

READING AND EATING -- About 200 youngsters in grades 2-6 from Campbell Elementary School and Cass City Intermediate participated in the read-in after school Monday in the intermediate gym, held in conjunction with national Children's Book Week. Many of the children, it appears, had a bigger appetite for the snacks provided by parents than they did for reading.

In Goslin property transfer case Final Owen-Gage decision could be a year away

It could be a year before the Michigan Supreme Court issues a decision in the Goslin property transfer case, which could determine the fate of the Owendale-Gagetown School District.

The seven justices heard oral arguments in Lansing Monday morning in Owen-Gage's appeal of the October, 1979, Court of Appeals ruling that the property is part of the Cass City School District.

Following the approximately one-hour hearing, Corbin Davis, deputy clerk of the Supreme Court, told the Chronicle, "We have no idea when it (the case) is going to be decided."

One year is the average time it takes, he said, but some cases, depending on their complexity, take longer than that. Others are decided in as short a time as two months.

The Goslin territory was transferred by the state Board of Education to the Cass City district in May, 1976, after more than 40 property owners involved appealed rejection of their transfer request by the Tuscola and Huron Intermediate School Districts Boards of Education.

The property has a current state equalized valuation of $4.71 million, which at Owen-Gage's 21.5 mill tax rate for operations, would bring it $101,231. Property taxes presently go to Cass City.

Should Owen-Gage lose, it would clear the way for possibly other transfers, which wouldn't leave the district with enough territory to survive.

Its attorney, James F. Schouman of Dearborn, asked the Supreme Court Monday to rule that the present state law means that if 10 percent of the original school district has been transferred away, any subsequent property transfer requests must be approved by a vote of persons living in the district.

Assistant Attorney General Gerald Young, representing the state school board, argued that if the property involved is 10 percent or less of the total taxable valuation of the district at the time of the transfer, no public vote is required. By that standard, the Goslin territory was 9.3 percent of the district.

Schouman told the justices that Owen-Gage does not want the state board to substitute its knowledge for the knowledge of the legislature, local school districts and the people of the local districts.

To allow the current practice to continue, he argued, would allow a small group of disgruntled property owners to frustrate the majority of persons living in a school district.

Young countered that the avenue to change the present state law on property transfers is through the legislature.

THERE WAS DISCUSSION about the significance of the bill introduced by State Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, that would require a public vote once more than 10 percent of the original school district had been transferred away.

The bill was approved by the House of Representatives in April, 1976, but since then has been bottled up in the Senate Education Committee.

Justice John W. Fitzgerald asked attorney Young, in apparent agreement with him, why a new law is needed if, as Schouman argued, the present law is meant to be cumulative, that a vote is required after 10 percent is transferred away.

Justice Thomas Giles Kavanaugh responded that perhaps Hoffman's bill is meant to clarify the intent of the legislature when it approved the original law.

Justice James L. Ryan commented that bills in the legislature, that is, proposed laws, can't be used to show legislative intent.

CHIEF JUSTICE MARY Coleman asked Schouman why property owners had sought to transfer to other districts.

His response was a defense of the district, including that it is accredited (it wasn't at the time of the Goslin transfer) and some students have done well in National Merit Scholarship competition.

Young had mentioned that those seeking the transfer wanted their property in a larger, accredited school district, where more than half of the students involved at the time were already going (as tuition students).

IN ADDITION TO THE 10 percent rule, Owen-Gage is asking the Supreme Court to decide whether the state board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner, that is, without examining all the evidence, in approving the Goslin transfer.

In its written brief, submitted by Schouman prior to the oral hearing, it asks that should the justices rule against the district on the 10 percent issue, that it "remand this proceeding to the Ingham County Circuit Court so the plaintiff (Owen-Gage) may properly try their case on the question of whether the transfer of the Goslin property by the state Board of Education was arbitrary and capricious, thereby constituting an abuse of discretion."

Young's response Monday to that request was that Owen-Gage had never brought up that issue when its case was before the Court of Appeals, therefore was not subject to appeal.

THE ASSISTANT ATTORNEY general won a round during the hearing, when Schouman tried to use large maps to show various property transfers, as a means of clarifying the issue to the justices.

Young objected, stating the maps had not been introduced in the lower courts as evidence and that he had not seen them before.

The court ruled in his favor, with Justice Coleman saying the maps hadn't been properly introduced as evidence. They were then removed from the courtroom.

Among those attending the hearing from Owen-Gage were Supt. Ronald Erickson, school board members Ronald Good, Pat Goslin, Jack Brinkman, Leona LaFave, Duane Ziehm and Joe Warack and the 12th grade government class.

Berry tabs Megge as No. 2 man

Sheriff-elect Paul Berry stayed within the sheriff's department in selecting his new undersheriff.

Named by him Tuesday afternoon to fill the position was Paul Megge, presently a lieutenant, who has been with the department since August, 1968. He has been a lieutenant five years.

Elevated to lieutenant was Sgt. Jerry Osborne, who has been with the department since 1973.

Taking Osborne's place will be Leland Teschenдорf, who has been a deputy with the department since 1973.

The changes are effective Jan. 1, when Berry takes office, taking over for retiring Hugh Marr.

The incoming sheriff said he doesn't foresee any other changes in the near future.

Whether a new deputy will be hired to take the spot being vacated by Teschenдорf, he explained, depends on whether there will be money available. That depends on whether the state legislature renews funding of the secondary road patrol program and congress renews federal revenue sharing, which can mean $300,000 annually to the county.

The present undersheriff, Bruce Tait, will not be offered a position in the department, said Berry.

More and more burn firewood

Cost of keeping warm increases, but usually less than inflation rate

By Mike Eliasohn

Chances are Michigamians won't be blessed with another mild winter, like the one a year ago.

The long range forecast is for normal winter temperatures and lots of snow.

Although homeowners likely will be using more heating fuel this winter -- gas, fuel oil, wood or whatever -- the per unit cost, at least as of now, won't be up much over last year, probably less than the overall inflation rate.

None of the fuel distributors contacted by the Chronicle is expecting any shortages.

FUEL OIL

In contrast to past years, when sharp increases were the rule, the price of fuel oil is only up about a penny at most over what it was at the end of last winter. Over the course of the 1979-80 winter, the cost went up about 10 cents per gallon.

Current prices quoted by dealers contacted were 98.9 cents or $1.009 per gallon of No. 2 fuel oil and $1.029 or $1.049 for No. 1.

As for what the price will be by the time winter is over, Cass City Oil and Gas owner Duane Chippi commented, "That's anybody's guess." He does expect it will increase some.

Dennis Koch, vice-president and general manager of Gagetown Oil and Gas, said the future price of fuel oil is "kind of a hard thing to predict."

Both said they are still losing customers to less expensive types of fuel but they don't expect that situation to last forever. Decontrol of natural gas prices by the federal government starts Jan. 1, they said, and by 1983, Chippi predicted, natural gas will cost as much or more than fuel oil.

NATURAL GAS

During the winter of 1979-80, the average South-eastern Michigan Gas Co. homeowner customer paid $63.10 per month for heat, according to Jan Mitchell, the firm's public relations representative. The figure does not include the cost of gas for ovens, clothes dryers, water heaters, etc.

If the Michigan Public Service Commission grants the utility's entire requested rate increase, now pending, that same amount of gas used by the average customer last winter would cost $77.30.

Southeastern may not get all that it wants, but "We'd rather project high than low," she said. It is seeking a 17 percent increase due to higher operating costs (for labor, etc.) and the cost of gas it must purchase. The MPSC decision is expected any time.

BOTTLED GAS

Prices quoted by the two area dealers were 62 cents or 66.7 cents per gallon, with the average customer using from 1,000-2,000 gallons of bottled gas per winter.

The price is up 4 cents or "a couple of cents" from what it was at the end of last winter, depending on the dealer.

As for the future price, Cass City Fuelgas Manager Ken Eisinger predicted, "I can see a slow, steady increase, but I can't see an influx, no way."

Belya Schott, manager at Petrolane Gas Service in Gagetown, also expects gradual increases of a penny or two, but nothing large.

ELECTRICITY

Customers with electrically heated homes will be paying 8.5 percent more for their electricity than they did last winter, assuming they were to use the same amount of electricity, according to George Anderson, Detroit Edison general supervisor for Tuscola county.

The utility recently received an interim rate increase from the MPSC. The increase in the cost of fuel is the other reason for the boost in price.

Anderson doesn't anticipate the MPSC will rule on Edison's overall rate increase request until winter is over.

Fuel surcharges due to increases in the cost of fuel Edison burns (mostly coal) to produce electricity can be added any time, but the anticipation is they will be made at a steady rate, maybe 8-10 percent a year, instead of the sharper increases in the past.

There are about 1,000 homes in Tuscola county with electric heat.

The average electric heat customer (1,000 square-foot home) paid $107 per month from November of last year through May and $46 per month from June through October, for a total of $979, of which $454 was for heat and the rest for other purposes. The 8.5 percent increase should be added to that.

FIREWOOD

Use of firewood continues to grow in popularity, and with it, apparently, the number of persons selling it.

The Chronicle talked to four dealers, two of them in business for the first time this year.

One of those in business last year, Dick Heronemus of Downingtown Road, Decker, said he is only selling about the same amount of wood as he did last year, because of increased competition.

Prices vary, with most apparently up $5 a face cord from last year.

One seller's price was $20 for softwood, delivered, $25 mixed and $30 for hardwood. The hardwood price was up $2 over a year ago. The soft wood price was $5 less, the result of heavy competition.

Another charges $25 a pickup load of green wood delivered. That's slightly more than a face cord.

One of the newcomers to the business was charging $30 per face cord of unsplit white ash and $35 split. The other one, who had already sold the few cords he had, charged $23 per face cord, $25 delivered.

The General Motors of local firewood dealers is Joe Viny of Cemetery Road, south of Cass City. He started selling wood a year ago when he was laid off as a supervisor at Sebevaing Industries.

He now is in the business full-time, year-round, em-

How much state money for schools? Crouse wishes he knew

How much state aid will the Cass City schools get for the present school year? Supt. Donald Crouse wishes he knew.

Gov. William Milliken announced last Wednesday he was proposing to cut $288.5 million in state spending, making it a total of about $1 billion in cuts since January because of eroded state revenues. Included in the latest reduction was $65 million in state school aid.

The effect on Cass City schools, Crouse explained, won't be known, however, until the legislature passes the school aid bill as part of the state budget for the fiscal year that started Oct. 1. "We don't know what the legislature will do."

Present state spending is being controlled by the governor under temporary authority given him by the legislature until it approves the new budget.

There is, so to speak, more than one way to cut the pie, which makes it impossible to figure the amount of state school aid by simple subtraction whenever the governor announces a proposed cut.

Out of almost $2.8 billion in operating revenues Cass City received during the 1979-80 school year, not including federal aid, 43.37 percent came from Lansing. Property taxes provided about 55 percent.

The 1980-81 budget approved by the school board Oct. 27 "guesstimated" state revenues at 38.2 percent.

IN 1979-80, ACCORDING to figures Crouse obtained from the Michigan Association of School Administrators (MASA), the state spent $1.483 billion for general education (not including colleges and universities).

In February of this year, Milliken proposed to the legislature that it appropriate $1.541 billion for schools for the fiscal year that was to start Oct. 1.

In March, with state revenues on the decline, he reduced that to $1.469 billion. In August, he chopped the recommendation to $1.37 billion and last week, to $1.305 billion.

In addition to those proposed reductions in 1980-81 aid, Milliken reduced the August aid payment to schools by $35 million, which was money from the state's 1979-80 fiscal year. (The fiscal year for school districts starts July 1, three months before the state's, so that cut affected schools' 1980-81 budgets.)

THE LEGISLATURE still must approve a school aid formula for 1980-81, based on such factors as number of students in and state equalized valuation of the district and number of mills levied in property taxes.

The legislature can change the formula, which

FIRST SUCCESSFUL HUNTER to stop by the Chronicle Saturday morning was Bob Coryell of 6445 Garfield Street. He shot this seven-pointer at 7:45 a.m., a mile east of Cass City. It was his third buck in 14 years of hunting.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Not all imports are quality constructed. Recently I purchased a couple of sport shirts. Cheapies. The label said they were made in Hong Kong.

They really didn't have to tell me that. After trying it on I knew they must have been made in the far east. They fit like kimonos.

My spies swear this is true. The deer success story of the year belongs to Dick Hunt. Hunting around home on the opener he bagged a nice big-rack buck. The easy way.

No bows and arrows, no guns, no nothing. Hunt just stood around in the woods until the buck came trotting up and died of a heart attack.

Now isn't that a success story to end all Hunts?

There is such a word, honest there is. But I can't tell you what it is, can you?

The word that I've been looking for all week is the one used to describe a chemical that persists in the environment.

I started asking around the office for the elusive word. No help. One staff person thought it was a gag when I said what is the word that describes the chemicals with long, long half lives. "I'll bite," she said, "what is it?" A call to Cass City High School's science department shed no light.

The guys around the coffee table looked at me as if I were nuts.

Finally I turned to Art Holmberg, a former high school principal and a knowledgeable science person, who often knows when no one else does.

Art came up with the word, residual, and it could apply but it isn't really that word that's floating around my mind just out of reach.

It could be all in my head and I'm just dreaming that there is such a word. But I don't think so.

If you know the term that we are reaching for, pass it on to us and we'll pass it on to everyone next week.

It's always a pleasure to deal with someone that really knows. Last week I needed a picture of Frankenstein for a program under production in the printing department for a Detroit area amateur group.

I walked into Rawson Memorial Library and told Barbara Hutchinson what I wanted. Without checking anything she walked to a corner of the library, picked out a book and then walked to another corner and picked out another.

Voilà! My problem was solved . . . and it took less than three minutes.

SPIRIT OF BAROQUE -- Catherine Green hangs one of the 10 reproduction paintings that will hang in Rawson Memorial Library as part of the "Spirit of Baroque" exhibit in conjunction with the Village Bach Festival. Main part of the exhibition will be the 20-minute slide tape presentation she prepared.

Bach display opens, patron sales double

The "Spirit of the Baroque" exhibit at Rawson Memorial Library in conjunction with the second annual Village Bach Festival is now open.

Highlight is the 20-minute slide-tape presentation explaining the Baroque period in Europe, 1650-1750, prepared by Catherine Green, a University of Michigan graduate student in the museum practice program.

The program, she explained, gives a sense of what the period in which Bach lived was like, through architecture, music and art.

Most of the paintings shown in the program are on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

On display at the library are reproductions of 10 paintings, most of which are from the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.

Students in grades 3-8 plus the high school painting class from the Cass City schools will be seeing the program and display this week and the week after Thanksgiving.

The public can see the slide-tape presentation from 1-3 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and from 7-9 p.m. Mondays and Fridays, through Dec. 5.

An additional showing during the Bach festival will be Sunday, Nov. 30, from noon-2:30 p.m.

Festival concerts, at the First Presbyterian church, with a different program at each, begin at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 28, and Saturday, and at 3 p.m. Sunday. A lecture will start one hour before each.

Ticket sales, according to ticket chairman Gloria Ovary, are proceeding at about the same pace as last year at this time, but the big rush will come in the last 1 1/2 weeks.

The good news at this point, she said, is that sales of the higher priced patron tickets, in essence, a contribution to the festival, are double what they were last year.

Tickets have been purchased by persons as far away as the Detroit area, Midland, Saginaw and Bay City.

Ticket information is contained in the brochures available at some business places or by calling Mrs. Ovary at Ovary Chevrolet-Olds, 872-4301.

Many children stutter early

Many children stutter a little when they are two or three. This is usually caused by their attempting to use new words and complicated sentences. The children usually outgrow the stuttering in a few months.

The Haire Net

It's not considered good form to broadcast your bank balance before the populace. It's gross, that's what it is. But it's bad taste only if you advertise it directly. Indirectly, that's a different story. It's perfectly okay to sport a big flashy diamond or pay a zillion bucks for a rare work of art, stamps or coins.

Then there are the antiques. Old milk cans, barbed wire, old beer bottles and on and on.

It has to be an ego trip to pay outrageous sums for these kinds of things.

Let's take a painting masterpiece. They bring sums that stagger the imagination. Certainly these artists have brought to the world new techniques, new insight and rare beauty.

For that they justly should be acclaimed. But I submit that placing such a premium on their work is an exercise in vanity. Many competent artists can copy the work of the great masters so that it is impossible to tell the copy from the original without special tests of the ink and the canvas. Witness the recently discovered forgeries hanging in the world's most prestigious art museums.

So if the painting is what gives you pleasure the copy hanging on the wall is as good as the original.

It isn't, of course. What provides the kick is that the one on your wall is original and the neighbor down the street can't say he has one like it.

Or rather that the one that he can have that is every bit as artistic, and so good that it can't be told from the original is one that every Tom, Dick and Harry can have, too.

It's wrong, of course, to paint everyone collecting art with the same brush. There are experts in the field that collect the originals for big bucks, not as a sop to vanity, but as a business investment.

They buy as a way to make money and human nature being what it is they are placing their faith and dollars on almost a sure thing.

You can bank on human vanity more than you can the house down the street. The house could be destroyed, but vanity has a longer half-life than any "hard" chemical. It will last as long as people live.

In that light it makes economic sense to buy original art.

Esthetically it's reasonable to suggest that 10 copies should be more gratifying than one original. Remember, that you can't tell them apart.

But human nature being what it is, there's no hope that they ever will be.

After all you can't lord it over your neighbors if they know what's hanging on your wall is nothing that couldn't be on any wall in town.

That shouldn't diminish them at all. Shouldn't reduce the enjoyment that most viewers receive when they see them. But it does.

And always will.

"If It Fitz..." Entertainment??

By Jim Fitzgerald

"Do you consider making love a form of entertainment?" the wife asked the husband.

He didn't answer immediately. He suspected it was a psychological-test question, and he wanted to think about it. So he excused himself and went to a movie.

He saw "The First Deadly Sin," the first dramatic role Frank Sinatra has tackled in 10 years. In the opening credits, the entire screen is used to announce that the costumes worn by Faye Dunaway in the movie were made by a famous designer with a French name. This titillated the husband, who enjoys seeing Miss Dunaway in modern costumes with split skirts and dipping necklines.

Miss Dunaway spent the entire movie dying in a hospital bed with the covers pulled up to her chin.

The husband returned home and told the wife he no longer wanted to be a first base coach, which he had previously believed to be the easiest job in the world. "I want to design clothes for people who don't wear them," he said. "Or maybe I could write songs for Frank Sinatra to sing after he has killed himself for making such an awful movie."

According to the credits which, in retrospect, were more interesting than the movie, Sinatra not only starred in "The First Deadly Sin," he was also executive producer. That means he bears responsibility for the whole mess, including the selection of a fashion designer qualified to create Miss Dunaway's sheet.

"This example of Frank Sinatra's taste and artistic ability deeply worries me as a taxpayer and as a citizen of Detroit, hometown of Chrysler Corp.," the husband said. "Sinatra recently became spokesman for Chrysler cars in TV commercials. The public may be asked to buy a Chrysler Imperial with a blanket pulled up to its hood ornament, which would be dumber than parking two pigs in a one-pig poke."

"I might have known you went to a movie," the wife said. "Do you think seeing a movie is more entertaining than making love to your wife?"

The suspicious husband still wasn't prepared to answer a question that sounded like it came from a Rate-Your-Mate test in Cosmopolitan magazine. During 25 years of marriage, he has flunked dozens of these tests, all subversively administered. Once, under questioning, he innocently told the wife what he wanted for Christmas.

What he got was a computer printout indicating that, according to a Sunday-supplement psychiatrist, his gift list placed him in the category of husbands most likely to dally with dollies under pear trees.

She didn't believe his plea that he'd never seen a pear that wasn't canned. Such unfair accusations have made him cautious. Lately, when the wife asks him what time it is, he asks her why she wants to know. He's afraid some psychologist has discovered that a husband who wears his wrist-watch closer to his elbow than to his hand is most likely to roll up the wrong sleeve while having an affair with a nurse. The husband would hate to see their marriage fail simply because there's no more snap in his elastic watchband.

"It is also significant that Lauren Bacall is now selling Ford cars in TV commercials," he said, adroitly avoiding self-incrimination. "Everyone knows Bacall and Sinatra were once lovers, and he jilted her. She said so in her autobiography. And hell hath no fury like that of a woman scorned, which doesn't bode well for the Fury hath by Chrysler, which is a Plymouth."

"That's enough stupid conversation," the wife said, flicking his nose with a newspaper clipping which proved he had recently written that movies are his favorite entertainment.

"It isn't patriotic for me to worry about a personal problem threatening my marriage when I should be worrying about the possibility of taxpayers being forced to pay off the Chrysler loan because Frank Sinatra is so dumb he hired a first base coach to dress Faye Dunaway," the husband said. "However, I will promise one thing," he added, taking her hand. "I won't dally under the pear can with anyone else but you, anyone else but you . . ."

Things will come your way only when you decide to go after them.

PEDALING AROUND

Keeping clean

By Mike Eliasohn

I finally did it. Under threat of condemnation from the health department, I hired someone to clean my apartment.

I don't want to give you the impression that I live a total life of sloth. If I drop some food on the floor, I pick it up and wipe off the floor.

I wash my dishes every day and once a week I do my laundry.

Occasionally, I clean my bathroom.

But other cleaning is even more occasional than that.

If I drop something on the floor other than food, I am liable to leave it there for a few days and step over or around it. Eventually, I pick up whatever it is and put it in its place, provided it has a place.

One can only get away with such practices -- presumably -- if one is single. At least if something is on the floor that should not be there, I know about it, whereas a wife might not until she has tripped over it.

Call me a chauvinist pig, but I know I couldn't stand to be married to a woman who is as sloppy as I am.

I must add that if I were married, I'm sure I wouldn't be such a slob. I would hang up my coats and my clothes and not leave things in the middle of the floor.

I also know I couldn't stand to be married to a neatness freak, the type who must have everything perfect, whose floors are -- to use a cliché -- so clean one could eat off them.

Those are the type, and I'm sure there are some men the same way, who buy an expensive couch for the living room, then won't let anyone from their family sit on it.

"Children, go sit in the recreation room. You know that couch is only for company."

But how does that mother or father know that their guests won't be slobbs?

Perhaps that is the only advantage of being poor.

Everything one owns already is torn and tattered. I'm sure there are poor cleanliness freaks too. "Elbow grease don't cost nothing, junior. Keep scrubbing that floor."

My late mother was a fanatic about beds. She made them every day, even if no one outside the family was going to look at them, and they had bedspreads on them, a useless appendage if there ever was one.

When she changed the sheets each week, the mattresses were turned over and brushed off. I never could figure out how dirt was going to get through a bedspread, blanket and two sheets onto the mattress.

As for turning the mattress over every week, to me that is a lot of extra work. If I turn it over twice a year, I figure the sag on both sides is the same as the sag on a mattress turned over every week.

My mother also literally changed the sheets every week, that is, take one set off and put another one on. I take mine off, wash them with my other laundry (which reminds me of another unclean place) and put them back on my bed. That saves me from having to fold them to put them away.

Despite my arguments to the contrary, my mother was convinced that not using the same sheets every week would make them last longer.

Rest in peace, Mother. I still use the same sheets, but at least I finally got my apartment cleaned.

Retirement delay can up Social Security

Persons in Tuscola county nearing retirement age should know that a decision to postpone retirement could result in increased future social security benefits.

"A worker who will be 65 years old before 1982," field representative Susan Ludwig said, "will receive an increase in Social Security benefits of 1 percent for each year--or one-twelfth of 1 percent for each month--from age 65 to 72 that he or she does not get benefits."

For workers who will not reach 65 until 1982 or later, the corresponding increase in benefits will be 3 percent a year or one-fourth of 1 percent a month. This credit applies even to workers who received reduced benefits before age 65.

Another provision is the special minimum retirement benefits for individuals who worked under Social Security for at least 20 years. The special minimum benefit is designed for people who have had low earnings during their working years. The amount depends on the number of years of coverage.

In 1980 the minimum for a worker retiring at age 65

OFF THE TRACKS -- The rear three cars of an eight-car Grand Trunk train derailed at 3:20 p.m. Tuesday at the siding south of Garfield Street. Cause, a railroad employee said, was an angle bar breaking, which holds the ends of two rails together, the situation having been aggravated by flexing track due to worn ties. One car was pulled back on the tracks, so the train could continue on to Pontiac. A repair crew was to pull the last two cars back on the track Wednesday.

Numerous vehicle-deer crashes reported in area

It was deer season on the highways as well as in the fields during the past several days, as numerous vehicle-deer accidents were reported in the area.

At 8:30 p.m. Nov. 10, Caro state police reported Kerry G. Pomeroy, 22, of Fairgrove, was eastbound on Bevens Road, east of English Road, when her car collided with a deer.

William O. Spaid, 38, of 6228 Cedar Drive, Cass City, was southbound on Cemetery Road, south of Shabbona Road, at 4 a.m. Oct. 11, according to deputies, when his vehicle struck a deer.

At 5:50 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12, Donald E. Brade, 46, of Kinde, was westbound on M-81, east of Schwegler Road, when his car hit a deer.

Deputies investigated that accident and one at 6:15 a.m. that day, when Rebecca J. Halasz, 27, of 7110 Huron Line Road, Gagetown, was southbound on Dodge Road, north of M-81, when a deer ran into the path of her car.

At 6:40 a.m. Saturday, according to deputies, Rev. Vernon P. Lockard, 34, of 2892 N. Cemetery Road, was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Shabbona Road, when his car collided with a deer.

Cass City police reported two deer-vehicle accidents Saturday.

The first was at 8:20 a.m. when Gary S. O'Connor, 37, of Saginaw, was southbound on M-53, north of Seeger Road, in his truck-tractor.

The second was at 6:05 p.m., when Dale A. Wright, 16, of Walnut Trailer Park, Lot 20, was northbound on Cemetery Road, north of Elmwood Road.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Deputies ticketed Brian Smerdon, 17, of 4764 Jacob Road, Cass City, on a charge of violation of the basic speed law after an accident at 9:40 p.m. Friday.

They reported he was northbound on Green Road, south of M-81, when he lost control of his car, which went off the east side of the road and struck a tree.

Vicky Lapp, 20, of 4394 Maple Street, Apt. 4, was ticketed by Cass City police on a charge of failure to yield after an accident at 12:05 a.m. Sunday.

Officers reported she was turning left from westbound Cass City Road onto Comment Drive and turned into the path of an eastbound car.

The eastbound car, driven by Jeffery Huff, 18, of Caro, struck her vehicle in the left rear fender.

Sowden dies

An ex-Cass City resident, Gordon Sowden, 59, died Nov. 5 at Lapeer General Hospital.

A resident of Flint, he was married to the former Greta F. Snider. He was a truck driver for a car hauling firm.

Sowden was born Nov. 29, 1920, in Lapeer, the son of Luther and Armina (Ball) Sowden.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Gordon Jr. of Swartz Creek and Gary, Lapeer, and a daughter, Sharon Richardson of Grand Blanc.

Funeral services were held Nov. 8 at Brown Funeral Home in Flint, with burial in Sunset Hills cemetery, Flint.

Donations needed for baskets

The Tuscola County Department of Social Services is seeking donations of food, new or workable toys, games, books, and clothing items of hats, scarfs and mittens only, to be distributed to needy families of the county during the Christmas season. Last year, more than 80 families were helped by gifts made directly to the Department and by church groups, organizations, businesses and individuals. Donations may be brought to the office on M-81, west of Caro, or contact the Tuscola County Department of Social Services at 673-4144 for further information.

Nutrition program starts

A supplemental food program for women, infants, and children (WIC) was started Monday for eligible residents by the Tuscola County Health Department.

Applications are being accepted at the WIC Program office of the Health Department, 2266 West Caro Road, Caro, from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Call 673-8114 for details.

To be eligible for WIC program food coupons, the person must be a pregnant or breast feeding woman, or a child under the age of five who is considered to be in nutritional need. The program nutritionist determines need by a physical check and a nutritional evaluation of each client.

"Food coupons are not the only benefit of the WIC program," explains Carol Hrycko, Health Department director of nursing. "Clients are helped to learn how to use the food coupons to provide a more nutritional diet for their families."

Crop yields increase in Michigan

With corn picking more than half finished, the Nov. 1 crop production report forecasts Michigan corn production at 238 million bushels, unchanged from a year ago.

A 2 bushel increase in average yield over last year's record yield is expected to offset the 2 percent decline in harvested acreage, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

The 560,000 acres of dry beans were expected to yield 1,300 pounds to the acre for an almost 7.3 million hundredweight (cwt.) production. The 6 percent rise in production is because of a 14 percent increase in acreage, more than offsetting a 100 pound decline in average yield.

Anticipated sugarbeet production is up 18 percent over last year to over 1.8 million tons, due to better yields from the 6 percent increase in acreage. The 94,000 acres were expected to yield 19.5 tons to the acre.

Nationally, corn production is forecast at almost 6.5 billion bushels, down 17 percent from a year ago. Soybean production is forecast at almost 1.8 billion bushels, 22 percent less than last year.

Dry bean production projected at over 21 million cwt. is up 18 percent from a year earlier. Sugarbeet production is expected to be up 4 percent from last year with just under 23 million tons produced.

THE TENTH COMMANDMENT, by Lawrence Sanders (fiction). With "The First Deadly Sin" and four other blockbusters to his credit, Lawrence Sanders now returns with a new page turner, "The Tenth Commandment" ("Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife"). The unlikely hero is a short fellow named, unfortunately, Joshua Bigg. As chief and only investigator for a law firm, Bigg cuts his eye-teeth on a rousing case involving a suicide, a missing client, and the only apparent link between them—a minister with a roving eye.

MARGARET'S STORY, by Eugenia Price (fiction). The third novel of Eugenia Price's Florida trilogy that began with "Don Juan" and "Maria". "Margaret's Story" continues the fictional account of the life of Margaret Seton Fleming, a woman for whom hope was not merely a word but a way of life. This is the story of Margaret's love for Colonel Lewis Fleming, her seven children and three step-children, the tragedies of the Seminole and Civil Wars—told in an engrossing, meticulously researched historical romance.

MAKING IT PERFECTLY CLEAR, by Herbert G. Klein (non-fiction). This book by a long-time Nixon associate and advisor takes as its focus the turbulent relationship between the imperial President and the media. It is an objective, in-depth look at the White House years and the controversial issues that characterized the Nixon Administration. Flashbacks to critical events that molded Nixon's career help to fill out the portrait of a man whose ambition and powerful desire for accomplishment was ultimately thwarted by his own insecurities. Klein pays particular attention to the role of the media in shaping Nixonian policy from the 1952 stories of the secret fund to the final, out-and-out war between the White House and reporters which led to Nixon's fall, examining both the moral issue behind today's investigative reporting and the President's role in re-establishing open communication.

Cass City Plant — Dedicated To Technology.

This aerial view shows the size of the 105,000 sq. ft. main plant and administrative building on Cass City's Garfield Ave.

Twentieth Year Celebration

The Cass City Michigan plant of General Cable Company, a division of GK Technologies, Incorporated, opened for business twenty years ago. An important contributor to the economy of the area, General Cable's Cass City operation has an annual payroll of 7.2 million and spends well over a half million dollars each year for locally procured goods and services.

Over the years, the plant has produced a wide range of electrical and communications wires, cords and cables for radio, TV, air conditioners, scoreboards and pumps as well as for the telephone industry. Current production is dedicated to the ever-growing telephone business and the plant makes approximately 3,000 different items for the communications market here and abroad.

The Cass City plant products with which the public is most familiar are the retractile cords which connect the telephone handset to its base and the line cord which connects the base to the telephone network. In 1978 and 1979 a combined total of 20.6 million cords were shipped from Cass City. General Cable must be a good place to work. Of its employees, thirteen have been with the Company since the plant opened twenty years ago. Other long-time employees include 126 with fifteen years of service, 72 with ten years and 92 with five years.

Notable among the Company's contributions to the area, is its educational program. Under Company sponsorship, one employee has earned his B.A. degree and there are four employees presently enrolled in continuing education programs. Thirty-three of General Cable's people have participated in seminars and symposia and seven have been promoted to responsible positions in the Company's headquarters and other locations. Each year the Company awards a merit scholarship to a college bound high school student who is the child of an employee. In 1973, the scholarship was earned by Michael Klinkman, the son of Doris Golding.

General Cable will celebrate its twenty years in Cass City with a dinner party held on November 22 to honor its thirteen twenty-year employees.

General Cable In Review

In 1927, just two years before the great depression, several small manufacturers of electrical wire and cable joined forces and formed General Cable Corporation. In the 53 ensuing years the Company has survived the depression, wars, recessions and vast changes in its product lines and markets.

General Cable moved beyond its role as a manufacturer of electrical and communications wires, cords and cables by acquiring the Indiana Steel & Wire Company, a manufacturer of galvanized steel wire and strand and copper covered steel wire; terminal housings for underground cable and specially steel stampings. The Company also formed its Apparatus Division which makes Telsta aerial lifts, Mopeco manhole heater-ventilators and other safety equipment and Puregas air dryers and cable pressurization systems.

Concurrent with these activities, the Company expanded its involvement in communications cable and is today reputed to be the largest supplier to the independent telephone industry.

Desiring to increase shareholder return on investment and faced with the cyclic nature of the wire, cable and associated products business, Company management decided to diversify further. The goal was to become involved in high technology businesses with good growth prospects.

Furthering this plan, General Cable bought the Sprague Electric Company in 1976. Sprague is the country's largest manufacturer of capacitors and produces a broad line of other electric and electronic circuit components.

In 1978, General Cable acquired Automation Industries, Inc., a company which manufactures electro-mechanical connectors, environmental and other products and provides sophisticated technical services to government and industry.

With the acquisition of Sprague and Automation, the name "General Cable Corporation" was no longer descriptive of the high-technology enterprise the Company had become. Accordingly, the Company name was changed to GK Technologies, Incorporated and today, General Cable Company operates as a division thereof.

In 1975, prior to the Sprague and Automation acquisitions, sales were at $126 million. In 1979, sales reached $1.140 billion and for the first three quarters of 1980, sales totaled $902 million.

General Cable is an important element in GK Technologies, its 1979 sales being $488 million. The Company operates twenty manufacturing plants in the United States plus a research and development center, thirty-two sales offices and nine distribution centers.

In a recent development, an announcement was made on July 7, 1980, that GK Technologies, Incorporated and The Penn Central Corporation had agreed in principle to a merger. A joint proxy statement detailing the provisions of the proposed merger was submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission on September 26, 1980. Upon completion of SEC review, the proxy material, specifying the date and place of a special shareholders meeting will be mailed to all shareholders entitled to vote on the transaction. It is anticipated that the meeting will take place in December of 1980.

In commenting on the 1980 outlook, Mr. R. P. Jensen, GK Technologies' Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, stated on October 21, 1980, in the Company's interim report for the period ending September 30:

"As we look forward over the balance of the year, we anticipate that sales will reach record levels for the fourth consecutive year. The proposed merger with The Penn Central Corporation is progressing . . . and if the shareholders approve, we presently expect that GK Technologies will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of The Penn Central Corporation by year-end. Looking back over the years that we have successfully pursued our strategy for growth, a key objective has been to improve the return on our shareholders' investment. We believe that the opportunity presented by the proposed merger is consistent with the goal.

"We continue to view the future for GK Technologies with optimism because the company is strongly positioned for continued growth in the 1980's. Let me take this opportunity to thank all of our shareholders, both "old timers" and "newcomers", large and small, for your confidence and support which we hope to continue to earn."

Most of the certifications have terminated and will be up for renewal in late 1980 and 1981. About 25 farmers in Tuscola county have invalid certifications at present.

The Michigan Department of Agricultural personnel and your Tuscola county extension office have scheduled re-examination sessions Dec 10 for farmers whose certification has terminated and Jan 12, March 23 and Aug 17 in 1981.

Farmers whose certification terminated after the Dec. 10 date will be notified by the MDA of termination. This notice will list which of the 1981 re-exam dates is the earliest to attend after the participant's certification termination date

For farmers who plan to renew their certification, their exam date will be the earliest of the above dates that occurs immediately after their present certification termination date. This should be on the date of their third birthday following the issue date on their certification card

All of the above listed examinations will be held in the Civil Defense Center (basement of the county jail) at Caro. Each will begin at 9 a.m. and run until 5 p.m., with an hour off for lunch.

Farmers can come in at any time during the day and take their short re-exam as soon as seating and testing space is available. The re-exam will be similar to a drivers license written test, with about 25 questions

MELANIE HAYES

Exchange student Melanie Hayes: Her only regret will be in leaving

For what started as a spur of the moment decision, Melanie Hayes has had no regrets.

Now that the Rotary Exchange student from New Zealand is nearing the end of her stay here, she is viewing her approaching departure date with mixed emotions.

The 17-year-old arrived here Jan. 26 and since then has stayed with the Tom Proctors, Gerald Prieskorns, Jerry Clelands and is now living with the Vic Guernsey family.

In her native country, she attends a high school of 1,200 students in Hamilton, a city of 100,000.

An announcement was made in school one day that students interested in the Rotary Exchange program should apply with the principal. Fifteen did so and one of them was Melanie. "It was a spur of the moment thing to do," she explained, adding that she didn't have a "hope of going."

But she was one of seven selected by the principal to be interviewed by a panel of Hamilton East Rotary Club members and one of two chosen for the exchange program.

Now that the majority of her stay is behind her, she can say, "I've never regretted it. I'm glad I did it. I've learned so much."

What has she learned? Learning to get along with other people, fitting in with new family and friends, becoming more open minded, accepting other opinions were among items she mentioned. "I think you become a better person for the experience."

SHE HAS LEARNED some other things.

"One is that, 'I love skiing.' Where she lives in New Zealand, a cold winter day is 40 degrees. A hot summer day is 85. She had skied once in her own country, but has skied several times here.

She has learned that New Zealand English isn't always the same as American English.

She was warned before coming here that mistakes on paper are removed with an "eraser" and not with a "rubber." She forgot only once here and made the mistake of asking for a "rubber."

Then there was the time she was riding around with friends here and they asked her if there was any place in particular she wanted to go. "I'm easy," she replied, which is the New Zealand equivalent of "I don't care."

SCHOOL IS EASIER here, Miss Hayes has found. In her country, it's unheard of for teenagers to go out during the week. They have too much studying to do. Here, weekday activities are common.

Sports are also much more common here. Practice for interscholastic sports in New Zealand is held only two days a week, with games played on Saturdays.

Melanie was a discus thrower on her track team at home and participated in the same event last spring for the Red Hawks. She was also on the softball team, the first time she had played the sport.

She earned letters in both sports. The prized souvenir she will be taking home with her will be her varsity letter jacket. There aren't such things back home.

Miss Hayes has one year of high school remaining when she returns home. She doesn't receive credit for her year here. "It counts for me, but not for school." After graduation, she plans to study medicine, dentistry or pharmacy in college.

THERE HAVE BEEN two highlights during her stay here.

One was her four-week trip this summer with 60 other Rotary exchange students from 22 countries.

Starting from Chicago, the group, traveling in two buses, saw such places and states as the Grand Canyon, Rocky Mountains, Disneyland, and Oregon, Washington (including Mount St. Helens from 30 miles away), Vancouver, Idaho, Yellowstone National Park, Mount Rushmore, Montana, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Best part of the trip was being with the other exchange students," Melanie said. "Rotary has a fantastic reputation. We were treated like kings and queens wherever we went."

THE OTHER HIGH-point was in June, when she and two other exchange students went with Tom Proctor to the Rotary International convention in Chicago.

Melanie carried her nation's flag in the opening ceremonies. "It was probably the proudest moment of my life. It was really great."

Melanie departs for home Jan. 8, in time for the start of the new school year. Seasons being the opposite of here, so is the school year.

"I'm not looking forward to it," she said of her impending departure. "She knows she will see her parents and one brother and friends in New Zealand, but "I don't know if I will ever see my friends and families here again. That's the saddest part."

But then she adds with a note of optimism, "I'll be back."

St. Michael's Altar Society plans events

The St. Michael's Ladies Altar Society meeting Monday, Nov. 10, was called to order by President Florence Szostak and was opened with a prayer read by Maxine Kozlowski. Twelve members were present along with guest Mrs. Julie Klein.

Virginia Bilicki of the Christian Service Commission reported on the Halloween party after mass Oct. 25. The next social hour was to be held Nov. 15.

Monday, Dec. 1, was designated by Father William O'Shea for packing boxes with clothes that are being collected for the annual Thanksgiving clothing drive. It will begin at 5 p.m. in the rectory clubrooms with a poor man's supper for all who help. The Altar Society will participate in this endeavor.

Pat Chisolm was to speak at the Christian Service Commission meeting Monday, Nov. 17, regarding photographs for a parish directory.

Mary Lou Wolak of the finance commission reported on its continuing work on the church budget and some of the future activities being formulated, such as the feather party Sunday, Nov. 23, at 7 p.m. Bingo will be played with turkeys as prizes. Proceeds will go to the religious education program. Refreshments will be available.

Maxine Kozlowski of the liturgy commission reported that at their last meeting plans were finalized regarding the liturgy, music, transportation and nursing assistance for the mass of the sick held Oct. 19. The service was well attended, after which refreshments were served by the Christian Service Commission.

Dec. 10 was selected as the day to clean the church, beginning at 9 a.m. All parishioners are asked to help.

Approval was given to purchase material and have draperies sewn for the rectory clubroom windows.

Arlene Marz and Linda Zyrowski were named to the nominating committee for the election in January of president and treasurer. The terms for these posts run for two years.

The Christmas Bazaar will be Friday, Dec. 5, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Articles for sale will include knitted and crocheted items, ceramics, toys, plants, home baked and canned goods, candy, popcorn, knick-knacks, Christmas wreaths, ornaments, decorations, cake and coffee.

Next meeting will be Monday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m., one week earlier than usual.

O-G names students of the month

Clutch wins propel Hawks to title

Girls do it again! Thumb B champs

Cass City roared to its second straight Thumb B Association championship Monday night at Vassar riding on the heels of a tight zone defense and clutch shooting when challenged. The score was 41-31. Although Cass City led all the way the game was very much in doubt until midway through the final period.

Neither team looked as if it knew the object of the game was to score in the opening half of the first quarter. No points were put on the board until four minutes were gone and Padgett Randall cashed a pair of free throws. The girl with the golden touch went on to score 15 for the evening.

Vassar finally cracked the scoring drought with 1:05 left in the first quarter when Bobbi Fackler rammed home a rebound. At the end of the first quarter the Hawks were in front, 8-2, and kept the margin for most of the second period.

The Vulcans staged a rally with 2:02 left in the first half. Trailing 13-6, Vassar scored on a rebound by Mary Harper, added another on a turnover and converted a pair of free throws and suddenly the score was 13-12.

The Hawks stiffened and a tight press resulted in a turn-over and Cass City held the ball for the last shot of the half.

Randall swished it in from deep in the corner and Cass City had a narrow 15-12 lead at the half.

The turning point of the game came in the third quarter. Vassar controlled the tip and Fackler scored from close in. Threatened again, the Hawks showed their championship caliber and in the next six minutes tucked away the game and the championship.

It was a team effort. A tight aggressive zone defense coupled with timely shooting keyed the winning drive.

Carrie Lautner, 5-5 junior guard, tossed in a jumper from the free throw line and moments later hit another. Randall whipped in a short pop and Beth Sieradzki, 5-4 senior and the team point guard, added a free throw and suddenly it was 23-14 and the game was history. After that Cass City was never less than seven points ahead and when Vassar got that close on a couple of quick baskets, came charging back to widen the gap to a comfortable 10 points again.

Besides Randall, Sieradzki with 11 and Lautner with 9 were key Hawk scorers. Mosher scored 7 for the losers. Cass City hit 14 of 36 from the field for 39 percent and 13 of 20 from the free throw line for 65 percent. Randall was the game's top rebounder with 10.

MARLETTE GAME

Cass City spotted the Marlette Red Raiders a big first half lead Friday and then came charging back in the last half to clinch a share of the Thumb B Association title with a tight, 33-30, victory. The Hawks' offense was hurt in the first half as Padgett Randall collected three fouls and was forced to the bench for much of the second quarter.

With Randall on the bench and Marlette hitting from the outside, the Hawks slipped behind, 12-9, at the end of the first eight minutes and 24-15 at halftime.

In the second half Cass City proved that it had a championship caliber team. In the third quarter Coach Lloyd Schinnerer's charges shut out Marlette while scoring 8 points and moved within a point of the visitors, 24-23.

Schinnerer said that the key was a little more aggressive zone defense, coupled with a cold shooting streak for the Raiders.

Whatever the cause, Hawks were back in game and made the most of it, moving ahead for the first time in the last period and then holding on for critical victory.

Randall scored 14. Carrie Lautner added 8. Cass City. Janet Gleason netted 14 and Mel Ross, for Marlette.

HAWKS VS. RAIDERS — Shelley Lapeer drives past Marlette's Janet Gleason and another player as she heads for the basket.

CHAMPIONS — The Hawks whoop it up after whipping Vassar Monday and successfully defending their Thumb B Association basketball crown.

Randall leads all-loop squad

Three seniors were among the players selected by coaches of the Thumb B Association Tuesday for all-conference recognition.

The trio was led by Padgett Randall who was named for the second time. The talented senior smashed all of Cass City's girls' scoring records and has been a four-year letterman for Cass City.

Named to the second team was Beth Sieradzki, the play making guard. A senior, she was the team's quarterback and a good shot from around the key.

Honorable mention honor went to Shelley Lapeer, the senior who played a strong defensive game for Cass City all year and was a rugged rebouncer. The coaches also named Lloyd Schinnerer as coach of the year for guiding his team to its second straight conference title.

Sentence Enos to prison for 6-14 years

William A. Enos, who pleaded guilty Oct. 23 to a charge of forgery, was sentenced Monday by Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements to 6-14 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson.

He was credited with 37 days served.

Enos, 24, of 427 Fremont Street, Caro, had pleaded guilty to forging a check for $100 June 21, paid to Barriger's Travel Stop, south of Caro.

In other cases Monday: Thomas L. Fuller, 17, of 4925 Hess Road, Vassar, failed to appear for sentencing for larceny in a building.

Bond is to be forfeited and a bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Oct. 6, of having stolen a radio and calculator June 4 from Sargeant's Sand Co., Vassar.

His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled Dec. 15. Bond was continued.

He pleaded guilty in connection with cashing an altered promissory note June 21 in Indianfields township.

The guilty plea of Dennis J. Brady, 17, of 3120 Hurds Corner Road, Caro, to a charge of larceny under $100 was taken under advisement.

Sentencing was scheduled Dec. 15 if the plea is accepted. Bond was continued. He is charged with the theft of $115 Aug. 26 from Ted Robinson in Wells township.

When the Cass City Red Hawks played the last game of the season against Mayville it marked the end of outstanding grid careers for 20 seniors. As a class it was one of the strongest groups to represent the school in recent years.

The one characteristic that separated the 1980 squad from many others is that it was determined to win and kept working and improving.

By the season's final it was a well oiled machine and Hawk fans were saying to each other what might have been if they had qualified for the state tournament, a spot they missed by the narrowest of margins.

These are the seniors that made it all happen.

SHAWN PAPP

Shawn Papp was a 188-pound linebacker who loved to hit. He led the team in tackles with 141.

TIM SONTAG

Tim Sontag was a three-year starter. He played both ways. On offense he was a crushing blocker and tough runner from his fullback position. On defense he snagged everything and everybody that came his way at the safety position.

BRAD HARTEL

He turned himself from an ordinary defensive halfback to one of the best in the league. In addition his talented toe was the key to several victories for Cass City. He had 54 tackles.

BOB LESLIE

At outside linebacker, Bob Leslie was credited with 48 tackles. In addition he turned in outstanding games at offensive end. He helped turn what figured to be Cass City's weakness into one of its strengths.

RANDY SEVERANCE

Helping make end one of the team's strong points was Randy Severance. You didn't hear much about him before the season started but his play changed all that. He was good on offense and great on defense as a linebacker. He was credited with 11 tackles and selected all-conference on defense.

RANDY STINE

Randy Stine used his size, 210 pounds, to help the Hawks at defensive tackle where he was credited with 45, tackles for the champions.

JIM JENSEN

Jim Jensen showed steady improvement at defensive end and was credited with 30 points. Off to a slow start, he improved rapidly as the season progressed.

BOB SAWDON

Undoubtedly the strongest 164-pound player in the Thumb B was Bob Sawdon. He may have also been the best. Certainly he was one of the best. He was an outstanding pass rusher from his outside linebacker position and was called on in critical defensive situations where he made 21 tackles, many in the opponents' backfield. On offense he was a 1000-yard back and a bone crushing runner with exceptional quickness.

DOUG SOWDEN

Doug Sowden helped to anchor the special teams and saw action at fullback on offense. He also was a linebacker and was credited with 17 tackles while giving his teammates needed rest during tough games.

RAY KLOC

A member of the special teams so important in the final outcome of the games, Ray Kloc also helped out at linebacker when needed. He was credited with 15 tackles from that spot.

CLAYTON HARMER

Most fans probably didn't appreciate what Clayton Harmer did for the team, but his backs and his coaches did. An offensive guard, he was named first team all-conference and was one of the spearheads of the special teams.

MIKE LOOMIS

One of the low spots of the season for the Hawks was the play that injured Mike Loomis in the first game of the year. Loomis was called one of the finest players on the team by his coach and he was named tri-captain.

DAVE WHITTAKER

Another of the players that made the Hawks click was Dave Whittaker. A two-year letterman, he was named all-conference second team for his work at offensive tackle.

PHIL ZAWILINSKI

Small but mighty, Phil Zawilinski was the perfect foil for Sawdon. He improved from game to game and was at his finest in the crucial drive for a share of the title. He was all-conference second team at halfback and also the team's punter.

KENT WISCHMEYER

Kent Wischmeyer got behind in development because of a year spent abroad as an exchange student. But he was the type coaches like to have around. He played on the special teams and was a morale booster for the club.

JERRY PAGE

No one improved more on the squad than Jerry Page, said his coaches. He worked hard all season long and it showed. He did well in limited playing time.

PHIL TUCKEY

The coaches like to point Phil Tuckey when it comes to spirit. Tuckey played his all year. He was advised quit by the doctors but played anyway. He was member of the special team and saw spot duty on defense.

BRIAN DEBEAUBIEN

Brian deBeaubien waited three full years for his chance to play quarterback and when his time came he made the most of it. He was a strong accurate passer but his big plus for the Hawks was his ability to handle the ball and his leadership qualities. He made Cass City go.

TOM LOOMIS

Tom Loomis was credited with 72 tackles from his defensive halfback position and covered passes like a blanket. In addition he was used in the offensive backfield to spell the starters.

SCOTT STINE

You don't have 1000-yard runners without all conference linemen up front. The Hawks had them. Named to the second team all-league team was Scott Stine a tackle. In addition he picked up 45 tackles on defense.

TWO OUT OF THREE -- Edith Izydorek of Decker Road, Evergreen township, shot this 10-point, 160-pound buck at 7:10 a.m. Saturday in a corn field behind her home. Two years ago, the first time she ever hunted, the 21-year-old mother of two bagged a buck at 7 a.m. opening day. Last year she was unsuccessful. ## Energy costs leveling off

Thumb and as far south as Lapeer and Oxford.

There are still many persons installing wood burning stoves and furnaces, he said, and business is better than last year.

Viney didn't care to disclose how many cords he sold last year, but he delivers wood all over the upper David Parrish of Phillips Road, who works in Pontiac, advertises in newspapers in that area. With firewood selling for $60 a cord down there, customers save money by driving up here and buying from Parrish.

Viney also has customers driving here from the metropolitan area.

How much firewood is used depends on the efficiency of the heating unit and the condition of the house.

Viney has one customer who used 30 face cords last winter to heat an old, three-story, but well insulated house.

Another customer lives in a small, uninsulated five-room house, and uses a cord a week.

Buyers should be aware of whether they are burning seasoned or green wood. The latter creates more creosote when burned than dry wood, which increases the chances of chimney fires, as well as decreasing efficiency of the stove or furnace.

Several donations have been received to date and individuals or businesses interested in donating new or used materials (excluding clothing) may call auction chairman Dean Reedy, at 673-4121.

HDC plans fund raiser

The Human Development Commission has announced plans for its first annual fund-raising auction, according to agency Executive Director Mary Ann Vandemark.

"The auction proceeds will enable us to provide a fuller range of services to our clients as well as aid in the completion of our new building," she said.

HDC is a community action agency, which provides services to individuals in Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

The agency provides services in housing assistance, substance abuse, energy conservation, employment and training and foster grandparents, as well as maintaining an outreach program and information and referral services.

"During the past year, we have returned approximately $3.5 million of the counties' state and federal dollars," said Mrs. Vandemark. She stressed those funds were to be utilized for HDC clients and not for agency improvements.

The auction will be from 1-7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6, at the Square Deal Auto Parts Center, 603 East Frank Street, Caro.

More hunters bag more deer in Thumb area

There were more hunters out and more deer taken in Tuscola county during the opening week end of firearms deer season, according to Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologist Carlton (Bud) Jarvis.

There were 70 hunters who stopped at the DNR station south of Caro Saturday and Sunday to have their animals checked and to receive a "successful deer hunter" patch. That's about 10 more than for the first two days of deer season last year.

Jarvis estimated there were probably 15-20 percent more hunters out Saturday than on opening day last year, which was a Thursday.

More deer were taken, he said, not only because there were more hunters but also because there were more deer.

The animals examined by the biologist were healthy and several had nice racks.

Good areas within Tuscola appeared to have been south of Kingston, the Tuscola State Game Area south of Caro and Cass City and Deford areas.

Most successful hunters reporting at the Caro DNR office shot their game within a five-mile radius, so that doesn't give a completely true picture.

Most of the complaints received by DNR conservation officers, according to Jarvis, concerned trespassing. There were also a few hunters who didn't have proper licenses and three instances of shooting antlerless deer. They added up to about the normal number of complaints for an opening two days.

The officers were unaware of any accidental shootings.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Zawilinski gripes about pay raises

Mr. Haire, I wonder if you care to print my opinion of the soap opera, Crouse and Spouse.

First of all, I wish to commend the four school board members who took a stand and had the courage to hold their ground, even though they and we taxpayers were threatened by a lawsuit. More power to you, keep up the good work.

My only regret is they should have started saying "no" a few months earlier, before the administration was granted those enormous pay raises.

Thank you, Marge Zawilinski

Your Neighbor says I think Kristin shot J. R. Ewing

Kristin did it. The whole nation will discover Friday evening on "Dallas" who shot J.R. Ewing. Nell Wallace could be wrong — "I think everybody has a reason to. He's a stinker." — but she thinks Kristin Shepard is the guilty party.

Kristin had a long and torrid affair with J.R., but then tried to blackmail him. He then had her charged with prostitution. She is the sister of J.R.'s wife, Sue Ellen.

"If I was in her (Kristin's) shoes," Mrs. Wallace said, admitting "Dallas" is only a television show, "I would have probably shot him."

"I never saw anybody with so many reasons to shoot someone," she said of the villain millionaire oilman. As for Kristin, Mrs. Wallace feels she shot him out of revenge.

"Dallas" is her favorite television show and she has been watching it since it first went on the air. "I don't miss it at all."

She is not alone. "If you don't watch it, when you're

No federal money for care facility

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners was informed at its meeting last Wednesday that it won't be able to receive any federal funds to install energy conservation measures at the Medical Care Facility.

The money is only available for schools and hospitals and the facility doesn't qualify as a hospital. The county has received a federal grant to study potential energy savings measures in all county buildings.

The board made appointments to the library board, planning commission, road commission, department of public works, department of social services board, mental health board, and health department board.

Among those named, all reappointments, were Bill Tuckey, Caro, road commission, six-year term, and from Cass City, Iris Tuckey, mental health, three years; Maynard McConkey, health board, five years; and Ed Karr, planning commission, three years.

The amount the county receives from the state in cooperative reimbursement funds is being reduced from $74,000 annually to $66,279. The funds pay staff in the prosecutor's office who track down and obtain child support payments from separated and divorced parents.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Erla of 6779 Pine Street, she is a May graduate of Cass City High School.

Although now qualified for an entry level position in the travel and tourism industry, she plans to attend Central Michigan University to study languages in a two-year program, with the aim of employment with an international airline as an

She already speaks fluent Spanish, having spent a year, in 1978-79, in Bolivia as a Rotary exchange student. She returned there for two months this summer to visit her exchange family and friends.

The Southeastern Academy program consisted of a year of home study and on-campus study from Sept. 28-Nov. 7.

State court to conduct hearing in Probate Court wage dispute

COMFORTABLE reading is what these students were doing at the read-in Monday afternoon in the intermediate school gym. The participants brought sleeping bags, beanbag chairs, etc., or used gym mats to sit or recline on.

Bulletin: Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. was notified Wednesday morning by the state court administrator's office that at the county's request, it will conduct a formal hearing on the pay dispute. No date has been set.

Tuscola County Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr.'s mail is of more than passing interest this week.

Tuesday, he was still waiting for a letter from state Court Administrator Einar Bohlin granting him permission to issue an administrative order directing the county to pay higher salaries to seven probate court employees.

His action will undoubtedly be challenged by the county Board of Commissioners in circuit court.

Bohlin, in a letter to the county board dated Oct. 29, said he was prepared to approve Kent's administrative order unless the board could demonstrate before Nov. 14 that there still was reason to pursue a settlement.

The judge told the Chronicle Tuesday that he had been informed by telephone Friday by a member of the court administrator's staff that it was only a matter of "crossing the T's and dotting the I's" before the letter would be mailed.

The letter didn't come Tuesday, so Kent thought he might get it the next day.

The imbroglio goes back to January, when Kent, as he is allowed to do under state law, negotiated a labor contract with his employees.

The position of the county board all along is that the probate court employees were covered in the less costly agreement negotiated for all courthouse employees for 1980-81.

IN AN ATTEMPT TO RESOLVE the dispute, the two sides agreed in February to have the court administrator's office conduct a study comparing wages of probate court employees with those of other courthouse employees and employees of similar-sized counties.

The probate employees later agreed to the recommended salaries contained in the study, which would give them a total of $10,476 more than they would receive under the county contract. (The original difference had been almost $15,000).

In July, Kent asked Bohlin for permission to issue the order mandating the county to pay the higher salaries to his employees.

The board responded by hiring a consulting firm to conduct its own wage study, which was submitted to the court administrator.

In his Oct. 29 letter, Bohlin rejected the results of the study, which he said contained little useful information, and imposed the Nov. 14 deadline.

ACCORDING TO COUNTY Commissioner Donna Rayl, chairman of the personnel committee the study confirmed the board's contention concerning salaries.

She said the board's labor attorney, Michael Ward of Kalamazoo, was to write a response prior to the deadline, to ask Bohlin what had happened to the committee that was supposed to make a recommendation to Bohlin concerning the dispute.

The committee would have been composed of a representative of the Michigan Association of Counties (MAC), one from the Probate Judges Association and a court administrator's office staff member.

She added that establishment of the committee was up to Bohlin, who had apparently decided to make the decision himself, without a committee's advice.

THE ORDER, KENT said, will be directed to the county clerk, treasurer and personnel administrator, all of whom have a hand in payment of county employees. For them to ignore his order could invite a contempt of court citation and jail term, but the chances of that happening were "negligible."

If the county board appeals his order, he explained, it would have to ask the judge for a stay of execution of the order until the matter is resolved.

Rayl said the full county board has given the personnel committee the power to act, that is, have Ward file a court action, without going back to the entire board.

The board is also trying to get support from the MAC in its fight. "We feel this isn't only a problem of Tuscola county... it seems a precedent has been set in favor of the courts."

IN ANOTHER BUT RELATED matter, Kent told the Chronicle there is nothing he can do about the county board's decision to keep his pay supplement at $5,000 in 1981, even though he doesn't like it and all other judges received an increase. His supplement has stayed the same all four years he has been probate judge.

Commissioners voted to keep his supplement the same, lest they be made a "laughing stock" for giving him an increase despite the problems he has caused because of the dispute over pay for probate court employees.

Kent was paid $34,950 in 1980, of which $23,950 is paid by the state and $6,000 comes from the county, but is mandated by the state. Those figures are the same for all probate judges in the state.

The $5,000 supplement that, Kent said, puts him 50th in pay of the 53 probate judges in Michigan. The probate judge in Lapeer county is getting $38,950 this year; Huron county, $41,250; and Sanilac county, $43,752.

State school aid still question mark

affects the amount each school district receives.

In addition to general state aid, which most school districts receive (Owendale-Gagetown is one that doesn't), all school districts receive various forms of categorical state aid, such as for transportation and driver's education.

At one point, Crouse said, the governor was proposing slashing transportation aid in half.

Such a cut, as opposed to taking away more from general state aid, would hurt rural school districts, where more students ride school buses, than urban ones.

But another form of categorical state aid, according to municipal overburden, which aids school districts in communities with high property taxes, such as Detroit. Cutting that instead of transportation aid would aid rural school districts.

Thus what form the final state aid package will take may depend on who wins the traditional battle of rural legislators versus those from the cities.

A more immediate problem for the district is that the state, due to its budgetary problems, is sending only half of its December state aid payment in December, with the other half coming in January.

Crouse anticipates the district will survive that handicap without payless paydays and get through the rest of this school year, despite reduced state aid, whatever the final amount, without laying off any employees. He does, however, expect financial problems in 1981-82, "no question about it."
