

STANDING BY -- Firemen could only stand by and watch as the north wall of the barn rented by William Hacker came tumbling down Tuesday evening. Six thousand bales of hay and straw were lost, although some bales were pulled out in time from a lean-to at the south end. (Other photos, page 20.)

Firemen fight Tuesday blaze for seven hours

An electrical fault is blamed as the probable cause of a fire that destroyed a barn on Krapf road Tuesday.

Elkland township firemen, who were at the scene almost seven hours, were assisted by fire fighters from four other departments, with firemen from Elmwood-Gagetown there for five hours.

The barn, 1/4 mile south of 481, east of Cass City, belonged to Diederich Baumgart of Drayton Plains. It was rented to William Hacker of Greenland Road, according to his son, John. There were about 4,000 bales of straw and 2,000 of hay stored inside, worth $1 each. Firemen estimated the old wood barn, about 40-by-70 feet in size, was worth $10,000, but would be much costlier than that to replace.

The call to the fire department was made about 4:45 p.m.

The fire was discovered by Steve Smith, 14, who lives next door, and called in by his father, Donald Boyce. The youth said he saw smoke and then flames, and that there was no one in or close by the barn at the time.

Elkland Assistant Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said electrical wires led to the north wall and then to the lower level, where the fire started, thus an electrical fault is believed to have been the cause.

The fire went up the wall between the bales and the wall, which made it hard to reach. The bales on that end were stacked to the roof.

When firemen arrived, he said, "We thought we had a good chance of saving it." The problem was that they couldn't get to the source, partly because the inside of the barn got too smoky, plus there was the danger, if the floor was burning under the hay and straw, that it could collapse.

The north end wall fell at 6:45 p.m. The rest of the structure collapsed about 9.

Firemen repeatedly hosed down two close-by small buildings to keep them from burning. Little or no wind aided their efforts in keeping the blaze contained.

The second department to arrive was Elmwood-Gagetown, which got there about 5:15 and left five hours later.

Other departments there with tankers or trucks were Lamotte township, Caro and Moore township.

At 10 p.m., Elkland Fire Chief Jack Hartwick estimated 40,000-50,000 gallons of water had been used in fighting the blaze. Possibly 3,000 more were used by the time firemen left at 11:45, after the flames were safely confined within the cement basement.

Once back at the station, they had to clean their hoses and put them back on the trucks, so didn't get home until after 1.

Decker man dies Sunday when car slams into tree

Robert Roy Clark of Deckerville became Tuscola county's 11th traffic victim of the year Sunday when he lost his life in an accident in Novesta township.

Sheriff's deputies reported that Clark, 42, of 3973 Van Dyke Road, was eastbound on Shabbona Road, east of Cemetery Road, when his car went off the north side of the road and slammed head-on into a tree.

He died in the ambulance while being transported to Hills and Dales General Hospital, according to the medical examiner's report. The accident took place at 6:20 p.m.

Investigating officers could find no holes in or objects on the gravel roadway that would have thrown his car out of control and no indication that he had applied his brakes.

Clark did not have his seat belt fastened.

He was born Sept. 27, 1938, in Detroit, the son of Mrs. Antonia Luptec and the late Gilbert Clark.

Clark married Valeria D'Amour April 8, 1960, in Detroit. Following their marriage, they made their home in Warren. They came to Decker in 1974.

Clark served with the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War. He was a member of St. Pancratius Catholic church of Cass City.

He is survived by his wife; three sons, P-O 3C Charles Clark, U.S. Navy, Waukegan, Ill., Robert Clark and Philip Clark, both at home; two daughters, Constance Clark and Josephine Clark, both at home; his mother, Mrs. Antonia Luptec of Warren; one sister, Mrs. Daniel McMaster of Warren, and two brothers, Samuel Clark and Daniel Clark, both of Warren.

Cass City Enrollment plunge in area districts

Enrollment in area school districts has taken a plunge compared to last year, according to enrollment counts taken Friday.

Student counts on the fourth Friday in September are mandated statewide, with state aid being based on those figures.

The number of students in Cass City schools declined from 2,037 to 1,975, a loss of 62.

Enrollment at Owendale-Gagetown dropped from 461 to 431; Kingston, from 836 to 817, and Ubley, from 1,243 down to 1,208.

Other Tuscola county districts also lost students.

Except for Owendale-Gagetown, which has too high a property valuation per pupil to qualify, the loss of students will mean a sharp loss in state aid.

Cass City Supt. Donald Crouse made a "wild guess" that the enrollment decline may cost the district $45,000-50,000 in state school aid.

In making revenue estimates in order to recommend to the school board what millage levies to place on the ballot, he anticipated the district would lose 29 students. The actual loss was more than twice that.

At this point, he indicated, once state revenues are finally known, all he can do is plan the budget carefully "and do the best job we can."

School superintendents don't know how much money they will get from Lansing for the 1980-81 school year because the legislature hasn't approved a school aid bill for the new fiscal year, which started Wednesday.

Normally, the bill would have been passed a couple of months ago.

Because of ever changing and ever declining state tax revenues, plus election year reluctance to do anything that might upset voters, leaders in the House of Representatives chose to approve a short-term interim budget. As of Tuesday, it was still being prepared.

Adding to the budgetary woes is that the state aid payment normally received by schools Oct. 1 is being delayed possibly 10-15 days because the state doesn't have enough money at present.

When it is received, it will only be 93 percent of what it should be.

Because of the delay, Crouse said, the district will have to borrow money from a bank to get by until the money comes in. As of Monday, he was shopping for the lowest interest rate.

Enrollment at each building (1979 figures in parentheses) is: High School, 674 (681); intermediate, 557 (577); Campbell Elementary, 468 (507); Deford, 134 (144); and Evergreen, 142 (128).

The reason for the fewer students, school officials contacted agreed, was fewer babies being born. Crouse pointed out that districts throughout Michigan are anticipating enrollment declines this year, as lower birth rates are being reflected in the school population.

Another factor, but not easily measurable, is families moving out of local school districts.

OWEN-GAGE

Since the district doesn't qualify for general state aid, the decline in number of students won't hurt revenue.

The district does receive some categorical state aid, such as for driver education and transportation, but that isn't based on total enrollment.

The big reason for the decline, Supt. Ronald Erickson said, was that there weren't as many kindergartners starting school this year as there were seniors who graduated last year.

The high school (grades 7-12) counted 214 students, down 32 from last year, and elementary, 217, two more than last year.

KINGSTON

The 817 students counted Friday were 19 fewer than a year ago.

The elementary grades (K-6) increased in enrollment from 413 to 419, but the high school lost 25 students, from 423 down to 398.

Supt. Robert Cameron couldn't be reached for comment.

UBLEY

The Ubley district had 1,243 students last year and has 1,208 this year.

Most of the loss, according to Business Manager Mark Tenbusch, was at the junior high and in the freshman class.

Tennis court grant accepted Police may join union; apartment hearing set

Cass City's four full-time policemen are seeking to be represented by the Fraternal Order of Police, the village council was informed Monday evening.

The council also scheduled a public hearing Oct. 27 on a change in the village ordinance in order to allow new apartments in old downtown buildings.

In a Sept. 16 letter to Village President Lambert Althaver, E. Ray Harwood, field representative for the FOP state lodge labor council, said the four officers have signed show-of-interest cards indicating a desire to be represented by the FOP "in bargaining for wages, hours of work and other terms and conditions of employment."

The village police force consists of the four and Police Chief Gene Wilson.

Harwood's letter was turned over to the village's attorney, Clinton House, who wrote back, "If some village police officers do wish to be represented by your organization, then I suggest that you or they follow the statutory petition procedures.

The council scheduled a public hearing on the proposal at 7 p.m. Oct. 27. The meeting may be held in the Elkland township fire hall.

Reservations were expressed about some of the suggested changes, such as whether all first floor apartments should be barred.

Suggestions can be made at the hearing.

TENNIS COURTS

The council voted to accept the federal grant of $30,800 for new tennis courts.

Application for the grant had been made on the premise the courts would cost $61,600, with the village paying the remainder.

The new estimate, however, is the cost will be $63,500.

The only way for the village to get more federal funds, it has been informed, would be to reapply, which could delay the entire project.

Thus the village will pay the entire amount beyond the $30,800, with contributions being solicited to defray its share. The Rotary Club is interested in spearheading a drive to raise contributions, it was reported.

The courts have to be done by the end of 1981. If next year the council decides it cannot afford the project, for instance, should the Tisch Amendment be approved in November, it can reject the federal grant.

Althaver estimated Tisch could reduce village property tax revenues by 60 percent, plus there would be additional cutbacks in state revenue to Cass City.

OTHER ITEMS

The request of Ron Nicholas of 4721 S. Seeger Street for granting of an easement to 3 acres he owns off Hillcrest Drive was denied because the property is accessible via his driveway off Seeger.

The annexation request of Richard Biddinger, owner of Engineered Tools, Inc., was accepted and forwarded to the county Board of Commissioners for its required approval.

Church
renew vows

Church members, friends, and visitors will be given the opportunity to renew their marriage vows Sunday at the Novesta Church of Christ.

For the next 11 weeks, the congregation will be studying the Christian family. To begin this study, all married couples will renew their marriage vows at the close of the 11 a.m. worship service.

At 1 p.m., the congregation will attend a big wedding reception to be held in the church's fellowship hall. Those attending will bring a dish to pass and their own table service. A big wedding cake will be baked for the reception by Sharron Hartwick. Ice cream will also be provided.

The church is located 3 1/4 miles south of Cass City on Cemetery Road.

Dianna Smith to serve in Cairo, Egypt

Dianna L. Smith has received appointment to serve with the Volunteers In Action program of World Gospel Mission in summer, 1981, in Cairo, Egypt. She is the daughter of Barbara J. Smith of 6387 Houghton Street who is a member of the Deford Community church.

Miss Smith graduated from Cass City High School in 1978. She is enrolled at Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky., where she is majoring in Christian education.

World Gospel Mission is an interdenominational missionary agency with international headquarters in Marion, Ind. There are 335 missionaries and homeland staff who minister in Africa, Asia, and the Americas.

The Volunteers In Action program is designed to give college students and graduates an opportunity to engage in voluntary missionary assignments. The program is similar in concept to the Peace Corps, although of a shorter duration and under the direction of missionaries.

Miss Smith is responsible for her costs of travel and related expenses of $2,000 during the summer assignment.

She will join 70 other students from across the nation who will engage in summer service.

Jacqueline and Kent Shaw

Jacqueline Jamie Nauka and Kent Allison Shaw were united in marriage July 12, at the Lamotte Missionary church.

Rev. James Keller officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nauka, Downingtown Road, Decker. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Shaw, 1050 Decker Road, Marlette.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a formal gown of sheer organza and chantilly lace, with a high neckline with a sheer half moon yoke edged with a matching lace ruffle and candy box ribbon trim and long lace fitted sleeves with lace ruffled at the wrist. The sheer A-line skirt fell from a fitted waistline to a double ruffled hemline forming a cathedral train. Her veil was fingertip length with a matching lace edge and held by a lace headband that was detailed with pearl clusters.

The bride carried a nostalgic nosegay of silk lilies of the valley and miniature carnations in pale yellow and white, clustered on a fine lace doily.

Maid of honor was Cheri Thompson, Marlette, friend of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Ruth Shaw, Decker, sister-in-law of the groom; Henrietta Shaw, Marlette, sister-in-law of the groom; Carol Wood, Marlette, friend of the bride, and Virginia Nauka, Port Huron, cousin of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Mary Nauka, Decker.

sister of the bride.

They were identically dressed in floor length gowns of yellow organza with a flounced scoop neckline, full pleated skirts and deep flounced hem line. The maids carried white chantilly lace parasols, with a wrist corsage of silk daisies, apricot and yellow attached to the handle.

Flower girl was Pamela Nauka, sister of the bride and ringbearer was Tom Shaw, nephew of the groom.

Best man was Scott Duman, Decker, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Ronald Shaw, Decker, brother of the groom; Scott Shaw, Marlette, brother of the groom; Steve Shaw, Decker, brother of the groom, and Tom Nauka, Decker, brother of the bride. Junior groomsmen were Jim Nauka, Decker, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Les Shaw, Marlette, brother of the groom, and Dave Nauka, Decker, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of mint green selesia knit.

The mother of the groom wore a floor length gown of blue luster-glow knit.

Organist was Nancy Mui and the guitar was played by Nick Mui. Vocalists were Cheryll Keller and Roxann Stine, Ubly, friends of the bride.

The reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Caro.

After returning from their honeymoon, the couple is making their home in Chlo...

"If It Fitz..." Never missed a beat

By Jim Fitzgerald

On a Saturday night early this summer, pianist Bob Milne and his band were playing Dixieland in the Woodbridge Tavern, the old-time saloon in whose famous shadow the lesser-known Renaissance Center was purposely built. I was fascinated by the drummer because he was the only person in the tavern who looked older than I did.

This doesn't happen often. As my wife frequently complains, I am forever dragging her into places where she immediately feels like the housemother. She accuses me of hanging around young people in hopes some of their Clearasil will rub off on me. This is an unfair accusation.

The truth is that I still remember the humiliating days when I was regularly kicked out of bars for not being 21 years old. I envied the mature, sophisticated people who could stride confidently into saloons without fear of being hassled for proof of their age. I vowed that when I finally reached the legal drinking age, I would never abuse the privilege by not exercising it.

Thirty-three years later, I am still fulfilling that vow. It isn't my fault most of my contemporaries are made of less sterner stuff, and have forgotten the painful discrimination of the old days when they were too young to do what they're too lazy to do today. It isn't always easy to sit around saloons when I could be home painting the bathroom, but someone has got to do it and, besides, a vow is a vow.

So it was while performing my sworn duty that I learned the skinny drummer was Karl (Doc) Mayers and he was 75 years old. He was also an unusually fine drummer. It turned out to be one of those nights when everything was perfect, especially the Dixieland, and especially Mayers. We met and talked and I thanked him for looking older than I did.

Later, Bob Milne told me more about his drummer. Mayers had been suffering from cancer for three years. There was also a heart attack. Every Monday he underwent heavy medicinal treatment — "the kind that knocks you down for days." He spent Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday recuperating so he could come to the Woodbridge Friday and Saturday nights "to thunder out Dixieland with the boys."

"There he was, every week end, playing intricate rhythms that don't jump out and overpower you, playing an imitation of what the clarinet just played, playing a rhythm of three in one hand and four in the other, playing softer and louder to make the soloist sound even better than he is, playing over the body-breaking medicine he had to take four times a day, and playing until two in the morning like it was the first job he ever had," Milne said.

"Doc never complained about the pain. He always said he felt fine. He had class. The whole bar would come to its feet when one of his solos was through. The last night he played at the Woodbridge, I walked him out to his car, and he got a standing ovation from the time he got up to leave until we were out the door."

A few days later, Doc Mayers died.

"We loved him, and we'll miss him," Milne said. "There will no longer be a drum in the band, since we retired the position, so next time you come to the Woodbridge, Jim, bring your washboard. I'll try to show you how to play three with one hand, and four with the other, like Doc did."

I have a fine feeling about the last days of Doc Mayers. He didn't wither away in a nursing home, where he might have lived longer, but why? He did what he enjoyed doing and he did it exceptionally well until he could do it no longer, and then he left to a standing ovation from people who loved him.

I also have a fine feeling about the younger people who stood and applauded, the people like Bob Milne who walked Doc to his car on that last, warm night. They made a dying man feel good. It was splendid to meet Doc Mayers, however briefly. The night I heard him drum was one night I was glad my youthful vow prevented me from staying home and painting the bathroom.

When I think about Doc, I'm reminded of other old folks and how I wish they could all how out doing what they want to do, surrounded by people who make them feel good.

SATURN is one of the nine planets in the solar system, all of which are now shown in scale in size and distance from the sun in the physics room at Cass City High School. Instructor Doug Grezeszak's physics students last year did all the planning and painted the top two tiers of cement blocks in the room black. His wife, Lori, painted all the planets, such as Saturn, shown here, and did the lettering, finishing during the summer. Looking at the planet are students Karen Little (left) and Bobbi MacKay.

The Haire Net

It would be rewarding if the power of the people were as great as the power of the organized lobbies. In theory people power is the ultimate power in our system.

In practice it just doesn't appear to be so. For years now there has been attempt after attempt to lower the cost of car insurance by eliminating costly court cases where lawyers' fees skyrocket costs even when no judgement is awarded.

"No fault" insurance was supposed to be a step in that direction but there are so many loopholes in the Michigan version that costly litigation goes merrily on and on.

The trouble is that we don't have anyone pleading our case.

The same troubles that afflict us as drivers buying insurance have been biting the medical profession.

There's a difference. Malpractice suits have been like a mosquito, annoying but easily brushed away. Higher insurance costs can be at least partially passed on to the patient.

When auto insurance costs rise, for many drivers it comes out of the beer money or, worse, the milk money.

But the medical profession has clout where it counts and has been challenging indiscriminate law cases.

Right now a doctor, underwritten by the Physicians' Crisis Committee, is suing a law firm for alleged malicious prosecution, malpractice and abusive prosecution.

And lower insurance rates for all of us.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Regular readers of this trivia will recall that we promised to pass along the increase in cost for teachers at Cass City Schools as soon as the superintendent revealed them.

In 1979-80 total salaries were $1,286,177. Under the new contract the total swells to $1,367,097. That's an increase of $80,920.

If you took the trouble to figure it you would see that the increase is only slightly more than 6 percent.

How is that possible when salaries with increments jumped an average of more than 10 percent? It's possible because the school is hiring four fewer teachers this year with a net savings of well over $50,000.

Smokers bug you? Non-smokers get in your hair? Either way you can tell how you feel about increased cigarette taxes, insurance advantages, stricter control of vending machines, expansion of laws prohibiting smoking in public areas and increased health education efforts in schools and hospitals.

The place to sound off (or write) is the governor's citizens' panel on smoking and health which has scheduled a public hearing Oct. 8 from 10 a.m. to noon at Manty Conference Center of the Michigan Department of Public Health, 3500 North Logan Street, Lansing.

The committee reports to Gov. William Milliken Nov. 15.

Tuscola county 20th in CMU enrollment

Nearly 30 percent of Central Michigan University's record enrollment comes from the three metropolitan Detroit counties of Oakland, Wayne and Macomb, according to figures compiled by the CMU Registrar's Office.

Led by Oakland county with 2,160 students at CMU, the three-county area is represented by 4,864 students, or 28.8 percent of the University's 16,912 enrollment this fall.

Tuscola county, with 179 students, is 20th on the list of counties represented at CMU this year. Huron county, with 175, is 22nd. Sanilac county is not in the top 25.

It's now before the Michigan Supreme Court after rulings against the doctor were handed down in circuit court and the Michigan Court of Appeals. Cases against lawyers are heard by judges who are, of course, lawyers, who honestly interpret the law impartially as they perceive it. I'm sure that if all libel cases were heard by juries composed of media members, it's safe to say that the cost of libel insurance would plummet as quickly as an airplane without an engine.

Regardless of what happens in the court case the doctors have another avenue to travel. In July the Florida legislature passed a law requiring the losing party in medical malpractice cases to pay the other side's legal fees. The law also requires attorneys to clearly explain that provision in writing to prospective clients.

That's where the clout comes in. Laws like these don't just happen. It takes a well organized, well financed campaign to get it done.

Don't get me wrong. It's a good law, it just doesn't go far enough.

I fail to see why the client should be held responsible. How about the attorneys paying half the cost of the other side's legal fees, if they lose, not just for malpractice but for all cases involving damages?

In one swoop all that would be left would be cases that really need to be tried to see justice done.

And lower insurance rates for all of us.

Beckett Efficiency Equals Savings

The cost of heating your home is directly related to the efficiency of your oil burner. The more efficient your burner, the more money you save. The following chart shows the range of savings you can expect from a Beckett flame-retention burner.

REMEMBER . . . a Beckett flame-retention burner can save you thousands of dollars on wasted heat and unburned fuel. Contact your heating contractor or oil dealer today.

*Actual savings depend on the efficiency of your existing burner, your life style and the size of your heating system.

There will be three tax cut amendment propositions presented in the November election. I plan to vote against all three. Voting against the Smith-Bullard and Tisch amendments was an easy decision. The executive legislative coalition proposal is harder to say no to.

The Tisch amendment would bring chaos to Michigan and before the election I'm sure that enough of us will realize it so that the proposition will go down the tube as it did before.

The Smith-Bullard proposal which is backed by Michigan educational groups has many objectionable features. Tops for me is the one that would require by law that every school district in the state pay the amount received by the HIGHEST paid district in the state after a five-year phase in period. It also requires a system of general taxation to support school's operating costs.

In other words, Cass City School district which operates near the bottom of the cost per pupil scale would be forced to spend as much as the district at the top of the scale.

Another objectionable feature is that it would lift the current 15/50 mill limitation to 24.5 mills. In short it takes away much of the local control over school and governmental spending that we now enjoy.

The coalition proposition would save many property owners tax dollars. The difference would be regained by increasing the sales and use tax from 4 to 5.5 percent.

That's a regressive tax, hitting the persons less able to pay more than the present tax system.

Fire destroys barn

The fire was still smoldering Wednesday morning. It was the second fire at the structure this year. In March, straw started burning in the lower level, cause of which was unknown. Boyce and his son, Steve, pitched the burning straw outside, with the only damage being some singed wood.

According to Albert Gallagher, who stopped by to review the remains Wednesday morning, his uncle, Emanuel Krapf, built the barn somewhere between 1913 and 1925, when he (Krapf) owned the farm. It was the second barn on the site, replacing one blown down in a wind storm. Some of the lumber in the original barn was used in the replacement.

Most of us get what we deserve—only the successful admit it.

Everyone knows that insulation, weatherstripping, and lowering the thermostat reduce fuel costs. But not everyone is aware of the tremendous money-saving advantages of a Beckett flame-retention burner.

Oil Heat Is the Most Efficient Method of Heating Your Home

A Beckett flame-retention burner is so efficient it can make oil heat a better buy than gas, wood or electricity. Over a ten-year period, the savings from a Beckett flame-retention burner can total thousands of dollars — thousands saved on your fuel bill!

An Old Burner Gobbles Up More than It Should

An oil burner is an energy converter — the more heat it extracts from oil, the less oil you need to heat your home. Most old burners were designed when energy was plentiful and inexpensive. A burner more than ten years old may use up to one-third more oil than necessary, costing extra money every time the thermostat calls for heat.

Beckett: The Best in Modern Technology

The R.W. Beckett Corporation is the leader in the development of a new generation of oil burners. Beckett flame-retention burners combine high motor speeds with sophisticated combustion heads to produce a hotter, clean, highly efficient flame. The Beckett burner achieves the most efficient combustion by creating controlled turbulence in the combustion chamber — exactly the right mixture of oil and air. Result: less heat wasted up the chimney and measurably lower fuel bills.

REMEMBER . . . a Beckett flame-retention burner can save you thousands of dollars on wasted heat and unburned fuel. Contact your heating contractor or oil dealer today.

PEDALING AROUND

With and without

By Mike Eliasohn

I think I first became fascinated with the idea of being rich when I read that Jackie and Aristotle Onassis liked to eat unborn lamb, which cost, if I remember correctly, $45 a pound.

It's not that I want to be able to eat unborn lamb, the idea of which sounds sickening. It's just that the nice thing about money is that there are so many things one can do with it.

I know I will never become rich. I don't have any rich uncle who will leave me a million or so dollars in his will and I don't have enough ambition to go out and earn it.

As long as I can stay comfortable, I will be satisfied.

Still, it's fascinating to get a glimpse now and then of how the other 1/100th live.

For instance, it was revealed last week that at least $200,000 in jewels was missing from the home of William Clay Ford, owner of the Detroit Lions and Ford Motor Co. vice-chairman.

The items were taken over a period of time and weren't immediately missed.

That's what happens when you are rich. If it were you or I who owned $200,000 in jewels, we would notice the first time a cufflink or an earring disappeared.

Then there was the glimpse shown by the television show "PM Magazine" of life on Rodeo Drive, the ultra-expensive shopping district in Beverly Hills.

There was the men's clothing store that looked like the Taj Mahal, where suits sold for $1,000 and a coat cost $7,000. The owner of the store said 95 percent of his customers never ask what an item costs before purchasing it.

I wish the reporter had asked what a pair of socks cost.

We all have our priorities, of course. There's the joke about the farmer who was asked what he would do if he had $1 million and he replied, "I'd farm and farm until it was all gone."

If I had $1 million, assuming that it was tax free so that it would last a while, I would start by buying a house with a mammoth garage.

Then I would start filling it by finding a Morgan 3-wheel car and a mechanic to go with it. Mogs were not always the most reliable of cars. (Morgan trikes were built in England from 1910-1952. The company still builds four wheel sports cars, for which there is supposedly a waiting list of seven years.)

As long as I'm fantasizing, a Bentley from the 1920s, a Mini-Cooper from the 1960s (both English) and a Studebaker Avanti would be nice.

I realize 99.99 percent of you reading this don't have the slightest idea what I am talking about, but this whole piece is about self-indulgence. You indulge your way and I'll indulge mine.

I wouldn't fill my garage entirely with cars. There would be lots of bicycles. Since most of my ideas for bicycles haven't been built yet, I would hire a bicycle frame builder (there are such persons) and he could build them.

To each his own. It's a problem you and I will never have, of course, but I suppose it becomes a problem for the ultra-rich in how to get rid of their money.

They can't take it with them and it only costs so much for the basic necessities of life, so beyond that, they make what seem to us frivolous expenditures.

Meat for $45 a pound, a $100,000 car for him, a $125,000 necklace for her and a $1 million yacht for both of them.

I'd settle for the Morgan, a small garage and a good mechanic within pushing distance.

RAISE THE TITANIC

Area residents honored at Tuscola County Farm Bureau meeting

Residents of Kingston, Cass City and Gageton were recipients of three of the four top honors presented at the annual meeting last Thursday of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau.

Honored at the dinner meeting, held at the Caro High School cafeteria, as the Farm Bureau Couple of the Year were Dean and Marion Jeffrey of 3356 River Street, Kingston.

Both have been active in Farm Bureau activities for many years, have attended several American Farm Bureau Federation conventions and have held various offices in the Group 38 community group.

Jeffrey went to work at his brother's farm implement shop in 1931, retired from there in 1971, but still repairs farm equipment.

Mrs. Jeffrey has been a member of the White Creek Floral Club for about 35 years.

The couple, married in 1933, have five children, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Outstanding Farm Bureau Individual was Keith Little of 5163 E. Kelly Road, Cass City.

A Farm Bureau member since 1952, he was elected as a district director in September, 1977.

He has served as delegate to the Michigan Farm Bureau annual meetings and was the county legislative leader at this year's Washington legislative seminar. He is presently information committee chairman.

He is a member and former president of the Tuscola County Swine Producers Association, chairman of the Novesta Church of Christ board, an elder and builder.

Establishment of the Homer Nowlin Farm in Lapeer county as a state extension demonstration farm was supported. The farm, 4½ miles south of the Tuscola-Lapeer county line, has been donated to Michigan State University.

A bicycle safety training program in county elementary schools, under the supervision of law enforcement officials, was endorsed.

State and national resolutions will be considered at the state convention.

Sunday school teacher and a former 4-H leader. Named outstanding young farm woman was Andrea Hofmeister of Dodge Road, Gageton.

She is vice-president of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women, FBW safety and health chairman, secretary of the North Elmwood Farm Bureau community group and a member of the county community affairs committee.

She and husband Ken have two children.

Mrs. Hofmeister will compete for state outstanding young farm woman honors at the state convention later this year.

The distinguished service to agriculture award was presented to State Rep. Loren Armbruster, R-Caro.

He was first elected to the legislature in 1972, after having been executive vice-president of the Michigan-Ontario Sugar Beet Growers Association for 22 years.

He was a vocational agriculture teacher for two years, an assistant county extension agent and county agent for a total of five years.

He was named an honorary state farmer by the Michigan FFA in 1967.

RESOLUTIONS
Resolutions approved by the members present included urging the president to lift the embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union.

Another resolution was that the basic farm program "should be one that will encourage undisturbed foreign and domestic market opportunities... that will encourage the largest percent of farm income coming from the marketplace and the very minimum of income and dependency on government programs."

The county millage proposal on the Nov. 4 ballot was endorsed. A half-mill will go for bridges and a half-mill for county operating expenses.

The concept of a "right to farm" ordinance was endorsed for the county to ensure agriculture has priority. "That noise, odors, dust and fumes that are caused by farming are specifically permitted as part of the exercise of this right."

A warrant was issued by the prosecutor's office in late August, but Bulla wasn't found and taken into custody by the sheriff's department until Tuesday of last week.

A juvenile has also been charged in connection with the break-in.

Taken in the break-in were various items worth a total of $139, including two radios and a portable tape recorder. Many of the items were recovered.

Michigan Farm Bureau Vice-president Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, Cass City, spoke to the gathering primarily about the impact of the three tax proposals on the November ballot.

All would limit severely the powers of local government, he said.

Passage of the Tisch amendment, he said, would cut the county operating budget drastically and could reduce the Michigan Department of Agriculture budget by 60 percent.

"I don't think there is a person in this room who wouldn't like to pay less taxes," he commented, adding, "I don't think it would be fair to limit state revenues to the point it would hurt services that help us."

Outgoing directors whose terms are expiring were honored: LeRoy Schluckebier, Frankemuth, the current county president; Mervin Knoll, Vassar, and Joyce Loomis, Cass City, Women's Committee.

A plaque was presented to the family of Margaret Boyne, county president at the time of her death July 15, for her dedicated service. A dried flower bouquet was presented by the Farm Bureau Women Committee in her honor to be placed in the county Farm Bureau building.

Group 38 was the community group award winner and also the scrapbook winner.

Plaques were presented to the four high school students who attended the Farm Bureau citizenship seminar

OTHER ITEMS
Elected or reelected directors were Keith Little, Elkland, Ellingwood, Elmwood and Novesta townships; Mark Schiefer, Denmark, Gifford, Juniata, and Tuscola townships; Kenneth Hofmeister, Gageton, at-large, three-year term, and Michael Findlay, Caro, at-large, two-year term.

Plaque recipients of the outstanding Farm Bureau couple award were Marion and Dean Jeffrey of River Street, Kingston.

Plaque recipients of the outstanding Farm Bureau individual award were Keith Little of Cass City.

KEITH LITTLE of Kelly Road, Cass City, was recipient of the outstanding Farm Bureau individual award.

ANDREA HOFMEISTER of Dodge Road, Gageton, was named the outstanding young farm woman.

Youth charged in break-in

A Cass City youth has been charged in connection with the Aug. 9 break-in of the home of Alice Lehto and her husband at 1609 Kingston Road, Deford.

Hugh Bulla, 17, of 6777 E. Kelly Road, appeared last Thursday before Magistrate Donald Smith, charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling.

Arraignment before District Judge Richard F. Kern was scheduled Oct. 6. Surety bond was set at $5,000.

A warrant was issued by the prosecutor's office in late August, but Bulla wasn't found and taken into custody by the sheriff's department until Tuesday of last week.

A juvenile has also been charged in connection with the break-in.

Taken in the break-in were various items worth a total of $139, including two radios and a portable tape recorder. Many of the items were recovered.

Cass City police arrested Thomas A. Hendrick, 51, of W. Dickerson Road, Akron, at 10:25 p.m. Sept. 23 on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. His car was stopped on Seeger Street at Pine.

He was released from the county jail after posting bond of $100. Appearance date in district court was scheduled Oct. 6.

Immunization, family planning clinics set

Tuscola County Health Department immunization clinic will be Thursday, Oct. 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30.

Hours at each are 9:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m., with the clinic this Thursday extending into early evening. The clinics are free.

Family planning clinics will be Friday, Oct. 10, from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. and Oct. 17 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

The health department is located on M-81, west of Caro.

Dickinson takes phone cable course

Curtis H. Dickinson, cable splicer for General Telephone Co. in Cass City, recently completed a course in basic cable construction at the company's training center in Muskegon.

The 10-day course teaches students how to install pedestals, which are free-standing outdoor units that give access to telephone cables which are housed underground, and how to splice buried cable loops and ground cables.

Dickinson, his wife Marjorie, and children Daniel, 17, Elizabeth, 14, and Jane, 10, reside on Church street.

Band alumni needed for homecoming

The second annual Cass City Alumni Band will take the field during the homecoming pre-game ceremonies-Friday, Oct. 10.

Last year, there were 16 former Red Hawks musician participants, representing classes from the 1950s through 1979.

This year, there is no reason why the alumni band, with all the people who have graduated, should not outnumber the present Marching Red Hawks, said marching band director George Bushong.

The program Oct. 10 calls for a rehearsal in the high school band room at 6 p.m. trip to the field by 7:30 (get in free) and performance at 7:45.

Musical requirements are that alumni play the school song, alma mater, and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Majorettes and drum majors are also invited to participate.

Persons interested in joining should contact one of the following persons by Oct. 8 or Oct. 6 if they need an instrument. If an instrument is needed, they can arrange to get one.

Bushong can be contacted at the Intermediate School, 872-2147, or at home at 872-3832; Thomas Clair at the High School, 872-2149, or home, 872-3384; or Nancy Spencer Hoxie at 872-5073.

Music will be available at the high school band room from 8:15 a.m.-noon and 2:30-4:45 p.m. school days for those who would like to practice beforehand.

Democrats to meet

COUNT ON IT

The Democratic Party of Sanilac county will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday at 8 p.m. at the Sandusky Civic Center.

Maybe you can't fool all the people all the time, but leave them alone and a great many will ultimately fool themselves.

HEALTH TIPS

High blood pressure affects 35 million

You feel dizzy, uptight and have a headache. You have high blood pressure - right? You feel OK, your blood pressure is normal and you've taken your blood pressure pills. You've been cured - right? Wrong to both.

High blood pressure is a major public health problem which affects approximately 35 million Americans. That's one in every six persons. Although treatment is available for the condition, many individuals are not on adequate therapy.

Unfortunately, many misconceptions abound concerning high blood pressure and these misconceptions encourage susceptibility to strokes, heart disease, kidney disease or other disabilities.

Tragic, considering that high blood pressure is treatable and normal, full lives can be lived if the condition is diagnosed and physicians' orders are followed.

Some diseases have obvious symptoms, such as a cough or rash that can be treated. High blood pressure is not like that - it usually has no symptoms. But some people think that they should "feel" something, such as a headache or dizziness.

People often think that high blood pressure is related to being nervous or tense. They are probably confusing hypertension, the medical term for high blood pressure, with nervous tension.

The fact is nervous people as well as calm people can have high blood pressure. The only way to know if someone's blood pressure is up is to measure it. No one can tell for sure by the way he or she feels.

Americans today are putting more effort into achieving good health and living a longer life. They are exercising more, improving their eating habits and giving up smoking. As a result they are feeling better and chances are they will achieve their health goals. For people with high blood pressure, their way to a normal healthy life is to maintain the daily treatment their doctor prescribes, for the rest of their lives. The treatment usually consists of medication and diet, a slim price to pay for achieving good health.

If you are diagnosed as having high blood pressure, your treatment generally consists of medication and exercise along with limiting diet, smoking and salt intake, which with the exception of medication, are sensible health habits for all.

Some patients make a mistake and choose to stop smoking or lose weight instead of taking their medication. That's a serious mistake. Your doctor has prescribed a complete regimen that must be followed to achieve a desired goal, in your case, good health and a productive life.

Ministerial group picks officers

The Cass City Area Ministerial Association held its first meeting of the season Sept. 18.

Officers for 1980-81 were elected. Vern Lockard, minister of the Novesta Church of Christ, was elected president; Jerry Deatherage, Cass City Nazarene church, secretary, and Eldred Kelley, Salem United Methodist church, treasurer.

The association established goals for the coming year geared to give practical help and ideas in the areas of counseling for every minister.

Projected subjects to be dealt with in the coming months at its meetings are: counseling the family; counseling and working with teens involved with alcohol; dealing with pornography in the community; dealing with the occult; influence and message rock music has on the mind, and time management for the Christian minister.

The association also will be working on an area-wide seminar for the family and will be inviting one of the leading family counselors of the country to share with the Cass City community.

Ministers will meet bi-monthly, with their next meeting Nov. 13 at 10 a.m. at the home of Robert Taylor, minister of the Cass City Missionary church.

All Cass City, Deford, Kingston, and Gageton area ministers are invited to share in the meetings and help in putting forth a spiritual influence in their communities.

C. Mandich commended student

Cheryl Mandich, a senior at Owendale-Gagetown High School, has been commended for her outstanding performance in the 26th annual National Merit Scholarship Program.

She has or will be presented with letters of commendation from her school and National Merit Scholarship Corp. If the commended students request it, they will be referred to admission and financial aid officers at two higher education institutions of their choice as being worthy candidates for admission.

It is hoped that the referral service and Merit program recognition will result in assistance for such commended students as they pursue their educational goals, Principal James Barr said.

Blood drive Friday in Cass City

Hills and Dales General Hospital and the hospital auxiliary are sponsoring a Red Cross blood bank drive Friday.

Hours at the St. Pancratius parish hall, 4292 S. Seeger Street, will be from 1-7 p.m.

Donors can call the hospital for an appointment, 872-2121, ext. 247, or appear at the hall, which is the building behind the church.

Cards will be available at the hall that will be sent to Shirley Geiger, if desired, who is still at Saginaw Community Hospital, recuperating from a July 16 traffic accident. The cards will say, "I thought of you today. I am donating."

The blood donated is not actually designated for a specific person.

AROUND THE FARM
Plan now for 1981
By William Bortel

High yields don't just happen. They are planned! Is your 1981 checklist made out yet? It should be... calendarized and all. The list should include all those production inputs you can control to increase yields. Be sure the following points are on your check list and are scheduled for maximum contribution to yield:

- 1) Variety: University and commercial seed variety trials provide results that help you choose the right variety for your area. Select varieties that fit your management program. Find out what plant populations or row spacing they demand to maximize yields. Improper variety or population selection could cost you many bushels per acre in yield potential.
- 2) Be prepared to plant on time: Early planting may be the biggest key to top yields in 1981. Applying P and K this fall may avoid a two-week delay in planting during a wet spring. Every day's delay can cost you yield. Order all your materials early: seed, chemicals, and fertilizer. Don't waste valuable planting time next spring waiting for materials.
- 3) Watch your soil fertility: Use soil tests to help determine fertilizer and lime needs. Test often. Lime to the recommended pH for the crops you plan to grow. Fertilize for maximum economic yields. Build soil test levels, especially P and K. Remember, high yields remove large amounts of nutrients, so keep up with maintenance rates. High fertility can pay big bonus dividends when stresses hit your crop.
- 4) Know your chemicals: What weed and insect pests gave you the most trouble in 1980? Make plans to control them next year.
- 5) Look back to plan ahead: Recall those problems you had with this year's crop, plant stands, weedy areas, insect problems, nutrient deficiency, or poor drainage. Correct them for 1981.
- 6) Keep good records: Document what you plan to do. Evaluate how well you stuck by your plans. Compare records and results. This will help you identify and eliminate yield limiting factors. No yield is tops. There are always higher yields to seek. Plan for them now.

Cass City flu clinic
Oct. 14

The Tuscola County Health Department is sponsoring free flu vaccination clinics this fall. The schedule is: Oct. 8, Millington Township Hall; Friday, Oct. 10, Tuscola County Health Department, Caro, and Tuesday, Oct. 14, Hills and Dales General hospital, Cass City. Hours at each clinic will be 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Flu vaccine this year will consist of inactivated trivalent preparations to protect against Influenza A-Brazil, A-Bangkok, and B-Singapore. The U.S. Center for Disease Control recommends that persons over age 65, plus persons who risk serious consequences from the flu, should receive the vaccine. High risk conditions for persons under 65 would be heart disease, chronic disorders which affect pulmonary functions, such as asthma, cystic fibrosis or orthopedic disorders which impair ventilation, kidney disease, diabetes or other diseases which increase susceptibility to infection, or severe anemia. Persons who are pregnant and have a "high risk" condition should consult their physician about the need for vaccine.

Art expression of life, says visiting artist

Art to Carmelo Bilbao-Unanue is an expression of life.

It is also his living. His paintings hang in the United Nations building in New York and in private and public collections in many nations.

The paintings of the artist from the Basque region of Spain have been called by critics as unique in that nation's art.

Bilbao-Unanue was in the United States last week, but not to unveil his latest work or lecture at a big city art museum. He and his family were visitors at the home of Paul and Mary Ann Megge on Riley Road, Kingston township.

Since 1964, the artist has been married to Jeanne der Kinderen, a native of the Netherlands. When she was a student in her native country, she was a classmate and good friend of the now Mrs. Megge, who met her husband when she was an exchange student at Walled Lake High School in 1962-63.

The visit last week was the first time they had seen each other in seven years.

Bilbao-Unanue met his wife in 1963 when he was working in the Dutch consulate in his native city of Bilbao and she came in. The first thing they discovered in common was they both spoke English.

They have one daughter, Amaia Bilbao-der Kinderen, 15. (In Spain, the wife does not take her husband's last name. Their children's last names are a combination of those of their parents. It is only coincidence that part of the artist's last name is the same as that of his native city.)

CARMELO BILBAO-

Unanue, born in 1928, was only 4 years old when persons noticed his drawings.

"As a child, I was good at drawing," he explained, "but you don't think of yourself (at that age) as good at drawing." He decided he would be a writer.

But when he finished the equivalent of high school, he wasn't sure what his true calling would be. He started traveling, to many countries in Europe, and in 1951 to Toronto, Canada, where he lived until 1962.

Bilbao-Unanue, who speaks English, French, German and Italian in addition to Spanish, worked as a translator.

IN 1953, WHEN HE WAS 26, he started to paint. It was the result of a bet.

He and a friend, a Yugoslavian student, were both unsuccessful short story writers, garnering only rejection slips from publishers.

Bilbao-Unanue told his friend he had always had an idea he should try painting.

"He (the friend) said that's very difficult. 'It might be 10 years before you sell your first painting.'"

The result was a bet, that the artist-to-be would sell his first painting before his friend sold his first short story. The loser would buy the other a Christmas dinner.

A few months later, Bilbao-Unanue sold his first painting for $30 to a painter. His friend paid for the dinner.

"That encouraged me, but I wanted to make sure I could draw." He went to Mexico and whatever he saw of interest, he drew.

In Mexico, he met some persons from Alabama, who invited him to go back with them. He spent six months in that state and had his first exhibition of his paintings at a college in Montgomery.

From Alabama, he went to Quebec, Canada, and sold some more paintings. "I remember I had success for the first time."

He then returned to Europe. "My idea was to get into contact with the Old World." He was in France, Germany and Austria.

"All the time I was painting and drawing. The main factor for success is work. You have to work all the time."

As mentioned, he was in Bilbao when he met his wife. After their marriage, they went to Norway for a time, where they lived off his paintings, to Germany, where their daughter was born, and finally returned to Bilbao, in October, 1967. They live in the country, outside the city of more than 350,000.

BILBAO - UNANUE'S travels were for a purpose. He was searching, to find himself, to find his style.

He is a modern artist. What he paints is not a duplicate of what he sees but what he feels.

"All art expression is pure biology," he explained. "If I was a black man, I would express my art differently."

The artist began painting in an Impressionist style, in which the artist's depiction of what he sees is based on the reflection of light on it. The finished product gives an impression of reality.

Next, Bilbao-Unanue tried Cubism, which deals with the relationship of shapes and light.

To the viewer who knows nothing about art, Cubism is a "farther out" style. Elements may be recognizable, but the meaning isn't as obvious.

EVENTUALLY, THE artist knew he had found the style that was uniquely his, beyond Cubism.

He doesn't foresee continuing evolution. "I think when you reach your own style, it is very difficult to change. When you have reached it, there is very little you can do about it . . . because it expresses your inward personality."

His paintings reflect a somber quality and a lonely one. Boats are often beached on deserted shores, human figures are often alone.

His Basque heritage influences his art, he said. The Basque people got to Spain before anyone else did and their language is unique in the world. Their history has been one of domination by the Spaniards.

Bilbao-Unanue notes with a touch of sadness that the one language he cannot speak is his native Basque, except for a few words. When he was growing up, its teaching was not allowed.

THE ARTIST RAN HIS own art school in Bilbao from 1967-77. It is only for the past three years that he has been able to support his family comfortably solely off the art he creates.

The minimum his paintings sell for, a canvas of 17 by 20 inches, is $2,000.

He could become a millionaire if he turned out paintings the way an auto plant turns out cars, he said, but he will never do it. "Art is your soul. You couldn't do that for money alone."

"We have not sold to some people, knowing they would buy it because of the signature alone," (that is buying a painting for the prestige of his name.)

Bilbao-Unanue will sometimes work on as many as seven paintings at a time, painting the backgrounds until inspiration comes.

All great works of art have life in them, he explains.

"Without life, a painting is dead." His paintings, he says without sounding a bit egotistical, have life.

It is in instilling life which inspiration is needed. "The last moment of painting is the most difficult. It is always the life of painting you give at the moment."

The artist has donated a book showing his work primarily drawings, Rawson Memorial Library. Three books showing his paintings are there temporarily.

VISITING Mary Ann Megge (right) and her family were Basque artist Carmelo Bilbao-Unanue, his wife Jeanne and their daughter, Amaia. The visitors from Spain were there from Sept. 20-27. The books on the table are all devoted exclusively to the works of the artist.

'PASSAGE WITH HORSE,' painted in oils by Carmelo Bilbao-Unanue in 1972.

O-G board, construction firm to arbitrate claim

Settlement of a long-simmering dispute between the Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education and the firm that coordinated construction of its high school addition is now up to the arbitrators.

Construction Coordinators Inc. (CCI) of East Detroit, which presumably could have filed suit, instead took its dispute to the American Arbitration Association (AAA).

It claims or claimed that it is owed $81,871 for over-seeing bidding by contractors and construction in 1977-79. The project, finished in spring, 1979, consisted of a classroom addition and new gymnasium and conversion of the old gym into a cafeteria.

The position of the school board is that its contract with CCI called for it to be paid a flat $108,000. Based on that amount, it still owes $2,730.

The management firm claims the $108,000 was based on it being on the job 12 months and the cost estimate of the building being $1.33 million. Instead, it was there 17 months because of failure by the architects to get the plans to CCI in time and the final basic estimate was $1.65 million. There were also some changes which required extra work.

All such deviations, it contends, were supposed to be subject to an adjusted fee to be negotiated with the board.

The AAA hearing on the dispute was conducted by three referees Friday in Detroit and lasted six hours. They did not say when they will be making a decision, according to Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson.

The $81,871 was the amount presented by CCI at school board meetings in August and September, 1979. Erickson didn't recall if that is the exact amount it requested at the hearing, but thought it was close. He also said that it was "kind of fuzzy," but by the end of the hearing, CCI was only asking for about $35,000.

CCI President Carl Trof declined comment, stating,

"I just don't think it would be proper for me to comment while it is in arbitration."

At the September, 1979 meeting, he had offered a compromise of $31,864, which was rejected by the board.

Both sides were represented at the hearing by attorneys, Owen-Gage's being William Fitzgerald of Lansing.

Also there in behalf of the district were Erickson, board President Ronald Good and architects Fred Wigen and Howard Kumbier of Wigen, Tincknell & Associates of Kalamazoo.

Scholarships

Scholarship aid totaling $684,000 has been awarded to Alma College students showing intellectual promise and superior academic achievement.

Among the upperclass students awarded scholarships are sophomore Douglas Erla and junior Kim Hool of Cass City.

Douglas, a 1979 graduate of Cass City High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Erla, 6732 Main Street.

Kim, of 4656 Hunt St., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hool, Windsor, Ont., and is a 1978 graduate of Assumption High School.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT

'Birthday' licensing beginning

Michigan's year-round "birthday" vehicle license plate program doesn't start officially until Nov. 1, but applications are already being received and tabs sold to the first of some 7-million vehicle owners.

Motorists who own personal vehicles and whose birthdays fall in November have been getting prepared license plate applications. According to Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, some "enthusiastic persons have already ordered or obtained their new tabs."

Owners whose vehicles come under the staggered system, about 95 percent of the owners of vehicles in Michigan, are mailed applications 45 days prior to their birthdays to give them ample time to either order by mail or get to a Secretary of State branch office to obtain their new year tab for the current registration.

Persons ordering by mail should return their applications at least 14 days before their birthdays, Austin reminded. All new tabs, year tabs since the monthly tabs remain the same, must be displayed on or before the date of the owner's birthday.

After the phase-in period last year when persons renewed for varying lengths of time, the current registration is for the customary 12 months.

All individually owned passenger vehicles, pickup trucks and vans are on the new year-round birthday schedule. Not affected are commercially-owned vehicles, motorcycles, and vehicles with dealer, ham operator and personalized license plates. Commercial and commercially-owned trailers come due on the regular deadline of the end of February, while the others will expire March 31.

Some people are so busy fishing for compliments that they never land any kind of respect.

Hawks put it all together for Thumb B tilts

The Cass City Red Hawks are having plenty of trouble in non-conference games this fall but have put it all together in Thumb B league play to stay in contention for another title.

The defending champs registered their second straight loop win with a 46-41 decision over Caro last Wednesday.

The Hawks jumped out to an early lead with a 14-8 first quarter margin and then stretched it to 10 points, 26-16, at the intermission.

The visitors made a game of it in the third quarter and closed the gap to four points going into the final eight minutes. But the Hawks posted a 10-9 last period advantage to gain the victory. Coach Lloyd Schinnerer said that Kelly Seurnyck played a fine game while picking up 9 points. Padgett Randall, with 20 points, led all scorers. Beth Sieradzki netted 11. For Caro, Lynette Coon scored 15. Other Tigers in double figures were Tanis Sawyer, 10, and Sue Dost, 12.

The Hawks hit 21 of 53 shots from the field for 40 percent and 4 of 7 free throws for 57 percent. Randall hauled down 8 rebounds and Sieradzki was credited with 7 assists.

WHEREVER PADGETT RANDALL went against Harbor Beach she drew a crowd. The Pirates held the high scoring forward to 14 points and won, 46-44. Number 42 is Sue Mausolf and number 24 is Beverly Wolschlager. Typical of the night is this reverse layup attempt missed by Randall.

Erla paces golf team

Cass City High School's golf team isn't going to win the Thumb B Conference championship this season, but the golfers have shown steady progress. Coach Mike Gogola reported this week.

Anchor man on the team is Bob Erla. He's averaging about 42 for nine holes but has been playing better than that in recent events. Willard Burdon is next with a 44-stroke average. Three seniors, Scott Murphy, John Scollon and Dan Dickinson, are playing around 46. Also helping the team is Kevin Downing.

In the league competition just three meets count. Two have been held. At Bad Axe, Cass City came in fourth. At Caro the Hawks were fifth. There is one league meet left. It is Saturday at North Branch. Caro is a heavy favorite to take the title. In dual meets this season Cass City is 4-3.

HARBOR BEACH

The Pirates from Harbor Beach notched their second win of the season over the Hawks Thursday, 46-44. It was a tight, well played game all the way.

The Pirates used a four-man zone with a chaser to stall the Hawk attack. The chaser, who followed Randall all over the court, held Cass City's scoring machine to 14 points.

Harbor Beach opened up a 9-point lead at one time in the first half but Cass City stormed back by intermission to trail by only three points, 20-17. After an even third period, the Hawks threatened but were unable to hit the key baskets to win in the stretch.

Cass City's chances for a win were hurt by poor shooting from the foul circle. The team converted only 8 of 18 for 44 percent.

One of the key games of the season was to have been played Wednesday at Bad Axe. The Hawks and Hatchets are both undefeated in the Thumb B and the winner will be in the driver's seat in the title race.

Thursday night the team plays at Frankenmuth in a non-league encounter.

For the year, Cass City is 3-3. In the league, the record is 2-0.

Hear 2 criminal cases in Tuscola Circuit Court

Jefferson Auvil pleaded guilty in Circuit Court Friday to charges of absconding while on bond and aiding and abetting larceny in a building.

The latter was in connection with the June 6, 1979, break-in of the Quaker Maid Dairy Store in Cass City.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn took under advisement the guilty plea, pending receipt of a pre-sentence investigation report.

The judge did accept his guilty plea to the absconding bond charge and scheduled sentencing as soon as the report is done.

The pleas were part of a plea bargain with the prosecution. Auvil, 21, who has had Cass City and Snover addresses, was originally charged with aiding or assisting entry without breaking with intent to commit larceny and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 in connection with the break-in.

He was scheduled to go on trial Jan. 16 on those charges, but failed to appear and wasn't apprehended until July. He is being held in the county jail in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Also Friday, Judge Joslyn refused to accept the guilty plea of Roger W. Bearinger, 23, of 500 S. Almer Street, Caro, to larceny in a building.

A trial will be scheduled for him on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building, both in connection with the Sept. 4, 1979, break-in of the Wickes Agriculture silo office in Cass City.

DISTRICT COURT

Clara Bulla, 47, of 6777 Kelly Road, Cass City, was fined $130 Monday by Judge Richard F. Kern and assessed $70 court costs for attempted resisting and obstructing a police officer.

She pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 15. She was charged with interfering with Cass City police officer Phil Klaus while he was trying to arrest another person outside her home Aug. 30.

Bad Axe falls; Broncos next

Red Hawk title express stays on track

The Cass City Red Hawks pulled their act together in the last half at Bad Axe last Friday to roll past the Hatchets, 24-9, to remain undefeated and on course towards a Thumb B Conference football title.

The Hawks can't afford to look back or the title express could very easily be derailed this Friday at North Branch.

The Broncos are considered to be one of the better teams in the league and a win for the once-defeated challengers would shove them right back into the title chase. A loss would probably effectively remove them from any chance at a shot at the title.

One thing that Coach Don Schelke is sure to be working on this week is a way to get his charges out of the starting blocks quicker than they did against both Caro and Bad Axe.

Against teams like North

Branch it is asking for trouble when you spot the opposition a touchdown in the first quarter.

Against the Hatchets Cass City gave up a touchdown on the opening series of the game. Starting on their own 35-yard line, Bad Axe rode the passing arm of sophomore quarterback Terry Pangborn down the field for the touchdown.

The hosts went to the six-inch line, were penalized five yards for offside, but scored on the next play anyway as Pangborn passed to Mike Shaw for the five yards.

The Hawks took the next kick-off and ran just one play from scrimmage a long pass that was intercepted by the Hatchets.

The Hatchets controlled the ball for a couple of first downs before the Hawk defense came alive. For the first 11 minutes of the game

Cass City ran one play from scrimmage.

The Hawks struck from far out with 10:34 left in the second quarter to tie it up. Rob Sawdon, who played like an all-conference back Friday, broke through a hole in the center of the line and outraced the secondary for 33 yards and a touchdown.

Bad Axe came back after that one to take the lead again as Tom Pettie hit a 39-yard field goal late in the period.

The Hawks charged back down the field with about 2½ minutes left in the half but the drive stalled on the five-yard line with 30 seconds left before intermission.

The drive was a hint of things to come. After the intermission Cass City completely dominated, scoring the first two times it got the ball.

Taking the kick-off the Hawks moved down the field behind the hard running of Sawdon and a pass that covered 14 yards. Sawdon capped the drive by plunging over from the 3 with 7:13 left in the quarter.

Just before the third quarter ended the Hawks scored again on a sustained drive that ended when Sawdon went over from a foot out.

A pass from deBeaubien to Sawdon was good for extra points.

The Hawk scoring was finished in the fourth quarter when Brad Hartel kicked a 25-yard field goal. With the game well in hand Schelke pulled his troops and it appeared on at least one drive Cass City could have scored again if it had been necessary.

For his outstanding running and his work in rushing the passer in the first half Sawdon was named Red Hawk of the week. Sawdon rushed for 149 yards on 17 carries and scored all three Cass City touchdowns.

Chuck Erla with 15 points under Schelke's rating system led the defense.

ROB SAWDON was named Red Hawk of the Week for his outstanding running and good spot defense play against Bad Axe. The diminutive halfback has been outstanding for Cass City all season.

O-G stays in title contention with overtime nod at Kingston

Thank goodness for overtime.

With it, Owen-Gage managed to eke out a 20-14 overtime win at home over Kingston Friday night.

Without it, the Bulldogs would have had to settle for a 14-14 tie in a game where the yet-to-win Cardinals were clearly the better ball club — except for the final score.

Owen-Gage had a tough time, but is liable to have an even tougher time Friday, when it travels to Akron-Fairgrove.

The Vikings, having defeated Peck Saturday, 8-7, are now the only undefeated team in the North Central D League.

That puts the team in the driver's seat, Owen-Gage coach Arnie Besonen said, as it is the only team that can afford a loss. "Nobody else can."

The matchup in past years has always been a good one, with the Bulldogs having won last year, 41-12, after losing the two previous years.

As for the Kingston game, Besonen said in praising opposition coach Mike Rea, "They came to play football. We came to watch the game."

His team made lots of mistakes, offensively and defensively, and many of those can be attributed to inexperience. The veteran coach started seven freshmen and sophomores. "We were making junior varsity mistakes on the varsity," he commented. Owen-Gage doesn't have enough players for a junior varsity squad this season, much less an experienced varsity starting line-up.

Indicative of the kind of night it was, quarterback Craig Gettel threw six perfect passes which were dropped by the intended receiver, according to the coach.

Gettel scored the first six points of the game on a 14 yard run in the first quarter. His kick attempt for the extra point was blocked.

Kingston got on the scoreboard on a 34 yard run in the third quarter by Todd Remsing.

An attempt to run the ball in for two more points was unsuccessful.

The Bulldogs got a break at the start of the fourth quarter when after being forced to punt, they got the ball back and a first down when Kingston was flagged for roughing the kicker.

A play or two later, Jim Glidden made a spectacular catch in the end zone of a 25-yard Gettel pass, despite two Kingston players around him. The same combination repeated for two more points.

With little over four minutes remaining, Jason Koehler scored on a 1-yard run to cap a nine-play, 38-yard drive. The Cardinals knotted the score when they ran the ball over for two more points.

The visitors came close to winning when they were near Owen-Gage end zone as time was running out but a pass in the last play of the game was intercepted, thus forcing the game into overtime.

Kingston won the flip of the coin, but in its four plays from the 10-yard line, could get no closer than the 2-yard line.

Then it was the Bulldogs' turn and in their first play from the 10-yard line, Glidden snaked through the Cardinal defense to score.

Indicative of the way Kingston dominated everything but the final score, the team made 14 first downs versus only five by their opponents.

The Cardinals advanced 189 yards in 44 carries, while the Bulldogs could only manage 92 yards in 31 carries.

The visitors also dominated the aerial game, with seven completions of 15 attempts for 56 yards, with two interceptions.

Gettel tossed the ball 10 times, completed three passes for 36 yards, and had one interception.

Kingston gained a total of 245 yards; Owen-Gage, 128.

The home team fumbled the ball four times and recovered it twice. Kingston lost it five times and only got it back once.

Owen-Gage was penalized five times for 45 yards; Kingston, four times for 40 yards.

Top ground gainer for the victors was Jim Glidden with 38 yards in 13 carries, followed by Scott Gaeth with 31 yards in 10 carries.

Todd Remsing had a super night for the Cardinals as he carried the ball 18 times and advanced 108 yards. Ron Mouton advanced 45 yards in 17 carries and Koehler, 36 yards in nine tries.

Glidden was also the top pass receiver for Owen-Gage with 30 yards gained in two catches. Jim Legg caught the ball twice for Kingston for 27 yards.

Scott Gaeth made 18 tackles, Kendall Howard, 13. Koehler made eight tackles and Bill Miracle, seven.

ONE OF the reasons why Cass City is undefeated this season has been the play of the defensive line. Consistently showing improvement has been Chuck Erla who amassed 15 points under Coach Don Schelke's rating system.

LEADING THE team in defensive points with 16 against the Hatchets was Randy Severance. Severance is also one of the few players who goes both ways for the undefeated Hawks.

DOWN ON ME -- Bringing down Kingston's Jason Koehler in this fourth quarter play were Jim Kuhr and another player, whose helmet is the only thing showing. No. 63 for Owen-Gage is Paul Lopez.

Key victory Owen-Gage cagers back in title picture after Caseville win

Owen-Gage climbed back into the thick of the North Central D League girls' basketball race last Thursday when it beat previously undefeated Caseville, 48-40.

Coach Judy Campbell's Bulldogs are now 3-1 in the league. The Eagles are 4-1.

Visiting Owen-Gage led by six points at the end of the first quarter and first half and by four at the end of the third quarter.

Becky Howard pumped in 28 points for the victors, while Julie Andrakowicz contributed 10. Andrakowicz pulled down 16 rebounds and Howard, 12.

The league's leading scorer, Peggy Wilfong, maintained her per game average with 25 points.

The Eagles won the junior varsity contest, 31-11.

Energy meeting set Oct. 9

The Tuscola County Energy Society will meet Thursday, Oct. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the civil defense meeting room in the basement of the sheriff's department in Caro.

A new board of directors will be elected for the coming year.

The program will be a slide-sound presentation, "I Have Children of My Own." It will help answer questions about the economics of nuclear power and possible health hazards.

Persons interested in joining the Energy Society who cannot attend the Oct. 9 meeting can contact Ann McDaniel, P.O. Box 121, Cass City, telephone 872-3353. Dues are $5 per year, including spouse.

On Oct. 23, the society is sponsoring an energy seminar for small businesses and other interested persons. The seminar is to teach ways to cut energy costs.

Also during the coming year, it will be developing a skill bank so members can more easily learn from each other.

General Telephone installers are continually faced with the problem of trying to gain solid footing on telephone poles that people have driven nails into when hanging posters.

The problem intensifies during an election year when campaign signs are prevalent. If one of the spiked "climbers" strapped to the legs of a telephone installer hits a nail, the installer is apt to lose his footing.

The company is asking people to not put any type of sign on utility poles, and if they have, to remove them along with the fasteners.

Your Neighbor says:

New cars are too expensive

Are the new cars too expensive? "Yes," says Karen Smolarkiewicz.

She and her husband, Leonard, are driving a 1971 car with 121,000 miles on the odometer.

They decided it was time to buy another car and looked at new and used cars. "We looked at both and we changed our minds," Mrs. Smolarkiewicz said, because the cars, new and used, were too expensive. Although they realize they won't get cheaper, their present auto still runs well so they decided to wait.

The problem with the used ones, she explained, is that the ones they could afford were big cars. Smaller ones with better mileage are more in demand and were so expensive "you might as well buy a new one and the price they want for a new one is outrageous."

According to one of the Detroit newspapers, the cost of an average-equipped 1981 car from one of the Big 3 is $9,200. One of its intermediate size models carries a base price of $6,148, up 37 percent from what it cost when introduced 1½ years ago.

Mrs. Smolarkiewicz feels the high prices are one reason for the current recession. People can't afford to buy cars, so the auto companies lay off workers, who also can't afford to buy cars and other goods, which means layoffs in other industries.

tries "right down the line. They're going like dominoes."

One of the issues being bandied about in the Presidential campaign is whether the government should put freeze on further auto regulations. The cost of complying with emission standards for 1981 cars, for instance, is as much as $350 per vehicle.

Mrs. Smolarkiewicz isn't sure whether freezing or repealing the standards would be a good idea because, looking at her 14-month-old daughter, Suzanne, "they tell us that would hurt the environment, and then it would hurt her."

She and her husband and daughter live on Van Dyke Road, Cass City. Leonard Smolarkiewicz is employed at the Wesley's Quaker Maid plant.

Rites held for Fern Severance

Fern Marie Severance, 72, of Akron, died Saturday at Bay Medical Center, Bay City.

The former Fern Kelley was born June 30, 1908, at Cass City. She was a graduate of Tuscola County Normal School and taught school for several years. She married Louis Severance June 15, 1929, in Cass City. In 1935, the Severances began a gas station and store business in Akron.

Later they established the Circle S business on their farm on Akron Road. Mrs. Severance helped run the business until their retirement in 1975.

She was a member of the Akron Community church and its women's society.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Dale (Janice) Smith, Akron, and Mrs. Fred (Sheryl) Ruppert, Ortonville; one son, Charles Severance, Pelkie, Mich.; eight grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Roy (Freda) Wagg, Cass City, and Mrs. Leroy (Ruby) Evans, Gageton, and four brothers, Scott Kelley, Lapeer, Robert Kelley, Arizona City, Ariz., Maurice Kelley, Bradenton, Fla., and Harley Kelley, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Akron Community church, Rev. Eldred Kelley of Salem United Methodist church, Cass City, officiating. Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Arrangements were by Briggs Funeral Home, Akron.

Decker man dies Sunday when car slams into tree

A rosary was to have been recited Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City.

Funeral mass was to have been Thursday at 11 a.m. from St. Pancratius Catholic church with Father Joseph Morales officiating.

Burial was to have been in Novesta cemetery.

The 18 persons killed in traffic accidents so far this year compares to 13 as of this date a year ago.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A Bad Axe woman was listed in fair to poor condition Wednesday morning at Hills and Dales General Hospital, where she was taken following a 5:35 p.m. accident Monday at Grassmere and Rescue Roads.

The victim was Loraine Austin, 56, a passenger in a car driven by Brenda J. Austin, 24, Bad Axe, who was treated and released from the hospital.

Bad Axe state police reported their car was southbound on Grassmere and collided with the eastbound vehicle of Dennis D. Schulz, 25, of Rescue Road, Cass City.

Troopers said neither driver saw each other until it was too late as a cornfield at the northwest corner blocked their vision. The intersection is unmarked.

Brenda Austin was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield right of way. Two other passengers in her car and one in the Schulz vehicle were unhurt.

Two persons were reported injured in a 3:55 p.m. accident Saturday, south of Vassar.

They were the driver, Crystal Weeks, 16, of Vassar, and her passenger, Mark Baldwin, 15, of 4601 Elmwood Road, Cass City.

Deputies said their vehicle was northbound on Vassar Road, south of Miller Road, when the driver backed out. The car went off the west side of the road into a corn field.

The victims were reported to have been taken by private vehicle to St. Joseph Hospital in Flint for treatment, however, the hospital had no record of their being treated there.

Kevin L. Woodward, 17, of 6950 Severance Road, Cass City, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of unable to stop within an assured clear distance after a 12:05 a.m. accident Saturday.

Deputies reported Donavan N. Vining, 17, of 5164 Shabbona Road, Decker, was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of DeLong Road, and slowed for the vehicle in front of him which was slowing to turn right into a driveway.

The Woodward vehicle then ran into the rear of Vining's car.

Caro state police reported that at 7 a.m. Friday, Peter T. Cherniawski, 28, of 6407 Bevens Road, Deford, was eastbound on Bevens, west of Froede Road, when his vehicle collided with a deer.

Linda Sue Linderman, 32, of 4313 Krapf Road, Cass City, was eastbound on Decker Road, east of Kingston Road, at 1 a.m. Sunday when her car struck a deer, according to deputies.

HONORED - Gerald Elenbaum (left) of Owendale, chairman of the Michigan Bean Commission, presented a plaque at the recent annual meeting to former Chairman Don Keinath of Caro and his wife, Dorothy, for their contributions to the dry edible bean industry. Keinath served on the commission six years, representing Tuscola county.

Bean growers elect officers

Election of officers and approval of new domestic marketing programs highlighted the annual meeting of the Michigan Bean Commission.

Gerald Elenbaum, Owendale area bean grower, was elected to his second term as chairman, and Carl DeGeus, bean grower of St. Charles, was elected vice-chairman. Lawrence Sprague of Northern States Bean Co. was reelected to the office of treasurer. He is a resident of Durand.

The commission agreed to implement several new marketing programs for the coming year. These include filming of a half hour television show covering bean production and handling; expanded participation in trade shows to increase the exposure of Michigan beans with target audiences of food service personnel, dietitians, nutritionists, home economists, and consumers, and the production of samplers of the primary bean varieties of Michigan for use as sales tools and gifts.

Other programs considered include selected television advertising, feature article placement, and quarterly mailings to key opinion leaders throughout the United States. These programs represent a significant expansion of efforts to promote Michigan beans due to increased fund availability because of the greater acreage of beans grown during 1980.

The Michigan Bean Commission was formed about 14 years ago with the primary objectives of promotion and production research. The commission office in Lansing handles administration of these programs.

Cass Cityan jailed after running car into ditch

A Cass City man was arrested by village police early Sunday on charges of reckless driving and driving under the influence of liquor after his car missed a turn at high speed and came to a halt upside down in a ditch.

Thomas L. Slater, 28, of 4118 S. Seeger Street, Lot 4, pleaded guilty Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern to a charge of reckless driving. He was fined $63 and assessed $37 court costs. His pretrial hearing on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor was scheduled Oct. 21. He was released from the county jail on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

According to village officers Kenneth Schott and Duane Sprague, they were southbound on Cemetery Road, south of Kelly Road, when a car passed them traveling at possibly more than 100 miles per hour.

At the next crossroad, DeLong, the driver attempted a left turn, but his car went into the ditch at the southeast corner and landed on its roof.

The driver was trying to crawl out when the officers arrived. One of them got out, noticed gasoline was flowing from the filler spout, went to tell his partner, and when he got back, discovered the subject was starting to run into a field. He was caught.

The person was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment of minor injuries, then taken to the county jail and booked.

Seek public aid to stop poachers

The Department of Natural Resources anti-poaching campaign needs public cooperation in its effort to stop violations of the state's fish and game laws.

To encourage that cooperation, the DNR has established a toll-free 24-hour law enforcement hot line, 1-800-292-7800, for the public to call when they have any information on a fish or game law violation.

Ransom Hill, coordinator of the DNR's anti-poaching campaign, says a citizen who witnesses a violation should start by attempting to answer as many of the essential questions of who, what, when, where, how, and sometimes why, as possible.

If you see a car nearby, note the make, model, color, and license number. Was there anything unusual about the vehicle that connects it with the violators - a broken taillight, for example?

Did you see the violators? Do you know them? Can you describe them? Obtain as much information as you can about the incident; then write it down immediately. To rely on your memory later when you talk with the conservation officer will only result in distorted information.

"In short, the best course of action for the citizen interested in assisting the conservation officer is to gather the information, go to the nearest telephone and call for assistance," says Hill. In addition to the toll-free number, persons can call their local conservation officer, DNR district or regional office, police or sheriff's department.

Hill emphasizes that reporting fish and game law violators is not something to be ashamed of. "People who steal fish and game are stealing part of our natural resources. Those resources belong to all of us."

New books at the library

ATHABASCA, by Alistair MacLean (fiction). With an American as the central figure, an exotic locale (the oil-rich tar sands of Athabasca along Alaska's Arctic shore), a fast-moving story, where an entire oil-producing industry is held hostage, the usual MacLean touches - amazing twists of plot, almost unbearable suspense, an ending as explosive as any he has yet concocted - "Athabasca" promises to be another MacLean winner.

PROMISES, by Charlotte Vale Allen (fiction). In a novel that perhaps only women will totally understand, Charlotte Vale Allen tells the powerfully emotional story of two beautiful sisters. Orphaned and penniless, Jess Greaves pledges to take care of her younger sister, Tillie. Though it fills her with shame and guilt, Jess becomes a prostitute to put Tillie through school. But Tillie, totally self-absorbed and spoiled, refuses to recognize her sister's sacrifice and repays her with a frenzy of hatred, greed and jealousy. After years of separations, loves, marriages and personal tragedies, they meet again. And they have one last chance to either understand and love each other or forever be separated.

DRESSING THIN, by Dale Goday (non-fiction). Goday asserts that the right clothing can make anyone look significantly thinner and offers specific pointers to help readers achieve desired "thin lines." She warns against common "camouflaging" tactics - wearing baggy clothing or trying to fit into too-tight clothes for the sake of buying a smaller size. This little book contains a good number of valuable hints.

AAUW meeting

The Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women began a new season with a meeting last Wednesday evening in the high school library. President Barbara Tuckey introduced the speaker, Rod Smith, professor of biology at Delta College. His talk and discussion concerned energy management and problems. This introduced one of the association's topics for the year, "Managing Tomorrow's Resources."

Smith came to Delta from Ohio State University where he spent eight years working and studying in this field. He will soon complete a textbook on ecology. "Families Facing Change" is the second topic for special programs and discussion during the coming year for AAUW.

During the business meeting, plans for the annual Halloween carnival for children, the continuation of the RIF (Reading is Fundamental) Program, and other community activities, were discussed. The next meeting will be Oct. 28.

Hostesses for the evening were Dotty Scollon, Doris Rawson and Linda Albee.

Sprouted wheat seed still useable

Growers and seed processors are urged to treat all wheat seed being planted this fall even if it is sprouted. Larry Copeland, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service agronomist, says that as much as half of the crop or more of the soft white wheat in Michigan this summer may have some degree of sprouting.

In spite of sprouting, the seed can be planted and still develop into a good yielding plant. Germination tests by MSU Agricultural Experiment Station researchers show that sprouted wheat seed should be treated the same as any ordinary wheat. Their research indicates treating does not damage the seed.

There has been some concern that sprouted wheat seed lots continue to deteriorate. This is probably due to insufficient drying. Any wheat seed, sprouted or not, will deteriorate if the moisture content is 14 percent or greater.

Growers are reminded that regardless of how wheat seed has been handled or stored, a germination test by a reputable seed laboratory should be performed to determine its planting quality.

Free fall tour guide available

The new Fall Color Tour Guide for East Michigan is now available from the East Michigan Tourist Association.

The fall color folder includes five tour maps which include the northeastern counties all the way to Mackinaw City; Lake Huron shore district; inland forests and waters; Thumb area and Saginaw Valley, and the Mid-Michigan gateway area. Tours range from 60 to 200 miles.

The folder may be obtained without charge by writing EMTA Fall Guide, Log Office, Bay City 48706 or calling in the 517 Area 1-800-322-4825 or 517-895-8823.

Missionary conference scheduled

The annual missionary conference will be held at the Cass City Missionary church starting Sunday evening and continuing each evening at 7:30 through Wednesday, Oct. 8.

The church is located at 449 Koenig Road. Rev. Charles Glenn, a missionary to Ecuador, and Rev. David Rupp, a missionary to Sierra Leone, West Africa, will be the guest speakers.

Rev. Glenn has been serving with the Missionary church as a missionary to Ecuador since 1945. He was the first resident missionary among the shy Cayapa Indians in the jungles of interior Esmeraldas Province.

Rev. Rupp first went to Guinea as a missionary in 1939. When the Missionary church opened its own field in Sierra Leone in 1945, he became part of the pioneering party and has served in that country since then in several capacities.

76 feet. A small industrial building is on the property. David Erla was hired as a wastewater plant employee, replacing Ken Miller, who resigned. His starting salary will be $15,126. Previously employed by the village for 3½ years, he worked part of that time at the plant and has a Class D operator's license.

The village is still seeking a new treatment plant superintendent.

Ed Karr, a member of the county planning commission, told the council of a proposed countywide application for federal funds for housing rehabilitation. The county might receive as much as $900,000, minus $300,000 Caro is receiving. Caro applied on its own.

A delegation will attend a meeting in Caro Oct. 8 to hear more about the proposal.

Halloween trick-or-treat hours will be from 6-7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 31. In past years, it had been 6-8 p.m. At the request of the Chamber of Commerce, downtown Christmas decorations will be installed about Nov. 15.

Donald Ball of 6328 Main Street reminded the council of a petition submitted a couple of years ago requesting that the alley between West and Brooker Streets, south of Main, be paved. The council will consider the request when it prepares the 1981 budget.

Deadline for payment of taxes was extended to Oct. 20. Ninety-five percent of assessed taxes, a total of $282,183, have been paid so far.

MAPPING A CAMPAIGN for the coming year for the Cass City business community are Mike Shaft, newly elected president, and Dorothy Stahlbaum, secretary. Serving as vice-president for another year is Richard Jones, absent when this photo was taken.

LOST IN FLAMES -- Elkland township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. looks at the flames from the top of the ramp that had led to the second level after the barn owned by Diedrich Baumgart collapsed. Firemen were at the scene seven hours. At right is one of two raccoons spotted through an opening near the roof of the barn, both of whom presumably perished in the fire. (Story, page 1.)

Fewer students

The district has 606 elementary students, 156 at the junior high, 431 in the high school and 15 in special education.

The decline had been anticipated, he said.

The Ugly Board of Education last Thursday gave tentative approval to a $2.116 million operating budget for the current school year.

The district will get by because it will be using up a $154,000 fund balance, Tenbusch said, but, "Budget-wise, it's going to be very tight." Next year will hurt us to the point, the board will definitely have to ask for (additional) millage."

OTHER DISTRICTS

The pattern of sharp enrollment drops was repeated throughout the county, according to figures collected by the Tuscola Intermediate School District.

Caro schools declined in enrollment from 2,788 to 2,761; Akron-Fairgrove, 841 (from 864); Mayville, 1,540 (1,500); Millington 2,434 (2,490); Reese, 1,177 (1,200), and Unionville-Sebewaing, 1,134 (1,158).

Enrollment in the Vassar district wasn't available Tuesday.

Youth rally slated at local church

Youth from 15 area churches have been invited to a rally to be held in Cass City Saturday in Salem UM church. Guest speaker for the seven-hour evening service will be Kent Fishell of Fort Wayne, Ind. He is Dean of the Bay Shore youth camp.

Mr. Fishell will be the speaker Sunday in Salem church including the 8:45 and the 11 a.m. worship services.

There will be a coffee hour at noon followed by the Sunday school open house when the congregation will have an opportunity to visit the classrooms and learn something of the work being done by the various classes.

Lost school time to be made up

Students affected by the 10-day strike by teachers and other professional staff of the Tuscola Intermediate School District won't get much vacation this year.

Tentative agreement on a three-year contract between the members of the Tuscola Intermediate Education Association (TIEA) and the district Board of Education was reached Sept. 16 and classes and other activities started the next day.

According to district Assistant Superintendent Jerome Thienes, students at the newly opened Tuscola Area Skill Center will attend classes Dec. 22-23, but have the rest of vacation off, for a gain of two days. They will not have Easter vacation, for a gain of five days, but will have Good Friday off.

The final three days will be made up by extending the school year to June 12. The students attend the skill center half days, with the other half spent at their local high school.

If they have to attend the skill center while their regular schools are closed for vacation, Thienes said, it will be up to their local districts whether to provide bus transportation or have them get to the skill center on their own.

Other staff will make up one school day by elimination of a scheduled in-service workshop in October.

Even without the strike, there would have been that problem, though on a reduced scale, as all nine local districts in the county aren't following the same vacation schedule.

Students and teachers on a 230-day schedule, primarily at the Caro Regional Center, will only get Dec. 24-26 and Dec. 31-Jan. 2 off, instead of the regular Christmas vacation, to make up four days.

The remaining five days will be made up by eliminating Easter vacation. Students will only get Good

Every day there are 200,000 more people in the world to feed than the day before.

Agricultural production uses only about three percent of all the energy America consumes.

Friday off.

Special education students on the 183-day schedule, now in the process of moving from the Darbee and Fostoria schools into the new Highland Pines School on Cleaver Road next to the skill center, will make up the lost time the same as those attending school 230 days. School will end June 9.

The others to make up the lost time are the itinerant staff -- teacher consultants, school social workers, speech therapists, psychologists, etc. -- who work in local schools.

They will make up two days at Christmas time by working at Highland Pines. They will have Easter vacation off.

The remaining seven days will be made up by working until June 18 on testing and programs for the 1981-82 school year. In the past, Thienes said, they have been paid extra to do that necessary work during the summer.

The TIEA members will vote on the tentative contract in about two weeks, according to the Cass City Michigan Education Association office. The contract must be prepared in final written form, be approved by the Tri-County Bargaining Association bargaining council and be in the hands of the members at least five days before they vote on it.

The intermediate Board of Education will probably vote on the contract after the teachers approve it.

The intermediate district has yet to reach agreement with its more than 100 bus drivers, aides, secretaries and custodial workers, who are continuing to work without a contract. They are represented by the Michigan Educational Support Personnel Association.

The next bargaining session, with a state mediator present, was scheduled this Wednesday.
