Uby settles with teachers

School bells ring next week, except for Cass City students

Students and teachers who don't look forward to the start of school don't have many days of freedom left. School in the Owendale-Gagetown, Kingston and Uby districts begins next week.

In a departure from past years, students in the Cass City district won't return until Wednesday, Sept. 3, the later starting date being to coincide with the start of classes at the new county skill center near Caro, which will be attended by students from all nine county districts.

The board and teachers have yet to reach agreement on a new contract and when asked Monday whether they were making any progress, Supt. Donald Crouse responded, "no." The last negotiating session was last Wednesday. The next one is Friday morning.

More details about the start of school in Cass City will be carried in next week's Chronicle.

OWEN-GAGE

Teachers report Tuesday of next week, with classes starting Wednesday with a full-day session. The school day is from 8:30 a.m.-2:50 p.m.

Teachers and the school board have yet to agree on a new contract. The next negotiating session was to have been this Wednesday.

"I'm always hopeful, but I'm not optimistic that would happen," said Tom Neuhaud of the possibility of settling by the start of school. Neuhaud, a Michigan Education Association representative in Lapeer county, is chief negotiator for the Owen-Gage teachers.

He thought it likely that teachers will show up for the start of school without a contract, but as of Monday, hadn't yet discussed it with them.

Registration is taking place this week for high school students, with juniors and seniors having done so Wednesday. Sophomores register Thursday from 9-11 a.m. and freshmen, 1-3 p.m.

New students and those who missed the previous dates can register Friday from 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

Parents of kindergarten students are reminded that their children should have their immunization shots before entering school for the first time.

Bus schedules will be about the same as last year. Students and parents are requested to be on watch for the bus the first week, until running times are established.

Lunch prices will be higher than last year, with those in grades 1-6 paying 50 cents per day; 7-12, 75 cents, and adults, $1. The prices are subject to future change.

Youngsters will qualify for free lunches if they come from families with income ranging from $5,230 (or less) to a maximum of $16,950, the latter for a family of eight or more. Eligibility for reduced price lunches will be on a family income scale of $8,150-$26,440. Necessary forms may be picked up in the principal's office and returned there for verification.

The only new teacher this year, not yet hired as of Monday, will be for elementary special education.

KINGSTON

Teachers report Monday and students Tuesday morning for a half-day. Students will attend the full day, 8:30 a.m.-3:15 p.m., the rest of the week, have Labor Day plus the following day off, then return Wednesday, Sept. 3.

Kindergarteners start Thursday, Aug. 28.

Lunch prices will be decided by the school administration some time this week. Bus routes will be about the same as last year.

New teachers are Cheryl Dost, third grade, and Elaine Houghton, fourth. Mrs. Dost's husband, Mark, moves up to fourth grade. Mrs. Dost previously taught in Marlette.

Teachers signed a new three-year contract with the school board last year.

The board has yet to begin negotiation on a new contract with bus drivers, who belong to a union, but Supt. Robert Cameron doesn't expect the lack of a contract to affect the start of school.

It also has yet to decide on a new contract with teacher aides, who are not unionized.

UBLY

Teachers ratified a new contract with the school board last Thursday by a vote of 37-6.

The board will vote on the new pact at a special meeting Monday, Aug. 25, at which they will also determine the cost of lunches and milk.

Students report Wednesday, Aug. 27, for a full day.

The school day will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Uby and dismiss at 3:05 p.m. The school day in the Minden City Elementary School will commence at 8 a.m. and end at 2:35 p.m. A half hour lunch hour will be observed in both schools.

Twelve first and second graders from the Minden City area will be housed in the Minden City School. Third and fourth graders in the Uby area will be placed in the leased Annex 1, more commonly known as the St. John School in Uby.

Seventeen bus routes will handle the transporting of over 1000 students in the 159 square mile district. There will be some minor changes made in the routes.

Students that attended classes in the resource room at the Bad Axe Public Schools in grades 7-12 will now attend classes in the Uby Community Schools and will be instructed by Mrs. Jeanne Eilers. Students that attended classes at the Huron Learning Center will continue to attend classes there.

Michigan history will replace civics as a one-semester requirement for all freshmen. A full year course of world history is now a requirement for sophomores.

Parents are reminded that booster shots to complete the immunization requirements must be done by Oct. 1.

Student accident insurance will be provided with G-M Underwriters as the new carrier.

Children from families who are eligible for free meals are also eligible for free milk. Applications for free and reduced price lunches will be distributed the first day of school and must be returned within 10

City schools okayed by 279-vote margin

A strong volunteer effort to get the millage passed is receiving much of the credit for approval Monday of an additional 1 mill for the Cass City schools, 751-472.

Two votes were spoiled. School Supt. Donald Crouse said he was "very happy" that the millage passed.

School Board President Geraldine Prieskorn said she was "surprised" at the outcome, especially at the wide margin of support. "I was hoping it would go, but I thought it would be a close vote," she commented. "I think it shows Cass City people care about their schools."

Approval gives the district 21.9 mills for operating this year, still low by county standards, compared to 19.97 levied last year, when the Headlee rollback was in effect. (Because the rate of inflation was higher than the increase in property valuations since then, the rollback won't apply this year.)

The 1,225 votes cast, as well as the winning margin, contrast sharply with the results from the June 9 millage vote, when two of the three proposals were defeated, which led to Monday's vote.

The 3.5 mill renewal in June was approved 590-429, but the .6 mill increase was defeated 555-455, and a repeal of the Headlee amendment rollback provisions was downed, 538-480.

The most votes cast for and against any of those proposals was 1,019, which is 206 less than the number cast Monday, with most of the gain obviously being in persons voting "yes." In addition to the millages, eight candidates were running for two seats on the school board in June.

BOTH CROUSE AND Mrs. Prieskorn gave much credit for the passage this time to persons who volunteered to help on the millage campaign.

Fact sheets about the proposal were distributed, telephone calls made, contact made with service clubs, industry, etc., and an effort made to get young people registered and to vote.

Since the June 9 school vote, Elkland township Clerk Carol Ware estimated about 20 persons in the 18-21 age group had registered to vote in the township, of whom about half had mentioned wanting to vote in Monday's millage election.

Another factor aiding passage, Crouse and Mrs. Prieskorn agreed, was that in contrast to the three millage proposals in June, the 1-mill issue this time, in the words of the superintendent, was "easier to explain and understand."

PASSAGE OF THE TWO proposals in June that were defeated would have raised about as much as the 1 mill that was approved -- $94,000. Its defeat this time, the board had warned, would have meant elimination of the elementary art program, elementary and secondary vocal music, one teaching position at the high school, all interscholastic sports except boys' basketball and girls' volleyball, and purchase of library books.

Passage of the millage still leaves one financial cloud hanging over the district, what state aid will be during the about-to-start school year. Governor Milliken is recommending a $100 million cutback in school aid as he attempts to cope with Michigan's increasingly dismal financial picture. The legislature has yet to act.

The last time anyone counted, several years ago, there were about 6,800 registered voters in the Cass City district. Assuming the number has increased to 7,000, that would mean that only 17.5 percent of those eligible bothered to vote Monday.

Feds okay money for tennis courts

Cass City may get its tennis courts, but not until next year.

The village was notified last week that the U.S. Department of Interior has approved its application for $30,800 to build four new courts, in place of the two old ones in the village park. Cass City must put up an equal amount and right now it doesn't have the money, the council having decided earlier that it couldn't afford it this year.

That doesn't mean the project is down the drain. According to village Supt. Lou LaPonsie, it hopes to convince the state Department of Natural Resources, which has control over the funds, that by the time the council accepts the grant, engineering work is done and the DNR approves the plans, it will be too late this year to construct the courts.

He figures it will be about October by then, "and we don't want to be paving that late."

The grant notification said the project was supposed to be done by Dec. 31 of this year. If construction can be delayed until spring of 1981, however, the village should be able to afford its share, LaPonsie indicated.

Cass City applied for the funds in 1979. In May of this year, it was notified that President Carter had placed a temporary freeze on awarding of federal Land and Water Conservation Fund grants.

The freeze worked in Cass City's favor, since it delayed the awarding of the grant long enough that the project can maybe be delayed until next year.

Buttressing its case, LaPonsie said, is that some other communities in line to get the recreation grants spent the money they had set aside for other items when the freeze was announced, so would also like a delay in when they have to undertake their federally-funded projects.

The village superintendent has to clear up one slight discrepancy. Cass City applied for $30,800. The announcement from Congressman Bob Traxler's office said the amount being awarded is $31,025, a difference of $225.

The total amount, $61,600, is enough for the courts, fencing, etc., but not enough for lights, which will have to be financed locally.

The village is soliciting donations to help defray the cost to local taxpayers and so far has received $1,000 from the Pinney State Bank and $1,500 from Walbro Corp.

Road to Shabbona to be blacktopped in September

Progress is coming to Shabbona in the form of a paved road.

By mid-September, the one mile of Decker Road from Deckerville Road north to Shabbona will be paved. That is in Evergreen township.

In addition, two miles of Germania Road from Snover Road north to Mushroom Road will be paved.

Total cost is $30,000 per mile.

The Sanilac County Board of Commissioners last Wednesday approved paying one-third of the cost.

The county Road Commission is paying one-third and the two townships involved funds available to pay their one-third share -- $20,000 for Lamotte and $10,000 for Evergreen.

Road Commission Engineer-Manager Jack Kineman said his agency's share will probably come at the expense of postponing expenditures for equipment.

The Road Commission made its offer to pick up the one-third share to take advantage of the presence in the county yet of Williams Brothers Asphalt Paving, which is resurfacing 106 miles of roads in the county, plus a possible price reduction due to the decline in the price of liquid asphalt.

The two townships contracted with the Road Commission several years ago to have the roads' three miles paved.

The Road Commission has to do some final grading and shoulder work, Kineman said, before the paving can be done. The blacktopping should be done by mid-September.

The one mile of Decker Road north from Shabbona to Severance Road may also get paved in the future as Evergreen township residents Aug. 5 approved a 1-mill levy for two years to prepare it for that purpose.

North from there to Argyle Road, a distance of one mile, the road is paved.

In another matter, the Road Commission has applied for federal and state funds for rebuilding of 13 local road bridges.

Included are the Leslie Road and Downington Road bridges over the South Branch of the Cass River, Evergreen township; Mushroom Road over South Branch, Lamotte township, and Arnold Road and Moore Road over South Branch, Moore township.

Federal funds pay 80 percent of the cost; state, 10 percent, and Road Commission, 10 percent, plus all engineering and design costs.

Kineman doesn't expect to know until November whether he will get funding for any of the 13.

Last year, the Road Commission applied under the same program for 12 bridges and received funding for one. The 11 unfunded bridges are still on the application list, making a total of 24 bridges for which funds are being sought.

STREET PAVING — Asphalt paving is taking place in Cass City this week, the work being done by Frank Strausberg and Son of Saginaw. Seen here is paving of Downing Street. Paving was also done on Brooker, Houghton and Garfield Streets, Doerr Road, two alleys and a parking lot. The work should be completed Friday.

"If It Fitz..." The price of milling

By Jim Fitzgerald

A Michigan State University official recently described the home of the school president as "the front door to the university." When I went to MSU, I didn't enter through the front door. I was slightly poor, and had to live in an overcrowded Quonset hut on the scruffiest edge of campus. I give you this background so you will know where I'm coming from before I get where I'm going.

Where I'm going is toward the conclusion that higher education at most universities doesn't make sense. To give you an example, I cite the current flap at MSU concerning the home of University President M. Cecil Mackey. You've read about it.

A lot of taxpayers are upset because, without being asked how they felt about it, they were forced to pay $85,000 to remodel the president's home. That's pretty rotten, but it doesn't bug me as much as the fact that Mackey is living in the house in the first place.

The two-story brick home belongs to Michigan taxpayers. Mackey lives there for free. He doesn't pay one cent rent. And taxpayers pay him $75,000 a year to be university president. Most people making that much money are able to pay for their own housing.

On the other hand, most MSU students have no income. They depend on handouts from their parents to pay thousands of dollars in tuition fees. These students could really use free housing, but they don't get it. They must pay thousands more for a place to sleep.

So the guy making 75 thousand bucks a year gets a free home, while Joe Slob the student, who makes no bucks a year, must pay rent while also paying to be a student. What kind of sense does that make? Everyone agrees this nation would be better off if it contained more well-educated citizens. A lot of citizens who don't go to college would go if they could sleep free in President Mackey's bed.

Also, $17,500 will soon be spent to remodel the president's private box at the taxpayers' football stadium. MSU Athletic Director William Beardsley explained that a wall must be knocked out of the box, which seats 50 to 75 people, so there will be more "milling around area." It is no fun to watch a football game if you don't have lots of private room in which to mill.

The official explanation, of course, is that the president of a large university needs a large home and a large stadium box in which to entertain his friends and other anointed people who want to visit the campus and extend compassion to a guy who makes only $75,000 a year and can't afford to pay rent or buy a football ticket.

Once my parents visited me at MSU when I was living in that Quonset hut, sleeping on the top of a three-bed bunk. To express my appreciation for them subsidizing my education, I took them to a football game. I stood in line for five hours to buy three seats in the end zone where it was so crowded we had to wait until after the game and most of the people had gone home before we had enough room to mill.

Some state legislators are angry because the $85,000 was spent on remodeling Mackey's free home without formal approval of the MSU Board of Trustees. University policy requires that all remodeling expenditures over $25,000 must be OK'd by the trustees before the first cent is spent. Mackey's explanation was that various parts of the remodeling were done piecemeal, at less than $25,000 per piece, and "I did not look at these things as being a combined project."

This is a sly gambit, often used by tax-supported officials who slip through spending ceilings by buying $24,000 worth of drapes on Monday morning and paying $10,000 more to have them hung that afternoon. I know a young man who had to interrupt his college education because his bank put a $2,000 ceiling on his school loan, and he needed $3,000. The dumb kid should have asked for a piecemeal loan

— $1,500 on Wednesday and $1,500 on Thursday.

One of the pieces in the MSU remodeling project was $12,060 for a grand piano. I should make it clear that the piano was for President Mackey's home. I don't know if a piano will fit in his football box. I do know that if there'd been a piano in my Quonset hut, my roommates and I would have been forced to mill in place.

At Church Street plant

Walbro seeks discharge permit for cooling water

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is soliciting public comments on Walbro Corporation's permit application to discharge cooling water from its Church Street plant (No. 3) into the Cass River.

The discharge would be via a village storm sewer and Center B County Drain to the river.

That is the way Walbro used to get rid of its cooling water from the plant, according to Director of Purchasing Bill Ewald, until the DNR said it couldn't do so without a permit.

He didn't recall when that was, but since then, the cooling water has been flowing into the sanitary sewer and through the sewage treatment plant into the river.

The cooling water, used in the manufacturing of carburetors, doesn't come into contact with pollutants, so sending it into the storm sewer will lessen the load on the sewage plant, he said.

The permit application is for discharge of 2,700 gallons of water a day, but the amount varies with the number of carburetors produced.

The DNR will be soliciting comments on the Walbro application through Sept. 12. The public notice requesting comments appeared in last week's Chronicle.

Walbro is having less success in getting the DNR to approve a new method of disposal for chemicals it uses at its main plant on Garfield Street, in a dispute that has been going on more than a year.

Until July of last year, the firm disposed of its liquid wastes containing a chemical called Metaseal into an underground pit.

Since then, it has had to pay a Detroit area firm to haul away its liquid waste, which is very costly and isn't seen as a permanent solution.

Walbro wants to use a different Metaseal compound, used for filling pores in carburetor castings, and then discharge it into the village sanitary sewer. The presently used Metaseal contains styrene, which may cause cancer or mutations in humans.

The issue is how many parts per million will be allowed of the new chemical without it creating any harmful effects and the laboratory Walbro has hired to do its testing is still in disagreement with the DNR over what will be allowed.

Walbro had to sink test wells in order to determine whether the underground disposal resulted in any pollution. The DNR wants some additional testing, Ewald said, and is in discussion with the firm about what it will require.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The good news is that after a lunch of carrots and black coffee I popped into Walbro on business and was able to congratulate W. E. Walpole at an impromptu birthday celebration Friday.

The bad news is that butterscotch sundaes with nuts were served and I had one.

It's only an opinion but there's a feeling that the extra mill passed only incidentally because of the threat of lost programs. More important was the presentation of the complete picture to thoughtful taxpayers.

Compared to other districts Cass City looks good, and realizing this voters okayed the tax even though the local economic picture has been anything but rosy.

The added Cass City Schools tax is only for one year. There is no way that the school will operate without it after it expires next year if conditions don't change.

Why not ask for several years and save the expense of an election every year?, is a reasonable question.

The answer is that the revenues from the State and Federal government are in constant flux and no one can tell what will be needed next year to run our schools.

Rotarian Roger Marshall used his loader many, many nights as the Cass City club worked to complete the exercise trail at the park.

The Rotary board voted to give him $100 for gas and wear and tear on the machine. Marshall tore up the check and gave it back to the club.

Full of appreciation, the members fined him 25 cents for wasting the paper in that perfectly good check.

Les Auten of Cass City clued me in on the picture of the bees at the park and I goofed by forgetting all about it.

It was just luck that the picture of the bees appeared in this week's Chronicle. I learned of the bees from Les Auten last week and then promptly forgot all about it until the bees left.

I was saved by Paul Guernsey, who took the photo that appears elsewhere.

The Haire Net

Around the coffee table one day last week the talk switched to the enormous waste of time and money in the primary elections and the political conventions.

There's got to be a better way, everyone agreed. That's where agreement ended. One of the coffee pundits wanted to do away with primaries. Another thought that the convention with its circus-like atmosphere should be stopped cold.

There was a great deal of support for a popular election of the nominees for the two parties, forgetting about State elections.

I submit that a popular election sounds better than it really is. Like lower taxes and reduced governmental spending it has instant appeal. But it's only great in theory. It's zilch in practice.

Honest now, when you go to the polls how many candidates for lesser officers are listed that you never heard of. If you are like me there are always a few. University regents, for example. I'll bet a majority pick out an attractive name and vote without the foggiest about the person who received the vote.

That's the only explanation that makes sense when you consider two Republican representatives nominated in the Detroit area. On the GOP ballot in November will be Alfred Lawrence Patterson, a patient at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, and Gerald Carlson, a Ku Klux Klan member.

The point is that the voters in these two districts must have been attracted by the name, and knew nothing about the candidate. Face it, Americans just aren't very well informed when they go to the polls.

When the political process nominates a candidate who is an actor and routinely performed as an extremist to run against a proven failure there's little doubt that the political process failed somewhere along the line.

That's why the voters seated around the coffee table in Cass City started talking about a better way. It's the disturbing results that the system produced.

But before the system is discarded something better should take its place. That's where the rub comes. What's better?

The system has served us for a couple of hundred years with only evolutionary changes. It's been responsible for a number of presidential duds but it also has picked outstanding leaders from unlikely sources.

How many other systems would produce a Lincoln or even a Truman?

With all its faults, all its waste, all its inequities, it has kept the Republic intact while passing the test of time.

We should move very slowly and study carefully any substantial changes lest the remedy kill the not-too-ill-now patient.

PEDALING AROUND

Playing
Teddy's tune

By Mike Eliasohn

Poor Jimmy Carter. Like comedian Rodney Dangerfield, he doesn't get any respect.

It's bad enough that he has a brother that gets into trouble, he also has to contend with Teddy Kennedy.

The Democratic convention last week should have been a coronation for Jimmy Carter's second term.

Instead, the first big question of the week was, "Will Teddy Kennedy succeed in changing the rules so that he can win the nomination?"

What Kennedy wanted was equivalent to giving the losing team after nine innings of baseball an extra inning.

The answer was no, but then came the question, "Will Teddy Kennedy support the President?"

After that, it was, "Will Teddy Kennedy appear on the platform Thursday night with President Carter?"

It occurred to me when watching the convention last Wednesday, that every time reporters interviewed someone on the floor, it was someone opposed to the President.

The anti-abortionists were mad because he wasn't opposed enough to abortion. The feminists were mad because he didn't come out strongly enough in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Laborites were opposed because he didn't favor a $12 billion jobs program. Poor people were upset because he wanted to spend money on a new missile system instead of for more aid to inner-cities.

Kennedyites were mad because he wasn't Teddy Kennedy.

Presumably somewhere on the convention floor was a delegate who was 100 percent for Jimmy Carter and thought Teddy Kennedy has eaten too many Boston baked beans. Perhaps I missed it, but I never saw such a delegate interviewed during the time I watched.

If so many delegates hated Jimmy Carter, as the networks would have you believe, how come he was renominated?

I put the senator from Massachusetts in the same category as Ronald Reagan, who four years ago ran against President Gerald Ford for the Republican nomination because Ford wasn't conservative enough.

Kennedy ran against Carter because Carter isn't liberal enough.

One reason why Ford was defeated was because Reagan and his supporters sat out the campaign.

This year, if Reagan gets elected president, one of the reasons will be because Kennedy and his supporters "went fishing" or supported John Anderson instead.

One thing President Carter knows is that there must be limits to how much our nation can spend.

Kennedy, having been born rich, can't conceive of limits. He thinks our nation's ability to spend is limitless, as is taxpayers' ability to pay taxes.

Anyone who thinks we can have national health insurance, yet cut the cost of medical care, as Kennedy thinks can be done, is naive. There is too much fraud now with Medicaid for poor people and Medicare for the elderly. With health insurance for everyone, the major beneficiary will be those who defraud the government.

Equally naive is Kennedy's $12 billion jobs program, which Carter was helpless to prevent from being included in the Democratic platform.

One thing I have learned from covering Thumb Area Consortium meetings for three years, the agency that administers the present federal jobs program in the upper Thumb, is there are only so many government jobs that can be created.

After that, it is money down a rathole, which is where much of the $12 billion would go if the program is ever approved by Congress. Admittedly, Jimmy Carter has made lots of mistakes as President.

Fortunately, the Democrats didn't make a bigger mistake and nominate Ted Kennedy.

CHURCH

GROUNDBREAKING CEREMONIES for the new 750-seat auditorium at the Deford Community church took place after morning services Sunday. Rev. Kingston man 'satisfactory' after cycle-car crash

A Kingston man was reported in satisfactory condition at Marlette Community Hospital Wednesday morning, the victim of a Sunday accident in which his motorcycle collided with a car.

Injured was Richard A. Skinner, 18, of 5340 S. Kingston Road, Kingston.

Caro state police reported that Bryan E. Eldridge, 18, of 4180 S. Phillips Road, Kingston, was westbound on M-46 and started to turn south onto Phillips Road when he collided with the eastbound Skinner motorcycle.

Eldridge told officers a truck and motorcycle had gone by headed east, after which he started to turn, at which time he saw the approaching cycle, but by then it was too late to avoid the collision.

He and a witness told officers the cycle did not have its lights on. The accident took place at 9:45 p.m. It remains under investigation.

Norma E. Donovan, 57, of 5784 Deckerville Road, Decker, was discharged from Hills and Dales General Hospital Sunday, where she was taken following a 3:05 p.m. accident Friday.

She told Caro state police she was westbound on Deckerville Road, east of Phillips Road, and lost control of her car while lighting a cigarette. The vehicle went into a ditch on the north side of the road.

She was ticketed on a charge of improper lane usage.

Frank J. Preba Jr., 18, of 6311 Bay City-Forestville Road, Cass City, was ticketed by Bad Axe state police on a charge of improper left turn after a 9:20 p.m. accident Aug. 12 which sent two persons to the hospital.

Tammy Langley, 21, of Bad Axe, a passenger in the other auto involved, was released from Huron Memorial Hospital in that community Monday. The driver of the car, Pamela A. Belew, 23, of Bad Axe, was treated at the hospital after the accident and released.

Troopers reported that Preba, eastbound on M-53, just west of Bad Axe, made a left turn in front of the westbound Belew auto. The accident took place in front of the M-53 Drive-In.

NON-INJURY ACCIDENTS

State police reported that at 7:40 p.m. Saturday, Danny L. Sommerfield, 31, of Caro, was westbound on Rossman Road, west of Phillips Road, and lost control of his car while fighting with a passenger.

The car went off the north side of the road into a bean field.

Evelyn Sue Langenburg, 19, of 6197 Koepfgen Road, told Cass City police that while she was passing a car on Main Street, west of Brook Street, the driver of the unknown vehicle pulled into her car. Both drivers then left the scene.

The accident took place at 8:30 p.m. Friday. Both vehicles were eastbound.

At 5 p.m., Aug. 12, village police reported, Eleanor M. Miller, 65, of 4193 S. Seeger Street, was backing eastbound from a parking place at Eria's Food Center and backed into a car that was stopped while the driver was looking for a parking place.

Driver of the other car was Ronda L. Rolston, 19, of 6229 Main Street.

Sheriff's deputies reported that at 2:05 a.m. Sunday, Dennis W. Nerkowski, 29, of Dearborn, was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, west of McDowd Road, when he lost control of his car.

It went off the south edge of the road, traveled 175 feet, struck a tree, then went 50 feet further before coming to a halt in a ditch.

He told officers he lost control when he started coughing.

Scott G. Vatter, 16, of 4110 Decker Road, Decker, was westbound on M-81, west of Crawford Road, at 11 p.m. Friday, according to deputies, when his car struck a deer.

3 arrested in Gagetown

It took three police departments to quell a disturbance in Gagetown early Saturday morning that resulted in three arrests.

Cass City officers Duane Sprague and Ken Schott were dispatched there at 2:40 a.m. to aid Gagetown officer Michael Pine.

Upon arrival, they found a crowd of about 15 persons and Gagetown officer Michael Pine in a struggle with another man in the middle of a street.

Final appeals made for cancer funds

A final appeal is being made this week for contributions to the Tuscola County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

The county goal is $46,532 and so far, only $27,000 has been raised.

The last week this month is devoted to auditing of funds and the new fiscal year starts Sept. 1, hence the final appeal.

The county unit is presently giving aid to 163 cancer patients.

Persons who would like to contribute should contact Ione Perry at 4331 S. Seeger Street, telephone 872-3016.

The county unit does not receive any money from the United Fund.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland predicts a $40 billion agricultural export market in 1980.

HEALTH TIPS

Polio conquered 25 years ago

Polio. That word may have little impact today, but less than 30 years ago, its mere mention was enough to cause nationwide alarm.

In 1952, 57,879 children and adults were stricken in this country's worst polio epidemic. In severe cases, the disease caused lifelong handicaps, paralysis, and even death.

So one can imagine the excitement throughout the world when, just three years later, on April 12, 1955, the Salk vaccine was pronounced "safe, potent and effective" against the polio-myelitis virus.

It all began in 1938 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself a victim of the crippling disease, created The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis — known today as the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation. The goal was to support basic scientific research into prevention of polio and improve treatment for those already affected.

The breakthrough occurred in 1949 when Drs. John Enders, Thomas Well-er and Frederick Robbins, working under a Foundation grant, discovered how the polio virus could be grown in non-nervous tissue culture. This knowledge cleared the way toward a safe polio vaccine. For their achievement in virology, they received the 1954 Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine.

By 1948 it was evident that there were at least three main types of polio viruses. Infection with any one would not induce immunity to the others. There was speculation that if the viruses circulated in the blood during any preparalytic stage, vaccine-induced antibodies might neutralize the infection before it could reach the spinal cord. This was later found to be true.

That year, Dr. Jonas Salk, at the University of Pittsburgh, together with colleagues at three other medical centers, undertook the enormous task of determining whether all known strains of polio virus (more than 100) belonged to one or another of the three types.

During the next three years, wholly supported by the March of Dimes, he identified within each type a single strain which evoked maximum response in test animals. The result was a three-way (trivalent) vaccine, composed of killed virus particles from each of the three chosen strains.

Next came the most massive field test in history, begun in 1953. Involved were 1.8 million children in 44 states, as well as health professionals and the lay public.

Results of the field trials showed that Dr. Salk had truly developed a safe, effective weapon against polio. The vaccine was put into wide use and by 1961 reported polio cases in the United States had dropped 96 percent below the prevaccine average.

Meanwhile, Dr. Albert Sabin, another long-time researcher in the field of polio, continued his work on an oral vaccine as the next step in the fight against polio. The March of Dimes totally supported Sabin in his research.

In 1962, the oral vaccine was fully licensed and is now the major preventative means used in this country, although a number of other countries continue to use mainly the Salk vaccine.

Tuscola participants in exchange

Seventy Michigan 4-H families are hosting Japanese youngsters as part of the Michigan 4-H-LABO Party program.

The Japanese youths arrived in Michigan July 24 and will stay with their American hosts until Aug. 24.

"The purpose of the exchange program is to establish close relationships between the two countries and give the Japanese young people a chance to further develop their command of the English language," according to Lewis Harper, Tuscola County 4-H program assistant.

According to Harper, Tuscola county host families may also have a chance to visit their new friends in Japan next summer.

The present Tuscola county exchange program participants are Ellen Airgood of Riley Road, Caro, and Tomoko Tagiri of Sukuoka, Japan.

Car looted as owner works

The theft of items valued at $500 was reported to Cass City police last Thursday by a Deford area man.

Glen Sharrard of 60 S. Kingston Road told troopers the items were taken that day while he was at work. Removed from a car was its combination AM-FM radio and 8-track tape player with two speakers, valued at $100, and a 4-speed transmission, which was lying on the floorboards. It was worth $125.

Taken from the yard were two logging chains, one 25 feet long, the other 15 feet, worth a total of $175; two car radiators, $50, and tractor battery, $50.

J.D. Tuckey of 4543 Downing Street told Cass City police last Wednesday that a 14-foot boat, plus two lifejackets and oars were stolen from his gravel pit. They were last seen in March. No value was listed on the police report for the stolen items.

Louis Calahan of Walnut Trailer Park reported to village officers at 3:40 p.m. last Thursday that when he got out of work, at Trend Vendors, he discovered a window of his car had been smashed. The car was parked on Ale Street, near Church. Loss was estimated at $150-200.

Raphael Arnold of 4950 State Street, Gagetown, told police that he parked his car in front of Albee's Hardware Thursday afternoon. When he returned about 20 minutes later, he found damage had been done to the left front of his car by a hit-and-run vehicle.

Ervin (Mickey) Holder of 6444 Seventh Street told village police Friday that his home had been entered between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. that day.

Taken were a rug from the bedroom, rug from the living room, curtains from three bedroom windows and $64 in food stamps.

Police said the front door lock appeared to have been forced in order to gain entry.

Fred Francis of 6446 Pine Street told Cass City police last Wednesday evening his 10-speed bicycle had been stolen from his parents' garage. It was found by an officer late that night and returned.

Milton Soldan of 7136 Kelly Road, Cass City, reported to sheriff's deputies Aug. 12 that he heard a loud bang at 3:30 a.m. that day but didn't think much of it. Later that morning, he discovered a bullet had come through the front wall and hit a door between two rooms.

Brenda Phillips of 7614 Kelly Road reported that early that morning, someone shot into her unoccupied house under construction. The bullet entered the north wall of the house, went through a second wall and into a kitchen cabinet.

Officers recovered both bullets and they appeared to match.

READING THE MOST books in the Rawson Memorial Library summer reading program were, from left, Tim Davis, Chris Kleo, Billy Profit, Connie Profit, Christy Rutkoski, Renee Szarapski and Jenny Davis. They read from 18 books to more than 40.

Finish summer reading program

The Rawson Memorial Library summer reading program came to an end last Thursday with 51 youngsters having read the minimum number of 10 books.

They read a total of 872 books, an average of slightly over 17 books per child. The 51 is the most to have ever read the minimum number, according to head librarian Barbara Hutchinson.

She didn't want to say who read the most, to avoid making the program a contest to see who could read the most books, with the winner reading a lot of thin ones for that reason.

Those reading the minimum were Julie Baker, Jenny Baker, Alicia Bliss, Kathleen Bolton, Cheryl Boyce, Teresa Boyce, Christine Britt, Caren Britt, Dustin Christner, Kathy Connolly, Tim Davis, Jennifer Davis and Tracy Dohning.

After reading each book, the youngsters had to submit ly, Tim Davis, Jennifer Davis and Tracy Dohning. Matthew Gaffner, Michelle Gaffner, Tanya Hatmaker, Tracie Hightower, Jandi Hillaker, Lisa Jones, Matt Jones, Mike Jones, Randy Johnson, Chris Kleo, Amy Kleo, Kris King, Marie McDaniel, Candy McDaniel, Brice McIntosh, Shannon McIntosh.

Wendy Mellendorf, Michelle Mellendorf, Ken Micklash, Dawn Multrath, David Nolan, Connie Profit, Billy Profit, Lisa Rutkoski, Christy Rutkoski, Connie Schneberger, Scott Schulz, Sheila Shaft, Roy Shaft, Becky Smerdon, Dale Smerdon and Stephanie Spencer.

Jenny Sting, Renee Szarapski, Matt Tuckey, Laura Turner, Lynette Veldman and Stacy White.

After reading each book, the youngsters had to submit a written report.

Thirty-nine children attended the film party last Thursday at the library to mark the end of the program. Three films were shown.

It's easy to catch poison ivy

Did you know that you don't even have to touch the leaves of poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac to be infected by them? The irritating oils these plants secrete can be spread in many ways... like touching an animal that has been in contact with the leaves, or through exposure to the smoke of the burning foliage.

Jury finds Doyle guilty of delivering marijuana

An ex-Cass City man stood mute Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court when he was arraigned on a charge of absconding while on bond.

A plea of innocent for Jefferson Auvil, 21, of 3825 Pringle Road, Snover, was entered by Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

His trial was scheduled Oct. 8, following his trial in connection with the June 6, 1976, break-in at the Quaker Maid Dairy Store in Cass City.

He was scheduled to go on trial Jan. 16 of this year on charges of entry without breaking with intent to commit larceny and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, but failed to appear.

Bond was continued, however, as of Tuesday, he had failed to post it and was still in the county jail.

JUDGE CLEMENTS

Monday before Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements, two men were arraigned on charges of breaking and entering in connection with the July 20 break-in of L & B Decorating, on E. Frank Street, Caro.

David R. Popp, 26, of Houston, Texas, pleaded innocent, which was accepted. Joseph J. Mannarino, 26, of 364 Norman Street, Caro, stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered.

Pretrial hearings for both were scheduled Sept. 2.

Mannarino's bond of $5,000 was continued. The judge denied a motion for reduction of Popp's bond, which is $10,000.

The guilty plea of William A. Enos, 24, of 427 Fremont Street, Caro, to a charge of uttering and publishing was refused. A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled Sept. 2. Bond was continued.

He is charged with cashing a fraudulent check at Barriger's Travel Stop, south of Caro.

Enos stood mute to a charge of breaking and entering of a house on Fremont Street June 21. A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing also scheduled Sept. 2. Bond was continued.

Keith A. Basherian, 22, no available address, pleaded guilty to a charge of joy riding, which was accepted. Sentencing was tentatively scheduled Sept. 15.

A motion for reduction of bond was granted, with bond reduced to $5,000. Basherian had also been charged with receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, with both charges in connection with the driving away of a 1980 car from Fred Jones Chevrolet in Vassar.

James L. Stevens, 29, of Burton, was sentenced to 16-24 months at the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for uttering and publishing. He pleaded guilty to the charge June 27. The sentence is to be served concurrently with a sentence received in another county for another crime.

JUDGE BAGULEY

A circuit court jury last Thursday found Leon G. Doyle, 22, of O'Brien Road, Mayville, guilty of delivery of marijuana.

Judge Norman A. Baguley scheduled sentencing Oct. 14, with bond continued until then.

He was arrested on the charge Feb. 22 in Mayville. Terry E. Brock, 20, formerly of Vassar, was found last Wednesday to have violated probation.

He was remanded to the county jail without bail, to await sentencing Oct. 14.

He was placed on 36 months' probation in June, 1978, for attempted larceny from a motor vehicle.

He violated probation by his guilty pleas in July, 1979, in district court to charges of driving under the influence of liquor and possession of marijuana.

Michael J. Linder, 22, of Waterman Road, Vassar, pleaded guilty last Wednesday to one of two charges of violation of probation, to having associated with someone he was not supposed to have contact with.

He was also remanded to the county jail without bail to await sentencing Oct. 14.

He was placed on 36 months' probation in October, 1977, for attempted receiving and concealing stolen property.

Orchard produces after 7 years

Trisches turn hobby into business

It took Lloyd and Ruth Trisch seven years for their hobby to bear fruit.

They have an orchard. It was planted seven years ago, and except for a few peaches in past years, this is the first year everything has blossomed.

And blossomed it has. The rain may have been bad for wheat and beans, but for fruit, it has been terrific, especially for apples and peaches, all of which are nice, big and juicy. Harvesting of early varieties is just getting underway.

The Trisches, who live on Colwood Road, 1½ miles west of Ellington, planted 300 trees on their property seven years ago — 100 peach, 100 apple and 100 total of sweet cherries, pears and plums. They have planted about 170 more peach trees since then, a few of which were replacements for trees that fell victims to rabbits, mice and other problems.

Mrs. Trisch, 65, described the orchard as "something to keep us busy during our retirement years."

She describes herself and her husband as semi-retired ... Lloyd, 68, still runs the Tuscola County Vault Co., a manufacturer of concrete burial vaults, which he started in 1965.

He has turned over Trisch Septic Tank Service, which he started in 1947, to sons Wayne and Roger. They manufacture and install concrete septic tanks, with both businesses operating out of the large building behind their father's house.

Lloyd and Ruth are both widowed from their first marriages and will be celebrating their 10th wedding anniversary in October. Between them, they have 11 children (eight are his) and 17 grandchildren.

Mrs. Trisch and her first husband owned the Ellington store in the 1950s.

TRISCH INHERITED 33 acres, part of the farm he grew up on, in 1972 when his father died. He has lived in the house there since 1936.

The orchard occupies three of the 33 acres. His father once had cherries growing there. "I don't know what that man would say if he could rise out of his grave. He would be so happy," Trisch said as he looked over his bountiful crop.

There are various factors which make the site a good place for an orchard. The loam soil is of the right type, it is on a slope and the higher elevation lessens chances of damage from frost.

Many of the branches are so heavy with fruit, they are braced with boards so that they don't break off.

"We look at it now, at what we've done," he commented. "The Lord has really blessed us, I'll tell you."

OTHER THAN A GRANDSON who painted the trunks of the trees to counteract heat, Mr. and Mrs. Trisch do all the work themselves. Ruth handles all the mowing (all of the orchard is covered with grass and other vegetation) and her husband does the spraying and trimming.

There is a lot of work involved. Each of the almost 500 trees must be trimmed annually. Spraying to guard against insects and fungus is done usually seven or eight times a year.

The main purpose of the trimming is to open the inside branches to let in sunlight so that it can better reach the fruit.

None of the trees will ever get very tall. They are the semi-dwarf variety, which reach a maximum of about 12 feet.

In addition to the fruit trees mentioned, the Trisches have also grown some strawberries and this year tried some raspberries.

To keep everything pollinated, they added three colonies of bees. Learning to extract and process honey will be a new learning experience this year.

Another addition, now on order, is a small cider press.

IN CREATING THEIR orchard, the Trisches received lots of advice, for which they credit William Mueller, regional horticulture extension agent, and Don Kebler, Tuscola county extension agricultural agent.

When they were first starting, they also went on International Dwarf Tree Association orchard tours.

It has been, one of them noted, "a lot of hard work before you get any returns whatever."

With both of them collecting Social Security, the Trisches aren't aiming to get rich, but there is more fruit than they and their children and grandchildren can eat, so they will be selling fruit, some as pick-your-own.

But making money wasn't the primary aim when they started. "We both like to see things grow," Mrs. Trisch explained.

APPLES A DAY -- Examining the crop in one of their 100 apple trees are Lloyd and Ruth Trisch. Planted seven years ago, this is the first year their apple trees bore fruit. They also have peach, pear, cherry and plum trees.

GOOD APPLES -- How's this for a loaded tree?

RESUSCITATOR -- Al Pratt plays guinea pig while his fellow Jaycees look on as Elkland Township Assistant Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. demonstrates use of the resuscitator the organization helped purchase for the fire department. The Jaycees donated $300, proceeds from their Jelly Week sale in April, and the township board paid the remaining $300 needed. The unit, replacing an old one that no longer worked, aids firemen and fire victims who breathe too much smoke.

Games seen as helpful

Sensing when a young person needs real understanding and when it's better to pretend his problems are new to you can be a difficult task, so the more you know about what your child thinks, the more likely you are to be truly helpful.

Many parents are finding that planning game-playing evenings at home can be among the best ways to get to know their teenagers, and each other. A new board game created by one understanding mother, Mrs. Rhea Zakich, encourages players to be open and honest with one another.

Even teachers and professors, marriage counselors and religious educators find it stimulates exploration of attitudes, feelings, motives and values. Called the Ungame, it asks players to answer questions like What do you want to be doing in 10 years? and How would you define "love"?

Some teenagers like the game so much their teachers are using it as a reward for completing academic tasks in the classroom! Though it comes with a game board, playing pieces and two decks of question cards, it's really an exercise in interpersonal communications that can be very revealing.

Fire demolishes parked car

Michael McNeil's car overheated too much.

The Fostoria resident's car was heavily damaged, presumably beyond repair, when it burned in Cass City Friday afternoon.

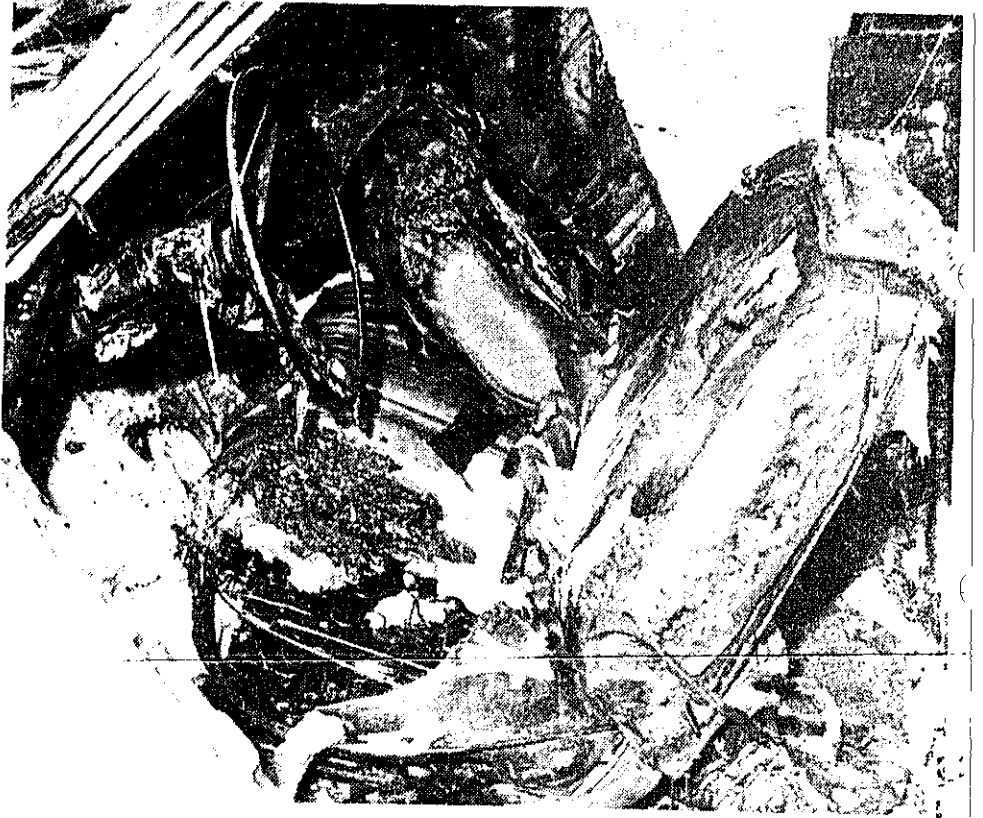

He told village police he was driving here when the overheating light came on. He coasted into Albee's Hardware, checked under the hood and discovered a radiator clamp was broken. He bought a new one in the store, out when he returned found an electrical fire had started and spread to the interior.

He went back in the store to get a fire extinguisher and have someone call the fire department.

According to police, he did try to put the fire out with the extinguisher, but was unable to, so pushing the car away from the building and waited for firemen to arrive.

The car was a 1971 Pontiac LeMans.

CAR FIRE — The interior of the car of Michael McNeil of Fostoria looked like this after the fire was extinguished Friday afternoon by Elkland township firemen. It was reported at 2:35.

Kelley frowns on rule of justice

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

A decision by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron White not to reverse an order allowing gill net fishing in the Great Lakes by Chippewa Indians was criticized by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley as a "set-back in our efforts to protect fish stocks."

But Kelley said the decision "is not the last word. This is the act of one justice during the summer recess of the Supreme Court and should not be construed as a decision of the full court."

Justice White refused to reverse an order issued by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati which allowed members of the Sault Ste. Marie and Bay Mills Chippewa tribes to continue to fish the Great Lakes using gill nets, despite contrary state regulations.

State officials have warned that unless all gill netting is stopped the lakes' supply of whitefish and lake trout will be severely depleted.

Kelley said the state will continue to press its case before the court in Cincinnati where "the key issue ... is the state's right to regulate fishing within its waters. And I remain confident that we will eventually win the decision and re-establish state control of this valuable natural resource."

UTILITY SHUT-OFFS

Proposed rules that will prevent poor people receiving government aid, or falling under certain income limits, from being shut off from their utility service during winter months have been unveiled by the Public Service Commission.

The cutoff ban would run from Dec. 1 to March 31 and affect customers who make at least a token effort to pay their utility bills.

Before the rules go into effect, they must be approved by the Joint Administrative Rules Commission and the attorney general's office.

Affected under the proposed rules would be people receiving government assistance, such as supplemental security income, food stamps, Medicaid, aid to families with dependent children or general assistance.

However, people receiving ADC or general assistance cannot be part of the voluntary heating fuel program administered by the Department of Social Services.

Also eligible will be people whose family incomes do not exceed lower income levels set by the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics.

DOWN IT GOES — What had stood since 1884 came down in a hurry Monday under the attack of a modern piece of excavating equipment. All the wood from the Vulcan Street elevators was dumped at the Cass City landfill. Concrete was salvaged for use as fill at a building site.

Pension booklet available

Many of the 50 million Americans who are covered by private pension plans think they will automatically qualify for benefits when they reach retirement age. They may be wrong.

The U.S. Department of Labor has a free booklet that will answer various questions regarding private pension plans. It is available by writing: Pensions; Consumer Information Center; Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Every pension plan has requirements that must be met under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, according to the labor department.

Questions the worker should ask, even if retirement is 30 years down the road, which the booklet answers, include does the plan permit early retirement, how much will the plan pay the retiree, and will there be a monthly payment or a single lump sum.

Almost 60 at reunion in Gagetown

The 12th annual Mosack-MacDonald-Everts family reunion was held July 26-27 at the home of Mildred R. Mosack in Gagetown.

Family members attended from Detroit, Royal Oak, Flint, Grand Rapids, Grand Haven, West Branch, Cass City and Owendale as well as Florida and Minnesota.

The rainy weather cancelled the annual Michigan-Ohio volleyball game but did not dampen the spirits of the nearly 60 people who attended.

The newest member of the clan, Christopher Louis, son of Steve and Lois Mosack of Mentor on the Lake, Ohio, (born in April of this year) took center stage.

A potluck dinner was served. Next year's reunion is planned for the last week end of July.

In conjunction with the family reunion, an open house surprise birthday party for Mildred Mosack was held Sunday, the 27th, at Sherwood on the Hill in Gagetown. Approximately 100 friends and relatives helped Mrs. Mosack celebrate her 80th birthday.

Mackinac Bridge Walk on Labor Day

The annual Mackinac Bridge walk takes place Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 1. The walk will start at 7:30 a.m. at the fare plaza on the St. Ignace (north) side and end in Mackinaw City. It will be preceded by the International Walkers Association races for men, women, boys and girls, which start at 7:15.

Boarding location for buses which will take walkers from Mackinaw City to the starting point on the north end will be an area just north of the Traverse Bay Woolen Co. on Huron Street. The wait in line to board the buses can be as much as two hours.

Walkers must start by 10 a.m. and every effort is made to clear the bridge by noon. North and southbound vehicle traffic is maintained during the walk.

All those completing the walk receive a certificate. The only dogs allowed are seeing eye dogs.

Almost 30,000 walkers are expected. The event has been held annually since 1958.

New books at the library

THIS LIFE, by Sidney Poitier (non-fiction). Emotionally charged, intensely dramatic, as rich as a fine Hollywood scenario, this is the stirring human story of a man's courageous journey from the Bahamian tomato fields to the heights of international stardom. Poitier boldly and passionately reveals everything about himself in his true-life roles... as a lover living through a tempestuous nine-year affair with Diahann Carroll, as the civil rights worker smuggling money south to Stokely Carmichael and as the actor overcoming McCarthy's blacklisting to win an Oscar for "Lilies of the Field." An insightful portrait of an artist.

ARNOLD'S BODYSHAPING FOR WOMEN, by Arnold Schwarzenegger and Douglas Kent Hall (non-fiction). Manuals geared to building up or slimming down feminine contours are numerous, but relatively few concern themselves with gym work. This book includes a selection of exercises that make use of gym equipment - slant boards, weights, multipress machines - along with fairly standard exercises to build flexibility and firmness for beginners and more advanced body-conscious individuals. Instructions are easy to follow, and enthusiastic counsel and bits of expertise on diet and nutrition round out the text.

THE ORIGIN: A BIOGRAPHICAL NOVEL OF CHARLES DARWIN, by Irving Stone (fiction). In this large-scale biographical novel, Irving Stone has brought to life the most influential thinker of an endlessly fascinating era. He did not mean to shock and scandalize. He did not mean to challenge God. But before he was done Charles Darwin would shake the faith of centuries, would be reviled as a fiend, and hailed as a genius. He did not mean to rock the world but he did.

Auxiliary seeks new members

The Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary is seeking new members, male and female.

The Auxiliary is open to anyone interested in the hospital and volunteer work. Some activities of the Auxiliary are the Tag Day, fund raising drive, messenger service, running and maintaining the hospital gift shop, bridge parties, bake sales, Vial of Life Program and helping to run the Red Cross blood bank.

The monies from fund raising projects are used to buy needed hospital equipment. The auxiliary has donated funds to help purchase a hypothermia blanket for temperature control on patients. Funding was also given to help decorate the new pediatric unit.

The organization frequently has luncheon meetings. Persons can come for lunch and the meeting or just for the meeting.

Volunteers are needed to work in the gift shop and messenger service. A training class will be given.

A coffee klatch will be held Tuesday, Aug. 26, in the hospital basement meeting room at 9 a.m. Anyone interested in becoming an auxiliary member is invited to attend. For further information, contact Jane Mitchell, R.N., at the hospital, telephone 872-2121.

The auxiliary presently has about 70 members, of whom, at best, about half are active, according to President Ruth Whittaker.

McNaughtons hold reunion

The seventh annual McNaughton reunion was held Sunday, Aug. 10, at the Cass City Park. There were 72 members in attendance for a potluck dinner.

Elected as officers for the coming year are: Gary Bader, president; Clarence McIntosh, vice-president; Ellen Stoutenburg, secretary, and Donna Auten, treasurer.

The oldest member present was Hazel Stoutenburg of Cass City. Youngest was Danny Caister, son of Dan and Mary Caister of Taylor, Mich.

The eighth annual reunion will be held Aug. 9, 1981, at the Cass City Park.

Japanese students really study, says exchange student Hall

Karen Hall was not exactly ready for the studious life of a Japanese student but she got used to it. Since she was living in Japan, she had to.

"They study all the time over there. It's their life," said Karen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Hall, 5825 Main Street, Deford.

The Cass City High School student spent her junior year studying in Kyoto, Japan, as part of the Rotary foreign exchange program. The city is located in central Japan and is one of the more populous cities in a country with bad overcrowding problems.

Life in Japan was different in many aspects but the difference she noticed most was how much her fellow students studied. The reason they studied so hard had to do with their parents, according to Karen.

"All of it over there is the parents yelling at them to 'Study, Study, Study'."

Karen studied more than she normally did at Cass City but admits she did not hit the books as heavily as her friends.

"Most of them, if they are good students, would study 4-5 hours a day," she explained.

WITH SO MUCH TIME spent on their lessons, Japanese students rarely had time, or the opportunity, to get out.

Most teenagers are not allowed to date until they are 18 and most have personal curfews of 8 or 9 p.m.

A student's social life revolves around any one of a number of clubs they may belong to. Everyone must belong to at least one.

Karen belonged to the volleyball club which practiced every day after school until 7 p.m. By the time she got home and ate supper, Karen admitted she was usually too tired to do anything else even if she wanted to.

When she would go out with friends it was often on Sunday afternoon. That is their one day off a week from school.

Favorite activities included visiting local tourist attractions and going to the movies.

Karen said most current American movies are running in Japan. The only difference is they have Japanese characters printed along the side.

THE LANGUAGE BARRIER was one that Karen found easier to overcome than she expected.

Her "Japanese father," the head of the family she was staying with, spoke English as did a few teachers. In addition, when she first got there people were very helpful in finding someone who could speak English if they could not.

But getting along in everyday life is not easy unless one knows the language and Karen said she worked to learn Japanese quickly.

"I didn't rely on people who knew English, I could speak fluently in three months."

After awhile, she said she even began to think in her new-found tongue and had trouble readjusting to English when she came home.

THE SWITCH FROM Deford to Kyoto, a city of 1.5 million people, posed more problems for Karen than the language. But she said people helped her get used to her new home.

"My 'dad' was an inspiration. He would say where we'll meet for something and he'd draw me a map and say 'be there.'"

"Well, I'd be there but sometimes it would take a while," she said.

One thing she found curious about her Japanese friends was the fact they acted what Karen considered "childish." But she was quick to explain.

"They all wear Mickey Mouse shoes, carry Snoopy bags and Ziggy notebooks. Over here you would do that when you're a little kid but over there even guys 18 years old carry Snoopy bookbags around."

Among the classes she took in Japan were physical education, computers and math. She also took typing, which turned out to be an interesting experience.

"All the characters were in Japanese and to try to memorize the keys in Japanese was difficult."

Her Japanese friends were somewhat less emotional than Karen, particularly at such things as athletic events.

"They used to look at me because I'd be yelling at a game or something, getting really rowdy like we do over here. But in Japan they just don't do that," she said.

AMONG THE GIFTS Karen brought back were two kimonos, the traditional Japanese garb. One was a formal outfit costing approximately $350, and the other was simpler, made of cotton.

The formal gown made of silk and hand-stitched, was bought with Christmas money from her parents and money she received in Japan for New Year's.

She explained that New Year's is the major holiday but instead of gifts, most children receive money.

Karen credits her Japanese parents for helping her get along in the country.

They would sit down and talk over different views and if Karen wanted to go somewhere and they said no, the reasons for their decisions would be fully explained, she recalled.

The family had a daughter, who was also part of the Rotary Exchange program, living in Indiana.

"It was like they treated me the way they wanted their daughter treated in America," she said.

THE SAME FINERY THAT drew explorers from the West is displayed by Karen Hall, who returned recently from spending a year in Japan.

Power loss closes Walbro

Walbro production line workers at the Garfield Street plant got an unexpected afternoon off Monday due to a power failure.

About 50 customers in the Garfield Street area were without power, according to Warren Schimmell of Detroit Edison, which went off at 11:35 a.m.

The cause of the outage was reportedly a bulldozer being used on the Garfield Street reconstruction project, which struck a utility pole guy wire, which broke, flipped up and knocked out a primary power cable.

As it wasn't known when power would come back on, according to Don Tonti, Walbro director of human resources, production workers were sent home. Most office workers stayed.

The outage also knocked out the telephone switchboard, with an emergency line the only one on which calls could get through.

North of Garfield Street, a General Cable spokesman said, power was out for only a couple of minutes. The firm's building on the south side was without power, however.

Power to the entire area was restored at 2:02 p.m., Schimmell said. The downed cable was close to Doerr Road.

Bigfoot walks softly if at all

If it was Bigfoot, he or she reads very softly.

Ray Finley of 4242 English Road, Kingston, told Caro state police Tuesday night, Aug. 12, that he was investigating noises on his property when he saw a man-like figure walking toward his garden.

He was carrying a shotgun because he has had trouble with persons stealing gasoline from his vehicles, so when he saw the figure, he fired over its head.

The subject started running towards the woods. Finley fired again but the subject escaped.

Finley told troopers "he did not think the thing he shot at was a man but was some kind of hairy animal" that was growling and snarling when it ran towards the woods.

Officers looked in the vicinity of where Finley had fired at the subject but could not find any footprints.

KINGSTON TOWNSHIP

ORDINANCE NO. 21

KINGSTON TOWNSHIP FIRE CHARGES ORDINANCE

An Ordinance to establish charges for fire department services under Michigan Public Act 33 of 1961, as amended (Compiled Laws Section 11.801 et seq.) and to provide methods for the collection of such charges and exemptions therefrom.

THE TOWNSHIP OF KINGSTON ORDINANCE

Section I. PURPOSE

The Township of Kingston does not have a township fire department and therefore contracts with adjoining municipalities for fire protection. The within ordinance is adopted for the purpose of providing financial assistance to the township for providing the fire protection from those receiving direct benefits from the fire protection service. It is the further purpose of the within ordinance to reasonably provide for funding of said fire protection which remains, in part, and at large governmental expenses based upon the general benefits derived by all property owners within the township from the existence of said fire protection service.

Section II. CHARGES

The charges due and payable from a recipient of any of the following enumerated services shall be exactly the same amount as charged to the Township of Kingston by the organization and/or municipality with whom the Township of Kingston has a contract for providing fire protection, to wit: grass fire, rubbish fire, automobile fire, house fire, fire in a commercial establishment, fire in an industrial or manufacturing establishment, fire in a multiple family building, hotel or motel fire, aircraft fire, train fire, truck fire, forest fire, emergency rescue service, rescuer service, swimming pool service, other services not specifically enumerated.

Section III. TIME FOR PAYMENT FOR RUN

All of the foregoing charges shall be due and payable within thirty days from the date the service is rendered and any default payment shall be collectible through proceedings in District Court or in any other court of competent jurisdiction as a matured debt.

Section IV. EXEMPTIONS

The following property and services will be exempt from the following charges:

- False alarms
- Fires caused by railroad trains which are the specific statutory responsibility of railroad companies.
- Fires involving township buildings, grounds and/or property.

d. Fire service performed outside the jurisdiction of the township under a mutual aid contract with an adjoining municipality.

Section V. LIEN RIGHTS

Where land or other property of value remains following a fire call by a fire department with which the Township of Kingston has a contract or with which the Township of Kingston is legally obligated to pay for services rendered, the Township shall hereby have a lien upon the same to secure the payment of the foregoing rates and charges due to the township resulting from such fire protection service. Such lien shall remain upon the property until the charges have been paid in full and may be foreclosed by the Township to secure such charges in the same manner as the foreclosure of mechanic's liens under the laws and statutes of the State of Michigan existing at the time of such foreclosure. The foregoing lien rights shall not preclude the Township from proceeding in District Court by suit to collect any monies remaining unpaid.

Section VI. NON-EXCLUSIVE CHARGE

The foregoing rates and charges shall not be exclusive of the charges that may be made by the Township for the costs and expenses of maintaining fire protection, but shall only be supplemental thereto. Charges may additionally be collected by the Township through general taxation after a vote of the electorate approving the same or by special assessment established under the Michigan Statutes pertinent thereto. General fund appropriations may also be made to cover such additional costs and expenses.

Section VII. MULTIPLE PROPERTY PROTECTION

When a particular service rendered by a fire department with which the Township has a fire protection contract directly benefits more than one person or property, the owner of each property so benefited and each person so benefited where property protection is not involved shall be liable for the payment of the full charge for such service heretofore outlined. The interpretation and application of the within section shall be made by the Township Board and shall be administered so that charges shall only be collected from the recipients of the service.

Section VIII. SEVERABILITY

Should any provision or part of the within ordinance be declared by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid or unenforceable, the same shall not affect the validity or enforceability of the balance of this ordinance which shall remain in full force and effect.

Section IX. EFFECTIVE DATE

This ordinance shall take effect immediately. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Rain, rain, rain

Crop damages estimated at $7.5 to $8 million in Tuscola county

most damage.

"We estimate there has been between $7.5 million and $8 million in crop damage in this county," says Harold Ferris, Saginaw County Extension director. "We are updating and increasing the loss estimate every additional day it rains."

The directors say that standing water in the fields is causing dry beans to wilt, and white mold is beginning to appear in some fields because of the extremely humid air.

Smith is write-in candidate

Sanilac County Clerk Lawrence Smith, defeated Aug. 5 in the Republican primary in his bid for re-election, announced Friday he will run in the Nov. 4 general election as a sticker or write-in candidate.

He was defeated in the primary by Deputy Clerk Delene Schultheiss, 2,945-2,748, a margin of 197 votes.

No Democrat is running, so unless Smith is successful in his write-in campaign, Mrs. Schultheiss will have the job come Jan. 1.

Although she has the title of deputy clerk, she is employed as secretary to the county board of commissioners and does not work in Smith's office.

According to the present clerk in a prepared statement, "many people have contacted me personally and requested me to run as a sticker or write-in candidate."

Smith claims and says his supporters feel Mrs. Schultheiss misled voters in advertising that she has 10 years' experience as deputy clerk, as she has never worked in his office and the three secretaries who do work there all have that title.

Mrs. Schultheiss has the title of deputy clerk, according to him, "for the sole purpose of taking minutes for the board of commissioners meetings. It is required by law that the county clerk or a deputy clerk take the minutes of the board of commissioners."

Mrs. Schultheiss has been the board's secretary 10 years. Smith has been county clerk four years.

Your Neighbor says

Carter best of a not-so-good bunch

Agnes Thompson will probably vote for Jimmy Carter this November, but doesn't like any of the three major candidates for president.

"There isn't a good man running, in my opinion." She watched the Republican convention. "I like to watch an actor in action."

The "actor" is the Republican nominee, Ronald Reagan, whom Mrs. Thompson feels is too old to be president (69) and is still playing a role. "I think all his stuff is acting."

Although a Democrat, she would have preferred George Bush for president, who is now Reagan's running mate.

She didn't watch the Democratic convention last week because she wasn't home.

As for President Carter, Mrs. Thompson feels that Congress, the public and the media have "never given him a fair chance. He is an honest man who tries to do his best."

She prefers him over Senator Edward Kennedy, who she doesn't like for moral reasons (Chapquiddick, etc.).

She doesn't feel the present system of Presidential primaries and political conventions is the best way to select candidates to run for the nation's highest office, but isn't sure of what would be a better way. Holding of primaries on a regional basis is one possibility.

Mrs. Thompson and her husband, Fenton, are both retired and live at 4207 Maple Street, having moved to Cass City three years ago from Berkley, near Detroit. They have three children.

ST&amp;H station gone, but not forgotten

When the gas station at Seeger and Main Street was torn down a few weeks ago, down went a symbol of the days of cheap gasoline.

The station, which opened in June, 1928, was the sixth in Cass City, according to Ed Golding of 5693 Cass City Road, who started working before it opened.

Golding delivered fuel oil, kerosene, gasoline and motor oil in bulk for the S.T. & H. Oil Co. of Bad Axe, owner of the station, and pumped gas there when he wasn't making deliveries. (Kerosene was used for cooking stoves.)

He made his first delivery, 25 gallons of gasoline, to Claude Wood, who lived on M-81, on April 12, 1928. When Golding quit in 1946 to go into farming full-time, he made his last delivery to Claude Wood.

The station opened in June, 1928, with A.H. "Irish" Kinnaid as station salesman.

The brand of gasoline sold then was Dixie, and Golding wrote in the Dixie distributors' magazine in June, 1932, "The opening day proved a 'whiz.' The office force from Bad Axe and one man from the Caro station besides 'Irish' and myself were 'on the jump' from morning 'til midnight servicing cars and dishing ice cream cones for the kids."

Golding doesn't recall what gasoline sold for then, but knows fuel oil cost 8.7 cents per gallon.

According to Ellis Karr of Cemetery Road, who worked at the station for five years, the price was 19.9 cents per gallon in 1945.

Golding does recall that selling $1 worth of gas was common, which got the buyer more than five gallons.

Although gas was cheap, it must be remembered that so were wages back then. During the Depression, he worked for S.T. & H. for as little as $31.25 per week.

Dixie was the nation's largest association of independent marketers of gasoline in 1932, with more than 2,500 stations in 10 states.

Golding wrote in the June issue of the distributors' magazine that year a history of the corner where the station was located:

"In the spring of 1865, C.A. Jones built a frame building on the southeast corner of Main and Seeger Street . . . This building was used as a general store for over 50 years. At the time it was built, it was necessary to haul all supplies from Saginaw with ox teams."

"Later this building was used as a hardware store and still later it was remodeled into a grocery store. In February, 1928, the property was sold to the S.T. & H. Oil Co. for a service station site. They razed the old building which, by the way, was the oldest building in Cass City at the time."

"In its place, they constructed a new and up-to-the-minute service station. This building was constructed of tan brick with a red tile roof and faced the northwest, having a double drive connecting Main and Seeger Streets. A large cement platform with an open drain pit was put in at the rear."

A hydraulic hoist, new greasing equipment, new pumps, more lights and a bulk storage plant were added in 1930.

Service stations back then, he said, did not do repair work, only grease jobs and oil changes.

Mrs. Marilyn Krueger of Saginaw spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Krueger.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith and family, Julie and Donnie, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Buerkle and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Moore and daughter Laura attended the 80th birthday Sunday of Don Smith's aunt, Mrs. Clara Durfee, at Fremont at the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Zeerip.

Miss Jeannie Kreger returned to Grand Rapids Sunday to resume teaching.

Michigan corn crop down 7%

Michigan's 1980 corn for grain crop is forecast at just over 220 million bushels, down 7 percent from a year ago, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Late planting dates and some poor germination have lowered the acreage intended for harvest as grain by 2 percent. July rains provided adequate moisture, stimulated growth and raised expectations on corn yields to a state average of 90 bushels to the acre. If realized, the yield would be second only to last season's 95 bushel per acre yield.

The average yield for dry beans is 1,200 pounds per acre compared to the previous year's near record average of 1,400 pounds per acre. Total production of dry beans is projected at 6.7 million hundredweight (cwt.), 2 percent below last year's production.

Soybean production is expected to be down 7 percent from a year ago. Over a 26 million bushel crop is anticipated based on Aug. 1 conditions.

As the harvest of wheat came to a close, the production forecast remained unchanged from last month. The record yield of 44 bushels brings the total production to almost 37 million bushels, up 9 percent from a year ago. While yield was up, quality was below last summer as sprouting of kernels was widespread.

Sugarbeet production is pegged at 1.83 million tons, up 18 percent from last year. Oat production is up 9 percent with an expected record yield of 63 bushels to the acre.

Alfalfa hay production is also up from last summer at 3.26 million tons, while all other hay production dropped 5 percent to 580,000 tons. However, damp weather is lowering quality and making for a long harvest season.

Charmont rolls to regionals

The Charmont team was the winner Sunday of the 14-team Michigan Softball Association District 8 fast pitch tournament at the Cass City Recreation Park.

The Cass City team thus qualified for the regional tournament which starts Friday at Owosso, with the winner there going on to the state finals.

The tournament was conducted by the Cass City Jaycees.

Finishing second was the Lamplighter Restaurant team of Sebawaing, which lost to Charmont twice, losing in the championship game, 5-2.

The tournament winners started play Saturday morning with a 2-1 win over Coca-Cola of Port Huron, then a 5-0 victory over The Station of Cass City that afternoon and a 3-2 win over the Lamplighter in the evening.

The team defeated McGraw-Edison of Sandusky 2-1, Sunday morning, then won the title game against Lamplighter, 5-2.

Sebawaing beat Wolverine State Bank of Sandusky, then lost to Charmont, which meant it had to win three games Sunday to get into the finals. That it did by beating Thumb National Bank of Pigeon, The Station and McGraw-Edison.

Teams not already mentioned who participated in the double-elimination event, which started Friday evening were Liberty Lanes, Sandusky; Wolverine State Bank, Marlette; Osentoski Realty, Cass City; Sugar-town Market, Sebawaing; Sanilac Dairy Farms, Sandusky, and Dingman Game Farm, Port Huron.

Named to the tournament all-star team were Kim Copeland, catcher, Charmont; Al Bosch, Charmont, and Al Romig, The Station, pitchers; Mike Rae, first base, Station; Jay Finkbeiner, second base, Lamplighter; Dennis Weston, third base, Coca-Cola; Eldie Voelker, shortstop, Charmont; Tom Koch and Ken Gremel, Lamplighter, and Bob DeLong, Sandusky Wolverine bank, outfielders, and Ron Englehart, Lamplighter, best hitter with a .636 average. Bosch was named most valuable player.

No action in fatal mishap

The driver of the car which struck and killed James Fisher July 16 on Cass City Road, east of M-53, was not at fault based on the standards needed to bring criminal charges, according to Sanilac County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Engle.

The nine-year-old boy was killed when the auto struck his bicycle towards the rear, according to the investigating officer from the Sandusky state police post.
