OIL RIG FIRE -- While owner Andy Tallman was on top inspecting the damage on his oil well service rig, firemen below were making sure the last of the fire was out. Damage in the Friday afternoon fire was estimated at $5,000. Tallman had the rig operating again by Saturday.

Repaired by Saturday

Friday oil well rig fire loss set at $5,000

Damage was estimated at $5,000 when an oil well service rig caught fire in Grant township Friday.

Three fire departments were called to extinguish the blaze.

Owner of the rig and oil well was Andy Tallman of Caro. It was located south of McAlpine Road, between Farver and Maxwell Roads.

Tallman said he and his son Alex were using a torch to clean paraffin out of the pipes and it caught grease on fire. That was about 1 p.m.

The Elmwood-Gagetown

Fire Department received the call first. Fred Sullivan of that department said when they arrived, flames were as high as the 50-foot tower on the service rig.

The Elkland township and Owendale departments were also called. It was later discovered the fire was in Elkland's territory, though close to the boundary of the Gagetown department.

Firemen were on the scene a little more than an hour, with the Owendale department the first to leave.

According to Tallman, the last time oil had been pumped from the low-production well was in 1974, when it became no longer profitable to operate.

He since purchased the well, as higher oil prices again make pumping profitable.

The service rig was used to remove all the sections of pipe in the ground, which then had to be cleaned before they could be reinstalled. He and his son had 3,300 feet of pipe cleaned and back in the ground and only had four 29-foot sections to go to complete the job when the fire broke out.

He said the service rig was worth about $50,000 but estimated damage at $5,000.

It required some new parts, but Tallman had the rig back in operation by Saturday.

At 9:41 a.m. last Thursday morning, the automatic fire alarm at Hills and Dales General Hospital set off the fire siren. It was a false alarm.

Biggest margin in Tuscola

Upper Thumb says Bush over Reagan

Tuscola county followed a statewide trend Tuesday favoring George Bush over Ronald Reagan in Michigan's basically Republican presidential primary.

Sanilac and Huron counties also sided with Bush for the Republican nomination. Also in Sanilac, a millage renewal in Austin township was defeated.

In the Tuscola county election, Bush hauled in 1,665 votes to Reagan's 1,084. Rep. John Anderson, of Illinois, whose name appeared on the ballot even though he is running as an independent, garnered 210 votes. Harold Stassen received 14 votes and Benjamin Fernandez, 15. The uncommitted space drew 39 votes.

Statewide, Bush gathered 57 percent of the vote while Reagan got 32 percent and Anderson, 8 percent.

In Elkland township, Bush had 175 votes to Reagan's 98 and Anderson's 15. In Ellington, Bush got 35 votes, Reagan, 24, and Anderson received five.

In Elmwood township, the breakdown went Bush, 40, Reagan, 20 and Anderson, 9. In Kingston it was Bush, 47, Reagan, 26, and Anderson, three. Novesta township was one of five townships to favor Reagan, giving him 39, Bush, 26, and Anderson, 1.

In addition to the presidential candidates, Republican voters chose delegates to the upcoming county convention.

In Novesta township, one of only two townships in the county to have a contest for delegates, County Clerk Elsie Hicks and her husband, Gerald, were elected with 41 and 42 votes, respectively. They defeated David and Janet Moody, with 17 and 12 votes, respectively, who are committed to Ronald Reagan. The Hicks are uncommitted.

Delegates from Precincts 1 and 2 of Elkland township ran uncontested and all were elected. Attending the convention from Precinct 1 will be John Marshall, 76 votes; Mabel Marshall, 59; Esther McCullough, 75, and Marie Roch, 63.

From Precinct 2, four delegates were also elected. Jack Gallagher got 110; Edwin Karr, 99; Maynard McConkey, 116, and Harold Perry, 95.

In Ellington, Elmwood, and Kingston, no delegates were elected since none had filed for candidacy. No one received write-in votes for the positions.

Voters in all three counties stuck with another state trend concerning the low number of voters that turned out.

Of the 28,369 voters registered in Tuscola county, only 3,134 - 11 percent - went to the polls. It was estimated that fewer than 700,000 votes were cast statewide.

In Elkland township, 314 of 1,924 registered voters turned out and in Elmwood, only 75 of 664 registered voters did so. Of 511 registered in Ellington, 77 cast ballots. Novesta saw 83 of its 603 registered vote. Kingston had 91 of its 703 registered voters turn out.

The low turnout was due to the fact the election was basically a Republican function, according to Mrs. Hicks. The Democratic primary was meaningless and even on the Republican side, a loss in Michigan probably will not be a major setback for the Reagan campaign.

The former California governor leads Bush in the overall delegate count by a wide margin. In fact, with Reagan winning the Oregon primary Tuesday he should have the necessary number of delegates to be nominated at the national convention in Detroit this summer.

The Democratic half of the primary meant nothing since that party already chose its national convention delegates in caucuses last month.

That led President Jimmy Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy, of Massachusetts, to withdraw from the primary. Even then, Carter received 8 write-in votes and Kennedy, 3, in Tuscola county.

The only Democrats on the ballot were California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who has withdrawn from the campaign, and Lyndon LaRouche Jr., former chief of the U.S. Labor Party. They received 81 and 44 votes respectively. A total of 101 Democratic voters were uncommitted.

SANILAC COUNTY

In Sanilac county, Bush garnered 2,084 votes to 1,692 for Reagan. "Uncommitted" received 199 votes. Fernandez received nine votes and Stassen got four. Ex-President Gerald Ford received one write-in vote.

In the meaningless Democratic primary, "uncommitted" received 88 votes, Brown, 85, LaRouche, 35, President Carter, 21 write-in and Sen. Kennedy, eight write-in.

Supreme Court to hear O-G appeal

The Michigan Supreme Court will hear the appeal of the Owendale-Gagetown School District concerning the key Goslin property transfer case.

In a decision released Friday, the justices of the state's highest court granted the district's motion to appeal the October, 1979, ruling of the Michigan Court of Appeals that the property is now part of the Cass City School District.

"We're back to square 1," said an elated Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson, noting that it will be the first time the Supreme Court will hear the district's arguments concerning the school property transfer law.

Earlier in the lengthy legal proceedings, it had declined to hear an Owen-Gage appeal in the Goslin case.

The Supreme Court granted the district's motion for leave to appeal, giving its attorney, James Schouman, until Aug. 6 to submit briefs.

The other side has until Sept. 30 to submit the same.

with oral arguments to be heard in November.

How long after that the court will issue its ruling won't be known until it does so. In some instances, according to Assistant Attorney General Gerald Young, the court issues a ruling in a couple of months. Sometimes it takes 1-1/2 years to do so.

The importance of the Supreme Court decision to hear the case, he explained is, "It's safe to say we'll get a definite answer this time."

Young is representing the state Board of Education in the proceedings, which in May, 1976, approved the transfer from Owen-Gage to Cass City.

The more than 40 property owners involved had appealed after the boards of education of the Tuscola and Huron Intermediate School Districts in May, 1975, rejected the transfer request. The Goslin territory has a state equalized valuation of more than $4.2 million.

The Supreme Court is asking that briefs be submitted responding to two questions.

The major question is whether state law allows the state education board to transfer property from one school district to another as long as the valuation is 10 percent or less of the "losing" district's valuation.

Owen-Gage contends that once more than 10 percent of the original district is transferred away, as has happened, a public vote of approval is required for all subsequent transfer requests.

The second question the high court may address is whether the state board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner, that is, without logical reason, in approving the transfer.

According to Young, Owen-Gage could lose on the 10 percent rule but still win the case if the court decides the state board was arbitrary and capricious.

The question becomes moot, however, should the judges rule in favor of the district on the 10 percent rule. Please turn to page 20.

Why do teachers leave Cass City? It's too small for some

By Mike Eliasohn

Cass City may be the hub of the Thumb, but for many new teachers here, it definitely isn't the center of activity.

That appears to be a major reason why many new teachers spend only a few years here at most, then leave.

Another reason stems from the fact the teachers are new and young.

None of the teachers and administrators to whom the question was asked thought that teachers leave because of salaries.

As expressed by a second year teacher, the pay may be higher in metropolitan areas, but so is rent.

Some teachers do leave the profession for higher paying jobs in other fields. Intermediate School Principal Bob Stickle commented, "High School Principal Russ Richards recalled seeing a study that showed that most teachers eventually move to within 50 miles of their home towns.

In comparison to surrounding school districts, which are even smaller, the Cass City school district has had a higher teacher turnover rate, at least during the last few years.

Including counselors and librarians, Cass City welcomed 15 new staff members in September, 1975, nine in 1976, 16 the following year, 21 in 1978 (plus four more at mid-year), and 10 at the start of the current school year.

Present staff, including counselors and librarians, totals 96, so during that time span, the number of new teachers in a year has ranged from roughly 10-25 percent. (Some new positions have been added in the last couple of years).

Both Supt. Donald Crouse and school board President Geraldine Prieskorn feel the high number of teachers who started in the fall of 1978 was an aftermath of the teacher strike that spring.

Some teachers left because they didn't get the support of the community they had expected, Crouse said. "I think they were disappointed in the reaction from the community."

The Chronicle has only reported the names of new teachers in surrounding districts the past two years.

In September, 1978, Owendale-Gagetown had six new teachers, one of whom was hired for one year only to replace a teacher on leave. Last fall, there were two new teachers, one on a one-year only basis at that time. Total staff numbers 27, so including one-year temporary replacements, that's a turnover rate of 7-22 percent.

Kingston had one new teacher in fall, 1978, three last fall, of a total staff of 38 (3-8 percent). Uby welcomed four new teachers in 1978, two for the present school year, of a staff of 56 (11-3.5 percent).

Crouse pointed out that staff turnover isn't necessarily bad. "I personally feel the staff with a mix is good. I think it keeps the system more alive, between young and more experienced teachers."

He also said the district does not deliberately hire new teachers fresh out of college, with a "but" added. "We want to get the best person we can," he said, pointing out that the district does hire some teachers with past experience.

He added just because a teacher has taught elsewhere doesn't mean he or she is a better teacher. Thus if it means hiring an experienced teacher with a mediocre record who has to be paid $4,000 a year more, he would rather hire a new teacher with good credentials.

The contract with the Cass City Education Association, pretty much standard in education, provides that new teachers with experience have to be paid at the same pay rate as teachers who have spent the same number of years within the district. Deciding which teachers to hire is basically a joint decision between the superintendent and the principal of the building in which the person to be hired will teach. The principals conduct the initial interviews.

WHY LEAVE?

According to one high school teacher, who is female and single, the joke among teachers is that the administration is trying to keep new teachers here by getting them to marry local people.

One teacher who did marry a local man said she might have limited her stay here to two years, but now that she is married, will stay longer - provided her husband doesn't have to go elsewhere for job reasons.

"If I wasn't married," she added, "I'd probably be bored."

Boredom does appear to be a major reason why many new teachers don't

Garage sales are success

It appears that most of the participants in last week's community-wide garage sale considered the event a success and would like to see it continued.

Aside from giving citizens an opportunity to get rid of many items gathering dust around their houses and making a little profit, many said they feel the sales brought customers into Cass City stores.

"Of course anything that brings people into the town is good for the town," said Gladys Albee, of 6457 Garfield Street.

She added that many of the bargain shoppers seemed to be moving smoothly from one sale to another.

Maps showing locations of the sales were available from local merchants to assist shoppers. The maps were printed by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, who sponsored the event, and were paid for with the $5 registration fee submitted by persons having a sale.

The final decision will be up to the chamber board, according to chamber President Tom Herron, but he thought it likely the organization will sponsor the event again next year.

One suggestion Mrs. Albee Please turn to page 20.

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

You know that summer is about to begin when the annual plea is heard from the Babe Ruth league. The league is looking for a coach. Regardless there will be a tryout Thursday, May 22, at 5 p.m. at the park. Boys not able to attend should contact Phil Robinson or Pete Martin.

The traditional start of summer fun time has always been Memorial Day which comes next Monday almost a week earlier than the May 30 date that previously prevailed.

As usual that holiday means early copy at the Chronicle. All deadlines are advanced a day so that most of the staff can enjoy the day, too.

Speechless department: Every newsmen is familiar with complaints and establishes ways to handle them, according to tact and temperament.

When someone calls to express appreciation like teacher Doug Greszesak did this week it's hem and haw time. Newsmen aren't experienced enough to handle kudos, just complaints.

I confess. I didn't vote Tuesday. I didn't forget. I just didn't write this I could go to the polls. Frankly I see little purpose in it. The race is virtually decided and the best I can vote I can conceive is not to vote for any of the candidates.

You'll be seeing a new face around the main stem and the countryside this summer. It belongs to Jim Iseler of Harbor Beach.

A student at Central Michigan, Iseler is interning here. He'll be handling a variety of reporting duties with special emphasis on the annual July 4 Festival.

Memorial Day parade Monday

The Memorial Day parade takes place in Cass City Monday, followed by services at the Elkland township cemetery.

The parade will start at 10 a.m., rain or shine, at the corner of Main and West Streets.

Led by the military color guard and Cass City High School band, other expected participants include 20-30 baton twirlers from Cass City and Caro, Little Leaguers, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, veterans' group members, Elkland Township Fire Department trucks, 4-H Junior Wranglers horse club, bicycles and antique cars. All parade entries are asked to assemble behind the Gamble's store starting at 9:30 a.m., according to village council member Lynda McIntosh, the parade organizer. Anyone who would like to participate in the parade is asked to be in the parking lot there at that time.

Many of the parade entries, especially children, will be dropping out at Scotty McCullough Drive, the entrance to the park. The remaining entries will continue on to the village cemetery for memorial services. Rev. P. Thomas Wachterhauser of the Trinity United Methodist church will be delivering the message. Master of ceremonies for the 21st year will be Jack Esau.

Elkland Township Supervisor Jack Gallagher is in charge of arrangements for the memorial service.

Elementary students to show art work

Cass City elementary students will show their artistic talents to parents and the public May 27-June 3, with specific dates depending on the school.

The approximately 870 students in grades 2-6 (2-5 at Deford) will have on display at least one work each that they have completed during the past school year.

At Campbell Elementary, the showing will be from 6:30-8 p.m. Tuesday of next week and from 9-11 a.m. the following day. Students from both Campbell and the intermediate school (grades 5 and 6) will show their projects.

Hours at Deford Elementary will be 6:30-8 p.m. Thursday, May 29.

Evergreen Elementary students will have their art works on display June 2 from 2-4 p.m. and the following day from 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

Coordinating the shows is elementary art teacher Trudy Muszynski.

Fishing is not like it used to be. It's not as good today as it was when I started fishing and it wasn't as good when I started as it was for the generation before me. That's only important if you happen to be a fisherman. But in a larger view it's important to all of us. It's an indication of the ever present erosion of our natural heritage.

There aren't many places today where you can get away from the inroads of civilization and enjoy the beauty of a pristine wilderness.

In Michigan's northern lower peninsula there is a huge tract of land called the Pigeon River Forest area that includes three major rivers and uncounted feeder streams.

It may not be the same as it was 100 years ago but it's largely untouched through much of its area.

You can get something out of fishing the Pigeon River that you can't find in even the world famous AuSable or Pere Marquette rivers.

Those great trout streams are lined by cottages and homes, all well kept and attractive but as out of place in a nature setting as the stray deer that occasionally wanders into a bustling business section.

From the middle of a river in the Pigeon forest, there's the feeling that it's just you and nature, nothing else.

And there's plenty of nature around. It's the home of elk, deer, bear, bobcat, squirrels and an array of birds I can't name. That area is something great to pass on to my kids and for them to pass on to theirs when the time comes.

Whether that will be possible is an open question.

Right now the battle rages between conservationists and oil drilling interests and from here it appears sure that oil is winning.

There will be drilling in the Pigeon River area. The story that the Department of Natural Resources tells is that when the oil is extracted the land will return to its original state.

Today the oil interests are severely restricted in where and how they can drill.

Maybe my fears are groundless. Maybe future generations will enjoy what we have today. Maybe.

If hardtop roads to accommodate oil tankers replace the dirt trails there today or new roads cut into the heart of the wilderness area, the area loses a little more of its magic.

And it is magic, you know. That feeling of peace and pure contentment that comes from soaking in what the area has to offer.

It's so great that it's almost immaterial that the fishing isn't really all that good any more. You know that before you go.

Don't count on taking home any meat for the table. Count on collecting all that the area has to offer and rest easy knowing that, at least for the present, the supply is inexhaustible.

"If It Fitz..." Solitaire in bed

By Jim Fitzgerald

The husband was awakened by a soft, erotic "slap, slap, slap" sound coming from the other side of the bed. He opened an eye to see what the wife was doing. She was putting the reds on the blacks, and vice versa.

"Why are you playing solitaire in bed?" he asked. "Is it something we should talk about?"

The husband reads Dr. Joyce Brothers and the other pop psychologists. He knows the principal reason for domestic discord is a lack of communication between partners, especially in the bedroom. As Ann Landers once put it: "Tell him what you want, Honey, otherwise how is he going to know?"

"Why didn't you tell me you wanted to play cards in bed?" the husband asked.

"I didn't think it was any use. You never play cards with me anywhere," she said.

The husband couldn't deny it. Early in their marriage, she had persuaded him to go to bridge school and then to form a bridge club with several classmates. Up until then, he had played nothing except poker and euchre. He had always thought card games were social events calling for a steady flow of witty conversation and booze. He was dismayed to learn that bridge players are silent frowners, crazed by the fear of losing, who worry too much about getting the cards wet. He refused to attend the second meeting of the bridge club and all meetings held thereafter.

That happened almost 25 years ago but the wife is still sore about it. She complains that the husband didn't announce his defection from the bridge club until the very night of the second meeting, thus leaving her host with two empty seats and no time to find substitutes. She says this horrendous gaffe furnished her friends with conclusive proof that she married an ignorant slob.

The husband's defense is that she should have known he wouldn't attend the second meeting of the bridge club because of what he had said immediately after the first one. He had told her he'd rather die than ever play bridge again. She says he should have been more specific. He sobs a lot.

Ever since the husband quit the bridge club, the wife has punished him by exaggerating his crime. Without actually saying it, she has continually accused him of refusing to ever play any type of card game with her while he often goes out to play poker with the boys. She has a sneaky talent for making this type of charge without using precise language the husband can refute. For instance, she announced the birth of their third child by telling everyone she finally had a fourth at home.

But playing solitaire in bed was something she had never done before. The husband feared a double-edged complaint. In her silent manner, was she not only saying that she had to play cards alone, but also that she might as well do it in bed?

"We have to talk," he said. "What is it you're trying to tell me?"

"I can't sleep," she said. "There has to be more to it than that. If I told Dr. Brothers I woke up to find my wife playing solitaire in bed, she would say we should make love on a bridge table. She would say we should open communications concerning your real feelings toward me. She would say that deep down, beneath your placid exterior, you have suppressed feelings. Any brilliant psychologist could tell you that you're missing a fulfilled life because you refuse to recognize that your husband is a handsome, exciting man. He is not boring."

The wife was beginning to nod off.

The husband sensed their marriage had reached a crossroad. In fact, he thought he heard traffic. She was snoring.

That's when he made his move. He rolled to her side of the bed and took her in both arms, and shook her. Her eyes opened.

"We have to talk," he said again.

"Say whatever it is you want to say," she said. "You put a red six on a red seven," he said.

Lewis Spencer also an artist

Ex-yacht captain 'sails' rare sports car

Lewis Spencer is probably the only ex-yacht captain living in the Cass City area. He definitely is the only Swallow Doretti owner in this area. Few of the English sports cars were made 26 years ago and even fewer made it across the ocean to this country.

GETTING INTO the Swallow is a tight squeeze. The door is narrow and as evidenced by the height of the seats, the driver and passenger sit low to the ground.

Spencer and his wife, Helen, came here about a year ago from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where for about the previous 20 years he earned a living as a captain of privately-owned yachts.

His last job was to be in charge of a 90-footer, owned by a Pontiac dealer. Mrs. Spencer is a native of this area. She and her husband have been married 15 years, having met in Florida.

A desire to return to this area, plus an offer from her brother, Gary Deering, a carpenter, to help them build a house, led them to move here.

The Spencers now live in their new house on Seeger Road, northeast of Cass City, down the road from her parents, Ed and Vera Deering.

Spencer was born at Staten Island, N.Y., but has lived most of his 50 years in Florida. He did live for a time in California and Nevada.

He attended then Michigan State College for a year, the result of his having met some Michiganians in Florida, and worked on a highway project south of Kalamazoo after leaving MSC.

He learned to pilot boats in the Navy, which led to his career as a yacht captain.

HE ALSO IS A TALENTED artist, having sold many of his paintings in Florida, having had them displayed at one-man shows and written about in magazines in that state.

Spencer also has a penchant for owning and working on cars, usually foreign and usually sports cars of 1950s and '60s vintage.

The Swallow Doretti and 1964 Mercedes-Benz sedan that sit in his garage are the latest examples.

He usually buys the cars fairly inexpensively, fixes them up and drives them around a few years and then sells them for a profit.

Since moving here, he has done some house painting and furniture refinishing, hopes to reestablish his painting for art career and is willing to take on a car restoring project for someone for the right price. Mrs. Spencer is a receptionist at General Cable.

WHAT CARS HAS Spencer owned? With the help of his wife, he starts counting.

He bought a 1950 Alfa Romeo coupe (made in Italy) and later traded it for a Mercedes-Benz 230SL (German) sports car. He later owned another 230SL and now the present sedan.

There have been three Jaguar sports cars, a 1953 MG TD and a 1957 Bentley sedan (all English made).

The Swallow was made in England in 1954, the only year they were produced.

No one knows apparently how many were made, but Spencer guesses about 50.

THE SWALLOW WAS INTRODUCED about the same time as two other English sports cars that became very popular in this country, the Austin-Healey and the Triumph TR-2, and the transplanted Floridian speculates the Doretti (Italian for Dorothy) proved unable to compete in the market place.

The car used the same engine, gearbox, rear axle and some front suspension parts as the TR-2 and was imported into this country by the then Standard-Triumph Motor Co.

Its four-cylinder 90 horsepower engine gives it a top speed of about 100 miles per hour. In overdrive fifth gear, the car can get 35 miles per gallon on the highway.

The Swallow Coachbuilding Co. before World War II built car bodies for Jaguar and Austin, another English firm. After the war, it made motorcycle sidecars. The Doretti was apparently the first and last car it built on its own. The firm is apparently no longer in business.

SPENCER BOUGHT THE car five or six years ago through an agent from its original owner in Fort Lauderdale.

The car was well cared for, to the extent that in the owner's garage, it was always kept parked on a carpet.

He has done some work on the car, refinishing the wood dash, dyeing the convertible top a different color, having the seats reupholstered and installing wider wire wheels to soften the ride.

The car has a stiff suspension. "It corners pretty much like a race car," Spencer said.

For that reason, Mrs. Spencer adds, the car isn't very comfortable to ride in. "You hit those bumps on M-81 going into town," she said, gesturing with her hands to indicate how the car -- and those in it -- jar at each bump.

THE CAR WAS NICE for the warm top-down climate of Florida, but in Michigan, it isn't. Dirt roads, snow and salt don't take too kindly to a car in mint condition. For that reason, plus the money would come in handy, the car is with regrets for sale.

The port of entry price for the car back in 1954 was $3,295. Spencer bought his for about $3,000.

He's hoping to recoup his investment and then some, but is asking for nowhere near the $10,000 he heard one was selling for in California.

That car and one in Illinois are the only other Dorettis he knows of in this country, though he guesses there may be a few more.

Being such a rare car,

Spencer gets a lot of queries as to what it is. The usual guesses are an Austin-Healey or an MG.

If he tells them it's a Swallow Doretti, the usual response is a "what's that?"

For that reason, if he doesn't feel like talking, he explained with a smile, "I tell them it's an MG and they're satisfied."

LEWIS SPENCER and his mint condition 1954 Swallow Doretti. The car has about 65,000 miles on the odometer. It is powered by a four-cylinder, 90 horsepower engine.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS -- Cass City Jaycees will be paying expenses for Cass City High School students competing in the state Special Olympics at Central Michigan University June 5-7. Presenting the expense check last Thursday to Dean Keyser, with chapter members looking on, was Jaycee President Jim Turner. Dean took first place in his age group in the May 9 district Special Olympics and will be going to CMU along with Cecil Randall, at right, first in frisbee, and Ricky Hoag, not present, first in softball throw and second in 220 meter run. Second from right is Jess Deatherage, first in long jump, ball throw and 400 meters, who as a junior high student, won't be going to CMU.

Keeping cold air out

Lots of leaks can be easily sealed

A house is like a ship floating in a sea of air. The air tries to force its way in, like water, through every crack. In winter, the cold air that leaks in has to be heated, and it forces other, already heated air to leak out. Here are two suggestions from the U.S. Department of Energy for keeping hot and cold air where they belong.

wires enter the house, through holes around exhaust fans, around dryer vents, and around sink and bathtub drain pipes as they exit from the house. These gaps and holes should all be caulked or stuffed with insulation. The electrical outlets can be sealed with inexpensive gaskets that can be purchased at hardware stores.

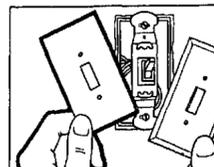

Don't Duck the Ductwork

Where your heating and/or air-conditioning ducts pass through the living areas of the house, there is no need to insulate them.

Where they pass through unfinished attics or basements, they are an important cause of money loss. Covering ducts can save up to $100 a year in heating costs and $35 in central air-conditioning costs.

The most inexpensive approach is to use 2-inch foil-backed insulation and to do the ducts yourself, remembering to keep the foil facing outward. It is most important to seal the cracks between each section of ducting with flexible caulk before you add the insulation. Hidden air leaks coming from these cracks can limit the effectiveness of the insulation.

Encircle the ducts with insulation. Use duct tape to seal all the cracks between each section of insulation, and also seal the seam where each piece of insulation joins itself.

More Holes In Your Pocket

When people think of caulking and weatherstripping, they generally think of windows and doors. But most energy studies find that only 20 percent of that costly infiltration comes through these places. The other 80 percent gets in underneath the baseboards, through wall outlets, through holes where plumbing pipes and telephone

Ann Hobar. to read own poetry

Kalamazoo College senior Ann Hobar will give a reading of her own works of poetry this Thursday in the Olmsted Room of Mandelle Hall on the college campus. The presentation is free and open to the public.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hobar of Hobar Road, Gageton. Her poetry was written as her senior individualized project. The title and theme of her collection of 40 poems is "Something to Support the National Faith in Simplicity." She will read from about a dozen of the most recent poems.

Miss Hobar, who majors in English, also has written for the "Cauldron," the college's poetry magazine. For the next school year, from mid-October to June, she has received a French government assistantship to teach English in that country to school children. Eventually, Miss Hobar plans to pursue a master's degree and a career in teaching. She was selected to the Phi Beta Kappa honorary society this year. She also served as a senior fellow in the English department.

For her career development quarter, she was a teaching assistant at a home for crippled children in Pittsburgh. She participated in Kalamazoo College's foreign study program in Strasbourg, France.

4-H cavies workshop Thursday

A special cavies workshop has been scheduled this Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building, Caro fairgrounds.

All 4-H leaders, members and parents interested in small pets projects like cavies are encouraged to attend.

The meeting is sponsored by the 4-H Small Animal Developmental Committee.

Simmons rites held Monday

James T. Simmons, 77, of Cass City died Friday at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness.

He was born Jan. 28, 1903, in Evergreen township, Sanilac county, the son of John and Veima (Brown) Simmons.

Simmons married Edna Ball Spiers Jan. 12, 1928, in Gageton. Following their marriage, they made their home on a farm near Snover, coming to Cass City in 1975. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in January, 1978.

He was a member of the Shabbona Reorganized Church of the Latter Day Saints since childhood.

Simmons is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Clayton (Betty) Baer of Snover and Mrs. Robert (Maxine) LaJoie of Caro; one stepdaughter, Mrs. Frank (Winnifred) Wilson of Yale; two sons, Orvil Simmons of Bay City and Glen Simmons of Rose City; three sisters, Mrs. Edith Parrott and Mrs. Jessie Cameron, both of Deckerville, and Mrs. Elizabeth McNeil of Cass City; two brothers, John Simmons of Owosso and Charles Simmons of Deckerville; 11 grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren. One son, Alfred, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Harry Capps of the First Presbyterian church of Cass City and Rev. Allan Lewis of Snover officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Kim Hool on dean's list at Alma College

Kim Hool, an Alma College sophomore from Cass City, is among students named to the college's dean's list for outstanding academic performance during the winter term ending April 19.

Students who achieve a 3.5 or better grade point average during a term, while carrying a minimum of 13 credits (at least eight of which are evaluative grades), are named to the dean's list.

Kim, a 1978 graduate of Assumption High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hool, Windsor, Ontario. She lives at 4656 Hunt Street, Cass City.

WALKING THROUGH THE FIRE and SIGNS OF SPRING, by Laurel Lee (non-fiction). Laurel Lee kept a journal during the nine months she was undergoing intensive treatment for Hodgkin's disease. Published as "Walking through the fire", it moved almost everyone who read it—pure, naive, lyrical, and life-affirming expressions of a young woman with three little children who was walking hand-in-hand with God and death. "Signs of spring" brings us up to date, again by means of Laurel's journal: Divorce from a husband who wouldn't bear the burden, months of welfare-level poorness, the news that her hospital journal would be published, a rise in fortunes, the love of two men whose gallantry fell short of marrying into such heavy burdens, the recurrence of the cancer, and always, always care of the children.

THE UPAS TREE, by Eva Hanagan (fiction). With a deft touch, Hanagan has created an effective novel about a woman, Ishbel, coming into her own after years of catering to family demands. Subtle satire lightens the account of Ishbel's travails as her mother's maid servant, while a slightly different, wry tone enters as Ishbel makes her first discoveries of freedom later in the novel. The novelist feints with clever intimations of potentially dire events and relieves the readers fears only in the heart-warming last scene.

THE DREAM MAKER: WILLIAM C. DURANT, FOUNDER OF GENERAL MOTORS, by Bernard Weisberger (non-fiction). The story of how Durant formed in the first decades of this century what is now the largest U.S. auto manufacturer is interestingly told. In describing Durant's early career as a carriage maker, Weisberger points out how the large-scale production methods and acquisition of companies making parts predated the tactics later used to bring success to General Motors. The author is equally explicit about Durant's necessary resignation from GM and the rise and fall of a second venture in auto manufacturing.

Suzanne Little on dean's list

Suzanne Little has been named to the dean's list for the winter semester at Western Michigan University.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Little, 5178 Kelly Road, Cass City. To be eligible, a student needs a minimum 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0.

Wise is the man who knows enough to let well enough alone.

Kathy Dillard gets degree at Harding Univ.

Kathy Diane Dillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Clarke, 3475 Cemetery Road, Cass City, was among 380 seniors at Harding University, Searcy, Ark., to receive degrees in spring commencement ceremonies May 11.

Kathy Dillard

She majored in home economics textile merchandising.

Her husband, Mark, received a degree in Bible.

The couple will be living in Pontiac, where Dillard is employed at a General Motors truck plant. He had been on leave to get his degree.

Mrs. Dillard will be seeking employment, preferably in textile merchandising, according to her mother. Kathy is a 1976 graduate of Cass City High School.

Common bean mosaic virus

AROUND THE FARM

Common bean mosaic virus

By William Bortel

One of the most exciting events to happen to the Michigan dry bean industry in the last 10 years is the signing of a contract with Mexico.

The contract will be a boon to the bean industry, but as with all good things, it is not without potential pitfalls.

The contract calls for colored beans, primarily pinto and black turtle soup types. This fact will require a major shift in production for many growers, who have been up to now comfortable with producing white navy bean varieties.

As we approach the 1980 season, one of our major concerns is sufficient good quality seed of the pinto and black bean varieties to plant the acres necessary to fill the contract obligations.

There are several seed-borne diseases which can cause substantial crop losses. Common mosaic virus, halo, common, and fuscous bacterial blights, and anthracnose can all ride into the bean field on seed.

In this article we will concentrate on common mosaic virus, leaving the other diseases for future articles.

Common bean mosaic causes puckering of leaflets, chlorotic mottling and leaflet elongation. Pod, leaf and petiole distortion, and dwarfing of a few leaves on the whole plant can occur. At times premature death occurs. Infected plants usually have greatly reduced pod set and seed production.

Once introduced to the field, mosaic can be spread from plant to plant by contact, tillage equipment, and aphids. The plants which are infected during this secondary spread usually produce a near normal yield, however, at least 50 percent of the seed produced may carry the virus to a subsequent crop should the seed be used for planting stock.

The typical mosaic symptoms mentioned above are found in varieties like Sanilac, Charlevoix, Manitou, California light and dark red kidney, and Michigan Improved Cranberry beans. Wyoming 166R and 111 Pinto beans may also develop common mosaic as described.

Most other bean varieties grown are resistant to the common mosaic virus. Unfortunately in some varieties, the resistance to mosaic is expressed in the form of "black root." The resistance is actually expressed as immunity or "hypersensitivity," thus, when the plant is inoculated with the virus, it reacts in the form of a root and stem discoloration, rapid wilt, and death.

The idea here is that the plant dies rather than surviving to serve as an infection center for neighboring plants. A few plants die but the majority survive, theoretically.

If (viruliferous) aphid vectors are moving into bean fields in great numbers, plant losses can be substantial due to this hypersensitive form of resistance. The hypersensitive type of resistance is present in the varieties Seafarer, Gratiot, Tuscola, and some Black Turtle Soup varieties. Other cultivars may also have the black root hypersensitive reaction; however, positive testing has not been done.

As Michigan moves towards fulfilling its contract obligations, bean growers should realize that continuation of the contract is at least partially dependent on the delivery of a quality product. Attention to seed sources and quality (disease-free) seed for planting is the first step to meeting our end of the bargain.

Sanilac to appeal on Bond Drain

The Sanilac County Board of Commissioners May 14 approved the action of its chairman, Stuart Parsell, in initiating a Circuit Court appeal of the cost apportionment for the Bond Drain project.

The board is appealing county Drain Commissioner Stuart Armstead's assessment of 26.5 percent of the $63,000 cost to the county-at-large, a decision that was upheld by a board of review April 29.

The county's hired witness had testified before the review board that he thought the county-at-large share should only be 11.27 percent. Armstead said Monday he had been officially notified of the appeal being filed, but had yet to be notified of a court date.

Fluoride program announced

The summer topical fluoride program in Sanilac county during the summer months will be at the following locations: Deckerville Community School, June 9-18; Croswell, June 19-July 3; Marlette, July 7-15, and Sandusky, July 16-30.

According to the county Health Department, approximately 500 children have enrolled in the program.

Parents of enrolled children will receive appointment cards about two weeks prior to their children's appointment. Sites in Croswell, Marlette and Sandusky will be announced later.

The person with no purpose in life can never show progress.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

James Maharg, son of Kenneth Maharg of Cass City, graduated from Aquinas College with a degree in fine arts. He received the highest honor of Aquinas by being listed on the Dean's List.

Carolyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, has been named "secretary of the year" by members of the Vocational Office Block at Cass City High School.

Gross receipts from the sale of 1000 Poppies by the American Legion Auxiliary totaled $379. Top salesperson was Mrs. Lillian Kendall.

By a 6-4 vote, the combined Tuscola and Huron Intermediate School Districts Boards of Education rejected the request of 36 property owners to have their property transferred from the Owendale-Gagetown to the Cass City School District.

TEN YEARS AGO

Marilee Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Turner of Decker, and Lynn Haire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haire, were among 45 Michigan State University students tapped into Tower Guard, one of the university's distinguished women's honoraries.

Cass City clinched at least a share of the Thumb B

Conference baseball crown with a 2-0 victory over Caro. Jame Kot, Cass City Schools instrumental music instructor, was one of the featured performers at a jazz concert at Flint's Whiting Auditorium.

Nellie Sinclair, retiring Owen-Gage teacher, will be honored at an open house Sunday. She taught for 33 years, the final 21 of them in the Owendale and later the Owen-Gage schools.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

About 180 band members and their parents attended the Band Booster Club cooperative dinner at Cass City High School.

For the first time in many years, Cass City will field an independent baseball team.

The members of the Tuscola County Extension Advisory Board and agricultural committee of the Board of Supervisors met and Don Kebler was presented to them. He was recommended as assistant county agricultural agent and they in turn hired him. Cass City received $5,376 as its share of first quarter receipts from the state Motor Vehicle Highway Fund.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The heating and plumbing business of E.A. Wanner was sold to Avon Boag of Argyle township and Elmore Caister of Evergreen township.

The Gavel Club pledged $300 towards the air strip project for Cass City.

First Lt. John A. Reagh, combat pilot, recently returned from overseas, has been assigned to Turner Field, Twin Engine Pilot School, at Albany, Ga.

Mrs. Raymond Green, instructor and counselor in educational reconditioning at Percy Jones Hospital, Battle Creek, was a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Sandham.

Criminal complaints total 577

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department received a total of 577 complaints in April, compared to 512 the month before.

The greatest number, 168, involved traffic complaints (accidents, reckless driving, etc.), followed by larcenies, 65, vandalism, 61, and burglaries, 43.

Deputies made 58 arrests during the month, of which 26 involved traffic violations, six for liquor violations, five for burglaries, and three for vandalism.

There were 21 appearance tickets issued, 12 involving transporting or possession of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle and nine for purchase, possession or transporting liquor or alcoholic beverages by minors.

Deputies issued 267 traffic tickets, 101 of which were for speeding and 40 for parking violations.

They drove 45,126 miles during the month, their patrol cars having consumed 3,881 gallons of gasoline (11.63 miles per gallon).

The county jail received 170 inmates in April, of whom 12 were female, and released 167.

Cass City police made seven arrests during the month, two each for traffic violations, vandalism and liquor law violations, one for burglary.

Kingston police arrested one person for obstruction of justice.

State police from the Caro post arrested 20 persons, including seven for traffic-related offenses, three for liquor violations and two each for violation of controlled substance law and obstruction of justice.

The number of complaints received from and accidents in area townships and villages respectively were: Cass City, 34 complaints, accidents not listed; Elkland township, 23 and 4; Columbia, 9 and 1; Ellington, 12 and 1; Elmwood, 13 and 0; Kingston township, 13 and 1; Kingston village, 2 and 1, and Novesta, 24 and 4.

Downing in college 'Who's Who'

Gregory J. Downing, son of Jack and Harriet Downing, Gagetown, is among 48 students at Ferris State College nominated to the biographical publication "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, 1979-80."

Students are selected to appear in the publication on the basis of scholarship and participation in campus extracurricular activities.

Downing, a 1975 graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School, graduated from the pharmacy program at Ferris this year. While at Ferris, he was awarded the William C. Sunkes Memorial Award, presented annually to the most outstanding graduating pharmacy senior. He was a member of the Student American Pharmaceutical Association and Rho Chi Society, professional honor society.

Your Neighbor says

Gas tax increase is unnecessary

The effects of smaller cars and motorists driving less are being felt.

If, however, the result will be an increase in the gasoline tax, Christine Joles is opposed. The price of gasoline, she said, "is high enough now."

Except for a small percentage for public transportation and railroads, revenue from the state gasoline tax (11 cents per gallon), diesel fuel tax and license plate fees are all spent for road construction and maintenance.

While those costs are going up 10-20 percent a year, the Michigan Department of Transportation reported last week, fuel tax and license plate fee revenue declined 4.5 percent for the first three months of this year, compared to the same period last year.

The situation has led to a call by highway interests for an eventual increase in the fuel tax, perhaps by setting it as a percentage of the price per gallon instead of the present flat rate. That way, highway revenue will increase as the price of gasoline increases.

But Mrs. Joles doesn't feel an increase in the gasoline tax is necessary. "I do think a lot of the money is squandered."

"These roads are terrible, especially in Tuscola county," she added.

Because she feels the price of gasoline is already high enough, she was happy when a federal judge last week enjoined President Carter from putting into effect an oil import fee, which would have increased gasoline prices 10 cents per gallon. "I don't know if it was a bad idea," she commented. "I'm just glad it didn't pass."

She and her husband, Robert, purchased a smaller car because of its better mileage. She also tries to combine errands when she comes into town, to reduce the number of trips she has to make.

A homemaker in a very literal sense, she and her husband have been building their own home on McAlpine Road, Gagetown, for the past three years. They hope to move in in July.

Her husband is employed at the Caro Regional Center. They have a son, Jason, 4.

Laurie greets Reagan at airport

Michigan Farm Bureau Vice-president Jack Laurie was in the reception line May 13 at Tri-City Airport of those who officially greeted Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan and wife Nancy when they stepped off the plane.

At a fund raising breakfast the following morning, Reagan endorsed Norman Hughes, Republican candidate for the 8th Congressional seat now held by Democrat Bob Traxler. More than $18,000 for Hughes was raised at the breakfast.

Veterans' benefits announced

The Veterans Administration spent $576.57 million in Michigan in fiscal year 1979. In Tuscola county, VA expenditures totaled $1.86 million; Sanilac, $1.18 million, and Huron, $1.29 million.

Of those amounts, compensation and pensions accounted for $1.38 million in Tuscola; $872,459 in Sanilac and $953,962 in Huron. The total for Michigan was $315.79 million.

Expenditures for educational benefits for Vietnam era veterans and other training programs were $336,685 in Tuscola, $212,721 in Sanilac and $232,593 in Huron. Statewide, the amount totaled slightly under $77 million.

In Michigan, the VA spent $32.65 million on insurance and indemnities, of which $142,771 was spent in Tuscola county. The figure was $90,204 in Sanilac and $98,631 in Huron.

Dale Smith promoted by Army

Dale R. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Smith, 5820 Severance Road, Deford, recently was promoted to Army specialist four while serving as a multichannel communications equipment operator with the 2nd Armored Division in Garlstedt, Germany.

The appointing orders for this promotion stated "The Secretary of the Army has placed special trust and confidence in this soldier's patriotism, valor, fidelity and abilities."

The promotion was based upon these qualities and the demonstrated potential for increased responsibilities.

Smith, who entered the Army in July, 1978, is a 1978 graduate of Cass City High School.

Debut of new carburetor highlights Althaver world tour

Lambert E. Althaver, president of Walbro Corp., recently returned to corporate headquarters at Cass City after a tour which took him to Walbro subsidiaries around the world.

Beginning at the multinational's Walbro GmbH in Stuttgart, West Germany, the tour included Walbro de Mexico in Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, then Walbro Far East Headquarters in Kawasaki City, Japan.

Walbro Far East includes a manufacturing and assembly plant in Miyagi Prefecture, Japan. The tour also included Walbro Singapore, where the Walbro line of diaphragm carburetors for small gasoline engines is produced for use on chain saws, brush cutters, and weed trimmers.

One of the highlights of Mr. Althaver's trip was a press conference held in Kawasaki City, with a group of Japanese financial, industrial and trade newspaper editors and publishers.

The news conference, hosted by Hirohito Kobayashi, president, and Tatsuya Mizutani, chief engineer of Walbro Far East, was held to announce final development and initial production of a new Walbro "WZ" Model carburetor. The new carburetor was developed specifically for the brush cutter industry, and will be manufactured and sold by Walbro Far East.

The trio also gave the press a general description of the structure and business of Walbro Corporation, including details concerning its subsidiaries in Japan, Singapore, Mexico and West Germany.

Althaver pointed out the origin of the new carburetor provides an excellent illustration of the many benefits of Walbro's multi-national sharing of resources and disciplines in fuel systems technology, since the new product was designed and developed by Walbro Far East. Thus, a product conceived and produced by Walbro's overseas subsidiary to meet a local need now promises to become a global best-seller.

WORLD TOUR -- Hirohito Kobayashi, president of Walbro Far East, demonstrates the use of EDM machining to produce dies used for the manufacture of Walbro's new WZ brush cutter engine carburetor to Walbro President Lambert E. Althaver during the latter's world tour of the corporation's subsidiaries.

Guideline for seeking benefits

People nearing 65 who are not already receiving Social Security benefits should contact the Saginaw Social Security office two to three months before their birthday, according to Susan Ludwig, field representative.

Library board meets

Library Board members Mrs. K.I. MacRae, Esther McCullough, Barbara Tuckey and librarian Barbara Hutchinson were present Tuesday morning for the board's monthly meeting at the Rawson Memorial Library. Absent were Maynard McConkey, Lou Lapsie and Mrs. Lucy Auten.

People not already getting monthly benefits have a limited time to act to be sure their full Medicare protection begins at 65. If they don't act within the 3-month period before the month they reach 65, their Medicare medical insurance protection can be delayed from 13 months. Medical insurance may be delayed for a year or more if a person fails to act within the 3 months after his or her 65th birthday month, and the monthly premium may be increased.

People should have certain evidence available when they contact the office, including Social Security card or a record of the number; proof of age, preferably a birth or baptism record made shortly after birth, and W-2 forms (wage and tax statement) or self-employment tax returns for the previous two years. Ludwig said that people who don't have this information should not delay contacting Social Security. The people at the Saginaw office can suggest other evidence which can be used.

3 losses cloud O-G baseball title hopes

Owen-Gage clinched at least a second place share in the North Central D League baseball standings at home Thursday when it split with Kingston.

The Bulldogs won the opener, 3-2, but lost the nightcap, 4-2.

Coach Phil Gray's squad finished the league season with a 9-5 mark. The other teams don't finish until this week, with a first place finish still possible, depending on how Carsonville-Port Sanilac does in its final four games.

Pete Klemkowsky struck out seven, walked two and surrendered four hits to win the opener. The senior ace has a 7-2 win-loss mark so far this season.

Losing pitcher Brian Eldridge gave up six hits, walked three and struck out two.

Vince Salcido hit two singles and Jim Glidden had a double for the Bulldogs. Jason Koehler of the Cardinals hit a double.

Todd Remsig lessened the Bulldog's chances for a first place finish in striking out six and giving up five hits in the 4-2 nightcap. He walked four.

Losing pitcher Jim Kuhr threw the first three innings, to be relieved by Klemkowsky for the final two. They combined for four hits, eight walks and eight strikeouts.

Kirk Carolan, Klemkowsky, Glidden, Salcido and Kuhr each hit a single for Owen-Gage.

Wade Campbell collected two singles for Kingston.

The Bulldogs played a non-conference game at home against Lakers Tuesday. Their pre-district game is Friday at Carsonville.

The Owen-Gage baseball team ended its regular season Tuesday by dropping both ends of a double header at home against non-league Lakers, 7-2 and 11-1.

The Bulldogs finish the regular season at 10-10 overall and play in the pre-districts Friday at Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

Tod Dubey was the winning pitcher in the opener, giving up three hits, three walks and striking out three.

Losing pitcher Pete Klemkowsky surrendered five hits, walked nine and struck out nine. He also hit a triple for his team.

Rob Herzog connected for a double and a single for Lakers.

Troy Gunden was the winning hurler in the second game, striking out seven, walking four and giving up three hits.

He hit a double and a single for his team. Don Bergman and Todd Weisenbaugh each hit two singles.

Losing pitcher Alan Haag was relieved by Kirk Carolan. They gave up nine hits, four walks and struck out five.

Haag hit two singles.

O-G cops 5th straight league softball title

The Owen-Gage softball team won its fifth straight North Central D League title last week, ending its 14-0 season with two wins Thursday at Kingston.

The Bulldogs won the first game, 17-14, and the second, 14-3.

In her five years at the helm, Judy Campbell's softball teams have lost only two league games, both last year, the only year they had to share the title with another team.

Winning pitcher in the opener was Dana Laurie, who pitched the first 3 2-3 innings, and gave up 14 runs, six hits, nine walks and struck out two.

She was relieved by Tammy Kain, who gave up only one hit in her 2 1-3 innings.

Top hitters in the Bulldog onslaught were Becky Howard with two home runs and a single; Carol Goslin, two singles and two doubles; Julie Andrakowicz, three singles, and Heidi Rockefeller, two singles and a triple.

Marie Lalko took the Cardinal loss, giving up 17 runs, 16 hits, four walks and striking out three.

She and Sally Engler each hit two singles. Liz Pierce connected for a double.

Howard started the second game for Owen-Gage and gave up three runs, one hit and five walks, striking out one, before being pulled by coach Campbell after two-thirds of an inning.

Kain went the rest of the distance to get the win, giving up only one walk in her 5 1-3 innings on the mound.

Losing pitcher was again Lalko, who struck out one, walked four and gave up nine hits and 14 runs.

Howard hit another home run, plus a double, Robin Sullivan and Dana Laurie each hit a single and a double.

Pierce had Kingston's lone hit, a double.

The Bulldogs played a non-league game Tuesday at home against Lakers. Friday, they play in the pre-districts at Port Hope.

Richards paces qualifiers

Cass City qualified for State competition in four events among the boys and two events among the girls in regional competition held Friday at Marlette.

The boys' contingent will be headed by Steve Richards who qualified with a record in the mile, third, in 880 and in the mile relay where Cass City finished third. Other boys on the mile relay team are Ray Kloc, Bob Sawdon and Tim Sontag. Brian deBeaubien was third in the discus.

In addition to the qualifiers, others who won medals were Joe Decker, fourth in the pole vault; Todd Comment, sixth in high jump; Mark Mozden, sixth in the two mile, and the 880 relay team of Sontag, Steve Da-dacki, Max Morrish and Sawdon, sixth.

The state qualifiers among the girls were freshman Michelle Fahrner, with :63 in the 440 for a first place, and senior Teresa Hewitt, with a second in the 110-yard hurdles with a time of :16.29.

Others to win medals but failing to qualify for the State were: Hewitt, sixth in the 220-yard hurdles; Kristy Deering, fourth in the two mile; the mile relay team of Jane Hobart, Shelley Rabi-deau, Deanna Pomeroy and Fahrner, which finished fourth, and the 880 relay team of Fahrner, Hewitt, Hobart and Jamie Wright which finished sixth.

Deering's time of 12:49.9 set a new Cass City school record.

best at Huron meet, too

Another in a long string of track laurels was bestowed on Steve Richards, Cass City High School's premier distance runner, Monday at the Huron meet of champions.

Richards was named the outstanding male athlete of the meet as he set two meet records on his way to a pair of individual event wins.

Richards was first in the 880-yard run when he set a new meet record of 2:00.5 to crack Tom Shedd's of Bad Axe, mark of 2:01.0.

Richards' mile time of 4:31.31 cracked the mark of Doug Iseler of North Huron (4:33.5).

In addition to the records Richards ran the anchor on the winning mile relay team. Cass City was in third place about 20 yards behind and Richards made up the difference to post the win in 3:36.1.

Other runners on the winning team were Ray Kloc, Bob Sawdon and Tim Sontag.

Other medal winners at the meet included: Brian deBeaubien, second, discus, 125-9; Todd Comment, second high jump, 5-11; Joe Decker, second, pole vault, 12-9; Scott Hobart, second, 120 high hurdles, :41.54; Bob VanCamp, second, 880, 2:05.66; Steve Hollis, second, 120 high hurdles, :16.8; Ray Kloc, second, 440, :53; 880 relay team, third, with Tim Sontag, Steve Dadacki, Max Morrish and Sawdon.

In the girls' competition Teresa Hewitt finished second in the 110-yard low hurdles and the Cass City 880 relay team finished fourth.

Girls finish sixth

Bulldog boys roll to North Central track title

The Owen-Gage boys took home the championship trophy Wednesday of last week from the North Central D League meet at Kingston.

The Bulldogs, coached by Arnie Besonen, won six events, including all three relays.

REGIONALS

Owen-Gage qualified entrants in five events in the Class D regionals Saturday at Caro High School. The Bulldogs of Arnie Besonen placed fourth in the team standings.

The qualifiers will now be participating in the state Class D track meet May 31 at Grand Blanc.

The top three in each event qualified.

Jim Patnaude took first place in the pole vault at 12'4 1/2" and Jeff Hallock won the long jump with a distance of 20'2".

Jim Glidden took second in the 100-yard dash with a time of 11.3. Hallock, whose specialty is the dashes, didn't run in those events due to illness.

Two Bulldog relay teams will be going to the state competition. The 880-yard team of Jeff and Lennie Hallock, Brad Erickson and Jim Glidden took second with a time of 1:36.

The mile relay team of Dave Ondrajka, Erickson and Jim and Dan Glidden came in third in a time of 3:42.9.

Hawks top Lakers twice Loss to Marlette ends baseball year

Cass City won two of three baseball games played during the week but would probably have cheerfully traded the two wins for the one game that was lost.

That's because the Hawks lost the qualifying round game against Marlette, 2-0, last Thursday and defeated the Lakers twice last Wednesday in Thumb B Conference competition.

The wins didn't mean anything as far as Cass City's title chances were concerned but did cap a regular season that was much better than average.

Against Marlette the Hawks received good pitching from Ken Martin who allowed just two hits out the Raiders were able to turn both safeties into runs.

The Hawks picked up two hits in the third but a double play ruined Cass City's chances. Steve Herron walked two and struck out five in his shutout stint on the mound.

Cass City used a seven-hit attack that produced five runs as the Hawks rolled past the Lakers in the first game, 5-3.

It was a sloppy game as the Lakers were charged with seven errors and the Hawks with five. Earney Stoutenburg got credit for the win as he pitched a four-hitter and struck out 10.

Mike Stec lashed out three hits and Martin added a pair to lead the Hawk attack.

In the nightcap Cass City used a pair of errors and two hits in the third inning to score two runs and it was enough for the win as Todd Comment pitched a strong game in a rare mound start.

Comment pitched the first 5 2-3 innings before being relieved with the tying run on base by Stoutenburg, who made his final appearance for Cass City a memorable one by striking out the Lakers' Farver and ending the game.

Stec, who proved to be Cass City's most productive hitter continued his heavy sticking with two singles in three tries.

Set 3-day Osentoski tourney

The second annual round robin softball tournament, sponsored by the Osentoski fast pitch team, will begin Friday and wind up with playoffs Sunday afternoon.

Teams will be divided into two divisions and will compete at the Cass City Recreation Park.

The tournament begins Friday at 7:30 p.m. with four games to be played. It will continue Saturday, starting at 10 a.m., and continue all day, with the last game starting at 9 p.m.

Sunday will see one regular game begin at 11 a.m., followed by the tournament playoffs at 1 p.m.

The Division A champions will take on the Division B runner-up and the Division B winners will play the Division A runner-up. A consolation game will be played at 3 p.m. for the losers. The championship game will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Teams to be competing in the Division A race are: Tri-County Sports, Recsee, Raymond's Sports Center, Saginaw, winner of last year's tournament; Eddie's Party Shop, Flint; Cozy Corner Saloon, Flint; and Pee Wee's Barbecue, Flint.

The Division B contest will have: Severance Tool, Saginaw; The Station, Cass City; Munger Merchants, Munger; Bay City Towing, Bay City, and The Misty, Flint.

In case of rain, the tournament schedule will be adjusted by officials with the possibility of finishing Monday.

Undefeated Caro runs away with league honors

Cass City boys placed third in the Thumb B Conference League meet and tied for second place with Vassar in the race for the Thumb B Championship. Cass City's girls finished third in the league meet and fourth in the final standings.

Caro, which raced through undefeated in regular season competition, also dominated the conference meet last Wednesday at Caro with 159 points. Marlette scored 77 and the Hawks 56.

Marlette and Vassar tied for top honors among the girls as the Vulcans won the league meet and finished behind Marlette in the regular season competition. Vassar won the league meet with 109 points; Marlette posted 70½ and Cass City scored 53.

While Caro dominated the boys' team competition, Cass City had the outstanding individual performer. Steve Richards was named boys' athlete of the meet. The selection was not unexpected as the premier Hawk distance runner was the co-athlete of the meet as a junior.

Richards won the 880-yard run, finished second in the mile and ran a leg on the winning mile relay team.

Winning the mile relay for the Hawks besides Richards were Ray Kloc, Bob Sawdon and Tim Sontag. Cass City's other first place finish among the boys was in the 880-yard relay. Running were Max Morrish, Steve Dadacki, Sawdon and Sontag.

Two new track records were set. Zambron of Sandusky threw the discus 161'6", a distance that would give him a State record if he duplicates the feat in the State meet May 31.

Bill Romosier ran the mile in 4:29 to break Richards' record established last year.

Among the girls, a first place was won by Teresa Hewitt in the 110-low hurdles. Points were also earned by the 880-yard relay team of Michelle Fahrner, Hewitt, Jane Hobart and Janie Wright.

In addition the 440-relay team of Tammi Rabideau, Hewitt, Hobart and Wright and the mile relay squad of Hobart, Shelley Rabideau, Deanna Pomeroy and Fahrner finished third.

The winners among the boys, with the times or distances, together with Cass City point producers are:

Discus (new record) - (1) Zambron, Sandusky, 161'6"; (3) deBeaubien, CC, 133'3".

High Jump - (1) Gillman, Vassar, 6'2"; (6) Comment, CC, 5'9".

Cass City wins qualifier

Crucial games ahead in race for softball titles

The crucial game of the season for the Cass City High School softball team is at hand.

Consider this. The Hawks meet Brown City at Brown City in the state tournament Friday at 4 p.m. They qualified by whipping Marlette, 9-5, Friday.

Wednesday the Hawks were to have played at North Branch in games that will probably decide the Thumb B Association title. The Broncos are 11-1 in the conference and Cass City is 9-1.

A loss to the Lakers in the opening game of a double header Thursday, 6-4, makes the road to the title a bit rocky. Before the upset Cass City was coasting along without defeat and probably would have needed only a split to win the title. Now a double win is a must if the girls are to claim an undisputed championship.

The Lakers not only beat the Hawks in the first game but they also bested Cass City's ace pitcher, Shirley Fleming, while doing it.

The Lakers rapped Fleming for 10 hits while the best that the Hawks could do was six hits off the slants of Janet Gleason, spread out among six different pitchers.

Cass City scored a run in the third and twice more in the fourth to trail at the end of three, 4-3, but the Lakers added insurance runs in the fourth and fifth to claim the win.

Threatened with a loss of the league for the first time this year Cass City bounced back in the nightcap to win 13-6.

Padgett Randall, who hasn't seen much mound duty this season pitched the win. Her job was made easy as the Hawks batted around in the first inning and scored seven times as Dubs had trouble getting anyone out.

She settled down after the opening inning and the Lakers closed the gap to 7-4 before Cass City exploded again in the fifth. This time the rally netted six runs to turn the game into a run-away.

The Hawks were led by Nancy Tonti, Randall and Fleming with two hits each in four tries.

TOURNAMENT

Cass City won the qualifying rounds of the state tournament by whipping Marlette at Cass City Recreational Park, 9-5. It was the third time this year that the Hawks topped the Raiders.

It was a close ball game for the first four innings. The Raiders moved in front in the second with a pair of markers. Cass City bounced back into the lead with a four-run spurge in the third. Marlette countered with a pair of markers in the fourth to tie the game. Cass City countered with a run in the bottom of the inning to take the lead for good, 5-4.

Cass City added a pair of insurance markers in the fifth and sixth while a single counter by Marlette in the last inning only made the final score a little closer.

Vickie Pobanz and Libby Hartel with two hits were the heavy hitters for Cass City while Jackie Vatter and Nancy Long each collected two hits for the losers.

Fleming was the winning pitcher, striking out two and allowing eight hits.

Marge Tyll, of Uby, walked away with $30 and a trophy for a high handicap score of 1,933 in all events of the Bad Axe Women's Bowling Association tournament which took place earlier this spring in Cass City.

She also had the high actual score of 1,735 in all events.

Anna Lamming of Bad Axe took first place in the singles competition with a series score of 686. She won $45 and a trophy.

In the doubles competition, Mary Lou Fluegge and Delores Yahn of Pigeon, split an $80 first prize with a 1,276 series.

The Citizen's Federal Team from Bad Axe took first place in the team event.

The team won $190 for its series score of 3,035.

Naomi Neibel of Pigeon won three trophies for: high actual game, 278, high actual series, 627, and high handicap game, 301. Ms. Yahn led the tournament in the high handicap series category with a score of 705.

Foster's Bar of Minden City was awarded $10 for its high handicap game of 1065.

Three bowlers received awards for scoring 100 points above their averages. They were: Ms. Yahn, 257, Ms. Neibel, 278, and Beverly Brown of Bad Axe, with 254.

The association's annual spring meeting will be Friday at the Farm Bureau Building in Bad Axe. It will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Bike, hike events held Saturday

Money is being collected from people who made pledges in two area fund-raising Saturday.

A total of $2,400 was pledged to the Big Brothers-Big Sisters "bike and hike" in Caro, according to Connie Gamet, the organization's director.

Envelopes were distributed to those who made pledges to the 56 participants in the event. They now have three weeks to send in their money, she said.

No estimate was immediately available on the amount raised in a bike-athon for St. Jude's Hospital in Memphis. The event was held in the Cass City area.

In addition to money pledged to BB-BS, $200 was also received from a number of business organizations. The donations were used to finance the event, Mrs. Gamet said, adding she expects more donations to be coming in.

She said the fund-raiser was a success, considering there were a number of other events going on that may have hampered participation.

Bikers rode for 10 miles in Caro while those walking hiked six miles.

The St. Jude's bike-athon, which started at the Cass City Recreation Park, drew 14 participants. The farthest any of them rode was 36 miles.

Nina Davis, coordinator of the event, said she should know by the end of the week the amount collected in pledges by the participants.

HEALTH TIPS

Parents can help babies learn to see

Homemade toys and childhood games used for generations are still on top in helping babies learn to see, says the president of the Michigan Optometric Association.

According to Dr. Owen R. Dueweke, infants are born with the mechanism for seeing but they have to learn to use their eyes by developing many different vision skills. The first year is a period of active vision development and, Dr. Dueweke says, parents' help is needed.

He offered these tips for parents:

-Talk to your baby from different places in the room so he or she will have a familiar moving target to watch and follow.

-Play patty cake to help your baby learn the many directions of movement which hands and eyes can take.

-Give your baby time to play on the floor and find opportunities for him or her to watch older children play.

-Hang a colorful homemade mobile (plastic measuring spoons are good to use) outside a small infant's crib at eye level.

-Change your baby's position in the crib or move the crib in the room so the baby has different views and gets to use both eyes.

-Keep a dim light on in the baby's room at night so he or she will have something to look at upon awakening.

-Provide your older infant with large, smooth, clean objects (pots, pans, etc.) to pick up and handle.

-Encourage your baby to crawl before walking, because crawling helps a child learn to use the two eyes together as a team.

Dr. Dueweke said infants should be beginning to use their two eyes together by about age two months. Occasionally, a baby may "turn off" one eye at some strange angle for brief periods, while it concentrates on using and developing the other eye.

But if an infant two months of age or older does not show signs of using the two eyes together or the eyes appear to be continually crossed, parents should arrange for a thorough vision examination.

Doctors of optometry have special procedures to examine an infant's eyes and can also advise parents on the many things they can do to help their baby learn to see.

Extension club presents awards

Jean Clarke, Cass City, and Eileen Riess, Snover, were recipients of the silver salute awards at the May 13 awards night of the Sanilac County Extension Homemakers.

More than 130 persons attended the program at Sandusky High School.

The silver salute awards are given to active community women who are involved in the growth of their community.

Mrs. Clarke, a member of the Greenleaf Extension Homemakers Club, and Mrs. Riess, a member of the Snover club, will now be entered in state competition during College Week 1980 at Michigan State University.

Cultural art award winners May 13 were Grace Klaus, creative painting and ceramics; Lulu Reinelt, Betty Hooper and Mabel Cole; stitchery; Marion Spencer, creative writing; Nancy Hoxie, natural materials; Jean Stoick, metal; Marion Umpfenbach, weaving, and Mabel Cole, other.

The winners' exhibits will be on display and vying for state honors during College Week.

Club of the year was the Lakeview club of the Deckerville area. The Greenleaf and North Speaker groups won the club banner awards for having the highest percentage of members attending the awards program.

Sebewaing bank low bidder

Low bidder on bonds for two Huron county drainage projects was Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Sebewaing, with a bid of 7 1/2 percent, according to Norman H. Schroeder, bank president.

Three other banks bid. The drainage projects are for the Frederick and Branches Drain No. 1 and 2, and the Morgan and Branches Drain, located in Bloomfield and Sigel townships, in east-central Huron county.

The projects, to be constructed by Stuart Nicol and Sons, Inc. of Cass City, and Michigan Culvert Company of Mason, will amount to $134,104.

The bonds will be paid off, one-third each year, on April 15 of 1981, 1982 and 1983. The bonds and pledges of credit were approved by the Huron County Board of Commissioners.

GAGETOWN SCHOOL -- Iva Peterson of Cass City was 10 or 11 years old when this photo was taken in front of the old Gagetown school. It was taken 52 or 53 years ago, the original photograph being 25 inches wide, and shows all the students, in kindergarten through 12th grade. The present Gagetown Elementary School stands on the site of the building shown here.

Mrs. Peterson, then Iva Deneen, is in the front row, 10th from the right. The four teachers at the school are the women at the right in the back row, the tallest one being Miss Koepfgen, who was also the school superintendent.

Neola Webb likes to read to those who can't Neola Webb likes to read and on Wednesday afternoons, she does her reading out loud to residents at Provincial House.

The Cass City resident has been a volunteer there for several years.

The reading group is fairly new. She sits down with approximately 10 residents and reads them articles from the Chronicle, short stories and poetry.

According to Provincial House Activities Director

Mary Vatter, Mrs. Webb is one of 28 individual volunteers.

Others volunteer their time through membership in church groups and community groups, scouting organizations, senior citizen groups and fraternal organizations which help at the facility.

"We really appreciate everything our volunteers do for our residents all year long," she commented. "They give so much." "I like to read," Mrs.

Webb said, "and there are some here who can't see to read themselves.

"So, I read items from the local paper and anything else I think they will be interested in. And sometimes, things come up in a story that they remember or know about, and we usually end up talking too."

Mrs. Webb initially became involved at Provincial House after she and her husband, John, moved from their farm at Rescue to Cass

City five years ago. A friend suggested that she become a volunteer, and she decided to take her up on it.

"I had been kind of wanting to do that kind of thing but had just never done anything about it," Mrs. Webb recalled. "So we came up one day and I started helping with Bingo and some visiting.

"I like the people very much," she says. "I like doing something that puts a bright spot in their day."

Maintaining power lawn edge trimmers

Maintaining a lawn can be fun—if you remove the drudgery involved. Like edging and trimming.

The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute suggests these tips on how to use edger trimmers safely and efficiently:

1. Read the owner's manual carefully. Acquaint yourself with all controls, attachments and safety features.

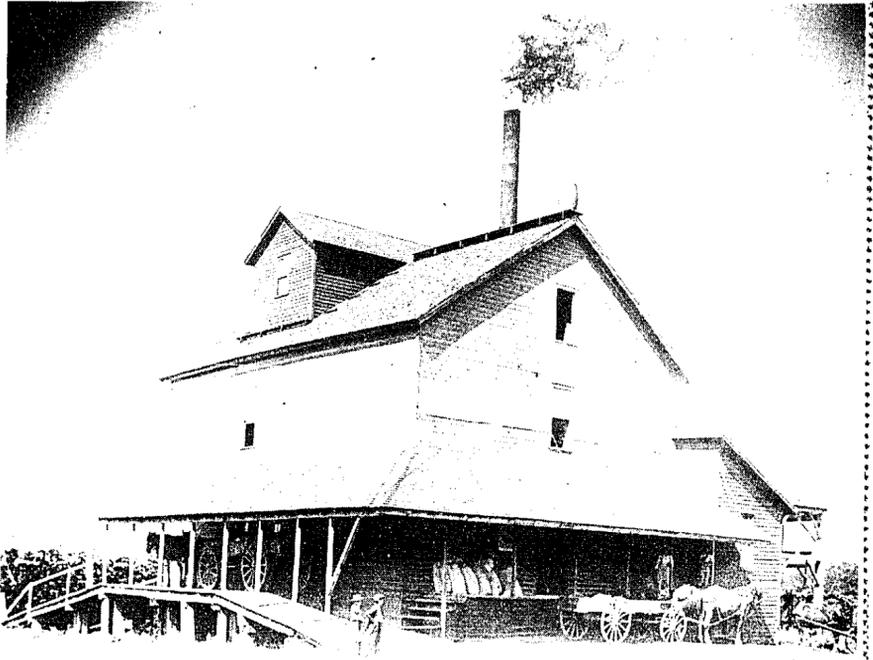

2. Keep children and pets out of the way.

3. Wear rough-soled, heavy-duty shoes or boots and tailored pants. Skirts or billowy slacks can get caught in moving parts.

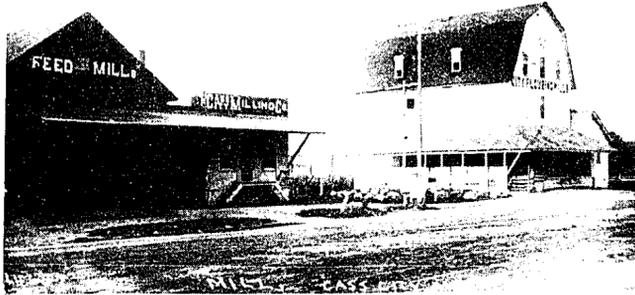

4. Protect your eyes by wearing safety goggles.

5. Let the engine cool for 10 minutes before refilling the tank.

6. Stop the engine when leaving the equipment to make repairs or refuel.

THE CASS CITY MILLING CO. building was located on Main Street for many years. Jack Esau, owner of this photo, guesses it was taken around 1900. The building is on the site now occupied by B & W Auto Sales. The mill produced pastry flour and feed. The barrel on the forward tip of the roof was used to douse frequent fires started by sparks coming from the chimney.

FOURTEEN YEARS LATER, the building, at right, had a new roof and a new paint job. Maple Street now runs between it and the building in the center, now the site of Clare's Sunoco. Roy Taylor owned the business, renamed Elkland Roller Mills, from the mid-1920s to about 1950, when the large building was torn down. The photo, from 1914, is owned by Mrs. Stanley Fessler of Caro.

Swing-out postponed to Thursday

The Cass City High School senior swing-out, scheduled to take place after baccalaureate services Sunday, but postponed because of rain, will take place starting at 9:45 a.m. Thursday at the Intermediate School.

COOKS' TOUR - Preschoolers through third graders learned some fundamentals of cooking in an afternoon community education class taught by Kate Jackson, home economics teacher at Cass City High School. Some of her high school students assisted. Last of the four sessions for the 12 girls and five boys was last Thursday. In addition to preparing meals, at left, they also learned what comes after -- washing dishes.

Why do teachers leave Cass City?

stay. Cass City doesn't have the shopping, movies and other cultural attractions that a larger city or college town has, a six-year teacher pointed out. "For someone coming from Detroit, I'm sure it's a shock."

Some female teachers fresh out of college, she added, come here with boyfriends elsewhere and sometimes engaged. After a year or two here, they leave to get married.

College campuses have other attractions. For teachers working on advanced degrees, it is a long commute from Cass City after school to attend a class, so many leave for a job closer to a college campus.

Some leave to go back to college full-time. The teacher mentioned at the beginning of this section, for instance, may accept a graduate fellowship at a university.

The female teachers contacted felt young male teachers have an advantage in a small town. There isn't a stigma attached to a male being out alone, males can ask females out, plus many are coaches and thus get more involved outside of school with other teacher-coaches and members of the community.

A male coach, who has been here less than two years, said he has met some people through coaching, but after practice, he usually goes one way and the other coaches go another.

As for living in a small town, he comes from another small community, so Cass City is not a change. But for someone coming from the Detroit area, "that's quite a difference from around here."

INVOLUNTARY LEAVING

Although most teachers leave of their own accord, a few don't.

The Chronicle talked to two teachers, both in their first year here, who were either asked to resign or to whom it was suggested they do so.

One had extensive substituting experience elsewhere last year. For the other, it was his first teaching job. Both are now seeking teaching jobs elsewhere for the 1980-81 school year.

It was discipline that caused problems for the two, though with one, he said the out-of-the-ordinary problems were confined to a study hall with more than 80 students.

Both felt their principals could have taken some measures to ease their difficulties, but were not sharply critical.

"I can see their point of view as far as asking me not to come back," said one.

CONCLUSION

Other than the two who were asked to leave, none of the teachers contacted were dissatisfied with the school system, other than a few minor complaints.

"I think we have a nice school system," said one, adding that based on conversations at conventions with other teachers in her field, from other school districts, "I'm a lot better off."

Kingston graduation Sunday

Commencement exercises for graduates of Kingston High School's 1980 class will take place Sunday in the high school gymnasium. The combined baccalaureate and commencement ceremony will begin at 2 p.m.

There are 56 students in this year's graduating class. Valedictory and salutatory addresses will be read by Elisabeth Britton and Shelly Stoll respectively.

A musical selection, "We May Never Pass This Way Again," will be sung by graduates Sue Smith and Jim Ahearn. Marie Lalco will accompany them.

An opening prayer by Rev. Larry E. Schwark of the Dayton Center church will follow the processionary played by the Kingston High School Band under the direction of Wayne Smith.

Rev. Gilson Miller, of the Kingston United Methodist church will give an address.

rule. It may, however, agree with the appeals court that Owen-Gage legally waived its right to argue the arbitrary and capricious provision as it failed to present that argument in a circuit court brief.

The assistant attorney general declined to speculate on whether the Goslin territory is now in the Owen-Gage or Cass City district.

Erickson said the Supreme Court's decision to hear the case gives his district reason to file an addendum to its appeal now before the state appeals court involving December, 1978 and 1979 taxes from Goslin.

In October of last year, Tuscola Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements ruled the taxes for both those years, which total more than $170,000 at Owen-Gage's millage rate, should go to Cass City.

Owen-Gage appealed, with its motion being lodged in the state appeals court since then. The district contends that since the issue of the property transfer is still in litigation, Goslin still is part of Owen-Gage and it, not Cass City, should get the taxes. "Things have to be on hold while appeals are being made," Erickson said. "That has been our contention all along."

The Chronicle was unable to contact Robert Kleeb, Howell attorney representing the Goslin property owners who sought the transfer to Cass City.

made for future sales was that the Chamber make more maps available, perhaps distributing them at each sale location.

A number of people requested the maps to guide them to other sales but she had none to give them.

Some of the items for sale in garages around the city included old clothes, household items, and assorted knick-knacks, according to those participants contacted.

Rev. Eldred Kelley, 454 Ale Street, said he and his wife also had a number of antiques for sale, including a trunk and a variety of old picture frames.

At least one person was unhappy with the way the sale was operated, however.

Beryl Bliss, 6785 Main Street, said she thought there were too many garage sales going on at once but declined to comment further.

Oil drilling bill 'reckless'

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

The leader of the environmental groups that brought a lawsuit to stop oil and gas drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest has declared a bill promoted as a vehicle to allow drilling while protecting the most sensitive lands is an outrageous and reckless piece of legislation.

Ken Sikkema, executive director of the Michigan Environmental Protection Council, charged the bill (SB 1119) "constitutes the most far-reaching special interest attack on Michigan's environmental laws in years."

He said in fact, passage of the bill would have precisely the opposite effect of protecting the lands of exceptional environmental values.

Sikkema asserted the bill would exempt oil and gas drilling on state lands of exceptional environmental value from the state Environmental Protection Act (under which the Pigeon River suit was brought) and other environmental laws and would open the way for off-shore drilling of the Great Lakes.

Although co-sponsored by 29 of the 38 members of the Senate, including all five members of the Commerce Committee where the bill was referred, Sikkema said he believes when the Senate understands the full impact of the legislation, it will not "sail right through, despite appearances that it is greased."

The bill would require the director of the Department of Natural Resources to evaluate all state land leased since 1968 for oil and gas exploration (which includes Pigeon River).

THE DIRECTOR ALSO would be required to prepare a plan for development of areas having exceptional environmental values and include all terms or conditions stipulated to or agreed to by leaseholders and the director of the Natural Resources Commission.

Currently, the leaseholders have agreed to confine drilling to the southern third of the forest and to specified sites, but the state Supreme Court disallowed drilling permits at the 10 sites approved by Department of Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner.

The bill also requires commission approval of drilling plans unless the plan results in unnecessary waste and if the state supervisor of wells has certified that the plan will not have a significant adverse impact on the environment.

Further, the bill states that compliance with those procedures presumes compliance with environmental standards and requires any court challenge to be brought in Ingham County Circuit Court.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL Protection Act (EPA) allows any citizen to bring a lawsuit on an allegation that the environment would be harmed by planned or existing activity and places the burden of proof that the environment would not be harmed on the person engaging in the activity.

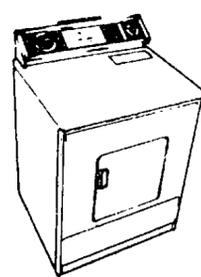

Dennis Tierney of the DNR's Bureau of Resources said provisions of the bill do appear to attempt to bypass the EPA, but added he is not sure the bill really accomplishes that end. He said he believes citizens could still rely on the EPA to bring lawsuits.

Sikkema said the bill could not be amended to meet his group's objections, but suggested a substitute could be drafted that would require the state department to develop a planning process to set priorities for drilling on state lands and to maximize the public return on oil and gas drilled from beneath those lands.

He said that was the ultimate purpose of bringing the Pigeon River lawsuit.
