report, setting the county's total equalized valuation at $576.515 million, an increase of 10.2 percent.

The 1979 figure was $523.144 million.

For area townships, the total equalized valuation (1979 figure in parentheses) is: Bingham, $18,260,767 ($15,908,900); Brookfield, $25,648,887 ($24,365,000); Grant, $12,162,391 ($10,589,224); and Sheridan, $12,044,435 ($10,298,230).

Commissioners arrived at the final countywide figure by applying a negative factor of .98526 to county Equalization Director George Danks' real property figures of $555,014,191.

They had been told two weeks earlier by officials of the State Tax Commission that they thought Danks' true cash value for the county was about $17 million too high. The equalized valuation upon which property taxes are based is one-half the true cash value.

To the new real property value was added the personal property valuation of $29,683,648, to arrive at the total equalized valuation.

Most of the township supervisors and assessors who were at the meeting thought the equalized valuation for their units was too high but there wasn't much they could do about it.

The only commissioner to vote against the equalization report was William Nugent of Bad Axe, who complained the report raised valuation in three townships in his district much higher than in other areas.

Report minor injuries, property damage in area auto accidents

Elwood R. Monzo, 34, of Port Huron, sought his own treatment for injuries suffered in a 10:50 p.m. accident Monday.

Caro state police reported he was eastbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, west of Colwood Road, when his car went out of control and went off the north side of the road into a ditch.

He told troopers the steering on his car had ceased functioning. Daniel L. Maxson, 17, of Rossman Road, Kingston, was cited by sheriff's deputies on a charge of failure to report a property damage accident after a mishap at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

They reported he was southbound on Kingston

Road, south of Centerline Road, when he lost control of his car on a curve. The vehicle went off the road, rolled over and came to a halt in a ditch.

Two persons were reported as having possible injuries in a 2:50 p.m. accident April 29 in Cass City.

They were Jerry M. Lawrence, 41, one of the drivers involved, and his passenger, Oscar E. Schave, 40, both of Port Hope. Neither was reported as having been taken to the hospital.

Village police said Irene M. Franks, 58, of 5464 Cemetery Road was westbound on Pine Street and collided with the Lawrence vehicle, which was southbound on Seeger Street. Mrs. Franks was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield right of way.

At 5:30 p.m. that day, according to sheriff's deputies, Donald R. Gentz, 21, of Blissfield, accidentally backed his vehicle into a parked car in the Cass City IGA Foodliner lot. Owner of the parked car was not identified.

At 8:30 p.m. on the 29th, deputies said Sally Mae Engler, 18, of 3422 Pine Street, Kingston, backed from her driveway into a car parked on the opposite side of the street.

Owner of the parked car was Robert Miller of 6029 Walnut Street, Kingston.

CAR-DEER

At 3:25 a.m. last Thursday, deputies reported, Lynn D. Zawilinski, 21, of 4138 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, was eastbound on M-81, east of Cedar Run Road, when her car struck a deer.

At 9:45 p.m. that day, according to deputies, James F. Woods, 16, of 6736 Third Street was northbound on Koeppgen Road, south of Muntz Road, when his car collided with a deer.

Kareen Khoury, 24, of 4576 Hill Street, Cass City, was headed northeast on M-81, southwest of Akron Road, at 8:40 p.m. Monday, according to Caro state police, when his car struck a deer.

Vandals ruin 3 new car tires

Reatha Hughes of 4300 West Street reported to Cass City police at 10:50 p.m. Friday night that three tires on her new car had been punctured with a sharp object and were flat. The tires were worth $150-200.

John Homakie of 60 W. Cass City Road, Columbia township, told sheriff's deputies last Wednesday that two welding tanks, with hose and tips, and cart, had been stolen.

Entry was gained to the building in which the equipment was kept by prying loose a metal panel. Entry through an inner door was gained by smashing it with a 50-gallon drum.

The welding equipment was valued at $200. The tanks were being leased from Thumb Welding. The break-in occurred some time between 11:30 p.m. April 29 and 8 a.m. the next day.

Thomas Herr of 2902 Keilitz Road, Cass City, reported to Caro state police late Monday afternoon that the battery was stolen from his car while it was parked during the day at a lot at M-81 and Kirk Road, while he was at work. The battery was worth $56.

Particka earns coveted Ferguson band award

The Cass City High School bands held their annual banquet at the Colony House April 19.

The blessing was asked by Rob Clarke.

Rob Hartwick, president of the concert band, recited a speech and with the help of Deb Paladi presented awards. The award categories were: most improved, Jackie Yost; biggest honker, Rob Hartwick; biggest pest, Keith Langenburg, and teacher's pet, Deb Paladi.

Scott Krueger, president of the symphony band, gave a speech and presented the following awards:

Most undependable, JoAnn Peters; most improved, Bobbi McKay; fire-up award, Karen Wallace, and biggest complainer, Lonnie Wilson.

The band members recognized the Band Booster officers present.

Thomas Clair and George Bushong, directors of the high school bands, presented recognition honors. Freshmen and sophomore band members were given certificates. Juniors were given their band letters. Seniors were given a band pin to add to their letters.

Then the most deserving senior was awarded the Harold Ferguson award. This is based on the individual's contributions to the band program throughout the four years of high school.

Recipient was Melanie Particka, first chair trumpet player of the Symphony Band. Melanie has participated in marching band, concert band, and pep band for four years.

She competed in solo and ensemble for three years and this year was part of the Brass Quartet that went to the state solo and ensemble.

She has also been a member of the jazz band. This year, she was a member of the Tri-County Band.

Dorn Beddow, a freshman trombone player, gave a speech. She saluted and thanked the senior members.

Senior wills were read by Laurie Enos and Debbie Page.

The fun-filled, exciting evening was brought to a close as the senior prophecies were read by Karen Wallace and Melanie Particka.

TOP BAND MEMBER - Trumpet player Melanie Particka was the recipient of the Harold Ferguson Memorial Award from Cass City High School band director Thomas Clair during the recent band banquet. Her receiving the honor was acknowledged during last Thursday's "Evening With the Arts" program. She was selected by her fellow band members. Melanie is the daughter of Melvin and Charlotte Particka of Cumber Road, Uby.

Gifted child group meets

The Tuscola County Association for Gifted Children will hold a meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Tuscola

Intermediate School District offices, 1685 Cleaver Road, Caro.

On the program is a presentation, "The Testing of Gifted Children." Speakers will be Lynn Burmeister, psychologist for the Tuscola Intermediate School District, speaking on IQ and achievement tests, and Harriet O'Brien, speaking on tests for creativity. They will answer questions on the identification and testing of academically talented and creative children.

The association will also be electing officers for the coming year.

All interested persons are invited to become involved in the work of the organization in promoting the educational and personal opportunities of academically talented and gifted children.

Road contract status remains unclear

The status of the negotiated contract between the Tuscola County Road Commission and the union representing its hourly workers remained muddled as of mid-week.

Tentative agreement was reached April 22 and members of Local 21 M of the Service Employees International Union were to have voted April 29 on the pact.

Afterwards, however, the local union president, Arthur (Jim) Saeger, wouldn't say what happened at the meeting.

Tuesday, Road Commission Clerk Jim Miklovic said about all that was known was that there is no agreement yet between the agency and its employees.

Union representatives are to meet this Thursday with the Road Commission board and more should be known then.

Hughes received 51,900 votes as the Republican nominee against incumbent Democrat J. Bob Traxler in the 1978 election.

After the 1978 election, Hughes won election to the 8th congressional district Republican chairmanship. He was named to a blue ribbon committee to reorganize the state Republican party, and became chairman of an appointments sub-committee.

Hughes is an advisor to the Ronald Reagan presidential campaign with close contacts to both the state and national Reagan leadership.

Circuit Court

Periso sent to prison in sexual conduct case

Raymond D. Periso, 17, of 1545 Phillips Road, Cass City, was sentenced to 3-10 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson Monday for his part in the rape of a woman in Novesta township.

A Circuit Court jury found him guilty March 19 of a charge of criminal sexual conduct (1st degree) in connection with the June 28, 1979, incident.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Martin E. Clements ordered that Periso not be given any good time or early parole. The defendant was credited with two days served.

In another rape case, James J. Paquette, 20, of 10269 Sheridan Court, and Alvin E. Thrasher, 22, of 10370 Oak Road, both Millington, each stood mute to a charge of criminal sexual conduct (1st degree).

The two are charged in connection with an incident March 28 in Arbela township.

Pleas of innocent were entered for both, with pre-trial hearings scheduled May 19. Bond was continued.

Also Monday, Kenneth W. Reinke, 19, of 4890 E. Block Road, Reese, was placed on two years' probation for attempted breaking and entering.

He pleaded guilty to the charge March 17, in connection with a break-in Jan. 30 at the Reese IGA.

He was also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and ordered to pay $170 restitution.

Timothy S. Piazza, 19, of 105 N. Main Street, Vassar, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a coin operated device, a Detroit News vending machine March 30 in Vassar township.

His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled June 16. Bond was continued.

LeRoy A. Hayward, 25, of 3840 W. Gifford Road, Caro, stood mute to a charge of possession of a controlled substance (amphetamines).

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled May 19. Bond was continued.

He was arrested on the charge March 17 in Caro.

JUDGE JOSLYN

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn Monday denied the appeal of the prosecutor's office seeking overturning of a ruling by District Judge Richard F. Kern in the case involving Charles Mersino.

The Clarkston resident, 23, had been charged with armed robbery in connection with the March 15, 1979, holdup of the Ku Ku Kow restaurant in Caro.

Kern ruled the following month that a confession given by the defendant after he was arrested in Alpena was given involuntarily and therefore dismissed the charge against him.

Joslyn's upholding of Kern's ruling won't be appealed, according to Assistant Prosecutor Kathleen

Christner competent for trial

Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn ruled Monday that Glen A. Christner is competent to stand trial for murder in the shooting death of his wife.

The judge made the ruling based on results of the examination Christner underwent at the state Center for Forensic Psychiatry, Ann Arbor.

Part of the report of forensic psychiatrist Y.K. Lee, MD, read, "Concerning the matter of competence to stand trial, the defendant has a clear understanding of the charge against him."

There is no evidence of mental illness that would interfere with his ability to help his attorney in his own defense.

Christner, 31, is charged with shooting his wife, Edna, to death in their home on M-46, Caro, March 5. He has been held in custody since then.

His attorney, James N. Woodward of Bad Axe, has filed notice that he will offer an insanity defense in behalf of his client.

Joslyn granted the motion the attorney offered Monday to allow his client to be examined by a private psychiatrist, Dr. Emanuel Tanay of Detroit.

Boyle. A mixup involving appointment of an attorney for Mersino and then giving the lawyer time to review the case was the reason for the delay, she explained.

Mersino either was found guilty or pleaded guilty to an armed robbery charge in Alpena, she added, so apparently is now serving a prison sentence.

Also Monday, Joslyn granted the motion for setting of bond pending appeal of Victor Radecki, 20, of Clifford. Bond was then set at $200,000.

Radecki is appealing his conviction by a Circuit Court jury in April of last year of aiding and abetting an armed robbery, in connection with the Jan. 7, 1979, attempted robbery of the Shay Lake Grocery.

He was sentenced in May, 1979, by Joslyn to a term of 2½-5 years at Jackson prison. His appeal is now pending before the state Court of Appeals.

A bench warrant for the arrest of Shirley G. Martens, 37, of 5223 Lobdell Road, Mayville, was issued after she failed to appear for arraignment on a charge of uttering and publishing. Her bond was cancelled.

She is charged with writing a check for $51 to Chamberlain's Shoe Mart in Caro in February, for which she did not have a bank account or adequate funds.

Migrant workers face possible housing shortage

Migrant laborers coming to work in the Thumb area's sugar beet fields may be faced with a shortage of adequate, licensed housing this June.

This assessment of a developing problem came from Marvin G. Johansen, chief of the state Health Department's Agricultural Labor Camp Section.

Johansen said that proper migrant housing in the counties of Tuscola, Sanilac, and Huron was so scarce last year that some migrant families were discovered living in vacant houses not licensed for such use, a clear violation of state law.

"The housing situation will be worse this year," Johansen warned, "because of what is shaping up to be even less available migrant housing."

Two owners of agricultural labor camps that have been licensed in the past, one in Tuscola county and one in Huron county, have advised the Health Department they do not intend to license the facilities this year.

The Abke Camp in Tuscola county, owned by a Unionville man, was licensed last year for an adult capacity of 104. The Verona Camp in Huron county, owned by the Michigan Sugar Co., was licensed to house 72 adults.

Since both owners do not plan to operate the camps in 1980 because of needed major improvements to make them licensable, migrant housing accommodations in the area will be able to handle 176 fewer adults. Without the Abke and Verona Camps, if the same camps in the three counties are again licensed this season, there will be available housing for only 349 adults in 13 camps.

Fearing the problems that could arise from this situation, Johansen said the health staff advised the Office of Migrant Services in the Michigan Department of Social Services and the Huron and Tuscola County Departments of Social Services of the pending potential housing problem.

"If all of the migrant workers and their families who previously occupied the Abke and Verona Camps came to Michigan this summer and had no alternative housing available, a significant problem could arise in the placement of these persons," Johansen cautioned.

"That's why we alerted other agencies with an interest in migrant affairs, some as far back as last December, that a potential problem was in the making."

He explained that the law requires any agricultural labor camp providing living quarters for five or more migratory workers to be licensed by the state Health Department.

For licensing, a facility must meet minimum requirements related to such basic items as construction, sanitation, sewage, water supply, plumbing, and garbage and rubbish disposal. "These requirements apply," he emphasized, "whether the living unit is a single family house, mobile home, or multi-family structure."

Colleen Stafford, mother of 3, gets college degree

Colleen Stafford had an audience of six Saturday when she received her B.A. degree in commencement ceremonies at Saginaw Valley State College.

The former choir director at the First Presbyterian church in Cass City graduated with a perfect 4.0 average. She majored in general music, specializing in voice.

She and her husband David have three children, Jessica, 8, Jeremy, 7, and Jonathan, 5. The family lives at 4178 E. Cass City Road.

In addition to her husband and children, also in attendance at the commencement ceremonies were her parents from Warren, Ohio.

Mrs. Stafford, 35, began her college career at the University of Michigan in 1963. She studied voice there for two years, then transferred to Wayne State University in Detroit, where she took some classes part-time and worked as a welfare caseworker and later ran a child day care center.

She resumed her part-time college career at SVSC in fall, 1977.

She and her husband were married in 1968. They moved to Cass City in 1970, where he was the area representative for the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

Mrs. Stafford was choir director at the First Presbyterian church here for about three years and for the past year has performed the same task at the Presbyterian church in Caro.

She was director of the Cass City Bicentennial Choir in 1976. In the summer of 1978, she sang in three operas performed as part of the "Matrix: Midland" festival in that community.

Mrs. Stafford may continue her musical studies some day at the graduate level.

For now, her days of commuting to SVSC, either two or three times a week, and finding babysitters are over. The latter task eased the final semester when the college opened a child care center.

The family will be moving this summer to Grand Blanc, where David Stafford has been the MEA representative for more than a year.

Probate workers hearing postponed

The scheduled Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) hearing of a complaint by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners against the union representing court-house employees has again been postponed.

It was originally scheduled to be heard March 24, but was postponed until Monday of this week so that the board's labor attorney could be there.

It has now been postponed a second time, without a new date being set. The hearing was to have been conducted by MERC Judge Shlomo Sperka.

The reason for the postponement this time, according to county Personnel Administrator Jackie Larson, is that both sides wanted time to examine the study conducted by the state court administrator's office of salaries paid to county probate court employees. The study, which has not been made public, was released last week.

The union and county board's personnel committee both agreed to the postponement.

The complaint was filed by the county board in January against the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Council 25, AFL-CIO, its business agent, Rick Kloor, and the seven probate court employees who are the center of the dispute.

The complaint charges that the probate court employees were included in the contract the county negotiated with its courthouse employees, members of AFSCME Local 2697, which went into effect Jan. 1.

The union later negotiated a separate agreement with Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. for the seven employees, which called for salaries totaling about $17,000 higher than called for in the contract for all courthouse employees.

In an effort to avoid a showdown between the judge and the county board, both sides agreed in February to have the court administrator's office conduct a study to compare wages of the probate court employees with those of other courthouse employees

Search on for tax alternative to Tisch

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Legislative leaders and the governor are searching for the right combination to shift taxpayers' liability away from the property tax system with the lost revenue -- estimated at around $500 million -- to be picked up by either an increase in the state income tax or sales tax rate.

This is not being done out of the goodness of their hearts but it is a conscious effort to short circuit the Tisch property tax cut ballot question of 1980.

Homeowners, continuing to feel the squeeze of escalating property taxes, are probably ready to vote for the Tisch plan this year after opting for a less radical approach at the 1978 election.

At that time, voters selected the less radical tax limitation constitutional amendment in hopes it would put the brakes on soaring property taxes and government spending.

However, after nearly two years, that amendment has done little in providing relief for individual taxpayers.

Petitions are now being circulated again to get the Tisch property tax cut back on the ballot -- an action expected to succeed without question.

The proposal is simple. It slices property taxes in half and in similar-sized counties.

By action of the county commissioners, the probate court employees are receiving wages and fringe benefits at 1979 levels until the dispute is resolved.

and prohibits state government from taking any action to recoup the lost revenues.

Feeling the mood of the voter, legislative leaders and the governor have been meeting to try to reach a middle ground and put forth a proposal the voters would adopt over the tax cut plan.

Citing already shrinking revenues as a result of the hard-hit automobile industry in Michigan, government officials say basic human services cannot be met with such a radical cut in state revenues.

In order to soften the blow on property owners, several tax shift plans have been proposed. Simply put, they would give individual taxpayers a break of around $500 per year on their property tax bills, but the lost revenue would be shifted to the income tax rate or to the sales tax.

The legislature will soon put on a push for the adoption of a proposed constitutional amendment to get the question on the ballot in direct competition with the Tisch tax cut proposal.

After getting the question on the ballot, state officials will be covering the state with a concentrated personal and media blitz promoting the plan as a responsible alternative to the Tisch plan.

In Michigan, this campaign will overshadow any other question on the ballot or any race including the presidency.

Not only will voters be voting for either the tax shift plan or the tax cut proposal, but a more crucial question may be answered in November voting on the issue.

That is the basic question of whether to put confidence in public officials who will be proposing the shift in light of the state's revenue problems or in those who advocate a tax cut who say there is too much government and that it is time the people take control through the election process.

The safest way to hold on to a good job is to know more about it than the other fellow.
