Possible drowning investigated

An autopsy was performed Tuesday to determine the cause of death of David Paul Main, 39, of rural Vassar, who is thought to have drowned.

Results were not immediately known.

Main, 39, died either late Monday or early Tuesday.

According to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, he left his Loren Road home around 7:30 Monday evening to take a walk in the surrounding woods.

About 11 p.m., when he had failed to return, his wife called family members to start searching.

At 2:49 a.m. Tuesday, the sheriff's department was called. Deputies helped in the search.

Main's body was found at 6:30 a.m. in a small creek behind his home by his son and a friend.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Caro Community Hospital and an autopsy ordered.

State road aid down sharply

Revenues for highway and road work and other transportation programs took a sharp drop in the first quarter of 1980, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

For Cass City, that will mean a drop from $19,707 received in the first quarter last year to $19,345 for the same period this year.

Other area communities and the amounts they will receive (1979 first quarter payments in parentheses) are: Gagetown, $6,380 ($8,753); Kingston, $4,476 ($4,734); Owendale, $4,715 ($4,983); and Ubyly, $7,923 ($8,379).

The Tuscola County Road Commission will receive $831,390, compared to $866,232 for the same period last year; Huron county, $727,469 ($750,697); and Sanilac county, $782,183 ($808,711).

Most of the state's Motor Vehicle Highway Fund revenues come from the sale of gasoline and diesel fuel, which recorded their sharpest drop in usage since shortages and rationing sent consumption into a tailspin during World War II, according to the transportation department.

The reduced use this year is attributed to the declining economy, continued rise in fuel prices and growing popularity of smaller, more fuel-efficient cars.

Income from weight taxes (license plate fees) also decreased during the period.

Fuel tax revenues declined 7.1 percent from the first quarter of 1979 and license plate income, down 2.8 percent.

Coupled with declining state revenue, transportation department Director John P. Woodford said, are a 70 percent cutback in federal highway aid for projects scheduled in Michigan during the next five months and an increase in road construction and maintenance costs of 15-20 percent a year.

New books at the library

ICE BROTHERS, by Sloan Wilson (fiction). Based partly on Wilson's own experiences in the U.S. Coast Guard during World War II, this novel traces the adventures of an American ice trawler patrolling off the coast of Greenland in the early stages of the war. As the Germans attempted to establish weather reporting points and submarine refueling stations in the northern Atlantic, the Coast Guard recruited volunteers to challenge both the enemy and the icy dangers of the sea. Wilson's story is traditional in style and persuasive in its depiction of battle action, military life, and personal relationships deeply affected by the war.

HOW TO LIVE ON ALMOST NOTHING AND HAVE PLENTY: A PRACTICAL INTRODUCTION TO SMALL-SCALE SUFFICIENT LIVING, by Janet Chadwick (non-fiction). A commendably specific and mature book about how to homestead for the purpose of having high-quality food and also about wholesome values and new skills that follow from developing near self-sufficiency. Janet Chadwick's family traded urban life for homesteading five years ago, when she was 40 years old. Their experiences are the basis of honest and detailed chapters on gardening, fruit culture, beekeeping, and husbandry of goats, hogs, rabbits, poultry and veal calves. This book presents the art of successfully implementing a rural alternative life-style.

THE YEAR-ROUND TURKEY COOKBOOK: A GUIDE TO DELICIOUS, NUTRITIOUS DINING WITH TODAY'S VERSATILE TURKEY PRODUCTS, by Barbara Gibbons (non-fiction). Everything you can do with chicken you can also do with turkey. Turkey gives a stronger flavor to stocks, soups, and any dish using fats. The emphasis of the book is on replacing the costlier, more fattening red meats with turkey.
